

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Six days before the election and still undecided about the presidency. It's a no win situation. A vote for Reagan is an endorsement of the ridiculous arms race spending. A vote for Mondale is an endorsement of big labor and restriction of trade in the auto and steel industries.

Which is the lesser evil will decide my vote. What a choice.

What about Proposition C? It's not as bad as pictured by its foes. If only it didn't go so far, rolling back prices to 1962, and then making it so cumbersome to do something about it, I'd be a supporter.

We need to put a curb on spending and the best curb is to make the spenders face the voters. Vote no and hope that another bill will come along a little less disruptive.

The fire prevention clinic was so successful Saturday that fire fighters are mulling making it an annual event.

William Gillis lost his mobile home in a fire Thursday, Oct. 18, but recovered a sum of money that was lodged in a pocket of a piece of his clothing. It was found by Larry Peters, I'm told, after given up for lost. Whew!

THE CASS CITY Chapter of the American Association of University Women celebrated its 20 years in Cass City at an anniversary banquet Oct. 23 at the Cass City High School. This year the community service organization will be selling Christmas wreaths to raise money to support such services as the RIF program and the Latch Key program.

"If It Fitz...."
Bless you, kids

By Jim Fitzgerald

Four stories about children...

•Maybe you had to be there, which I wasn't, but a teacher told this story well enough so that I could close my eyes and see the scene — and smile. So I'll try it on you:
It happened in a suburban school. Four six-year-olds, in kindergarten class, sat around a table, each one concentrating hard on drawing pictures. None of the boys even looked up from his paper as the following scenario unfolded:
The first boy sneezed.
"Bless you," said the second boy.
"Bless you boys," said the third boy.
"This was the year," said the fourth boy.
•The same kindergarten teacher told me about the tiny girl who was spitting indignantly when she arrived at school. She was obviously bursting to talk about what was causing her to sputter. With her hands on her hips, she told her teacher:
"Mrs. Smith, you won't believe what my mother just told me. She said that before my daddy was married to her, he was married to another woman. And that's not all. They had a son! What do you think of that? Can you believe it?"

•Most people tell horror stories about riding Detroit city buses — rude drivers, foul passengers, filthy seats, bumpy rides and so on. This is a pleasure story about the morning I rode downtown on one city bus and back home on another.
Both drivers smiled at me when I boarded. My arms were full, and both drivers waited patiently while I fumbled my money into the fare box. They didn't resume the trip with the usual abrupt start that causes riders to lurch and fall before they find an empty seat.
Passengers reached out to steady my burdened shuffle down the aisle. They smiled when I was seated, and said nice things to me. When I got off the bus downtown, one passenger patiently held the back door so I could squeeze through without getting pinched to death.

You probably guessed that Emily, the three-year-old granddaughter, was with me. She has often watched out the high-rise window while I got on a bus, and one day, taking advantage of my theory of how to make grandchildren behave — give them whatever they want — she asked to go with me.
Also going with me was an extra-large doll named Halloween Party and Emily's stroller that is supposed to fold up easily for bus trips. But, road map or baby buggy, Emily's grandpa never folded up anything easily in his entire stupid life.
Her parents don't even know why Emily named the doll Halloween Party, so how should I know? All I know is that a man carrying a little girl, an extra-large doll and an unfolded stroller onto a bus needs all the help he can get, and I got it from strangers.
Because Emily smiles and talks pleasantly, if unintelligibly, to everyone she sees, everyone is kind to the adult with her. Because of Emily, a city bus trip was a pleasure. I should never leave home without her.
•Back home, Emily was sitting on my lap and using a spoon to make soup out of a dish of ice cream. She didn't feel like eating it because she'd just stuffed great quantities of steak and potatoes into her chubby bod.
On TV I was watching film taken in northern Ethiopia. It showed scrawny children with haunted eyes. "Here, one child starves to death every 20 minutes," the announcer said.
Emily wondered why I hugged her so hard. I wondered why the world is the way it is. Suddenly I heard a sob and was startled to realize that it came from me.

Defective brakes cause accident in Cass City

Defective brakes on a vehicle driven by a Cass City man resulted in a Sunday afternoon accident that damaged two vehicles.
Cass City Police Officer Phillip Klaus reported that a vehicle driven by Larry S. McKee, 24, 6185 Lakeside Dr., Cass City, ran a stop sign on Doerr Road and struck a vehicle driven by Geraldine V. Kelley, Kelley, 51, 6655 Third St., Cass City, was westbound on Main St. when she was struck by the McKee vehicle. He was northbound on Doerr Rd.

There were no injuries reported in the accident. Both vehicles were towed away.
McKee was issued a ticket for defective brakes.
Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson reported that a vehicle driven by Debra L. Loeding, 19, 4407 Decker-ville Rd., Snover, struck a deer on Cemetery Road, about one-half mile north of Deckerville Road.

According to the report, Loeding was southbound on Cemetery Road when she struck the deer Saturday at 12:30 a.m. Loeding was not injured. The vehicle was driven away.

E. Giddings struck a deer Saturday at 5:50 a.m.
According to the report, Giddings, 43, 1971 Dietz Rd., Caro, struck the deer on E. Cass City Road about one-quarter mile west of Schwegler Road. Giddings was not injured. The vehicle was driven away.

Cass City Police Officer Donald Miller reported that a vehicle driven by Charles

The Haire Net

Before becoming filthy rich and scrounging up enough money to buy a six-year-old Chevy, I logged thousands of miles on my thumb.
Let me repeat. Thousands of miles. No exaggeration. It started during the high school years. Short jaunts at first. Pinconning to Bay City and back just for the devil of it.
After I got my sea legs and reached the ripe old age of 16 and 17, all of Michigan was my cup of tea.
Vacations of a week or more on the road were one of the highlights of the summer vacation season.
Getting a ride was never much of a problem. Oh, before learning the ropes, one summer I was let out miles from any town in the Upper Peninsula after dark and spent the night on the road. You could get a ride after dark, but you needed to be under a light where people could see you.
During the college years, hitching was the norm for most students. Students by the score would hitch rides home every week end and getting a ride on Grand River at Michigan State was easy, easy, easy.
It's not that way anymore.
You don't find nearly as many hitchhikers now because hitching a ride isn't that easy. Sure, more persons have cars, but that is not the principal reason.
Drivers are just plain scared to pick up a rider. There are plenty of them around who would like to give a helping hand. Would enjoy the company, too.
Who can blame them when the horror stories keep popping up? It's really not safe to pick up a stranger. It's a symptom of the problems we have now. The same ones that have made Cass City move from a one-man police force on foot to the multi-officered staff that serves today.
The same problem that makes the current drug program necessary at Cass City Schools.
Hitchhiking exposes the Cheesemakers call the holes in Swiss cheese "eyes."

Harness racing a way of life

More than a fair showing for Copeland

For Leonard Copeland, harness racing has not just been a way to make a living, it has been his living. "A lot of people say why don't you quit. I always tell them if I quit I might just as well lay down and die. And I don't want to do that," Copeland said.

Copeland, 73, has been racing trotters for more than 30 years. During that time, his name, and his horses have become well-known throughout the county fair circuit in the state. Presently Copeland is taking care of six horses that he owns.

"Everyone says that when we come out to race that they got the Copelands to beat, because they got good trotters," he said.

Copeland's horses have set track records at several county fairs including Hart, Onkama, Cheboygan and Harrison. He has raced at all the county fair harness races in the area. Not only has Copeland set records while racing his own horses, but horses that he has raised and sold are also record holders at county fairs in the state.

For Copeland, the horse racing business is just that, a business. He will train his horses at least 300 miles before the racing season begins. Each day he jogs his horses five miles. Twice a week Copeland will jog the horse 15 miles a day to "toughen them up" for the circuit.

He said that a lot of people think that horses are dumb, but he disagrees with them. He said that during the training period he will jog the horses on the road in front of his house. When the horses have completed the fifth mile, they will automatically turn into the gate.

"It takes a lot out of a horse to go the mile," Copeland said. Most harness races are a one-mile race. He added that an important part of winning the race is teaching the horse to run the last quarter mile.

"If you don't teach your colts to finish the last quarter of a mile, then you don't win races," Copeland said. "That's when they got to move. They got to learn to finish."

The business has not been without its share of heartbreaks for Copeland. About three years ago a filly named Satey's Birthday had to be destroyed because of broken bones in her foot. Copeland said that the horse had total winnings of about $96,000. She was worth about $50,000. He took the horse to several veterinarians and finally to Michigan State University to see if they could amputate her foot to save the horse so he could still use her for raising colts. All the veterinarians said that nothing could be done for the filly, and the horse was destroyed.

Copeland has had his share of broken bones and injuries during his career. He said that he had his ribs, wrist and nose broken. He has also had his head cut open as a result of harness racing accidents.

At a recent race in Allegan, a driver cut his horse in front of Copeland, which caused his horse to stumble. He said that he would have had to go to the judge if he wanted to make a complaint against the driver.

"I never complained, but I told the man, don't let it happen again, or we're both going down," he said.

Copeland is also involved in breeding and raising colts to keep him supplied with trotters for the future. He said he generally will hire a stud to come in for the breeding, rather than keep a stallion around. Stud fee is about $500. He also takes special care to see that the horses do not have problems when they foal. He said that out of the more than 25 colts that he has had, only one of them has died. "So you know that we have sat up quite a few nights."

Copeland said that the Crosswell and Imlay City fairgrounds have tracks that are in the best condition. Several times he has entered Crosswell's Coon Futurity, which has a $50,000 purse, one of the largest in the state. Although he has never taken first place, he has finished in the money several times.

"It ain't like it used to be," Copeland said about harness racing. "You used to get out in front and be leading the pack all the way. Now there is someone coming at you all the time. Sometimes they will be four or five wide going around the corners." Copeland and his wife Blanch, 5765 Hadley Road, Cass City, take the winters off and go to Florida for the sunshine. While they are in Florida, their grandchildren, Terry and Brenda Betzold, take care of the horses for them.

HOOK UP -- Blanche and Leonard Copeland put the necessary harnessing on Touch of Faith to prepare her for a morning workout.

FEED BAG -- Leonard Copeland feeds two of his horses that he races at county fairs throughout the state.

ALL READY -- Leonard Copeland is set for the morning workout with Touch of Faith, a two-year-old filly.

Stokan opposed by former Harbor Beach Police Chief

Nov. 6, Huron County voters will decide whether to retain incumbent sheriff Richard V. Stokan, or if challenger John E. Stickney will be the new sheriff.

Stickney, 55, Democrat, a retired Harbor Beach police chief after 15 years of service, was unopposed in the primary.

He has also served as a police officer in Oakland County for eight years.

He is a member, and a past president of the Huron County Police Chief's Association, an active member of the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs, and a member of the National Association of Police Chiefs.

Stokan, 44, has served as sheriff since 1973. He has been a president of the Michigan Sheriff's Association, a secretary of the Huron County Law Enforcement Training Council, and is a member of the Huron County Police Chief's Association.

In the August primary Stokan, republican, defeated Herbert Williams, a former Bad Axe police officer for 12 years.

Elected Huron County officials running unopposed will be: Prosecutor, Karl E. Kraus; clerk, Helen M. Lemanski; treasurer, Roberta Moetteli and register of deeds, Frances Holdwick.

He added that most of the money and pledges collected so far have come from the industrial and business sectors of the townships.

Muxlow runs unopposed in election

In Sanilac County the Nov. 6 election was decided in the August primary when the voters chose their Republicans to represent them in the county wide office contest.

Keith Muxlow, District 78 Representative, is running unopposed to represent the citizens of Sanilac County and part of St. Clair County.

Years. Those running unopposed are: Audrey Leslie, supervisor; Otis Dorland, clerk; Wayne M. Whitaker, treasurer; James R. Brown, trustee; Ronald A. Rockwell, trustee. Rockwell was appointed to the board last year to replace Lloyd Frederick, who resigned, and Alvin R. Burk will be constable.

Brandon tilt to end year

Hawks self-destruct in Bad Axe loss

The Cass City Red Hawks close out the 1984 grid season at home Friday against Coach Art Paddy's Brandon eleven, a team which rolled to an easy 48-6 decision last year in the first meeting between the two schools.

Cass City did little to make its fans anticipate improvement against Brandon this year by the way it played last Friday at Bad Axe. The Hatchets topped the Hawks, 21-12.

Actually there was just one bright moment for Cass City and if you arrived late you missed it.

Joe Viney took the opening kick-off, found a hole in the middle and then ran to the left sidelines and scampered 75 yards to score.

After that the Hawks self-destructed. Later in the first period Cass City started to move the ball again only to be stopped by penalties.

Bad Axe took the lead late in the second period. Starting on their own 40, the Hatchets moved steadily down the field to score. The drive was capped by Perry Little who cracked over from the three. A pass from Mike Shuart to Jim Troyer shoved Bad Axe in front, 8-6, and they never trailed again.

Cass City tried several dangerous passes in the flat. One was narrowly missed being intercepted for a touchdown.

The Hawks tried it again with 1:28 left in the half. This time Brian Mazure was ready and he picked it off and ran untouched for 64 yards and the touchdown that broke the backs of the Hawks.

The self-destruction continued in the third period when a pass from center went over the head of the Hawk kicker and Bad Axe recovered on Cass City's three. It took four plays for the score. The marker came on a pass from Shuart to Todd Stanton.

Cass City scored a consolation touchdown in the fourth period on a pass from Bryan Beecher to Viney, but by then it was much too late to get back into the game.

On defense Rod Anker continued his fine play with four tackles, 16 assists and a fumble recovery.

The statistics:

	CC	BA
Rushing yards	36-69	47-153
Passes comp.	8-23	4-17
Intercepted	2	1
Yards passing	122	64
Total yards	191	217
Fumbles lost	1	1
Penalties	5-70	3-25

JOE VINEY galloped for a touchdown on the opening kickoff against Bad Axe, but the lead was short lived as the Hatchets went on to win, 21-12.

Loses mother Thursday

John Shope plays for O-G Friday despite tragedy

The Owen-Gage football team won their last league game of the 1984 season against Akron-Fairgrove Friday night, 10-0. For the seven seniors on the team, it was the last home game that they will play.

But for one senior, John Shope, the game was of particular importance. Shope's mother, Judith Shope, died the night before the game.

Coach Arnie Besonen said that Shope, who scored the first points of the game on a 35-yard field goal, was at an emotional and physical low point in his life, but decided to play.

Besonen said that before the game he told Shope that his mother would have the best seat in the house. Shope did not disappoint the crowd. He scored the first points of the game, and the last point, an extra point kick in the fourth quarter.

The Bulldogs will play their final game of the year against the Michigan School of the Deaf. The game will be played in Flint Thursday afternoon. The field is at the corner of Court Street and Miller Road.

Besonen said that the game will be of special importance for the players at the Michigan School of the Deaf. It will be their last game ever. After this year the school will no longer have a football team.

Besonen said that in the past they have always won the game, but he substitutes to give all of the Bulldogs a chance to play. In the Akron-Fairgrove game, the Vikings were unable to sustain any real offense against the Bulldogs. Matt Ricker led the defense with 11 tackles, Bill Ricker had seven tackles.

The Bulldogs held the Vikings to 45 total yards, intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles. Owen-Gage running back Victor Batisti ran for 97 of the Bulldogs' 205 yards gained on the ground. Reid Goslin threw for 51 yards.

Batisti scored the only touchdown for the Bulldogs on a 9-yard romp into the end zone in the fourth quarter. This capped an eight play, 52 yard drive.

Hawks bow to Broncos

North Branch Broncos had little trouble adding another defeat to the record of the Hawk basketball team Thursday as they notched a 54-32 decision at Cass City.

The game was actually over in the first period when the Broncos jumped off to a 16-4 lead. Cass City closed the gap a little in the second period and trailed at the half, 25-20. North Branch posted advantages in each of the final quarters to post the victory.

Shannon McIntosh led Cass City with eight points while Janet Mellenbach, 23 points, Brenda Ruhlman, 15 points, and Sue Schunemar, 11 points, were in double figures for the winners.

The Cass City Red Hawks won their second game of the season Tuesday at Imlay City, outscoring the Spartans in every period for a 44-30 decision.

Coach Daryl Ivankovitsch said his charges played good defense led by Cathy Britt and Shannon McIntosh. A good effort on the boards was led by Julie Burns with 8 rebounds.

Imlay City suffered when key players ran into foul trouble. Shannon McIntosh scored a season's high 23 points to pace the Hawk attack. Nine girls shared the scoring effort.

For the Spartans, Kathy Lengleman was in double figures with 10 points.

Primary decides most twp. elections

In township elections throughout the county, most of the township officials were selected in the August primary when voters chose their candidates to represent them on township government boards.

In Elkland Township, Republican David J. Milligan defeated Clara Gaffney for township supervisor. Milligan, a cash crop farmer, will be replacing Jack Gallagher, who decided not to run for reelection.

Incumbent Republicans running unopposed are: Norma Wallace, clerk; Art

Randall, treasurer; Allen Merchant and Roy Tuckey, trustees.

ELMWOOD TOWNSHIP
Acting supervisor James C. Turner is unopposed for the Elmwood Township supervisor's position. Turner, Republican, has been supervisor since April, when Roy Messer announced his retirement.

Joan A. Sattelberg, Republican, was appointed to replace Turner as township trustee. She is unopposed in the election. The other Republican trustee will be Kenneth E. Blue.

Incumbent Republicans Joanne M. Sattelberg, clerk, and Kenneth M. Hofmeister, treasurer, are unopposed.

NOVESTA TOWNSHIP

For the August primary, Donna Monroe waged a successful write-in campaign for one of the two trustee positions that were opened by the retirements of Fred Knoblet and Arleon C. Retherford. Monroe and two other Republicans, Tim Knoblet and Frank Spencer, were vying for the two positions. Spencer was defeated.

Democrats Nursie L. Kloc, clerk, and Ralph Zinnecker, treasurer, are unopposed as is Republican supervisor William O'Dell.

ELLINGTON TOWNSHIP

Once again Jack W. Kapen, Democrat, Ellington Township supervisor, will be sharing the township board with four incumbent Republicans.

Incumbent trustees Robert L. Wood and Frederick H. Janks successfully defeated an August primary challenge from George Cooklin and Dolpus J. Svacha for the positions. Republicans Clayton L. Turner, clerk, and Dora

Ann Rushlo, treasurer, are also running without opposition.

KINGSTON TOWNSHIP

There will be no change in the governing board for Kingston Township this year. Republican supervisor Robert Gilmore was unopposed in the primary. Four Democrats will keep their position on the board. They are: Victoria Wolak, clerk; Mary Lou Wolak, treasurer; Edward Bilicki and John J. Burns will be the trustees.

DAYTON TOWNSHIP

For the general election, as in the primary, Dayton Township officials are not opposed for reelection.

The only change will be that appointed trustee, Bernard Bishop will be elected to the board. Bishop replaced Albert Ross, who retired about two years ago. The board, all Republican, will be: Virgil Jaynes, supervisor; Karen Roberson, clerk; Eleanor Kilmer, treasurer; and James Daily, trustee.

WELLS TOWNSHIP

The voters in Wells Township will see one change in their township board after the election. Helen Moore, will replace Incumbent Democrats running unopposed are: Melvin L. Witkovsky, supervisor; Marion P. Huff, clerk; and Albert W. Pearsall, Jr., trustee.

Allen challenged by D. Harder

Voters of Huron and most of Tuscola Counties will cast their ballots to decide if incumbent Republican Dick Allen will keep his 77th District Representative seat or if challenger Duane S. Harder, Democrat, Bay Port, will be representing the voters.

Harder, 55, a community representative for the Saginaw Community Hospital's Alcoholism Therapy Unit, is a 1948 graduate of Bay Port High School, and a U.S. Army veteran. He has attended Delta College and the Northeastern School of Commerce, Bay City. Because of his profession as an alcoholism counselor, Harder has attended several colleges and universities for alcohol and drug abuse studies.

He is a member of: The Michigan Association of Program Directors, Michigan Alcohol and Addiction Association, Michigan Association of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Counselors, Thumb Area Substance Abuse Advisory Council and the National Association of Alcoholism Counselors.

Harder set up the first probation department in Tuscola County District Court under Judge Richard Kern. He also started alcohol education classes as part of the probation program. He has worked as a counselor in the alcohol program at the Tuscola County Health Department.

Harder is a certified social worker technician and a certified alcoholism counselor.

He and his wife, Joanne, have four children.

Allen, 46, is seeking his second term as 77th District Representative. He served as editor of the Tuscola County Advertiser for 18 years before entering politics.

A veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps and the Air Force, he attended the University of Illinois and the University of Maryland.

Allen is a former member of the rules committee of the Michigan Press Association. He served on the Caro Board of Commerce and the Caro Community Hospital Advisory Board.

Allen is a charter member of the Tuscola County Community Mental Health Services Board and has been active in the March of Dimes and the American Cancer Society.

Committees that Allen serves on are: vice-chairman of the Marine Affairs and Port Development, Towns and Counties, Civil Rights and the Elections Committee.

Allen, his wife and two children live in Fairgrove Township.

Voters in the 77th District are all of Huron County, and all of Tuscola County except Arabela, Millington and Watertown Townships. Those townships are in the 84th District.

As the shorter and colder days of fall increase heating needs, do you tend to use fewer rooms? Does your family's living space start "shrinking" because that enclosed porch, attic room, basement or Florida room is not heated?

You can change all that by adding permanently installed electric supplemental space heating equipment. To help you enjoy your entire home in cold weather, Detroit Edison offers a special supplemental space heating rate. There are more than a dozen different types of heating products applicable for this special rate. Order railroad crossing repair in Reese

After complaints by village officials and a personal investigation by State Representative Dick Allen, the state Department of Transportation has ordered the reconstruction of railroad crossing in Reese.

According to the 77th District lawmaker, Reese village officials have worried for months about the deterioration of the grade crossing at M-81. A council member wrote Allen regarding the matter and Tuesday, Oct. 23, transportation Director James Pitz issued an order for the repairs.

"The Transportation Department has informed the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company that the M-81 crossing must be repaired under state law," Allen said. "Railroads must be kept in a condition comparable to that of the adjacent highway."

Allen said that the company has been asked to remove a spur track, rebuild the crossing and install longer cantilevered signals. Railway officials will have one year to make the necessary repairs.

"Considering the large volume of goods and traffic that come through this area, I am pleased that someday soon the railroad crossing in Reese will be safer and better maintained," Allen concluded.

New books at the library

LOVING EACH OTHER: THE CHALLENGE OF HUMAN RELATIONSHIPS by Leo Buscaglia (non-fiction). Buscaglia - Dr. Hug, as he is known among his numerous and affectionate following - tackles human relationships here and comes up with a number of suggestions (some thoughtful, some pat) for making them work. Many of Buscaglia's ruminations are based on the results of an extensive survey he conducted on relationships. He bases many of his chapters on the most frequent responses to the question: What qualities are necessary for a strong relationship? (Top answers: communication, compassion, forgiveness, and joy.)

FATAL BEAUTY by John Godey (fiction). When Juno Sultan, 44 and still statuesque, hears that Joe Bering, a friend of her husband, and her son Michael have been captured by the Forze Scarlatte, a curious group of terrorists, she sets out for Milan to rescue the young man. Before she can get out of her Manhattan apartment building, however, she is being followed by the CIA (in the form of a psychopathic killer) and the KGB. From then on, the story gets tricky. Despite her superior intelligence and the assistance of a gentlemanly Italian police chief who has fallen in love with her, Juno is captured and thrown into an escape-proof wine cellar with Bering and Michael.

THE LONG WAY HOME by Alan Ebert (fiction). The story, which stretches from 1973 to 1981, focuses on the aftereffects, both physical and spiritual, of the Vietnam War. Marti, actress turned antiwar activist, is struggling to recover from the trauma of being wounded by the volley of bullets, fired by a berserk Vietnam veteran, that killed her father during his senatorial campaign. Her brother Thomas, who dutifully fought in Vietnam and suffered internment there, tries to reconcile himself to their brother JJ, who fled to Canada as a conscientious objector and has problems of his own to grapple with. Their mother Carolyn must suffer the heartache of personal loss and family division. The tense climax, also Vietnam-related, features kidnapping and murder, but the story closes with a veterans' parade attended by both combatants and protestors in which "each allowed the other his space."

Proposal B to establish public recreation fund

Voters throughout the state will decide the fate of a proposal that will restrict legislatures from taking money from a fund that has been set up to purchase and improve state public recreation property.

Proposal B would establish the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund by adding constitutional protection for the 1976 Michigan Kammer Land Trust Fund and other special natural resource funds. The proposal would prohibit the legislature from using the money in the trust fund for the state's general fund.

The official ballot wording of Proposal B is: "A proposal to establish a Natural Resources Trust Fund and a board to administer it, to provide revenues for it from natural resources leases and existing funds and to specify and limit the expenditures therefrom."

The Michigan Kammer Land Trust Fund was established to purchase public recreation property for state residents. The money for the fund comes from certain leases and royalties of oil and gas drillings and mining operations on state owned land.

Since the fund was established, more than $137 million has been acquired from these leases. The state has purchased about 35,000 acres of land with money from the fund. But legislators have borrowed $72 million from the fund to be used for general fund operations for the state during times of economic crisis. If voters approve Proposal B, the money in the fund cannot be used for any purpose other than improvements of state owned land, and purchases of additional land for public recreation.

Presently the fund has a ceiling of $150 million. Under provisions of the proposal, the ceiling would be raised to $200 million. Any revenues above the $200 million ceiling may be appropriated for other state uses.

The proposal also requires that the fund must spend at least 25 percent of the total expenditures on the purchase of land and land rights.

Also no more than 25 percent of the total expenditures can be used for the development of public recreational facilities.

The fund is administered by a board of directors made up of three citizens, the director of the Department of Natural Resources and the chairperson of the Natural Resources Commission.

Criteria used for the purchase of land is that, it must be used for public recreation, or of environmental importance or is of particular scenic beauty.

Proponents of the proposal feel that the state land should be maintained for future generations. They feel that a constitutional guarantee is necessary to ensure that money will be available to purchase and maintain public lands.

Opponents of the proposal feel that the amendment would limit the flexibility of the state legislature to gain operating funds in economic crisis.

Proposal C could change present form of govt.

Erickson's news release was in response to a packet of materials that he received from the Huron County Intermediate School District (HISD) that were to be used to oppose Proposal C.

In his news release, also sent to the HISD, Erickson said that the HISD superintendent, James McBride, has apparently become brazenly partisan.

He added that he feels that the state is already ruled by powerful unions in concert with the powerful lobby of Detroit. He said that they receive the "lion's share of the budget, while the rest must be thankful for whatever is left over." He added that because the proposal requires a 4/5 vote of the legislature to enact any increases in taxes, the other 1/5 of the legislators, mostly from rural areas, can have some influence in the spending of the tax money. "Maybe the rural areas will finally receive their fair share of funding," Erickson said.

The Owen-Gage School District, which has too high a state equalized valuation for the state aid formula, has been estimated to lose about $10,000 in state aid.

Cass City village superintendent Lou LaPonsie said that the village is expected to lose about $26,000 in state and federal revenue sharing funds in 1985 if Proposal C is passed. LaPonsie's estimates came from a release prepared by the Michigan Municipal League.

The cuts would be the result of a six cent per gallon gasoline tax loss, which would cut income to the state by an estimated $89 million in 1985. "A large amount of federal aid may be lost because some local units will no longer have the needed local matching funds," said George Goodman, executive director of the Michigan Municipal League. "We have held our millage down and we have tried to serve the community the best we can," LaPonsie said. "The only way we can gain it (money) back is to go to our people and ask for more millage."

LaPonsie said that the village has been able to maintain the streets at the present income level. With the cutback in state revenues the village will not have the money to fund the needed maintenance of the street projects.

Proposal A will change state rules policy

Voters will be faced with the question of whether to give a current legislative practice of suspending administrative rules constitutional validity when they decide if Proposal A should be approved.

Under the current legislative practice, legislatures or a joint legislative committee can suspend administrative rules that are written by state agencies to implement state law before the rules may be formally adopted by the agency as law.

The right to suspend these administrative rules is provided for in the Michigan constitution by a limited legislative role in the rules process. This right is granted to the legislature for a period no longer than the end of the next legislative session.

Proposal A, if approved by the voters, would give the power to the legislature to approve or disapprove of administrative rules in whatever manner the legislature deems appropriate and would remove the time period requirement.

Proponents of the proposal say that the amendment is needed because current Michigan legislative procedures may be declared unconstitutional in the future. They have based their opinion on a recent case where the U.S. Supreme Court declared a federal government administrative rules procedure unconstitutional.

Opponents of the proposal say that the amendment would further violate the separation of powers principle in the Michigan constitution. This states that a member of the legislative branch cannot exercise power in another branch of the government.

Opponents also argue that Proposal A would allow legislatures to pass laws that they do not have to enforce because it can delay or render meaningless the enforcement by vetoing the proposed rules.

when working on the 1985 budget. LaPonsie said that the loader lists for about $81,000, but with a municipal discount and the trade in of the village's 1968 loader, they can purchase the new loader for $49,320.

LaPonsie told the council that they can take immediate delivery on the machine, and not have to make payments until January 1985. He said that the payments would be $1,000 per month for 60 months. The loader is sold by Michigan Tractor, Novi. They are offering eight percent financing on the loader.

LaPonsie said that the front end loader is the most used machine that the village owns. He said that they use it for snow removal, street and sewer repair and at the village owned landfill.

The council agreed to purchase the machine, with payments to be budgeted for in the 1985 budget.

OTHER BUSINESS

County Commissioner Royce Russell explained to the council the need for the two millage requests that the county is asking for in Tuesday's election.

The treasurer's report showed that 94.5 percent of all village taxes have been collected.

A public hearing was set for Nov. 27 at 7:00 p.m. to establish federal revenue sharing proposed use of the money.

Stahlbaum told the council that the Parks and Promotion committee has purchased eight Christmas decoration scrolls for Main Street.

The December meeting date was moved to Dec. 18 because the regular meeting would fall on Christmas Day.

Trustee Elwyn Helwig told the council that the village has applied for a type three landfill status where they can still take leaves, brush and building materials. This will take effect Jan. 1, 1985.

By Bill Myers Taking stock

Dear Brother Willie: Are there other things in your world besides zero-coupon bonds? Do you have more than one string to your bow?

BABY SISTER Dear Baby Sister: Yes, there are other things. Duty. Honor. Country. Mom's apple pie. And impudent sisters.

I harp on zero-coupons because they are the cutest thing in the whole investment world, with interest rates as high as they are. If we both could turn back time a third of a century and load up with zeros we could grow old and be rich, rich, rich. Now all we can do is to make life sweet for the next generation.

What your question really was, do I know any hot stocks were I can get a double before the fall clothes come in at I. Magnin's in October.

These won't double by October but they may be as high as they are now, inasmuch as they are close to their lows for the last year: WHIRLPOOL.

HARVEY HUBBELL About half of Whirlpool's output of appliances goes to Sears Roebuck where it is sold under the Kenmore label and others. For two-thirds of a century Whirlpool has had this deal with Sears. I say deal, because the last I heard from the top man at Whirlpool, there had never been more than a handshake since the arrangement started in 1912.

The stock sells around 40. The dividend is $2 a year, or 5 percent, leaving about half the earnings in the company.

Whirlpool is giving General Electric a good race in the appliance field. Standard & Poor gives it an A rating. The company has paid dividends since 1929 without interruption. Earnings the last 12 months were $4.58 compared to $3.06 five years ago.

HARVEY HUBBELL: An old favorite of mine. Makes electric wiring devices. Your spouse can tell you that all respectable yachtmen specify Hubbell fittings for shore power and things like that. In 1983 the company earnings fell off a few cents, the first time in well over a decade.

Standard & Poor gives Hubbell an A+ and there ain't nothin' no higher at old S&P. Not even IBM gets a better mark.

Dividend isn't much—4.2 percent. Price-earnings ratio (have Fred explain that one) is 11—a little higher than the average company.

You won't get rich on this one, but you won't get poor, either.

By the way, did you see our old family newspaper back in Lapeer, Mich., and their tale of buying equipment for the plant? IBM, Xerox and Clark Equipment (makes fork-lift trucks) all struck out when our hard-headed nephew went to replace or add items made by these companies? Guess who won out with better products, better service, and better price? Japan. Who else.

This will be enough advice for one week. (We have named our new dog Advice, so nobody will take it.)

Your wonderful brother, BILL
