Julie Smith Junior Citizen

Tom Proctor is Citizen of the Year

About 100 area residents came to the Cass City Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet to see Tom Proctor honored as the 1985 Citizen of the Year, and Julie Smith named as Junior Citizen of the Year.

Proctor's award, presented Thursday evening by 1984 Citizens of the Year, Tom Herron and Geraldine Prieskorn, was an early birthday present for Proctor, who celebrated his 49th birthday Sunday.

Proctor, a graduate of Ferris State College, came to Cass City from the Midland area in 1962. He is the owner of the Old Wood Drug Store.

Proctor and his wife Elaine have two children, both graduates of the Cass City school system. Their son Kurt is attending graduate school at the University of Texas, majoring in pharmacy administration. Their daughter Kris, a junior at Central Michigan University, is majoring in retail merchandising.

Proctor has been an active member of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, serving as president and treasurer of the retail division. He has also served as chairman of the Cass City Centennial committee and the Fourth of July Festival committee.

Since its beginning, Proctor has been president of the Hills and Dales General Hospital Medical Clinic Board, working to raise money for building projects and recruiting new doctors to the hospital.

During 1968, as chairman of the United Way Fund Drive, Proctor started the first payroll deduction system for area workers.

As a Rotary Club member, Proctor has twice served as president, and in 1971 was elected a district governor. As governor, he represented Rotary Clubs from 19 area counties.

In 1972 Proctor began a Rotary Youth Exchange program, which has brought 26 students from 17 foreign countries to the Cass City area. Under the program, 24 Cass City High School students have studied in 11 foreign countries.

He also started a Rotary Leadership Training program in 1972, which has provided leadership training to about 1,000 students in the district.

Proctor is presently the Rotary Youth Exchange program's Central States Committee chairman for Scandinavian countries. He has also served as district chairman for Rotary Club Youth Exchanges, and during 1981 he was the international chairman for all Rotary Club Youth Exchange programs.

The district has honored their fellow Rotarian by designating him as a "Paul Harris Fellow," a national recognition.

An active member in the Trinity United Methodist Church, Proctor is a member of the Men's Association and the choir. He also has worked with church youth groups. He is a member of the Tom Thumb Singers.

Proctor has been president of the Thumb Area Pharmacist Association, and is a member of the National Federation of Independent Businessmen.

"I have found working with the young people a very rewarding experience," Proctor said during his acceptance speech. "My love is with this town, and the people in it."

Is certification necessary?

Home classes to test school law

Home schools require a certified teacher. Milano feels this is a direct contrast to the United States Constitution that allows freedom of religion.

Reverend Don Milano is a man who is not going to give up what he believes in just to appease those who are telling him to change. Reverend Milano is a man who believes in God, and that God has shown him a better way to educate his children.

Rev. Milano, pastor of the Unionville United Methodist Church, wants his children to have an education that combines higher learning, and God's principles. His beliefs are now being put to the test in the court system.

For the past year Rev. Milano has been teaching his two children, Tim and Donna, in his Unionville home. The children attended Akron-Fairgrove Schools for one year. Tim is a sixth grade student. Donna is in the third grade. Last fall, when the 1984-85 school year started, Tim and Donna began taking classes at home, under the instruction of their parents.

Rev. Milano explained the children are enrolled in courses offered by the Christian Liberty Academy, a Christian based educational organization in Prospect Heights, IL. The Milano children are taught by their parents, who serve as teacher's aides for the school. The children have textbooks to study. Tests are graded and report cards are issued by the academy.

Rev. Milano pointed out that his children are taking mathematics, science, spelling, English, writing, history and geography courses, the same as offered in a public school.

He explained the difference in the academy education, and what a school system teaches is the books reinforce the existence of God. For example, when a lesson is teaching the student about a mountain range, the book would tell the student that God created the mountains.

"It reinforces our Christian ways," Rev. Milano said. "That is something we want our children to have."

He added that because schools are not allowed to teach students about God, they cannot raise their children the way they want to, when God is restricted from the children while they attend public schools.

Rev. Milano's children attended a Christian school while they lived in Ohio. He was working as a chaplain in a Springfield, Ohio, prison. They moved to the Unionville area about 18 months ago. Because he would have to drive several miles to take his children to a church school, he decided to teach his children at home.

Milano said the reason he is now in court is because the state requires that a home school must have a certified teacher instructing the children. He feels that this is in direct contrast to the United States Constitution that allows freedom of religion.

Ironically, Rev. Milano was a certified Michigan teacher. He taught for 17 years, before quitting to attend a seminary college to become a minister. He taught in the Marlette School District for 12 years.

Milano said that it would be easy for him to be recertified, and meet the state requirements for a home school, but that would be telling the state that it was all right for them to require certification.

"We have taken the position that they do not have that right," Milano said. He pointed out that while certification would be easy for him, other home schools do not have that advantage. They are financially unable to hire a certified instructor.

The question of legality reached the court system Friday, when Rev. Milano was called before Tuscola County Probate Court Judge Wallace Kent. The charges were for child neglect, because he refused to send his children to the public schools.

Milano said the Department of Social Services had requested the children be put under their supervision, and requested a court order be issued to force the children to go to a public or an accredited private school. Milano said he was told if he refused, the children could be placed in a foster home.

Milano said Judge Kent saw no signs of abuse, or neglect, and did not enforce the DSS request. A pre-trial has been set for June 10.

"We want our children to be adequately educated,"

Rev. Milano said. The children attend classes from 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. five days a week, 180-days a year, the same as in public schools. The Christian Liberty Academy presently has more than 10,000 students. It costs the Milanos $200 a year to educate each of their children. He has talked to other families whose children were enrolled in Christian Liberty Academy classes, and some felt the courses were too difficult for their children.

Milano said he doesn't feel that he is a fanatic. "We are doing this because we feel we were called by God, not to be obstinate."

Arrest pair for shooting DNR officer

Two Millington brothers were arrested and charged in the Oct. 24 shooting of Department of Natural Resources Conservation Officer Timothy Burke.

The two brothers, Dale R. Matzke, 19, and Steven J. Matzke, 20, were arrested Monday by Det. Sgt. Dan Miller of the Michigan State Police, Caro post. The arrests were the result of an ongoing investigation.

Dale Matzke, 5438 W. Millington Rd., Millington, has been charged with intent to murder, and a felony firearm charge. He faces a maximum penalty of life in prison for the intent to murder charge. For the felony firearm charge he faces a two-year minimum jail sentence.

Steven Matzke, 9470 Belsay Rd., Millington, has been charged with being an accessory after the fact to a felony. He faces a maximum jail sentence of five years. According to the complaint filed against Steven Matzke, he did harbor, maintain, protect, aid or assist with knowledge that the offender had committed the felony.

The charges stem from the shooting of Officer Burke in rural Juniata

Township. At the time of the shooting, officers Burke and Juris Didrichson were in pursuit of a vehicle allegedly driven by Steven S. Simon, 20, Millington. The officers suspected the vehicle occupants were poaching deer from a wooded area on Hunt Road. During a 10-mile high speed chase down M-46, the vehicle slowed to turn south onto Sheridan Road. As the vehicle was making the turn, a spotlight was shined on the officers' vehicle, and a bullet, fired from a 30.06 deer hunting rifle struck officer Burke in the mouth. Burke was released from St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, four days later.

Simon has been charged with aiding and abetting with intent to commit murder, and a felony firearm charge. A May 28 trial date for Simon was adjourned in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday by Judge Patrick Joslyn. Another trial date has not been set.

The Matzkes will have a pre-trial examination May 17 in Tuscola County District Court. They are presently being held in Tuscola County Jail. Bond has been set at $25,000 on Dale Matzke. Steven Matzke had bond set at $7,500.

When V-E Day announced

World War II veterans tell how it was Forty years ago this week, area residents were caught up in the nationwide celebration of the end of Hitler's quest for world control. For several area residents, Germany's surrender was more than a headline in a local newspaper. It marked the end of a bloody battle across much of Europe. The war was over, and the soldiers were waiting for their trip home.

For many of the soldiers, the trip would be delayed for several months while they worked to stabilize and bring order to a country they had wreaked havoc upon.

For Harrison Stine, 7499 Daus Rd., Cass City, the war ended as his 3rd Armored Division was fighting near the Elbe River, about 35 miles southeast of Berlin. Stine, then Sgt. Stine, was with a front line maintenance division, repairing tanks and trucks to keep them battle ready.

Stine's division was pulled back from the fighting for the last three days of the war. He explained they were stopped to allow infantry divisions to deal the final blow to the Nazi regime.

He added that they had been fighting their way across France, Belgium and much of Germany, and they welcomed the three-day rest. Because his division was so close to the final fighting, when Germany surrendered, they were not allowed too much freedom for celebrations.

For Stine it would be almost five more months before he returned to America. He was preparing to be sent to Japan, but that war ended before he left Europe.

During their march across Germany, Stine's division liberated the Nordhausen concentration camp of Jewish prisoners, and captured American prisoners of war.

"I looked at them and I couldn't believe it, they were so gaunt," Stine said about the starved condition of the prisoners.

Stine feels there is nothing wrong with President Reagan's visit to the German war cemetery. He explained that most German soldiers, like American soldiers, were fighting a war they were ordered to fight for their country.

"There's too much news media on that. I don't know why they built it up like they have," Stine said about the press coverage of Reagan's visit.

For J.E. Smith the war came to an end while he was stationed in Reims, France. He was working on repairing tanks, trucks, and other military equipment.

"We all went out and partied a lot," Smith said about the celebration after the war ended.

Smith, an Army Staff Sgt., was stationed about four blocks from the Little Red School House that housed the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Forces (SHAEP), where General Dwight D. Eisenhower was based.

"One time Ike and his driver came into the shop for repairs on his Cadillac," Smith said. "It was quite an event. Everybody jumped to attention."

It would be almost a year before Smith was discharged from the Army.

During that time he and other soldiers prepared equipment to be taken to the Pacific Theater to fight the Japanese.

Smith was also sent to Strasbourg, France, to watch over German prisoners of war as they disassembled a jet engine factory that was built into the side of a hill.

He explained the entire factory's production parts were disassembled, numbered, and later taken to the United States and put together again. From these parts, America's first jet fighter plane was built.

Bruno Zawilinski spent his first 10 months of overseas duty in the Iranian city of Teheran. He was with the Army transportation corps, delivering weapons to Russian troops.

"I have never seen people live like that," he said about the people living in Teheran. He explained they were misplaced people, who had fled from the war. They didn't wear clothing, just sheets wrapped around them.

Zawilinski arrived in Europe just as the war was ending.

"I tell you, there was a happy bunch," Zawilinski said about his fellow GI's after they found out the war was over. They spent the day drinking strong, warm Please turn to page 20

"If It Fitz...."

Lumpy Coke

By Jim Fitzgerald

Coca-Cola Co. Chairman Roberto Goizueta says new Coke is "smoother, rounder and bolder." What does that mean?

Does it mean old Coke is lumpy, square and bashful? Was the old Coca-Cola chairman named Bob Glutz?

I have a bottle of old Coke in the refrigerator and now I don't want to drink it. I'd feel like a fool. That old Coke was purchased under the assumption that it was it — the finest soft drink available. Now Roberto Goizueta says I should have waited for the new, improved Coke.

I never thought Coca-Cola would do that to me. I am used to new, improved soap, and to the new model car that decreases the value of my year-old car $3,000 overnight. Planned obsolescence has long been a major factor in the success of the American tycoon and the screwing of the American consumer.

But the tycoons who make Coke have always insisted on selling it only to joyous people who sing patriotic songs while standing on a God-kissed mountaintop. The ever-thoughtful Coca-Cola tycoons make sure their customers never have to move more than a few steps to buy a Coke. Before Neil Armstrong left Earth to become the first man on the moon, he checked his pockets to make sure he had change for the Coke machine.

So it is shocking to hear Coca-Cola executives admit that for the past 100 years they could have been selling and advertising — a better drink for loyally singing citizens of the universe. The advertising treachery is what really stings. Since before the invention of neon lights, no product's advertising has been more ubiquitous and persuasive than Coke's. Its sales messages were recognized and believed everywhere. I was born knowing how to refresh a pause.

And now the Coca-Cola chairman says the Coke he advertised last week was lumpy. I can hardly wait for the announcement that John Wayne was a communist spy.

Especially dismaying is Coca-Cola's admission that its new formula was discovered by accident during the development of Diet Coke. That sounds suspiciously like another victory for the physical-fitness nuts.

A sensuously curved, five-cent bottle of ice-cold Coke should refresh the pause a young man takes while mowing the grass on a 90-degree August afternoon. He should get his arm wet to the elbow while fishing the bottle out of the pop cooler in which a 25-pound chunk of ice is melting at the corner gas station. This Coke should be gulped fast enough to make your nose fizz.

Coke shouldn't come in huge plastic containers that can't be drained in one slug. It shouldn't be poured onto ice cubes to be sipped with a salad without breaking your diet or getting you in trouble with Vic Tanny. That is the pause that depresses.

When I was a 14-year-old soda jerk at Barnett's Drugstore in Port Huron, one of my back-room tasks was emptying the barrel of Coca-Cola syrup into gallon jugs that were later emptied into the soda fountain to facilitate the squirry creation of lemon, cherry and chocolate Cokes. It was a slow process and I often left the barrel spigot open while going up front to wait on customers. I knew I would return before the jug overflowed.

One day while mixing a milk shake I noticed something strange — my shoes were sticking to the floor. Much too late, I realized I was way overdue at the Coke barrel. Urged on by a burly pharmacist named Arnold Snyder, I mopped up the mess in only four hours.

It was a lumpy mess. I should have waited for the new, improved Coke, which is smoother.

The Haire Net

I hesitate to tell you about what I was doing when World War II ended in Europe (V-E Day) and when it ended in the Pacific (V-J Day).

But here goes. It's not much of a story but uncounted GI's can relate to it better than stories of the guys you read about each year.

There is little drama and little excitement in the average soldier's career. The vast majority of the time is spent waiting for something to happen, performing inconsequential tasks or devising ways to while away the boring hours.

There's no doubt that stories picked for publication are interesting. Unusual. That's why they are selected.

Soldiers have various ways of breaking the monotony. I was busy using a couple of them when the victories were announced. It was a coincidence that both were only distantly related to my job as a soldier.

When V-E Day was announced I was stretching a three-day pass into five days and spending it in Chicago with Dorothy.

V-E Day provided a mild glow. The job was half done. It was strange to me that the civilians celebrated so hard.

In downtown Chicago all the store windows were boarded in preparation for the celebration. And, remember, this was before rowdy behavior became the norm.

There was true elation when V-J Day was announced. This time I was playing softball at a neighboring air base.

The announcement came by word of mouth and after learning it was true, the softball game stopped right there in the middle of an inning.

Suddenly, the end was in sight. No more wondering how long it might be. It was party time that night. Joy reigned.

It's strange that it happened when I wasn't killing time in the barracks. Or figuring pay vouchers for an officer or GI.

At the time it seemed that was about all that ever happened.

Over the years those hours of frustration fade and the high spots remain. A vacation in Chicago means more when you have spent six months waiting for it to happen. A ball game beats doing nothing in the barracks all hollow.

Truthfully, I never read any of those end of the war stories.

Perhaps I would if subsequent events didn't prove that the time wasted and all the lives lost really didn't change much at all.

Vandal shoots school bus window

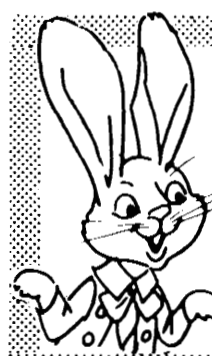

Cass City Police Officer Donald Miller Jr. reported that someone shot a rear window of a Cass City School District bus Monday at 4:15 p.m.

According to the report, the bus was southbound on N. Seeger Street, north of the village limits when the third window from the rear on the driver's side was shot by a BB or pellet gun. Bus driver Daniel McClorey said that he heard the rear window break. It was later determined the window had been shot.

There were no students on the bus at the time the window was shattered. Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson reported that a tree on Cass City High School property was cut down April 25. The tree, planted by the 1984 graduating class, was cut down with a saw.

Sweet apples

There's more sugar in an apple than in a candy bar. An average-size apple contains 14.7 grams of sugar. A one ounce chocolate bar with almonds contains only 14.4 grams.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Dave Erla was elated when he received a call from Hunt Construction the other day informing him that his canoe had been found.

It was lost in the Cass River early this spring just after ice out when it tipped with Erla and a couple of buddies in it. His good "friends" at Hunt's told him that they had it and would drop it off for him.

Along about dusk they did, gently depositing it in the front driveway.

Everything was peaches and cream until daylight the next day. Dave got his boat back, all right, but it was in two pieces carefully joined together to appear intact in bad light.

Lucky me. Just scads of awards come unsolicited across my desk. The latest was a "Winner-gram" from the World Travel Club, Inc. I have been chosen to receive a vacation offer in fabulous Florida, etc.

I was really feeling like one of the chosen few until I noticed that the "signature" on my free offer was printed to look like someone actually took the trouble to sign. At least the computer spewed out my name correctly.

Admittedly, my experience in golf tournaments isn't all that great, but I have been in a few. None are run any better than that run by the Cass City Gavel Club.

It has a well deserved reputation for excellence and the players realize it and most of them mark it as a must event on their golf schedules and return year after year.

So you're having a baby It's a FAMILY AFFAIR at

Hills & Dales General Hospital

Family Centered Maternity Care

Concept of individualized maternity care which offers safe, quality health care while focusing on both the physical and psychosocial needs of the client, newborn and family. This concept is one of flexibility, adaptability and promotion of a fulfilling birthing experience for the new parents.

Birthing Room Available

This is a specially designated room which has been prepared and equipped to allow the mother to labor, deliver and recover in the same room, which provides a home-like atmosphere. The room resembles that of a bedroom with soft blue wallpaper, ruffle bedspread, flower bouquets, wall hangings, stylish curtains and window shades. During the birthing experience you may tape your baby's first cry and all the excitement!! This special gift from us can be cherished forever! "The use of the birthing bed is certainly something we highly recommend. The natural sitting position helps the birth process and enables mom to get a bird's-eye view of a very special event!!" This is just one of the numerous positive comments expressed by our previous clients.

Visitation

Fathers are not considered visitors! They may assist in caring for and feeding their baby in the mother's room. Fathers may visit as desired, providing it does not interfere with mother's care. Sibling visitation: children may visit their mother for a limited length of time and view the new baby in the nursery. Open visitation: anyone over the age of 12 may visit at scheduled times, providing they have no illness. Everyone needs to see that special baby!!

FAMILY CENTERED MATERNITY CARE

Infant/Parental Bonding Encouraged

Bonding is a process by which the human infant becomes attached to the parents. Research informs us how very important it is for mother and newborn to be together as quickly as possible after delivery. This bonding process helps with adjustment to the new and changing world and provides the newborn with a warm, loving and secure foundation in which to grow. A comment from a previous client regarding their recovery period in the birthing room. "I also liked the quiet atmosphere after the ordeal was over. It was just so relaxing to stay there alone with my husband and new baby, it was like being in a bonding session."

Expectant Parent and Sibling Classes

In preparing for the new baby, we offer educational classes for both the parents and siblings (brothers and sisters) of the new baby. Expectant parent classes include male and female anatomy, fetal growth and development, body changes in the expectant mother, nutrition and breast feeding, relaxation exercises, prenatal exercises, breathing techniques, labor and delivery, breathing and relaxation exercises, tour of maternity department, new infant and mother, hospital routines, infant care and family planning and contraception. Sibling classes include slide presentation of fetal development and discussion, movie "Our Family is Changing in a Very Special Way," tour of maternity department and X-ray department, games and craft time with refreshment. It's a time where children can really be a part of the birthing experience.

If your physician is not a member of our Medical Staff but is licensed to practice medicine in the state of Michigan, has obstetrical privileges at another hospital along with demonstrable competencies in complications inherent thereto, then he, or she, may apply for Courtesy Medical Staff Membership and if approved, deliver you at Hills and Dales General Hospital. The choice is yours!

Our Clients with Past Experiences in the Birthing Room tell it all!!

"I loved it!! It was beautiful!" "I was nervous and the birthing room made me feel like I was at home." "The OB staff at Hills and Dales should be proud! They are way above larger hospitals with their insight to create a homey place to have a baby." "The education obtained from the classes gives you a better understanding of the entire birth experience and the birthing room allows a person to utilize their education to its fullest potential. Since you labor and deliver in one room, you can place your entire concentration on the birth of your baby without outside interferences!" "All the nurses have been super, so helpful at all times. I can't believe how they are right there when you need them even during that big snow storm with three of us in labor rooms at the same time! We couldn't be more pleased!"

Our Post-Partum Experience

Besides having our highly trained professional nurses and doctors here to give you special individualized care, we offer a few special touches to make the birth of your baby a memorable event. Candlelight "Dinner for Two" is an intimate dinner to honor your precious new baby. The menu includes choice of wine or juice, choice of steak, fried shrimp, chicken or spare ribs, choice of potato and vegetable, choice of salad, dessert and beverage. We serve this to you by candlelight. Rooming-In can be carried out. This refers to the baby remaining with mom 24 hours a day. It gives you time to get to know your baby and helps you gain the experience and confidence you may feel necessary before being discharged. Call Back: after discharged we encourage you to call back if any problems arise. We keep an open line of communication. We care about you when you're home too!

McLeody Days

By Bill McLeod

Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce annual banquet I was amazed as Geraldine Prieskorn read the list of accomplishments and organizations of the 1985 Citizen of the Year, Tom Proctor.

To me it seems almost impossible that someone as busy as Proctor, the owner of a business, and a family man, could still find time to join an organization, let alone serve as a chairman of several.

I never have been the type of person to volunteer my time to any organizations. Aside from church activities, the closest I have ever come to being involved in an organization was a Tuesday night bowling league. I can't tell you how happy I was to find someone to replace me on the team about half way through the year.

One time, during an artificially induced weakness, I almost joined the National Rodeo Association. The next day I quickly changed my mind.

While I was in college I received a letter from one of those Greek organizations, telling me that I was a member of their fraternity. Since I hadn't applied to be accepted, I never showed up for any meetings.

During my most recent semester of college I was notified that I had been selected to receive an award. My teacher nominated me. Again I didn't know about it until after I had already been selected. I received a form to fill out asking me to list the organizations and community groups that I was involved in. They had room to list about 50. I listed my church. My name and list of accomplishments was supposed to be printed in a book. I have never looked at the book, but I imagine that when compared to other students, my list of organizations is one of the shorter ones.

When I worked for a newspaper in Macomb County, I used to attend the Chamber of Commerce meetings for the paper. Each month, before the meeting, the publisher of the paper used to give me $20 to pay for my meal, and buy drinks for the advertisers. I usually planned it so I bought one of the last rounds, after most of the people had left. I pocketed whatever was left over. I looked at it as one of the fringe benefits of the job.

Early in my newspaper career I often thought I would like to be involved in local government. After seeing people recalled because they took a stand on what they felt was right, I quickly changed my mind.

I will probably spend the rest of my life on the outside, looking at people like Tom Proctor, Geraldine Prieskorn, Tom Herron, and other Citizens of the Year with respect for trying to improve their community. They make living in a community a lot better.

Gagetown woman injured in motorcycle mishap

A 31-year-old Gagetown woman is listed in stable but fair condition at the Hills and Dales General Hospital following an off-road motorcycle accident Sunday at 6:35 p.m.

According to the report, filed by Cass City Police Officer Phillip Klaus, Lynda L. Rocheleau, 4913 Center St., Gagetown, was injured when she rode her motorcycle off an embankment in a wooded area between McAlpine and Rescue Roads, west of M-53.

No further details were available.

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson reported there were no injuries when a car and a school bus collided

Friday at 2:45 p.m.

According to the report, Mary H. Pratt, 44, 7487 Shabbona Rd., Deford, was driving a Cass City School District bus southbound on Seeger Street. She was preparing to make a right turn onto Main Street, but had to wait for a pedestrian to cross in front of the bus. After the pedestrian crossed, Pratt proceeded to make the right turn, and was struck by a vehicle driven by Virginia L. Mills, 16, 3846 Cemetery Rd., Cass City.

The report states that when Pratt began making the turn, she had the green light, but by the time the pedestrian crossed, the light had turned red. Mills was unable to avoid the bus because a Lions Club member was in the middle of the Main Street crosswalk, during white cane sale. There were no citations issued in the accident.

Cass City youth hurt in accident

Tuscola County Sheriff's Department Deputy James Giroux reported a 17-year-old Cass City youth was treated and released after being injured in a one-car accident Saturday at 1:30 a.m.

Deputy Giroux reported that Jeffrey S. Wallace, 18, 6464 River Rd., Cass City, was eastbound on Elmwood Road, attempting to turn left onto Crawford Road, when he lost control of the vehicle and went into a ditch on the west side of Crawford Road.

A passenger in the Wallace vehicle, Eric H. LaJoie, 6682 Houghton Street, Cass City, was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital by friends.

Wallace was issued a ticket for failure to report an accident.

Deputy Patrick Finn reported that Timothy E. Good, 31, 7687 Bach Rd., Gagetown, was not injured when his vehicle rolled over April 30 at 12:30 a.m.

Good was eastbound on M-25, and failed to negotiate a curve at the intersection of Old State Road. Good's vehicle rolled over on its side in a swampy area.

Sgt. Thomas Kern reported that Susan L. Hammond, 18, 7014 Kelly Rd., Cass City, was not injured when she struck a deer Saturday at 9:15 p.m.

Hammond was southbound on Cemetery Road, about one-half mile north of Severance Road when she struck the deer.

Dana Laurie pitched a no-hitter Tuesday afternoon as she guided Owen-Gage to a 10-0 softball win over visiting Carsonville-Port Sanilac. She struck out five and walked three. Becky Howard clobbered a triple and home run for the winners. Carol Goslin and Julie Andrakowicz each hit three singles.

Back in the news again is Dick Szarapski. Nearly every year this veteran angler comes up with a trophy-sized fish. This year's catch is a steelhead trout weighing just under 15 pounds, and was caught in the surf off Thompson Creek in the Upper Peninsula.

Loss was estimated at $32,000 in a fire that destroyed a storage building and its contents Sunday night. Owner of the building on Robinson Road in Evergreen Township was William Zink.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McComb returned home Sunday from a month's trip to California where they visited their son.

News reports and the state of the economy to the contrary, area dealers report that car sales aren't that bad. It's pickup truck sales that are terrible, and they normally form a big chunk of their business.

Members of the First Presbyterian Church in Uby celebrated its 100th anniversary Sunday. The church's centennial committee consisted of Elsie Scott, chairman, and Ethel Ross, Vera Bensinger, Josepha Lenton and Murray Hagen. Slate Farm Bureau Speak Up meet

The Michigan Farm Bureau board is in the process of preparing a five-year plan of action and is seeking input from members and employees. Four "Speak Up" meetings have been scheduled around the state the week of June 17.

TUSCOLA COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
These are condensed minutes approved for publication by your Tuscola County Board of Commissioners. The full official text of this summary of board proceedings may be examined at the office of the County Clerk during regular business hours.

April 30, 1985
Special meeting of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners was opened by Chairman Donna Rayl. Roll call found 5 members present and 2 members absent. There were seven township supervisors in attendance. The special order of the day was the hearing of the Equalization Report. The 1985 equalization report was presented and approved. Meeting adjourned.

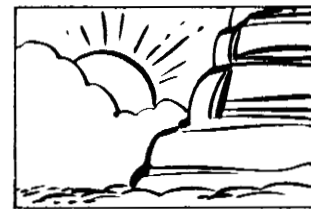

Suggestions and comments from members at these meetings and the 13-member Long-Range Planning Committee that is analyzing the structure, programs, membership finances and services of the organization, will help the MFB board in setting goals and implementing them.

The "Speak Up" meeting nearest Tuscola County members is Thursday, June 20, at the Holiday Inn, Saginaw. It will begin at 7 p.m. and end promptly at 10 p.m.

"Of course, we'd like good participation from our membership," said Jack Laurie, MFB District VI director. "By inviting members to participate in the development of these goals we hope to stimulate a new sense of 'belonging' to the organization."

The board will meet in July to review results of the meetings and the report from the committee. "The board will then develop specific goals and objectives. We should see the effects of this five-year plan begin to take shape in the 1985-86 program year," Laurie said.

HEALTH TIPS

100 varieties of arthritis afflict 36 million Americans

The world has long admired the paintings of Pierre Renoir. But few people realize that in his later years, Renoir's fingers were so crippled by arthritis that his paintbrush had to be strapped to his hand whenever he wished to paint.

Today's treatments often can prevent such disability. Yet much needless crippling still occurs because people frequently are unaware that arthritis is potentially serious or that effective therapy is available.

"Early diagnosis is crucial so the appropriate treatment can begin before joints become irreversibly damaged," says Colin J. Dunn, Ph.D., an arthritis researcher with The Upjohn Company.

Arthritis means "joint inflammation." It is not a single disease, but rather a symptom that can occur in more than 100 acute and chronic conditions.

Rheumatism, another frequently used term, is a vague label for a variety of joint and muscle aches and pains.

Arthritis has a staggering human and financial impact in the United States. According to the Arthritis Foundation, 36 million Americans are victims.

Annual economic losses include an estimated $4.7 billion in medical care, $4.8 billion in lost wages, $1 billion in lost income taxes, $1 billion in disability aid and insurance, $1.3 billion in lost homemaker services and $1 billion wasted on quack treatments. The overall financial impact of arthritis totals approximately $14 billion.

OSTEOARTHRITIS (OA)

Often described as a "wear and tear" disease, osteoarthritis seems related to strain on the joints. Although nearly everyone eventually develops some vestiges of OA, researchers now question the assumption that it is an inevitable part of aging. Victims are usually older people, and women have twice the OA incidence of men. Fingers and weight-bearing joints (knees, hips, spine) are most afflicted.

The bone ends that meet at a joint normally are covered with a shiny substance called cartilage that permits smooth movement between the bones. In OA, use, injury or infection causes the cartilage to wear away. Bone ends thicken and bony spurs may develop. The disease generally is mild, and rarely crippling, producing moderate pain. Unlike rheumatoid arthritis, it doesn't spread to multiple joints or involve the whole body. Many victims have OA only in the knees or hips, for example.

Symptoms, Diagnosis and Prognosis. Pain in and around joints is the main symptom, with the second most common symptom being loss of joint mobility. OA doesn't cause fever, weight loss or feelings of illness. Diagnosis is aided by X-rays and laboratory tests. While OA is presently incurable, treatment can relieve symptoms, improve joint function and may prevent further progress of the disease.

"Researchers are now working on medical and surgical means to improve the quality and quantity of cartilage repair," says David S. Howell, M.D., professor of medicine and director of the arthritis division at the University of Miami School of Medicine.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS (RA)

The most crippling form of arthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, was the disease that compromised Renoir's artistry. RA usually starts between ages 20 and 45 and strikes three times as many women as men. It involves multiple joints, especially those of the hands and feet. The disease also can attack lungs, skin, blood vessels, muscles, spleen and heart. It is frequently characterized by remissions — months or years in which the pain, stiffness and swelling lessen or disappear.

Cause. Some people appear to be genetically predisposed to RA. The disease seems triggered by unidentified viruses or other factors that set off immune system malfunctions in these individuals. Normally, when invaders (called "antigens") enter the body, certain white blood cells (particular lymphocytes) manufacture antibodies, proteins that inactivate the invaders by forming immune complexes. Scavenger cells then digest the complexes.

However, in RA, the lymphocytes release antibodies and other substances that damage the joint lining and cartilage instead of attacking invaders. In addition, digestive chemicals released by the scavengers escape into the joint fluid and cause further damage. Synovial (joint lining) and other cells pile up in the area under attack, forming pannus.

Symptoms. People with these major RA symptoms should see a doctor:

- * Painful, swollen joints for more than 6 weeks.
- * Morning stiffness for an hour or more.
- * Systemic symptoms such as fatigue or weight loss.
- * Symmetrical joint involvement.
- * Lumps under the skin near the elbow.
- * Joint deformity.

Diagnosis and Prognosis.

An abnormal antibody known as rheumatoid factor is usually present in the blood of persons with rheumatoid arthritis, and blood tests indicate the presence of inflammation. Moreover, fluid extracted from involved joints contains many white blood cells. In 10 percent of cases, rheumatoid arthritis disappears by itself; in the remainder, proper treatment helps prevent deformity and crippling.

56 attend Owen-Gage Seniors meet

Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met at St. Agatha's Parish Hall May 2 in Gagetown with 56 members present. Thirty-one blood pressure readings were taken by Mary Lewis, LPN.

Some of the members signed to go to Senior Power Day in Lansing, at the civic center May 15.

The cost is $15 each and bring a box lunch. The bus is scheduled to pick up at 7 a.m. at the Lutheran Church in Cass City.

Mabel Ondrajka opened the meeting by having members repeat The Lord's Prayer and the pledge to the flag in unison.

Florence Schell reported that 14 had signed for the tour to visit some Detroit churches Monday, May 6.

Happy Birthday was sung to members who have birthdays in May.

The Les Munros and the Lloyd Finkbeiners thanked the group for cards sent them while they were in Florida. Erma Martin, Leona Shantz and Ed Good expressed thanks for get well cards.

Door prizes were awarded to Millie Mosack and Ed Good. Elma Miklovich read a humorous reading.

Josephine Bartnik moved that the meeting adjourn, seconded by Robert Schell. The May committee served coffee and sandwiches. Bingo was played.

The next meeting is a potluck dinner May 16, when euchre will be played.

Your neighbor says

Some television shows are OK for children

What makes a television show worth watching, and what shows do you allow your children to watch?

Michael Flowers said that for his nine-year-old son Bobby, he prefers that he watch educational shows, and wholesome shows such as Little House on the Prairie.

Flowers also lets his son watch entertaining shows such as cartoons and the popular Facts of Life show.

Bobby is not allowed to watch violent shows such as Miami Vice, but he does watch the A-Team with Mr. T. His father explained that A-Team does have several action scenes, and they do not show people getting killed or injured.

Bobby's mother Collette said she is in the process of quitting the afternoon soap operas. She feels the programs are getting worse all the time.

The Flowerses live in the country where cable television is not available. They do not have a satellite dish receiver, but count on a television antenna to bring their programs to them.

"I think it is a waste of money," Michael Flowers said about purchasing a satellite dish. "Television doesn't teach you anything."

The Flowerses live in the Deford area. Michael works in Pontiac for a roofing company.

Marlette and Vassar mute Cass City bats

Coach Don Schelke needs to find a few players with hot bats if they are to win many games in the Thumb B Association this spring.

The Cass City Red Hawks have been playing well defensively, but lack of hitting in the clutch has sent the team down to defeat in three of four games during the week. And it took nine innings before Cass City could chalk up its lone victory.

It all started with a double header loss to Marlette Tuesday, April 30. In the twin bill Cass City scored just one run.

The opener went to the Red Raiders, 4-0, as Ron Siurla and Rich Foster combined to apply the whitewash.

It took one bad inning, the third, when Marlette collected four of its six hits and all of their runs to polish off Cass City. Dave Miller, who also allowed six hits while striking out eight, took the loss.

In the nightcap, Foster started and Rock finished up for the winners. Leigh Langenburg took the loss in a 3-1 decision.

Cass City collected only two hits, both singles in the second inning by Steve Fox and Chuck Kaake, to help the Hawks score their only run of the afternoon.

VASSAR GAMES

The Hawks finally broke into the win column in the first game against Vassar. Gary Crickon pitched the 3-2 win that went three extra innings to be decided.

The winning run in the ninth was pushed over when Paul Mika opened with a single and was pushed around by another single by Kaake, who pinch hit. Mika, Miller and Kevin Parrish each collected two hits. Fred Reinfelder took the loss.

The Vulcans earned a split in the two games in the nightcap when they supported Tim Walker with five hits that netted a 5-2 victory.

Cass City hammered out six hits but couldn't collect when it counted. Jim Crawley did his best to help the attack as he was three for three and scored one of Cass City's two runs.

Langenburg and Miller each worked two innings and Parrish pitched the sixth for Cass City.

Errors hurting softball team in Thumb B

The young Cass City Red Hawk softball team found rough going in Thumb B Association competition last week, losing three of four games played.

The Hawks did a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde act with Marlette Tuesday, April 30. The Red Raiders won the first game of the double header, 15-2, and the Hawks bounced back to take the nightcap, 10-9.

"We did everything wrong in the first game," Coach Jim Fox grimaced, "especially in the field where we played as bad as we have all year."

The Hawks made seven errors in the game, called after five innings, and Yvette Hurd gave up eight hits in the rout.

In the nightcap the Hawks came to life scoring seven times in the first inning and then holding on for a 10-9 decision.

Julie Miller had an all-conference type day with three hits and six runs batted in. Errors helped Marlette score six times in the last inning and place the tying run on third before the final out was recorded.

VASSAR GAMES

Give the Vulcans a little better pitching and they would be a great team, Fox feels. The Vulcans have capable athletes at every position, but lack that aspirin throwing hurler that makes a good team great.

Without a flame thrower the Vulcans were still good enough to top the Hawks in both ends of the doubleheader.

The Vulcans won the first game, 6-3. It was a tough loss for Cass City. The Hawks led 3-1 going into the final inning when Vassar scored five times on two hits, two walks and an error to take the game.

That was the only real opportunity Cass City had to salvage a split in the two games. In the nightcap Vassar bounced out to a 5-0 lead after three innings and won easily, 7-2.

Hurd pitched both ends of the double header. Vassar's Barnett started both games. She was relieved by Blasius in the third inning of the first game. Blasius got credit for the win. Barnett went the distance in the second game, giving up four hits while walking five.

Hawk hits were spread out with no player collecting more than one hit. Severance, Lisa Benitez and Miller each garnered a hit in both games.

Reese, A-F tops at Invitational

Cass City's boys finished sixth in the Reese Invitational Saturday. The Reese girls were the power of the meet with 166 points.

Second place went to Brown City with 87 points. The final standings and points earned:

Akron-Fairgrove, 71; Sandusky, 67; Bay City All Saints, 38; Cass City, 37; Valley Lutheran, 33; Wt. Pres. 16; Bad Axe, 4; Kingston and Freeland, 4 each, and Mayville, 2.

Cass City won points by finishing second in the 800-meter relay with Greg Erla, Jeff LaBelle, Joe Viney and Matt Clara running.

Other points were earned by Bliss, third in the two-mile and a fifth for the 3200-meter relay team and for Del Kostanko in the 1600 meter run. The girls finished fourth. Akron-Fairgrove dominated with 164 points. Second place was won by Valley Lutheran with 88 1/3 points.

Others in order of finish and points earned: Brown City, 57; Cass City, 53 1/2; Mayville, 46; Sandusky, 37; Freeland, 22; Bay City All Saints, 2. Bad Axe failed to score.

Karianne Henni was second in the 1600 and 3200-meter events behind Burgess of Brown City. Also earning second place finishes were Teri Wilson, a freshman, in long jump and Bryant in the 440-meter dash.

The 400-meter relay team also finished second with Wilson, Holly Steinbauer, Joann Steely and Jeanie Sweeney running.

A third place was earned by the 800-meter team and a fourth place by the 1600 meter team. Steely tied for fifth in the shot put.

Junior High teams win

Cass City High School junior high track teams continue to roll along.

The girls' team posted a narrow, 62 1/2 to 60 1/2, decision over USA Monday, April 29. The boys demolished the Patriots, 92 1/2 to 39 1/2.

Thursday in a three-team meet, Cass City topped the Lakers and Mayville. Cass City scored 76 points. Lakers were second with 39 1/2 and Mayville scored 33 1/2.

Bulldogs split with Vikings

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs split a double header with Akron-Fairgrove Thursday, winning the first game 5-3, and dropping the second game 8-1.

In the first game, Reid Goslin was the winning pitcher, giving up eight hits and walking three A-F batters. Goslin struck out five batters during the six-inning contest. The Bulldogs committed two errors.

Stu Stirrett led the Bulldogs with two hits, both singles. Stirrett, Goslin, Ron Susalla and Kellin Kretschmer each batted in one run. The Bulldogs scored one run on an Akron-Fairgrove error.

Ron Susalla was the losing pitcher in the second game, giving up seven runs, seven hits and two walks. Susalla hit two Akron-Fairgrove batters with inside pitches during the three innings he pitched. Stirrett, in relief of Susalla, gave up one run and five hits in the last three innings of the game.

The Bulldogs will travel to Carsonville-Port Sanilac for a Thursday afternoon game.

A MAN OF MANY HATS - Arnold Nieboer has designed and produced hats for many area companies. His latest creation is a hat, T-shirts and other items promoting the Michigan lottery.

Walbro Corporation to open Detroit area office

Walbro Corporation has reorganized its automotive original equipment sales operations, and has announced plans to open a Detroit area office. The announcement was made by Walbro Executive Vice-president Robert H. Walpole.

Walbro's North American automotive OE sales operation will be headed up by Herbert E. Everss, director, automotive sales. Everss will have overall responsibility for sales of Walbro fuel system products, including electric fuel pumps and throttle bodies, to automotive original equipment customers.

Several automotive original equipment account managers will work out of the new Detroit area office and will report to Everss. Each account manager will have responsibility for sales of both fuel pumps and throttle bodies to his assigned accounts. Previously, Walbro's fuel pump and throttle body lines were represented by separate account managers.

"The purpose of this reorganization is to provide a more unified, coherent program for our total fuel systems activity," Walpole said. "We feel that this approach will result in better service for Walbro's automotive customers."

"The decision to open an office in the Detroit area is further evidence of Walbro's strong commitment to the automotive industry," Walpole said in making the announcement.

The location of the new office is currently under consideration. It is expected to be operational by July 1 of this year.

Nieboer designs lottery T-shirts

When most people think about making a buck off the lottery, their thoughts are of picking the right numbers, or buying the lucky ticket that will put them on Easy Street.

But Arnold Nieboer is not counting on blind luck to cash in on the popular game. He hopes to earn his money by selling caps and T-shirts that promote the game of chance. Nieboer, owner of Arnie's Custom Caps, Cass City, has begun producing caps and T-shirts that tell the world the person wearing them is a lottery fan.

Nieboer has been selling custom designed caps and T-shirts to area businesses for more than two years. He recently designed and had manufactured a hat that promotes the lottery, and the popular lotto game.

The hat Nieboer designed has the "Say Yes to Michigan" slogan written above a drawing of the state. Across the lower peninsula is a lotto computer card. To be sure that no one can cash in on his idea, Nieboer had the design copyrighted. The cost of copyrighting the hats and T-shirts was $95 each.

Before Nieboer began manufacturing the hats and T-shirts, he contacted the Lottery Commission for their written permission to make and sell the hats.

"They gave me their permission, but they won't promote me because I am a private business," Nieboer said.

Nieboer has sold some hats to stores in Tuscola County that sell lottery tickets. He is working on getting them into the larger chain stores across the state.

"I think that it is a matter of getting it out on the market," Nieboer said. "I feel it is an item that will go. It is just a matter of getting it out."

Nieboer, 46, a brick layer for DA Johnston, Vassar, began selling hats about two and one-half years ago. His business started after he answered an advertisement in a magazine from a Georgia hat making firm. He has sold promotion, "give away" caps and T-shirts to several businesses in the area. He has also designed T-shirts and hats for an area church softball team. Nieboer produces the design for the cap, and then has it manufactured by the Georgia hat making company. His T-shirt designs are printed by Obie Graphics, Caseville.

During the construction season, Nieboer sells his hats and T-shirts after laying brick all day. In the winter months, when construction slows down, he is able to devote more time to it.

"Arnie likes art," his wife Beverly said. "It (designing shirts and hats) is a way he can express his talents."

Tough rats

Rats are tough. How tough? According to International Wildlife magazine, rats can: plummet five stories to the ground and scurry off unharmed; swim half a mile and tread water for three days; wiggle through a hole no larger than a quarter, and even survive being flushed down a toilet as well as enter buildings by the same route.

Owen-Gage girls lose to A-F

The Owen-Gage softball team dropped both games of a double header against Akron-Fairgrove May 2. The two losses give the Bulldogs a 4-4 league record.

The Bulldogs lost the first game 4-7, collecting two hits and 12 walks. Cathy Johnston and Charlene Goslin each hit singles for the only Bulldog hits.

During each of the first four innings the Bulldogs scored one run, and were tied with A-F at the end of the fourth inning. Akron-Fairgrove collected three runs in the last two innings for the win.

In the second game, the Bulldogs scored three runs on six hits, losing 3-11. Owen-Gage scored three runs in the third inning and led until the fourth inning when Akron-Fairgrove pushed across seven runs.

Johnston had a double, and two runs batted in. Dena McDonald had two singles.

The Bulldogs will play at Carsonville-Port Sanilac Thursday, and will host North Huron Monday at the Gagetown park. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

Rhino horns

The high value of rhino horns, now worth about $5,000 a pound or roughly the price of gold, has doomed half of Africa's rhinos during the past decade to poachers' spears, reports International Wildlife magazine. The number of remaining rhinos totals somewhere between 10,000 and 16,000.

May 12 starts Soil Stewardship Week

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District will join the nationwide observance of Soil Stewardship Week during the week of May 12 to 19.

Henry Gruber, District Chairman, "Tomorrow Together" is the theme of the 1985 observance. As the 1985 booklet for the observance points out, human survival depends on other living things: the grasses and grain, fishes and birds, wild and domestic animals. And we all depend for our basic necessities on soil and water. Together, we must think about ways to preserve and renew the topsoil from which all our food comes. Together, we must work to purify and protect our waters.

In 1985, the soil conservation movement in America marks its 50th anniversary. During the Dust Bowl era of the '30s, conservation districts, local units of government, were founded to take soil conservation information and techniques to farmers and ranchers. But the task has grown.

Caro man sentenced to county jail on LSD charge

Monday, in Tuscola County Circuit Court, Judge Patrick Joslyn sentenced a Caro man to 10 months in the Tuscola County Jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of delivery of LSD.

Mark R. Frazie, 20, 2325 Mertz Rd., Caro, pleaded guilty to the charge March 19. He was originally charged with delivery of marijuana and delivery of LSD April 25, 1984.

Joslyn also ordered Frazie to pay $600 restitution to the adult probation department. If Frazie does not pay the fine, two more months will be added to his jail sentence. Joslyn granted Frazie a work release from the jail. He was credited with 107 days already served.

Also Monday, Judge Joslyn granted a reduced sentence to James N. Giddings, 20, 1978 Gun Club Rd., Caro, on charges of attempted arson of a dwelling.

Giddings had pleaded guilty to the charge Feb. 4, and was sentenced to 300 days in the Tuscola County Jail. He was given credit for 197 days already served, and had served a total of 258 days.

Giddings requested the reduced sentence so he could go home and help his girlfriend who was having problems with her pregnancy.

Judge Joslyn sentenced James I. Dean, 21, 6736 Oak Rd., Vassar, to 90 days in the county jail, and to three years' probation after he pleaded no contest to a Feb. 14, 1984, charge of preparing to burn.

Dean was originally charged with arson of a dwelling house, stemming from a fire that destroyed his Vassar home. A state fire marshal's report stated the fire was started by pouring flammable liquid on the floor near the kitchen stove.

Dean was also ordered to pay a $1,000 fine and $500 court costs. He was granted a work release from jail.

Judge Joslyn rejected a plea bargaining request from Kirt S. Jackson, 23, 742 Williamsburg Rd., Apt. 4, Caro, on a charge of larceny in a building.

The plea bargaining agreement requested that Jackson be given a one-year delayed jail sentence. The offer was made March 25.

Jackson was charged Jan. 30 for attempting to steal non-prescription diet pills from the Central Shop Rite store, Indianfields Township.

No trial date has been set. Judge Joslyn accepted a guilty plea from Lee R. Collins, 19, 209 W. Grant St., Caro, on attempted conspiracy to burn, value under $50.

Collins had been originally charged with arson of a porch railing at his residence.

Joslyn will sentence Collins June 17. Bond continues at $15,000.

Novesta to settle dust and repair township roads

At the Novesta Township meeting Monday night, trustees decided what gravel roads they would repair during 1985.

Clerk Nurrie Kloc said, Supervisor William O'Dell and Tuscola County Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic recently toured the township's roads to determine what roads need repair the most.

At the meeting, the board decided to spend $25,000 to grade and gravel five and one-half miles of township roads.

The township will put 1,000 yards of pit run gravel, at a cost of $4,400 per mile on the following roads: One mile of Kelly road, from Englehart to Crawford Road; one mile of Shabbona Road, from Cemetery to Englehart Road, and one mile of Elmwood Road, starting one mile east of Cemetery Road to Englehart Road.

At a cost of $4,800 per mile, for 1,000 yards of pit run gravel, the township will repair two one-mile lengths of River Road. The first mile will be from Weaver to Cemetery Road, and the second mile will be from Phillips to Warner Road. Kloc explained that River Road will cost more for repairs because the road curves along the river bank.

The township will also have one-half mile of Phillips Road, from Kelly Road to River Road, graded and graveled at a cost of $2,600. When preparing the 1985-86 budget, trustees allocated $35,000 of township revenues for the road budget. Kloc said the township has three or four additional miles of roads that need repair, but the trustees decided to keep some of the road budget in reserve for emergencies.

Trustees also agreed to have one treatment of liquid calcium chloride applied to the gravel roads at a cost of $300 for each 1,000 gallons. Kloc explained the calcium chloride will be used the same as last year, just in front of resident's homes. Last year the township spent about $3,000 for one calcium chloride application.

During June, July, August and September, township residents will have two days of trash service per month instead of one. Kloc explained that during these four months, a truck from Rich's Disposal, Deford, will be stationed at the township hall, Deford, on the second and fourth

Two killed Friday in Fostoria area accident

Two Tuscola County men were killed Friday at 3:00 a.m. when their pickup truck left the road and crashed into a large tree south of Fostoria village limits.

Lance D. Nichols, 23, 1940 French Rd., Caro, the driver of the vehicle, was pronounced dead at Lapeer Community Hospital. A passenger, Marvin D. Donnelly, 22, 2953 W. Saginaw Rd., Vassar, was pronounced dead at Caro Community Hospital.

According to the report, filed by Tuscola County

Sheriff's Department Deputy Phillip Mallory, the pickup was northbound on Fostoria Road, north of Goodrich Road, when the vehicle went into the ditch on the west side of the road, striking a large tree.

The Mayville Fire Department was called to remove the doors from the pickup so Nichols and Donnelly could be pulled from the wreckage.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Deputy Mallory discovered the accident while on routine patrol.

In an April 27 accident that claimed the life of 15-year-old Kristine M. Golsch, Caro, the driver of the vehicle, Todd W. Beckrow, 18, a senior at Caro High School, remains in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Bay Medical Center, Bay City. The driver of the other vehicle, Betty Champagne, 40, Elkton, was released from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, May 1.

The accident happened when Beckrow, driving south on Bay Port Road, failed to stop at the intersection of Sebawaing Road, and was struck by Champagne's vehicle.

The couple were returning from Caseville after attending their high school prom.

BOAT MISHAP

The body of Kevin K. Hecht, 22, 121 Howard St., Caro, was found Saturday by Tuscola County Sheriff's Department Deputies.

Hecht had been missing since April 27, when a boat he was riding in sank in Saginaw Bay. The boating mishap also claimed the lives of Hecht's stepson, Jason Rumph, 5, Caro, and Jason's grandfather, Leonard Bodeis, 68, 6053 First St., Mayville.

The boat sank at 1:57 p.m. while they were fishing on the Saginaw Bay in about nine feet of water.

Two other fishermen in the boat, Chester R. Burke, 23, and his stepson, Kevin Cryderman, 9, both of 1446 S. Colling Rd., Caro, survived the accident.

Rosebuds

Transplanting roses? Experts say transplanting old bushes is advisable only on a limited scale. Transplant in the fall and take as much soil as possible with the roots.

Roses are heavy feeders, so remember that fertilizer is the key to vigorous and productive plants. An established rose benefits from fertilizer application when it is pruned in the spring. Plants from which roses have been cut also need extra nutrients so that the new flowers can develop. Re-apply fertilizer when the new buds become visible.

My old friend and No. 1 critic, Harlan Crowell of Boca Raton, was about to invest in some CATS before he called me with a question or two.

Lest you think he's out to corner the local market for felines, let me explain that CATS is the acronym for Certificates of Accrual for Treasury Securities. They're zero coupon government bonds, that's all they are.

For example you buy $10,000 par value CATS that mature in say, 1991. You pay about $5,000 for them. From now until 1991 you get no income, because the bonds pay no interest. No semi-annual 'coupons' as other bonds have. Hence the name: Zero Coupons.

The interest rate in this example amounts to 12 percent. Compound that for 12 years you've doubled your investment.

They're great for people or pension funds that don't pay income tax. No re-investment problems, absolute security, and a liberal rate guaranteed for the term of the bond. (You can buy them maturing out to 20-25 years.)

But if you pay income tax, then you must report a part of that gain (in the example, from $5,000 to $10,000) each year. The tax man figures out this 'imputed interest' from a formula and you pay this tax each year, even though you haven't seen any money come in.

They're a nice gift for a child, who doesn't have any tax to pay. I bought some the other day for a friend's grandchild. A gift of $9,700 made in CATS to a relative as custodian for the grandchild, will result in the youngster getting $75,000 in 18 years.

For people like Harlan Crowell and me, the alternative is to buy zero coupon tax-exempt municipal bonds. These don't yield as much as the taxable CATS, but there's no tax to pay at all. Not while you're holding them, and not when you sell them or when they mature. No capital gains tax, either.

Where do you get them? Through a broker. Tell him to get out the daily Blue List of tax-exempt bonds for sale. In the back end is a couple of pages of zero-coupon tax-exempts, listed by the year they mature. Yields of around 10 percent are common. Things to check:

1. When the bonds might be called, or redeemed. You don't want them paid off in a year or two, if you are setting up a long-term investment.
2. The quality, or rating by Moody's or Standard & Poor's. Many of the 'zeros' are housing bonds, whose quality varies. Some are guaranteed by the state, some are collateralized, some are insured. Don't accept less than an A rating.

The way a small investment will multiply in these zeros will boggle your mind. For example in the Blue List recently was this offering:

Duval County (Jacksonville), Fla., Housing Finance Agency, FHA insured, maturing Jan. 1, 2027, with a yield of 11 percent to maturity. Even a bond man couldn't make a close guess what you'd pay for them now:

$11.54 for a $1,000 bond! That's right - $1.15 on the dollar. You could get half a million dollars worth of bonds for $5,770. You or your beneficiary will wait 42 years for this glorious bonanza.

If you had bought bonds like these yourself in 1943, you'd be a half-million dollars richer today. Looking back, 42 years isn't a terribly long time.

Whenever the subject of zero coupon bonds comes up, I have to tell the story of Gerrit Baker and his wife Margaret of Boca Raton, who started a program of investing in such things right after the war. They were called U S Defense bonds then, and now the name is Savings bonds. You know what they're like -- you buy them at discounts and they mature to the face value. Actually, they're zero coupon bonds, but with two important differences:

1. A fairly low rate of interest (7.5%) is guaranteed, but it can increase as government bond rates go up. Now they yield nearly 11% -- still lower than straight zero coupon governments (CATS, in the examples).
2. You don't pay tax on the interest until you cash in the bonds. That's a plus.

Anyhow, Gerrit and Margaret started a 10-year program in 1948 of socking away $15,000 a year in these U S Savings bonds. Interest rates were around 3.5 percent then, and the government was slow in putting up these rates to match the market.

In spite of these below-market rates, the $150,000 they invested from 1948 to 1958 at $15,000 a year today is worth -- hold your breath -- $717,000. Compounding did this for the Bakers. Man's second best friend. Compound interest.

to receiving an all conference honorable mention for volleyball, she has been elected as president of the Girls' Varsity Club.

She tutors junior high school students in history and science, and is a co-op student, working for Bauer Candy Company, Cass City. She was the 1984 chairperson for the prom committee, and the homecoming flower committee chairperson.

For 10 years Miss Smith has been a member of the Evergreen Guys and Gals 4-H Club, serving as president, vice-president and secretary. She has traveled to Washington, D.C., to participate in 4-H's Citizenship Washington Focus-1984. As a 4-H member, her sewing and dress designing talents earned her a trip to Chicago to participate in a fashion review. She has also received a 4-H Citizenship Award.

She is a Church Youth Group member of the Shabona branch of the RLDS Church.

Miss Smith received the 1984-85 Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award.

Before awarding Smith the Junior Citizen of the Year Award, John Maharg, owner of Rolling Hills Golf Course, listed the accomplishments of five other nominees for the award. They were: Jeanne Marshall, Terri Leino, Colleen Irrer, Ray Hrycko and Barbara Root.

Before the awards ceremony began, Cass City Village President Ray Armstead Jr. told the audience of some of the accomplishments the village has made in the recent year. Some of the changes that Armstead cited were the closing of the village owned landfill, the start of a village-wide trash service, and the recent purchase of the 22-acre industrial park from the Cass City Industrial Development Committee.

Armstead said the village is facing the possible loss of $41,000 of federal revenue sharing funds. He pointed out the loss, due to budget-cutting measures by the government, would equal a loss of about two mills to the village. Armstead added the loss of the federal revenue sharing funds would result in a loss of services, or a tax increase would be required to maintain present levels.

World War II veterans remember V-E Day events

German beer, and cutting tent support ropes. "By night there wasn't a tent left standing."

For the next six months Zawilinski was stationed in Germany, watching for contraband firearms and Nazi youth gangs that were killing and injuring American soldiers.

"It was quite a thing," he said about being stationed in Germany. "I was glad to get out of there. I didn't enjoy it one bit. It was a hell of a mess."

Not everyone returned to their own home after the war ended. For Dolly Tracy, the end of the war brought her to a new home in America. Mrs. Tracy, a former resident of Derby, England, met and married her husband, Leo Tracy, while he was stationed in England.

Mrs. Tracy explained she met Leo while she was "tending bar" in a local pub in Derby. During the day she worked in an iron foundry, and at night she worked in the pub to earn money to buy fruit and other foods to feed her brothers and sisters.

Because the Rolls Royce automobile factory, located in her home town, was manufacturing material for England's war effort, Derby was a target for German bombing raids.

Mrs. Tracy said that while growing up in Derby during the war, it seemed like she spent most of her life in a bomb shelter.

"It was easier to go to sleep in an air raid shelter than to get up and run to the shelter when the sirens started," she said. Her younger sister was born in an air raid shelter.

Mrs. Tracy was also an air raid warden for her street. At night, when the Germans dropped flare bombs to light up the area during a blackout, she would go out and extinguish the flare.

"After a while it became an everyday thing," she said about the bombings and strafing attacks. "You learned to take it in stride. You had to, otherwise you couldn't survive."

Her home was never bombed during the war, but other homes on the street were destroyed. She said that when a home was blown up, many times the bathtub would be left hanging in mid-air, supported only by the plumbing.

Mrs. Tracy said that when the war finally ended, the people celebrated in the street, and there was a lot of drinking and carousing going on.

She left Southampton, England, for America in June of 1946. Leo left Germany during May, 1946.

"It was really a fantastic voyage," she said about her 15 days aboard ship, adding that she was sick all the time. Mrs. Tracy had a 10-month-old baby and was six months pregnant during the Atlantic Ocean crossing.

The Tracys first lived in the Pontiac area before eventually moving to their Cass City home.

2 missing from Tuscola Prison

Two prisoners are being sought by law enforcement officials after they escaped from Camp Tuscola, the new minimum security prison at Wahjamega Friday afternoon.

According to prison director Michael Flintoft, the two were reported missing Friday at 4:40 p.m. Flintoft assumes the pair left the prison together.

The two inmates, Ricky Truss, 23, and Scott Harris, 32, are both black males from the Saginaw area.

Truss is 5-foot, 11 inches tall, and weighs about 150 pounds with a medium build. He is listed as having a medium complexion.

Harris is 5-foot, 8 inches tall, and weighs about 14 pounds. He has a thin build, and a dark complexion. Harris has a scar on his stomach.

Truss was serving a two-year, eight-month to four-year jail sentence after being convicted on a larceny from a building charge. Harris was originally sentenced on a larceny and uttering and publishing charges. He was sentenced to Camp Tuscola after he was arrested on a probation violation charge.

The end...a new beginning

Throughout this publication, we have provided all kinds of information: what Chiropractic is about, what the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center is about, what happens here, how Chiropractic can help you.

We have included the experiences of a number of our patients, because no one can tell their stories so well as they.

Well, what happens when you LEAVE this clinic? For most Chiropractic patients, the end of their first visit is the beginning of a new road

What Are You Waiting For?

Two "Limited Time" Offers To Help Your Entire Family

In the growing stages of this country, the family doctor was just that a physician who treated the ailments of the entire family. In today's society, the family doctor has given way to a series of specialists. Far from seeing the entire family, the specialist doesn't even "see" the whole patient.

But it doesn't have to be that way. Here at the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center, we are "family doctors" in every respect. Concerned with the whole patient, we stress prevention of sickness before it has a chance to strike. We know as chiropractors, that misaligned spinal segments (vertebrae) interfere with normal nerve transmissions to every part of the body. Normal nerve flow is imperative if the body is to function normally and remain healthy.

However, there are no early symptoms to warn us that nerve transmission is being inhibited. Often, most conditions show up months, even years after spinal misalignments (subluxations) have been present.

Because we know that chiropractic health care does help people regardless of age and because we care—the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center has established two limited-time offers to help keep you, and your family healthy.

FOR A LIMITED TIME, FOR NEW PATIENTS, YOU WILL RECEIVE YOUR FIRST OFFICE VISIT*, INCLUDING EXAMINATION AND FIRST SPINAL ADJUSTMENT, FREE, WITHOUT CHARGE. WE ALSO ARE OFFERING TO PROVIDE CHIROPRACTIC TREATMENT FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY, REGARDLESS OF SIZE, FOR THE ONE- PERSON FEE OF ONLY $14! **

*(X-rays, NOT INCLUDED, but are covered by most insurance plans.)

 (If there is no reimbursing health insurance)

We believe that by making it easy and inexpensive for families to stay healthy, we are offering a better life for our chiropractic patients. We make this commitment because we believe that chiropractic works, and that it not only can help the body heal itself, but to maintain good health.

OFFER EXPIRES JUNE 8, 1985

ABOUT OUR CLINIC...

The recent expansion of the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center, 624 South Unionville Rd. (M-25), has made the facility the largest and most up-to-date clinic in the area.

Completed in March, the expansion project gives the Life Center approximately 3000 square feet of space in which to serve patients better. The Center now has four adjusting rooms, a separate examination area, an extended care area, and a larger waiting room. Also enlarged was the business and insurance office.

The Life Center offers the finest in chiropractic care in the most comfortable contemporary surroundings. It contains the latest chiropractic equipment. The multifaceted X-ray machine utilizes columnation, high speed screens and film to reduce patient exposure to radiation to a minimum. A ninety-second X-ray film processor allows films to be developed quickly to insure instant viewing of important films.

The adjusting rooms have been enlarged and feature new Thompson adjusting tables.

Free coffee and refreshments are offered to waiting patients and their families. You may want to read one of our current magazines...There's also a Kids Korner with books for them, too. And the wait is never long!

The Life Center also features an extended care facility for patients with chronic or acute pain who may need several adjustments over a longer period of time during a day.

The latest expansion helps to fulfill Drs. Vincent and Patricia Scello's vision of helping restore sick and suffering people to their natural state of vibrant health and goodness, and to teach them to MAINTAIN this well-being.

We Found Help Here

"More Help From Chiropractic Than From 10 Years of Medicine"

I had a double s-scoliosis of the spine along with severe pain in the cervical area. I had limited use of my right hand. I had severe swelling and numbness along with my back severe low back years and had to wear a back support for over 40 years. I also had severe stomach pain most of the time for years, constant constipation. I also have osteoarthritis in several joints and other types of arthritis. Because of these problems, I was forced to resign from my work as an attendant nurse in January, 1977.

I found out about the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center through an advertisement in the newspaper. I called about six weeks. I haven't had any severe swelling, stiffness, or pain since December. I have reduced medication for pain about 75%. I only take Rogaine for my scalp. I don't wear the back support as much now.

I have been helped more in the last 3 months than all the other doctors in 10 years and I have seen many doctors in that length of time with very little lasting help. My spine is straighter now than it's has ever been in my life time, and I am nearly 60 years old. I feel much better now and many people tell me how much better I look now than I did a few months ago. I would recommend that others try Chiropractic.

Charles Briggs, Caro, Michigan

I found out about the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center from a friend who received help through the care.

I found out about the Sebewaing Chiropractic Life Center from a friend who received help through the care.

I had been suffering from headaches, nervousness, chronic tiredness, inner ear pain, pain in the upper arms. I also had a thyroid condition, bursitis in the hip and knee pain. In general, I've not had a pain free day in my life.

After a couple of adjustments, I began to notice improvement in my hip and end of my spine.

Thank you very much, Hilida Koch, Gagestown, MI

A. Yes.

Q. Does my health insurance pay for regular office calls?

A. Yes, many major insurance companies, including Teamsters, Blue Cross, Blue Shield Master Medical Program (General Motors salaried employees, Ford Motor Company salaried employees, Great Lakes Steel, etc.) Teamsters, Aetna Insurance, Metropolitan, Prudential, and Travellers pay a portion if not all regular chiropractic office calls.

Q. If I receive injuries due to an automobile accident, does my no-fault auto insurance cover any chiropractic care that I may need?

Q. I am a senior citizen. Will Medicare pay for chiropractic adjustments?

A. Yes (after deductible is paid).

Q. Are chiropractic services covered by Workmen's Compensation Insurance, such as on the job injuries?

A. Yes, the Workmen's Compensation Law allows you to seek the doc-

If You Are Hurt At Work...

"Freedom of Choice." It's a term that means different things to different people, and is a keystone of our democracy. To the Michigan worker injured on the job, however, it means that he is free to choose Chiropractic care, covered by Workman's Compensation. It is important that correct procedures be followed. If you are hurt while working, the following steps should be taken:

1. Promptly notify your supervisor or employer, giving the circumstances, time, date and nature of the injury.
2. Select Your Own Doctor of Chiropractic. Michigan law gives you the right to select a Doctor of Chiropractic of your choice, 10 days after the date of injury.

If your company doesn't have a Doctor of Chiropractic on staff or a company doctor, ask your employer to approve Chiropractic care immediately and eliminate 10 day requirements.

All reasonable and necessary examinations, X-rays, and treatments, will be paid for by your employer.

You cannot be forced to be treated by a company doctor for more than 10 days.

3. Fill out an Accident Report at Work. Also there are forms you and the Doctor of Chiropractic must fill out in his office, to be submitted to the Compensation Bureau.

Our office has these forms.

4. Your Doctor of Chiropractic can determine the appropriate Chiropractic treatment. If other treatment is necessary, he will refer you to doctors in allied fields, such as medical, podiatric, optometric, etc., for their examination and treatment.

5. The injured employee is entitled to ALL NECESSARY TREATMENT of the related industrial injuries, adequate to restore reasonable health to the extent experienced prior to the injury.

Pamphlets about Worker's Compensation are available free at our office.
