CAMP TUSCOLA - Cottage Four, one of the two cottages that the state has converted into a minimum security prison.

Only specially selected prisoners serve time at new Camp Tuscola

To help relieve overcrowding in the state prison facilities, a new minimum security prison was opened in the Caro area last week. Friday, about 40 prisoners had arrived at the new Camp Tuscola, adjacent to the Caro Regional Center, Wahjamega.

According to Camp Tuscola Supervisor Michael Flintoft, the prisoners that are presently housed in the new facility were selected by him because of special skills. He explained that the prisoners are skilled as mechanics, maintenance, clerical and kitchen workers. The prisoners are working on the completion of the remodeling of the new facility. About $1.9 million has been spent on an addition, and remodeling the structure referred to as Cottage Four.

When the facility is finished, it will house 138 prisoners. Cottage Four will house 80 prisoners in single occupancy rooms. Cottage Two, yet to be completed, will be a dormitory style prison, housing 58 prisoners.

Flintoft said that when the facility is completed, they will employ about 30 people to work at the prison. He added that only three employees will be transferred into the area. The rest will be hired locally.

All of the prisoners have met state requirements for being housed in a minimum security prison. Prisoners cannot have been convicted of sex offenses or arson charges, and still be placed in the prison. No homosexuals are allowed. Flintoft added that most of the prisoners are nearing the end of their sentences.

Commissioners reelect Rayl to top post

At a Tuscola County Board of Commissioners' meeting Monday, the board reelected Donna Rayl to serve as commission chairperson and Royce Russell to serve as vice-chairman.

Royce Russell was also elected to be the chairman of the finance committee. Commissioner Christopher Taylor will serve as a member of the committee.

John Goodchild was elected to be the chairman of the personnel committee. Royce Russell will be a member of the committee. Robert Russell will be the chairman of the equalization committee. John Goodchild will be a member of the committee.

Taylor will serve as chairman of the buildings

According to Flintoft, a prisoner must pass a security classification review before he can be placed in a minimum security prison.

If a prisoner has escaped, attempted or conspired to escape in the past five years, he will continue to be confined to maximum security prison. Any prisoner determined to be a potentially high risk candidate for escape will be housed in a maximum security prison.

The next step from a maximum security prison is the close prison. In order for an inmate to be housed in a close prison, he has to have served more than one-third of the early release date of his sentence. If a prisoner is sentenced to five to ten years in prison, his early release date is five years.

The third type of prison in Michigan is the medium security prison. Unlike Camp Tuscola, the grounds are surrounded by a chain link fence, with two strands of barbed wire across the top. In several medium security prisons, gun towers and armed guards are stationed in the prison area. At Camp Tuscola, the guards do not carry guns, and there is no fence around the perimeter of the prison.

Flintoft said that the prisoner is also reviewed by a management level screening process to determine if there will be any potential problems in handling the prisoner in a minimum security prison. Prisoners are rated on a point system, with a low point total indicating good behavior.

If a prisoner has been found guilty of homicide, or inciting a riot in his last five years of prison time, he is not allowed in a minimum security system because he would have 10 unfavorable behavior points. In order to qualify for a minimum security prison, a prisoner must have between 0 to 4 points. A prisoner with 18 unfavorable behavior points is restricted to a maximum security prison.

Prisoners can reduce their number of points by earning favorable behavior points. Two points are earned for each six-month period the prisoner completes without any major misconducts. Additional favorable behavior points can be earned by satisfactory work or school performance during a six-month period. An additional two points are earned when the prisoner reaches age 26. The older prisoner is less likely to escape.

Completion of a high school degree through a GED program, or earning a vocational certificate will also earn the prisoner one favorable behavior point.

Under state prison rules a prisoner can be sent to a lower security prison, even if his point total is above the recommended amount for that prison. The most that a prisoner can be dropped in prison security levels is one step. In order to drop more than one step, approval must be granted by the bureau of correctional facilities.

Flintoft described minimum security prisoners as being the "best of the worst," and that they have demonstrated that they are not prone to attempt an escape. "Institutionally they have done well. That is why they are here," he added.

Any prisoner who causes any disciplinary problems will be taken to the Tuscola County Jail. A hearing will be scheduled to determine if he may return to Camp Tuscola, or be sent to a higher security prison.

Flintoft explained that one of the reasons for having a minimum security prison is because it is a work oriented facility. He plans on keeping the prisoners busy during their stay at Camp Tuscola.

Flintoft worked in Jackson State Prison as a corrections officer, and an administrator for several years before taking over at Camp Tuscola. He was working at Jackson when the prisoners staged two riots in 1981. Flintoft feels that the main reason for the riots was that prisoners had a lot of free time because of a lack of work.

At Camp Tuscola, four 10-man work crews are scheduled to work on projects. Please turn to page 16.

Salaries, wages in 4 counties, state compared

With Tuscola County in the grips of an unprecedented budget crisis, one of the more controversial issues is the $900 wage increase that elected department heads and other supervisors have received. The county commissioners and judges will not receive a wage increase in 1985.

According to Tuscola County Commission chairperson Donna Rayl, the wage increase, which began at the start of this year, was approved at a Sept. 27, 1983, meeting. Until the start of this year, the supervisors' wages had been frozen at 1982 levels.

Rayl added that the commissioners have not had a wage increase in four years. Because commissioners are not allowed to approve themselves a wage increase during the year following an election, they will go at least two more years before any wage increases may be approved.

The chart, which shows supervisors' wages, does not include any benefits, such as retirement packages, insurance and other perks that officials may receive.

As an example, Lapeer County commissioners receive the lowest salary in the four-county area. Their actual earnings for 1983, when their payment of $25 for a three-hour meeting, and $50 for a four-hour meeting is included is $10,963. This is based on an average of the wages of the 6 commissioners.

In Tuscola County, the average commissioner wage, including a payment of $40 per meetings lasting more than two hours, if approved by the board chairman for 1983 was $8,492. In both counties, the payment is made for meetings other than county commission meetings.

At the top of the county commission pay scale for Michigan counties is Wayne County, which pays the county commission chairman a yearly salary of $32,926. A county commissioner receives $26,426.

At the other end of the scale is Lake County, with a total population of less than 6,000 residents. The county commissioners do not receive a salary. They do receive $50 for a full-day meeting and $35 for a half-day meeting.

The lowest paid general office clerk at the Tuscola County courthouse receives a yearly salary of $10,899. The top salary for that position is $12,126.

In Sanilac County, a general office clerk starts at $9,581. Their top is $11,060.

In Lapeer County, the starting pay for a general office clerk is $8,278 per year. The top salary is $9,131. A clerk typist for Lapeer County receives a minimum yearly salary of $9,318. The maximum salary is $10,358.

Pay scales for Huron County office clerks were not available.

A custodian at the Tuscola County courthouse performing maintenance duties, receives a top salary of $13,457. The top wage for a general custodian is $12,729.

Sanilac County pays a maintenance worker a maximum salary of $12,603. A custodian receives a maximum salary of $11,445.

The top maintenance worker in the Huron County courthouse receives $14,980 and is also a department supervisor. A custodian's salary, at the top of the pay scale, is $11,230.

In Lapeer County, a beginning custodian earns $9,713. At the top of the wage scale, the custodian earns $10,712.

4 townships still mulling trash problem

The four area townships that were using the Cass City landfill for disposing of residential trash are still without a final decision on how they are going to handle the residential garbage pick up.

For several years the four townships, Elmwood, Ellington, Elkland and Novesta, had contracted with Cass City to allow residents to haul their garbage to the landfill. At the end of 1984, the village closed the landfill to residential garbage. Only building materials, brush and leaves are accepted at the landfill. The residents of the four townships are allowed to haul these types of materials to the dump, but residential garbage will not be accepted.

Novesta Township held a public meeting Dec. 3 and residents of the township agreed to purchase a 10-acre site that was to be used to set a trash dumpster on for residential trash. After complaints from residents living in the area where the dumpster was to be set, the township changed their decision.

At a meeting Monday night Dale Simpson, an employee of Gateway Sanitation, told the board that they would pick up the individual township residents trash weekly for $6 per household per month. No decision was reached at the meeting.

James Turner, supervisor for Elmwood Township, said that he has talked to several township residents, and has received different ideas on how they felt the trash collection should be handled.

"We are going to have a public meeting in February to see what the residents want to do," Turner said.

Newly elected Elkland Township supervisor Dave Milligan said that private trash collecting services are willing to do the job, so he is in favor of letting them take care of the problem.

"We are not going to be in the trash business," Milligan said, referring to the system that Cass City has, where the village has contracted with a single trash hauler to pick up all of the residential trash in the village.

Milligan feels that a lot of township residents would complain if they were to use a dumpster.

"I can see nothing but problems going to a dumpster," Milligan added.

Ellington Township clerk Clayton Turner said that the board has had a few short discussions about the issue, but nothing has been decided.

Camp Tuscola a plush prison

According to statistics supplied by the Michigan Bureau of Correctional Facilities, the state had a total prison population of 14,972 inmates during 1983. During that year, 1,321 prisoners escaped from all of the state operated prisons. At the 12 minimum security prisons in the state, 1,185 prisoners were housed during 1983. From these minimum security prisons, 122 inmates escaped.

Camp Tuscola Supervisor Michael Flintoft said that a prisoner cannot have a pattern of being escape prone, and still be placed in a minimum security prison. He added that prisoners prefer to be placed in the minimum security facility, and that they know that any major rule infraction will send them back to a more restrictive prison.

"This is a plush institution," Flintoft said, comparing it to the more restrictive prisons. He added that many of the prisoners will come from the Flint, Saginaw and Bay City areas. They will be closer to family and friends for visits. Visitation hours are held on Saturday and Sunday. Prisoners are allowed to visit with family in the visitor's lounge.

If a prisoner does escape, when he is apprehended, an additional two to five years will be added to his sentence. According to a prison review screening that a prisoner must pass before being sent to a minimum security prison, any prisoner that has escaped, or attempted to escape, will not be eligible for minimum security status for at least five years.

At Camp Tuscola, a count of the prisoners is taken every two hours during the daytime. At night the prisoners are counted every hour to make sure that none have escaped.

Flintoft said that if a prisoner does escape, they will immediately notify the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, the Michigan State Police, and the local police departments.

Tuscola County Sheriff Paul Berry said that he has checked with law enforcement officials from areas that have a minimum security prison nearby, and they told him that they have had very few problems with the prisoners.

"I don't see any problem with that (Camp Tuscola) out there at all," Berry said.

Flintoft explained that a typical escape will result from a prisoner having family problems. The prisoner will escape, or attempt to escape, to try to get home to work things out.

"It is hard to predict what people will do under stressful situations," Flintoft said.

"The shorter (nearing the end of his prison sentence) a guy is, the more he wants to legally finish his time," Flintoft said.

Lori and Michael DeVries

The First Baptist Church of Cass City was the scene of the Nov. 10 wedding ceremony uniting Miss Lori Ewald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ewald of Cass City, and Michael DeVries, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter DeVries of Sparta, MI.

As the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father, she wore a gown of knit chiffon trimmed with silk Venise and chantilly lace. The sweetheart neckline complimented a bodice covered with sequins and pearls down to a natural waistline. The sleeves were Victorian style. The front of the A-line skirt was accented by appliques and seed pearls with rows of ruffles at the bottom. The chapel length train featured layers of ruffles and lace falling from the waistline. Her caplet headpiece was covered with tiny seed pearls and had a cathedral train appliqued with tiny flowers and seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was pink and burgundy roses, white carnations, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Maid of honor was Miss Paula Ewald, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Cindy Brick of Colorado, sister of the groom, Mrs. Corinne Howdysell of Clare, Mrs. Jane Proulx of Wyoming, MI, and Miss Connie Garlock of Howell. All are friends of the bride. Each bridesmaid wore a rose colored Victorian style dress of sheer organza over taffeta. The full hoop skirts featured a chapel length train in back, layered with rows of ruffled lace. Their headpieces were wreaths of rose and off-white flowers and baby's breath. They carried baskets of burgundy and pink roses, rose tipped mums, white carnations and trailing ivy.

The flower girl, Miss Alisa Cumings, of Sparta, cousin of the groom, was dressed identically to the bridesmaids.

Acolytes were Miss Laura Enos and Miss Linda Whittaker, both of Cass City. They wore burgundy dresses identical to the bridesmaids.

The groom wore white tails. Best man was Mark Cone of Grand Rapids.

Groomsmen were David Brick of Colorado, Philip Cumings, Tim Tuinstra and Brent Lister, all of Sparta. Ushers were Kevin Cumings, Pete Veldt, Steve Cummings and Joel Lovell, all of Sparta. They wore burgundy tails.

Soloists were Jeff and Diane Boone of Grand Rapids and pianist was Miss Laura Johnson of Sparta.

Guest book attendant was Mrs. Dawn Cumings of Sparta and program attendants were Aaron and Jessica Johnson of Sparta.

Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. David Cumings Sparta.

A 6:30 p.m. dinner reception was held at the Novesta Church of Christ fellowship hall. During the reception guests were entertained by a barbershop quartet from Grand Rapids.

The wedding cake was made by the groom's mother.

The bride's mother wore a pink gown with a net and lace jacket. The groom's mother wore a burgundy gown with a pleated skirt and cape flowing from the shoulders.

After a week long honeymoon in Florida, the couple is living in Grand Rapids.

15 attend Salem Women meet Monday

Fifteen attended the meeting Monday evening in Salem Church of United Methodist Women. It began with a lunch with Myung Park serving egg rolls and Shirley Geiger serving salad and dessert.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Geiger when the subject was New Year's Resolutions.

Elaine Jezewski, reporting on missions, told of Church Growth Around The World.

Co-chairmen for the Jan. 23 birthday party at Provincial House are Helen Jezewski and Helen Bartle.

Installation of officers to serve for the coming year was a self-installation service.

Slides of Korea were shown by Luine Patton.

The Feb. 4 meeting at 7:30 will be held at the home of Elaine Jezewski.

Nothing Ordinary

CASS CITY

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Beats me how the persons who cut this tree could enjoy Christmas. John Zack of Warren has purchased a retirement home 6 1/4 miles east of Cass City. He visits it on week ends as often as possible.

In his front lawn a 12-year-old spruce tree had been planted and given plenty of tender loving care.

Just before Christmas the tree was cut off leaving only a stump. B.A. Calka says that a tree on property a mile farther east was cut a year earlier.

Zack says that the reason he purchased the property was to leave problems like these behind when he left the metro area.

Judy (Haag) Davis was featured on the front page of the Port Ord, Calif., "Panorama." It's a newspaper devoted to the activities on the base.

The paper pictured her receiving the training her husband, E-3 Mark Davis, was receiving. Mrs. Davis even wore her husband's Army clothing.

No, it wasn't a case of "anything you can do, I can do better."

The reason? To give wives a better understanding of their husbands' jobs.

C. Louis Severance of Akron has made a pre-publication announcement of a book he has written, "Beneath the Sand." Due out April 30, the 96-page book describes the solar home that Severance has built near Akron. The book will sell for $4.75.

C. Louis Severance is a brother of Lloyd Severance of rural Decker.

Refunds waiting for five from area IRS can't find

Five area persons were among persons in Michigan who have money coming in tax refunds from their 1983 federal income tax.

Charles A. Parks, IRS District Director for Michigan said that 1479 refund checks worth more than $673,000 were returned by the Postal Service as undeliverable.

The refund checks range in amounts from $1.00 to $19,227 and average $455, Parks reports.

Area persons' checks undelivered are: Nancy Leach, Bad Axe; Paul K. Stanley, Snover; Gerald D. Brown and Elmer R. Castle, both of Caro, and Patricia M. Novak, Cass City.

Internal Revenue Service believes most of these taxpayers moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the postal service or IRS.

Taxpayers due a refund from 1983 federal tax returns can call the IRS at 1-800-424-1040 for information.

The Haire Net

It's a tossup between conditions that bug me most when driving. The times when the mud, slush and dirt hit and stick on the windshield or when the road is covered with ice.

Ice on the road is dangerous, especially when it comes in patches. But as long as you are aware of conditions, you can creep along and get where you are headed.

On the other hand days like Sunday, when the weather was just at the freezing level, are relatively safe, but hard on the blood pressure.

Nothing is more annoying than to get the windshield clean for the umpteenth time only to have a car race past and splat it up again. Especially when removing the previous splat ate up the last of the window washing fluid.

It doesn't help, either, to know that the car passing was ignoring the legal speed limit.

It's expected, I guess, for traffic to cruise along at about 60 on rural roads and 65 on expressways. That's about standard.

But more and more these days, cars are exceeding these illegal (legal) limits. No one gets stopped for doing 60 that I've observed.

Sunday in a 200-mile jaunt the guess is that at 60 miles per hour not a half dozen cars were passed while traffic flowed past us in a steady stream.

Maybe that's one reason that traffic fatalities on Michigan's highways increased nearly 13 percent in 1984 over the preceding year.

According to the Michigan Department of State Police, 1,504 died in traffic accidents in 1984 as compared to 1,331 in 1983.

Some of that increase has to be due to an increase in traffic. You have to think that increased speeds played a part, too.

When the nation moved to a 55-mile per hour speed limit to conserve energy, the accident rate dipped sharply. Not only in numbers, but in the numbers of deaths compared to the miles traveled.

Now the energy crunch has eased and folks are used to gas at $1.25 or so a gallon. The need in motorists' view for lower speeds and economy has waned.

The holiday death toll reflected the change. Eighteen died in holiday accidents this year as compared to 13 in the holiday period in 1983.

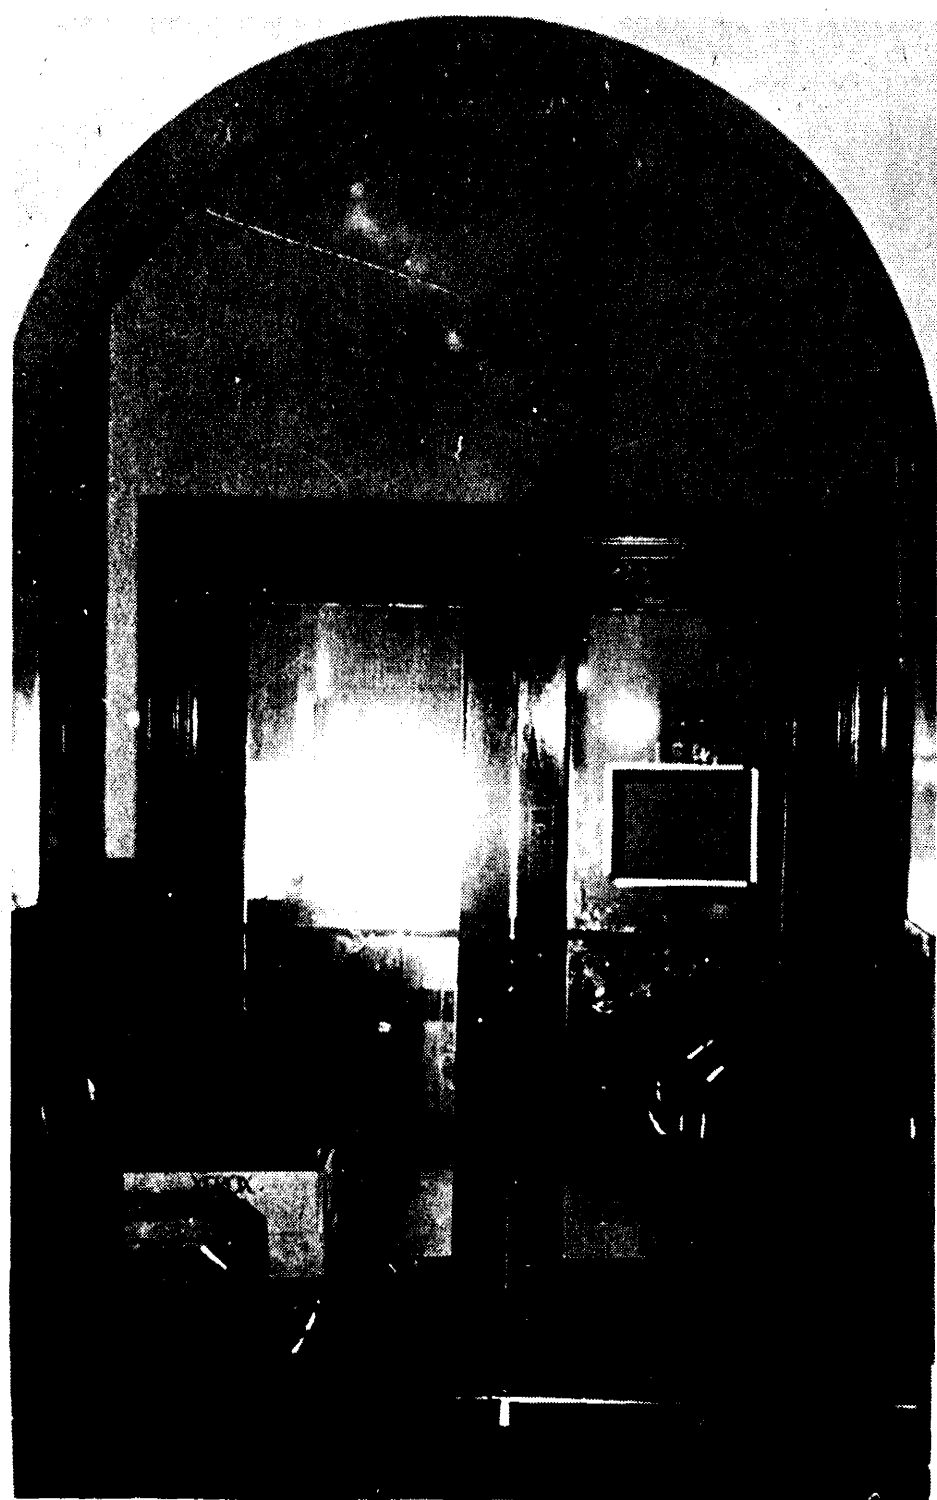

55-miles-per-hour may not be as urgent now as it was in the energy crunch, but it still is a darn good idea.

The speed limit should be kept and enforced.

"If It Fitz..."

"Dynasty" is a spoof

By Jim Fitzgerald

Life would be a lot funnier if the people in power would only do what I wish they'd do, but they never do. I mean people with real power, such as the creators of the "Dynasty" TV show.

"Dynasty" is a spoof. Please agree with me on that. I watch it to laugh at the sheer ridiculousness of the rich-trash characters and the I-married-my-father's-daughter plot. No one old enough to be awake at 9 p.m. could possibly take that stuff seriously. Please.

"Dynasty" is a parody of every soap opera that came before it, so actually it is spoofing spoofs. There never was a soap opera that mirrored real life. People don't watch them to see their reflection. They want to see unbelievable situations. Exaggeration is the prime ingredient. In real life, a woman might run into her husband's ex-wife once a year in the supermarket. In "Dynasty," they live in the same house and wear designer gowns for every-morning confrontations in the upstairs hallway.

My problem with "Dynasty" is that it must keep topping itself to retain my interest. I always read while watching TV, and look up from the newspaper only when something really fascinating is happening on the screen. During football games, I look up only when the announcer announces an instant replay. I figure if a pass or run isn't interesting enough for TV to show twice, it isn't interesting enough for me to watch once.

During "Dynasty," I look up only when it is announced that another long-misplaced child of Blake Carrington and Alexis Carrington Colby Dexter has been found in the Carrington's spare living room where she (he?) has been living incognito for 15 years, disguised as a coffee table. I am always interested in seeing who will play the role of the coffee table.

That has been the most fascinating aspect of "Dynasty." It hires old familiar faces to play unlikely roles, such as Diahann Carroll as "the first black bitch on television," as she describes her character. But even imaginative casting can become ho-hum stuff without regular infusions of brilliant innovation. That occurred to me just last Wednesday when I found myself unwilling to look up from my newspaper to see Rock Hudson become the father of an Arabian colt.

And that's when I began wishing the powerful people who run "Dynasty" would do something they'll never do. I wish they'd spoof themselves, which would be a spoof of a spoof of a spoof. I know just how they could do it.

Recently it was revealed that Blake Carrington's father is still alive and will soon be introduced to viewers. Blake is a grandfather, at least 60 years old, so his daddy has to be an old guy. Who will play the role? Who will be revealed as the great-grandfather of all those little babies who live together in one room of the Carrington mansion?

Picture this scene: Blake Carrington flies to the other side of the world to visit his father who is holed up in a dark corner, something like Marlon Brando in "Apocalypse Now." It is several minutes before the camera finally penetrates the murk to reveal the Old Man Carrington is...

Dick Clark.

A triple spoof. I love it. Life would be a lot funnier if the people in power would only do what I wish they'd do.

I am also dreaming of a mini-series in which it is revealed, in the final episode, that Boy George's parents are Liberace. Onward and Upward.

Cleland now a junior

Regimented life style at West Point

For many college students, going away to school is their first opportunity to get away from mom and dad, and live by their own rules.

But when Dale Cleland decided to go to college, he selected a school that not only required more from a student than most college bound freshmen are willing to devote, but a school whose rules are stricter than most parents would place on a child. Cleland chose to attend the United States Military Academy, West Point.

"It's a lot of work, but it is worth it," Cleland, now half way through his junior year, said.

He decided that he wanted to attend West Point after hearing a liaison officer's presentation during his senior year at Cass City High School.

Cleland explained that he had just returned home after spending a year in Sweden as a foreign exchange student. During his time away from America, he realized how good it was to live in the United States. "I wanted to be able to give something back to the United States," he added.

He said that gaining admission to the academy was difficult because it required the filling out of a lot of forms to determine if the applicant meets the West Point standards.

An applicant is judged not only by academic standings, but also by a whole person criteria. This includes scores on the American College Testing Assessment Program (ACT), a physical fitness test, class ranking as a high school senior, types of courses taken, and extracurricular activities including sports, school organizations and outside activities such as church groups.

There are 1,443 students in the present freshman class. They were selected from 13,678 male and female applications. The class has 162 women enrolled. When Cleland began, his class had 1,440 students. About 400 students have dropped out.

Of the present freshman class, 85 percent of the students graduated in the top one-fifth of their high school class.

An applicant must also have a nomination from a United States Congressman. Cleland was nominated by U.S. Representative Robert Traxler.

He entered the military academy after graduating from high school in 1982. Unlike most college bound high school seniors, he did not have the opportunity for a long summer vacation before starting college in the fall. About one month after graduation, Cleland was going through the rigorous cadet basic training. He described the six-week training period as being similar to boot camp, with additional emphasis placed on education.

During a typical day, Cleland, an engineering major, gets out of bed at 6:30 a.m. to prepare for the first formation of the day at 7:15 a.m. During this formation, roll call is taken before the students go to breakfast and then on to class. "You don't cut classes like in other colleges," he explained.

Classes run from 7:30 a.m. until noon, and from 1:00 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. After the last class every other day the students have drill and ceremony training for parades. On the off days, they have intramural sports. The afternoon activities end at 5:00 p.m. Supper is served at 6:30 p.m.

After supper, a mandatory study time begins, which lasts until 11:30 p.m. Cleland said that during this time, monitors check to see that all students are in the barracks or academic buildings, and that the "atmosphere is conducive to studying."

"It is designed to very strongly encourage you to study," Cleland said about the study time. He explained that because the classroom instructor teaches at a rapid pace, the study time is needed to keep up with his studies.

Twice a year students are required to pass an Army Physical Readiness Test. This is the same test that is given to the regular Army soldiers, except that the student has to score higher than the minimum requirement to receive a passing grade.

While in high school Cleland participated in cross country, track and wrestling. He feels that he was never as physically fit as he is now. He added that as a junior, he is not required to take as many physical education courses as a freshman is, but he must still pass fitness examinations. "It is up to you to keep yourself physically fit," Cleland explained.

During his spare time, Cleland must keep his brass uniform buttons and shoes polished. Short hair cuts are still the way of life in the military. His living quarters must be kept in order for daily room inspections.

"There are no locks on the doors," Cleland said. "We have an honor code that takes care of the locks." Cleland recited the 13-word honor code: "A cadet will not lie, cheat or steal, or tolerate those who do." A cadet is expected to follow the code, and report those who do not. He feels that the code is very fair.

During the summer, he receives about 24 days off for vacation. The rest of the time is spent in training. Last summer Cleland was stationed in Camp Buckner, where he learned about infantry field training, armor and field artillery. This summer he will act as a drill sergeant or a second lieutenant with new recruits.

Cleland will graduate with the rank of second lieutenant. Five years of military service are required for West Point grads.

During these five years, Cleland may start out as a combat engineer, where they build bridges, barracks and other military installations. He could also be placed as a second lieutenant in the infantry, field artillery, air defense or in an armored division. "Just because you take engineering doesn't mean you will get into the corps of engineers," he said. He added that getting into the corps of engineers is based on his performance at West Point, and ratings by other officers.

Cleland admitted that if he had gone to a regular college, he probably would not have developed the study habits that he has, nor kept as physically fit as he is.

"I am glad I did it. I would do it again," he said.

Wright pleads no contest to negligent homicide

Monday, a 35-year-old Flint man entered a no contest plea before Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick Joslyn on a charge of negligent homicide. The charge stems from the Nov. 3 auto accident that claimed the life of John E. Clouse, 52, 3093 Hurds Corner Road, Caro.

According to the Michigan State Police report, Clouse was eastbound on M-81 when he was struck by a vehicle driven by David A.

Wright, 1635 Dakota Rd., Flint. Wright had failed to stop at the intersection of M-81 and Vassar Road, striking the Clouse vehicle. Joslyn set a Feb. 25 sentencing date.

Joslyn sentenced Patrick C. Neuenschwander to 120 days in the Tuscola County Jail after a jury decided Nov. 30, 1984 that he was guilty of a charge of delivery of marijuana.

Neuenschwander, 25, 3866 Frankford Rd., Caro, was also sentenced to two years' probation, and ordered to pay a $400 fine and $400 court costs.

The charge stems from the June 24, 1983 selling of marijuana to a Tuscola County Sheriff's Department undercover officer.

Also Monday, Joslyn rejected a plea bargaining agreement from Jerome K.

Haire, 32, 305 Joseph St., Bay City, on charges of felonious assault.

Haire had entered a no contest plea to the charge Nov. 5, 1984, if the court would agree that the maximum sentence be no more than the one-year minimum jail sentence, and that the time he spent attending alcohol screening programs would be credited against his jail sentence.

The felonious assault charge stems from the Sept. 19 attack on Pat Sullivan, 1063 W. Cass St., Bay City, at the Bay Shore Bar, Fairgrove. Haire was arrested by Michigan State Police trooper Mark Strange.

Joslyn remanded Haire to the District Court for a preliminary examination.

Also Monday, Joslyn denied a motion to adjourn a trial scheduled for Jan. 16 for Ronald L. Richards, 21, 3837 N. Phillips Rd., Cass City, on an armed robbery charge. Joslyn also denied a remand for a preliminary examination.

The charge stems from the Dec. 2, 1983 armed robbery of Mark Clark and Janice Botkins.

Aug. 13, 1984, Richards pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of assault with intent to rob and steal while armed with a dangerous weapon. The court rejected the plea.

Bond continues at $5,000. A six-month delayed jail sentence was changed to a two-year probation period, with a six-month jail sentence deferred until the end of probation for a 41-year-old Deford woman.

Patricia G. Grice, 5955 Bruce St., Deford, pleaded guilty June 18, 1984, to a charge of delivery of marijuana. The court accepted the plea July 9, 1984.

The charges stem from Grice selling marijuana to a Tuscola County Sheriff's Department undercover officer Aug. 8.

Grice was ordered to pay a $50 fine and $200 court costs. She will also pay attorney fees when she finds employment.

Riches may await Sebewaing woman

Sebewaing resident Geraldine Reinert, 49, could become a millionaire Feb. 2.

She is one of six participants trying for Michigan Lottery prizes of $1,080,000 in the "3 For the Money" instant game Grand Drawing, part of a statewide half-hour television special.

Their road to new riches began with redemption of a signed "Free Ticket" from the instant game at their Lottery agents. Subsequent drawings from among 3.5 million of these entries produced 119 semi-finalists, each of whom received a free 52-week subscription to the Lotto game. A finalist drawing from semi-finalist entries produced the six contestants who will try for the game's top prizes.

12 years of public service

Marshall retires as Register of Deeds

After being elected to three consecutive terms as Register of Deeds for Tuscola County, John Marshall retired at the end of 1984.

"It has been the best 12 years of my life," Marshall said about the time he spent serving the residents of the county. "It is the type of work that I always enjoyed. You learn a lot."

Marshall said that when he first started his new job in 1973, people asked him if it was a part-time job that he was taking.

"People don't realize the amount of documents that go through our office," he said. Marshall explained that all legal documents in the county are recorded by the Register's office. These include the recording of all Circuit Court and Probate Court orders, mortgages, gas and oil leases, patents, plats and the recording of wills where real estate is transferred.

Marshall said that from the time he was first elected, until he retired from the position, the amount of paper work constantly grew because of additional legislative requirements. "There was something new coming up all the time," Marshall added. During his first year in office, the county began to microfilm all of the legal documents that were in the office files. Some of the documents dated back to 1852.

Marshall said that a lot of people don't realize that if their document is not recorded, and they lose their copy, it may be difficult or impossible to get a copy of the agreement.

He added that people don't have their land contract recorded because they don't want the assessor to know how much they paid for the property. He cited an instance where the purchaser did not have the contract recorded, and the original was destroyed in a fire. The seller had his copy stolen. There was no legal document available that recorded the sale.

"It doesn't happen very often, but you want to be sure that it doesn't happen to you," Marshall added.

Marshall took two years of accounting classes and a law class from Ferris State College, which he said "fell right in line" with his job at the Register's office.

He said the law instructor at college told the class that he never quoted a law, he always read it. This wisdom stayed with Marshall throughout his career. He explained that whenever people wanted to know about a certain law, he always gave them a copy of the law, so that they could interpret it themselves.

"You have to be awful careful what you tell people," Marshall added.

During his 12-year stint in office, Marshall was a member of the Michigan Association of Register of Deeds. He served as president, treasurer, and on legislative committees for the state-wide organization.

When Marshall was first elected, his yearly salary was $10,000. During his last year in office, his salary was $19,210. Beginning Jan. 1, 1985, the salary went up an additional $900 per year.

Before entering into a full-time public service position, he operated a 160-acre farm on Bay City-Forestville Road. Back surgery forced him to leave the farm after 17 years. In 1955 he began selling John Deere tractors for Cliff Ryan Implement Sales, Cass City. Marshall and his son, Roger, purchased the dealership in 1964. They operated the business until they were closed down by John Deere in 1972.

By that time Roger had begun selling snowmobiles. This eventually blossomed into the successful Marshall Distributing Incorporated, Cass City.

Marshall, 69, and his wife Mickie plan to travel now that retirement has arrived. Their first trip will be to Arizona this winter.

Remove snow from hydrants

Elkland Township Fire Department Chief Jerome Root has requested that residents keep the snow cleared away from the fire hydrants. Root explained that because of the heavy snowfall, some of the hydrants may become buried, and firemen will not be able to see them. He added that it will be faster to hook up to a hydrant if the firemen do not have to dig snow away from them.

JOHN MARSHALL retired from his position as Register of Deeds from Tuscola County at the end of 1984.

New name, but still the same

As of Jan. 1, Family Living Education (FLE) changed its name to Extension Home Economics.

"We're reinstating the name Extension Home Economics as a result of a marketing survey that took place in April and May of '84," said Doris Wetters, assistant director of Extension for Home Economics.

The survey showed that business and community leaders in all regions of the state reported a very low identification with the name Family Living Education, despite the fact that it has been in use for 25 years.

In 1959, the name of the program was changed to broaden the vision of work of the staff members as they responded to the major societal shift of the time -- the rapid increase of outside-the-home employment for women.

"Reinstating the original title brings us in line with most other states. This has always been the title used in the Smith-Lever legislation," Wetters said. "Our professional staff members are called Extension Home Economists and the program title is now consistent with the position title."

"The name change does not indicate a change in philosophy or direction," said Brenda Cummings, Huron County Extension Home Economist. The Home Economics program will continue to be responsive to social and economic needs of Michigan residents, and to help families learn new skills and information for better living.

For more information on the Home Economics program, contact your county Cooperative Extension Service office at 104 County Building, Bad Axe, or 269-9949.

Your neighbor says

Undecided about death penalty

Should Michigan follow other states, and reinstate the death penalty?

Yvonne Smith from the Decker area said that she had mixed feelings on whether it is right to have a death penalty.

"I am a Christian, so I feel that it is wrong to take another life," she said. "But the way crime is escalating, I feel that something should be done."

She added that she feels torn between having a death penalty or not. Smith can understand someone's opinion that the state should have a death penalty, but she is unable to completely agree with them.

"We are doing away with a life, so we are as bad as the guy who murdered someone," she added.

She said that she can sympathize with the suffering that someone goes through when they have had a loved one murdered or a child injured, and could understand their wanting the person to be punished. Smith explained that when she watched a television program that was discussing an upcoming execution she sat there stunned, wondering if we have the right to take the life of someone.

She and her husband, Dean, a former farmer who recently became a financial advisor, live at 4801 Shabbona Road, Decker.

Aging Council to meet at Vassar

The Tuscola County Council on Aging met Dec. 10 for its regular meeting at the Akron-Fairgrove meal site.

The purpose of the council is to coordinate and develop plans for a comprehensive system of services for senior citizens of Tuscola County.

Cooped up

If you think you stay cooped up all winter, put yourself in the claws of a pregnant polar bear. In late October or November, after eating heavily to form a solid layer of blubber, an expectant polar bear digs a den in a thick snowbank and crawls in, says International Wildlife magazine. Not until six months later, by early April, will she dig out with her cubs.

All senior groups of Tuscola County are invited to send representatives, or attend themselves, to participate in discussion to place their input of activities for residents of the county at meal sites, clubs or any other special activities.

The next meeting will be Monday, Jan. 14, at the Vassar meal site, located in the Ivan Middleton Hall on the Vassar Fairgrounds.

Mildred Parrott of Kingston is secretary of the group.

HEALTH TIPS

Lung problems may lead to other problems

Patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) may also suffer from malnutrition, a condition which tends to aggravate the lung disease itself, according to information from the American Lung Association.

COPD, which usually entails shortness of breath, affects some 15.6 million Americans.

Based on his research the following reasons for malnutrition in COPD patients were given by Thomas F. Mulrooney, MD, of the Respiratory Rehabilitation Program of Midway Hospital in St. Paul, MN.

Food preparation may prove too difficult for patients because of their breathlessness.

Shortness of breath may also limit the ability to chew or swallow food.

Some patients experience increased breathlessness after eating. This is probably related to abdominal distention from food in the stomach or swallowed air.

Patients may not eat well because their food is unappetizing, especially when diets are salt-restricted.

Frequently, absence of social companionship during mealtimes and overall mental depression contribute to diminished food intake.

"For most patients, particularly those with irreversible obstruction of the airways, it is crucial that the respiratory muscles be protected from unnecessary fatigue or from the weakening effects of nutritional deficiency," said Dr. Mulrooney. He suggested that relatively simple methods may permit many mal-nourished lung patients to attain adequate levels of caloric and protein intake.

Many foods are artificially enriched in vitamins, and supplemental vitamins are often prescribed for the chronically ill. "The role of trace minerals in human nutrition remains to be defined," said Dr. Mulrooney, "but the importance of magnesium and phosphorus in protein synthesis suggests that deficiencies of these elements may be important...and deficiency in zinc has been of interest because of its apparent association with disturbances of smell and taste, which could make it a factor contributing to lack of appetite."

The researchers studied 14 COPD patients' diet and made complete calculations of each patient's nutritional levels and needs. Following this nutritional assessment, a diet prescription was prepared by a dietitian for those seven patients who needed it. This often included liquid and solid food supplements. Caloric intake and patients' weights were measured daily.

Patients and their families were educated regarding methods of continuing this therapy at home. Energy-conserving techniques of food preparation were demonstrated. Efforts were also made to make more numerous meals of smaller portions. In addition, all patients were involved in a program of breathing training and general physical conditioning.

Dr. Mulrooney and his co-researcher believe that surgeons have long recognized the importance of good nutrition in wound healing, but that internists have been slower to appreciate the contribution of nutritional deficiency to the symptoms of medical illnesses.

"Frequently anorexia (loss of appetite), weight loss and nutritional deficiency have been considered unavoidable partners of chronic diseases," said Dr. Mulrooney. "This has certainly been true of patients with pulmonary emphysema."

Veterans' booklet lists benefits and services

An informational booklet, "Veterans' Benefits and Services," is now available to all veterans in Huron and Tuscola Counties from the office of State Representative Dick Allen (R-Fairgrove), the legislator announced.

The 35-page booklet contains information on local, state and federal veterans' programs, including sections on education, employment, financial assistance, medical care, home and insurance, and death benefits for veterans. The booklet also includes a comprehensive listing of all veterans' agencies on the local, state and federal levels, as well as a listing of all veterans' organizations in the two-county area.

Allen added that supplies of the booklet will be sent to all American Legion and VFW posts in Huron and Tuscola Counties and will be distributed free of charge to all veterans who want one. The booklet is also available through Allen's Lansing office. To receive a copy write to Rep. Dick Allen, Michigan House of Representatives, State Capitol, Lansing, MI 48909.

New books at the library

THE SICILIAN by Mario Puzo (fiction). This book is about post-World War II Sicilian Mafia. In the midst of corruption within the conquered Fascist government, dashing 20-year-old Turi Guiliano establishes himself as an international, known Sicilian renegade and hero of the peasantry. Of course, even Robin Hood types can lose their sense of duty and justice, and while Turi wreaks havoc on evildoers for seven years from his mountain headquarters culminating in the vicious murder of six Sicilian mob chieftains - he eventually loses his struggle with the internal forces of Sicilian power and is fatally betrayed by his longtime friend and confidant, Aspanu Pisciotta. The character of the exiled Michael Corleone lingers on the periphery of this story.

DECISIONS by Fred Bright (fiction). Dasha Croy, attorney in Wall Street's splashiest law firm, must choose between her career and her marriage. All her life Dasha had been groomed to be a loving and helpful wife. Lasting happiness seemed within her reach when in college she met Jordan Croy, a sharp, witty aspiring lawyer. But after their marriage, Jordan ended up in a tiny office trying civil cases, and Dasha, bored once their children were out of the house, decided to go to law school. What no one could predict was that she would be hand-picked to handle corporate law in a prestigious firm and that once there, her rise to partner would be meteoric. Jordan's jealousy and inability to deal with Dasha's success eats away at their marriage until he delivers an ultimatum to Dasha; if she continues to work, she won't stay wed.

DR. LENDON SMITH'S LOW-STRESS DIET by Lendon Smith (non-fiction). Smith contends that the key to reducing weight is reducing stress. His unique program - which enables readers to recognize and manage the special tensions that create cravings, addictions, unhealthy eating patterns, and binges - features personalized diets that are geared toward individual occupations and their particular levels of stress. General emphasis is placed on the elimination of processed foods, consuming lots of fruits and vegetables, eating small portions, avoiding sugar and salt rotating foods so as not to get bored with the diet, not eating when one is angry - all directed toward permanently establishing good eating habits.

Microwave class at Bad Axe

Microwave ovens still rank as one of the top-selling appliances in the United States. If you received one during the holidays or have had one but don't know much about using it, then plan to attend Microwave Basics. The class is sponsored by the Extension Home Economics program and will be held Thursday, Jan. 17, at 10:00 a.m. in the Bad Axe Farm Bureau Building. The instructor will be Brenda Cummings, Extension Home Economist.

Mrs. Cummings will discuss and demonstrate basic microwave cooking principles. Demonstrations will include roast beef, poultry, casseroles, vegetables, snack items and others. Participants will be able to taste test microwaved foods and add recipes to their microwaving collection.

There is a slight registration fee and pre-registration is requested. For more information, call the Cooperative Extension Service at 269-9949. Registrations should be in by Tuesday, Jan. 15.

Tillage Day at Civic Center in Saginaw

A special Tillage Day is planned for all Thumb area farmers Tuesday, Jan. 15. The event will be held at the Saginaw Civic Center. Doors open at 9:00 a.m. for exhibits.

The day's activity will feature various tillage practices, different culture practices required, cost comparisons and how to make them work on your farm, states Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director.

O-G Seniors

meet at Gagetown

Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met at St. Agatha's parish hall in Gagetown Jan. 3 with 35 members present. Fifteen blood pressure readings were taken by Mary Lewis, LPN. Mabel Ondrajka, president, opened the meeting with reciting the Lord's Prayer and pledge to the flag in unison.

There was some discussion about upcoming projects. The Christian Academy has put together a play, taking a look at the elderly, which they will present after the weather improves. The club is 10 years old this spring.

Mrs. Ondrajka appointed a purchasing committee, Gerry Carolan and Louise Ashmore, to buy supplies. She also appointed a trip committee, Bob and Florence Schell and Donovan and Doris Schell. Ed Good is to see about the bus for the group's trips.

Elma Miklovich reported on the program that is scheduled at Rawson Library in Cass City Jan. 18.

Door prizes went to Martha and Luther Durham.

A get well card was sent to Bernice Deeg and sympathy cards were sent to Irene O'Connell and Margaret Generous.

Coffee and sandwiches were served by the January committee and bingo was played.

The next meeting is a potluck dinner Jan. 17 and Euchre will be played.

pair of Lamborgibea skis were stolen from a vehicle owned by Rodney Sherman, 4433 West St., Cass City. According to the report, the vehicle was parked in Sherman's driveway when the skis were taken sometime between Jan. 3 at 9:00 p.m. and 6:30 a.m. Jan. 4. The skis were valued at $200.

Wilson reported that two hub caps valued at $50 were stolen from a vehicle owned by Steve Dietrich, 6633 Voss Rd., Cass City. According to the report, the hub caps were taken from the vehicle while it was parked in the Cass City High School parking lot Jan. 7 between 8:30 a.m. and 12:50 p.m.

George Washington had a sweet tooth for ice cream. Records show that during two months of 1790, he spent $200 on it.

A snow shovel valued at $15.07 was stolen from Mildred Trisch, 6703 Houghton St., Cass City. Chief Wilson reported that the shovel was stolen off the porch on New Year's Eve.

Officer Dave McComb reported that a vehicle driven by Lori L. Wright, 23, 7175 Main St., Owendale, was eastbound on Main Street, waiting for a vehicle in front of her to make a left turn onto Weaver Street when she was struck by a vehicle driven by Patrick A. Peters, 18, 5822 Cass City Rd., Cass City, told McComb that he was unable to stop on the snow covered road surface. The accident happened Jan. 5 at 8:50 p.m. There were no injuries reported.

Officer Phillip Klaus reported that a vehicle driven by Larry J. Kubacki, 21, 3045 N. McMillian Rd., Filion, was struck by a vehicle driven by Richard E. Doerr. According to the report, Doerr was northbound on Seeger Street when Kubacki pulled out of the Cass City High School parking lot in front of him.

Doerr, 26, 6622 Cemetery Rd., Cass City, was unable to stop and struck the Kubacki vehicle. Kubacki was issued a ticket for failure to yield right of way. There were no injuries reported in the Jan. 3, 5:15 p.m. accident.

Klaus reported that a vehicle driven by Charles F. Bigelow, 76, 8933 East Cass City Rd., Cass City, was struck by a vehicle driven by Ervin A. Haley, 43, Pobanz Rd., Sebawaing. According to the report, Haley was northbound on Seeger Street when Bigelow, eastbound on Church Street, pulled out in front of him. Bigelow was unable to see Haley approaching because of the snow piles in the middle of Seeger Street. The accident happened at 10:05 a.m. Jan. 3. There were no injuries reported.

Services Thursday for M. Chambers

Melvin Walter Chambers, 75, of Cass City died Monday, Jan. 7, at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw after a short illness.

He was born March 4, 1909, in West Branch, the son of Walter and Mae (Giles) Chambers.

Mr. Chambers married Miss Violet Cole Dec. 21, 1935, in Angola, Ind. The couple came to this area in 1947 from Royal Oak. Mrs. Chambers succumbed Jan. 11, 1972.

He served with the United States Coast Guard during World War II in the South Pacific Theatre. He had been employed by Chrysler Corporation.

He is survived by one son, Gary Neil Chambers; three brothers, Giles Chambers and Elias Chambers, both of Fruitland Park, Fla., and Irving Chambers of Birmingham, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 1 p.m. from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Elder Dean Smith, of the Shabbona Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, officiating.

Burial will be in the Glass River Cemetery, Bancroft, MI.

Don DeLong succumbs Monday

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) for Don DeLong, a lifelong resident of rural Cass City, and a prominent Thumb dairy farmer. Mr. DeLong was to be taken from Little's Funeral Home at 11 a.m. to Novesta Church of Christ where services will be held at 3 p.m.

Mr. DeLong died at Hills and Dales General Hospital Monday. He was born Oct. 7, 1926, in Novesta Township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. and Marilla Kelley DeLong. He lived all of his life on the farm where he was born.

Mr. DeLong married Miss Lucile Loomis Oct. 5, 1946 in Gagetown.

DON DELONG

He was active in many farm related organizations including the Michigan Milk Producers Association and the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. He was also a member of the Thumb Draft Horse Association, the Farm Bureau, and the Holstein Friesian Association. He was a 4-H member and leader.

He served as past board member of the Michigan Animal Breeders Association. He drove a Cass City school bus for 13 years.

He was a member of Tyler Lodge F and AM number 317 and Echo Chapter OES number 337, both of Cass City. A Masonic memorial service was to have been held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home.

Mr. DeLong is survived by his wife, Lucile; four sons, Francis, Duane, Robert and Richard, all of Cass City; two daughters, Mrs. Manuel (Connie) Benitez of Cass City and Mrs. Jim (Donna) Lenhard of Maryville, Tenn.; 15 grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Clarence Merchant and Mrs. Nancy Shagene both of Cass City. Two brothers, Bill and Elwin, died.

The Rev. Vern Lockard, pastor of the Novesta Church of Christ, will officiate at the funeral and interment will be in Novesta Cemetery.

The family announced that memorials may be given to the Cass City Public School Athletic Program. Mr. DeLong was an outstanding athlete at the school and retained a lifelong interest in the program.

Eva May Smith dies Sunday

Miss Eva May Smith, 90, of Farmington Hills succumbed Sunday, Jan. 6, at Four Chaplins Convalescent Center, Inc. of Westland after a brief illness.

She was born Sept. 5, 1901, in Elmwood Township, the daughter of William H. and Alma (Giles) Smith.

Miss Smith made her home in Inglewood, Calif. for many years before returning to Dearborn Heights in 1952. Later she made her home at the Baptist Manor Retirement Home in Farmington Hills.

Miss Smith was a member and deaconess of the Alpha Baptist Church of Livonia and had served as a Sunday School teacher. She had been a member of the Women's Missionary Society and the Business and Professional Women's Group.

She is survived by one brother, Carl Smith of Caro; one sister, Mrs. Edith Winneger of Detroit, and many nieces and nephews. Two brothers and three sisters preceded her in death.

A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 11 a.m. from the Harry J. Will Funeral Home in Redford with Reverend Carlton Young, of the Alpha Baptist Church, officiating. Funeral services will also be held Thursday evening at 8 p.m. from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Reverend David Burkett, of the Colwood United Brethren Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Elmwood Township Cemetery.

Adult education program to start in Feb.

The Cass City Community Education Office announces an open registration period for the Adult High School Program during the month of January.

Second semester classes will begin Feb. 4. Anyone 18 years of age or older who has not completed work on their diploma is invited to call the Cass City Community Education Office at 872-4151 and set up an appointment to schedule classes.

Classes offered for second semester include Typing, Writer's Workshop, U.S. History, Government, Career Education, Communication Skills, Reading Improvement, Basic Math and Science. There will also be a full complement of skill center classes available.

The Cass City Adult High School Program is open to all area residents, including adults from other school districts.

ENRICHMENT CLASSES

The Cass City Community Education Office will be offering a full complement of enrichment classes for all ages this winter. Most classes will begin the third week of January.

The Monday offerings include: Cribbage match, "stained glass" quilting, kalosomatics, men and women's conditioning, walking, microwave cooking, soft sculptured dolls, ACT test preparation and typing.

Tuesday classes are: For experienced quilters only; backpacking, CPR, landscaping and planting, pet care for pet lovers, painting for fun (k2nd) and the history of Cass City.

Wednesday offerings include: The electric company (5th/6th grade), beginning cake decorating, kids in the kitchen (2nd/3rd grade), math, music - right here in Cass City (4 years).

Thursday, classes held will be: investment class, reading improvement, communication skills, stitch, stitchery (3rd/6th grade), Mexican cooking, home repair, nutrition and health, karate, computer literacy, knitting and crocheting (3rd/6th) and basic car care.

The only Friday class is social dance.

To obtain more information and register for the classes, call the Cass City Community Education Office at 872-4151.

Sanilac Bean Growers to hold annual meet

Sanilac County Dry Bean Growers president, Bill Thayer, announces Friday, Jan. 11, will be the big day

MS Society names officers

The Greater Flint Area Multiple Sclerosis Society of Genesee, Lapeer and Tuscola Counties held its annual membership board meeting recently.

Diana Hohn was elected chairman, Pat Uhlmeier, vice-chairman, Jean Haines, secretary, and Mary Tauscher, treasurer. The board, comprised of 14 volunteers, meets the second Monday of each month at the Pierce Center, 2302 Brookside, Flint.

The board provides patient services, loan equipment for MS persons, plans and supervises activities of the branch.

for all Sanilac dry bean growers. The annual educational meeting will be held in Sandusky at the VFW Hall, starting at 9:30 a.m. with coffee.

An excellent program has been arranged by the Growers Association and the Sanilac County Extension Service. Keynote speaker will be Sam Dajani who will be speaking on dry bean quality.

Miss Shelly Peruski of Deckerville, State Bean Queen, will be present.

A panel of local farmers will tell about their experiences with the Controlled Droplet Applicator, CDA, sprayers. Other important and timely topics will be discussed.

A potluck meal will be furnished by the Growers Association. Families are encouraged to bring a bean dish to pass. All Sanilac dry bean growers are invited to attend this annual educational meeting.

Letters

Be careful when you wave (waive)

Dear John:
In your "Rabbit Tracks" of January 3, 1985 you correctly note that "Even when it's written it can be confusing. If indeed the proposed discipline policy at the school read "wave any part of a suspension," the confusion is compounded by the thought of a suspension waving around in mid-air.
Is it a typographical error? Are you pulling our legs? Or did our school system really use "wave" instead of waive?

We must not waive our right to expect correct word usage or we can wave goodbye to the language.
It is confusing, isn't it?

In fun,
Dave McNaughton

Dear Sir:
I am against men wearing caps in restaurants while eating, especially in one with a little class. I was amazed to see the picture of the first father of 1985 in your paper with his hat on. What happened to respectful manners?

Kingston beats
Owen-Gage 80-58
Tuesday night

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs were handed their third loss of the season Tuesday night by the Kingston Cardinals. The final score of the game was Kingston 80, Owen-Gage 58.

Novesta to pay $1,000
for culvert

At a Novesta Township meeting Monday night the board approved a request from the Tuscola County Road Commission that a bridge on Shabbona Road be replaced with a culvert. Township clerk Nurse Kloc said that the township agreed to pay $1,000, one-quarter of the cost of replacing the bridge. The road commission will pay $3,000. Kloc said the culvert, four foot in diameter by 40 feet long, will replace the existing Shabbona Road bridge, west of Lampton Road, over the Holcomb Drain.

Kloc added that there is a seven-ton load limit on the bridge, which will not allow school buses to cross.

Owen-Gage coach Dean Roller said of the Cardinals. "They played good defense and they intimidated us early." The Cardinals outbounded Owen-Gage 39-25. At one point in the second quarter, the Cardinals pulled down six straight rebounds before finally making the basket.

At the end of the first quarter, the score was tied at 17 points each. In the second quarter the Cardinals took advantage of Owen-Gage's missed shots and came out on top 36-26 at halftime. During the second period, the Bulldogs did not score a basket during a four-minute period.

Owen-Gage finished the night hitting 38 percent of their shots from the field. Kingston sank 54 percent of their shots. Both teams hit on 10 of 18 free throws.

Reid Goslin led the Bulldogs with 18 points. John Shope had 13 points. Paul Thompson had eight points. Todd Rockefeller and Kellin Kretschmer each had six points. Stu Stirrett scored four points.

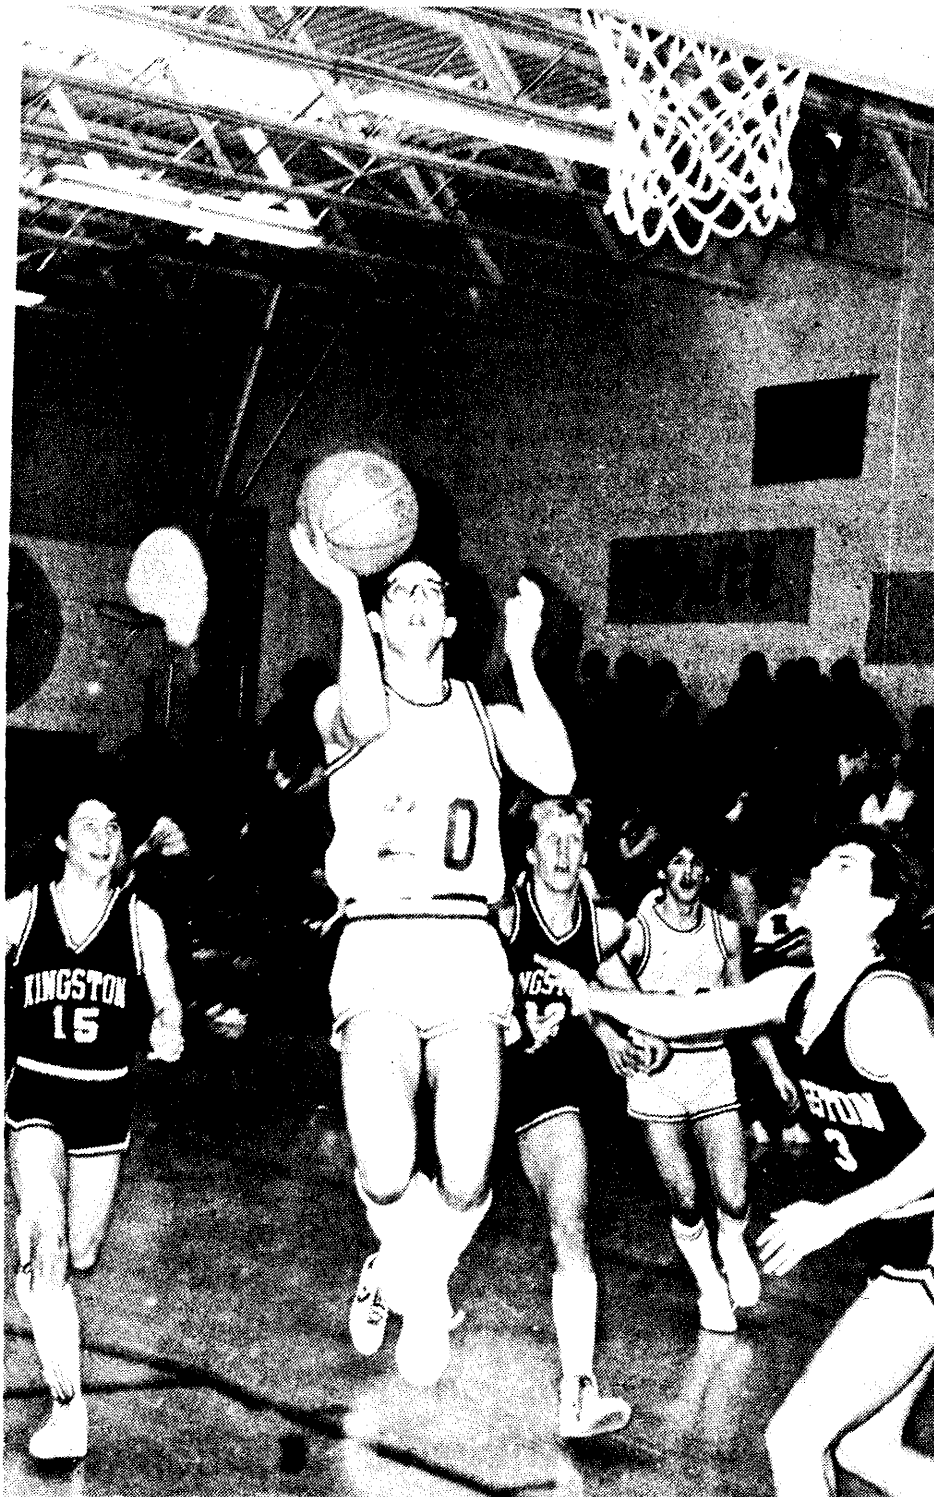

The Cardinals were led by Larry Smith with 29 points. Dave Green scored 15 points and Gary Cooper scored 10.

The loss gives the Bulldogs a 2 and 3 record overall.
The junior varsity lost to Kingston 97-14.

The Bulldogs will play Akron-Fairgrove Friday night and Uby Tuesday night. Both games are at home. Game time is 6:30 p.m. for the junior varsity. The varsity game starts at about 8:00 p.m.

Pets need extra help
in winter

Even pet dogs or cats that live outside all the time can use a warming hand on bitter cold, winter nights, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. To prevent a pet from possibly freezing to death in their sleep, Ranger Rick suggests warming up a pet's shelter with extra blankets, or bringing the pet into an unheated garage. Do not bring an outdoor pet into a hot house. Not only might this sicken the animal, but it will make it harder for the pet to adjust when it returns to the cold outdoors.

IN FOR TWO - Owen-Gage's Reid Goslin drives past Kingston's Doug DeBlois to score two of his 20 points for the Bulldogs. Kingston won the Tuesday night game 80-58.

Seniors strengthen the 1985 O-G volleyball team

The Owen-Gage volleyball team will resemble last year's team that finished in a three-way tie for first place with Peck and Port Hope in North Central Thumb D League. The Bulldogs had a 13-3 league record. They were 16-8 last year overall. Coach Judy Campbell said that this year she has 10 seniors who played on the varsity team last year.

Only one senior started on the volleyball team last year. Campbell said that she expects that Peck, Port Hope, Akron-Fairgrove and Caseville will have good teams this year. Campbell said that a lack of height will be a problem for the Bulldogs this year. She said that 5' 11" Linda Retford will be her lead spiker this year.

"We will do all right," Campbell said about the 1985 season. The Bulldogs started the season on a winning note, winning the Early Bird Tournament held at Kinde-North Huron Dec. 27. Jenny Hellebuyck led the Bulldogs, scoring 19 points in the three-game tournament. Although practice has just begun for the junior varsity, all of the players have played on the junior high school team. "It makes the program a lot easier when you have a junior high program," Campbell said. The Bulldogs' first match will be against Bad Axe Jan. 21 at Owendale. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Imlay City to test Hawks

Free throws push Hawks past Hatchets

Cass City's fledgling Hawks should find out just how they rate in the Thumb B Association Friday when Imlay City comes to town. The Hawks, fresh from a satisfying victory over Bad Axe last Friday, 58-52, are locked in a battle with the Spartans for third place in the league. Imlay City and Cass City have lost once in league play. The Spartans are 4-1 for the season and last year were district tournament champs.

A problem for the Hawks will be the Imlay City height. They have two 6-foot, 4-inch players and two others that stretch to 6-2 and 6-1.

Coach Ron Nurnberger said that the Hawks played consistent ball against the Hatchets although the play was ragged at times, a typical performance in the first game following the Christmas break.

Cass City jumped off to an early lead and was in front by five or six points most of the game.

The Hawks used balanced scoring to jump in front in the first quarter, 15-12. The margin was increased in the second period even though Cass City was held to just three field goals. Kurt Bliss scored once and Dave Miller hit twice.

The Hawks used excellent free throw shooting to widen the lead. Bryan Beecher converted four of four, Tracy Lapp, one for one, and Bliss, 3 for 4 in the quarter. At the half the Hawks were in front 29-23.

Although Bad Axe was not able to take the lead the Hatchets were able to keep the game in doubt until midway in the final quarter.

With about four minutes left, Cass City was comfortably in front by 11 points. Again it was outstanding shooting from the charity stripe that spelled the difference. Mike Kelley and Bliss were each four for four in the final period.

Cass City had three players in double figures led by Bliss with 18 points. Beecher and Miller each netted 11.

For the Hatchets, Brian Wardhammar netted 17 while Rick Mason chipped in 14 points and John Martin, 12.

Toxic waste causes illness

According to a Boston University scientist, there's mounting evidence that toxic waste dumps cause illness among people living nearby, reports the National Wildlife Federation. Dr. David Ozonoff found an increased incidence of nausea, fatigue, respiratory problems and headaches among residents living near a once highly toxic dump site two years after its chemical wastes had been removed.

State budget surplus to exceed $282 million

State budget officials have reported that the 1983-84 fiscal year surplus is $282.6 million, slightly higher than they had been estimating but considerably less than the prediction of the Senate Fiscal Agency, which was cited by some Republicans pushing earlier tax cuts.

The report also showed that a one-time $800 million debt that had been hidden in accounting procedures had been reduced to just 3.8 million as of Sept. 30. Management and Budget Director Robert Naftaly called the surplus (up from DMB's last estimate of $266.5 million, but down from the $330 million projected by the Senate agency) a "technical fund balance (which) does not provide a total picture of Michigan's financial situation."

He said the surplus is needed to help provide the required $387 million deposit this year into the budget stabilization fund and to cover $137.7 million lost by moving an income tax cut up to Sept. 1. It originally was not scheduled to take effect until Jan. 1, 1985.

The report estimated the surplus at the end of the current year, Sept. 30, 1985, at a negligible $1.5 million, while SFA director Ted Ferris is still projecting a balance in the range of $200 million.

Ferris said the 1983-84 surplus was lower than his agency's estimate because lapses by agencies back to the general fund were only $72 million instead of the $121 million SFA estimate and the projected $63 million profit from state liquor operations was $22 million due to earlier payment of bills.

Ferris added he is awaiting a detailed look at the preliminary statement, but said one reason for lower lapses was $20 million in overspending by the Department of Social Services, which will have to be covered with supplemental appropriations this year, instead of an expected $10 million lapse.

"It is not clear that the departments did as good a job as they could have in staying within appropriations," Ferris said and noted they would be reviewing, in particular, the reasons for the DSS spending.

Governor James Blanchard said the improved financial condition compared to the $1.7 billion in debts in 1983, due to both a budget deficit and accumulated debts, represents historic progress and demonstrates that "through constant vigilance and unprecedented budget restraint, Michigan's government has become a model of financial discipline and responsibility."

Naftaly said a year from now, the state will be able to conform to accepted accounting procedures and then the financial statement will reflect a true condition.

A portion of the cigarette tax and a .25 percent income tax levy will continue to be collected over that time until a fund devoted to correcting accounting procedures has enough to properly reflect about $750 million in annual income tax collections.

The report showed the fund still about $63.8 million in the red as of September 30, but with the two taxes producing about $25 million a month, Ferris said as of

Gorilla dating

Gorilla "dating" behavior is quite complex, says National Wildlife magazine. Typically the female gorilla approaches a male with eyes averted, hand extended and palm down. The male gorilla approaches sex with a stiff-legged walk, some playful wrestling and brief, but frequently interrupted, clinches.

By Bill Myers Taking stock

I'm a sucker for gadgets. I keep some of the mail-order companies in business, and the ones I don't order from, I keep the printers in business — making catalogs for me.

Somehow, the personal household computer makers haven't hooked me yet. I've stopped at booths at the shows, I've asked the people at Radio Shack what the things will do for me. All I get is catch-all answers: "Why they'll do your household budget, they'll figure out mortgage payments, they'll balance your checking account, they'll keep track of your investments..."

Now we don't have a budget. We try not to be wasteful, we keep our cars for several years, and we take care of things. We live well but within our income. A computer isn't going to change our way of life.

Mortgage payments? We don't have any, as renters. If there were payments to be considered, the bank has a little booklet with them all figured out, for various rates and periods.

Balance a checking account? Why, that's just adding and subtracting. Just between you and me, I don't balance a checking account. I run through the canceled checks to see if any have been forged. I check the enclosed magnetic numbers at the lower right corner with the amount of the check I have written. I do the same with deposit slips. Then I count the number of checks and deposit slips and see if the total agrees with the statement.

Checks not yet returned?

The Chronicle

That's too much trouble. If it is the middle of the month and I wonder what the balance is, I call up the bank. All very sloppy, and I should be ashamed.

The Detroit News has a regular "Computer Column," to show how much interest there is in the contraptions. It should have convinced me to run down and buy one of the things, but it didn't.

The author was describing a new publication, called Financial Cookbook, which for $50 gives you 32 recipes for solving financial problems.

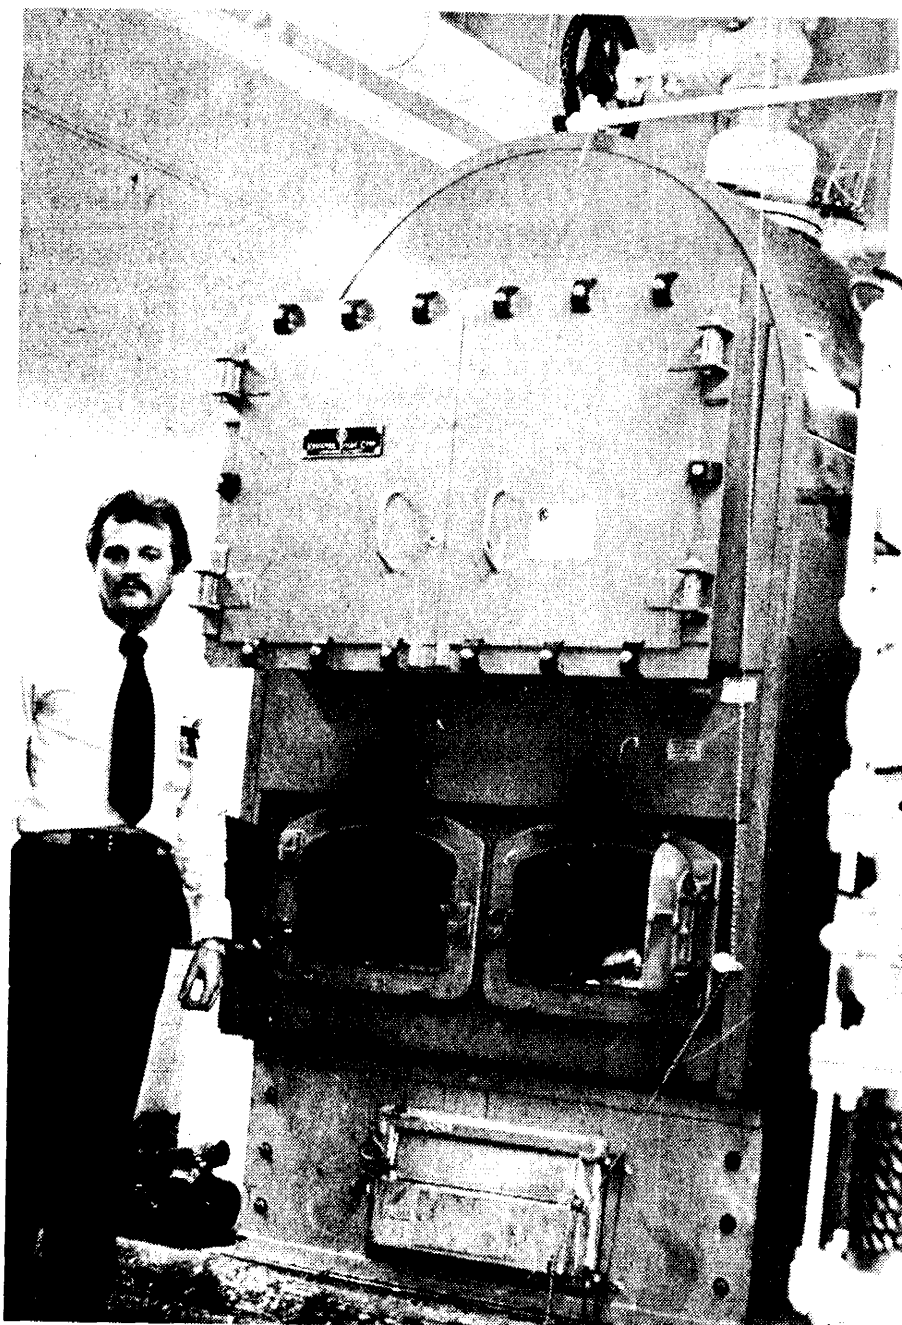

For example: Suppose you want to buy a piano four years from now and need to figure out how much to set aside periodically. So you enter a few figures in the computer, the cost, number of years before buying and the interest rate you'll earn while waiting. Then it will tell you how much to save each month. You can even crank in what the inflation rate will be in the meantime and it will adjust the monthly amount to save.

Great. The inflation rate has varied from 13 percent to 4 percent in the last four years. What rate will you enter for the next four?

Interest rates have run from 10 to 20 percent from 1980 to 1984. What number will prevail from 1984 to 1988? When you figure it out, let me know, and I will send you a valuable prize.

Just assuming you know how much the piano will cost in 1988 and what your money market fund deposits will earn you, the monthly amount to set aside is not hard to figure, and you don't need a $50 Financial Cookbook to tell you how, nor a $2500 home computer to do the job. I have a little Texas Instrument calculator, the MBA model (costs maybe $50) and it does all these problems, including compound interest, mortgage payments with different rates, and that kind of stuff.

I'm still waiting to be shown some real practical use of a home computer, something that can't be done with a simple calculator or even an adding machine. Until then, I consider them amusements, and expensive ones at that.

WOOD HEAT - Camp Tuscola Supervisor Michael Flintoft examines the wood burning boiler that will supply the prison with heat and hot water. Wood for the boiler will be cut by prisoners.

Two area auto rollovers reported

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department responded to two vehicle rollovers in the Cass City area last week. Both rollovers were caused by snow and ice conditions on Cemetery Road.

Deputy Wayne Newton reported that a vehicle driven by Ronald E. Voss II, 18, 1860 Crawford Rd., Deford, was southbound on Cemetery Road when he lost control of the vehicle on the snow and ice covered road. According to the report, Voss was passing another vehicle when the vehicle rolled over into the ditch on the south side of the road. Voss was issued a citation for violation of the basic speed law. He sought his own treatment after the Jan. 5, 8:30 p.m. accident.

Deputy James Compo reported that a vehicle driven by Erick A. Richards, 25, 151 Watkins Place, Bad Axe, was northbound on Cemetery Road, near Voss Road, when he lost control of the vehicle on the slush covered road. The vehicle rolled over into the ditch, and landed back on its wheels. Richards was not injured in the accident. He was wearing a seat belt. The accident happened Jan. 4 at 10:45 p.m.

Deputy Patrick Finn reported that a vehicle driven by Michael J. Fields, 25, 3651 Phillips Rd., Cass City, was westbound on East Decker Rd., about three-quarters of a mile east of Plain Road when he struck a deer Jan. 5 at 9:45 p.m. Fields was not injured in the accident.

Deputy Curtis Chambers reported that a vehicle driven by Ronald S. Karr, 19, 3508 Cemetery Rd., Cass City, struck a deer Jan. 6 at 12:30 p.m. According to the report, Karr was northbound on Cemetery Road, about one-quarter of a mile north of Kelly Road when the accident happened. Karr was not injured in the accident.

Prisoners meet security standards

Continued from page one. jects that will benefit the general public. They are allowed to work only for a public municipality. The municipality will pay each worker $2.50 per day for his labor. The foreman of the crew will receive his wages from the state.

Flintoft explained that it is against prison rules for an inmate to have money in his possession. Workers receive tokens instead of cash. The tokens are used to purchase cigarettes, candy bars and other personal items from the prison store.

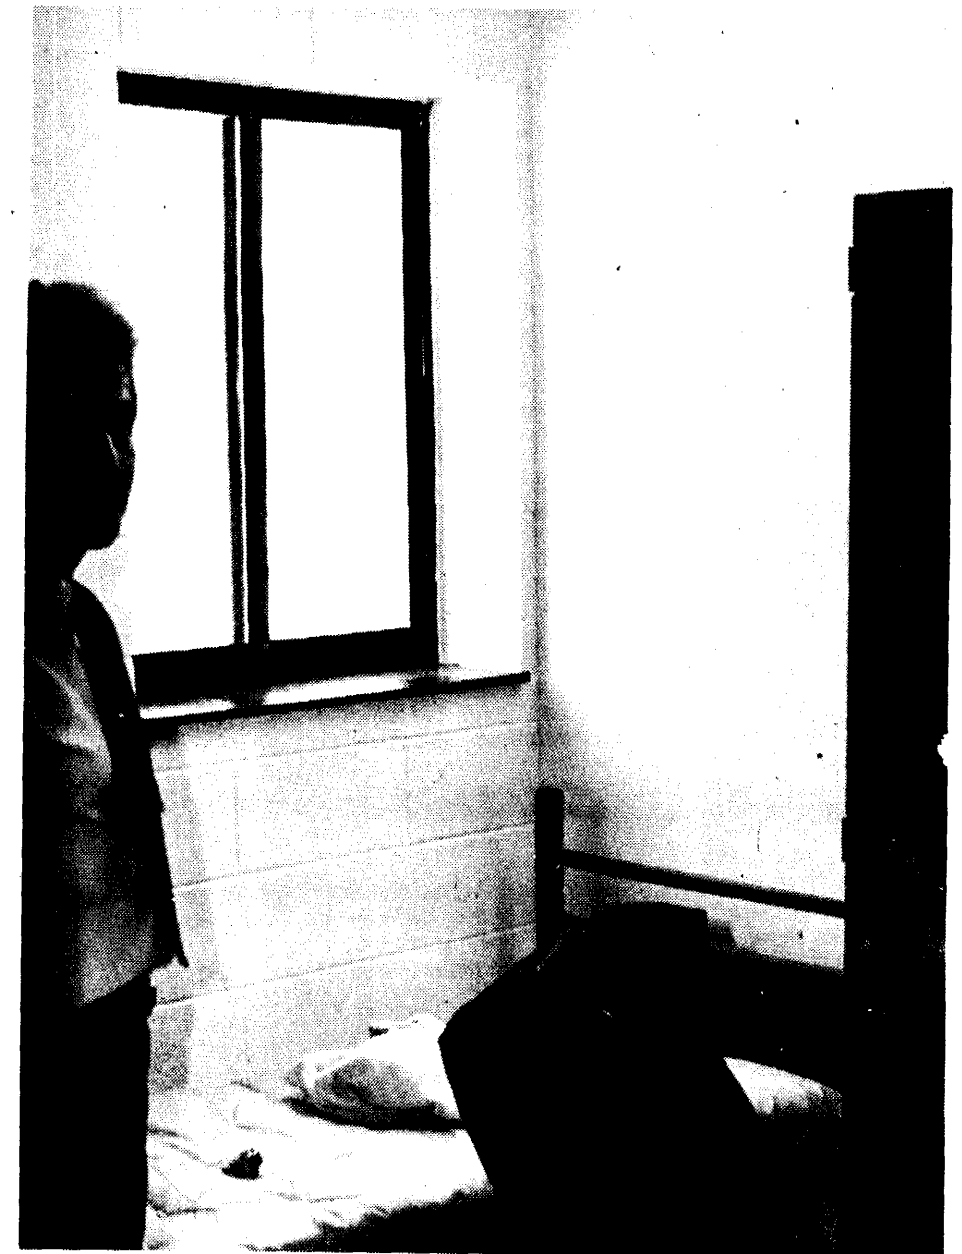

Flintoft said that the prison work force may be hired by a public municipality, as long as the local government board does not have money to hire a local labor force or union workers to do the job.

In the spring, workers will begin working in the state owned parks within a 40 mile radius of the prison.

The new prison has single rooms built around a centrally located gymnasium that is also used as a cafeteria. It has a classroom where inmates may take classes to complete their high school education. Another feature is the wood burning boiler that heats and supplies the water to the prison. Presently, the wood being used has been furnished by prisoners at a minimum security prison in the upper peninsula. Flintoft said that next year, the prisoners from Camp Tuscola will cut the wood needed to heat the structure.

In addition to offering therapy classes for alcohol and substance abuse, Flintoft hopes to get community members involved in forming clubs. He explained that in Jackson Prison they had a Gavel Club, and a Jaycee Club for inmates.

PRISONER'S ROOM - Camp Tuscola, Cottage Four, offers inmates a single occupancy room.
