Fire razes home

The trailer home of the Ronald Grifkas on Wheeler Road, Ubly, was completely destroyed by fire

Tuesday evening.

The fire was discovered by Pat Grifka, a neighbor, at about 7 p.m. The Ubly fire Department, assisted by the Elkland Township Fire Department, battled the blaze to keep it confined to the trailer.

There was no one in the home when the fire was discovered.

When neighbors arrived to help, the doors were hot and there was just a little smoke visible. After the door was opened smoke poured out and it was impossible to enter.

The entire contents of the trailer were lost.

The home was located just off Bay City-Forestville Road, six miles east of M-53. By the time the Elkland Fire Department fire fighters arrived. the trailer was already half burned and flames were shooting 20 feet into the

A ea residents fight proposed new apartments

Two Cass City residents told the Cass City Village Council Tuesday night at its regular meeting that they didn't want a housing complex built on property next to their homes.

The proposed construc-tion would be by a Frankenmuth building concern.

Bob Rice from Crest Realty, Frankenmuth, representing Bavarian Builders, Frankenmuth, addressed the council on renewing a purchase agreement with the council. The option that was approved last year was to purchase six acres of village owned property, south of Garfield Street, for $48,000. The property is adjacent to the south and west property line of the senior citizen complex under construction at the south end of Woodland Street.

When the village entered into the purchase agreement with Bavarian Builders last year, the property for the senior citizen complex had not been sold. The construction firm paid $500 to the village for the oneyear contract.

Rice explained that if an agreement reached with the village, and if funding from the Farm Home Administration could be obtained, their plans are to build a 16-unit apartment complex on the Annual audit OKs village finances

lage finances for 1984.

The audit, presented Tuesday night to the village council by Gary A. Keller of the certified public accounting firm of Yeo and Yeo, Marlette, showed village revenues at about $1.2 million, with expenditures slightly less. General fund revenues

Cass City received a increased from $487,006 in clean bill of health on villers from $528,737 in 1984. Total expenditures increased from $497,184 for 1983, to $511,381 during 1984. Property tax revenues for 1984 were $281,181, down from 1983, when the village received $288,345.

The loss of property tax revenues was recovered from state shared revenues, and the sale of village owned property. The village received $144,224 in state revenues during 1984, an increase of $14,797 over 1983's level. The sale of three acres of village owned property to Rural Housing Corporation, East Lansing, for a senior citizens' housing complex netted the village $24,000. This increased the sale of village assets from $1,052 for 1983, to $25,615 for 1984.

The village ended 1984 with a general fund balance of $185,592. At the end of 1983, the village had a fund balance of $164,647.

'You are in a very solvent position," Keller told the council members.

OTHER BUSINESS

A public hearing on the Community Recreation Plan was held at 7:00 p.m. There was no public participation.

Trustees approved a request from Village Superintendent Lou S. LaPonsie to have aerial photos of the village taken. The photos would be scaled to equal a transparent base map overlay, that would show all of the taxing units in the village. LaPonsie explained the map would be an asset for the planning commis-sion, and for all other village related issues, because at a glance, it would show how areas are zoned, and where vacant lots are located in the village. The cost of the photos, and the transparent overlay is about $2,100. It will be prepared by Boldt, McLeod and Johnson, Inc., Consulting Engineers, Port Huron.

By Jim Fitzgerald

This is a hospital drama. 'We need to spend some time together," I told my

I've always wanted to tell her that. Romantic couples on TV and in the movies have been saying that to each other forever. It bothers me that I so seldom find the opportunity to say the wise things that, according to modern legend, an intelligent husband should say when faced with a problem that can't be solved without the loving cooperation of his

My problem was the surgery performed on my back. Let me tell you about my operation, please. It is something I've never been able to do before. Dozens of boring people have told me about their operations but, despite 58 years of dedicated dissipating, I never had an operation to bore you about until two weeks ago.

operation, but I figured the mention the drop in medical hospital really needed the business. Currently, there are more hospital beds and equipment than there are sick people to pay for them. Ordinarily, I would worry about this as much as I'd worry about morticians running short of corpses. If hospitals are going broke, that means good health is on the rise, which is good news, isn't it? What do they want to do, bring back TB?

I wasn't influenced by hospital advertisements on TV and the sides of buses, begging me to get hit by a truck and move in. It is a waste of money - usually taxpayers' money — to build a hospital on every corner just so the patients will always match and not be strangers to each other. My usual reaction is to advise the hucksters to convert empty hospital rooms into prison cells, or tourist rooms, and thank God for the I didn't really need the drop in sick people, not to

But then I read that some hospitals are so hard up for income they're selling takeout dinners. I've never been overnight hospital patient, but many members of my family have, so I've eaten lots of hospital food. Taking hospital food home to eat is as smart as taking dancing lessons from a turtle. I figured if hospitals were financially desperate enough to export their worst product, the least I could do was finally have surgery in

I was only an outpatient, but the afternoon's bill was around $1,600, so I figure I've done my part to keep Henry Ford Hospital from opening a take-out window, and its interns from delivering piz-

A small skin tumor was removed from by back. It probably could have remained unexcised for many years without causing any harm, but I didn't want to wait too long. I didn't want to wake up some day to discover that the hospital would launder my shirts and Blue Cross would pay for it.
In fact, now that it's gone, the tumor is more trouble than when it was here. That's because the surgery required 25 stitches, the wound must be cleaned and dressed daily for several weeks, and it's in the middle of my back where I can't possibly reach it.

So finally there was a reason to use my favorite movie-TV cliche. "We need spend some time together," I told my wife. "Every morning in the bathroom, with peroxide, salve, swabs, gauze and

After one look at the wound, she used another cliche. "I need some time by myself," she said.

Have you ever seen a hospital drama in which the hero put on his own bandage by sticking it to a wall mirror and then walking backward swiftly into the mirror? It would be easier to order a pizza every morning and hope that the delivery man is a hospital intern.

Remember last fall when workers were busy patching holes in the road on M-81 between Caro and Cass City

If you've been over that road recently you know that it was a waste of time and money. The road has more potholes today than it did before repairs were made last fall.

Another road where the holes are ready to ruin a tire is M-25, leading into Bay City.

Which is worse? It's a standoff. When on M-25 I positively know that it must be the worst there is. When on M-81 I know that I was wrong feeling that M-25 is as bad.

Russ Richards and his wife, Harriet, have both been selected to work in the finals of the state volleyball tourney

But this year will be a first. They will be working a final game together, the first man and wife team to do so. The Richards will work the Class D finals in the afternoon, March 16, at East Kentwood High School and the Class A finals at 5:30 p.m. It's really a thrill for us to do it together, Russ Richards Idle thought. Do you suppose those Cass Cityans in Florida enjoy those 75 degree days as much as we did that balmy 55 degree sunny day early this week? Of course not. Too much of a good thing can spoil anyone.

Taxpayers in the Owen-Gage School District could be forgiven if they wonder just what is going on.

The school board made an abrupt withdrawal of its petition to have the "Goslin" property transferred back to the district from Cass City without explanation. Electors deserve better than that.

By the time you read this the Cass City Village Council will have received a proposal from the Cass City Development Corporation to take over property it owns in the industrial park.

Officers of the corporation feel that it no longer can finance the development of the property, and have offered to sell the 21 acres for about $38,000 over a 10-year period. Twenty-five years or so ago when the corporation was formed, there would have been instant aversion to using taxpayers' money for a project like this. Perhaps that's why we didn't. But that was 25 years ago. Conditions change. Today government on every level is involved in promoting industry. For instance, General Motors has received offers of aid from 25 states to build the new Saturn plant in their locality.

Today every small town is more dependent than ever on industrial payrolls. As farms grow larger, customers from the country grow fewer.

Where would Cass City be without the jobs that industry provides?

One Cass Cityan close to the industrial development scene is really pessimistic about the chances of Cass City securing more indus-

What does Cass City have that makes it better than other towns?, he asks.

Certainly our schools, recreational park, hospital care and subdivisions rank up there as good as or better than the rest.

But compared to county seats, we lag in larger retail stores and restaurants, especially the popular fast food variety.

In the fierce competition for industry that means jobs and survival, concessions must be made.

The village is in a better position to do it than the Industrial Development Corporation. A new plant will benefit every taxpayer. Meanwhile, that land that the village would own will probably increase in value over the years.

The advantages to the taxpayer in the proposal outweigh the disadvan-

Government laws show value conflict

Editor, The Chronicle, Your cartoon on Michigan's new seat belt law was amusing on first glance. On second glance the true message is overwhelmingly sad. The Governor of our state is obviously con-cerned enough about death and injury of our citizens from auto accidents to enforce the use of the unpopular seat belt. Yet, according to news accounts he is again planning to veto a bill that would prevent the mutilation and inhuman death of twenty thousand Michigan children this year by Medicaid abortion. Evidently, Mr. Blanchard feels a Michigan citizen cannot make a choice on wearing a seat belt while driving but

This conflict of values is confusing until considering that while auto accidents do have an economic value, abortion is actually big business. Once anything becomes big business in America, it's here to stay regardless of its impact on humanity. When you also consider the half million deaths a year from the tobacco industry and the epidemic of child exploitation and abuse, teen suicide and family violence from our loss of reverence for human life, it's easy to see that our democracy is kil-

No injuries in minor accidents

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department reported there were no injuries in a two vehicle accident on Cemetery Road, north of Cass City, Feb. 20 at 8:35 a.m.

Deputy James Fyvie reported that a vehicle driven by Marie B. Lowe, 27, 4167 Maple Circle Dr., Cass City, was struck by a vehicle driven by Jerry N. Morse, 40, 10395 Lewis Rd., Clio. Lowe was northbound on Cemetery Road, when she swerved into a snowbank to avoid striking a vehicle that was stuck in the snow. According to the report, the stuck vehicle, driven by Irene M. Franks, 5464 Cemetery Rd., Cass City, was stuck at the end of her driveway. One-half of the vehicle was in the northbound lane of Cemetery Road.

Lowe told Deputy Fyvie that she attempted to stop the vehicle on the ice covered road, but was unable to. She elected to go into the snowbank on the right shoulder of the road, instead of striking the Franks vehicle. Against the Ubly Bearcats Owen-Gage, led by Stu Stirrett's 10 point attack in the first quarter, took a commanding 19-12 lead. In the first period they were ahead by nine points.

In the second period the Bearcats outscored the Bulldogs 21-11 to go on top at halftime 33-30.

The Bulldogs' downfall came in the final period, when Ubly outscored them

Coach Dean Roller said that in the fourth quarter The Bulldogs went for five minutes without scoring. He explained that their shooting just went cold. "I can't believe that their defense was that good," Roller added.

The Bulldogs hit 10 of 19 from the free throw line, and 20 of 56 from the floor. Roller said that they were unable to rebound against Ubly. The Bearcats had 78 shots from the floor during publican, Bay City, told school officials and school board members Monday at a legislative breakfast at Wildwood Farms that he is in favor of amending the law requiring cancelled school days to be made up after the conclusion of the regular school year.

Barcia and Rep. Dick Allen, Republican, Fairgrove, attended the breakfast to clue in school personnel from Huron and Tuscola Counties about activities concerning schools.

In his talk to the group, Barcia said that he has found that teachers, parents and students just don't want school in the middle or latter part of Everyone is tired and it's doubtful how much is learned, he said. Barcia said that perhaps a few days could be allowed for school missed because of 'acts of God" and school could be held on Saturdays to meet the requirement by the state for 180 days of classes.

Allen, a member of the appropriations committee, discussed financial help to schools. He said that a tax rollback is almost sure and the amount of money available to school districts would be influenced by the cluded bonding of a district to remove asbestos from school buildings and a bill allowing school personnel to retire after 30 years' service regardless of age.

Although not directly connected with schools, one of the topics of most interest to the group appeared to be Barcia's talk about the new Saturn plant by planned General Motors.

Obviously the tax money generated by the new plant would be of great benefit to Michigan schools as well as the general economy, Barcia said, but he is pessimistic about chances of it locating in the state.

His prediction is that it will be somewhere in the west which is where foreign made small cars have the biggest impact.

Announce 11-bill package for sentencing guidelines

House Speaker Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) recently announced details of an 11-bill package aimed at cutting crime by improving sentencing guidelines, permitting restitution to victims and limiting the time a prisoner can cut from a sentence under the emergency powers act.

He said the package provided "safeguards" for society and crime victims and added the package could force the state to plan for more prison construction than the six new facilities already under considerarequire pre-sentence reports to include information about specific suffer-ing of the victim; permit local prosecutors and the attorney general's office to bring forfeiture actions against any profits criminals may have earned and place those in state and local general funds; permit courts to sentence juveniles to perform community service or make restitution to victims; establish a broader definition of restitution, and create a community corrections program to allow non-violent, low-risk criminals sentencing alternatives other than prison.

Owen said he expected the package would result in a larger prison population than is currently contemplated by state officials.

He said he anticipates the Department of Corrections will plan their prison construction needs accordingly and the Legislature construct and convert current facilities into the necessary prison facilities

WOMEN'S MEETING

RLDS Church Women's Group met Thursday, Feb. 21, at the annex for a workday. A soup luncheon was served at noon. Happy birthday was sung to Marion Dorman.

At 10 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Velma Cleland, women's leader. The workshop was in charge of Janice Smith. The lesson was by Marguerite Krause. Velma Cleland told about her recent trip to England and Scotland. An invitation was received from the Sandusky ladies to be their guests March 21.

Secretary's and treasurer's reports were given by Marie Meredith and the friendly visitor report was presented by Mrs. Krause. The next meeting will be March 21 for a noon luncheon with Janice Smith.

The RLDS Church postponed family night will be held . Friday evening, March 1. A potluck supper will be served at 7:30 p.m. in the annex. The entertainment will be in charge of Jeff and Paula Papp.

WOMEN COMING OF AGE by Jane Fonda (non-fiction) At age 46, Jane Fonda has discovered the pangs and pleasures of middle age. She shares her revelations can successful aging in this latest workout/advice book. Fon da discusses the special health and beauty concerns of the maturing body with particular emphasis on menopause. She provides good coverage of such important issues as osteoporosis (bone loss), estrogen therapy, skin care, and proper nutrition for a long and healthy life. Throughout, the remedy prescribed usually includes exercise.

GLITZ by Elmore Leonard (fiction). Detective Vincent Mora is a kind of staunch, likable hero, the scourge c. crooks but vulnerable to decent folk, especially victims. On leave in Puerto Rico, Mora realizes that Teddy Magyk, a psychotic ex-con, is tailing him with murder in mind, revenge for the prison conviction resulting from the detective's testimony against him. Mora is, however, more interested in pretty Iris Ruiz, whom he tries to convince not to fly to Atlantic City to work as a "hostess" at a casino-hotel. She goes anyway, and Magyk is on the same plane with a better idea of how to do away with Mora on his own home ground. Setting a trap for Iris, Magyk throws her from a high window and arranges to bring Mora to investigate her death. The detective arrives at the gambling mecca and goes about solving the case by thrusting himself into the world of con men, hired killers and high rollers with fortunes and reputations at stake. Meantime Mora is the stalker stalked, seemingly destined to be blown away by Magyk, a situation that isn't settled until the last minute in this story.

FAMILY ALBUM by Danielle Steel (fiction). Fame, fate and enduring marital love loom large in this novel, tracing the 40-year union of astonishingly beautiful and talented movie star Fav Price and playbov/shipping heir Ward Thayer. The story begins with Fay's interment at Fores' Lawn, a major media event, and then flashes back to the duo's first encounter in, of all places, the sweaty jungles of Guadalcanal in 1943. Their love was meant to be. After V-J day, Fay and Ward meet again in Hollywood and the rest is history, breathlessly recounted. It's the stuff of melodrama over the decades, what with the vicissitudes of Hollywood life and the growing pains of the Thayers' five children, but Fay hangs tough. Indomitable, she becomes "the most important female (film) director in the world" and dies quietly in her sleep in a villa at Cap Ferrat.

4-H and FFA members can raise pheasant chicks

pheasant population in Michigan by participating in the 4-H Pheasant Habitat

The program is a joint effort of the Michigan 4-H Youth Program and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. 4-H and FFA members can receive 10 to 35 pheasant chicks from the DNR between May 14 and June 15. The chicks are raised by the members for 12 weeks on at least three acres of grassy, brush or weedy habitats and then are released.

The project has two purposes, says Glenn Dudderar, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service wildlife specialist and project coordinator.

"The pheasants have a better survival rate when they are raised in natural habitats rather than in a hatchery," Dudderar says.

Young people can help in-crease the threatened firsthand about pheasant rearing and habitat."

The pheasant population is declining in Michigan and other Midwestern states because of the increase in cash crop farming, which is reducing the amount of grassy and brush areas necessary for pheasant sur-

Members and leaders who sign up for the program will receive training in pheasant husbandry, 10 pounds of starter food for the chicks and members' and leaders' guides to assist them in successfully completing the project.

4-H and FFA members who would like to participate in the 4-H Pheasant Habitat Program should contact their county Cooperative Extension Service office, listed in the phone book under their county name. The deadline for registration is March 15.

IN LOVING memory of my husband who passed away three years ago March 6. Yes; missed and lonely as the days pass by, but the good book tells us we'll meet again if we know the Lord as our personal Savior. What a wonderful reunion when God's family all gets home, which strengthens us to press on to the mark of the high calling which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Lena Patch and family.

New regulations designed to aid farm financing

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is making changes in its regulations to encourage commercial lenders to help their farm borrowers, who are having economic problems, by taking advantage of the FmHA's debt adjustment program, according to Henry L. Knier Jr., County Supervisor.

The debt adjustment program is part of the Farm Credit Initiatives announced by President Reagan last September. It is designed to help banks and other lenders reduce the amount of loan

The program allows FmHA to guarantee a portion of farm loans owed to banks and other lenders under certain conditions. FmHA agrees to make up part of the loss to the lender if the borrower defaults. See lower dairy prices this year

Kirkpatrick explained that the Reagan administration has proposed eliminating the dairy price support program for the 1985 farm bill. Instead of a price support program, the government has proposed establishing a target price for milk that would be based on 85 percent of the average price paid to farmers over the last three years. During the next two years, the target price would be reduced five percent each year. The administration's proposal would cap the maximum amount paid to a farmer at $10,000 per year.

"In my opinion, this is not a good proposal," he said. "For one thing, to cap payments at $10,000 per farm does not limit production. It has a tendency to shift the majority of the pay-ment to the small producer. He presented a study from the National Milk Producers Federation that showed that without price supports, milk prices on a free market system would drop to an estimated $9 to $9.50 per cwt. The price would remain there for a minimum of two years before the market is put into

"In my opinion, the dairy industry can't stand that. Dairy farmers can't stand that, and it would throw the dairy industry into chaos,' he said. "I also believe it is not going to happen. I believe that the dairy industry, unified behind one program, can be successful in overcoming the recommendations of the administration to eliminate the program. Kirkpatrick pointed out that by reducing the price to $9.50 per cwt., the government would force many dairy farmers out of business. The government's plan would overcorrect for the problem, and the remaining dairy farmers would not be able to meet the demands of the country.

"I can't produce $9.50 milk. There is no way. I think there are darn few of you in here that can," he told the dairymen at the meeting.

"If we overcorrect in the dairy industry, if we cut our producing facilities down below the demand in this country, the simple answer to solve the problem is to allow more imports to come into this country," he explained. "They are certainly sitting over in Europe full of dairy products to export." Kirkpatrick feels that this would continue to depress the in-

The support price would be based on the cost of production, modified by a consumer price index. The price would also be adjusted by an efficiency price adjustment, so as the industry became more efficient, the support level would be reduced. The support price would also be adjusted by the government's purchase of surplus commodities. Under this proposal, the support price is expected to be $11.60 to $11.80 per cwt. Presently

"The rate for your mortgage will be 14 percent plus 3 points.

Somehow it eases the pain when the bank, savings and loan or mortgage company tells you that. You pay points, but it doesn't sound like dollars.

Actually, the mortgage is costing you nearly 14.5 per-

On a 14 percent 30-year $100,000 mortgage the monthly payment will be $1185 (less a few pennies).

What do "three points" cost you, when we translate the term into cold, hard dollars? Look at it this way:

You come into the lender's office for the final wrap-up. You've been promised $100,000 and you and your spouse sign the mortgage and are ready to get a bank money order. Now for the little detail of "points."

Three points on $100,000 is $3,000. It's three percent, in other words. So you fork over $3,000. (Actually the script might vary a little, but the result is the same. You lay out $3,000 for the privilege of borrowing $100,000.

So you go out of the bank with a net of $97,000, but you've mortgaged or obligated yourself to pay back $100,000.

"But I already had the $3,000," protests my charming friend, Jennifer Birdsong, who doesn't believe everything I say. "If that old bank didn't charge you three points," I explain, "you only would have had to borrow $3,000. But they were ready to give me $100,000. And I was mine. It didn't cost me O.K. Then take the $100,000 mortgage, and put your $3,000 money back into that telephone bond I told you to get long ago, and get 14 percent on it. You're paying 14 percent on the mortgage and you're getting 14 percent on the bond — or you would if you didn't have to cash it in to pay those three points."

While Jennifer was mulling that over, I pecked out on the adding machine what the payments would be to replace that $3,000 cashedin bond over 30 years. It came to $35.50 a month.

Let's go back to the original $100,000 mortgage: The monthly payment is Now to get enough to replace the $3,000 bond you cashed in, monthly payments for 30 years:

Cost of points: $35.50. Total monthly cost of borrowing: $1220.50.

'That's 103/100ths of the basic cost (without points) of $1185 a month," I told Jei.

"But I didn't have any bond," she said. "I had the money in a savings account. All I was getting was 5 per-

"Then look at it this way. Just before you come into the bank, your lottery ticket came up, and you got $3,000, out of the blue. If you didn't have to pay those "thre points" you could put the $3,000 into those bonds and be getting 14 percent. Or you could have asked for only a $97,000 mortgage, and your payments would have been cut down three percent. Instead of $1185 a month your payments would have been

Milliken endorses new Great Lake charter

liam Milliken, as chairman of the Center for the Great Lakes, has endorsed a proposed Great Lakes Charter under review by the region's governors.

Milliken called the proposed charter, which provides policies to resist water diversions, a "precedent-setting document.'

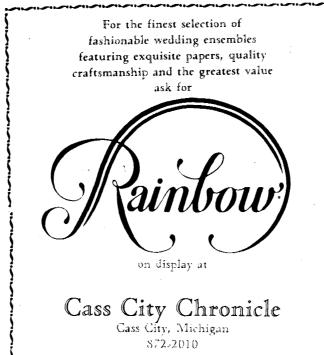

Governor James Blanchard has not yet announced his position on the charter, which has been criticized by groups such as the Michigan United Conservation Clubs as being too weak.

In a letter in support of the charter, Milliken said the proposal marks "the Former Governor Wil- first time ten governments commit to consultation and long-term management on decisions affecting Great Lakes water withdrawals."

It would establish a longterm water resources plan including a policy that no diversions will be allowed if they would have any significant adverse impact on lake levels, in-basin uses and the Great Lakes ecosystem. It would also call for research into the effects of diversions and consumption. The policy is under consideration by the governors of the Great Lakes states and the Canadian provinces of Quebec and Ontario.
