Losses heavy in brutal windstorm

Friday's brutal windstorm that caused dust bowl-like conditions in the area has caused additional problems for farmers already struggling through a difficult financial year.

Throughout the afternoon and evening the wind, which reached gusts of 70 miles per hour, eroded topsoil from around recently planted crops, and sawed leaves off the larger plants.

"Definitely the sugar beets were the most affected crop," said Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service Director Bill Bortel. "But it didn't do any of the crops any good. It was one of the worst (windstorms) I have ever seen."

Bortel estimates that 1,000 to 1,500 acres of corn, sugar beets, soybeans and vegetable crops were damaged by the wind. It is too early for Bortel to predict how many of these acres would have to be replanted.

Bortel has found drifts of sand and topsoil six to eight inches deep in some areas. He said that one of the serious problems caused by the windstorm, that cannot have a dollar amount placed on, was the loss of topsoil. "We hate to see that happen. We lost good quality topsoil."

Bortel added that crops grown on sandy soil suffered the most because the lighter soil was the most vulnerable to the strong winds. A man called Bortel and told him he was going to have to "dig his strawberries instead of picking them."

"The real blessing was we had a rain before the windstorm," Bortel said. He added that without the rain, which helped to hold the soil in place, it would have been a "pathetic" situation for area farmers.

Dave Sunderland, vice-president in charge of agriculture for Michigan Sugar Co., Caro, estimates that about 2,000 acres of sugar beets in the six county area were damaged by the wind. Farmers in the six county area, Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, Lapeer, Saginaw and Bay Counties, have planted about 79,000 acres of sugar beets that are contracted with Michigan Sugar plants. Sunderland estimates that about one-half of the 2,000 acres of beets that were "roughed up" by the storm will have to be replanted. Farmers will have to wait to see if the other 1,000 acres are going to survive, or if they will be forced to replant.

Kent Graf, Agriculture Manager for Michigan Sugar Co., estimates that about 600 acres of sugar beets in the Caro processing plant area may have to be replanted.

He estimated the cost to replant the beets will be about $64 per acre, less than original planting costs because the fertilizer and sprays have already been applied.

Graf said the larger plants, about three to five inches tall, had their leaves cut off, but will probably survive. The smaller, recently planted beets suffered the most from the wind.

Huron County Cooperative Extension Service Agent Andrew Sommers said that less than five percent of the crops in the county were seriously damaged. Sommers has looked at a "couple of dozen fields," and saw only one field that needed to be replanted.

Sommers said that fields that have been plowed and worked in preparation for soybean planting lost the most topsoil. He added that some small drainage ditches have been filled with blowing topsoil.

CASS CITY Department of Public Works employee Edward Nizzola, and other DPW workers, were busy Saturday picking up brush and limbs from Friday's wind storm. Clean-up from the storm cost the village an estimated $950 in overtime and equipment costs. Village crews took 56 truck loads of branches and limbs to the village landfill.

Girl hit by car still in serious condition

A 16-year-old Cass City girl was seriously injured Saturday night after being struck by a passing motorist while she was walking across Main Street.

Cass City Police Officer Kenneth Schott reported that Michele M. Smith, 5074 Schwegler Rd., Cass City, was struck by an eastbound vehicle driven by James P. Davis. The report states Smith was walking across

Main Street, about 65 feet west of Sherman Street, when the Davis vehicle struck her. Smith was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital by the Cass City Ambulance Service. She was transferred to St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw, where she was listed in serious condition Tuesday afternoon.

Davis, 17, 4417 Koepfgen Rd., Cass City, told Officer Schott that he did not see

Smith, and did not have time to apply his brakes. Smith was wearing a purple shirt and blue jeans at the time of the accident. The accident happened at 10:17 p.m.

Witnesses said Davis did not cross the double yellow line, and they didn't feel that he was speeding at the time of the accident.

No citations were issued in the accident.

School curriculums sometimes suffer

Money (or lack of it) a problem

by Wayne Kamidoi

Finding ways to penny-pinch the budget and raise funds to improve or to maintain the quality of education in area school districts are not only main objectives, but are a must.

"When you don't have a lot of money, which has been our story for years, it complicates things," Bad Axe School District Superintendent William Pietscher said. "You have to get the same things done with less people and less expenditures."

According to a recent state financial report, Bad Axe ranked 518th out of 528 school districts in the amount of money spent per student in 1983-84. Bad Axe spent $1,864 per student, which is close to $2,000 less than the state average.

The Cass City School District spent $1,911 per student to rank it among Michigan's 15 lowest-spending public school systems.

"If we had more money available, we could beef up our program, no question about it," Cass City High School Principal Russ Richards said. "We'd like to restore our high school (remedial) reading program, but we can't because of a lack of money."

Other area school districts did not rank too highly in spending, either. Kingston spent $2,145 per student to rank 393rd. Uby ranked 373rd spending $2,177 per student.

"Money is not the key to having a good or poor program. But I'd be foolish to tell you that it has no effect," said Doug Kramer, principal at Kingston Elementary School, which had its physical education and art programs axed this year.

"Finance affects priorities," he added.

The per-student expenditure figure is often correlated with teacher's salaries in the school districts because it is the largest chunk of the payroll.

"Salaries have to be a factor. They comprise about 75 to 80 percent of the budget. It often depends on whether the teachers are on the top or the bottom of the pay scale," Cass City Superintendent Don Crouse said.

The average annual teacher's salary in the state is $27,125—one of the highest in the nation.

Grosse Pointe heads the list with an average annual salary of $35,980.

In comparison, Akron-

Fairgrove Schools have the highest annual teacher's salary in Tuscola County at $24,228 with the lowest being $20,205 in Kingston. In Huron County, teachers in Harbor Beach earn the most money averaging $23,383 annually.

"Just because salaries are low doesn't mean you have a bunch of bad teachers," said Tom Farrell, assistant superintendent of public affairs for the Michigan Department of Education. "It's a fact of life people in New York City make more money than people living in Lansing, Michigan. And people in Lansing make more than people living in Cass City."

All Thumb area school districts are not in the same financial boat. Unionville-Sebewaing spent $2,747 per pupil in 1983-84 to rank 128th. Owendale-Gagetown ranked 70th spending $3,035 per student.

"What makes things tough is most of the other school districts in Huron County seem to be high spenders. It's like living next door to someone in the neighborhood who can hire someone else to do all the 'extras'—like a gardener," Pietscher said. "In other words, we have to do the work at night to keep up."

Another factor in keeping school districts among the lowest-spending is its tax base.

Bad Axe currently levies 23 mills—about eight mills less than the state average.

"If we were to spend what the average school district does in Huron County, or in the state, we would have to levy about 35 mills. That's an increase I see unforeseeable," Pietscher said.

Along with high State Equalized Values in its school district, Owen-Gage levies 25.3064 mills.

"We are not a 'welfare' school... like those in the city of Detroit. We carry our own load; we don't rely on the state," Owen-Gage Superintendent Ron Erickson said. "We get most of our money from local property taxes."

Along with the high tax base, Owen-Gage has a low student/teacher ratio and has been strapped with attorney fees which account for the school district's top 15 percentile ranking in the per-student - expenditure category. About $250,000 has been spent in court since 1982 over a property dispute with the Cass City School District.

Owen-Gage has classes in its high school with as few as five students in them and it has a philosophy to keep its class sizes to a minimum, Erickson said.

In Cass City, however, classroom sizes range from 15 to 30 students in the high school, while elementary and secondary school classrooms average about 25 pupils.

"We have to cut off at 15 Please turn to page 13.

Little competition for school board positions Monday

Voters throughout the state will be casting their ballots at the annual June 10 school board election, to decide the fate of millage proposals, and elect members to their school board.

In the Cass City and Uby school districts, candidates seeking a board position are running unopposed. At Kingston, four residents, including one incumbent, are seeking two positions. In the Owen-Gage School District three candidates, two incumbents and one newcomer to the political arena, will be seeking two board positions.

Voters of the Cass City School District will cast their ballots for incumbent Ben Hobart, and Allan Hartwick, who is seeking his first school board position. He will fill a position that will be vacated by Thresa Burnette. Burnette is not seeking reelection. The district is not asking for a millage renewal or an increase.

Hobart, a 52-year-old Gagetown area farmer, has served on the school board for the past four years. He is presently serving as board secretary. He is a member of the St. Agatha Catholic Church, Gagetown, and is a member of the Cass City Rotary Club.

"We have asked much of our educational system in the schooling of our seven children," Hobart said was the reason he was seeking another term on the board. "I am willing to give something in return." Six of Hobart's children have graduated from Cass City schools, and have gone to college. His youngest child is still attending high school.

Hobart feels his responsibility to the taxpayer is to see that their tax money is spent in an efficient way, providing a quality education for the students, keeping the buildings and grounds in a state of good repair, and to set board policy so this can take place.

Hobart said he is hoping that a Tuscola County Intermediate School District program designed to aid the gifted child can be "worked out." The program is presently in the developmental stages. He also feels that when the Citizens Advisory Committee gives its report to the board on the hiring of an additional counselor at the intermediate school, and a physical education instructor at the elementary school, some adjustments will be made in board programs.

"I believe a counselor is a high priority addition that should be considered," Hobart said.

Allan J. Hartwick, 47, a Novesta Township crop and beef farmer, feels that serving on the board is his opportunity to repay and to serve the school district that has and is educating his children.

"I feel that somebody has to do it," Hartwick said. "It's kind of a thankless job, but a guy ought to be willing to take his turn."

Two of Hartwick's four children have graduated from Cass City schools. Two are currently in high school.

Hartwick has served on the Novesta Township Zoning Board for the past nine years. He has been the zoning board chairman for the past two years. He is also a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee for the school district, and a past member of the Agricultural Advisory Committee.

"I feel that a person on the school board should work to give students the best possible education with the money that is available," Hartwick said is a board member's responsibility to the taxpayer.

Hartwick feels there is a need for an additional counselor in the lower grade levels. He explained that some parents do not take the time to work out problems with their children, and an additional counselor would be an asset.

Hartwick feels the school should continue to stress the basics in the classrooms.

"I am one of the old ones. I am more for reading, writing and arithmetic for them (the students)," Hartwick said. He added that if a student is taught how to read, then he will be able to figure out most problems.

Shooting suspect skips court

A 35-year-old Caro woman, charged with attempting to murder her ex-husband, had her preliminary hearing rescheduled after she failed to appear for a May 31 hearing in Tuscola County District Court.

Summoned on a bench warrant, Sally J. Sharp appeared Monday in front of District Court Judge Richard Kern. Kern rescheduled her preliminary hearing to 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Sharp, 128 First St., Caro, remains in the county jail after bond was re-posted by Kern to $50,000.

After Sharp failed to show up for her originally-scheduled May 31 preliminary hearing, a two-day search was conducted by law enforcement agencies.

Sharp was spotted at 12:30 p.m. Saturday walking nude by marine patrolers and searchmen along a bank of the Cass River, east of Caro. She was taken immediately into custody.

Sharp was first seen by fishermen Friday afternoon in the Cass River. Apparently, she was standing in chest-deep water in a bathrobe near Chippewa Landing Park on M-24, police said.

Sharp was originally released May 22 on a $25,000 bond following her arraignment on the felony charges.

The charges stem from the May 21 shooting of Jerry Sharp at a cabin she was renting on Murray Road, about five miles east of Caro. He was shot at about 10:45 p.m., police said.

Police first learned of the shooting from the Caro Community Hospital later that night. Jerry Sharp, 35, of 1015 Turner Rd., Caro, sought treatment of a single-gunshot wound in his back.

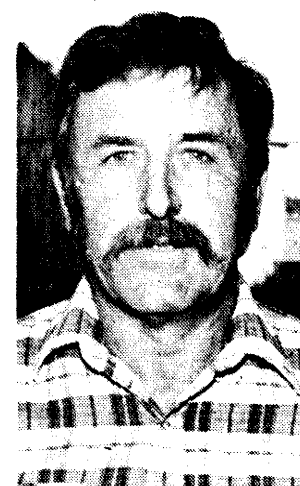

Sally Sharp is charged with assault to commit murder and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

"If It Fitz..."

Dear Ferd

By Jim Fitzgerald

In 1974, because she was leaving home for college, I wrote my youngest daughter an open-letter column that began like this:

"Dear Ferd: As you know, this open letter is being written by popular demand. You demanded that I write it if I want to retain my popularity with you. I wrote one to your big sister when she went away to college and you have always demanded equal time with your siblings, except in the kitchen."

"The idea is that Old Dad should wax wise and sentimental, thus sending his children out into the world laden down with good advice and warm memories, as well as 150 tons of blue jeans and stereo equipment."

"I remember advising your big sister to cool it, to smell the daisies, and to save marriage for dessert. That was only seven years ago and she has already made me a grandfather three times."

"I give you the same advice. But I must admit I never sniffed a daisy that smelled as good as a grandchild nuzzled just below either ear. There is something to be said for ignoring your father's advice, and I just said it."

Naturally, Ferd also ignored my advice. That's why I had to wait from 1974 to 1985 to announce her graduation from Oakland University. Her higher education was slightly interrupted for marriage and the birth of my fourth grandchild, Emily, now three years old.

Lately, a few readers have asked why I don't write as much about Emily as I used to. It's because I don't see her so much anymore. Emily's mother no longer needs me for occasional baby-sitting while she attends classes or does practice-teaching. Ferd's return to school forced me to relearn how to change diapers, put clothes on a squirming little kid who wishes devoutly to remain nude and play Old Maid for two hours without winning once.

I relearned how much joy a skeptical adult can derive from simply watching the innocent explorations of a child who hasn't yet learned all the grown-up reasons for being skeptical. My bar-stool buddies were stunned to hear I'd rather take Emily to a Burger King than play golf or watch a ball game. I was surprised myself. The only possible explanation is that grandfathers have lived long enough to become smarter than fathers.

Anyway, the delay in Ferd's education was a double bonus for me. I didn't have to pay for it; her husband did. And it gave me lots of chances to bribe Emily into thinking I'm a pretty nice old guy, despite everything she overhears from Grandma.

So tonight, at a small party in her honor, I will not only tell Ferd how proud I am of her for graduating magna cum laude, which, I'm told, means practically all A's, I'll also thank her for ignoring my fatherly advice and then letting me baby-sit for the result.

In return, Ferd will accuse me of writing this column simply so I could take bows for it at her party. And she will say I shouldn't have repeated the following paragraphs, which is how I closed that open letter to her in 1974:

"Ferd, a few weeks ago I was writing about you and almost unconsciously typed the words I ask you to never forget. I was telling about the apparently added woman who came into the newspaper office and whispered to the girl at the counter that she wished she had nerve enough to ask me for my autograph. You were the girl at the counter and you fell down laughing. 'He's only my father,' you said. And I automatically wrote:

"I'd rather be her father than anything else."

Women's Council holds meet

A chicken dinner is planned for July with Tom Sutter in charge. The Women's Council will help serve. Proceeds will go to the organ fund.

There will be no meeting in July and August. They will resume Sept. 9.

CBS was a big winner for stock market students

Pepsi proved to be the choice of a generation, and Walt Disney stood the test of time, but CBS proved to be the number one profit maker for three Cass City High School students in their battle with the bears and bulls on the stock market.

The three students, backed with an imaginary $100,000 bankroll, managed to earn about $26,000 in an Eastern Michigan University stock market game, "Top Dollar." The students, part of Ron Nurnberger's business math class, finished in second place in competition with students from 50 high schools in Michigan's central region. Team members Robert Khoury, Steve Khoury and Dawn Anker chose CBS amidst the stock takeover attempt of Ted Turner, the sports broadcasting mogul from Georgia. The team's other choices, Pepsi and Walt Disney earned a small profit, but CBS was their top money earner.

Another of Nurnberger's teams place fifth in the region. Team members Rhonda Smith, LuAnne Messing, Laneda Shake, Tammy Marotz and Sabrina Moran finished fifth in the region, earning about $17,000 from their $100,000 investment. The team bought and sold stock at random, making several changes each week. Under competition rules, teams were required to buy and sell at least one stock a week, with a maximum of six transactions per week. The stock market game lasted 10 weeks. There were 12 teams from Nurnberger's and Mrs. Kate Jackson's business classes that competed in the stock market game.

During the competition, students spent one class day a week studying and analyzing the stock market. Because several of the students came from families that work for Walbro Corporation, they wanted to buy Walbro stock, but were not allowed to because the stock is sold on NASDAQ exchange. The students were required to purchase stocks from the NYSE and the American Stock Exchange.

The two teams earned $30 from their performance in the game. The money was spent on a pizza party for Nurnberger's business math class.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

The time is drawing near when the law says you must buckle up when driving or riding in the front seat of cars.

To get ready for this, an attempt has been made here to use the belt. During the first few weeks, more often than not plenty of ground had been covered before the forgotten seat belt was remembered.

It's getting easier now, although I confess that when driving in town, more often than not the seat belt remains unbuckled.

Just a hunch, but it's a good bet that using seat belts will become normal for all drivers. That's because most folks know that it improves chances for avoiding serious injuries in crashes.

It just takes a law to get us motivated.

In a neighboring paper, "The Oxford Leader" publisher Jim Sherman tells about spending 100 bucks (that's a century note, friend,) for a round of golf at Pebble Beach in California. What's more, he says that it's worth it. Plenty of others do, too. Sherman had reservations a month or so in advance and received a 6:42 a.m. tee-off time. And all the time I figured $60 a round at the new Jack Nicklaus course at Traverse City was out of this world.

Live and learn.

There has been a good deal of speculation about what effect the detour of M-53 through Cass City will have on business.

I'd guess not too much. Saying that let me point out that there may be doubt about whether or not it will help business; no one is saying that it could in any way hurt business.

At the very least, it should acquaint our town with a lot of Lake Huron bound folks who never knew we existed.

Our dog, Fooz, charging up at you with his choppers showing is guaranteed to chill the blood right down to the toes.

After all, he's an Airedale and weighs in at 55 pounds or more. That's just a guess, because Fooz has a mind of his own when it comes to standing still for anything, including weighing.

When he heads for the vet for shots and grooming and what have you, the doctor gets out the needle with the tranquilizer. There's no other way. Not with this one-of-a-kind dog that our three kids brought home for Christmas three years ago.

A shrink could have a field day with Fooz. Providing he could go the course. How do you figure a dog afraid of shadows on the wall, yet ready to attack a moving lawn mower? Sometimes it's hard to figure just what is bugging Fooz when he refuses to set foot in a room where minutes before he stretched out and was sound asleep.

The way we do it is to see if something had been changed from the way it was. The other day Fooz decided that he wouldn't venture into the kitchen. Even the offer of food wasn't enough.

We went through the check off system. An ironing board was leaning against the wall. We moved it. Presto! Fooz came charging in.

There isn't much you can do with Fooz. His idea of going for a walk is to keep charging against the leash so hard that he half chokes himself at every step.

One of his favorite games is to grab a newspaper, a shoe, a book, anything that he figures you might want and then to challenge you for a chase to get it back.

When he's not in the house, Fooz is kept on a leash in our back yard. Around the patio he's constructed a moat. He digs and digs. We call it our moonscape area. Craters everywhere.

Besides the everyday trouble, there's the problem of what to do when you leave. Fooz just loves to travel. Fooz just loves that is. That means he wants a spot smack in the middle of the front seat with his nose against the air conditioning vent.

On a trip to the north country we manage to keep him in the back seat until about West Branch when he finally wears us out and makes it up front.

The obvious question is, why put up with him at all?

The obvious answer is that he's edged his way into our lives and we'll put up with most anything.

He did it by doing what every dog does best.

He showers us with affection and blind trust. You can't say no to that.

McLeody Days

By Bill McLeod

One of the best "perks" that I get from working at the Chronicle is I see all of the news before it reaches John Q. Public.

My favorite pre-print reading comes late Tuesday night, when I secretly creep upstairs to the layout room, grab a galley of advertising liners and see what used "treasures" people are getting rid of. For me, the ultimate in late-night reading is to scan the garage sale listings. Long before anyone else has a chance to see the great deals, I have already mapped out my plan of attack.

To be a successful garage sale shopper, you have to know well in advance what steps it takes to get the best deals.

Step 1 - Friday night I go to the bank, cash my check, and grab a handful of singles. If you are going to haggle with the seller, then you don't want to insult him by handing him a $20 bill for an item you argued the price down on. I always want to leave the sale with the person thoroughly convinced that I gave them my last dollar. I want them to feel like they gave me a good deal because it was all I could afford.

Another trick that helps satisfy the seller is when I go over to my wife, and explain to her that I need some more money because I am paying more than I can afford. It always leaves a good impression on the person running the garage sale.

Step 2 - Start early Saturday morning, but don't feel like you have to buy the item on your first visit to the sale. As the day drags on, the seller begins to have thoughts about having to put the stuff away for another year. He is a lot easier to haggle with at sundown.

Step 3 - Never go to a neighbor's garage sale. Arguing over the price of something ruins a friendship, but since they expect to deal down on the asking price, it is always marked up. If a person is going to lose a friend, it had better be a good deal.

Step 4 - After you arrive home, don't be too disappointed when the stuff you bought doesn't work, fit, or has a large tear that you didn't see when you bought it. It is all part of the game. A refrigerator I bought that was "such a deal" lasted about three days.

I wasn't so upset over losing the $10 on the cost of the refrigerator, he was asking $20. But losing $30 worth of groceries, that I wasn't able to haggle on the price of, did upset me.

Appeals court overrules 1984 circuit court sentence

The Michigan Court of Appeals has determined that a 3 to 6-year jail sentence given to a 25-year-old Caro woman April 13, 1984, "does not seem appropriate" and has ordered the sentence be reversed.

Sharrie L. Stewart, 3344 W. Gilford Rd., Caro, was found guilty by Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick Joslyn after a jury found her guilty of larceny in a building. She was arrested for stealing various items from Fisher Big Wheel, Caro. After she was found guilty, Stewart pleaded guilty to a habitual offender charge.

The Michigan Court of Appeals docket states that Stewart is entitled to resentencing because the trial court erroneously believed that a maximum sentence under the habitual offender statute was mandatory.

The court rejected a prosecutor's recommendation of one year in the county jail under the assumption that by giving Stewart a 3 to 6-year prison term, she would be out in the community in a shorter period of time. Stewart had indicated that she would rather be imprisoned than face county jail if the court chose jail, because in prison she could receive help and college courses.

The appeals court ruled that resentencing is mandated because the maximum sentence here, which is permissible but not mandatory by law, does not reflect the intent of the trial court nor the gravity of the crime, nor the defendant's past conduct.

"Therefore, because the court intended to give the defendant a reduced sentence, and improperly assumed that a maximum of six years was mandatory, we remand for resentencing," the Appeals Court docket states.

Saginaw woman killed in May 29 auto accident

A 55-year-old Saginaw woman was killed May 29 when she lost control of her vehicle on a gravel road in rural Akron Township.

According to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, Ruth E. Houthoofd, 55, 2951 Johns Rd., Saginaw, was killed from injuries sustained when her vehicle left the road, and plunged into a deep drainage ditch on the east side of Kirk Road, one-quarter mile southeast of Loomis Road. According to the report, Houthoofd was driving home from a family member's house at 6941 Kirk Road, when the accident happened. She had traveled less than 500 feet from the residence when she lost control, and rolled the vehicle over into the ditch. The vehicle was completely submerged in the water. Houthoofd had left the Kirk Road residence at 11:30 p.m.

When a Sheriff's Department Deputy arrived at the accident scene at 8:00 a.m. May 30, only the vehicle's four tires were above the water level.

A Tuscola County Medical Examiner's report states that Houthoofd was killed from injuries sustained when the vehicle went into the ditch.

Rotary and village open new park

The finishing touches on a newly-developed park on the corner of Main and Ale Street were put on recently by the Cass City Rotary Club with a little help from its friends - the village's Department of Public Works.

The Rotary Club donated $900 to finance the project. Five benches and six flower planters were installed for about $500, while an additional $400 was spent for stump removal.

Chemical Bank, 6522 Main, Cass City, owns the plot of land on which the park is located. The bank presently is leasing the property to the village, but may opt to sell at anytime. "Anything we put in can't be permanent," Rotary Club member Jerry Prieskorn, Cass City, said. "We're putting in things that can be moved."

It's a "wait and see" attitude, according to Prieskorn, regarding any additions to the park.

"We're hoping it will be used during the Fourth of July, the sidewalk sales, or Christmas time. I'd like to see it used for a place to watch the world go by. And have it used by all age groups - not just the senior citizens. It's for everybody," Prieskorn said.

Calcium supplements prevent osteoporosis

My doctor has told me that I am at risk of developing osteoporosis and should start taking a calcium supplement. How much calcium should I take and what product should I use?

There are many forms of calcium supplements available over the counter without a prescription and all are touted to be beneficial in the prevention and treatment of osteoporosis (the excessive loss of bone density). The recommended daily allowance (RDA) of calcium for adults is 800 mg per day; however, a higher daily intake may be required to achieve a positive calcium balance, especially in older adults who absorb calcium less efficiently. Current recommendations state that by taking between 100 and 1500 mg of calcium per day you may reduce bone loss and decrease the effects of osteoporosis.

Any form of calcium supplement may be used; however, they vary in the amount of calcium they provide. For instance, 1000 mg of calcium carbonate provides 400 mg of calcium while 1000 mg of calcium gluconate contains only 100 mg of calcium. A summary of supplements shows that:

- Calcium carbonate (oyster shell calcium, Oscal, Tums*, etc.) is usually the least expensive and supplies the most calcium per tablet.
- *Calcium gluconate provides a small amount of calcium and must be taken frequently throughout the day.
- *Calcium lactate should be used with caution in people who are lactose intolerant.

*Many other supplements are available including calcium levulinate, calcium chloride and chelated calcium, but these may be accompanied by side effects such as stomach irritation, constipation and bitter or salty taste.

calcium available, most women today only receive approximately 450 mg of calcium per day from their diet. This is well below the recommended daily requirements. Also, most of the foods that are high in calcium would require that you eat large amounts on a daily basis to achieve the recommended calcium intake. For example, milk is one of the highest sources of dietary calcium (approximately 290 mg per 8 oz.) but you would have to drink one quart every day.

Marlette squeaks by Red Hawks in district opener

Cass City Red Hawks bowed out of the district softball tournament Friday at Cass City Recreational Park when heavily favored Marlette Red Raiders scored two runs in the last inning to win, 9-8.

Coach Jim Fox said that his charges hit the ball hard and his iron maiden pitcher Yvette Hurd pitched well, well enough to upset the Raiders. Unfortunately, he added, our fielding stunk up the place.

For most of the game it appeared that the Raiders were going to polish off the Hawks about like expected. It was tied at three-all after two innings, but Marlette pushed across three big counters in the fourth and added another in the sixth to push comfortably ahead, 7-3.

Cass City came charging back in the last inning with five big runs keyed by a home run by Becky Severance.

A couple of errors proved fatal to Cass City's chances of springing an upset and Marlette scored the winning runs in the last inning on just one hit.

Cass City was led at the plate by Deb Cook with two hits in three tries and by Severance with three RBI's and Lisa Benitez with two.

Long was the winning pitcher, allowing five hits and walking five. Hurd was touched for eight hits and walked three.

YVETTE HURD gave up eight hits in Cass City's 9-8 loss to Marlette in district tournament play Friday. Costly errors were instrumental in eliminating the Hawks from tournament play.

Cass City's Benitez selected to first team by coaches

The Thumb B Association all-conference teams in softball and baseball have been selected by coaches of the teams.

Cass City placed Lisa Benitez on the first team and Deb Cook on the second team. Cass City, which ended in last place in baseball, failed to place a player on either of the first two squads.

Among the girls, Julie Miller, Brenda Severance and Shannon McIntosh received honorable mention. For the boys, Jim Crawley and Steve Fox were on the honorable mention list.

Coach of the year for softball was Chuck Barnett of league leading Vassar. Brian Spencer of Imlay

City and Bob Shadley of North Branch were named coaches of the year in baseball.

In the Thumb B the Lakers, Imlay City and North Branch shared league honors with 10-4 records.

Finishes 8th in 3,200

Futility ends for Bliss; wins medal at State Finals

by Wayne Kamidori

It took him eight seasons of hard work, but Kevin Bliss finally did it Saturday in Clare.

Bliss' finish in the 3,200-meter run at the Class C State Finals earned the Cass City distance runner an eighth-place state medal.

"He was tickled pink," head coach Doug Grezeszak said. "It took him eight seasons of a lot of hard work just for that little round medal."

Bliss had made the State Finals in golf this year and in cross country four years in a row, but came back empty-handed. Not this time, though.

The Red Hawk girls' 400-meter relay team broke a school record time and its 800-meter relay team had its season-best time, but both clockings were not good enough to earn a medal.

Bliss ran a "good, smart race," according to Grezeszak, by not racing out with the rest of the pack.

Content to run at his own pace, Bliss was in second-to-last place after the race's first half-mile. The leaders were running at close to world-record time over the first lap, Grezeszak said.

At the midway point of the race, however, Bliss rallied and began to challenge for the lead. At the same time, he found himself to be in a Catch-22 situation.

Should he continue with the leaders and risk tiring? Or should he lag back and save some energy for the race's finish?

"He started thinking around the fifth or sixth lap saying, 'Hey, this is the State Finals. I'm not supposed to be up here (in the lead),'"

Bliss decided to slow his pace.

"I wanted to go by them, but then I thought I might not make it. I don't know if I made the right decision,"

Bliss said. "I wish I could run it again."

Crossing the finish line in 9:56.46, Bliss didn't get first place, but he got a medal.

"If I were a college coach, Kevin would be the one I'd be looking for. He has a lot of untapped potential and he's still developing," Grezeszak said.

Bliss plans to attend Saginaw Valley State College in the fall, but not to run track.

Ann Leslie, Teri Wilson, Holly Steinbauer and Joann Steely did the best they could -- breaking a school record. But their time of :52.11 in the 400-meter relay could not earn them a medal.

Karianne Henni turned in a gutsy performance in the 3,200 relay. Henni was bothered by a pulled sartorius muscle, a deep muscle in the thigh, but decided to "grin and bear it," Grezeszak said.

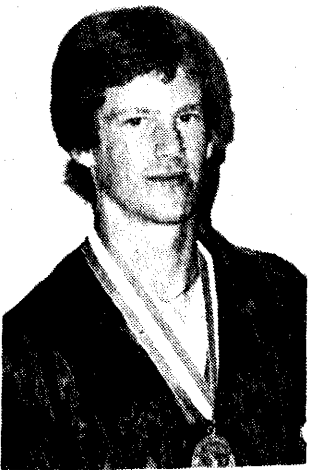

The reason. It was to allow her relaymate Chris Tuckey, who qualified for just one event, to compete in the State Finals. "We talked to her doctor and he said there was no risk of further injury, it would just be very painful," Grezeszak said.

Despite the pain, Henni ran her 800-meter leg only six seconds more than her season-best.

Suffering the same no-medal fate as the 400-meter relay team, Steinbauer, Leslie, Lisa Nicholas and Gilly Bryant posted their best time of the season in the 800-meter relay to no avail.

Cass City's only other performer was discus thrower Tim Brown. Brown's preliminary-round toss of 231-0 missed the cut by about six feet.

Fast-pitch tourney features top teams

Croft-Clara is synonymous with lumber in more than one way.

Five of the best fast-pitch softball teams in Michigan will bring their lumber -- softball bats -- into Cass City to compete in the first annual Croft-Clara Invitational.

The tournament will begin at 10:00 a.m. Saturday with games proceeding all day. Games Sunday again will begin at 10:00 a.m. with the championship game scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m.

The five-team field will feature the Mitchell Corp. team of Corunna. Mitchell placed second in the Class A Nationals in 1983.

Another team to watch is host Croft-Clara who is the defending ISC state champions.

AUL of Flint, McDonald's of Midland and Huron Fish Co. of Saginaw round out the field.

Graduate course to be offered by Michigan State

Graduate education courses are being offered during the summer term in Cass City beginning June 18.

TE 810A: Principles of Curriculum Improvement will be taught in Cass City.

For information and registration contact the MSU Regional Center, 115 W. Genesee Ave., Saginaw, at (517) 755-1074.

Track coach resigns Monday

by Wayne Kamidoi

Doug Grezeszak, head coach of the Cass City High School track teams, ended rumors by calling it quits Monday afternoon.

Grezeszak announced his resignation at noon terminating his post as the boys' and girls' track coach.

Splitting the coaching duties in a co-ed fashion rather than designating separate coaches for each team was the major problem Grezeszak faced.

"I didn't want to coach under the situation I had this spring. It was designed by me (two years ago), so it was my own fault," Grezeszak said.

In 1984, both teams won the Thumb B team championships to give Grezeszak his second and third league crowns. Grezeszak, who also has been the cross country coach for the past four years, guided the girls' team to the top of the Thumb B in 1983 for his first league title.

This season the girls' team finished second in the league meet and the boys' team placed fourth.

"We split the coaching by events and the kids got better attention. In the past, it worked (when both teams were equally as good). This year, however, the girls were better than the boys. I don't think the boys could handle it," Grezeszak said. "They (the boys' team) felt I enjoyed coaching the girls better than the boys and they didn't like that. And it showed who tried harder," Grezeszak added.

Cass City School District Superintendent Don Crouse said plans to develop separate boys' and girls' track coaches are being discussed.

"During the start of the season he tried to split his time, but he didn't see much promise in our team (midway through the season)," said a boys' track team member, who asked to remain anonymous. "But it isn't over until it's over, right?"

Co-captain Kevin Bliss, who was the only Red Hawk to win a medal at the season-ending Class C State Finals Saturday, said "four or five good guys" either quit or didn't go out for the team this year. "I thought we could have had one of the best teams in the area," Bliss said.

Grezeszak said there were "two prime incidents" depicting the resentments within a year. One confrontation came at the State Finals last year and another at a dual meet in April against Vassar, he said.

"When that happens, the heads are going to roll—and I was the one," Grezeszak said. "I thought I should step down. Evidently things weren't going right."

High School Athletic Director Roland Pakonen declined to comment on Grezeszak's resignation.

AFTER 40 YEARS Dolly Tracy was reunited with her brother, Frank Harlow, when Harlow and a sister, Margaret Winfield, left, visited in Cass City.

Brother-sister reunited after 40 long years apart

Dolly Tracy is one of the war brides that came to the United States from England after World War II. There was one obvious drawback to leaving the country of her birth to start a new life here.

That's leaving friends and relatives. And the well-known Cass Cityan had plenty of both to miss.

She comes from a family of 12, of which 9 are living. And since the family is not one to correspond, when she said goodbye to England she virtually cut off all connection with the family for 20 years.

That's when she returned to England to see the members of the family.

One of the nine surviving children now is Frank Harlow. He moved to Canada with $200 in his pocket and soon made his way to a comfortable life in his new home in British Columbia. He doesn't write much either and it was 40 years since he had seen his sister.

That was all remedied last week when one of the sisters, Margaret Winfield, whom Tracy saw when she visited England 20 years ago, returned the favor and brought along brother Frank with her.

The couple is traveling through parts of the United States in a motor home as Frank enjoys retirement from his job as a prison guard and Margaret is on a six-week leave from her position as a school cook.

The couple spent a few days in Cass City with Tracy before heading back to Canada for Margaret's return to England.

Each good-naturedly accused the others of being the ones not to write and each vowed to do better now that family ties have been re-established once again.

Education levels sound despite penny pinching students. Anything smaller than that and it's not economically feasible," Crouse said.

Fund raisers have been used as a method to obtain the "frills," such as a computer system, at the Kingston Elementary School.

"If we want the 'extras,' we have to have them (fund raisers) to subsidize them," Kramer said. "I was totally against them and I still am, but that's what you've got to do to keep up-to-date."

Whether the spending per student is high or low, the consensus seems to be the area's school districts are providing a sound education.

For example, Pietscher said Bad Axe has received an acceptable level of education status from the North Central Association, a voluntary educational accrediting agency, since 1925.

"We're offering a good basic education (at Cass City), and we're still making efforts to improve in all areas—especially math and science," Richards said.

Being ranked near the basement of the per-student-expenditure category has its peaks and valleys, according to Pietscher.

"You constantly have to have an attitude of restraint (toward spending money). It's like having a family and you have a lower income than the folks next door. It's difficult for your children to accept that because they can't have the new car or the new toys the other kids get," Pietscher said.

"Am I embarrassed? I think it would be great to have more money but I'm proud of what we do with the money we do get," Pietscher boasted.

Area dropout rate below state average

Although the state average for students dropping out of high school is at a 23-year low of 5.39 percent annually, statistics show that an even lower percentage of students at area schools will quit before graduation. Right now schools in the 3-county Upper Thumb area are below the state dropout rate.

"Dropouts are certainly not a problem at Owen-Gage," said high school principal Wayne Wright. At Owen-Gage, an average of one student per year quits school. There are 111 students enrolled in high school.

Wright pointed out that because of the rural location, there are not many jobs for kids without a high school education. He added that in large cities, where more jobs are available that do not require an education, students are more likely to be enticed into leaving school and entering the job market.

"Being in a rural area gives the kids an incentive to stay," Wright pointed out. "For the kid that drops out, what in the world is he going to do," Wright said about the lack of jobs for unskilled workers.

Wright explained that most dropouts come from families that do not stress education. One recent dropout at Owen-Gage was the fourth family member to quit school. "They just don't value an education in that family,"

Wright, who also serves as counselor at Owen-Gage, said the first thing he asks students who are considering dropping out is how are they going to support a family? Most students stay in school.

At Cass City High School about 2.6 to 2.9 percent of the students enrolled will drop out of school each year. This includes girls who leave because of pregnancy, and students who are expelled.

"A majority of kids who drop out, drop out just when they are 16," said high school counselor Jerry Cleland. "If we can keep them past that 16th birthday, then we pretty well have them."

Most students who drop out simply do not return to class for the start of the school year. "We don't have a handy way of convincing them to stay," Cleland said.

For students who are considering dropping out during the school year, Cleland works to convince them to stay. "Whenever we can reach a student we encourage them to try to complete the semester they are in," Cleland said. He uses an approach of getting a student to take school "one step at a time." At the end of the semester, if the student is still determined to quit, Cleland tries to convince them to enroll into alternate forms of education, such as completing high school through night classes, correspondence courses, or by passing a General Education Development (GED) examination.

"I think a GED is evidence of an academic success, but a student misses out on a lot of the intangible things," Cleland said. He pointed out that by earning a diploma through correspondence courses, or a GED program, the student misses out on the support and social activities with his classmates. Cleland feels the support and social activities tend to "knock the rough edges" off a student, giving them a more socially accepted life style.

"I can't imagine a student getting the same support from a correspondence course," Cleland added. He pointed out that a student taking GED courses has to work very hard to earn a passing grade. "They will do a great deal of extra work because that gives them a great sense of accomplishment."

At Cass City High School the largest percentage of dropouts come from families that have a history of moving frequently. "Our own dropout rate, of students who have started in Cass City schools, is low," Cleland explained.

Another factor that Cleland considers very important to the dropout rate is the influence that parents place on the value of an education. He stressed that a positive approach, with the parents giving the student a lot of encouragement and support, will help a child stay in school.

KINGSTON

This year at the Kingston School District, seven students quit school, three more than last year. High school counselor Jim Priestap said that of the seven students who quit, four were girls and three were boys. Two of these students were from foster care programs.

"Realistically, I don't think we have a large number who quit," he said. Of the students who quit this year, four were juniors and three were seniors.

"It hits them in the 11th grade. They see the handwriting on the wall," Priestap said. Potential dropouts will realize in their junior year that they do not have enough credits to graduate with their classmates.

Priestap feels that most of the students who are considering dropping out may be experiencing problems at home. In cases where the student is having a family problem, Priestap encourages the family to seek counseling, an approach that has worked in some cases.

"The parent is the most important person in that child's life," Priestap said about the need for a good relationship between the student and his parents. "I never look at it as a kid's problem, but a family problem." He pointed out that a vast majority of parents at Kingston are concerned about their child's education, and are involved with their child's school activities.

Because many of the students who drop out are having problems with their parents, they may leave home, which makes it even more difficult for them to return to school.

"Most of the kids do not stay at home. They go someplace else," Priestap said. The students will go live with friends or relatives, and many are old enough to live on their own.

UBLY

At the Ubyly School District, five students out of the 360 who are enrolled in high school quit this year.

Of the dropouts, three were sophomores. The school averages a dropout rate of about three percent each year.

Ubyly Counselor Hilary Cook feels that many dropouts are not having a successful experience at school, either socially or academically, and decide to leave. After the student drops out, few will return to the regular classroom. Cook feels that when the new Huron County Skill Center is finished, many dropouts will complete their education through high school completion courses that are to be offered at the center. The skill center is scheduled to open for the start of the 1986-87 school year.

Cook also gives tests to students who are enrolled in the GED program.

"A regular high school diploma carries more weight (for prospective employers), but a GED is better than no diploma at all," Cook said. "It shows the student did try and improve himself."

Cook said about 70 percent of the students who take a GED test will pass the examination the first time. He tests 50 to 70 students each year. The students take tests on writing, reading, social studies, math and science.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Charles Cramer, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, Caro, said the days of students dropping out of school and getting a good job are over. He explained that most employers are requiring a high school diploma, or the GED equivalent.

Cramer explained that persons who drop out of high school must earn their diploma if they are to find a good job. He added that employers look more favorably on a prospective employee that has completed high school after dropping out, than a dropout who has not earned a diploma.

"Here's a person who made a mistake when they were young, and they have corrected it," Cramer said is the approach that many employers take.

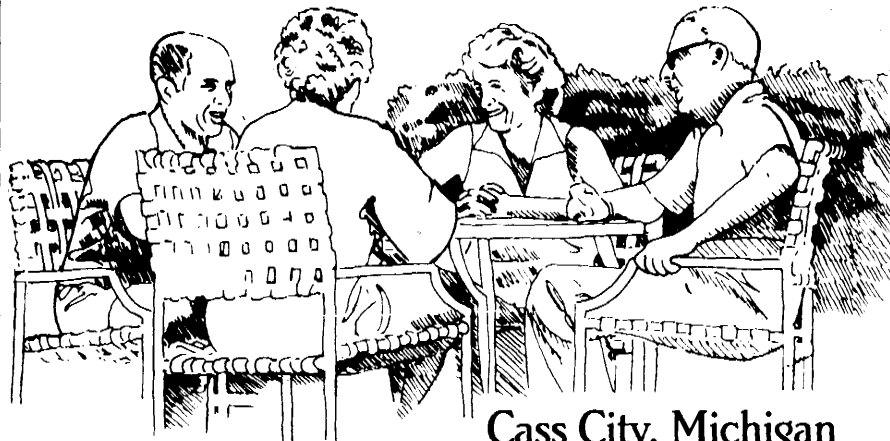

Cramer is presently testing prospective employees for factory jobs at General Motors. In addition to requiring a high school diploma, they require the applicant pass a math and reading skills test before they are hired. He said that many high school graduates are having problems passing the test.

OTHER APPROACHES

Richard Weitz, director of admissions for Delta College, said they accept dropouts, without a high school degree, if they are 18 years old or older, and have been out of school for at least six months. In addition to a high school diploma, completion of an adult education program, or a GED completion is accepted as high school completion. The student may choose any program offered at Delta College, for an associates degree. To go on for a bachelor's degree, a dropout must earn a high school diploma or its equivalent.

Jury finds Caro man guilty of breaking and entering

A 24-year-old Caro man was sentenced to 3 to 10 years in Southeastern Michigan Prison, Jackson, by Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick Joslyn.

Judge Joslyn sentenced Anthony A. Bennett, 322 Wells St., Caro, Monday, after a jury found him guilty of breaking and entering an unoccupied building with intent to commit larceny. The charges stem from a May 6, 1984 breaking and entering of the Michigan Sugar Company, 725 Almer St., Caro. Tools and a toolbox were taken during the robbery.

Also Monday, Judge Joslyn sentenced Carl W. Jacques, 20, 502 Fremont St., Apt. 2, Caro, to six months in the county jail on a charge of attempted larceny in a building. He was granted a work release from jail.

The charge stems from the Dec. 5, 1984 theft of cigarettes, lottery tickets, alcohol and other items from Lucky's Kountry Korner party store, 1792 E. Caro Rd., Caro. Jacques was originally charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny. He pleaded guilty to the lesser charge April 22, 1985.

Jacques was also sentenced to five years' probation, ordered to pay a $500 fine and $500 court costs. He is also to make full restitution to the party store owner.

Judge Joslyn also sentenced Julio Delgado, 19, 869 E. Huron Ave., Vassar, to 90 days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to receive and conceal stolen property.

Delgado was originally charged with receiving and concealing stolen property valued at over $100. The stolen property, aluminum bottom boards, was taken from Ervin Industries, Vassar.

Judge Joslyn also sentenced Delgado to three years' probation, ordered him to pay a $200 fine, $500 court costs, and restitution of $5,593.

Also Monday, Judge Joslyn sentenced Kenneth Maguire, 24, 6017 Fulton

St., Mayville, to 30 days in the county jail, and a 60-day deferred jail sentence after he pleaded guilty to a probation violation charge.

Maguire was sentenced to two years' probation Dec. 19, 1983, after he pleaded guilty to larceny in a building. He was arrested Nov. 8, 1984 on an impaired driving charge.

Judge Joslyn accepted a not guilty plea from Christopher L. Gilmour, 20, 6372 Fourth St., Cass City, on a probation violation charge. Gilmour was originally placed on probation Sept. 26, 1983, for his involvement with the breaking and entering of a church at 4449 Koepfgen Rd., Cass City. He was placed on probation for 60 months. Gilmour violated the terms of his probation May 3, 1985, after a Sanilac County District Court jury found him guilty of a charge of larceny under $100. A trial date has not been set.

Also Monday, Judge Joslyn accepted a guilty plea from Lee R. Collins, 26, Rainbow Motel, Room 2, Caro, on a charge of attempted larceny in a building. Collins was originally charged with larceny in a building. The charge stems from the May 15 theft of eight packages of beef snacks from the Party Shoppe, 1020 W. Sanilac Rd., Caro.

Judge Joslyn will sentence Collins June 17. Bond was set at $1,000.

Also Monday, Judge Joslyn accepted a guilty plea from John W. Wilson, 31, 10108 State Rd., Millington, on a charge of larceny over $100. The charge stems from the March 7, 1984 theft of tools, firearms, a tape player and an AM-FM receiver from Fred Earls, Arbel Township. Wilson was originally charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny, and larceny over $100.

Judge Joslyn will sentence Wilson July 1. Bond continues at $15,000.

In Circuit Court action May 28, Judge Joslyn sentenced Kirk S. Jackson, 23, 742 Williamsburg St., Apt. 7, Caro, to six months in the county jail on a charge of larceny in a building. The charge stems from a Jan. 30 shoplifting of non-prescription appetite control pills from the Central Shop Rite store, 1520 W. Caro Rd., Caro. Jackson pleaded guilty to the charge March 25.

In Circuit Court action May 31, a jury found Kerry Gaudreau, 21, 116 N. Main St., Vassar, guilty on a charge of delivery of marijuana.

Gaudreau was arrested by an undercover law enforcement officer from the Flint Police Department, working with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, after she sold him marijuana valued at $25. The sale was made at her Vassar home.

Judge Joslyn will sentence Gaudreau July 15. Bond continues at $3,500 under the condition that she move from her present residence.

May 29, Judge Joslyn accepted a guilty plea from Jeffrey S. LaPratt, 23, 1015 Turner Dr., Apt. 9, Caro, on a charge of attempted delivery of marijuana.

LaPratt was originally charged with delivery of marijuana after selling marijuana to an undercover Lapeer County Sheriff's Department deputy. The Lapeer County deputy was working with Tuscola County Sheriff's Department deputies.

Joslyn will sentence LaPratt July 1. A presentence investigation has been ordered. Bond continues at $5,000.

Energy

Better start turning on the lights. According to the Worldwatch Institute, global energy use is expected to grow by 225 percent in the next 40 years, reports National Wildlife magazine. It will take the equivalent of two additional oil producing Saudi Arabias and a tripling of world coal production to meet the world's projected energy needs.

Sanilac Historical Society to begin 1985 season

The Sanilac County Historical Museum is opening for its 1985 season the week end of June 15. Open to the public during June on Saturdays and Sundays, the hours are from 1 to 4:30 p.m. During the months of July and August it is open on its regular schedule from Thursday through Sunday through the Labor Day week end. The museum is located on Lakeshore Road, U.S. 25, on the west side of the road at the south edge of the Village of Port Sanilac.

The museum is a majestic, three story, 20 room Victorian mansion. It has been the mecca of history buffs for many years. Built in 1872 it was the home of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller Loop. He was a physician and a civic leader and was not only concerned about the medical welfare of people, but was involved in the social development of the area. He was instrumental in changing the name "Bark Shanty" to Port Sanilac. This community had become a thriving port and was well known throughout the rest of the state.

Maintained as a family residence for three generations, the home was deeded to the Sanilac County Historical Society in 1964 by the grandson of the original owners, Captain Stanley G. Harrison. The home was given completely furnished with the antiques that had been acquired by the Loops. Seven acres were included in the bequest and it was specifically donated for a museum.

Also located on this site and in keeping with the history of the area are two other buildings of interest. There is a mid-1800 log cabin completely equipped with the furniture of that period. It is known as the Banner Cab as it was moved from Banner near Sandusky to the museum site.

There is also a dairy museum which many people come to see. This houses many of the dairy artifacts of the early dairy industry. Sanilac County is noted as a leading producer of dairy products and is tops in the state.

The museum is owned and operated by the Sanilac County Historical Society. There is a small fee for visitation.

Jane Miller, who has been Executive Director of the museum for several years is on hand for visitations and will conduct tours if arrangements are made in advance. The number to call is 622-9946.

The museum has an extensive collection of books on early medicine, religion, marine and maritime history, science, agriculture and biographies. Included are exhibits of authentic Victorian pieces, American paintings and prints and a native rock and ore exhibit plus many early Indian artifacts.

Dan Ritter of Elkton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ritter, will also begin the Crop Production Program at Michigan State University this fall. He was very active in high school, receiving honors and awards in all aspects of FFA, as well as being an award-winning athlete. THE BURIED MAN by Norman Stahl (Mystery). Polish firebrand Stanislaw Kuzianik heads the Iron Fist, a more radical version of Solidarity. The KGB wants him dead, but it must seem a natural death and occur in a non-Soviet bloc location. Kuzianik's U.S. visit is a perfect opportunity; a "buried" KGB mole, the title character, is activated. He is Polish-born Steven Glasgow, pastor of Our Lady of Jasna Gora in Lost Hessian, Pa., home parish of Kuzianik's father. Glasgow, a good priest turned non-believer, has an extra secret in his torrid affair with a beautiful widow. His conscience is further stricken when he discovers that Kuzianik is not only a patriot but also a pure Marxist. Tension builds and betrayals multiply as Glasgow's one, final KGB assignment approaches.

JUBAL SACKETT by Louis L'Amour (fiction). The latest installment of the Sackett clan features Jubal Sackett, a wily, homespun seventeenth-century hero who sets off to traverse the vast, unexplored North American hinterland. As he ranges through and beyond the mountains, Jubal befriends Keokotah, a fiercely proud Kickapoo brave, and together they help shield an astonishingly beautiful Natchez princess from a vengeful renegade Indian and an unscrupulous Spanish soldier. Pitted against a host of adverse elements, Jubal emerges as the epitome of the natural frontiersman, a man who must rely solely upon his five senses and his keen wits in order to survive in the untamed wilderness.

The peregrine falcon, sometimes known as the duck hawk in the U.S., is said to fly at speeds up to 175 miles per hour.

Memorial

IN LOVING MEMORY of our wife and

Ubly and Kingston schools to seek millage increases

ical newcomer Mary Ann Abbe, will be vying for two positions on the board in Monday's election.

Abbe, 36, a mother of two children attending Owen-Gage High School, wants to become more involved with the school district. She feels her "excellent rapport" with many students and faculty in the school district is an asset to her. Abbe has served on the Owen-Gage Citizens Advisory Committee, which has helped to establish new requirements for curriculum, graduation and athletics. She has lived in Gagetown for 18 years and attends St. Agatha's Catholic Church.

Abbe is employed as a DRG coordinator at Hills and Dales General Hospital. She has earned her degree as an accredited records technician from the American Medical Records Association.

Abbe is an active member of the American Medical Records Association, Michigan Medical Records Association, the East Central Quality Assurance Association and an advisory committee member of the Hospital Council of East Central Michigan.

"I feel our present educational program at Owen-Gage is very good," Abbe said. "Our students have the opportunity to excel in life in any field they choose. As a school board member I will do my best to maintain or improve our current standards of education."

LaFave, 47, Gagetown, has been a lifelong resident of Tuscola County. She is a graduate of Owen-Gage High School and a member of St. Agatha's Catholic Church, Gagetown. She has two children who have also graduated from Owen-Gage. LaFave works as a real estate agent for Osen-toski Realty. She has served as secretary for the school board for the past eight years.

LaFave said that her eight years of experience on the board has "increased my awareness of the changing needs and expectations of students as they prepare for life." She explained the role of schools has changed considerably over the years, and must now reflect educational objectives designed to meet new job opportunities and challenges.

LaFave added that one of the important issues in all school districts is the ability to balance the needs of the students within the community's ability to pay for the cost of operating the school.

"Overall I feel we offer an excellent curriculum for a school our size, however at the same time I think there is always room for improvement in any school, regardless of its size," LaFave said. She feels a need to place more emphasis on communication skills, and more stringent testing programs to find a student's strengths and weaknesses.

Warack, 59, Sebewaing, is a state inspector for the Department of Agriculture, and a part-time farmer. Warack has had four children graduate from Owen-Gage High School, and has five children still attending Owen-Gage schools. He has served on the school board for eight years. He is a member of the citizens advisory committee, and an Owen-Gage Band Booster.

Warack explained that he has the experience, desire and ability to work with people in the district to achieve the best possible education for children in Owen-Gage School District.

He feels his responsibility to the residents of the district are to hear and treat the people fairly and honestly, and to use school monies wisely. He added that a board member should make every effort to see that school contracts, and laws governing the school are adhered to.

"I will work to keep our curriculum equal or superior to state and federal mandates, and to give our pupils the tools necessary to attain their goals," Warack said.

KINGSTON DISTRICT

Voters in the Kingston School District will cast their ballots June 10 to fill two vacancies on the school board, and decide the fate of a four-mill renewal.

Kingston Superintendent Dr. Jerry Laycock explained the four-mill renewal, which runs for one year, is the same millage request that voters approved last year. The money raised from the four mills will be used to fund bus transportation programs, and to make maintenance repairs and energy conservation improvements to school buildings.

"It will enable us to continue with present programs and policies outlined by the board," Dr. Laycock said.

Last year voters approved the 4-mill renewal by a 3 to 1 margin. The school levies 29 mills, including nine county allocated mills. One mill generates the district about $50,000.

THE CANDIDATES

Four residents have filed the needed petition signatures to have their names placed on the June 10 ballot. The four will be seeking the expiring terms of Louis Wenzlaff and Janet Grieve.

Wenzlaff is seeking reelection. Grieve has decided not to run for her position on the board.

Wenzlaff, 48, Kingston, a 1955 graduate of Kingston High School, has a bachelor of arts degree from Central Michigan University in health education. His minor was in accounting. He was a business teacher and a football coach at Kingston for four years before leaving to work at the Kingston State Bank. He is president of the Kingston State Bank.

Wenzlaff has served on the Kingston School Board since 1966, and has been president for 10 years. He is a member of the Thumb Electrical Cooperative's board of directors, and a member of the Kingston United Methodist Church. He has one child in the school district.

Richard Lance, 34, Kingston, is the president of the Kingston Jaycees, and the owner of the R.C. Lance Funeral Home, Kingston. Lance graduated from St. Johns High School, St. Johns, Mich., and earned his degree as funeral services director from Vincennes University, Vincennes, IN. He has lived in Kingston for 19 months. Lance is a member of the Kingston United Methodist Church. He has two children in Kingston schools.

Jeffery Newton, 25, 3906 Hurds Corner Rd., Mayville, is a 1978 graduate of Kingston High School and has attended business management courses at Delta College. He is a part-time employee of the Kingston branch of the U.S. Postal Service, and is a manager of the Kingston Mini Mart.

Marlene Powell, 48, 5850 Fisher St., Kingston, has lived in Kingston for the past 16 years. Powell is a Cass City High School graduate.

She is a member of the VFW Women's Auxiliary, Kingston, and has been elected to serve as president this year. She has served on the parent's committee for the Kingston School District's Title I program. She also served as a trustee on the Kingston Village Council for 10 years. Powell is a member of the St. John's Episcopal Church, Sandusky. Three of Powell's children have graduated from Kingston schools, and one is presently in high school.

UBLY DISTRICT

Voters in the Ubly School District will cast their ballots at the June 10 annual school board election to decide the fate of two millage proposals, and to reelect an unopposed incumbent to office.

The school is seeking approval of an 8.65-mill operations renewal request, and a two-mill increase that will be used for roof and maintenance repairs to school buildings, and to purchase several new buses. Both millage proposals are to run for four years.

Voters in the district rejected an identical two-mill increase at a March 26 special election. They also defeated a one-mill increase, earmarked for roof repairs, at a Sept. 4, 1984 election. One mill generates the district about $74,000. The district levies 22.95 mills.

Ubly Schools Business Manager Mark Tenbusch said they need about $150,000 for repairs to roofs on the school buildings. The roof that needs the most attention is the gymnasium roof, which is sliding to the south, off the wall of the building. Repairs to the gymnasium roof are estimated at $35,000 to $40,000.

The school also needs to replace several of its buses. Tenbusch said the school has a "very old" bus fleet, and several have to be replaced. The school presently has 12 buses with more than 100,000 miles on them. The cost of a new bus is about $40,000.

THE CANDIDATE

Julia Heilig is unopposed in her bid for a second term on the Ubly school board. Heilig, 41, 1831 McTaggart Rd., Ubly, graduated from Ubly High School in 1962.

She also graduated from the Port Huron Business School, and has worked as a medical secretary at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe. She is a member of the Thumb Area Writers Club, and of the Christian Mothers organization of the St. John's Catholic Church, Ubly. Heilig and her husband Gerald, an Ubly area farmer, have one child in the Ubly School District.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

There's this group of lawyers, smart as whips, who have found a profitable sideline in real estate. They're in a midwestern state that defines "farms" as anything 10 acres or more, and this is the key to their operation.

They have ample capital and they're in no rush to pick up land. When a farm of 160 acres comes on the market, they'll offer $800 an acre for it, but no more.

After buying such tracts they split it up in 10-acre parcels, build a road or two into the property so each 10 acres has access to the highway. By now they have $1,000 an acre in it, or $10,000 for a 10-acre plot, including a future commission to the real estate broker who sells the 10-acre chunks for homesites. (There's no expense of subdividing if plots are 10 acres or more.)

The homesites or "farms" sell for $20,000, which is still a fair price for 10 acres of decent land, with a road on it. The sales pitch is to the blue-collar workers of the area who have good earnings but not much capital, so the down payment is only 10 percent, or $2,000 for the land. Balance is to be paid over 10 years at 8 percent or whenever building starts, if before 10 years.

All legal costs in buying the land and then selling it are borne by the lawyers, so there's no out-of-pocket cost here. That's an advantage we poor laymen wouldn't have. The attorneys also know, through their connections in the community, the credit standings of most would-be buyers. They haven't yet had to foreclose on a home-site. Even if they did, they could do it at wholesale rates.

Now, given all the facts above — buying a piece of property at $800 an acre, adding $200 to it in improvements and sales commissions, and selling it at $2,000 an acre — why, that's doubling your money. Or is it?

Before you listen too long to the siren songs of land investments, take another look:

1. Assume from time of buying the land, until it's improved, and then sold, only a year has gone by. A buyer comes along with $20,000 cash for one of these 10-acre "farms." A profit of $10,000? Not quite.

These fellows are in 50 percent tax brackets. Since this is a business, the "profit" of $10,000 is not a capital gain, taxed at only 20 percent, but regular income, taxed at 50 percent, in their cases. So they net $5,000 after tax, on a $10,000 investment for one year. It's still a 50 percent return, and just great.

2. Now take the stretched-out pay-back. The buyer takes the full 10 years to pay the balance of $18,000 on a $20,000 homesite. And he pays only 8 percent in the meantime.

The sellers — the lawyers, in their 50 percent tax brackets — net only 4 percent of these 8 percent interest payments. Roughly, that is $3,600 net over the 10 year span, or $7,200 before tax.

Since the first return — the $2,000 down payment comes in pretty soon after the property is bought and improved, assume there's only $8,000 of the partner's money riding and this comes back plus $8,600 more in 10 years. It's more than a double after taxes.

3. The other alternatives are not so clear. The deal can become sticky if bad times and property doesn't sell quickly. Then the original investment may be there a while, and real estate taxes must be paid on the vacant land. On the other hand, in boom times, the homesites sell quickly, and buyers pay off long before the 10-year period. Not even your Apple II computer can figure out all the possibilities.

Take one quick shot at the idea — you double your money after taxes, but it takes 10 years to do it.

I am not smart enough to buy land and close deals and make out land contracts, and all that stuff. I'll take the $8,000 which these fellows tie up, gradually getting it paid back over 10 years, and instead I'll buy a tax-free zero-coupon bond at 10 percent.

Such a bond will pay me back $21,200 in 1995 for my $8,000 invested now. It will all be tax-free. The lawyer group over the same period will get back $16,600 net after tax, for their $8,000 investment.

Novesta to sell tractor

At a Novesta Towns board meeting Monday evening, trustees agreed to sell a 16 horsepower Case tractor with a mower deck and blade. The tractor has been used to mow the township cemetery. A new tractor was purchased three months ago. For information on the tractor, or to submit a sealed bid, contact Nurse Kloc, towns' clerk, 6195 Severance Rd., Cass City. Sealed bids must be submitted by June 28.

Also at the meeting the board discussed a traffic visibility problem at the intersection of Phillips and Shabbona Roads. Kloc explained that pine trees, on private property at the southwest corner of the intersection, obstruct the view of vehicles approaching the corner. Supervisor William O'Dell will contact the Tuscola County Road Commission to see what can be done to improve visibility at the intersection.

The board also discussed putting an asphalt mat on the top of two miles of Novesta Township roads. The roads that were discussed for an asphalt coating were: Severance Road, from Cemetery to Warner Road, and Kelly Road, one mile east of Cemetery Road. No action was taken by the board.

Gagetown man faces sex charge

Charges of first degree criminal sexual conduct have been filed against a 38-year-old Gagetown man by the Tuscola County Prosecutor's Office.

According to Jo Ellen O'Connor of the prosecutor's office, the charges against Guadalupe Garza, 38, 4932 Quinn St., Gagetown, carry a maximum sentence of life in prison.

O'Connor said Garza allegedly engaged in sexual penetration with a person 13 years old.

Garza was arraigned before Tuscola County District Court Judge Richard Kern Monday. Bond was set at $50,000. A pretrial examination has been set for June 11.

Quail

There's new hope for the masked bobwhite quail. At the urging of the National Wildlife Federation and its affiliate, the Arizona Wildlife Federation, the Department of Interior recently announced plans to purchase an Arizona ranch as a national wildlife refuge for the endangered species. According to International Wildlife magazine, the refuge offers the last hope for the quail's survival in the United States, because it is the only place in the country known to provide suitable habitat.
