ES PLUS 3 SUPPLEMENTS

Council, FOP to open talks

The Cass City Village Council received notice that the Fraternal Order of Police is ready to start negotiations over a new contract. The present contract expires May 1.

The three full-time patrolmen work under terms of the contract. Part-time police officers and Chief Gene Wilson are not union members.

According to Joyce LaRoche, clerk, the contract expiring pays officers $22,571.38 per year for 40 hours and time and a half for work over 40 hours. In addition, there is a retirement plan fully paid by the village and fully paid dental, medical and eye care. Officers have six paid vacation days in addition to four other days for national holidays such as Christmas, Thanksgiving, etc.

The regular meeting of the council Tuesday, Jan. 28, was almost devoid of action. The meeting lasted about 30 minutes.

One action taken was the appointment of a committee to revise the 1895 charter.

One of the principal reasons, Supt. Lou LaPonsie said, was to change the rules for election of the clerk and treasurer. In addition, the present charter does not allow a village manager which is essentially the role LaPonsie plays in the village government now.

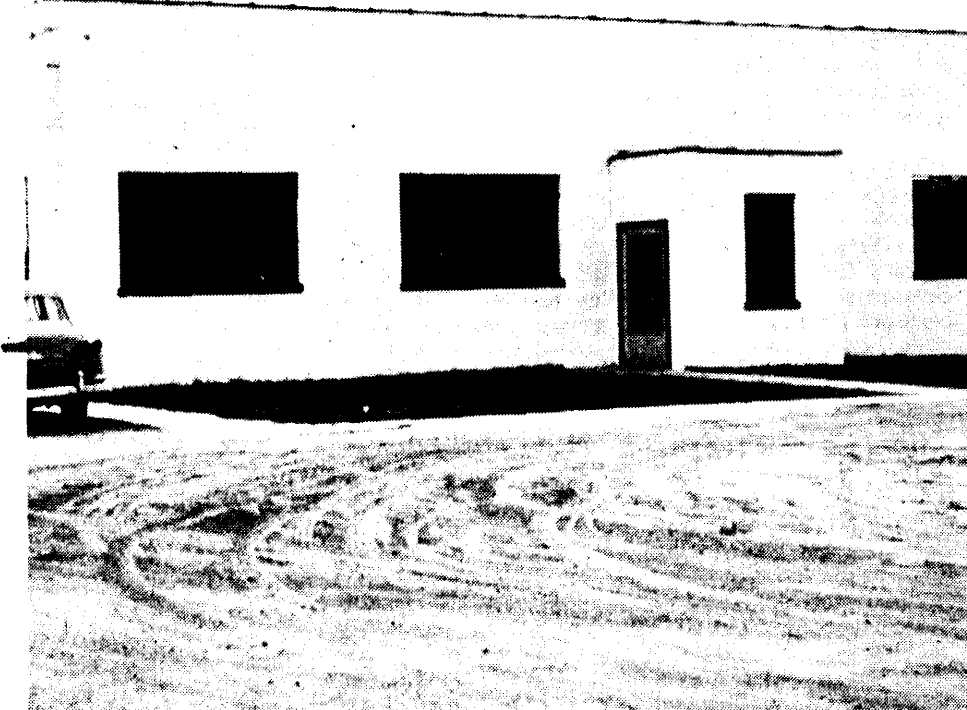

What the committee is expected to do is decide whether the clerk and the treasurer can become an appointive rather than an elective position.

Much of the work now carried on by the clerk and the treasurer is handled in the office, LaPonsie said, and better continuity would be assured if the offices were appointed.

Another office now under study is that of village assessor. The assessor works with the township supervisor. However, the final authority rests with the township, not with the village, when valuations are set.

LaPonsie said that many villages have changed the clerk, treasurer positions from elective to appointive with good results.

Another area to be examined is changing the village superintendent's post to that of village manager.

THE CASS CITY INDUSTRIAL Development Corporation was formed to erect this building for Walbro Corporation in 1954.

End near after 32 years?

Seek donation from CCID stockholders

The Cass City Industrial Development Corporation (CCID) will be merged into the Cass City Economic Development Corporation (EDC) Tuesday, Feb. 11, if a proposal submitted by the board of directors is accepted by stockholders. The industrial park land was sold last year to the village operated EDC for $28,000.

If the merger is approved, stockholders in the CCID will lose the investment made by most of the stockholders when the organization formed 32 years ago.

The merger will be the principal business of the annual meeting which is slated at the Cass City Municipal Building Tuesday at 8 p.m.

According to the board of directors, all obligations of the CCID have been met and there is $20,000 cash on hand.

The board wants to turn this money over to the Economic Development Corporation to be used as a revolving loan fund, a grant matching fund or a down payment for a manufacturing building. Use of the money for general operating expenses would be prohibited.

The last obligation of the CCID was retired when Dr. Paul Chappel paid off the debt for his clinic building and the corporation's land contract for the building was retired.

If the CCID is merged, it will have operated for 32 years.

It was formed in May, 1954 when an agreement was signed with Walbro Corporation to come to Cass City. Its aims at the beginning were modest.

It was to build a building for the fledgling company that promised to hire 20 persons.

At the time 20 persons probably doubled the industrial work force. Walbro was the second industry to be lured to Cass City by the

No end in sight

O-G, Cass City land dispute continues

The dispute over property between Cass City and Owendale Gagetown school districts that has dragged on for 10 years promises to continue interminably for years ahead.

That's because the two sides are not near agreement.

Meanwhile, there has been a settlement between Owen-Gage and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port (Laker) district.

Supt. Harry Brunet said that the Laker district has agreed to allow 1,200 acres of land originally in the Owen-Gage district to be transferred back to the district. Owen-Gage then agrees to abandon all legal action concerning land transfers.

The Cass City district offer to Owen-Gage was flatly refused by the Owen-Gage district, Supt. Donald Crouse said. The offer was to give back to Owen-Gage land with an equal property value to that which was in the 1,400-acre Belk land transfer.

The land to be transferred was in the 9.5-acre "Goslin" tract and would be land where there were no residents living. In return, both sides would agree to end any legal action concerning land transfers.

The Goslin tract was transferred to Cass City by the State Board of Education over 10 years ago.

Despite this, Owen-Gage continues to claim the land as part of its district.

It has never recognized that the Goslin parcel belongs in Cass City. Prior to two unproductive bargaining sessions in Flint, Supt. Ronald Erickson had proposed that all land in the Goslin parcel that did not have persons living on it be transferred back to Owen-Gage in return for dropping of the litigation.

The great majority of the landowners in the Belk property still desire to be in the Cass City School District, Marvin Irrer, one of the original property owners to transfer, said this week.

O-G petitions for "Goslin"

A petition was filed Thursday with the Huron County Intermediate School District (HISD) requesting that about 2,000 acres in the 9.5 square mile parcel known as the Goslin property be transferred to the Owendale-Gagetown school district. The parcels requested have no residents living on them and are contiguous to the Owen-Gage district.

However, the proposed plan would result in a jagged Cass City and Owen-Gage boundary.

The petition is filed with the HISD but a hearing will be before the combined Huron and Tuscola Intermediate School Districts.

The property in question has now been a part of the Cass City District for over 10 years. It was transferred there after a lengthy legal battle, by the Michigan Board of Education.

There are 31 parcels in the 2,000 acres that Owen-Gage is requesting that is scattered among the 9.5 miles of the Goslin property.

No date has been set for the hearing.

A meeting Jan. 27 in Lansing indicated that the Cass City offer to Owen-Gage had not changed and Owen-Gage representatives rejected it as they did at two previous meetings held in Flint.

Both parties will present their cases before Raymond Godmer, a hearing officer representing the Michigan Board of Education.

There will be no oral testimony and briefs will be filed by attorneys representing the Belk property owners and the Owen-Gage School District.

The facts will then be presented to the State Board and a decision will be reached.

The long dispute has been costly. Owen-Gage has spent well over $300,000 in legal fees in attempts to keep the property that originally was in the district.

Legal fees in both the Goslin and Belk parcels were paid by the property owners that requested the transfer. If future court action becomes necessary it is probable that the Cass City district will pay the costs.

The transfer of the Belk property had been approved by the State Board, but Ingham County Circuit Judge Kallman called the board's action "arbitrary and capricious" and issued a stay of action while referring the issue back to the State Board for reconsideration.

Evangelical church sets dedication

Persons not intimately concerned with the construction of the Evangelical Free Church building, 6430 Chestnut Boulevard, Cass City, can learn all the details and examine the new building by attending the dedication service slated Sunday evening at 7 p.m.

In the Sunday morning service, a special feature will be singing by the all Korean Choir from Saginaw.

Under the direction of Rev. Kelley, the new church has grown quickly since the group split from the Salem United Methodist Church in Cass City.

First services of the church were held in the Cass City Missionary Church building on Koepfgen Road in February 1983 and in March the site was switched to the former bowling alley on the corner of Church and Weaver Streets.

When the first services were held, there were 60 persons attending and the church growth has been rapid. Now attendance is in the neighborhood of 200 and there are 103 members.

Also erected quickly was the new church building. Ground-breaking ceremonies were held Aug. 18, 1985, and 77 days later the building was ready for the first service which was held Nov. 3, 1985.

Rev. Kelley is proud of the new building and just as pleased with the final cost of construction. There is 61,000 square feet in the building and Roland Hanes, a church member, was the general contractor. That building cost $123,000 complete, the pastor points out, and a church the same size in Owosso cost $250,000.

The sanctuary is 50x65 feet, seats 265 and already is stretched to capacity at times, according to Kelley.

There are 3 permanent education rooms on the main floor and another in the church loft. In addition, there are a nursery and two office rooms.

Construction costs were kept down with the help of members who completed the painting, papering, laying of carpet and other interior work needed to complete the building.

While the church is new in Cass City, the organization it belongs to is not. The Evangelical Free Church of America is 102 years old. The main purpose of the organization is to develop new churches and assist churches that are starting.

We pay all our expenses and the congregation makes all the decisions affecting the church, including hiring the pastor, Kelley says.

The denomination has a strong commitment to missionary work. Already five missionaries are supported.

The flu epidemic that is sweeping across Michigan has only lightly touched the Thumb, but area schools could still experience an outbreak, judging by the reports of area school administrators.

In the Cass City, Owen-Gage, Uby and Kingston school districts only Kingston reports more than the average number of students absent.

The situation at Kingston is not critical. Monday morning, Joseph Peet, high school principal, said that absenteeism was running at about 10 percent.

Earthquake noticed by few in Cass City area

Persons who happened to be on the second floor, or higher, of buildings Friday at 11:47 a.m. had a better chance of noticing the earthquake that was recorded in 10 states from Wisconsin to New York.

In Cass City, most persons were "upstairs" when they noticed the quake. Few did.

For most of the area, the answer was the same as that given by Shirley Haag, a secretary at Fuelgas Co. in Cass City. "What earthquake," she asked. Wait a minute, she said a moment later, I'll ask the boys (men who work there).

Nope, Haag reported, no one felt any tremors here.

The quake also passed unnoticed by Charles Nemeth at Thumb Cycle Sales on Main Street in Cass City.

It probably shook a little, but if it did I didn't think about an earthquake, he said. Big trucks passing by are always shaking things up in here and if anything moved during the earthquake I probably wouldn't have thought much about it.

The story is different from persons higher up. Denise Kritzman, who was in an apartment over

Kritzmans' store in Cass City, called down when the quake hit and asked, "what are you doing down there?"

Mary Damm, a typesetter on the second floor of the Chronicle, said that she thought someone was shaking her chair. I looked around, she added, and no one was there.

Tammy and Tracy Kile, who were home, said that they felt it and told skeptical parents, who remained unconvinced and answered, it's not funny.

Michelle Kelly was in class at Cass City and reported at the time that she felt it.

The earthquake was judged to have an intensity of 5.0 on the Richter scale which measures earthquakes. A 5.0 is considered mild. The recent earthquake in Mexico sent the Richter jumping 7.6. The famous San Francisco earthquake of 1906 occurred before the Richter scale was invented, but has been estimated at 8.3.

Scientists say that the earthquake started about 30 miles northeast of Cleveland which is about the middle of Lake Erie. A similar earthquake occurred in the same area in March, 1943.

THE REV. ELDRED KELLEY is the first and only pastor of the Evangelical Free Church of Cass City.

The Regular Meeting of Village Council

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held Jan. 28, 1986, at 7:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present.

The minutes of the regular December meeting were approved as presented.

The December Financial Statement was reviewed.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Weaver that the bills be approved as presented. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays.

The Superintendent's report was reviewed.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Hopper to approve the signing of EPA Form 5700 in regards to the W.W.T. plant project. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays (attached).

President Ray Armstead appointed Joanne Hopper, Lou LaPonsie and Ray Armstead Jr. to a committee to review the Village Charter with Joanne Hopper acting as chairperson.

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Davis to advertise for bids for a 1983 Plymouth Police car to be received and opened at the Feb. 25th meeting. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays.

The council was notified that the Michigan Municipal League's Annual Legislative Conference will be held Wednesday, Feb. 26, 1986 at the Civic Center in Lansing.

A letter was read from the city of Sandusky urging the Village to send a resolution to our Congressmen and Senators to continue Federal Revenue Sharing. Being communications have already been sent, the council did not adopt a resolution.

A letter was read from the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police stating that they are ready to begin negotiations for the Village Officers' contracts.

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Davis that the meeting be adjourned. Motion carried 7 yeas, 0 nays.

SUSAN AND ROBERT HARTWICK

Miss Susan Sheldon, daughter of Lena Teller of Cass City, became the bride of Robert Hartwick, son of Jack and Sharon Hartwick of Cass City, in a double ring candlelight ceremony at the Novesta Church of Christ Dec. 28, 1985 at 6:00 p.m. Rev. Vern Lockard officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, chose a gown of polyester lined with acetate taffeta. It had a close trimmed bodice of Chantilly lace trimmed with Venice lace, a high lace collar, sheer illusion net yoke and Juliet lace sleeves. The double ruffle at the back waist flowed into a semi-cathedral train which continued to form a flounced hem in front.

Miss Jill Wright, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and wore a gown of pink and white lace. She carried a basket of pink roses, white carnations and white rose petals.

Miss Nicole VanAllen, cousin of the groom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Nurnberger and Libby Dickinson, friends of the bride and groom, and Janice Hartwick, sister of the groom. Their toe length gowns had a "Point d'esprit" lace yoke with a stand-up collar trimmed with schiffli-embroidery and puff sleeves. They wore daphne rose colored bows with flowers in their hair. Their arm length bouquets had pink and white roses with baby's breath and pink and rose streamers.

Miss Sonya Teller, sister of the bride, and Miss Heather Wright, niece of the bride, were candle lighters and wore matching pink dresses.

Scott Hartwick, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Timothy Horner and Todd VanAllen, friends of the bride and groom, and Kevin Hartwick, brother of the groom, all of Cass City. Steve Wright and Tom Teller were the ushers.

Miss Donna Little provided the nuptial organ music and played "The Wedding Song" as the wedding party entered. She also accompanied Barbara Merchant who sang "Endless Love" during the lighting of the unity candle. The song "Cherish the Life" was played on tape.

The bride's mother and groom's mother both wore pink street length dresses. Their corsages were made of three baby red roses with baby's breath and pink streamers.

A reception for two hundred and fifty guests was held in the fellowship hall immediately following the ceremony. Carol Janos, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Julie Hartwick, sister-in-law of the groom, were in charge of the guest book. Host and hostess were Do and Judy VanAllen, aunt and uncle of the groom. An out of state guest was Susan's grandmother, Mrs. Leonard (Sadie) Randall of Tavaris, Fla.

The couple is making their home in Fort Wayne, Ind., where Rob is currently attending ITT. He will receive his bachelor's degree in automotive manufacturing technologies in May.

"If It Fitz..."

Space travel too costly?

By Jim Fitzgerald

Today, I was going to write about the sorry state of sports as a source of heroes for youngsters. I was pondering my opening paragraph when the space shuttle Challenger exploded.

Everyone in the Free Press city room rushed to the television sets to watch replays of the tragedy. Editors hurriedly began making new assignments and replanning today's newspaper which, suddenly, was going to look a lot different than they'd thought.

Some reporters headed for airports, en route to where the story was developing. Others began making phone calls. There were only a few hours until deadline, and many important decisions had to be made — on the spot — with no time for staff meetings and informed discussions.

It is hectic but exciting

Singles Club to hold party

The YMCA Thumb Singles Club will hold its next party Saturday, Feb. 8. It will be held at the Sandusky Maple Valley Elementary School from 8:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Barney Shubring and the Country Boys will furnish the music. Refreshments will be served. Guests are welcome.

for the news media when the Big Story happens unexpectedly. The press can plan coverage of a summit conference or a Super Bowl game. But shuttle lift-offs had become ho-hum, inside-page stuff. Press coverage at the Kennedy Space Center was minimal, compared to the hoopla that surrounded space flights just a few years ago.

The most interesting feature of Tuesday's lift-off had nothing to do with the physical risk involved for the seven passengers, or with the incredible technology that makes it possible for people to fly out of this world. Most public attention was focused on Christa McAuliffe, the first school teacher to go into space.

So it was stunning, almost unbelievable, that Challenger exploded while McAuliffe's parents and millions of others watched on television. The reaction in our newsroom reminded me of when John Kennedy was assassinated. It also reminded me of what, for me, is the hardest part of writing a newspaper column four times a week.

At this writing, I don't know any more about the shuttle explosion than anyone else who saw the first TV reports. I can't tell readers anything about it they don't already know. So I really shouldn't write about it.

But it is my job to fill this space today. And I find it impossible to write about anything else. The shuttle explosion is on the top of my mind, and nothing else can get out.

That is the power of television. I know many more than seven people die tragically every minute. Their deaths don't prevent me from writing silly columns about unimportant subjects.

But I saw the explosion that killed the Challenger passengers.

And I saw the look on the face of Christa McAuliffe's mother as she watched the explosion that, in just a mini-second, turned excitement and pride into unbearable fear and anguish.

In my things-to-maybe-write-about file is a note I wrote to myself a few days ago. It says: "$300,000 is lost every time a scheduled NASA lift-off is scratched. That's what it costs to gear up again. The last lift-off was aborted seven times for stupid little reasons that a good auto mechanic might have prevented. Write about whether so much money should be spent on these flights when it could be spent solving really important problems."

Today the question is much bigger: Should lives be spent on space travel?

The people in charge of the space program will always answer yes, of course. It is the nature of man to explore the unknown. Inevitably, tragedies will occur, but brave pioneering is for the greater good and must continue.

I don't know if I agree with that.

I'm thinking of the seven families who watched their loved ones die in the sky. If there were no space program, it wouldn't have happened. And maybe the millions of exploded dollars would have been spent to save other lives.

For today, that's all I can write about.

Circuit Court

Joslyn sentences 3 to jail terms

One of two suspects in a police chase that followed an unarmed robbery at the Hampton Square Mall in Essexville late last year appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro Monday, Jan. 27.

Brian E. Reil, 21, of Vassar, was arraigned on two counts of felonious assault, fleeing and eluding, and reckless driving. He stood mute to the charges against him, and a plea of innocent was entered on his behalf. His bond was continued at $7,500, and a pre-trial hearing was scheduled for yesterday, Feb. 3. Sheriff's deputies said the Vassar man was one of two suspects who led police on a multi-county chase following a purse-snatching incident at the mall near Bay City Dec. 19, 1985.

Also in court last Monday, Alvin M. Benevides, 22, of Caro, came before Judge Patrick Joslyn after pleading guilty to the attempted breaking and entering of a motor vehicle. He was given a sentence of between 14 and 30 months at the State Prison in Jackson, with credit for 108 days already served.

David D. Bloomquist, 26, of Caro, was sentenced for a plea of guilty to the delivery of LSD. He was sentenced to eight months in the Tuscola County Jail, and placed on probation for five years. He was given credit for 43 days being served. Bloomquist was charged court costs of $300, and was fined $500.

John T. Ross, 17, of Caro, appeared in court after pleading guilty to the unlawful use of a motor vehicle. He was sentenced to 180 days in the County Jail, with credit given for 86 days already served. Ross was placed on probation for two years, was charged restitution of $525 and court costs of $250, and was fined $200. A charge of the unlawful driving away of an automobile was dropped.

Scott Wayne Reinert, 20, of Millington, was scheduled to be sentenced Monday after pleading guilty to a charge of second degree criminal sexual conduct. However, a motion to withdraw the guilty plea was granted by the judge, and a trial was set for March 18. Bond in the case was continued at $25,000.

Charge Jones with Erla's gas theft

A pair of thefts were reported to the Cass City Police Department during the week, one of which was solved by the department.

Arnold Erla reported that between 20 and 25 gallons of gas had been siphoned from a truck parked near the loading dock at Erla Food Center.

Found at the scene by officers were four gas cans and siphon hose. Noticed also was a vehicle parked in the lot of a clinic on Hospital Drive operated by Dr. Hoon K. Jeung which is north of the Erla property.

The car was impounded and next day it was reported stolen by Dwain

Police said the charge stemmed from an incident that occurred July 20, 1985 in Millington Township involving a 13-year-old boy.

And Raymond A. Carter, 19, of Vassar, came before the judge after pleading guilty to a probation violation. He was sentenced to 60 days in the Tuscola County Jail.

Wesley Jones, 17, of 4182 Pringle Road, Snover. After talking with the police he was questioned about the robbery and later admitted taking the gas, according to the police report.

He was charged Monday morning with larceny under $100, a misdemeanor.

The second theft was reported Wednesday, Jan. 22, from the Thomas Roofing Co. by Tom Bills, owner. He said that a generator valued at $2,000 was taken from his location at 6351 Sixth Street either Jan. 21 or 22, according to a report by Officer David McComb who investigated.

The Haire Net

The bad news about publishing a weekly is that often the immediacy of the news is lost. By the time the paper hits the streets, the breaking news is old hat. Especially if it occurs the day the paper goes to press.

The good news is that you may have the time to think things over before it's printed and impossible to change or recall.

The tragic explosion of the space shuttle is a great case in point. It happened just as we put the paper to bed last Tuesday. Any news about it in the Chronicle has to be a week old.

This is written on Thursday, two days after the explosion that rocked the country. Before it gets into print, there will be three more days to make any changes. Really, I don't think that I will. The point is that I could.

I was interviewed by a representative of the Port Huron Times Herald about my reaction and the town's reaction to the disaster. Because Lt. Col. Brewster Shaw comes from Cass City, the Times-Herald editors felt that an interesting angle would be to see how it affected the town and the way it felt about Shaw.

Given his record, it's almost certain that the astronaut would go again in a minute when asked, I said.

By the time the interview was held late Tuesday afternoon, the first shock wave had receded and secondary effects of the disaster started to be considered.

Truthfully, the effect on the community and the way it felt about Lt. Col. Shaw never received any consideration until the question was asked.

What did keep flashing through was the nine teachers who lost the final competition for the right to fly in the shuttle.

The disappointment they must have felt when they weren't selected and the way they must feel now when they consider how close they were to being the one on that shuttle.

The newspaper reporter didn't ask if the town would be in favor of continued exploration in space. If he had, the answer to everyone that I talked with was a resounding yes.

Because the cameras were on the event it will remain etched in memory. Nothing will remain with me any longer than the footage of the Christa McAuliffe family as they watched their daughter die in space.

It was an intrusion on the family in its time of grief and was television right to do it and keep running it on and on throughout the day?

For obvious reasons, there is a case for steering away from the pictures of the family and your heart goes out to them.

The other side of the story is that nothing depicted the tragedy more graphically than those pictures.

If the reporter had asked if those pictures should have been shown, I wouldn't have known how to answer him. I still don't.

Melva Guinther reports that hawks are posing a problem for birds that used to feed at her home at the corner of Oak and Pine streets. Normally, they flock to the backyard for a free lunch, but now they have been chased away.

Stan Guinther watched one of the hawks swoop down to pounce on a victim.

Is there a solution? asks Mrs. Guinther, and if there is what is it?

The Jack Huiens spend the winters in Florida, about 150 miles from Cape Canaveral. They report that debris from the space shuttle, Challenger, was easily visible from their back yard.

Fifth and sixth graders taught by Geraldine Tibbitts at Cass City Intermediate School were involved with the space shuttle tragedy. Tuesday they discussed the accident. Wednesday the class decided to express sympathy to the family of Christa McAuliffe, the teacher who was one of the victims, by writing to the family in Concord, New Hampshire. The class is studying galaxies and the letter told that Brewster Shaw was from Cass City.

JIM WILSON poses with his diploma showing he is a cum laude graduate of Saginaw Valley State College.

44-year-old Jim Wilson studies for new career

(Harland) Jim Wilson is starting to wind up for a career at an age when most persons are starting to wind down or at least settling into a comfortable career rut.

The first step in a new career for the 44-year-old Wilson was completed recently when he graduated cum laude, with a 3.51 grade average, from Saginaw Valley State College (SVSC).

He also was admitted into Psi Chi, national honor society for psychology

Wilson has come a long way since his high school days where, he readily admits, he was a very poor student and general goof-off.

graduates.

Wilson has come a long way since his Cass City High School days where, he readily admits, he was a very poor student and general goof-off. "Lucky to slide through with a 'D' average (with the class of '60)," he said.

From that poor beginning, everything has been upwards and upwards. After graduation, he joined the Navy and spent 20 years in service, 17 of them in the submarine service. You volunteer to get in, but you don't volunteer back out again, Wilson explained.

Wilson moved back to Cass City when he retired from the Navy with a pension in 1982, bringing his wife and three children with him. A daughter is attending Baker Junior College in Flint and two other children attend Cass City High School.

In his "retirement," Wilson worked full time as a residential engineering consultant for Detroit Edison and attended school full time.

SVSC is a 106-mile round trip from Wilson's home in rural Cass City and he attended classes full time while working.

With obvious pride, the rotund Wilson tells you that he completed his requirements for a Bachelor of Arts degree in one year, 11 months and 7 days.

His march to graduation was quickened by 55 credits that he earned in his 20 years in the Navy.

During the time that he worked two jobs, it's sure that Wilson had no time for anything else. Right? Wrong.

He is a volunteer driver, working with the Commission on Aging and a worker at the Veterans' Administration Hospital.

In addition, he helped start and is commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Cass City.

He earned the right to belong to the VFW when he served in the task force during the blockade that was started in the Cuban crisis. I was there when we turned the Russian ship back, he said.

Wilson also served in the war zone during the Vietnam war.

Graduation from SVSC is just the first step, Wilson explained. I've enrolled at the University of Michigan to study for my master's.

After that, Wilson sees a career in social work. I want to work with the elderly, he said.

With the help of his family, the ambitious veteran has no doubts that he'll achieve his goals. "No way could I have done it without their support and help," he says. "No way."

Serious injuries avoided as slippery roads cause accidents

The return of snow, slush, and freezing rain over the weekend caused some problems for area motorists, but there were no serious injuries reported in accidents handled by Tuscola County sheriff's deputies and State police troopers from Caro.

Sunday at 4:30 p.m., Linda A. Maynard, 22, of Caro, was westbound on Deckerville Road, west of the intersection with Dodge Road in Ellington Township, when she lost control of her vehicle on the slush-covered roadway. Her car came to a stop when it entered a ditch on the north side of the road. She was not injured.

Saturday at 4:10 p.m., Dawn M. McPhail, 19, of Cass City, was southbound on Englehart Road in Novesta Township, when she attempted to turn west onto Severance Road. Sheriff's deputies said she turned into the path of an eastbound vehicle driven by Julie A. Moore, 22, of Cass City. Neither driver was hurt. McPhail was cited for failing to yield the right of way.

A few hours earlier on Saturday, Darlene A. Walker, 31, of Kingston, was westbound on State Street in Kingston, when she tried to make a right turn onto River Street. State police said her car slid down the grade on the icy pavement, and struck a car driven by Lois J. Zachmann, 42, of Kingston. She was southbound on River Street, and had stopped her car at the intersection. There were no injuries in the accident which was reported at 11:00 a.m. Saturday.

Thursday at 8:50 a.m., Debra L. Harris, 29, of Cass City, was westbound on Deckerville Road, east of the intersection with Crawford Road in Novesta Township, when she was stopped by a Tuscola County sheriff's deputy after being clocked by radar at 72 mph. Police reported that they were told by Harris that she did not have her driver's license with her. Upon investigation, police said they learned that Harris had her license suspended for failing to take care of a court judgement. She was then arrested for operating a vehicle while license suspended, and was lodged in the Tuscola County Jail.

Also Thursday, James A. Finlayson, 47, of Kingston, was northbound on Froede Road, north of the intersection with Bevens Road, when his vehicle struck a deer that came from the east side of the roadway. The driver was not injured in the accident which was reported at 11:20 a.m.

Another car-deer accident was reported last Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., when Betty R. Eldridge, 47, of Kingston, was eastbound on M-46, east of the intersection with English Road in Kingston Township. Police said a deer ran into the path of her vehicle from the north side of the highway. The driver was not injured, and the deer was not killed in the accident.

Wednesday at 9:55 a.m., George Ellesin, 87, of Cass City, was traveling on Deckerville Road, and stopped for the stop sign at the intersection with M-81. State police said he then proceeded to cross M-81, and drove into the path of an eastbound car driven by Henry J. Jaster, 41, of Caro. Jaster told police he tried to swerve to avoid the accident, while Ellesin told police he thought the Jaster vehicle was turning at the intersection. Neither driver was injured. Police issued a citation to Ellesin for failing to yield.

Blanchard skeptical of GOP tax reduction plan

A Senate Republican tax cut plan with lower costs this year but higher costs in future years by now tying property tax relief to an income tax rollback, was greeted skeptically Thursday by the Blanchard administration and House Democrats.

Democrats, who said the plan would produce deficits, said the House would take action on an existing proposal if agreement with Senate Republicans is not reached in 10 days.

Senate Majority Leader John Engler (R-Mt. Pleasant) offered the plan as a compromise to settle the rollback issue following the establishment this month by Governor Blanchard of an escrow account to insure a rollback on March 31, the date in the House proposal.

"We are interested in getting the tax rollback debate behind us, but we can't in good conscience give in on the rollback date without offering the taxpayers some form of additional relief," Engler said.

The plan announced by Mr. Engler and Senate Finance Chairman Norman Shinkle (R-Lambertville) provides a rollback of the tax to 4.6 percent Feb. 14 and increase property tax credits for senior citizens, the working poor and small businesses.

Compared to the March 31 rollback, the proposal would cost an additional $76 million—$53 million for the earlier income tax rollback, $13 million for senior citizen property tax relief and $10 million for relief for the working poor.

The Jan. 1 date Senate Republicans had been pushing would have cost $110 million more.

Engler said even projections for the 1985-86 fiscal year by the Department of Management and Budget, which has been more conservative than Senate estimates, will show the state can afford to give the additional relief.

He said Senate figures show a 1985-86 surplus of $110 million even with the additional tax cuts.

"Before the Governor cries 'voodoo bookkeeping,' he should analyze this proposal very carefully. It is a fair compromise. It is affordable," Shinkle said.

Treasurer Robert Bowman said the proposal is "financed out of thin air. We again welcome Senator Engler to the crusade of Democrats to cut property taxes. We wish he would also join the crusade for balanced budgets."

Adding property tax relief requires closing other tax loopholes, as the Governor proposed in his tax reform plan last year, he said.

The attraction of the House proposal, Bowman said, is that "instead of speculating and spending money even if it is not there, the tax will be cut if the money is available."

That plan guarantees a March 31 rollback with the possibility of a Jan. 1 rollback if the state budget surplus is sufficient.

Bowman suggested the Governor's proposal to require banks to repay $53 million in taxes on interest paid on federal securities (the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the tax was illegal), would permit advancing the date to Feb. 14.

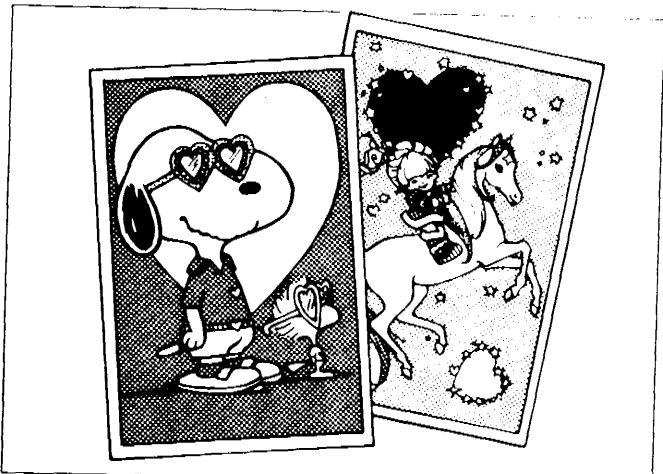

Senate Republican tax analyst Gary Wolfram said the plan would produce a small deficit, "but the gap is not large." He said $30-$40 million can be expected this year in unspent appropriations to help produce an overall surplus and the deficit in 1986-87 should be no more than $83 million.

Executive of year

Former resident is honored

Continental Telephone Company of New York President Robert W. Zinnecker was named "Executive of the Year" at the recent annual dinner of the Fulton County Chamber of Commerce. Nearly 300 community and business leaders attended the event at which Zinnecker was honored. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Zinnecker of Fremont, formerly Deford.

He was the first recipient of the newly established award, which recognizes exceptional performance in business and outstanding contributions to the community and the Chamber. The honor was bestowed by the Chamber's Board of Directors.

Said Chamber Executive Vice-president Mrs. Beverly B. Harris, "Bob Zinnecker's 27 years of experience in the telephone industry speak for themselves. This knowledge has served him well since he assumed the presidency of Continental Telephone Company of New York Oct. 1, 1983. Since then, he has worked to expand and improve service, implement new features and enhance Continental's public image."

After launching his career in 1958 with General Telephone of Michigan, Zinnecker opted to join Continental Telephone Company of Michigan as treasurer in 1962. He was appointed controller for the Midwest Division before being named to head the Central Region's data processing operations.

He became president and general manager of Continental's West Central Division based in Knoxville, Iowa, in 1977. He has been responsible for Continental's operations in Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado.

A graduate of Michigan's Northeastern School of Commerce and the International Accountants Society, Zinnecker holds certifications from the Data Processing Management Association and the Institute of Certified Professional Managers. He is a 1955 graduate of Cass City High School, Cass City.

Since his relocation to Fulton County, he has served as a director of the Chamber. He is chairman of the Chamber's Economic Development Committee, and president of the Fulton County Economic Development Corporation.

He is also a director and member of the executive committee of New York State Telephone Association, a director of the Gloversville YMCA, a director of the Montgomery and Fulton Counties Economic Development Corporation, a member of the Johnstown Chamber of Commerce, a trustee of Roberts Wesleyan College, and a trustee of Kingsboro Free Methodist Church.

A past president of the Iowa Telephone Association, Zinnecker has served as a member of the Knoxville Hospital Foundation Board of Trustees and the Iowa Wesleyan College Board of Trustees.

He and his wife, Elaine, have four children. The Zinneckers reside on Wesskum Woods Road in Gloversville.

Damage slight in 2 area chimney fires

The Elkland Township Fire Department was called to two minor chimney fires during the week.

The first resulted in no damage to the home of Tom Tyo of Cemetery Road, Cass City. It occurred Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 9:30 p.m. Damage was estimated at $200 to $300 in a fire Sunday at 10:11 a.m. at the home of Richard Mallory, 4847 Shabbona Road.

ROBERT W. ZINNECKER, a Cass City native, named executive of the year by Fulton County, New York state, Chamber of Commerce, receives the award from Chamber President William Smith.

3-county crop yields compared

The Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service this year announced that the wheat harvest in Michigan set a record and that super yields were especially prevalent in the Thumb. Also setting records were oats, barley and rye.

A check with the Tuscola County Extension Service and with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices for Sanilac and Huron Counties confirmed that wheat yields were good.

However, the results were mixed for other major crops in the three-county area. No 1985 records are available for the county yields of oats, barley and rye.

In Tuscola County, wheat acreage increased from 47,000 to 50,000 acres and yields jumped from 67 bushels to the acre in 1984 to 70 bushels in 1985. The state average for 1985 was 60 bushels to the acre, up from 57 bushels in 1984.

Guesstimates of crop yields for Huron County were given by Jim LeCureux of the Huron County ASC office.

Wheat in Huron County went from 61 bushels per acre in 1984 to 63 in 1985. Data for Sanilac County was presented by Herb Clarke of the Sanilac County ASC office.

Wheat in 1985 averaged 62 bushels to the acre and 55 bushels to the acre in 1984.

DRY BEANS

The dry bean yields were also better than in 1984 although harvest was hampered by rainy weather.

In Tuscola County there were 56,000 acres of navy and 16,000 acres of colored beans planted as compared to a total of 64,000 for both varieties in 1984.

Yields averaged 1200 pounds per acre in 1985, 1100 pounds per acre in '84.

In Huron County, beans were estimated at 1400 pounds per acre, a jump from 1100 in 1984.

In Sanilac County, there were slightly fewer acres planted, 22,055 in 1985 and 22,317 in 1984. The yields were also down from 12.5 hundredweight per acre to 10.5 hundredweight per acre in 1985.

Oddly enough, there was more corn planted in 1985 than in 1984 in Sanilac County, and less corn planted in Tuscola County in 1985 than the previous year.

In Tuscola, 3,000 fewer acres were planted in 1985, a total of 115,000 acres as compared to 118,000 in 1984.

Corn yields in Tuscola were down from 112 bushels per acre to 104 bushels per acre in 1985. The yields were also down in Sanilac, where 1984 saw yields of 96 to 98 bushels per acre fall to 90 bushels in 1985.

Huron County's corn crop remained about the same with a yield of 106 bushels per acre in 1984 and a yield of 105 to 110 bushels in 1985.

SOYBEANS

Soybeans were planted on 30,000 acres in Tuscola County and they averaged 28 bushels per acre, a tiny drop from the 28.2 yield the previous year.

In Sanilac County, there were 32,400 acres of soybeans planted and yields dropped to 20 bushels per acre from 22.5 bushels per acre in 1984.

No record of the soybean yields were available for Huron County.

SUGAR BEETS

Beet acreage in Tuscola County increased, but yields fell. In 1985 beets averaged 20 tons to the acre and in 1984, 21.3 tons to the acre.

Yields in Huron County were estimated at 19.5 tons per acre in 1984 and 20 tons per acre in 1985.

The record state-wide yield average included oats at 67 bushels to the acre, four higher than the 1982 record. Total production on 390,000 harvested acres was 26.1 million bushels.

Barley producers in the Great Lakes State produced nearly 2.6 million bushels on 38,000 harvested acres for a yield of 68 bushels per acre. This is eight bushels higher than the 1984 record. Michigan rye producers also harvested a record 31 bushels per acre.

Wheat growers in Michigan seeded 750,000 acres during the fall of 1985 for the 1986 crop. That is three percent fewer planted acres than a year earlier. The unusually wet fall hampered wheat seeding, and fewer acres were planted than had been planned for the 1986 crop. Acreage seeded to rye in Michigan was 145,000, seven percent higher than the 1984 record. Just under 54 million acres of winter wheat were seeded in the U.S. last fall. That is seven percent below acreage planted for the 1985 crop and 15 percent below acreage for the 1984 crop.

Fostoria man faces armed robbery charge

A Fostoria man was arrested last week, and charged with an armed robbery last month at a Mayville party store.

Jeffrey Allen Deering, 19, of Fostoria, was arrested last Wednesday by Tuscola County sheriff's deputies following the investigation of the Jan. 13 armed robbery of Gus' Convenience Store. He was arraigned before Magistrate Donald Smith Thursday, and was charged with one count of armed robbery. Bond in the case was set at $50,000, and Deering was lodged in the Tuscola County Jail. Detective Larry Walker said the suspect had been out of the state since the robbery took place.

As part of their earlier investigation, police were told by the store's clerk that a white male entered the business at 218 W. Main St. in Mayville around closing time on the evening of Jan. 13, and produced a silver-colored revolver. After demanding money that was taken from a cash register, the clerk said the suspect left the store with $258 in cash, and also took a bottle of rum off a shelf. The female clerk told police that she was ordered to lie down on the floor until after the suspect had left. There were no customers in the store. No shots were fired, and no one was injured. The armed robbery was investigated by the Mayville Police Department, and by detectives with the Sheriff's Department.

Also investigated by the Sheriff's Department last week was the vandalism to a window at a place of business in Deford. The incident was reported at 4:28 p.m. Friday by Dan Allen, the owner of Dan's Fireplace Shop, at 1445 N. Kingston Road, Deford. Police were told that Tuesday or Wednesday night, a beer bottle had been thrown through a plate-glass window on the east side of the building. The bottle left a small hole in the 4' by 6' double-paned window. Allen told police that a customer had advised him of the damage which was estimated at $300.

Caviar race

1986 might mark the beginning of a caviar race with the Russians... thanks to Sergei Doroshov, a Soviet caviar expert who defected to the United States in 1977. With Doroshov's help, Californians may succeed in raising the first completely American domesticated offspring of sturgeon, whose eggs are known as caviar, reports National Wildlife magazine. The delicacy should sell for about $800 a pound in this country.

Delegates to the EFC Conference are Louanne Kelley, Gary Bader and Cindy Bader.

HEALTH TIPS

Calcium may reduce risk of colon cancer

Increasing calcium intake may reduce risk of colon cancer, say Martin Lipkin, M.D., and Harold Newmark, M.S., of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and Cornell University Medical College in New York City.

These medical researchers studied the growth of pre-cancerous cells in 10 persons who, because of family histories, were defined as high risk for colon cancer. When these individuals (seven males and three females) increased their intake of calcium by 1250 mg/day for two to three months, the growth of pre-cancerous cells declined.

Abnormal cell growth is a hallmark of cancer. Before the increased intake of calcium, the growth of pre-cancerous cells in these persons was characteristic of a group at high risk of colon cancer, observed Lipkin and Newmark. In contrast, when dietary calcium was increased, the pattern of pre-cancerous cell growth resembled that found in low risk groups.

Cancer of the colon and rectum or colorectal cancer is a leading form of cancer. It affects about 6 percent of the U.S. population with an estimated 138,000 new cases and 60,000 related deaths in 1985.

While our understanding of what causes colon cancer remains unclear, the findings reported by Lipkin and Newmark are considered to bring us an important step closer to linking the pieces of the complex puzzle that is colon cancer.

Further support for a beneficial role of calcium in colorectal cancer was provided several months earlier by Cedric Garland of the University of California, San Diego at LaJolla and his co-workers. In their 20-year study of almost 2,000 middle-aged men, these researchers found that the 49 men who developed colorectal cancer ate substantially less calcium and vitamin D than those who were spared this disease.

While it's not established for certain whether increasing our calcium intake will protect us against colon cancer, nutritionists recommend that we consume at least 800 mg calcium daily, the Recommended Dietary Allowance for this nutrient. Milk and other dairy foods are the major source of calcium in our diet. In 1983, dairy foods (excluding butter) contributed nearly 75 percent of the calcium available in the nation's food supply, according to recent government statistics.

Keep indoor air clean in winter

by Betty Pattullo
Extension Home Economist

The same heating system that blows that wonderful warm air around our homes in the winter also moves dust around. As many people have made their homes more airtight to save energy, they have also made it more difficult for odors, dust and other pollutants to escape.

Betty Pattullo, Extension Home Economist, suggests that replacing furnace filters regularly—even as frequently as once a month if they get dirty that fast—will help trap dust instead of blowing it back around. It will also help your furnace operate more efficiently.

Some heating systems also allow for special filters that will trap particulates, such as dust, smoke and pollen, and keep them out of the air.

Portable room cleaners are another good way to remove particulates from the air. There are many models on the market of different types and prices. To help determine how well they will clean the air, Pattullo suggests that consumers look for certification seals that give the "clean air delivery rate," or CADR. This testing and certification rating system has been developed by the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers.

Appliances were tested on their ability to remove three common problem particulates—dust, tobacco smoke and pollen—at their highest operating speed.

The higher the CADR number, the faster that particular appliance will clean the air in a given room. Larger, faster cleaning models will usually cost more than ones that take longer to clean the same volume of air.

Ten manufacturers are in the testing program, Pattullo says, so certified CADR models should be easy to find and compare.

Pattullo reminds consumers that filters in portable room air cleaners need regular replacement or cleaning, according to manufacturer's directions.

Erosion/Tillage program at Colony House

A Thumb area Wind Erosion/Tillage Conference will be held Tuesday, Feb. 18, at the Colony House, Cass City.

The conference is targeted to a five-county Thumb area which experiences substantial wind erosion problems.

The meeting will open with exhibits from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and the program starts at 9:30. Wind erosion causes and methods of control will be presented in the morning. The afternoon session will feature panel discussions with area farmers who control their wind problems through varying practices.

Lunch will be served and included in the $2.00 registration fee.

For further information and registration contact the Tuscola Soil Conservation District at 852 S. Hooper St., Caro, or phone 673-8174. Registrations need to be in by Feb. 13.

Lutherans plan Day of Prayer observance

The Thumb Zone of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League has scheduled the Annual Day of Prayer observance for Tuesday, Feb. 11.

Theme of the program will be "All Praise and Glory to Our God" and will include worship service, Bible study and fellowship.

Services have been planned at three different locations:

St. John Lutheran Church in Kilmanagh at 6:30 p.m.

Our Savior Lutheran Church in Marlette at 7:00 p.m.

Zion Lutheran Church in Harbor Beach at 1:00 p.m.

A free-will offering will be taken and has been designated for the building fund of the congregation at Marlette.

All ladies and guests are welcome to attend and are requested to bring along their Bibles.

New books at the library

TO SEE YOUR FACE AGAIN by Eugenia Price (fiction). It is 1838, and Natalie, the daughter of Mark and Caroline Browning, is about to travel from Savannah to Baltimore on the steam packet Pulaski. The Pulaski explodes at sea and Natalie is saved by Burke Latimer. After five days together on a makeshift raft, they fall deeply in love. When finally safe on shore, Burke disappears. This is the story of Natalie's search for Burke intertwined with Savannah's history and the Cherokee Nation's breakup.

ROSES ARE DEAD by Loren D. Estleman (mystery). Hired killer Peter Macklin's connections with organized crime are severed, but a mysterious contract is out on his life. The first two killers are easily foiled, but an Eastern European assassin with KGB connections proves far more imposing. While trying to save his own skin, Macklin is hired to protect a young girl from her psychotic boyfriend. The conclusion leaves Macklin bloody but alive, his wife suing for divorce, and his son poised to follow in his criminal footsteps.

EXTRAVAGANT GESTURES by Carole Bayer Sager (fiction). Though Katie Fielding is considered an expert on mother/daughter relationships - she has written two best-sellers on the subject and is a frequent guest on talk shows - she has some family problems of her own. Having always felt unloved by her mother, from whom she has been estranged for years, now she discovers that the flamboyant Lady Landamere is terminally ill. The extravagant gestures of the title describe both Katie's attempts to make amends with her mother and Lady Landamere's way of conducting her life and controlling the people around her. In trying to understand her feelings about her mother, Katie also gains insights into herself; at the same time, she marries and becomes a parent.

Sheep Breeders winter tour

A large flock operation and two wool processing businesses are on the itinerary of the Michigan Sheep Breeders' winter tour Feb. 8.

The tour is open to anyone interested in learning about sheep production and the processing of wool, says Margaret Benson, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service sheep specialist.

The event will begin at 10 a.m. at the Lee and Karen Breasbois farm, located at 6400 Hackett Road, south and east of Freeland.

Their operation consists of a flock of 700 commercial ewes, half of which will be lambing by the time of the tour. A variety of management practices, including docking, castrating and vaccinating, will be demonstrated. Visitors will also see how the Breasbois handle the ewes about to lamb.

The second tour stop is 1:15 p.m. at the Frankenthum Woolen Mill, 570 S. Main, in Frankenmuth. Demonstrations will include wool washing, picking, carding and processing into comforters, roving and yarn.

The same kind of operation will be seen at the Zielinger Wool Company, 1130 Weiss St., in Frankenmuth. Beginning at 2:30 p.m., tour participants will see the carding of wool into batting, the processing of wool into roving with blending techniques, and the making of pencil roving.

Details of the tour may be obtained from Benson by calling her at (517) 353-6885.

Seedlings available

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is taking orders for tree seedlings and shrubs. They may be used for reforestation, windbreaks, Christmas trees, erosion control, restocking woodlots, wildlife cover and beautification.

For reforestation and windbreaks plant red pine and white spruce on sandy, gravelly to medium loam soils, and Austrian Pine and Norway Spruce on the heavier clay type soils. Colorado blue Spruce, white spruce and Scotch pine do well for Christmas trees. White pine is used for restocking woodlots or for a pine plantation along with other pines.

The species that are available are white pine, red pine, Austrian pine, Scotch pine, white spruce, Norway spruce, Colorado blue spruce, Carolina poplar, white ash, black walnut and autumn olive and honeysuckle which are shrubs. The pines, spruce, and shrubs come in bundles of 50 and the price is based on your total order. The Carolina poplar, black walnut and white ash come in bundles of 10.

Place your order today at the Tuscola Soil Conservation District office, 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro, or phone 673-8174.

Cecilya Lenda celebrates centennial birthday Tuesday

Cecilya Lenda was 100 years old Tuesday.

By all the accepted standards for a long life, Mrs. Lenda shouldn't have been one of the select few to live to become a centenarian.

For life has been no bed of roses for the grey haired, slightly frail immigrant from Poland. Mrs. Lenda came to this country to be married in 1907 in Detroit when 19 years old.

She still speaks no English and her life story was related to the Chronicle with the help of her daughter, Ann Lenda, of Caro, who visits her mother just about every day at the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility.

Born to the Lendas were 14 children, six boys and eight girls, eight of which are still alive.

The Lendas moved to the Thumb area in 1918 and made their living working fields of sugar beets and other farm crops. My mother worked right along with the rest of us, Ann Lenda recalled, and I started when I was eight years old. That's all we did, work the fields and go to school in the winter.

Mrs. Lenda lost her husband, Walter, 45 years ago and kept the family together until the 10 children that were still at home were grown.

Mrs. Lenda has survived seven pacemaker operations in the last 10 years. The appliances were either faulty or they were rejected by Mrs. Lenda's system.

For many years, arthritis has been another problem. But she continued to fight and keep mobile right until the time when an illness forced her to the medical facility last September.

She recovered and has improved since then, Ann Lenda said, and she walks a little each day now.

Mrs. Lenda has lived with her daughter, Ann, since 1963.

She's a little hard of hearing now, a complication from her latest illness. Fortunately, Ann Lenda said, it affected her hearing and not her mind. She's much sharper than you'd expect a centenarian to be.

STILL ALERT although crippled by arthritis is Mrs. Cecilya Lenda, who spent much of her life in the Gagetown and Owendale areas.

Development corporation may merge after 32 years

CCID and its predecessors, a committee from the Chamber of Commerce and 10 citizens who had purchased the original industrial site of 20 acres including land where Walbro Corporate headquarters and a building next to it owned by General Cable Corp. are located. The first company to move to Cass City was Anrod Screen Cylinder Co.

The CCID requirements for moving Walbro from Fenton to Cass City were modest. The corporation was to build a 6,000-square foot building on five acres of land and lease it to Walbro with an option to buy.

Although modest, raising the money was a struggle as volunteers canvassed the area to sell the stock that will be given away Tuesday if stockholders approve the merger.

Equally difficult was selling $25,000 worth of stock in Walbro which at that time was not profitable and had orders from one customer, Clinton Motors.

Financing for the building was finally arranged with the aid of the late Audley Rawson and an insurance company.

Walbro moved to its new location in September, 1954 and the rest is history.

Flu bug misses most area schools

Last week, the flu bug closed many schools, and others reported high absenteeism.

Schools have been closed by the flu this winter in Alger, Kent, Lenawee and Oakland counties. Kingston is the closest area school to any of these counties that have been closed. Oxford school officials reported that three of 10 students were absent when the outbreak was at its worst.

Cass City Principal Russell Richards reports that there were a few more than normally absent in the high school, but nothing really serious.

At Ubley, Principal Holdship reports no problem in either the high school or the grades. We just finished checking, he said Monday, and everything is okay so far.

At Owendale-Gagetown schools, everything is normal, Mrs. Bonnie Gaeth, secretary, said. No major problem here, she added.

It is not known if the current flu epidemic is type A or type B. Symptoms include sore throat, cough, congestion, lethargy, headache, nausea and a fever.

Obituaries

Charles Hendricks

Charles V. Hendricks, 72, Port Austin, died Tuesday, Jan. 28, at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after a short illness.

He was born Jan. 9, 1914, in Flint, son of the late Charles and Mary (Cooper) Hendricks.

He married Geraldine Harding April 9, 1950.

He worked for Pontiac Motors, Detroit, before retiring to the Port Austin area in 1976.

He was past master of Berkley Lodge No. 536 Free and Accepted Masons and four times past patron of Berkley Highland Chapter No. 483 Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are his wife, Geraldine; two daughters, Mrs. Jack (Vivienne) Sperling, Davison, and Barbara Olmstead, Stevensville; one son, Dana C. Hendricks, Highland; two sisters, Lois Bancroft, Burton, and Nora Grindle, Kalamazoo; three brothers, Emerson Hendricks and Edgar Hendricks, both of Burton, and Bernard Hendricks, Flushing; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by one brother, Russell Hendricks.

Services were held Thursday at Knoblock Funeral Home, Kinde. The Rev. Robert P. Garrett officiated. Cremation will follow.

Julia Lalko

Mrs. Julia Lalko, 86, of Cass City died Tuesday, Jan. 28, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a short illness.

She was born Oct. 8, 1899, in Yugoslavia, the daughter of Steven and Pozourra (Roca) Takaritch. Miss Takaritch married Stephen Laszlo when she arrived in New York from Yugoslavia in September 1921. Following their marriage, they made their home in Cleveland. They moved to Clifford, MI., and came to Cass City in 1949 from Detroit. Mr. Laszlo died Sept. 13, 1954.

In 1975, Mrs. Laszlo married George Lalko in Wilmet. He died in 1982.

Mrs. Lalko is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Walter (Elizabeth) Zajac of Kingston, Mrs. Cass (Julia) Vinci of Indiana and Mrs. Rose Guinther of Cass City; four sons, Steve Lasko of Pontiac, John Laszlo of DeFord and Michael Laszlo of Royal Palm, Fla.; 20 grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren, and one brother, Paul Takaritch of Germany.

Two daughters, Helen and Mary, and one son, Frank, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Friday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Father Julius A. Splet, pastor of Saint Pancratius Catholic Church of Cass City, officiating.

Burial was in Novesta Cemetery, Cass City.

Wynn A. Wilson

Funeral services were held Wednesday, Jan. 29, for Wynn A. Wilson, 73, of Snover. He died Saturday, Jan. 25, in Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City.

Born May 31, 1912, in Lamotte Township, he was the son of William and Millie Wilson.

He married Elvah Eileen Morden Aug. 6, 1937, in Marlette. Mrs. Wilson died Jan. 9, 1974.

He was retired from Marlette Homes after 30 years.

Survivors include a daughter and her husband, D. Kay and Leslie Severance of Decker, and a son and his wife, Ralph and Carolyn Wilson of Gwinn, Mi., three grandchildren, and two brothers, Harold Wilson of Orchard Lake and Maurice Wilson of Spring Arbor.

Rev. James Rule, pastor of Decker United Methodist Church, officiated at the services held at Marsh Funeral Chapel.

Burial was in Mooretown Cemetery, Snover.

Marvin D. Morse

Funeral services for Marvin D. Morse, 59, of Fenton were held Thursday, Jan. 23.

Morse, a former Cass City resident, died Tuesday, Jan. 21, in McPherson Hospital at Howell.

He was born in Byron, Mich., Oct. 23, 1926, the son of Andrew Morse and Carrie Bulman and had lived in the Fenton area the last 20 years.

He married Shirley Taylor in Argentine Township, Nov. 5, 1948.

He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II and was a member of the Swartz Creek Nazarene Church.

Surviving are his wife, Shirley; five daughters, Marva Maurer of Filion, Andrea Marrs of Sacramento, Calif., Diana Swallow of Highland, Wanetta Johnson of Fenton, Marsha Soyka of Fenton; two sons, Marvin Morse of Holly and Michael Morse of North Highland, Calif., and 13 grandchildren.

Others are two sisters, Betty McKimmy of Brownsville, Texas, and Lois Cole of Brighton; several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by a brother, Paul in 1983. Services were held at Bowles Funeral Home in Linden with Rev. Milton Hoose officiating. Burial was in Linden.

Harriet (Peters) Bacon

Mrs. Harriet (Peters) Bacon of Bad Axe, formerly Owendale, died Thursday, Jan. 30, at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw after a brief illness.

She was born Jan. 3, 1906, in Plainfield, Ill., the daughter of George and Olive (Laydon) Sampson and came to the Owendale area when a young woman.

Miss Sampson married Anton Peters Sr. Nov. 29,

1928, in Owendale, where they made their home. Mr. Peters succumbed May 3, 1961.

Mrs. Peters was married to Lewis Bacon in Benzonia, MI, Nov. 21, 1979.

She was a member of Gifford Chapter #369 OES, Gagetown and a life member of Beulah Chapter OES. She was a member of the Owendale Study Club and a past member of the Owendale United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Bacon is survived by her husband, Lewis; one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth (Patricia) Wissner of Bad Axe; three sons, George Peters of Benzonia, Anton Peters of Cass City and David Peters of Owendale; 16 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Bacon was taken from Little's Funeral Home at noon Sunday to the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City to lie in state until 2 p.m., time of funeral services. Rev. Harry Capps, pastor, officiated.

Burial was in Elkland Cemetery, Cass City.

Alice Sadler

Alice M. Sadler, 83, of Decker died Saturday, Feb. 1, in Marlette Community Hospital.

She was born Dec. 29, 1902, in Evergreen Township, the daughter of John and Elfretha Chapman.

Miss Chapman married Elwin Sadler in 1946 in Caro. He died Nov. 10, 1976.

Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Bill (Maxine) Wood, and one son, Larry Sadler, both of Decker; six grandchildren, three great-grandchildren and one sister, Althea Cooley of Center Line.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Marsh Funeral Chapel, Marlette. Hubert Stone officiated.

Burial was in Moshier Cemetery, Hemans.

Hawks rally to top Caro at wire, 59-58

Cass City rallied from 14 points behind with three minutes left in the third quarter to edge the visiting Caro Tigers at the wire, 59-58, Friday, in a Thumb B Association game.

The game turned around when Coach Ron Nurnberger moved Dave Miller from the point guard to a low post and went to a full court press.

Miller had been held to just two points midway through the third quarter. He led the charge that eventually won for Cass City.

In a space of four minutes the league's leading scorer ripped in 10 points while Kurt Bliss added two more buckets during the spree to keep the rally going.

By the end of the third quarter Cass City was back in the game, trailing by four points. Some fine outside shooting by Steve Marchlewicz kept the Tigers from falling behind until midway through the final period.

Cass City finally tied the game at 51-all on a pair of free throws by Miller with 6:38 left in the final quarter.

After that it was a tight right down to the wire.

Mike Kelley chipped in a pair of buckets after Miller rolled down a bit. The first tied Cass City ahead 57-55 and the second came after J.P. Hebert made one of two free shots to move Caro to within a point.

With a three-point lead, Cass City went into a ball control offense and it almost backfired.

Cass City missed at the foul circle and a Hawk foul a moment later put Marchlewicz on the line and the talented forward sank both tries to make the score 59-58.

Caro fouled again a moment later and again the front end of a one and one was missed by Cass City. The Tigers had the ball with 12 seconds left.

With five seconds left, the Tigers put up a shot and the ball spun around the rim before dropping out as the final whistle sounded and the Hawks escaped with the win.

Before the rally started, Cass City didn't look like the league's second place team.

Time after time the Tigers intercepted passes as Cass City attempted to get the ball into the low post against the Tigers' tightly compacted zone.

With 3:25 left in the second period until the 5:17 mark in the third period, Caro played its best ball of the night. The Tigers moved from a 24-all tie to a 41-29 lead in that six minutes and 10 seconds stretch.

The Hawk press was helped by Steve Ross off the bench. Nurnberger said that the team has been lax on defense in recent games and needs to be intense for all four quarters. Hawks were prepared for a tough game Tuesday night at North Branch. Friday the Hawks entertain Marlette, one of the two conference teams that hold a win over Cass City.

Cass City had three players in double figures. Miller netted 20, Kelley added 16 points and Bliss, 12. For the Tigers, Marchlewicz led with 19 points, closely followed by Hebert with 17 while Josh Monte netted 10.

JUNIOR VARSITY

In a game that was close all the way, the Caro junior varsity decided the Hawk JV, 58-52.

Johnson keys win over O-G

A 40-second spree at the start of the fourth quarter turned a close game into a commanding lead for Caseville and doomed the Owen-Gage Bulldogs' chances for an upset in the North Central D League Friday. The score was 77-56.

Prior to the surge, the visiting Bulldogs had stayed on the heels of their hosts. Caseville led at the end of the first quarter, 11-10, and by two points at the half, 30-28. Going into the final eight minutes there were just six points difference between the two teams.

Caseville then proceeded to run off seven unanswered points in the first 40 seconds to salt away the game. After that, Coach Dean Roller turned to his bench and the victory margin for Caseville promptly widened.

One of the reasons for the defeat, Roller said, was the play of Dave Johnson, guard, who hit outside and inside for 34 points and keyed the winners' attack.

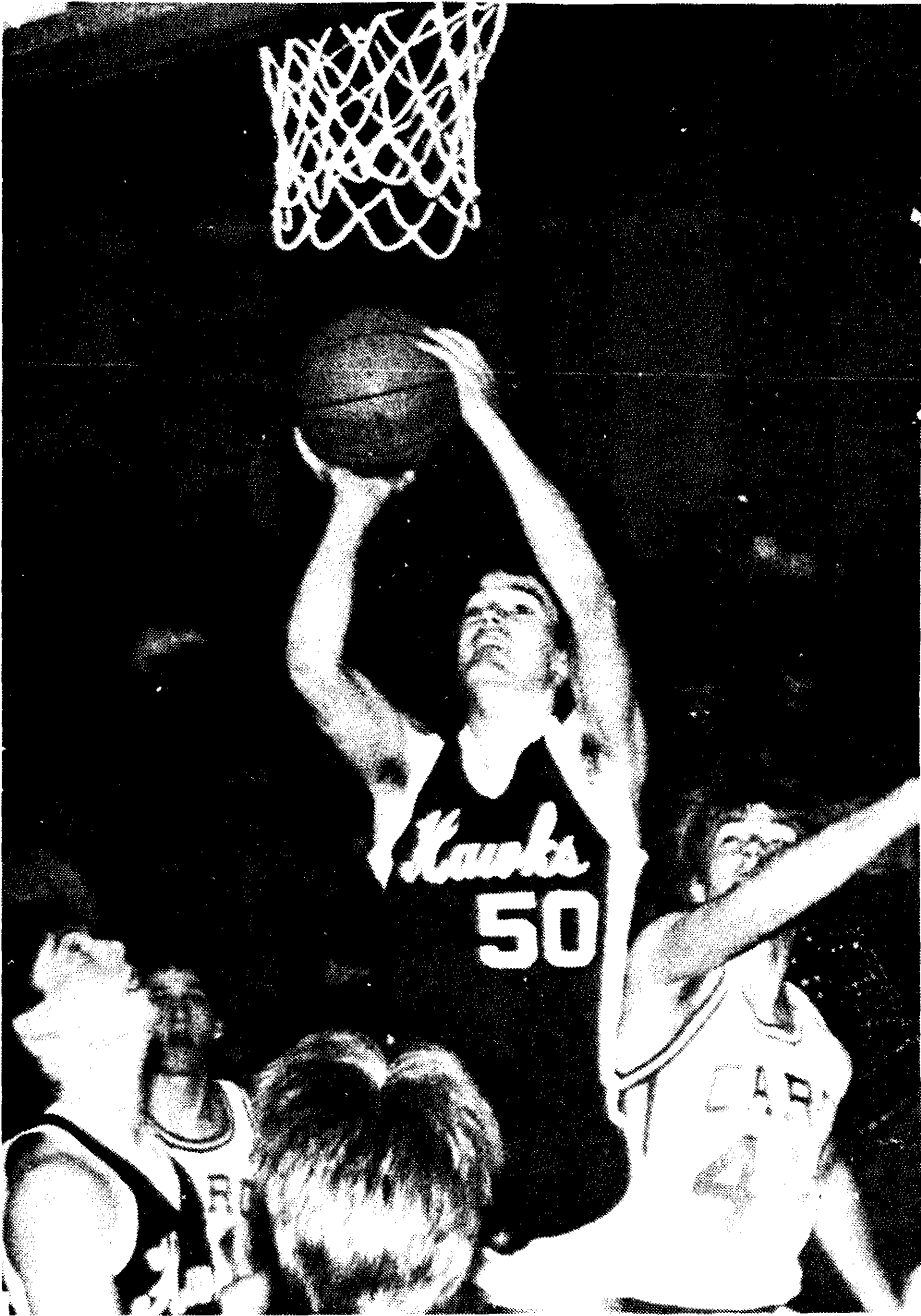

The Bulldogs' big two, Stu Stirrett with 22 points and Steve Root, with 19 points and 15 rebounds, paced Owen-Gage.

The Bulldogs were to have entertained the tough Deckerville squad Tuesday and will play at Kingston Friday.

Environment

Medical researchers at the University of California at Irving say parents should be more aware of the quality of air their children breathe, both indoors and out, reports National Wildlife magazine. Children are far more sensitive to air pollutants than older children or adults. The reasons: children need more air per unit of body weight to maintain proper metabolism and body temperature, and their smaller air passages collect more pollutants.

The earth's surface holds 324 million cubic miles of water. Another 2 million cubic miles lie underground, and 3,000 cubic miles of water are suspended in the atmosphere.

MIKE KELLEY goes up in traffic for two points as J.P. Hebert of Caro waits for a possible rebound.

Cass City spikers lose to Broncos

It was just a bad night for Cass City. Coach Beth Howard said, as she discussed the team's narrow 3 to 2 loss to North Branch Thursday.

The girls pulled out of position all night which resulted in a lot of free balls, she said. In addition, servers connected only 70 percent of the time and the ball was set up only 54 percent of the time.

One of the reasons was the team passing, Howard explained. The girls averaged only three bad passes per game previously and against the Broncos the average was 10.

Terri Summers, 26 service points and two aces, and Kris O'Dell, 21 service points and four aces, led offense. In 54 spike attempts the team was credited with just 10 kills. Kris O'Dell, six kills, and Kelly Deering, three kills, topped the Hawks.

Summers was top setter and earned five points for the team in nine tipping attempts.

3 and 15-13. Teri Wilson was the top spiker and Tina Ballard the top server.

Peck falls to potent O-G spikers

Peck became another victim in the North Central D Conference for undefeated Owen-Gage Thursday as the visiting Bulldogs swept all four games in the match.

The scores were 15-13, 15-7, 15-5 and 15-2.

Cindy Enderle whipped in 23 service points and added 10 sets. Susie Salcido was responsible for 12 service points and was potent at the net with 17 kill spikes, 16 good spikes and nine kill blocks.

Debbie Engelhardt with 14 sets and Barb Helleybuick with 10 service points helped keep the Owen-Gage record unblemished. The Bulldogs are now 12-0 for the season and 4-0 in league play.

The junior varsity also swept its match with 15-7, 15-9 and 15-5 decisions.

Costly collision

2 cars damaged by one deer

One deer damaged two cars last week in an accident on M-81, about 1 3/4 miles east of Cass City, it was reported to the Cass City Police Department.

The deer dashed in front of a car driven by Gary Lee Wills, 33, of 7676 Gilbert Rd., which was driving west. The impact threw the deer onto the top of a pickup truck driven by Gary Edward Deering, 45, of 4272 Woodland, who was driving east.

The front and the headlights of the Wills car were damaged. The top, windshield and box cover were damaged on the pickup.

A deer escaped unharm in the second deer-car mishap in the same area. Kimmith Howard Hill, 29, 5705 Germania Road, reported to Cass City Police that a deer struck the side of his car as he was driving on M-81 near Crawford Road, east of Cass City.

After the impact the deer ran off into the woods and did not appear harmed, Hill told police.

Two other accidents were investigated by the department. There were no injuries.

Todd Arthur Stahlbaum, 18, of 6293 West Street, turned from the left lane on Seeger Street, at the corner of Main and collided with a car driven by Henry Edward Ciesielski, 39, of 6180 Lakeside Drive, which was in the right lane, to make a right turn onto Main Street. The accident occurred Monday, Jan. 27, at 3:30 p.m.

Ciesielski reported that he attempted to avoid the Stahlbaum car and swerved into a parked car owned by Roger Lee Martindale, Caro.

Stahlbaum was ticketed for improper lane usage by Patrolman Kenneth C. Schott who investigated.

No tickets were issued in a 2-car accident Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 4:10 p.m.

Officer David McComb reported that cars driven by Nasri Saba Khoury, 41, of 4462 North Seeger, and Mary Ellen Kulinski, 19, of 4918 Lampton Road, collided.

Both cars were travelling north on Seeger Street when the Kulinski car turned in front of the Khoury vehicle. Officer McComb investigated.

Never melts

Imagine if the snow around your house never melted. That's what it's like at Antarctica, where unmelted snow has accumulated over thousands of years to form the polar ice cap. National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine says that in some places, the cap is over three miles thick, the equivalent of about 13 Empire State Buildings stacked atop one another.

Letter to the editor

Taylor: salary claims in error

"Dear Mr. Haire,"

While traveling through the Thumb Area last week, I had the occasion to read your "Rabbit Tracks" column wherein you referenced projected 1989 teacher salaries in the Livonia School District.

Although your citation is in error, Livonia teachers will not make as much as you claim. I would like to commend you for raising the awareness level of the public in your area. As you should know, teachers employed in Cass City, for example, must have twelve years' experience and an advanced degree before earning the maximum scheduled salary. In Livonia, teachers reach their maximum salary level two years sooner than in Cass City and, by comparison, earn over $9,000 per year more in salary.

Consequently, on behalf of the many teachers I have worked with over the years, I thank you for taking the progressive step forward in the public interest by exposing how under-paid Cass City teachers are within their profession.

Sincerely,

Tom Taylor,
Bargaining Consultant
Michigan Education Association

EDITOR'S NOTE: A check with the MEA office shows that the maximum salary in the Livonia district that's possible to receive is $48,701, not $50,500. The figure is for salary only and does not include any possible payment for special services such as coaching, etc.

Memorial

IN LOVING memory of David Schember who passed away suddenly Dec. 26, 1975. Although God called you away many years ago, our hearts still ache, and the tears still flow, and yet sweet memories linger near, with each and every passing year. At times the loneliness is hard to bear, and we know you are in the Lord's care, one day again we'll see your smiling face, over the rainbow, in a better place. Sadly missed by your brother, family, and friends. Rinerd Schember. 13-2-5-1

Card of Thanks

WE WISH TO thank Hills and Dales Hospital staff, Dr. Donahue, Dr. Martin and the nurses for special care. Also, the Trinity United Methodist Women and friends who provided the meal, Rev. Joe Robertson and Rev. Patton for prayers and their concern. To all friends for flowers and memorials and Little's Funeral Home for service for our beloved aunt, Marie E. Jetta. Ray and Marie Norton. 13-2-5-1

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Dear Uncle Bill:

I'm just like your sister (my aunt, you know). I don't know much about investments, either. Of course, I'm 50 years younger.

I've been so busy in the printing business I don't get to read all that financial stuff. It's simpler to let you do it, and then tell me.

Skip all the explanations and most of the figures. Just tell me what kind of a nest-egg that Beth and I can have ready for our son or daughter who will make a first appearance next February.

Your favorite nephew,
BEN

Dear Ben:

From what I hear about that business of yours, you're not printing newspapers—you're printing $20 bills. Apparently they are good ones.

Buy Tiny Tim, or Little Nell, as the case may be, $1 million worth of zero coupons, maturing 8-1-25, for $14.99 for each $1,000 bond. For a million the cost is $14,990. The issue: St. Louis, Mo., Housing FHA, yielding 10.85 percent. They're tax free and no capital gains.

When the youngster is 40 years old, the bonds will come due and presto! you have an instant millionaire, to push your wheel chair for you. All the kid has to do is to keep breathing for four decades. With a pot of gold like that just over the horizon, everyone will be nice to him as he is maturing.

UNCLE BILL

Commissioners okay vote for medical care funds

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners voted on two requests to place issues on a County-wide ballot during its meeting last Tuesday, and decided to follow through on one of those requests.

On a vote of 7 to 0, the board decided to place a millage-question on the August primary ballot to seek funding for the County Medical Care Facility. The amount of millage to be requested, and the length of the levy have not yet been determined.

The decision by the board to seek the millage followed a presentation by Tuscola County Planning Commission Secretary Ed Karr. He told the commissioners of a survey that was done over the past couple of weeks where nearly 78 percent of the 200 people who were contacted said that they were in favor of having a millage election for the Medical Care Facility in Caro. It was the recommendation of the commission that the county board should schedule the election.

Voting in favor of having the election was Commissioner Royce Russell (R-Cass City). Russell said the message was pretty clear on how the voters felt, judging from the work done by the planning commission. In reference to the prior millage requests that were defeated, Russell said, "The people who I had talked to before indicated that they were interested in the Medical Care Facility."

Most of the discussion generated by the commission and the County Social Services Board has centered around asking for a one-quarter mill. Russell said if that amount is levied by the county, and it turns out that too much money is generated, then the millage levy could be reduced later. The specific wording of the ballot proposal will be voted on by the board at a future meeting.

The other major issue to come before the county commissioners last week was whether or not to place another question on the same August ballot dealing with the Sunday sale of packaged liquor. A motion to allow the sale was defeated on a vote of 4 to 3.

Requesting that the voters of Tuscola County have a chance to decide the issue was North Lake Grocery Store owner, Jeri Herington, who appeared before the commissioners. She told the board that she represented a number of people who felt they are being discriminated against because bars can sell liquor by the glass on Sundays, but stores such as hers cannot sell packaged liquor.

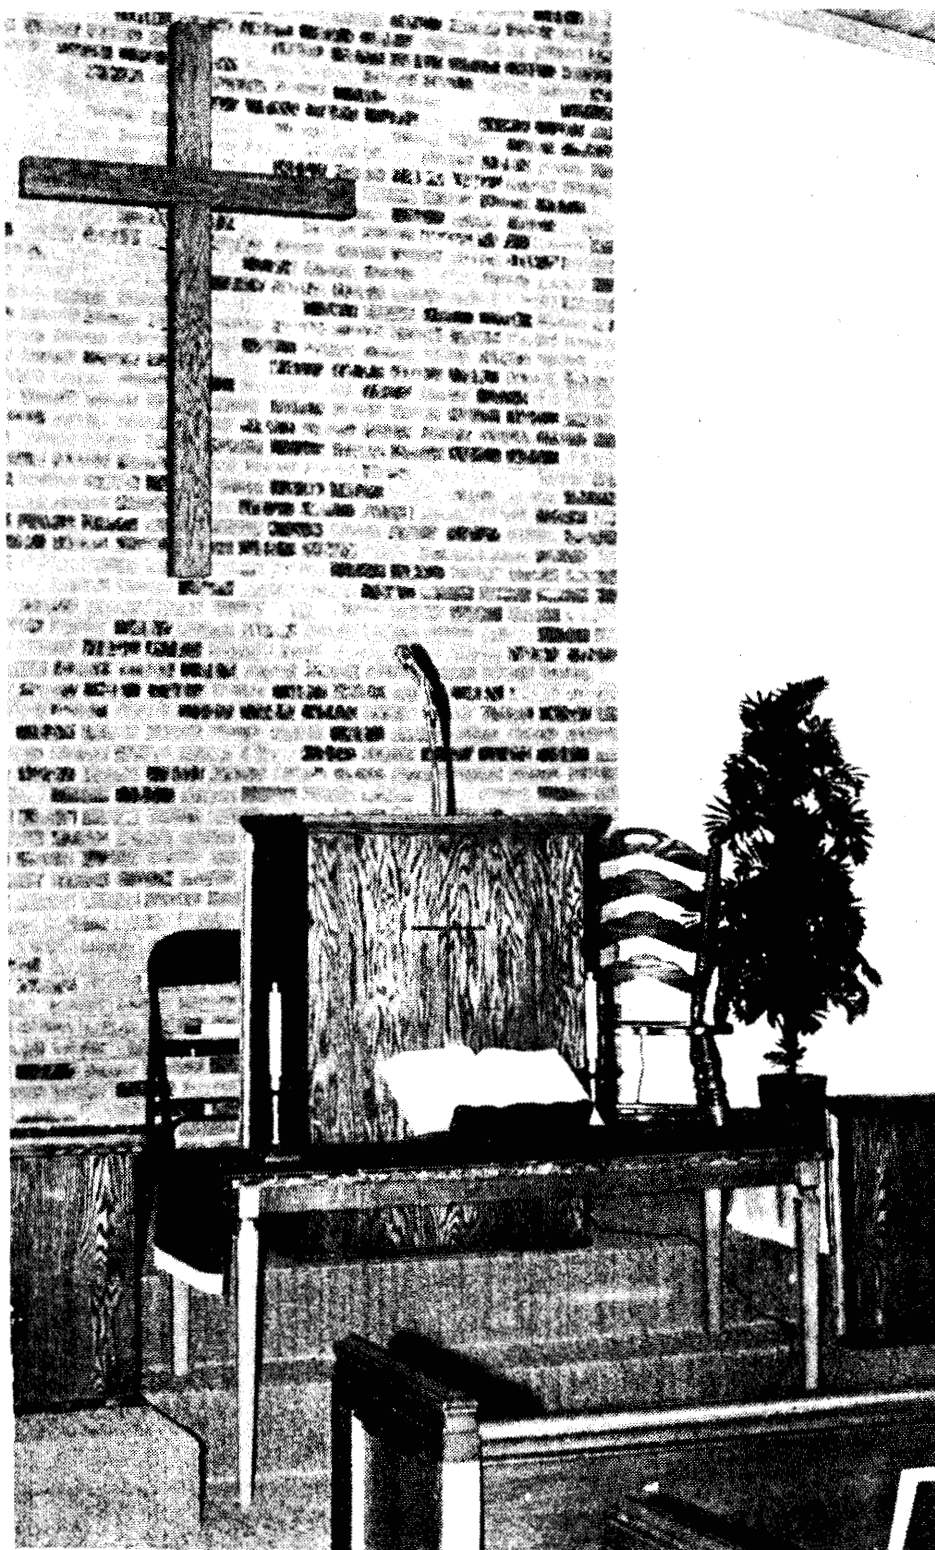

Mrs. Herington was joined by Executive Director John Dagenais of the Lansing-based Packaged Liquor Dealers of Michigan. He urged the board to follow the lead of the counties surrounding Tuscola which allow for the Sunday sales. Otherwise, he said Tuscola County would become "an island," and people will continue to buy their liquor elsewhere.

Those comments did not sway the opinion of Russell, who was one of the four board members to vote against placing the issue on the ballot later this year. The 2nd District Commissioner has voted against the Sunday sale of packaged liquor every time it has come up, and this time was no exception. "I have received a number of telephone calls from people in the district thanking me for the way I voted on the issue," he said.

Russell recalled one board meeting a few years ago where the county had just received a grant of $54,000 to help control alcohol-related traffic accidents, and the issue was discussed. He said, "It just didn't set good with me. People can buy their liquor on Saturday if they want, and they don't need Sundays to do it."

Russell added that the supporters of the issue to allow the Sunday sale of packaged liquor in Tuscola County still have the option of collecting petition signatures. "I have no problem with that route of action," he said. A minimum of 1,280 signatures would be needed to require an election to be held.

ALREADY LONG RANGE plans have been made to turn the sanctuary into a Sunday School area and add on to the building that will be dedicated Sunday.

Church dedication scheduled Sunday

by the Cass City church and two more are expected to be added in 1988.

The church does not pay all of the expenses for each missionary. Kelle explained. Each church votes the amount it will contribute.

The Cass City church pays $50 per month for each of the missionaries it supports.

Although the paint is scarcely dry on the new building, there's a gleam in the pastor's eye when he talks about the future.

Now the seating capacity in the sanctuary is occasionally exceeded. When that becomes a frequent occurrence, there is a plan to add on to the present building and turn the present sanctuary into a Sunday School area.

The church owns 7.46 acres where the new building is located which should handle the church's needs in the foreseeable future despite the rapid growth.

Flying squirrels

You may not know it, but flying squirrels could be visiting your backyard bird feeder. According to National Wildlife magazine, if you have mature leaf-bearing trees on your property, chances are good that squirrels which look like they're flying have been by at night. How can you tell? At dusk, turn on an outdoor light that's just bright enough for you to see the feeder...and check the feeder for visitors about once an hour.

SPANISH PORK CUTLETS per serving

- 4 pork sirloin cutlets, cut 1/2 to 3/4 inches thick
- 1/2 tablespoon oil
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1 can (8 ounces) Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 medium onions, sliced

Brown cutlets in oil in large frying pan over medium heat. Pour off drippings. Sprinkle cutlets with salt and pepper. Mix tomato sauce, Worcestershire sauce, sugar and basil, pour over cutlets. Add onion slices; cover tightly and simmer 30 to 45 minutes or until cutlets are done. 4 servings.

It is our policy to have all items advertised in this circular in stock during the sale period. However, because this circular is printed approximately 90 days prior to the sale date, there could be an unforeseen delay, or in some cases, non-shipment of an item. We regret any inconvenience it may cause. If an advertised item is unavailable during the sale period, we will, to the best of our ability, offer a substitute item of comparable value with an equal savings over the regular price. We do reserve the right to limit the quantity on some items and special prices are in effect only during the sale period while quantities last.
