ELKLAND TOWNSHIP FIREMEN responded twice last week to house fires at the Brenda Peters residence, 1625 N. Phillips Rd., Deford. The first fire was reported Wednesday at 7:55 p.m. The second fire was reported Friday at 2:30 p.m. (Story, page 13)

Owen-Gage renews battle to recover lost property

Owen-Gage School District's quest for the return of property that has been transferred out of the district has once again required the involvement of the Michigan Attorney General to try and end disputes that have been going on for the past 11 years.

At the regular school board meeting Monday night, Supt. Ronald G. Erickson explained attorneys representing the school, property owners of the Elenbaum and Goslin transfer parcels and the attorney general have met to try and reach an agreement that would have some of the property transferred back to the district.

In addition to the Elenbaum and Goslin, the district is attempting to reach an agreement on four other transfer parcels, the Belk, Parker, Voelker and Shaper (part of Elenbaum area) property transfers. These four parcels are presently being held by the State Board of Education.

Erickson told board members that after two meetings with the attorney general, it has been tentatively agreed the district wants back at least all of the non-resident property. Erickson explained non-resident property is described as property on which the owner does not live. At the meeting trustees were given plat maps, and were instructed to identify all the property they knew the owner did not live on. The total amount of property in each of the six property transfer cases has not yet been determined.

Erickson said 10 years ago, 47 percent of the land in the Elenbaum property transfer was owned by non-residents. He explained some of the property was owned by persons who live in another area, and some of the property was owned by corporations such as property used by Detroit Edison and Consumers Power.

"We are hoping to get back at least one-third of all the property we lost," Erickson said. "It could be between 20 and 50 percent. I just won't know until I get the maps done. We have to pore over them and see how many people are in fact non-resident property owners."

Erickson pointed out before any settlement is finalized on either the Elenbaum, Goslin or the four parcels that are presently before the State Board of Education, an agreement must be reached on all six property issues. Erickson explained the Elenbaum is still involved in Ingham County Circuit Court action, and there is presently no litigation involved with the Goslin.

The issue of back taxes that Owen-Gage claims on the Goslin property from 1978-1981 was not discussed at the meeting. The district claims they are owed about $450,000 in taxes on the Goslin. After the meeting Erickson said the back taxes would be part of the total package deal.

Erickson said the district is trying to end "11 years of fighting" because of the cost involved for the school district, the Attorney General's office, and the State Board of Education. "The Attorney General wants this settled, the State Board of Education wants this settled. It won't be pretty, and we will end up by saying we will not try to go after anybody's property, and neither will you," Erickson said, referring to the property that was transferred from the district to Cass City and Lakeland School Districts. "It will all have to be by board agreement - there will be no more robbing Owen-Gage. That's part of the deal also."

Erickson added the Attorney General's office wants an agreement reached because "they are getting damn tired of spending all that money on Owen-Gage, so they want a consensus agreement." He explained the Attorney General's office has been representing the State Board of Education in the legal matters involving the property transfer issues.

HONOR ROLL

Owendale High School Principal Wayne Wright presented trustees with a copy of the Owen-Gage honor roll policy, explaining he received a complaint about having the honor roll published in the Bad Axe Tribune. Wright said the complaint was received because a student's name was not on the list sent to the Tribune. The student had received an incomplete on his report card. Board policy states a student cannot be on the honor roll if they have an incomplete.

The student had been absent on the last Thursday of the marking period, and missed a test. The girl did not take the test Friday, the last day of the six-week marking period. Because of problems with a sewer connection, school was cancelled the following Monday, so the student was unable to take the test until Tuesday.

Wright said the honor roll is prepared on Wednesday, and sent to area newspapers on Thursday. The parents of the student, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reehl, Gagetown, felt their daughter's name should be on the honor roll because after completing the examination, she had a "B" average in all classes. After Mrs. Reehl talked to Wright and to the Tribune, Wright agreed to have the newspaper hold publication of the honor roll list until the board could discuss it.

Trustee Joseph Warack felt the policy didn't need any changes. "If ain't broke, don't fix it," Warack said. Please turn to page 18.

Hampshires refuse offer

Expect appeal of $1.3 million suit

An appeal is expected in a $1.3 million lawsuit judgment recently awarded to a Deford farming family by a Tuscola County Circuit Court jury.

The appeal, which will be filed by attorneys for DeLaval Agriculture, a worldwide milking systems manufacturer, is expected if Judge Patrick Joslyn rejects a preliminary motion to dismiss the case. The lawsuit, filed against DeLaval by Deford area farmers Randy, Ronald and Kenneth Hampshire, claims the milking system caused their dairy herd to suffer mastitis problems.

According to John Knight, a Detroit area attorney representing DeLaval, before an appeal is filed, Judge Joslyn must rule on a preliminary motion to dismiss the case. The motion was made after Hampshire's attorney, William Drillock of Marlette, presented his closing arguments to the jury. Knight said the motion was made because he felt Drillock did not present proof the mastitis was caused by the milking system. In court proceedings, DeLaval claimed the mastitis problem was caused by the environmental problems on the Hampshire farm.

Drillock claims the mastitis problem was the result of the milking system damaging the cows' teats, making them more susceptible to bacteria, causing mastitis. Judge Joslyn took the preliminary motion under advisement.

After a decision was reached by the Tuscola County Circuit Court jury Nov. 6, Drillock offered DeLaval the opportunity to settle for $1.35 million, if an agreement could be reached at a Dec. 4 meeting. By settling at the meeting, DeLaval would not have to pay the Hampshires $220,000 in interest. The $220,000 is based on a 12 percent interest rate on the $1.35 million from when the suit was started about 2½ years ago. Drillock explained the offer was made because the Hampshires were in danger of losing their farm due to financial problems.

Drillock said at the Dec. 4 meeting DeLaval's representatives made an offer that "amounted to about 50 cents on a dollar." Drillock and the Hampshires refused. Drillock explained they won the case in the courtroom and he felt they will be successful in any other court proceedings.

Drillock said if the case is appealed, it could be difficult on the Hampshires because the case could take several years to complete. Knight said if the appeal is necessary, the appeal will be based on several different issues, including that the jury's decision was not supported by the evidence provided. Drillock's proofs failed to establish any liability on the part of the defendant, and evidence did not support the amount of the award.

"The whole thing goes to the guts of the claim," Knight said. "And the claim wasn't there."

Both attorneys did agree there were no errors committed in the court proceedings.

A 51-year-old Vassar man, a former Cass City resident, was killed Sunday at 6:30 a.m. when his vehicle ran off the end of a snow and ice covered road in rural Tuscola Township.

According to the report filed by Tuscola County Sheriff's Department Deputy Richard Blakely, Arthur H. Warner, 51, 238 S. Main St., Vassar, was northbound on Cottrell Road, and failed to stop at the intersection of Waterman Road. Cottrell Road ends at the intersection. Warner's vehicle went into the ditch on the north side of Waterman Road, and rolled over. Tire tracks indicate his vehicle skidded about 100 feet before going into the ditch.

Warner was taken to Caro Community Hospital by the Vassar Area Ambulance Service. He is the 14th traffic fatality reported in Tuscola County in 1985. Warner was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident.

colliding with the train, Kinney's vehicle was dragged 420 feet down the track. Kinney, who was not injured, told Deputy Jeff Bagosis he did not see the train. A passenger in the vehicle, Genevieve Peddie, 24, 4821 E. Cass City Rd.,

Cass City, told the deputy she would seek her own medical treatment. The Kinney vehicle struck the 106th car of a 108-car train.

The road surface was listed as wet at the time of the accident.

Youth pleads no contest

A 21-year-old Millington man who allegedly drove the vehicle involved in the Oct. 20, 1984, shooting of a conservation officer has entered a no contest plea to attempted assault and malicious destruction of personal property charges in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Judge Patrick Joslyn took the plea under advisement Thursday, and set a Feb. 10 sentencing date for Steven S. Simon, 21, Millington.

Simon was originally charged with aiding and abetting in assault with intent to commit murder, and a felony firearm charge. He stood mute to the charges.

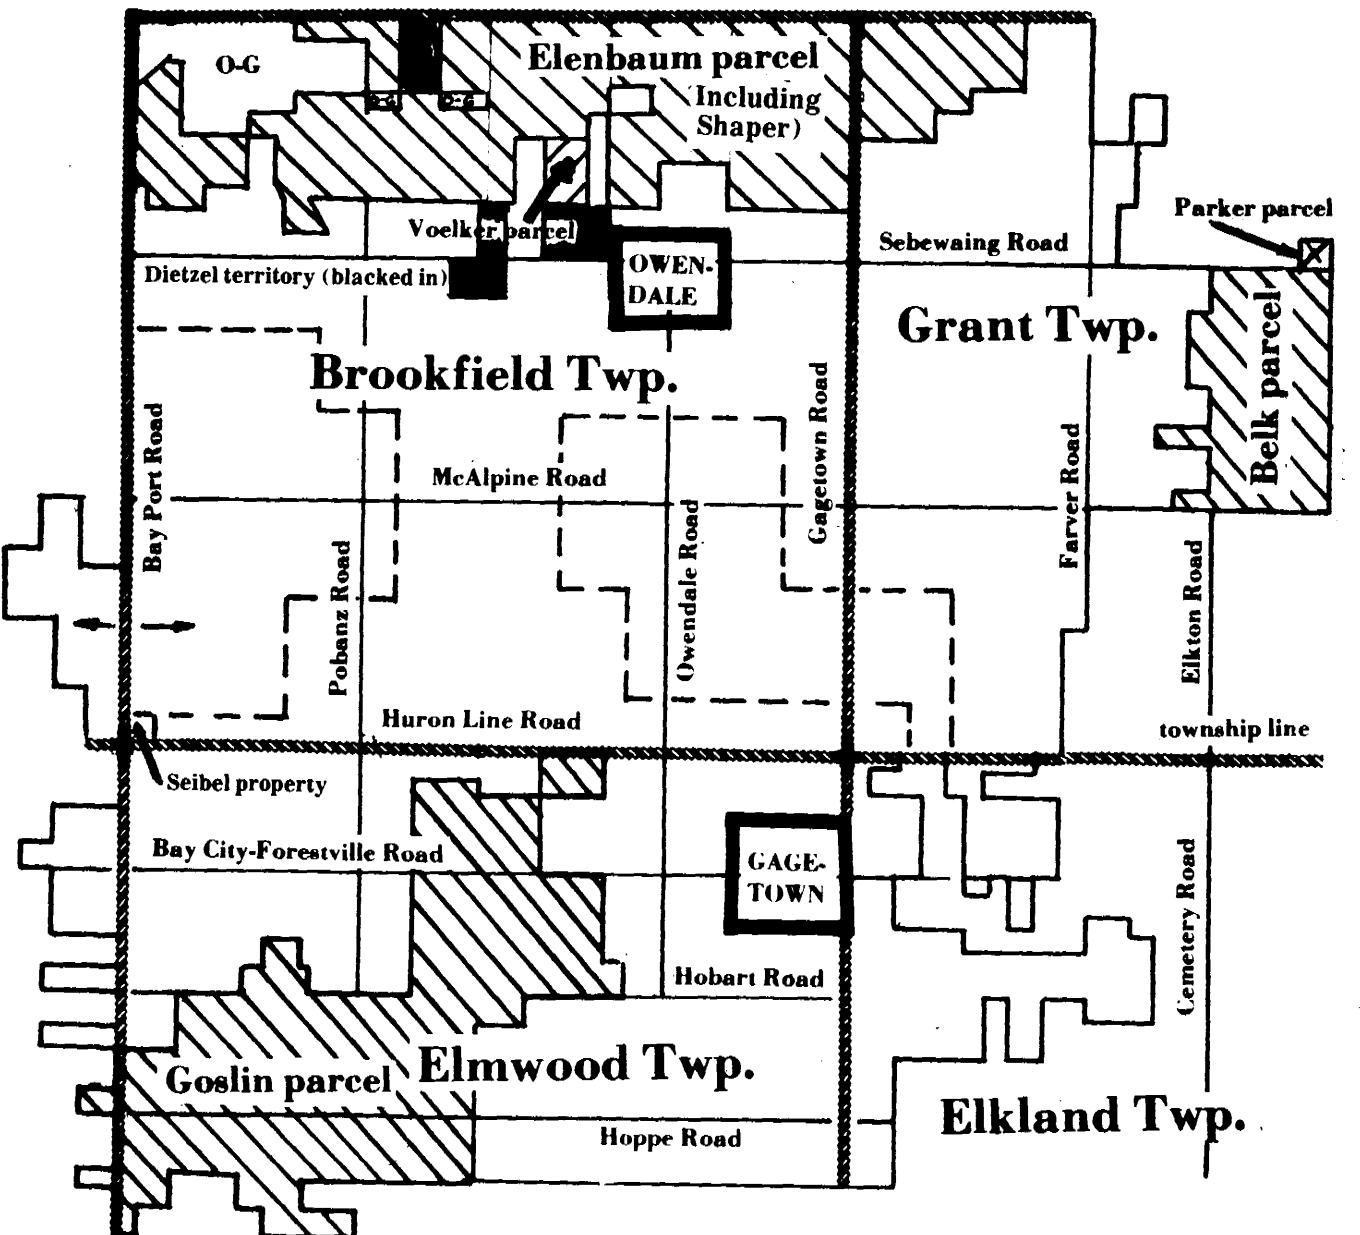

The charges stem from the shooting of Department of Natural Resources conservation officer Timothy Burke in rural Juniata Township. At the time of the shooting, Burke and his partner, Juris Didrichson, were involved in high speed pursuit of a vehicle allegedly driven by Simon. When the vehicle slowed to turn a corner, a shot was fired from the vehicle and struck Burke in the mouth.

Burke was admitted to St. Mary's Hospital, and released three days later.

Two other Millington men, Steven and Dale Matzke, have also been charged in the assault.

Dale Matzke faces an assault with intent to murder and a felony firearm charge. Steven Matzke faces an accessory after the fact to a felony charge. A Jan. 21 trial date has been set for the two brothers.

Proctor urges area residents to donate to Colombian relief fund

Dear John,

The Colombian Disaster reaches out to touch many people. Many Cass City people remember Martha Valencia, a Rotary Exchange Student hosted in Cass City in 83-84. Less will be aware that Meg Brown, daughter of Greg and Mary Brown, is currently a student in Colombia.

Meg has written a letter which I hope you can publish along with this.

On November 15th, Rotary made an advance grant of US$50,000 for relief of victims of the volcano explosion disaster in Colombia. Our Cass City Rotary has made a $250.00 donation to assist. The town of Armero which was 90 percent destroyed has (or had) a Rotary club of 21 members.

Persons that might want to contribute to the disaster relief in Colombia can be content that 100 percent of any funds would get to the people in the disaster site. Donations may be made at Old Wood Drug or Coachlight Pharmacy prior to Jan. 1. They would be fully tax deductible.

Say a prayer for Colombia

Nov. 19, 1985

Dear Tom,
It isn't time yet for another report, but I want to assure you and the rest of Rotary that I am just fine. My parents called Sunday night, very worried. The thing in Bogota (ie storming of the court by police to release hostages with considerable loss of life) didn't affect me. I called Martha Valencia to see if she was alright, she said it was a scary situation - but it didn't seem as big where it was happening. And about the bigger, the volcano, the Pueblos that were affected are about a five hour drive to the north, so couldn't possibly affect me physically. But, I can't help being deeply affected emotionally. Nearly everyone knows someone who died. Here at the hospital, are many orphans, and my heart bleeds for them because, here, orphans are the poorest of the poor. And there are so many people in the States who would do anything for a child.

The news is of nothing but "The Island of the Dead." People give what they can and give some more. Watching the way people have behaved in this situation has made me respect them more than ever. For a solid week everyone ate, slept and breathed this and did everything they could to help.

But I am safe, take care and say a prayer for Colombia - She deserves it.

(signed) Meg Brown

Evangelical Free Church to hold open house Sunday

The public is invited to attend an open house at the Evangelical Free Church, Cass City, Sunday afternoon to tour the parishioners' new spiritual home. The open house will be held from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Construction of the 6,500 square foot church began

Aug. 19 after a groundbreaking ceremony was held Sunday, Aug. 18. Seven weeks later, on the first Sunday of November, Rev. Eldred Kelley delivered the first sermon in the new church. Caro contractor Roland Hanes, also a church member, built the church on the 7.5 acre site located at 6430 Chestnut Blvd. in Cass City's Northwood Estates.

To keep down the construction costs, church members volunteered to help with the construction. The total cost of the church, which seats 275 persons, was projected at $110,000.

The public is also invited to attend a Christmas carata at the 11:00 a.m. worship service. Originally a dedication service was also to be part of the program, but because of an illness to Rev. Kelley, the dedication service will be delayed until after Jan. 1, 1986.

Commission recommends barrier free incentives

By Warren M. Hoyt

The Governor's Entrepreneurial and Small Business Commission (ESBC) has recommended improving the state's barrier free design program through such means as better enforcement and business incentives to make facilities barrier free. The recommendations are contained in a four-bill package introduced in both the Senate and House.

Alan Suits, co-chairman of the ESBC, said, "Small businesses have blundered into violations of the program resulting in penalties. These proposals are well thought out and carefully balanced, and will clarify rules and regulations that can cause hardship on small businesses, without infringing on handicapper's rights."

The recommendations include a bill to define when a building qualifies for an exception from barrier free requirements, a bill to require separate barrier free design standards for new and existing buildings, and two bills that would allow development authorities to make low interest loans to make buildings barrier free, as well as increasing education for local building officials about barrier free designs.

Also included in the bills is the introduction of a simpler, explanatory graphics booklet on design requirements.

Roger McCarville, a small business owner and member of the Oakland Handicapper Commission, said, "The new barrier free rules will be less costly for businesses to comply with."

"The Department of Labor will continue striving to make our nationally recognized barrier free design code effective in maximum accessibility for handicappers," Department Director Elizabeth P. Howe said. "These measures will ultimately result in more businesses making their establishments accessible."

"This is the first legislative revision of the barrier free design process in 10 years, and legislators from both parties and both houses are here to assure that the agreements of the business-handicapper coalition are enacted into law," Representative Debbie Stabenow (D-Lansing), one of the legislation's sponsors, said.

Governor Announces Clean Water Grants

Nine clean water grants totalling $250,000 have been announced by Governor James Blanchard, who said he wants to quadruple the program to $1 million in 1986-87. The program is designed to control water runoff pollution from farms, highways and city streets, and make lakes and rivers fully fishable and swimmable during the 1990s.

"We have done an outstanding job of controlling pollution from traditional sources such as municipal sewage and industrial wastes. Now it is time to open a new frontier in water pollution control," Blanchard said. He said up to 50 percent of all water pollution comes from non-municipal and non-industrial sources, with agricultural land uses the major source.

The grants go to farmers, local units of government, and other organizations, for information and education, and cooperative efforts to control runoff.

JACK KAUFMAN, a Sandusky area farmer, was presented the High County Herd award at the Sanilac County Dairy Banquet held Saturday in Marlette. Presenting the award to Kaufman is Sanilac County DHIA president Gene Burgess. Kaufman's herd averaged 23,238 pounds of milk per cow, which placed him fourth in the state. About 400 persons attended the annual banquet. Former WJR radio personality Bud Guest was the featured speaker.

Elkland firemen respond to two fires at same house

Elkland Township firemen responded to two house fires last week that destroyed a two-story house owned by Brenda Peters, 1625 N. Phillips Road, Deford.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. explained the first fire was caused by a wood burning stove, and the cause of the second fire, reported about 44 hours later, is mysterious.

Root said firemen first responded to the house Wednesday at 7:55 p.m. A wood burning stove ignited either the wall behind the stove, or a wood box on the floor behind the stove. At the first fire Elkland firemen were assisted by the Caro and Gagetown Fire departments.

The Elkland firemen were assisted by the Caro Fire department at the second fire, reported Friday at 2:30 p.m.

The house, which contained several pieces of antique furniture, was totally destroyed. Value of the house and contents is estimated at $79,000. The house was insured.

Legislature struggles to pass insurance bill

Legislators, the executive office and insurance industry officials are reviewing a new draft proposal on automobile essential insurance which would end out-state rating territories and give insurance companies an option after one year on how to set maximum auto rate increases for Detroit.

Some officials hope the proposal will answer some of the objections Governor James Blanchard raised to a similar bill vetoed last August. The proposal would eliminate one provision of the previous bill rejected by Blanchard that would let insurance companies set maximum auto insurance rate increases for Detroit through current essential insurance limitations, by the average outstate rate increase, or by a cap of 4 percent plus the rate of the consumer price index. The proposal under study would limit insurance companies to raising Detroit rates by either the current statute or 4 percent plus inflation for one year. After the first year, companies could raise Detroit rates by the outstate average.

The bill would also allow some companies in Detroit, whose rates are below the average of other larger companies, to raise their rates initially to the "actuarially justified" average. After that increase, those companies would be subject to the same one-year limitation on Detroit rate increases as the larger companies.

When Blanchard vetoed the bill in August, he said the bill was seriously flawed and could "open the floodgates" to higher insurance increases across the state. Insurance officials at that time doubted that there were any areas left in the proposal that could be compromised with the executive office.

Senator Richard Posthumus (R-Lowell), chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, said the new draft proposal would "come real close" to meeting Blanchard's objections. Posthumus added it appeared the insurance industry was trying to follow the same strategy bankers used in winning an agreement with Blanchard on statewide branch banking legislation.

"Rather than going through a whole new process, they're taking a look at the specific issues in the veto message," he said. Representative Matthew McNeely (D-Detroit), chairman of the House Insurance Committee, said it would be difficult for any proposal to win agreement with Detroit officials. Detroit is interested in a rollback of insurance rates, he said, and not a measure that maintains the status quo or allows an increase.

effect. The list is used to help determine state financing under the 1982 environmental response act for clean up activities. Currently there are some 170 sites receiving state funding under the environmental response act.

The Regular Meeting of Village Council

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held Nov. 26, 1985 at 7:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present.

As advertised, the proposed use hearing for Revenue Sharing Expenditures was opened. Hearing no objections it was established that the Revenue Sharing Funds of approximately $41,000.00 be designated for use in the Police Department budget for salaries and wages and that the Public Hearing be closed.

The minutes of the regular October meeting were approved as presented. A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Hopper to reschedule the regular December meeting for Monday, Dec. 30, 1985 at 7:00 p.m. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays.

The October financial statement was reviewed. The Budget and Finance Committee presented the proposed 1986 Budget and will hold a committee meeting Saturday, Dec. 7, 1985 at 8:00 a.m. to review the budget and will make a recommendation for acceptance at the Dec. 30 meeting.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee McIntosh to establish a Public Hearing on the proposed 1986 budget at 7:00 p.m. Dec. 30, 1985. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Hopper to establish a policy for the Industrial Park property. After much discussion, a motion was made by Trustee McIntosh and supported by Trustee Davis to accept the recommendation. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays (attached).

One bid from Gem Painting of Riverview, Mich., in the amount of $43,900.00 was received for the painting and repair of the water tower. It was the committee's recommendation to reject the bid and resubmit for bids in the spring. A motion was made by Trustee Davis and supported by Trustee McIntosh to accept the committee's recommendation. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays.

A letter was received from the Retail Division of the Cass City Chamber with a number of questions concerning the parking meters and parking lots in the downtown business area. Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie met with the committee and discussed the matter. The streets and parking committee will be giving the matter further review and reporting back to the council.

The gift catalog is completed and was presented to the council for their review. A motion was made by Trustee Hopper and supported by Trustee Davis to adopt Ordinance No. 121 to amend Ordinance No. 70 the Village of Cass City Zoning Ordinance regarding satellite dish regulations as recommended by the Planning Commission. Correction

Because of incorrect information provided to the Chronicle, a story last week stated Kenneth M. Haag was sentenced to five years' probation and one year in the county jail on a probation violation charge. The remaining time of a five-year probation sentence was reinstated, but Haag did not receive a one-year jail sentence.

Lottery sales to reach $1 billion

Lottery Commissioner Michael J. Carr announced at a Lansing news conference that Michigan Lottery sales should reach $1 billion in the 1985-86 fiscal year.

Carr also predicted that players will win an average of $11 million a week this year. He said as a result, prize money won during 1985-86 should reach $561 million (including the total cash value of major awards paid in annual installments). Carr said the move to twice-weekly Lotto drawings in August was producing targeted results with a 41 percent sales increase in the first nine weeks and 40 percent more winners; however, the top selling game during the year remained the Daily 3 with sales of some $342 million, reflecting a 7 percent gain from the previous year.

DNR RELEASES CONTAMINATION PRIORITY TEST

The 1986-87 proposed contamination clean up priority list has been released by the Department of Natural Resources with a total of 1,255 sites, an increase of 15.6 percent over the number of sites named in the last list.

But DNR officials said that despite the increase in the list, state activities to clean up contaminated areas will have a positive

Grower explains the problems

Christmas trees need a good start

ALL LOADED - After cutting a load of fresh Christmas trees, Ted Lubaczewski heads back to his parents' front yard on Green Road, Gagetown, where he will sort and sell the trees. Lubaczewski said last week end and this week end are expected to be his busiest sale days.

Standing about six feet tall, nobody will ever mistake Ted Lubaczewski for one of Santa's elves, but each year his pine trees will help to bring the Christmas spirit to about 300 area homes.

"I am just doing it for a hobby," he said, about raising spruce and Scotch pine trees on a farm owned by his father, Walter Lubaczewski. He has about 10 acres of pine trees planted in the sandy soil of the farm located at 5655 Green Rd., Gagetown. Ted Lubaczewski now lives in the Frankenmuth area where he works as a house painter, but each year he returns to the family farm several times to cut, trim and care for the trees.

Lubaczewski started growing pine trees 15 years ago when his father bought and planted about 10,000 seedlings. He said about one-third to one-quarter of the trees will die during the first year after being planted. "If they get a good start they are usually all right," Lubaczewski added.

Lubaczewski prefers to grow spruce trees, even though they take longer to mature than Scotch pine trees. He explained Scotch pine trees with the longer needles are more susceptible than spruce trees to damage from worms and diseases.

A Scotch pine will take seven to eight years to be large enough to cut. A white spruce tree will take 10 to 11 years to be big enough to decorate someone's living room during the Christmas season. A blue spruce tree takes about 15 years to mature. He added the trunk of a spruce tree generally grows straight, and the tree can be trimmed so the branches will fill out more than a Scotch pine.

Lubaczewski said the trees have to be trimmed twice a year until they are mature. He and partners Ernie Auernhamer and Larry Kern trim the trees just above a growth bud. This causes the tree to stop growing taller, and start growing branches at the cut. By trimming at the bud they can make the tree grow more branches, filling out the tree for the desired effect. "You don't want to stop them (the tree's growth) a lot, because they will get too thick to hang ornaments on," he added.

Even after the trees are mature, there is no guarantee they will still reach someone's house for Christmas. Lubaczewski said each year they lose a few trees to the deer that rub their horns against them.

Although he does not lose that many trees, 7 to 11 years of growing time has gone to waste.

For several years, Lubaczewski has been planting about 1,000 new trees to guarantee he will have trees for years to come. In the past he has purchased the trees through the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, but now he plans on buying special hybrid trees that hopefully will grow faster and require less trimming.

Lubaczewski said one of the common mistakes people make when buying a Christmas tree is they don't cut the bottom of the tree off. He explained when the tree is cut, within a few hours the sap will seal over the bottom cut, and it will not take any water to the branches. This causes the tree to dry out faster.

He recommends cutting about an inch off the bottom, and immediately putting it in a mixture of hot water and Karo syrup. Lubaczewski said by adding a capful of Listerine, mold will not start growing in the tree's water. If someone forgets to add water to the tree stand, the bottom of the tree will still seal over. The tree must once again have the bottom cut off to insure freshness.

THIS YEAR, TED LUBACZEWSKI plans on cutting about 300 Christmas trees from his father's farm on Green Road.

LUBACZEWSKI examines a Scotch pine tree that will someday grow large enough to decorate someone's living room on Christmas morning. Each year he sets out about 1,000 new seedlings to insure an ample supply of Christmas trees in the future.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

It's that time of the year to figure out tax savings still possible. And if that's too late, then it's the time to plan for 1986.

Merrill Lynch, as it has been doing in recent years, has a dandy booklet: "50 Tax-Saving Ideas for Investors." They're free. Write your nearest Merrill Lynch office, or drop in -- nobody's ever very far from one, any place in America.

Some basic ideas:

1. Take as many deductions as you can in 1985, defer as much income as you can to 1986 and future years. Even if the proposed new tax bill never gets passed, it's usually a good plan to take deductions and defer income. You postpone paying tax on the income for a year or more, and you take deductions for 1985 when you pay the tax April 15.

2. Certain investment expenses under the Tax Reform act would be deductible only as they exceed 1 percent of your income -- so take all such expenses as you can now. Phone, advisory fees, publications, safety deposit box were some examples.

3. Take capital losses this year, especially if they're short term, when they're deductible against regular income up to $3,000. Postpone gains to next year, if practical. The new tax plan may cut these benefits some. On securities losses you can sell up to the last business day of 1985, Tuesday, Dec. 31.

4. Have your tax man see if you are eligible for "income averaging." If your 1985 income is greater than 140 percent of your average income in 1984, 1983 and 1982, then you can benefit.

5. If you have some real dogs of stocks or bonds, peddle them this year. Merrill Lynch tells how to prove they're worthless, but their way is a nuisance. Sell them to a non-relative (an in-law is useful, for once) for a penny a share, and take your loss. If after a month you're lonesome for these securities, and want to paper a wall, your in-law would likely sell them back to you.

6. If you want to give to charity -- a church, school, or a unit of government, for instance -- do so with stocks or bonds that have gone up in value. Don't sell them first. As a gift of securities the deduction can be taken on market value at time of gift. Keep a letter in your files, a copy of which you send along with the gift, describing the gift, and listing market price on that day.

7. If you have gotten a lump-sum pension payment, consider rolling it over into a self-directed IRA and defer the tax on the amount. Your broker can arrange this.

8. If you might be liable for estate taxes and have a bundle of money, make gifts before 1985 is gone to ones who will sometime inherit it from you. You and your wife can give away $20,000 to as many as you feel like without a gift tax. Merrill Lynch is pushing tax shelter through real estate limited partnerships, films, and oil drilling. Maybe they can convince you, but I'm still a hold-out. I don't buy them for three reasons:

1. You get one, you can't sell it, and some take many, many years to work out. If these things go into an estate they would either hold up final settlement, or they'd have to be peddled at steep discounts.

2. The IRS fastens its beady eyes on any return that claims a tax shelter. You invite an audit when you claim a tax shelter.

3. The rules are stricter and stricter on shelters that are deductible. And now the promoters have to supply the IRS with names and Social Security numbers of all who invest in a shelter.

There's one shelter so simple, so fool-proof and audit-proof, and so liquid that it's a shame to keep it a secret from you any longer -- municipal bonds. Poke around a bit and you can find some rated A or better yielding close to 10 percent, tax free. You can sell them anytime with a phone call, you know you'll get interest of say 10 percent paid twice a year, and you know you'll get your principal back.

The next fellow who tries to sell you a tax shelter, ask him if his wares have those features.

One last word -- don't try to do your income tax yourself. A good tax man over the years will save you what fees he charges. He'll also be your spokesman before the IRS, and better yet, your return will likely avoid any question by Uncle Whiskers.

Village revenues set at $1.2 million

$294,000 fund balance, but only deplete the fund by about $14,000 because revenues in some departments were more than originally projected, and expenditures were less in some departments. LaPonsie said appropriations from the fund balance are needed to carry the village until July 1, when funding from tax levies begins to come in.

LaPonsie has increased the snow removal fund for village maintained streets from $11,500 for 1985 to $23,650 for 1986. LaPonsie said the reason for the increase is weather predictions are calling for another winter with above average snowfalls.

Last year the village spent $11,650 more than was budgeted for snow removal. "There's no use in kidding ourselves by knocking our budget down, and then turning around and having to readjust," LaPonsie said was the reason he increased the snow removal budget.

Major purchases for the village in 1986 will be a police car, and a new dump truck.

The village purchases a new police vehicle every three years. This year the village has allocated $13,000 for a new vehicle equipped with emergency lights. A new dump truck, with a snow plow and blade is expected to cost $43,000. During 1986, the village will spend $12,000 for payments on a front-end loader that was purchased in 1985.

In 1986, the village plans on spending $22,000 to resurface portions of Sherman, Maple, M, and Maple Circle Streets. In 1985, the village spent $79,000 to pave Pine and Schell Streets, and to resurface alleys in the village.

A major area of saving for the village will be on the costs for the sanitary landfill. Last year the village budgeted $61,500 for landfill expenses. This year the total has been reduced to $13,300. LaPonsie said the village has applied for a $107,000 Department of Natural Resources grant to pay for the cost of covering, seeding, and monitoring test wells at the landfill. He added the grant requires 25 percent local contribution, but because of expenditures in 1985 the village has already paid its share.

said. Trustee Don Cummins said he didn't think the parents of the student who received an I on her report card had the right to hold up the honor roll publication. The discussion ended with the board not making any changes in the honor roll policy.

Also at the meeting, trustees were invited to attend the Gagetown Elementary School Christmas Program to be held at the Owendale gymnasium Thursday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

High school senior Ron Good Jr. was selected as the student of the month.

Good is an honor student, active in football, band and other extracurricular activities.

Trustees were informed the Owen-Gage Sports Banquet will be held at the Gagetown gymnasium Wednesday, Dec. 18, at 6:30 p.m. At the potluck dinner, awards will be presented to members of the junior high and high school girls' basketball teams, and to the football and golf team members. Certificates will be presented to the cheerleaders.
