Census shows 80 fewer farms in Tuscola County

Preliminary reports of the 1982 Census of Agriculture show that the number of farms in Tuscola County decreased from 1,563 to 1,483 since the 1978 census. Land in agriculture totaled 343,675 acres in 1982, an average of 232 acres per farm. The Census Bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold.

Land from which crops were harvested increased to 281,916 acres since 1978.

The county's farmers sold $84.4 million in agricultural products in 1982, according to the census, an average of $56,898 for each of the county's farms.

The census reports that $59.2 million or 70 percent of total sales were for crops, while $25.2 million or 30 percent came from the sale of livestock, poultry, and their products.

Preliminary data indicate that expenditures for feed for livestock and poultry were $5.2 million; total farm energy costs, $7.5 million; fertilizer costs, $11.8 million, and seed costs, $3.9 million.

Of the total farms in the county, 494 had gross sales of $40,000 or more; 596 reported sales of less than $10,000. Farms operated as sole proprietorships represented 86 percent of the total.

In 1982, the average age of farm operators was 48.4 years. The proportion of operators reporting farming as their principal occupation remained essentially unchanged at 60 percent since 1978.

Data in the report for 1978 and 1982 are directly comparable for 'acres and inventories. Dollar values have not been adjusted for changes in price levels.

Health officials reveal plan to fight measles outbreak

Tuscola County is experiencing its first cases of measles (rubeola or hard measles) following the recent outbreak in St. Clair County and several southeast Michigan counties.

Tuscola County Health Department officials are taking steps to prevent a large scale outbreak.

All schools have been asked to review records to determine how many and which students are not adequately immunized.

If there are large numbers of not immunized students, the department will conduct clinics at appropriate locations around the county.

Schools in the county have been notified of the Health Department recommendations regarding exclusion of students who are not adequately immunized if there are probable or confirmed measles cases in the school.

Before measles vaccine was available, more than 400,000 measles cases were reported annually in the United States. Since the introduction of vaccine in 1963, vaccination programs have resulted in 99.6 percent reduction in the reported incidence of measles. In 1983, 1,436 cases were reported for a record low-incidence rate of .6 cases per 100,000 population for all ages.

MEASLES IS CONSIDERED a preventable disease. It is a concern because measles (rubeola) is often a severe disease, frequently complicated by middle ear infection or bronchopneumonia. Encephalitis occurs in approximately one of every 1,000 cases. Survivors often have permanent brain damage and mental retardation. Deafness or severe hearing loss is another possible complication.

Death, predominantly from respiratory and neurologic causes, occurs in one of every 1,000 measles cases. The risk of encephalitis and death are known to be greater in infants and suspected to be greater in adults than in children and adolescents. Measles illness during pregnancy increases fetal risk.

It is recommended, but not required, that students who were immunized prior to 15 months of age, be re-immunized. If there is an outbreak in their school, however, they will only be excluded if they were immunized before 12 months of age or before Jan. 1, 1967. If they receive a measles vaccine following exclusion, they are allowed back in school after 24 hours. There is no charge for immunizations at the Health Department.

Adequate immunity is verified by having:

- a) Immunization since Jan. 1, 1967 and immunization after the child's first birthday.
- b) A doctor's statement that the child has had a laboratory test showing satisfactory antibody

c) Certain children with medical problems or allergies, who cannot tolerate immunizations, will need to have consultation with their own physician to determine if they should receive a temporary passive immunity with serum globulin (ISG). If the physician gives ISG to the child they will be allowed back in school as they would be protected for three months.

PARENTS CAN HELP to prevent an outbreak and an unnecessary exclusion of their child by checking their own children's records for the date of measles vaccine and the age of the child when they were immunized.

If they need immunization they can call the Health Department, 673-8114, for an appointment at the immunization clinics each Thursday or they can go to their own physician's office.

There will be a fee of $20 per couple, made payable to Hills and Dales General Hospital, which should be brought to the first class. A doctor's permission must be given for anyone to take the classes. Forms are available in doctors' offices or may be obtained from the hospital and must be brought to the first class. Everyone must register prior to the classes. For further information, contact Faith Fahrner, R.N., at Hills and Dales, telephone 872-2121.

New course

Expectant parents classes to start at Hills and Dales Hospital

A new class in the expectant parent series will start Wednesday, March 21, at 7 p.m. at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

There will be a series of seven classes given weekly and held in basement Meeting Room A.

The following topics will be discussed: Male and Female Anatomy -- fetal growth and development; body changes in the expectant mother; nutrition and breast feeding; labor and delivery - breathing and relaxation exercises; tour through the maternity department; new infant and mother, and infant care, family planning and contraception.

Couples are recommended. If a husband is not available, women can bring a relative or friend to give them support and encouragement at home and during labor.

The classes will be presented with lectures, demonstrations, informal discussion and a variety of visual aids and film strips.

There will be a fee of $20 per couple, made payable to Hills and Dales General Hospital, which should be brought to the first class. A doctor's permission must be given for anyone to take the classes. Forms are available in doctors' offices or may be obtained from the hospital and must be brought to the first class. Everyone must register prior to the classes. For further information, contact Faith Fahrner, R.N., at Hills and Dales, telephone 872-2121.

Merriman announces [candidacy for sheriff

James Merriman, 73rd District Court Probation Officer, has announced his candidacy for sheriff of Sanilac County.

The 35-year-old Decker-ville area resident will run on the Republican ticket in the Aug. 7 primary election. A court officer for the past seven years, Merriman has worked closely with all law enforcement agencies which serve Sanilac County. He has also designed and implemented the successful Work Alternative Program which puts criminals to work while saving the county money.

Merriman has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Michigan State University.

A graduate of Decker-ville High School, Merriman lives on a farm in Wheatland Township with his wife, Ruth, and their

Linda Grammatico caseworker at BB-BS

The board of directors of the Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters program has announced the hiring of a new part-time caseworker.

Linda Grammatico, a resident of Cass City, has assumed responsibility for the screening supervision and maintenance of the Big Brother-Big Sister matches as well as the recruitment of new program volunteers.

The new caseworker has a bachelor of science degree in social work from Eastern Michigan University. Until recently, she did volunteer work with the Tuscola County Department of Social Services. She completed her social work internship at the Evangelical Home in Saline. She was active in the Student Social Work Organization at EMU and the Volunteer Club at Delta College during her college years.

Ms. Grammatico was hired through the federal Job Training Partnership Act on-the-job training program administered by the Thumb Area Employment and Training Consortium. In exchange for a training worksite, Big Brothers-Big Sisters will be reimbursed for a portion of her salary for part of the year.

With the hiring of a new caseworker, the United Way agency hopes to increase the number of Big Brother and Big Sister matches.

New volunteers, especially men, are needed to accomplish this goal. Interested volunteers can contact Ms. Grammatico at 673-6996 or by visiting the agency at 129 E. Burnside Street in Caro.

Welfare pay errors frequent

By Warren M. Hoyt Mich. Press Association Michigan's error rate in Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments and food stamp programs is on the rise at a time when federal standards are dropping...

yet notified the state sanctions would be imposed, but Clyde Downing, regional family assistance administrator in Chicago for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, said a decision regarding the 1981-82 year is "not too far away."

Other factors, he noted, include policy changes and the complexity of the program itself. Downing said he recognized the difficulty of meeting the error rate standard, and said Michigan is "very serious about trying to reduce errors."

Lions cage team to play in village

Eight members of the Detroit Lions football team will meet Thumb coaches in a basketball game Thursday, March 22, at 8 p.m. at Cass City High School.

Among the area coaches ready to play are Jeff Knox, Caro; Ron Nurnberger and Lloyd Schinnerer, Cass City; Wayne Copeland, Bad Axe; Mark Gainforth, USA; Dennis Dunkel, Akron-Fairgrove; Fred Mroczek, Marlette; Don Cummins, Owen-Gage; Mike Schreiber, Kingston; John Guttowsky, Sandusky, and Paul Beachy and Bill McLellan, Lakers.

The Lions will feature Amos Fowler, William Gay, Alvin Hall, James Jones, Ed Murray, Ulysses Norris, Fred Scott and Rich Strenger. The event is staged by the Croft-Clara softball team.

JULIE SMITH of the Red Hawks spikes the ball over the net in last Thursday's match with North Branch, the final contest of the season for the Cass City volleyball squad.

Hawks improve record

Despite a disappointing loss to North Branch Thursday in the final game the Cass City Red Hawk volleyball team bettered its overall record over the previous season.

Coach Beth Howard said the Hawks were fit the same position they ended with last year.

The Broncos posted 15-10 first in the division.

North Branch won the first game, 15-8, and Cass City took the second, 15-3. The Broncos posted a 15-7 decision in the third game to win the match.

The losses gave the Hawks a 20-24 record for the season. In the conference the team won four and lost 2.

Repairing? Plan for future

Today it's not enough for a kitchen to be attractive and functional. It must also be adaptable to changing family roles, eating habits and methods of food preparation. How can you be sure the kitchen you are remodeling today will continue to meet your family's needs five or 10 years from now?

FAME AND FORTUNE by Kate Coscarelli (fiction). Four early middle-aged women from Beverly Hills are the main attraction here; their lives which connect at various points, are a mixture of sleeping around and periodic crises of conscience. IS THAT ALL THERE IS? by David Brandt (non-fiction). Brandt, a clinical psychologist, delves into the problem of why so many people today are so disappointed.

Is organization a problem? Many families who share kitchen duties find organized meal preparation easier when there is a place for everything. Is the family changing? A well-thought-out kitchen must adapt as the family matures. The Chicago River used to flow into Lake Michigan. Through engineering ingenuity, the river is now formed by water flowing in from Lake Michigan.

No injuries in 3 tillage accidents

Cass City police reported three accidents last week, two of them on Friday.

At 1:37 p.m. that day, police said, Robert H. Keating, 59, of 6401 Huron Street, eastbound on Huron, stopped at the stop sign at the intersection, where his auto was struck by the northbound car of Kimberly Ann Zagorski, 19, of Reese.

Officers noted the Zagorski auto left 52 feet of skid marks before the collision.

At 8:30 a.m. that day, Linda L. Yost, 40, of 6950 Eckerville Road, Deford, backed a school bus into the front end of the car of Herbert Rutkoski of 4271 S. Seeger Street, which was parked in the intermediate school parking lot.

At 9:05 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, police said, Douglas J. Stamat, 22, of Mayville and Keri M. Earl, 16, of Marlette, were westbound on Main Street.

Miss Earl, whose car was to the left of the Stamat vehicle, started to turn right onto Nestle Street. Stamat's vehicle then ran into the right side of her car.

She was given a ticket for no proof of insurance in her possession.

At 5:40 p.m. March 6, according to Caro state poke, Neal D. Daniels, 26, of Mayville, was southbound on Kingston Road, north of Rossman Road, when a component in the front end of his car broke.

The front wheels locked and the vehicle went off the west side of the road into a ditch.

He was given a ticket for no proof of insurance in his possession.

Governor sets tornado safety week in state

Gov. James Blanchard has declared March 25-31 as Michigan Tornado Safety and Awareness Week.

The National Weather Service in cooperation with the Michigan State Police Emergency Services Division will conduct a simulated tornado emergency drill Thursday, March 29, at 1:20 p.m.

At that time, many counties, including Tuscola, will be sounding sirens, schools will conduct evacuation and safety procedures and radio and television stations will broadcast a simulated drill message.

More than half of all tornadoes occur in April, May and June. They can occur any hour of the day, but most often are in the late afternoon and early evening.

On the average, 17 tornadoes occur in Michigan each year. Since 1950, there have been 560 tornadoes in the state, which killed 229 persons.

Most tornadoes move from the southwest at a speed of 30 miles per hour, but they can move across country at up to 70 mph.

When a tornado watch is broadcast, it means conditions are favorable for the formation of tornadoes. Severe thunderstorms, damaging winds and hail can also occur. A watch can be for as long as six hours.

When the Weather Service issues a tornado warning, it means one has been reported or detected by radar. The warning will tell where the tornado is located and which way it is moving. Persons should take cover quickly, especially if in or near the path of the tornado.

A two-minute blast of fire sirens signals a tornado warning. Three short blasts signal the danger of a tornado is over.

The best shelter in homes is in the basement, under sturdy furniture if possible. In homes without basements, take cover in the center of the house on the first floor in a small room such as a closet or bathroom, or under sturdy furniture.

Persons living in mobile homes should go to a previously arranged shelter.

If driving a vehicle, get out and into a ditch or ravine, away from the vehicle, if it isn't possible to go into a building. In open country, get into a sturdy building if possible. Otherwise, lie flat in a ditch or depression and hold onto something if possible.

At work or school, move into the basement, or, if there isn't one, into interior hallways or small rooms on the first floor. Avoid areas with glass and wide, freestanding roofs.

Women earn less than men

In the fourth quarter of 1983, the median weekly earnings for full-time wage and salary workers were $327.

Women's earnings at $260 remained about two-thirds those of men ($393), according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Youths steal car in area for joyride to Chesaning

A car stolen Monday, March 5, from a Kingston man was later found in Chesaning, southwest of Saginaw.

Richard Dadacki of 4063 Shaw Road, Kingston, told sheriff's deputies he left his 1979 Ford at the Mini-Mart in Kingston and went inside. When he returned no more than three minutes later, he saw the car being driven north on River Street. He had left the keys in it.

Friday, the Chesaning Police Department notified the sheriff's department that it had found Dadacki's car and that three runaways March 5 from the Kingston Teen Ranch campus had shown up in the Chesaning area and returned to the Clifford Teen Ranch campus.

Detective Ron Phillips of the sheriff's department then interviewed one of the three boys at the Teen Ranch office in Marlette. The other two were in a home in Saginaw.

The boy, 14, told Phillips he and the two other boys from Teen Ranch, ages 12 and 15, took the car. The 15-year-old drove it to Chesaning, as he is from there.

They slept inside the car that night and drove around town the next day. The 15-year-old let a friend age 14 or 15 drive the car. When driving it, the friend drove the car off a small bridge, which tore off the muffler. The car wouldn't start again, so the boys then turned themselves in to the Chesaning police, but didn't mention the stolen car.

The case was turned over to the prosecutor's office to decide if the boys will be petitioned into probate court.

Bankruptcy laws now under review

There could be big news for small businesses. Consumers, merchants and professionals can benefit as well.

Congress is considering a bill to tighten up the bankruptcy laws. At present, people declaring bankruptcy can choose not to pay their debts under Chapter Seven of the bankruptcy code, even when they have the ability to repay. This part of the law uses the bankrupt's assets to pay his debts, but up to $30,000 in assets can be exempted. The new legislation, H.R. 1800, would have court administered counseling for debtors. Many might choose Chapter 13 bankruptcy, a plan that allows a debtor to consolidate his debts and pay back a percentage over several years.

The present system can be hard on small businesses, say the experts at the National Coalition for Bankruptcy Reform.

When bankruptcies soar, as they have in recent years, small firms are hardest hit. Their very livelihood depends on customers paying their bills.
