THREE SUPPLEMENTS

Rezoning approved

No objections as council oks Seeger assessment

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday evening approved establishing special assessments to pay for the curb and gutter along the quarter-mile of N. Seeger Street scheduled for rebuilding and rezoning of three acres for senior citizen apartments.

The public hearing on the special assessment attracted most of the affected property owners.

Twelve homeowners, plus the Cass City schools and Tom Herron, owner of the subdivision across from the high school, will be assessed. At an estimated cost of $7.35 per foot, the homeowners will pay from $735-1,705. The bill for the schools will be $5,615. The actual cost will depend on what the contractor charges. The property owners will have three years to pay their assessments.

After voting to establish the special assessment district, the council voted to advertise for construction bids, with the contract to be awarded May 30. The project is to be completed by Aug. 15.

There will be a single bid for construction of the curb and gutter, widening the street to four lanes and paving. The 1,320 feet is between the old and present village limits.

The village is to receive reimbursement from the state Department of Transportation for the top layer of asphalt on two of the lanes, which will be part of the detour when the M-53 bridge is constructed next year.

No one attending the hearing Tuesday objected to the special assessment. There were, however, many questions asked about the project.

The major concern was how the new street will affect drainage.

The plans, which everyone was able to examine, show the grade won't be as steep as it is now. It will be reduced about 2 feet from its high point and some fill will be added at the low points.

Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie explained after the meeting the street presently is higher than some lawns.

When completed, the street will be at the same level or lower than the lawns and sidewalks, so that water will run from the lawns into the street, then be guided by the curbs to the storm sewer drains.

The lowered road will also make exiting the high school lot safer, since northbound traffic momentarily can't be seen from the exit and vice versa.

Some comments were made about the need to reduce speeding on that section of the street and the safety of children walking to school.

build a 24-unit single story building, he explained. Each apartment will be for a maximum of two persons, one of whom must be at least 62.

Cost of the project, being financed by a Farmers Home Administration loan, is about $750,000, he said.

Those living there, under the FHA requirements, won't be able to have an annual income of more than $23,000-24,000. (The exact amount will be determined later.)

Those earning that much will pay the maximum rent of about $450 a month. Those at the opposite end of the income spectrum will pay minimum rent of about $245-250. There will be a sliding scale, based on income, up to the maximum. Few if any will be at the top of the income scale, Hovey indicated.

Rent will include heat. Apartments will be unfurnished except for carpet, drapes, stove, refrigerator and garbage disposal.

Construction may start as soon as late summer, which could mean they would be ready for occupancy by the end of the year, Hovey said. Construction should take about five months.

COMMITTEES

New Village President Ray Armstead Jr., officiating at his first meeting, made several changes in the council's committees, expanding the role of some, and adding one new committee.

The new committee is rules, whose job will be to review and update village ordinances and the charter and review all operating policies of the village. Dorothy Stahlbaum, whom Armstead appointed president pro tem, is chairman of the committee.

With new council members Larry Davis and Joanne Hopper having been members of the Zoning Board of Appeals, their replacements on the ZBA will be Kelly Smith and Stuart Atwell. Arlan Hartwick remains chairman.

The big changes came on the Planning Commission. Chairman Lee Rabideau has moved out of the village, so appointed by Armstead to replace him as member was Dick Wallace.

The terms of Herbert Ludlow and Bill Ewald were expiring. Neither wanted reappointment, so in their place will be Curt Strickland and Gerald Stilson.

Armstead asked the council to approve a resolution thanking Ludlow, Ewald, Rabideau and former council members Jim Ware and Dick Hampshire for their many years of service to the village. Each will receive a copy of the resolution, signed by the council.

Former President Lambert Althaver still serves on the village Economic Development Corp., so won't be similarly honored, since he hasn't "retired" entirely from village government.

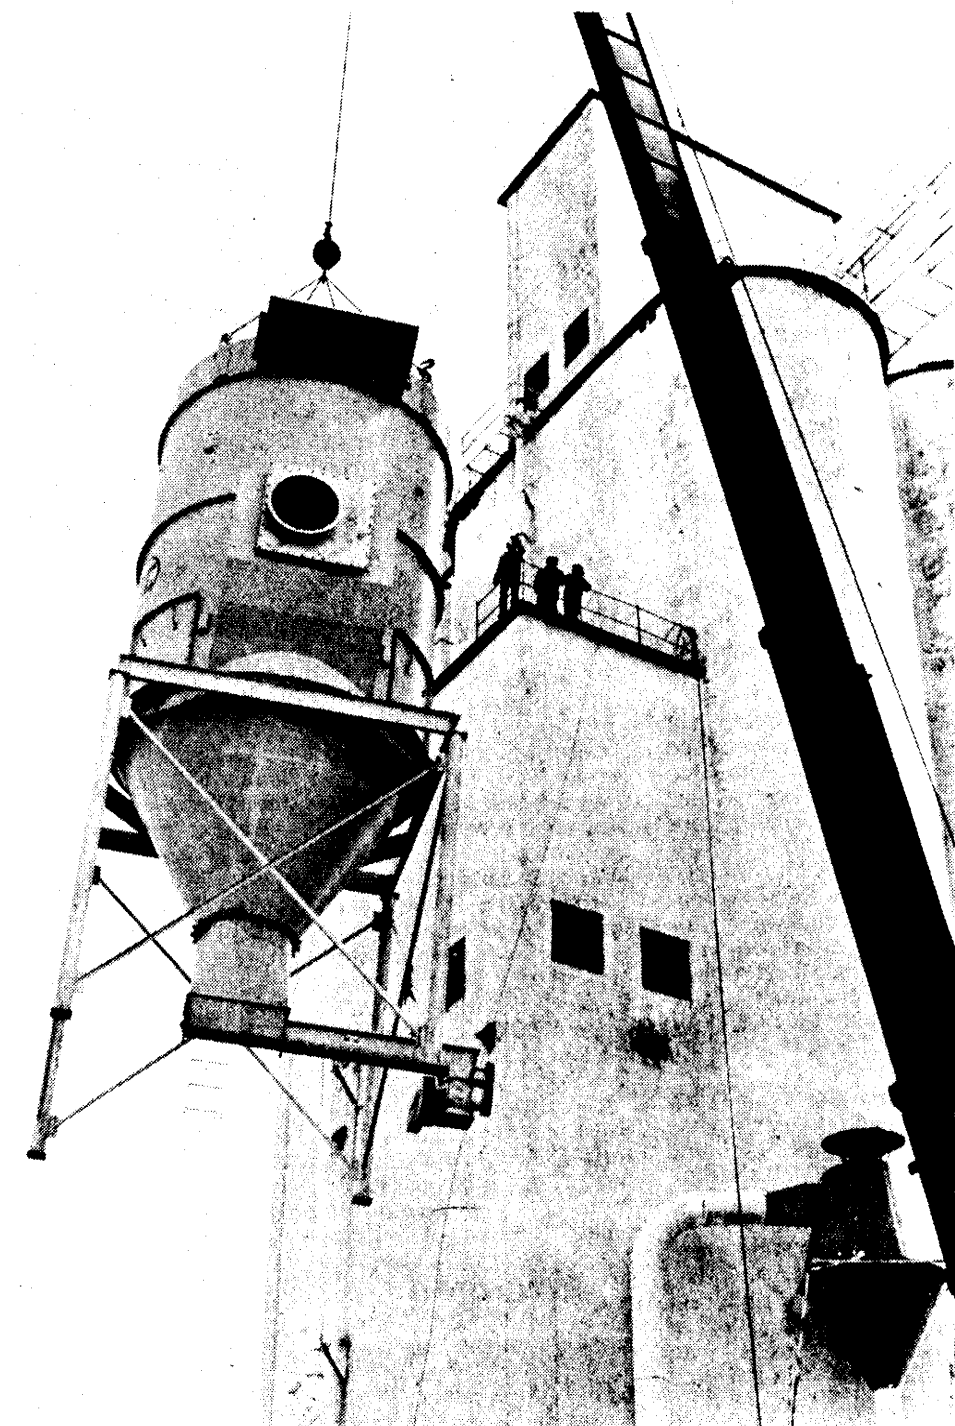

OTHER ITEMS

Harris-Hampshire Agency of Cass City, the lowest of three bidders, will provide workers compensation insurance for one year at an estimated annual premium of $10,419. It won't be more than that, but if claims are few and minor, the village will get a rebate.

The certified public accounting firm of Yeo and Yeo, which has been performing the annual audit for the past several years, was awarded the contract for the 1984 audit, at a cost not to exceed $6,500.

Leases for two parking lots were renewed for three years. The owners of the lot

BIG LIFT -- Looking somewhat like a moon landing space ship, this six-ton dust collector was lifted 80 feet to the top of part of the Pillsbury elevator in Cass City Friday. The dust collector, which will be connected to all parts of the elevator, will reduce the amount of grain dust getting in the air and the possibility of an explosion. Cost was about $75,000-80,000. It was lifted to where the men are standing.

Unsold cookies pile up for area Girl Scouts

By Mike Eliason

Girl Scout cookies as an American tradition were endangered this year.

The cookies and tradition will continue, but in the meantime, the girls of Cass City Cadet Troop 239 and their leader, Jane Becker, have more than 200 boxes of cookies to sell.

Of the six Brownie, Cadet and Girl Scout troops in the Cass City and Deford area, Troop 239 was hit hardest by the scare created by reports in various places nationwide of foreign objects being found in Girl Scout cookies and the temporary ban on their sale imposed by the Mitten Bay Girl Scout Council after reports of tainted cookies cropped up in its 21 counties. There were no such reports in the Cass City area.

The other troops had some persons refuse to take the cookies they had ordered, but were able to sell the leftovers to others.

What happened with Cass City Junior Troop 221, which had a few persons not accept the cookies they ordered, was typical. "I've had a couple of really nice people say, 'We'll buy some extra to help you out,'" said leader Kay Warner. One woman bought 18 more boxes.

In addition to the returns, her troop had some extra boxes to sell from having to order full cases, but not having sold all the boxes in the case.

Junior Troop 644 also had a lot of boxes of cookies left from not being able to sell full cases, plus a few persons not wanting what they had ordered, according to leader Sandy Yax. (There are 12 boxes in a case.)

Pat Jamison, leader of Cass City Brownie Troops 414 and 958, said some persons who didn't want the cookies they had ordered still paid for them.

The situation was different with Troop 239 for two reasons, according to Mrs. Becker.

The Scouts picked up their cookies for delivery the first week in April. Members of her troop didn't pick up their cookies until Thursday, April 5, later than most of the other Scouts, and by then, reports were coming out about tainted cookies in the Mitten Bay Council area.

The first was supposedly objects found in two boxes in Harrison and then a straight pin in a box in Saginaw.

Saturday, April 7, the council's executive board ordered a temporary halt to cookie sales in the 21 counties.

That was the day Troop

239 had a baked goods sale scheduled, for which it had ordered 105 boxes of cookies. Because of the temporary ban, it couldn't sell any of them.

In addition to those, Scouts in the troop brought back 139 boxes persons had ordered but didn't want, for a total of 244 unsold boxes.

The council lifted the ban on sales Friday, April 13.

By Tuesday of this week, the Cadet troop plus Mrs. Jamison's Brownie troops had a total of 235 boxes left.

The troop makes 25 cents from each box it sells. "It really hurts," Mrs. Becker said of the unsold boxes, "because this is a money making project for the girls." Proceeds from the cookie sales are used for the girls to attend camp this summer.

UNSOLD COOKIES ANY- where in the 21 counties of the Mitten Bay Council hurt Scouts everywhere, not just in a local area.

Of the $1.75 each box sells for, according to council Executive Director Dorothy J. Smith, 74 cents goes to the manufacturer, 74 cents to the council, 2 cents to a council "camper-ship" fund for girls who otherwise can't afford to go to camp, and, as mentioned, 25 cents goes to the troop that sold them.

Of the amount that goes to the council, some pays its operating expenses and the rest goes to operate its camps. Thirty percent of the council's operating budget comes from United Way, with the rest from cookie sales.

The amount raised by cookie sales is substantial. Last year, it meant proceeds to the council of slightly more than $500,000

(including the 2 cents per box going to the camper-ship fund), Ms. Smith said, and about $161,000 to the individual troops.

AS OF LAST WEEK, according to the executive director, there had been 16 reports of tainted cookies within the 21 counties, which are being probed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Monday morning, results were still being awaited from the FBI crime laboratory.

Ms. Smith knew the results of only one report, in Alpena, where a boy later admitted he inserted a needle in a box of his family's cookies.

Nothing has been found so far indicating problems at the manufacturer of the cookies, Burry-LU in New Jersey, whose plant was inspected March 28 by the New Jersey Department of Health and U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

It is too early to tell what effect the scare created by the reports of tainted cookies will have on sales and revenues, Ms. Smith said, because Scouts didn't have to turn in their proceeds or boxes of unsold cookies until this Wednesday. (Troop 239 has received an extension.)

Although some places have unsold cookies, she said, others have been asking for more. "I have a feeling it won't be too bad."

Unsold cookies are returned to the council, which saves some for use at the camps this summer. The rest will be returned to Burry-LU.

If the Mitten Bay Council doesn't make enough money from cookie sales for needed expenditures,

REZONING

On the recommendation of the Planning Commission, the council approved an ordinance that rezones three acres at the foot of Woodland, south of Garfield, from single family residential to multiple family. Rural Housing Corp. has an option to buy the property from the village.

The Planning Commission conducted a public hearing Monday evening, prior to voting to recommend the rezoning. There were numerous questions asked about the project, LaPonsie reported, but no opposition.

James Hovey of RHC, an East Lansing based firm, was at the hearing Monday and the council meeting Tuesday.

The firm is planning to 14-year-old bicycle rider dies in collision with car

A 14-year-old boy became the fifth person to die in a Tuscola County traffic accident this year when he was killed Friday while riding his bicycle.

He was Kenneth L. Damm, 14, of Murray Road, Caro.

In the 4:41 p.m. accident, sheriff's deputies reported, he was riding on the north shoulder of M-46, 2 mile west of Murray, when he started to cross the road.

The driver of the station wagon that hit him, Barry W. Brownlee, 40, of London, Ont., told officers the boy never looked to the rear before starting to cross the road.

Brownlee, who was westbound, slowed, then veered into the eastbound lane in an effort to avoid striking the bicycle, but was unsuccessful.

The collision took place in the eastbound lane and the impact threw the boy 111 feet onto the south shoulder.

A witness confirmed Brownlee's account of what had happened.

As of this date a year ago, three persons had been killed in accidents on Tuscola County roads.

The investigation report is being reviewed by the prosecutor's office for a decision on whether any charges will be brought against Brownlee.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

At 6 p.m. last Wednesday, according to Cass City police, Darryl T. Hoag, 20, of 4137 Vulcan Street, was southbound on West Street, failed to observe a westbound auto approaching on Main Street, pulled into the intersection and the two vehicles collided.

Driver of the other car was Gary Bader, 29, of 4717 Hospital Drive.

Village police reported that at 4:20 p.m. Saturday, Charlotte E. McDonald, 33, of 3784 Cemetery Road, exited the IGA Foodliner lot headed east on Main Street and the left side of her car hit the right rear of an auto waiting for traffic to clear before turning.

Driver of the other car was Clare F. Comment, 46, of 3780 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown. Sheriff's deputies reported that at 12:20 p.m. Sunday, April 15, Edwin H. Schmaltz, 19, of Remington Road, eastbound on Dickerson Road, turned right and crossed Colwood Road into the Colwood Party Store parking area.

His brakes failed and his car ran into the rear of a parked car owned by Donald Russell of Colwood Road, Unionville.

CAR-DEER

Cass City police reported two car-deer collisions within five minutes of each other Saturday on M-53.

The first was at 12:45 a.m. north of M-81, when Harry T. Tyldesley, 16, of Southfield, was southbound.

The second was south of Bay City-Forestville Road when Arlene D. O'Mara, 56, of 4657 Franklin Street, Ubyly, was northbound.

Deputies reported that Mark J. Wilmot, 23, of Bay City, was southbound on Phillips Road, south of Silvernail Road, at 8:10 p.m. Sunday when his vehicle collided with a deer.

Daylight time begins Sunday

Daylight Savings Time starts at 2 a.m. Sunday, which means clocks and watches should be set one hour AHEAD before going to bed Saturday night.

That means the morning light will come an hour later, but it will be light an hour longer at night. It also means loss of one hour's sleep Saturday night.

Eastern Standard Time returns and the one hour of lost sleep regained on the last Sunday in October.

CAROL AND DAVID KNIGHT

Carol Lillian Parker and David Lee Knight were married March 10 in a late afternoon ceremony at the Gagetown United Methodist Church.

Rev. Myra Sparks performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Parker, 4841 State Street, Gagetown. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Deane Knight of Saginaw.

The bride's full-length dress of satin and rose-patterned lace was made by her sister, Patty Rayl. It featured three-quarter length sleeves of taffeta with a 2-inch wide sash. The bodice was etched in lace and taffeta.

Maid of honor was Paula Good of Sebewaing, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Sharon Parker, Gagetown, sister of the bride, and Julie Wojciechowski, Saginaw, friend of the bride.

They wore floor length silesta knit dresses with draped bodices, spaghetti straps and A-line skirts. High-necked, long-sleeved lace jackets were worn over the dresses. Miss Good's dress was apricot; Miss Parker's, maize, and Miss Wojciechowski's, blue.

Best man was Don Knight of Troy, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Robert Stark and Brian McCullen, both friends of the groom from Saginaw. Usher was Steve Swanton, Saginaw, friend of the groom.

Dana Laurie, Cass City, was pianist at the wedding.

The reception at the Gateway Sportsman's Club, Unionville, was attended by 150 guests. The ceremony and reception were videotaped by Carol Stoeckle of Cass City. Greg Riccardi of Caro was disc jockey for the music at the reception.

After a one-week honeymoon to Washington, D.C., the newlyweds are living in Caro.

Knight is employed as a development engineer by Walbro Corp. in Cass City. Mrs. Knight is a computer operator for Thumb National Bank, Pigeon and Cass City.

Square dance set Saturday

The Town and Country Square Dance Club will conduct a square dance from 8-11 p.m. Saturday at Cass City High School.

Chuck Becker will do the calling. All square dancers and spectators are invited.

Huron County Treasurer

Goals achieved, Schweitzer ends career

Arnold Schweitzer is looking forward to a fruitful retirement.

The Grant Township resident retired March 31 as Huron County treasurer after 15 years in the position.

His term ran to the end of this year, but he decided he didn't want to wait that long to retire.

"There's things I want to do this summer," he said. "If I (still) had this job, I probably wouldn't have time to do them."

Among them are a couple of trips with his wife, Louise, spending more time with their children and grandchildren, fishing and their orchard business.

The Schweitzers, who have been married almost 44 years, have three children: Gaye Gintner, Columbiaville, Rosalyn Snider, Middleville, and Brent, who lives near his parents, and six grandchildren.

Schweitzer, who grew up on a farm near Elkton, and his wife, a native of Ohio, moved to their farm on Grassmere Road in 1946. He milked 60 Holsteins until selling his herd in 1966. After that, he cash cropped his slightly more than 300 acres.

Schweitzer was Grant Township Supervisor from 1960-68, first being appointed when Robert Osborn resigned to become register of deeds, and therefore also served on the county board of supervisors, which then oversaw county government. During his time on the board, the supervisors decided to replace the old and overcrowded courthouse, plus offices scattered in rented space elsewhere in Bad Axe, with a modern courthouse.

SCHWEITZER RAN FOR county treasurer because "some of the supervisors urged me to and I had quite a bit of support from them." Osborn also influenced him to run, since the then treasurer, Peter Campbell, wasn't seeking reelection.

Schweitzer defeated two Republicans in the primary and a Democrat in the general election to win his first term. He never had opposition after that, "which was kind of nice."

Prior to becoming treasurer, Schweitzer's financial experience, other than that related to farming and being supervisor, consisted of serving on the board of supervisors' township tax committee and on the Production Credit Association three-county board of directors. After becoming treasurer, he took one college accounting course.

SCHWEITZER, WHO started his new position in the new courthouse didn't need an accounting class to figure out changes were needed in treasurer's office procedures. He and his two staff members, armed with two adding machines and a stack of yellow writing pads, quickly started to make them.

One was applying uniform accounting procedures for all county offices, by assigning a number to each account. That way, he explained, it's easy to keep track of all county funds at all times.

Schweitzer initiated installation of the county's first computer in 1972 or 1973. It was installed to handle tax billing, but was later modified to also keep track of the county budget.

HE PROBABLY RECEIVED most accolades for his astute investing of county funds, which he started "a week or 10 days after I got into office."

Rather than leave all the money in savings and checking accounts, Schweitzer started investing it in whatever paid the most interest. The options have increased the last few years because of deregulation of financial institutions.

Schweitzer utilized

treasury bills, government notes, money market accounts, certificates of deposits and other investment forms, keeping money in them for as little as one or two days to six months or more, in order to make the most money possible for the county.

Over the years, he earned the county $2.7 million in interest, including almost $750,000 last year. It helped Huron operate with one of the lowest and possibly the lowest, millage rates of any county in Michigan—4.0196 mills.

Schweitzer also started his county's delinquent tax revolving fund. The county sells bonds in order to reimburse taxing units for their delinquent taxes within a few months of when they turn them in to the treasurer's office.

The county then collects the late past due taxes, plus the penalty, which is more than enough to pay off the bonds and interest.

INDICATIVE OF Schweitzer's financing abilities is how Huron County paid for its new $182,000 computer system (the third since he took office). There was $46,000 in unbudgeted interest collected, $120,000 in surplus funds from the delinquent tax fund and the remainder from federal revenue sharing.

He had three goals he wanted to accomplish before leaving office and all were achieved. One was to see the new computer system, which ultimately will be used by all county departments, in operation. He wanted to sell the bonds for this year's delinquent taxes and settle with all units. The third was to have the audit of his county funds completed.

Of his successor, Roberta Moetteli, who was his deputy since 1977, he said, "She is a very capable person."

ALONG WITH BEING treasurer, Schweitzer continued cash crop farming through 1972, when he had Brent at home to help him.

He sold his equipment in the spring of 1973, the year Brent graduated from high school and started college.

That fall, he planted his first apple trees since he planted 30 of them in 1960.

He planted more of them each year after that and now has about 820 apple trees (15 varieties) and 80 peach trees (four varieties) on about 9 acres. (The rest of his farmland is rented out.)

Schweitzer got started in the fruit business "as a hobby. I was interested in it. It was kind of a challenging thing."

In addition to fruit, Mr. and Mrs. Schweitzer raise and sell registered cocker spaniels.

The picking season runs from early August through October. Schweitzer, his son and four high school boys do the picking. About half the crop is sold on the farm, already picked or "pick-your-own," and the rest is sold to stores.

The rest of the year, Schweitzer keeps busy trimming the trees and spraying them to protect them against disease and insects, which he had to do on week ends before.

Schweitzer, who declines to give his age — "I'm old enough to retire." — has no intention of spending more time in the fruit business than he already does, except for possibly adding a small cider mill.

"We want to be out of business (each year) by the first of December."

Schweitzer and his wife were guests of honor at a banquet April 11 in Bad Axe, at which he received numerous plaques and gifts in appreciation of his 15 years as treasurer.

Barb Root finalist in pageant

Barbara Root, 17, daughter of Roger and Kathy Root of Cass City, was a contestant in the Miss Michigan U.S. Teen Pageant, at the Plymouth Hilton Hotel April 14.

BARBARA ROOT

Eighty-four girls ages 13-19 competed for the title of Miss Michigan U.S. Teen. Miss Root was selected as one of 12 finalists to compete for the title.

Gina Ann Lauzon of Manistique won and will compete in the national pageant in Alabama in July.

The girls were judged on poise, personality, appearance and evening gown competition.

Miss Root was sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce and the Cass City Jaycees and Jaycettes.

O-G talks stall

Contract negotiating sessions were held Monday and Tuesday nights between representatives of the Owendale Gagetown School Board and the Tri-County Bargaining Association.

TCBA chief negotiator Bob Gengler said there now has been tentative agreement on all parts of the old contract that will be continued in the new one, "but neither side has agreed to anything yet" on any new proposals.

He said the board presented 24 pages of proposals to the TCBA at the five negotiating sessions held this month.

A hearing on the TCBA's unfair labor practice charge against the school board filed with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission is tentatively scheduled May 1, so Gengler didn't expect any more negotiating sessions to be held before then.

Fatiguing experience

By Mike Eliasohn

Oh goody. Maybe now I can find someone who wants my Army Vietnam jungle boots, maybe even my dress uniform. I'm sure I even have an Army shirt or two that still has the starch that was in them when I got out of the Army 14 years ago.

WJRT-TV (Channel 12) had a series of reports during its newscasts last week end describing how the military is now in fashion.

To quote one woman who appeared in the reports, "These clothes can take me anywhere from the jungle to the board room." I doubt if she was ever in the military or a corporate board room. I can't picture anyone showing up at a big corporate meeting wearing fatigues or a military jump suit.

I doubt if the military look as a fad will last as long as some military clothes do.

I marvel that my Army field jacket is at least 15 years old. I wear it a lot, and as best I can remember, I never have had to use a needle and thread on it. It doesn't even look worn.

I never will forget the time shortly after I got out of the Army and I was standing in line in the Lansing City Hall to register to vote. There were four or five of us in line -- all men and all wearing Army field jackets.

I have two green bath towels that I got in Vietnam. I use one one week and the other the next week. One looks as good as new, while the other is nearing the end of its useful existence. Both were made by the same company. I don't have an answer for why one looks new and the other doesn't.

The standard issue white towels used stateside didn't last nearly as long.

Having gone to Vietnam, I had two sets of almost everything.

Fatigues used stateside when I was in the Army from 1968-70 were made of heavy cotton. Boots were all leather except for the soles.

Before I got to Vietnam, the Army discovered that the standard fatigues weren't good there, because once they got wet -- which was often -- they took a long time to dry out, which was especially uncomfortable if the wearer had to keep wearing them. (Jungle trails, with the Vietcong heaven knows where, were a poor place to change out of wet clothes.)

For jungle duty, the Army developed lightweight fatigues which dried quickly. They also had more pockets, one on each leg, plus the conventional four, and two breast pockets on the fatigue shirt. That's a total of four more than the standard fatigues had.

I still like to wear my Vietnam fatigue shirt in summer when I'm at some outdoor event where having extra pockets comes in handy.

The Army also found in Vietnam that the standard leather boots, after walking through streams and mud, and with the high humidity, quickly rotted. They were replaced with boots with canvas sides, drainage holes, and nylon screen insoles, all designed to let the feet dry quickly in situations where the wearer couldn't take his boots off after his feet got wet. The Vietnam boots also had cleated soles for traction.

The Vietnam fatigue pants and boots (plus the shirt) would be good for backpacking and hiking, but I don't do either.

I do wear my regular Army boots when I know I am going to be standing outdoors for a long time, such as when photographing a football game.

I haven't kept track of what I've worn out since I got out of the Army, but on that glorious day in 1970, I was the owner of four pairs of combat boots (two standard and two Vietnam), four sets of fatigues (two standard and two Vietnam), two sets of tan summer dress uniforms and two sets of regular dress uniforms.

Some of the stuff I'll probably still own when I go to the great beyond.

Anyone want an Army dress uniform? With my luck, that's probably the only military clothing that isn't fashionable now.

HUB DEEP -- The Elkland Township Fire Department's grass fire truck got this far and no farther while trying to reach the grass fire south of Elmwood Road Saturday.

BROOMS, usually an effective if laborious means of extinguishing grass fires when fire trucks can't reach the scene, were ineffective Saturday afternoon because of winds that fanned the flames faster than firemen could put them out.

Bulldozer needed to quell grass fire

Fire Saturday afternoon burned about five acres of pine trees and 20 acres of grassland.

The fire was south of Elmwood Road, about 1 1/4 miles east of Cemetery Road. It was reported at 3:10 p.m.

Elkland Township firemen, aided by firemen from Gagetown, were unable to put out the fire with brooms. "It just kept jumping," said Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr.

Fire trucks couldn't get to the fire because the ground was too soft. The four-wheel-drive grass fire truck got part way before getting stuck.

The fire started in the grassy area and spread into the evergreen woods to the east.

Department of Natural Resources fire officer Dick Shevchenko came from Caro with a bulldozer and plowed a trench ahead of the flames. The fire died out when it reached the trench. The bulldozer also pulled the grass fire truck out.

Cause of the fire was undetermined, Root said. It started on the property of Eugene Nanney, who told firemen he was in his garage and spotted it when he looked outside.

Most of the fire was to the east of the Nanney property. Owner of the land where most of the fire occurred wasn't known. No one lives on it.

Firemen were at the scene almost two hours.

At 11:40 a.m. Sunday, Elkland firemen were called to the John Connolly residence on Kelly Road, east of Cemetery Road, because of a grass fire.

Sparks from a fire burning in a barrel jumped out and started the grass burning, but the owners had the fire out by the time firemen arrived.

Village park restroom vandalized

One restroom in the Lions Club pavilion that was constructed last year in the east end of the Cass City Recreation Park was vandalized during the winter.

Frank Guilds, village Department of Public Works superintendent, reported to village police April 17 that both sink drains and the urinal drain pipe were broken, plus the water valve on the urinal and the handles on the sink faucets were removed.

Outside, the covers on the two electrical outlets were broken.

Entry was gained by climbing over the top of the cement block walls under the roof. Cost of repairs wasn't immediately determined.

Bryon E. Dawson of 5305 Rossman Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies April 17 that the rear window of the car he was driving was broken between 11:30 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. that day while it was parked in the Kingston High School lot. The car is owned by his father, Lawrence Dawson.

Walbro has record quarterly earnings

Lambert E. Althaver, president and chief executive officer, Walbro Corp., has reported consolidated net sales of $17,818,972 for the first quarter, which ended March 31, up 39 percent from sales of $12,841,612 for the same period last year, and a record for quarterly earnings.

Net earnings for the period were $743,123, up 76 percent from earnings of $422,669 for the first quarter of 1983 and also a record.

Walbro's previous quarterly sales record was $16,784,029 set in the fourth quarter of 1983. The previous earnings record was $667,160, also for the fourth quarter of 1983.

Earnings per share were 64 cents for the first quarter of 1984, compared to 36 cents for the first quarter of 1983. Per share earnings were calculated on 1,168,143 shares outstanding for both periods. This represents a restatement of 1983 earnings based on a three-for-two split of Walbro common stock which occurred Aug. 31, 1983.

In announcing the first quarter results, Althaver attributed much of the increase in sales and earnings to strong demand for the company's small engine carburetors.

"Demand for Walbro diaphragm carburetors for gasoline string trimmers and float feed carburetors for outboard applications was very strong during the first quarter," he said.

"Sales of electric fuel pumps to both the automotive original equipment and aftermarket also remained at high levels during the first quarter."

"Shipments of fuel injection throttle bodies for automotive original equipment applications were slightly below planned levels in the first quarter due to delays in some new car model introductions, but are expected to increase during the second quarter," according to Althaver.

The Walbro president also pointed out that shipments of custom injection-molded plastics parts and aluminum and magnesium die castings were also at high levels in the first quarter, due to increased automotive applications for those products and the general strength of that industry.

Walbro's annual stockholders' meeting will be Monday in Cass City.

Motorist pleads 'no contest' to felonious driving

Kirk L. Michael, 22, of 4606 N. Seeger Street, Cass City, pleaded no contest to a charge of felonious driving when he appeared last Wednesday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn accepted his plea. Bond was continued and a sentencing date will be set.

Michael made the plea in a plea bargain with the prosecution, part of which calls for a charge of driving with license suspended (second offense) in connection with the felonious driving charge and some charges in district court to be dismissed.

Michael was charged in connection with a Nov. 20 accident on Cemetery Road, north of Milligan Road, in which his southbound car crossed the centerline and crashed into the northbound car of Lynn Zawilinski. He later told officers he had fallen asleep.

DISTRICT COURT

William R. Kroetsch, 28, of 3653 N. Van Dyke Road, Cass City, was sentenced Monday by Judge Richard F. Kern for impaired driving Feb. 24 in Cass City. Kroetsch pleaded guilty to the charge April 3.

He was fined $192, assessed $133 court costs and is to pay $50 to the county mental health agency. He was placed on probation for one year, is to attend the Alcohol Highway Safety Education program and his license was suspended for three months except for driving to and from work and the education program.

Douglas D. Bean, 37, of 5126 N. Decker Road, Decker, was sentenced Monday for impaired driving Feb. 15 in Indianfields

Items needed for fire dept. history

The Elkland Township Fire Department will be celebrating its 100th anniversary this October.

In preparation for the anniversary, firemen Don Finkbeiner is seeking any old records, photographs, etc., pertaining to the department. Anyone who has such items can give them to Finkbeiner at his home, 4137 Maple Street, or to any other fireman.

There probably will be an open house at the fire hall in October, he said.

The Elkland department had its beginnings as the Cass City Hose Co. and Cass City Ladder Co. in 1884, which later merged. It became a township department in 1949.

The 48-star flag served as the national flag the longest of any flag, from 1912 to 1959.

BPW club announces scholarships

Twenty-one members of the Business and Professional Women's Club and seven guests attended the dinner meeting last Wednesday evening at Ver-onica's Restaurant.

Highlight of the meeting was the announcement of the winners of the scholarships in the amount of $250 each to three members of this year's graduating class.

Recipients are Deb Parrott, who will study nursing; Renae Stimpfel, who will study to be a legal secretary, and Paula Rockwell, a business course including computers.

Deb is the daughter of Robert and Carol Parrott.
Paula is the daughter of Paul and Donna Rockwell, and Renae is the daughter of Tom and Doris Stimpfel.

Donna Stephens of Caro,
the coordinator for the March of Dimes for Caro and Cass City, was a guest.
Attending the spring district meeting April 8 at Lexington were Gloria Hartwick, Leota Anthes and Marilyn Hanselman
and the latter's daughter, Laurey.

The equalized membership of the local club for the year, 34, has been achieved.
Laurey represented the local club in the young careerist competition, the first time the club had an entry who could qualify.
The winner was from Flint and will be entered in the state contest.

The state convention will be in Flint May 18-20. Attending from the local club will be the president, Marilyn Hanselman, Marilyn Ertman, Theo Cleland and

CROP walk to raise cash

The Caro Area Council of Churches is sponsoring a CROP Walk Sunday, May 6.

This year's walk to raise money for the hungry - local and abroad - will be 10 miles through Caro and to the west and north in the countryside.

It begins at the Caro United Methodist Church, 670
Gilford Road, at 1 p.m. Refreshments will be available at several rest stops along the route.

Last year 2,159 miles were walked by 235 people.
There was $6,781 raised,
with 25 percent of it remaining for local use. This year's goal is to raise $10,000.

Those wishing to participate should call John Vaughn,
673-4459 or Paul Findlay, 673-4540, to receive a pledge packet.

Charge Brady with arson in church fire

Dennis J. Brady has been charged by the Tuscola County prosecutor's office with arson of real property in connection with the April 16 fire that heavily damaged the Caro Church of Christ.

Brady, 21, of 3124 Hurds Corner Road, Caro, waived preliminary examination in district court Tuesday on the arson and five other criminal charges and was bound over to circuit court.

Circuit court arraignment has been scheduled May 7.

Brady was first charged with two counts of breaking and entering, two of aiding and abetting a breaking and entering and one of aiding and abetting a larceny in connection with break-ins of the Church of Christ and Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Vandemark's Auto Parts, Wright Pharmacy and a house. All took place the night of the fire. The arson charge was added later.

Charged in connection with the same break-ins plus one of a camper is Kent Haag, 32, of 344 Wells Street, Caro.

Assistant Prosecutor JoEllen O'Connor said Tuesday that at this time, it isn't anticipated Haag will also be charged with arson in connection with the church fire, but it is still under consideration.

Haag was arraigned Monday by District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled preliminary examination Friday.

As of Tuesday afternoon, both men were in the county jail in lieu of bond.

CASS CITY HIGH SCHOOL'S only first place finish at the St. Louis Relays was recorded by long jumpers Lori Calka, left, and Jamie LaRoche, who display the plaque they were awarded.

Hawks fifth at St. Louis Relays

Two Cass City Red Hawk thinclads, Lori Calka and Jamie LaRoche, won first place in the long jump at the St. Louis relays Saturday.

Their effort helped Cass City girls finish 11th among 24 teams participating with 14 points. The top girls' team was Bath with 73 points.

Among the boys, Cass City finished 13th among 24 teams, also with 14 points. The top boys' team was Corunna with 66 points.

Calka jumped 16 feet, 10 inches and LaRoche, 15 feet, 5 1/2 inches for the win. In the relays the performances of the team members are added to determine the winners.

Other points earned by the girls came from the 880 relay team. Calka, LaRoche, Gilly Bryant and Jeanne Marshall posted a time of 1:57.1 that was good for fifth place.

Boys' points were earned in two events. In the distance medley relay the boys were 2nd in a time of 11:27. Running were Greg Bliss, Kevin Bliss, Kurt Bliss and Randy Jackson.

In the 8-mile relay Greg and Kevin Bliss, Del Kostanko and Brett Toner finished fifth.

Gun sports new 4-H project

A new 4-H project, shooting sports, is being started in Sanilac County.

An organizational meeting is scheduled Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sandusky Farm Bureau building.

The project is open to all youth ages 9-19, with parents encouraged to participate.

For more information contact the 4-H office at (313) 648-2515.

Robert R. Jewell grew up in the shadow of Tiger Stadium.

Born in 1932, he lived near the stadium from 1938-49. His mother and stepfather owned some parking lots used during the games. During the 1945 World Series, in which the Tigers beat the Chicago Cubs, "I was parking cars."

He saw one or two of the Tigers' 1968 World Series games. Jewell also attended the last all-star game in Tiger Stadium and has a ball used in a Tiger old timers game.

The State Street, Gagetown, resident saw a few Tiger games last year.

As for how the team will do this year, he said, "I believe there's a possibility the Tigers could go all the way if their big guns (hitters) come through and their pitching holds up."

him five years and he would have a pennant and this is the year. If he doesn't come through, he should be replaced."

The Tiger fan warned that, "Anything could happen." He recalled one year when the team won eight straight games, then lost seven before winning three games, then lost eight more.

Jewell retired at the end of last July after working 30 years for Cadillac Motor Division in Detroit.

He and his wife have six children: David, who lives in Rochester; Clifford, New Hudson; Linda O'Neil, Washington, Mich.; Robert J. and Richard, both in the Navy, and Kathleen King, San Diego, Calif.

Malpractice suit filed

Dr. Harold T. Donahue, MD, of Cass City and Hills and Dales General Hospital are defendants in a lawsuit filed last Thursday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Plaintiff is Mary Reigner of Allen Park.

The suit claims that in July, 1972, when she was 18, she entered Hills and Dales for an exploratory procedure known as a "laparotomy," during which Dr. Donahue in an attempt to cure her of ovarian cysts removed her ovaries.

The suit further claims that Ms. Reigner was not informed the procedure might result in loss of her ability to bear children and that she was informed by a physician in Allen Park last November that "alternative treatments existed in 1972 for the treatment of simple ovarian cysts and her ovaries should have been preserved."

In each of five counts, the suit asks for damages in excess of $10,000, together with interest, costs and attorney fees. Three counts name the doctor, one names the hospital and one names both.

A jury trial has been demanded.

Narrow row soybeans are becoming more popular each year and they can also fit into a no-till program.

The district will be renting a no-till drill to plant soybeans this spring into corn, soybeans, or small grain residues. This provides the benefits of narrow row soybeans with the erosion control of the previous crop residue.

For more information concerning the planting of no-till soybeans and the rental of the drill, contact the district at 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro, telephone 673-8174.

No change in March milk output

Dairy herds in Michigan produced 464 million pounds of milk during March, virtually unchanged from March, 1983, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

The average of 397,000 head was off 1.5 percent from a year earlier. Milk per cow averaged 1,170 pounds, up 20 from a year ago.

The value of milk sold in Michigan during March averaged $13.40 per hundred-weight (cwt.), down 30 cents from a year earlier. This price reflects the total value of milk at the dairy plant or receiving station before deductions are made for hauling and the dairy assessment.

Slaughter cow prices averaged $42.80 per cwt., down slightly from March, 1983. The value of grain and other concentrates fed to Michigan milk cows was $7.10 per cwt., unchanged from a year earlier.

Nationally, milk production during March totaled 11.7 billion pounds, 3 percent less than a year earlier. Production per cow averaged 1,078 pounds, 8 pounds less than March, 1983.

Total milk cows averaged 10.9 million head, down 2 percent from a year ago. Accumulated milk production during the first quarter of 1984 exceeded 34 billion pounds, down slightly from the comparable period in 1983.

Salgat dies in Saginaw area crash

Howard A. Salgat, 37, of Fairgrove, was killed in an 11:43 p.m. traffic accident last Thursday outside of Saginaw.

Buena Vista Township police reported he had exited I-75 onto E. Washington Street, pulled in front of an eastbound pickup truck and the vehicles collided.

Jaws of Life equipment had to be used to open up Salgat's smashed auto so that he could be removed. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

The driver of the pickup, Glen A. Near, 47, of Saginaw, was uninjured.

Salgat, a millwright at Saginaw Steering Gear, was on his way home from work when the collision took place. The accident remains under investigation.

He was born March 12, 1947, in Bay City, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Salgat.

Salgat married Linda Seeley Oct. 19, 1968, in Cass City. He attended the First Baptist Church in Caro. He was a member of Fairgrove Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7468 and the U.S. Naval Reserve.

Salgat is survived by his wife; three daughters, Wendy, Dawn and Jennifer, at home; his parents, of Caro; four brothers, Robbi, Jan, Todd and Kurt, all of Caro; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Sondra) Hadaway, Fairgrove, and Mrs. Keith (Yvette) Kasserman, Pigeon, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Collon Funeral Home, Caro, Rev. L.D. Grant of the First Baptist Church officiating. Burial was in Ellington Township Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the Fairgrove Township Library.

No-till helps soil erosion

Residents in Tuscola County only need to look around to see water erosion in many clean-tilled fields. This late winter and spring have also produced extensive wind erosion on many open clean-tilled fields.

Due to changes in field sizes and farming practices, soil erosion has increased in recent years and adversely affects long term soil productivity and water quality. No-till planting of crops into previous crop residues is one method of reducing their wind and water erosion.

The Tuscola County Soil Conservation District assisted landowners in 1983 in planting soybeans in undisturbed corn residue and soybean residue. The crops yielded as well as conventionally worked fields for soybeans and provided wind and water erosion protection for these fields.

Narrow row soybeans are becoming more popular each year and they can also fit into a no-till program.

The district will be renting a no-till drill to plant soybeans this spring into corn, soybeans, or small grain residues. This provides the benefits of narrow row soybeans with the erosion control of the previous crop residue.

For more information concerning the planting of no-till soybeans and the rental of the drill, contact the district at 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro, telephone 673-8174.

HEALTH TIPS
Anorexia nervosa-
the deadly diet

Anorexia nervosa, a compulsive dieting syndrome that can be fatal, appears to be quite prevalent in the United States. One in every 200 females between the ages of 12 and 18 suffers from it. Rarely are males afflicted.

Anorexia nervosa tends to occur in wealthier countries, such as the United States, striking bright, upper middle class young women who are generally high achievers. So far, scientists have been unable to identify any specific medical or psychiatric cause, according to Harper-Grace Hospitals of Detroit.

Anorexia nervosa may begin after a young woman has been involved in such stressful situations as going away to college or a parental divorce. Some are afraid of dealing with sexuality. The family is often overbearing and compulsive dieting represents a means of obtaining control and manipulating the family.

The syndrome often starts with a marginally overweight young woman who decides to diet and successfully loses weight. Then she continues to "diet" long after she has reached her ideal body weight. When her weight drops 15 percent below her ideal body weight for her age and height, she is considered anorexic.

Symptoms include a distorted body image. Anorexics picture themselves as fat when they are quite emaciated. Additional symptoms include denial of the illness, absence of menstrual periods, a decrease in food intake, an increase in physical activity and sometimes an increased interest in nutrition.

Often an anorexic will become preoccupied with food, and while not eating herself, will continually insist that those around her eat. It is not uncommon for those individuals to want to avoid any food they feel contains fat. They may consume some protein and vegetables.

Anorexia is a serious disease with a death rate of between five and 20 percent. Anorexics may induce vomiting, use diuretics and laxatives, which can result in electrolyte imbalances that can cause nutrition problems and serious damage to the body.

Anorexics can be treated, although the treatment period may extend for years. Full or temporary recovery occurs in between 50 to 75 percent of the cases. But the longer it takes for recovery, the worse the prognosis.

The first and most important step in treating an anorexic is to get the young woman to acknowledge the problem. Those unwilling to admit this are the hardest to treat. Treatment is entrusted to a psychiatrist or psychologist and physician and sometimes a nutritionist who work together to form a strong, trusting relationship with the patient.

Treatments can be on an in-patient or an out-patient basis, depending on the severity of the problem.

If a patient is severely malnourished, aggressive nutritional support will be given. This may include intravenous feeding.

Treatments vary with the patient, however, since these individuals can be very manipulative. Most medical personnel who deal with anorexics agree that firm strict guidelines are necessary for the patient to overcome the problem and begin eating normally again.

Elmwood Township
Residents seek Green Road work

Several persons attended the Elmwood Township Board meeting last Wednesday to ask the board about its plans for rebuilding two miles of Green Road between Hoppe and Bay City-Forestville Road this summer.

Proposed, according to Clerk Joanne Sattelberg, is grading, ditching, widening and some leveling in order to alleviate problems with the road drifting over with snow in winter and sometimes washing out during heavy rains.

After the proposal was explained, the residents informally voted 5-1 for the board to proceed with the project.

The next step will be for the Tuscola County Road Commission to conduct a public hearing on the project, solicit bids from contractors, then award a bid should the board decide to proceed. The township will pay the entire cost of the project, according to Supervisor Jim Turner.

In other action, the board voted to purchase approximately 6-7 acres of land adjacent to the township cemetery on the north side of Cass City Road, east of Hurds Corner Road, at a cost of $12,000.

Turner said about half the land will be used to expand the cemetery, and the rest will eventually be sold to the highest bidder.

Joan A. Sattelberg of Hurds Corner Road, daughter-in-law of the clerk, was appointed to the vacant trustee position on the board, replacing Turner, who was appointed supervisor to replace Roy Messer, who retired March 31.

The board approved petitions submitted by Ben Hobart and Keith Goslin to have roadside ditches cleaned along their property from Hoppe Road north to the drain. The township pays 75 cents per rod (16½ feet), Mrs. Sattelberg said, and the property owners pay the rest of the cost.

The township will purchase six new panels for the overhead doors in the fire hall. The village of Gagetown will later reimburse the township for half the cost.

The board decided to delay installation of a railing along the outside stairs at the village-township hall until it is known where the new sewer line will go. It was decided at the March 31 annual meeting that the railing should be installed.

Parade: Loyalty Day highlight

A parade, 50-plane flyover and a special dedication are all part of the 1984 "Loyalty Day" activities in Caro Saturday, May 5.

The event is being sponsored by Caro Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4164.

Special highlights of the day will include the unveiling of a memorial stone at the village triangle park following the parade and a 50-plane flyover under the auspices of the Civil Air Patrol.

The activities will begin with the parade forming at noon in front of the state police post near the intersection of Millwood and N. State.

The parade will begin promptly at 1 p.m. and will march through the downtown business district and turn west onto Frank Street before disbanding at the Sacred Heart Church. The dedication program will begin shortly thereafter, around 2:30 p.m.

Featured in the parade will be color guards and uniformed units representing all the military services, several state VFW officials, veterans and members of dozens of VFW and American Legion Posts from across the state, several marching bands, floats, clowns (including the Flushing VFW Clown unit), The Shriners and their mini-cars, antique autos, Scout units, several state and local officials and Sheriff's Posse. Parade marshal will be retired Air Force Major Bob Fournier.

From 1 p.m. until the dedication program begins, the Millington High School band will be performing in the triangle park, plus other entertainment. Persons or organizations wishing to participate in the parade may contact Grant Kelley at 673-3843.

Mull new tax levy in county

Tuscola County residents may be voting on a fourth of a mill tax increase this year.

The county Planning Commission has suggested such a levy, to be earmarked for a building and site fund. Tuesday, the county Board of Commissioners received a letter from the Tuscola County Farm Bureau supporting the millage.

If commissioners approve putting such a levy on the ballot and voters okay it, the money could be used for such purposes as a new office for the Cooperative Extension Service, more storage space or a new commissioners' meeting room, so the present room can be used for other purposes, according to Commissioner Royce Russell of Cass City.

The board took two actions Tuesday regarding the present courthouse. It approved the bid of Thumb Office Supply of Bad Axe and Caro for $16,325 for movable shelving in the law library being constructed in the rear of the circuit courtroom. It was the lowest bid received.

Johnson Controls was awarded a three-year contract at $2,046 per year for maintenance of heat controls in the courthouse, annex and jail. The firm had one-year contracts with the county before.

Higher rates for home health care provided by the county Health Department were approved. The charges will be $55.63 per visit by a nurse and $38.27 per visit by a home health aide.

Summer courthouse hours were set at 8 a.m.-

noon and 1-4:30 p.m. They will be in effect from May 29 through Aug. 31. Normal hours are 8:30-noon and 1-5.

The board will hold a special meeting April 30 to vote on the 1984 county equalization report.

Lift road restrictions

Spring weight restrictions have been removed on all upper Thumb roads.

KIDS AND DRUGS: A PARENT'S HANDBOOK OF DRUG ABUSE, PREVENTION AND TREATMENT by Jason D. Baron (non-fiction). Baron, a practicing physician, has written a practical guide to aid mothers and fathers in recognizing signs of drug abuse in their children. Parents are advised on how to talk to their children when there is a suspected problem and how to organize a community parent-peer group for support, discussion, and problem solving. He presents concise, unsensationalized information on drugs, which includes street names and paraphernalia. Lastly, Baron explains treatment programs, from hospitalization to group therapy.

FIRST BORN by John Katzenbach (non-fiction). It was right before Christmas, 1974. The Zeleznik family were staying at a motel in Miami. Mr. Zeleznik left his nine year old son Arnold in the motel corridor. He was gone for 90 seconds. It was the last time he saw his son alive. This is a shattering true story about a family's triumphant battle to obtain legal justice for the murder and the power of love and support in the face of overwhelming tragedy.

DESCENT FROM XANADU by Harold Robbins (fiction). Set in the most exotic locales in the world, here is a story of Judd Crane, a magnetic billionaire industrialist and a beautiful Communist doctor (and spy) who meet in his search for eternal youth. It all comes together when Judd leaves his isolated retreat to oversee the installation of a nuclear generator hidden in the heart of the Andes underground in Xanadu.

Exploration Days for 4-H June 20-22

Time is running out for 4-H members to register for Exploration Days, the annual statewide event June 20-22 at Michigan State University.

The event attracts more than 4,000 4-H members and leaders from across the state, who participate in learning activities on topics ranging from rocketry and computer programming to fine arts and animal science.

"4-H Exploration Days is a fantastic opportunity for young people ages 12 and over to participate in action learning by gaining hands-on experience in one or two areas of interest," says Judy Ratkos, coordinator of statewide 4-H events.

The event also provides 4-H'ers an opportunity to live and eat in campus residence halls for three days and get a taste of college life.

Interested 4-H members and leaders should contact their county Cooperative Extension Service office to register or for more information.

Mrs. Ray Fleenor entertained nine boys Saturday evening at a dinner and theater party in honor of Ronald Fleenor's birthday.

Learning disabilities seminar topic

The Tuscola County Suspected Child Abuse and Neglect (SCAN) team is sponsoring a one-day seminar on diagnosis and treatment of learning disabilities in children.

It will be at the Tuscola Area Skill Center, Cleaver Road, Caro, Wednesday, May 2, from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Dr. Sheldon Rapaport of Essexville, an expert in the field of learning disabilities, will present the seminar.

Registration fee is $6. The seminar is open to the public. For more information, call John Ecken or Ginny Brown at the Department of Social Services in Caro, 673-4144.

How would you like to save $8,400 on the kid's college?

The federal government assumes any family with an income under $30,000 can be subsidized with guaranteed student loans for children in college.

It works like this for each college student:

- 1) The student must be either a U.S. citizen or in process of becoming one.
- 2) He or she must be enrolled in a college or university at least as a half-time student.
- 3) Loan per student per year has a $2,500 limit for undergraduates; $5,000 for graduate students. If college expenses are less than that (which isn't likely) then the total expense is the ceiling on the loan.
- 4) Loan is made by a bank, but guaranteed by the federal government. Bank may charge a fee, which varies from bank to bank, but has a lid of five percent.
- 5) Interest rate is nine percent — but the government pays the interest until student is out of school.
- 6) Total limits per student: $12,500 for undergraduates, which amounts to five years of the maximum of $2,500 per year. $25,000 for graduate students, which amounts to $5,000 per year for a limit of five years.

Families whose income is less than $30,000 a year would be silly not to take advantage of this government hand-out.

Here's what they'd save on a child going to school for four years as an underclassman and two more years in graduate school:

- 1) Assume borrowing the limit, $2,500 each year for four years in undergraduate work. $5,000 for two years in graduate work. Total: $20,000.

- 2) As a freshman, there are six years ahead before interest is due. Six years of $2,500 that you'd have to pay 14 percent for on your mortgage or car payments. Then five years of no interest the next year, and so on for the six years (remember the last two years you can tap the government for $5,000 each year), an extra $2,500 the last two of the six.

My calculator comes up with this saving:

$7,923 saved in having no interest to pay during the six years of loans, which have finally totaled $20,000.

The savings don't stop there. For repaying there is a 10-year pay-out. But the rate is only nine percent — which is 5 percent under today's market. Since the balance is declining over this 10-year period the saving is declining each year. Call this bargain rate worth $500 to you during the pay-out.

Total savings then become:

$7,923 for interest free during school.

$500 for nine percent rather than market rate of 14 percent during payback.

That makes $8,423 Uncle Sam has handed you for Junior's college days.

Unless a family is feeling particularly noble, it would be crazy not to take advantage of this $8,423 handout.

Deputies arrest 58 in March

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies arrested 58 persons in March, eight fewer than in February.

Of the total, 34 were for traffic related offenses (11 fewer than in February), mostly for drunk driving, and four each for liquor law violations and larcenies.

Officers issued 414 traffic tickets, an increase of eight from the month before, of which 147 were for speeding, 80 for defective equipment and 35 for insurance violations.

Thirty-one appearance tickets were issued, an increase of 20, of which 16 were for purchase, possession or transporting liquor by minors and 12 for transporting or possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

The sheriff's department received 502 telephone calls in March classified as "criminal," an increase of 66 from February. The greatest number, 154, were for traffic related offenses (accidents, reckless drivers, etc.), followed by reports of vandalism, 53; larcenies, 51, and disorderly conduct, 34.

Cass City police arrested or filed charges against three persons in March for traffic related offenses and one for disorderly conduct.

Gagetown police made one arrest for a traffic offense and one for a liquor violation.

Michigan state police from the Caro post arrested 18 persons, of whom 13 were for traffic offenses.

The number of respective complaints from and accidents in area townships and villages in March were: Columbia, 5 and 0; Elkland, 15 and 2; Cass City, 46 and number of accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 9 and 1; Elmwood, 12 and 2; Kingston Township, 10 and 3; Kingston village, 2 and accidents not recorded; Koylton, 9 and 4; Novesta, 16 and 1, and Wells, 21 and 2.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bradley of Cass City.

Set distribution of free food

The Human Development Commission will conduct a surplus commodity distribution, at the following locations Friday, May 4, from 10:30-1 p.m. or until the supply is exhausted:

Cass City Recreation Park in the Lions pavilion; Caro fairgrounds, and the fairgrounds in Vassar.

Individuals must report to the distribution site in person and present their Surplus Commodity Registration Card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution themselves, may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the card is shown.

If an individual has not yet received this card, they must register at the HDC office in their county prior to the day of the distributions.

The telephone number for the HDC Office is 673-4121. Registration is by appointment only.

All households who are receiving a form of public assistance, such as ADC, General Assistance, food stamps, or SSI, are eligible to receive the commodities. Households who are not receiving any of these types of public assistance, but who have received services through HDC may also be eligible to get the commodities. Also, persons living on fixed incomes or unemployment benefits might be eligible, in accordance with federal poverty income guidelines.

The surplus commodities have been made available to the HDC by the federal government and are intended for personal consumption by low-income and needy families.

Stout faces criminal charges

Mark A. Stout, 18, of 5886 Treasurer Road, Mayville, has been charged by the Tuscola County prosecutor's office with two counts of negligent homicide in connection with an April 8 traffic accident that took the lives of Randall J. Irwin, 21, of Silverwood, and Rodney R. Sarles, 23, of Mayville.

He was arraigned Monday by District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled pre-preliminary examination April 30 and preliminary examination May 18. He set bond at $5,000 surety, which has since been posted.

Stout was driver of a pickup truck in which the two victims were passengers which went off Mayville Road into a ditch, struck a tree and then flipped over and landed on its roof.

The warrant charges Stout with being intoxicated at the time of the accident.

Conviction on the charges carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine.

O-G Senior Citizens enjoy lunch

Sixty-six members of the Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met at the Gagetown Elementary School last Thursday for a chicken dinner served by Mary McKellar and Sue Penrod.

After dinner, they went to the municipal building in Gagetown for a short informal meeting and then played euchre.

Door prizes were awarded to Mabel Ondra, Jka and Donovan Schell.

Get well cards were sent to Mary Enderle and Frank Doan, who are in Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The next meeting will be the business meeting May 3 in the St. Agatha Catholic Church parish hall. The May committee will be in charge of coffee and sandwiches. Bingo will be played.

Autopsy scheduled in death

An autopsy was to be performed this Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw on the body of a man who was found about 9 a.m. Tuesday inside an abandoned bait shop at Quanicasee.

The body has been tentatively identified, according to the Caro state police post, but his name won't be made public until next of kin are notified and positive identification is made.

The man was described as black, about 40 years old. There were no apparent signs that foul play was the cause of his death.

He was apparently found by someone who was fishing.

30th ANNUAL BUILDING & REMODELING SECTION

JERRY AND DREWANN ALLEY in front of their still under construction home. Including everything except furniture, they figure the cost will be $12 a square foot, versus at least $30 if they had hired a contractor to do all the building.

Confidence soars among builders but stable interest rates seen as

By Mike Eliasohn

In contrast to the past few years, building contractors are looking forward to this year with confidence.

Last year started the turnaround from what had been a grim time for many in the building business and this year, aided by stable interest rates and more persons with jobs, looks much better.

"The last half (of 1983) was excellent," said Tom Herron of Herron Builders.

"The first half was poor."

Herron built four homes in his Northwest Village and Northwood Estates subdivisions in the northwest corner of Cass City last year and already this year has sold three homes his firm is building.

"I can't complain so far, it's excellent," he said. Herron predicted 1984 will be the best one in probably three years.

"At this time, it looks a little better than it did last summer," said Sid Bermostly with remodeling jobs.

He added that the building business will only stay healthy "as long as interest rates don't go wild, like they're talking." If interest rates go up to 14-15 percent, Ulfsg said, "it's going to be tough."

INTEREST RATES AT So far this year, Berridge the four financial institutions in Cass City on mortgages for new homes range from 12.15 percent, with the period of the loan from 3-5 years, depending on the institution. At the end of the loan period, the loan is continued at a new interest rate.

The interest rates are the same as reported in the Chronicle's April, 1983, building section. Since then, except at the bank with the highest rate, the rates declined, apparently half a percentage point, but lately have been creeping up again.

At least one institution, the only one asked, still offers a long term mortgage, 25 years at an interest rate ridge of K & B Carpentry.

He and partner Clare Kramer last year built a few houses and additions, but made most of their living from building pole buildings and dairy barns.

"We made it through," he said of 1983. "We didn't starve, but it wasn't the greatest year ever."

So far this year, Berridge said, there have been numerous inquiries by persons contemplating building new homes and requests for estimates, so he is hopeful. "At this time, it looks a little better than it did last summer."

Don Leiterman of Leiterman Builders is also getting more inquiries concerning construction of homes. "I think more people are asking," he said.

"I think that is picking up a little, too."

"I think it's going to be a real good year," predicted Dan Ulfsg of D and D Construction. Last year was "good for us" and he continued to be busy all winter,

"If there were 28 economists laid end to end they would be pointed in 28 different directions... no one knows for sure which way interest rates will go."

of 15 percent.

Whether interest rates continue to creep up is a question mark. Some new loan programs may be in the offing, and programs differ from institution to institution, not just in interest rates — not all charge a closing fee, for instance — so it pays to shop.

Which way will interest rates go? Indications are, Shetler

Les Shetler, Mutual Savings area supervisor, quoted the president of the Federal Home Loan Bank at its recent annual meeting in Indianapolis that, "If there were 28 economists laid end to end, they would be pointed in 28 different directions." In other words, no one knows for sure which way interest rates will go.

How to select a home insulation contractor

With energy costs projected to soar unabated for at least the next 10 years, according to most experts, the wise homeowner will want to investigate how to make the family home as energy efficient as possible.

Energy conservation experts at the CertainTeed Home Institute suggest that insulation is one of the homeowner's best weapons for combating high energy bills.

While some attics can be insulated by a do-it-yourselfer in an afternoon, maximum energy savings are obtained by insulating an entire house — a procedure that can't be done by the homeowner.

Consult a "pro"

To properly insulate inaccessible areas and side walls in addition to attics, a professional home insulation contractor should be consulted.

The contractor is specially trained to determine where to add insulation, and to advise how much insulation is required to give the best return on investment in energy conservation.

The Home Institute recommends certain guidelines be followed in selecting a home insulation contractor. A good place to begin is the telephone book under "Insulation Contractors."

"Cold and Heat" or with the local insulation contractor's association.

Once the local professional insulation contractors have been identified, look for four important things any qualified professional will provide: credentials, references, written estimates and high-quality products.

To check a contractor's credentials, contact the Better Business Bureau. Local contractor associations also can be of assistance in this area.

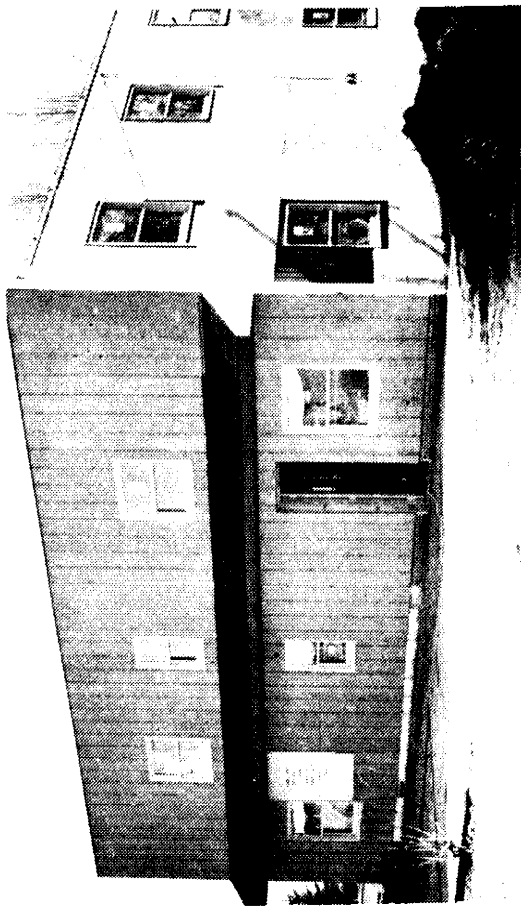

Next, ask the contractor for references. If he's well established in the community, he should have a list of satisfied customers that he would feel confident to have you contact. Talk with some of the people on the list to get their opinions of the contractor's work and honesty.

Get written estimates

Most importantly, obtain firm estimates — in writing — of the work that is to be done and the materials to be used. The easiest way to avoid disappointment and misunderstanding is to have every thing spelled out clearly before the job begins.

Several contractors should submit written estimates in order to determine the best one to work with. To properly compare them, make sure that their estimates are for comparable jobs — using the same materials, quality of workmanship and R-values.

The R-value is the measure of an insulating material's resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power.

APARTMENTS — Cass City carpenter Gary Deering bought the old garage building across from the high school in Owendale and is converting it into six two-bedroom apartments, three upstairs and three down. Construction started in mid-January.

Finish important

Many home improvement projects are over when the carpentry is done; other finishes aren't finished until the finish has been applied.

Wood moulding is an example. Applying moulding to a piece of furniture, a wall, or a ceiling, is just the mechanical part of the job. Finishing the wood moulding is the artistic part.

Choosing the finish, says the Wood Moulding and Millwork Producers Association, centers on the style of the room in which the moulding has been applied. It can range from traditional to contemporary. Among the basic finishes are:

- Opaque paint, which covers the wood completely and can be used on new wood or previously finished wood. It comes in a wide range of colors and is available as glossy, semi-gloss or flat. Paint used on new wood works best when a primer coat is applied first.

Other products that can be used to vary the look of wood moulding include bleach, primer, scuff filler and a process known as antiquing.

For more information, send 40 cents for "How to Finish Wood Mouldings" to the Wood Moulding and Millwork Producers Association, Dept. H.P., P.O. Box 25278, Portland, OR 97225.

NEW HOUSE -- This three bedroom Cape Cod under construction on Beechwood Drive will soon be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Sward.

Tips for repairing toys

Toys seem to be everywhere in homes where there are children. Whether on the stairs, at the dinner table or strewn across the most elegant of living rooms, children seem to leave a trail of toys wherever they go.

The following helpful hints give some ideas on how to take care of or repair old toys, how to make new toys out of everyday objects that you have around the house, and how to keep your children's toys safe and somewhat orderly.

- By spraying cardboard games, paper dolls and jigsaw puzzles with shellac, you can extend their life.
- Dry cornstarch works well at cleaning stuffed toys that are not washable. First rub it in, then let it stand for a while and brush it off.
- A mesh vegetable bag comes in handy when cleaning beach toys. Just gather the toys in the bag and then rinse off the sand.

- Toys and rattles can be held on to your baby's crib with snap-on plastic shower curtain hooks.

- An old, adult-size table becomes a great play table for the kids by cutting the legs off so that it's just the right height for children.

- You can make a great outdoor sandbox out of an old tractor or truck tire. But be sure that there are no sharp metal edges.

- One way of softening the blow of a swing seat that accidentally hits a child is to cover the edges of the seat with slit sections of gardening hose.

- Consider protecting the seat of a child's bike that is stored outside by covering it with a plastic shower cap.

in 1984 construction year in area, key factor in continuing recovery continued, that if interest rates decline, the price of construction will go up because of pent up demand by consumers for new homes.

With one exception, the bankers reported more persons are shopping for new home mortgages than a year ago.

AS MENTIONED, FOUR homes were built in Cass City last year, at an average cost of $38,250 per home, according to village zoning permits. That contrasts with three built in 1982, at an average cost of $46,700, and three in 1981, at an average of $56,000. The peak year was in 1972, when 16 homes were built in the village.

In Tuscola County, permits were taken out for 68 homes last year, according to the building codes department, which was the first increase over the previous year since 1978, when 226 homes were constructed. There were 40 homes built in 1982.

The average cost of the new homes built last year was $46,065, compared to $58,535 the previous year.

The total estimated value of all the new homes built last year was $3.13 million, an increase of 34 percent from 1982.

Permits were also taken out at the county office last year for 100 mobile and modular homes, an increase of 15 (total estimated value, $1.53 million); 33 commercial additions, an increase of 11 (total value $1.05 million, three times what it was the year before); 16 commercial and industrial buildings, an increase of five, (total value, $1.82 million), and 394 miscellaneous construction (total value $2.26 million), an increase of 68.

THE BIGGEST PROJECT locally, started last year, was construction of the 13,000 square foot addition to the Walbro engineering building on Garfield Street. Now almost done, it will house headquarters of offices and engineering facilities for the Carburetor Group. Estimated cost of the project, according to the building permit, is $316,122.

The next biggest project last year was additional space for hogs at the Michigan Live Stock Exchange at M-53 and M-81, at a cost of about $100,000. Constructed were new pens and stacking area, two additional loading docks, office and reception area for farmers.

IN NOVESTA AND Elkland Townships (including Cass City), building permits were taken out last year for 10 homes, half of them in Novesta. The average cost was $47,025. The 10 homes are two more than 1982.

Through early April of this year, permits had been taken out in the two townships for five houses, four of them in Cass City and one in Novesta.

Last year in the area, permits were taken out for three new homes in Elkington Township and two in Elmwood Township. So far this year, permits have been taken out for two houses in Ellington, one in Novesta and one in Kingston Township.

Mobile homes, double wides and modular homes, what its manufacturers prefer to call "manufactured housing," is a usually cheaper alternative to conventionally built homes.

In Novesta and Elkland last year, permits were taken out for a total of six such structures, two more than in 1982. Permits have been issued for three so far this year.

Other projects for which permits were taken out in Elkland and Novesta last year included 15 home additions, ranging in value from $600-20,108; six remodeling jobs, ranging from $500-10,000; 11 garages, from $1,880-$10,080, and seven storage buildings, from $1,152-$10,800.

Use goggles for safety

When it comes to using any hand tool safely, there is one rule that has universal importance: Wear safety goggles, says the Hand Tools Institute, an association of American and Canadian manufacturers of quality hand tools.

HTI, which conducts a continuing safety education program for consumers and for professional hand tool users, has stressed the importance of wearing safety goggles in booklets, safety flyers, audio-visual presentations and other publicity materials used to disseminate its safety message.

Each year, says the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, approximately 30,000 injuries occur from using hand tools improperly; a significant portion of these injuries could have been prevented by wearing eye protection.

For safety's sake

HTI warns that goggles should be worn at all times when using hand tools. There are few occasions when safety goggles may not be needed, but switching to different tools during a particular project may pose potential hazards to eyes.

Take, for instance, an unlucky do-it-yourselfer who uses a brick chisel with a mushroomed striking surface to cut bricks for an outdoor barbecue.

The mushroomed striking surface can chip and send off dangerous projectiles or particles of brick may fly into the air when striking the cutting blow.

In any situation there are a multitude of reasons to wear safety goggles, according to HTI.

Easy to do it yourself

Insulation saves in summer, too

Hoffman illustrates the simplicity of do-it-yourself attic insulation by pointing out that "the average size attic can easily be insulated by a man or woman in a single afternoon."

He can recommend where to insulate and how much insulation should be used to produce the greatest dollar savings in energy conservation.

If you want to completely insulate your home, it's wise to consult a professional insulation contractor who can insulate those areas inaccessible to the do-it-yourselfer, including the sidewalls.

Most people associate home insulation with icy winds, shivering temperatures and blowing snow. However, many homeowners are not aware that fiberglass insulation is a year-round worker, not only sealing in warm air and the cold out, but keeping cool air in and hot air out during the air conditioning season.

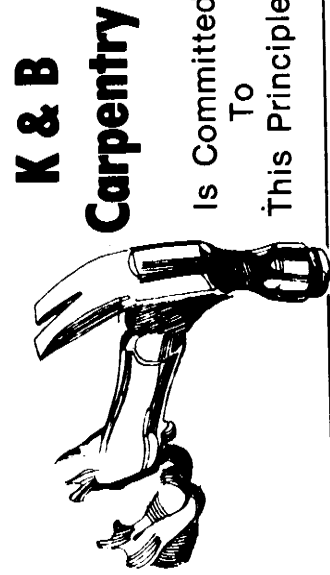

"Just as winter heating bills continue making ever larger dents in budgets, so will electricity and air conditioning costs. Proper insulation will make your home more comfortable in the summer and help reduce your energy bills," he said. "Exact savings will vary depending upon where you live in the country and the thermal condition of your home, but an insulated home provides savings for the homeowner year in and year out — year 'round."

Easy and sensible

Interestingly, insulating the attic to let insulation work during the summer and winter is not difficult or particularly time-consuming. Millions of homeowners have discovered just how easy and sensible it is

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY'S HEALTH

Sebewaing

There are several low cost ways to revamp, modernize your kitchen space and help direct the flow of traffic without disrupting the kitchen working core.

- The kitchen's work lights can make a difference in the mood of the room. Try installing track lights

It's time to take a new look at your assets, advise experts at the Water Quality Association who suggest these clever kitchen perks:

- Brush up your cabinets with a different colored paint to transform the look of the room. Knock out ugly cupboard door panels from top cabinets to reveal large serving pieces, or remove doors from bottom cabinets and staple chicken wire over openings to display vegetables in colorful baskets or bins.

Whatever the activity, kitchens can have problems begging for solutions, especially those saddled with awkward counter space, dingy lighting, protruding appliances and a traffic pattern that cuts through the center of a room.

Today, you don't have to rip it all out and do it over if your kitchen lacks charm and function. The homeowner can solve any problem handsily with costwise cover-ups and a little ingenuity for a truly winning room.

with a home drinking water unit.

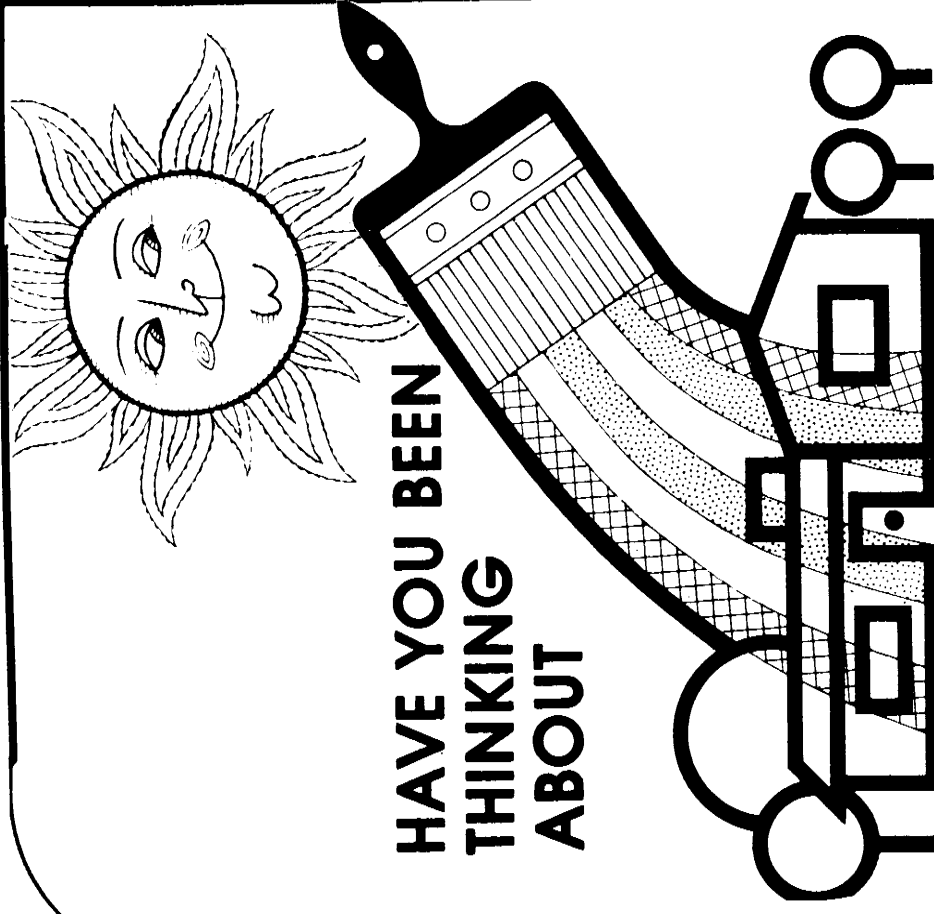

- To separate food preparation and cooking from family activity, add a free-standing island which will provide generous work

SKYLIGHTS FOR WINDOWLESS BATHS

Many of today's baths are built without windows or adequate ventilation. If this is the case in your home, remedy the problem — without major remodeling — by installing a ventilating skylight.

A ventilating skylight, according to APC Corporation, a leading manufacturer of skylights, not only lets in lots of daylight, but produces a chimney effect when opened that exhausts warm stale air and humidity.

Passive solar heat can save money

Depending on where you live, says the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, passive solar energy can supply between 30 and 80 percent of your home's heating needs.

Unlike active solar, a passive system works without the need of rooftop panels or mechanical devices, relying instead on site location and ordinary building materials to capture the solar heat, store it, and distribute it by radiation, convection and conduction.

South-facing windows and patio doors — usually double glazed — collect the solar energy, the floors and interior walls store it and the normal flow of air distributes the heat throughout the house.

The amount of money saved depends on the use of such energy-saving techniques as good weatherstripping, caulking, wall, ceiling and floor insulation, and well-made windows that fit snugly.

Well-made windows should be made of wood, because wood is a natural insulator, and they should have built-in weatherstripping.

Weatherstripping seals out the cold, reducing heat loss due to air infiltration to a minimum. Wood does not conduct heat and therefore requires no thermal break. Energy-efficient windows are also double glazed — two panes of glass with an air space between them — because it is much more efficient at reducing heat loss through the glass than single-pane glass. The second pane can be removable or incorporated directly into the sash at the factory. Hardware is also important. It ensures a tight, energy-saving fit, while allowing the window to open and close smoothly and quietly.

Finally, advises NWWA, consider some type of interior window covering. Insulating drapes or shades, sliding or hinged panels, or shutters made of rigid insulation covered with wood or fabric can greatly reduce night time heat loss. Additional information on passive solar heat is in the 16-page booklet, "Passive Solar: Using Windows and Patio Doors to Cut Fuel Bills." To get a copy, send $0.50 to NWWA, c/o SR&A, 355 Lexington Ave., New York, NY 10017.

When we hear of the latest technology, it usually brings to mind computers, the space shuttle, or communications satellites. In housing, however, one area of the latest technology is simply an update of an ancient process — passive solar energy.

The Greek philosopher, Socrates, described the design of a solar heated home over 2,000 years ago. Centuries ago, the cliff-dwelling American Indians of the southwest lived comfortably, winter and summer, in CARBURETOR GROUP offices and engineering facilities will be located in this 13,000 square feet addition to what had been the Walbro engineering building on Garfield Street. Estimated cost was $316,122. It should be completed in about a month.

Insulation tax credit fact sheet

PRODUCTS COVERED: The credit applies to fiber glass batts and blankets, as well as other types of attic or sidewall insulation; caulking; weather stripping; storm windows and doors; thermal windows and doors; modified flue openings; automatic furnace ignition systems; clock thermostats; and other energy conservation products.

APPLICABLE DATES: To qualify, products must have been purchased and installed between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985.

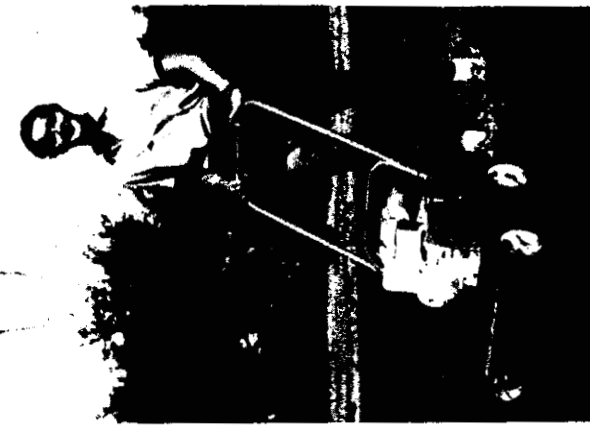

DWELLINGS: The products must have been placed in a principal place of residence, whether it be a single family home, condominium or co-operative. Renters (as well as owners) are eligible for the tax credit, as long as they pay for the insulation themselves. Vacation homes are excluded.

AMOUNT OF CREDIT: The credit equals 15 percent of the first $2,000 invested, up to a maximum of $300. (This investment refers to materials, and labor costs of a contractor.) The credit is subtracted from the final amount of your Federal tax liability. It is not a deduction, but a credit off the bottom line.

COMPLETION DATE: The dwelling in which the products are installed must have been built prior to April 20, 1977.

For more information, consult your local Internal Revenue Service office, or write to the Certified Home Institute, P. O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482, for a free brochure which explains the tax credit in more detail.

All roads lead to romance...

In Biltmore House, the glamour, beauty of days gone by

By HELEN KLEIN

The rich have always been the subject of scrutiny, of a curiosity so voracious that no other people — except royalty — could begin to satisfy it.

The desire to observe how the upper crust live is very strong — thus, the fashionable rich make headlines in newspapers across the country, and their parties, what they wear, what they eat, and where they live, are the meat which make up a diet equivalent to nectar and ambrosia for the closely-observing onlookers: all the rest of us, in fact.

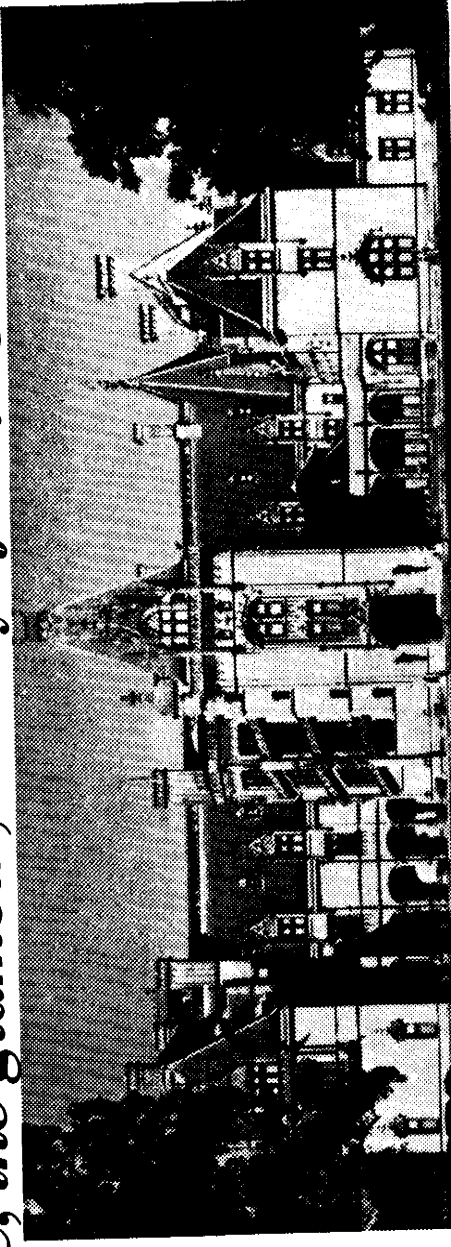

The glitter and glamour clothing the lives of the rich is nowhere more apparent than at Biltmore House, in Asheville, N.C., a massive and elegant survival from an earlier epoch which enshrined leisure and gentility and provided for their pursuit an arena virtually unmatched in this country and this continent.

Built as a summer retreat for George W. Vanderbilt in 1895, Biltmore House contains 255 rooms and is the crown jewel set in an estate which rambles over 10,000 country acres, an enclave surrounded by the rugged beauty of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The house itself is astounding — exquisite both inside and out. It is an anthology in stone of the famous and traditional features of the Chateaux which punctuate the French countryside.

The resulting structure provides both variety and cohesiveness — it seems to work, in the very best sense of the word — despite the sometimes disparate elements.

Its luxury is unquestionable and, for the time in which it was built, virtually unequalled. Bath fixtures, kitchens, swimming pool, a bowling alley, are just a few of the features which bring this quintessential 19th century building into the 20th century. And, needless to say, as a touristic attraction, it is dynamic.

THE EXQUISITE EXTERIOR of Biltmore House, in Asheville, N.C., is reminiscent of a French chateau, with its wealth of intricate details, graceful architectural features.

The approach to Biltmore House, along with winding roads which crisscross the estate, allows the excitement to build. But, no expectation can prepare the visitor for the first view of this extraordinary house, rising in the distance like a fairy tale come to life.

Closer inspection reinforces this reaction — the wealth of delicate details and tracery on Biltmore's exterior is like the finest laces or brocades, a fabric delicate yet enduring, exquisite and refined.

Architectural details such as mansard roofs, arches, neo-Gothic windows, add to the sense of richness, the feeling of tradition, of Europe-in-America, the Renaissance reinterpreted in the lavish idiom of the 1890s.

Within, there is more of the same: elaborate wood-carved walls, room after room filled with priceless antiques, luxuriant plants flourishing in the sunlight filtering into the sky-lit Palm Court, an oasis of clarity in this house, with its myriad of details.

Of particular note is the Library, where a spiral staircase leads up to a second landing and more walls of books, the entirety domed by a frescoed ceiling, the oversized fireplace a focal point of a room that is at once public and personal, reflective of a taste nurtured in the most demanding school.

There are gardens for all seasons except winter — spring, summer and fall each enjoy characteristic displays in a profusion which would be uncharacteristic anywhere but Biltmore, where the gardener's art reaches a pitch which Nature in her wildest rapture could not have imagined.

The beauty of Biltmore House and Gardens is unique, breathtaking and, ultimately, intensely moving; its poignancy derives from the fact of its uniqueness, from the fact that it represents something which is past, an era which is gone, a precious, fragile — yet enduring — moment in time.

The gardens and lands are as impressive

NOT SIMPLY A LOT OF HOT AIR

Whether you're building or buying a new home or upgrading your existing home, the quality of the ductwork is critical to how energy efficient your home will be.

If your house uses central air conditioning or a forced air heating system, the Thermal Insulation Manufacturers Association advises you to look for fiberglass ductwork. Unlike uninsulated metal ducts, fiber glass duct systems are self-insulating, noiseless and condensation free.

$100,000 ADDITION was constructed at the Michigan Live Stock Exchange last year to accommodate more hogs. Two loading docks were added at left (Three were there before) and an office and reception area for farmers at right, plus more pens and a stacking area.

Install skylights to reap benefits of free daylight

Homeowners concerned about the high cost of electricity sometimes forget a source of energy that is both plentiful and free — daylight.

A P.C. Corporation of Hawthorne, N.J., points out that "even in the cloudiest regions of the northern U.S., there is ample daylight available."

A simple and relatively inexpensive way to take advantage of this daylight is with skylights. Once they are installed, says the leading manufacturer of skylights, you continue to reap the benefits of free daylight year after year.

The aesthetic justifications for the use of skylights and the light they produce are several:

- Daylight varies, thus adding visual interest to interiors;
- Daylight limits the problems of glare, reflection and harsh shadows associated with artificial light;

- And, daylight has color that is more pleasing and relaxing to the eye than artificial light.

Another advantage with skylights is that they can be used as a source of free heat as well as light by incorporating the principles of passive solar. The heat of sunlight passing through a south-facing skylight is trapped behind double-domed acrylic glazing. Consider skylights that ventilate as well as provide lots of natural light. Especially appropriate in kitchens and baths, a ventilating skylight releases warm, moist air to the outdoors while fresh air is drawn in. This can help reduce the air conditioning load.

For more information, write to APC Corp., Box 8356-M, Haledon, N.J. 07508, for a free copy of "A Selector Guide to Skylights."

Painted ceiling can be welcome design addition

- When using latex paint, paint a narrow strip around the perimeter of the ceiling. Then, fill in the center.
- When using an alkylid paint, work across the narrow area of the ceiling. Doing so will eliminate lap marks that may appear with alkylid paint. Start in a corner and paint a narrow strip two or three feet wide against the wall. Then, roll on a strip of the same width working from the unpainted area into the still wet area.
- A brush and a paint guard will make a smooth finish to the painted surface when you get to areas near the wall.
- Be sure to wash all surfaces before painting, using a mild detergent and water. If old enamel paint is still shiny, degloss it with steel wool before painting.

When searching for ways to attractively decorate your apartment — don't forget to look up! A painted ceiling is a refreshing way to perk up an architecturally dull room and add decorative color to a limited space.

The living room ceiling pictured was painted using enamel paint. This high gloss surface will add a shine to any room and will help reflect light in rooms that receive little or no natural light.

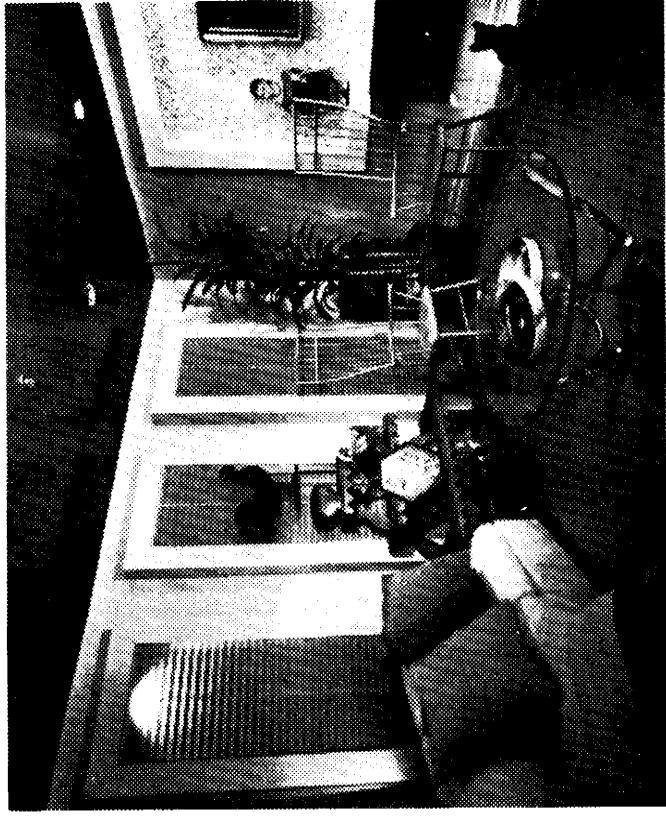

In addition to enamel paints, there are a variety of decorating techniques that make a ceiling a welcome design addition to any room in the house. Stenciling an uncomplicated pattern around the ceiling border is one way to pick up the colors in the sofa and chair fabric. Or, try one larger stencil in the ceiling center.

Another popular ceiling design idea is the addition of several closely spaced painted bands of color. Echoing colors found in the room, two or three bands will make any room look "polished."

To give a small room the feeling of space, paint the ceiling in an off white color or, in a room with colored walls, try a lighter shade of the wall color on the ceiling.

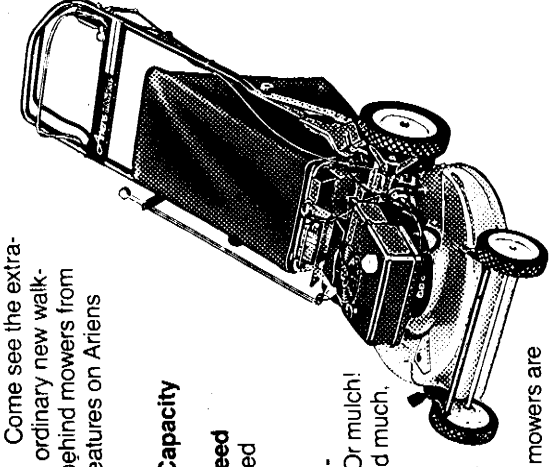

Whichever design technique you select, the following directions from the National Paint and Coatings Association, will help your next "overhead" project look even better!

- Using a paint roller for the body of the ceiling will save time and eliminate the need for standing on a ladder for long periods of time. Use brushes for hard-to-reach corners and tricky angles.

DECORATIVELY PAINTED CEILINGS add color and design to any room in the house.

With used lumber, hard work

Alleys turn tool shed into $85,000 home for $35,000 into the farmhouse in May of last year.

Their son and daughter-in-law moved in with them Sept. 1, after selling their house in Shelby Township, and started turning the shed next to his parents' house into a home.

Jerry first thought of the idea, but waited for his wife to suggest it to him, which she eventually did. "I walked in and said, 'This would make one heck of a house,'" Drewann said.

At the time they started working on it, Jerry was unemployed. He returned to work at Detroit Hoist and Crane in Sterling Heights, a manufacturer of overhead cranes for factories, in February of this year after being laid off for 1½ years.

Until he started the house, the only construction work Alley had done was some remodeling and building some small additions, "nothing major at all."

Drewann, who has never been laid off, works two miles away at Transilwrap Plastics as bookkeeper and credit manager. It is a 1½ hour drive each way between their new home and their jobs.

Sale of their home in Shelby Township, which is just north of Utica in the Detroit area.

When the older Alleys retired, they bought a 3½ acre farm on Cemetery Road, a short distance south of Deokerville Road, and moved Shelby Township, plus savings and sale of a few belongings, gave them enough money to get started on their new one and being laid off gave him the time to work on it.

THE "SECRET" TO how they are managing to build a house so cheaply in addition to doing most of the work themselves, is scrounging and going to garage sales and auctions.

Much of their new house was originally part of a school in Allen Park that was closed due to declining enrollment and was to be torn down.

Alley answered a newspaper ad from the demolition contractor, who wanted to sell the gym floor before demolishing the building.

Alley ended up not only salvaging the floor, but also 2-by-8 and 2-by-12 inch beams, windows, doors, oak baseboard trim and hand railings. "He (the contractor) said take what you want and we'll figure out the price," The man gave Alley the windows for free because he didn't think Alley could get them out without breaking the glass.

He got them out without breaking a pane. Everything Alley took out of the school, he had to remove himself.

The worst part was the 45-by-87 foot gym floor. It took him 10 days, working 10-12 hours a day, in August, when it was very hot and there was no ventilation, because the windows had been boarded over. "I thought I was going to die (because of the heat) before I got it out." What he removed will floor the entire home in maple.

The last things he took out of the school were the oak handrails for the stairs and oak baseboard (which must be stripped of paint and then varnished), which cost him 10 cents a foot, versus $3 if purchased new.

The Alleys bought two forklift skids of cabinet doors at an auction for $47.

ter falling everywhere. That's as insane as I think I ever was," Alley said.

The result of his effort was things like 250 feet of oak baseboard (which must be stripped of paint and then varnished), which cost him 10 cents a foot, versus $3 if purchased new.

The Alleys bought two forklift skids of cabinet doors at an auction for $47.

The front double pane window in their house would have cost them $900 if purchased new. They bought one second-hand remodeled from a house being remodeled for $55. A CONTRACTOR WAS hired to install the septic system, which was the first thing done, and to dig the trench around the perimeter of the dirt floor in which the footings were poured.

The Alleys hired a Cass City builder to do some of the work, including installing the footings, pouring the garage floor and building the chimney and the east wall after the original wall was ripped out. He also helped Alley install the plumbing, gave advice and obtained the building permits.

Alley built a wood floor on top of the footings, which he figured was cheaper than a concrete slab foundation. Pipes were installed under the floorboards, as well as 9 inches of loose insulation.

The gambrel roof of the structure sits on top of a 3½ foot high concrete wall, which is 2 feet thick at the base.

The hardest part of the job physically, using an air jack hammer, was cutting through that wall for the garage doors and door to the living room.

It wasn't possible to use the 90-pound hammer vertically, so it was hung from a rope. Alley's father hung on to the end of the rope to raise or lower the hammer as needed.

Alley then had to lean with all his weight against the hammer to cut through the wall, which he discovered contained rocks, steel wire, and pieces of metal. "At one time, I was contemplating (using) dynamite."

The job took him 19 hours and he was sore for days afterwards.

Charles Alley installed the particle board and paneling over the southeast end wall the builder constructed. A contractor was hired to spray on the texture in the living room and dining room.

THE ORIGINAL COR-rugated sheet metal roof was retained. Over it went particle board, then felt roofing paper and the shingles. Alley has hired someone to help him with the shingling.

The home is well insulated. There is a minimum of six inches of fiberglass and three-quarter inch foam panels everywhere. In the attic is 2 feet of loose insulation.

On the north and south sides, there is 1½ feet of dead air space between an inner wall and the outer wall, plus two layers of insulation.

A liquid propane gas heater will provide the heat, which will be circulated by hot water running through the baseboards, plus a wood burning stove in the living room. When they can afford it, Alley wants to switch to geo-thermal heat, which will pull heat out of the well water, plus solar panels.

Drew Alley, who helped her husband in various ways has her big jobs ahead of her. She will be stripping and varnishing the molding and sewing all the drapes and insulating quilts that will go over the windows.

The house is close enough to being finished that the Alleys, who have been married almost 10 years, can say that they have accomplished their goal.

"Basically, the idea was to prove the average person can do it," Jerry said, "and the average person can afford to do it a lot cheaper than they think and they shouldn't be afraid to do it."

and to have it at least "98 percent" finished by the end of August.

REAR VIEW of the home shows the second story patio deck. The four dormers (plus three on the other side) were added. Plywood has been installed over the original corrugated metal roof. Felt roofing paper and shingles will be going over the plywood.

107th Anniversary SALE

We're celebrating 107 years of business with tremendous values on quality products and name brands you can trust. Join us, along with more than 1700 Ben Franklin stores across the country, in our festival of savings!

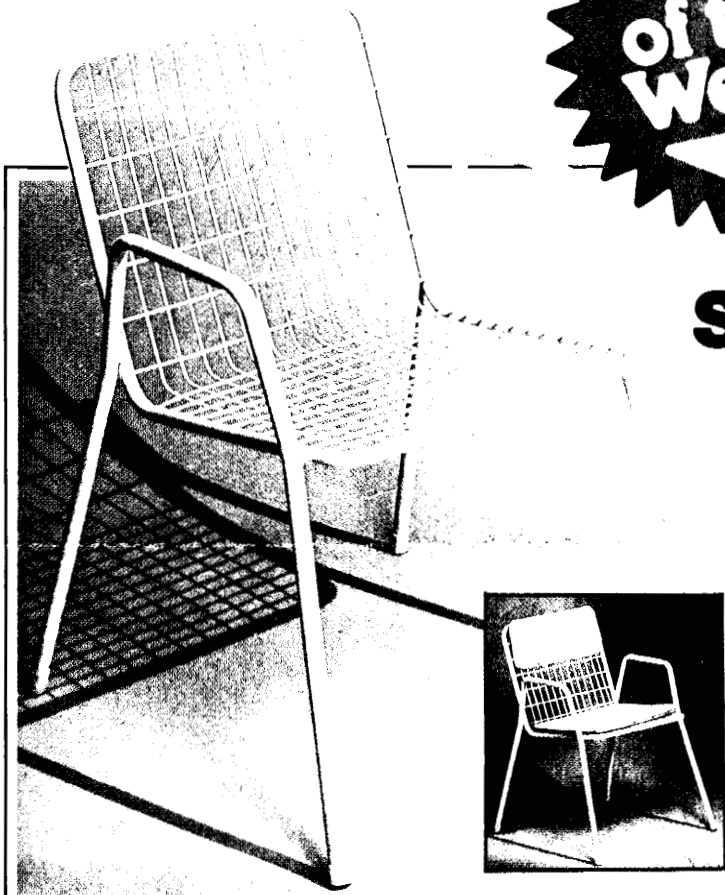

"IT IS Ben Franklin's policy to have all items in stock during the sale period. Because this circular is printed approximately 90 days prior to the sale date, there could be an unforeseen delay, or in some cases non-shipment of an item. We regret any inconvenience and will, to the best of our ability, offer a suitable substitute. We do reserve the right to limit the quantity on some items and special prices are in effect only during the sale period while quantities last."
