DID YOU SEE ANYTHING? -- Trooper William MacNicol of the Caro state police post (back to camera) asks a Gagetown resident whether he saw anything relating to the robbery. Listening are Gagetown officer Larry Eaton and, at right, Detective Sgt. Dan Miller of the Caro post.

A CLOSED SIGN Friday afternoon, plus police cars outside, were signs that the First of America branch in Gagetown had been robbed. The bank was closed while the investigation was underway.

ON THE TRAIL -- Trooper Jack C. Peet Jr. holds the leash as "Rex" follows the scent of someone who may have been the robber from the bank to a parking area.

PHOTOGRAPHS -- Detective Sgt. Dan Miller of the Caro state police post photographs a footprint that may have belonged to the robber.

Harsh winter was good for some businesses

By Mike Eliasohn

It may not have looked it, but spring began Tuesday. For most persons, it was good riddance to a winter that except for a few mild weeks in February, was cold and miserable.

Misery, however, can be good for business. The bitter temperatures meant more heating fuel being consumed, more car batteries dying and warmer clothing needed.

"This winter was excellent, the best one ever," said Brian McMahan of McMahan Auto Supply. During the coldest period, the store sold a lot of batteries and starters. Antifreeze, starting fluid and dry gas were also big sellers.

The mild temperatures in February were also good for business, according to McMahan, as many vehicle owners bought parts for tune-ups and brake jobs they would have normally done in spring.

Business was also good down the street at City Auto Parts, which sold a lot of batteries, starters, alternators, starting fluid, dry gas and jumper cables. "You name it, we sold it," said Rick Bergeron.

In December and January, he continued, "You couldn't keep batteries in stock."

WHEN THE TEMPERATURE hovers around the zero mark and the car doesn't start in the morning, a service station is often called.

"It was a better winter than usual businesswise," said Dennis Luetke at L & S Standard Service.

"People forget how to drive in winter," he continued. "They forget to get their cars tuned. They forget to put snow tires on. They forget to check their batteries. Then the real cold snap always takes them by surprise."

A couple of days, Luetke said, the wrecker was busy all day getting cars started. The wrecker was also very busy towing a lot of vehicles that had slid into ditches.

The station also sold a lot of batteries and other items, and because many persons had their cars in for service, more gasoline.

"I'd say it would be an average for car starting," said Henry Bartnik of Bartnik Service Station on M-53.

In comparison, two years ago, there were many more calls to get cars started and sometimes "we'd run half the night."

He attributed the decline to more motorists learning the necessity of keeping their cars in good mechanical condition in winter.

In contrast to starting cars, Bartnik continued, "I think we had more guys in ditches than we have had in

Teller didn't panic

Search for Gagetown bank heist suspect continues

The search continued Wednesday morning for a Cass City man charged with the armed robbery Friday of the Gagetown branch of the Bay Area First of America Bank.

Charged with armed robbery, felonious assault, in commission of a felony in connection with the robbery is Ralph P. Kinney, 32, of 3694 Cemetery Road.

A warrant for his arrest was issued within 24 hours of the 1:10 p.m. robbery.

According to Trooper William MacNicol of the Caro state police post, the man entered the bank, went up to the teller with a gun, demanded money and threatened to shoot her if she didn't comply.

The other teller was seated at the time, out of sight, and didn't get up while he was there, according to MacNicol. No customers were inside.

The money was put in a bag and the robber escaped. One teller looked out the window, but he had disappeared.

According to First of America Bay Area President Tim Peters, more than $1,000 was taken, but an exact amount was not available. He said press reports elsewhere that about $2,000 was taken were inaccurate.

He and state police have asked that the tellers not be named.

The robber, who was not wearing a mask, was described as a white male about 25 years old, 5-foot-6 or 7 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds, clean shaven with dark hair. He was wearing a brown jacket and dark stocking cap.

MacNicol had high praise for the teller, who faced the robber. After the man left, following bank policy, one of the tellers called the main office in Sebawaing, which called the Caro state police post.

Sgt. Rudy Block, the dispatcher, then called the bank, where the teller gave him a description of the robber.

MacNicol was at M-81 and Elmwood Road when he was told to go to the bank. By the time he arrived a few minutes later, the description of the robber was being broadcast over the police radio.

"After all that (being robbed at gunpoint), her thought process was, 'We got to get this information out,'" MacNicol commented. "...Her composure was real good and how she notified people was fantastic."

Often people panic in such situations, he noted, but she didn't. "She was an unusual lady. She did a good job."

Two factors led to identification of the suspect and issuance of the warrant, according to Detective Sgt. Dan Miller of the Caro post.

One was the composite sketch compiled by Detective Larry Walker of the Tuscola Sheriff's Department. He used a kit consisting of clear plastic overlays, with different facial features on each, such as hair styles and moustaches.

Copies of the drawing Walker worked out with the teller were distributed to area police agencies. The suspect was identified by the Huron County Sheriff's Department, the suspect having served a jail sentence there.

A description of the vehicle was broadcast to police agencies. Saturday afternoon, a Bay City police officer spotted it parked near the YMCA in that community.

Please turn to page 4.

The robber escaped on foot. No one outside saw him leave the bank or get into a vehicle.

However, a few persons told investigating officers they saw a white van in Gagetown prior to the robbery. It was seen parked on State Street near the bank with a man inside and parked off the street next to Chubb's Gagetown Inn, which is the building next to the one in which the bank is located.

A description of the vehicle was broadcast to police agencies. Saturday afternoon, a Bay City police officer spotted it parked near the YMCA in that community.

A premonition?

The gas station diagonally across the main intersection in Gagetown from the First of America Bank is a popular gathering place.

Wednesday or Thursday of last week, according to Harry Kehoe, who was there, the topic of conversation was the bank. "We were just talking about it, wondering if it had ever been robbed."

The concensus was that it had not.

"That changed Friday."

What was the conversation at the station after the robbery?

They wondered why it hadn't happened before in such a small town bank, Kehoe said.

Senior citizen apartments Probably a year away

It might be a year or more before 24 senior citizen apartments are ready in Cass City.

The state office of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) last week approved a $713,500 loan pre-application from Rural Housing Corp. (RHC) of East Lansing, which plans to build the single 24-unit apartment building at the foot of Woodland Avenue in the southwest corner of the village. The firm has an option to buy the three-acre site from the village for $24,000.

The FHA district office in Caro approved the pre-application in mid-February, after which the state office had to okay it.

The next step came Tuesday of this week with what was called an application conference in Caro with representatives of the FHA and RHC to go over what has to be done now. Joe Green, FHA district loan specialist, explained the firm must now file an application, construction plans and specifications and a rent budget for the project.

It also must get the property rezoned from the village council from the present single family residential category to multiple family residential.

As for when that might all be completed and the loan money made available, Green said, "We're probably looking for fall."

It isn't known yet whether the FHA will have loan money available this fiscal year or if it will come from the 1984-85 fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1. If the latter, there could be a slight delay until the money is available, Green indicated.

Green said there was a "fairly good guarantee (RHC will get the money) unless something screws it up."

Marci Powers of RHC told the Chronicle there was a "99.44 percent" chance the project would be funded.

Depending on when the FHA gets the construction plans and specifications, budget and application approved, she said there was an "outside chance" construction will begin this fall.

After that, construction should take 5 months before the apartments are ready for occupancy, but that could be delayed by the weather.

The total cost of the project is slightly over $751,000. The FHA loan covers 95 percent of the cost.

additional 2 percent must go into a supervised account to pay bills until it starts collecting rent money.

Rents will be on a sliding scale of about $240-500 a month, depending on income, with the maximum allowable annual income being $23,000 in order to live there.

It is anticipated, Ms. Powers said, that most occupants will be in the $9,500-12,000 range, who would pay the minimum.

Hostage socks

By Jim Fitzgerald

In court testimony, Jay Kogan said his wife held his laundry for ransom. Maybe that's what happens to my socks! Why didn't I think of that earlier? Why didn't my father?

One of my earliest memories is of my father telling a visitor where my mother was. "She's down in the laundry room losing my socks," he said.

Long ago it became a cliché that wives eventually lose half of every pair of their husbands' socks. Many husbands honestly believe the Bermuda Triangle was manufactured by Maytag.

I quit complaining about it several years ago, when Women's Lib became a socially acceptable cause. Every time I blamed my wife for my bottom drawer full of mismatched socks, women told me I should wash my own dumb socks. That made good sense, of course. I hate it when people who disagree with me make good sense.

I washed my own socks for two years during World War II, when I was in the Army. Sometimes I had to wash them in my helmet. I never mislaid a sock for any longer than it took to comb my hair. But, because our side won the war, it seemed fitting that I should never ever have to wash another sock. To the victor belongs the right to sleep with his laundress.

Of course, that was before the Marshall Plan, Toyota and Volkswagen. Now I realize to the victor belongs a sock with no mate, and I thought nothing could be done about it. In the early years of my marriage, whenever I complained, my laundress denied culpability and implied the losses were somehow my fault - I dropped my discarded clothing too near the bed and perhaps I was eating my socks in my sleep.

ion-plus home also provides that his laundry be done there. And last week, in a pre-divorce-trial hearing, he testified that his wife "held my laundry for ransom" because he was late in paying her monthly $2,200 "allowance."

If I owned my own mall, I wouldn't wear the same pair of socks twice. I'd toss them out the window every night, just to impress the neighbors. But perhaps Jay Kogan is cleverly preparing a defense for his hit-man trial. A husband who can't afford to take his dirty shirts to a professional laundry probably can't afford to hire someone to kill his wife, either.

Speaking generally, without implying any specific guilt, I've never understood why extremely wealthy people don't always hire someone to do their squabbling for them. What's the sense in being rich if you can't phone rent-a-neck whenever you need something besides your waist to buckle your belt around? Also, if money were no object, I'd certainly hire a surrogate jacks to take my place in gossip columns.

But that's me, not Jay Kogan, and it's none of my business how he spends his money. I wish him well in future attempts to get his laundry done and thank him for going public with the suggestion that clothing can be held for ransom.

Through the years, I've frequently neglected to give my wife her monthly allowance, usually because I didn't have any change. Lord knows how much I owe her. If I ever pay up, lord knows how many hostage socks will be released from captivity and allowed to rejoin their lonely mates in my bottom drawer.

I always knew I didn't eat my socks in my sleep.

HOUSE FIRE -- When a fireman broke a basement window at the Keith Pobanz house to let the smoke out, there was lots of smoke to come out. The Sunday fire started in the basement.

Sunday house fire damage $18,000

Keith Pobanz came home just in time Sunday to save his home.

Fire damage to the house at 6787 Houghton Street was estimated by Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. at $10,000 to the structure and $8,000 to contents because of smoke and water.

No one was home when the fire started. Root said when Pobanz arrived, he discovered the house was full of smoke, so went to a next door neighbor to call the fire department. That was at 1:55 p.m.

The fire started in a basement light fixture box, according to the chief, which set the ceiling joist on fire. The fire then went up the laundry chute to the first floor.

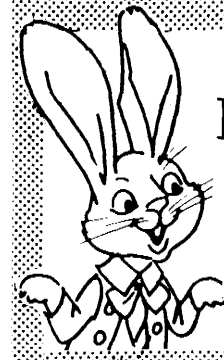

When it looked like the whole house might go up in flames and more manpower would be needed, some Gagetown and Caro firemen were dispatched. By the time they arrived, the fire was under control and their services weren't needed.

Elkland firemen were at the scene about an hour.

Northwood dean's list

Laurie Louis of Gagetown and Christine Marie Buehrly of Cass City have been named to the dean's list for the winter term at Northwood Institute, Midland.

To achieve such recognition, students must have earned a 3.0 grade point average or better.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Sure, it's springtime. Just ask Theda Seeger. She excitedly called Thursday morning to tell us she spotted two robins in her back yard.

Why not? Tuesday was the FIRST DAY OF SPRING.

A little springtime came into the life of John Montgomery of Gilford Road, Fairgrove. He won the computer given away by the Cass City Retail Committee.

How sad that Denny McLain should be in the soup again. As a long-time Tiger fan, one of my finest memories was McLain with his hat tipped low on his forehead shading his eyes while toeing the mound.

In 1968 you just knew that he was going to get them out and he did...31 times.

It's sad, but not surprising that McLain should face Federal charges on five counts including narcotics involvement.

Through the grapevine I learned that after his glory years when he was back in the minors his fastball was still major league caliber . . . but he was just too mentally messed up ever to make it.

There's no way of knowing whether or not this is true, but given his escapades it's not hard to believe.

Do you feel the slogan "Say yes to Michigan" is similar to "Michigan Is Good News"? Lawrence Patrick Mihalek of the Mihalek Corporation does.

He is charging the state of Michigan with copyright infringement and misappropriation of work effort for using the campaign.

To be sure that news media know about the case, he sent an official notice of copyright infringement to every newspaper in Michigan.

Motorcycle, mower, bikes are stolen

Theft of a motorcycle, riding lawn mower and two bicycles was reported to sheriff's deputies last Wednesday night.

Eugene A. Kaake of 5295 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown, said they could have been taken from his barn any time in the past week, since that was how long since he had been in there.

The 11-horsepower Gamble's mower was valued at $990; Yamaha 125cc motorcycle, $900, and two Huffy 10-speeds, $75 each.

Bill Owens of rural Caro reported to Cass City police March 13 that 8-10 gallons of gasoline were siphoned from his car when it was parked in the Cass City High School lot that evening from 7-8.

The Haire Net

It looks as if relief from burgeoning health care costs are not on the horizon. Despite efforts by hospital administrations to ease the financial load it's almost a lead pipe cinch that we'll all be getting an increased insurance bill again in the near future.

Hospitals have taken steps to try and curb costs with outpatient care instead of expensive in-hospital stays.

That has helped. Think about what your insurance bill would be if all the minor surgery performed in the hospital previously were still performed there.

Say that about current hospital costs and you've said everything good about it.

Sure, you have to grant that medical care is better and with the increased sophistication come inevitable increased costs.

But the abuse of insurance is almost a national scandal. What makes it so, is that there is no incentive to curb them.

A case in point. Sitting in the waiting room of an eye clinic in Bay City a year or so ago, two ladies were talking.

This is my second new pair of frames this year, she said to her companion. Why not?, said the friend. We are allowed two free pair a year under the contract.

Another person I know reported that the cost of dental care doubled for her family for the same work when the family moved under the umbrella of a company insurance policy.

It's naive to expect doctors to curb these expenses. It would be about the same as asking me as a publisher to suggest that the amount spent for advertising be reduced. It could happen, but the odds against it are prohibitive.

The answer is simple and most know it. Make it profitable for the customer not to use the insurance and unprofitable to use it.

You do that by placing a deductible amount on every policy and lowering rates if a year goes by without any claims against the insurance.

That's not going to happen. Owen Bieber, president of the AFL-CIO, has gone on record in no uncertain terms that no way will his membership participate in paying any part of health costs.

If he means what he says and there's no reason to doubt it, we can expect insurance rates to climb, climb, climb.

As pointed out in the beginning of this column, there's simply no relief in sight.

Harsh winter good for businesses

a long time. I really don't know why."

THERE'S NO QUESTION that this winter was a lot colder than last winter, but compared to the winter of 1981-82, there wasn't much difference. In other words, this winter may have been average.

The number of heating degrees from July 1 of last year until March 15, according to Cass City Fuel-gas Manager Karl R. Carter, totaled 6,696, compared to 5,947 a year earlier. But going back two years, to 1981-82, the number totaled 7,000, though the higher number may partially have been due to a chilly fall.

Heating degrees are determined by adding the high and low temperature for the day, dividing it by two and then subtracting that number from 65 degrees.

The more heating degrees there are, the colder it was. In January of this year, they totaled 1,356. January, 1982, was colder, with the heating degrees totaling 1,414. January, 1983, was warmer than either.

In contrast, February of this year was milder than February of last year, Carter said.

As for what this winter, specifically December and January, meant for the bottled gas business, he commented, "We were moving a lot of product in those months."

AS FOR FUEL OIL, "It's been a good winter for us," said Cass City Oil and Gas owner Duane Chippi.

But with so many persons burning wood and a few still switching from burning fuel oil to natural gas, he said it's hard to compare one winter's business to another, except that business was up a little over the mild 1982-83.

The price of fuel oil increased this winter when supplies got tight, but the price is still less than it was a few years ago, Chippi said.

So far, this heating season -- November through March -- has been 32 percent colder than the 1982-83 heating season, according to Jan Mitchell, public relations representative for Southeastern Michigan Gas Co.

She didn't have the exact figures available, but recalled the mild winter a year ago was 20 percent warmer than the winter of 1981-82.

Southeastern sold the most gas this winter Jan. 21, when temperatures were as much as 19 degrees below zero, but she didn't think that was a record.

Due to two price reductions by Southeastern last year, the per unit cost of natural gas is less than it was a year ago, although heating bills will likely be more because it has been so much colder, Ms. Mitchell said.

For the 12 months (from April, 1983) through March of this year, the fuel bill for the average residential customer would be $728, compared to $925 for the 12 months through March, 1983.

ONE WAY TO KEEP warm, of course, be it indoors or out, is to wear more or heavier clothing.

"This was a good winter for cold weather stuff...anything that was warm," said Kritzman's Clothing Store owner Bill Kritzman. That included jackets, insulated coveralls, long underwear, boots, "even electric blankets."

It was also a good winter for hardware stores and plumbers.

Gerald and Betty Stilson, owners of Bigelow's Hardware, were planning to be closed Monday, Jan. 2, which was a legal holiday, but the extreme temperatures caused a lot of broken pipes which needed replacing, so they opened the store. "We were busy all day," she said.

In addition to pipe and pipe elbows this winter, they also sold a lot of stove pipe, furnace filters, propane torches for thawing pipes, de-icer, ice melter for sidewalks and snow shovels. "We sold about four times as many shovels as we thought we would," Stilson commented.

Those who don't do-it-themselves when the pipes freeze or break call a plumber.

Shetler Plumbing and Heating had a good and busy winter, according to Gary Binder.

There were a lot of freeze-ups, broken pipes, non-functioning furnaces and homeowners having more efficient furnaces installed, he said.

In addition, the store sold insulation tapes and pipe

Five area residents or ex-residents graduated March 10 during winter commencement exercises at Michigan State University.

Steven R. Ballard received a bachelor's degree in fisheries and wildlife management and is seeking employment in that field. He presently has a part-time job in East Lansing.

The 1978 Cass City High School graduate is the son of Dorothy Ballard of 4698 Huron Street and the late Dr. J.H. Ballard.

Wayne P. Lawler II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lawler of 3900 Freiburger Road, Snover, received a B.A. degree in materials and logistics management -- operations management.

His wife, Pamela, received a bachelor's degree in special and elementary education. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Larry Wilson, the former Sandusky school superintendent, now superintendent in Blissfield.

Lawler is awaiting one of two possible job offers, according to his mother. He and his wife are both 1979 Sandusky High School graduates.

Miss Knight is the daughter of Dorothy Knight of 4582 Leach Street and a 1978 Cass City High School graduate.

Craig E. Kubacki wasn't able to attend commencement ceremonies. He has been in Australia since October, working on a farm in a work-study program, for which he is receiving academic credit. He returns home in April.

Kubacki is a 1979 Ubyly High School graduate. He received a B.S. degree in agriculture and natural resources.

Robbery suspect still sought

The suspect and the money weren't found, but "The person we're looking for owns the van," Miller said.

It isn't believed anyone else had a role in the robbery. "We have a warrant for one individual only."

Although the suspect has a Cass City address, Miller said, "He hasn't been here (living permanently) in some time."

In addition to Miller and Walker, two FBI agents from Saginaw aided in the investigation. Assisting them, including questioning potential witnesses in nearby businesses and homes, were sheriff's deputies, state troopers and Gageton police officer Larry Eaton. Eaton, who doesn't live in Gageton, wasn't on duty at the time of the robbery.

In addition, state Trooper Jack C. Peet Jr. of the Bay City post brought his tracking dog "Rex" and they scouted around some nearby buildings.

It was apparently the first bank robbery ever in Gageton.

Notes from all over and comments. In other words, I can't think of a subject for a column this week.

In Hedrick, Iowa, population 847, last November, so many of the school's 23 girls chose to play basketball, there weren't enough willing to be cheerleaders for the boys' team. The result was formation of the Granny Squad, six women ages 57-74, who cheered at the boys' games. During half time, they gave cookies to the opposing team's cheerleaders.

An aide to U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) will be in Tuscola County this Thursday to discuss problems and concerns of constituents.

He will be in the courtroom in the courthouse annex on E. Grant Street, Caro, from 1-3 p.m. and the Unionville fire hall from 4-5 p.m.

ing home built, with the main living area surrounded by an earth berm. They never got to live in it. Neighbors Randall and Noelle Yager filed suit against the Wrights, claiming the main living level was actually a walk-out basement, which violated the township's zoning ordinance requiring residential buildings to have at least 1,600 square feet of above ground living space.

The Wrights filed a countersuit and won the first round in circuit court, but in the meantime, the bank foreclosed on the $117,000 house and the builder, faced with $17,000 in legal fees, was forced out of business.

In addition to thousands of dollars in legal fees, the Wrights lost the down payment on their house. They finally had a home built in another suburb.

The case didn't end there, however, as the Yagers appealed the verdict in the countersuit to the Michigan Court of Appeals. I don't know if there has been a decision yet.

The Yagers had offered a compromise -- either remove the energy saving berm or enlarge the above ground level, which would have ruined the concept of the house.

The Wrights should have built the above ground addition, but left it an unheated empty shell and then painted the outside either fluorescent orange or pink with black polka dots.

A peeve: Business owners who don't clean up dog manure in front of their stores. There are two stores I walk by everyday, where the piles were there for weeks before they were cleaned up (at one, by throwing the stuff in the street.)

Another peeve: Dog owners who walk their pets or let them wander downtown.

Your tax dollars at work: Annual wages in Alaska, an average of $27,904, are the highest of anywhere in the nation. That's understandable. Alaska is a long distance from anywhere. Wages are higher because the cost of living is higher.

Next highest, however, is the District of Columbia, at $22,537, and we all know who is the major employer there.

Michigan comes next at $18,809, followed by New York state, $18,530, and Wyoming, $17,990.

The lowest annual pay is in South Dakota, $12,702. One step up the ladder is Mississippi, $13,429, and then Maine, $13,466.

The figures, from the U.S. Department of Labor, are for 1982.

READING MONTH
It was a cool and sunny day, March 12, when a group of balloons -- two from each classroom -- to mark the beginning of Reading Month at school.

Reading Month at Campbell school

The state Board of Education has designated March as Reading Month.

Reading Month was launched at Campbell Elementary School Monday of last week with a balloon launch, with each class sending up two balloons with a card enclosed to be returned by the finder.

Last Wednesday, some senior citizens came to the school to tell stories to the children.

Thursday, students and teachers were able to sign up for 25 minutes of silent reading with a book of their own choice. The read-aloud was conducted in four hallway and entranceway locations and students could bring a pillow to sit on.

During the week, students were asked to bring books from home that they no longer wanted. They turned them in, for which they got a book swap coupon for each book they brought. Friday, they exchanged the coupons for other books that had been turned in.

This week, students in their art classes have been making reading posters. Friday, they are being asked to dress as their favorite storybook character.

Next week, teachers are being asked to incorporate some special reading activities into their daily schedules.

Parents have also been asked to take part in Reading Month. In a letter to them from Principal Jacqueline Freiburger and reading specialist Marilyn Peters, it was suggested they "turn off the TV for one hour each night and require everyone in the family to read a book of his or her choice or read a continuing story to the children."

Enclosed with the letter were suggested activities for parents to do to encourage their children to read. "Help us show the children that reading is important and can be fun..." the letter asked.

Tuscola hires director for development

The Tuscola County Economic Development Commission has hired Lydia Wielenga of Kalamazoo as its first director.

She was notified of her selection March 12 and will begin her duties Monday.

She was one of approximately 60 applicants for the job, according to EDC Chairman Robert Sugden of Mayville, and one of six finalists interviewed by the selection committee.

She has a B.S. degree with honors in architecture from Michigan State University and has been working as a landscape architect in Kalamazoo.

Her annual salary, still to be finalized, will be in the $18,000-20,000 range, Sugden said.

Her salary and that of a secretary, Teresa Whitaker, previously hired, is coming from a $38,580 federal Job Training and Partnership Act grant the EDC obtained from the Thumb Area Employment and Training Consortium.

One of Ms. Wielenga's assignments will be to negotiate for a continuance of the grant. The present one expires at the end of June, with money not spent by then to be returned to the consortium, according to Sugden. Her primary tasks will be to coordinate economic development activities in the county, pursue and negotiate with industry in order to create new jobs, work with government officials and represent the EDC board.

Her office will be in Broadcast House on Cleaver Road, Caro.

The Shabbona RLDS Women's Department met Thursday, March 15, for a noon luncheon with Mrs. Don Smith.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Don Smith, associate leader. The worship was in charge of Mrs. George Krause. The group sang "Take Time to Be Holy," and the invocation was by Marie Meredith.

Roll call was answered by a different house cleaning hint. The lesson was by Mrs. Krause.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Curtis Cleland and treasurer's report by Miss Meredith.

It was announced the April bake sale will be held at the church annex. Those in charge are: Mrs. Don

Program to feature Latin America

"Women in Latin America" will be the topic of an educational program sponsored by Area 14 (Tuscola and Sanilac Counties) of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers.

It will start at 7 p.m. Monday, April 2, in the county conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky, south of the courthouse. The public is invited.

A film strip, "As Strong as the Land," will be shown. Participating in a panel discussion will be Martha Valencia, an exchange student from Colombia attending Cass City High School; Lucille Fleming of Hemans, host parent of Ines Gomez Reyes of Guatemala, who is attending Marlette High School, and Carole Leitch, Uby, who visited Belize.

Various items from Latin America will be on display and Latin American snacks will be served afterwards.

Six math winners in regionals

During the week of Feb. 20, several students at Cass City Intermediate School participated in the local math test competition sponsored by the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics (MCTM).

The top two students from each grade level will now advance to the regional competition April 14 at Delta College.

Winners in the sixth grade were Mike Bills and Josh Constat. Seventh grade winners were Janet Koch and Shannon Lowry. Winners in the eighth grade were Dan Tuckey and Mark Gracey.

The top 25 winners from each grade level at the regional competition will then advance to the MCTM state competition at Central Michigan University May 19.

Registration required for ATVs

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin reminds owners of three-wheeled all-terrain vehicles that such vehicles must be registered and the operator licensed with a motorcycle endorsement to operate on public highways.

Austin's reminder follows scattered reports of young drivers operating ATVs on highways without a license, registration or motorcycle endorsement.

An ATV operated on public or private land must carry a special off-road vehicle registration unless operated exclusively on land owned by the operator. Individuals 12-16 years of age may operate such vehicles on public or private land under supervision of an adult or with a safety certificate from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Michigan law defines a three-wheel ATV as a motorcycle and requires operators to wear helmets on public highways. Austin advises individuals operating on private lands to wear helmets.

Smith, Mrs. Jim Doerr, Mrs. John Mika, Mrs. Raymond Buerkle, Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh, Mrs. Jerry Cleland and Mrs. Robert Sawdon.

The next meeting, April 19 with Mrs. Bill Dorman, is an evening meeting.

Huron, Sanilac to vote on transit millage

Residents of Huron and Sanilac Counties will be asked in a special election May 14 to approve a .2 mill tax increase for three years to support the public bus system operating in those counties, called Thumb Area Transit.

TAT started service in September, 1981. The first two years, all the costs were paid for by the state except for what was raised from fares.

This year, the state's share is 75 percent, with fares providing the remainder of needed revenue.

Starting the fourth year, combined state and federal funds are supposed to pay half the operating cost, with the rest coming from fares and a local subsidy, hence the need for the millage, according to TAT Manager Brad Diamond.

The millage will raise about $85,000 per county per year.

The resolutions approved by each county's board of commissioners establishing the millage election provide that if the measure passes in only one county, TAT will continue its services only in that county.

Two sentenced in Circuit Court

Two persons were sentenced Monday when they appeared before Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Ronald L. Sebert, 24, of 4520 Hanes Road, Vassar, was placed on five years' probation for delivery of marijuana June 16, 1983, in Vassar Township.

He was fined $1,000 and assessed $500 court costs. Sebert pleaded guilty to the charge Feb. 17.

Probation was continued for William B. Pelton, 22, formerly of Oakley Road, Akron, who was placed on four years' probation in February, 1981, for delivery of PCPY.

He pleaded guilty Feb. 14 to violating probation by failing to report to his probation officer in May, 1982, and failing to live with his parents.

Pelton was fined an additional $200 and assessed an additional $200 court costs.

Gordon J. Roy, 21, of 2777 Cass City Road, Unionville, stood mute Monday to forging a state warrant for $116 Oct. 30 in Caro.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled April 30. Bond was continued.

Frederick J. Beaudin, 33, of Ubyly, pleaded guilty to two counts of attempted removing bolts from railroad tracks and being an habitual offender because of two prior felony convictions.

Joslyn accepted the pleas and scheduled sentencing April 16. Bond was continued.

He is serving as acting judge in the Huron County case because the circuit judge there, M. Richard Knoblock, was Beaudin's attorney before being elected to the bench.

Beaudin was found guilty of removing the bolts north of Ubyly in May, 1978. He was placed on three years' probation.

When he was found guilty of violating it, Joslyn sentenced him to 30-60 years in prison. Beaudin appealed and the Michigan Supreme Court reversed the conviction, remanding the case to circuit court for a new trial.

In a plea bargain with the prosecution, he pleaded guilty to the reduced attempted removing charge.

HOUSE ARRAIGNED

Malcolm F. House, 17, of 6320 Virginia Drive, Cass City, was arraigned in Huron County District Court Monday on a charge of criminal sexual conduct (first degree), March 11 at a location on Caseville Road, Windsor Township.

Judge John Schubel set bond at $25,000 and scheduled preliminary examination before him this Thursday. The bond, which was posted, had to be either 10 percent cash or property put up as surety worth the full amount of the bond.

House was represented by Bad Axe attorney Michael D. Dennis.

House appeared voluntarily in district court Monday morning.

Conviction on the charge carries a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Your neighbor says Federal government should balance budget

Larry Samuelson feels spending by the federal government should be no different than spending by a family.

"I belong to the old school. You shouldn't spend more money than you make."

How would he eliminate the $200 billion a year deficits?

"As far as I'm concerned, there's too many senators who have pork barrel projects in their district...and none of them want to give up anything. Sooner or later, they're going to have to give up something."

Samuelson mentioned as examples dams and subsidies to tobacco growers.

Some reductions can be made in the military spending. "I believe in a strong military, but I think he (Reagan) is going over-board."

Samuelson suggested other savings can be made by controlling illegal immigration, which he feels drains the economy; eliminating duplication of services by various branches of the federal government; having private companies take over some government programs, and sunset legislation.

If Social Security were provided by a private company and run like a business, he commented, it wouldn't be bankrupt.

With sunset legislation, "every time a law is passed, it would have to be reviewed every two years or it ceases to exist." The aim would be to do away with programs that have outlived their usefulness.

Samuelson doesn't like the idea of a tax increase to balance the budget, feeling income taxes are already too high. He does favor a Constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget. "We're going to have to bite the bullet somewhere."

He and his wife, Marlene, and son, Michael, 9, live at 6467 Main Street, Cass City.

A millwright, he was working at the Detroit Edison Belle River powerplant near Port Huron. He was laid off for nine months, went back to work there for five weeks, then was laid off permanently two weeks ago. He is hoping to start work at another construction job soon.

The credit for thinking Up bifocal eyeglasses goes to Benjamin Franklin, who devised the idea around 1785.

traffic fatality

A Reese man became Tuscola County's first traffic fatality of the year when he died of injuries suffered in a 6:13 p.m. Sunday accident southwest of Unionville.

When he spotted an oncoming car, he steered quickly back into his lane, lost control and the car went off the north side of the road, rolling over four or five times.

The occupant of the oncoming car, Jacqueline P. Hoppe, 32, of Sebawaing, told deputies she had started to steer toward the shoulder to avoid a head-on collision when Palmreuter veered back into his lane.

Killed was Kurt M. Palmreuter, 21, who was pronounced dead at 8:02 p.m. at Bay Medical Center, Bay City. His passenger, Shannon M. Manley, 16, of Reese, was reported Tuesday afternoon to be in good condition there.

Both occupants, neither of whom was wearing a safety belt, were ejected from the car, which caught fire after coming to a halt on its wheels, with the front end on top of a tree stump.

Funeral services were held this Wednesday for Palmreuter, who is survived by his parents, three brothers and two sisters.

Sheriff's deputies reported his car was headed southwest on M-25, west of Thomas Road, when he passed a car at high speed and entered a "no passing" zone on a curve.

Rockefeller seeks damages from Dr. Hall

A lawsuit has been filed against Dr. Richard D. Hall, D.O., of Cass City by Beverly Rockefeller, as an individual and representative of the estate of her husband, Donald, who died Jan. 16.

Mrs. Rockefeller lives on Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City.

The suit claims that Rockefeller first went to Hall in November, 1982, because of injuries suffered when he fell over the tailgate of a pickup truck.

Despite continued treatment, according to the suit, his pain became worse. He was finally operated on by another doctor, who discovered the patient had cancer, which was the ultimate cause of his death.

Claiming that Rockefeller's death was due to "negligence of defendant in failing to properly diagnose and treat his injuries," the suit asks for more than $10,001 in damages, plus more than $10,001 for loss of companionship, services and consortium. It "suggests" that damages should be $1.5 million for the first count and $500,000 for the second.

A jury trial has been demanded.

Nat Tuttle ends career at Cable

Nat Tuttle celebrates his 65th birthday this Thursday, and after having worked since 1937, he decided it was time to retire.

The Third Street resident spent his last day on the job at General Cable as plant superintendent March 9. He had been there since October, 1972, and always held the same position.

The following day, he and his wife, Marge, who retired from her job at Chemical Bank in December, were guests of honor at a farewell party at Wildwood Farms, given by his fellow employees.

There was a formal program, presentation of a photo album and gifts and a special surprise. The Tuttle's two children came specially for the party. Mrs. Tuttle knew they were coming, but her husband didn't until they walked into the house Saturday afternoon.

Their children are Nancy Herbst of Candlewood Isle, Conn., and Ned (Nathaniel Edward Tuttle of Tulsa, Okla. The Tuttle's, who have been married 43 years, also have four grandsons, two granddaughters, one great-grandson and one great-granddaughter.

A native of New York state, Tuttle's first job was as an office boy for the New York Central Railroad starting in 1937. He graduated from Ithaca (N.Y.) College in 1940.

All his jobs after that were supervisory positions. They all were in New York until coming to Cass City.

Tuttle started with Anaconda Wire and Cable in Hastings, then worked for Sonotone, a manufacturer of hearing aids, in Elmsford. Next came Hudson Wire in Ossening before coming here.

"I worked long enough," Tuttle gave as one reason for retiring. His reaching 65 and Mrs. Tuttle's retiring were other reasons.

They plan to stay in Cass City. "It's a nice community," he said. The big thing is the people -- nice people."

Tuttle isn't worried about keeping busy. He plays bridge, just learned to play cribbage, likes golfing and gardening. He and his wife also like to ride their bicycles.

If there is nothing else to do, he can watch the birds in his back yard, attracted to their bird feeders by the 25 pounds of sunflower seed he puts in them each week.

"I love to bird watch. It's fun."

He added that once one starts feeding birds, it's very important to keep doing so.

The Tuttle's are planning to go on a trip, but haven't decided where yet.

Tuttle also sings in the Trinity United Methodist Church choir and the community choir, the Tom Thumb Singers.

Tuttle is a Rotary Club member and its secretary. He is in his third year on the village Planning Commission and served on the Village Council from 1974-80.

In mentioning the many co-workers who attended his farewell party, he said, "That's what I'm going to miss most, the nice people."

400 Thumb jobs from $850,830 grant

More than 400 Thumb area youngsters will have jobs this summer because of an $850,830 federal grant obtained by the Thumb Area Employment and Training Consortium.

The jobs with schools, local governments and non-profit agencies will pay the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour. They will be limited to persons ages 16-21 from low-income families, the unemployed, etc.

Consortium Executive Director Marvin Pichla said, there will be about 400 jobs at any one time, but due to dropouts and firings, about 600 youngsters should have employment for at least part of the summer.

The jobs will begin the first week of June and for those not in school, may last until the end of September, depending on how long the money lasts.

Application forms should now be available at high schools and Michigan Employment Security Commission and Department of Social Services offices.

Lapeer County will be allocated 29 percent of the jobs; Tuscola, 27 percent; Sanilac, 25 percent, and

Woodlot management meeting set

With the increase in firewood cutting, woodlot owners need to be concerned about proper cutting so their wood resource is not depleted.

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is sponsoring a woodlot management information meeting Saturday from 10 a.m. - noon. The demonstration will be in the Caro Regional Center woodlot on the north side of M-81, one mile west of Wahjamega.

Department of Natural Resources forester Bill Hoppe will provide information on the selection of species, spacing and other management concerns. Examples of management ideas will be shown in the woodlot, so the landowners can get the information to their individual woods.

Huron, 19 percent. The Summer Youth Employment Program is being funded by the federal Job Training Partnership Act program.

Area farmers to discuss ag programs

Farmers from Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, Lapeer, St. Clair and Macomb Counties will gather at Marlette High School Thursday, March 29, to discuss proposed 1985 national farm legislation.

The meeting, to start at 1:30 p.m., will focus on how past farm programs have had an impact on net farm income, and whether farmers would fare better under a government supply-management system or market-oriented agriculture.

The meeting has been called by Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, dairy farmer who represents the six counties on the Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB) board of directors and also serves as vice-president of the state's largest farm organization.

"This meeting is not for the purpose of 'selling' any particular position on the '85 Farm Bill, but rather to take a good, hard look at some of the economic facts, the problems we face, and discuss some alternatives that might possibly provide a long-term solution to the problems," Laurie said.

"It's going to be important to discover the concerns and ideas of as many producers as possible so that agriculture can take a united front as the '85 Farm Bill is written," he continued.

"There are too many others, outside of production agriculture, who would like to make those decisions for us. If we stand by and let them make those decisions, we farmers will lose control of our destinies, and happen." It afford to let that

Serving as resource person will be John Hoseman, agricultural economist and researcher from the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The Marlette meeting will be one of a series of sessions throughout the state sponsored by the MFB to discuss the 1985 farm bill.

Novesta grows, supervisor says

Novesta Township shows real evidence of growth and development from the assessor's point of view, according to Supervisor Bill O'Dell.

This past year, 32 construction permits were issued by Lucille DeLong, township Planning Commission administrator. Some, permits were for small additions, but some were for new homes.

"Novesta is showing a trend the past two years for new homes," according to O'Dell. "The township has considerable marginal land which has been taken out of agriculture classification and is being bought up in five and 10 acre lots for future home building." Some mobile homes are being replaced by new homes.

There are plans for construction of three homes on Shabbana Road this summer, according to the supervisor. Several major remodeling jobs are underway and three houses were moved from Cass City and one from Caro into the township.

New homes can be seen on Crawford, Englehart and Shabbana Roads and elsewhere, he said. Some are in semi-secluded areas, so can be easily missed from the road.

At the board of review, O'Dell said, a few property owners "complained of their high tax assessments and we as a board could readily agree they were right. But with our tax laws as they are set up by the state of Michigan, the board of review was limited in what could be done to alleviate the situation."

Some homeowners came in to have their property descriptions updated or a small mistake corrected.

Novesta's total state equalized valuation of property after the board of review was done was just over 49 percent of true cash value in all classifications, according to O'Dell. No added factor is expected from the county this year.

Board of review members were Keith Little, Ed Lebiada and Arthur Hartwick.

Area accidents numerous

Crash leads to drunk driving arrests

Three drivers were charged by Caro state police with driving under the influence of liquor after a 2:45 a.m. accident last Wednesday south of Cass City in which two other persons were injured.

Troopers said James C. Wise, 37, of 6751 Lapak Road, Gageton, was eastbound on Kelly Road, crossed the centerline and his car was struck by a westbound auto driven by James K. Watros, 23, of 2900 Phillips Road, Cass City.

Treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital were two passengers in the Watros auto, Robert LaFave, 32, of 5240 Silvernail Road, Kingston, and Mike Strickland, 30, of 6667 Third Street, Cass City.

Wise and Watros were both charged with driving under the influence. Wise was later released from the county jail after posting $100 bond, with arraignment scheduled March 26 in district court. No court information was available about Watros.

Officers at the scene advised a third passenger in the Watros auto, Dennis I. Fox, 24, of 7774 Dunn Road, Pigeon, not to drive the car away because of his condition.

Strickland volunteered and the car left, headed east on Kelly. A short while later, it reappeared, driven by Fox. Officers gave pursuit in their patrol car and stopped the vehicle at Cemetery.

Fox was then taken into custody, charged with driving under the influence. He was later released after posting $100 bond, with district court arraignment scheduled March 26.

Kingston, was treated and released from Marlette Community Hospital after a 10:30 a.m. accident Friday.

Tuscola deputies said she was northbound on Kingston Road, south of Denhoff road, when her car veered onto the east shoulder. In trying to steer back onto the road, she overcorrected and her car swerved off the west side into a swampy area and hit several small trees.

At 8:30 a.m. last Thursday, deputies reported, Gloria J. Cook, 38, of 5932 Koepfgen Road, Cass City, was southbound on Koepfgen, north of Milligan Road, when her car started to slide on the icy pavement. She braked and the car slid sideways off the east side of the road into the ditch.

The accident report said she was taken to Hills and Dales, but the hospital had no record of her being treated there.

ICY ROADS
Icy pavement was a contributing factor in several accidents last week.

At 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, Cass City police said, John H. Maharg, 34, of 6349 Brenda Drive, was southbound on Leach, couldn't stop in time at the stop sign at Church because of the slippery pavement and collided with an eastbound car.

ADT Driver Control Systems, 4244 Sherman Street. Deputies reported that Craig J. Downing, 27, of 4817 South Street, Gageton, was westbound on M-81, northeast of Vassar, at 7:40 a.m. Friday, when he lost control of his car when steering back into his lane after passing another vehicle.

His car slid off the icy road into the north side the east side ditch.

At 4 p.m. Friday, according to sheriff's officers, Marc R. Rickwalt, 16, of Caro, was westbound on Orr Road, east of Albin Road, when the back end of his car started to slide on the icy road.

Upon going into a small gully off the south side of the road, the car rolled onto its side.

OTHER ACCIDENTS
Michael R. Dadacki, 23, of 4063 Shaw Road, Kingston, was northbound on Kingston Road, north of Bevans Road, at 12:30 p.m. March 13, deputies reported, when the steering tie rod broke. His vehicle went out of control, struck a traffic sign, then went into Jack Wallace of 6464 River Road reported to Cass City police that a hit-and-run driver backed into the left side of his car when it was parked at the Charmont from 11 p.m. Friday to 12:30 a.m. Saturday. The other car left some blue paint on the Wallace auto.

Adam speaks at Ag Day breakfast

Michigan's First Lady, Paula Blanchard, along with women from the Michigan Legislature, government agencies, Michigan State University and state associations celebrated National Agriculture Day Tuesday by taking an audio-visual "tour" of three farms. About 40 attended. During breakfast at a downtown Lansing restaurant, hosted by the Michigan Farm Bureau Women's Committee, the group was

MMPA fetes 3 35-year area members
Three area dairy farmers were honored in East Lansing Saturday for having belonged to the Michigan Milk Producers Association at least 35 years. They were Donald DeLong and James Tuckey, both of Cass City, and Ivan Kreger of Snover. Recognition of long-time members, 34 in all, took place at the MMPA's annual delegate meeting.

shown how public policy decisions impact -- both positively and negatively -- on the agriculture industry. Delivering their message through a slide-tape presentation called "The Food Chain - A Human Chain," were Vivian Lott, Ingham County dairy farmer; Faye Adam, of Snover Road, Snover, livestock and cash crop farmer, and Diane Horning, Washtenaw County dairy farmer. "Examples of how public decisions impact positively on our farm operations are P.A. 116, Michigan's Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act, and the Right to Farm law," said Mrs. Adam, chairperson of Women's Committee. "We needed those laws and we had legislators who recognized and acted on those needs. "A classic example of how public policy decisions impact us negatively is the grain embargo. Years after that decision was made, U.S. farmers are still paying the price in lost markets for our commodities. Our foreign customers, concerned about our reliability as suppliers, have turned to other exporting countries to fill their needs and that hurts our net farm income," she said. Other issues of concern shared by the farm women included the 1985 federal farm legislation, efforts of animal rightists to change modern farming methods, the need for adequate budgets for the Michigan Department of Agriculture and MSU agricultural research and "right to water" legislation. The farm women told their urban guests that a viable agricultural industry benefits the state's economy. "Michigan farmers, through their purchases of machinery and equipment, create jobs for over 14,000 factory workers," said Mrs. Adam. "One farmer creates jobs for more than five non-farm people who process, transport and merchandise the commodities we grow, and manufacture items farmers need to produce food."

DOWN SHE COMES -- When two sergeants from the Army 101st Pathfinder Airborne, Fort Campbell, Ky., came to Cass City High School last Thursday, they were only supposed to demonstrate rappelling during the two lunch periods. It proved so popular, they were there past 5:30 p.m. On her way down from the ceiling of the gym, a 40-foot drop, is Kelly Deering.

DESCENDING -- Sgt. Mark Selter controls the lower end of the rope as Missy Fee slides down. In the Army, soldiers rappel out of helicopters and down cliffs. Women can take the training, but can't participate in combat.

SECURITY CHECK -- Sgt. First Class James Dicus, standing on top of a ceiling beam, makes sure the harness for Teresa Prosser is properly attached before she rappels down the rope.

SAFE LANDING -- Coming in for a safe landing is Laurie Cook. Of about 150 students who tried rappelling, only about 10 were boys. Most of the participants rappelled off the edge of the gymnasium balcony, not from the ceiling beam.

Gov. asks $3.5 million for pregnant poor

Gov. James Blanchard recently recommended the state spend $3.5 million over the next two years on a program intended to reduce infant mortality by offering prenatal and postpartum services to some of the 9,500 pregnant women a year who otherwise cannot afford the services.

Total spending in 1984-85 and 1985-86 would reach $7.5 million if the governor succeeds in gaining $1.5 million in federal funds in the first year and $2.5 million the second.

State Public Health Director Gloria Smith said the state and federal funding will enable the state in the first year to take care of about half the women unable to pay for prenatal care because they lack insurance or Medicaid coverage and to provide services to all those women by 1985-86. The program would provide medical, nutritional and other social services, laboratory services, education about the need for prenatal care, prescriptions and referral for other services.
