Rain hurts farmers, washes out roads

The reported 3-5 inches of rain that fell last Saturday and early Sunday was bad news for farmers and for roads.

"We went from dry to rather wet to extremely wet conditions," commented Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel.

The mostly seriously affected crop was dry beans, if in standing water, since it is the most sensitive to excess moisture. If it gets too hot too soon, the beans will cook.

If the soil gets baked, that would make it hard for plants to push through the crust.

Bortel predicted many bean fields that got too wet will have to be replanted.

The rain also caused hardships for farmers who still have dry beans, soybeans and corn to plant, who were already behind schedule because of the wet spring.

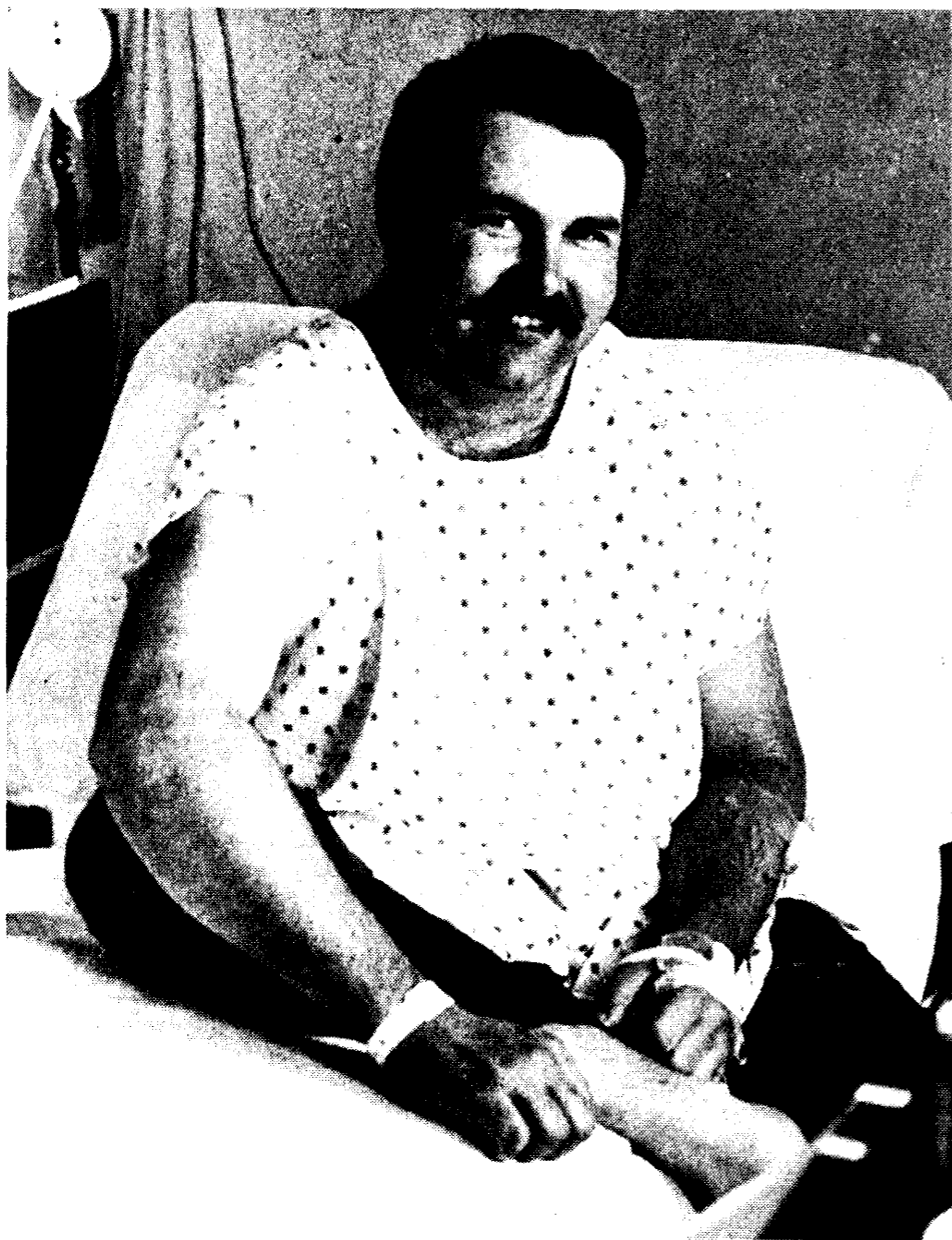

Each day of delay now means a reduced chance yet to be planted crops will have a chance to ripen before the first frost. The latest corn and soybeans can be planted with a 50 percent chance, at best, they will ripen before the frost is July 1, Bortel said. Dry beans can be planted up to July 10 and still have a 50-50 chance of ripening.

The heavy rains meant a "lot" of washouts, according to Tuscola County Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic, who didn't have a specific number available. They were scattered throughout the county, mostly dirt roads but a few asphalt ones as well.

Road Commission workers were repairing the damage Monday and Tuesday.

One casualty was the vehicle of Mathijs Arens II, 18, of Carsonville. Tuscola sheriff's deputies reported he was northbound on White Creek Road, south of Legg Road, at 1:30 a.m. Monday when his vehicle bottomed out when it hit a washout, resulting in extensive damage to the underside.

Arens said he was driving 30-35 miles per hour when he hit the washout.

KEVIN ANTHONY, SITTING ON HIS HOSPITAL BED Saturday, felt much better than when he first went there June 12. "It felt like I was inside a microwave oven," he said of his being struck by lightning. He went home Tuesday.

At Hills & Dales

Layoffs one sign of financial crunch

By Mike Eliasohn

From a business standpoint, hospitals used to be not much different than hotels. As long as most beds had someone in them, they were making money.

That still is true for hotels, but for hospitals, the longer a bed is occupied by one patient, it may mean the more money it is losing.

The rules of the game have changed, so much so that when Hills and Dales General Hospital Director of Finance Keith Adelberg was asked by the Chronicle if the hospital will be in business five years from now, he responded, "That's what employees are asking. It all depends on if we can contain costs and keep doctors here."

One sign of the changing times is that the Cass City hospital has fewer employees than it once did. Nineteen have been laid off, leaving the equivalent of 125 full-time employees. Some have been called back temporarily when the number of patients increases. Those who lost their jobs were nurses aides, licensed practical nurses and housekeepers.

Some employees who didn't lose their jobs are working fewer hours. For the fiscal year that ended March 31, the hospital lost $38,896.

A drastic change came April 1, when the federal government started a 2½ year phase-in of a new method of reimbursing hospitals for the cost of treating Medicare (elderly) patients.

It marks the latest change in the way hospitals are paid for their services.

HILLS AND DALES, like most hospitals, gets most of its revenue from three sources. During the 1983-84 fiscal year, 42 percent of its gross revenue of $5.96 million came from Medicare; 25 percent from Blue Cross, and 10 percent from Medicaid. Much of the remainder comes from other private insurance companies.

Medicaid, which pays for health care for the poor, is funded equally by the state and federal governments.

In fact, Medicare and Medicaid only pays fixed fees for services, which is less than the "costs" that Medicare and Blue Cross paid. That was an additional loss of $45,000.

THE NEWEST CHANGE, in an effort to further control insurers' costs, is what are called diagnosis related groups (DRGs). Medicare started phase-in of its DRG program April 1 and Medicaid will do the same starting Oct. 1. Blue Cross has a pilot DRG project underway at selected hospitals and presumably will implement such a program statewide.

The Medicare and Medicaid DRG programs will be in effect nationwide. Patients insured by Medicare or Medicaid will be

But as hospital costs escalated, they changed their method of reimbursement. They now pay on the basis of "costs," rather than "charges."

If they all paid on the basis of charges, Adelberg explained, Hills and Dales would have had a profit of $460,000 in 1983-84, rather than a loss.

IN SIMPLE TERMS, the insurers are now saying what they will pay for and how much, which doesn't reflect the total cost of running the hospital.

For instance, Hills and Dales' malpractice insurance premium last year was $36,082. Medicare, which represents 42 percent of the hospital's business, previously would have paid 42 percent of that premium. Now it only pays 5.1 percent.

Medicaid puts a limit on how much of inflationary cost increases it will absorb. Hills and Dales' costs went up 5.8 percent last year, Adelberg said, which was less than the national average for hospitals, but Medicaid only paid on the basis of a 5.5 percent increase. That meant a loss of $37,000 in reimbursements.

Twice a survivor

Anthony survives bout with lightning

If Kevin Anthony were a cat, he would have seven lives left.

He has been struck by lightning twice and is still around to tell about it.

The last time was Tuesday, June 12, shortly after 8 p.m.

The Spencer Road, Ubyly, resident was in the process of connecting the antenna wire to his television when the 30-foot antenna tower outside was struck by lightning.

Anthony, 30, had a jackknife in his right hand and was holding the wire in his left. His hands were about six inches apart. "I could watch the arc," he said. It spanned the gap between his hands and exited through his left knee and right foot.

That wasn't all it did. "I remember flying over the chair and hitting the fireplace. It was a thrill." The bolt of electricity threw Anthony about 10 feet, and "If the fireplace was not there, I think I would have gone outside."

While flying through the air, his daughter, Michelle, 4, got tangled in his legs. "That part I don't remember."

His wife, Jean, was in the kitchen, with their son, Christopher, 2, when the lightning struck.

Contrary to myth, lightning does strike twice. Moments later, a second bolt struck.

FOR ANTHONY, WHO was conscious through his ordeal, "The only part that scared me was the first five or 10 minutes. I didn't know if I was having a heart attack or not. I couldn't even get off the floor."

Fortunately, he didn't have a heart attack. His pain subsided, but didn't go away. (His doctor has told him the electric shock expanded his heart, which causes pressure that he feels. The heart is being treated with drugs.)

Being struck by lightning was only the start of his ordeal. His wife called his brother's wife, who called for an ambulance.

The Cass City ambulance was dispatched, but on the way to the fire hall, the emergency medical technician who was to go on the run was in an accident. The ambulance went to that accident.

The Ubyly ambulance was then dispatched. It was about 40 minutes from the time Anthony was struck by lightning until it arrived and took him to Hills and Dales General Hospital. The ambulance crew took his blood pressure and told him it was "past stroke level."

ANTHONY WAS DISCHARGED from the hospital Tuesday and now must spend a couple of weeks at home recuperating before he can return to work. He spoke to the Chronicle from his hospital bed Saturday.

By then, he still had chest pains and he was connected to a heart monitor. His other injuries consisted of what he called welder's burn to his eyes from seeing the intensely bright arc and a slight burn to his knee where the lightning exited. "I figured I'd lose my toes (from where the arc also exited), but they're still there."

Anthony does plumbing, heating and electrical work for Peruski Hardware in Ubyly, is co-owner with his brother, Kim, of Anthony's Party Shoppe on M-53, south of M-81, so works there part-time, and also feeds some cattle.

As an electrician, among other things, Anthony knows enough not to connect an antenna to a television during a lightning storm.

The irony was there

More jobs in Tuscola County is job of new development director

First of two parts

Lydia Wielenga's job is jobs.

As the first director of the Tuscola County Economic Development Corp. -- she started March 26 -- "Our main goal is to get jobs into the county."

That means such things as working to keep businesses here, helping them expand and developing new ones, aiding commercial development and promoting tourism.

She recently met with Cass City Retail Committee members to explore ideas for Cass City's downtown.

Kingston merchants are also interested in downtown improvements, she said, and Carol is exploring establishment of a downtown development authority (DDA) to finance downtown improvements. Vassar already has a DDA.

For Miss Wielenga, whose background includes downtown development, such improvements can have a double benefit.

The obvious one is the benefits to merchants if a better downtown means more shoppers.

In addition, an attractive downtown can be an incentive for tourists to stop.

Compared to the shoreline areas that Huron and Sanilac County have, Tuscola County seemingly doesn't have much to offer tourists, "but we have the roads that lead to those (shoreline) communities."

"They're all nice small communities," she said of the towns in Tuscola County, and people from the big cities like to stop in small towns.

"We don't have the beaches, but they (tourists) have to come back (from the beaches). We can benefit from the tourism possibilities. Tourists spend money, that's a fact, and dollars make jobs."

Farms which offer bed and breakfast and pick-your-own fruit and vegetable farms are possibilities for attracting tourists.

Miss Wielenga may be working with the EDC directors in Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties on a tourism marketing plan for the Thumb, and also on promoting business and industry. "One of the things fairly clear is that as a county, it's hard to do marketing and have an impact."

ALTHOUGH HER JOB is to promote Tuscola County, she commented,

"If we get a business in the county, that helps the whole Thumb," so that works for other counties as well.

"One thing we have to get over is competition (between communities)," she continued. "I think there is a growing understanding what helps one helps all."

An example of such cooperation, is the call she received from the Sanilac economic development director. An industry in that county needed an already existing building for quick expansion and there wasn't one suitable in Sanilac, so she is working with the firm to find a suitable building in Tuscola.

She is compiling a list of vacant industrial buildings and building sites in the county. The Michigan Department of Commerce wants that done for all counties with the goal of entering all such information on a computer.

Most promising avenues for industrial expansion, Miss Wielenga said, are auto parts suppliers -- Tuscola being close enough to auto manufacturers who want parts delivered "just in time," to avoid warehousing costs -- and ones that make use of the area's agricultural resources.

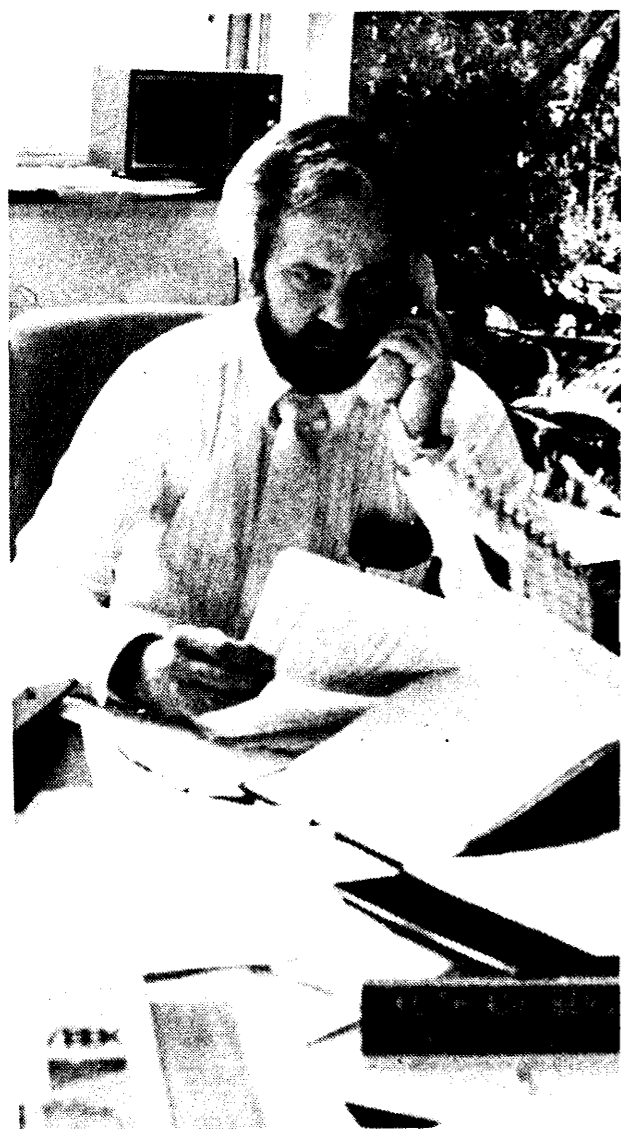

One of her tasks is to serve as a clearing house for businesses seeking information about obtaining and whom to contact to

DOWN THE HOLE -- All the water in the back yard at the Robert and Lillie Adams home at the corner of Church and Oak Streets had to go some place. Mrs. Adams stands by the sinkhole that was created in their back yard Sunday morning. It measures about 10 feet across and six feet deep. Possibly a cistern was located there.

HILLS AND DALES General Hospital Director of Finance Keith Adelberg often has financial reports piled on his desk as he keeps track of whether the hospital is running in the red or black.

Mrs. Edward Stoutenburg

Trinity United Methodist Church was the scene of a candlelight wedding service Saturday, May 19, at seven o'clock when Susan E. Knight, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Knight of Cass City and David Knight of Caro, became the bride of Edward J. Stoutenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stoutenburg of Cass City.

Rev. James R. McCallum officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Tim Knight of East Lansing, the bride wore a gown with a high neckline and long sheer bishop sleeves. The fitted bodice featured a Schiffler embroidered yoke with Chantilly lace ruffles falling over the shoulders.

The gently shaped A-line skirt and semi-cathedral train of chiffon were touched with tiers of Chantilly lace ruffles. A matching wreath of flowers held her fingertip veil secure. She carried her mother's white Bible covered with an orchid and two sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor was Karen Brown of Grand Rapids, friend of the bride. Maid of honor was Kim Witherspoon of Ypsilanti, friend of the bride, and bridesmaids were Elaine Stoutenburg of Canton, sister of the groom, and Julie Fishman of Bloomfield Hills, friend of the bride.

Their floor-length gowns of chiffon over taffeta featured dropped shoulders trimmed with lace and tiny ribbon bows. The full skirts ended in a ruffle of the same material. Each gown was a different color, blue, lavender, yellow and pink. The wreaths they wore were identical to the bride's. They carried lighted brass hurricane lamps decorated with daisy mums, greens and ribbon streamers to match their gowns.

Flower girl was Heather Brown and Jackie Mikula of East Lansing was candlelighter.

Best man was Skip Speirs, friend of the groom, and groomsmen were Earene Stoutenburg, brother of the groom, Dave Heacock and Jerry Langmaid, friends of the groom.

Ushers were Joel Eaton of Farmington Hills, cousin of the bride, and Scott Miller, Cass City, cousin of the groom.

Helen and Don Green leaf, cousins of the bride, were pianist and organist and Lewis Tibbits of Sebawaing sang "A Wedding Prayer," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Knight chose a floor-length gown of light blue crepe with a jacket of deeper blue lace. The groom's mother wore the same shade of blue with a sleeveless lace coat. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony, the newlywed couple greeted friends and relatives at a reception at the Novesta Church of Christ. The decorated cake was made by the groom's cousin, Mrs. Art Caister.

The groom attended Kirtland Community College and is now employed at Walbro Engineering. The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in education.

After a wedding trip through northern Michigan and Canada, they are making their home in Cass City.

There's no use waiting any longer for the Chamber of Commerce to plant flowers in front of buildings on the main stem.

The Chamber isn't doing it this year as it has in the past. It would be great if the plots that need it get a little tender loving care.

The cost is small and it does help make Cass City a more pleasant place to shop.

It has been a fouled up year weather wise. Sunday there was more water in the Cass River than it usually gets in the spring. It rained so hard that ditches were filled. The water flowed over the number 2 tee at Rolling Hills and uprooted the markers and sent them spinning along on the tide.

Actually the water did very little damage on the course. Nothing compared with what the vandals accomplished the previous week.

Idle thought. One of these years the real heroes of the annual Harold Isard Open played at Rolling Hills will be pictured, instead of the tourney winners.

They are the women who each year volunteer to fix the goodies that the players devour after the round is over.

Some of them have been at it every year since the event began.

No way will I try to name them. Suppose I missed one? Oh, woe!

There has been progress since the last July 4 Festival. You'll find it all detailed in the special sections coming your way next week.

If out of area friends are interested in Cass City they will enjoy this annual progress report. Make a note to send them a copy.

Men hospitalized with serious burns

Two Sandusky men remain in the hospital with serious burn injuries as the result of a motor home explosion June 10 in Evergreen Township.

Ronald Foote, 17, of 75 W. Custer Road, was in critical condition this Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, with second- and third-degree burns over 60 percent of his body.

His brother, Robert Foote Jr., 26, of 95 W. Custer, has been upgraded from critical to serious condition. He has second- and third-degree burns over 30 percent of his upper extremities.

Robert and Ronald were working on the engine of the motor home when the vehicle exploded.

They and five other family members, who were in the vehicle when it exploded, were taken to McKenzie Memorial Hospital, Sandusky. The Foote brothers were then flown by helicopter to the St. Mary's burn center.

Their father, Robert Foote Sr., 48, and mother Donna, 48, of 75 W. Custer, were admitted to McKenzie and kept overnight.

Robert Jr.'s wife Sandra, 25, and their children, Jennifer, 7, and Robert III, 5, were treated and released.

The accident occurred on Shabbona Road, a half-mile east of Decker Road at 5:15 p.m. The Footes were coming back from Frankenthum when they decided to stop to pick wild asparagus, according to Deputy Steve Lautner of the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department.

"It (the motor home) wouldn't start and they tried to fix it, and it just blew," he said.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined, and the accident is still under investigation.

Corrections

It was Kent Haag of Caro who was sentenced in Tuscola County Circuit Court for breaking and entering and larceny in a building, not Kenneth Haag as reported in last week's Chronicle.

Tammy Laurie, the newly hired home economics teacher at Owendale-Gagetown High School, graduated from Michigan State University, not Central Michigan University, as was reported.

It was Dale Smerdon, not Kevin Smerdon, on the sixth grade honor roll at Cass City Intermediate School.

"If It Fitz . . ."

So much for chic

By Jim Fitzgerald

Last Saturday night, when I went to the Menage disco in downtown Pontiac, I wore the muted plaid sport shirt with the middle button missing that I'd put on when I got up that morning to rearrange furniture. The fashion statement I wanted to make was that my wife gets angry when I dirty more than one shirt in one day.

Over and below the shirt I wore the navy jacket and blah-beige trousers I often wear to summer funerals. My intention was to appear dull enough to be denied admittance to Menage. But I did want Menage management to realize that I own a spiffy blue pin-striped suit, so I told my son Nerd to put it on and come with me.

Nerd is three inches taller than his father and 20 pounds skinnier. He used a safety pin to keep the too-short pants from falling over his feet, upon which he wore sandals that showed his big toes to their best advantage. His arms stuck so far out of the coat sleeves that he appeared to be carrying two white brooms. His shirt was blatant Hawaiian.

It was at the behest of several editors that I visited Menage, which is not my type of saloon. They lightheartedly suggested it would make a funny column if I tried to get inside but couldn't. I went along with the idea because I used to be an editor and I remember how I pouted when a reporter failed to realize that my lighthearted suggestion was actually a direct order.

Glitz, hey-look-at-me places like Menage should be left to gossip columnists, and I'm lousy at gossip. I'll give you a great example. Several weeks ago, at his request, I visited with the husband involved in Oakland County's most notorious divorce case. He wanted me to know he is a responsible, successful, self-made businessman. Which he surely is.

But he also wanted me to know that once he asked his wife what she contributed to their partnership in return for all the riches he lavished upon her. And she said she was the most beautiful woman in the world and he should be grateful to have such a breathtaking "ornament on his arm."

"She didn't mention that she looks good because I bought her a new nose, a new chin and new breasts," the husband said.

How's that for juicy gossip? But I couldn't print it with names and addresses without first giving the wife a chance to deny her husband's charges. And I am constitutionally unable to ask a woman if her nose, chin and breasts are true or false. What business is it of mine?

Anyway, my Saturday Night Plot at Menage was to be turned away because my clothes were too dull or because my son's were too Salvation Army. Richard Rollins, a co-owner, has recently gained the Menage much publicity by insisting that only dazzlingly dressed customers be allowed inside. Don't you believe it.

Nerd and I were welcomed, and so was everyone else. No one was rejected during the three hours we were there, and 99 percent of the customers were dressed for a Kiwanis picnic or the senior prom. The wildest thing I saw was "a well-known stockbroker" in tennish shorts.

Richard Rollins was nowhere to be seen and, before leaving, I asked why. Gary Fried, another co-owner, said Rollins "is home where he belongs." Fried said business has been hurt by Rollins' snobby tongue, and he was almost not kidding when he said the only one who should be barred from the Menage is Rollins.

So there you are. On me, my clothes aren't dull enough to be rejected by the Menage, and on my overgrown son, they're not Garage Sale enough. And I would have enjoyed Menage, which is spacious, attractive and friendly, if it weren't for the never-ceasing, always-blasting disco music that makes talking impossible. I like soft jazz and quiet conversation.

So, on the way home, Nerd and I stopped at the scruffy little Club 101 in the old Tuller building in downtown Detroit to hear the marvelous Kris Lynn sing better than Nancy Wilson. We apologized for our fashion statement.

Walbro given contract for military parts

The Walbro Automotive Products Group in Caro has received a contract to provide $76,132 worth of electric fuel pumps for the U.S. military services.

The firm was awarded the contract by the Defense Construction Supply Center (DCSC) of Columbus, Ohio.

With an inventory of over 385,000 items, the center last year bought over $992 million worth of items for the military.

The Haire Net

One of the reasons that employees are striking Detroit Edison is because the utility wants to make changes in health benefits. Edison wants the worker to pay part of any increase in costs for health care insurance.

Lee Iacocca says that Chrysler needs relief from health care benefits. The union says that health benefits are sacrosanct, not to be touched and so it goes.

Health insurance has skyrocketed past the ability of many individuals to pay for it and been a cost factor that has driven smaller businesses to the wall.

I suppose that if you have a secure job with 25 years or so seniority, demanding full health care is to your advantage.

There may be a few indirect results that hurt a little for even the veteran employee. If a younger member of the family is looking for a job, benefit packages may be keeping him on the outside looking in.

Industry is choosing to pay overtime rather than hiring extra persons. It's cheaper to pay overtime than it is to pay benefits for an additional employee. Even for the fully covered employee these insurance programs aren't free. Every hospital must collect its costs.

That brings us to the area that really is driving costs up the wall. It's to the medical industry's advantage to provide as much health service as can be wrung out of every case covered by insurance.

According to one report I read, now that second opinions are covered for elective surgery the number of cases has decreased markedly. It's against human nature to expect physicians to worry about cutting costs when it's their income that feels the squeeze.

By far the biggest abusers of the insurance system are the users. Just because it's "free" they use it time after time when they could get by without it.

That's why a deductible on every policy is the only cost cutting device sure to reduce costs.

Sooner or later I would think it's going to be necessary to make it profitable for the user to see that health insurance is used only when it is really necessary.

The average doctor now makes about $100,000 a year and if a sane insurance policy were made mandatory for every user they might have to get by on a little less.

On the brighter side they would not have to work as hard.

THUMB NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST ON THE CORNER IN PIGEON SINCE 1895

Being on the corner in downtown Pigeon since 1895 has helped us to become a familiar bank in the upper thumb area. However, it's our people that have made Thumb National Bank and Trust the bank you've come to trust for nearly 90 years. We've tried hard to meet the growing financial needs of our customers over the years, adding new services to provide you with the highest interest rates allowable for your hard earned money, and providing you with loans when you needed them. Thumb National's people have gotten to know our customers on a first name basis in Pigeon, and are trying to get to know all our customers who bank at our Cass City branch. Stop in at our Cass City branch and say hello. They'd like to get to know you, so they can better help you with your financial needs. The people you've grown to trust, are the people at Thumb National Bank and Trust. On the corner in Pigeon since 1895, and building a strong foundation in Cass City. Member FDIC.

LYDIA WIELENGA, a native of Kalamazoo, is the new director of the Tuscola County Economic Development Corp. Her job is to work on activities that will create jobs in the county.

More jobs in Tuscola County job of development director

The EDC has authority to apply for grants, Small Business Administration loans, etc.

The EDC has authority to issue tax-free bonds to finance job creation or retention, such as for constructing new buildings, and also to finance farm and farm equipment purchases. Being tax free, they carry a lower interest rate than other forms of financing. EDC doesn't sell the bonds. The seller and the recipient of the loan funds from their sale bear the risk.

Lately, there hasn't been much activity in sale of such bonds, Miss Wielenga explained, because Congress is considering taxing the interest paid on such bonds, possibly retroactive to any sold since Jan. 1, which removes the advantage of that form of financing.

MISS WIELENGA shares a small one-room office in the Broadcast House building on Cleaver Road, Caro, with her secretary, Teresa Whitaker.

As a full-time agency, it got started with a $38,580 federal Job Training Partnership Act from the Thumb Area Employment and Training Consortium, which also gave similar grants to the EDCs or county development groups in Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties.

The initial grant expires June 30, but with only about $18,000 of it spent, Miss Wielenga hopes the remainder can be carried over into the new fiscal year, which starts July 1.

For the 1984-85 fiscal year, it has a JTPA grant pending from the consortium of $48,031, and has applied for an additional $14,794 to come from a different JTPA program.

The remaining source of revenue, an estimated $7,000 for the EDC office's first year, is from fees for issuing EDC bonds.

The EDC has a board of directors, with whom she meets once a month.

MISS WIELENGA, 29, received a bachelor's degree in landscape architecture from Michigan State University, then formed a business with a friend in her native Kalamazoo, which became involved in beautification and development of downtown Zeeland.

The firm was later consulted for other projects in Zeeland and became involved in historic preservation projects elsewhere in Michigan.

She then decided to return to school and enrolled at Western Michigan University to work on a master's degree in public administration.

Since coming to the county seat, she said, "The main thing since I'm new in the county is, I've been getting to know the people, the movers and the shakers." She has found those aren't always the persons with the titles.

"I really like it a lot," Miss Wielenga said of her new job. "It's definitely challenging and I'm glad I took it."

Next week: What the Sanilac and Huron County economic development directors are doing.

Coach Light windows damaged; items stolen from burned home

Three large windows - Coach Light Pharmacy, 6480 Main Street, were damaged, apparently by BB shots.

Owner Mike Weaver reported to Cass City police Friday morning that the 4-by-6 foot front windows were damaged since 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 12.

The holes, number unspecified in the police report, were 1-inch in diameter. Replacement cost of the windows was estimated at $200-300 each. Also damaged was a 4-by-6 inch pane of glass in an outside light.

Theft of a 6-foot wide brush cutter, valued at $600, from Hunt Construction, 4452 West Street, was reported to village police Friday afternoon.

It was taken since June 8 from an outside storage area.

Shirley Purvis of 1665 Froede Road, Deford, reported to sheriff's deputies June 12 that a rotary tiller and sewing basket and scissors were stolen during the previous two weeks, while she and her family were living elsewhere because their house had burned.

The tiller, worth $489 when new, was outside a shed. The basket and scissors were outside the burned house. The thefts were discovered June 11.

A nine and a 12-year-old boy were to meet with the juvenile diversion officer after breaking two windows in a Gagetown area home and stealing $7.75 from a truck.

The vandalism took place at the home of Lyn A. Bolzman, on Dale Road, Gagetown, while he and his wife were at work June 12. He reported the damage to sheriff's deputies at 6 p.m. that day.

A rear garage window, worth $25, and a sliding glass patio door, $100, were broken. Pry marks were found where an unsuccessful effort was made to break a door open to enter the house.

The van inside the garage was entered, the glovebox contents ransacked, and a basketball taken, which was later returned.

Investigating officers learned the two boys earlier, about 4 p.m., took $7.75 from a truck parked at Dale and Green Roads, which aided them in finding the boys.

The boys returned the money to the truck owner. One of their fathers agreed to make restitution to Bolzman and the case was turned over to the diversion officer.

Two 15-year-old boys will be petitioned into probate court, charged with breaking into video game machines at the Charmont. Owner Clare Comment reported to Cass City police June 11 that two machines were broken into during daytime business hours and $25-30 in quarters taken.

A week earlier, he also reported, other machines had been broken into and $10-15 taken. Monetary loss because of the damage from breaking into the machines was not available. The machines are owned by Arlen Bannick of Bad Axe.

Police determined who the boys were by checking with local stores to find out who had brought in large numbers of quarters.

Each boy said the other one had broken into the machines.

Cass City police arrested Patricia J. Kababik, 31, of 5095 Pringle Road, Decker, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after stopping her pickup on Main Street, just east of Woodland Avenue, at 2:15 a.m. Saturday after it was observed crossing the centerline.

She was released from the county jail later that day after posting $100 bond. District court arraignment was scheduled June 25.

Village police arrested Mark J. Mozdzen, of 6192 E. Deckerville Road, Deford, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after stopping his station wagon at 3:45 a.m. Tuesday on Schwieger Road near Milligan Road after it was observed weaving.

District court arraignment information was not immediately available.

A 12-year-old boy told Cass City police at 5:25 p.m. Sunday that he had been shot in the posterior with a BB. The boy who shot it, according to the victim, then laughed and ran into a house.

The boy with the gun, 11, told police he was aiming at a trash barrel. Police took the gun because use of air guns within village limits is a violation of village ordinance.

ron Drive told village police Monday that the right front tire on her car was cut Friday night. The tire was worth $70.

Children are needed for baby contest

Infants and toddlers are needed for the Cass City High School Class of 1986's Beautiful Baby contest.

The competition will be held in the park July 4 from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. People will pay 25 cents a vote for the most beautiful baby.

To be eligible, a child must be three and under. Parents should send a recent photo of their child to Class of '86 c/o Joe Leeson, 4669 Hospital Drive, Cass City 48726. Photos will be accepted up to July 4.

The winning child will receive a trophy. Proceeds will help pay for the junior-senior prom.

ALMOST DONE - Raising of this manhole on Sherman Street, done Monday, marked the end of construction of the sewer line extension and sewage lift station in the southeast corner of Cass City. Smoothing the cement was Karl Zawilinski. Some electrical parts, not yet delivered, must be installed, and testing and grading done before homeowners can have their homes connected to the sewer lines. Deadline for completion is July 31. Contractor for the $62,579 project is Andrew Barnes Jr.

Pedaling Around

Michelle, my belle

By Mike Eliasohn

Scenery is nice, but I think the best part of my vacation was the lunch I ate in Northport.

A nutritionist would blanch and heaven knows what a vegetarian would do. Lunch that day consisted of a third of a pound hamburger with cheese and bacon. I can't remember ever having eaten a hamburger that tasted better.

It now goes on my all-time best meal list. The best fried chicken I ever ate was at a restaurant in Three Rivers (so crispy, the crispy part was a meal in itself), the best steaks at a restaurant in Detroit and one near Phoenix, Ariz., and the best corned beef sandwich at a delicatessen in the Eastern Market in Detroit.

The next best part of my vacation was the evening I spent in my motel room in Charlevoix, reading newspapers and watching color television, two luxuries I don't normally have (a color TV and having an evening during which I don't have work to do, that is).

The TV had cable, so I watched a half-hour motor sports wrapup on ESPN and two movies on HBO. The movies were "Grease 2" (Michelle Pfeiffer, whose name I'm probably misspelling, was the best part) and "The Year of Living Dangerously."

My first stop during my tour of the northern part of the lower peninsula was Rogers City, where I visited an ex-college roommate. We hadn't seen each other in 15 years. I'm happy to say he's the one who lost the hair.

His life has changed much more than mine during the interim. He is now a doctor with a wife and three kids, the oldest of which is in kindergarten. (Are kids that age always that noisy?) As he put it, he's now domesticated.

Tom doesn't fit the stereotype of a doctor. He drives an old foreign economy car, doesn't play golf and despite living a few blocks from Lake Huron, doesn't own a boat. (His partner does, though -- call it a small yacht.) Tom's hobby is electronics. He has a satellite dish that can pick up about 100 channels, video cassette recorder and a gizmo that broadcasts many of the programs in stereo.

Television manufacturers, he told me, are starting to produce stereo TVs and within the next few years, TV stations will start broadcasting in stereo.

Now, however, some cable programs are broadcast in stereo from the home station to the satellite to the local outlet, which doesn't have the equipment to feed the transmission into homes in stereo. Tom's gizmo pulls the stereo signal from the satellite.

From Rogers City, I went to Cheboygan, Harbor Springs (to see how the 5 percent live), Petoskey, Charlevoix, Traverse City, the Leelanau Peninsula, Frankfort and Cadillac (the last two on my way home).

The prettiest town, I think, was Northport, near the tip of the Leelanau Peninsula. It is what one would call "quaint."

Traverse City had the nicest downtown, a far contrast to many cities where the downtown is dying, if not already dead.

The Traverse City, Petoskey and Harbor Springs areas have the image of prosperity and big money, a sharp contrast to the Rogers City area, where the biggest employer is the U.S. Steel Co. limestone quarry. Although the economy is a little better now, my ex-roommate told me, the unemployment rate there because of the depressed steel industry was as much as 35 percent.

July 4 will soon be here, which means it's almost time for a "knee high by the Fourth of July" photo. To get it in that week's paper, I need to take it no later than Friday, June 29.

If you have a candidate and someone willing to be in the photo, please give me a call.

Kinney pleads guilty to robbing bank in Gagetown

Ralph P. Kinney pleaded guilty in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday to a charge in connection with the March 16 armed robbery of the First of America Bank branch in Gagetown.

Kinney, 33, of 3694 Cemetery Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob while armed, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn accepted his plea and scheduled sentencing July 23. He continued to deny bond, which means Kinney will remain in the county jail.

As part of a plea bargain with the prosecution, two other charges in connection with the robbery, in which more than $1,000 was taken, will be dismissed. They are armed robbery and possession of a firearm in commission of a felony.

Kinney was captured May 2 in Fort Worth, Texas, and brought back to Michigan.

In other cases Monday: Patricia G. Grice, 41, of 5955 Bruce Street, Deford, pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana Oct. 13, 1983, in Novesta township. Her plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled July 9. Bond was continued.

As part of a plea bargain with the prosecution, a charge of delivery of marijuana Aug. 8, 1983, in Novesta Township, will be dismissed.

Karen Sue Ogden, 19, of 322 Wells Street, Caro, was sentenced to 155 days in the county jail for aiding and abetting forgery of a state warrant for $116 Oct. 29, 1983, in Caro. She was credited with 95 days served. She had pleaded guilty to the charge.

The Sept. 6, 1983, sentence of David S. Bacon, 18, of 6211 Fulton Street, Caro, was reviewed and he was then sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, with credit given for 10 days served.

He was placed on five years' probation last September for larceny in a building. He had pleaded guilty to the charge, to stealing guns from a Bond Road, Kingston Township home June 22, 1983.

DISTRICT COURT

Dale P. Doyen, 28, of 6360 Houghton Street, Cass City, pleaded guilty last Wednesday to two charges of distributing marijuana without remuneration on or about Nov. 9 and Dec. 15, both in Cass City.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and scheduled sentencing July 9.

Terry L. Wilson, 21, of 3257 Washington Street, Kingston, pleaded guilty May 22 to impaired driving April 12 in Indianfields Township.

He was sentenced Monday by Judge Kern to five days in the county jail, to be served week ends, placed on probation for one year, fined $252 and assessed $173 court costs. He is to pay $60 restitution for screening done by the probation officer.

Wilson's license was suspended for six months except for driving to and from work and treatment sessions. He is to attend an alcohol self-help group and receive counseling.

Peace Corps seeks forestry, farm helpers

The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESCC) is extending the application period for the Michigan Youth Corps an additional week through Friday.

MESCC Director S. Martin Taylor said because the final legislation for the Youth Corps has not yet passed, the program has not received the publicity that it might have. "As a result, we are extending the application process to ensure that every young person who wants to work has a chance for a Youth Corps job."

To qualify for the Youth Corps, young people must be unemployed Michigan residents, 18 to 21 years old.

Hiring preferences will be given to those from families where the principal wage earner is unemployed. In addition, older applicants will be referred to jobs before younger ones.

MESCC offices, including those in Caro, Bad Axe and Sandusky, will accept applications for the Youth Corps program during normal weekday working hours from 8:15 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Motorcycle rider injured in crash

A motorcycle rider was injured in a 7:40 p.m. accident Monday south of Cass City.

Reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital was Basil G. Taylor, 70, of 2615 Kingston Road, Kingston.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was turning right from northbound Cemetery Road onto Kelly Road when Susan V. Rosinski, 26, of 4281 Ale Street, who was behind him, also started to turn right. She turned inside of Taylor, who was moving slowly, and his motorcycle sideswiped the left side of her car.

Ms. Rosinski was ticketed on a charge of being unable to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

Two persons were injured in a 3:55 p.m. accident Saturday south of Kingston.

Deputies reported a car driven by Henry L. McConnell, 40, of Silverwood, was eastbound on Lanway Road, and one driven by Darren W. Hatfield, 18, of 6394 Lanway, Kingston, was westbound. Both drivers were driving down the center of the road and when they crested a hill, their autos collided head-on.

Hatfield was treated and released from Marlette Community Hospital. A passenger in the McConnell auto, David McConnell, 4 months, of the same address, was transferred from Marlette to Hurley Medical Center, Flint, where he was treated and released.

Deputies reported Karen Ann Dutz, 21, of Mount Clemens, was injured in a 1:30 p.m. accident last Thursday.

She was southbound on Cemetery Road, south of Bay City-Forestville Road, when, she told officers, she momentarily fell asleep. Her car was going off the road when she woke up. She tried to steer it back on the pavement, but it went into the west side ditch and rolled over onto the roof.

Ms. Dutz, who was ticketed on a charge of failure to use due care and caution, was reported by officers to have been taken to Hills and Dales, but the hospital had no record of her being treated there.

CAR-DEER

Deputies reported that Paul Festian, 56, of Akron, was eastbound on Decker-ville Road, west of Dodge Road, at 3 p.m. Sunday when his car collided with a deer.

Michael J. Jones, 20, of 5675 Pringle Road, Cass City, was eastbound on M-81, east of Schwegler Road, at 11:30 p.m. Saturday, Cass City police reported, when his vehicle hit a deer.

Caro state police reported that Michael J. Davidson, 28, of Marlette, was westbound on M-46, east of English Road, at 11:30 a.m. last Thursday when a deer ran into the right side of his vehicle.

Harvey R. Bell, 32, of 6810 Shabbona Road, Deford, was westbound on Decker-ville, east of Kingston Road, at 5:25 a.m. last Wednesday, according to deputies, when his car hit a deer.

John A. Emmons, 28, of 5825 Howard Street, Deford, was southbound on Dodge Road, north of Kelly Road, at 9:50 p.m. June 11, according to state police, when his car hit a deer.

HEALTH TIPS

How to maintain a good medicine cabinet

Have you recently taken the time to clean out your medicine cabinet and stock it? You should. Outdated medicines could be deadly to your family, according to Harper-Grace Hospitals in Detroit.

The best way to stock your medicine cabinet is by a process of elimination. Remove any prescription medications that you or family members are no longer using. Check all tubes of ointment, vitamins and other medicines for the expiration dates on the containers. Over-the-counter medications also have expiration dates.

Remember to check your refrigerator if you have recently had a child on a liquid form of an antibiotic - these usually have shelf-lives of two weeks or less. Discard all old prescription medications and outdated products by flushing them down the toilet.

To stock the medicine cabinet, consider the following recommendations given by Robert Toteff, M.D., chief of family practice medicine for Harper-Grace Hospitals.

--Aspirin or Acetaminophen (aspirin substitute), both in adult and child forms.

--A topical antiseptic such as iodine tincture.

--An antibacterial topical ointment containing neomycin or bacitracin, for abrasions and minor skin infections.

--An antidiarrheal medication.

--An antacid for stomach upset or "heartburn."

--Petroleum Jelly (Vaseline).

--An over-the-counter antihistamine and cough syrup, unless one is specifically prescribed by your doctor.

--A mild laxative for constipation.

--Syrup of Ipecac for poisoning. This is an extremely important item to have even if you do not have small children in the household.

--Other items such as nose drops, eye drops may be included to suit your family needs.

Your local pharmacist can aid you in the selection of medicines for your home medicine cabinet, taking into consideration normal family activities, suitable products with the longest shelf-life, secure packaging and the prescription history of individual family members.

The non-medicinal contents of your home medicine cabinet should include:

--An eye cup or ear syringe for irrigating foreign objects.

--Adhesive bandages of various sizes.

--Assorted gauze pads and rolls.

--A thermometer, both oral and rectal.

--An ice bag for sprains and severe bruises.

--A hot water bottle or heating pad for pain such as abdominal cramps, and a copy of a first aid manual and the number of your local poison center.

After you have assembled your home medicine chest, you should make sure the medications are stored in a cool dry place (not the refrigerator, unless specified by your pharmacist). Keep all medicines tightly closed in their original containers, and check with your pharmacist about the storage life of your various medications. Then, remember to clean out your medicine cabinet every six months to insure fresh, effective medicines when you need them.

Commodity distribution may end

At its June 13 meeting, the Human Development Commission Board of Directors were informed Tuscola County United Way has allocated $1,500 to the Foster Grandparents Program and $1,200 to the Tuscola County Assault Crisis Center.

It was also reported that HDC had been allocated a grant in the amount of $3,000, for a Rural Community Assistance Program. This funding was received from the Illinois Community Action Agency Association and will be utilized to assist selected villages or townships in the four-county area with water and wastewater problems.

The Human Development Commission July 2 will take over operation of the Easy Transit Bus System which serves Caro, Almer and Indianfields Townships.

A main topic of discussion at the meeting was the surplus commodity distribution program.

For the past several months, HDC has received minimal reimbursement from the Department of Education for the operation of this program. Notification has been received that the agency's funding will be reduced by over 60 percent beginning July 1.

This reduction, along with the potential reductions in the Community Services Block Grant Funding (operating support funds) may result in the elimination of the program, according to HDC Executive Director Mary Ann Vandemark.

HDC will be submitting correspondence to the Department of Education and area legislators in an effort to retain the current level of funding for the program.

Local residents concerned with the possible elimination of this program should express their concerns to local legislators and to the state Department of Education.

Eastern Star adds four life members

Four members of Echo Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Clarence and Maxine Merchant and Elmer and Jane Fuester, were presented with their life membership certificates by Worthy Matron Betty Murphy at the regular chapter meeting last Wednesday.

Past worthy matrons and patrons of Echo Chapter were honored, as is the custom annually.

A collection for the ES-TARL fund, an education fund administered by Grand Chapter to which all chapters contribute amounted to $26.

Regular meetings will resume in September.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Ruth Whittaker and her committee.

Choir to sing at area church

"Promise" will appear in concert at the Novesta Church of Christ on Cemetery Road, south of Cass City, Sunday, at 7:30 p.m.

"Promise," sponsored by Great Lakes Bible College in Lansing, is a 31-voice choir selected by auditions each year and is comprised of music students from high schools in Michigan and surrounding states.

The program will include a variety of contemporary gospel songs, skits and production numbers. Admission is free.

Missionary Church plans Bible school

"Jesus is my answer" is the theme for vacation Bible school at the Cass City Missionary Church on Koepfgen Road.

It will be Monday through Friday of next week from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Children needing a ride can call 872-2729 or 872-4102.

There will be a program Sunday, July 1, starting at 7:30 p.m., with parents and friends invited.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Gagetown Cub Scouts met at the Gagetown park for an end of the school year pack meeting Thursday. Cub Scouts who earned badges were David Erickson and Marshall Sheldon, bobcat, and Troy Reehl, Billy Ehrlich and Marshall Sheldon, wolf. Uby lost its third straight Babe Ruth game Monday by dropping a 9-8 decision to Cass City. Kevin Downing went the distance for the winners. Mark Jahn started for Uby and was relieved by Chris Foreman. Cass City Lions and Lionesses met June 9 at the Arrowhead Country Club, Caro. Lion of the Year award for outstanding service, loyalty and dedication to Lionism was presented to Peter Rienstra by club President Jim Guinther. Jack Esau and daughter, Mary Beth of Kalamazoo, left Saturday on a three-week trip to England and Scotland.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Cass City High School class of 1949 held its 25th year reunion Saturday night at Wildwood Farms. About 35 of the 81 graduates attended the gathering with Jim Wallace of Midland as master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by Charles Kircher of Ann Arbor, who played the clarinet. Carol Lynn Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Clarke of Cass City, was listed among the 496 students named to the Searcy, Ark., Harding College dean's list for the spring semester. The Church Softball League swung into high gear after opening last week. The Cass City Methodists showed plenty of power as they blasted their way to a 10-6 decision over Missionary Thursday. Randy Kozan pitched the win and veteran Roger Root suffered the loss. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson of Sand Lake spent Tuesday until Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Shagena.

25 YEARS AGO

Tom Gruber and Bill Johnston announced this week that they have become partners in the barbershop formerly owned and operated by Mr. Johnston. Mr. and Mrs. Mack Little were guests of honor at a surprise lawn party Sunday afternoon celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary. The 49th annual reunion of the Old Settlers was held in the Deford Methodist Church June 20. A program, directed by Mrs. Rinerd Knoblet included quartets, duets, readings and a cornet solo. Several Cass City drivers were in the money at Owendale Speedway Saturday evening. Lyle Truemner won the semi-feature. He also was a heat winner as was Chuck Holm. Smokey Wright of Uby won the feature.

35 YEARS AGO

B.F. Benkelman Jr., Irv Parsch, Raymond McCullough and Dr. E.C. Fritz spent from Saturday until Thursday fishing at West Branch. Fred B. Auten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meredith B. Auten of Cass City, is one of 190 seniors to receive degrees from Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine. Mrs. Levi J. Helwig and daughters, Lenora, Wenola and Joyce, and Veron Gingrich were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Helwig. Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Keating spent the week end in Ypsilanti with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keating, their son and daughter-in-law.

Old Settlers exchange memories

Memories of Deford were brought alive at the Old Settlers Reunion Saturday by the 40 people present, many of whom had connection with the village in the past. Neva Cones Zinnecker said that her father, Emery Cones, owned the general store and attended the Deford School and later became a teacher there. This was her first reunion. Other first-timers were from the John Clark family: Leila, Josephine, Della and Donald. Leila Clark Huffman related memories of the Clark family. The largest family attending was five brothers and two sisters of the Crawfords. Also represented were the Hicks and Martins, who have attended for several generations. Goldie Martin McLaughlin, who is 91, was the oldest in attendance. Besides many memories exchanged, persons gave several readings and Clare Crawford played "Silver Threads" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" on the violin. Audley and Charlotte Horner performed a duet of "I Know Who Holds Tomorrow." Officers reelected were Albert Englehart, president; Grant Kelley, vice-president, and Leta Gelatt, secretary and treasurer. Mardell Ware gave the memorial for 18 persons who died in the last year. The 75th reunion is planned for the third Saturday of June, 1985.

Commodity distribution Tuesday

The Human Development Commission will conduct a surplus commodity distribution Tuesday, June 26, at the Lions Club pavilion at the east end of the Cass City Recreation Park. Hours will be from 9:30-11:30 a.m., or until the supply is exhausted. Commodities will be distributed at that time at the fairgrounds in Caro and Vassar. Individuals must report to the distribution site in person and present their surplus commodity registration card. Those unable physically to go to the distribution may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the card is shown. If an individual has not yet received this card, they must register at the HDC office in their county prior to the day of the distribution. The telephone number for the HDC office is 673-4121. Registration is by appointment only. All households who are receiving a form of public assistance, such as AFDC, General Assistance, food stamps or SSI, may be eligible to receive the commodities. Households who have received services through the HDC, persons living on fixed incomes or unemployment benefits may also be eligible to receive the commodities, in accordance with federal poverty income guidelines. The surplus commodities have been made available to HDC from the federal government.

New books at the library

CASTAWAY: A STORY OF SURVIVAL by Lucy Irvine (non-fiction). In the case of Gerald Kingsland, a modern Crusoe, and his young "wife" Lucy Irvine, recruited through a London newspaper ad, a year spent together on an idyllic desert island just south of Papua, New Guinea, meant exchanging the stresses of civilization for those of basic survival. After months on short water rations and an unbalanced, barely subsistence-level diet that seriously impaired their health, the timely succor of nearby island natives averted disaster. The couple's physical hardships were aggravated by emotional problems due to a wide age gap, radically different temperaments and backgrounds - differences that even interdependence and shared adventures never wholly eliminated. The Scottish author - the younger and harder of the pair - fell under the island's spell.

THE LAST WALTZ by Nancy Zaroulis (fiction). Against backdrops of Boston, Nahand and Newport in the late 1800s and early 1900s, two women play out turbulent lives. Poor, plain, well-bred Marian Childs meets proud beautiful Isabel January in a bizarre situation that makes them instant enemies, a relationship that gradually turns to intimate friendship over the years. Daughter of one of Boston's most prominent Brahmin families, Isabel has been jilted by Lawrence Cushing, magnetically handsome rake and ne'er-do-well, who comes back into her life at intervals, always with disastrous results. For both Isabel and Marian, fate brings one cruel blow after another, for Zaroulis deftly arranges dramatic (if predictable) events at steady intervals.

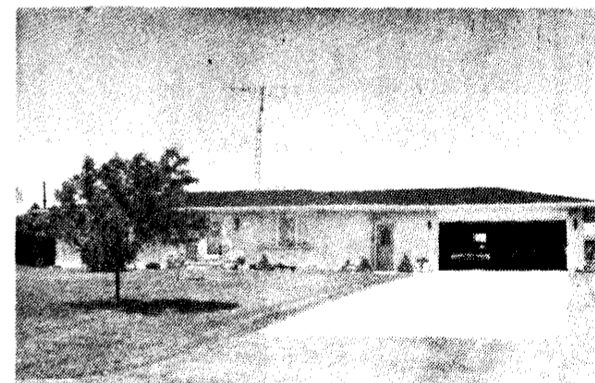

SEVEN SILENT MEN by Noel Behn (fiction). Prairie Port, Mo., is a law-abiding town, positively dull by FBI standards, until it is hit with "the perfect crime" one 1971 night. Someone has managed to blow the vault of the bank from under ground caves that snake in from the rolling Mississippi, then escape by flooding the caves with water dangerously diverted from the power plant. Fledgling agent William Butler Yates is chief among the host of the colorful characters introduced by Behn, and enough bodies pop up in the river to keep us immersed.

The movie to be shown at 1:30 p.m. this Thursday for children will be "Rabbit Hill."

Alcohol seminar set

Tuscola County area bar owners can learn how to prevent drunk driving when the techniques of alcohol management (TAM) seminar comes to the Eagles Hall, 651 South State, Vassar, Tuesday. The eight-hour seminar, sponsored by the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association (MLBA), is the first of its kind in the nation to teach bar and restaurant employees how to monitor customers' drinking behavior. It also includes information on the clinical effects of alcohol, recognizing the signs of intoxication and preventing service to minors. TAM is funded by the MLBA and a $50,000 federal grant made available by the state Office of Highway Safety Planning. Also involved in development of the program are the Association of Chiefs of Police, Michigan Liquor Control Commission, Michigan Sheriffs' Association, Michigan State Police and the Office of Substance Abuse Services. Michigan alcoholic beverage licensees and their employees may register for the seminar by calling 1-800-643-6722. Cost is $15 per person. The seminar begins at 10 a.m.

State wheat crop could be record

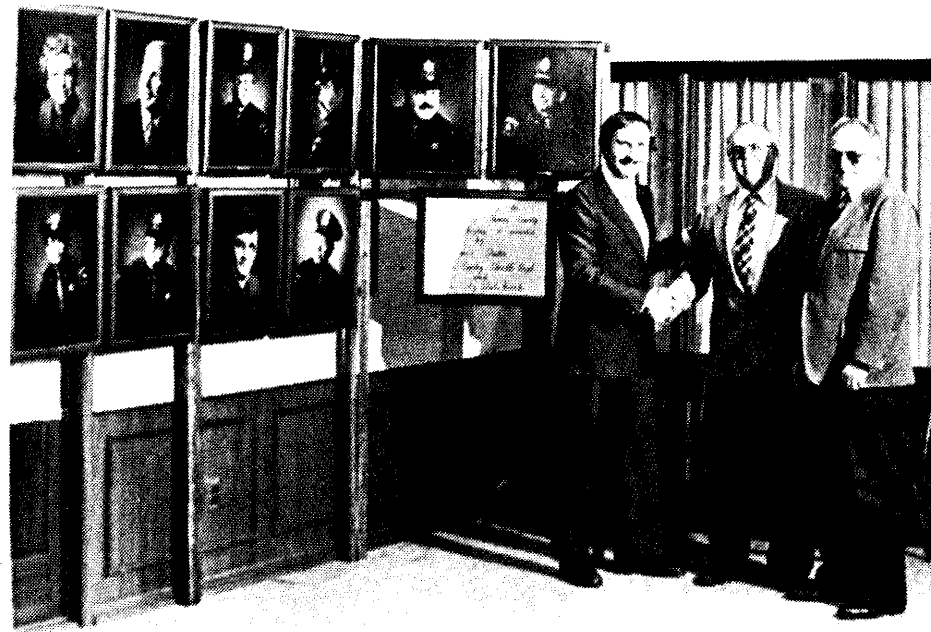

After a cool wet spring, growth and development of Michigan's 1984 winter wheat crop has benefitted from warmer temperatures. However, crop progress remains behind normal.

Production from this year's crop is expected to total 45 million bushels, an increase of 26 percent from last year, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. The forecast for this year's crop is 2 percent above the record crop of 1953.

Yields are expected to average 50 bushels per acre, 1 bushel above last season. If this yield is realized it will equal the record established in 1981. Early June warm weather should benefit wheat development.

Michigan's farmers expected to harvest 900,000 acres, an increase of 23 percent from a year ago.

Nationally, winter wheat production is forecast at 1.97 billion bushels, 1 percent less than 1983's output of 1.99 billion bushels.

Cut costs with soil applied insecticide

By Dennis Stein
Tuscola County extension agricultural agent

With the increasing need to cut costs on the farm these days, growers are continually on the lookout for ways in which to do so. One possibility is to seriously consider if a soil applied insecticide is necessary on your corn fields.

Not all corn fields will require a soil-applied insecticide, but on the same line, not all corn fields can get by without one. The important thing to know is exactly what insects one might expect to be active in each field.

Certain fields are prime candidates for a soil applied insecticide. If the field is described by anyone of the following situations, insecticide would be advised: 1) fields high in organic matter, 2) heavy applications of manure have been made, 3) weeds, hay fields or old pastures have been plowed down or 4) a past history of a problem with soil-active pests.

The main soil-active pests we are concerned with in this area are corn rootworm larvae, wireworms, seedcorn maggot, nematodes and white grubs. Before you choose an insecticide, make sure you know what insects might be a problem, because not all insecticides control the same pests.

The most common problem pest listed above is the corn rootworm. Many growers automatically apply insecticide at planting time without knowing if they actually have enough of a problem to warrant using the insecticide. There is a method for estimating whether an insecticide will be necessary the following season to control rootworm on fields of continuous corn.

Between 30 to 45 days after the first rootworm adult is seen in area corn fields, a count of the beetle-type adults can be taken. It's recommended that 60 plants in three areas of the field be checked and the number of adult rootworms counted that can be easily seen, especially around the tassel and ear areas.

According to Dr. Robert Ruppel, Michigan State University entomologist, only 14 percent of the total corn acres (first year as well as continuous) need to be treated at planting. In actuality, approximately 50 percent of the total corn acres are treated.

The count is simple to perform, and growers are encouraged to do so. However, there is a non-profit organization called the Tuscola County Field Service Cooperative (TCFSC) that will perform this scouting of corn fields for a small fee on a per acre basis.

Persons interested in learning more about the corn rootworm counting method or the service provided by the TCFSC should contact me or Beth Lake, TCFSC manager, at the Extension office, telephone 673-5999, ext. 228.

Anthony survives bout with lightning

wasn't a storm. "It rained and then the sun came out so I was going to watch the Tigers."

THERE WERE MANY ironies. The antenna wire on the outside was broken during the wind storm several weeks ago. Anthony didn't get around to repairing it until the day before the incident.

The reason the TV needed connecting to the wire on the inside was because the carpet had been cleaned that day, so all the furniture had been moved off it.

The lightning struck about the same time a tornado struck the Bay Port - Caseville area. Anthony's mother, Joy Anthony, was in that area on business, outdove the tornado and arrived home to find out her son had been struck by lightning.

Saturday would have been a big day for Anthony. A fishing trip was planned that day and in the evening, a surprise party was planned for his wife, who recently received her registered nursing degree from St. Clair County Community College. She has worked as a licensed practical nurse at Hills and Dales for about 10 years. The party was held without him.

ANTHONY, WHO HAS a sense of humor about his ordeal, said he joked with his brother that the surprise party and his funeral could have been the same day. "When you go, you go."

As mentioned, it was the second time he was struck by lightning. "Back when I was 14, I got hit riding my motorcycle in a thunderstorm. I got blown in a ditch and laid there for a while."

Asked if escaping the grim reaper a second time made him more religious, Anthony responded it hadn't. "My wife is though. She said she did the prayers for both of us."

From Argyle to Oregon

Retired teacher inspires ex-student 40 years later

When Thelma Sickler started teaching at Palmer School near Argyle in the fall of 1943, she was only a year out of Cass City High School and not much older than some of her students. But the positive influence the young teacher had on her students was long remembered by one of them -- for about 40 years.

Thelma Sickler, now Thelma Gaeth, retired from teaching at Unionville Elementary School at the end of the 1981-82 school year. She and her husband, Norbert, live in Sebawaing. She graduated from high school in 1942 and then attended Tuscola County Normal School in Caro for a year, which was all that was necessary to begin teaching in those days. Her first teaching job was at Palmer School, four miles east of Argyle and a half-mile south. She taught there three years and one of her students during those years, in grades 5, 6 and 7, was Violet Phillips. Now Violet Whittaker and a kindergarten teacher in Salem, Oregon, when the Salem Statesman-Journal asked its readers to send in essays about their favorite teachers, she had no trouble remembering her favorite teacher. It was Thelma Sickler. Her essay was one of more than 200 submitted to the paper and one of nine winners published in its April 8 edition. It is published below.

FOR HER WINning entry, Mrs. Whittaker received a $100 gift certificate from a Salem bookstore, as did Mrs. Gaeth. Mrs. Gaeth didn't know anything of the contest until she received a letter from the Statesman-Journal shortly after the winning essays were published. She and Mrs. Whittaker had not stayed in contact over the years, but a mutual friend had both their addresses. Mrs. Gaeth wrote Mrs. Whittaker, who in response wrote a six-page letter telling her what had happened to her and her family. All but one of the books, a Bible, that Mrs. Gaeth ordered as her prize arrived May 30. As she and her husband, a semi-retired electrician, like to go traveling with their travel trailer, the six books she received were all about traveling, including ones about the national parks, Alaska and Hawaii and a campground directory. She will receive the Bible later. OF HER FIRST teaching job, Mrs. Gaeth said, "When you have them (the same students) three years, it's a pretty close-knit family." The then Miss Sickler next taught fourth grade two years in Sandusky.

She and Norbert, who was from Unionville, were married in 1948 and they moved to Sebawaing, where she taught fourth grade for five years. She then left teaching to raise her family. Her children are Neil Gaeth of Sebawaing and Sharon (Mrs. David) Matthews of Decker. She has two grandchildren. After an absence of 17 years from the classroom, Mrs. Gaeth returned in 1970. The Unionville and Sebawaing districts merged during her absence, so she taught in the new district's sole elementary school in Unionville. Mrs. Gaeth completed work on her bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University after returning to teaching. She continued her education and earned 20 graduate hours of credit.

At Unionville Elementary School, she first taught fifth grade, then fourth and fifth and finally fourth before retiring.

The Winning Essay

By Violet Whittaker

She was young - too young - to be our teacher, but there she was on that first day of school, standing beside the door of the old red-brick schoolhouse, greeting each of her new pupils as they eagerly arrived.

We knew right away that it was going to be a good year, for she accepted us just as we were - tousel, patched, war-time country kids.

She liked us! She smiled. She was beautiful! Immediately I fell in love with her for I had found a friend. Jubilantly I started swinging back and forth between rows, then slipped and crashed to the floor...she only smiled understandingly in my direction. Never again did I cause havoc.

She provided a clean classroom with walls decorated and windows shining. Plants, pictures, maps, posters, books and tools were all there. The Palmer alphabet, both in manuscript and cursive, was displayed above the blackboards for all to memorize and imitate. Good handwriting emerged as if by magic. Her own beautiful work on the board inspired us.

She had supplied a woodshop corner with a bench especially for the many boys. They supplied the wood, tools and tinker parts, and kept the school in good repair.

Our new teacher made a useful friend of the old pot-bellied stove that warmed our bones in winter. There we not only dried our mittens, but heated soup, baked potatoes and roasted wieners.

She also served as custodian. Often we helped her sweep the oiled floors, carry firewood and coal buckets, fetch water, dust and wash the boards.

She was nurse to bleeding noses, mashed fingers, frostbitten hands, bruised faces and occasional concussions.

Assuming - probably because she was so young - that we were intelligent, industrious, obedient, considerate people, worked wonders. Discipline problems did not exist under her kind leadership. All students from beginners to eighth graders assumed responsibility for several tasks. When we learned something, we, in turn, taught the next person.

Students were allowed to work independently and progress as rapidly as possible through textbooks. Many advanced several grades.

After noon every day she read to us from all kinds of books: "Black Beauty," "Huck Finn," "The Brothers Grimm," the classics. We rushed in from baseball to listen. We trudged away from winter snow forts to hear her. She loved music and taught a roomful of reluctant non-singers to carry a tune acceptably. We still sing those songs.

Her intense patriotism rubbed off on us. We wrote to soldiers. On Saturdays she took us to collect milkweed pods for life jackets.

During winter she taught us all to knit. (My mother still hasn't washed the white "washcloth" my little brother knit - for each row was a variegated shade of grubby-gray which she cherishes!)

Our teacher involved our school in sports contests with other schools. When it was our turn to travel to see them, she would pack the whole student body into her old Plymouth. The big boys rode on fenders and the little tykes squeezed into the car trunk. We made it somehow.

She taught us reverence for our creator. "Beyond the blue sky God dwells. Someday we shall meet Him and give an account of our life's deeds." The Bible which the Gideons brought was treasured even more than the old worn dictionary.

My favorite teacher - Miss Thelma Sickler - made school days the highlights of our years. And what became of me as a result? I decided that I would become a teacher!

GEORGE JOHNSON

George H. Johnson, 71, of Silverwood, died June 12 in Caro Community Hospital after a long illness.

He was born Aug. 9, 1913, in Holden, Mo., the son of Robert and Mary (Sites) Johnson.

He married Willetter Mentor in 1940 in Kansas City, Mo. They came to Silverwood in 1976.

Johnson was a machinist for Allis-Chalmers Co. in Milwaukee, and retired eight years ago. He belonged to the Masonic Lodge and was royal potentate at the Mecca Chapter of the Shriners in Milwaukee, Wis.

Johnson is survived by his wife; three sons, Robert, David and George Jr., all of Milwaukee; seven daughters, Georgette, Mary, Nelleca and Melody, all of Milwaukee, Ruth and Linda, of Silverwood, and Katherine, of Madison, Wis.; two sisters, Nellie Barnes of Silverwood and Henrietta Douglas of Atlanta, and five grandchildren. He was preceded in death by a son, Clyde.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Harmon-Lance Funeral Home, Kingston, with Elder William Randolph Hardin presiding.

Burial was in Kingston Cemetery.

CHARLES KOTSCH

Charles Kotsch, 78, of Kingston, died June 12 in Marlette Community Hospital after a short illness.

He was born Nov. 26, 1905, in Elco, Pa., the son of Jacob and Ann (Zadula) Kotsch.

He married Mary Kapral in 1931 in Detroit. They came to Kingston in 1970.

Kotsch was a retired switchman and conductor for the C & O Railroad.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Richard, Anchorage, Alaska, and Charles Jr., Kingston; four grandchildren, Charles Norman, Kristine Marie, Kenneth John Kotsch, and Jason Michael Mayor, and numerous nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by a daughter, Frances M. Mayor.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Michael Catholic Church, Wilmot, with Father William O'Shea officiating. A scripture reading was given that evening at Harmon-Lance Funeral Home, Kingston.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

Five from area MSU graduates

Five area students graduated from Michigan State University in various ceremonies June 8-9.

Laurie Ware, 6581 1st Third Street, received a bachelor of science degree in dietetics. She is in Belgium for 10 weeks doing missionary work with the Greater Europe Missions and begins a one-year dietetics internship in Saginaw after she returns.

Melanie Particka, Cumber Road, Uby, received a B.S. degree in biology and graduated with high honors. She will attend Wayne State University medical school this fall.

She is the daughter of Melvin and Charlotte Particka and a 1980 Cass City High School graduate.

Joanne Thomas, of Decker Road, Cass City, graduated with high honors, receiving a B.A. degree in education.

Jeffrey Currier, of Decker Road, Cass City, received a B.S. degree in geology.

Rev. James Rule ordained elder

Rev. James Rule, pastor of the Argyle, Decker and Shabbona United Methodist Churches, was elected to Elder's Orders and received as a full member of the Detroit Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church Tuesday, June 12, as the 143rd consecutive annual session of the conference began at Adrian College.

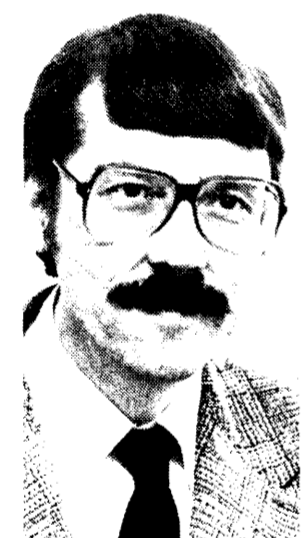

Saturday, he was ordained an elder in the United Methodist Church by Bishop Edsel A. Ammons, resident bishop of the Michigan Area of the United Methodist Church.

The son of Cecil and Helen Rule of Calumet, Rev. Rule graduated from Calumet High School in 1962. He received a B.S. degree from Northern Michigan University in 1979 and a master of divinity degree from Asbury Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., in 1982.

After graduating from high school, Rule served in the Army for three years, then he and his wife operated a photography studio in Negaunee in the Upper Peninsula until he entered the ministry.

He has been serving at the Shabbona, Argyle and Decker churches, his first pastorate, since June, 1982. Bishop Ammons has appointed him to serve them at least one more year.

Mrs. Rule is the former Peg Ricca, the daughter of Joseph and Helen Ricca of Calumet. She and her husband are the parents of one child, Michael, 17.

REV. JAMES RULE

LAURIE WARE

Miss Ware is the daughter of James and Joan Ware and is a 1979 Cass City High School graduate.

Mark Osentoski, S. Van Dyke Road, Uby, received a bachelor of science degree in engineering. He is getting married next week and moving to Arizona later in the month to begin an engineering job with Motorola.

Osentoski is the son of Jerry and Audrey Osentoski and a 1979 Cass City High School graduate.

Walbro sets second quarter 8¢ dividend

The board of directors of Walbro Corp. June 11 declared a second quarter dividend of 8 cents per share payable July 31 to stockholders of record June 29.

Walbro recently completed the successful offering of an additional 300,000 shares of common stock, raising the total number of shares outstanding to 1,468,143. The 8-cent dividend will be paid on all of these shares, continuing the year-long trend of 8 cent per share quarterly dividends.

In announcing the second quarter dividend, Walbro President and Chief Executive Officer Lambert E. Althaver noted that the balance of 1984 continues to look favorable for the company, with demand for carburetors for gasoline trimmers and outboard applications remaining strong.

He also pointed out that new programs for float feed carburetors will begin in the third quarter. In addition, shipments of throttle bodies for automotive fuel injection applications are now at scheduled levels.

Sales of electric fuel pumps for automotive aftermarket applications are at high levels. Production of electric fuel pumps for new automotive original equipment applications is scheduled to rise in the second half of the year, Althaver said.

Demand for custom manufactured parts, which include aluminum and magnesium diecastings and precision injection-molded plastics parts, also remains strong, he added.

Season completed

Minor League picks all-stars

The Cass City Boys' Minor League, which concluded its season last week, will play its all-star game at 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 27, on the minor league diamond.

The game will pit the National League (Cubs, Giants and Pirates) against the American League (Orioles, Tigers and Yankees).

Players were selected by the coaches based on their ability and sportsmanship.

Players selected were: National League -- Cubs, Mike Furness, John Gibson, Kevin Smerdon, Allen Proowski; Giants, Rusty Hrycko, Billy Sattelberg, Jeff Schember, Keith Smith, and Pirates, Wendall Guinther, Ryan Cross, Mark Kubacki and Rich Kubacki.

American League -- Orioles, Tom Czekai, Kent Winter, Greg Woodward, Delbert Masterson; Tigers, Todd Diebel, Ben Schott, Greg LeValley, Jeff Hocky, and Yankees, David Bills, Nat Spencer, Paul Ulfig, Bart Hall.

Results of the final regular season games were: Orioles defeated the Pirates, 17-5; Giants over the Cubs, 11-4 (shortened by rain to four innings); Tigers over the Yankees, 8-1, and in a make-up game, Yankees over the Cubs, 26-4.

Final standings:

Croft-Clara Kings second in Flint Fastpitch League

The Croft-Clara Kings played .500 ball this past week as they split the league doubleheader and were 2-2 in the week-end tournament at Corunna.

The Kings are now tied with AUL for second place in the Flint Fastpitch League after beating AUL 3-2 in nine innings and then losing to Nite Cap 2-0.

In the first game, Croft-Clara jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning with a single, a sacrifice, and three more singles. AUL scored in the bottom of the first and again in the sixth to knot the score at 2-2.

The Kings scored in the top of the ninth when Dean Elbers tripled and then scored on a grounder which the shortstop mishandled just long enough for Elbers to score. In the bottom of the 9th, AUL's leadoff hitter singled but Jeff Hartel stopped their threat to score by picking the runner off first.

The next two batters went down quietly. Ken Martin got the win.

Croft-Clara could only collect four hits off Hughie Harris in the second game and went down 2-0. Craig Helwig only gave up five hits, but Nite Cap put their hits together for the scores.

In Corunna last week end, the Kings finished fourth with two wins and two losses.

The wins came against Deer Run of Ada, 3-1, and Irish Pub of Lansing, 3-2. Nite Cap of Flint and the Brewers of Ann Arbor gave the Kings their losses, 3-1 and 4-3 respectively.

The Kings will travel to Scottville this weekend to play in a 10-team double elimination tournament.

Hospital's immediate care clinic helpful to doctors, patients, but loses money

Dr. Marcus Welby may have been the last doctor who didn't mind working on week ends.

Nowadays, however, most doctors are no different than anyone else. As much as possible, they prefer not to have to work on week ends.

So what can one do if he or she or someone in their family gets ill on a week end or suffers a minor injury?

"There is always the hospital emergency room, but they are expensive, and are supposed to be for big emergencies -- auto accidents, heart attacks, etc.

There is now a solution, the immediate care clinic (ICC) open weekends at Hills and Dales General Hospital, intended for treatment of minor injuries and illnesses.

The clinic is open Fridays from 6-8:30 p.m.; Saturdays from 2:30-8:30 p.m., and Sundays from 10 a.m.-8:30 p.m. It is open holidays which are on Mondays and some holidays that occur during the week.

The hospital contracts with Master Care Corp. of Grand Rapids to provide the service. It in turn hires the physician who is there on week ends. Since last October, it has been the same physician, Dr. Michael Santoro, MD.

The hospital started the clinic about six months ago. Prior to that, it contracted with Master Care to provide a physician to staff the emergency room on week ends, which meant higher emergency room rates applied even for treatment of minor problems.

For the patient, the advantages of the ICC are not having to find a doctor on week ends and a cheap fee. The cost of visiting the clinic is only $25, plus the cost of any medicines or supplies and added procedures (X-rays, laboratory tests, etc.).

FOR THE HOSPITAL, there are advantages and disadvantages.

It views the clinic as a service to the community and as a recruitment tool for doctors, since they can come to Cass City knowing they won't have to be on call week ends.

The disadvantage is that the clinic so far is a money loser. It had to pay Master Care $61,000 during the hospital's last fiscal year according to Director of Finance Keith Adelberg.

The expense would be reduced if the clinic attracted more patients. It has been promoted outside the Cass City area and is the only such clinic in the upper Thumb.

If it attracted enough patients, the clinic could even turn into a money maker for the hospital, which presently is running in the red.

sprains, strains and infections are most common. "Stuff you normally see in a doctor's office during a normal day."

He stressed that persons shouldn't view him as a replacement for regular physician. "You should have a doctor in the community willing to take care of you. I'm just here as a convenience."

The MD had praise for the ancillary services that he sometimes has to make use of, such as x-ray, laboratory, and cardiopulmonary. He feels they are at least as good as in a larger hospital. He also praised the nursing staff.

All that, plus the friendly atmosphere, he said, and "You can come to this emergency room and you get much better care" (than in a big hospital).

with the new requirements.

He added, "The main point is, the doctors can make or break a hospital."

In practical terms, he explained, DRGs will mean patients spending more time recovering at home and less in the hospital and more surgery done on an out-patient basis. "The so-called, in by 9, out by 5 theory."

It isn't just Medicare and Medicaid that are forcing that change. Blue Cross, for instance, now will only pay for a tonsillectomy done on an out-patient basis.

ALTHOUGH THE changes are good for the insurers, it means more empty beds and less revenue for the hospital.

The changes are already having an effect. In April and May, the first two months of the new fiscal year, Hills and Dales admitted about as many patients as the same months in 1983, but the number of days beds were occupied had declined by 573.

With conventional sources of revenue either declining or not keeping up with the actual costs of running the hospital, in order for Hills and Dales to stay in business, it will have to cut costs and increase revenues from other sources.

Two steps, already mentioned, are employee layoffs and reduction in hours worked.

There is the cost containment program, described in last week's Chronicle, one aspect of which is rewarding employees for suggesting ways of cutting costs.

seem like an easy job for the physician to be working only on weekends, he pointed out that his 60 hours at the hospital, plus the time he spends Fridays and Mondays driving from and to his home in Royal Oak, a Detroit suburb, consume almost five full days.

It also means being away from his wife during that time.

Santoro does maintain a small private practice in Royal Oak, but it's secondary in time and income to his job with Master Care.

"I like doing this kind of work," he said of what he does at Hills and Dales.

What does he like best? "I particularly enjoy sewing lacerations. It's an art. The more complicated, the better."

Another thing he likes about his job is, "It's immediately gratifying."

book value -- which happened to be the price of the stock.

Fourteen years of 5 percent stock dividends and your holdings doubled if you hung onto it all -- didn't sell any.

We took care of the complaints by offering to buy privately any stock dividend shares at the current market. Nobody took the offer and the hollering died down.

Now, if we had paid the 5 percent in cash, if you were in a 40 percent bracket, you kept only 3 percent of it. Keeping only 3 percent year, it would have taken 23-24 years for your money to double. The stock dividend route, it took 14.

Eventually, when the shares were sold there'd be capital gains to pay, but that would be a fraction of taxes paid on regular dividends, first because you had deferred the tax, and second because it is now only 40 percent of the regular rate on ordinary income.

Take a specific case. You own 100 shares of stock, worth $20 a share.

1) Stock dividends paid yearly of 5 percent. So you get 5 shares of stock, worth $100. You let the stock accumulate for 14 years. The stock compounds, same a money does. After 14 years you have 198 shares. At $20 a share it's worth $3,960.

2) Cash dividends of 5 percent paid yearly. Tax rate of 40 percent. Balance left of $100 dividend -- $60. Reinvest the dividend after tax for 14 years at after-tax rate of 3 percent. Total received -- $1,025.

The stock dividends worth $1,960 would be taxable at capital gain rate of 16 percent (if you're in a 40 percent bracket). That nets you $1,646.

Recap: Via stock dividends -- $1,646; via cash dividends -- $1,025; percent more via S.D. -- 60 percent.

classified into a DRG, based on the reason they came to the hospital.

For each DRG, there is a flat rate that Medicare and Medicaid will pay. What causes problems for hospitals is the rate does not allow for variations in the severity of the illness or amount of care provided.

There is an "authorized length of stay" for each DRG. If the patient stays in the hospital less than the authorized stay, the hospital can conceivably make a profit. If he or she has to stay longer than the authorized stay, however, the hospital has to absorb the loss, since Medicare or Medicaid won't pay more.

ADELBERG STRESSED, "We're not pushing them (patients) out into the street. They still have to meet discharge criteria before they'll go home."

It is the doctors, of course, who decide when a patient is ready to be discharged. Physicians on the Hills and Dales staff, the finance director said, are "cooperating quite well"

with the new requirements.

He added, "The main point is, the doctors can make or break a hospital."

In practical terms, he explained, DRGs will mean patients spending more time recovering at home and less in the hospital and more surgery done on an out-patient basis. "The so-called, in by 9, out by 5 theory."
