THIS CAR OWNED by Gary Spencer posed an additional hazard for the Elkland Township Fire Department when it caught fire Sunday at about 9 p.m. It was parked near a propane tank. Firemen quickly quelled the blaze, but the car was demolished.

Farm tax relief seen as too little in falling market

Area farmers will be receiving some tax relief in 1986, but it's likely that valuations will still not reflect what's happening in the market place, according to Elkland Supervisor Dave Milligan. That was Milligan's reaction when told that Tuscola Equalization Director Donald Graf estimated Monday that the reduction for the county for farm property would be in the neighborhood of 10 percent.

Graf said that under a new regulation this year valuations could be determined by looking at land sales for the past 12 months rather than the 24-month period ordinarily used.

With the plunging farm land values the one-year study is designed to more accurately assess true cash value.

However, in the opinion of Milligan, there is still a flaw in the system. We have had just one farm land sale in Elkland Township in the past year, he points out, and it had special features that keep it from determining the true value of the land in the township.

There's nothing that the supervisor can do to put the valuation down to the actual value of the land today. Perhaps, he said, we should have some outside source making the valuations so that values can follow the market quicker.

Although there were expectations for a larger decrease earlier in the year in Tuscola County, the actual devaluation will be in the neighborhood of that announced by Sanilac Equalization Director Eugene Reagentin, who expects raw land values to drop by about 12 percent.

In both Sanilac and Tuscola Counties residential and commercial properties are not expected to change significantly. Residential property in Tuscola County is expected to increase in value about 2 to 3 percent. In Sanilac County the increase is expected to be about one percent. Commercial property valuation will remain about the same in both counties.

James Guigar faces charge of negligent homicide

An Ubyly man, charged with negligent homicide in the Dec. 1 car crash which took the life of a 15-year-old Kingston girl, was arraigned in Tuscola County District Court.

According to Chief Assistant Prosecutor Jo Ellen O'Connor, 21-year-old James R. Guigar was arraigned following investigation officer Lee Teschendorf's signing of the warrant.

The warrant, which charged Guigar with negligent homicide and drunken driving in the mishap which killed Melissa Ernst of Kingston, was authorized last Wednesday.

A preliminary examination will be held within 12 days following the arraignment.

Ernst, of 5085 Dorance Road, was a passenger in a car driven by Christopher C. Matthews, 16, of Mayville, headed east on Bevans Road. According to county sheriff's reports, Matthews was attempting to turn his vehicle around in the roadway when it was clipped broadside by Guigar's westbound vehicle.

Matthews, after being seriously injured, was released Dec. 6 from St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw. Guigar and a passenger, Henry R. Osantowski, 23, of Minden City, were treated and released from Caro Community Hospital.

Guigar was also charged with driving under the influence of liquor. He was released from jail after posting a $3,000 bond.

3-car crash injures 3 Monday

Three persons were slightly injured in a 3-car accident Monday on Deckerville Road about three tenths of a mile west of Colwood Road. The accident occurred at 7:55 a.m. when a car driven by Lawrence Russell Farnum, 37, of DeFord ran into the rear of a car driven by Dean Wayne

Schools report

Pupils respond to stiffer academics

by Tim Smith

About one year ago, all area high schools established more stringent eligibility requirements for participation in all extracurricular activities in general, and sports in particular.

Two schools opted to require student-athletes to pass four of six courses -- instead of the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) standard of three -- while a third requires passing marks in all courses taken in order to participate.

Also, Owendale-Gagetown drew a clear-cut eligibility line, enacting a policy that student-athletes need attain a C average in order to compete.

Those changes caused a stir when adopted, but now appear to have the majority of the public behind them.

The Chronicle surveyed athletic administrators throughout the area to find out how the changes have worked. Following is a report of what was found.

Essentially, the toughness of eligibility policies for athletics and extracurricular activities varies from school to school, but the relatively new standards have not had an adverse effect on the number of participants, athletic directors say.

Changes made in 1984-85 at Owendale-Gagetown, Cass City, Kingston, and Ubyly High Schools appear to be working fairly well, as athletic directors have emphasized keeping close watch on how marginal students who perform in such activities progress in the classroom.

The sports administrators concur that weekly grade checks are an excellent motivational tool, as students declared ineligible typically study harder and achieve better grades in quick order, so that they again may compete.

Of the four, the most stringent standards -- by far -- are set by the Owendale-Gagetown school board, which requires students to record a C average (without regard to plus and minus) in the previous six-week period for eligibility.

That school board, however, recently clarified its policy to include a "probationary" status for near-miss cases, largely because six members of the Bulldogs' football team were removed from the squad following the initial marking period -- at the season's midway point.

Students at Kingston and Ubyly High Schools, however, need only pass four classes while Cass City High School students must get the nod on each class in order to take the field or court.

Owendale - Gagetown Principal and Athletic Director Wayne Wright stands behind his school's tough policy, in the wake of the recently concluded Bulldogs' football season.

"Sure the football team lost three players, who just missed the cutoff point (12 points for six classes)," Wright said. "But two of them failed home economics. I asked them why that happened, and they told me they just didn't do anything."

"If they would have given any effort, they'd have remained eligible. I think our policy is fair and I'm extremely pleased with it," he continued. "There isn't a single student in school who can't maintain a 1.7 (C minus) average here."

Wright is certain low-achieving students are beset more by a motivational problem than an ability shortage. And he said most athletes who miss the eligibility sheet after one six-week period typically rebound quickly.

Following the initial period of the 1985-86 school year, nine out of 54 students who participated in fall sports were ruled ineligible, including six Bulldogs' football players. When results of the second marking period were in, four of those football players had hit the books sufficiently enough to wedge back onto the list. And only one of 52 listed athletes for winter sports, basketball, volleyball and cheerleaders could not compete due to compiling a low average.

The policy was enacted last year, and only recently was fine-tuned by the school board, Wright said.

Board members, at the November session, formulated a "probationary" status for students who just miss out on the minimum 12-point standard. Those who compile 10 or 11 grade points during the preceding period remain ineligible for games, but may practice with their respective teams.

And those students are closely watched, on a weekly basis, to find out if they have brought sub-standard grades up enough so they may compete. Wright added a student would be judged in that instance from the beginning of the school year through the most recent week.

Before that change, students ruled ineligible simply could not play, no matter how well they might have been doing during the ensuing six-week period.

Superintendent Ronald G. Erickson said earlier that the change was made because of some inequities found within the old framework.

Wright said, when the fine-tuning was discussed at the November session, "100 percent of the audience was against any change that might weaken the policy -- there was some strong, strong vocal opposition."

Further, Wright backed his statement every student at the high school should maintain a C (1.7) average by adding, "if a kid can't do C work, we'll have him tested and put into special education courses."

LESS RESTRICTIVE

Other athletic directors in the area agree with Wright that watchdog programs result in positive results, and are excellent methods of motivating students. However, bottom line standards at Cass City, Kingston, and Ubyly High Schools are less restrictive.

First-year Athletic Director at Cass City, Russell Biefer, said there has been no problem in filling and maintaining teams there since the school, two years ago, adopted its current policy which requires students pass all classes with a minimum D average.

Biefer said the school previously had followed standards set by the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA), which required the passing of three classes. He added, Jan. 20, the state policy will be upgraded to a minimum of four classes passed.

"Each week, students' teachers fill out status reports, Biefer said. "If he is passing his classes with a D or better, on a semester-to-date basis, he's in."

Biefer added, the numbers of students rendered ineligible typically is higher at the beginning of a new school year, and is lowered as it runs its course.

At Kingston High School, like Owendale-Gagetown and Cass City, students who are deficient in any class are subjected to weekly grade updates. But Superintendent and Athletic Director Jerry M. Laycock said student-athletes may continue to compete as long as they carry passing marks in four classes.

Now in its second year, that policy at Kingston, Laycock said, has not had a "significant impact" on the total number of students out for teams. But the line is clearly drawn as to who plays and who does not.

In addition, programs are underway at the junior high and high school levels to assist struggling students in boning up on study skills.

"As long as the student is passing four classes he's able to continue on the squad," Laycock said. "But if he doesn't pass four he doesn't play -- for a week, month, or year."

If the student brings a low mark up after being ruled ineligible, Laycock said he may again suit up.

Laycock pointed out a junior high program which is an interesting twist to the educational motivation of athletes.

Under-achievers attend a 40-minute study session with their coach, who is poised on the scene to prod students to study harder and to provide instantaneous support in their quest to beef up grade-point averages and solidify roster spots.

At the high school, students in trouble are placed into a "detention-like" setting, where they strive to improve study skills through a structured teaching program.

"We've managed to avert some problems with these techniques, and to get some people back on track. Our policy seems to be working. Please turn to page 14.

Wanted

July 4 Festival chairman

The future of the July 4 Festival depends on the outcome of a meeting Thursday, Jan. 23, at the Cass City High School Library, David Lovejoy, last year's chairman, said this week.

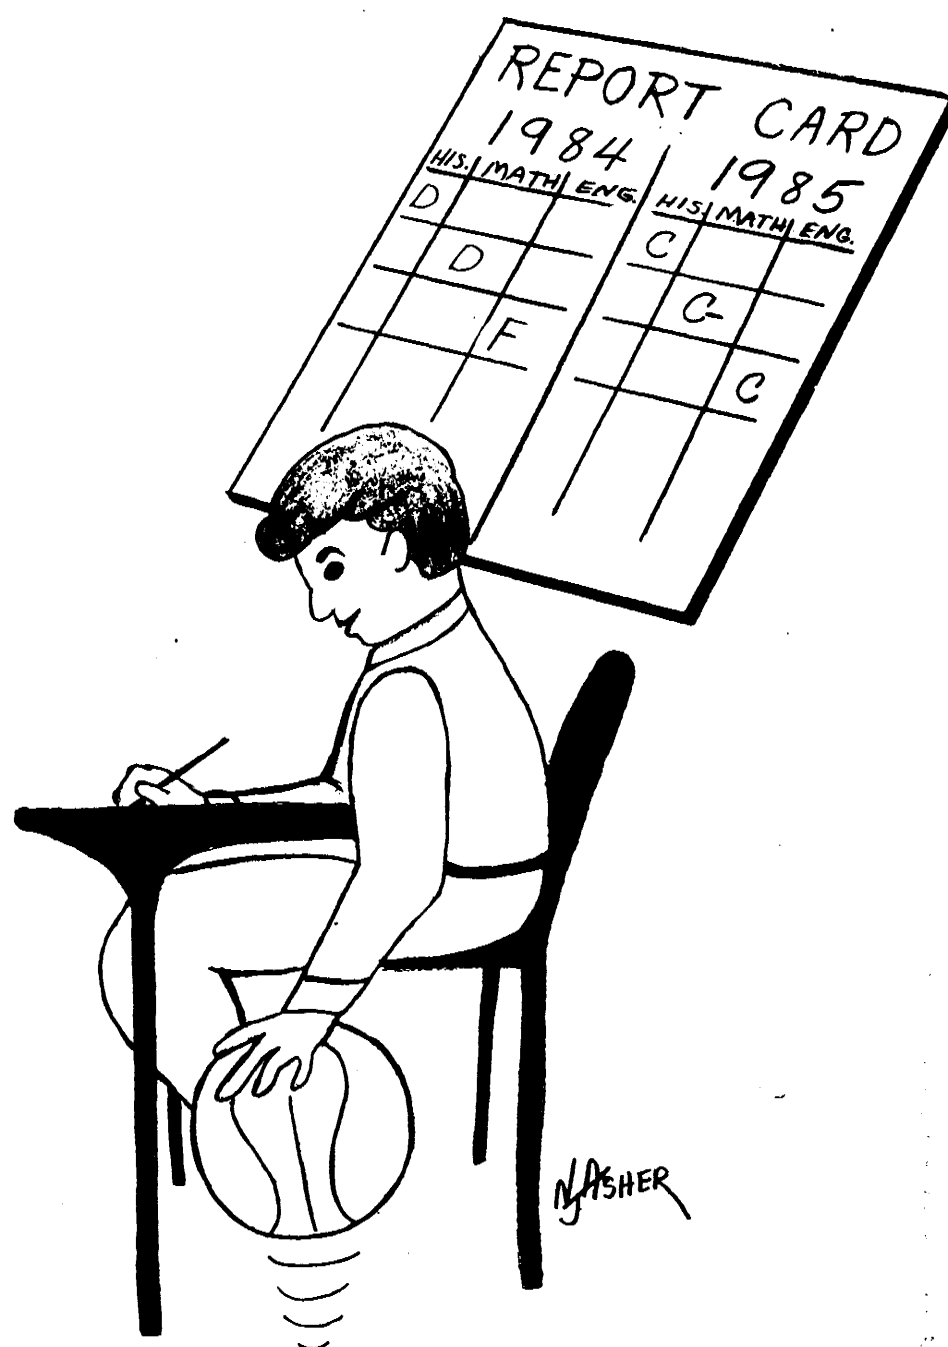

We need someone to direct the annual event or it won't be held this year, Lovejoy explained. I've really enjoyed running the event with Curt Strickland in the past, but this year I will be gone the Fourth and someone else is needed to take over.

There is plenty of help available, Lovejoy said, and really the principal task for the chairman is to coordinate the event.

It's necessary to come up with a decision now so plans can be completed. Gary Jones is waiting to take over the parade again, but he needs to know now to get the various elements of the parade scheduled, Lovejoy said.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Wok cooking demonstration

A Wok cooking demonstration is being sponsored by the Home Economics program of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The Wok is a versatile piece of equipment that can serve as a deep fryer, skillet, saucepan or steamer for any kind of cuisine.

Many people may have received a Wok for Christmas and may not be sure how to use it and with what, says Kathy Hale, Extension Home Economist.

The Wok cooking demonstration will give the "learner" some pointers and information on uses of the Wok, putting together an oriental meal, the advantages of stir-frying and the participants will have a chance for some "hands-on" involvement in the demonstration.

Peggy Houck-Vuylsteke, former Sanilac County Extension Home Economist, will be working with Ms. Hale in presenting this program. It will be held Tuesday, Jan. 21, at 7:00 p.m. in the County Conference Room, Sandusky. The fee is $1.00.

Contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 313-648-2515 for the registration for the class.

20 attend Baptist Women's meet

Twenty women attended the Jan. 6 meeting of the Baptist Missionary Fellowship.

Carol LaPonsie presided over the business meeting when members voted a $24.00 contribution to the Shepherd's home in Wisconsin. Prayer time was led by Ruth Fisher.

The speaker for the evening was Delores Imhoff, wife of the Novesta Baptist Church pastor.

Refreshments were served by Lillian Hanby and Isabel Whittenburg.

HDC surplus food distribution slated

The Human Development Commission will hold Surplus Commodity Distribution at the following locations Thursday, Jan. 30, from 12:30 p.m.-2:30 p.m. or until supply is exhausted:

Cass City Village Park, Cass City, Caro Fairgrounds, Caro, and Ivan Middleton Hall, Fairgrounds, Vassar.

HDC anticipates that cheese, butter, honey, flour and rice will be available for distribution. Due to the volume of commodities, individuals are asked to bring cardboard boxes to carry their commodities.

Individuals must report to the distribution site in person and present their Surplus Commodity Registration Card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution site, may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the Surplus Commodity Card is shown.

Surplus Commodity Cards can be obtained from the HDC offices. Please call for an appointment.

The surplus commodities have been made available to the Human Development Commission, the local Community Action Agency, serving Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties, from the Federal Government and is intended for personal consumption by eligible low income families.

New books at the library

THE SEARCH by Robert Mayer (fiction). James Axel Rood, sometime photo-journalist/some time government snoop, received a directive from Washington to investigate what appears to be a young boy lost in the wilderness outside Santa Fe. The winding trail Rood follows leads to a waitress living under an assumed name, to her look-alike cousin, and finally to a darkness at the heart of the nation's defense system in the nuclear age... or does it? In a labyrinthine maze of false leads and sudden dead ends, Rood searches for the answer to a deadly riddle.

WORD OF HONOR by Nelson DeMille (fiction). This military saga draws on our memories of the My Lai massacre and the trial of Lieutenant William F. Calley. Calley's fictional counterpart is Ben Tyson, a much-decorated Vietnam veteran and former Army lieutenant. One morning, on the way to work as an electronics executive in New York City, Tyson learns that a book has just been published about a military massacre at a French hospital in Hue, Vietnam. The book unhesitatingly accuses Tyson of staging the attack against nuns, children, other civilians, and wounded soldiers on February 15, 1968. Based on evidence contained in the book and testimony given by two of Tyson's former platoon members, the Army recalls Tyson to active duty in order to try him for murder. The story unfolds richly, layer by layer, to reveal why Tyson led such a massacre and why, 18 years later, two of his men went back on their word of honor never to speak of the event.

LOVE AND GLORY by Jeane Westin (fiction). This is the story of four army buddies (women) as they go through officer candidate school (members of the first class of WACs) and off to fight for the U.S. in World War II. There is the bimbo with a heart of gold and a mouth of brass; the model with a secret in her past and a cloud in her future; the socialite army brat who might just make the military her career, and the prototypical good-little-girl who has to prove herself to her friends and the army. Westin's heroines go through training and on to assignments that bring them fulfillment, frustration, and tragedy.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Readers with a long memory will recall the publicity Mrs. Anelia Wrzesniewski received when she celebrated her birthday Jan. 17 last year.

This year, the publicity is not as great but Mrs. Wrzesniewski is about to celebrate birthday 101 at the Taylor Living Center for Senior Citizens. Her address is 23014 North Line Road, Taylor, MI 48180.

The information about Mrs. Wrzesniewski was received from Lucille Stafford, another former resident. Much of the interesting trivia that appears here comes from persons who take the time and trouble to pass along the information.

Florida residents (correction, Cass City residents living in Florida) often pass along copies of papers and stories they run across.

Most recent was Florence Hoppe, who sent a copy of "The Suncoast News" Christmas book. There was no Cass City reference in the paper that I could find except that inside the paper the "John & Family" was wished a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year by Mrs. Hoppe.

Come to think of it that was reason enough.

From the response received (see letters to the editor) it's apparent that the bit of trivia about teachers' salaries in Livonia School District was interpreted as a slap against teachers' wages.

That was not the intention. (Personal note: I have a daughter and son-in-law who teach.) It was simply an observation that today teaching has become one of the better paying white collar jobs available.

Was pleased to learn via the "Mayville Monitor" that Freeland Sugden, former Tuscola County Drain Commissioner, is alive and well.

Sugden was a popular commissioner and left the department in fine shape when he decided to retire.

It's hard to believe that the birthday he celebrated Jan. 7 was his 90th. Time does go fleeting by.

Laura McQueen: comet beautiful 75 years ago

The year was 1910. The weather that night was summery, although Laura McQueen can not remember if it was late spring or early fall.

An orphan, she had been adopted by the McQueen family and lived with them on their Sanilac County farm.

LAURA McQUEEN

On that particular night she and her family — her parents, two brothers and a sister — were standing in their hilltop farmyard gazing upwards. Like their neighbors and people all over the world they were watching Halley's Comet as it traversed the night sky above them.

"It was beautiful," says Laura McQueen, as she recalls, from her room at Hazel I. Findlay Country Manor, that night of 75 years ago. "It was something you remember for the rest of your life."

McQueen, the mother of newly retired Extension Director George McQueen, remembers seeing the comet on one particular night and no other. It was a curiosity and the telephone lines were abuzz as neighbors asked each other, "Did you see the comet? Did you see the comet?" McQueen remembers 25 to 30 people at a time on the party line.

"We knew it was coming," she recalls. "It was advertised on the radio and in the newspaper...Of course in those days there wasn't so much publicity. I think probably everybody around our neighborhood was out looking at it. It was something to see all right. At that time I don't think any of us realized it was going out of this atmosphere for years to come."

"I don't suppose any of us thought of living long enough to see it again...I think everybody was elated. It was really a big curiosity, that's one thing I remember. The telephone was sure busy."

The night was clear and the comet could be seen without the aid of binoculars or telescopes. McQueen remembers the comet appeared to be somewhat larger than the size of the sun.

"I think it was larger than the sun. I wouldn't say for sure but I think it was...In those days there wasn't the factories, there wasn't the smoke, the place wasn't filled with smoke and like that it is today, so it was easy to see...It was more a yellow color. I think you'd describe it, than any other color. I think everybody was elated."

"I've often wondered," she continues, "just what direction it was going. It seems to me that the tail part was in the south, but I'm not sure about that. I'm not sure if it showed up more than one night or not. There's so much happened since then."

Photographs do not compare to seeing the comet with your own eyes, McQueen says.

"It was beautiful. It was something no one ever expected to see again. I just hope everybody can see it this time. It's something you'll always remember. It satisfies you more to see it with your own eyes."

Will she go outside to see it when it appears this time?

"You're darn tootin'" she says.

Food staples

Many ancient food staples grown by Incas for the past 20 centuries may be coming to a supermarket near you, reports International Wildlife magazine. Known for their high protein levels, resistance to cold and immunity to insects, these cereals, root crops, legumes and fruits — oca, quinoa, tarwi and arachacha — may one day become household names.

"If It Fitz..."

A beautiful parade

By Jim Fitzgerald

When last we met here, I told you I was taking a week off to become a grandfather for the fifth time. The doctor said the baby might easily arrive in time to be a Christmas present, and surely in time to be a 1985 income tax deduction.

Today's column was supposed to tell you how much fun — or trouble — it was baby-sitting for Emily while she became a big sister for the first time. For now, forget it.

As of this writing, the baby is almost two weeks late. It doesn't seem possible. Watching my pregnant daughter, Ferd, walk by is similar to watching a parade march by. It helps to turn your head.

That is the type of lousy joke I tell Ferd to cheer her up. Her response is best described as pained. There may be something funny about the last days of a prolonged pregnancy, but the mother doesn't feel much like laughing until after a successful delivery.

Ferd actually said she feels guilty for ruining my vacation. Her mother and I have been poised to drive 65 miles for 24 hours a day for many days, and Ferd's phone conversations have been full of apologies for being so slow to give us reason to leave the curb.

Imagine that. Babies are such a common commodity. Mere teenage girls have them easily and repeatedly. There are so many thousands of births every hour, it is easy to forget the miracle of each individual birth. Except when you love the individuals involved.

It is easiest for men to forget. We tend to take for granted the constant arrival of infants. Overwhelmed by the joy of the new child, we quickly forget the discomfort and pain that a woman goes through to make us so happy. In receiving — from women — the most marvelous gift of all, men can sometimes be such ungrateful louts.

I'm a lot wiser about such things than I used to be. With old age comes increased awareness of mortality, and increased wisdom. Any old poop like me can tell you that until you're bored silly.

Originally, I didn't intend to publicize the new grandchild until after the birth. There is always the worry that everything won't go right, and I didn't want to burden anyone unnecessarily. But then, just before going on a TV talk show two weeks ago, I told my interviewer about the upcoming birth, but didn't think to ask her to keep it quiet.

She told her viewers, so I hurried to tell my readers. No columnist worth his license to bore should be scooped on his own grandchild. But I promise not to mention it again until the final outcome is known (cheer up, Ferd), even if the new one is later arriving than Emily was — three weeks. Incidentally, I haven't seen four-year-old Emily since Christmas, which is a gyp, but news of her reaches me regularly.

The other day she was seen nonchalantly rearranging a book display in a mall bookstore. The books were "If It Fitz," and Emily turned them over so my picture on the front couldn't be seen. Her picture is on the back.

End of endorsement. I got all choked up when my daughter apologized for not having her baby in time to accommodate my vacation. Naturally, I told her not to be silly.

I should have told her she is the most beautiful parade I ever saw march by.

"The two greatest stimulants in the world are youth and debt."

This is progress? Ordinarily it takes about two seconds to get a sheet of copy paper in the typewriter and start producing the deathless prose that fills this column and the rest of the paper each week. That's the old fashioned way using my 50-year-old typewriter. That's no misprint. I have used that trusty old machine for nearly 35 years and it was a World War II surplus when I bought it.

Now they tell me that I have to do it the "easy" way with a computer.

This is not the first story that has been written with this machine. The first was the Cass City basketball story. As this is written I don't know if that story is okay or not. It's not like it was on paper you know. It's buried on that little black record that my son calls a disc.

Another plus for the new system is that it's easier to type with and easier to make corrections with. Un-huh.

This morning I loaded this contraption for the first time. What that means is you have a series of procedures to follow that take about 15 minutes and end with a call for help to find out why the cussed thing keeps telling me to press F1 for help. I'm going to wear those keys out if this keeps up.

I suppose that after a few weeks, starting the machine won't be that much of a problem.

What is more worrisome is the way the keyboard works.

With my trusty old typewriter it was necessary to HIT the keys to make them print. Resting your fingers on the keyboard was no problem. That's the way a keyboard should work I'm quick to tell anyone who should ask. (I also tell them that even if they don't ask.)

With this keyboard the keys print if you breathe on them. Going along smoothly with my train of thought clicking in high gear the copy comes pouring out only to come to a screeching halt when suddenly the letter L comes popping up here and there in odd places. By the time corrections are made whatever it was I was going to say has gone fleeing away.

It's not too bad right now because the deadline pressure is still five days away. Along about Monday it will be a different story. Then there is no time to take an hour to write a story that should be completed in about 15 minutes.

Not to worry. Waiting quietly in the corner of my office is that 50-year-old friend ready at a moment's notice to bail me out.

You can devote only so much time to doing things the easy way.

EUGENE AND Peggy Dorman stand beside the newly erected sign showing that they own a centennial farm. The farm has actually been in the family for 110 years, but the official designation was received only in time for Christmas this year.

No injuries in crashes

Four minor accidents were investigated by the Cass City Police Department during the week. There were no injuries in any of the mishaps.

Donna Kathleen Holm, 54, of Cass City hit a deer while driving west on M-81, near the intersection of Schwegler Road. The accident occurred Sunday at 1:10 a.m.

Property damage was reported when a car driven by Donald Allen Herron, 16, of 4861 Spruce Street, backed into a parked vehicle owned by William Howard Britt.

Herron was backing from a driveway at 4439 Seeger Street onto Pine Street where the Britt car was parked.

Another parked car was damaged in an accident that was reported Tuesday, Jan. 7. Delmar John Miller, 56, of Owendale backed out of a driveway on Maple Street and collided with a car driven by David Alfred Osentoski, 36, of Caro.

A parked car owned by Kriss K. Klaus of Palms was damaged by a hit and run driver in the parking lot of Veronica's Restaurant, Main Street, Cass City. There are no suspects.

Vandals slash tires

The tires on two vehicles were vandalized Saturday in the parking lot at Walbro Corporation between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and 1:20 a.m., according to a report filed by the Cass City Police Department.

Julie Hartwick of Cemetery Road, Cass City, reported two tires were slashed on her vehicle. Police said that the cuts were evidently made by a small pocket knife.

One tire on a second car owned by Harold Barnes of Snover was also cut.

Neither of the owners could give a reason for the vandalism. They said they had not been in an argument with anyone and there was no reason for anyone to slash the tires to get even.

THAT BARN PEEKING from behind the silo is the only original structure remaining from the Dorman centennial farm on Vatter Road in Moore township.

Berden, 35, of Snover. The Berden car was forced into a car driven by Michael Deane Wright, 25, of Cass City. The two cars had stopped for a Caro school bus. The force of the collision pushed the Wright car into the bus.

Treated and released at Caro Community Hospital were Farnum and Wright. Lynn Farnum, 3, a passenger in the Farnum car, was taken to a private physician for treatment, according to Deputy Richard Blakely of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, who investigated.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Linda Dicks reported to the sheriff's department that William Daniel Hennessey, 35, took her car without permission Sunday, Jan. 5. She reported that the car was run into a roadside ditch on Riley Road.

Jo Ann Winter, 20, of Unionville lost control of her car in snow drifts on Bay City-Forestville Road Thursday at 7 a.m. According to the Tuscola Sheriff's Department, which investigated, the car went into the ditch near the French Road intersection and turned over.

Sheriff's deputies investigated an accident on Gilford Road Friday at 10:30 a.m. Mary Helen Miller, 43, of Deford, travelling west on Gilford Road delivering papers, drove into the path of a car driven by Kevin Jerome Coryell, 29, of Lansing.

Two deer-car crashes were reported to the sheriff's department during the week.

Lovel Elwyn Elsholz, 73, of Sandusky hit a deer Saturday at 7:25 p.m. on Deckerville Road, about a half mile west of Kingston Road.

Friday a car-deer mishap was reported on M-81 near Schwegler Road. The car was driven by Jeffrey Alan Spry, 21, of Deford.

Dorman farm in family for 110 years

There was a special surprise waiting for the elder Dorman at Christmas-time this year. One of the gifts under the tree at the home on Vatter Road in Moore Township, Snover, was a plaque indicating that the Dorman homestead has been officially designated a centennial farm.

The farm is one of more than 4,000 farms that have been certified as being in continuous possession of the same family for 100 or more year and containing 10 acres or more.

The Dorman farm has certainly qualified. Records are a little hazy, but when Alexander Clapsaddle purchased the farm in 1874 it was either 80 or 120 acres, Eugene and Peggy Dorman said.

He had two sons and they split the original homestead between them, but farmed it together.

The interest of two daughters in the family was purchased by the brothers for $200 each.

Lillie Clapsaddle's second marriage was to George Dorman, the father of Clare.

Now the homestead is in the hands of Clare and his wife Audrey and their son and daughter-in-law, Eugene and Peggy Dorman.

Little remains of the original buildings and the original homestead acreage is engulfed today by the 700 acres that the two couples own.

The first home was lost in a Christmas fire in 1964 and most of the farm buildings are new. One of the original barns is still in use, in surprisingly good shape with a bright red coat of paint to match the other buildings on the farm.

Today, the Dorman have slacked off somewhat from a lifetime of dairy farming. The Clare Dorman are in Florida and Eugene and Peggy are ready to take off on a month's trip to Australia and New Zealand.

There will be a Dorman in control while they are gone. Son Greg, 30, who planned the Christmas surprise, will be there to look after things at the dairy with help from a hired man.

There will be plenty for them to do. There are 180 cows milking in a herd of 400 cows to take care of. Besides the 700 acres that is owned, the family also rents over 300 more acres.

It's likely that when the year 2074 rolls around there will be another plaque resting by the one that adorns the front lawn now.

Greg has two boys and they seem interested in maintaining the tradition started by Alexander Clapsaddle when he acquired the Vatter Road homestead.

HEALTH TIPS

Shoveling is hard exercise

Before you start shoveling heavy snow, be heart-smart and make sure you're in shape.

"Each year, many people die of a heart attack while shoveling snow," said Dr. Albert Sparrow, president of the American Heart Association of Michigan. "Too many people don't think of shoveling as exercise."

If you're 40 or older, Sparrow recommends you see your doctor for a physical before shoveling. "You need to make sure your heart can withstand the combination of cold weather and heavy exercise," Sparrow said. "The cold weather puts an additional strain on the heart, so outdoor activities should be controlled."

Besides shoveling, many people find themselves helping a neighbor by pushing a car out of the snowbank. That type of activity puts a lot of strain on your upper body and heart.

To get your heart in shape, Sparrow suggests

Class to teach basket weaving

The Cooperative Extension Service of Huron County is offering a basket weaving class, says Barbara Neuman, Extension Home Economist. This class will be Tuesday, Jan. 28, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Glenn Maust residence, Bay Port. It will include the basics of basket weaving and a hanging heart basket will be completed that evening.

Mrs. Maust will teach the class. She has 18 years of experience teaching 4-H's. She is also a well-known photographer, has traveled and recorded her experiences on film and has shared them with many groups. The Maust farm has also been a learning laboratory for area youngsters. Mrs. Maust has done some renovation to their home and has created a large workshop where she will teach classes.

Cooperative Extension Service programs are open to all without regard to race, color, sex, national origin or handicap. Enrollment for this class is limited to ten persons. The fee is $10 which will cover all supplies for the completed basket. For further information and to enroll for this class, call the Cooperative Extension Office at 269-9949. Pre-registration is necessary by Jan. 17.

Owen-Gage Senior Citizens hold meet

The Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met Jan. 2 at St. Agatha's parish hall in Gagetown for the business meeting. There were 31 members present and 18 blood pressures were taken by Mary Lewis, LPN. Shirley Koehler and Jennie Deenen assisted.

President Mabel Ondraka opened the meeting with reciting the Lord's Prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag in unison.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were approved as read. A thank you card from Celia Smith was read.

Bernice Gracey became a new member.

Get-well cards were signed by the group for Ed Good and Stella Pisarek. Happy birthday was sung to Elizabeth Bartholomy.

Door prizes were awarded to Bill Ashmore and Mabel Ondraka.

The January committee served sandwiches, cookies and coffee.

The next meeting will be a potluck dinner Jan. 16 at 12 noon. Senior citizens are welcome to come. Please bring a dish to pass and table service.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City wrestlers finished second to Birch Run, who was first, at the Cass City Invitational Saturday. Seven teams were entered. Showing the way for the Hawks were a pair of brother combinations. Phil Harmer won the 112-pound class and Clayton Harmer annexed the 132-pound class. Jeff Papp won the 98-pound class and Shawn Papp took the honors in the 185-pound class.

For his 12 years' service on the Cass City School Board, retired board member Art Severance was presented with a certificate for his work. The presentation was made by Board President Geraldine Priekorn.

The Gagetown Village Council Monday evening decided to ask village residents to leave a small stream of water running from one tap to prevent further freeze-ups of water lines. Two have occurred so far this year.

The Cass City Lioness Club had its monthly meeting Jan. 12. After the business meeting, Dawn Heron, who had been to Denmark this past summer in the Lions foreign exchange student program discussed the Danes and their country.

3 pesticide training sites

Tuscola County will feature three Pesticide Certification Training and Testing sites during the next six weeks. A higher percentage of all pesticides will be placed on the restricted use list and most all farmers will need to have a Restricted Use Pesticide (RUP) license to purchase many pesticides in 1986 and 1987.

We have established three training and testing sites to help the Tuscola County farmers, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director. They are:

Thursday, Feb. 6, at the Sohigro Service Building in Caro (Montague St.).

Friday, Feb. 28, at the Sohigro Service Building, Reese, (North Reese Road).

Friday, March 7, at the Charmont Restaurant in Cass City (M-81).

Individuals wishing to participate in the training should be present at the location at 11:00 a.m. The training will be coordinated through the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service.

The noon luncheon will be sponsored by American Cyanamid Company. The Cyanamid Company will also reimburse each farmer for their license fee if they request the fee cost from the local dealer handling Cyanamid products after taking the test. The test will be given by Michigan Department of Agriculture at 1:15 p.m.

Training manuals are available from the Tuscola County Extension Service or a few fertilizer outlets will have them for area farmers. The test questions will come entirely from the manual and the farmers must send in the application form with the $10.00 fee prior to the test to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

We Wish You The Very Best

We would like to share in the celebration by giving you 25 tickets to register for the motorcycle to be given away May 1st, with purchase of an engagement ring/wedding band set from the Keepsake or Jewelfire collection. Quantities are limited, so accept our congratulations soon.

Your neighbor says

Keep busy to cope with the cold

In view of the ongoing cold snap in the Thumb area, what do you do to cope?

Cass City resident Marsha Schember, 33, said she enjoys sitting by a warm fire while reading a good book on bitterly cold days.

"It could be a book, or doing a jigsaw puzzle, but the main thing is to keep occupied inside so you don't have to worry about being outside," Schember, an employee of Fort's Party Store, said.

Schember added she enjoys winter activities such as sledding and ice fishing when the thermometer warms up to a more bearable level.

She added one advantage of living in a small town is not needing to drive everywhere — walking gets the job done for her — which eliminates the worry of whether or not the car will start following an especially cold night.

The mother of two school-age children, Schember advises sending them out into the weather bundled up warm, and that they "keep their noses dry."

Check humidity during winter

Betty Pattullo
Extension Home Economist

During the winter heating season, our homes can become as dry as a desert. Betty Pattullo, Extension Home Economist, explains that warm, heated air absorbs moisture from indoor surfaces and furniture, causing them to dry out.

Obvious signs of too-dry air are extra static electricity in carpets, loosening furniture joints and dry skin.

The right level of humidity provides a better environment for plants, people and furniture, but what is the right level? Pattullo says that 30 to 50 percent relative humidity is considered comfortable, but as the temperature drops outside, so does the recommended indoor humidity level.

Maximum indoor relative humidity at 20 degrees F outdoors is 35 percent; at 10 degrees F, it's 30 percent; at 0, it's 25 percent, and at -10 degrees (10 below zero), it should be only 20 percent.

Once the appropriate humidity level has been determined, you can use a humidifier to put water into the air. A humidifier mechanically evaporates water vapor into the air.

You must be careful not to put too much water into the air, Pattullo cautions. If moisture begins to condense on windows or other cold surfaces, the air is too humid. Excessive condensation can damage walls and windows or allow mildew to grow.

In some homes, central humidifiers are attached to the air distribution network of the heating system. They add moisture to heated air before it passes through the air distribution outlets. A humidistat device controls the humidity in the same way that a thermostat controls temperature.

Portable humidifiers are also popular options. They should be placed in rooms where higher humidity is desired — usually living rooms or bedrooms. Kitchens, laundries and bathrooms don't need humidifiers because normal household activities, such as laundering clothes, running the dishwasher or taking showers, add moisture to the air in these rooms.

The newest type of humidifier on the market is the ultrasonic model that puts a very fine mist into the air. It is also much quieter than conventional types. One caution Pattullo notes if you use hard water in them, the dried lime (calcium carbonate) precipitated from the hard water is deposited as fine white dust on surfaces in the room. Manufacturers are working on ways to overcome the problem, but if you have hard water, you may want to avoid ultrasonic models unless they specify they were designed to overcome the hard water and dust problem.

Hawks rally in last half to top Vassar and stay in title race

The Cass City Red Hawks came from behind in the last half Friday to top Vassar, 54-47, and stay in contention for the Thumb B Association title.

A strong defense in the first half and some outstanding play by Mike Kelley kept the Hawks in the game when the shots weren't falling. Kelley scored six of his game high 22 points in the first quarter as Cass City moved out to a narrow 13-10 lead.

The Hawks' offense went into cold storage in the second quarter and Vassar was only slightly better. Neither team was able to score as good shots continuously fell off the rim. At the intermission Cass City trailed 20-15.

It was a different team that came out on the floor in the third quarter. Dave Miller who couldn't buy a basket in the first half, and was held to just one point, suddenly found the range. Miller and Kelley, who continued where he left off in the first half, paced a Hawk rally that quickly erased the Vulcan lead and put Cass City in the lead to stay.

In the big third period rally Miller burned the nets for 11 points and Kelley added nine.

Cass City continued to widen its lead in the early minutes of the final period. Featuring balanced scoring, Cass City moved in front by 10 points with 6:02 left in the game and it appeared as if the game was all but decided.

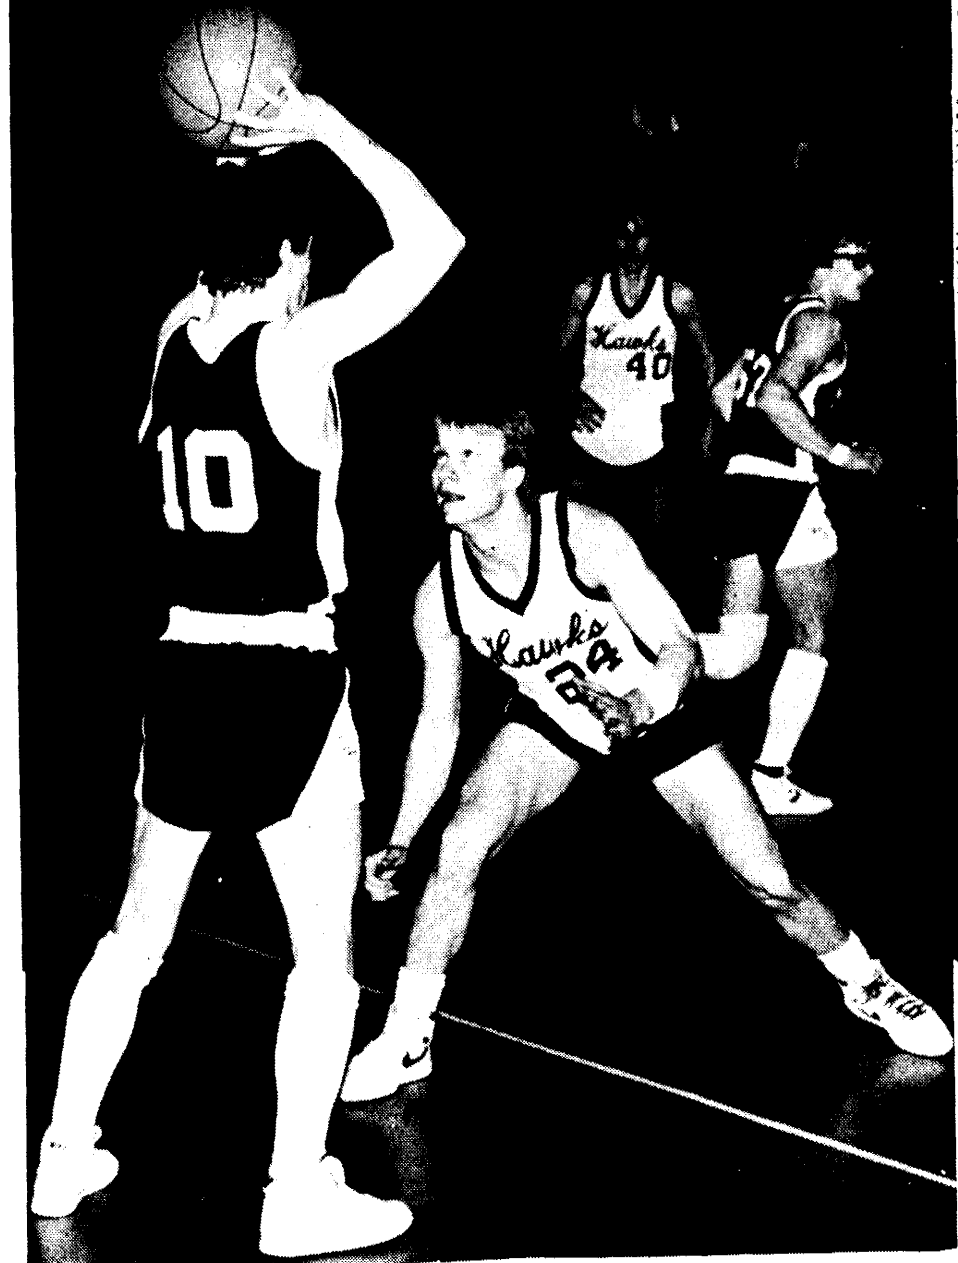

The Vulcans refused to roll over and play dead. Aaron Fletcher started using his muscle around the boards to pick off rebounds and score and Vassar started to close the gap.

A basket by the Vulcan center closed the gap to 50-47 with 25 seconds left. To get the ball, Vassar started to foul and the Hawks were equal to the challenge. Dan Ware went to the line with the game in doubt and calmly sank two charity tosses to widen the Cass City lead to five points with 12 seconds left. A moment later Kelley added two more gift heaves, but by then the game was decided.

Besides Kelley's 23 points the Hawks were helped by Miller's 16 and Scott Adams' 11 points. Adams has played well in the last two games handling the ball at point guard enabling Miller to play on the wing. Vassar was led by Randy Miller with 14 points and Fletcher with 10.

Hawks post tight win at Mayville

There were several good things about the game between Cass City and Mayville Tuesday, Coach Ron Nurnberger said, following the Hawks' breathtaking win over the Wildcats, 50-46.

The first of course was the victory. After two losses in a row the Hawks really needed to get on the right side of the ledger before heading back into Thumb B Association competition.

Nurnberger was pleased with the patience the team showed passing against the Mayville zone defense.

The Hawks needed all the patience they could muster, especially in the last two and a half minutes of the game. The Hawks had led all the way and the game really lacked much excitement. The lead was never great as the host team stayed within striking distance all the way.

Dave Miller kept the Hawks in control in the early going. He scored eight points in the first period and was a force on defense with a steal and two assists.

At the end of the quarter Cass City was in front 15-12. The Hawks went ahead by six points in the early moments of the second period only to have the Wildcats come back to within a point with 1:37 left in the half. The Hawks answered that challenge and spurred back in front by five, 28-23, at the intermission.

That's the way it went for most of the next two quarters. Mayville would narrow the gap only to have Cass City answer the challenge and retain the halftime margin.

That all changed in the dying minutes of the game. With three minutes left the Cats had moved to within three points and had the ball. Scott Adams then made a clean steal, was fouled and made both shots. But Mayville was far from through. Mark Brown connected on a short jumper and Cass City went into a stall.

The stall backfired when the Cats stole the ball. Duncan Thornton then hit a key bucket and Mayville was in the lead, 46-45, for the first time since the opening whistle.

Cass City missed a chance to go back in front when Miller missed a charity toss.

But a moment later Miller received a second chance and this time he didn't blow it. He sunk a pair to put the Hawks in front by a point with 38 seconds left. Cass City put the clincher on a few seconds later when Dennis Hyatt also made a pair of free throws. Miller added one more charity toss at the final whistle, but by this time the game had been decided.

Miller led all scorers with 20 points. Adams was also in double figures with 10. Thornton led the Cats with 12 points.

Coach Ron Nurnberger was pleased with the ball handling of the Hawks. We had only five turnovers, he said, and I don't know how long it's been since we have been that good.

The coach also liked the play of Steve Ross coming off the bench to spell Ware.

JV spikers top 'Skins

The Cass City Junior Varsity defeated Sandusky Wednesday behind the outstanding serves of Darlene Monroe. Cass City won the first two games, 15-8 and 15-0, and lost the final 15-10.

The Hawks were to play USA Tuesday night and meet Akron-Fairgrove at home Wednesday.

No report of the varsity contest was received.

Spikers rebuilding

Key performers gone, but O-G still keeps winning

By Tim Smith

It may be a rebuilding year for the Owen-Gage Bulldogs, who lost the core of last season's North Central Thumb Association title squad. But judging from the team's success in the recent Early Bird Tournament, it may not be a long wait before Judy Campbell-Porter's spikers bounce right back to the top.

The Bulldogs lost nine players from a team which finished 20-6 overall, and 15-1 in league play last winter. Five of those were all-league performers.

But the new edition Bulldogs -- with only three seniors on the 12-girl roster -- bolted out of the gates strong, with the championship of the Early Bird Tournament at North Huron Dec. 27.

Owen-Gage was slated to face Ubyl Monday, Jan. 13, and is now idle until Jan. 24, when they travel to face Bad Axe.

"This will probably be a rebuilding year, but we've always had a strong program in the 11 years I've been here," Campbell-Porter said, adding her teams have collected nine titles and one second-place finish during that span.

"And with basically a totally new team, we won the (Early Bird) tournament. We'll be stronger than some people think," she said, adding "we surprise those people who expect us to be at the bottom."

Five players from a year ago are back, and four of them will start regular season play in the starting lineup. Two of them -- sophomore Susie Salcido, and junior Cindy Enderle -- should provide firepower for the Bulldogs.

"They're both very capable players who picked up good experience last year," Campbell-Porter said. "I'm counting on getting good years out of them."

Also returning for another crack at Association opponents are seniors Deb Engelhardt, Marsha Lopez, both of whom will start, and Kim Wildman. Another starter will be junior Barb Hellebuyck.

Juniors Tiffany Reinhardt, Lisa Edwards, Heather Dorsch, Charlene Joslin, and sophomores Marcie Draschil and Janie Billy round out the roster.

flying squad, as did Dora Gunsell, who also started for the Bulldogs.

"It might take a while for this team to gel and to get going, but we're young, enthusiastic, and so far moving very well in practice," Campbell-Porter said.

The missing links of experience and confidence may have been garnered at the Early Bird win. It should be interesting to see how quickly the Bulldogs rebuild in the team's quest to continue a long-standing tradition of excellence.

Echo Chapter holds meet

Twenty-three members of Echo Chapter Order of Eastern Star attended the Jan. 8 meeting when 15 officers answered roll call.

Members voted a contribution of $25 to Job's Daughters.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Kim Roehl and her committee, Maxine Merchant, Reva M. Little, Maxine Profit and Nancy Hutchinson.

 Germany's oldest college, the University of Heidelberg, was founded in 1386.

SOPHOMORE spiker Susie Salcido is being counted on to perform well for Owen-Gage this season.

Dairy nutrition update class

A one-day Dairy Nutrition Update Class will be held Thursday, Jan. 16, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the County Conference Rooms in Sandusky.

This class will cover a wide variety of topics including Feeding for Milk Components, Understanding NDF and Soluble Proteins, Growing vs. Buying Feed, and more. The class will be taught by Dr. Herb Buckholtz, MSU Dairy Nutritionist; Joseph Shalty, District Dairy Agent, and Roberta Weber, Extension Agriculture Agent.

The class is open to any interested individual, free of charge and is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

ONE KEY player returning from last winter's league champion team is junior Cindy Enderle, shown setting up a teammate during a pre-season workout.

Owen-Gage overcame Akron-Fairgrove 50-49, in a hard-fought contest Tuesday, Jan. 7.

Junior forward Steve Root scored on his own rebound in the final minute of play, and Akron-Fairgrove botched a potential game-winner at the buzzer, to enable Dean Roller's cage squad to pick up its third win in nine outings. The North Central Thumb League (NCTL) victory was the Bulldogs' second in six tries.

Roller said it was crucial that his team finish up in regulation and avoid an overtime session, because Root fouled out near the end of the fourth quarter and three other Bulldogs on the floor were one step away from disqualification with four fouls each.

"That would have really taken away our depth -- had the game gone into overtime," he said.

Owen-Gage appeared to be heading toward an easy win when it surged to a 15-6 lead after one frame. And the Bulldogs maintained a comfortable 24-10 lead with the first half winding down.

"But they scored four quick ones before the half to get some momentum going for the second half," Roller explained. That burst enabled the Vikings to pull to within six -- 24-18 -- at intermission.

And thanks to sharp-shooting Carl Aldrich, who scored 12 of his game high 26 points in the fourth quarter, Akron-Fairgrove nudged ahead by three points, 49-46, as the clock wore down.

But Root found the range from close in to put the Bulldogs back on top, and overtime was avoided, much to the delight of Roller.

Guard Stu Stirrett had another fine night, with 18 points and 11 rebounds, while Rick Salcido added 13 markers. Root hauled down 8 boards in addition to his 8 tallies.

"Really, what won the game for us was free throw shooting," Roller noted.

"We made 10 of 18 from the line, while they only made five of 14. That turned out to be the determining factor."

The Bulldogs' scheduled contest at home against Ubyl last night (Tuesday, Jan. 14) was rescheduled for Feb. 15. Roller said the switch was necessitated by a scheduling conflict. The team next takes the floor Friday, Jan. 17, at North Huron, a team that has performed well thus far in the NCTL.

Wife likes tribute to husband

Dear John,
Your tribute to Ed which appeared in the Chronicle last week pleased my family and me.

I am sure there are many others who found him the same way.

At the time I received the Citizen of the Year Award, I would have been happier had it been given to him.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Helen (Baker)

Soil Workshop in Bad Axe

A two-day Soil Fertility Workshop will be offered by the Huron County Cooperative Extension Service Jan. 22 and 29 at the Farm Bureau Building in Bad Axe from 10:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

The first session will deal with the role soil plays in holding and supplying nutrients for plants and how nutrients move in the soil. Nutrient uptake by plants and how various soil types affect nutrient availability will also be discussed. Nitrogen, potassium and lime characteristics will also be covered, as well as when to use each, forms available, economic rates to apply, and method of application.

Dr. Don Christenson, Michigan State University Crops and Soils Department, will be the featured speaker. Harold Rouget, District Field Crops Agent for the Cooperative Extension Service, will also be on the program.

At the second session, the emphasis will be on phosphorus, sulfur, micro-nutrients and soil testing procedures. The main resource person for the second session will be Dr. Maury Vitosh, Michigan State University Crops and Soils Department.

There is a registration fee for these workshops. Persons interested in attending the workshops should pre-register at the Cooperative Extension Service, 104 County Building, Bad Axe. For more information, contact Jim LeCureux, Extension Agricultural Agent, Cooperative Extension Service phone 269-9949.

Letters to the editor

Tibbits: teaching is great profession

Dear John,
You were right in your Rabbit Tracks comments about the profession of teaching TEACHING IS A GREAT JOB. I would love to share experiences of learning and human situations I have enjoyed over my many years of teaching.

I still get angry or defensive or something when wages and fringe benefits are mentioned as if all teachers only teach because of those reasons. Of course teachers have to have decent wages, fringe benefits, and working conditions. Why do you compare us to Livonia? Please study some facts about the Cass City situation and maybe sometime you could mention that many teachers do earn their wages etc.

The challenge and fulfillment of teaching 5th graders in Cass City still far outweighs the frustration of contract problems.

Sincerely,
Geraldine Tibbits

Big hearted community

Dear Sir,
Many thanks for your help in publicizing the fund for Gary Rockefeller. Our community has a big heart.

Sincerely,
St. Agatha Gary Fund

Editor's note: Sister Ayotte said Friday that over $3,000 had been raised for the accident victim.

That's our salary goal in this area

Dear John,
Thank you very much for making people aware of what our salary goal is for this area.

Currently, the top of our scale, with a MA, is just a hair (a little pun intended) above one-half of Livonia's $50,000 plus.

Thank you,
E. Pasant

P.S. I'm sure you will also report Gibson's $4 million contract that is also for three years.

EDITOR'S NOTE - The $50,000 plus Pasant refers to is the salary for the 1988-89 year.

Proud of profession

Dear Editor John,
Thank-you for making the public aware of the salary that qualified teachers are making in Livonia. Cass City too has qualified teachers; however, our top salary with a master's degree is $27,841 for the 1985-86 school year. No complaint John, I'm just making a comparison statement.

I understand that both your daughter and son-in-law teach in Livonia. How proud you must be that they have chosen V-E-R-Y G-O-O-D J-O-B-S.

Sincerely,
Kris Deering

Cass City School teacher and proud of my profession

Novesta reports $50,000 balance

Novesta Township finished the year in a healthy financial condition with a carry-over of $50,000, Supervisor Bill O'Dell reports.

The fund balance was helped by $14,000 received in revenue sharing money that wasn't figured in the budget. We hoped to get it, O'Dell said, but you can't count on it in advance.

In other business at the board meeting Monday, Jan. 6, the board accepted the resignation of Lucille Stine as the township's representative on the ambulance board.

Mrs. Stine served on the board for six years and did an excellent job, O'Dell said. Mrs. Stine cited the demands of her job and work around the farm as reasons for leaving the board, according to the supervisor.

The board appointed Linda Boerner to replace Mrs. Stine. In other business, the board decided not to bid the township's biannual auditing report and hired Ray Armstead, a certified public accountant, for the work.

Construction starts at sugar plant

Michigan Sugar Company has begun construction of a new $3 million sugar silo at its Caro processing plant. The silo, which will have the capacity to store 350 million pounds of refined sugar, is being built by Chicago Bridge and Iron Company.

The silo is a Weibull-type and will be approximately 110-feet high and 90-feet in diameter. The project will be completed in time for next year's sugar crop.

Michigan Sugar completed construction on a similar silo at its Sebawaing plant last fall.

The new silo will store the sugar in bulk form, allowing the plant to respond to customer needs. Previously, the company packaged sugar in bags and stored it in warehouses. "In the summer when demand increased for bulk and liquid sugar, we had to cut up the 100-pound bags to fill the orders. It was a waste of manpower, bags, time and money," said Charles Silvernail, Caro plant manager.

Plans for the new silo are part of the modernization program under way at Michigan Sugar.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Bank CD's are taking a pasting at seminars around south Florida.

Naturally the investment firms arranging the meetings have alternatives to CD's that they're pushing -- single-pay life insurance, tax shelters, mutual funds and such.

CD's do have their points:

1. They're handy to get. Any bank or savings and loan can fix you up in minutes.
2. There's no commission.
3. Your investment is insured up to $100,000.
4. You're dealing with an established institution, supervised by the Federal government.
5. Compared to most bonds, time to maturity is short. You can get a CD as short as 30 days, as long as 10 years. Most people take them out for two or three years.
6. In contrast to a money market fund or mutual fund, you are assured of getting your principal back, 100 percent. This feature works both ways -- mutual funds or bonds might be worth more (as well as less) at the time you want to cash in.

Now for other side of the coin -- your coins, in this case:

1. Rates are low, compared to straight government bonds. Typical in this area: 8 percent for 1-year CD's, 9 percent for 5 years.
2. Your money is locked in for the term of the CD. Typical penalty for early withdrawal, six months of interest, if withdrawn less than a year after deposit, three months' interest penalty if over a year on deposit.
3. Interest is figured on a simple annual basis, and is not compounded. Bond interest is paid semi-annually; money market fund interest is compounded daily.

Here are some typical rates for various lengths of time.

	Gov't's T-Bills	CD's Banks	CD's S & L's
1 year	7.90	8.	8.50
2 1/2 years	8.80	8.60	9.
5 years	9.70	9/9.50	9.75/10.

T-bills are another type of government bonds, bought at a discount from par. They can be had for almost any maturity up to a year. A bank can buy them for you.

Government bonds longer than a year can also be bought through a bank or broker. The fee is around $0 to $50 a transaction. The higher yield about offsets the commission.

You aren't locked in when you have bonds for they can be sold with a phone call. You will have another commission to pay if you sell before maturity, and the price may be higher or lower than what you paid. There's no penalty, though.

Quote from an in-house publication of one of America's leading stock brokers:

"With inflation at approximately 3 1/2 percent and 'AAA' insured bonds yielding 9 1/2 percent and more tax-free, the outlook remains good for bond buyers today, especially considering that the ultimate tax shelter remains -- Municipal Bonds.

About the same time I ran across this item, I had a visitor. It was my friend George.

I hadn't seen him since last spring when he dropped by with some papers relating to a tax shelter. This was a real estate deal a broker in Tampa had sold him several years ago. It had cost him $12,000 originally.

"Now they want to liquidate it," said George. "What should I do?"

Well, it had stopped long ago paying dividends. There didn't seem to be much choice. So I said to sell it.

He did, and got $3600 for the so-called shelter he had paid $12,000 for in 1982.

He can salvage some of the loss by using it to offset some capital gains he has made in municipal bonds this year. It has been a costly tax shelter.

The latest visit was just the other day. He had another set of papers about another so-called tax shelter. It had been sold to him also in 1982 by the same Tampa broker. This one was an oil-drilling deal, and it cost him $10,000.

It was being liquidated and they sent him 99 shares of stock, which does have a market on the American stock exchange. He sold this for 14 1/2. His original $10,000 investment had shrunk to $1450.

Some shelter!

McNaughton promoted

David W. McNaughton has been named Aftermarket Sales Manager for Walbro Corporation's Carburetor Group. The appointment was announced by Donald D. Hilbig, director of sales.

DAVID McNAUGHTON

In his new position, McNaughton will be responsible for the Carburetor Group's North American aftermarket activities.

McNaughton has been with Walbro Corporation since 1969, serving in a variety of positions, most recently as OE account manager, carburetor sales.

McNaughton has attended the University of Michigan and Saginaw Valley State College, where he studied business administration. He and his wife Connie and five children reside in Cass City.

OWENDALE-GAGETOWN athletic director Wayne Wright said his school's stringent policy for athletic eligibility is fair, and a useful motivational tool.

Assault of policeman nets one-year jail term

A 25-year-old Vassar man was sentenced Monday, Jan. 6, in Tuscola County Circuit Court to one year in jail for the alleged assault last July of a Vassar policeman.

Roland Albert Clampitt, a former resident of El Paso, Texas, began serving the term handed down by Judge Patrick R. Joslyn Wednesday, Jan. 8, but received credit for the 60 days he had previously served.

Clampitt was found guilty of the charge -- assault with intent to do great bodily harm -- to Vassar policeman Gary Churcott in a July, 1985, incident. Allegedly Clampitt, who was intoxicated, according to court reports, tossed an oven grate in Churcott's direction.

In other Circuit Court action Jan. 6, Emerson A. Gardner, of Vassar had a first-degree criminal sexual conduct charge lowered to second degree following plea bargaining, according to Circuit Court reports.

Gardner, 44, allegedly engaged in a sexual act last June with a 14-year-old girl. The sentencing date is set for March 17. If convicted, Gardner could face up to 15 years maximum for the crime.

Cheryl Kay Danner, 22, of Caro, stood mute on the charge of possessing a concealed weapon in a vehicle. A plea of not guilty was entered by her attorney.

A pre-trial examination in Circuit Court is scheduled for Jan. 27. The maximum term for the crime is five years, or a $2,500 fine.

A Flint man who allegedly committed armed robbery of an Indianfields Township couple in September, will be sentenced Feb. 24.

Christopher Allen Inman, 20, faces a maximum sentence of life in prison should fine at this point," Laycock said.

UBLY SCHOOL

At Uby High School, students must pass four out of six courses to remain eligible. Athletic Director Fred Ziehm added that teachers keep weekly tabs on students, and that teacher-student conferences are scheduled for students who fall to the D level in any course.

Ziehm strongly disagreed with the Owendale-Gagetown system, and said his school would have trouble with its athletic programs under such a policy. "Athletics definitely helps some students graduate," Ziehm said. "If our goal is to eliminate some students from the athletic program, forcing them to maintain a C average would be the way to go."

"I'll tell you point blank that not every student is able to get a C average, but that doesn't mean these kids are bricks. Many of these people will hold fine jobs in the future and be excellent employees," Ziehm continued. "They may work in a factory and not in a 'skilled' position, but that shouldn't keep them from playing on high school teams."

He added that the grade-check system -- in its second year -- has proved to be a help to student-athletes.

"Kids who are athletes have been more responsive to the program, as have all those involved with extracurricular activities," Ziehm said. "They know they will be rewarded for good effort in the classroom and put on the sidelines if they don't. (The policy) has been a catalyst for improved classroom performance."

Owendale - Gagetown's Wright said schools need stringent eligibility measures in order to keep youngsters away from various "non-productive" activities.

"Our eligibility policy, unquestionably, is used as a motivational factor. It is extremely tough for schools to compete versus arcades and all the other goodie which are available, Wright said. "We have to use what is available to motivate students -- this type of policy is one of the few things we have to gain some leverage."

Human beings are the only animals that can blush.

MEAT NUTRI-FACTS

This Weeks Feature: 260 calories per serving

RIB EYE STEAKS WITH
MUSHROOM SAUCE

4 beef rib eye steaks, cut 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick
(approximately 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 pounds)
1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
1/2 cup hot water
2 tablespoons butter, divided
1 cup thinly sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons finely minced shallot or green onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Dissolve bouillon granules in water; reserve.
Cook mushrooms and shallot in 1 tablespoon butter in a large frying pan 1 to 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add reserved beef broth; cook and stir 3 to 4 minutes. Meanwhile heat remaining butter in another large frying pan. Quickly cook steaks 1 to 2 minutes on each side or to desired degree of doneness. Season with salt and pepper.
Pour sauce over steaks and heat 1 minute, stirring occasionally. 4 servings.
