Fire razes home

High winds Thursday helped to fan a house fire at the Manley Humes residence, 1574 S. Colwood Rd., Caro.

The Elkland Township Fire Department assisted the Caro Fire Department in fighting the blaze which caused $50,000 damage to the residence.

According to Caro Fire Chief Dave Mattlin, the house was engulfed in flames when they arrived on the scene. He believes the fire started in the utility room and was electrical in nature.

Humes received burns to his face and hair when he tried to shut doors in the house. He was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital. No other injuries were reported.

In other action, Elkland Township fire fighters responded to a 6:33 p.m. alarm Tuesday, April 29, at the home of Jessie Wilson, 5002 E. Cass City Rd.

According to Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., a chimney fire caused a small amount of damage to the crawl space but the chimney was a total loss with damages totaling $500-600. The fire fighters were on the scene one hour.

O-G seeks all Goslin parcel back

The Owendale-Gagetown School District has submitted a second petition to the Huron County Intermediate School Board seeking recovery for "Goslin" property that was transferred 11 years ago from Owen-Gage to the Cass City School District.

The petition will be reviewed by the joint Huron and Tuscola County Intermediate District boards (TISD). The first petition will not be reviewed.

Submitted several months ago was a request for all property in the "Goslin" district that did not have owners living on the land.

The deadline for reviewing this application passed and the issue will automatically be passed on to the State Board of Education for decision.

In previous decisions the state has placed the land in the Cass City District.

After Owen-Gage and Cass City failed to reach any agreement at a joint meeting, Owen-Gage submitted a request for the rest of the land in the "Goslin" district to the HISD. HISD Director F. James McBride said that he has submitted a few tentative dates to the Tuscola board for a meeting to decide the second request.

In any case, it must be decided by June 14. Please turn to page 18.

A THURSDAY MORNING FIRE destroyed the Manley Humes residence at 1574 S. Colwood Rd. High winds fanned the flames and the home was engulfed when fire fighters arrived on the scene.

Tuttle wins coin flip to return to village council

A flip of the coin filled the trustee vacancy on the Cass City Village Council Tuesday evening, April 29. The spot was vacated when council member Larry Davis was elected president. There were two nominations to the spot, Nat Tuttle and Jude Patnaude. A vote was taken and the results were 3 and 3. Discussion was held and visiting Prosecuting Attorney Bill Bond suggested a secret ballot which was tried, but resulted in another tie. Finally it was agreed that the only fair way to decide was to flip a coin. Village Clerk Joyce LaRoche tossed the coin and heads named Nat Tuttle to the spot. "I just retired and I'll have time to devote to it. I hope to do the job that's expected," said Tuttle.

In other business the Council agreed to paint and repair the water tower at a cost to the village of $6,500. The work will be done by O'Dess Steeple Jacks out of Oxford. The firm will paint the exterior and water blast and wax coat the interior of the tower.

The Council also agreed to improve the downtown lighting situation. Thirty-six lamps will be replaced on Main St. from Downing St. to Ale St. and north and south on Seeger to the first alleys.

The new lamps will increase wattage from 400 to 1000 watts at an added cost of $4,609.80 annually. "It's a good investment," said Mike Weaver. "I think it will improve the downtown." Elwyn Helwig said that they looked into several options and that replacing the lamps was the best way to go.

At a request from Jim Turner and Tom Kelly it was agreed to procure bids for a fence around the girls Little League baseball diamond not to exceed $2,000.

The fence would run from home base to first and from home base to third and would include some benches.

Also announced was the transfer of Ken Schott from the police department to the wastewater treatment plant. He will replace Nelson Willy, who is retiring May 5.

Dorothy Stahlbaum and Lynda McIntosh are on the Memorial Day Parade committee and anyone who is interested in entering the parade should contact them.

Street improvements were discussed but no decisions were made on specific streets. "I think we're making good progress on our streets," said Larry Davis.

One visitor attended the meeting. Prosecutor Bill Bond told the council that he would like his face to be known in the area and hopes to be more available to the public.

United Way funds allotted

The Board of Directors of Elkland-Novesta United Way, at its recent spring meeting, allocated funds from the 1985 campaign. A total of over $17,000 was raised, in cash and pledges, during last fall's drive. As always, the first project for the year was the distribution of over $1,200 worth of food baskets to needy families during the holidays.

More than $12,000 was distributed at the board session. Allocations were approved as follows:

American Association of University Women - $125.
Boys' Little League - $1,500.
Cub Scouts - $250.
Girls' Little League - $600.
Girl Scouts - $800.
Pony League - $200.
Rawson Memorial Library - $1,200.
Tom Thumb Singers - $500.
Village Bach Festival - $350.
Village Park Program - $2,000.
Tuscola United Way - $5,000.

The Tuscola County United Way works with a total budget of over $40,000 and is jointly supported by the local United Way organizations. It also receives funds from other sources. A supplementary allocation to the county organization was authorized later in the year as additional money becomes available from pledges and pay-roll deduction plans in operation.

Certificates of appreciation were voted by the board to larger contributors during the 1985 campaign. They are General Cable Company, Hills and Dales Hospital, United Parcel Service and Walbro Corporation.

Officers who will serve the Elkland-Novesta United Way during the 1986-87 year are: president, Jude Patnaude; vice-president, Harry Capps; secretary, Marge Curtis; and treasurer, Florence Karr.

Patnaude replaces Arthur Holmberg, who has been president for 3 years and decided it "was time for someone else to take over."

Holmberg has been on the United Way board for many years and says that he enjoyed his work with United Way volunteers.

7 townships resist school request for tax interest

A year ago in May the board of the Cass City School District decided that township clerks should pay taxes collected for the school on the Monday following collection or pay interest on the funds.

The decision was reached after a ruling in a Grand Rapids court indicated that the district was entitled to the money.

A letter was sent to the 11 township clerks asking them to sign an agreement saying that the money would be turned over to the district so that interest would not be paid.

Now, 12 months later, only 4 townships have agreed to the proposal and one of these have added a stipulation.

The request was no strain for Greenleaf Township which had not been investing funds collected prior to turning money over to the district.

Kingston Township okayed the agreement and is turning money over to the school on the Monday following collection. Elmwood signed the agreement but stipulated that $5,000 must be accumulated before the money is deposited with the school. Columbia Township, which has little Cass City District property, agreed to turn the money over, but has signed for just one year.

The remainder of the districts have done nothing.

The seven remaining townships have not signed the agreement.

They included Almer, Columbia, Novesta, Elkland, Grant, Evergreen and Ellington.

Novesta Township has always turned funds over to the school every 2 weeks and officials said they will continue that schedule.

Although the court ruling indicated that townships are required to turn the money over to the schools at once and that any interest collected on school tax funds belongs to the schools, the issue is still controversial.

There has been speculation that the townships can charge the districts for collecting the money. Ultimately that issue would also be decided in the courts, most observers believe.

"If It Fitz..."

After dinner torture

By Jim Fitzgerald

My friends were surprised for three reasons: (1) I gave a speech; (2) I gave it at a stag party, and (3) I gave it to a group of known killers.

An explanation was demanded and I blamed it all on Preston Mann, a little old fat guy who owns a hunting preserve for rich people in Lapeer County, where I lived in poverty for 25 years. My speech was part of a roast of Mann, and I'd put up with anything for a chance to insult him.

The main reason I dislike giving speeches is they are usually part of a banquet program that lasts too long. After dinner, I like a nap, not a treasurer's report, introduction of special guests, minutes of the last meeting and remarks from the present president, immediate past president and incoming president. After which the main speaker speaks, if he can still stay awake, and then the program chairman takes 15 minutes to say the survivors can finally go home.

In recent years, roasts have become a popular form of this after-dinner torture. The idea is that 10 people take three minutes each to say nasty things about the roastee. The terrible reality is that half the 10 people take 20 minutes each.

The Mann roast began with cold drinks at 6 p.m. and ended with numb buns five hours later. The absence of women encouraged the boys to leap all barriers against sexist and profane jokes. As a supporter of women's lib, I had mixed feelings. I thought Mann's wife and other female friends should have been invited to see him roasted, however obscenely. But I also wanted to apologize to the waitresses.

The party was a fundraiser — $100 per ticket — for the Ruffed Grouse Society. Four hundred men attended, many of them members of Mann's hunting preserve club. Certainly I was the only person there who wouldn't recognize a ruffed grouse if it dropped on my shoes. But I did recognize that if a ruffed grouse were alive, and Preston Mann held it up in front of their guns, most of the audience would pay him to let them kill it.

I am anti-killing-for-fun, also anti-speeches and anti-stag-parties. But still I couldn't resist the opportunity to get even with Preston Mann. He has been insulting me for 30 years. A typical example is this Mann quote from a Flint Journal interview:

"Jim Fitzgerald is a maudlin shanty Irishman apt to burst into tears any moment over Bambi. He's an intellectual bully who writes too much against hunting and fishing."

So it was a pleasure to tell the assembled killers that a hunting preserve is an outdoor butcher shop. Birds and fish are stocked so customers can order what they want. All they have to do is kill it — and pay for it. At Mann's place, he'll charge you for swatting a mosquito. And some of the birds are trained to fly into your pocket and commit suicide.

Any hunter who goes home from a hunting preserve empty-handed shouldn't feel any dumber than the husband who lost the grocery list.

Mann says if I don't enjoy killing animals, I shouldn't eat the meat produced by slaughterhouses. My answer is that if a man who slugs a cow in the head enjoys his work, he needs therapy. Mann says it's good therapy to kill 50 birds an hour at a hunting preserve because it allows the killer to release aggressions and relieve tensions.

I guess it would be good therapy for slaughterhouse workers to break into McDonald franchises late at night and set hamburgers free.

Anyway, it was good therapy for me to say stuff like that at the Mann roast. And Mann's retort was typically honest: "There is something weird about anyone who doesn't enjoy killing anything."

The guy actually thinks he's in a respectable business. What's really weird is that I like him anyway.

CHAIRMAN OF THE Thumb Area UAW CAP Council Donn Mosher presented Cass City High School with a "labor library" Friday. Accepting the gift is librarian Jacquie Zawilinski.

High school presented with "labor library"

The United Auto Workers (UAW) celebrates its 50th anniversary this year and in conjunction with this event, the Thumb Area CAP Council, directed by Donn Mosher, announced the start of a program to place a "Labor Library" in area high schools.

The UAW, through its Education and Community Action Program (CAP) Departments, have selected 10 high schools in the 4-county area. The schools were selected by blind draw and include Cass City High School.

The "Labor Library" consists of 11 books representing the labor movement over the past 50 years and its accomplishments and failures. A sampling of the books that record these trials and tribulations are:

Working Detroit; Without Fear of Favor; Sit Down, The GM Strike of 1936-1937; Corporate Flight, The Causes and Consequences of Economic Dislocation and Fear at Work.

"The labor community represents not only the factory worker, (20,000 in the 4-county area) but teachers, nurses, police officers, postal employees and many more working people, each with their unique problems and needs and each union with their own place in the history of the labor movement. We feel a social responsibility to make available to the young people of our communities, references, such as the "Labor Library," said Mosher.

Cass City High School Librarian Jacquie Zawilinski said that at a conservative estimate the books are worth $120-150.

Alvin R. Burke, 59, of Decker was eastbound on E. Cass City Rd., 1/2 mile east of Crawford Rd., Wednesday night when he was unable to avoid a deer.

Every time it happens there's a vow never to let it happen again.

The editorial trail led me to the school to picture prize winning woodworking projects (see story, this issue) and with it came the inevitable envy of persons with the talent to create functional, beautiful furniture from pieces of wood.

What's frustrating is that it recalls my year in shop in high school and how I got through by soliciting the help of a friend when the teacher wasn't looking.

I wasn't a total klutz. I was great at sanding. Varnishing was a little beyond me. (My wife still won't let me touch a paint brush around the house.)

The Haire Net

Chances are that 9 out of 10 persons who try to win places on school boards do it for 2 reasons. The first is that there is an opening on the board and someone convinces them that it is their public duty to take over.

The second reason is that the person has an axe to grind with the school and snorting fire, they attempt to get on the board so they can address the problem.

Many of the real radicals are weeded out at the polls. Voters usually are turned off by far-out positions.

In the vast majority of cases the one-issue candidates that are elected change their views when they get on the inside and see the overall picture.

Not always. Issues that surface periodically in many schools are the separation of church and state and the books that are purchased for the school library.

A few years ago, Cass City was challenged for its books, one of which was a book that contained reference to marijuana. It wasn't banned, finally, but it and several other school books were placed in a special section.

The issue surfaced again in the Plymouth-Canton school district where 2 persons are running for the school board because they want to restore Christian beliefs to board actions, according to a story in a Detroit daily.

The candidates want creationism taught as described in the Bible.

Second, they want books on witchcraft banned from the school library, although all the books have been approved by the American Library Association.

The candidates say they suspect cultism is being practiced by students in the high schools.

It's certain that these positions will attract a sizeable following.

It would be surprising if it were a majority.

That's because the separation of church and state has worked well for this country since it was founded and the average resident wants it protected. Teaching Christianity in public schools ignores the rights of the students who belong to other faiths. Imagine the outcry by the "Christian" candidates if the Jewish religion were taught.

The place for religious education is in private schools, in the home and in the church.

Under our constitution, we are not only doing it the legal way, but the one that has worked best for 200 years. That way should be zealously guarded.

Low Interest Energy - Conservation Loans for Home-Owners and Landlords

Thanks to an Energy Bank Program grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the city of Cass City is able to help many of its residents make energy-conservation improvements in their homes. This is Cass City's first home improvement program that is available to rental-property owners as well as home-owners including mobile homes.

The Program works like this: 1) An interested resident phones or visits the Cass City Village Office 872-2911 to see if she-he is eligible. The office personnel will help the applicant get bids from approved energy contractors and to select the best and lowest bid. 2) The city then pays a "principal reduction" for that loan. The amount of the principal reduction can vary from 50% to 20% of the improvement costs, depending primarily on the applicant's income.

To be eligible for this program, the owner of the home must:

- Be income-eligible, under certain circumstances with incomes as high as $55,200 (except for owners of apartment buildings with more than 4 units, where there is no income limit).
- Be eligible for an FHA Title One Home Improvement Loan. Usually this means that you must own the home or be buying it on a mortgage or land contract.
- In general, borrow a minimum of $1,000, with a minimum monthly payment of $25 per month.
- Have an energy audit done of the house, either through the RCS program offered by Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. or through another approved auditor. Most audit costs over $15 may be included as part of the loan.

Eligible Improvements Include:

- Caulking and weatherstripping
- Furnaces and furnace efficiency modifications
- Insulation
- Storm doors and windows
- Energy-efficient lighting systems
- Conversions from master utility meters to individual utility meters
- Note: 1) Improvements begun before applying for this loan are in-eligible; 2) in general, improvements must be able to "pay for themselves" in seven years.

HUD's Energy Bank Program is administered in Michigan by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA), in cooperation with the Michigan Administration and the Michigan Public Service Commission. These agencies require that at least 20% of the loans go to households with gross annual incomes of $20,720 or less. To apply, or for more information, visit: Cass City Village Office, 6737 Church St., Cass City, Michigan 48726, 517-872-2911.

Energy Bills a Problem?

Home Energy Analysis For Residential and Commercial

Provides a home energy audit to determine energy consumption efficiency. Conservation improvements are suggested. An analysis cost $10.00 for residential and $150.00 for commercial. These are eligible to all Southeastern residential and commercial space heating customers. The analysis is free to qualifying low income customers.

Caro VFW involved in all aspects of community

by Cymbre Sommerville

On numerous occasions members of the Chronicle staff have gone up to the Provincial House in Cass City to take pictures of the Caro Veterans of Foreign Wars' members hanging decorations, presenting resident veterans with awards or taking the residents on an outing.

"We, really appreciate them," said Mary Fader, activities director at the Provincial House. The men run errands, help with special parties, provide resident veterans with wheelchairs and much more. "They're a great big help," she added.

"A great big help" can be used to describe all the other activities the post is involved in as well.

The VFW is active in the Caro Community Schools. Each spring the VFW sponsors the Light-A-Bike program for children. The VFW buys licenses for the bikes and puts reflectors on them. They also check the mechanics and give a course on bicycle safety.

The group makes a contribution towards placemats, which list outstanding students and are placed in area restaurants.

Each year the VFW presents a student with the Jack Taylor award, given to an outstanding male athlete at the Caro High School.

At 6'5", Taylor was a basketball player and all around athlete. "Jack was a fighter pilot who was shot down flying his fourth or fifth mission over the requirement," said Grant Kelley, quartermaster of the group.

The veterans also bought a scoreboard for the athletic field in Caro at a cost of $1,200.

As imagined, their good deeds do not go unheeded. The Caro Community Schools acknowledge the VFW's efforts by making the programs for the annual banquet. "What they do for us may not be the same monetary wise but it's still appreciated," said Merkel Fader, Post Commander. "It's the thought that counts," he added.

Last fall the group was asked to teach a hunter safety course for youngsters for the first time. "It's good to be asked. We like it," said Frank Middaugh, who is Hospital Chairman and a very active member.

Miscellaneous projects the VFW has taken on are buying American flags for different organizations such as Provincial House and Tuscola County Medical Facility. They have bought 4, 2-way radios for the local fire department over the past few years, and helped to purchase a slide carousel for the Sheriff's Department which can be used by various groups to give shows on such topics as abused children.

Next month the men will be seen out on the streets of Caro with small red flowers in hand.

The flowers are called Buddy Poppies and are made by hospitalized veterans. They make 3,000 for the group to sell and the money goes toward a relief fund for needy veterans such as those who are in the hospital or just need a little extra money to get by.

"It's hard work tromping around the streets but worth it to see the smile on someone's face when you hand them $100," said Middaugh.

Hospitals are right up there on the VFW's list of causes.

Each year they take fruit to the patients at the Veterans Hospital in Saginaw, the Provincial House in Cass City and the Medical Facility in Caro. They loan hospital equipment, such as hospital beds and wheelchairs to fellow vets.

Of course the VFW takes care of their own as well. They send money to a national VFW Children's Home in Eaton Rapids, which is for the children of deceased or disabled veterans. The home is nationally known and the only one in the United States. The home is unique because on the campus, there is at least one house for each state, Michigan has 8 of them. The home is funded entirely through the VFW and each state contributes to it.

The Caro post has also helped to start a VFW post in Cass City. They helped them to get the 25 members needed to get a charter and have contributed money to get them on their feet.

"They're doing all right," said Middaugh.

You might be asking yourself why they do so much and the answer is simple, "It's the thank you's that make our day, that make us feel good," said Commander Fader.

The men don't ever seem to tire. One member even had a severe heart attack but continues to do more than his fair share for the VFW the applicant must have served overseas and earned a combat, expeditionary or occupational medal. It seems that the bravery and hard work that earned them a medal during the war has simply been continued on into their civilian life as well.

The VFW held their fifth annual All-Awards banquet Saturday, April 19, to honor those who have helped the post. The banquet coincides with the 40th anniversary of the post's charter by the U.S. Congress.

The generosity and energy of the men at the ## Tax amnesty set

Michigan has set up a 50-day amnesty program which will allow delinquent taxpayers to pay back taxes without penalty or prosecution.

A toll-free information hotline has been installed by the Michigan Department of Treasury for taxpayers who have confidential questions about the May 12 - June 30 amnesty period.

The theme of the program is "Get to us before we get to you." When amnesty expires, the treasury department will pull out all the stops to catch, convict, and can tax cheats.

"The service is available to help taxpayers evaluate whether or not they need amnesty," said state treasurer Robert A. Bowman. "We want to make it as easy as possible for individuals and companies to use the program before we crack down hard on tax frauds, because after amnesty, penalties double," he added.

In another step to make amnesty as convenient as possible, the treasury department will accept payments by VISA and MASTER CARD during the program. Michigan is the first state to allow the use of credit cards during a tax amnesty program.

Sixteen specially trained operators will be available from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. to answer questions about the amnesty program. The number is 1-800-I.O. TAXES. All tax forms can be received from the treasury department by calling the toll-free number 1-800-FORM-2-ME, which is now available 24 hours a day Monday through Saturday.

There are about 64 Americans per square mile.

Your neighbor says

Nuclear energy is frightening

Since the nuclear disaster in Russia last week the pros and cons of nuclear energy are once again foremost in everyone's mind.

What do you think of nuclear energy? Is it necessary?

"Nuclear energy has always scared me," said Sally Peters, "but I think we need it because we're running out of other energy sources." She said that she feels it is worth the risk, stating that what needs to be done is to keep the plants maintained on a constant basis. This, she believes, would greatly cut back on the risk of an accident. "Look at what happened in Midland. They should have investigated the site better before they decided to build. If they had they would have known it was too swampy to begin with."

"Nothing is infallible," she said. "With natural gas, houses can blow up."

Would she allow a nuclear plant near her home?

"Yes," she replied. But she admits it would make her a little nervous. She said that everything entails risk. "Look at a list of the cancer causing agents, almost everything is on it. That's where technology has brought us."

Sally, a former Cass City resident, moved to Troy in January.

Four teachers from St. Ives Catholic parish in Southfield visited last Sunday with Sister Nancy Ayotte, after celebrating at an early Mass in their home parish, marking the close of the year's CCD classes.

Kendra Reehl, student at Owen-Gage High School, was confined to her home for a few days after suffering a leg injury during softball practice.

Saturday, April 19, Bessie Kenney of Sandusky, Sue Penrod and Mary McKellar helped Delores Stephenson of Caro celebrate her birthday when they met in Caro for dinner out.

JOINT CONFIRMATION RETREAT HELD

The weekend of April 26, 60 candidates for confirmation from St. Pancratius and St. Agatha Parishes attended a retreat at Camp Fuller near Mayville. They were divided into groups, with a leader for discussion, meditation and prayer times.

Connie Klinkman, CCD coordinator of Cass City, and Sister Nancy Ayotte did the shopping and campers took turns with KP duties. Saturday evening at 9:30, Father Julius Spleet celebrated an outdoor Mass which was followed by a cookout and a bonfire sing-along.

In lighter moments and at recreation time, the campers were masters at practical jokes. Chaperone Fred Sullivan found his red, white and blue garments hoisted on the flag staff.

Parents called for campers Sunday evening. Confirmation takes place May 18.

Volunteers needed for CROP walk

Persons in the central and eastern parts of Tuscola County are being invited to take part in a CROP Walk which has been scheduled for May 18 in Caro.

CROP is the name given to local community efforts at hunger education and fundraising for Church World Service, the relief and development agency of more than 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations in the United States.
CROP Walk Public Relations Chairman Ron Laeder said this year's event will begin at 1:30 p.m. May 18 at the Caro United Methodist Church on Gilford Road. Registration will start at 1:00 p.m. "Participants of all ages will be able to walk a maximum of 10 miles, but will be able to stop anywhere along the way. The money will be raised by the walkers collecting as many pledges as possible," he said.
Laeder said organizers of the CROP Walk are hoping to recruit people from a larger geographical area. "We would like to see as many as 200 walkers take part. We have always had a large number of Caro area people, but this year, we are making a special effort to invite walkers from other areas including Cass City, Gagetown, Kingston and Ubly. Our goal is to raise $6,500."

Of the money raised, Laeder said it will be used both locally and around the world. "75% of what is raised will be distributed by Church World Service, and the other 25% will go towards helping to feed people here in Tuscola County. In the past, the local share was donated to the food pantry program operated by the Human Development commission," Laeder said.
Serving as the chairperson for the 1986 CROP Walk is Rev. Janet Lerner, pastor of the Sutton Sunshine United Methodist Church.

HANDLING SIN by Michael Malone (fiction). Raleigh W. Hayes, 45, is a life insurance salesman from North Carolina. One day, Raleigh's father, who is in the hospital for tests, runs away. Via a taped message from the old man, Raleigh learns that only if he does this thing, that thing, and other things, and then meets his father in New Orleans, does he stand to inherit the family's untold fortune. Thus begins a scavenger hunt from Carolina to Crescent City, entailing adventures aplenty.

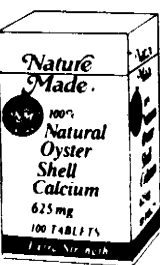

HIGH HEARTS by Rita Mae Brown (fiction). This Civil War saga, set in Virginia, centers on the wartime experiences of Geneva Chaffield, who disguises herself as a boy and runs off to join her husband fighting on the Confederate side. In the process, Geneva discovers she can amount to something more than just a clinging vine, more than just a helpmate for a man. The author's purpose is to show how this terrible conflict had an effect on women and blacks, too -- their participation in it, their sacrifices because of it, what they had at stake in the outcome.

THE BASEBALL HALL OF SHAME 2 by Bruce Nash and Allan Zullo (non-fiction). This collection of anecdotes includes such embarrassments as Johnny Bench taking a third strike in the 1972 World Series when he had been expecting an intentional walk and Ron LeFlore being picked off second while reading the electronic scoreboard. Other chapters focus on forgotten players (Bill Pettit, the $100,000 bonus baby who won one game for the Pirates), Hall of Famers (Stan Musial losing a ball in the sun and getting hit in the head by it); owners, umpires and even fans (the Kessler brothers forcing the Philadelphia Athletics to trade Jimmy Dykes, who was taunted from the stands so constantly he couldn't play).

Students qualify at Awards Fair

Maintaining a tradition of success at the Michigan Industrial Education Society Award Fairs, 2 Cass City High School junior students qualified for state competition by finishing second at the regionals held April 25-27 at Essexville-Garber High School.

An estimated 600 projects were in the competition from among schools in a 5-county area.

Entries exhibited by Laurel Griffin and Virgil Peters both were awarded red second place ribbons. To qualify for the state competition students must be ranked in the top 4 in the category selected.

The state competition was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Traverse City.

Entries were judged on degree of difficulty, fine craftsmanship and special talents needed for the project selected.

Peters' table was crafted at the suggestion of Dave Hoard, instructor. Peters estimated that he spent 150 hours crafting the table out of Red Oak and the material cost was about $50. Griffin said that he selected his clock project because it looked like fun. He estimated that he built his prize winner in only about 12 hours.

Both students said that they enjoyed the class and would like to be able to take another in their senior year. However, both said that it will be impossible and the projects were the last they would do in high school.

Both are in their third year in industrial education.

QUALIFYING FOR STATE competition in the Industrial Society Awards Fair regionals were Cass City High School Juniors Virgil Peters, left, and Laurel Griffin.

Gramm-Rudrnan could hurt schools

Federal budget cuts authorized under the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law could cripple the Department of Education and seriously affect aid to intermediate and local schools, Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip Runkel said.

The cuts would be acutely felt by the department because 83 percent of its funds come from the federal government, he noted.

The department would lose $20 million in 1986-87 and $111 million in 1987-88, he said, when Gramm-Rudman calls for cuts as high as 30 percent.

Those reductions would affect student financial aid, vocational and adult education, block grants, bilingual education, migrant education and programs for disabled children.

Schools could lose $9 million in 1986-87 and $52 million the following year in federal aid, the department said, based on a preliminary analysis of the law.

Detroit's cuts in the two years would be $2 million and $11.2 million; Flint's would be $226,212 and $1.3 million; Grand Rapids' would be $175,551 and $976,761, and Lansing's would be $129,861 and $722,543.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled unconstitutional the law's provisions for automatic cuts to result in a balanced budget; Congress would have to affirmatively vote on any cuts to take effect.

Business is booming

Cookie crunch comes in summer but Widdises aren't complaining

Dan Widdis loves cookies. So what, you say, a lot of people love cookies. But do a lot of people have 950 pounds of chocolate chip cookies out in their garage?

To clear up any misunderstandings, Dan does not buy all those cookies for his own epicurean pleasure. He and his wife Sandy make their living selling Voortman cookies. As the Widdises will tell you, they are the next best thing to homemade.

Every 2 weeks a semi-trailer loaded with cases of chocolate chip, gingerbread men, coconut delight and other favorites from the Voortman cookie bakery in Burlington, Ontario, unloads its goods into the Widdis garage or as they more appropriately call it, the warehouse.

Voortman is fast becoming a household name, rising to the ranks of other well known names such as Oreo or Chips Ahoy. According to Dan, 3 years ago there were 4 semis on the road, now there are 25. Although Voortman sells more cookies in Michigan than any other state, the company has expanded to 25 states in the last three years, recently picking up California and part of Texas.

The business is a family affair. Dan's mom and dad, Norm and Ruth, originally bought the distributor's rights 3 years ago and the business boomed. Dan's parents were moving to North Carolina and he had the option of buying the business, not knowing what the future would hold. He bought the business 16 months ago and it's proved to have been a wise decision.

The Widdises have more business than they can handle. "Stores call us practically begging for the cookies and I tell them I'll get there when I can," said Dan. Summer is an exceptionally busy time for the couple. The warehouse will be full to the rafters, holding about 2,000 boxes. "I put in 110 hours a week," he remarked. The reason for the increase in sales is because it is too hot to bake. "Christmas is our worst time, because everybody bakes," Sandy pointed out.

The Widdis' own distribution rights in 6 counties, which include, Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, Bay, Midland and pieces of surrounding counties. In the summer Dan takes the tri-city area and Sandy does the Thumb. This means getting up most mornings at 4 a.m., and sometimes as early as 2 a.m.

Eighty percent of the cookies are sold in bulk. The Widdis' self-serve orange and white cookie huts can be seen at the IGA, Quaker Maid and Erbas in Cass City as well as in large chains such as Meijer's and A&P stores. "The small fruit markets go through about 1,000 pounds a week. A couple of stores in Caseville go through 600 pounds a day," Dan said. "It's a lot of work. You're carrying boxes that weigh about 10 pounds and running because you have so many stops to make," remarked Sandy. "There's no time to stop and talk," added Dan.

At each store the cookies are rotated, the huts cleaned and filled. Each cookie is carefully arranged according to a flavor so cookies don't overpower each other. "You don't want a peanut butter to taste like a molasses," said Dan. Of course there are advantages. Cookies often need to be tasted for freshness. "That's the fun part," he said.

The Widdises enjoy what they are doing, and both think a great deal of the company. "They treat you like family," said Dan.

The business was started 35 years ago by Bill, Harry and John Voortman who came over from Holland in the 1930's. Today there are over 200 distributors in the United States and Canada, and at least 15 of these in Michigan. Dan and Sandy sell Voortman's to 75 stores.

Even though the hours are long and the work can be tough, the Widdises like what they are doing. Said Dan, "This is a fun job, but then I like cookies."

COOKIES, COOKIES and more cookies. Dan Widdis leans against boxes of Voortman cookies that will be sold to stores throughout the Thumb. Also pictured are Dan's sons, Brant, 4 and Danny, 6.

Singer sentenced on charges of sexual misconduct

A 27-year-old Caro man charged with sexually assaulting male patients while he was an employee at the Tuscola County Mental Health Center last December was sentenced by Judge Patrick Joslyn in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday.

Kurt Singer, 27, a former music teacher at the center was sentenced to 5 years' probation on two counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct. He was also sentenced to one year in the county jail with 3 months suspended and work release. Singer was fined $100 and charged costs of $200.

In other court action: Richard Emmons, 41, of 5873 Bay City-Forestville Rd. was sentenced from 40 months to 15 years on a charge of second degree criminal sexual conduct. The charges stem from an incident Nov. 23, 1985.

Gerald Martinez, 17, of Unionville entered a plea of guilty to malicious destruction to a building valued over $100. Sentence date was set for July 7 and presentence investigation was ordered. The charges stem from an incident at a Unionville school in which a number of windows were broken.

Robert Kralik, 19, of Vassar was sentenced to 2 years' probation and fined $150 and charged costs of $100, stemming from a charge of felonious driving near Vassar Nov. 30, 1985.

Allen Pero, 19, of Vassar pleaded no contest to attempted larceny in a building. Charges stem from an incident on Feb. 27 in Vassar.

Nathaniel Davis, 33, a prisoner at Camp Tuscola entered a plea of not guilty to assault of a prison employee April 17. A pre-trial date of May 12 was set.

Victor LaCroix, 29, of Warren, pleaded guilty to

Karr awarded Doherty chair from MIT

Dale G. Karr, assistant professor of ocean engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been awarded the 1986 Henry L. Doherty Professorship in Ocean Utilization. The announcement was made by Kenneth A. Smith, associate provost and vice-president for research.

Flea & tick protection

By Bill Bortel

Fleas and ticks are more than just a nuisance to your pet. They also pose a serious hazard to you and your family.

To protect your home, family and pet against these disease transmitting parasites, you should acquire an understanding of their habits and implement an effective control program.

Fleas are brown, wingless insects that jump. As adults, they live as external parasites feeding indifferently on a variety of warm-blooded hosts, including humans, fur-bearing animals, birds and rodents.

During their life cycle, which can last from one to twenty months, fleas go through four stages of development: egg, larva, pupa and adult. But only fully mature fleas depend on animal blood for survival.

Victims of flea bites usually experience painful, itchy reactions several days to one week after the initial attack. Unfortunately, skin irritation is one of the least damaging effects of flea bites.

These tiny insects also can transmit many harmful diseases and parasites to their hosts. Some of the most serious include bubonic plague, murine typhus, tapeworms and filaria. Tetanus and gangrene also may result from especially irritating bites.

Like fleas, ticks pass through four developmental stages: egg, larva (seed ticks), nymph and adult. But unlike fleas, ticks feed on host animals during their last two pre-adult stages.

These eight-legged, round-bodied pests use their mouthparts to attach themselves to hosts. After a two to four-day feeding period, they drop off the host and complete their life cycles. Outdoors, these pests flourish in brushy areas and sites where host animals are readily available.

Each year, ticks are responsible for transmitting serious diseases to their victims. Rocky Mountain spotted fever, relapsing fever, O-fever and tularemia are just a few of the most common.

Even though all ticks are not disease carriers, they can cause severe skin irritation and even paralysis with their infectious, sometimes poisonous, bites.

One of the most important preventive steps in protecting your home from these pests begins outdoors with an effective treatment program. By controlling fleas and ticks before they attack, you can safely, efficiently preserve the happiness and health of your family and pet.

Outdoor treatment is especially important during warmer weather when fleas and ticks can transform your lawn into their breeding grounds.

To prevent these disease carrying pests from making your home theirs, treat shrubbery, turf, animal quarters and other outside areas with an effective insecticide.

Before using any pest control product, carefully read the label and apply at recommended rates.

Since humans are usually second hand hosts, effectively treating your pet for fleas and ticks is an important way to protect your family against pest related disorders. After any outdoor excursion, carefully inspect your pet for ticks, especially around the neck, in the ears and between the toes. For animals that live indoors, daily inspections are recommended.

To remove ticks properly, grab the pest's head with your fingers or a pair of tweezers and pull straight out. Immediately apply alcohol or peroxide to the spot to prevent infection.

Even though fleas are more difficult to see, you can determine their identity by placing your pet on a piece of white paper or cloth when grooming. Tiny dark specks (flea feces) that turn reddish brown when dampened are telltale signs of a flea infestation.

If you do detect signs of either pest, contact your veterinarian who can suggest the best possible treatment for your pet.

VASSAR OVERPOWERING

We all thought they would be good, Larry Robinson, girls' track coach said, but we didn't believe they would be as good as they are. As far as I can see, he added, they just don't have a weakness.

The results of a meet Thursday at Vassar on a cool, windy day confirmed the coach's assessment.

Vassar girls topped Cass City, 116-33, and the boys bowed 119-40.

Chris Tuckey won the 2-mile and Joan Steely, the 100-yard dash, the only two events won by Cass City.

One-run losses

Hawks split twin bill

A pair of one-run decisions cost the Cass City Red Hawks an opportunity to sweep 4 games in Thumb B Association competition and to seriously challenge for the league title this spring.

The losses to Marlette followed a pair of wins over Imlay City Thursday, April 24.

Things looked bright for the Hawks against the Raiders Tuesday, April 29. Cass City jumped off to a 4-run lead in the first inning of the first game and had Dave Miller, fresh from a shutout over Imlay City, on the mound.

But Marlette, paced by a grand slam home run by Jamie Clappsaddle, battled around in the third inning and scored 5 times on the way to a 9-6 decision.

The Raiders administered the knockout blow in the fourth when they scored 3 times and chased Miller from the mound.

Rob Nicholas led Cass City with a home run with a mate on base and was 2 for 2 with a walk.

In the second game, a fine pitching performance by Duane Wright was wasted as a last inning rally fell one run short and the Hawks bowed 5-4. Wright struck out 6 in 5 innings and allowed 2 earned runs.

Bowler of the week

The Thumb Area Women's Bowling Association Bowler of the Week for April 14-20 is Joan Siedlecki with a 568 actual series.

She bowls for Thumb Office Supply on the Wednesday Night Ladies' League at Biff's, Kinde.

Walleyes fail in Cass River

Exactly one year ago hopes were high that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) was turning the Cass River into a walleye fishing hole that would rival the famed St. Clair River fishery or at least provide topnotch sport and table fare for Michigan fishermen.

That hope has been shattered at least for the present, Vern Nurnberg of the Imlay City Post of the DNR said this week.

Area sportsmen will recall that at the end of April last year 2.7 million walleye fry were planted in the Cass River at 15 locations below and above the dam at Caro.

At the Cass River bridge on Cemetery Road 100,000 of the just hatched, quarter-inch long walleyes were dumped.

The plan was for the fry to eat plankton until they reached 2 1/2 inches long and then to feed on smaller fish. It was hoped that they would reach legal size in 3 years.

Now, just a year later, the walleyes have evidently disappeared from the river.

Although the walleyes are gone the DNR hasn't given up on the Cass. Management is considering poisoning the water all the way to Frankenmuth and then replanting the desirable walleyes. It's hard to plant a new species over fish that are already in the stream, Nurnberg said.

Before any chemical treating of the river could take place, Nurnberg

A year after 2.7 million walleye were planted by the DNR in the Cass River, they have all disappeared.

added, we would need to get input from people living on the water and from the general public.

STATE PICTURE

While the walleye picture for the Cass is dim, the statewide picture for the popular game fish is bright.

According to Michigan State University the fish are making a comeback after reaching a record low in 1975. The DNR collects eggs and sperm from walleye during their upstream spawning run in the Muskegon River and 3 Upper Peninsula locations. Fertilized eggs are incubated and hatched at 2 state hatcheries. Fry are placed in rearing ponds that have been well stocked with food. When they reach fingerling size, 2 to 3 inches, the walleye are released into natural habitats. A study is currently underway by Michigan State researchers and DNR biologists to study walleye from the time they are released until they reach adulthood several years later.

Michigan anglers will be offered a reward for returning tagged adult walleye and providing information of the date and location of their catches.

The DNR's restocking program is aimed at bringing the walleye population back to where it was before a decline began in the late 60's.

Unfortunately right now the Cass River doesn't appear to be part of the resurgence of the fish most popular with inland anglers.

A YEAR AGO hopes were high that the walleye fry dumped into the Cass River would be the start of an exciting fishery. It wasn't to be. None of the walleye survived.

Cass City divides softball twin bill with Spartans

The Cass City Red Hawks' softball team split a twin bill Monday, against the visiting Imlay City Spartans, losing the opener 12-4 and rebounding to win the nightcap behind some strong hitting 15-6.

In the first game a much improved Spartan team jumped out to a 10-2 lead after 4 innings of play due mostly to 7 errors committed by the Hawks. "Our defense was never in the game," lamented Coach Jim Fox.

Cass City's first runs came in the 3rd inning. Trailing 7-0 with runners on first and third and only one out, Brenda Severance ripped a single scoring both runners and moving the Hawks to within 5. But some costly base running ended the Hawk rally.

Imlay City's first 3 batters chipped away for 3 more runs in the fourth inning and added 2 more runs in the sixth inning to take a 12-2 lead into the bottom of the sixth. The Broncos' first 4 batters accounted for 11 of the 12 Bronco runs. Cass City came up with 2 runs in their half of the sixth with a timely double off the bat of Shannon McIntosh to cap the scoring.

Krizon recorded the win for Imlay City, while Yvette Hurd was handed the setback for Cass City.

GAME 2

Cass City's defense tightened in the nightcap allowing them to salvage a split with the Spartans, 15-6.

Although better, Cass City's nine still committed 4 errors and allowed 3 unearned runs. "We can't do that and win against good pitching teams," insisted Coach Fox.

Cass City took an early lead when Terri Summers connected with runners on board to help the Hawks to a 3-1 lead after one inning of play.

The Hawks added 2 runs in each of the next 2 innings to increase their lead to 7-3.

The Hawks scored 4 more runs in the bottom of the 4th with Kelly Deering doing most of the damage, while collecting her second hit of the game, a 2 run producing single.

The Hawks added 4 insurance runs in the fifth and went on to record a 15-6 victory.

The Hawks had 3 other hitters besides Deering who collected more than one hit. Shannon McIntosh remained hot as she picked up 3 hits in 4 at bats, while Terri Wilson and Deb Cook each contributed 2 hits for the winners. Julie Gayer went 2 for 3 for the losers.

Yvette Hurd went the distance in the second game to pick up the victory.

Fewer firms failing

Business incorporations in the first quarter of 1986 were 22 percent higher than in the comparable period of 1985, when the number of incorporations set a record at 23,500, state officials said Tuesday.

"We have made enormous strides in identifying and easing many problems when we have restrained small businesses over the years," Governor James J. Blanchard said in announcing the figures to the Small Business Day 86 conference.

"Our goal is to make Michigan the best state in this world for small business," the governor said, noting he still has 11 items of a 40-item small business agenda yet to be implemented.

Corporations and Securities Bureau officials said they have no way of knowing how many of the incorporations involved existing businesses deciding to incorporate, or if the number of those kinds of transactions has been rising.

Commerce Director Doug Ross said Michigan's business failure rates, compiled by federal officials, "were proportionately among the lowest in the nation. It left us with a net situation which is very strong."

Deputy Commerce Director Lou Glazer said failures from January through September last year were about 3,000.

0-G sweeps pair from Port Hope

The Owen-Gage softball team swept a doubleheader Monday, April 28, against guest Port Hope, winning the first game in a sneaker 8-7 in extra innings and coasting to a 12-2 victory in the finale to run the Bulldogs' record to 3 and 1 for the year.

In the first game, Owen-Gage hurler Susie Salcido allowed 9 hits, walked 2 and struck out 2 while going the distance and notching the win for the Bulldogs. Charlene Goslin helped key the Bulldog attack at the plate.

Lori Finkel was handed the loss for Port Hope. Finkel gave up 5 hits and walked 10 batters. She also fanned 10 hitters.

In the second game Owen-Gage bats came to life to pound a 12-2 win over Port Hope.

Barb Hellebuyck was awarded the win for the Bulldogs, while Salcido was credited with a save. Together the two Owen-Gage pitchers struck out 3 and walked 8. Leading the hit parade for the Bulldogs were Tonya Haldane, who went 2-4, and Salcido, who chipped in with a triple.

The loss was issued to Port Hope's Karen Brown, who was relieved by Finkel. The two losing pitchers combined to issue 12 free passes.

4,000 babies later

Long career ends for Irene Freeman

It's the rare family that has lived in the Cass City area for a decade or so that hasn't been touched by Irene Freeman. After all, she has been actively ministering to the ill of the area for 52 years.

As the right hand helper of the venerable Dr. H.T. Donahue, she has assisted in the delivery of an estimated 4,000 babies.

Many area mothers said that having nurse Freeman on hand was almost like having another physician in attendance.

Friday, Mrs. Freeman officially retired and was honored at a party at the Charmont by Dr. Donahue and the clinic staff.

Friday, Dr. Donahue and Mrs. Freeman reminisced about their years together.

They believe that they may have established an all time record in the baby derby. Once they delivered 5 babies in 2 1/2 hours. Included were 2 sets of twins.

Those births were recorded at Pleasant Home Hospital, located where the Chemical Bank Drive-in is now.

It was owned and operated by Mrs. Freeman, purchased from Dr. McCoy in 1933. It served the community until 1960 when it closed and the patients were transferred to the spanking new Hills and Dales General Hospital.

While the building served the community well, it was primitive by today's standards. We started operating at 6 a.m. in hot weather to avoid the heat, Dr.

Donahue said, but were really got modern when we added oxygen. The 100-pound cylinders had to be carried upstairs.

In the early years, house calls were frequent, Mrs. Freeman remembered. We made them for much more than minor illnesses, too. We performed major operations in the home sometimes and removed tonsils in the kitchen.

Typical of the reaction of persons who know her or who have contacted her professionally was the comment by Mrs. Elvira "Vi" Tropp who, when apprised of the retirement, said that Mrs. Freeman is just a lovely person, so kind and always willing to help.

SUSIE KNEDLIK, an illustrator from Decatur, Alabama, entertained students with a story and artwork at Young Author Day Thursday at Campbell Elementary School.

FIRST GRADERS AT Campbell Elementary were able to pet and feed this calf in a session at Young Authors' Day Thursday.

Activities galore

Young Author Day a hit at Campbell

They were making pancakes, petting a calf, decorating jello frogs and more. Almost every room at Campbell Elementary was teeming with activity Thursday, as part of Young Author Day.

The day was put aside to honor those children who wrote books on their own over the year. "It was a way to award them," said Marilyn Peters, reading specialist. She said though that there was not as much participation as in other years.

Highlight of the day was guest illustrator Susie Knedlik from Decatur, Ala. She was able to visit the school thanks to donations from civic organizations in town, according to Peters. Knedlik also visited Evergreen and Deford, Friday.

Each student attended a session with his or her classroom teacher, 2 sessions with another teacher from the same grade and one session by a volunteer.

At the end of the day students reported back to their classroom and those students who wrote a book this year were presented with a special certificate.

Winning young authors from Campbell are:

First grade: Josh Lounsbury, Rickie Priestap, Jason Sawyer.

Second grade: George Wright, Jake Lounsbury, Andy Gray, Amy Schelke, Mark LeValley, Angie Eckert, Ursula Curtis, Jon Fruendt, Willy Stilson, Jason Wright, Nathan Pawloski, Erin O'Dell, Christine Prowsowski, Niki Hoggard, Tom Dewey, Edward Hartwick, Ann Bacon, Andrea Cooper, Amy Elenbaum.

Third grade: Tobysian ringshaw, Zawilinski, Matt Kappen.

Fourth grade: Petrina Kritzman, Darcie Monroe, Barry Hornbacher, Terry Moore, Matt Anthony, Steven Russell, Michelle Peruski, Wendall Guinther, Jenny Milligan, David Bills, Steven Muska, Erin Hewitt, Mark Kuback.

Saturday was the Thumb Area Young Author Day in which 20 children from Campbell, Evergreen and Deford won awards for their books.

Spending a lifetime in the care of the ill didn't deter Mrs. Freeman from raising a family. She and her late husband have four children. Bob, 49, is in Florida; Ed, 48, in Pontiac; Bill 47, in Sterling Heights, and Dr. Ruth Freeman, in Portland, Maine.

Mrs. Freeman says that she has no big plans for retirement. Clean my house from top to bottom, she said with a grin, and perhaps spend a little more time at the cottage in Caseville.

Ammonia used to trim costs

More producers are expected to use anhydrous ammonia this year to trim costs. Increased use of this potentially hazardous fertilizer could lead to more accidents, unless growers take steps to minimize the risk through safe handling.

"Producers can avoid costly and dangerous accidents by wearing protective gear and following good safety practices," says Dennis Stein, Tuscola County Extension Agricultural Agent. Anhydrous ammonia will boil at -28°F, so it turns to a gas when released in the atmosphere. The danger is that the gas will seek out water to react with. This means eyes and skin of people are especially affected by the gas. The results of the exposure is similar to freeze burn, and if inhaled, it can cause respiratory failure.

"Wearing rubber gloves and goggles can reduce the chance of exposure should a small spill occur," says Stein. Goggles should fit tight and be specially vented, while gloves should have the cuffs turned up to catch spills. Basic safety equipment should be available from the dealer that provides the anhydrous ammonia equipment and should maintain the tanks and applicator in good working condition. Never accept equipment or tanks that leak or have damaged hoses or valves. "Keeping all skin covered with shirts and long pants during the filling of applicators or nurse tanks is essential," says Stein. Make sure that five gallons of fresh water is available at the tractor and keep a plastic bottle of eyewash in your pocket at all times should you become exposed.

Time is the important factor when exposed to anhydrous ammonia. The quicker you can flush exposed areas to water, the lesser the injury will be. Rinse the affected areas for at least 15 minutes with water. Any less period of time may cause continued injury even though the burning may have quit. "Seek proper medical attention for all those areas exposed and especially if you have inhaled the ammonia gas," concludes Stein.

Fossils

Discouraged amateur paleontologists struggling to find fossils may need to look no farther than an anthill, says Ranger Rick magazine. Harvester ants, found in the western United States, store bone chips and other hard objects in their mounds. Why? Some hypothesize that such artifacts protect the mound from wind and rain or act as little solar heaters, insulating the ant's eggs and larvae.

He beat the odds

Colt survives delicate operation

At 19 inches, Comet, the miniature horse, isn't much taller than a Cabbage Patch doll, but because of his small size he is alive today.

The colt was born about 5 weeks ago on a 120 acre farm owned by Mark and Carol Stoeckle. The chestnut and white colt, which is about the size of the Stoeckles' collies, was born with 2 displaced kneecaps.

After he was born, he had trouble standing up and the Stoeckles attributed his weakness and uncoordination to his recent birth. But after 3 or 4 days, Carol said it was obvious that something was very wrong.

The Stoeckles watched his determination to walk, and seeing his constant attempts, they didn't have the heart to put him to sleep. "He was a little fighter," said Carol.

They took him to a veterinarian in Bad Axe for x-rays and then Comet and his mother traveled to Michigan State University's veterinary clinic where his condition was diagnosed.

Carol said the doctors frequently do the type of knee surgery that Comet required on dogs, but don't work on horses because their weight and the pressure it puts on their knees make the success rate low.

Because of his small size, the MSU vets were anxious to operate on the tiny colt. "They wanted to do it because it was somewhat experimental," Carol said. Two doctors operated on the little horse for 4 hours at their cost. The surgery went well, but his recovery was another matter. "We didn't know if he'd pull through because horses don't tolerate stress well," she said.

Fortunately Comet came through with flying colors, and he was up and around soon after the surgery. According to Carol, the doctors were very helpful. "Dr. Harrington called all the time and wanted to keep filled in on the colt's progress."

Now out in the barn, Comet trots back and forth with no effort, none the worse for his ordeal.

The miniature horses are only a part of the Stoeckles' animal menagerie. The most recent addition to the family is a llama named Rico.

Rico is out in a pen with a goat who keeps him company. "They are very social animals," said Carol and he's an enjoyable pet. "He eats like a horse, hay and a little grain, but he doesn't eat a lot. In fact, I think the goat eats more than he does," she said.

According to Carol, llamas are very inquisitive animals. "He has to know everything that is happening," she said.

Rico is a gelding because female llamas are very expensive, costing up to $12,000. Carol said that the prices for the unusual animal have tripled in the last year because they are no longer being imported from their native land of Peru in South America. "What's here is it," she said. Llamas are related to the camel, but smaller and without the hump. They are often used as pack animals and their coats can be spun into yarn. "Handling him is completely different than handling a horse with his long neck and little head," remarked Carol.

The Stoeckles also own Cricket, a miniature mule who stands just 38" high. He is a cross between a miniature horse and a miniature donkey. He's a stubborn animal. "If he does something for you, he expects something in return."

What's the reason for having such an array of pets? Simply because "I like to have unusual animals."

NOT MUCH TALLER than the doll next to him, this miniature colt is alive today thanks to a delicate surgery performed at MSU's veterinary clinic. Also pictured is Carol Stoeckle and her son Adam, 5.

CRICKET the miniature mule, a cross between a miniature horse and miniature donkey, loves jelly beans.

A LLAMA is one of Carol Stoeckle's latest additions to the family. Rico poses with Carol and her 2 sons Adam, 5 and Andrew, 3.

Navy and dry bean seed up

The best supply of certified navy and dry bean seed since the mid-1970's is available this year, along with a wide selection of soybean seed.

"Nearly 9,000 acres of navy bean seed and 2,200 acres of light and dark red kidney beans passed certification and the blight test and are now on the market," says Larry Copeland, Michigan State University Extension seed specialist. The most productive and popular navy bean varieties are Seafarer, Buns and C-20, in order of popularity. Other varieties available include Fleetwood, Laker and Neptune.

Although enough certified seed is available this year to plant about 50 percent of the navy bean acreage, plenty of excellent uncertified seed choices are also available. Producers should review a seed lot's performance on the blight test before making a selection to avoid blight problems. Most seed is tested for blight, and nearly all seed dealers should have the test results.

Of the colored dry bean classes, excellent supplies of dark and light red kidney beans are available after an all-time high Michigan certified seed production last season. Some supplies of black and cranberry bean seeds can also be purchased.

Base soybean seed selection on yield, time of maturity and disease resistance. Of the group II varieties that mature in 120 to 130 days, the following varieties performed the best in the Tuscola County soybean variety plots last year: G.L.H. 2634, Asgrow/O's Gold A 1937, ProSeed PS 210 and Pioneer 9271. Select a variety that is resistant to a wide spectrum of races of phytophthora root rot, the disease most common in soybeans.

Many other varieties of soybeans and dry beans are also available, and we recommend checking replicated variety performance and description before purchasing seed.

The Wall Street Journal reports exercises for computer operators. They consist of yeye-rolling, finger-spreading, and lifting a leg.

I recall our bookkeeper at the Lapeer (Mich.) County Press, who was way ahead of her time in yeye-rolling. It resulted in her marrying the advertising manager.

The other gyrations recommended for the computer crowd could well produce similar effects.

*****

A bouquet to Huntington Bank of Columbus, Ohio, for its simplified loan forms. Instead of all the legalese that infects such forms in other banks, Huntington has decided to use plain old English.

For example, their personal loan agreements start out:

Dear Customer:
This agreement states terms of this simple interest loan. If you agree to these terms, sign below. "You" and "your" mean each person who signs. "We", "Us" and "our" mean Huntington National Bank.

By signing, you promise to pay us, the amount shown below, with simple interest at the annual percentage rate, from the date of this agreement.

And so it goes on, telling

Success

seminar Thursday

The Thumb Area Inservice Educators will be sponsoring a seminar called Profiling for Success Thursday, May 15, at the Colony House, Cass City.

The goal of the hands on day will focus on awareness of each individual's potential and energizing that force. Participants will concentrate on action plans for growth that are immediate.

Guest speaker at the seminar is Marilyn Smeonick, director of Spectrum Communications, a management and communications training firm. She works primarily with organizations and corporations to help participants to become more effective personally and professionally. She has had an impressive array of clients such as IBM, General Motors, The American Red Cross and J.L. Hudson.

The seminar runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is open to the public. Jane Mitchell, president of the Inservice Educators, said that this is one of 2 seminars held each year since 1976. Usually the topics deal with hospital problems but this year the program is more general. Other sessions include learning the importance of communication, assessment of yourself and others and freeing yourself of self-restrictions.

The cost of the seminar is $15 which includes lunch and all the handouts.

of-late payment charges, and so forth, all in language you and I can understand.

Compare this with the language of what should be a simple note from my old bank in Lapeer, Mich. On obligation of signer(s), for instance: Quote: "If signed by two or more (whether by all as makers, or by one or more as an accommodation party) the obligation hereunder shall be that of all and of any two or more jointly and each severally."

On giving collateral, the customary bank legalese has it: "...The undersigned, and each of them, hereby gives the bank a lien for the full amount of this note and all other liabilities and obligations of any of the undersigned to the Bank, now existing or hereafter arising, in all property of the undersigned now in or at any time hereafter coming into the possession of the Bank, and upon any balance to the credit of any account maintained with the Bank by any of the undersigned."

An 88-word sentence that fairly numbs your brain.

So bully for you, Huntington, for your effort to end such garbage. May your tribe increase.

And a thank-you to one of Huntington's senior officers, Bruce Barefoot, for sending me samples of the bank's loan forms.

There's a novel closed-end fund now on the market. Maybe you'd like to look into it. Prudential-Bache is one of the sponsors. Your broker could get you further details.

The fund will invest in Australian and New Zealand bonds. Interest rates are pretty high there, so there'll be a good return, maybe 15%.

There'll be three things that affect the investment, and three may be more than you as an investor want to tolerate:

1. Value of the Australian and New Zealand dollars, for the bonds are denominated in those currencies.

2. Interest rate ups and downs, which of course affect any bond investments.

3. The popularity of this closed-end fund, listed on the American stock exchange, so it could sell at a discount or premium from its asset value.

Personally, I like the thing, and I'm buying some shares for myself. I think Australia, especially, has a sound economy and a pretty good government. New Zealand has been a little flaky lately, but the people there are sensible and responsible basically, and I'm sure they'll pay their debts.

There'll be a 10% tax on dividends withheld by Australia and New Zealand. You can set off this tax as a deduction on your U.S. income tax.

The fund was over-subscribed when it came on the market. Symbol on the American Stock Exchange is FAI.

Salute top

Cass City grads

Two Cass City students will be among those top 1986 grads honored when WNEM TV-5 again salutes The Best of The Class, in cooperation with General Motors.

Tamara Iseler and Annette Stachura will join graduating seniors from over 100 private and public schools in 15 mid-Michigan counties for special recognition ceremonies Sunday, May 18, in Frankenmuth.

This is a special salute to "the cream of the academic crop" for students who have earned the highest grades in their class, many of whom have held a 4-point grade average throughout the years.

Students invited to the May 18 festivities will be videotaped for public service announcements to be broadcast on WNEM during June and July. The students, along with their parents, will then be treated to a chicken barbecue in Frankenmuth's Heritage Park.

TV-5's PM Magazine will be on hand, recording segments for an upcoming show. Portions of TV-5's public affairs program Open Camera will also be taped on location.

Cass City woman has truck stolen

A Cass City woman who was visiting relatives in Detroit Saturday, had her pickup stolen.

Imogene Fleming of 2830 N. Crawford Rd. told State Police at the Caro Post that she was traveling in her 1976 Ford pickup on Southfield Freeway just south of the Schoolcraft exit when the engine overheated shortly after 7 p.m. When her brother returned close to midnight to tow the truck away, it was missing. There are no suspects at this time.

Two bicycles were stolen from a Cass City residence sometime Friday, according to a Tuscola County Sheriff's report.

Darin Fackler of 6400 Severance Rd. reported that both the stolen bikes were valued at $95.
