School petitions filed

Registered voters in the Cass City school district will find the name of just one candidate on the ballot when they go to the polls in the annual school board election in June.

District officials announced Monday that incumbent school board member Richard Wallace was the only candidate to submit a petition by the 4:00 p.m. deadline.

Wallace's current term on the Cass City Board of Education will expire June 30 and is the lone position to be voted upon this year. The incumbent will be seeking reelection to another 4-year term on the board.

The only other issue to be decided by Cass City school district voters in the June 9 election is a millage question placed on the ballot by the board. Voters will be asked to decide the fate of a question asking for the levy of one mill for a 2-year period with the money generated to be used to remove asbestos from school buildings.

KIRA GROOSBECK, 21 months, was diagnosed with Kawasaki Syndrome, a rare and potentially dangerous disease.

21-month-old Cass City tot stricken by Kawasaki syndrome

Recently, a Cass City child was diagnosed with Kawasaki syndrome, a little known but potentially dangerous disease.

Kira Groosbeck who is 21 months old, has since recovered, but the cause of the disease remains somewhat of a mystery.

The disease is named for a Japanese physician, Tomisaku Kawasaki, who saw his first case in 1961.

Symptoms of the disease are fever, red eyes, enlarged lymph nodes, a rash, redness and swelling of the palms of the hands and soles of the feet, after which skin may peel.

In Kira's case, she first ran a fever and then tiny blisters developed on her lips and in her mouth. Her parents, Mike and Kim, at first thought they were "ever blisters but they were very painful, and as they moved to Kira's tongue and she was unable to eat, they became concerned.

The Groosbecks took her up to Hills and Dales Hospital where she was treated for a viral infection, but after a week she showed little improvement. The Groosbecks explained the symptoms to their pediatrician in Bad Axe and, after a series of tests, he diagnosed it as Kawasaki syndrome.

Researchers have found that one of the most serious effects the disease has is to the heart. In 15 to 20 percent of the cases the child develops aneurysms, which are a ballooning of the blood vessel walls in a coronary artery. There is usually no outward sign of cardiac damage. It can only be determined through sound wave or X-ray studies. Kira's pediatrician feels that she probably did not develop an aneurysm, but her parents will have the tests run nonetheless, to put their minds at ease.

According to researchers, an aneurysm can narrow the artery, leaving it more prone to blockage and a heart attack. It can also slow the blood and make clotting more likely.

When Kira was diagnosed with Kawasaki, she was put on an I.V. and a blood sample was taken to check her platelet count. According to Dr. Takahashi of the University of Southern California, patients in the early stages of recovery from the disease often have very sticky blood because the platelets, which are clotting agents, increase and the blood tends to clot more easily, making it a dangerous contribution to the blockage of blood flow.

Kira is now on aspirin, one a day for the next 3 months. This is the common treatment for Kawasaki disease because it tends to thin the blood, thus reducing clotting tendencies.

One of the most recent findings is that allowing your child to play on a freshly shampooed carpet may increase the chances of contracting the disease.

"One of the first things the doctor asked me is if I had recently shampooed my carpet. I hadn't, but I remembered that Kira and I had visited my girlfriend whose carpet had been washed and was still wet, and Kira played on it," said Mrs. Groosbeck.

It is thought that the shampooing process might have something to do with activating the growth of some type of microorganism. Studies are still being made on the relation between Kawasaki and freshly shampooed carpets and until more is known the Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, Georgia, asks that children be kept away from the carpets until they are completely dry.

Kira seems to have almost recovered from her run-in with Kawasaki but she still has a rash on her arms, legs and back, and Kim said that she's still pretty quiet, not quite her old busy self.

Since July 1976, the CDC has received over 1,000 reports of the disease, but they suspect that the number is even higher, since the CDC relies on voluntary reporting. Last year, according to the CDC, there was an outbreak in the Saginaw area and at least one other child in Cass City has been diagnosed with Kawasaki syndrome.

It tends to hit an area every 2 to 3 years with a winter-spring prevalence. Reasons for this are still a mystery to researchers but they continue to work to find the cause and method of transmission of Kawasaki syndrome.

Sandra St. Cyr, labor market analyst at the Saginaw office of the MESC, said the unemployment rate for Tuscola County went from 14.4% in January to 14.0% in February. However, she said Tuscola County continues to have the highest rate of the 3-county area. The number of people who were unemployed dropped from 3,125 to 3,025. In February of last year, 14.8% of the population in Tuscola County was out of work.

The largest unemployment drop in the Thumb was in Sanilac County where the rate went from 13.1% in January to 11.8% in February. The number of unemployed people went from 2,275 to 2,075. Sanilac County's unemployment rate from a year ago was 13.5%.

Huron County was tied with Sanilac County for having the lowest unemployment rate in the Thumb during February. The rate in Huron County declined from 12.7% in January to 11.8% in February. As a result, the number of unemployed people went from 1,950 to 1,800, which is the fewest number of unemployed in the Thumb. In February of 1985, the unemployment rate in Huron County was 12.8%.

St. Cyr said the main reason for the unemployment decrease in the area was due to additional hiring in food processing and the manufacturing industries, which include suppliers to the auto industry. She said the decrease in Tuscola County was not as large because Tuscola is not as dependent in those areas of employment.

Despite the improving conditions in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties, MESC officials said the Thumb area is still at least 2.5 percentage points higher than the state-wide unemployment average. Across Michigan, the rate dropped slightly from 9.4% in January to 9.3% the following month.

According to MESC figures, the Ann Arbor labor market area had the lowest jobless rate in Michigan at 5.0% during February. At the other end of the scale was the Upper Peninsula with the state's highest unemployment rate of 16.4%.

Unemployment dips, but still exceeds state average

Unemployment figures released last week by the Michigan Employment Security Commission showed that unemployment was down in all 3 counties of the Thumb in February, but still remains higher than the state average.

Sandra St. Cyr, labor market analyst at the Saginaw office of the MESC, said the unemployment rate for Tuscola County went from 14.4% in January to 14.0% in February. However, she said Tuscola County continues to have the highest rate of the 3-county area. The number of people who were unemployed dropped from 3,125 to 3,025. $125,000 damage award reversed in appeals court

A decision in a $125,000 lawsuit against the Human Development Commission (HDC) and its director, Mary Ann Vandemark, was recently reversed in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

"The decision was unanimous," said Dale Cubitt, the attorney representing the HDC, in reference to the 3-0 vote by the panel of judges.

The decision against the HDC was made in the U.S. District Court in Bay City in November of 1983.

Clyde Adams of Vassar claims that he was fired in violation of his civil rights because it was his constitutional right to seek legal counsel and he should not have been fired because he chose to do so.

He claimed that the HDC used his personal builder's license to obtain recognition as an area builder. He was dismissed from his job after attempting to stop the HDC through the court system, according to the lawsuit.

Adams was awarded $85,000 in damages from the HDC and $40,000 from Vandemark by the U.S. District Court. Adams said that the next step is to try to get the other 6 judges to reverse the decision and uphold the original ruling. If this does not happen, the case will go back to U.S. District Court.

Another similar lawsuit against the HDC is pending.

Mark Panknin of Kingston has filed a $1 million lawsuit which accuses the HDC of improperly using

"Crazy" year for tax collections

County treasurers' offices in Caro and Sandusky were busy places last week, as final figures were being tabulated to determine the amount of taxes that were not paid on time this year and were labeled as delinquent.

After the final number was added, it was announced that 84.5% of the taxes had been collected in Tuscola County, and 83.5% in Sanilac County. Both of those collection levels were slightly lower than last year.

"This has been a real crazy year," said Sanilac County Treasurer Kenneth Rhead. "We have had some of the townships collect as much as 90% of their taxes, while others are as low as 72%. Some of them levy a 1% tax administration fee after a certain date, and I think that had an effect on the amount of taxes collected."

The figures varied even more in Tuscola County with one township collecting 98% of its taxes, and another only 71% of the total amount.

Area townships and the level of taxes collected on time include: Elkland, 88%; Ellington, 81%; Elmwood, 83%; Kingston, 81%; Novesta, 79%; Evergreen, 82%; and Greenleaf, 83%.

Elmwood Township Treasurer Kenneth Hofmeister said the collection level for 1985 taxes in Elmwood Township is a little lower than last year, and is probably related to the farm economy.

Now that the final figures are in, county treasurers will prepare for the sale of bonds which will cover the delinquent taxes not collected from taxpayers.

THE HIGH COST OF cheap eyewear

In today's economy as always, the best bargain is eyewear that gives you the most in fashion...vision...and comfort.

Cheap eyewear shortchanges you on all three.

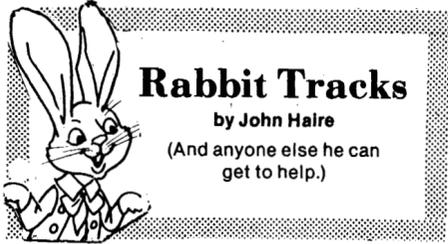

- Poorly styled, unattractive frames result in poor appearance.
- Poorly processed lenses result in poor vision and unnecessary eyestrain.
- Poorly constructed frames result in poor fit and discomfort from rubbing on noses or ears.

For your eyes' sake and your family's vision needs, see your PRIMARY VISION eye doctor regularly for thorough, professional eye examinations. Then to get the most out of your examination, depend on first quality eyewear and service. Don't be misled. There is a difference in eyewear quality - a difference that's vital to your priceless vision.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Discussing a trip to Lake Tahoe around the coffee table recently, I announced that the flight plan called for a stop at Dallas on the way. A few of the coffee table pundits figured that it wasn't much out of the way.

I don't buy that and the next time we get together I'm primed to tell them about the flight home. We left Reno and went to Sacramento before turning back and going to Detroit.

This is a real milk run, the flight attendant said, as we talked about the trip. What's more, the trip from Reno to Chicago was on a small plane and the 45-minute hop from Chicago to Detroit was on a giant DC-10.

It's always nice to be remembered by folks away from the old home town. David W. O'Dell of Soldotna, AK., sent us a copy of the Peninsula Clarion published in Kenai, Alaska, detailing the volcano eruption in Kamishak Bay and.

There just can't be a seat belt law in Nevada. Drivers wearing belts were few and far between in the Reno-Tahoe area. Most of the front seat passengers or drivers with belts attached were either in a rental car or from another state.

A note on the subscription renewal envelope for Richard Walsh said "my husband wants to know why you never put in prices in your paper?"

The answer is twofold. One is that, as a weekly, we couldn't remain current. The second is that in the periods when the prices were especially important to farmers there often was no market price available from grain dealers.

Area 4-H members make 3-day visit to Capital

Two Sanilac County 4-H members, Alisa Kroetsch, of Snover, and Sheila Wood, of Marlette, were among 90 young people and adults to participate in the 1986 4-H Capitol Experience program March 16-19 in Lansing.

The youths participated in discussions on state government, met with media representatives who cover legislative and governmental processes and to encourage them to get involved in public affairs on local, county, regional, state and national levels," explains Margo Smith, 4-H Capitol Experience coordinator.

The youths participated in discussions on state government, met with media representatives who cover the capital, visited the Capitol, including the governor's office and the Senate and House chambers, hosted legislators at a special legislative breakfast and talked with representatives of several state agencies.

The 4-H members spent one morning working on a community service project in the Lansing area, working with political reporters at the Capitol, visiting the State Police training academy in Lansing, distributing food at the Greater Lansing Food Bank or working in the governor's communication section sorting mail.

The program was sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth and Natural Resources and Public Policy programs.

"If It Fitz..."

Grandma's past

By Jim Fitzgerald

I had to go to the Bahamas in 1986 to finally learn how sneaky my wife was in Michigan in 1970. Sixteen years of marital deception were finally ended — inadvertently, not honestly — because there was no TV set in our borrowed condo in Nassau.

This gets rather complicated, so pay attention.

With two small children in our party of six, the casino carousing was limited, or at least apportioned. No less than one adult had to stay home to baby-sit every night for two weeks.

There was plenty of family sightseeing in the daytime. One sight I saw clearly was irrefutable evidence that Nassau would look a lot better if it had a bottle-and-can refund law. The most beautiful scenery has beer-and-pop trash around the edges. I had to keep reminding myself it wasn't Michigan and I couldn't get rich by filling a sack and running to the nearest beer store.

There was also some shopping. My wife and daughter bought several dresses, pointing out needlework that "you just can't find anywhere except here." I pictured Bahamian natives embroidering under palm trees. But, according to the labels, most of the women's clothing sold in the Bahamas is made in India.

Anyway, shopping and sightseeing are daytime activities. In the evenings, while baby-sitting with no TV or familiar newspapers, there wasn't that much to do. Without success, I tried USA Today, which is a good newspaper for people who don't like news, but not for me.

I was looking for news from Michigan which, on the day I'd left home, had been part of the USA. But, according to USA Today on Monday, March 10, the biggest news from Michigan during the previous 3 days was that a court was scheduled to rule on the Ecorse School Board's request to end a teachers' strike. And the Macomb County Humane Society was robbed of three bottles of drugs. Honest.

In Nassau, USA Today costs $1.70 per copy, which is too stiff, even if you're from Ecorse. Maybe the Bahamian edition of USA Today also is made in India.

So I read 7 books in 14 days. And I'd have read a dozen more if it hadn't been for four-year-old Emily, who decided the best substitute for TV was to hear stories about her grandfather's nefarious past. "Tell me what you did when you were a little boy," Emily said.

She said it 1,000 times every day. When I finally ran out of stories about my criminal childhood, Emily settled for past bad deeds committed by her parents, cousins, uncle, or even family pets. And when I finally collapsed with 3 tongues in my shoes, she demanded the same sort of stories from Grandma.

It was family pets that exposed Grandma's sneakiness. She told Emily about the time we owned two huge cats that I wisely wanted to give to an enemy because they were good for nothing except trouble. One morning, Grandma said, while I was at work, the cats ripped the backs of two new leather chairs. And somehow Grandma rushed around and got an upholsterer to repair them before I returned home in the evening and gave the cats more leather via my foot. "Oh, my gosh," Grandma said when she noticed I was listening to her cat story more intently than Emily. "I never told you about that, did I?"

No. Not until 16 years later, by accident, in the Bahamas. I am shattered. It is disheartening to learn that my marriage has been based on deception.

What advice would Ann Landers give to a husband who knew about the 1986 theft of three bottles of drugs from the Macomb County Humane Society before he knew about the 1970 ripping of two new leather chairs in his own home?

Serving as the committee chairman is Asel Collins.

The reunion will be held in August.

The Haire Net

In the days when Detroit Edison and other public utilities were more flush than they are now, it was the custom to spend a day freeloading on Edison and attending a Tiger game, sitting in the press box.

It was a great outing for me as a long-time, dyed-in-the-wool Tiger fan. Get to see the game, attend a dinner at the Detroit Press Club and have all the peanuts, popcorn and beer that could be handled. In addition it was a time to renew old friendships with other publishers and talk a little shop.

Those days are long gone now. The freebie was discontinued many years ago.

That's why it was a pleasant surprise to return from vacation and find a letter waiting announcing a day for outstate publishers and reporters in Detroit that will include a free Tiger game. No, the utilities didn't suddenly become rich again. This invitation was from Coleman A. Young, mayor of Detroit.

What the mayor has in mind is showing how Detroit has changed for the better. The free Tiger game against California is the carrot dangled in front of us to get us to bite on the offer.

Young says that the "outlook for Detroit is more positive than it has been in any of my previous 12 years as mayor."

That may be true and it is also true that 12 years ago Detroit wasn't anything to brag about compared to its halcyon days of 30 years or so ago when everyone went downtown for entertainment or to shop Michigan's finest stores.

It's also true that Detroit has lifted itself in recent years with the development on the waterfront and Trappers' Alley.

Frankly the mayor's offer is intriguing and right now the inclination is to take Young up on his offer. Maybe he can show me something that will change the way I see Detroit. With the cynicism of most newsmen alive and well, I don't expect that it will. But if nothing changes after listening to Coleman all day, I'll still be ahead. I love to see the Tigers play

Spinning yarn

Tina Hoard revives lost art

What do an Angora rabbit, an Angora goat, some sheep and a spinning wheel have in common? For Tina Hoard of Cass City they are the ingredients for spinning her own yarn.

Spinning, a lost art in today's society of yarn shops and clothing stores, is finding its way back into today's culture. Hoard has been spinning her own yarn for about a year. She learned the art from Jeanette Ziel of Port Austin, who teaches out of her home. To master spinning takes about "10 hours and a pound of wool," Hoard said.

"I started out with one Angora rabbit, which was originally my son's 4-H pet," she remarked. Someone asked her why she didn't take advantage of the Angora and its uses. So she did, and Hoard now owns 6 rabbits, 2 white and 4 brown, and has gotten an Angora goat.

Removing the fur from rabbits is called plucking. She explains that the hair is ready to remove when it starts twisting at the ends, usually every 2 months. Each rabbit yields approximately 2 to 3 ounces. Her goat, a yearling, is sheared once in the spring and once in the fall and yields 6 to 8 pounds of mohair, which is what the coat of an Angora goat is called.

The mohair requires picking the matted hair apart so that it is fine enough to spin. It's busy work but she enjoys it. If the mohair is out on the deck in the summer, she can't help but stop and pick it when she walks by. Her daughter also enjoys picking and spinning.

She blends the mohair or Angora with wool because they don't have the elasticity or "spring back" that wool does.

She buys her wool in bulk from 2 places, Janet McPeck of Decker and Zeilinger's Wool Company in Frankenmuth. The wool is extra work because it has to be washed and carded, which means brushing it all one way so that the fibers go in one direction.

At one time Hoard used the yarn to make gifts for family and friends, but now she is selling both yarn and the finished product. "I'm so busy right now that I just spin the yarn and the woman across the street knits it."

If time is not taken into account, spinning and knitting your own yarn into such things as sweaters and vests is considerably cheaper than buying them. "I just made a sweater coat out of wool and it cost me about $20," she said.

Throughout her home there is evidence of ongoing projects: a carding machine adorns the dining room table, her spinning wheel is set up in the living room and piles of raw wool and skeins of yarn sit within easy reach. Appropriately, a faded picture of her great-grandmother at a spinning wheel sits out.

There are 10 to 12 women that spin and get together up in Port Austin for fellowship and to share new ideas and techniques. They call themselves the Thumb Fiber Friends, and are hosting a fiber fair, July 4 and 5, in Bad Axe.

THE FUR FROM an Angora rabbit is used to spin into yarn.

Farmers seek political help

A delegation of 130 Michigan farmers will fly to Washington, D.C., April 15 for three days of meetings with their congressmen, senators and U.S. Department of Agriculture officials. The group will be led by Michigan Farm Bureau President Elton Smith, and Vice-president Jack Laurie.

A top priority for the farmers while they are in the nation's capital, according to Smith, will be to gain support for Farm Bureau's two-tier debt restructuring program, a plan proposed by the organization to address the nation's farm debt problems.

"Some progress has been made on this issue. Regulatory agencies have been cooperative, but no legislation was passed before Congress went on Easter recess," Smith said. "If farmers are to receive assistance for the 1986 growing season, action must be taken now. A senate resolution has been introduced which urges the Farm Credit System to restructure debt when feasible instead of foreclosures. We will work to gain support and cosponsorship of that resolution."

Mosquito program outlined

During the spring and summer of 1986, the Tuscola County Health Department will be sampling the mosquito population of Tuscola County, in an effort to document the quantity and types of mosquitoes present in our county. Since several species of this insect are vectors of a number of different diseases, it is important to have background data, in the event of a disease outbreak.

The collection of samples will take place several times a week by utilizing 7 New Jersey light traps, which have been provided by the Michigan Department of Public Health and strategically placed at various points around the county. Locations currently being proposed are in the vicinity of Unionville, Cass City, Caro, Fairgrove, Vassar, Millington and Kingston. These collection devices will be activated by volunteers, who would provide space and access to a power supply for the duration of the project, which would run May through August. The collection and identification of specimens will be completed by workers participants from the Department of Social Services. The project will be completed in cooperation with the Saginaw County Mosquito Control Program, and will be supervised by Environmental Health Staff of the Tuscola County Health Department.

The final product will provide a baseline of information on mosquitoes in Tuscola County, which will be reviewed with the Tuscola County Board of Health, the Tuscola County board of Commissioners, and the Michigan Department of Public Health, and should provide a direction in which to proceed as far as control of this disease carrying insect is concerned. Through the cooperative efforts of a number of agencies, it is projected that this baseline inventory can be completed with little cost to the citizens of our community. To volunteer your residence as a sample collection point for the mosquito inventory program, contact the Tuscola County Health Department at 673-8114.

Legislation on taxes proposed

When townships collect tax money, a good portion (approximately 70 percent of it) goes toward the schools. The townships are required to pay the money in a timely manner, usually every 10 business days. The treasurers are legally bound by the Attorney General to invest the money. So which group is entitled to the interest earned?

In a Grand Rapids court decision made last fall, it was decided that upon paying the schools, the interest would follow the principal. Recently legislation has been introduced in Lansing that proposes that if the townships turn the money over in a timely manner, they won't have to pay the interest also.

This seems like one issue where a legal confrontation can be avoided if both sides can come to an agreement.

Representative Dick Allen said that he believes there is a cooperative spirit between the collection agencies and the schools, and whether the agency has a right to the interest is a local decision.

Jerry Thienes, Deputy Superintendent of the Tuscola Intermediate School District, said that the schools told County treasurers that if they pay in a timely manner (at least every 2 weeks) then there will be no court action. He went on to say that Tuscola County wants no interest from money that's paid to the schools on a regular basis.

Where the problem exists, said Thienes, is that "we are at the mercy of them paying," and when the money is not paid on time the schools must go out and borrow it.

Cass City School Superintendent Donald Crouse said that the school board has adopted a policy which requests payments on a weekly basis. He said that right now it can't be predicted what will happen.

The townships have arguments for keeping the interest, one of them being that they work for the school in collecting the money and must take all the headaches that go along with it, said Dave Milligan, Supervisor of Elkland Township.

Representative Allen said that another factor to be considered by the school is that the townships could assess the school administration for handling the money and that the administration fee paid by the school could outstrip the interest.

THE EASTER EGGS may be gone, but Donald Golden, 9, of 6530 E. Main Street, says his 9-week-old puppy, Tippy, has decided to make this empty basket his favorite resting place.

State bill would increase fines

The Michigan House of Representatives is considering a bill that would substantially increase the fine for transporting overloaded vehicles and equipment over bridges. Officials with the Michigan Farm Bureau say the legislation could create some problems for farmers in getting their products to market.

According to Ron Nelson, Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel, the bill is in response to the inadequate condition of some bridges in rural areas.

"In these rural areas, we have a number of bridges that are in inadequate condition," Nelson said. "Due to a lack of funds, county road commissions are struggling to upgrade the bridges, culverts and stream crossings that need repair."

Nelson said House Bill 4801 would increase the maximum fine to about $1,700 per violation for transporting overloaded vehicles over Michigan bridges.

Tuscola County Road Commission Clerk James Miklovic said Tuscola County has quite a few bridges that are posted less than the limit that is legal for the road they are on. "I would say there is a ballpark figure of 75, and that number has been increasing over the years."

Miklovic said the local road commission does not receive the money levied from fines. "I guess a fine of $100 is worth it for some people to take the risk," he said.

During Thursday's meeting of the Tuscola County Road Commission board, Miklovic said the members were told that the Elmwood Township board of trustees has decided not to do an improvement project on Elmwood Road, between Dodge and Cedar Run Road. Bids were taken on the project 2 weeks ago.

A motion was also approved to have the Chicago Testing Laboratories company test the asphalt being used by the road commission to make sure it is of the proper quality.

So to speak . . .

by Jim McLoskey

Over the years, I have learned to have quite a bit of respect for volunteers in general, and for one group of volunteers in particular. The group that ranks Number One on my list includes the volunteers who give of their time for both the local and county-wide United Way.

These are the people who hold allocation meetings annually around this time of the year. In my opinion, the United Way boards are faced with one of the most difficult decision-making processes I can think of. This involves making decisions as to which non-profit organizations will receive how much money.

As is usually the case at both the local and county level, there are numerous worthy causes which have very good plans and goals, but there is never enough money to go around to meet all of their needs. When you are dealing with so many groups all having such good intentions of how United Way donations can be spent, I think it would be very difficult to decide how the allocations should be made.

Fortunately for me, all of my experience with the United Way has been from the side of the table where all the asking is being done. All you need to do is ask for X number of dollars and explain why this amount of money spent in a certain way will benefit the community.

But for me, if I had to sit at the other end of the table and be a part of the group deciding how the money will be divided, I don't think it would be nearly as easy as it looks. If it were simple to determine which groups were providing services that weren't really needed, then it might be a different story. But for example, when you are choosing between helping to match little brothers with big brothers, or providing counseling for young people who have run away from home, how do you decide which service is more important?

There is an effort underway to remind everyone on more than just an annual basis that the United Way is alive and well throughout the Thumb area. You can look for news releases in the paper mentioning the fact that your United Way contributions are hard at work each time a Red Cross class is offered and every time an Association for Retarded Citizens activity is held in the area.

I'm not sure if the comparison can be made, but some of us think of the church as only being active on Sunday. Some dedicated United Way volunteers would also like us to remember that the money we give helps to make things happen in our community more often than just one month out of the year.

"Strong beliefs win strong men, and then make them stronger." Walter Bagehot

Cancer volunteers ready for crusade

Volunteers with the Tuscola County Unit of the American Cancer Society are ushering in the month of April with their annual cancer crusade.

The crusade is the main fund raising drive of the American Cancer Society, and involves neighborhood volunteers ringing doorbells to collect money for the organization. During this time, 68,000,000 leaflets containing life-saving facts are distributed on a house-to-house and person-to-person basis across the country.

Serving as this year's crusade chairperson for the Cass City area is Ione H. Perry. She said, "People should not hesitate to ask the volunteer who comes to your home any question that you may have about the American Cancer Society, or the many services it offers. Through these contributions, we can continue our services and rehabilitation programs for patients and their families. The society can also continue its programs of public education and research."

Perry said the crusade organizers are urging people to take control of their lives through knowledge of good nutrition and by adopting a healthy life style. "Know your cancer warning signals, and if you find any one of them, see your physician," she said.

Perry said the Tuscola County Unit is participating in an effort to detect colorectal cancer. "Again this year, we are offering free colorectal screenings at Hills and Dales General Hospital and Caro Community Hospital April 29 through May 2. During that week, free take-home test kits may be obtained at the hospitals. The program is designed to help with the early detection of colorectal cancer, and persons 40 years of age and older should take advantage of this program," she said.

Perry said that progress is being made in the fight against cancer. "For years, no one spoke of a cure rate because the disease was assumed to be incurable. Today, these attitudes and situations have almost completely changed. It is now recognized that many types of cancer can be cured, if detected early, and treated properly. The cancer survival rate in the United States is about 46%. With our present knowledge and treatment, it would be possible to save at least 55% of all patients with cancer," she added.

Cause of fire remains unknown

Officials with the Elkland Township Fire Department are investigating the cause of a fire in an abandoned building near Deford Tuesday, April 1.

Tuscola County sheriff's deputies said the fire was reported at 6:40 p.m. in a building on Cemetery Road in Kingston Township.

Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. described the structure as an old, abandoned building which was 15 by 20 feet in size. Contacted last week, he said, "As of now, we are trying to determine who the owner of the property is." Since the building had no value, Root said no dollar amount of damage had been set. The cause of the fire remains under investigation.

Elkland Township firefighters spent about 90 minutes on the scene. There were no injuries reported.

	St. Columbkille mothers meet
	St. Columbkille's Mothers' monthly meeting was called to order March 18 by Pat Heleski, with 10 members present. The get-well committee had mailed several cards to parish members who were ill, and Father Pat O'Connor received two new vestments, which were partially funded by the group. A May Mass is being planned for the living members of the confraternity, to be followed by an open meeting for old and prospective new members. Church cleaning will be held in May to coincide with carpet cleaning. A committee was appointed to coordinate a church-wide rummage sale to be held this month, with baked goods and craft items available. A father-son banquet was discussed and tabled for a future meeting. Sister Carmella Conway presented a film, "How to Raise Parents...in these troubled times," by Dr. Clayton Barbeau. Punch and cookies were served after the meeting. Helen VanErp, Lorraine Holz and Agnes Heleski comprise the April committee.

Worried about having to choose a long-distance company?

There's lots of confusion these days over how, when, and why you must choose a long-distance company to handle your "one-plus" calls.

(Actually, many people have already chosen the long-distance company they want to use. And, of course, you may sign-up with companies serving your area anytime you wish.)

The confusion is coming from all the ads telling you that if you don't choose, someone else will do it for you. They're talking about the new service called "equal access." With equal access, you must choose the company you want to handle your direct dialed calls.

But don't panic. You don't have to do anything until you hear from us. Since we are the ones to make equal access available in your area, you can bet that nothing will happen until we've notified you.

(Some areas may never see equal access. That's because long-distance companies may choose not to offer the service in all locations.)

If your town is one of the ones to get the new service, we will send you all the information you need to make a decision...

We'll send you a package explaining the how, when, and why of equal access. It will tell you exactly what you must do. And when you must do it. In fact, it will even include a ballot to make it easier for you to notify us of your choice.

But, until then, you don't have to do a thing. So sit back, relax. Your long distance service will be the same tomorrow as it is today.

Federal lawmakers need to get moving on tax reform

Chuck Simon of Kingston is planning to send some money to Washington, D.C., in an effort to encourage lawmakers to get down to the business of tax reform.

The 76-year-old self-described political activist will not be sending a large contribution in the form of a check, but will be sending a total of 3 cents to the nation's capital. One cent will go to Senator Carl Levin. Another penny will be addressed to Congressman Bob Traxler and one cent will go to Senator Don Riegle.

Simon says the activity is part of a nation-wide effort organized by a group called Americans For a Common Sense Budget. He says the campaign is supported by the American Association of Retired Persons, the Advocates Senior Alert Process, and by the National Council of Senior Citizens, of which he is a member.

Simon said, "Senator Riegle is a member of the committee working on the budget, and now is the time to help him get real tax reform into the Senate bill. Members of many advocacy groups will be sending one penny to each of their 3 federal lawmakers. As I have been told, 3 cents may not be much, but it is more than all of the taxes paid last year by 50 of the largest, most profitable U.S. companies, and by hundreds of millionaires."

In addition to the budget, Simon feels there are not enough people concerned about the rising federal debt. "With the debt being where it is, this country is paying interest on that debt which is over $1 billion every other day. The bankers are making out alright, but taxpayers will have to pay for it eventually."

If something is not done to reduce the debt, Simon says, the current generation, as well as children and grandchildren, will be affected. "The debt affects us by reducing the benefits that the government has been providing in services to the public. Because the federal government is eliminating all those services, the cities and counties will be forced to pick them up," he said.

Simon is hoping that enough people will mail their 3 cents to Washington, in order to have an impact on the budget legislation. "I intend to send mine in soon," he added.

Coffee concerns still worry some

by Betty Pattullo
Extension Home Economist

Decaffeinated coffee has been on the market for several years now. "But, some people still worry about the possible health risk associated with the decaffeination process," states Betty Pattullo, Tuscola County Extension Home Economist.

A common process involves the use of a chemical called methylene chloride. This chemical, a popular industrial solvent, is a chlorinated hydrocarbon that is chemically related to other, demonstrated cancer-producing agents. Some hairsprays contain methylene chloride, which has caused cancer in animals when inhaled.

According to Mark Uebersax, associate professor of food science and human nutrition at Michigan State University, the use of methylene chloride in the decaffeination process is safe.

Inhaling methylene chloride and using it in decaffeination are two different things, Uebersax says. Inhalation of methylene is a direct exposure. In the decaffeination process, methylene chloride removes caffeine but doesn't remain in the finished coffee product. The low methylene chloride residues left from the decaffeination process are virtually insignificant, Uebersax says.

According to the Food and Drug Administration, the decaffeination process leaves residues below .1 part per million (ppm), far less than the permitted level of 10 ppm. The FDA says such low residual levels have a risk of less than one cancer per million, people over a lifetime of consumption, or virtually no risk to the public health.

Uebersax says a company's first concern is the safety of its product. Though the methylene chloride decaffeination process is essentially safe, many companies are putting consumers at ease by using the water process to decaffeinate coffee, even though it's not any safer. A disadvantage of the water process is that it removes more of the flavor compounds in coffee than the methylene chloride process.

The concept of food safety, as viewed by both scientists and government regulators, includes a constant comparison of risks and benefits. One must weigh the risks against the benefits when considering whether to consume or use something that may be harmful to health. It should be clear, however, that zero risk or absolute safety in any area, including food, is unattainable.

"I'm convinced in food and diet-related areas that variety and moderation in food intake is most important," continues Pattullo. For people who are concerned about their health and are also confused and bombarded with a constant flow of new and updated information about food products and chemicals they come into contact with, variety and moderation are probably the best guidelines available.

New books at the library

VATICAN by Malachi Martin (fiction). This novel is based on the Vatican's elaborate bureaucracy, in particular its powerful financial network, headed by a mysterious figure known as the Keeper. Another central figure, who gives the story its slant, is American Richard Lansing, who joins the Vatican as a young monsignor in 1945, and becomes the confidant of five successive popes. When he reaches the apex of his career, he staunchly opposes any church bargain with Mammon. The story encompasses the fall of Mussolini, the penetration of the Vatican by a Soviet mole, the murder of a pope in the Soviet interest (with help from Vatican officials), and other major events real or imagined.

MOTHERS AND MORE: AMERICAN WOMEN IN THE '50s by Eugenia Kaledin (non-fiction). Kaledin's study attempts to rescue women of the 1950s from their stereotypical image as unliberated, exploited housewives. Although women in the cold war era may have lacked a united voice, their individual accomplishments were numerous and impressive, especially in journalism, fiction, art, and scholarship. Female values, when applied politically and socially, translated into conviction and courage. Lillian Hellman outspokenly resisted McCarthyism; Eleanor Roosevelt strove to increase women's political awareness; black women braved racist mobs to integrate schools and enter universities, and volunteers founded organizations such as the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

SEASONS OF THE HEART by Cynthia Freeman (fiction). A youthful marriage frees Ann Pollock from an unhappy home life. While her mother-in-law doesn't initially welcome the shop girl her son loves, the thrifty bride soon proves her worth by supporting her in-laws after Phillip Coulter volunteers to serve in World War II. Crushed by the tortures of a Japanese prison camp, Phillip returns to civilian life to find his once-proud mother incapacitated by a stroke and his dreams of a bright future reduced to an ill-paying job as a law clerk. The birth of a daughter, Eva, brings joy to the Coulters, but as money worries mount, Ann takes a job in a real estate office despite her husband's objections. With each successful deal, the marriage becomes more hollow, and Ann is devastated when Phillip deserts her. Though a new love assuages her pain, that relationship disintegrates after a botched abortion leaves Eva sterile. The Coulters then reunite, and just when things start to work out, Phillip suffers a stroke, followed by Alzheimer's disease.

Project Green Field to benefit state farmers

A news conference was held in Caro last week to promote a 3-day fund raising music and fun festival designed to assist Michigan farmers in their fight against economic disaster. The effort is called Project Green Field.

The festival is scheduled for September 5-7, and will be held at the Ingham County fairgrounds in Mason. Sponsors said they expect to attract an audience of 150,000 people, and hope to raise up to $3 million through ticket sales, donations and sponsorships.

Public Relations Director Larry Wiater said the funds raised during the festival will be dispersed by the Michigan Farmers Union and the Michigan National Farmers Organization, which are both non-profit groups. He said farmers do not have to be a member of the MFU or the NFO to receive funds raised by Project Green Field.

According to Wiater, negotiations have been finalized for a number of well-known artists to perform during the festival. They include Ronnie McDowell, Jerry Lee Lewis, John Conlee and Mel Daniels. Tom T. Hall is scheduled to serve as a spokesperson for the recording stars.

Wiater said members of the Future Farmers of America (FFA), will be selling tickets on a statewide basis for Project Green Field. Each chapter will receive funds from the event by participating at this level.

Wiater said the theme for the project is "We need your greenbacks to put the green back in our farmers' fields." He said ticket prices vary from $8.00 per person to $60.00 for a family pass which is good for all 3 days of the festival.

Tickets may be purchased by calling toll-free at 1-800-368-0505. Donations can be sent to Project Green Field, P.O. Box 23033, Lansing, MI, 48909.

Americans eat more than twice as much food sold in glass jars as do all the rest of the people in the world.

HEALTH TIPS Reconstructive surgery becoming more popular

When a woman learns that she has breast cancer, she may not be able to think ahead to life after treatment. Yet, someday it may be useful to know that more and more women who have lost one or both breasts to cancer are choosing to have breast reconstructive surgery.

Also known as "reconstructive mammoplasty," breast reconstruction is a safe and relatively simple procedure in which an implant is inserted under the skin in place of the missing breast. The implants consist of breast-shaped sacs filled with either silicon gel, salt solution, or both.

Though the new breast will not look exactly like a natural breast when naked, it will feel very similar and will look normal under clothes or bathing suits. Plastic surgeons do their best to match the remaining breast in size and shape, but it may be different from your original shape. In some cases a new nipple can be made from the other nipple or from dark skin on the genital lips or upper thigh.

How easy the reconstruction will be will depend on the extent of your mastectomy. A woman whose chest muscles were not removed during the operation usually can have the implant inserted in less than an hour and leave the hospital the next day. If the mastectomy was extensive, however, the reconstruction may take several operations.

This may require additional hospitalization.

Doctors' opinions vary as to how long you should wait after a mastectomy to have implants done. Some say five years, some two, and some say only as long as it takes for your mastectomy scar to heal and soften. Also, like any surgery, there are risks to be weighed against the benefits. There is a small chance of infection or blood clots, and the body may try to reject the implant. Sometimes, implants need to be replaced due to leakage.

On the whole, however, breast implants properly done are medically safe. Although women may worry that the implants will hide a new cancerous growth, most doctors feel that this should not be a concern and that the implants themselves do not make you more susceptible to cancer.

Not all women want breast reconstruction and may choose instead breast prostheses or artificial breasts, which are made to resemble natural breasts.

Your doctor, the local county medical society, local hospital, or the American Cancer Society will probably be able to recommend competent plastic surgeons that perform breast reconstruction.

Celery was known in many ancient civilizations. The early Chinese brewed a medicinal tea from it which was supposed to cure stomach troubles.

Letter to the editor

Erickson addresses Board of Education

Dear John:
Place this in your letters to the editor column.

Dear Cass City Board of Education:

I was requested by our Board of Education in Owen-Gage to express our appreciation for meeting with us last Monday. Though the meeting was not very productive it's just good policy for board members of adjacent school districts to chat occasionally and compare notes.

I personally enjoyed some of the one-on-one discussion after the meeting and would like to address some of the questions and concerns that I heard.

When Mr. Donald Crouse said he would not fight any decision by the State Board of Education on property transfers, I think he was very wrong. If Cass City were to lose 25% of its school district land, like we have, I believe that the taxpayers would demand something be done to protect your schools.

Mr. Crouse also said that the money spent on each child's education in Cass City is very low. Well, I'm not surprised! The tuition rate at Cass City for the property transfer students is quite low. I think it is only $1.00. So obviously there is less money for the Cass City children.

Don also said that no agreement made in our Lansing meetings or the Flint meetings were binding. It's really not a good idea to send a person to negotiate whose word cannot be trusted. But I think many of your residents are already aware of his integrity or lack of.

Finally, Donnie stated in the March 25th issue of the Bay City Times that "There's no use for another meeting" between the Boards of Education.

Real nice Donnie, but I think that the decision should be made by the Cass City and Owen-Gage Boards of Education, not you. Remember, you can resign and leave in a few years but the bitterness you have generated between the districts will still be around. Stealing our land has not improved your district but it has certainly hurt ours.

Sincerely,
Ronald G. Erickson

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the Cass City district, tuition students are eligible for state aid and do not dilute educational funds from students in the district. In Owen-Gage, a tuition student accepted at less than the cost of the amount of money spent on each pupil would result in less for the remaining children in the district as Owen-Gage receives no state aid as an out-of-formula district.

PUTTING THEIR SPRING BREAK to good use last week were (left) Ron Briggs, 10, and Justin Briggs, 8, of 4195 S. West Street. The brothers went door-to-door along Houghton Street asking for odd jobs to be done. They said the money earned will be used to fix up a motorcycle.

Applications for Youth Corps accepted at many locations

Applications for the 1986 Michigan Youth Corps program are being accepted at hundreds of locations throughout the state, Governor James J. Blanchard announced recently.

The 1986 Youth Corps program will provide jobs and valuable work experience to 12,500 unemployed 18-to 21-year-old men and women in all 83 Michigan counties. Applications will be taken beginning this month, with work projects starting June 2. The program ends Sept. 31.

"Thanks to the far-sightedness of the Michigan legislature, which enacted legislation last summer ensuring the 1986 program, we are able to begin the Youth Corps earlier than ever this year," the Governor said. "An early start-up of the application process will help ensure that many of the 80,000 18-to 21-year-olds facing a jobless summer find employment."

Applications are available at all Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESOC) offices, Service Delivery Area agencies, Department of Social Services local offices, community colleges, colleges and universities.

Youth Corps jobs give youths a chance to earn up to $1,000 during the summer at $3.35 an hour. They also earn valuable work experience and help improve, repair and beautify Michigan through work at hundreds of sites in parks, offices, schools, community centers, hospitals, daycare centers and along rivers, lakes, drains and highways.

The Youth Corps, the largest state-sponsored summer jobs program in the nation, was established by Governor Blanchard and the legislature in 1983. It has provided 60,000 jobs to youths during the past three summers.

MIES holds project fair

A Project Fair for industrial education students in a 14-county mid-Michigan region, which includes Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron Counties, will be held at the Essexville Garber High School April 25-27.

Student competition in 14 divisions of projects will be featured and displayed. Both senior and junior high school students will create the projects.

The craft divisions include architectural, electrical, graphic arts, machine shop, mechanical drawing and models. There will also be patternmaking, molding, plastics, woods, wrought metal, and an open division.

First through fourth place awards will be made in each division, with the winners going to state competition in May. Students from 122 schools will participate.

The fair is open to the public Saturday, April 26, from 1:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. and on Sunday, April 27, from noon until 4:00 p.m.

The regional fair is a state-wide project of the Michigan Industrial Education Society.

Counties participating include Tuscola, Sanilac, Huron, Saginaw and Gratiot in region 11, and Bay, Midland, Isabella, Clare, Gladwin, Arenac, Roscommon, Ogemaw and Iosco in region 12.

Meals on Wheels driver enters her 5th year

Though it's volunteer work, the rewards are far more than money can buy for Georgene Hurd who is a driver for Meals on Wheels, a program which brings food to homebound individuals.

Hurd started out as a volunteer driver, taking senior citizens to the store and doctor. One day, 5 years ago, she was asked if she could fill in for someone for just a day and she's been a driver for Meals on Wheels ever since.

She drives 4 days a week, usually leaving the house at 11 a.m. and returning sometime after one. She serves the Cass City area which encompasses 28 people right now. This means about 18 stops because some of the recipients are husband and wife.

Hurd finds her job the most rewarding thing that she has ever done. "It's a wonderful program," she said. "I've seen it do wonders for people; they've had one foot on a banana peel and the other in the grave and I've seen them go up, up and up."

She said that it's exciting knowing they enjoy her visit so much, adding that with many of them a word makes all the difference.

"I was shocked when I started and saw how alone some of them were," Hurd's visit, often only a few minutes long, gives them something to look forward to, someone to talk to. She only comes during the week and she said that some of them can't wait until the weekend is over, because they know that at least one person is coming.

Hurd is modest about what she does, stressing that she doesn't want any credit. She does it simply because she loves both what the program does and the people it helps.

The meals come from the Mayville mealsite and she picks them up at the Commission on Aging in Cass City. The front and back of her car are completely loaded with the meals and she said that they are always piping hot right down to the last stop. On Thursday she takes some people frozen dinners for the weekend.

They're almost always waiting for her. "Most leave the door unlocked," she remarked.

On those rare occasions when she can't drive, her husband Les sometimes fills in.

Meals on Wheels has been in operation close to 8 years. Recipients of the food live in both the city and country and must be at least 60 years old. Some have had strokes or have eye trouble. Often the hospital recommends that they receive the meals, then a social worker visits the home and makes sure that they are eligible for the program. The meals are free but they can pay if they want to, "some do, some don't," Hurd said.

"Some of them are so lonely it's pathetic, this program makes all the difference."

Break-in at Snover reported

State police at the Sandusky post are continuing their investigation of a breaking and entering reported Thursday at a house near Snover.

Troopers said the break-in occurred at the home of Gary and Cathy Chard, located at 4979 West Downing Road, in Lamotte Township. Entry was gained to the house by thieves forcing open a side door.

Reported as stolen were items valued at nearly $3,600. They included a stereo and related sound equipment, a video cassette recorder, and several shotguns, rifles and long guns.

Troopers believe the break-in to the Snover area home occurred Thursday between 6:30 a.m. and 3:45 p.m.

Anyone who may have information about the crime is asked to contact the Sandusky post of the Michigan State Police.

Ubly blood drive superior

"The best blood program in all of Huron County." That's how an official with the American Red Cross Blood Services Division in Flint describes the blood collection program in Ubly, which is run entirely by high school students in the Future Homemakers of America-Home Economics Related Occupations, (FHA-HERO).

One of the stabilizing forces behind the successful operation is Mrs. Donna Sageman, who is in her 21st year of teaching home economics in the Ubly schools, and has helped guide the local FHA-HERO chapter with its blood program since 1975. "The Huron County Red Cross blood chairman approached the Ubly chapter 11 years ago, and asked the group to coordinate the blood drives in Ubly," Sageman said. "We were told by Mrs. Nancy Thummell that only about 25 units of blood were being collected in Ubly, and she needed a group to take over the program so that more blood could be collected."

Since the FHA-HERO has taken over the project, Sageman said the lowest number of blood units collected was 49, and that was on a stormy day in 1975. The most the chapter has collected is 89 units in September of last year.

Those large numbers bring a big smile to the face of Peggy Lawrence, who serves as the American Red Cross Regional Consultant to Huron County in the blood services division. She said, "Donna Sageman is superior, and the FHA-HERO members always do incredible. Not long ago, the Red Cross had to increase the quota for its 6-hour blood drives, and they were happy to meet the challenge. The goal was increased from 65 to 75 units, and they responded by collecting 81 units of blood!"

Lawrence is also a coordinator for blood drives in the Flint area. "For a community the size of Ubly to consistently draw at least 75 pints of blood is remarkable. I work with other communities 10 times as large as Ubly, and sometimes, they don't even reach 75. I am real proud of Donna and her group, and they never let us down," Lawrence said.

Red Cross officials said the group in Ubly has been recognized regionally for its consistent effort. The blood drives in the Huron County community reached 116% of their goal last year.

The Ubly FHA-HERO chapter is the only group in Ubly that works on the blood drive. In many communities, the responsibility will be shared by 2 or 3 organizations, or it will be done on a rotating basis.

In most cases, the Red Cross likes to give the title of bloodmobile coordinator to one person in the community. But Sageman says she likes to think of the girls in the FHA-HERO as the coordinators of the drives. "The chapter members take care of all the publicity by taping radio spots 2 weeks ahead of each drive, by placing posters in businesses and churches, and by writing articles for the local newspapers and the school paper. They also send a flyer home with each elementary school family, place announcements on the school's intercom system, send postcards to 200 donors, and call the donors 2 or 3 days before each drive."

Sageman says the members of the group are also kept busy during the day of the drive. "They take care of the registration of the donors, supervise a nursery, label the blood bags, walk donors to the refreshment table, and operate the canteen. Some of the students also give blood themselves. After the drive is over, the members write notes of appreciation to the nurses who gave their time, and announcements are written for the school intercom and newspapers."

Despite the long list of activities, members of the Ubly FHA-HERO feel that their advisor does more than they do. Chapter President Maggie Woolner said, "Mrs. Sageman is a whole lot more than an advisor to us. I think she is more like a second mom. She guides us in the various steps of the blood drives, and is always there to remind us when different things need to be done. I think some people take for granted the numerous things she does."

Sageman points to blood donors like Marion Wojtyniak, David Herrington and Gilbert Maurer, who are like the backbone of the successful drives in Ubly. Maurer is the office manager at the Thumb Electric Cooperative in Ubly, and started giving blood on a dare in May, 1971. Since then, he has become a 5-gallon blood donor. Maurer said, "Myself and another person at work were not really that interested in giving blood, so we agreed that each of us would give only if the other one would. It turned out that she was going to have a baby and was not able to give, but I was able to give my first pint of blood that day. Up until then, I had never thought about giving blood, but now, I try to encourage new employees and others to give. The blood is definitely needed, and it only takes about 30-45 minutes of your time."

Sageman says the Ubly blood program is very fortunate to have good support from the schools and businesses in the area. "We have many teachers, administrators and students who give regularly. Some of the students go on to college, and continue to give blood in drives that are held there. We also have a great deal of cooperation with the Thumb Electric Cooperative which donates the use of its basement where the drives are held."

Sageman says members of the Ubly FHA-HERO chapter have been able to use the blood program for what the group calls an "Impact Project." She said, "This makes an excellent project because it involves all of the members in several different ways, and is serving a need in the community. It's an opportunity for members to develop responsibility and leadership. On top of that, they feel the esteem of being part of a successful endeavor."

Although the American Red Cross does not keep track of individual bags of blood, the units collected in Ubly are used in hospitals throughout the Thumb area. Blood drives are held in Ubly 4 times during the school year: in September, November, January and April.

The date of April 16 is circled on Sageman's calendar, which marks the return of the bloodmobile to Ubly from 1:00 until 7:00 p.m. By that date, all of the postcards will be sent; the announcements will be made, and the cookies will be baked. But the advisor to the FHA-HERO chapter says there is at least one other activity she is looking forward to. "I hope to give my 22nd pint of blood during the drive in April," she added.

Hospital's final ADEC program set for Monday

The Hills and Dales General Hospital's Alcohol and Drug Education Campaign (ADEC) will present its final program in the community awareness series Monday, April 14, at the Rawson Memorial Library.

The film entitled "Lots of Kids Like Us" will be shown beginning at 7:30 p.m. Statistics show that one of every 4 persons in the United States is affected by someone else's use of alcohol or other drugs.

Sponsors of the campaign say children who care about someone who drinks too much often blame themselves for the problem, and they learn not to trust, feel or talk about their problems. They say adults who care about children can help by learning about chemical dependency and its effects on other family members.

Following Monday's program, refreshments will be served by members of the Cass City Retired Persons group.

New track coach eyes return to top for Hawks

Last season the Cass City High School girls' track team failed to win the Thumb B Association title for the first time in 6 years, finishing second to Vassar.

This year Coach Larry Robinson sees Vassar as one of the teams to beat in a wide open conference race. It's sure that Robinson would like nothing better than to return Cass City to the throne in his first year as coach. While Robinson is new to the head coaching position this year, he is far from being a rookie. He spent 6 years as head coach of boys' track in Sandusky and for 7 years has been the junior high boys' coach in Cass City.

Robinson can look to some proven performers returning to anchor the team this season.

Chris Tuckey is strong in the distances and Robinson says that she is a leader as well as a solid competitor. Gilly Bryant is sure to win points in the middle distances. Others pointed to by the coach as keys to a successful season include Tracy Grindey in the hurdles and high jump; Joann Steely in the sprints and shotput; Ann Leslie in the sprints and Lisa Nicholas in the hurdles and quarter mile.

Gone from last year is Holly Steinbauer, who as a freshman last year was one of the best sprinters in the league. She has moved to Frankenmuth. Also missing is Karianne Henni, an exchange student, who was strong in the distances. Robinson is also without several girls that failed to report for track this spring.

The team will undoubtedly be helped by the freshmen who have joined the team from last season's undefeated junior high squad. They include Darlene Monroe, who set 2 junior high hurdle records, and Cindy Powell, who skied 4-9 in the high jump to set another junior high record.

Third row: Christine Britt, Chris Tuckey, Joan Steeley, Beth Cleland, Gilly Bryant, Ruby Bryant. Missing are Ann Leslie, Dawn Edzik, Andrea Isard, Laura Stine, Tracy Grindey and Ingrid Shepard.

Judge hears pleas from 2 brothers

Two Cass City brothers entered pleas of guilty to unlawful use of a motor vehicle and conspiracy to commit unlawful use of a motor vehicle, Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Timothy and Trevor Gyfar, of 4580 Hill St., had their pleas accepted by Judge Patrick Joslyn. Sentencing date for Timothy, 20, is May 12 and Trevor, 19, is scheduled for sentencing May 19. Timothy had his bond reduced to $5,000 personal recognizance and Trevor had a bond of $2,000 continued. The brothers were involved in the taking of 2 snowmobiles off a trailer in Elkland Township Feb. 21, 1986.

John Welch, 27, of Vassar, entered a plea of not guilty to charges of embezzlement over $100 and conspiracy to commit embezzlement over $100. Bond was ordered continued and a pre-trial date of April 21 was set. Welch is charged with embezzling auto transmission parts from DAB Interiors over a 4-year period.

Brian Reil, 21, of Vassar, pleaded guilty to charges of felonious assault and reckless driving. Sentence date was scheduled for April 28 and a $30,000 bond was set. Charges stem from an incident in Vassar Township Dec. 19 in which Reil ran a police vehicle off the road. Roy Hussan, 20, of Caro, was sentenced to 3 years probation and sentenced to 90 days in the County Jail with 90 days deferred. He was also given 20 days credit. He was ordered to pay restitution of $282.01, a fine of $300 and costs of $300. Sentencing stems from a charge of breaking and entering an unoccupied building in Caro Jan. 26.

Ronald Carter, 19, of Vassar, entered a plea of guilty to a probation violation and it was accepted by the court. His probation is continued. He was ordered to present the judge a written plan for his future on June 2.

Terry Czekai, 20, of 7279 Elmwood Rd., was granted a motion for expert fees. He requests the analysis of his handwriting as it pertains to a charge of embezzlement from the Quaker Maid dairy store Dec. 14, 1984.

Herd buyout looks good

The response to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's whole herd buyout program looks favorable for Michigan dairy farmers, according to Michigan Farm Bureau commodity specialist Kevin Kirk.

"The impact is going to be very positive for the dairy industry with a decrease in production over the next few months," Kirk said. "Consumption is up about 3% nationally. The biggest concern now is that farmers may see a green light to go ahead and add 10% to their production or increase their herd numbers 10% to 15%.

"If they do that, we will be right back to where we were six months ago with excess production. Dairy farmers must be conservative and not add cows," he said.

The USDA set a nationwide bid of $22.50 per hundredweight and accepted every bid under that, but actual bids accepted varied from state to state. Michigan's average bid was $15.24.

Assessments on all milk sales against dairy farmers who remain in the business will raise about 38% of the funds to pay for the whole herd buyout. The remainder will be paid from the general treasury.

Hobart receives MSU award

Scott B. Hobart, son of Benson E. and Jeannine Hobart, is this year's recipient of the Outstanding Senior in Food Systems Economics and Management from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at Michigan State University.

A senior majoring in Food Systems Economics and Management, Hobart has been involved in many university and college activities including Phi Delta Theta Fraternity-steward, chaplain, awards, and philanthropy, undergraduate teaching assistant, project chairman-National Agri-Marketing Association, MSU professional internship program, and Agricultural Communicators of Tomorrow club. Hobart is a 1982 graduate of Cass City High School. The award was presented at the March 4, College of Agriculture and Natural Resources Honors Banquet. This annual event presents nearly 150 awards to recipients in 18 academic areas who have demonstrated outstanding scholastic and/or leadership involvement within their college or department.

Few veterans on track squad

It appears as if new head track coach Dave Bitzer will have his work cut out for him this spring if the Hawks are to improve on last year's 4th place finish in the Thumb B Association.

Cass City lost its 2 top point producers last season. Joe Viney was the sprint man and Kevin Bliss the runner Cass City could depend on in the distance events.

Bitzer can turn to Greg Erla in the sprints, but distance events promise to be a big problem unless one of the freshmen up from last season's undefeated junior squad can fill the gap.

A bright spot for the new coach is Randy Teichman a senior letter winner who competes in the quarter mile, relays, high jump and pole vault. Ken Pasanski counted on in the relays and the sprints.

Bitzer feels that Vassar the league's defending champions, will again be the team to beat.

A better line on this year's team will come April 17 when the Hawks open the season at home against Ba

Increases in store for those who buy hunting and fishing licenses

1986 hunting and fishing licenses are now on sale at all Department of Natural Resources (DNR) District offices.

The licenses, which replace those that expired March 31, reflect price increases for non-residents which were approved by the State Legislature, and require residents to pay $1 for passbooks.

In addition, spouses will have to buy individual fishing licenses, except spouses of senior citizens (age 65 or older). Previously, spouses could fish on one license.

Other fee increases approved by the Legislature will go into effect April 1, 1987.

The sales of 1986 hunting and fishing licenses, which normally commence

March 1, were delayed in anticipation of legislative approval of a bill which reorganized the license package and upped some fees. Other changes include:

*A trapping license has been replaced by a fur harvesters license, and a tag is also required of those who hunt fur bearing animals.

*Non-residents will be able to trap for the first time, a provision limited to the next three years unless extended by the Legislature.

*Firearms and archery deer hunters will be permitted to purchase a second, bucks-only, license during the appropriate seasons, but only in the Lower Peninsula for archery deer.

*The trout and salmon stamp was added to the overall price of the "Sportsman's" license (in addition to gun and archery deer, small game and fishing privileges), and its name was changed to "Sportspersons" license.

*Non-residents will be able to buy a new three-day small-game license tag instead of an annual small-game tag.

*The age at which a hunter will need a state duck stamp for waterfowl hunting was raised from 12 to 16.

*All duck and deer hunters using state managed waterfowl areas will pay a $3 daily or $10 annual usage fee (if they are successful in drawings for permits or blind sites).

*A $3 non-refundable application fee will be charged for Hunter's Choice deer permits (doe permits) turkey licenses and pre-registered hunts on managed waterfowl areas.

*The Report All Poaching (RAP) fee which is added to each license will rise from 25 cents to 35 cents April 1, 1987.

*The Public Access Stamp, a $1.10 fee that hunters in southern Michigan paid to finance leasing of private lands for hunting access, is eliminated. Instead, 35 cents from each hunting license sold in southern Michigan will go into a special fund which will finance that program.

*Those purchasing the Salmon-snagging stamp will no longer have to buy a trout and salmon stamp unless fishing for those species outside the legal snagging zones.

*License agents will receive 8 percent of the total cost of the licenses they sell.

ATV's no longer allowed on roads

The Michigan Department of State will no longer register three-wheel All-Terrain Vehicles (ATVs) for use on Michigan roads. The department took this action because of the rapidly rising death rate for ATV operators and after being warned by manufacturers of the dangers of operating ATVs on paved surfaces.

In the past, modified three-wheel ATVs could be registered and used on roads as motorcycles. This option is no longer available. Owners can still register their ATVs for off-road use.

Three-wheel ATVs have a live axle drive system which causes them to lose stability when driven on paved surfaces. This loss of stability could result in an accident and cause serious injury or death. According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, in 1984 at least 16 people died in ATV-related accidents in Michigan. Ten of these people were under age 15.

The vehicles affected have balloon tires. Major manufacturers include Honda, Yamaha, Kawasaki, Suzuki and Polaris. Sales of ATVs have increased tremendously in the last few years with over 1.5 million units sold nationwide.

Four-wheel ATVs have not been allowed on Michigan roads since 1984.

Leaping grasshoppers!

How high can a grasshopper leap? Nearly 10 feet, thanks to a rubber band-like protein called resilin stored in a grasshopper's knees, reports International Wildlife magazine. Resilin has a returning stored energy value of 97 percent, which means a ball made of the substance would bounce nearly as high as you threw it.
