Some of the plans for that hearing were discussed during Monday night's monthly meeting of the School Board. The hearing is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Monday before Raymond Godmer, the Public Hearing Officer for the State Board of Education. It will deal with property transfers in the Belk, Voelker, Parker and Shaper parcels, which make up about three percent of the Owen-Gage District.

During a hearing in Lansing last week, representaives from Owen-Gage ofered a proposal that the non-resident property, land that is not occupied by the owner, should belong to the Owen-Gage District. However, lawyers for the parties involved said that was not a good idea. School Board President Ronald Good said that if a compromise could be reached, hen no hearing would be meeded. But he added, "We still don't have a counterproposal.'

Discussion followed on the need for the board to keep the door open for some property owners who have expressed an interest in returning to the Owen-Gage District. The board then adopted a motion to request the return of that portion of the Goslin et. al. property transfer that is deemed non-resident ownership, and any resident-owners who want to return. A comment was also made that some people felt they would have to pay back-taxes on the new school if they returned. But Superintendent Erickson replied, "Anyone coming

NEW PROGRAM?

In dealing with other items Monday night, the Owen-Gage School Board heard a request from Andrea Hofmeister for the establishment of a K-12 vocal music program. She offered a proposal that would include two sessions per week for students through the sixth grade, and the offering of choir as an elective at the Junior High School level. If the board chose to start the program, Mrs. Hofmeister. said she would be available to teach on either a parttime or full-time basis. Trustees responded by saying they would look into the possibility of offering such a vocal music program beginning at the elementary-school level.

The board was given a report on a dinner meeting of the Huron County School Board Association held in Port Hope Jan. 16. During the meeting, there were many speakers on the new Skill Center in Bad Axe which is scheduled to open its doors in September of this year. High School Principal Wayne Wright said for each of the programs of-fered by the Skill Center, there will be two slots available to Owen-Gage students, with one exception, cosmetology. He said all of the students from the Owen-Gage District will attend the Skill Center during the afternoon session, and extra slots that become available will be assigned by lottery between the local districts in the Huron County Intermediate School District. Board members were told that students will not be allowed to drive their cars to the new programs offered may have some effect on the scheduling of elective classes next year.

Designated as the student of the month by the board was Debbie Engelhardt. She has been a class officer. and is active in basketball, volleyball, and softball. Debbie was also crowned the Snow Ball Queen this past week end. Later in the meeting, trustees were asked about the process used in the selection of the student of the month. In the past, there was board input in choosing the monthly honor. The audience was told that now, the decision is made by the high school principal, who receives nominations from the teachers. There is no point system involved, and the student can either be a junior or a senior. After discussion, it was decided to have a committee meet and come up with guidelines to be used in the selection process. The group will include several parents, teacher, and one board member. Some parents in the audience for Monday night's meeting also expressed their concern over the theft of personal property in the schools. One particular case involving the theft of a $56 pair of gym shoes was brought up. The board was then asked what the school policy is in dealing with such a case. Superintendent Erickson said that they are treated and dealt with on an individual basis. The board chose to table the problem of stolen property until its next meeting.

In a process that began a couple of years ago, trustees received word from William Breakey of Management Resources Development that some apartments in the district will be going up very soon. This will consist of one building

Townships cool to new interest pay plan

The Cass City School District's attempt to collect interest on tax money that is collected for the district has received a cool reception from township officials.

At the regular meeting of the board Monday evening, from townships told the board that they thought that the township collected the money for the school and should not have to pass on interest it earned until turned over to the school

Supervisor Bill O'Dell from Novesta Township said that the school adopting a policy for collecting that money would be like passing a seat belt law. No

Novesta Township, he said, we don't collect interest on the deposits anyway.

Otis Dorland, Evergreen Township, said that if the school wanted the interest on the money collected, it should collect it. Evergreen does collect interest on the funds it collects before it is paid to the district.

Despite the objections, the board decided to give townships two options for handling the school funds.

Township treasurers will be asked to pay school funds collected each week or to establish an interest bearing account for depositing the school funds and after the last day for

GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

The board has been looking at graduation requirements for over a year and had tentatively decided to require 24 credits for graduation.

Allan Hartwick, one of the trustees, wanted students to have room to make up a flunked class in their senior year in order to graduate. With 24 credits required most students would need six classes as seniors to graduate.

Several board members. of which Louis Horner was one, favored the stiffer requirements.

In the compromise, Horner amended the motion for a 23-credit graduation requirement to include a mandatory minimum of

There are practical reasons why the Chronicle can't do that (time and money). In addition, it's certain that my taste in films is much different than most of yours. You couldn't give me "Rambo," for instance, but I'd love to see "Red River" again and it's probably 30 years old.

Most folks believe that Scott Skiles should have been kicked off the team. Skiles, in case you just checked in from outer space, is the star guard at Michigan State who is charged with drunk driving while on probation for another drug related

You can make a good case for kicking him from the squad for his off court behavior. Athletes are supposed to meet certain standards to represent their schools.

In today's society these standards have changed considerably. There was a time when a college athlete had to sneak a bottle of beer or a cigarette.

In today's big business college sports world no one pays any attention to these kind of training rules anymore. Young men with outstanding athletic ability are courted and lauded from early high school days until they finally sign that letter of intent and are bound to a school.

After that happens, the same coaches that have been paying such close attention to the athlete suddenly announce that the recruit has great potential, but will need time to adjust to college ball. A few episodes like this and athletes start, with justification, to wise up about big time athletics. But I digress. What this is all about is Skiles and what happened in a basketball game against Illinois. If you caught that game on the boob tube, you must have been convinced that Skiles was the dominant player for State. The announcers were constantly referring to him as the player that the Spartans looked to and the leader of the team. Skiles is the man, they kept saying.

And they were right. Skiles was the player for MSU in the clutch.

You would expect to see Skiles selected as outstanding player of the game. Right?

Wrong. It was two other Michigan State players who came to the mikes to offer the traditional platitudes.

There was only one reason for this of course. Skiles' off court sorry record. That's not fair, not right.The selection is supposedly based on the athlete's performance in the game. The way he plays on the floor, not the way he conducts himself off it.

Certainly Skiles will be paying for his brushes with the law and he should. But as long as he is allowed to participate he should be judged by what happens when he is on the hardwood. The way selections were made in that game, the title should have been switched from most valuable player to the players most likely to be acceptable to the widest number of viewers.

A few slightly astonishing things happened during the nine months-plus leading up to this.

Last April, for instance, my daughter Ferd looked at Carmen Harlan, the WDIV-TV (Channel 4) anchor, and said: "Carmen's pregnant again. I can tell by the look on her face."

Three weeks later, it was announced that Carmen would indeed have a child in November. How did Ferd know so soon?

one," she explained. That was the first I knew I was going to be a grandfather again.

Several months later, everyone knew, if they saw Ferd. She was that big. Except one evening there was a special night out and she wore a maternity dress that beautifully disguised her condition.

People meeting her for the first time said how nice she looked, and I could tell they didn't know she was pregnant. So I told them.

And I actually blushed when a little voice inside my head suddenly said: My God, you are such a big fool you brag about your grandchildren even before they're born.'

I was so embarrassed I didn't utter another public word about the impending birth until this week. And it was this week that I was most astonished by some circumstances surrounding the arrival of another woman in my life. When my first four grandchildren were born, I wasn't on the scene. But this time I made it, and it was my first appearance at a birth since my youngest child was born more than 27 years ago — in the same

Emily held her sister's hand. She stared in amazement at the funny clothes her dad wore to assist in the delivery, and at the ugly hospital gown on her mother. She laughed, and everyone laughed, and I cried.

Oh boy. Patricia Karen Smith was born the same day President Reagan called Moammar Khadafy a flaky barbarian and the world worried that one more war might be on the way.

$10,800 grant spurs gifted pupil program

gifted and talented students in Tuscola County took a step forward recently when the Tuscola Intermediate School District (TISD) was awarded a $10,800 grant for the purpose of providing elementary students with further training in language arts as related to high level thinking skills and creative thinking, said Trix Harbin, who is coordinating the program for

The grant program will be used to implement project THINK, (teachers helping to instill new knowledge.) The plan is to have 10 elementary teachers, one from each of the nine school districts in Tuscola County, plus one other, work with Saginaw Valley State College professors so they can conduct workshops in their school districts to train other teachers in the new prog-

According to Gerald Cle-According to Gerald Cleland, Cass City School counse selor who is in charge of the program in the Cass City District, the teacher selected will be paid mileage and meal money and the substitute hired to replace him or her will also be paid from the special funds available in the grant.

Cass City will have no special classroom for the gifted. The students that are gifted or have special talents have not yet been identified, Cleland said.

There is a plan for a summer school for gifted and talented students in grades two, three and four. The grant will be used to provide summer enrichment courses for able learners and also provide teachers an opportunity to work with gifted, talented and creative children.

The school is expected to be a mini lab for teachers, Harbin said. The students who participate in the summer school will be exposed to language arts which focus on higher levels and creative thinking.

Students will be selected from those recommended by county school districts on an enrollment quota to be established by a steering committee coordinated by Harbin.

We are quite excited by this project, Harbin said, when discussing the grant and its application.

School land dispute may bring court case — Hobart

Cass City School Board member Ben Hobart reported the details of two meetings held with representatives of the Owen-Gage School Board Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 14-15, in Flint, at the regular meeting of the board

The meetings were called

'86 Electric youth day

Back for its fifth successful year, Rural Electric Youth Days '86 is looking for rural high school students to participate in a unique two-day cooperative education program.

Held at the 4-H Kettunen Center in Tustin, south of Cadillac, April 24 and 25, Youth Days '86 will give approximately 35 Michigan students an opportunity to learn about cooperatives, explore their leadership skills and socialize. The event is sponsored by the state's rural electric cooperatives and the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association (MECA).

Three students from each participating rural electric co-op will be selected to attend Youth Days '86. Selection is based on the students' interest in cooperatives, their commitment to rural life, and their leadership potential.

Interested students, whose parents are members of a rural electric cooperative, should write a letter to their co-op expressing their desire to attend. The deadline for letters is March 15.

Youth Days' sessions will include speakers and other activities that will expand the students' knowledge of cooperatives, especially rural electric co-ops

Pair plead guilty to shooting officer Steven and Dale Matzke of Millington will be sentenced in Tuscola County

Circuit Court March 3 for their part in the shooting Oct. 20, 1984, of Timothy Department of Natural Resources officer, who was slightly injured by a single shot from a high powered rifle. They enterd guilty pleas Thursday before Judge Patrick Joslyn.

Dale Matzke, who is suspected of firing the shot that glanced off the hood of the DNR vehicle and went through the windshield where fragments of the bullet struck Burke in the face, pleaded guilty to assault with intent to commit malicious destruction of property. The maximum penalty is 10 years and, or, a $5,000 fine.

Steven Matzke, who was not in the car at the time of the shooting, was charged with being an accessory after the fact of a crime for disposing of the high-powered rifle used in the shooting. He pleaded guilty and faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison and, or, a $10,000 fine.

The shooting occurred when Burke and his co-officer, Juris Didrichson, were chasing a truck whose passengers were suspected of poaching deer during the nighttime.

After a five-mile chase,

Matzkes to be sentenced March 3

Susan Papp, 13, of Cass Steve Papp of Decker, would take off for Hawaii. Why? Because it's warm all year round, they have nice beaches and nice guys, daughter of Tom and Marty Nicholson of Cass City, echoed the reasons given by Susan, only she would head for the Bahamas. I've seen the pictures of the nice beaches there, it's warm and they have neat guys, she giggled.

Stephanie Nicholson, 13,

McNeil, 14, Tammy daughter of Richard and City, daughter of Lois and Sue McNeil, Cass City, would take off for Paris. It's warm and stuff, isn't it?, she asks.

It just sounds exciting to the young teen who admits that the farthest south she has been is the state of Ohio.

Believed to be in the car with Dale Matzke at the time of the shooting was Steven Scott Simon, 21, who was alleged to be the driver of the car. He previously pleaded no contest to intent to commit a felony and aiding and abetting malicious destruction of property over $100. He will be sentenced Feb. 10.

OTHER CASES

A three-day jury trial ended Tuesday, Jan. 14, Daniel Joseph Guinther of 604 West Lincoln Street, Caro, was found guilty of grand larceny for stealing a motorcycle Aug. 15. Guinther also pleaded guilty as an habitual criminal offender. Sentencing was set for March 10.

arraignments Several and sentencings were heard in court Monday, Jan. 13.

Lawrence Howse of Millington was sentenced to probation for five years with six months spent in the county jail. Credit for time served awaiting trial will be given. In addition, a fine and costs of $300 were set. He pleaded guilty to larceny from a building, a charge reduced from breaking and entering and larceny. Restitution is to be determined.

Joseph Brady, 19, of Caro pleaded guilty to larceny, a charge reduced from breaking and entering and larceny. He entered a house owned by Beatrice Deming and took a broom and shovel.

Johnny Lee Willson Jr., 21, of Millington and Robert J. Greer, 18, of Mayville were sentenced after pleading guilty to larceny in a building in Vassar.

Willson was sentenced to one year's probation and 180 days in the county jail with credit given for time served. Deferred until the end of the probation were 90 days of the sentence. He was also ordered to pay $200 each for fine and costs.

Greer was sentenced to three years' probation with 160 days in the county jan with credit given for 35 days served. He was ordered to pay $300 fine, $400 costs and to make restitution of $260.

On a second charge of larceny, Green was sentenced to 100 days in the county jail with credit for time served awaiting sentencing.

Charge Kitchin with assault after scuffle

A scuffle at a Jan. 10 basketball game at Cass City High School has resulted in an assault and battery charge against David Wayne Kitchin of Ubly.

James Vernier filed charges against Kitchin after he allegedly was struck in the head in the hallway of the school, according to Chief Gene Wilson of the Cass City Police Department. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and or a $100

Lawrence Smith of 6359 Houghton Street reported Thursday to Cass City Police that a battery valued at $44 was stolen from a car in his yard.

Thomas Szagesh Jr. of Vassar pleaded guilty to larceny over $100 from Shonnie's Family Dining restaurant in Vassar Sept. 16. Sentence was delayed one year and he was ordered to perform 80 hours of community service. Scott Bastian of Shabbona Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty to larceny from a building for stealing tools Aug. 6 from a building on Dodge Road, owned by George Cooklin. He was sentenced to three years'

probation with six months in the county jail. Credit for 113 days served will be given and work release time granted.

Two counts of welfare fraud against Vivian Putnam Peace of Caro were dismissed.

Anthony Kenneth House, 18, of Caro stood mute on a charge of delivery of marijuana and a plea of innocent was entered for him. A pre-trial was scheduled for Jan. 20 and bond of $1,000 continued.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Construction of a threebuilding apartment complex with a total of 22 units will begin in Cass City this spring. Bavarian Builders of Frankermuth is seeking a Farmers Home Administration loan to finance the $550,000 project.

Cass City High School had three debaters at the Class C state finals Feb. 6-7 in Southfield. They are Crystal Gallaway and Mechelle Particka, with Deb Paladi as alternate.

Cass City stamped itself as the team to beat in the upcoming Thumb B Association volleyball race by winning its 8-team invitational tournament Saturday. The Hawks lost only two games all day as they through four matches undefeated.

TEN YEARS AGO

Cass City's top ten industrial and commercial taxpayers contributed nearly 34 percent of the total real and personal property taxes collected by the village in 1975, according to tax roll figures.

Tuscola County The Board of Commissioners continued their long January session as they accepted bids on five new cars for the Sheriff's Department and heard a variety of committee reports. Michigan weathered its worst forest fire season in seven years during 1975, when nearly 17,000 acres burned in 855 fires.

Lawmakers amended the state's criminal code making pinball completely legal. The old law stated that pinball machines that offered free games for high scores were in violation.

Crime in Cass City, including larcenies, burglaries, vandalism and drug complaints, all rose in 1975, according to Police Chief Gene Wilson's annual report.

25 YEARS AGO

The end of 10 years of domination by basketball teams of Cass City High School, in which the school either was at the top or a close challenger for top honors, has come. For the first time in many years, Cass City is not the team to beat in the Thumb B Conference or in the coming district tournaments.

Long delayed, much deserved tokens of appreciation were presented to M.B. Auten and E.B. Schwaderer for their efforts on behalf of the Hills and Dales General Hospital at a special meeting of Cass City Rotarians, Rotary Anns and guests at the hospital Monday evening.

A new organization for young adult couples in the Cass City Methodist Church has been established, the Rev. Robert Searles, pastor, announced this week.

35 YEARS AGO

Michigan can expect drastic action from the governor's office to hold down expenses in every department not directly concerned with civil defense or the war effort. Mrs. Chas. Tennant reported the close of the most successful blood bank held in Tuscola County. Two hundred forty-two people reported at the Baptist Church at Caro to give

Betty Pattullo Extension Home Economist

Have you ever wondered why the stores are filled with bathing suits in February and winter coats in July? It's because of the textile manufacturing cycle, says Betty Pattullo, Tuscola County Extension Home Economist.

According to a fiber industry study, the clothing manufacture cycle, from fiber production to finished garments available in retail outlets, takes about 11/2 years. This time lag puts seasonal garments on retail clothing racks three to six months late for the season the clothing is intended for, and early for the next appropriate season.

The timing schedule satisfies some consumers and leaves others exasperated, Pattulo says. But knowing something about the textile industry's timing can help you get more for your clothing dollar.

Over a six-month fashion season, consumers seem to fall into three distinct categories:

--The "innovators" want to be first and don't worry about price. They usually buy during the first five weeks of the season. --The "early majority" buys trend merchandise in the proper season and at the regular price. They usually buy during the second and third months.

--The "late majority" wait to buy until they see others with the merchandise. They are price conscious and like to keep their dollars as long as possible. They will typically buy during the fourth and fifth months or when sales ap-

DOMINATOR by James Follett (fiction). This is a story about two tough men (and a stunning woman) on their way to a countdown and a showdown. One is an American suspended from the NASA program for an accident which kills an astronaut on the space shuttle, Dominator; the other, an Israeli lieutenant, cashiered from the Army after a misadventure on the ground. This novel spans three continents and the heavens above as it traces the fearfully possible outcome of a new deadlock between the clashing factions in the Middle East which hold the superpowers for PARGETERS by Norah Lofts (fiction). Pargeting is a skilled trade, and Adam Woodley created such beautiful plaster designs for John Mercer's new house at Minsham that Mercer named the house Pargeters in honor of the craftsman. But when Mercer's daughter fell in love with and married Woodley, little did both men realize just how strongly their families would be united in that fine house during the turbulent years of battle and bloodshed which lay ahead....

TEACH YOUR CHILD DECISION MAKING by John Clabby, Ph.D. (non-fiction). Here is a unique, easy-tofollow program that enables parents to teach their children the necessary skills for solving everyday problems and making sound decisions on their own. In today's complex and demanding society, it is more important than ever that children of all ages learn to deal with problem situations when their parents are not around. Developed by two phychologists and tested in the New Jersey school system for five years, this thorough 8-step program begins with a questionnaire designed to make parents aware of their own parenting style, and then proceeds to teach them how to teach their children the basic skills needed to analyze and solve a problem with confidence. With helpful diagrams and activities vividly illustrating each specific step, children learn to respond to problem situations actively and constructively, gaining increased confidence and independence.

Prenatal care for expectant county mothers

A new prenatal health care program is now available in Tuscola County to expectant mothers who do not have health insurance to cover prenatal care, are on a reduced income but do not qualify for Medicaid.

The new prenatal health care program was initiated to fight high infant death. rate in Michigan. According to a study on infant mortality, two-thirds of infant deaths can be attributed to low birth weights, (babies weighing less than 51/2 pounds at birth). Research has shown that getting prenatal health care during the first three months of pregnancy and keeping all prenatal appointments throughout pregnancy is one of the most effective ways to prevent low birth weight. Recent research indicated women who do not receive prenatal care have 15 times more infant deaths.

The state funded prenatal. care program is designed [to provide early and regular care to uninsured pregnant women to prevent many of the complications caused by low birth weights ... in infants.

When expectant mothers ... enroll in this program administered by the Health Department, they will receive low cost prenatal care ... right up to the trip to the hospital Hospital services and delivery are not included, however referrals are provided. In addition to routine prenatal care, this program also provides education on nutrition, childbirth, infant care and family planning. One postnatal checkup is included in the program. For more information retime the season rolls around again this spring, a wins pair new set of lights costing $23,500 will be up and operating. They will be replacing the current lights that are now estimated to be about 40 years old.

Forty years was the estimated life span of the lights when they were installed at the Cass City High School football field.

The lights were then moved to the diamonds when new lights were installed at the gridiron. Now the poles are in such poor shape, Lou LaPonsie, village superintendent says, that no one wants to climb them to change the lights.

Most poisonous

The most poisonous animal alive, according to some scientists, is the arrow-poison frog, says National Wildlife Federation's Ranger Rick magazine. These insect-eating frogs live in the rain forests of and Central America. And, as its name suggests, the frogs' poison is carefully spread by hunting Indians on their arrow

One of the biggest problems facing the PSC is the time it takes to complete rate orders, she said, citing 14-16 month time frames to decide some issues. "We have not served the interest of the ratepayers because of the lag," she said.

The costs created by those time lags are passed on to the consumers, she system — whether a new ombudsman or the continuation of the current system "needs to try to work within the time constraints.'

House Speaker Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti), appearing with Stallworth. did not endorse the concept of a new ombudsman's office, but did endorse an examination of the current structure. He said looking at a new way for consumers to be represented was not a slap directed at Kelley.

Kelley said the proposal "seems to be a little scam perpetrated by a group of young lawyers who'd like to assume the mantle of my office without giving the people the opportunity to vote for them. It is a usurpation of my constitutional duties and it won't fly."

The minority report was sharply critical of the idea of an ombudsman, saying offices similar created in those states where the existing attorney general did not take an interest in utility ratepayers.

"It totally escapes us how a statutory ombudsman would be any more representative of the public and residential ratepayers than is the attorney general," the minority said.

Court opinions have held that the attorney general's office is to serve as a chief legal officer of the state, even if that means its office must represent competing interests, the minority said. Recommendations in the report include: Maintaining the current three-member structure, with members appointed by the Governor (Governor Blanchard last year aired a plan to expand the PSC). -Studying whether incentive rates, which encourage utilities to minimize cost, would be effective in promoting effi-

Hawks choked, says coach

Dave Miller scored just 12 points against the Bad Axe Hatchets Friday night at Cass City High School, well below his nearly .18 points per game average, but still played one of his better games of the season. Cass City topped the Hatchets, 72-50, to stay in the Thumb B Association title

Coach Wayne Copeland had the Hatchets in a box and one all night. One man guarded Miller man-toman and the remainder of the team played a four-man

The tactic stopped the Thumb's leading scorer from his accustomed role, leading the scoring, but it didn't stop Cass City from winning.

The game was actually broken open in the middle of the second period by a series of technical fouls.

The Hatchets had moved into a brief early lead before Kelley and Miller hit buckets and Scott Adams converted a pair of free throws to put the Hawks in front 8-4.

The game stayed close until midway through the second period. A pair of technicals against Coach Copeland resulted in a parade of points from the foul circle. A pair of gift points were made on a personal foul before Kelley came to the line and hit four in a row to give Cass City six points while the ball wasn't in play. A moment later the Hawks cashed a field goal and with 4:04 left in the half, Cass City was in front 21-10. The Hatchets scored the next six points to cut the margin to 21-16 and then traded baskets until the intermission when a final bucket cut Cass City's lead to five points, 33-28.

Cass City's first half lead could be traced to the technicals. Besides the four points scored on the double technical on the coach, two more technicals were called on Hatchet players and both converted. Without these gift tosses, Bad Axe would have had the lead at the half.

The visitors never got closer than five points the rest of the game, although Cass City never had a comfortable margin until midway in the final period.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

It was a pleasant lunch I had recently with Richard Eckhouse, of Boca Raton. As investment advisers, we were quite simpatico.

We shared a dim view of bank trust departments (although my host did say one of the local banks performed quite well). We agreed that most amateur investors show poor results. And we felt the same way about most mutual funds and most brokerage house recommendations — they don't turn out very well.

Dick has done some detailed research to arrive at these conclusions. My conclusions are empirical.

We both handle about 15 or 20 portfolios for clients, who give us authority to buy or sell as we choose, without consultation. We both believe that a NYSE member firm is the proper place to keep securities.

Neither of us is very optimistic about the future of common stocks, and consequently are staying out of the market.

Dick lists his goals in order of preference:

1. Safety of principal Long-term capital gains 3. Tax savings 4. Income (when important to the individual) My own goals are a little different, but not much. I liken my philosophy to a three-legged milk stool: It's hard to say which is the most important leg.

One leg is safety of principal, another is after-tax return, and the third is liquidity - investments that are easy to sell.

The third leg, liquidity, is the reason I don't like real estate, nor tax shelters in oil wells, for example. Dick thinks part of a person's assets can well be in gold stocks, as an inflation

A lot of savvy people do invest in gold for that very reason. I am not one of them. Say gold is $300 an ounce. Say it doubles in seven years and is worth $600. The $300 increase is taxed as a capital gain, say 20 percent. So if you cash it in, your $300 has become bonds at lower rates. $540 after tax.

I would prefer to buy a seven-year zero coupon bond yielding 10 percent, tax-exempt. In years, this would double in price and there would be no capital gain. Meanwhile, it would have that nice little feature of guaranteeing it would be worth double in 1992. Can a gold merchant assure the same thing? While Dick's gold stocks do pay dividends and thus are not the same as just holding gold itself, the return is pretty much tied to gold prices. Gold stocks are a more conservative way of playing future gold prices. Dick is not in favor of buying just gold.

We both feel that most brokers lack flexibility in their views. If they've been brought up to think utility common stocks are the thing, they never change their minds. If the family has done well in real estate, then they buy condos on spec, and for the last three years have had regrets. We had a common complaint about brokers — they recommend things to buy, but seldom suggest when to

We split sharply on whether to invest in shortterm bonds or long-term ones. Dick sees great inflation ahead and, with it, higher interest rates and, of course, lower bond prices. He thinks three to five years is as far out as he wants to go in maturities.

He comes up with a lot of figures that show how, over the past 10 years, people who bought short-term obligations (like a year out) did better than any other stock or bond investor.

I happen to feel inflation will hang around 4 percent, which is still historically high — twice as high as the average since 1800. Meanwhile, I'd like to lock in these tax-exempt yields of 10 and 101/2 percent. If interest rates go up - and bond prices down - I'll retrieve some of the drop in value by being able to reinvest the income at higher rates. Dick can, of course, do this, too, with his short bonds, but he'll be out in the cold if rates go down and he has to reinvest maturing

There's a handy com ment to make as these arguments go on: "Time will tell."

Meanwhile, Dick Eckhouse continues to do quite well as an advisor. What started out as a pastime some 20 years ago has now put him in an office in the building downtown Boca. As for me, I still operate out of what used to be the spare bedroom.

Commissioners Townships cool to school's elect Taylor to interest collection plan

head board

Christopher Taylor of Caro has been elected chairman of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners, replacing Donna Rayl, who resigned.

Mrs. Rayl notified us before leaving on vacation that she was growing tired of the chairmanship, Commissioner Royce Russell, Cass City, said, and that she would not be at all upset if someone else would take over the job.

Russell said that appointment of Michael Green as vice-chairman to replace him had his full support.

I've turned down an opportunity to run for the chairman's post a couple of times and all the commissioners know that I will not be a candidate for it, he

Because of that, it's right that someone who could become chairman fill the job of vice-chairman. Green is a fine young man and is really helpful to the county, Russell added.

Committee appointments for 1986 have been announced. Royce Russell will continue as chairman of the finance committee. Green is also a member of this committee.

Other committee appointments are: Personnel - Chairman Donna Rayl, John Good-

A barn loaded with stored items went down in flames on a snowy, windy evening Tuesday, Jan. 14, at the Francis Withey residence. at 3795 Cemetery Road about 11/2 miles south of Cass City.

Withey was in the barn when sparks from a welder started the fire.

The loss was estimated at $30,000. Some of the contents were covered by insurance. A total loss will be Lost in the blaze were tires and wheels, many tools, a hard top for a boat, gas grills, two tractors, three snowmobiles, children's toys and many miscellaneous items.

South Africa boycott could cost $4.6 million

Some members of a special commission exapreferred mining methods to divest state pension funds of South African-related investments expressed skepticism that costs will be kept to the $4.6 million a lished in a preliminary report by two consultants. The loss represents a small fraction of the $5.15 billion that would be involved in 1986.

The losses reflect lost opportunities, administration, additional transactions to keep investments free of South Afentities. rica-related and initial transaction costs required in divesti-

The state would have to sell stocks it now holds in 34 companies which do business in South Af-

Treasurer Robert Bowman said the report, by U.S. Trust of Boston and SEI of Chicago, "pokes a few holes" in the theories of critics who suggest divestiture will cause large investment losses for the pension funds, others on the commission were not so accept-

Michigan Manufac-turers President John Thodis noted the $4.6 million figure is preliminary and could change and characterized it as "much too low. It appears to seem unrealistically low when you're dealing with several billion dollars. I would tend to believe doubling the figure, to $9.2-$10 million would be more realis-

He said that would mean a $50 million loss over the first five years during which the funds would be divested under House-passed legislation. The House bills require divestiture of $2.75 billion in pension fund investments.

And Gene Booker, chairman of the state's Investment Advisory Committee, said it "defies common sense" that the losses could be kept so low because so much money is involved.

Whatever the level of losses are, Thodis said the House-passed legislation presents a "major policy question" for both the Legislature and the governor of whether general taxpayers should cover any pension fund losses suffered because of the divestiture policy.

State and teacher retirees now get a bonus check reflecting high earnings from pension fund investments, and Thodis said it is unfair to ask general taxpayers to make additional contributions to continue those payments if the fund earnings drop.

The consultants said the $4.6 million figure was the probable loss in 1986, but could drop to zero or double depending on the success of playing the stock market. The consultants said the loss could increase to $7.4 million by 1991 on $9.2 billion involved in the transactions.

and Gagetown, the board voted to pay bills of $31,595.95. The next meeting of the board is scheduled for February 10 at 8:00 p.m. in Owendale.
