GOP delegate tells how it was in Dallas

For most people, the Republican National Convention was a large party that came on television from about 8:00 p.m. to 11:00 each night last week.

But for delegates like Edmund Good Jr., a representative from the 8th District, the convention was long hours of hard work and little sleep. Good said that each morning he was up early to attend the caucus meetings that were held before the convention began in the evening.

Good, a farmer from the Gageton area, was elected to be a delegate to the Republican National Convention at a state convention held in February in Grand Rapids. Good was nominated and elected to be a delegate by 102 Republicans from the 8th District who were in attendance at the Grand Rapids convention.

The 8th District includes whole or parts of nine counties, including parts of Saginaw and Bay City. "I feel it was an honor to be chosen. You represent a lot of people," Good added.

Good was selected as one of the 77 delegates, along with 77 alternates, who were chosen to represent Michigan at the convention.

When Good and his wife, Betty, arrived in the Dallas area they were taken to the Marriott Quorum Hotel, Addison City, Texas. He said that the hotel was about 25 minutes from the convention center, and that bus routes were set up to take delegates to and from the convention.

Good said that the first night that they arrived, the city of Dallas threw a party for all the convention delegates and their family members at the Market Place, a large arena in Dallas. The delegates savored many different types of meals and saw fashion shows throughout the arena. He added that the Beach Boys entertained at the party. "I think that they tried to prove a point," Good said.

"Dallas is a booming town, any direction you look you see a crane building another building," Good said. He added that the joke around Dallas is that they are going to change the state bird to a crane.

Good said that the people of Dallas are not faced with the high unemployment as Michigan is. Unemployment in the city is only three percent, and jobs are available. He explained that Michigan has not felt the economic upswing that other areas have experienced. The shops in the area showed a lot of wealth in the merchandise that they sold.

"We were treated like celebrities by the people of Dallas," Good said. "They all wanted to know about the Detroit Tigers."

Richard Headlee, former Michigan candidate for governor, had enough Tiger baseball caps delivered to the convention that each delegate had one to wear. He added that if Headlee saw a Michigan representative without their Tiger cap he would encourage the delegate to find their hat and wear it.

Good said that one of the most stirring moments for him was when James Brady, the presidential press secretary who was wounded when Reagan was shot, was brought on stage in his wheelchair. "I really choked you up," to see the difficulty that Brady had when he gave the thumbs up signal to the delegates. Good added that after Nancy Reagan gave her speech she went over and sat down with Brady and his wife.

Security was very tight during the convention. Good said that everywhere he looked he saw police, either in cars, on foot or on horseback making sure there were not any problems. He added that all delegates entering into the convention center had to pass through metal detectors similar to those at airports. He said that because so many people had campaign buttons pinned to their jackets they would take the coat off and walk through the detectors rather than remove all the campaign buttons.

"There was a tremendous amount of enforcement."

Enforcement easier

Drunk drivers still here despite tougher new law

On April 1, 1983, Michigan started an all out battle against one of the nation's leading killers, the drunk driver. Now, after more than a year the battle continues on.

Armed with a tougher law, citizen lobby groups, advanced equipment and additional money for law enforcement manpower, the war hasn't been won, but the number of violators arrested is on the increase.

"Basically, the new law gave more teeth to the penalties," said Sgt. Thomas Kern of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

According to Tuscola County District Court records, during the period from April 1, 1982 to March 31, 1983, the year before the law went into effect, about 290 individuals were arrested on drunk driving charges. During the first full year of the law, about 570 were arrested for operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

The increase of the number of offenders arrested isn't the result of more drinking drivers on the road, but is the result of additional money for law enforcement manpower and new detection equipment.

Months before the new law came into effect, Kern began compiling statistics to justify to the Michigan Department of Highway Traffic and Safety Division that Tuscola County had a need for grants to establish a task force against drunk drivers. According to Kern, the money, about $56,000 in federal grants, was administered by the state. The money has been used primarily for manpower and fuel to patrol Tuscola County roads.

Money from the original grant ran out in April, but Kern was able to get an additional six month grant of about $28,000. This will expire at the end of September, 1984. Kern has begun applying for an additional grant to maintain the task force.

"The one and a half years of enforcement has made an impact on the county," Kern said.

According to First Lt. Dale G. LaTulip, Commander of the Caro Post of the Michigan Department of State Police, the availability of the Portable Breath Test (PBT) has been helpful in apprehending the drunk driver. LaTulip said that the PBT, a small, hand held computerized instrument, reads the alcohol level of the suspect's breath. He feels that this has helped his officers determine if the suspect has had too much alcohol to be driving.

LaTulip said that before the PBT the officers had to rely on their observations and a dexterity test to determine if they had justifiable reason to take the suspect in for a breathalyzer test.

"If the officer feels that through his observations the person should not be driving he can give him the portable breath test on the spot," LaTulip said.

LaTulip stresses to his officers that they are still to use their observation training before using the PBT. He added that when a suspected drunk driver is pulled over, the officer, while explaining to the individual why he has been stopped, is to observe the individual to determine if he has been drinking.

He said that if the officer can smell alcohol or if the person has difficulty in finding their driver's license or is unable to communicate with the officer, then they may ask the suspect to perform a simple dexterity test. This may involve walking heel to toe on the side of the road, having the individual extend his arm out and reach back to touch his nose, or stand on one foot and swing the other leg in a circular motion. LaTulip said that if the individual has difficulty in performing any of these tests, and the officer feels it is necessary he may then administer the PBT.

LaTulip said that the PBT is not admissible evidence in court, but if the suspect refuses, they are guilty of a civil infraction. A $25 fine may be charged to those who refuse the PBT.

LaTulip said that if the digital read out on the PBT shows a .08 or .09 he is considered to be operating a vehicle while impaired. If the reading is .10 or above, the operator is driving while under the influence of alcohol.

LaTulip said that the next step, even if the suspect takes the PBT, is to take the individual to the state police post and administer a breathalyzer test. This is accepted as evidence by the court. LaTulip added that if the individual refuses the breathalyzer test the officer contacts Court Magistrate Donald Smith for a search warrant to have a search sample drawn by a licensed physician at the hospital.

"In the past there weren't that many search warrants requested," Smith said. "Now there are about five times as many search warrants issued."

Smith added that the refusal to take the breathalyzer test will result in an automatic loss of driver's license for six months.

LaTulip said that the court magistrate won't issue a search warrant without substantial proof that it is needed. He added that they will call the magistrate at any time of the night or on week ends if the court is closed.

LaTulip said that the time involved in getting the search warrant is not that critical because alcohol dissipates from the blood system at .015 parts per hour.

"The old myth of coffee and cold showers (to sober up) doesn't work, the body has to burn off the alcohol," LaTulip said. "It will only dissipate so fast, you can't speed it up."

"Drunk driving is a very serious thing," LaTulip said. "Drinking is a socially accepted thing in this country. What we haven't learned to do is to take care of them (intoxicated individuals who are going to drive) by driving them home or seeing that they get home safe."

LaTulip added that the new law, along with the pre-breath testing has made it easier to handle the drunk driver. LaTulip said that the tougher penalties on the second and third offenders have made it more of a deterrent on those drivers.

Tuscola County Supervisor of Probation Services, Gerald M. Polk, said that when a driver has been convicted of his third violation he will review the case and make a pre-sentence report to the judge before the hearing.

Council mulls 100% village burning ban

At a Cass City Village meeting Tuesday night the village trustees were given a proposed ordinance that will regulate the residential trash and garbage pickup in the village.

Village attorney Clinton House presented the trustees with the proposed ordinance, that covers all residential units in the village limits.

House said that the ordinance will apply to residents only. It does not apply to the industries, businesses and multi-family dwellings with four or more units per building. He said that multi-family dwellings were excluded because they would generate more trash, which would result in a storage problem.

House said that if the ordinance is approved, no other licensed hauler would be allowed to contract for residential trash pickup in the village. He added that he did not see a problem if a resident hires someone to haul a load of trash to the dump to help them clean up a trash problem. This is not to be done on a regular basis.

Another stipulation of the ordinance would be that all businesses, industries and multi-family dwellings would have to provide for their own storage of the refuse. House said that the storage bins would have to meet with the approval of the village superintendent. Also any accumulation of garbage that is on the non-residential property for 48 hours or more must be kept in a trash dumpster or an approved container.

"I have tried to make this as uncomplicated as possible," House said. He added that he didn't specify that charges would be made on how much trash is generated, but that all residential trash bags that are set out are to be picked up.

Another stipulation in the ordinance would make it illegal to rake leaves and yard clippings into the sidewalk, curb or gutter. These are to be placed in proper containers to be picked up by the trash hauler. The ordinance also makes it illegal for village residents to burn their own trash or leaves. Residents will be allowed to burn if they have an incinerator that is designed to prevent the emission of smoke, flying paper and ash therefrom."

Trustee Larry Davis said that a lot of people in the village burn their leaves, and he didn't like it. He added that people burn their leaves at all hours and it is an unpleasant way to handle them.

According to Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie, the trustees will probably take about two months before the ordinance would be enacted.

If approved, village residents would be billed for trash pickup with their quarterly water bill. The charge would be listed separately from charges for water.

LaPonsie presented the trustees with a proposed state senate resolution that requests that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) delay the closing of landfills that do not comply with Public Act 641. The landfill owned by the village is one of many in the state that does not comply with the DNR requirements.

LaPonsie said that under the present law, the landfill must be closed by Sept. 1. The proposal in the senate would extend the deadline until March 1, 1985.

LaPonsie said that there is no way that the village can shut down the landfill right now.

The trustees agreed to wait until the state senate acts on the proposed deadline extension.

In other business, Doctor Edward Scollon from the Cass City 4-H Junior Wrangler's Club told the trustees that the club would be willing to pay for one quarter of the costs for preparing a site for a corral on village property.

LaPonsie said that originally he thought that the corral site could be prepared by just leveling off some of the bumps at the site of the proposed corral. After investigating the site area and the requirements for the corral he realized that there was more work needed than could be done with village equipment. LaPonsie said that he contacted three contractors, and received one bid of $4,500 to prepare the site.

LaPonsie said that leveling the site, located east of the sliding hill and north of the little league baseball field, would require that a 12 foot elevation be leveled off.

Trustee Dorothy Stahlbaum said that because the clay soil would be slippery for the horses,

Committee sets Farmer Day plans

Members of the Cass City Retail Committee completed plans for Farm Market Days in the village at a meeting held Tuesday morning.

The event, first started last year, has been expanded and there will be a variety of activities for visitors next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 6-8.

Slated are a display of antique tractors, free bean soup, farm finance seminar, produce and baked goods sales on the sidewalk and several other events that are now being finalized.

Spokesmen for the Retail Committee say that any group is welcome to conduct produce or baked goods sales during the three-day event.

FIRST LIEUTENANT Dale G. LaTulip, Caro Post Commander of the Michigan State Police, prepares the breathalyzer machine for the next driver who is suspected of drinking.

Cass City Police investigate window damage at Wash King

ANNUAL PICNIC - Walter Walpole, founder of Walbro Corp., Cass City, speaks to employees at the corporation's annual picnic last Friday. During his speech Walpole told employees that corporation sales were up phenomenally in the last year and a half and all indications point to 1984 as being even better. Walpole said that it was the dedication of the employees that worked for Walbro that have made the corporation what it is today, and that the corporation will continue to move forward and expand.

CONSTRUCTION WORK on the Owendale sewers is on schedule with the main lines to be completed soon and the work on the lagoon to be completed by November. Individual hookups are scheduled to begin next spring.

PASTORAL SCENE -- These cows were grazing last Thursday in this large field south of Cass City Road, just east of the Michigan Live Stock Exchange in Greenleaf Township.

The Cass City Police Department was called to the Wash King Laundry, 6400 Main St., Cass City, Friday to investigate the breaking of two large windows on the front of the building.

According to Officer Donald Miller, one of the windows was shot with a BB gun, and the other window was apparently broken when someone leaned against the glass. Miller reported that a large part of the broken glass fell inside the building, indicating to him that someone had leaned against the glass and forced the window to break. An estimated $300 damage was done to the two windows.

According to Officer Miller, a Harbor Beach man received minor injuries when he fell asleep Saturday at 5:05 a.m. and struck a telephone pole. Miller reported that Steven J. Hessing, 18, 6954 Helena Rd., Harbor Beach, was eastbound on Main St., near Woodland Ave. when he fell asleep. Miller said that the vehicle jumped the curb and struck a telephone pole. Miller took Hessing to Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, for treatment of minor injuries.

Officer Kenneth Schott was called to Hills and Dales Hospital to take a report on an injured motorcycle rider.

According to Schott, Richard S. Jones, 24, of 6340 Shabbona Rd., Cass City, received minor injuries Sunday when the motorcycle he was riding flipped over at a Warner Rd. gravel pit.

The driver's window of a vehicle driven by Lori Calka, 18, 6306 W. Main St., Cass City, was broken Monday at 11:25 a.m. when she was purchasing pop from the Parkway drive thru convenience store.

According to Officer Schott, Calka was in her car when Parkway employee Kim Stall handed the 8-pack of pop to her. Stahl did not notice that the window was rolled up.

Timothy Jewett, 31, of 6557 Elizabeth St., called the Cass City Police to report that while his vehicle was parked in the IGA parking lot a vehicle spun gravel against the side of his car. Officer Schott estimated about $100 damage to the vehicle.

Cass City Police are investigating a hit and run accident involving a vehicle owned by Floyd D. McIntosh, no address recorded. According to Officer Moore, the McIntosh vehicle was parked on Main St., near Seeger St. when it was struck at about 10:00 p.m. Monday.

Cass City resident Michael R. Gaszczyński, 27, 4441 Ale St., Cass City, was not injured when his vehicle struck a deer Sunday at about 9:30 p.m. Gaszczyński told Cass City police that he was southbound on M-53, near the M-81 intersection when the deer jumped into the path of his vehicle.

Adrian L. Hutchinson, 6360 Houghton St., Cass City, was not injured when the vehicle he was driving struck a deer on Cass City Rd., about a quarter mile west of Jacobs Rd. According to Cass City Police the deer ran into the path of the Hutchinson vehicle Sunday at 10:00 p.m.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department is investigating the Aug. 20 theft of about $800 in tools that were stolen from a Cass City garage.

According to Trooper James Jashenske, the Sheriff's Department was called by Carol Kinney, 3694 Cemetery Rd., Cass City, to report that her garage had been broken into.

Kinney told Jashenske that the tools belonged to Joe High, 6622 Huron. High rents the garage from Kinney for his auto body repair work.

Jashenske reported that the thief had to be thin in order to get through the 12-inch by 17-inch opening he made in the bottom of the fiberglass door.

Among the items taken were an acetylene torch kit, buffers, an electric drill and assorted tools and equipment.

Schelke sees balanced league

Hawk grid hopes rest with veterans

The Cass City Red Hawks will field a team featuring returning lettermen in most positions including all of the offensive and defensive lines.

That's good, but not as good as it might have been for Coach Don Schelke who is entering his seventh year at the helm of the Hawks.

It's not as good because three players that had been groomed and counted on to help push the Hawks into contention for the Thumb B association title have been lost because of transfers.

That includes Steve Franks and Bryan Adkins, both who would have been two-way performers for Cass City. Also gone is Pete Walpole, who was the backup quarterback and slated to see duty on defense as a sophomore.

Couple those losses with three players lost via graduation and it's apparent that there are holes to fill.

Joe Langenburg, a halfback, and three-year veteran is gone as are Brian Wright, halfback, and Paul Hutchinson.

Because of these losses, Cass City will be thin in reserves and will need to keep away from injuries to remain a factor in the race.

One thing going for the Hawks this fall is a balanced league. Schelke sees a five-team dogfight for the title among Lakers, Vassar, Caro, North Branch and Cass City.

That's in contrast from recent years when the Lakers were dominant, including the Thumb's only state championship team in 1982.

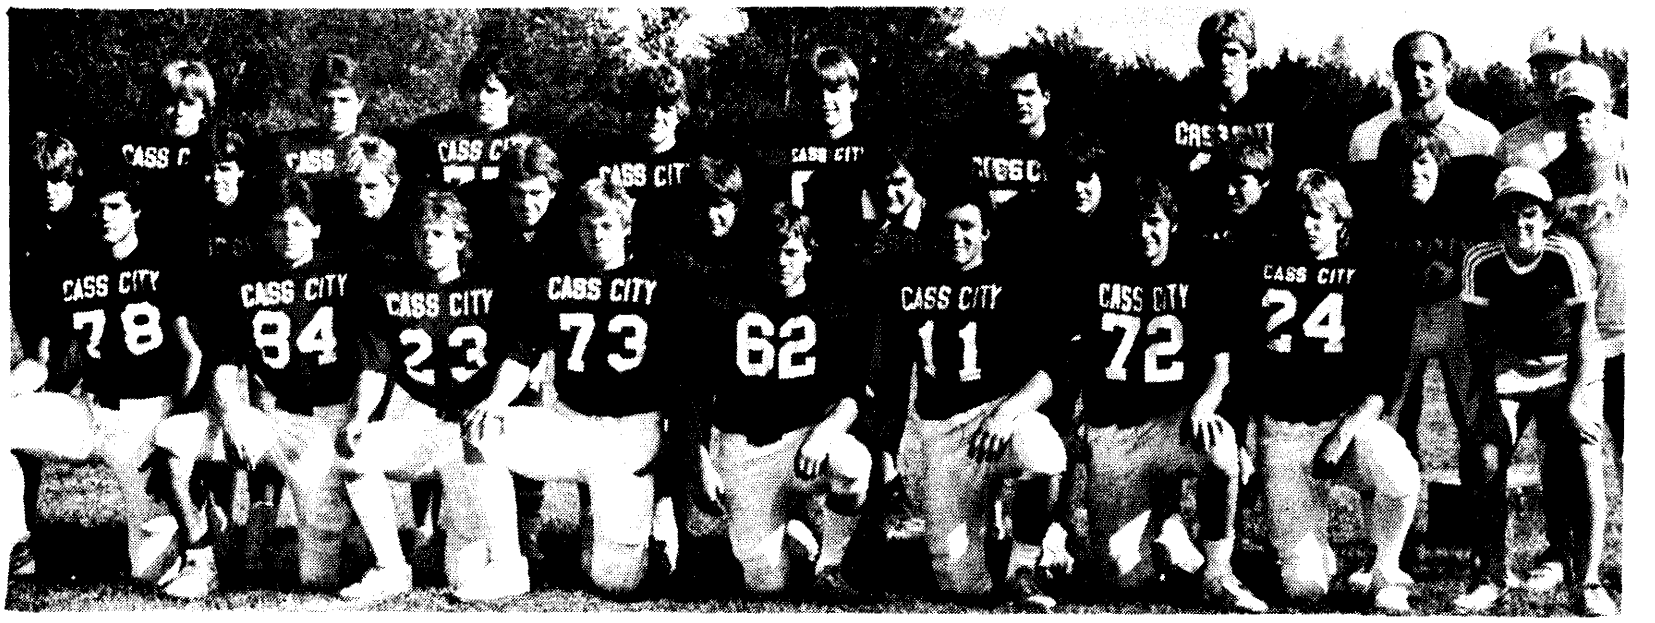

Hawk fans may be able to get a preview of what to expect this fall tonight (Thursday) at Akron-Fairgrove. A pre-season scrimmage has been slated there among four teams. A-F, Brown City, Ubyly and Cass City are scheduled to work out. The junior varsity and varsity will both participate.

Among the top performers that Schelke welcomed back to pre-season scrimmages were Bill Sontag, an all-conference player on the line on defense, and second team offensive players Joe Viney and Bob Walters.

A key player will be Bryan Beecher, quarterback. This will be his third year at the helm and a consistent performance in every game would go a long way toward keeping Cass City in the title race.

Beecher earned honorable mention honors last year as did Scott Rockwell on defense.

4-8 record last season

Girls' basketball team hopes for improved season

Daryl Iwankovitch, the new girls' basketball coach, should be stepping into a low pressure situation this fall at Cass City High School.

That's because most veteran observers aren't expecting too much from the Hawks. After all, Cass City is coming off a losing 4-8 Thumb B Association season and a one-game elimination in the district tour-namment in 1983. What's more, the Hawks lost three of that team's best players via graduation. Impossible to replace will be Jill Hutchinson. The all-conference pivot player was the top scorer and rebounder and most valuable player last season. Gone, too, are Joy Root and Kim Wagg, the other top rebounders.

Back from this team are a couple of players that Iwankovitch will have to build around. At guard is Shannon McIntosh, who forced her way into the starting line-up as a freshman.

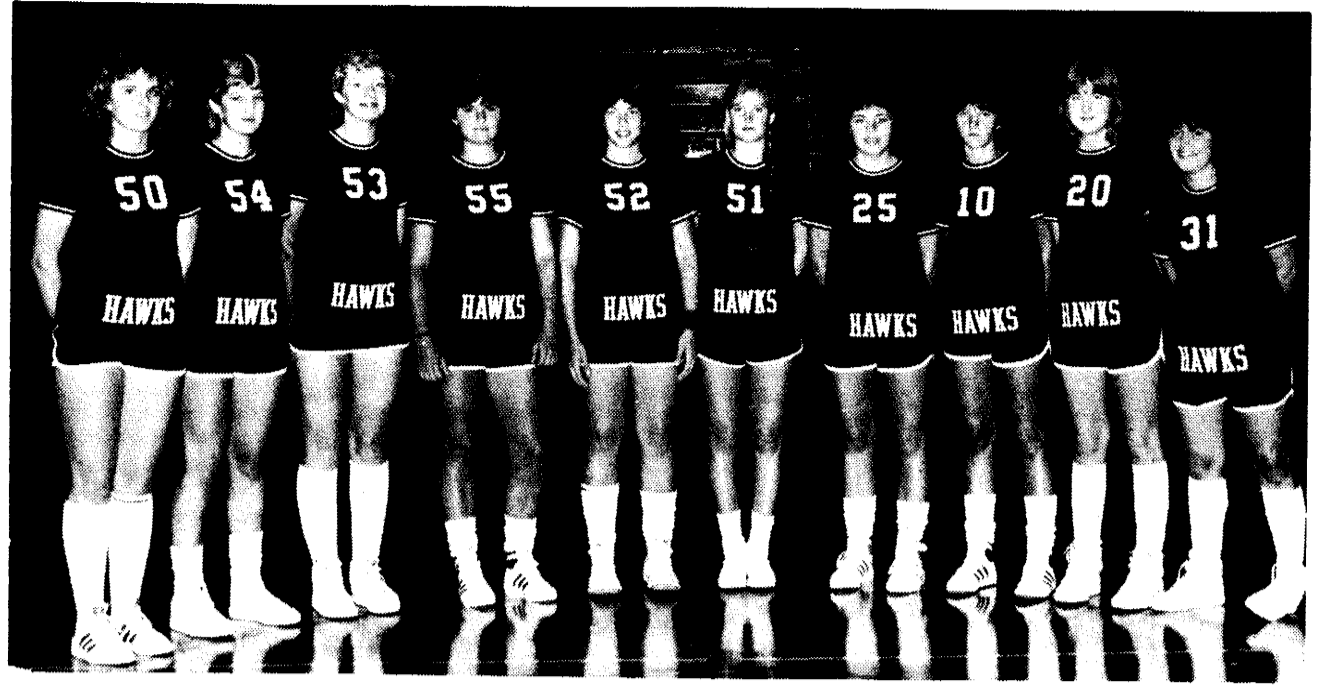

At the pivot will be Cathy Britt, a senior with two years of varsity experience. That's about all the proven players on the squad.

The remainder of the squad includes a couple of exchange students and players up from the junior varsity.

year's squad promises to be strongest at guard.

A lack of height and experience are liable to be stumbling blocks this season. With only three seniors on the squad, the new coach should take a large step forward in rebuilding this fall.

The Hawks swing into action Tuesday with a non-conference tilt at Caseville. That's followed by another non-league tilt at Uby before the Thumb B season opens Sept. 13 at North Branch.

The schedule:

Sept. 4	at Caseville	25	at Cass City
11	at Uby	30	at Imlay City
13	at North Branch	Nov. 1	at Cass City
18	at Cass City	6	at Vassar
20	at Cass City	9	at Cass City
26	at Frankenthuth	13*	at Caro

Oct. 2	at Harbor Beach	20	at USA
4	at Cass City
11	at Laker
18	at Cass City
23	at Bad Axe

All JV contests start at 6:30 p.m.

Last year the JV had trouble posting just one win.

The new head coach brings seven years of basketball coaching experience to the job. He handled boys' JV teams at Warren Wood.

He favors a man to man defense when possible. This

Cass City runners will again be chasing Caro

The Cass City High School cross country teams have good news and bad news. The bad news is that the boys face an uphill battle in trying to unseat Caro, the perennial champion. The good news is that the defending Thumb B Association champion girls are favored to repeat.

Coach Douglas Grezeszak, the eternal optimist, is on record as saying that this could be the girls' best season on record.

That's saying a lot considering that Cass City is the defending regional champion as well as the Tuscola County champion.

That's a big mark to pass and it's even bigger when you consider that Renae Stimpfel, the number one runner last year, and Lorie Hurley, the number four runner, have graduated.

But ready to fill the gap is Ruby Bryant, who was the number two runner last year as a freshman and already owns the school's second fastest time behind the legendary Carrie Lautner.

Ann Leslie was the number five runner as a freshman last year and Chris Tuckey ran number three as a sophomore in 1983.

In the league, Grezeszak sees Marlette as top competition and in other meets says that Cass City will have to overcome Capac, Harbor Beach, Kingston and Akron-Fairgrove, all state rated teams.

A test against Akron-Fairgrove will come before the students return to classes. Friday, the Hawks will compete in an early bird run at Fairgrove at 4 p.m.

BOYS' TEAM

Grezeszak will be coaching the boys' team for the first time this year. That doesn't make him a rookie with the boys. He coached many of them in spring track and also was around helping out in an unofficial capacity in recent years.

Highlight for last year's team was winning the regional. The low point was in the state finals when they were seeded second and finished 12th.

Added to the dismal finish is the loss of key performers. Greg Bliss, the school record holder in all the distance events, is gone. So are Mike Middaugh, number four runner, and Randy Nicholas, number five.

There is talent coming back. The Bliss brothers, Kevin, a senior, and Kurt, a sophomore, were number two and three last year and will be fighting it out for individual honors all season.

Behind them are Del Kostanko and Russ Auten from last season and bright new prospects, Brett Toner and Tony Bruce.

O-G hopes for improved season in high school sports

Arnie Besonen, coach of the Owendale-Gagetown football team, is counting on his 10 returning lettermen to improve on their 4 and 5 record last season. Besonen said that all of the returning lettermen were starters last season.

"We have a lot of enthusiastic, hard working players this year," Besonen said. He added that if the younger players are able to jell with the experienced players they will show a lot of improvement over last year's record.

Owendale-Gagetown will open its 1984 season at Arenac Eastern Friday, Sept. 7, at 7:30 p.m. The girls' junior varsity and varsity basketball teams are also hoping to improve on last year's performance. Last season the varsity finished with a 2 and 18 record. The Junior varsity had a 3 and 17 record.

Girls' varsity basketball coach Don Cummins said that so far their biggest problem has been the lack of practice time this year. He said that because of family vacations and other absenteeisms it has been difficult to hold full team practices.

"I hope that we will improve," Cummins said after their 35 to 53 loss to Caseville Monday night at the Caseville Tournament.

Kathy Kropewnicki was happy with the junior varsity's 24 to 21 victory over Caseville Monday night.

"The junior varsity has a lot of talent this year, so I expect a better record than last year," Kropewnicki said.

The varsity and junior varsity teams will begin the season Sept. 11 at North Huron High School.

good prospects for the team. He added that three returning lettermen will help them in the 1984 season. Last year the golf team had a 16 and 6 record and were Regional Champions. Their first golf meet will be held at the Sherwood on the Hill golf course in Gagetown, Sept. 10, against Sandusky.

Ubly requests 1-mill increase from voters

Voters in the Ubly School District will be going to the polls Sept. 4, to vote on a two-year, 1-mill increase that is earmarked for maintenance repairs to the school buildings.

This is not the first time that district voters have voted on the 1-mill increase. At a June 11 election 30.5 percent of the district's registered voters cast their ballots against the 1-mill increase. At that election voters did approve a 5-mill renewal that will last for five years.

According to Mark Tenbusch, district business manager, the roof on the elementary building, the gymnasium and the bus maintenance building are in need of repairs.

He said that roof repairs are an ongoing project to the district. He added that last year they repaired the roof on the commons corridor and the cafeteria.

Tenbusch said that he is hoping for a large voter turnout at the Sept. 4 election. He added that the election was decided by only 763 of the district's 2,500 registered voters.

He said that at an election two years ago a large voter turnout approved a 2-mill increase that restored busing to the district.

Tenbusch hopes that at least one half of the district's voters will come to the high school building to cast their votes. Voting booths will be open Tuesday from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Tenbusch said that the district currently levies 21.75 mills. One mill generates the district about $74,000.

He said that school administrators have sent letters to all of the district residents explaining to them the need for the 1-mill increase. Tenbusch added that they have also run a letter to the editor in the Minden City Herald, explaining why the district needs the increase.

Governor seeks to curb pollution of Great Lakes

By Warren M. Hoyt

Governor James J. Blanchard has announced a plan to combat toxic pollution and prevent future water diversion of the Great Lakes.

In a recent speech to the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the governor said defense of the lakes is entitled to the marshalling of full resources of Michigan and neighboring states and provinces, who he said must initiate protection measures rather than waiting for the federal government to act.

He labeled the Great Lakes as a commodity that cannot be bought or sold.

"We can set out on two overriding courses of action -- to develop a campaign that will eradicate toxic chemicals from the lakes and provide full restoration of our outstanding fisheries and to construct a legal fortress that will stand strong against any attempt to divert Great Lakes water," he said.

The Governor reported he is asking for swift approval by the legislature of a short-term ban on major diversion of Great Lakes water, which would be succeeded by a larger water policy by 1987 for conserving, managing and using the water.

Blanchard said that would be part of building a legal case that diverting water would be unreasonable, contrary to conservation and detrimental to public welfare.

He also designated Attorney General Frank Kelley to chair a task force to gather all needed information for a legal case.

The governor said he also wants language in the Great Lakes agreement giving Michigan a say in all proposed diversions, including those within the Great Lakes basin in other states. He said he would seek a forum for bringing together all lakes' interests to address common problems.

Blanchard added he is taking several steps to identify and combat toxic chemicals in the lakes, including a request that the Department of Natural Resources develop a strategy to identify sources of airborne chemicals and recommending pollution abatement measures and to develop a strategy to clean as many as 39 areas of key toxic chemical pollution and other areas of impaired use along the lakes.

He asked the Department of Public Health to renew research on the health effects of eating contaminated fish, while the Natural Resources Commission is to recommend a program to test and analyze fish as a barometer of contamination trends.

"Flattery is that which corrupts both the receiver and the giver," Edmund Burke

New books at the library

THE PETER PAN SYNDROME: MEN WHO HAVE NEVER GROWN UP by Dan Kiley (non-fiction). Psychologist Kiley notes that an increasing number of men seem unable to assume responsibility or to cope with their emotions. Borrowing from the Barrie play, he calls this failure to grow up the Peter Pan Syndrome and cites six common symptoms: irresponsibility, anxiety, loneliness, sex role conflict, narcissism, chauvinism. As he explains the syndrome's development and describes its crisis state, he illustrates with case histories, going on to suggest how family and/or friends can identify and in some cases help prevent or alleviate the condition.

MURDER AND THE FIRST LADY by Elliott Roosevelt (mystery-fiction). This historical mystery is set just before World War II, when international tensions are at a peak. Philip Garber, a lowly bookkeeper and assistant to the chief usher at the White House, is found murdered. Eleanor Roosevelt turns sleuth when it's discovered that Garber was found dead in the room of her British secretary, Pamela Rush-Hodgeborne. Scandal sizzles (both Garber and Rush-Hodgeborne are wanted by Scotland Yard for a jewel heist) in Roosevelt's exciting mystery.

LIGHTNING by Ed McBain (mystery). McBain's latest police procedural maps out a horrific urban landscape where citizens and cops try to wrest the real estate of terror away from the criminals. A grotesque series of crimes confronts the officers of the 87th Precinct. First, two women college track stars are found hanging, lynch-mob style, from the lampposts of brilliantly lit city streets, and then a rapist who harbors wild psycho-sexual/religious hang-ups stalks an ever-increasing number of victims, torturing them through repeated attacks. A key role in catching the maniac is played by gutsy Eileen Burke, an undercover officer in Special Forces whose aggressive work puts her own life in peril.

Choose only firm ripe tomatoes for canning

When canning tomatoes at home, select only those that are firm and ripe.

Using overripe or decayed tomatoes or those picked from dead vines increases the possibility of spoilage in the canned product.

Overripe tomatoes need not go to waste, however, according to Brenda Cummings, Huron County Extension Home Economist. There are several safe alternatives for preserving overripe tomatoes.

"Though we do not recommend canning overripe yet still unspilled tomatoes as whole tomatoes or in tomato sauces and salads, it would be safe to use them in a catsup recipe that has a generous amount of vinegar," Cummings says.

As tomatoes become overripe, they become less acid. Proper acidity in canned products is essential to prevent botulism. Using overripe tomatoes in a catsup recipe that calls for lots of vinegar and a long cooking time helps insure that the tomatoes are properly processed and will not spoil or be unsafe to eat.

Another alternative for overripe yet still sound tomatoes is tomato preserves. In this case, the high sugar content in the recipe functions as a preservative. Be sure to process the preserves in a boiling water bath to get a good seal and to reduce the possibility of spoilage.

Green tomatoes are no problem. There are so many delicious ways to preserve them that you might even look forward to having green tomatoes in your garden each year. Many reliable, up-to-date canning cookbooks offer recipes for green tomato pickles or picalilli.

Other options are green tomato mincemeat (use apples, raisins and suet and is processed in a pressure canner), dilled green tomatoes and stuffed green tomatoes (green tomatoes are stuffed with cabbage, processed in a tangy, mildly sweet pickling solution, then processed in a boiling water bath).

Green tomatoes can be ripened after picking. Just leave them at room temperature. However, remember that hot (over 85 degrees F), humid weather can cause tomatoes to spoil before they ripen.

Katie Mudge vows to keep centennial farm

During the past 91 years Katie Mudge has seen a lot of changes take place from her home in Evergreen Township. She has seen man travel by horse and buggy and has watched as men walked on the moon. She went from kerosene lanterns to the advent of electric lights in 1937. But Mudge has kept her roots firmly attached to the family farm, which was designated as a centennial farm last week.

"It has always been home to me," she said about the farm her father purchased Feb. 9, 1884. Her father, John Towle, purchased the 40-acre farm from Francis Palms for $240. At that time he was working at his brother's brick yard in Canton, Ohio.

In the early 1900's her parents, John and Sophia moved to the farm where they raised Katie, her two brothers, William and George and her sister Rose Towle Chambers. Mudge said that she was born in Canton, and first came to the farm when she was one year old. Since then, except for a short stay at the Provincial House, Cass City, the house has been her home.

Since the time that the farm has been in the family name it had grown to 120 acres. Some of the land has been sold and presently Mudge owns 78 acres. Her great-nephew, Larry Hollis purchased 33 acres from her, so ownership of the farm will stay in the family. The existing house, the original structure, was built in the 1890's, an addition was put on in the early 1900's.

Katie and her husband, Charles F. Mudge, were married June 26, 1918. They lived together on the farm until his death in 1972. She spent the next 10, years alone. "I still have part of the farm, and I am going to keep it as long as I live," she said. She added that before she was forced into a wheelchair because of her arthritis she could do everything herself. Now she has a person stay with her. Mudge said that she was proud to receive the plaque that designated her property as a centennial farm. The plaque was given to her by Detroit Edison marketing services representative James Pangburn, as part of a good will gesture by the company. Pangburn explained that Detroit Edison will be notified by the Michigan Historical Commission when a farm has been designated as a centennial farm, and then they have the marker made at the company's expense. The marker may be mounted on a post in the yard or is sometimes mounted on the house.

CENTENNIAL FARM - James Pangburn, Detroit Edison, presents Katie Mudge with a marker that designates her farm as being in the same family for at least 100 years.

Tuscola County's child care costs skyrocket over budget

As all parents know, the cost of raising a child is forever on the increase. But for the Tuscola County Commissioners, the increase has reached a point where they are unable to come up with the funding to meet the needs of the child care fund.

At a recent County Commission meeting, commissioners agreed to an additional $65,000 to bail out the child care fund. This funding is used for the housing of children who are unable to stay at home because of family or law enforcement problems.

According to Jackie Larson, personal administrator and confidential secretary to the commissioners, the child care fund began the year with $220,000 in its budget. This was to last the department until Dec. 31, 1984. But the department has used up the entire budget, and has requested an additional $259,000 for the rest of the year.

Ann Bean, juvenile director for Tuscola County, said that the number of kids getting into trouble has not shown a big increase, but that the number of offenses committed by the youths has increased. Bean said that this is resulting in an increase in the number of youths being housed.

Larson said that money from the fund is paid to the state ward chargeback fund. For each youth housed, the state pays one half and the county pays the other half.

Larson said that the county is charged by the state at a rate that they have determined to be a state-wide average. The state has set an average charge of $70.70 per child per day. This results in a charge to the county of $35.35 per child per day.

Larson added that in the area the county can house a youth for about $50 per day. This would result in a charge of $25 to the county for each child.

She said that the county has no choice but to pay the state the amount that they charge the county or the state will hold back on all revenue sharing funds due to the county.

Larson said that she has been researching all of the county department budgets to see if any of them can get along on less than their entire budgets. She added that the requests of the departments are not extravagant, so there is not much money that can be taken away from their present budgets.

Larson said that she may be able to come up with an estimated $20,000 from the Register of Deeds office. She said that this is the result of a new state law that allows for an increased charge in all real estate documents. The change in the law came into effect on July 1, after the original budget was made.

Bean said that she has researched her cases to determine if she can reduce the number of youths that are currently being housed by the county. "I don't see any alternative to them being there," Bean added.

Bean said that the costs for housing youths in the area are between $38 to $80 per child per day.

Bean added that in the past eight years youths are much more delinquent than they used to be. She said that the number of breaking and entering, and larceny cases are on the increase.

She said that the approach towards the youths is directed at rehabilitating them rather than a punishment type of approach.

Bean said that it is the department's preference to keep the youths at home

Please take notice that on September 10, 1984, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. in the Board Room at the Cass City High School, the Board of Education of the Cass City Public Schools will hold a public hearing to consider the levying in 1984 of a proposed operational millage rate of 25.9000 mills pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.
