Council okays meter ban for Christmas season

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday night agreed to a request from the Chamber of Commerce to place bags over the parking meters during the holiday season so that shoppers can have free parking.

This is the first year that the village has allowed free parking in the downtown area. Council member Elwyn Helwig, a Chamber of Commerce member, said that the Chamber has tentatively agreed to reimburse the village for the loss of revenues from the parking meters. The village collects about $500 from the meters during the month of December.

Council member Mike Weaver added that it isn't official, but that the Chamber of Commerce Retailers Association has indicated that they would be willing to pay $250 to the village for free holiday parking. He added that a private citizen has offered to pay $100 to the village to put bags over the meters.

"Hopefully, in February, the General Chamber will kick in $250," Weaver said. This would pay the village $500 for lost parking meter revenues, and reimburse the citizen who has offered the $100.

In future years, the Chamber of Commerce hopes to have free downtown parking from Thanksgiving until the day after Christmas.

TRASH HAULING

Council president Ray Armstead opened five sealed bids from trash hauling services, bidding on a three-year contract for a village-wide trash collection that will begin Jan. 1, 1985.

Under the agreement, the trash hauler will pick up all of the residential trash in the village, and the billing will be handled by the village office. Businesses, industry and residential dwellings with more than three families in the same building will have to contract for their own service.

Gateway Sanitation, Almont, was the lowest bidder with $2.50 per resident, per month, for the first year, $3 for the second year and $3.50 for the third year.

Mid Thumb, Sandusky, bid $2.97 for the first year, $3.12 for the second year and $3.37 for the third year.

Richfield Disposal, Inc., Davison, bid $3.75 for the first year, $3.95 for the second year and $4.15 for the third year.

Rich's Disposal, Deford, bid $3.45 for the first year, $3.65 for the second year and $3.65 for the third year.

Cove Sanitation, Bad Axe, bid $3.50 for the first year, $3.75 for the second year and $4 for the third year. The bids were given to the Public Service Committee to evaluate the bids, and report back to the council at the Dec. 18 meeting.

LANDFILL

The council members accepted a new set of rules that will govern the use of the Cass City sanitary landfill after Jan. 1, 1985, when the landfill will be a type

Plan 4-day week for county offices

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners, desperately seeking ways to ease the financial crunch that the county faces, voted Tuesday to close county offices one day a week. The day to close has yet to be decided, but will start Jan. 1, 1985.

The Commission took the unprecedented action because taxpayers refused to vote any added operating millage in the November election and other budget cuts were not enough to balance the budget.

The county commissioners approved a 1985 budget that will require offices such as the Register of Deeds, County Clerk's office, Treasurer's office and the Equalization Department to close their doors one day a week.

By closing the Register of Deeds office one day a week, the commissioners expect to save $4,674; Treasurer, $10,084; Equalization, $11,017 and Clerk, $14,832.

Commissioner Royce Russell, Cass City, said that the elected officials will be expected to be in the office on the days that they are closed, but the doors will be locked to the public.

County residents selected for jury duty will also notice that cuts have been made in the pay that they receive as a juror.

Russell explained that about two years ago, when the court was in good financial shape, they increased the juror's pay above state statutory rates. The pay will now be $15 for a full day instead of $25. For a half day, the pay will be $7.50 instead of $12.50. The new, lower rates are what jurors in Huron and Sanilac Counties receive.

By making these reductions in the jurors' pay, the commissioners hope to save $17,000 from the budgets for the District and Circuit Courts.

The District Court will have a budget of $122,645 instead of the $150,045 that they requested for 1985. The Circuit Court budget is $151,341 instead of the $199,470 that they requested for 1985.

The Sheriff's Department will feel the budget cutting knife more than most departments. For 1985 Sheriff Paul Berry had requested a $1,138,579 budget. In the first proposed budget he was cut to $1,060,879. The approved budget allocates $1,018,881 for 1985.

The cuts will require that one deputy be laid off.

Detectives find few clues to identity of Kingston Bank robber Detectives from the Tuscola and St. Clair County Sheriff's Departments are investigating the Nov. 20 armed robbery of the Kingston State Bank.

According to Tuscola County Sheriff's Department detective Larry Walker, a lone gunman, armed with what has been described as a large caliber, semi-automatic pistol, entered the bank at about 2:30 p.m. and took about $3,000 in cash from one of the bank tellers. There were no customers in the bank at that time.

"He walked in and demanded that the money be put in a paper bag," Walker said. The gunman, a white male between 35 and 45 years old, is about 5-11 and weighs about 190 pounds.

He has black hair and was clean shaven. A bank teller described the robber as having a ruddy complexion and what they feel is a fake scar under his left eye. He was wearing dark mirror sunglasses and had on a brown hunting coat.

Walker reported that the robber left the bank parking lot, eastbound on M-46 in a tan 1976 Chevrolet. The vehicle was found about a mile and a half east of Kingston on Cemetery Road. This is where the robber changed vehicles. The investigation is centered around finding the owner of the abandoned vehicle.

Walker said that the method of operation that the robber used was the same method that was used by a robber who held up two St. Clair County banks in the past month.

According to St. Clair County Sheriff's Department detective Robert Quain, a robber took about $6,500 from the Capac State Bank, Allenton, Oct. 24. Nov. 8, he robbed the Emmett branch of the Commercial and Savings Bank of St. Clair County of about $7,000.

Quain said that the robber had a Band-Aid on his face to hide his facial features. In both St. Clair County robberies, the gunman used a two-car system, and abandoned the first vehicle. Quain added that for the Allenton bank robbery they drove a stolen vehicle. For the Emmett robbery they abandoned a vehicle that they purchased under a false name about an hour and a half before the holdup.

Because of the teller's description of the robber, Walker does not feel that the same gunman robbed all three banks. He does feel that the robbers are operating as a gang.

Other banks at risk, say police

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department held a meeting Tuesday morning to inform police departments and bank officials in the county about the increase in the number of bank robberies in the area.

"I thought that we should warn everyone of what was going on," Larry Walker, detective for the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department said. He added that the method of operation that the bank robbers use indicates that they may strike again, soon.

Walker told the bankers and police officials that the robbers have been holding up banks in small towns, such as Kingston, that do not have a full time police force. He added that rural banks situated near the outside edge of the county, or a long distance away from the Sheriff's Department, are the most vulnerable to the robbers. He explained that the robbers may be more apt to hold up these banks because it will take

Driver escapes injury as "safe" bridge collapses

An Owendale man escaped injury Thursday morning when two eight-foot sections of a 24-foot steel reinforced concrete bridge collapsed just after he crossed the bridge with his tractor. The five-bottom plow that John Retford was towing behind the tractor did not fare as well.

Retford, 22, 3802 Notter Rd., Owendale, said that the two sections of the three-section bridge collapsed just as the rear wheels of his tractor crossed onto the last section of the bridge. This is the only

"It was almost over before I realized what in the hell was going on," Retford said. He was crossing the bridge at about 16 miles per hour.

When the bridge collapsed, the plow dropped down, catching the concrete lip of the remaining section of the bridge. The five-bottom Oliver plow was broken into two pieces as a result of striking the concrete. The rear section of the plow flipped in the air and landed on the remainder of the bridge.

Russ Bowers, superintendent for the Huron County Road Commission, said that the bridge was probably built about 90 years ago, and that "old age got the best of it."

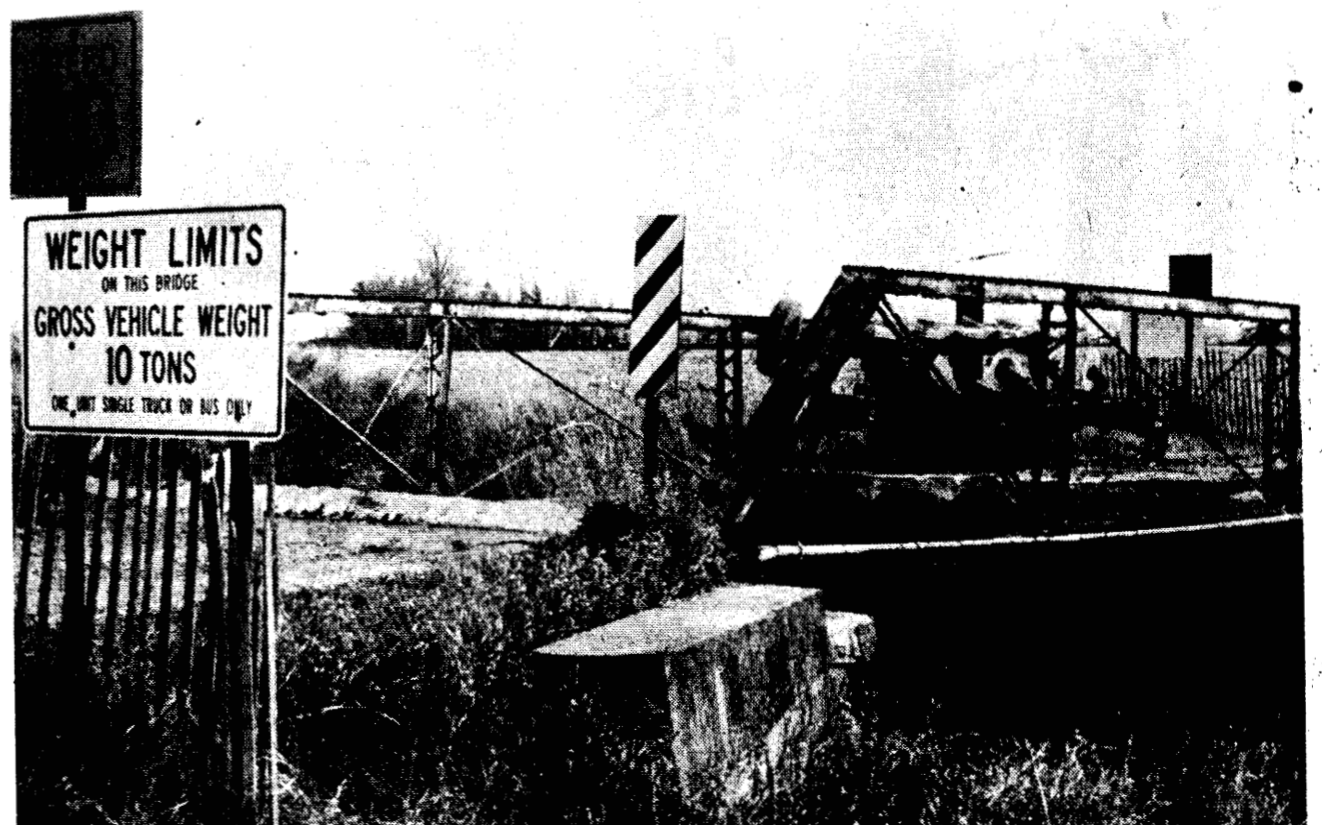

Bowers added that the bridge was inspected by a firm hired by the county about four years ago. The firm also checks the county's bridges about twice a year. A large U-bolt that had been holding the bridge together broke, and the bridge fell down. The two sections of concrete fell about 15 feet into the bottom of the drain.

Retford estimates that the plow was worth about $1,500. The hydraulic system of the three-point hitch on the 1976 International Harvester 1066 also received about $1,500 in damages.

The tractor weighed less than five tons, well under the 10-ton load limit on the bridge.

The Huron County Road Commission has closed off Notter Road to through traffic about one and a half miles south of Sebewaung Road.

CLOSE CALL - This bridge on Notter Road collapsed just after John Retford crossed it with a tractor and plow. The tractor made it to the other side, the plow was not as fortunate.

Beth and Alan Pratt

Alan Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Pratt of Deford, and Miss Beth Browder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Browder of Jackson, were united in marriage Sept. 29 at Grass Lake United Methodist Church in Grass Lake.

The bride's dress, which she made, was of ivory taffeta with short puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt with a flowing train. The bodice and hem were decorated with hand-sewn French reemboiled lace and simulated pearls. She wore a chapel length veil complete with fingertip length blusher and lace appliques. Her bouquet was a cascading arrangement of ivory roses, lavender stephanotis and ivory ribbon train.

The maid of honor, Marcia Cunliffe of Kalamazoo, and bridesmaid, Lisa Browder of Jackson, wore matching dresses of lavender shimmer satin with short puffed sleeves, wrap front, a gathered floor length skirt and wide sash. Both carried baskets of lavender and purple silk flowers.

The best man, Clarke Haire, groomsmen, Rick Rabideau, usher, Dave Bartnik, all of Cass City, and usher Dan Browder of Jackson wore gray tuxedos with ivory shirts and lavender bow ties and cummerbunds as did the bride's father.

The groom wore an ivory tuxedo with front pleated shirt, bow tie and cummerbund with a purple rose boutonniere.

The church was decorated with lavender pew bows, baskets of lavender and purple flowers in each window and matching arrangements on the altar.

The ceremony was officiated by Rev. Wayne Gorsline of Jackson and Howard Woodard of Cass City.

The wedding was followed by a dinner-reception in the church fellowship hall.

The couple traveled to Toronto and Niagara Falls by Amtrack and now reside in Swartz Creek.

Cass River WCTU meets

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

The test for providing free parking on Main Street won't be the $500 that it costs. The determining factor will be the ease of parking to shop.

If there remain plenty of spaces open during the free parking period then there's little doubt that $500 is a small price to pay.

But free parking isn't worth a plug nickel if the available spaces are used by all day parkers and shoppers can't park near to the store they seek as they do today.

The Shabbona area received a little nation wide publicity in the Saturday Evening Post recently. Stan Kirm, Cass City, brought us a copy of a quiz that used photos of small areas of maps to pinpoint locations in different states.

One of the nine areas featured was Shabbona. Readers were asked to identify the area. Towns in the segment were Shabbona, Snover, Decker, Wilmot, Elmer, Marlette and Silverwood.

It could be a coincidence, but it is highly suspicious. Two weeks ago when poachers tossed bones of three deer into a roadside ditch a blue pickup truck was spotted leaving the scene.

This week when a dog was callously shot, a blue pickup truck was spotted in the area.

It's no longer possible to languish in a hospital just because it is more convenient than recovering at home.

Once that was standard operating procedure for persons covered by health insurance. Those days are going fast as insurance carriers seek to curb costs.

What Blue Cross-Blue Shield and other carriers are trying to do is take the decision making from the hands of the doctors by paying for only carefully prescribed hospital stays for various illnesses.

What's sparked this revolt is the amount that we pay for health care. Health care runs more than 10 percent of budgets today and unless we are willing to pay another two or three percent, some tough decisions must be made.

Perhaps the most important and the hardest to decide is how much are we willing to pay to prolong life?

When does it cost too much to keep a patient alive? That sounds heartless, but in England, according to a television program I viewed, that decision is made every day and many citizens that could have survived died.

Unless we are ready to make equally hard choices we can continue to expect to see health care consume more and more of our income.

Oddly enough, if the vast majority of the persons who are kept alive by artificial means could decide, they would vote to pull the plug.

Making the headlines these days is the second transplant of an artificial heart. The patient, 52-year-old William Schroeder, is alive today when doctors say he would have been dead without the surgery.

There in a capsule is the problem we face. Let's say that Schroeder does better than Barney Clark, the first artificial heart transplant patient, and lives much longer than his 90 days.

Let's say he lasts 5 or 10 years. Who pays? To survive he must stay attached to the pump that keeps the heart beating. He'll need more or less constant attention and care.

That's after the initial cost of the surgery and hospital cost. The artificial heart costs $15,500. The 323 pound external driver required to operate the heart is the size of a small refrigerator and costs $40,000. A portable 11-pound driver the size of a camera bag is available in experimental models only and its price has not been determined. The unit now in place is estimated to last from three to five years.

Who's to say what our choice would be if we faced what Schroeder faced? Hope springs eternal and there's always the hope for someone like Schroeder that medical breakthroughs will come along that will not only prolong but improve the quality of life.

Perhaps we may be willing to pay the price for this type of experimentation. Nearly all of us are reluctant to pay for the cost of keeping terminally ill patients alive artificially.

It sounds callous to say we should pull the plug on these patients to put a plug on health care costs but that's the decision we all, inevitably face.

United Way surpasses 1984 goal

Art Holmberg, chairman for the Elkland and Novesta Townships United Way fund drive, announced Tuesday that they have reached their goal of $16,000.

Holmberg said that this is the largest amount that has ever been collected for the two township area. He added that they hope to reach $17,000 before the final contributions and pledges are totaled.

"If It Fitz...."

Just like Frank

By Jim Fitzgerald

The evening ended in a tie. The husband did the thing that irritates his wife the most, and she did the thing that irritates him the most. He used money, and she used liquid solder.

It began at the movies in one of those complexes where a dozen theaters are needed so that, even if there are only five patrons in each one, there can still be a depressingly long line at the lone popcorn counter.

They were already seated and had received the usual instructions to not talk or smoke or change theaters. After paying the adult price for admission — as much as $4.50 each — the husband is always bemused to be treated like a child. When he was a boy, and tickets cost 10 cents, patrons knew enough to keep their mouths shut without being told, not even the village idiot was stupid enough to light a cigaret, and you couldn't change theaters without leaving town.

Anyway, a young woman tapped the husband on the shoulder and handed him $2. The wife, of course, later demanded an explanation. The husband was forced to admit he'd earlier paid the young woman $7 for popcorn and pop, and the price should have been $5. As soon as the young woman, a new employee, caught her mistake, she honestly returned the overcharge.

"Do you mean to say you paid $7 for two small boxes of popcorn, with no butter, and two small Cokes without even questioning such an outrageous price," the wife said. It wasn't a question. She knew.

The husband never questions a price or reads a receipt. He claims he doesn't have time because he's too busy trusting sales clerks. Actually, he is too busy trying not to look cheap. He never checks a waiter's addition or demands an itemized statement because he once read that Frank Sinatra never counts his change. The husband has always wanted to be a finger-snapping, free-spending swinger like Frank.

That is what irritates the wife most, undoubtedly because it's her job to find enough money to pay all the bills at the end of every month. As for what irritates the husband most, she did it later that same night, when the Red Port Revue finished playing fine jazz and blues at Peg Leg's and everyone headed for the door.

Singer Bob Arrington mentioned that his microphone was busted and he'd have to take it home and solder its joints. The wife said don't be silly, she had some liquid solder in the car trunk, stored along with various turnips, cabbages, rolls of paper towels, empty and full bottles, and several kitchen appliances that the wife keeps there because it's easier than carrying them into her home.

With invaluable help from the valet parker, it took her only 15 minutes to find the tiny tube of solder. The search began at 1 a.m. in the middle of a deserted street in the Eastern Market. "Here's a bag with a bill for solder in it, so we must be getting warm," the parker said at one point.

Meanwhile, the husband waited and wondered if he'd ever get to bed. And he waited some more while she repaired the microphone, and he remarked on how fascinating it was to have a wife who always has the desire and tools to help anyone do anything anywhere, just so long as it prolongs the time her husband must stay after he's cashed out and ready to leave. "It is hard to believe you are the same woman who, for a year now, hasn't had time to sew that rip in my blue shirt," the husband said lovingly.

She said anyone rich enough to pay $7 for $5 worth of popcorn and pop is rich enough to buy a new shirt. And thus the evening ended, with perfectly matched irritations. Sometimes a tie is like kissing your spouse.

Bach Festival draws large audiences

Although the final financial figures were not available, the Village Bach Festival was considered to be successful by those who attended the three evening performances, and the Sunday afternoon concert.

"I just love it," said JoAnne Hulburt. "I was thrilled by the performances." It was the first Bach festival that Hulburt has attended.

She added that her brother took piano lessons when she was growing up, and she always enjoyed hearing him play, and listening to recordings of the classics.

The most enjoyable part of the concert for Hulburt was hearing Penelope Jensen, soprano, sing "An Evening Hymn on a Ground," which she admitted "brought tears to my eyes."

Hulburt, 1197 Cemetery

Rd., Deford, said that she had wanted to go to the concert before, but that she didn't want to go alone. Her husband, Gene, wasn't interested in attending. Hulburt, a nurse at Hills and Daies Hospital, went to the concert with friends from work.

Hulburt plans on attending future Bach Festival concerts.

For Betty Russell, it was her sixth time that she has been to the festival, and she definitely plans on attending all the future concerts.

"I have always enjoyed the concerts," she said. "It has given me a better appreciation of Bach and his music."

Russell has helped with the feeding of the musicians, who stay at private homes in Cass City during the Thanksgiving week festival. She commented this has given her the chance to get to know the musicians as people and not just as entertainers.

"Nobody realizes the amount of talent that is being brought into Cass City," she said.

Russell and her husband Royce, 4730 Hunt St., Cass City, took their children with them to the concert.

Holly Althaver, chairperson for the Village Bach Festival committee, said that this was the best year for the festival since they started the concert series six years ago.

All of the reserve seats for the Friday, Saturday and Sunday concerts were sold out. Althaver added that this year they sold a $5 ticket for students and senior citizens, which helped increase attendance.

This year visitors came from Toledo, Ann Arbor, Port Huron, Saginaw and other areas.

Althaver said that the musicians are very appreciative of the people of Cass City, and they enjoy performing during the Thanksgiving week concerts.

"They don't think of it as giving up their Thanksgiving Day vacations, they think of it as coming home," Althaver explained. Cass City has been a Thanksgiving Day home for many of the 30 musicians who performed at the concert.

Music director and conductor Don Th. Jaeger and several of the other musicians have performed at the Cass City festival since the concert series began.

Althaver said that even though the Cass City festival is not held in as large an auditorium as the musicians are accustomed to performing in, the audience does not receive any less of a performance than if they attended one of the larger festivals.

"They are not playing down to the audience," Althaver said. "Tom (Thomas Bogdan, tenor) did not sing with any less enthusiasm than he would at any other concert."

Doris Ornstein, harpsichord, said that she looks forward to the Cass

City festival. She has been with the village festival since it first began.

Ornstein added that the First Presbyterian Church, where the concerts have always been held, is the ideal setting for the concert because the musicians are able to relate to the audience.

Althaver said that one of the nicest things about the concert is that the people of Cass City do not have to drive a long distance to hear the classics performed. It is brought to them. She added that in New York a ticket for a similar type of performance would cost about $45.

NORMAN PAULU practices the violin before the Village Bach Festival concert Friday night. The festival sold out all of the reserve seats for the three evening performances.

Purse with $200 stolen Saturday

The holiday season will not be as bright for a Deford woman unless someone returns a change purse that she inadvertently left on the counter of the Quaker Maid store in Cass City. When she returned later to see if she could find the purse containing $200, it was gone.

Linda Yost, Deford, said that she was in the store Saturday morning paying for some lottery tickets, and walked away, leaving the purse on the counter. She returned, and talked to a store employee, who said that he remembered a woman picking up the purse, but he thought that it belonged to the woman.

Yost reported it to the Sheriff's Department, but she didn't feel that there was much that could be done.

Former Cass City resident named Mason of The Year

Clark Knapp of Kalamazoo, a native of Cass City, has been chosen as "Mason of the Year" of the Anchor Lodge of Strict Observance No. 87 of Free and Accepted Masons.

He was honored recently at a dinner at the Masonic Temple.

Knapp is retired from the Clarage FAN Division of Zurn Industries, Inc. A mason for 42 years, he has served as tiller for eight years and is active in the Scottish Rite, Commandery and the Shrine.

According to a letter to the Chronicle, he graduated from Cass City High School in 1926 and Alma College in 1930.

He worked at the Cass City State Bank for 12 years and went into service in World War II in 1942, serving 3½ years with the medics.

He has lived in Kalamazoo since 1946. He was a member of Tyler Lodge in Cass City before his transfer to Anchor Lodge.

He retains his interest in Cass City and manages a visit here every year during the summer months.

"God willing," he writes, "I will be in Cass City next summer."

Changes may affect Social Security

People who receive supplemental security income (SSI) payments because they are 65 or older or blind or disabled should have their eligibility re-examined each year, William T. Clynes, Social Security manager in Saginaw, said recently.

SSI is a Federal program administered by Social Security that provides a basic cash income to people 65 or older or blind or disabled who have little cash income and little in the way of personal property or real estate. Money to make SSI payments comes from U.S. Treasury general funds, not Social Security taxes, Clynes said.

The purpose of the re-examination is to make sure the people getting these payments continue to be eligible and that they are getting the right amount in their check.

The amount of the SSI payment depends on the person's other income and his or her living arrangements. People getting these payments are required to promptly report any change in their circumstances that can affect their payment rate or their eligibility.

The annual re-examinations are a part of the continuing process to make sure that SSI payments go only to those people who are eligible. Payments are stopped if a person does not cooperate with Social Security.

For more information about SSI or any Social Security program, call the Saginaw Social Security office. The office is located at the corner of East Genesee and North Warren Streets and the telephone number is 771-1010.

"I'd rather keep on renting my phone. It makes my life simpler."

Of course, you can buy your GTE telephone if you prefer. But you don't have to.

In fact, you don't have to do anything. You can keep right on renting your GTE phone. The low monthly rent is all you pay. And you can rent as many more phones as you like—without laying out a cent for purchase.

Not only that, but when you rent, you never have to worry about repairs. If your phone should ever stop working (with a minor problem), we'll fix it. You don't pay a penny extra for repairs.

If there's a major problem, we'll simply rent you another phone. It's very simple: GTE customers do not have to buy the telephones they are now renting.

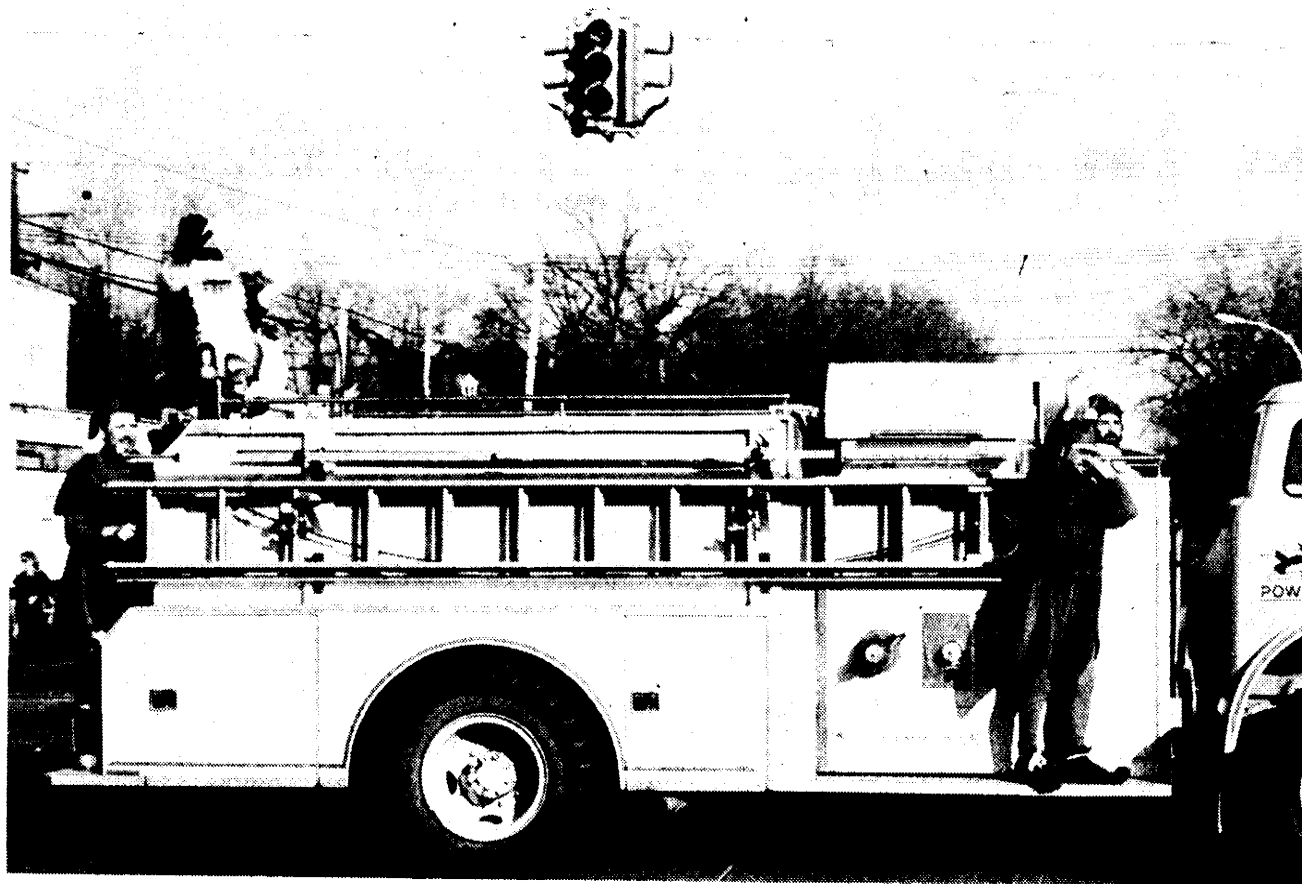

Period.

We make your life simpler.

Disaster loans available for drought stricken farms

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by drought are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration office in Caro, county supervisor Harry L. Knier

Jr. said this week. Tuscola County is one of 40 Michigan counties declared agricultural natural disaster areas by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, making farmers in them eligible for emergency loans.

The declaration, according to Philip Wolak, farmer program specialist at the Farmers Home Administration state office in East Lansing, named 15 counties as primary disaster areas and another 25 because they are adjacent to the 15. Tuscola County is adjacent to the primary area.

Farmers in the area who can document drought losses during June 1-Aug. 31 will be eligible for loans at reduced rate.

They will have to prove normal yields and yields this year.

If they do, they can borrow up to $500,000 with interest at 5 percent for the first $100,000 and 8 percent on the remainder.

Farmers will have from 1-20 years to repay the loan depending on collateral. Farmers need to show a loss of at least 30 percent and be unable to obtain credit elsewhere, have repayment ability and collateral.

Farmers in the primary disaster area, but not in adjacent areas, may be eligible for Small Business Administration loans.

One farmer produces 54 tons of food

Per capita annual consumption of food in the U.S. is 1,365 pounds (retail weight equivalent). One farmworker produces an average of about 108,000 pounds, almost 54 tons of food.

HDC gets home repair grant

The Human Development Commission at Caro has received $7,140 for home repairs as part of more than $500,000 awarded to agencies and organizations serving senior citizens from the State Commission on Aging.

The grant was authorized by the Commission at its Nov. 16 meeting.

The grants were from state discretionary monies and were selected through a competitive bidding process from requests that totaled $2.9 million.

Board approves changes for home businesses

At a Nov. 20 Cass City Village Zoning Board meeting, board members approved changes in zoning ordinances that regulate home operated businesses in the village.

The policy changes approved by the board will further restrict the number of employees that are allowed to work in the home operated business, the amount of space that the business may occupy in the house, exterior displays, and possible traffic and parking problems.

Of the four proposed changes that were prepared by Stanley Woodhouse, the village's planning consultant from Vilcan-Leman and Associates, Southfield, two changes concerning the number of employees, and advertising signs were discussed in depth by the board and attorney Kate Davis, representing Harriet Richards of Richards Barber and Styling shop.

Woodhouse presented two alternatives to the ordinance that restricts the placement and size of the home occupation's business sign.

The first alternative uses the same two square foot size and nonillumination requirements as the present ordinance, but allows for the sign to be placed in the front yard of the business. The present ordinance states that the sign may be attached to the building.

The second alternative requires that the sign could only have the name and house number of the residence painted on it.

"My reading of the alternatives is that the second alternative is unduly restrictive," Kate Davis said. "That one says that there shall be no signs displayed with the home occupation." She added that if the zoning ordinance allows for household occupations, it seemed to her that it would be unduly restrictive not to allow the home occupation to identify itself as a business.

Village councilman Larry Davis agreed that the first alternative was the better alternative to the ordinance. The board voted to adopt the first alternative.

Woodhouse again presented two alternatives to the present ordinance that restricts the number of people that the home occupation can employ. The present ordinance states that there shall not be more than one assistant employed in the business, provided that family members are not counted as employees.

Woodhouse's first alternative states that not more than two persons can be involved in the occupation, and that they must be a resident of the premises.

The second alternative states that the nature of the home occupation does not create a parking need for more than two vehicles driven by persons who are not residents of the premises, at any one time.

Kate Davis said that the alternatives seem "incredibly restrictive" because they restrict a household occupation to the owner and to one employee, who had to be a resident of the house.

"It almost seems, I don't want to say unconstitutional, but it almost does," Kate Davis stated. "It seems an attempt to cut down on competition."

Larry Davis felt that alternatives could have been better written. He added that they needed some restriction because the business could have five or six family members working in the business, and still hire one non-family member to work at the house. He feels that this could create traffic and parking problems because business could serve more customers at one time.

"I don't like it (the ordinance) as it is presently written, and I am not crazy about any of the alternatives," he said.

Board member Nat Tuttle agreed that it was poorly written, and that it needed more clarification. The board approved an ordinance change that stated that a home business shall not have more than two people working in the business at any time. There was no provision made that allows family members to be employed in addition to the two people working.

The board also adopted an ordinance change that further restricts the number of square feet that a home occupation may occupy in the residential building.

Under the present ordinance, the business may occupy 200 square feet, or 20 percent of the floor area of the house, whichever is greater.

The new ordinance states that the business may occupy 200 square feet of the ground floor of the building, or 20 percent, whichever is lesser.

Woodhouse stated that under the present ordinance, a home operated business could occupy 200 square feet of a 600 square foot house, which would allow for 33 percent of the floor space to be used as a home business. By using 20 percent of a house that has 2,400 square feet, 480 square feet could be used for the home business.

The board also adopted an ordinance which further restricts the alteration of the residential character of the house.

The ordinance requires that there shall be no alteration of the structure, and that the business shall not be allowed to use a garage or accessory building. Outside displays of merchandise, products and services, and window displays are not allowed.

At the Cass City Village Council meeting Tuesday night the council members tabled discussion on the proposed ordinance changes, and presented the changes to the Rules Committee. The committee will report back to the council at the February meeting.

Schnittker to speak at Agricultural Day Saturday

John A. Schnittker, a former United States Undersecretary of Agriculture, will be one of the many speakers at the Thumb Agriculture Day Saturday at Cass City High School.

Schnittker, President of Schnittker Associates, will speak on current and future farm policies, agriculture forecasts for next year, and international grain sales.

More than 100 agriculture related businesses will have displays of the latest in farm computer systems, feeds, fertilizer and the latest information of new seeds.

The program is sponsored by the Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Services.

JOHN A. SCHNITTKER

The annual event will provide the opportunity for farmers from Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties to meet with representatives from agriculture related businesses. The exposition will start at 10:00 a.m. with several seminars on topics such as the 1985 Farm Bill, organic farming, component pricing, chemical safety and other farm related topics.

Bears stay warm in Arctic cold

Despite the Arctic's sub-zero temperatures, the polar bear's main problem is not keeping warm, but rather trying to stay cool while running over ice, says International Wildlife magazine. To prevent overheating, polar bears often jump into the sea or roll in the snow.

Four veterans to key Hawk wrestling team this season

Coach Russ Biefer will be battling a familiar problem when the Cass City Red Hawks open the 1984-85 season Saturday. It's the inexperience of his squad that has nine freshmen seeking positions.

Biefer, entering his 11th season as Hawk coach, says that a plus for the team this season is that no outstanding players were lost through graduation and four lettermen are back to anchor the team.

Whether or not the team improves on last year's 2-3

Thumb B Conference record or 3-6 season's record will be keyed by the performances of the veterans. Bob Walters, 198 pounds, is strong and quick with four years' experience. Mark Rutkoski, 119 pounds, is one of the hardest workers on the staff. Mark Kappen, 126 pounds, showed promise as a freshman and Biefer is hoping for continued improvement. John Lebioda, a junior, is in his second year.

Biefer believes that the Caro Tigers have the inside track for the Thumb B title

Buck luck

Roger Ashmore, 3390 Wilder Rd., Bay City, shot a 5-point buck, about 140 pounds, Friday, Nov. 23. He hunted on his parents' farm in Huron County.

Dorie Tyo, 1728 Kingston Rd., Deford, shot a 7-point buck in the Frodie Rd. area near Deford. It was the first deer she has shot.

New coach seeks to return O-G to familiar winning tradition

The Owen-Gage varsity basketball players will not have any problem getting used to their new head coach this season. Most of them have played a good portion of their basketball career for their new coach, Dean Roller.

Roller, like most of his players this year, grew up with the Bulldog basketball system. He has been a coach for the junior high, freshmen, and the junior varsity teams before accepting varsity coach's position for the 1984-85 basketball season.

Roller will be counting on seniors John Shope and Reid Goslin, both starters last season, and Todd Rockefeller and Kellin Kretzschmer to help improve over last year's 5 and 16 record. Senior Todd Bolzman has returned after taking last year off.

"I hope that we can turn it around and get back to the winning tradition that Owen-Gage had," Roller said.

Roller will use 6-2 Shope as his center and 5-9 Goslin as one of the guards. Rockefeller, 5-10, will be one of the forwards, and the rest of the positions are up for grabs for the Dec. 11 opening game at Peck.

Juniors who will be on the team this year are: Ron Susalla, Dave Peters, Mike Mandich, Paul Thompson, Dave Salcido and Wayne Sheldon.

Roller said that he has coached most of the players before, so he knows what they can and can't do on the court. He added that they have a winning attitude this year.

The Bulldogs will play seven of their first 10 games at home this season so Roller hopes to take advantage of the home court to start the season off.

Roller expects that North Huron and Kingston will be their two toughest games this season.

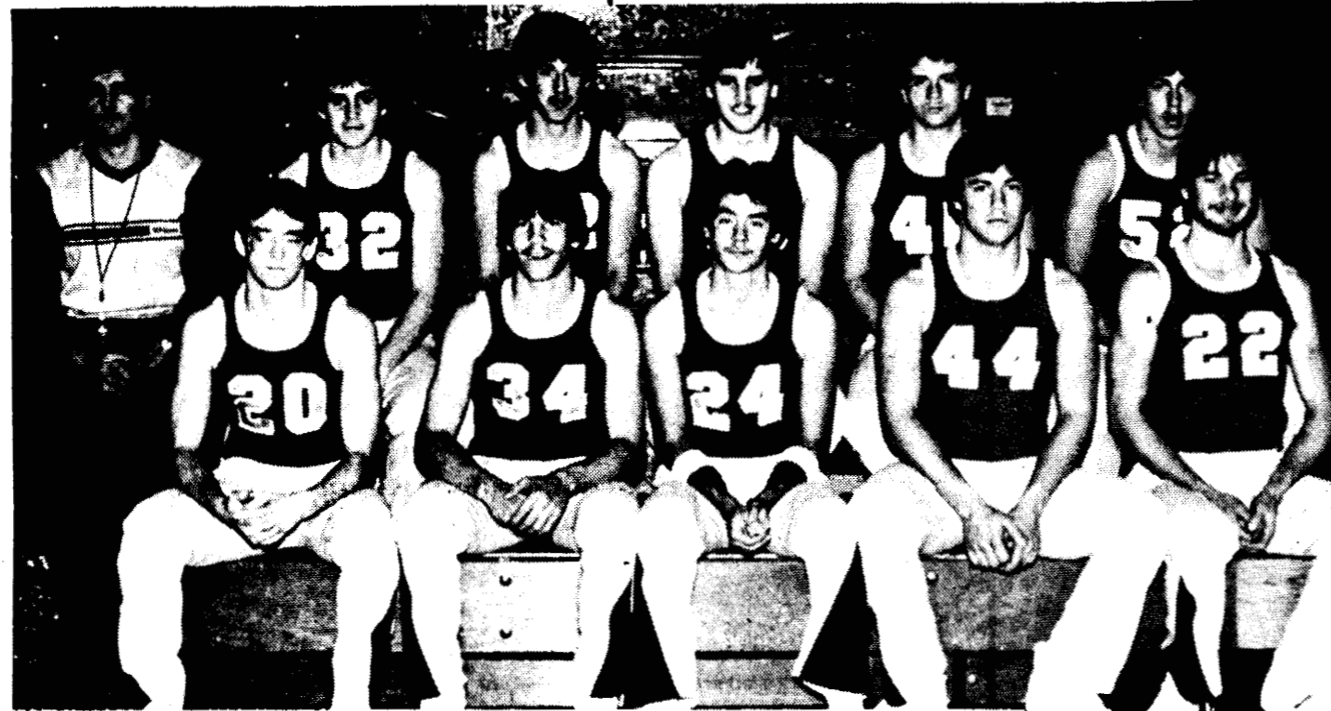

Like football coach Arnie Besonen, Roller is very concerned about losing any players due to academic ineligibility. The school requires that students carry a 2.0 grade point average to be eligible for sports.

"With a school our size it can really put a damper on things," Roller added about losing any players because of low grade scores. The junior varsity games start at 6:00 p.m. The varsity will start their games at 8:00 p.m.

THE OWEN-GAGE 1984-85 basketball team will be hoping to improve on last year's 5-16 record.

Antiques and collectables shop

Dee Smith opens Pineberry Collections

This August, Dee Smith left a secure position as a secretary for the McComb Elementary School and hung out her shingle as the entrepreneur of Pineberry Collections, a dealer in antiques, collectables, and handcrafted items.

"I was thinking of doing this on a part time basis," Smith, an eight-year veteran of the Caro Community School District, said. "Then I realized that if I was going to do it right I had to devote my time to it."

Smith and her husband, Lowell, spent about a year of part time work preparing to open the business at their home at 4651 Jacob Rd., Cass City. During this time they attended countless auctions and household sales, purchasing items to resell.

Smith also sells photos that she has taken. The photos are of outdoor scenes taken in the area and while they were on vacation throughout the state.

In the show room, a small bedroom in the Smith's house, she has displays of wreaths that she has fashioned out of the grape vines that grow wild on their property. The name for the business, Pineberry Collections, comes from the abundant supply of wild berries and pine trees that grow on the 38 acres that surround their home.

She also sells straw bonnets that she decorates with ribbons, silk flowers and stencils. By changing the materials that she uses, none of the bonnets that she designs are made alike.

Smith said that one of her favorite parts of the business is going to the auctions to buy the items to resell in her shop.

"Auctioneers are really fun people. They make the auction fun for people," Smith said. She added that when her husband and she go to an auction, they make it an enjoyable event for the day. They arrive about an hour before the sale starts to look over the items to decide what they want to buy, and how much they are going to spend on it. She said that while they are waiting for the items to come up for sale, they will take breaks and eat a lunch that they pack.

Smith said that even though they thoroughly look over the items that they want to purchase, sometimes they end up with an antique that has a crack or chip in it. She added that sometimes a certain item that they want will be sold in a "box lot," and they will end up paying for several items to get the one that they were after.

"I like going to farm auctions because there are a lot of interesting things. It's a fun atmosphere," she said. "Once in a while the bidding gets serious, but we consider that the fun part of doing this."

She said that when they go to a sale that has been listed as an antique auction, dealers from all over the area will come to bid on the items. At one such auction this summer she found out that antique dealers were willing to bid more than she felt that she could afford to pay and still resell it in her shop.

"It pushed it (the price) out of the range that I wanted to pay," she said. "You knew that you were up against dealers at that auction."

She said that dealers from different areas of the state are able to resell the antiques for more than she feels she can get for them.

"One of the difficult things about buying things for the shop is that I want to keep them for myself," she said. "I have had to discipline myself. I am going to treat myself and keep this one," she said, pointing to a wicker basket sitting in her living room. She had filled the basket with decorative flowers to fit in with the decor of her living room.

Smith has a large personal collection of the popular 1930's depression glass plates, cups and saucers. She said that the table settings were given away inside of bags of flour, or as gifts to enhance the sale of furniture and other household items during the depression.

Smith said that she spends many hours at home and in the public library studying books to get an idea of what antiques and collectables are worth.

"If there is something out there to collect, somebody is going to collect it," she said. "And somebody is going to write a book about it."

Smith does not sell large furniture items because she does not have the room to store the items. She does have an antique "hired man's bed" that she uses to display several of the smaller items on. The foot and the headboard of the 100-year-old bed show the wear and tear of a hired man who sought relief from the day's labor. To make the bed softer, the mattress was filled with corn husks. "I don't think that I will get into refinishing things for sale," Smith said. "A lot of people like things in their original condition. It adds character."

Smith said that she does not appraise antiques for people, and that they are open only by appointment. Her husband, a sixth grade teacher at McComb Elementary School, said that if it gets to the point where it is not fun anymore, then they are going to get out of the business.

DEE SMITH attends auctions throughout the year to find collectable items that she will sell in her business.

HANDMADE GRAPEVINE wreaths and decorated bonnets hang in the display room of Dee Smith's home where she operates Pineberry Collections, a home operated business that she recently opened.

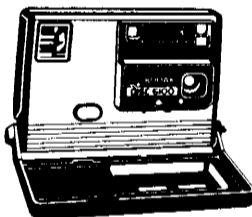

DEE SMITH puts the final touches on one of the bonnets that she makes in her home operated business on Jacob Road.

Lights stolen from deer hunter's truck

Cass City Police officer Michael Stec reported that while a Cass City man was busy in the woods hunting deer, someone was busy stealing a set of fog lights from his pickup truck.

Edward J. Stoutenburg, 6691 Church St., Cass City, reported to officer Stec that he parked his Dodge pickup truck along the side of Dodge Road, near Elmwood Road, Friday at 7:00 a.m. When he returned at 11:00 a.m. a set of yellow fog lights valued at $40 had been unbolted from his truck.

Officer Stec also reported that an undetermined amount of gasoline was stolen from a vehicle owned by Susan L. Hammond, 7614 Kelly Rd., Cass City, while it was parked in the Provincial House parking lot. Stec reported that Hammond returned to her car at 11:00 a.m. and saw a hose sticking out of the gas tank, and gasoline spilled on the ground. Stec followed a set of footprints to the apartments behind the Provincial House, but was unable to follow the footprints to any single door.

Hammond had about one quarter tank of gasoline stolen from her vehicle Saturday night.

Officer Kenneth Schott reported that a vehicle driven by Andrea L. Neiboer, 17, 4209 Woodland Ave., Cass City, struck a parked car owned by Doris Stimpfel, 5725 Kelly Rd., Cass City.

Neiboer told Schott that she was backing out of a private driveway and the engine was not running very well, so she speeded the engine up, causing her to hit the vehicle. There were no injuries in the Sunday, 7:20 p.m. accident. Both vehicles were driven away.

Friday at 3:40 p.m., a Cass City woman swerved to miss a deer and struck a vehicle driven by Donald L. Hickson, 38, 235 E. Marlette Rd., Peck.

Loreen A. Haynes, 25, 4631 N. Van Dyke Rd., Cass City, was westbound on M-81 about one-quarter mile east of Schwegler Road, when a deer ran into the path of her vehicle. As she swerved to attempt to avoid the deer, she struck an eastbound vehicle driven by Hickson.

Officer Schott reported that there were no injuries, and that Hickson's vehicle was driven away. The vehicle driven by Haynes was towed away. The deer was killed.

Other auto-deer accidents reported by the Cass City Police where there were no injuries are:

Gilbert A. Deibel, 62, 4280 Decker Rd., Saginaw, struck a deer Nov. 20 at 5:35 p.m., on M-81 about one-quarter mile east of Crane Road.

Marlene S. Merchant, 38, 6067 N. Cemetery Rd., Cass City, struck a deer Friday at 8:30 a.m. on M-81 about one-half mile east of Schwegler Road.

Michael S. King, 18, 1160 Sanilac Rd., Caro, struck a deer Saturday at 6:35 p.m. on M-81 about one-quarter mile east of Schwegler Road.

Cynthia S. Lalko, 27, 7006 Walter Rd., Cass City, struck a deer Monday at 1:35 p.m. on M-81 about 200 feet east of Crawford Road.

NEARING COMPLETION - The installation of the main lines of the sanitary sewer project in Gagetown is nearing completion. The lagoon and individual hookups are expected to be finished in the spring.

Caro man guilty of sex charge

Monday, a Tuscola County Circuit Court jury found a Caro man guilty of first degree criminal sexual conduct following a one-day jury trial.

Huron County Circuit Court Judge Richard Knoblock, assigned to the case, set a Dec. 21 sentencing date for Michael J. Walker, 29, 2700 E. Sanilac Rd., Caro.

The jury decided that Walker was guilty of a Feb. 9, 1984 charge of having sexual penetration with a Dayton Township girl under the age of 13.

Knoblock canceled a $25,000 surety bond and remanded Walker to the Tuscola County jail.

Also on Monday, Rodney L. Wakefield, 20, pleaded guilty to attempted larceny over $100 before Circuit Court Judge Patrick Joslyn.

Wakefield, 4091 Crane Rd., Cass City, was originally charged with larceny over $100, in connection with the Aug. 8 theft of a chainsaw from the back of a pickup owned by Donald Leiterman, Cass City. The pickup was parked on Leach St., Cass City, when the theft occurred.

Wakefield was sentenced to three years' probation, and to a six-month county jail sentence, deferred for 90 days. He was also ordered to pay $300 in court costs, a $300 fine and to pay attorney fees.

As part of his probation, Wakefield is not to consume alcoholic beverages and is to undergo psychiatric evaluation.

John P. Dykes, 19, 508 E. Frank St., Caro, pleaded guilty to two counts of breaking and entering of an unoccupied building.

The charges stem from the breaking and entering of Vandemark's Auto Parts, Caro, Aug. 13, and the entering of Club 24, Indianfields Township, Aug. 28.

Judge Joslyn set a Dec. 17 sentencing date for Dykes.

Proper ventilation of swine buildings required during winter

Gary Weber, area livestock agent for the Cooperative Extension Service, indicates that proper ventilation of swine buildings is especially critical during winter months. Swine buildings must have minimum, continuous ventilation for moisture and toxic gas control during the winter months.

There are many swine confinement buildings which do not have proper minimum ventilation systems. Cases of acute pneumonia increase during the fall and winter due to wide daily temperature changes and damp weather. Proper ventilation of swine buildings, including providing supplemental heat when needed, can reduce the incidence of disease and improve animal performance.

Proper ventilation of the farrowing house is one of the most important because baby pigs are so sensitive to an incorrect environment. Many veterinarians believe some problems encountered with pigs during the growing and finishing phases may be related to inadequate colostrum after birth and/or a poor environment in the farrowing house.

The temperature in the farrowing house should be no less than 50-60 degrees, floor temperatures where baby pigs sleep 85-90 degrees. Chilled baby pigs have increased scours and higher death losses.

There should be continuous air movement into the farrowing house of 20 cubic feet of air per minute per sow and litter during the winter. Additional air flow may be needed for temperature control on warmer days. Signs of inadequate air exchange in buildings include condensation of water on ceilings and excessive odors. The air inlets must be designed to provide mixing of cool dry air with warm wet air near the ceiling, this provides for proper moisture control and keeps cold drafts off pigs.

The Cooperative Extension Service offices have copies of the Midwest Plan Service publication entitled Swine Housing and Equipment Handbook which has designs and specifications for swine housing, equipment and ventilation.

ALL-DAY PROGRAM

Dr. Howard Person, from Michigan State University,

Huron ASC to elect committeemen

Jimmy LaVoie, County Executive Director of the Huron County ASC Committee, reminds farm owners and operators to cast their votes by mail to elect Committee members, and return ballots to the ASCS Office by Dec. 3.

If an eligible voter did not receive a ballot by mail, one may be obtained at the ASCS Office.

The County Committee will tabulate ballots at a meeting Dec. 6, commencing at 10:00 a.m. in the ASCS office located in the USDA Service Center at 46 Westland Drive, Bad Axe.

Elected committeemen and delegates to the County Convention will be notified by mail after Dec. 6.

The County ASC Convention will be Dec. 13. Delegates will elect members of the County Committee whose terms expire in 1984. Meetings are open to the public.

Two injured in auto accident

Two Trenton youths were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following a Thanksgiving Day accident in Deford.

According to Tuscola County Sheriff's Department deputy James Jashinske, a vehicle driven by Ralph J. Danner, 40, 27165 Oak Crest, Trenton, was struck by a vehicle driven by Duane L. Edwards, Edwards, 21, 1495 N. Kingston Rd., Deford, was eastbound on Main St., Deford, when the Danner vehicle pulled out in front of him.

Jashinske reported that Danner was southbound on Spence St., and that the intersection does not have any warnings for traffic on Spence St.

Larry Danner, 8, was treated for contusions to the head. Brian Danner was treated for a cut over the left eye. Both vehicles were driven away.

Deputies reported the following auto-deer accidents involving area residents, or accidents occurring in the area where no injuries were reported:

Lucille E. Hartsell, 26, 3257 Washington St., Apt. A-7, Kingston, struck a deer Nov. 20 at 6:40 p.m. on Cemetery Road, about one-quarter mile north of Kelly Road.

Gonzalo Sanchez, 51, 1435 Mertz Rd., Caro, struck a deer Nov. 20 at 6:15 a.m. on M-81 about one-quarter mile east of Cedar Run Road.

Dean L. Johnson, 20, 117 Spring St., Vassar, struck a deer Nov. 21 at 7:25 a.m. on Cemetery Road, about one-quarter mile north of Elmwood Road.

Eugene M. Kociba, 29, Range Line Rd., Berrien Springs, MI, struck a deer Nov. 21 at 5:30 p.m. on M-81 about 100 feet north of Krapf Road.

Lori L. Hartwick, 15, 1751 Cemetery Rd., Deford, struck a deer Nov. 22 at 6:00 p.m. on Deckerville Road, about one half mile west of Crawford Road.

Drunk driving task force seeks legislative help

The Michigan Drunk Driving Task Force has asked the Legislature to make the necessary amendments to the Liquor Control Act to allow for a more efficient enforcement to deal with the problem of illegal sales of alcohol to underage or intoxicated persons.

The group made eight recommendations that would reinforce attempts to stop illegal sales and consumption.

Recommendations made include increasing the fine of $25 to $100 for a person less than 21 years of age who purchases, consumes or possesses alcohol.

Also recommended was augmenting the penalties which can be levied upon underage persons by the suspension of the person's driver's license for a period not to exceed one year.

An amendment to the Liquor Control Commission Regulations which would make provision for exclusion by licensees of persons under the legal drinking age from on-premise establishments was recommended as well as encouraging greater use by the commission of liquor license suspensions for establishments with repeated violations.

More general recommendations to be presented to the Legislature include the reinstatement of covert enforcement by the commission directed at licensed liquor dispensing establishments and a renewal of the commission's efforts to assist local law enforcement in carrying out shared responsibilities for administering the Liquor Control Act and administrative rules of the commission.

Final recommendations suggested by the task force include a proposed amendment to the administrative rules to limit "reduced price" drink promotions by on-premise licensees and require an accounting by local political subdivisions of enforcement expenditures as a condition of receiving commission enforcement monies from fees.

The recommendations, if transmitted to the Legislature yet this year, will be more likely to be acted upon during the next legislative session, which will begin in January.

In another related matter, the state Court of Appeals ruled it is not a Civil Rights Act violation for bars to exclude admittance to adults who are at least 18, but under the state's legal drinking age of 21.

The three-judge panel said, although such persons are generally recognized as adults for most legal purposes, they are still minors under the Liquor Control Act.

"Applying a practical rule of reason to the instant case, it is our opinion that denial of admission to 18 and 21-year-olds is a reasonable extension of the statutory prohibitions of serving alcohol to individuals under the age of 21.

"Our view that this practice is permitted by law is supported by the strict statutory sanctions imposed upon licensees who violate any provisions of the Liquor Control Act," the court declared.

The decision affirmed the Oakland County Circuit Court that such action by bars or other establishments serving alcoholic beverages does not constitute age discrimination.

The court agreed that, while no law expressly prohibits or limits the presence of persons over age 17 in such establishments, the Liquor Control Act prohibits persons under 21 from consuming or possessing alcoholic beverages and the Dram Shop Act imposes penalties upon persons who furnish liquor to minors.

New books at the library

THE WENDY DILEMMA: WHEN WOMEN STOP MOTHERING THEIR MEN by Dan Kiley (non-fiction). The Wendy Dilemma addresses those women who, like Wendy in the popular children's tale "Peter Pan," find themselves mothering men who refuse to grow up. Kiley profiles several interesting women caught at various stages in what he calls the "Wendy trap," the effort to please people, especially husbands and other male friends, at the expense of self-growth. These women, claims the author, have come to fear rejection and now need to learn new growth-enhancing skills, which are carefully explained.

STILLWATCH by Mary Higgins Clark (fiction). Pat Traymore arrives in the nation's capital to produce a TV documentary on Sen. Abigail Jennings, rumored to be the President's choice to succeed the ailing, retired vice-president. Disregarding dire warnings, Pat moves back into the house where, when she was a baby, her father had killed her mother and himself and tried to kill her too. The young woman begins to suspect something not quite admirable in Jennings' background as her research gets under way. She is distracted by speculation about the mystery of her parents' relationship, by threats against her life if she stays in the house and continues work on the documentary and by her pursuit of the man she loves, Rep. Samuel Kingsley. A psychic, a maniac who practices mercy killings in nursing homes, Senator Jennings' strong-arm assistant are a few of the characters in this novel.

SKYSCRAPER by Robert Byrne (fiction). Brian Mitchell, a hardnosed civil engineer who prides himself on being his own man, is called in by an upscale law firm to find out why a 200-pound pane of glass fell from the 56th story of the Zalian Building on New York City's West Side, killing two people, and, in addition, who is liable. Within hours, he is the target of a group of conspirators, among whom are a member of the law firm that hired him, the sleazy owner of the building, Aram Zalian, and the building superintendent, an Irishman who would rather kill now and talk later. On Mitchell's side is an attractive law clerk, Carol Owens, who is helpful in more ways than one. When an irresponsible blasting crew detonates a charge nearby, the building starts to topple. Mitchell races to the 56th floor to rescue Carol and they are trapped.

VFW to meet December 5

The regular meeting of the Cass City Veterans of Foreign Wars, post 3644, will be held at the Char-mont, Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend.

California may split

After studying the shifting of the Earth's continents for the past five years, NASA scientist David Smith predicts that all of California west of the San Andreas Fault will become an island in the Pacific in about 20 million years, reports International Wildlife magazine.

Your neighbor says

Approves of artificial hearts

Do you feel that it is right for doctors to implant artificial hearts, or hearts from animals to keep a person alive?

"Yes, I feel that it is right to keep people alive," said Brenda Gibson, 14, a ninth grade student at Cass City High School.

She said that she would have it done to keep a family member alive, if that was the only way that they would survive.

She added that it did bother her that people such as the late Barney Clark and William J. Schroeder, the two people who have received artificial hearts, are so confined to the room because of the size of the machine that keeps the heart working.

Gibson said that she wasn't sure if she would allow a baboon heart to be transplanted into her, such as was done in the controversial Baby Fae case.

"I wouldn't want to grow up having everyone tell me that I had a baboon's heart," she said.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson, 6576 Third St., Cass City.

Are the two executives of General Motors worth 75 cents per car in salary? Are the two top men in Ford worth $1 for every car that company turns out?

Of course, total pay of $1.5 million does seem like a lot. It's getting right up there with basketball and football players.

"Oh, but these people have a short career," answers a critic.

And how long do you think the chairman and president of General Motors or Ford — or any other big corporation — stay in office? I'll bet my new sailing hat the average career of a pro in basketball and football is longer than that of the top dogs in business. The corporate heads get there after 25 or 30 years on the job, not the day they get out of college.

Really, all this is beside the point. U.S. Trade Secretary William Brock brought it up in a speech at Detroit. By some twisted reasoning, he said the big salaries were a good reason to remove the import quotas on Japanese cars. The Fort Lauderdale paper had a head on the story "BROCK TO PROBE/AUTO BONOUSES," a news treatment more typical of the National Enquirer.

Just in passing, the import quotas really delight the Toyota, Datsun and Honda dealers. They needn't ever trim a price, they can load every car with $2,000 in extras, and the buyer can submit or go without a car.

Another thing: The directors of General Motors aren't paying those big salaries because there's another choice. That's what those men are worth with their particular talents. In fact, Roger Smith, the GM chairman, ranked only 10th in the highest paid executives in 1983. Eight of the 10 men ahead of him were with brokerage or investment houses.

If the persons concerned about auto industry costs wanted a better target, they could look at the Blue Cross expense of the auto companies. It amounts to over $500 per car. And boy, is it abused.

Flint doctors have told me how UAW workers come to the emergency rooms of local hospitals with things as minor as a runny nose, because Blue Cross pays for it. The insurance, paid for by the auto companies, doesn't cover office calls. The doctors object, the hospitals don't like it, and of course, Blue Cross doesn't. But the UAW calls the shots in Michigan.

Chrysler on its own has run surveys of rip-offs in the hospital field. It found, according to a N.Y. Times story, that every time somebody had a sore back, he ran to the hospital, and the hospital admitted him and treated him whether it was serious or not. Chrysler found that 84 percent of the days spent in hospitals with sore backs were unnecessary.

The company also found, in over 60 percent of the cases, expensive electromyograms were done, a procedure necessary only when surgery is indicated. All test results were normal.

In maternity cases over 80 percent of the mothers were kept longer in the hospital than necessary.

Instead of worrying about salaries to the top bosses that add 75 cents to each car's price, better the critics should tackle health insurance waste that inflates a car price by over $500.

New rules governing landfill three landfill instead of a type two. As a type three landfill, only building material, rubble, leaves and brush may be disposed of. Household trash may not be dumped.

The landfill will be open to residents of the village, and Elkland, Novesta, Elmwood and Ellington Townships. Residents must show proof that they live in the townships in order to use the landfill.

Permission to use the landfill must be obtained from the village office.

In addition to a $3 opening fee, residents will be charged $5 for a two-wheel trailer and pickup loads, $10 for a single axle truck and $15 for a double axle truck containing up to 10 cubic yards. For loads over 10 cubic yards, there will be an additional charge of $1 per yard.

The rules committee will review the landfill rules and report back to the council at the Dec. 18 meeting.

OTHER ACTION

Set a public hearing for Dec. 18 at 7:00 p.m. to consider approval of project plan and the issuance of bonds for the Walbro Corporation by the Economic Development Corporation.

Approved adding to the 1985 budget a $3,000 contribution to the Tuscola County Economic Development Corporation.

Set a public hearing for Dec. 18 at 7:00 p.m. to discuss the 1985 proposed budget.

Village superintendent Lou LaPonsie told council members that the village had received a $5,000 check from the Laura Maier's estate to be spent for village park purposes.

Recently there have been several cases of scarlet fever in children in the Sanilac area. Before the use of penicillin and other antibiotics, scarlet fever was a serious illness. Today with proper medical care, it is a disease that can be cured with little or no complications.

Scarlet fever and its milder form, scarlatina are caused by organisms called streptococci. Symptoms may include fever, sore throat, infected tonsils, swollen and tender neck glands, reddened tongue, and a rash. Strep sore throat is common without a rash. Both scarlet fever and strep sore throat are transmitted from one person to another in the same way as wages and salaries frozen, and the reduction of one patrol car. A gasoline savings of $10,000 will be accrued by the reduction of the vehicle and the deputy.

The commissioners will be taking the money from these and other departments, and putting it into areas such as the board contingency fund. The money in this fund may be used to hire a Circuit Court law clerk, which was approved by the commissioners, but money was not added to the Circuit Court budget to cover the expense.

Other expenses that may be paid from the fund are for a clerk typist for Cooperative Reimbursement for the Friend of the Court to meet requirements for a revenue sharing grant, and for possible increased expenses for the Medical Care Facility and for mental health state requirements.

The capital outlay fund will be increased by more than $25,000 over the original proposed budget. The approved budget for the fund is $175,000. Money from this fund is to be used to purchase needed equipment and for a new roof on the courthouse.

The public improvement fund has been increased to $111,000 from the original budget of $30,000. Money from this fund may be used to pay for unforeseen financial problems that may come up during the year.

Hunter shoots family dog way that the dog could have been mistaken for a wild dog that would be running deer. The dog was wearing a collar, and had a friendly disposition towards everyone.

Michigan State Police trooper Ron Schneider said that the dog was shot at close range with what appeared to be a 12 gauge shotgun slug. The dog was killed instantly.

Schneider reported that the man was driving a medium blue, late 1970's Ford pickup truck with a white stripe along the side of the vehicle.

"I would like to catch the guy and put a stop to this sort of thing," he added. If anyone has any information they are asked to contact the Caro post of the Michigan State Police.

Walsh said that the farm has been owned by the family for two generations, and that Richard Walsh Sr. planned to move to the farm when he retires. The family spends a lot of their vacation time on the farm.

"What we have gone through is unbelievable," she added. "We really enjoyed going up there. Needless to say, this has ruined those feelings." She is not sure if the family will be returning to the farm for future vacations.

"We were all so heartbroken that we had to do something," Walsh said. "We went out and got another pup." But the new dog has not taken the place of Hershey, or the anger that Walsh has towards the man who shot the dog.

"I would love to see this man have his guns taken away and never be allowed to hunt again," she said. "I can't help but feel that this person is demented."

"My oldest son (Richard) was very attached to the dog," she added. The other night, before he went to bed, he told his mother that he couldn't help but remember what the dog looked like after it was shot.

Meetings to be held for agricultural related businesses

All of Michigan's agricultural businesses have been affected by adverse economic conditions, a trend that is likely to continue for the next several years.

To improve understanding of this trend, the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a series of statewide meetings that will address the economic outlook for specific sectors of Michigan agriculture.

Called "New Economic Realities in Michigan," the series will examine expected trends of each commodity area. Sessions for people associated with the state's turfgrass and ornamental industry will be held in Wayne and Grand Rapids.

The program will be conducted in Wayne Jan. 8 at the Cooperative Extension Service and Educational Center, 5454 Venoy Road. The session in Grand Rapids will be held Feb. 15 at the Kent Skills Center, 1655 E. Beltline NE. Each session will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Each session will examine the economic environment at the national, state and regional levels, and show how interest rates, the strong dollar, housing starts and population shifts are affecting the turfgrass and ornamental industry.

"We will also take a critical look at business management and marketing strategies for Michigan's changing economy," says Will Carlson, MSU Extension horticulture specialist.

Each session is free and open to anyone associated with Michigan's turfgrass and ornamental industry.

Details may be obtained by writing to Carlson, Room 203, Department of Horticulture, or Paul Rieke, Room 209A, Department of Crop and Soil Sciences, MSU, East Lansing, MI 48824.

District conservationist says

No till farmer saves time, fuel and soil

For farmers, like all other people, drastic changes in accepted operating techniques are slow in coming, if the change is made at all.

During the past few years, farmers in the area are being urged to stop, or at least cut back on using the moldboard plow, a practice that has been handed down for generations. The first steel moldboard plow was introduced in the 1800's, when farmers needed to break the tough sod growing on the fields of the plain states.

Phil Dakin, District Conservationist for the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, said that by going to the practice of no till or ridge till farming, the farmer can save on both time and fuel expenses for the crop.

Dakin said that in no till, just as the name implies, after a farmer harvests the crop, the field is ready to be planted.

Dakin feels that in fields where there is a lighter soil, mostly a sandy loam, no till is the best alternative for preparing for next year's crop. These lighter soils will dry out earlier in the spring and the farmer will be able to plant sooner. By using a no till method as compared to moldboard plowing, the fields will not dry out as quickly during periods of drought.

Dakin said that on heavier soil, where the ground is likely to hold more moisture, he recommends that the farmer use a ridge till method of farming. Farmers using ridge till methods use a special cultivator that leaves a seven to nine inch ridge of soil around the bottom of the corn stalks. Dakin said that after the field is harvested, these ridges, which will be covered by the corn stalks, will keep the ground from eroding. In the spring the soil will warm up and dry out faster than fields that have been conventionally plowed.

For both no till and ridge till farming, the farmer needs a planter that has a heavy disc type implement mounted on the front of the planter to chop up the corn stubble and cut down the mounds of soil that will be left from ridge till cultivating.

When harvesting with a combine, Dakin recommends that the farmer spread the corn stalks instead of dumping them in a pile behind the machine. This will spread the corn stalks evenly throughout the field. When a farmer uses a corn picker, which leaves most of the stalk in one piece, Dakin said that the stalk will be decomposed by spring.

Dakin points out that the corn stalks will decompose faster if they are left on the top of the field instead of being plowed under because the air and moisture will be able to circulate around them.

By leaving the corn stalks, and stubble from other crops, on the top of the soil, the farmer will slowly begin to build the top soil back up by replacing the organic matter on the top of the ground instead of plowing it under.

Dakin explained that in fields where the tops of the small hills have an orange color indicates that there is no topsoil left on the clay knobs. Most farmers feel that this is the natural layout of the field, that there has never been topsoil on these hills.

"People have made the fields that way from years and years of plowing," Dakin said. He added that the soil at the bottom of the hills is still dark black, which indicates that the top soil has eroded from the clay knobs, and has washed down into the valleys.

He recommends stopping use of a moldboard plow on these fields, and go to a chisel plow, or, ideally, to no till, to replace some of the organic material back into the top layer of soil.

As an example, Dakin uses a handful of clay and packs it into a ball. By adding organic material, such as corn stalks, the clay will not compact, but will crumble. In the field the same principle applies, with the stalks left to decompose on the top layer, the roots of the new crop, and moisture, will enter into the ground easier.

Building up the topsoil is a slow process, but during this process farmers will develop a better crop on these small hills. Dakin said that in fields where they have been using no till methods, the corn on the top of the hills is as tall as the corn in the valleys.

Dakin points to most of the equipment that a farmer uses, such as tractors and field working tools, has changed since they were first introduced, but the moldboard plow has remained about the same.

"Through years of trying different things, we have found that plowing has become an outdated practice," Dakin said. "It's entirely the opposite concept that farmers have had."

He added that farmers have been taught that the only way to get a good crop was to plow the field, and work it until there are no lumps or ridges left.

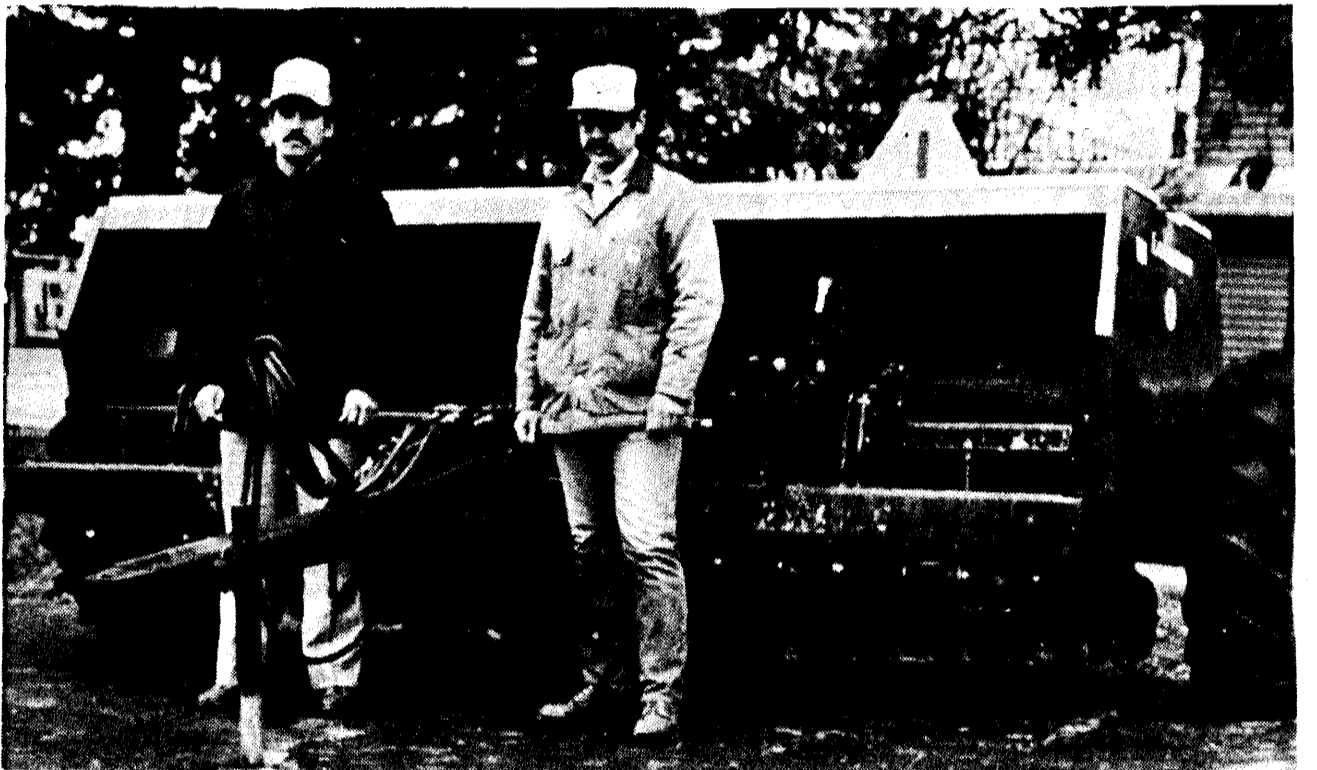

Dakin said that in test plots that they have planted using no till methods, they have not increased the amount of recommended residual herbicide. He added that in fields where there are green weeds growing at planting time, or planting in an alfalfa field, the farmer must use a contact herbicide, along with a residual herbicide, to kill the weeds that have already begun to grow.

Robert Biebel, an Elkland Township farmer has planted about 200 acres of his 550-acre farm into corn and soybeans using no till methods.

He said that because of the wet weather he has not harvested all of the no till crops because he does not want to cut deep ruts into the fields where he plans to again use no till planting.

He said that most of the crops look about as good as the crops in fields where they plowed and worked the ground before planting. In one field where he planted corn after harvesting wheat the year before, he said that the corn did not look as good, because he was unable to get the fertilizer to penetrate the ground through the tough wheat stubble.

THIS FIELD is ready for no-till planting next spring.

SPINACH SALAD

Free Recipes
available in our Produce Department

3 tablespoons wine vinegar
6 tablespoons salad oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, cut in half
1/2 pound (5 to 6 cups) fresh spinach leaves
1/2 cauliflower, cut into flowerets
1/2 red onion, sliced and separated into rings
1/2 cup sliced radishes

Mix together vinegar, oil, salt, pepper, mustard, parsley and garlic; let stand for 30 minutes. Remove garlic. While dressing is standing, wash the spinach and remove stems. Dry well and combine with cauliflower, red onion and radishes in salad bowl. Add dressing and toss lightly to mix well. Serves 6.

does your house wake up when you do?

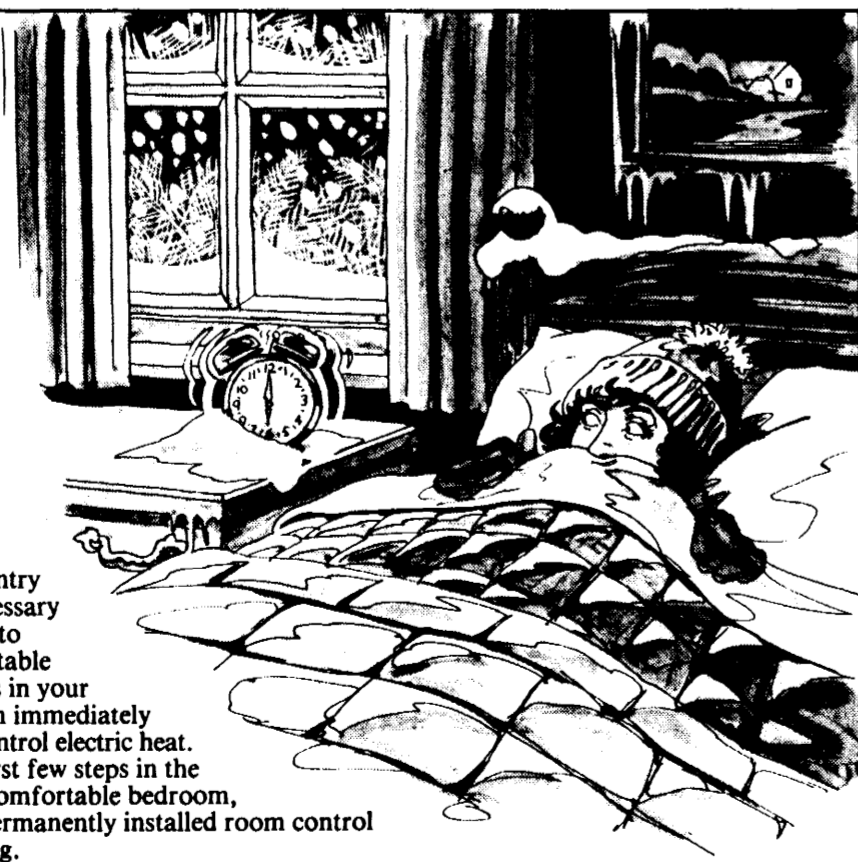

When you face the cold, wintry morning, it may not be necessary to wait for the entire house to heat up to the same comfortable temperature. Certain rooms in your home can be cozy and warm immediately by using individual room control electric heat. To help insure that those first few steps in the morning are into a warm, comfortable bedroom, kitchen or bathroom, get permanently installed room control electric supplemental heating.

Wall or baseboard electric units provide a safe, clean and flameless heat without fumes. Radiant wall or ceiling units offer a combination of instant warmth and convenient zone control.

Detroit Edison has a special rate for permanently installed supplemental space heating equipment. Over a dozen types of products qualify for this special rate. Call Detroit Edison or check your Yellow Pages under Electrical Contractors or Lighting Suppliers for ways to take the chill off your feet when you and your house wake up on cold, wintry mornings.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The price of regular gasoline went over the $1.00 a gallon mark for the first time in Cass City this week as local stations changed their posted prices from 99.9 to 1.02. At the start of the year it was about 70¢ a gallon.

The first annual Village Bach Festival was termed a total success by promoters and participating musicians.

A house owned by Bruce King sustained major damage after a car jumped the curb and hit gas and electric lines, which immediately caused a fire that spread rapidly.

Despite the scoring efforts of Padgett Randall, Nancy Tonti and Libby Hartel and the rebounding of Vickie Pobanz, the Red Hawks lost to the USA basketball team, 57-55, Wednesday night.

Mary Kay Burrows of Gageton has been selected as Daughters of the American Revolution good citizen of the year.

Mary Hanby has returned to First Baptist Church as a church worker after a six-year absence, during which she worked at Shepherd's Home in Wisconsin.

Scott Brady completed infantry combat training at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

TEN YEARS AGO

Resussi-Anne is the newest addition to the staff at Hills and Dales General Hospital. The machine cost $1,528 and was purchased with funds from the Hospital Auxiliary and the Ralph Gauer Memorial Fund.

The "Rainmaker Trial," which received national attention, ended when the jury returned a no cause for action verdict Thursday. Two firms were charged with being responsible for a heavy rain and hail storm that damaged crops on the Michael Reinbold farm in Almer Township.

Seek donations for Christmas basket program

Volunteer Services of the Tuscola County Department of Social Services will be coordinating the 10th annual Christmas basket program for needy families in the county. The department is seeking donations of nonperishable food items, new or like new games, books, and clothing items of hats, scarves and mittens/gloves. Cash donations are also accepted. These donations will enable Volunteer Services to supplement other donations that they hope to receive for the baskets.

Donations will be accepted through Dec. 17, with distribution of the baskets on Dec. 18 through Dec. 20. Donations may be brought to the office at 1900 W. Caro Road, Caro, or contact Volunteer Services at (517) 673-4144.

LIMITED ENGAGEMENT

19 December 1 - 9 (?) 19

An exciting and challenging plan is shaping up for this year's December Pledge Drive.

Our goal for "Limited Engagement '84" is $33,000, a 10% increase over last year. We've planned nine nights of special programming but whether we actually pledge all nine nights will depend on our viewers, because here's what we propose:

AS SOON AS WE REACH OUR GOAL WITH VALID PLEDGES AMOUNTING TO $33,000, WE WILL CONCLUDE OUR PLEDGE DRIVE!

This means that the pledgers who usually wait until the last weekend or final night will have to phone in their pledge earlier in the week in order to help us really limit Channel 19's "Limited Engagement".

What follows is the exciting programming we've scheduled for your enjoyment this year.

- * SATURDAY, DEC. 1 *

4-H Assistant Diane Wood to leave Jan. 2
 Sanilac County 4-H Program Assistant Diane Wood of Marlette has announced that she will be leaving her position effective Jan. 2, 1985. Mrs. Wood has worked with 4-H in this capacity since April, 1980. Her role has been to work with volunteer leaders to provide opportunities for youth to develop leadership potential and citizenship responsibility. She has worked closely with several 4-H project developmental committees to plan and implement many programs and activities including spring and fall achievement, 4-H horse show, dog fun match, dairy quiz bowl team, the County 4-H fair and workshops on a wide range of topics. She also coordinated county youth participation in state level 4-H events such as Exploration Days and Animal Science Week at Michigan State University and has been actively involved with the State 4-H Dairy Developmental Committee.
 "The enthusiasm and skills that Diane brought to the position have contributed immensely to the high quality level of programming that Sanilac 4-Hers currently benefit from," states Patrick Livingston, Sanilac County Extension 4-H Youth Agent. "There is no question in the minds of people that she has worked with that their involvement in 4-H has been a more rewarding experience because of her efforts."
 As for herself, Mrs. Wood says, "Although the position requires a great deal of dedication and time, I feel that my greatest reward has come through helping everyone involved realize their full potential in becoming contributing members to society in Sanilac County and beyond."
 She plans to maintain close ties to Sanilac 4-H while pursuing other professional interests in the county. "4-H has helped me to grow and I hope to continue to be a part of the 4-H growth experience for the rest of my days."

Plan Ag Tour in Washington
 An agriculture tour to Washington, D.C., is being planned for Feb. 19-25 to coincide with the American Sugarbeet Growers meetings, states Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director.
 "Our national capital is the place where major agriculture decisions are made and it is important for agriculturists to see Washington, D.C., in action," Bortel says.
 Participants will have an opportunity to visit agriculture interests in and around D.C. The groups will be hearing what the views are with the new Congress and what to expect in the "1985" Agriculture Bill.
 For further information, contact the Tuscola County Extension Office at 673-5999...Ext. 228.

665-2221

Thanksgiving Eve, Pastor Julius Spleet celebrated a mass of Thanksgiving at St. Agatha Church. About 80 parish members attended the service and brought staple food stuffs for sharing in baskets to be distributed at Christmas. Mrs. Nancy Rabideau's CCD class did the readings. Miss Veronica Mullin had as guests at a 4 o'clock dinner Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Grady of Bad Axe, Penny and Russell Reiness and family of Deford, and Mrs. M.E. Grady.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Burdon spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. Burdon's sister, Mrs. Mary DeNoyells of Caro. Also guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim DeNoyells of New Baltimore.

DUAL CELEBRATION

In the double celebration of Thanksgiving and their 24th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sullivan were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sullivan of St. Louis. The Sullivans' children, Mike, Robin and Rita, and Mrs. Sullivan's father, Floyd Pray of West Branch, were also guests.

A mass of celebration was offered Saturday at St. Agatha Church in honor of the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. John Arvo and sons of Owosso. Jeff Arvo was home for Thanksgiving break from CMU and Thursday, John Comment and a friend from Essexville joined the group for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Carroll and Lee Ann entertained a full house for Thanksgiving. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Tim Rabideau and Lisa of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Pitcher, John and Paula, Cari Koeph and Dave Orr of Sebawaing, Jack Generous of Caro, Bill Johnston of Cass City, Mr. and Mrs. Elger Generous and Jay Wilding. Callers in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Downing, Linda and Ryan.

In a round of holiday celebrations, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Goslin and Leslie were guests for dinner Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Wendel Pafford and Janet of Bay City. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Shannon of Fairgrove and the Paul Vaughns of Mayville. Patricia Goslin of Saginaw came late in the day. Friday, the Goslins entertained their immediate family for dinner and Sunday the Vaughns hosted a combined birthday and farewell dinner at their home in Mayville. The birthdays celebrated were those of Kevin and Lindsay Pafford and the Shannons said goodbye before they left Monday to spend the winter in Palmetto, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dolphin of Caro were also guests at the party.

Mrs. Mabel Ondrajka enjoyed Thanksgiving in the company of children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren when Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Koch and family entertained Thursday. Mindy Koch Crowe of Colorado Springs, Col., and her two sets of twin daughters, Judy and Jessica and Britni and Brandi, are visiting as is Todd Koch of Fort Campbell, Ky. The younger twins were baptized Thursday at St. Peter and Paul Lutheran Church in Unionville. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Lester Koch and Ben of Parma, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Self and sons of Flint and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Geiger of Sebawaing. This was the first time in eight years that all the family of the Wilbur Kochs was together and they hosted an open house Sunday before Mrs. Crowe leaves to meet her husband in Louisiana and begin a new assignment with the Air Force on the Isle of Crete. Todd Koch leaves shortly for a tour of duty with the Army in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lupp of Sebawaing and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burrows attended Monday evening an art show at the CMU art building in Mt. Pleasant. The show was under the direction of Marshall Lupp of Sebawaing and upon the completion of the project, he will have earned his MA degree from CMU.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reehl and family were Thanksgiving Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wolschlagier of Bad Axe and Troy stayed the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ziehm hosted a dinner Thanksgiving Day at Zehnders in Frankenmuth. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ziehm and Ron, Durell Devereaux, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ziehm, Chris and Donette, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Condon of Okemos and their daughter Tracy of Syracuse, N.Y., James and Vera Morrice of Imlay City, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gilbert of Bloomingdale and Lois Siveles of Champaign, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe entertained their family Friday and Saturday. Guests were Mrs. Jack Bieth and Michael of Highland, Steve Kehoe of Ann Arbor and Brian and Justin Kehoe of Brighton.

Pauline, Kendra, Marilyn and Dawn Reehl of Gagetown and Kington, hosted a baby shower Saturday at the First Baptist Church hall in Bad Axe. Guest of honor was Barbara Sheibels of Allegan.

Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lenhard were Tom and Jeff Lenhard of Sebawaing, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lenhard and family of Howell, and Ann and Mary Lenhard of Saginaw.

Dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burrows were Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ziehm.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Thick for Thanksgiving were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Thick, Lewis and Billy of Bay Port, Mrs. Dave Thick of Bay Port, Dick Ehrlich of Pigeon, Dick's fiancée, Jeanine Wilson, and her father, James Wilson of Elkton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zaleski of Owendale and Edric Rapson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Downing were guests for Thanksgiving of Mr. and Mrs. Alger Freiburger of Cass City.

Miss Sue Rapson of Gaylord spent the week end with her father, Edric Rapson.

BIRCHES' ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Birch of Bay City celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary with a mass of Thanksgiving, celebrated by Monsignor Thomas Horton at 9:00 a.m. Sunday at St. Joseph Church, Bay City.

Mrs. Birch is the former Willa LaFave. The couple was married Nov. 26, 1949, with Rev. Father John McCullough officiating. The wedding was to be held in St. Agatha Catholic Church, Gagetown, and because of a furnace malfunction, had to be held in Unionville.

Mr. and Mrs. Birch have two children and four grandchildren.

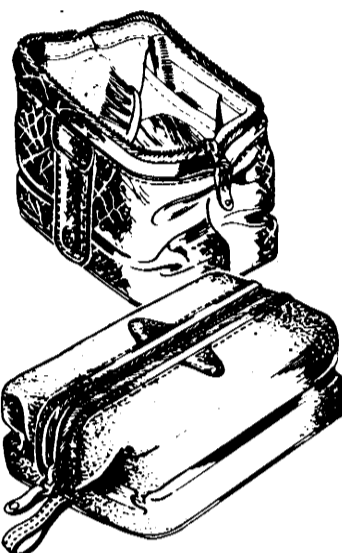

A small coffee and cake reception in the church hall followed Sunday's mass and those attending from this area were Mrs. Paul Langlois and Mrs. Carl Sieland of Caro, Dennis Rocheleau, Mrs. Velma Helwig and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe.
