Cass City board looks at remedies for pupil cheating

Two incidences of cheating involving a group of students during final exams last spring has the Cass City School Board looking for remedies and penalties.

At the regular meeting of the board Monday at the high school, trustees debated how to handle future cheating students.

Principal Russell Richards explained how the spring cheating cases were handled.

The students were given a failure on the final exam. In addition they were required to take a comprehensive test to earn credit in the class.

Trustee Louis Horner said that he wanted to see a policy that makes it tougher for the students to cheat.

Trustee Ben Hobart said that cheaters should suffer in citizenship grading.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that teachers will undoubtedly be looking at testing procedures and indicated that a general tightening of supervision is sure because of the cheating.

The board instructed administration to come up with a policy suggestion for review at the next regular meeting.

Before wrestling with the cheating problem, the board studied results of the attendance and discipline policy.

The news was generally good. Richards said that the policy has made enforcement easier for the administration. Leo Gengler said that the teachers also liked the new system.

While the policy handles attendance and discipline well, it fails in preventing tardiness.

The penalty for tardiness is points making a comprehensive test mandatory. Students know how many points they can get, Gengler said, and so there really is no penalty for most of them. Others already have to take the test and there is no reason for them to arrive on time either.

In his report, Richards revealed that 32.3 percent of the students were not assessed any points. Under the policy six students were expelled for a semester which is a fraction less than one percent of the student body.

ACCEPT BID

Five bids were received for tuckpointing the brick at the Intermediate School. Low bid was from William H. Kelly Co. of East Lansing for $39,260. Bids ranged upwards to a top of $79,018. The Kelly Co. did similar work for the Caro School District.

The board also okayed $1,800 for new spelling books for the fifth and sixth grade. The hard cover books sell for $7.35 each. There will no longer be formal spelling texts for students in the seventh and eighth grades. They will be taught spelling using words that are common in other courses. In history, for instance, spelling will be an adjunct to the course rather than a course by itself.

Another change in the curriculum next fall will be the addition of a developmental kindergarten room at Evergreen School for the use of Evergreen and Deford students.

A developmental room was authorized for the first time in Cass City for the last school year. Next fall it is anticipated that 23 students will be taught in Cass City and 15 in the Evergreen room.

The room is for students that are old enough for school, but not yet mature enough for regular kindergarten participation.

In other business the board named as depository agents the three Cass City banks as well as Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint and Second National Bank of Saginaw. The same banks were authorized for investment of funds. Board officers were authorized to sign general fund checks and the superintendent and the bookkeeper were okayed to sign payroll checks.

2 Friday crashes send 10 to hospital

Two accidents Friday, one in Cass City and the other west of Deford, sent a total of 10 persons to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The first was at 2:05 p.m. at the intersection of Main and Seeger Streets.

Cass City police, reported that Richard C. DeLong, 31, of 3447 Englehart Road, was northbound on Seeger Street, started to turn left onto Main Street, didn't observe a southbound car and the vehicles collided.

The impact sent the second car, driven by Dianna J. Simpson, 27, of Summit, Ill., into a car parked by the north curb, west of Seeger. It is owned by Norman G. Clayton of Kinde.

Ms. Simpson was released from the hospital Sunday. Three of her four passengers were treated and released. They were her children Jacqueline, 6, and Chad, 2, and Melissa Jewett, 6, of Elizabeth Street.

DeLong, who was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield right of way, was treated and released.

The second accident took place at 8:27 p.m. on Phillips Road, north of Decker-ville Road.

The driver, Christopher B. Tracy, 17, of 7663 Elmwood Road, Cass City, told sheriff's deputies he was deliberately swerving the car back and forth when he lost control.

The sub-compact auto went off the west side of the road into a ditch, flipped over nose first and landed upside down. Two of the occupants, not identified in the accident report, were thrown from the auto. A witness, driving northbound at the time, verified the car was swerving before it went off the road.

Tracy, who has been charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor, was released from Hills and Dales Tuesday.

One of his five passengers, Allan Horne, 18, of 4118 S. Seeger Street, was reported in fair condition there Tuesday afternoon.

Two passengers, Martin G. Louks, 19, of 6632 Pine Street, and Angela D. Otulakowski, 14, of 5986 Cass City Road, were treated and released following the accident.

Another, Debra J. Cook, 16, of 5932 Koepfgen Road, was treated and released the following day.

Deputies reported Cheryl Ann Zyrowski of 2560 English Road, Kingston, was injured in a 10:30 a.m. accident last Wednesday north of Caro.

Deputies said she was driving on Decker-ville Road, didn't think an approaching car on Cleaver

'Fantastic' 4th of July Festival likely to continue in Cass City

By H.V. Wood

The verdict is in from those who worked on the Cass City 4th of July Festival, and most declare the event a success.

"It looks fantastic. Everyone in concessions we talked to said they did well," said festival co-chairman Curt Strickland. The Chamber of Commerce received 25 percent of the net profits of the concessions.

"They (the arts and crafts) were fantastic. It was the best turnout we ever had. The people who sell there said they sold a lot."

"I thought it was a very successful festival, it was a large turnout," added co-chairman Dave Lovejoy.

People told him they thought the festival was enjoyable, he said.

There will probably be a festival next year, a feeling strong among festival committee members. Lovejoy said. However, the fate of the festival will be decided once the revenue and bills are tabulated.

The festival committee must then decide if there will be a seventh annual festival. Strickland said.

THE PARADE DOWN Main Street lasted about an hour. There were four fire departments represented, about 40 antique and special interest automobiles and about eight floats.

Estimates on the number of spectators varied. Clayton and Margaret Turner of Green Road, Cass City, who rode in their antique truck in the parade, last year and this year, thought the number of spectators looked about the same.

Maurice Evans of Gageton, who drove his antique car in the parade both years, thought there were fewer spectators.

Parade chairman Kim Glaspie was pleased. "It went fine. It's probably the best one we've had. It usually goes off well, but this one went particularly well."

Both spectators and participants gave him positive feedback about the parade and "nothing derogatory was said about it."

Glaspie did not have an estimate of the number of spectators. He said the number of persons at the parade route's west end was fewer than last year, but could not account for other parts of the route.

THE RESPONSE TO the arts and crafts fair in and near the village equipment shed was very good, according to chairwoman Sandy Nicholas.

Most sellers asked by the Chronicle agreed. Basil and Dorothea Quick of Cass City who sold jewelry, polished stones and silversmith items, said people were buying. "I think maybe a little better (than last year)," Mrs. Quick responded when asked how sales were.

Carol Keller of Cass City, who sold stuffed dolls and knick-knacks, said she was doing better than last year.

Donna Kennedy of Uby, who sold painted china eggs and other items said, "It's about the same...I'm not complaining. I usually do good. It was a nice-sized crowd."

Marie Haley of Rapson, who sold soft-sculpture dolls said she had "no complaints."

Others said business was about the same. Ed Bergman Jr. of Vassar, who sold scenic photographs, said business was "fair" and about the same as last year.

FOOD SALES CO-ordinator Dale McIntosh said all of the concessions at the festival did very well. "I think I talked to every one of them. Most ran out of things. All of them around 3-4 p.m. were running out."

Tom Craig at the Lions Club pavilion said the group ordered 1,000 chicken halves this year, 200 less than last year.

He estimated they would probably sell them all by the end of the day and make

State rejects O-G loan request okay

The Owendale-Gageton School District may find itself in a financial whirlpool again.

Supt. Ronald Erickson told the school board Monday evening that the Michigan Department of Treasury has rejected the district's application to borrow $550,000 in tax anticipation notes, money needed for the district to pay salaries and bills until it begins receiving property tax revenue at the end of this year.

Bids from banks to loan the district the money were going to be opened Monday afternoon, he said, "but now it will take another month to get the money."

State Senator James Barcia, D-Bay City, arranged with Erickson and any board members who could attend to meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday with state Treasurer Robert A. Bowman to learn why the loan was rejected. Results of the meeting weren't available by press time.

The letter from Bowman to the district, dated June 28, cited state law that permission to borrow can't be given if a municipality ends the fiscal year with a deficit and has not filed a plan to correct the deficit.

Erickson said after the board meeting that Owen-Gage finished the fiscal year June 30 about $250,000 in the black, according to its auditors, while the state claims it was $180,000 in the red. The disparity is because of revenue Owen-Gage claims it is still due

"If It Fitz . . ."

Model citizen abroad

By Jim Fitzgerald

Before leaving this country tonight, I want to make just one complaint about it. It concerns Agent Orange and obscene T-shirts. I'm only going to Canada, and I'll be back in a few hours, but I don't want to take a chance on violating a tradition.

The tradition is that a U.S. citizen doesn't criticize his country while visiting another country. I didn't know about it until our State Department's recent scolding of Jesse Jackson for rapping our Latin America policy while in Cuba.

"We argue strongly among ourselves in this country, but the tradition has been not to criticize your country from a foreign base or platform," a State Department spokesman said.

Most of my life, I've lived just across a narrow river from Canada, and I've visited there several hundred times. God only knows how many times I've sat in Windsor or Sarnia saloons and said rotten things about the United States. All I can say to the State Department is I'm sorry and I'll never do it again.

From now on, when I'm about to go to Canada, I will first purge myself of whatever is currently bugging me about the United States. I will unload my complaints on this side of the river and say nothing in Canada except how deliriously happy I am to be alive during the Reagan administration.

And if I ever get the opportunity to free a U.S. citizen trapped in a busted foreign phone booth, I will tell him to call the White House. My attitude will be that it reflects badly upon the president of the United States if anyone except him helps a U.S. citizen in trouble in another country. And that I would be violating the State Department tradition that says it is unpatriotic to complain that the roof of your home is falling unless you are standing where it can fall directly on your head.

So, before driving to Windsor for dinner tonight, I hereby unload my latest complaint about the United States: It's outrageous that our nation allows T-shirts with obscene messages printed on them. Specifically, I'm bugged by the T-shirt pictured in the June 1 issue of the Midland Daily News. It said: "I'M PROUD OF AGENT ORANGE."

The photo was taken at a retirement party for John Davidson, who worked for Dow Chemical Co. for 50 years. He helped develop the herbicide 2,4,5-T which, when combined with another herbicide, became Agent Orange, the infamous defoliant used to wipe out bushes in the Vietnam war so communists couldn't hide behind them.

Thousands of veterans charged that Agent Orange contained toxic dioxins that injured their health and/or caused genetic damage to their children. Many veterans filed a lawsuit against Dow and six other companies, and their case was persuasive enough to win a $180 million out-of-court settlement.

The military team that dumped Agent Orange on Vietnam formed an alumni group called Operation Ranch Hand. It was this group that gave the T-shirt to Davidson. I guess it was supposed to be a joke, almost as funny as an "I'm Happy-About-Cancer" T-shirt.

From all reports, Davidson is a fine agricultural chemist. He undoubtedly has good reason to be proud of his work. But where will he wear a T-shirt obscene enough to say a man could be proud of developing the product that allegedly killed or injured thousands of people?

He could wear it in a foreign country without violating the speak-no-evil tradition that Jesse Jackson tripped over. After all, Agent Orange bore the U.S. Seal of Approval. But for Davidson's sake, I hope he isn't wearing that T-shirt if he ever runs into a Vietnam vet who believes that Agent Orange ruined his health or maimed his child.

Electricity from atomic energy was generated for the first time in the world at a laboratory near Idaho Falls in 1951.

CLOWN "BIG BERTHA" came from Midland to shake hands with obviously delighted spectators along the parade route.

Radio, cassettes stolen from visitor

Theft of a combination AM-FM radio and cassette player and 25 tapes was reported to Cass City police Saturday afternoon by David Ashmore of Upton, Wyo.

He said he and his family arrived at 4594 Oak Street Friday night for a visit and unloaded their belongings about 10:30.

He speculated the stolen items were left on the lawn overnight and someone took them. The radio-cassette player was valued at $60; the tapes and case at $210.

Village police arrested Gale D. Farrar, 29, of 6351 Pine Street at 2:55 a.m. last Wednesday after stopping her car on Pine near Sherman Street for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

She was later released from the county jail after posting $100 bond. Arraignment was scheduled July 16. A boy and his mother reported to village police Friday afternoon that he saw a nine-year-old boy puncture tires of a bicycle parked at the Recreation Park pool.

The vandal's parents were contacted, who said they would deal with the situation.

Rabbit Tracks
By John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

July 4 marked the 75th anniversary of the first mile of rural concrete highway in the world. It was Woodward Avenue between Six and Seven Mile Roads.

It was encouraged by Horatio Earle, Michigan's first state highway commissioner. He was nicknamed "Good Roads Earle."

That's the same Earle who is commemorated with a monument and plaque a mile east of Cass City for granting the first mile of state reward gravel road in 1905. The plaque was erected where the gravel road ended.

Phyllis Boylan reports that she plays bridge twice a week. One of the sessions is in duplicate club.

Over the years there have been several attempts to get bridge really rolling in Cass City.

The best card game of them all has really never taken off in Cass City. It has been played regularly and never died but for every bridge player in the area there have to be four euchre players.

That's sad, too, because bridge is the finest card game of them all. It's really the only card game going that adults can play for fun and still enjoy. Contrast that with a game of euchre for match sticks which makes no sense at all.

Idle thought. If it weren't for Tiger baseball, what good would television be in the summer time?

Wonder where all those bucks come from for the multi-million dollar golf courses under construction? It's said that the green fees alone never would pay the construction and maintenance costs. The profits supposedly come from hotel rentals, food sales and the sale of condominiums.

Still, it can't hurt when places like Boyne Mountain can soak players $30 for 18 holes and sell all the tee times available on week ends.

The Haire Net

What an object lesson it would have been for every dairy farmer in the United States. For that matter it could serve as a lesson to everyone trying to peddle their wares to the public.

It happened at the Rotary food tent at the July 4 Festival.

Rotarians had purchased 300 half pints of milk for the day. Along towards evening there were about 200 of them left.

Because they were not standard stock they were purchased on a no return basis.

Rotary owned those 300 cartons. It became apparent that there would be plenty left when the day ended.

It's impossible to tell just how many persons were served during the 15 hours the tent operated, but there were plenty of them. Business was good.

During the breakfast hour all the sausage bought for the day was consumed and many customers had to be content with pancakes and no sausage.

During the first half hour of the breakfast a malfunctioning coffee urn kept the coffee from being ready when the customers arrived. Some of them, not many, turned to milk as a forced substitute.

During the dinner hour and the rest of the day business was better than normal.

For two and a half hours food was pushed out as fast as the hot dogs could be shoved into buns and pop could be poured into cups.

In fact, during that rush period, two persons handled the 4-spigot pop machine in an effort to keep the line moving along.

It was a warm day, you'll recall, but still we managed to sell maybe 25 cups of coffee after the breakfast hour. The pop, the coffee and the milk all sold for 50 cents each.

It did until about 8 p.m. when it was decided to hold a fire sale on the milk.

Everybody was told to push the milk sales.

To help it out we reduced the price. Perhaps reduced is the wrong word. What we did was sacrifice it for 10 cents a half pint.

Right along side of the milk was the pop and we continued to do a steady and sometimes spectacular business with it at 50 cents a serving.

Do you know how many cartons of milk we sold at 10 cents? Just one.

Here's a healthful, wonderful tasting beverage being served ice cold on a warm day at a fifth of the cost of the competition and almost nobody wanted it.

The soft drink industry has spent oodles of money promoting the product and milk only recently has made feeble steps towards competing.

Look around the next time you're eating out and see how many drink pop, how many drink milk.

It's going to take a lot of bucks to turn that around. Many more than the industry has been willing to cough up in the past.

But that better change. There aren't many left like me who would rather have a cold glass of milk than any other beverage that can be purchased.

Pedaling Around

Telephone manners

By Mike Eliasohn

A newspaper reporter was trying to interview then Michigan State University football coach Duffy Daugherty.

The interview was taking place in Daugherty's office. Every time the reporter asked a question, the phone rang and then he had to wait while the coach talked on the phone.

Frustrated, he finally went down the hall to a pay phone, called Daugherty's office, and got the information he needed.

We probably are all slaves to the telephone. No matter what we are doing, we stop doing it when the telephone rings.

The telephone industry has solved that problem, however, with the cordless telephone, which can be a great convenience.

When I ate at a restaurant in Leland a few weeks ago, I noticed that the hostess who showed diners to their tables carried one with her. When the phone rang, there was no need to run through the restaurant to get it. She reached in her pocket.

However, cordless phones can make the lazy lazier. I once witnessed a man answer a call on his cordless phone, who was sitting three feet from his regular phone, but didn't want to get up.

One telephone invention that bugs me is what I will call the loudspeaker phone, since I don't know the proper name. Primarily used by business executives, it enables them to carry on a telephone conversation from anywhere in their office without having to hold a receiver up to their ear.

To the person on the other end of the line, the voice sounds somewhat distant, so quality of reception is not the best.

I recently talked to an executive who was using a loudspeaker phone, to get information for a story.

Admittedly, he gave me the information I needed, but still his use of that phone bothered me. The way I look at it, the only reason to use a loudspeaker phone is so you can also do something else.

What that means to me, the caller, is that the person I'm talking to who is using the loudspeaker, phone doesn't consider our conversation important enough to give me his or her undivided attention.

When I was talking to the aforementioned executive, I couldn't help but wonder if he was also practicing his golf putting on one of those carpet practice cups or clipping his fingernails.

The other telephone device that bugs me a lot of people is the answering machine. "Hi, this is Bill. I'm not home right now. At the sound of the buzzer, please leave your name and phone number and I will return your call."

I rarely leave my name and number. I suppose for non-logical reasons, I hate to talk to a machine. When I hear, "Hi, this is..." I hang up and call back later, which for long distance calls can get expensive.

Obviously for some persons, use of an answering machine is very important, such as for a plumber who doesn't have any employees, so when he's on a service call, there's no one to answer his phone.

(That example comes to mind because I heard a recorded comedy routine on the radio Saturday entitled, "My plumber doesn't make house calls.")

But for non-business and non-busy persons, I'd rather hear a phone ringing when they're not home -- which doesn't cost anything for me (or the Chronicle) -- rather than a recording.

Gagetown bank robber sentenced to 7-15 years

Ralph P. Kinney, who pleaded guilty to a charge in connection with the March 16 robbery of the First of America Bank branch in Gagetown, was sentenced Monday by Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn to 7-15 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson.

He could have received a life sentence. The judge recommended Kinney receive psychiatric counseling while in prison. He was credited with the days served in jail since he was captured May 2 in Fort Worth, Texas.

Kinney, 33, of 3694 Cemetery Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty June 18 to assault with intent to rob while armed. More than $1,000 was taken in the robbery.

In other cases Monday: Carrie Sue Brinkman, 23, of 3030 Leix Road, Caro, who earlier pleaded guilty to violating probation, had her probation extended for one year, during which she will be under house arrest to her parents.

Joslyn defined that to mean she cannot date or socialize with anyone without her father's permission, cannot move elsewhere unless she receives her parents' permission and shall abide by a curfew and house rules set by them.

Ms. Brinkman was placed on three years' probation in November, 1981, for larceny in a building. She was also ordered Monday to pay an additional $500 court costs.

Sentencing was delayed six months for Patricia Gail Grice, 41, of 5955 Bruce Street, Deford, who pleaded guilty June 18 to delivery of marijuana last Oct. 13 in Novesta Township. She was assessed $400 court costs.

William C. Tribbey, 22, of 8471 Willard Road, Millington, was placed on three years' probation for attempted unlawful driving away a motor vehicle, a pickup truck, Feb. 15 in Millington.

He was also sentenced to 120 days in the county jail, with credit given for time served, fined $500 and assessed $600 court costs. Restitution will be determined.

He pleaded guilty to the charge May 29.

Gary Jacques, 21, of 388 Gilford Street, Caro, failed to appear for scheduled entering of a plea regarding his being charged with violating probation because of a March 1 district court conviction for impaired driving.

A bench warrant for his arrest was issued. Jacques was placed on 60 months' probation in September, 1981, for delivery of LSD.

A bench warrant was also issued for the arrest of Daniel M. Schwab, 21, formerly of Vassar Road, Millington, who failed to appear for sentencing on a charge of violating probation.

He was convicted May 15 of violating it by failure to report to his probation agent last September, October and November. Schwab was placed on three years' probation in April, 1982, for unlawfully driving away an automobile.

Richard T. Neeley, 21, of 10364 Lewis Road, Chio, was placed on probation for one year for receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

He was also sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, with serving of 65 days delayed. Work release privileges were granted. Neeley was fined $1,000 and assessed $300 court costs.

A jury March 28 found him guilty of possession of a stolen boat motor July 1, 1982, in Arbel Township.

Donald D. Sowden, 43, of Scottsdale, Ariz., formerly of Deford, stood mute to a charge of concealing or disposing of mortgage property worth more than $100. A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled July 16. Bond was continued.

He is charged with removing cattle before fulfilling a mortgage or contract with the Chemical Bank of Cass City.

Kirk L. Michael, 23, of 4606 N. Seeger Street, Cass City, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and two years' probation for felonious driving. He was fined $300 and assessed $500 court costs.

Michael pleaded guilty to the charge April 18, in connection with an accident Nov. 20 in Elkland Township which resulted in injuries to Lynn Zawilinski.

Carl E. Freitag, 28, of 2380 Plain Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana Nov. 9 in Caro. His plea was accepted and sentencing was continued.

Sentencing was delayed one year for Eugene S. Salgat, 32, of 1841 Dietz Road, Caro, who pleaded guilty March 6 to the unarmed robbery of Thomas Manley June 27, 1983, in Reese. He was assessed $500 court costs.

Harley E. Kelley, 37, of 2763 Hurds Corner Road, Caro, was ordered to receive counseling for 18 months and not drive, a follow-up to a May 29 sentence for driving under the influence of liquor (second offense) and driving with license suspended or revoked March 27, 1983, in Almer Township. A jury found him guilty March 29 of this year.

He was first sentenced to four months in jail, two years' probation, $400 fine and $200 court costs.

Donald F. Tedford, 43, of 5658 Briarwood, Millington, pleaded guilty Tuesday, July 3, to two charges of felonious assault.

His plea was accepted and sentencing date will be set, with bond continued.

Tedford was scheduled to go on trial last Thursday, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to do bodily harm less than murder in connection with the beating with a hammer of Katherine Ross last Aug. 21 in Arbel Township. His plea bargain with the prosecution made the trial unnecessary.

Brush fire put out

Elkland Township firemen Sunday extinguished a brush and grass fire off M-53, about a half-mile north of M-81, on property rented by Margaret Yoe.

Cause of the fire, reported at 5:20 p.m., was undetermined. About one acre burned.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said it was later learned the owner is Matt Rumpel of Warren.

Cause of the fire is believed to be arson. Investigation is continuing.

The owner of a vacant home on Shabbona Road that burned June 30 was originally reported to be Tom Briggs of Royal Oak.

Elkland firemen responded to an alarm at 3:55 p.m. at Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday. The high humidity apparently set the alarm off, Root said. There was no fire.

Poll shows college support

A higher education poll conducted for the State Board of Education shows public support for higher education is needed to continue to provide services and for higher state aid to universities which agree to freeze tuition rates. The poll showed 67 percent would vote for community college millage increases. That compares to a nearly equal percentage (68) which give their colleges excellent or good ratings.

The poll also showed 72 percent believe four-year colleges which freeze tuition should get more state aid, which was a feature of the governor's original budget proposal.

The first-ever survey of public attitudes on higher education also showed 55 percent believe that planning and coordination for colleges and universities should be done by the state board.

Colleges currently operate independently, with boards making policy and program decisions.

Lamotte perfect in church loop

Lamotte retained its lead in Cass City Church Softball League action last week, defeating the Catholics 4-3. Keller was the winning pitcher. Gary Robinson took the loss.

In other games last week: Trinity United Methodist defeated Shabbona, 11-1, with Randy Kozan the winning pitcher. Rob Smith was the loser.

Trinity gained its second win of the week in extra innings, 6-5, over the Deford Blue team. Mike Stec was the winning pitcher. Dave Smith took the loss. First Baptist Church defeated Novesta Church of Christ Tuesday, 5-4. The Baptists were behind 3-1 after one inning, but rallied in the fifth behind Bill Bader's triple and scored three runs to even the score.

In the sixth, Ray Ferris walked with one out, gained second on another walk, stole third, then reached home on Chuck Hartwick's sacrifice fly to left to seal the win. Bader was the winning pitcher; Skip Speirs the loser.

Thursday night, the Baptists defeated the Deford Green team, 8-6, in eight innings. Chris Hartwick led the way with a double, single and four RBIs. Ron Ouvry added two singles for the victors.

Hartwick's single with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth brought two men home. In the bottom of the eighth, Deford batters went down 1-2-3 to give Bill Bader his fifth win. Mike Wilson was the losing pitcher.

The Novesta Church of Christ team defeated the Evangelical Free Church Fraser Presbyterian Church team last Thursday, 6-1. Winning pitcher was Dave Speirs. Paul Bliss took the loss.

The standings:

Farm Bureau endorses candidates

AgriPac, the political action arm of the Michigan Farm Bureau, has endorsed 77th District State Rep. Dick Allen (R-Fairgrove) and 78th District Rep. Keith Muxlow (R-Brown City) for reelection. Allen will be opposed by Democrat Duane Harder of Sebawaing in the November election. Muxlow is unopposed.

Michigan Farm Bureau Vice-president Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, is AgriPac chairman.

Its other endorsements included 8th Congressional District U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City), who is opposed by Republican John Haussner, a retired farmer from Marlette.

Winners told

Winners of the raffle for the Thumb National Bank and Little Caesar's fast-pitch team were drawn July 4. First prize went to Rick VanVliet. Dan Erla won the second place award and Dan Ware the third prize in the 50-50 drawing.

Kings bow in Flint fastpitch

Croft-Clara saw its hopes of a first-place tie in the Flint Fastpitch League disappear Tuesday as the team collected only two hits against Hugh Harris as Nite Cap downed the Kings 1-0 in the opener of the doubleheader.

The Cass Cityans had runners in scoring position in both the first and second innings, but could not get a run across. Harris was tough and didn't allow another base runner, striking out eight in the last five innings. Helwig was tagged with the loss.

In the second game, Croft-Clara claimed sole possession of second place by defeating AUL 2-1 in eight innings. Doug Elbers and Jeff Hartel each had two hits in the victory. Ken Martin was the winning pitcher.

Mitchell Corp. of Corunna took both games during the July 4th Festival, 4-2 and 7-1. Croft-Clara scored early in both games, but Mitchell's key hits and Croft-Clara's timely errors allowed Mitchell to score seemingly at will.

To end the third round of league play, the Kings will face Snitko and American Collision this Thursday night at Whaley Park.

Ten injured in 2 crashes

Road was going to stop, so she braked and then swerved to the right.

The other car, driven by Scott M. Thebe, 19, of Sebewaing, did stop, then proceeded into the intersection, then stopped again when he saw Ms. Zyrowski's car, but it was too late and the vehicles collided.

The accident report said she was taken to Caro Community Hospital, but the hospital had no record of her being treated there.

Kevin L. Tomlinson, 20, of Colwood Road, Caro, sought his own treatment after a 12:50 accident last Wednesday.

Cass City police said Donovan N. Vining, 21, of 5164 Shabbona Road, Decker, was turning left onto Seeger from eastbound Main and turned in front of the westbound Tomlinson motorcycle. The cycle ran into the right side of Vining's auto.

Vining was cited on charges of making an improper turn and driving with license suspended.

Sandra Marie Ellesin, 41, of 1611 N. Murray Road, Cass City, was westbound on Riley Road at 11 p.m. June 29 and tried to turn left onto Ryan Road, deputies said. She turned too wide and ended up in a ditch at the southwest corner of the intersection.

Ms. Ellesin later told officers she saw a car coming southbound in the lane into which she tried to turn, and swerved to avoid the vehicle. She sought her own treatment.

Brian Haley, 17, of 6305 Houghton Street, Cass City, was traveling on Akron Road, east of Green Road, the morning of July 1, deputies said, when he swerved to avoid hitting a deer. His car went into a wheat field and got stuck.

Deputies ticketed David Rowinski, 23, of 5405 Riley Road, Deford, on a charge of driving left of center after an 11:50 a.m. accident July 3 southwest of Caro.

They reported he was southbound on Chambers Road and intended to go straight onto Bruisee Road. Chambers angles off to the southwest at that point. Barbara Lynn Holzworth, 29, of Vassar, was headed northeast on Chambers and their autos collided.

At 1:50 p.m. last Thursday, Cass City police reported, Hazel P. Thorpe, 73, of W. Huron Line Road, Uby, pulled away from a parking place by the north curb on Main Street, east of Downing, and attempted to turn left into a driveway.

Instead, her car ran into the right side of the westbound auto of Robert Chisholm, 64, of 6797 Houghton Street.

Deputies reported that Kristin Pike, 18, of Unionville, was northbound on Colwood Road, south of Dutcher Road, at 2:30 a.m. Saturday when a pheasant struck her windshield and cracked it.

Ralph K. Chappel, 29, of 6591 Harris Road, Kings-ville, was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Kelly Road, at 8:33 p.m. Sunday, according to Cass City police, when his car struck a deer.

FIVE INJURED — Five teenagers were injured when this car driven by Christopher Tracy went off Phillips Road Friday evening into a ditch and flipped over.

WHO NEEDS A CHAINSAW? George Kovach and Bob Fritz won the crosscut saw competition by cutting through this beam in 8.39 seconds during the lumbermen's competition at the festival.

money, although not as much as last year.

Rotary Club members agreed they did as well at their breakfast and afternoon food sale in one day as in 1 1/2 days last year. They served pancakes and sausage and hot dogs and kielbasa this year and last year.

"There was a nice crowd out," said Order of the Eastern Star member Thelma Graham. She estimated the crowd to be about the same as last year and the food profits higher this year than last.

The demolition derby "didn't lose money," according to chairman Dan Ulfig. The profit was reduced by fewer than the expected 50 cars entering -- the derby organizers had to take purse money out of the gate earnings to pay the derby winners. Most of the purse came from entry fees.

Ulfig estimated the derby grossed $2,000, and about 500 persons paid to watch the cars demolish each other.

town. "It draws people into the community. I don't think people realize that."

The ultralight airplane demonstration, scheduled Tuesday evening, was cancelled for a second year in a row because it was too windy. Ironically, it was calm enough for pilot Bob White of Caro to make a test landing on the field behind the high school Monday evening and to fly to Cass City Wednesday morning. He didn't land Wednesday.

The tug-of-war attracted only two men's teams and one women's team, all from out of town. The women's team competed in an exhibition tug with boys recruited from the audience.

Lovejoy said he would like to see the fireworks come back, which were cut from the program this year in order to reduce festival costs.

"It would be nice to have fireworks but we have to cut costs. It would be nice for someone to step forward to fund the fireworks. Fireworks are the 4th of July," he explained.

from the Goslin territory, now in the Cass City district.

Filing a plan to specify how the deficit will be eliminated in order to get permission to borrow the $550,000, he commented, would mean Owen-Gage was admitting it had a deficit.

Owen-Gage pays its teachers and other staff every other week, year-round. Erickson said the district has enough money to make two more payrolls, which are about $30,000 each time.

The monthly financial statement presented to the board listed a balance on hand June 30 of $111,352.

TEACHER LAYOFF

The board laid off high school English teacher Nancy Folk due to "economics and declining enrollment." She has taught at Owen-Gage six years.

The actual staff reduction will be at the elementary school, where there will be seven teachers in 1984-85, one less than last year, due to fewer students. Two combination classes, first-second and fifth-sixth, will be eliminated.

The fifth-sixth grade teacher last year, Kay Erickson, who has taught at Owen-Gage seven or 7 1/2 years, "bumped" Mrs. Folk from the high school position, so will teach English there starting this fall. Mrs. Erickson, the wife of the superintendent, taught English at the high school before transferring to the elementary school.

REORGANIZATION

All officers were reelected to the positions they held last year: Ronald Good, president; Joseph Warack, vice-president; Leona LaFave, secretary; Donna Salcido, assistant secretary; Jack Brinkman, treasurer; Patrick Goslin, assistant treasurer, and Donald Cummins, legislative liaison.

School board meetings will continue to be at 8 p.m. the second Monday of each month, usually alternating between the high school library and elementary school cafeteria.

Depositories for school funds will continue to be First of America Bank, Gageton and Owendale;

New Century Bank, Bad Axe, and First National Bank, Bad Axe and Sebewaing.

The board voted to shift its First of America accounts from passbook savings to investment savings accounts, which pay more interest.

OTHER ITEMS

Twenty-four applications were received for the two cook positions at the elementary school, replacing Mary McKellar and Sue Penrod, who retired.

Hired as head cook was Delores Bencheck, who has been the cook's helper at the elementary school since 1976. A second cook was hired, but has since notified elementary Principal William Britt she now has another job, so another cook will be hired. Hired as the cook's helper, who will work every day, was Jessica Ricker.

No one from the public commented at the scheduled public hearing on the 1984-85 budget, which was adopted. The budget, the same as presented at the June meeting, projects total revenue of $1.2 million and total expenditure of $1.3 million. With the loss being deducted from a listed fund balance of $226,882, the budget projects a fund balance June 30, 1985, of $125,519.

Bids will be solicited for reroofing the house the school district owns in Gageton across from the elementary school.

The board met in executive session for 35 minutes to discuss teacher contract negotiations. Continuation of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission unfair labor practice charge hearing the Tri-County Bargaining Association filed against the school board, scheduled Monday and Tuesday of this week in Detroit, has been postponed.

Alcohol deadly for drivers

Michigan's first drunk driving audit, authorized under the 1982 drunk driving statutes, showed a total of 561 persons killed in 509 alcohol-related accidents during the 1983 reporting period.

The audit, compiled and released recently by the State Police, covered the March 30-Dec. 31 period.

The total number of fatal accidents in the period, 949, involved the deaths of 1,041 people, and more than half those killed died in alcohol-related accidents.

Uby school to vote again

The Uby Board of Education Monday evening decided to schedule a second millage vote for building maintenance.

The special election, at which voters will be asked to approve a one-mill tax increase for two years, will be Sept. 4.

Voters rejected a one-mill increase for one year for school operation and building maintenance in the June 11 school election, 431-325.

On a country basis, the number of alcohol-related deaths were 16 for 10,000 people.

According to the audit, out of 72,155 personal injury accidents in the state, with 107,930 persons injured during that time, 13,875 accidents involved the use of alcohol, with 21,900 people injured.

Owendale festival offers variety

Variety is what persons will get at the Owendale Main Street Summer Festival Friday through Sunday, sponsored by the Community Club.

Friday, the three-day softball tournament begins at 5 p.m. The games will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The Owendale United Methodist Church will host an ice cream social from 5-9 p.m. Friday. The family program from 8-9 in the park will feature the crowning of the festival queen.

Seven or eight have signed up for the pageant, according to Owendale Community Club President Sandra Parks.

The parade will start at 11 a.m. Saturday down Main Street. The Lions Club chicken barbecue will start at 12:30 and run until "the chicken runs out," Mrs. Parks said.

The firemen's waterball competition will start at 1 p.m. About 4-6 fire departments will compete against each other in the game, which involves a yellow ball hanging from a cable. The teams compete to squirt the ball past a marked spot to win, she explained.

The children's games will be Saturday and Sunday. At 1:30 p.m. Saturday, the sheriff's department helicopter will drop candy in a baseball field before the games.

"We have a small area cordoned off and then we let the children in," Mrs. Parks said.

The children's games will be from 2-5 p.m. at the football field. The games will be carnival-type activities like dart tosses, ring tosses and the duck pond, where kids catch plastic ducks to win prizes.

Saturday from 6:30-8:30, a hot air balloon will give rides.

Sunday begins with the continuation of the softball tournaments. At 2, the pony pull will unfold by the football field. At the same time the girls will play the boys in a fun Little League game.

The demolition derby will be 2-4 p.m. at the Owendale Speedway, with a $1,000 purse up for grabs for the winners, Mrs. Parks said.

Every night, the beer tent will feature live music, and will run from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

Bortel honored for agribusiness

Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel will be one of two recipients of Michigan Farmer magazine's Agribusinessman of the Year awards.

The award will be presented during Ag Expo '84 July 24-26 at Michigan State University. It is given to non-farmers who have helped farmers make significant changes.

Bortel will be honored for his leadership in creating the Corn and Sugar Beet Exposition in October, 1976. The show on the Dick Donahue farm north of Caro drew 115 exhibitors and 10,000 farmers in two days.

The show the next year on the John Homakie farm near Unionville, called Michigan Farm Expo, had 214 exhibitors and attracted 35,000 farmers.

Those two shows, the magazine says, served as the proving ground for an annual outdoor farm exhibition, which since 1980 has been conducted at MSU by the Cooperative Extension Service.

"Bortel isn't one to seek credit for proving that farm shows work in Michigan," editor Dick Lehnert wrote in the magazine's July 7 issue. "But here at Michigan Farmer, we believe he did that. This year, we're giving one of our Agribusinessman of the Year awards to William L. Bortel for his leadership in creating a farm show for Michigan. He's a model for others

When Tip O'Neill dances with glee on the White House lawn and the Democrats and the Republicans congratulate themselves on their joint "success" in putting Social Security on a sound basis...look out.

See if your billfold is still in your pocket or purse. It may still be there, but Tip and his boys have already had their fingers in it, and you've been nicked already and will be nicked still more.

And the sad thing about it all is, nothing has been solved.

In 10 years there'll be another crisis, but Tip and President Reagan and Congressman Rostenkowski will be retired to pasture and will be only mildly interested.

Of course, my Congressman, Ol' Claude Pepper will still be there. Everybody knows Claude is immortal. Let's see, it was back in 1977 when Social Security taxes went up, and Claude said, "The tax increase will strengthen the Social Security system, not just for the immediate future, but far into the next century."

This time he promises "75 years." The Congressman will then be 160 years old and still making promises, and still getting re-elected by his south Florida constituents who will be nearly as old as Claude.

As one who has been around a while himself, I recall 1936, about the time Social Security started. The most tax they said we'd ever have to pay would be $90, and the employer would pay half that, according to the Great White Father.

By 1970, the top payments had gone from $45 to $372. Then the gang in Washington opened the floodgates for benefits.

In the next decade, while wages were doubling, Social Security benefits tripled, and taxes which would partly meet these costs quadrupled.

The spending spree, like a drinking spree, was hard to stop. Ever try to get a boozier sobered up so you could get him home?

So the system almost went bust. Let President Reagan suggest that early retirement (age 62) be phased out, and you'd think he was trying to abolish Mother's Day.

Let anyone propose that the regular retirement age be lengthened by only a month each year, and Claude Pepper would be on the evening news and the American Association of Retired Persons' lobbyist in Washington would get out another "news release" calling the aged to arms.

I wrote to Senator Paula Hawkins and asked her what was wrong with making retirement age a month longer each year. She replied, after several weeks, and said it wouldn't save any money.

Meanwhile, Congressman Dan Mica dug up some figures for me, showing savings of $4 billion in the next few years.

The top Social Security tax of $372 a worker paid in 1970 is now $2,391. In 1990 it will be $4,360. This, mind you, is up from the $45 "most-you'll-ever-pay" promise of 1936.

Really, all those figures should be doubled, because the employer pays the same amount. If he didn't have to pay that tax, he could pay higher wages, or lower his prices, or both. Imagine — $8,720 per worker that has to come out of somebody's hide only seven years from now.

Meanwhile, people getting Social Security now pay income tax on half their benefits if their joint income, including benefits, is pushed over $32,000.

If you aren't already depressed, consider this: In 1950, for each person drawing Social Security, there were 16.5 persons paying into the fund.

The number shrank to four in 1965 and is now 3.2. By the year 2000, actuaries guess it will be two.

Hearing cancelled

A fact finding hearing scheduled this Thursday with the Tri-County Bargaining Association and Cass City School Board has been cancelled.

Instead, Supt. Donald Crouse said, there will be a negotiating session.

A second day of the hearing was scheduled July 25. As of now, that is still apparently scheduled, pending the outcome of the negotiating session.

Education aids

Computers at home help children

LAST OF TWO PARTS
By H.V. Wood

Many of the owners of home computers in the Cass City area are parents with young children, who bought the machines to supplement their children's education.

"The time was right," said Connie McNaughton of N. Seeger Street.

"Two of my kids (Justin, 13, and Jennifer, 11) were taking computer classes. In my opinion, when that generation makes it to college or is in business, if they're not conversant with the computer, they're a step behind," said her husband David.

They bought their computer in January, and the entire family is still learning new things on the machine, from word processing to United States geography.

"The computer has been intriguing to us for many years, finding out how it works," Mrs. McNaughton said.

McNaughton said he took a computer programming class at Saginaw Valley State College in the winter "just to keep up with the kids."

Besides Justin and Jennifer, they have three sons, Jude, 9, Joshua, 7, and John, 5.

Jude enjoys the "quick-sketch" program, which allows the user to "draw" pictures on the computer screen. He also enjoys both the fun and the educational software.

"I just like to do lots of things with the computer. Applevision — it's kind of like a dance on the TV. It draws a little room with 'Home Sweet Home' on the wall and then it draws a man that dances," Jude said with a laugh.

JUSTIN RECENTLY started delivering the Bay City Times and wants to make his route go high tech. "I hope what I can do is use a program with a list of my paper route (customers) to keep track of things (accounts)," he explained.

Justin also likes some of the game programs available in computing magazines. About the only thing he dislikes is Math Skills, an arithmetic program for children.

McNaughton, a Walbro executive and adjutant of the Cass City Veterans of Foreign Wars post, uses the computer for word processing. Mrs. McNaughton, a secretary and ambulance driver, also uses it for that purpose.

They also have a program that keeps track of important telephone numbers. McNaughton would like to eventually get a "spread-sheet" program, which is an electronic ledger that keeps track of money.

"I've been amazed by how unimpressed the young people have been by the computer," McNaughton commented. "Ever since the first night I set it up, they said, 'Let me do it by myself,'" McNaughton recalled.

STEVE AND SANDY Wright of Ale Street bought a computer for games and education needs of their daughters Jill, 6, and Heather, 9.

"Basically when we bought the computer and we went to look at them, they weren't promoting games but we did want games (for the children)," Wright said.

They bought a computer last Christmas plus some educational software. Wright said Heather is the "computer whiz kid" in the family, especially enjoying the math program.

"It'll run the times tables and it'll stop every time and then it'll give the answer," he said. "Heather was the one who wanted it and she's the one who uses it the most."

"(I like) lots of things," Heather explained. "Making it say 'Hi' and (make a sound. You have to type stuff and it says, 'Hi, I'm your computer' and stuff. (I like) all the questions it asks."

Jill is learning to spell on the computer. "Even if they're trying to type a game in there, they still learn letters and how to spell," Wright said.

Mrs. Wright said she liked the artistic aspects of the computer; which include a kaleidoscope pattern and a dancing man, and the practical aspects, like keeping an updated shopping list. She works at General Cable and her husband for Wright's Painting.

DORLAND AND ELOISE Kuntz of Quinn Road, Caro, bought a computer, educational software, and games for their children Doug, 15, Tamara, 14, Tricia, 7, and Amy, 5.

"Doug has been using it as a game type thing, him and Tammy. Tricia has been using it for the math helps. Sometimes we have used it with Amy like one (program) for telling time. But both of the younger ones use it for games, too," Kuntz said.

The Kuntzes bought the computer last December after they saw the impact of computers on Tricia. "She just was using the terminology of the computer language and was very interested in having access to a computer. Even the older children were interested in trying it," Mrs. Kuntz recalled.

Kuntz is principal of Evergreen Elementary School in Shabbona. He has purchased a computer for the school and works with the machines constantly at home and office. He and his wife use the home computer to keep the family budget.

"You've probably seen people who have money in envelopes for different things," Mrs. Kuntz said.

"Well, the computer has a record of the money for different things like shopping.

"You can put the money into imaginary accounts (while the money stays in a checking account). So, if you have a $100 checking account, you don't spend the money. You're actually able to save more because you're able to budget it more."

MRS. KUNTZ, WHO manages DK Frames shop in Caro, also wants to store family tree information in the machine. There are software packages available to handle genealogical information.

She has a lot of information on the family, and the computer prints it out quickly if she needs it and keeps a more permanent record than paper files.

The Kuntz family computer is getting a lot of mileage from the children. "The children have used it more than anyone," Mrs. Kuntz said.

"They love it. As a matter of fact, we had to get a second color TV because everyone couldn't use it and watch TV at the same time," Dorland Kuntz said. The computer uses a television as a video display screen.

JUDE McNAUGHTON, 9, looks at his computer program listing, called a "menu," while his brother, Joshua, 7, watches. Jude enjoys the graphics and educational software used with the computer.

Stop-smoking class eases withdrawal

About 23 persons met in a basement room at Hills and Dales General Hospital every Tuesday for five weeks to learn how to quit smoking.

The course, created by doctors for the American Lung Association, was conducted by Dr. Pamela McDermott, M.D., of the Unionville Clinic. It ran from June 12-July 10.

Participants learned ways to stop smoking without drugs or going "cold turkey," and also about the psychology of smoking.

"It's sort of a two-pronged thing. One is dealing with the addictive appetite, (with) gradual reduction of cigarettes as you would any drug. That means the amount and how much you smoke of each cigarette," Dr. McDermott said.

"The second is dealing with the habit. We call it a behavior modification. And what we're doing is breaking the connection between what triggers the smoker and the cigarette."

At the first week of the clinic, smokers learn about their behaviors using a guidebook from the Lung Association. They answer a series of questions on why people smoke. This sets up the framework for the gradual removal of cigarettes from their lives.

"You find them dealing with the ritual of addiction," Dr. McDermott explained. "That's why so many find it difficult to quit cold turkey. After four days, the blood level of the addictive level of cigarettes is gone, but you're not done yet."

"What you (still) have is a habitually learned response."

Participants learned about smoking situations which have become habits. For example, two of the most common habit triggers are lighting up while having coffee or talking on the phone. Dr. McDermott suggested ways to break the connection between the cigarette and the trigger.

Smokers who have a cigarette with coffee are advised to drink something else — fruit juice or diet pop — to change the trigger and to eventually break the habit.

During the second week participants "work specifically on their own things and how to break the trigger. They reduce both physical and psychological dependence on their cigarettes," Dr. McDermott said.

It's time to stop during week 3. Persons put aside their cigarettes, hopefully for good, she commented. They continue to work on breaking smoking triggers.

The last two weeks are continuation of week 3, avoiding cigarettes and offering support to others in the clinic who are having the most problems staying off the habit.

Persons in the clinic did not want to talk to the Chronicle about their experiences.

Dr. McDermott has been doing lifestyle courses on family living and health for several years, and the Lung Association program appealed to her.

"It's in response to the fact you can't tell people to just stop smoking. It's hard," she stressed.

Those interested in the program can use the self-help book "Freedom from Smoking in 20 Days," published by the Lung Association. Dr. McDermott said persons can contact their local Lung Association to order the book, which costs $7.

"Tell them they don't have to go to class. They can do it themselves, too."

Walbro develops new carburetor

Walbro Corporation's Carburetor Group has developed a new float feed carburetor, the LMS, especially for Briggs and Stratton Corp.

It will debut on Briggs and Stratton's new four-cycle engine. Other applications are currently under development for power plants in the 3-5-horsepower range.

Walbro engineers worked closely with Briggs and Stratton personnel in developing the LMS carburetor to meet goals which included easy starting, low cost and fast development to meet tight production schedules.

The easy-start goal was important because safety requirements in many cases result in the need to frequently restart equipment due to automatic engine shutdown features.

The carburetor design features allow easier installation and greater serviceability.

BELLE SCHWADERER AWARD winner was the Tuscola County Pumpkin Festival float. The festival will be in Caro in October.

THE PROVINCIAL HOUSE float was recipient of the Meredith B. Auten award in the Fourth of July Festival parade.

DR. HARRY CRANDELL AWARD winner was the joint entry of the Salem and Trinity United Methodist Churches. Riding on it were the churches' pastors, Rev. Clare Patton (left) of Salem and Rev. James McCallum of Trinity.

Set apprentice test

Persons must register for the test by calling the Human Development Commission in Caro, the substance abuse coordinating agency for the five counties, 673-4121, by Aug. 1. Ask for Ellen Glaza.

A study manual "Fundamentals of Substance Abuse Counseling," should be reviewed prior to the test. It can be ordered by calling Michigan Substance Abuse Information Clearinghouse at (517) 485-9900. Those who pass this test will be certified by the state Office of Substance Abuse Service.

Goat milk co-op being organized

Goat dairying has increased in Michigan over the past few years. Now, a new way of marketing the milk may be possible.

A group of goat milk producers is beginning to form a cooperative to market goat milk in areas such as Flint, Detroit and Saginaw.

Interested goat milk producers are invited to a meeting to set up the new cooperative. It will be Wednesday, July 25, at 7 p.m. at the Dale Burkhardt farm, Port Hope.

Reducing soil erosion

Soil erosion is more prevalent today in Tuscola County than 20 years past. This is due to larger fields, more intensive row crop rotations, larger equipment, more low residue crops, and less regard for a long term soil maintenance program.

Conservation tillage, no-till, and ridge-till are farming methods which greatly reduce soil erosion in the fields. These practices have expanded from less than 1,000 acres to over 30,000 acres in the past 5 years; however they still cover less than 10 percent of the cropland in Tuscola County.

This spring, high winds and recent rain storms remind landowners that soil erosion is a problem in Tuscola County. When the winds diminish and the rains cease, the concern dies until the next damaging storm.

The damage resulting from wind and water erosion can occur from one or two storms each year; however, it may take several years to repair these damages and the yield losses will never be recovered.

Landowners need to view the broad picture of their soil management and use long lasting erosion control measures which are planned in advance and fit to each individual situation.

Don't become engulfed by the typical American attitude of waiting for the disaster before taking any action.

The soil conservation district was organized to assist landowners in soil erosion control and proper land management.

Persons should visit the office at 852 S. Hooper in Caro and discuss their land management needs with the soil conservation staff.

Thumb Electric to refund customers

Thumb Electric Cooperative of Ubyl has asked the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) for authority to begin refunding $117,276 to its 9,300 member-customers in Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties.

The request was made in a motion filed with the commission during power supply cost recovery proceedings in Lansing.

Michael P. Krause, Thumb Electric manager, said the refund is possible because power supply costs for the 15-month period ending March 31 were less than originally projected.

Assuming the MPSC approves the request, the refund will equal about one-third of a cent per kilowatt hour, which means a $2.65 refund for customers using 800 kwh per month.

If the request is approved, refunds could begin as early as September and should continue through January, 1985.

No-till corn meeting Tuesday

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is sponsoring a no-till meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m.

It will be at the Tom Hess farm on Hardy Road, a quarter mile east of Kirk Road. The location is two miles west of Watrousville, then a half mile south of M-81 on Kirk, then east on Hardy.

Hess planted corn into a hay field using a White planter with no-till attachments.

He has a good stand of corn and virtually no erosion on his 10 percent slopes from the gully washing rains this spring. Hess said the quality of stand over the hard clay knobs is the best he has seen in that field.

Malted milk was invented in the 1880s in Racine, Wisconsin, and was originally called "Diastoid."

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Thousands lined Main Street to watch Cass City's first annual Fourth of July Festival parade. An estimated 12,000-15,000 persons enjoyed the day-long festivities. The 75-unit parade took almost 50 minutes to pass by.

fleet ballistic missile submarine USS Kamehameha, homeported in Groton, Conn.

New books at the library

GO FOR IT: HOW TO WIN AT LOVE, WORK AND PLAY by Irene Kassoria (non-fiction). Psychologist Kassoria believes we all have within us the power to change, to transform losing behavior into winning behavior. She has noticed in the course of her professional work "...that successful people share very similar thinking and behavioral patterns." Her book identifies the characteristics of winners and losers, in their thoughts and actions, and presents ways for readers to accentuate the positive. She also discusses the hidden powers of honesty and vulnerability; techniques for better communication, particularly in situations of conflict, and methods for coping with fear of failure, success or new and untried directions.

DANCE HALL by Bernard F. Connors (fiction). When the body of Ann Conway is discovered, dredged up from the depths of Lake Placid 20 years after her death, Dave Powell's life begins to crumble. His business is in trouble, and his perfect marriage to Sue, a lovely, self-contained woman, is showing signs of strain. Daughter Dana, a fragile loving child, is the bright spot in his life. The scene of the story shifts from Lake Placid to Tarrytown, where the Powell estate turns up yet two more bodies in the course of the bizarre cliff hanger that ultimately sends one of the principals to Green Haven Prison and "the Dance," the holding area next to the execution chamber.

Children's movies to be shown on Thursday, July 12, are "Stuart Little" and "Lend a Paw."

HEALTH TIPS

Tips to avoid getting burned

The National Institute for Burn Medicine (NIBM) wants persons to know that nearly 90 percent of burn accidents can be prevented if they take a few minutes to be careful.

Here are suggestions for safety for seven potentially dangerous activities:

1) Power Engines -- Never add gasoline to a hot engine. Turn off your lawnmower and let it cool before you fill it with gasoline. To prevent igniting combustible vapors remaining from pouring the gasoline, move your mower to another spot before restarting it.

Follow these same guidelines for chain saws or other gas-powered machines. For inboard motors on boats, be sure to ventilate well after filling so that no gasoline vapor is present on ignition. Never start gasoline engines indoors.

2) Gasoline -- Store it in a safe, clearly marked container made specifically for gasoline storage. Keep it in a cool, out-of-the-way place such as a locked utility shed away from your house. Never store gasoline in your house.

Better yet, don't store gasoline. Buy it in one time quantities as you need it.

3) Barbecues -- Barbecue only out-of-doors in well ventilated areas away from walls or fences that could ignite. Let starter fluid soak into coals before lighting a match for a charcoal fire. Use enough starter fluid before you light the fire so that you never need to add lighter fluid to burning coals.

Never use gasoline to start a fire. When you are finished with a barbecue fire, douse the coals. Don't throw them on the ground where they will be stepped on.

4) Sunburn -- Protect your skin from hot summer sun by using clothes and a sunscreen. Remember that the skin of infants, children, and people with poor circulation such as diabetics is very susceptible to sunburn.

5) Camping -- When camping, use a tent made of flame-retardant material. Be careful with stoves, lanterns, and campfires. Douse them carefully when finished using. Never let children play near an open flame or hot lantern or stove.

6. Storms -- Never swim or golf during a thunderstorm. If electrical (power) lines are downed from a storm, stay away from the area. Call the electric company immediately.

7. Do-it-yourself Repairs -- Summer is a prime time for do-it-yourself repairs! Follow manufacturers instructions carefully. Keep children away from heat sources. Use flammable materials only in well ventilated places.

What if your clothing does catch on fire?

STOP, DROP and ROLL! Smother the flames. Don't run! Once the fire is out, be sure the victim is breathing; then cool the area with tap water, not ice.

If the injury is small, wash with soap and water, rinse thoroughly and apply a bland ointment. Repeat twice daily.

If you see any signs of inflammation, redness, pain, heat, swelling, or if you are at all concerned, call a doctor.

If the injury is larger than half the palm of your hand, wrap the area in a clean, dry cloth, and seek medical help immediately.

The famous violin maker, Stradivarius, whose products now sell for thousands of dollars, sold them originally in the early 1700s for what would be less than $10 today.
