

Free food for needy revived

The Cass City food closet at the First Baptist Church will reopen Tuesday with full shelves, now that a "communications breakdown" with the area Human Development Commission has been restored. Originally the food closet was supposed to close indefinitely because of lack of funding, according to a story in last week's Chronicle.

Food closet coordinator Carol LaPonsie said HDC funding has "opened up," and the food program for the needy will resume.

"What there had been was a communications breakdown," said Pat Christy, HDC outreach director. "She (Mrs. LaPonsie) was trying to call me and I was trying to call her."

There was confusion over when money to buy food would run out.

However, funding for the food closets is expected to last through October or November. HDC is involved with 35 food closets in Tuscola, Sanilac, Huron and Lapeer Counties.

The Cass City food closet is the only one in Tuscola that lacks community support, according to Ms. Christy.

Mrs. LaPonsie said she will contact church groups to try and get more monetary and/or food donations.

Also, "we are (also) going to adjust the amount we've been giving away to bring it in line with other area food closets. We have been liberal in the past."

Those who are unemployed and without any government assistance will get more food than those with food stamps or other aid. A prime candidate in this category would be at least three families which went to Florida in search of work, found none and came back worse off than before, Mrs. LaPonsie said.

Those families cannot get government aid in Michigan until they re-establish residency.

HDC will give the Cass City food closet $500-$750 to restore its food supply, according to Ms. Christy. Mrs. LaPonsie said only baby food, a box of cereal and perhaps one can of food remain.

"We're happy to be in business again and hope it will serve a real need in the area," she added.

38 year wait ends for Cliff Seeley

The Army awarded two medals to Clifford Seeley, 5217 Buehly Road, Cass City. That would be rather commonplace, except Seeley served in World War II and 38 years passed before he got his medals.

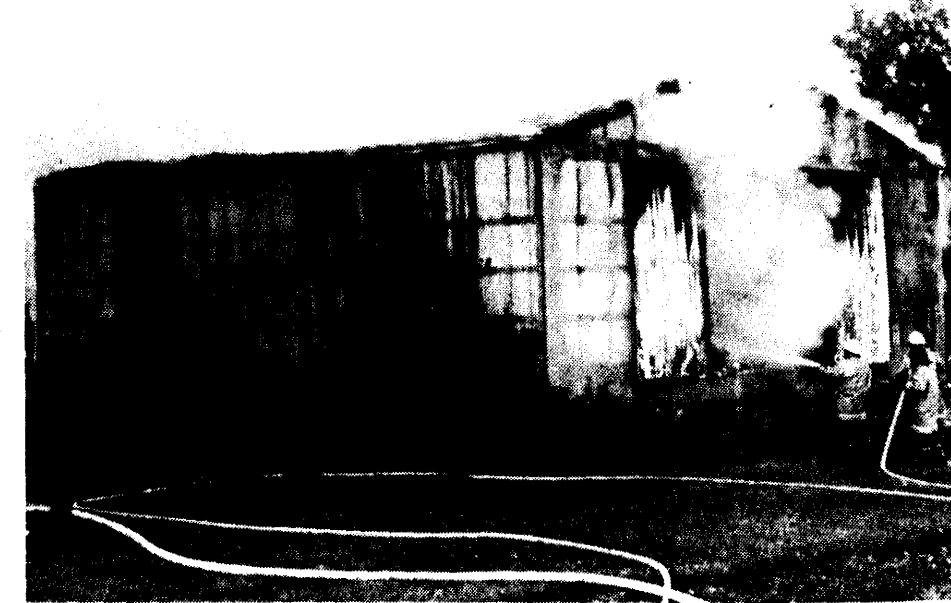

His discharge form indicated he would receive a medal for being part of the occupation forces in Germany and a victory medal issued to all World War II soldiers. However, in the mad rush of processing returning GIs, the Army never gave Seeley his medals.

Seeley was 18 when he was drafted to serve in the U.S. Army. He could have gotten a deferment to stay on the family farm and help his disabled father, George Seeley, but he felt a duty to his country.

He entered 16 weeks of basic training beginning in May, 1945, which included anti-aircraft and infantry training. Soldiers received a 21-day leave after basic and then went to Germany.

By the time Seeley, now 57, arrived in Germany in November, 1945, the war there had been over six months. He was part of the occupation forces in southern Germany.

Seeley spent the first three months of his tour in Badtoz. "It wasn't touched (bombed) at all. It was just a little village," he recalled.

BARN FIRE -- There was more smoke than fire when the Kevin Anthony barn on Spencer Road, east of Germania Road in Greenleaf Township, burned Monday evening. Loss was estimated at $30,000.

Lightning probably strikes, barn burns

Unfortunately for Kevin Anthony, lightning does strike twice.

The Spencer Road, Uby, resident was injured June 12 when lightning struck his outside television antenna while he was connecting the wire from it to his television.

Tuesday evening, a fire apparently started by lightning destroyed his barn. The loss, according to Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., has been estimated at $15,000 to the barn and $15,000 to the contents. The fire was reported to the department at 6:45.

A tree in the backyard, about 25 yards from the barn, was split its entire length by a lightning bolt.

Though it is possible the lightning may have traveled from the tree to the barn, Root said, he could find no evidence of that having happened or that it entered through electrical lines to the barn.

Another possibility is that a second bolt hit the barn.

Anthony was at the baby sitter's, picking up his two children, about 1½ miles away, when the lightning struck. His wife, Jean, was at work.

He told the Chronicle that when he returned home, the first thing he noticed was that his television -- and new antenna -- didn't work. When he looked outside, he saw the barn was burning.

Elkland firemen, who had a pumper and tanker at the scene, were assisted by the Bingham Township Fire Department, which also had a pumper and tanker there, and the Elmwood Township-Gagetown department, which had a tanker there.

High humidity and temperatures turned the inside of firemen's rubber coats and boots into sauna baths, which made doing their job difficult.

Elkland firemen returned to the fire hall about 8:29 p.m.

Contents of the metal sided wood two-level barn, according to Anthony, included a large quantity of lumber and other building materials, a fiberglass garage door, snowmobile, outboard motor, straw and miscellaneous items.

Four cattle that occupied the lower level of the barn got out safely.

nary people. They were forced to do a lot of stuff. If they had a son, he had to serve in the German Army, whether he liked it or not. A lot didn't like war any more than we did. You take the German Army -- they wasn't any different than us," Seeley commented.

No one in the 390th AAA liked to march, but because they were attached to the infantry unit, they went on a march once a month. Leisure time provided several activities for soldiers.

"They had clubs and eats. They had the USO. We had our own clubs and we had dances twice a week. They (the men) would go out and pick up a German girl and take her to the dance," Seeley remembered.

He saw the Dachau concentration camp, which was empty and bleak. Seeley remembered seeing a shower room with showerheads that really emitted a poisonous gas to kill the prisoners.

IN OCTOBER, 1946, Seeley returned home. "When we got to Fort Sherman (Illinois), there were more than 5,000 there who served in the Pacific and they discharged them first."

"I don't know if it was a mistake (that he did not get the medals). They were rushing to discharge us. A Driver and owner of the car was Rayford Sowden of Vassar. The fire was reported to the Elkland Township Fire Department at 8:04, when the car was at M-81 and Spence Road, west of Cass City.

Assistant Fire Chief Milton Connolly said the fire started in the engine compartment. He speculated the cause may have been the engine backfiring through the carburetor.

Milligan wins in Elkland

Senior citizen millage, Sattelberg win in Tuscola

Senior citizens were a big winner in Tuscola County voting Tuesday, while the millage levy to build an addition to the courthouse was defeated.

In the only countywide primary election, Ann L. Sattelberg easily won the Republican nomination for register of deeds over Velna A. Richter, 2,244-622. All vote totals are unofficial.

In Elkland Township, David Milligan easily won the Republican nomination for supervisor over Clara Gaffney, 205-51, so he will succeed retiring Jack Gallagher, since no Democrat is running.

Renewal of the 0.2 mill levy for senior citizen programs for four years was approved, 2,753-1,274. Of the 31 precincts in Tuscola County, the only one in which the measure didn't pass was Millington Township No. 2, where it tied, 51-51.

The measure put on the ballot by the county Board of Commissioners for a 0.25 mill tax increase for five years to pay for an addition to the courthouse annex was defeated, 2,198-1,697. It passed in only seven precincts, one of them being Elkland Township No. 2, 70-63. The measure won by the biggest margin in Wells Township, 72-14.

Mrs. Richter, loser for register of deeds, didn't even carry her home township of Kingston, where she lost, 43-27.

Mrs. Sattelberg, presently deputy register of deeds, will succeed the retiring John Marshall of Cass City, since no Democrat is running. She carried all but two precincts.

In legislative races, Congressman Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, received 948 votes. His Republican challenger in November, John Heussner, received 1,881 primary votes.

77th District State Rep. Dick Allen, R-Fairgrove, received 2,800 votes. His Democratic challenger in the general election, Duane Harder, got 411.

Sanilac voters retire Dundas, Osborn wins

Sanilac County Sheriff Ross Dundas, who contemplated retirement but then decided to run again, will be retiring Jan. 1, voters decided Tuesday.

Dundas, sheriff since 1965, finished third in a field of six candidates seeking the Republican nomination.

The winner was John Osborn, a sheriff's deputy for nine years, who received 3,129 votes.

Next came former probation officer Jim Merriman, 2,524 votes; followed by Dundas, 2,203; David Hall, a sergeant in the sheriff's department, 1,107; Lexington Police Chief James Anderson, 283, and Deputy Patrick Patten, 206. Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney James Young won the GOP nod for prosecuting attorney with 6,149 votes over Croswell attorney Philip Lomason, 2,606. The present prosecutor didn't seek reelection.

Maurice Turnbull, register of deeds since 1961, won renomination over challenger Tim Hutchinson, 6,106-2,597.

Stuart Armstead, drain commissioner for 30 years, turned back the challenge of Wayne Laursen for the GOP nomination, 4,907-3,644.

None of those running for countywide office have Democratic opponents in the Nov. 6 general election, unless someone runs as a write-in.

Unopposed were county Clerk Delene Schultheiss, 7,438 votes, and Treasurer Ken Rhead, 7,260.

In District 5 of the county Board of Commissioners, incumbent Donald Decker won the GOP nomination over challenger Lloyd F. Buhl, 1,047-629. The district consists of Evergreen, Greenleaf, Argyle, Austin, Lamotte, Minden, Delaware and Marion Townships, plus part of Forester.

That was the only candidate contest. Renewal of 1 mill for 1985-88 for roads was approved, 53-48.

ARGYLE -- Incumbent Republican treasurer Kathy O'Connor won renomination, 101-75, over Sally Henry. A tax increase of 1 mill for three years for the fire

MILLAGES

A tax increase of 0.2 mill for four years for libraries was approved, 5,205-4,360.

The measure lost in Greenleaf Township, 24-74, and in Evergreen Township, 39-41. Both contract with Rawson Memorial Library in Cass City, which will receive some funds from the millage.

Renewal of 0.2 mill for four years for senior citizen activities was approved, 6,425-3,116. The measure won in Greenleaf, 58-44, and in Evergreen, 52-27.

TOWNSHIPS

GREENLEAF -- Gerald Bock, supervisor for 12 years, narrowly turned back the challenges of Gary Wills for the Republican nomination, 53-46. No Democrat is running.

That was the only candidate contest. Renewal of 1 mill for 1985-88 for roads was approved, 53-48.

ARGYLE -- Incumbent Republican treasurer Kathy O'Connor won renomination, 101-75, over Sally Henry. A tax increase of 1 mill for three years for the fire department was approved, 105-69. Another proposed tax increase, also new, of 3 mills for three years for road maintenance, was defeated, 76-94.

AUSTIN -- Renewal of 2½ mills for five years for roads was okayed, 66-39.

EVERGREEN -- No primary contests.

LAMOTTE -- Retiring supervisor Jack Gillig lost his bid to be nominated for trustee. The GOP winners were Ronald Shaw, 167, and Charles Roggenbuck, 129. Gillig received 79 votes. No Democrats are running.

Renewal of the Detroit Edison franchise was approved, 180-61.

MOORE -- A tax increase of 2 mills for five years to build a new fire hall was defeated, 174-207.

Renewal of the Detroit Edison franchise was okayed, 274-104.

Incumbent clerk David Jansen defeated GOP challenger, Gary Best, 229-140.

Sanilac has greatest turnout of voters

Four countywide races in Sanilac County resulted in a comparatively large turnout of voters in Tuesday's primary election.

Of those registered, 44.3 percent went to the polls.

In Huron, which had two countywide races, 39.4 percent of the 21,894 registered went to the polls.

In Tuscola, where there was only one countywide contest, only 16.7 percent of the 30,331 registered voted.

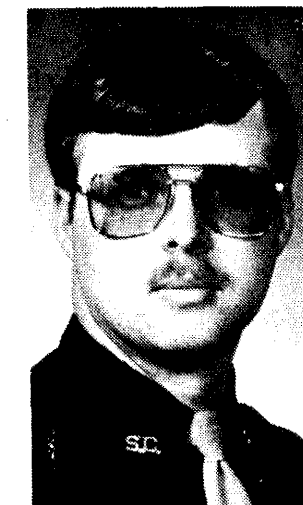

The turnout ranged from 6.1 percent voting in Vassar City to 40.2 percent in Indianfields Township precinct No. 2.

In the Cass City area, the percentage of registered voters voting was: Elkland, 17.5 percent; Ellington, 24.6 percent; Elmwood, 15.2 percent; Novesta, 19.0 percent, and Kingston, 22.9 percent.

The upper Thumb followed the state trend with ex-astronaut Jack Lousma winning the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate over ex-Congressman Jim Dunn. Lousma received 4,478 votes in Sanilac, 2,655 in Huron and 1,515 in Tuscola.

The votes for Dunn were: Sanilac, 3,166; Huron, 2,224, and Tuscola, 1,463.

Lousma will run in the Nov. 6 general election against incumbent Democratic Senator Carl Levin, who received 943 votes in Tuscola, 845 in Huron and 587 in Sanilac.

Bridal shower conducted for Tammy Koss

A miscellaneous bridal shower was conducted at 1 p.m. July 29 in St. John's Catholic Church Hall, Uby, in honor of Tammy Kay Koss of Gagetown.

Hostesses were the mother of the bride, Eleanor Koss; the maid of honor, Frances Szukala; the bridesmaids, Kim Koss, Deborah Marks, and the bride's aunts, Delores Ulfig and Bernice Skipinski.

Miss Koss received a corsage consisting of three purple gladioli, greens, and a lavender satin ribbon, a gift from her mother.

The bride's table was decorated with white and lavender streamers, a musical-dancing bride and groom, and a wicker basket with an old fashion mixture of purple, lavender, and white silk flowers with lavender ribbon, which was made by her aunts, Mrs. Ulfig and Mrs. Skipinski.

The afternoon was spent playing bride bingo and other various paper games: "How well do you know the bride," "cluttered kitchen words" and "find the word," with prizes awarded.

The door prize was won by Eleanor Koss of Gagetown, who presented it to the bride.

Miss Koss and Jeffrey Guigar, the groom-to-be, opened their gifts and were assisted by Aaron Koss, nephew of the bride, Amanda Spencer, niece of the bride and flower girl, and the bridesmaids.

A buffet luncheon was served to about 30 guests who attended from Gagetown, Uby, Bad Axe, Harbor Beach, Snover, Decker, Flint, Owosso, Lake Orion, Byron, and Swartz Creek.

A special shower cake with lavender trimmings and purple violets was decorated for the occasion.

Miss Koss will marry Guigar, of Uby, Sept. 8, at 2 p.m. in St. John's Catholic Church, Uby, Father Patrick O'Connor officiating. It will be a double-ring ceremony.

JULIE AND DAVID POWERS

Julie Anne Helwig, Cass City, and David Dean Powers, Kentwood, were married July 7 in an afternoon double-ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Cass City by Rev. John R. Wood.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Helwig of Cass City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Powers of Muscatine, Iowa.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted by her father. She wore a chiffon gown over taffeta featuring a high neckline of Alencon lace on the collar and bodice accented with seed pearls. Schiffl embroidery covered the full skirt and Alencon lace accented the cathedral-length train.

The short puffed sleeves were accented with Alencon lace appliques and seed pearls. She wore a circle headpiece of matching lace and pearls which held a cathedral-length veil.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, gardenias, miniature carnations, stephanotis and greenery.

Joan Helwig of Cass City was matron of honor for her sister-in-law.

She wore a taffeta full-length gown of rosette, featuring a scalloped neckline of lace with ruffles around the back of the bodice. Puffed sleeves and a large back bow accented the gown. She wore a wreath of white and rosette silk flowers in her hair. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, statice and greenery.

Bridal attendants were Deb Ransom, Grant, friend of the bride; Shelly Cone, Grand Rapids, friend of the bride; Julie K. Powers, Presidio Of Monterey, Calif., sister of the groom, and Carol L. Powers, Dallas, Texas, sister of the groom. Their gowns and bouquets were identical to the matron of honor's. Best man was Mitchell Waite, Kentwood, friend of the groom.

Groomsmen were Jeff Cochran, Pekin, Ill., friend of the groom; Mike Poulos, Des Plaines, Ill., friend of the groom; Brad Bower, Muscatine, Iowa, friend of the groom, and Brian Helwig, Cedarville, Ohio, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Craig Helwig, Cass City, brother of the bride, and Greg Williams, Pontiac, friend of the groom.

Donald Greenleaf was pianist, Denise Zmierski played the trumpet. Guitarist and soloist was Kendall Harger. Shirley Shaw was also a soloist.

A buffet dinner was served at the reception at the Novesta Church of Christ fellowship hall.

Assisting with the cake were Deb Parrott and Laura Enos. Serving punch was Sherry Hillaker. Wendy Ware, Shelbyville, Ind., registered guests. Janet Eria, Cass City, was in charge of the gifts and Lynn Sherman, Cass City, served as the wedding coordinator.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island and Traverse City, the couple is residing at 3168 1-B Wingate S.E., Kentwood.

The bride is a graduate of Grand Rapids Junior College in dental assisting. She is employed by Drs. J. Bolt and D. Lamberts, periodontists.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Regular readers may recall an item that appeared in this trivia telling of a story in Michigan History about the Vender store in Bad Axe written by the Rev. Melvin Vender of Cass City.

Overlooked in that same issue, says Jack Esau, was an article about Professor Beale, head of the Botany Department at Michigan State.

It was written by David Thomas, a grandson of the late Herb Lenzner, the first and only other owner of the Chronicle.

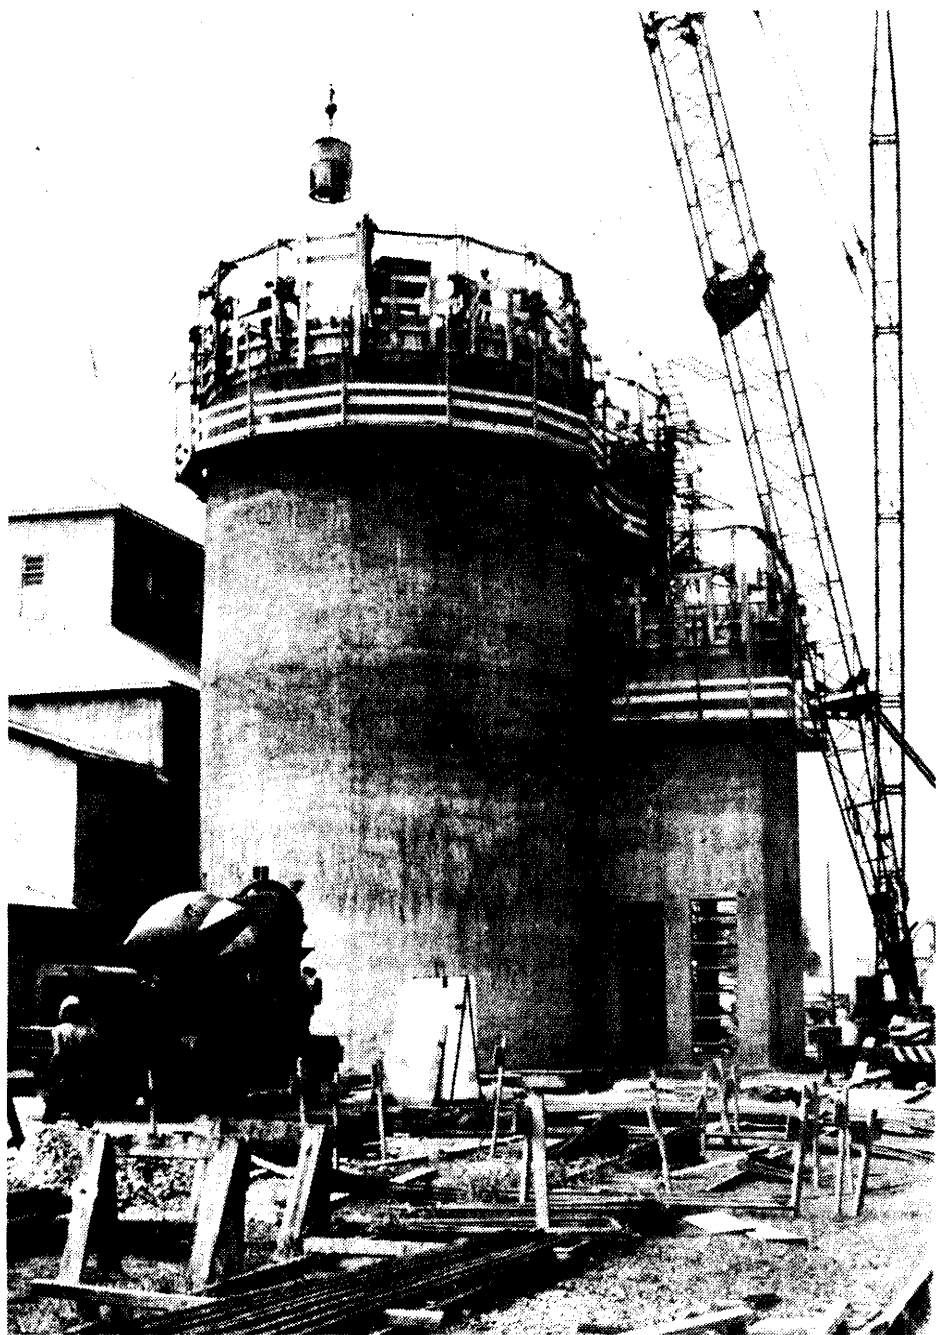

Esau says that Cass City seldom gets in the magazine and then scores a double header in the July-August issue.

After seven years, Editor Mike Eliasohn moves on to Benton Harbor and the Herald-Palladium, a 30,000 circulation daily.

It goes without saying that his departure will leave a void in the paper. Mike's dedication is well known to most Cass Cityans who became accustomed to seeing him at his desk burning the midnight oil.

This will be Mike's last issue and he'll celebrate by handling the election and probably working all night Tuesday. That's typical of the best editor we ever had.

NEW SKYLINE -- Pouring of the two 30-by-100 silos at the Pillsbury elevator in Owendale took place around the clock from Monday through Friday of last week. More than half done when this photo was taken, they rose at the rate of about 1 foot per hour. Fifty construction workers were split into two 12-hour shifts to do the pouring. Contractor was Stout Construction of Sylvania, Ohio. The $550,000 project is supposed to be completed by the start of dry bean harvesting.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Where's the Snickers?

By Jim Fitzgerald

A reader mailed me a broken knob from her Sears washing machine. I am grateful to her. She has furnished the ammunition I need to shoot at my children and other cold-eyed onlookers who refused to sympathize when they heard me sobbing because I couldn't find my Snickers bar in the refrigerator.

The Snickers was a gift from Jean Finn, a nice woman who attends the same church I go to — when I go. That's what started the trouble: On a recent Sunday morning, I didn't wake up in time, and my wife had to go to church alone, which always makes her unreasonably angry. So when Jean handed my wife the Snickers and told her to give it to me, she didn't want to.

Incidentally, it should be pointed out that I loved Snickers bars long before they became an official 1984 Olympics snack food. I withdrew my participation from the current Games because Olympic officials refused to guarantee me protection against being awed to death by TV announcers who think they're describing the Second Coming of Christ on the radio.

So nothing written here today about Snickers should be interpreted as an endorsement of the Olympics. I consider myself the official grump of the Olympic Games, and I don't intend to reconsider my position until the Russians in Afghanistan are permanently replaced by Howard Cosell, Jack Whitaker and Cathy Rigby.

Anyway, my wife was too honest to eat my Snickers or dump it down a sewer on the way home. She said Jean sent me a Snickers. "It's in the refrigerator," she said fiendishly.

That is the same as saying my Snickers was dropped down the Black Hole of Calcutta. As previously reported, our refrigerator light has been out longer than anyone still alive can remember. And my wife is the leftover-in-a-plastic-dish waste-not-want-not queen of the universe. Also, she stores a loaf of bread by cramming it between the top of a milk carton and the bottom of a shelf, behind a bottle of orange juice and two heads of cabbage. The bread cannot be removed without hiring the services of a cartage company.

I asked her which shelf she put my Snickers on. Was it in front or back, left or right, high or low? She said she forgot. All she could remember was that I didn't get up in time for church.

By midnight that Sunday, I was the victim of a severe Snickers fit. My hands were cold mold to the elbows from rummaging blindly through the refrigerator. My wife went to bed, still refusing to give even the loudest little hint as to where my Snickers was buried. So naturally I sobbed and pounded my head on the floor.

And that's when my unsympathetic children and other cold-eyed onlookers said it was my own fault. If I weren't so cheap, they said, I'd get the refrigerator light fixed, and then I'd be able to find my dumb Snickers. Such brutal callousness left me speechless — until the Sears washer knob arrived in the mail.

Broken into two parts, the knob appeared to be made of silver-plated tissue paper. It was wrapped in a bill that said the cost of the knob was $1.99. The bill also said Sears charged $32.82 to replace the $1.99 knob.

My children and other cold-eyed onlookers have to understand that I will not pay $40 to have a $2 light switch replaced. There are worse things than losing a Snickers in a refrigerator, and there are worse reactions than sobbing and pounding the floor with a live head.

But I'll never miss Sunday church again. I've been born again by a Snickers bar.

When to register

Men born on or after Jan. 1, 1960, are required to register with Selective Service within a month of their 18th birthday.

Registration can be done at any post office and requires filling out a form asking for name, date of birth, address, telephone number and Social Security number.

Almost without exception they break down and cry. Some just a tear or so and others with an unstoppable torrent. You know something? It's the same if it's the Chinese, Japanese, Americans or what have you mounting that center pedestal. People are the same everywhere.

Somehow that emotion translates over the tube as you watch. You're pretty hard hearted if you can't feel it. When the National Anthem is played there's a tendency to choke up a little if you're like me.

Crying has to be an emotional release, too. After years and years of incredible dedication it's over and you've seen the ambition of a young lifetime realized.

Frankly, when it was announced that the Russians and the eastern countries weren't coming I decided watching the Olympics was a waste and I wasn't going to do it.

But these are the dog days of summer. Really, right now there isn't all that much left to do. Regular television programs are...well you know what they are. Reruns, reruns, reruns except for the ball games and even those seem to be in the summer doldrums.

The Olympics were forced on me and now I'm glad they were. Okay, so every night four or five hours is a little much, but the beauty of the competition is that you can tune-in and figure out what you want to see without sitting glued to the set all night.

In truth there are a few of those sports that I never heard of. Greco wrestling is one. Yet when John Fraser of Ann Arbor won, it put that obscure sport in a whole new light.

The different types of bicycle racing also were enlightening. Before last week if someone said what do they do in a bike race, the answer would have been line up and race.

Probably next week.

Wright-Decker reunion held

The first reunion of the family of the late Charles O. Wright and Emily Wright Decker was held Sunday at the Cass City Recreation Park with 84 persons in attendance.

The oldest person present was Verneta Stilson of Cass City. The youngest was Ashley Joy Adams, child of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Adams of Gagetown.

The 1985 reunion will take place at the same location.

The Haire Net

Every so often in column writing the week comes when there is absolutely nothing that seems worthy of a few hundred well chosen words.

When that happens you talk about the weather or fill in with smaller than column size worthy items hoping that by the next week the drought will pass.

One of those items is the reaction of the gold medal winners in the Olympics.

Pedaling Around

This space for rent

By Mike Eliasohn

After having been downtown Cass City's night-light for more than seven years, this is my last column.

Starting Monday, I will be working as a reporter for the Herald-Palladium in Benton Harbor-St. Joseph in southwest Michigan.

The grass is only slightly greener, but the hours I will have to work are considerably less.

On the other hand, I will be starting work at 7 or 7:30 a.m., versus about 8:10 now, which means I will have to get up about 6 a.m. As far as I am concerned, God only meant for dairy farmers and soldiers to be up at that hour, so I am not looking forward to that aspect of my new job.

I am also not looking forward to winters on the shore of Lake Michigan. Sure it's nice this time of year, but who needs a blizzard coming off the lake at full force.

It has been an interesting 7+ years here. My first day here was June 13, 1977, which was the day school elections were taking place. I remember the first photograph I took here -- it was of George Bushong emerging from an election booth.

What makes this job difficult is there usually isn't enough routine stuff (government and school board meetings, police news, fires, etc.) to fill these pages and unlike dailies, there are no news-wire stories to fill the empty pages with.

What that has meant for me over the past seven years has been the opportunity to talk to many and write about many persons that the dailies would ignore.

For purposes of simplicity, I will not name names, but I've interviewed two 100-year-old men. There was the couple who was married 70 years and the woman who played piano Sunday mornings at her church for more than 50 years.

I have interviewed an astronaut who flew in outer space, but I've also interviewed persons who helped install the wiring that brought electricity to rural homes in the upper Thumb in the 1930s and others who remembered the first time their electric lights came on.

There was the school teacher who rode 10,000 miles on the back of a motorcycle and teachers who started in one room schools, where they had to stoke the furnace and sweep the floor as well as teach.

I regret I never got around to doing some things. I never wrote the letter to the person who might have known what happened to the mastodon bones found by Francis McDonald in 1927 or investigated a little further into why famed outlaw Butch Cassidy, when he returned to the United States from South America, claimed a Cass City woman as his mother.

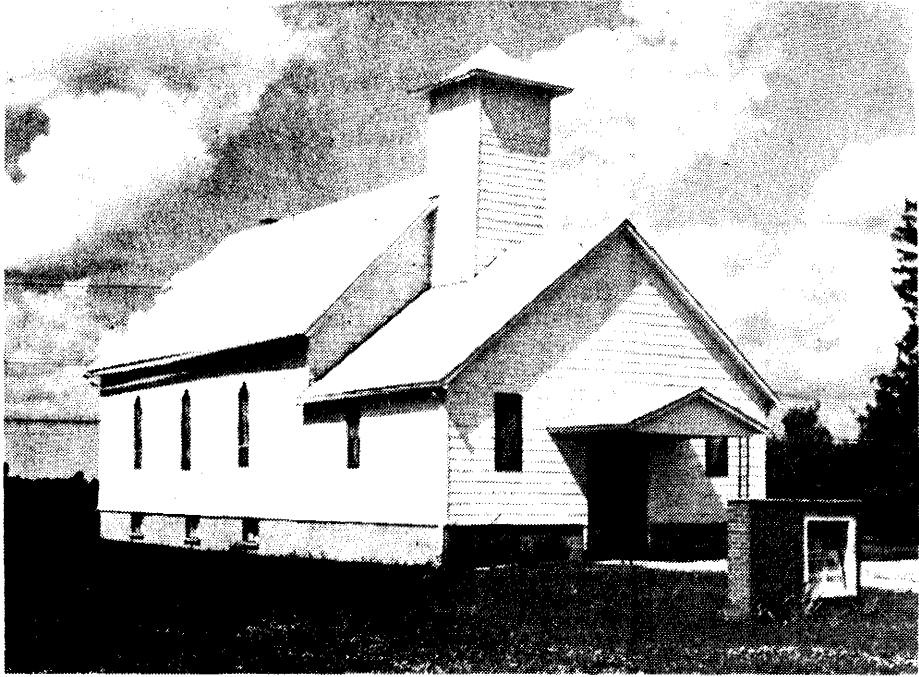

I also regret I told a few persons I would later do a story about them and never got around to it.

I made some mistakes along the way. Unfortunately, it's impossible not to make them. All one can do is try as hard as possible not to.

I feel the readers of this newspaper are fortunate. John Haire cares about what goes into it. We get several other weekly newspapers in this office and some of them are schlock. They certainly don't serve their communities.

What the Chronicle prints isn't always pleasant to read, but the news isn't supposed to be. PM Magazine with two cheery hosts and never anything bad to report.

So to everyone who has read this space for the past 7+ years and all the other things I've written, farewell, and to those who have helped me, thank you.

CENTENNIAL -- The Argyle United Methodist Church, which has stood for 100 years. A celebration will take place Saturday and Sunday.

Hearing Friday on area drain project

A public hearing will take place Friday concerning the proposed cleaning of the Douglas and DuColon Drain in Brookfield and Elmwood Townships.

It will start at 10:30 a.m. in the Owendale Community Building (fire hall).

About 12-15 property owners who would benefit from cleanout of the drain petitioned to have it done, according to Huron County Deputy Drain Commissioner Robert M. Tufts.

The drain is 5.4 miles long, starting in section 16 of Elmwood, west of Hurds Corner Road and south of Hobart Road. It empties into the Columbia Drain, near the corner of Bay Port and McAlpin Roads. The petition also covers a branch of the Douglas and DuColon, all in Section 16 of Elmwood.

The drainage district covers 2,448 acres -- 1,303 in Elmwood and 1,145 in Huron.

Because it is an inter-county drain, the board conducting the hearing will consist of Tufts, Tuscola County Drain Commissioner Stanley Henry or his deputy, and a representative of the Michigan Department of Agriculture in charge of inter-county drains.

Purpose of the hearing, Tufts explained, will be to determine if what is being asked for is practical.

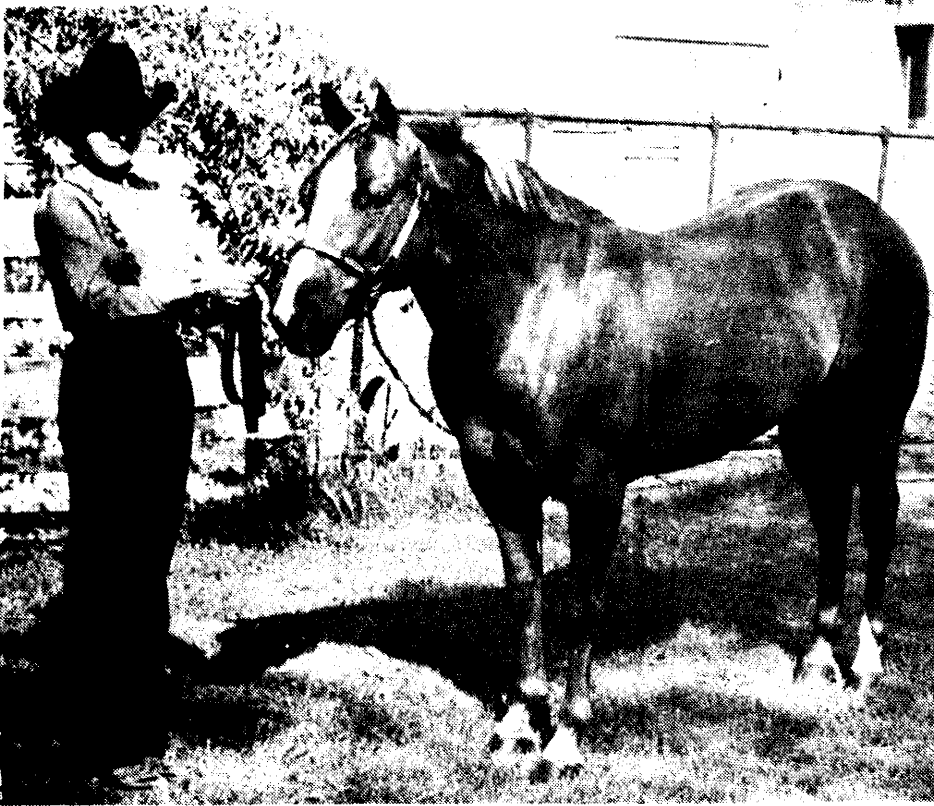

If the board decides it is, the next step will be to hire an engineer and surveyor to determine exactly what needs to be done and the estimated cost.

The petition asks for "cleaning out, widening, deepening, straightening, tiling, extending or relocating," but that doesn't mean all that will be done if the project is undertaken.

The engineering and surveying, Tufts said, usually takes 2-4 months. After that, the board will meet again and decide if the project is necessary.

If it decides it is, then comes apportionment of benefits and costs among property owners, county, townships, etc., preparing final plans, and advertising for construction bids.

If it reaches that state, Tufts anticipates work on the drain will start next spring.

HEIDI ISELER and "Hope's My Daddy" will compete in the state 4-H horse show Aug. 16 at Michigan State University.

Iseler going to state horse show

Heidi Iseler, 15, was one of six 4-H'ers qualifying at the July 23-24 horse show at the Tuscola County fair to compete in the state 4-H horse show Aug. 16 at Michigan State University.

The daughter of Dale and Kathy Iseler, 5089 Schwegler Road, Cass City, rode "Hope's My Daddy," a six-year-old registered quarter horse that she has only been working with since April, when it was purchased.

In East Lansing, Heidi will be competing in the following classes: fitting and showmanship, stock seat equitation, western pleasure and bareback equitation.

It will be the first time she has competed in the state show despite having qualified three times at the Tuscola fair.

The first time, she was too young. The second time, two years ago, her own horse was lame, so she qualified on a horse taken from the barn. She decided not to go to the state show since she couldn't do so on her own horse. Last year, her horse went lame at the fair.

Heidi has been a member of the Junior Wranglers 4-H Club for eight years. She competes in the open 4-H shows and the Blue Water Horse Association shows in the area.

Argyle Methodists mark 100 years

The congregation of the Argyle United Methodist Church will celebrate the church's 100th anniversary Saturday and Sunday.

There will be an open house Saturday at the church from 11 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Sunday services will begin at 9 a.m., with Rev. James L. Rule, and a coffee hour will follow. Rev. Beth Isaacs, Port Huron District superintendent, will be the guest speaker. The public is invited.

The church originally stood on a site a mile north of Argyle. In 1883, members started construction, but during the winter the building's framework was blown down by strong winds.

In 1884, they started again. The building cost $524 to build, with most of the labor donated.

The first sermon preached there was by Rev. Jacob Horton, the presiding elder, Oct. 19, 1884.

In 1900 the church was moved to its present site on E. Argyle Road, east of M-19 in Argyle. At the time the church belonged to a "circuit" of churches that included Uby, Tyre, and Cumber. In 1936, Tyre was removed from the circuit and Holbrook and Wickware were added. Elmer was later added for a year.

The Tyre, Cumber, Holbrook and Wickware churches are now closed and Rev. Rule serves the congregation.

Argyle, Shabbona and Decker churches.

Pastors in the early days received pay partly in hay, oats, potatoes, butter and eggs. They lived in the parsonage west of the church, which was completed in 1914. The building has since been sold and moved.

A horse barn was built behind the church and had a space in front of it to turn around a horse and buggy. About 8-10 horses were kept there.

In the early years, an essential part of the church ministry was the weekly Wednesday night prayer meetings held in members' homes.

Sunday school classes have been conducted as long as the church has existed. A highlight of the Sunday School sessions was the countywide Sunday School rally, which attracted people from all over.

Churchgoers came in buggies or wagons decorated with flowers and cedar branches, or on foot. They either brought their own food or bought it from food stands and had picnic lunches. The Sunday School classes later presented their program and parade. The rally was discontinued about 1978 due to declining interest.

The Ladies' Aid club spends its time helping the church. When the church was moved and at later renovations, the women served hot meals to the men.

The club also met for quilting bees in each other's homes or in the church basement. That fund raising activity is no more, but some of the quilts still exist.

Youngsters in the church belong to the United Methodist Youth Fellowship, which has a variety of activities.

The church's Epworth League, once very active, no longer exists. Also extinct is the Sunday school conducted in the Starr School, which ran for several years before closing about 1964.

New books at the library

LINCOLN: A NOVEL by Gore Vidal (fiction). Lincoln was never considered a very good president by Salmon P. Chase, his secretary of the treasury, who thought that Lincoln was a figurehead controlled by William H. Seward, the secretary of state. Seward fancied himself a premier, but, after he was politically outmaneuvered by Lincoln during the 1860 election, his grudging respect for the 16th president increased during Lincoln's tenure, until he firmly believed, as most Americans do, that Lincoln was the savior of the Republic. The novel considers only the four years of Lincoln's presidency; the man as politician is Vidal's concern, and the Lincoln he writes of is a tart-tongued, masterful politician who through strong faith in the principles of the Constitution (and devastating wit) wins the allegiance of his associates and then, the Civil War. Vidal's Lincoln - loving husband, father, beleaguered and tireless war leader - is grand but never grandiose.

THE WALKING DRUM by Louis L'Amour (fiction). In 12th century Brittany, young Mathurin Kerbouchard, escaping from the evil baron who has slain Mathurin's mother and plundered their estate, is forced into galley slavery. He gains control of the boat and lands in Moorish Spain, where he quickly makes powerful friends and enemies. Mathurin's quest is to rescue his corsair father, prisoner in the Persian stronghold of the Assassins. On the way the youth becomes a famed scholar, warrior, merchant, doctor and lover.

THE KENNEDYS: AN AMERICAN DREAM by Peter Collier and David Horowitz (non-fiction). One hundred and eleven years after a famine-Irish Kennedy arrived in East Boston, a descendant would be inaugurated president of the United States; 1000 days later the nation would bury him. As events were to unfold, the assassination of John Kennedy would be the irreparable rent in the family's dynastic enterprise, for untimely death, ultimately to claim three heirs apparently proved to be the one agent that couldn't be factored.

Monday and Tuesday guests of Mrs. Mary Beardsley were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wills Sr. and children, Nicole and Joe Jr. of Cadillac, Mrs. Calvin Wetzig and daughter Jennifer of Manton.

No-till tour Aug. 22 near Millington

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is holding a no-till tour Wednesday, Aug. 22, to review the mechanics of no-till farming and visit field plantings. This year, no-till farming in Tuscola County has increased from 25 farmers to 35 and from 650 acres to over 2,000 acres of corn and soybeans planted in various types of residue.

The field day will begin at 11 a.m. at the Willard Petzold Farm at Birch Run and Fulmer Roads, 1½ miles south of Millington and a half-mile west of M-15.

An informal discussion of no-till management will take place with a barbecue to follow. No-till planters will be on display. Contact the district office at 673-8174 to register.

This We Believe

Look out, Grandma! They're comin' to get you!

The First Baptist Church of Cass City will be providing a Bible-oriented column in this newspaper for the next few months in order to draw the public's attention to a number of vital topics of which we, as a church, feel very strongly. You may, or may not agree with everything we say; but hopefully our material will make you think, and cause a greater awareness of issues facing us today.

Recently Governor Richard D. Lamm made headlines when addressing the Colorado Health Lawyers Association. He likened senior citizens who reject machines and wonder drugs as a means to artificially stay alive as "leaves falling off a tree and forming humus for other plants to grow up." He was complimenting them and encouraging them to continue. "You've got a duty to die and get out of the way. Let the other society, our kids, build a reasonable life." Lamm feels the terminally ill are running up medical costs in order to live a little longer and that this money might be better spent in "restoring America's industrial engine and in the educational system," thus indicating that the elderly are holding back economic and educational growth.

Frankly, I am not surprised that a notable political figure should make such a statement. Rather it is to be expected. I do not agree with him, and his brutally calloused approach is shocking to say the least; but I am not surprised that someone in his position should make such a pronouncement, for secular humanists have been moving in that direction for some time. And why not? After all, since 1973 we have been legally killing our unborn infants at the rate of over 1 million a year, and if it is no crime to kill the unborn; if it is a woman's prerogative to abort a fetus she is carrying for reasons sufficient unto herself, why can't society move just one small step closer and decide when an aged person has also lost the right to live?

Most people with a strong Christian foundation would not want to prolong a terminally ill person's life unnecessarily when that person has become unconscious and sound medical opinion offers no hope for recovery. To provide reasonable care, and to keep the patient comfortable would seem to be the proper decision in most cases. But Governor Lamm's suggestion goes 'way beyond those limits, and it is frightening.

Forty years ago the Allies fought a major war in Europe to eliminate a monstrous system which advocated this very thing. Today prominent politicians openly advocate it. Nazism endeavored, among other things, to build a "super race" with selected breeding. Misfits, the weak, the halt, the lame and the blind, the mentally retarded had no place in Hitler's utopia. America found that abominable and was unwilling to sit idly by and let him succeed.

But the one license leads to the other. When the Supreme Court made its historic decision eleven years ago to legalize abortion, concerned spokesmen in the pro-life camp warned that the next move would be against the elderly. How right they were.

Now the Associated Press reports that caring for the nation's very old (those in the 80's and 90's) will cost the United States at least $85 billion in federal benefits by the turn of the century; more than veterans, the poor or any other group. The ranks of the very old are growing so fast that the cost of their care will increase 67 percent in the next fifteen years. Barbara Torrey of the U.S. Census Bureau was quoted as saying, "That's a lot of money. Their benefits are very expensive." Of course Governor Lamm has an easy solution to this problem.

We here at First Baptist Church take pride in our elderly. It is impossible to place a dollar value on human life. Which is more important, the quality of life or the dignity of life? If Christ died for all men, and He did, then He died for young and old, rich and poor, educated and uneducated, ambulatory and immobile. God has made salvation so wonderfully simple that one need not be an Olympic gold medal winner to attain eternal life. The thief on the cross, while quite immobile, became a child of God by simply trusting in Christ as Savior. (Romans 10:9 & 10).

Martin Mawyer said in a recent article entitled, "Death Plot: Old People and Babies First," "The real motive of these moral ethicists is a desire to put the debilitated and mentally impaired to death." So, look out Grandma! They're coming up the stairs, and they have chains in their hands!

It was fun, says Erickson

Gary Erickson was out-sized, but not outclassed when he played Saturday in the fourth annual Michigan High School All-Star Football Game at Spartan Stadium on the Michigan State University campus.

"It was fun," said the May Owendale-Gagetown graduate, who played noseguard and defensive tackle for the east team, which downed the west squad, 27-7.

Not everyone was a stranger to the 5-10, 185-pounder, who was one of two players from Class D schools on the east team.

Owen-Gage head coach Arnie Besonen, president of the sponsoring Michigan High School Football Coaches Association, was the team's defensive coordinator and Owen-Gage assistant coach John Osterland was one of four assistants.

Besonen said of Erickson, "Other than size, he matched up with anybody...He was quick as anybody."

The four-year starter at Owen-Gage said he was surprised by the combined size and speed of the players, mentioning as an example one 6-foot-3 player, 230 pounds, who could run 40 yards in 4.7 seconds.

The opposing team's line averaged 6-foot-4 and weighed 240 pounds. Their size wasn't enough to stop Erickson late in the game, when he sacked west team quarterback Eric Smith of Alma, who is 6-3 and weighs 195 pounds.

ERICKSON PLAYED about half the game despite an injured ankle.

He first injured it during practice last week Tuesday, when blocked while going through the line. "I moved and my ankle didn't," he said on the next two days of practice.

It was reinjured during the game when he was speared during a pass rush. He was out of the game for a quarter but returned. Sunday, he said the ankle was still sore, but not sore enough to prevent him from working at two summer jobs, at a Sebawaing restaurant and for the Owendale Department of Public Works.

The game was played before an audience, depending on which Detroit newspaper one wishes to believe, of more than 5,500 or less than 5,000. Among them were many family and friends from Owen-Gage.

Erickson used such terms to describe playing in the game as "greatest thrill," "fantastic," and "It was great."

THE PLAYERS REPORTED to the MSU campus Thursday, July 26. Practice was held twice a day, two hours each time.

When they weren't practicing, Erickson said, they slept -- "Practice took a lot out of us," -- watched the Olympics, and went out a couple times for pizza. They visited children in a hospital once and there was a dance one night.

GARY ERICKSON

Besonen estimated about 80 percent of the players in the game (all of whom graduated last spring) have college football scholarships, including some with full-ride scholarships to such powerhouses as the University of Michigan and Notre Dame.

He added that the caliber of the players was so good, "You don't have to coach them. You just have to coordinate them."

Erickson, who was named to the North Central Thumb D League all-conference defensive first team his senior year and also received area and state first-team honors, was one of the 20 percent without scholarships.

The son of Ronald and Kay Erickson of Owendale will be attending Central Michigan University this fall and will probably major in electrical engineering.

He contemplated trying out for the CMU football team as a walk-on, he said, but decided not to. "I'd rather put my efforts toward my scholastics."

Proceeds from the game will be used for scholarships and to Ronald McDonald Houses which provide housing for away-from-home families whose children are in hospitals.

GOP incumbents win in Huron

The two incumbent office holders in Huron County had no trouble turning back challengers for the Republican nomination Tuesday.

Sheriff Richard Stokan, who has held the job since 1973, received 4,423 votes, to 2,759 for challenger Herbert Williams. Stokan will face Democrat John Stickney, 669 votes, in the Nov. 6 general election.

Treasurer Roberta Moetteli, who was appointed to the position in March after Arnold Schweitzer retired, won the nomination with 3,404 votes. Robert Witherspoon received 2,274 votes and Warren Krohn, 1,208. Moetteli was deputy treasurer for several years before being elevated to the top spot.

Running without opposition were incumbents Karl Kraus, prosecutor, 5,100 votes; Helen Lemanski, clerk, 5,551, and Frances Holdwick, register of deeds, 5,536.

Stickney is the only Democrat running for countywide office.

In County Board of Commissioners District 4, incumbent Republican Jean Talaski was renominated, 1,011-268, over Maurice DesJardin. The district includes Bingham and Paris Townships.

District 1 Commissioner Bruce Kuhl, 855 votes, was unopposed. The district includes Brookfield Township. District 2 Commissioner Calvin Reibling, also unopposed, collected 761 votes. The district includes Grant and Sheridan Townships.

TOWNSHIPS

BINGHAM -- Incumbent Treasurer Elmer O'Berski narrowly defeated Lynn Tull, 163-159, for the GOP nomination.

The two trustees nominated were incumbent James C. Osentoski, 173, and John Rutkowski, 153. Incumbent Albert Kubacki lost with 141 votes. No Democrats are running.

A new tax levy of 2 mills for roads for six years was defeated, 117-141.

GRANT -- After six earlier road millage proposals were defeated, the seventh was approved Tuesday, 61-45. The levy of 1 mill for three years will raise about $15,000 a year.

SHERIDAN -- A new levy of 2 mills for two years for roads was approved, 70-48.

Physicals set for Saturday

Physical examinations for Cass City students in grades 7-12 who will be participating in sports this year will be Saturday, Aug. 11, at the high school, starting at 1 p.m.

Your neighbor says Olympics are too commercial

Terry Carmer of Cass City is not watching the Los Angeles Olympics this summer, because they hold little appeal for him.

"It was a big letdown because of the Russians (boycotting) and because of the commercialism of it. Every five minutes you go to a commercial -- official snack food of the '84 Olympics or official swimwear of the '84 Olympics."

"There's no competition because half of the best athletes were held back because of their government. It's become too political. Why should the athletes be stopped from competing by their governments?" Carmer commented.

The American Olympics are the most commercialized, he added, and he does not like to see the frivolous "official products" like candy bars.

"I don't want to see an athlete who sits eating two or three candy bars all day," Carmer said.

He would have watched the Olympics if some of the countries with good athletes like Czechoslovakia or East Germany competed.

"If we could have gotten at least half of them, the United States would not have as many medals. Now, I'm not cutting down the United States, but some of the countries that pulled out of the Olympics had better athletes in some events. The United States would have had stiff competition," Carmer commented.

He did watch the Winter Olympics in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, in February, he said. He especially likes downhill skiing, the luge (sledding) competition and four-man bobsled.

Carmer thinks more skill is needed to be a winter Olympian. "There's more of a challenge to these Olympics. The other one is who can run the fastest or who can jump the highest. In skiing you can be good, but you may not be fast. The men who train for skiing train much more than the person who runs," Carmer stressed.

Olympic politics will keep Carmer away, because when nations boycott the Games, athletes are "all pawns."

Most Communist countries are at home this year because of the Soviet boycott, and only "little" countries like Yugoslavia and Romania are attending.

"Who wants to watch a political debate when it's all one-sided? We have the Communist side and the capitalist. We see the capitalist half but not the Communist countries," Carmer said.

Carmer, 26, works at the L & S Standard Service, 6553 Main Street. He and his wife Judy have been married for six years.

Kings add 2 for tournament

The Croft-Clara Kings are scheduled to leave Thursday afternoon for Allentown, Pa., with two additional players signed for the International Softball Congress tournament.

Bulwarking the team will be Rich Plangger, a pitcher from Benton Harbor, and Bruce Miller, an outfielder from Lansing.

Manager Jack Hillaker said that Miller is regarded as the finest outfielder in the state and Plangger is the pitcher that toppled the Kings in the Amateur Softball Association tournament in Cornua last week end. He is also the pitcher that the Kings defeated to qualify for the ISC tourney.

The team will meet a squad from the Wisconsin area at 8:30 p.m. Friday. If it wins, the next game will be Saturday at 4:45 p.m. If defeated the second game will be Monday morning at 11:30.

After that, games will probably be played every day as long as the team is in the tourney, Hillaker said.

Although there has not been enough money raised to pay all expenses for the trip, the response by the community has been good, Hillaker said.

Families are expected to accompany the players. Most of the players will drive, but two will fly to the tournament site.

Sanilac GOP convention Wednesday

The Sanilac County Republican convention will start at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 15, in the county conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky.

Delegates to the state GOP convention will be elected, and all Sanilac Republicans are welcome to attend.

HEALTH TIPS

Air pollution
indoor hazard

Indoor air pollution has become a health hazard to be reckoned with, according to the American Lung Association of Michigan.

The increasing interest in reducing energy consumption brought on by the national energy crisis has only made the problem worse. Full insulation, better glazed windows and caulked seams among other energy-conservation measures have succeeded in saving heating fuel but have increased levels of indoor air pollution in our homes and offices.

While the principal pollutants result from stoves and fuel-burning appliances, other sources of pollution include the formaldehyde often used in paneling and insulation, asbestos used in building materials, natural occurring radon in the soil as well as the numerous aerosols and solvents found in the average home. Even that seemingly innocent office copier can be a source of indoor pollutants.

Wood stoves and fireplaces can be a major source of indoor pollution. With increased interest in the art of wood-burning, the level of such pollution can only increase. In fact, some far-thinking communities are considering restrictions on the use of wood-stoves and fireplaces because of this pollution hazard.

Few regulations exist to cover the problem of indoor pollution. In fact, indoor air pollution was not considered to be much of a problem until recently.

Studies are underway to better come to grips with the issue and to propose suitable standards. While it is unlikely that either Congress or governmental regulators will take up the indoor pollution problem anytime soon, there are a few things that homeowners can do to protect themselves from the hazards of indoor pollution.

Be sure your home (or office) is properly ventilated, choose safe alternatives to potentially harmful home products and refit stoves and other appliances with available improvements that effectively reduce emissions. And be sure to seek the advice of professionals because indoor air pollution often requires technical expertise and equipment to control.

Alternative
workshop set

Dairy and beef farmers have available many by-product feeds, but how do they know when they are economical to use, if they will improve production, or how to feed them?

An alternate feeds and by-products workshop to answer those questions will be held Wednesday, Aug. 22, at the Uby Heights Country Club with milk and doughnuts at 8:30 a.m. The program will start at 9:15 and end at 3 p.m.

There will be speakers covering many by-products, including brewer's grains, beet pulp, corn gluten feed, barley, wheat and hominy. The discussion will cover how to price by-products, when they will save money, improve performance, etc. There will also be a chance to visit with various by-product nutritionists and receive a folder with feeding guidelines on many feeds. Cost is $5.50 at the door and includes refreshments, lunch and materials.

group to seek donations

Seven persons will be seeking contributions in Cass City for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in August and September.

The volunteers are Phyllis Linderman, Bunny Keyser, Charley and Wilma Ashmore, Mabel Brown, Kathy Diebel and Christina Gibbard.

Cystic fibrosis (CF) is an inherited disease that affects children and young people. The disease causes exocrine or externally-secreting glands to produce a heavy mucous that blocks passages in the body and can interfere with such functions as breathing.

CF affects one in every 1,800 newborns in the United States. Symptoms of CF are respiratory problems, digestive problems and excessive salt loss.

The CF Foundation, founded in 1955, is a non-profit organization that supports programs in scientific and medical research to ultimately find a cure for the disease. CF medical centers and public and professional education.

A summer odyssey at the Chronicle

For the Chronicle and for me, this is a time of transition. The paper's seven-year veteran, Mike Eliasohn, is leaving for the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor Herald-Palladium.

I am leaving too, heading back to Central Michigan University to complete my education, after three months as the Chronicle's sixth summer intern. Both the newspaper and I are taking new directions.

After sampling the village of Cass City for three months, I say, "Not bad." People here are talkative, and like that cliché about bigger communities, "There's a million stories out there in the naked city."

me: the value of family, a faith in God and support for one's country. These basic values run deep in the Thumb, Cass City included.

Small town life also taught me something about government -- townships and villages, for example -- that you don't find in Detroit. I also learned something of the life and fruits of the farmers of the Thumb, another lifestyle rarely glimpsed by city dwellers.

Mike isn't the easiest guy to work for, I learned, too. He is part of the reason the Chronicle is a top-notch weekly. He is meticulous and strives for perfection. Mike's views have helped me discover ways to become a better writer.

So, now I can go back and strive to be the best at Central Michigan Life, the college paper I worked at before coming to Cass City. This internship not only taught me things that were an extension of the classroom, but about human beings as well.

Thank you, Cass City.

— H.V. Wood

DAISUKE KONDO, left, a teenager from Japan, is staying for a month at the Phillips Road home of Darin Monroe, right. Darin is the son of Douglas and Donna Monroe.

Japanese youth discovers America

Daisuke Kondo of Japan is spending a month living with a Cass City family to discover how an American family lives.

Kondo is staying with Douglas and Donna Monroe and their son Darin, of 3560 Phillips Road. His visit was arranged through the Michigan 4-H Japanese LABO exchange program.

Kondo is one of 54 Japanese youths and advisors who arrived July 25 for a month's stay with families. They are members of the LABO Party language education program, which uses language to create in Japanese youth international understanding and awareness, according to Tuscola County 4-H Youth Agent Peggy Brec-law.

The LABO Information Center in Tokyo tutors more than 60,000 youths, where they start at a young age listening to taped stories in Japanese and English and then dramatize them in English.

Japanese youths visiting Michigan have been paired with 4-H members of the same age and sex, with the aim of enabling them to experience daily family life.

This week, Mrs. Monroe, Darin and Kondo visited the Mackinac Bridge.

Donald Chapman of Reese 8th to die in Tuscola accidents

H.V. Wood

People's stories are intriguing, from the World War II veteran who didn't get his service medals until last month, to the retiring musician who sells his wares on Main Street. I am grateful to have shared your stories.

Also I've learned to lift my "big city" blinders just a little bit and see what life is like in a small town. My own hometown, East Detroit, is a suburb of Detroit with a population of 38,000. Cass City has almost 2,300 people, the population of my high school!

Even though the village is small, life here is rich. Many people I spoke with have spent their entire lives here, and their children will and their grandchildren. Roads bear names of current residents' ancestors: Milligan, Buehrly, Doerr.

Residents' lives here could set examples for others and certainly did for Donald E. Chapman, 26, of Reese, became the eighth person to die in a Tuscola County traffic accident this year when he was killed early Friday east of that community.

Sheriff's deputies said he was westbound on M-81, near Bradleyville Road, when his car went off the right side of the road and struck a mailbox.

The auto slid across the road and hit a sign on the south side, then rolled over into a ditch, where it struck a culvert. Chapman, who was not wearing a safety belt, was ejected from the vehicle when it hit the culvert. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

The accident took place at 1:30 a.m.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

Matthew Groombridge, 14, of 4380 Ale Street, was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital where he was taken after his bicycle collided with a car at 2:45 p.m. Monday.

Cass City police said Frieda E. Sy, 58, of Unionville, westbound on Main Street, started to turn left onto Doerr Road and the bicycle ran into her car.

Ms. Sy was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield when making a left turn. Two persons were admitted to Marlette Community Hospital following a 10:15 a.m. crash Saturday.

Caro state police reported William Vanderpool, 87, of 7380 Centerline Road, Kingston, was southbound on White Creek Road, stopped at Marlette Road, then pulled into the path of a westbound car as he started to turn left.

Driver of the other car, which struck the Vanderpool auto, was Shawn Marie Armstrong, 18, of Clifford.

She has since been released from the hospital. Vanderpool, who was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield right of way, was expected to be released Tuesday evening or Wednesday.

Jane M. Bachman, 12, of 4160 E. Deckerville Road, Caro, was injured July 30 when her bicycle was struck from behind by a car driven by Eric Bitzer, 33, of 1877 E. Deckerville Road, Caro.

Bitzer told deputies he was traveling westbound on Deckerville at 4:50 p.m. east of Plain Road, when he saw her bicycle traveling slightly inside the westbound lane.

He sounded his horn to warn her, but Miss Bachman rode her bicycle farther into the westbound lane. Bitzer told deputies he braked and tried to cross the centerline to avoid her, but was unsuccessful.

Miss Bachman was treated and released at Caro Community Hospital.

DRIVERS CITED

Both drivers were ticketed by Caro state police

35.64% of village taxes paid so far

Village Treasurer Joyce LaRoche reported at last week's Cass City Village Council meeting that as of July 31, 35.64 percent of property taxes due had been paid.

That totals $126,339 of $354,502 owed. The percentage contrasts to 27.84 percent paid by July 31 last year.

Aug. 15 is the last day to pay village taxes without penalty.

It was also reported at the council meeting that wastewater treatment plant Superintendent Rick Mohr has received his Class A operator's license, the highest rating possible, and Craig Helwig has earned his Class D license.

The license ratings are earned by taking correspondence courses, attending seminars and passing a test.

after a 4:45 p.m. accident Monday. Troopers said Kimberly Sue Guilds, 26, of Caro, was driving northeast on M-81, when she signaled a left turn approaching Lazell Road.

William E. Hightower, 38, of 4848 Dodge Road, Cass City, driver of a semi-truck, started to pass on the right shoulder. Ms. Guilds then turned right, according to officers, and Hightower's truck ran into the right side of her car.

Hightower was cited on a charge of improper passing. Ms. Guilds was ticketed on a charge of improper signaling.

Bradley G. Schenk, 25, of Vassar, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of unsafe starting after a 10:45 a.m. accident Saturday near Reese.

Schenk was northbound on Van Buren Road. He told deputies he stopped at M-81, miscalculated the speed of an approaching westbound car, started to cross and the vehicles collided.

Driver of the other car was Bryce W. Hagen, 57, of 314 E. Atwater Road, Uby.

Rosemarie Salcido, 22, of 4878 State Street, Gagetown, was ticketed by Cass City police on a charge of failure to yield right of way following a 6:20 p.m. accident Saturday.

They reported she was northbound on Leach Street, turned left onto Main and ran into the right side of an eastbound auto driven by James A. Nicol, 25, of 1767 Hawkins Street, Deford.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Cass City police reported that at 7:50 p.m. last Wednesday, Melissa M. Bamback, 16, of Elkton, southbound on Brooker Street, collided with a car eastbound on Main Street driven by Robert G. Wacker, 17, of Caro.

At 8 a.m. Saturday, according to village officers, Donald H. Finkbeiner, 47, of 4137 Maple Street, northbound on Maple, south of Pine Street, was too far to the right and sideswiped a car parked by the curb.

Owner of the other vehicle was Thomas Holik of 7600 Reed Road.

Shelly L. Terbush, 18, of 305 Cemetery Road, Deford, hit a parked car at 5:30 p.m. last Thursday in the Fisher's Big Wheel lot near Caro.

Ms. Terbush told deputies she was backing out of a space when a child riding in her car opened the back door. She tried to close the door while moving and rolled into the parked vehicle. Owner of the struck car was Jacquelyn Luther of Caro.

Craig G. Lundsted of Caro told Cass City police

Saturday that while his car was parked at 6794 Third Street from 7 p.m. Friday to 1 a.m. Saturday, the front right door was damaged by another car.

The owners of the suspect vehicle, who lived nearby, denied to police that they did the damage.

Bradley Beachy of Elkton reported to Cass

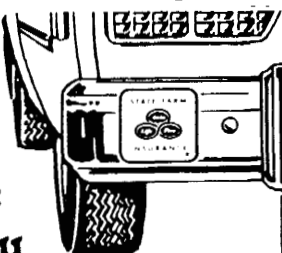

City police at 1:40 a.m. Sunday that he emerged from The Station to see a green vehicle hit the left side of the car he had been driving, parked in front of the tavern, and then drive away.

The car, owned by Max McKinzie of Elkton, was damaged from front to rear.

Obituaries

NELLIE MATHEWS

Nellie Helen Mathews, 71, of Deford died last Thursday at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, after a short illness.

She was born April 1, 1913, on Sugar Island, Chippewa County, the daughter of William and Josephine (Shagnaba) Hollway.

Miss Hollway married David W. Mathews Nov. 22, 1936, in Detroit, where they made their home. They came to Deford in 1953. Mathews died Jan. 11, 1969.

She was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church of Wilmot.

Mrs. Mathews is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Rex (Priscilla) Widmeyer, Elkhart, Ind.; two sons, William Mathews, Clio and Kenneth Mathews, of Lapeer, and seven grandchildren. Two brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

A prayer service was held Sunday evening at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City.

Funeral mass was conducted Monday morning at St. Michael's by Father Donald Eppenbrock of Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Caro.

Burial was in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

ORRA SPAID

Orra William Spaid, 75, died Monday of an apparent heart attack at his Glennie residence.

He was born Oct. 28, 1908, in Gratiot County, the son of John and Blanche (Basinger) Spaid.

He married Neva Ellis May 19, 1938, in Cass City. He was a farmer in the Cass City area for 31 years and was employed at Walbro Corp. for eight years. The Spaid moved to Glennie 11 years ago.

Survivors are his wife; two sons, John and his wife Barbara, Whittemore, and Bill and his wife Barbara, Saginaw; six grandchildren, and three sisters, Lola Cooney, Owosso, Avis Lynch, Owosso, and Arbutus Crabtree, Texas. He was preceded in death by a daughter, Nancy Ann.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Whittemore Baptist Church, Rev. Michael Kovaluk officiating. Funeral arrangements were handled by Forshee Funeral Home, Hale.

Burial will be in Reno Township Cemetery.

Funeral held for 14-year-old

Funeral services were held in Millington Saturday for a 14-year-old boy who died Tuesday, July 31, in Cass City.

The youngster was a foster child living with a Cass City family. Tuscola County Department of Social Services records about the boy are confidential, so information, including his name, has not been released.

Although the cause of death was originally reported to be suicide, it is now thought it may have been due to his "playing around," which resulted in unforeseen consequences.

A memorial service for the boy will be held Thursday, Aug. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Free Church.

Not a crab

The horseshoe crab, named for its hoof shape by early English settlers to North Carolina, is not a crab at all. Its nearest relatives are spiders and scorpions.

Sattelberg celebrates 91st birthday

Former Cass City resident Louis Sattelberg of Caseville celebrated his 91st birthday July 23.

Sattelberg was born in a log house in the woods north of Columbia Corners in Tuscola County, the son of Karl and Helena (Sahr) Sattelberg. He spent his childhood around the area.

Sattelberg served in World War I and spent several years in the service. After the war he returned to Tuscola County and farmed near Unionville and Hemans in Sanilac County.

He retired in 1960. He and his wife moved to Cass City, where they lived until 1963, and then moved to Caseville. Sattelberg has two daughters, Violet Patera, Deford, and Mary Lee Richmond, Pigeon; one son, David, Cass City, and nine grandchildren.

By Bill Myers Taking stock

I find myself quarreling with Forbes magazine columnists again.

In an issue last summer, Sully Blotnick said, "Bonds have been a lousy buy for three decades and are still viewed unfavorably."

Since the facts are available, we won't argue.

Salomon Bros., the mightiest of all investment houses, did a survey of 14 investment categories over a 10-year stretch.

The kinds of investments ranged from farmland to Oriental rugs.

In the previous year, bonds — repeat, bonds — did better than all the other 13 types. Your money in bonds in the year increased 11.4 percent, while stocks went down 10.5 percent in 1981. Only two other categories, oil and housing, were on the plus side.

Housing gave a phony reading of plus 3.4 percent because discounted interest rates concealed what was really a lower price on property when sold.

For a 10-year period, stocks out-performed bonds in annual returns, 3 percent vs. 3.6 percent.

Aha! but dividends are taxed. If you were in a 50 percent bracket, that 3.9 percent return shrank to 1.95 percent.

You can buy tax-exempt bonds and keep all the income. Your interest rate will be less than from taxable bonds, naturally, but today the difference is about the lowest in history — around 1/6th less.

For example, at the time of the Forbes column, I bought some general obligation bonds of a township in a good Michigan county — Saginaw — which has one of the better credits in the state.

The tax-free yield was 13.5 percent on this 19-year bond. Dividends on the stock averages then were about 6 percent, and they're taxable.

But to get back to the 10-year performance of stocks vs. bonds, bond return was 3.6 percent. The same bonds, if tax-exempt, would have yielded 2.8 percent.

After a tax of 50 percent on the stocks average returns of 3.9 percent we come up with these net returns for the past 10 years:

STOCKS	1.95%
BONDS	2.8%

At the times of the Forbes column, these were current returns, after taxes:

Dividends from stocks	3%
Net from tax-free bonds	13.5%

Bonds have not been "a lousy buy" the last decade, compared to stocks. Today, they remain a good choice in the eyes of this simple country boy.

Here are the Salomon Brothers figures:

	10 Years	1 Year
Oil	29.9%	6.3%
U.S. coins	22.5	-27.8
U.S. stamps	21.9	-3.0
Oriental rugs	19.1	-16.2
Gold	18.6	-34.0
Chinese ceramics	15.3	-0.5
Farmland	13.7	-0.9
Silver	13.6	-44.5
Diamonds	13.3	---
Housing	9.9	+3.4
Old masters	9.0	-22.0
CPI	8.6	+6.6
Stocks	3.9	-10.5
Foreign exchange	3.6	-1.9
Bonds	3.6	+11.4

Seeley medals finally arrive

lot of the boys didn't get them. I had an uncle (Arthur Ewald) who served in World War I and he didn't get his Purple Heart until '41 or '42."

Seeley returned to the family farm five miles northwest of Cass City.

His brother Raymond, who served during the war, was a highly decorated soldier. He had a Purple Heart, a good-conduct medal, and a European Theater of Operation medal with two bronze stars (they each indicated a battle).

Raymond died in 1971.

Seeley waited patiently until August, 1982, hoping the government would send his medals. That month he finally wrote a letter to the Army office, and the medals arrived last month.

Seeley, now retired, lives on a farm northeast of Cass City with his dog Queenie on 80 acres of land. He rents about 30 to other farmers.

Despite the medal snafu, he was proud to serve his country. "I'd do it again if I have to. Even if I was on crutches or a cane," Seeley said with a smile.

Hospice class graduates 30

The Thumb Area Coalition for Hospice Services graduated its first class of 30 volunteers July 12 at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where classes for the volunteers were held.

Keynote speaker for the event was Father Richard Kim, who has helped develop hospice services in Maui, Hawaii, and the Blue Water Hospice, Port Huron.

He said, "We cannot hope to be ready with answers for all the questions that terminally ill patients and families ask, but we can offer a faithful presence, caring hearts, a listening ear and discerning intelligence. The best we can bring to hospice is the best that we are — the very best!"

The volunteers worked on subjects including communication skills, funeral home concerns, nursing comfort measures, medical aspects of death, grief, bereavement and spiritual care. These classes helped prepare the hospice volunteers for home care services.

Home care services which may be provided by the Thumb Area Hospice volunteers include companionship, relief care so that the well spouse can do errands or rest, transportation, child care, housekeeping assistance, meal preparation, music and moral support in a time of great stress. Such services would be provided on a regularly scheduled intermittent basis.

To be eligible for hospice care, a terminally ill person needs to have a primary caregiver in the home and have a life expectancy of six months or less. The volunteers supplement the family care and visiting nurse services. Such services are provided in cooperation with the patient's physician.

The Thumb Area Hospice Coalition is comprised of Deckerville Community Hospital, Harbor Beach Community Hospital, Huron Memorial Hospital, Hills and Dales, Marlette Community Hospital, McKenzie Memorial Hospital and the Health Departments of Huron and Sanilac Counties.

Together, they provided training services for volunteers and developed service plans.

The volunteers will begin with a pilot project. Persons interested in hospice services should contact their hospital or health department.

Louise Blasius, McKenzie Memorial Hospital and chairperson for the Hospice Coalition, pointed out that the hospice volunteer services are free.

"Donations to the Thumb Hospice are not actively solicited, but are appreciated. We hope when people from Sanilac, Huron and Tuscola Counties are inclined to contribute to a hospice memorial, that they will remember the Thumb Area Hospice." Contributions may be sent to Helen Atkins, Treasurer, at Marlette Community Hospital.

Participants in the classes for volunteers included Carol K. Dorman, Decker; Nancy Hunt, Uby; Isabelle and Robert Cameron, Kingston; Darlene Bailey, Uby; Jan Champagne, Uby; and Harry Pestrue, coordinator of the program for Hills and Dales General Hospital.

votes, but some were for her as a Democrat and some as a Republican. (She ran as a Republican.) If she received at least 18 Republican votes, she will be a GOP candidate come November. If she received less than 18 Republican votes, she might still qualify as a Democratic candidate if she receives enough votes.

Supervisor Bill O'Dell collected 38 votes; Clerk Nurse Kloc, 25, and treasurer Ralph Zinnecker, 28.

ELLINGTON — The only contest was for trustee, with four candidates seeking the two Republican nominations. No Democrats are running. The winners were the two incumbents, Frederick Janks and Robert Wood, with 64 and 48 votes respectively. The losers were George Cooklin, 28, and D.J. Svacha, 14.

Renewal of a half-mill for fire protection to be levied in 1985-88 was approved, 108-13.

OTHERS — There were no primary contests in Columbia, Elmwood and Kingston Townships.

In Koylton, winners of the Republican nomination for trustee were James R. Borek, 60 votes, and Richard A. Borek, 59. Losers were John B. Huhn, the lone incumbent, 58, and Jannette Zawila, 45. No Democrats are running.

Platform logs sprout leaves

The logs that formed the supports for John Stochla's camper top platform unexpectedly sprouted greenery this summer.

A neighbor, Jim Helwig, was cutting firewood on Stochla's Gagetown area farm. He cut four logs for Stochla, about 4 inches in diameter, to form the supports to hold his pickup camper top.

Due to the heavy rains this spring, the holes were filled with water when the posts were placed in them. Before then, the posts lay on the ground several days.

Stochla, who took the photograph, was surprised when his maple posts sprouted leaves.

Police probe vandalism

Several acts of vandalism and other damage were reported to police agencies during the past several days.

Ronald M. Ensign of 5305 Dorrance Road, Kingston, told sheriff's deputies Friday night that while he was at Louie's Pizza in Mayville from 8:30-11 p.m., the full length of his car was scratched on both sides, plus the roof and trunk. Damage to the paint was estimated at $300.

John Haire of 4172 S. Seeger Street told Cass City police Monday morning that a 1-inch diameter maple tree in front of his house between the street and sidewalk was broken off, probably during the night. It was valued at $50.

Police found the nearby street sign at the corner of Elizabeth Street and Cemetery Road was pulled from the ground.

Richard N. Rick of 4343 West Street told village police early Saturday that someone pounded on his front door, broke the glass and then left.

Rick, who was awakened by the pounding, observed the person get in his car and drive a block away to 4291 West.

When police went there, they were told by the occupant he was babysitting for the driver and his wife, who had just left with their children. He said the couple was intoxicated.

Police believe the man knocked on Rick's door by mistake, left when he broke the glass and then found the right house.

Robert Becker of 4125 West Street told deputies last Wednesday that four items were stolen from his home, but he had no idea when they were taken.

Taken were a Johnson 7½ horsepower outboard motor valued at $250; 1974 Oldsmobile radiator, $60; Poulan chain saw, $70, and socket wrench set, $10.

Ivan Tracy of 3850 Cedar Run Road, Cass City, told deputies July 31 that a battery was stolen from his tractor, parked in a storage shed, since July 22. It was valued at $50.

Lowell R. Roberts of Warren told Tuscola deputies his daughter noticed a damaged screen on the family cottage near Deford. Roberts inspected the screen himself and called the sheriff's department July 30.

The intruder apparently used a sharp instrument to cut away the screen and enter the breezeway of the cabin. Roberts told deputies he found nothing missing except an arrow. A trailer on the property was also entered, but nothing was missing.

Roberts found the arrow in the woods near the cabin. Police said the intruders might have been children.

Julia Kopych of 7750 Red Oak Drive, Deford, told deputies she found damage to the side of her trailer Friday morning.

Deputies found a hole in the aluminum siding, apparently made by a small-caliber rifle from about a half-mile away. The hole was probably from a stray bullet, they said.

Learn to navigate

New research indicates that even though some migratory birds are born with a magnetic compass sense, they learn to navigate from the stars after being hatched, reports International Wildlife magazine.
