Project village revenues. to rise 5% next year

Unlike the federal government and the Tuscola County Commissioners, the village of Cass City does not appear to be having any major problem with its 1985 budget.

At a special Saturday morning meeting, the budget committee of the Cass City Village Council reviewed the 1985 proposed budget that shows a projected revenue increase of $31,500 over the 1984 proposed budget. The village levies 15.123 mills, which will remain the same.

For 1984 the village's proposed budget revenues were $603,500 with actual projected revenues to reach $588,420 by Dec. 31, 1984. For 1985, the budget is based on projected revenues of $634,650.

Village superintendent Lou LaPonsie told the four council members attending the meeting, that most of the budget is based on pre-vious years' experience, with changes made only for special projects. "Over the past years it has worked well for us," LaPonsie said. LaPonsie told the committee that he expects a revenue increase in real property taxes from new construction. Based on a fivepercent increase, the largest single line income item on the 1985 budget is real property taxes, which are estimated to generate

Since the Cultural Center will be closed at the end of this year because the structure would require a large investment to meet state mandated safety regula-tions, the village did not budget any revenues from rental of the building. ing.
In 1984 the projected revenue from interest and dividends will be $36,615, about $12,000 more than LaPonsie had estimated. LaPonsie explained that the increase was larger than anticipated because the village received $100,000 from the State Department of Transportation for construction of N. Seeger St. The money was placed into a savings account to draw interest until it was needed in October. For 1985 an interest and dividend revenue of $25,000 has been budgeted.

The sale of village owned assets increased by $24,615 over the 1984 projected budget because of the sale of a village owned threeacre site at the end of Woodland Street, south of Garfield. The land was purchased by Rural Housing Corporation, East Lansing, for the construction of a senior citizen housing complex. Originally $1,000 revenue income was budgeted for 1984. For 1985, LaPonsie

The village has budgeted

Schell Street. The village will have a fund balance carryover of $84,000 for 1985. This is an increase from 1984 levels of $64,900. LaPonsie told committee members that the village is slowly building up a larger fund balance. He added that a few years ago they had to ask Walbro and General Cable to pay their taxes early to meet village expenses, but that the village has not had a need for emergency funds since

"I am the type of person that likes a cushion," LaPonsie said about the fund budget balance. He added that without the funds, in an emergency, the village would have to borrow money at the present interest rate.

"Some guys like to live dangerously. I don't," LaPonsie said.

The proposed budget will be presented to the council at the next meeting, Dec.

TISD planning for gifted children's class in 1985-6

Perhaps little Johnny could count to 10 by the time he was two, and now at age nine he uses the home computer for projecting mathematic probabilities instead of playing video

Is Johnny gifted? His proud parents would like to know, and find out what can be done to help him develop those talents.

With a new program that is being set up by representatives from the nine school districts of the Tuscola Intermediate School District (TISD), if Johnny is really gifted, he will be given the opportunity to expand those mental capabilities, and make the best of his talents.

Dr. Bruce Dunn, superintendent of the TISD, said that the program, which will be funded by the State Department of Education, is to be implemented for the 1985-86 school year. Presently, representatives from the schools are setting up a program that will help them identify the gifted student, and determine what approach they will use to develop the student's ta-

The TISD has applied for a grant of about $30,000 for setting up the gifted student program. Money is more readily available because the State Department of Education has budgeted additional money for the teaching of the students. Last year the state budgeted about $800,000 for special instruction for the gifted students. This year they have budgeted over $3

'Roughly the top five percent of the students (in their class) will probably be what they call the gifted students," Dunn explained. The state budget is about $35 per student for the top five percent.

Dunn said that they are still in the planning stages of the program, but that they are leaning towards keeping the student in the classroom and having the teacher work with the child.
Dunn added that they have found that there are many different areas where a student may be gifted. A student may be average in some areas, and gifted in other areas.

Cass City High School Counselor Jerry Cleland said that in the past, the school district has not had any special programs for teaching the gifted student. "The theory had been that the gifted students will find their own way," Cleland date students that are at the other end of the academic spectrum. He added that they have had cases where a top student ends up marrying a special education student.

Cleland explained that there are two categories that a majority of the gifted students fall into: those that start off strong academically, and stay interested in school, and those that start off strong, and lose interest, even to the point of dropping out of school. National statistics show that a gifted student is less likely to graduate than a special education student.

Cleland added that some gifted students who have lost interest in their class work will suddenly become interested again. Cleland said that the student has a 'glow about them" with their new found interest in academic studies. "Maturity does strange things to a person," he said.

Although it has not manifested itself in Cass City, national statistics show that gifted people have a higher suicide rate than the average person. "As a general rule, they are a little more sensitive," he said. At the Campbell Elementary School, Cass City, a gifted student may find himself spending a lot of the class time in a special corner of the room. This is not a punishment, but an opportunity for the student to further expand on the basic principles that have been taught to the ford, received June 1, offering to pick up the entire township's trash once a week, at a cost of $5 per month if 500 households signed for the service.

At its last meeting the board indicated that it would try to purchase two or three acres of property next to the township hall. After inquiring, trustees were told that they could not purchase a portion of the property, only the entire 30-acre site. The board members felt that they would have difficulty in selling the property that they did not use.

O'Dell told the board that he had talked to Robert Cove of Cove's Sanitation, Bad Axe, and he would deliver and pick up a 30-yard trash dumpster to a township owned site for $150 per trip. O'Dell said that he wasn't sure how many days a month the residents would want to have the dumpster open.

He added that after they have the dumpster set, they will put up a fence around it, and open the site on Saturdays. They will hire someone to check to be sure that only township residents use the site, and to make sure that the trash is handled properly.

When a township resident asked O'Dell about the cost of purchasing the site and hiring someone to work at it, he replied that the $8,500 for the property would not be a loss even if the trash service did not work out. The township could always sell the property.

"When you give Cass
City $5,000 (approximate amount that Novesta Township has paid for rights to use the landfill) that is a loss," he said.

"It is going to cost us a little more, no matter what way we go. There is no free lunch in this business." O'Dell said.

The board is hoping to have the site ready for trash service by the first Please turn to page 20.

Then last week she struck again, winning $50 in the first weekly Chamber drawing.

From Bill O'Dell comes a clipping from a Texas newspaper. It was a feature story about Cash Asher, a native of Cass City who never went beyond the eighth grade.

We've had stories about and writings by Cash in the paper previously. Enough to say that he was well educated enough to become a feature writer for the Detroit Free Press and New York Times. His book, "Memoirs of Chief Red Fox," became a best seller. That was 12 years ago when Cash was a sprightly 79 years

He's 91 today and is a patient at Kerrville VA Medical Center. It's not surprising that he publishes a regular newsletter for the hospital.

Sadly, since this article was written, Cash has died. His brother, Manley, of Cass City, reported that he succumbed earlier this year.

We had to tell you that the clipping was brought in by Bill O'Dell. After all it was just the other day when he said it was about time he was mentioned in this trivia again.

Kingston man found guilty on impaired driving charge

Monday, a Tuscola County District Court jury found Wade A. Caverly, 23, 5495 Rossman Rd., Kingston, guilty of operating a vehicle while impaired.

Caverly was arrested by Michigan State Police Trooper Oren Johnson, May 25 at 1:15 p.m. on Mayville Road. Johnson reported that Caverly had crossed the center line, and was traveling in excess of the 55-mile per hour speed Caverly pleaded no contest to the charges Oct. 31, before District Court Judge

Richard Kern.

Judge Kern sentenced Caverly to five days in the county jail and placed him on two years' probation. Caverly was also ordered to pay a $252 fine and court costs of $173, and $60 for education programs.

His driver's license has been suspended for six months. He is allowed to drive to work and to treatment programs.

The annual migration to the sun belt is well under-

By the scores Cass Citvans are headed for Florida. Arizona and other southern winter meccas.

Good hearted folks, most of them leave with a tinge of sorrow because you are not as fortunate as they and have to brave the cold harsh winter in wind-swept Michigan.

It's true that given a choice many Michigan residents would join the southern migration.

But it doesn't make me an oddball because I like Michigan in the winter. Lots of us do. It does place me in the minority.

Whenever the discussion centers around staying at home I invariably think of the late Meredith Auten.

Just in case you are a Johnny-come-lately to the area let me explain that Meredith was president of the Cass City Bank and financially able to spend his winter any place he de-

If you've been in town more than three years or so you knew all about him.

Everybody did.
It wasn't the weather that kept Auten at home. It was Cass City. He was a world traveller but he was never happy away from the community for long.

But back to the subject at hand. Winter in Michigan. Sometimes you have to be away from it to really appreciate it. A mid-westerner stuck down south almost always appreciates a white Christmas. They wrote a song about it. It helps if wintertime activities turn you on. Skiing, snowmobiling, ice fishing, skating or just walking in the woods can make winters wonderful.

That's not to say that a couple of weeks in Arizona in the last of February isn't a welcome break. Sure it is. If you've had a heavy dose of winter, it makes those two weeks really fun. That's called eating your cake and having it, too. However, if that southern winter break means giving up skiing, forget it.

No matter how cold it gets, it's warm and cheery inside. You can come in out of the cold. You can come in out of the heat, too, but air conditioning just isn't the same as nature's conditioning.

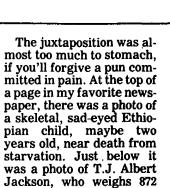

Spending the winter in Florida also eliminates one of the great features of Michigan weather.

The changing of the season. What is more glorious than a beautiful spring day after a long (but, not so hard) Michigan winter?

You don't have to tell me, I already know that if Americans quit eating so much, the food saved would only be wasted. Our government would store it in huge bins forever. Very little of it would get to starving nations because of transportation problems, and political problems, and logistical problems, and so on. In a civilized society, there are always good reasons why what should be done can't be done.

So we might as well keep right on feeding our fat faces and fighting obesity at $500-a-day health resorts. Nothing we quit eating is going to help that skeletal kid in Ethiopia. T.J. Albert Jackson better keep eating or a new fat

Keogh Retirement Plan

Q. WHAT IS KEOGH?

A. Keogh is the name of a tax-sheltered retirement plan for the self-employed.

Q. HOW DO I KNOW IF I QUALIFY FOR A KEOGH PLAN?

A. You qualify if you are self-employed (sole proprietor or partnership) and not incorporated.

Q. HOW DO I BENEFIT BY A KEOGH PLAN?

A. You benefit in your retirement years in that you will accumulate funds for your retirement. The funds you accumulate, plus the earnings on those deposits, are free of current income taxes right up to the time you retire or start withdrawals.

Q. DOES THAT MEAN I NEVER PAY ANY TAXES ON MY KEOGH FUNDS?

A. No, but it does mean that while your funds are accumulating, you will pay no income taxes. Keogh is a tax-deferred plan in that you will pay taxes as you withdraw your funds.

Q. LET'S SAY THAT I HAVE TWO JOBS -- ONE WHERE I WORK FOR SOMEONE ELSE AND THE OTHER AT WHICH I'M SELF-EMPLOYED --CAN I SET UP A KEOGH PLAN?

A. By all means, yes. However, you can only count your self-employed income in figuring your Keogh contributions.

Harvester's (IH) farm division should have little impact on area farmers, Wayne "Buck" Rabideau, co-owner and manager of the Case franchise in Cass City, believes.

Down the road, Rabideau adds, dealers will be able to offer a more complete line of equipment.

While the impact in the area will not be immediately noticeable, there will be a thinning out of dealers where both IH and Case are located in the

The weaker dealer, not able to service the customer, will be eliminated.

Kansas City last week offi-cials from Tenneco, Inc., the parent company of Case and now the owner of IH. told Rabideau and other Case dealers that the merger will result in 400 fewer dealers due to consolidations in areas served by both Case and IH previ-

International Harvester's farm division was purchased by Tenneco for $430 million in cash and stock.

The merger will place Case-IH second in farm sales to John Deere. It is a major realignment in the depressed farm equipment industry.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, farm equipment sales this year are estimated at $7.4 billion, compared with the farm industry's last good year in 1979 when sales totaled $12 billion.

Prior to the merger, Case manufactured only farm tractors. Sales of tractors have fallen from 200,000 annually in 1979 to 85,000 last

Meanwhile, Attorney General Frank Kelley filed a formal motion with the PSC asking the disqualifi-cation of Chairman Eric Schneidewind. Kelley said he has changed the focus of Consumers rate hearings now underway to assume customers will pay part of the Midland costs, because Schneidewind allegedly discussed the case with utility officials.

Although a statement released by the governor supports the proceedings in progress and expects a ruling by spring, Kelly said that position is not at variance with his own call for a full hearing on Consum-ers' request and opposition to expedited proceedings.

"I don't think the governor means to speed up the fect made himself part of hearings to bail out Consumers. If he is for an unprecedented proceeding without a full hearing, then we disagree," Kelley said.

But the attorney general ment on the matter, the said the case is set up for a full hearing and should involve the "threshhold question" of whether ratepayers are responsible for any portion of the Midland plant, into which Consumers invested $3.6 billion before halting construction earlier this year when negotiations on its completion failed.

He said the case should determine "who is responsible for the plant, and if it is not the ratepayers, then how can this company be saved."

Kelley said Schneidewind has turned the case around and instructed staff to assume ratepayers must pay for some of the costs.

The governor, in his statement and in an interview, indicated ratepayers should help the utility regain financial stability by paying part of the Midland construction costs, but commission staff statements indicate that can be minimized by major sac-

"If Michigan's largest utility were forced into bankruptcy, both the reliability and cost of energy would be thrown into question. Based on the facts that are revealed, the Commission should be able to issue a financial' stability order in the spring of 1985, before the company encounters serious cash flow problems," Blanchard said.

The PSC has split the company's request for an emergency rate increase of $205 million a year into one part to determine the amount needed to avoid bankruptcy and how much should be allowed for Mid-

Expert predicts little relief for farmers

For area farmers who have been struggling to make ends meet for the past few years, the future farm outlook presented Saturday at the Thumb Agriculture Day did not do much to lift their spirits.

The featured speaker at the annual Agriculture Day event, held at the Cass City High School, was former Undersecretary of Agriculture John Schnittker. He told the crowd of over 800 people that he does not expect to see prosperous times for the American farmer for five or six years.

Schnittker expects that American farmers will not be able to cope with two or three more years of low crop prices. He explained that the younger, more active farmer, between the ages of 30 to 50 are in this

"We risk losing the most about one-fourth of the able, innovative farmers," Schnittker warned. "They are the more active, risk taking farmer. That's part of the reason that they are in this situation.

He added that these risk taking farmers have a high debt to asset ratio, in excess of 70 percent.

298,000 farms in the United States, 12.3 percent of the farms produce 68 percent of all the crops grown. And the trend towards big farms is going to continue. He expects that by the year 2,000, about 90 percent of the crops will be grown on about 100,000 farms.

As an example, in his home state of Kansas, he estimates that about onethird of the farmers are considering selling, or are being forced out of farming. One-half of the farmers in the state would be considering purchasing more prop-

Schnittker added that these farmers receive nearly all of the federal farm program benefits. He said that more of the federal farm program benefits must be given to the smaller farmer to "catch these farmers who are going under." He added that these smaller farms are needed to preserve the rural way of life in

He feels that even with the increase of larger farms, they will still be owned by individuals, not major corporations and banking institutions.

Schnittker feels that one of the biggest problems that American farmers face is that they have the ability to produce a surplus in almost every agriculture product.

He estimated that if American farmers began producing to maximum capacity, in one year they would produce 8.3 billion bushels of corn. The market demand is 7.3 billion bushels. At maximum capacity, about 500 million bushels of surplus wheat could be produced in one year. American farmers could produce a surplus of 150 million bushels of soybeans and 10 percent more dairy products than are needed.

He added that by producing such large surpluses, under the present federal policies and support levels, the surplus production would cost the government up to $18 billion a year.

Schnittker said that the American farmer had great years from 1972 to 1980, when there was a strong demand for export crops. In 1978 America exported 71.4 million metric tons of feed grain. The total exported by all of the countries in the world that year was about 100 million metric tons. America exported 48.8 million metric tons of wheat in 1981, about onehalf of the world's total export market.

Schnittker said that the Russian grain embargo did have an effect on the total exports for the United States, but factors such as the strong American dollar on overseas market, and other countries getting involved in grain exports also slowed down the demand for American crops.

Schnittker estimates that it will take about five to eight years before American exports reach the levels that they were at three or four years ago.

Schnittker said that the soybean crop has never had a price support program, and that the market sets the price. He expects that the 1985 Farm Bill will be patterned after the formula used for federal support prices. The support price for the soybeans is set at 75 percent of a five-year market price, with the high and low year price removed. The support price is not to JOHN SCHNITTKER, a former United States Undersecretary of Agriculture, told farmers that the future for the American farmers does not look as if there will be much improvement over the present situation.

COMPUTERS FOR the farm were one of the many exhibits that were displayed at the Thumb Agriculture Day event. Richard Shaw, rear, explains to Wendell Maust, an 1100-acre farmer from Pigeon, about the use of a computer for the farm.

THE HATS on the top of coat racks left no doubt that the Thumb Agriculture Day was attended by farmers.

school districts is to look at the millages levied in the districts. The natural assumption is that the districts that levy the highest millage rates have the most dollars to spend per child. Strange as it may seem, that is not true. The State Aid Formula only partially takes into account the property wealth of school districts. The result is that millage levies at times are very misleading. A comparison of the finances of school districts adjacent to Cass City for the 1982-83 school year truly illustrates this. There is a real disparity between

Another way to analyze this information is to realize that in 1982-1983 a levy of one mill in Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port provided

$138.69 per pupil while one mill in Cass City brought in $72.65 per pupil. The plight of school districts such as ours is increasing. Four years earlier, in 1978-1979, one mill in Elkton-

Pigeon-Bay Port yielded $90.95 as compared to $58.80 in Cass City. In just four years the difference in the revenue from one mill in Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port compared to Cass

City increased 36%. Information for the 1982-1983 school year is the most recent available at this time. The 1983-1984 statistics will be published in the near future and will show concept of equal yield for equal effort. In other words, a mill levied in any school district would yield the same revenue when local taxes and state aid were added together. A return funding is an extremely difficult problem for the legislature to solve. They face financial problems and vested interest pressure. As interested taxpayers we must encourage them to tackle this problem in an aggressive manner and find a fair solution as rapidly as possible. Until a solution is found we must realize that a comparison of the financial resources of school districts should be based on dollars per student, not

Tips for cutting, caring for Christmas trees

Families who enjoy the fresh pine scent of a live evergreen in their homes during the holidays can bundle up and head for a farm to cut their own Christmas trees, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Some 482,000 trees in more than a dozen varieties are available at the 62 choose-and-cut tree farms listed on the Auto Club's 1984 guide.

Prices begin at $3 for Scotch pines, the same as last year. Families may expect to pay up to $50 for large or more expensive trees such as Douglas fir and blue spruce. A few farms price trees by height, varying from $1.50 to $4 per foot depending on the type.

The variety of trees grown in Michigan include white and Norway spruce, balsam, concolor and grand fir, and white, Austrian and ponderosa pine.

Families may reserve trees at 19 listed farms. Persons who are looking for trees after Dec. 15 are advised to call ahead to check availability.

A number of the farms listed by the Auto Club offer more than an opportunity to choose a tree.

Twenty farms wagon rides and 15 sell beverages or snacks. Farms at Paw Paw, Clio, Ida and Grass Lake have gift shops, offering items ranging from trinkets to antiques. Santa will visit with youngsters at tree farms near Otisville, Brooklyn and Grass Lake during week ends. The Auto Club offers the career series

Today's highly competitive job market calls for increasingly sophisticated skills on the part of both employers and job applicants. Teens soon to enter this market will need to be able to understand precisely who the prospective employer is seeking so that they can present themselves as the "right applicant for the job," says Patrick Livingston, Extension 4-H youth agent.

The Careers Unlimited workshop series is designed to assist teens in their search for self understanding and ultimately, open the doors to the wide world of careers:

The series, sponsored by Sanilac County 4-H, will be held Jan. 5, 12, 19 and 26 from 1:00-3:00 p.m. at the County Conference room,

Key topics to be addres-sed include value clarification, applications, resume writing, interviews and mentorships. These sessions will be coordinated by Sanilac 4-H'ers who have attended special careers training sessions at Michigan State University. Par-ticipants will develop hands-on skills in all of the above mentioned areas and be interviewed by Sanilac

As the mornings get colder and the dew turns to frost on the morning grass our activity level changes. We find ourselves relaxing more, sitting by the warmth of the fire, instead of running in the warmth of the sun. Our lawn mower is put away and the snow shovel takes a prominent place in the garage.

"Don't let yourself get too relaxed," cautions Dr. Jody Rogers, chairman, exercise committee, American Heart Association of Michigan. "When it comes time to use that snow shovel, you should already be in good condition. Snow is heavy, and lifting puts a strain on if you have a heart condition or are over 40 years old. The cold weather puts an additional strain on the heart, so outdoor activities should be controlled. Besides shoveling, many people find themselves helping a neighbor by pushing a car out of the snowbank. That type of activity puts a lot of strain on your upper body and heart, strain you shouldn't have unless you know your body can handle it. "The day to get in condi-tion is not the day the first snow flies. And conditioning will take more than a day. Snow shoveling is strenuous as it combines lifting heavy snow, turning, and throwing. The fact that you're out in the cold means your heart is working overtime to help keep you warm.

"There are alternatives to shoveling if your doctor advises against it. You can hire a plow, use a snow blower (but keep in mind this involves the exercise of pushing the plow through the snow), or you can try raking the snow. Rather than using a shovel, try using a rake with a piece of cardboard woven through the tines. The raking action eliminates the load of heavy snow you use to lift,"

Dr. Rogers said.

The idea is to take the snow off the driveway as you would leaves off the grass. You'll find the action is much easier on the body. If there's a lot of snow, start on the top and take down. "Raking is not an alternative for everybody," Dr. Rogers said, "but for those who have their doctor's approval to be exercising in the cold, it could be a viable

Farm Bureau requests subsidy phase out

Delegates to the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meeting in Grand Rapids, called for a "market-oriented" agriculture with supply and demand, rather than government action, determining production and prices and said that government subsidized farm programs should eventually be phased out.

"Our long-term goal is the establishment of all commodity loan programs at market-clearing levels to function as an orderly marketing tool for farmers," they said.

The farmers also urged that the interrelationships of commodities be recognized in the drafting of all future farm programs.

'Any change in supply, demand or price of one commodity affects the others," they said. "Therefore, careful consideration major change in one commodity's policy on other commodities before such age producers to put diverted acres into permanent soil conserving use, and the inclusion of national marketing and bargaining provisions for eligible commodities in the 1985 farm bill.

A lengthy debate by the delegate body preceded adoption of their position on the national dairy program. The recommendation they adopted supported the dairy price support program, but they added, "We strongly believe the federal government should be program." hibited from purchasing surplus milk products until all market needs are met."

The delegates also said the price support level should be automatically adjusted by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture according to the amount of net dairy products purchased by the federal government. should be given to the They opposed any assess-economic impact of a ment of producers by the federal government as part of any future dairy legisla-commodities before such policy is approved."

They also supported additional incentives to encourtion of all imported dairy products at the port of entry and recommended that imports of dairy products be prohibited from any nation which USDA has not determined to be free of both foot and mouth disease and rinderpest.

These recommendations adopted by the Michigan farmers will be forwarded to the American Farm Bureau Federation policy development committee. Michigan Farm Bureau's recommendations, along recommendations from other state Farm Bureaus, will be analyzed and correlated by that committee and presented to the delegate body at the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting in Hawaii in early January. The policies on the national farm program and dairy program adopted at the national meeting will be the position recommended to the administration and Congress by the nation's largest farm organization.

By Friday afternoon, the 509 delegates, who started their consideration of policy resolutions on Tuesday, will have acted on approximately 150 policy position recommendations. Those adopted will guide the organization in its activities during the year ahead.

About 40 percent of the state's business payroll is covered by insurance, with the rest of the businesses covered by self-insurance or group self-insurance

Although final figures will not be available until after March when insurance companies file annual reports, Baerwaldt estimated businesses will pay $493 million in premiums in 1984, compared to $859 million in 1981.

Meanwhile, the report found insurers were paying higher percentages of their premiums in benefits: to 79 percent in 1983 compared to 55 percent in 1982. Baerwaldt said most in-

Grace Goniwicha said that they had outgrown the size of their Caseville building, and chose the Owen-dale site because it was closer to their home. The Goniwichas live on Moore Road, Owendale.

The firm produces tool and die parts for automotive related industries such as Saginaw Steering Gear and Anchor Swan Co., S.C. They presently have six employees working at the Caseville shop. Mrs. Goniwicha said that they hope to hire additional employees in the spring, after they get their business set up in the building. Be-cause the building is larger than they require, they will be renting out part of the building as a warehouse.

Mrs. Goniwicha said that the business is named after their 15-year-old son Derek. Also employed by the company is their daughter, Sheila Ear, secretary, and their two other daughters, Tina and Dana help during the week ends.

Letters to the editor

Couple upset with Cass City changes

Dear Editor.

I've just arrived home from work and as usual the Chronicle is waiting for me. I open it and what do I find plastered across the front

CULTURAL CENTER.

As a child I moved to Cass City in 1973. I felt that my parents had made a good choice in moving to this particular town; so much history, everywhere the sights and feelings that my grandparents lived with daily. Some of my people I had never met (they had died before I was born) but I could live and see the same things they had.

The timeless, ageless beauty of Cass City greatly influenced my growing up. I believe I am a much better person for having grown up there. Like the old small town story goes I married my high school sweetheart.

To call Ms. Shalashnov a girl may offend some readers. I am sure that was not your intention. Nevertheless, as a journalist, you are a shaper of public opinion and so ought to be especially care-

Gospel singer on program at Juniata church

"The Singing Christmas Tree" will be presented at the Juniata Baptist Church again this year, with performances on three separate nights. This program of Christmas music has been offered every year during the holiday season for eight years and has attracted large numbers of area residents.

A 40-voice choir sings from within a huge Christmas-tree-shaped loft that has been decorated with boughs, balls and lights. There is no admission charge, but a freewill offering is received to help with expenses. This year's performances are scheduled Dec. 14, 15 and 16, at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Gospel singer Kay Hart of Tennessee is the guest soloist. Hart is a wellknown tenor vocalist who appears regularly churches and church conferences across the nation. He has released several successful record albums and has written some religious songs. He has per-formed on national television, on Broadway, and spent a number of years singing with the Metropolitan Opera in New York city.

LOVE AND WAR by John Jakes (fiction). Author Jakes brings us the five searing years of the Civil War. The story moves from action on the battle field to the corridors of Washington to the shipyards of Liverpool. It encompasses deeds heroic and dastardly; passions licit and illicit; spying, assassination plotting and cynical profiteering, and the trying out of new military interventions. The slavery issue, never far in the background, is treated with a grim realism that features Northern hypocrisy along with Southern arrogance and brutal revenge-taking by exslaves. The ground theme of the whole is change, wrought in individuals and in history itself by the fire of the war.

CRESCENT CITY by Belva Plain (fiction). Miriam Raphael is a European Jew, transplanted as a child to New Orleans, the "Crescent City" nestled at the mouth of the Mississippi. Both she and her older brother, David, must adjust to what seems a bright, promising new land filled with languid days and lavish feasts. But all too quickly their eyes are opened to the grimmer features of their landscape the slaves whom David vows to set free and the southern tradition of youthful marriage, which Miriam, herself no better off than a slave, must gracefully endure. Miriam, determined to do right, nevertheless heedlessly ventures outside of her socially confining world and into the arms of a man she thinks she loves.

MANAGING by Harold S. Geneen (non-fiction). In 1959, Geneen became president of the ailing International Telephone and Telegraph Company, and during the next 17 years he enlarged ITT's holdings through 350 corporate mergers, ultimately creating 250 profit centers for ITT. Here he details the managerial techniques he used to effect this transformation. He stresses the importance of centralized financial controls, but also notes that such controls are by no means sufficient to manage successfully every large corporation. At ITT Geneen insisted upon monthly reports addressing "unshakeable fact" from each of 250 division managers, which were exhaustively analyzed by his headquarters staff and then discussed in monthly meetings at which all division managers were present. These meetings served as forums where ITT managers could ask for help with their problems and could learn how their peers had solved similar problems.

Toxic waste increases by 60 percent

According to EPA's latest estimates, U.S. industry generates more than 300 gallons of toxic waste for every person in the country each year, says the National Wildlife Federation. All told, that adds up to 71 billion gallons of toxic waste. This is 60 percent higher than EPA's figures released last year.

By Bill Myers Taking stock

If I live to be 100 (and confidentially, I don't ever expect to die), then maybe I will understand why some people don't want to keep their stocks and bonds with brokers.

Actually, there are quite a few of these souls. Most of them stash certificates away in safe deposit boxes in banks. If they own bonds. then they make a monthly trip to the bank, borrow a pair of scissors and clip coupons and deposit them. If they remember to do this on the first of the month, then within a week or so the amounts due will be credited to their ac-

Dividends, of course, come direct to the owners by check, but at all times of the month, so several deposits are necessary if they want to use the money.
"Why do you do it this way?" I have asked dozens of these persons.

"I don't trust the broker," is the usual frank answer. Until recent years, securities held by a broker were not insured. Now they are, through a government agency, which all brokers must belong to. It's called SIPC -- Securities Investors Protection Corpora-

There is automatically $500,000 insurance on each account for securities the broker holds for you. Up to $100,000 cash in the account can be part of the $500,000 total. It's that simple.

If you are a fat cat and have more than $500,000 worth, many brokers add another $2 million of insurance they buy separately. Compare that to the bank safety-deposit box. You do have great protection in a vault against fire and explosions and against any but the most skillful and aggressive burglars. Insurance? Banks carry some insurance on safety deposit box thefts, but it's probably far short of the value of the stuff stored way of knowing that, as an average investor, until you try to cash the next coupon. That could be six months later. Then you'll be paid only up to the call date, so you've had the thing sitting there for maybe half a year earning nothing. earning nothing.

If you have stocks in the box and overlook a tender offer made by another company, you can easily miss the deadline if you didn't get the original announcement. Your broker gets such advice and acts on it and it's his responsibility to get in touch with you.

Suppose you're away on a long trip or vacation. You want to sell your Consumers Power before it gets in worse shape than it already is (if that's possible). Your stock certificates are back home and you're the only one who can get them.

Stock dividends and splits frequently come along. If your stock isn't held by the broker, the new certificates come to you. Another trip to the bank, or you can stick them in a what they call "street name." This makes for a quick transfer without delay when you want to sell. They're still all in your account under your name. You can have them put back in your individual name any time you want. Now all bonds are no longer issued in bearer form, but are registered. It's especially hard to make the transfer from an individual name to the new buyer, and get it all done within the "five business days" allotted time. If there is a delay beyond that time, you simply won't get credit until a proper transfer is

I now mention a distinct advantage of keeping your own securities: You can go down every now and then to the bank and get them out and count them and rub them between your fingers and gloat. Those crisp, engraved certificates and bonds "shore do look look purty." You are suffused with a warm glow as you contemplate how canny and frugal and wise you have been over the years to accumulate such a stack.

Friday night was a busy night for the Cass City Police Department, reporting two auto accidents on Main Street within five mi-

In the first accident, at 8:25 p.m. a vehicle driven by James P. Rabideau was westbound on Main Street, attempting to turn right on Oak Street when it was struck by a vehicle driven by Terry R. Cortimilia, 19, 6343 Pine St., Cass City. Of-ficer Todd Alexander reported that Rabideau, 16, 2125 Hobart Rd., Gagetown, was turning north onto Oak Street from the proper turning lane, when Cortimilia attempted to pass him on the right side, in the parking lane. There were no injuries reported. Both vehicles were driven away. Cortimilia was issued a citation for improper lane usage. While officer Alexander was investigating the first accident, officer Donald Miller Jr., was called to a second accident, less than a block away.

Miller reported that a vehicle driven by Kevin K. Holbsy was westbound on Main Street, waiting for traffic to clear at the Seeger Street stop light when he was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by James A. Palmateer, 17, 6292 W. Main St., Cass City.
Palmateer told Miller that he was unable to stop and struck Holbsy, 1364 Gun Club Road, Caro. Palmateer received a cut on the thumb of his right hand. He did not request medical treatment. Both vehicles were driven away.

Chief Gene Wilson reported that a vehicle driven by Duane L. Wright, 17, 5580 Robinson Road, Cass City, was involved in an accident with a hit and run driver.

Wright told Wilson that he was eastbound on Main Street, Cass City, Nov. 28 at 8:20 a.m. when a vehicle southbound on West Street failed to stop or yield at the intersection, Wright's vehicle.

Wright described the vehicle as a brown or sand color AMC Eagle.

The Cass City Police Department reported the following auto-deer accidents where there were no inuries, and the vehicle was driven away:

Cynthia S. Lalko, 27, 7006 Walter Rd., Cass City, struck a deer Nov. 26 at 11:35 a.m. on M-81 near Crawford Road.

Timothy R. Limberger, 27, 6576 Shabbona Rd., Deford, struck a deer Nov.29 at 6:15 p.m. on M-53 about one-quarter mile north of David C. Bradt, 27, 2799 Kenmore Rd., Berkley, MI, struck a deer Nov. 30 at 6:15 a.m. on M-81 about onequarter mile west of M-53.

Neal G. Gubanche, 34, 8764 Bailey Rd., Brown City, struck a deer Dec. 1 at 3:45 p.m. on Germania Road, about one-quarter mile south of Deckerville Road.

Tuscola County The Sheriff's Department reported the following autodeer accidents where there were no injuries and the vehicle was driven away:

Douglas D. Bean, 38, 5126 N. Deckerville Rd., Decker, struck a deer Dec. 1 at 6:20 p.m. on Deckerville Road near Colwood Road.

Thomas V. Little, 57, 5025 Severance Rd., Cass City. struck a deer Dec.1 at 9:00 p.m. on Severance Rd., about one-half mile east of Rodney J. Wright, 25, 7175 Main St., Owendale, struck a deer Nov.21 at 5:30 a.m. on Koepfgen Rd., near Arriving in California after 1850, it was quickly recognized as a grape superior to the so-called Mission, the grape that actually did accompany the Spanish missionaries. Today, the zinfandel grape is well acclimated to the many regions of California vineyards, with 28,000 acres cultivated.

Zinfandel was one of the grapes in the plantings that Captain Gustave Niebaum, founder of 1879, and it was one of the wines made in the first vintage of 1882. As Niebaum increased his Napa Valley vineyard acreage in the 1880s, new zinfandel vines were planted, carefully positioned upslope from the other vineyards in the hope of capturing the extra flavors that come from hillside

In 1886, only four years after the first harvest, Niebaum submitted zinfandel and other wines to the Wine and Spirits Traders' Society of New York. The wines were judged to be the best California wines ever tasted by that group of wine professionals. The enduring reputation of Inglenook Zinfandels was brought into focus when in May 1983, a wine collector paid $2,000 for an 1891 Inglenook Zinfandel at the Heublein Premiere National Auction of Rare Wines. A zinfandel that Niebaum had a hand in making still brought acclaim to the winery he founded.
