CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 80, NUMBER 5 | CASS CITY, MICHIGAN—WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1986 | Twenty-five cents | SIXTEEN PAGES PLUS THREE SUPPLEMENTS

Walbro in joint venture with renowned companies

Walbro Corporation, Cass City, has announced the joint formation of 2 new companies, one with Champion Spark Plug Co. of Toledo, Ohio, and the other with Orbital Engine Company Pty. Ltd., Perth, Western Australia.

The venture with Champion was previously announced and last week the agreement formally establishing a jointly-owned company to manufacture and market automotive fuel systems in Europe was completed.

The new company, Champion-Walbro Automotive Fuel Systems, Europe, will be headquartered in Belgium, with manufacturing operations to be established later.

The joint venture with Orbital is to manufacture and market engine management systems and related components to automotive and marine engine manufacturers in North America and Europe.

Robert Walpole, executive vice-president of Walbro, said Saturday that the venture is designed to improve the company's position in fuel injection system technology. Presently, he explained, we produce throttle bodies and electric fuel systems for the auto industry.

Plans call for Orbital to send a representative to Cass City for up to 2 years to work with us on development of a completed fuel injection system, Walpole said.

Walbro President L.E. Althaver said, "Orbital Engine Company's unique technology in the area of fuel injection shows strong potential for both automotive and marine applications. We look forward to working with Orbital Engine Company in a program which could have far-reaching effects in the field of fuel systems technology."

A. Constantine, chairman of Sarich Technologies Trust and a member of the Orbital Engine Co. Board, stated, "I feel confident that this will materially assist in concluding licensing negotiations which have been underway for some time with major automotive and marine engine manufacturers."

Ralph Sarich, Managing Director, Orbital Engine Company, stated, "We are confident that Walbro's manufacturing and marketing capabilities will hasten the process of bringing our advanced technology to market."

The OEC/Walbro agreement has effectively removed a major obstacle in OEC's licensing negotiations for the OCP engine with manufacturers. They have insisted that a reliable supplier for the Orbital fuel system design, which is vital in attaining the OCP engine's outstanding performance, be appointed. The next round of negotiations is to commence immediately with auto and marine manufacturers worldwide.

However, a final commitment to commence high volume manufacture is conditional upon the successful conclusion of further related technical and business feasibilities which will depend largely on appropriate licensing agreements being concluded with the auto, marine and industrial engine industries and will be made by the respective boards of Orbital owned Sarich Technologies Trust and BHP, and Walbro.

Orbital Engine Company was formed in November 1972 for the purposes of designing and developing a compact lightweight fuel efficient, low cost engine which complied with emission standards and which would have application in automobile, aircraft, industrial and marine areas. OEC is owned by two Australian stockholders: BHP, Australia's largest company, having a market worth of approximately $10 billion, and Sarich Technologies Trust. OEC has business contracts related to its technologies in Europe, USA and Japan.

CHAMPION - WALBRO

The new company will be directed by a 4-man management committee. Named to the management committee were: Daniel J. Savarese, vice-president, international operations, Champion Spark Plug Company; Stefano Cocchiglia, vice-president, Europe, Africa and the Middle East, Champion Spark Plug Company; L.E. Althaver, and Robert H. Walpole.

Jacques Bronchart, Director of Engineering, Europe, Champion Spark Plug Company, was named general manager of the newly-formed company.

Walbro Corporation President L.E. Althaver called the formation of the jointly-owned company "a significant step for both companies. Walbro's expertise in fuel systems technology, combined with Champion's European sales and marketing network and extensive manufacturing capabilities should make the new company a significant supplier to European automotive manufacturers."

Awarded $400,000

Brinkmans happy with settlement

A Cass City farmer and his wife are happy about the outcome of a 4-day jury trial held April 28 through May 1 in Huron Circuit Court.

Jack Brinkman and his wife Bonnie were awarded $400,000 in a lawsuit filed against Wil-Rich Inc., McVail, N.D., and Osentoski Equipment Inc., Pigeon, Sept. 4, 1983.

Brinkman charged that Wil-Rich was negligent in designing of a 37-foot rear hitch cultivator he purchased from Osentoski Equipment in April of 1982. Osentoski was originally named in the lawsuit but settled before the trial for an undisclosed amount, according to Bonnie Brinkman. She said that Osentoski assembled the cultivator correctly. The problem was in the equipment itself.

Brinkman sought damages for pain and suffering and mental and emotional distress. He also said that he had to spend large amounts of money on medical care and that the accident impaired his ability to earn money in the future.

So it happened that April 28, 1983, (3 years to the day of the trial) Brinkman was taking out the safety pins which are used for transporting the cultivator, "a cylinder which raises and lowers the 12-foot section of the cultivator broke, causing (the wing) to crush and pin (Brinkman) to the ground."

Brinkman was found 20 percent negligent in the incident by the 6-woman jury. The $400,000 award was reduced by 20 percent to $320,000. Bonnie Brinkman was awarded $100,000 for loss of consortium which was reduced by 20 percent to $80,000.

Novesta seeks road millage

Voters will see a proposal to raise the millage on the ballot this August, according to Novesta Township Clerk Nursie Kloc. The proposal to raise 1½ mills for a period of 3 years would be for new road construction, Kloc said. The proposal was made at the monthly meeting of Novesta Township, Monday, May 5.

Contracts pertaining to previously agreed upon roadwork were signed at the meeting. At that time the township paid half the cost of the work to the Road Commission in the amount of $10,000, according to Kloc. The Road Commission requires that half the cost be paid when the contracts are signed, she said. The cost pertains to grading and graveling, but not paving, she added.

In other action, the township approved spot brining roads to combat dust in front of homes only, instead of the entire road. Kloc said that the spot brining was done last year and the same solution will also be used this year.

Insurance agent Allan Klco was at the meeting in conjunction with insurance on the Township Hall. It was decided to raise the insurance from $33,000 to $43,000. "We felt it was something that needed to be done," said Kloc.

The roads in Novesta Cemetery were graded and graveled as was planned, and it "looks very nice," said Kloc.

Prosecuting Attorney Bill Bond paid a visit to the monthly meet.

At the next meeting June 2, a hearing on the tax roll back will be held.

Absent voter ballots now harder to get

There has been a change in the method of absentee voting for the June general school elections.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that a ruling by the election committee makes it impossible for someone other than the absent voter to pick up a ballot.

That means that a ballot can no longer be picked up for a spouse. Absent voters ballots must be mailed to persons unable to come in person, Crouse said.

An exception to this rule can be made in case of a disablement of the voter with the signing of appropriate forms.

Signed ballots can be delivered by any registered voter or a member of the immediate family.

Party bonfire on Cumber Rd. brings police, firemen

A trooper on duty at the Sanilac County Post of the Michigan State Police said that information about a party that included a huge bonfire was not available Monday afternoon.

Troopers from the Sanilac post investigated the party held on Cumber Road, about a quarter mile west of Germania Road, Friday evening.

The trooper, in answer to a phone query, said that the report had not yet been written and she did not know when it would be filed.

Meanwhile, the Elkland Township Fire Department was called to the scene because the huge fire evidently worried persons in the area and an alarm was turned in, Chief Jerome Root Jr. reported.

A fire completely destroyed a car owned by Phylis Vernier of Cass City. According to Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., the fire started above the catalytic converter on the passenger side of the car. The car, a Pontiac Grand Le Mans, was being driven by Vernier's son on Cemetery near Shabbona at the time of the fire. Loss was estimated at $3,000. Fire fighters were on the scene approximately 1/2 hour. No injuries were incurred.

The Children Of The 21st Century Are Here!

Do you know that today's three year old child will be a part of the high school graduating class of 2001? Who will be their teachers? What will our Public Schools be like in the 21st Century?

The demand for new teachers is increasing — but fewer of the brightest and best young minds are choosing teaching as a career.

Veteran teachers continue to leave for more lucrative jobs in private industry.

A teacher shortage already exists in some subject areas and a severe teacher shortage looms in the future.

Improved salaries and working conditions are necessary now if there are to be sufficient qualified teachers to touch the future.

The timing made it impossible for us to do anything with it. It happened on Tuesday noon the same time the weekly issue of the paper is published. That makes the news too ancient before we can print it.

A program like this should bring history to life for the students.

The Haire Net

Ever since reading about the strip searches of students conducted at Davison High School, there's been an unsuccessful attempt to come to a conclusion about it.

Was it right or wrong? Understand that these searches are conducted following a strict protocol with 2 persons of the same gender always present.

Understand that the search is conducted when there is reason to suspect that drugs have been hidden inside a bra or panties or boys' underwear.

Counterbalancing the scale is the infringement of the individual rights of students. Jeanna Wartella, 16, one subject of a search, is quoted as saying it was embarrassing and humiliating.

With the exception of alcohol, a couple of administrators in larger schools tell me that hard drug use is declining. Booze is booming like never before.

It's easy to be cool about this titillating strip story when it happens in Davison. Suppose it happened in one of the area high schools and it's the neighbor down the street who suffers the ignominy of a search. What then?

The search of course is a reflection of the times, the searching for ways to counter the drug use epidemic that has become a nationwide problem.

If the strip search would solve the problem or even abate it a little, it probably would be condoned as a necessary evil by most adults and concerned parents.

It's hard to see how searches will change things much. Even if they are successful and turn up a packet of cocaine hidden away, what's the long term benefit?

It would probably make students a little more cautious about the way the product is handled. Change the way they operate, but not the end results. Not significantly, anyway.

The story said that the teachers only demand a search when there is reason to think that drugs may be hidden under clothing.

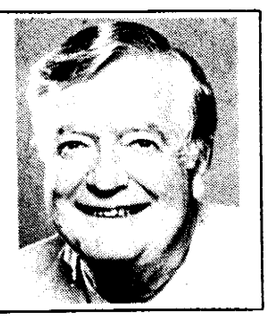
Yet, according to the story, in many of the students interviewed, nothing was found. It's probably true that if something was found, the students won't talk about it.

But for the nebulous benefit that the searches bring, perhaps we should take a long look at this invasion of privacy before deciding it's the way to go.

"If It Fitz..."

Birth of a star

By Jim Fitzgerald



A movie producer phoned to ask me to be in his film. "It was bound to happen someday," I explained to my wife. After considerable coaxing, she agreed to go with me to the filming site to assist at the birth of a star.

Terrible Jean, my much older sister, also went along, to play the role of my mother. As requested, we showed up at Holy Redeemer Church at 10 a.m. Thursday. Producer Bobby Laurel immediately stuck green stickers on our chests.

By now, everyone knows "The Rosary Murders," starring Donald Sutherland and Charles Durning is being shot in and around Holy Redeemer, at Junction and W. Vernor. Everyone knows the movie is from the book by former priest Bill Kienzle of Southfield with screenplay by Elmore (Dutch) Leonard of Birmingham. And Laurel, who later became a well-known Detroit entertainer, was an altar boy at Holy Redeemer.

Last week, it also became known that the Rev. Joseph Tobin, Holy Redeemer's pastor, objected to a portion of the movie script indicating a priest might break the seal of the confessional to expose a murderer. But Laurel said it was a minor misunderstanding, quickly resolved.

It might be noted that no objections were made to the scene where a nun is murdered in the bathtub. Laurel said there will be no nudity.

But all that stuff sounds like show-biz gossip and, as a serious actor, I try to put myself above such fluff. The only important thing is the dramatic effort put forth in quest of excellence, and just the honor of being nominated for an Academy Award is enough for me; I don't really care if someone else wins it.

The opening scene of "The Rosary Murders" shows the church crowded by me and 600 other people for Ash Wednesday services. Because our green stickers identified us as friends of the producer, not just ordinary extras, Terrible Jean, my wife and I were seated in a front row, just a few feet from where Donald Sutherland and Charles Durning were acting like priests.

Every time the camera swooped in on the stars, I was sure to appear on screen. But before the filming started, a production assistant rearranged the congregation to present "a better mix of people." Terrible Jean and I were moved back 30 rows. Thirty!

It was obvious that more ethnic-looking faces were being moved to the front to replace people who looked like they were friends of the producer.

"Look Mexican!" I hissed at Terrible Jean.

"Si, muchacho," she said loudly, but it didn't do any good.

Terrible Jean and I were kept out of camera range while my wife remained close enough to touch Sutherland. Suddenly I knew how James Mason felt when Judy Garland eclipsed him in "A Star Is Born." (Janet Gaynor and Barbra Streisand did the same thing to Frederic March and Kris Kristofferson in other productions of the same movie. My wife couldn't tell you that).

But the movie business is funny. One minute you're on the bottom, ready to return home from Hollywood in shame, and the next minute someone says the people in our pew should go to the altar rail to get ashes put on their forehead.

This was my chance. Sutherland, Durning and some unknown actor from New York were applying the ashes. If I drew one of the stars, I would surely get the film exposure necessary to be discovered for a larger role in my next film.

But when I got to the rail, the only opening was in front of the unknown actor. I couldn't wait for Sutherland or Durning without holding up the line, ruining the scene, and risking having my green sticker revoked forever.

The same thing happened to Terrible Jean. We returned to the back of the church with anonymously applied ashes, and had to sit there two more hours, in obscure ignominy, waiting for my wife to complete her starring role.

And on the way down the church steps, I tripped. It's not easy to walk so soon after being eclipsed by your wife. James Mason killed himself.

Muxlow seeking reelection

State Representative Keith Muxlow (R-Brown City) announced that he is seeking reelection to the Michigan House of Representatives.

The 78th District lawmaker is currently serving his third term in the Legislature.

He has served on the influential house appropriations committee since January 1985.

"We've worked extensively to 'hold the line' on government spending this year and our efforts have paid off. The 1986-87 budget should reflect little or no growth from this year's fiscal plan," he said.

As a member of the appropriations committee, Muxlow serves on several subcommittees that deal with specific budget areas. His three subcommittee assignments include the agriculture, regulatory and transportation budgets.

Senior Power Day: A chance to be heard

CHUCK SIMON of Kingston traveled to the Lansing Civic Center for Senior Power Day May 13.

Senior citizens were able to criticize, comment, and discuss legislation, health care, housing and more at Senior Power Day, Tuesday, May 13.

Senior citizens from all over the state converged in Lansing to attend the annual day-long event, at the Civic Center.

Chuck Simon, 76, of Kingston is a veteran visitor to Senior Power Day. He has traveled to Lansing 8 of the 12 years that the program has been in existence.

This year, Simon pushed the Penny Petition, which is part of a nationwide effort organized by a group called Americans for a Common Sense Budget. It is supported by the American Association of Retired Persons, the Advocates Senior Alert Process, and by the National Council of Senior Citizens, of which Simon is a member. There is a place on the petition to enclose a penny for a common sense budget and send it to 3 federal lawmakers. The petition states that this is more than all the taxes paid by 50 of the largest, most profitable U.S. Corporations and hundreds of millionaires between 1981 and 1984. The petition goes on to say that if these corporations had paid their fair share of taxes during those years, then the federal budget wouldn't be in the red now. The penny petition also suggests reducing military funding and protecting domestic programs. Simon thinks that the Penny Petition is like the Boston Tea Party — "it's another revolution."

"I'm going to call up Senator Levin in Washington and suggest that the pennies go towards paying off the national debt," said Simon.

Simon has been active in politics for years. "I became involved as a youngster when I read an article about the military proposing a dignified way to get rid of the elderly. This was in 1918. The army suggested it because it was felt that the elderly couldn't carry their share of the load."

Simon wrote his first article 10 years ago for the Thumb Area Senior News. "It was about the Delany Act. It was brought to my attention that legislation which said that cancer causing additives cannot be added to food was about to be changed. I supported the legislation to keep it."

Simon has been very active in his support of senior groups. He was past president of the American Association of Retired Persons, past treasurer of the Thumb Area Commission on Aging, and past president of the Tuscola county Council on Aging.

Senior Power Day was a chance for senior citizens like Chuck Simon to be heard. The Thumb Area Commission on Aging cosponsored a 38-seat bus.

Senator Donald Riegle was the keynote speaker for Senior Power Day. He supports various help programs for the elderly, such as the extension of the Older Americans Act in 1984, which provides employment, meals, transportation and more to senior citizens through Area Agencies on Aging.

In turn, senior citizens were given a chance to be heard at the Public Hearing, and in one-on-one meetings with legislators.

The public hearing was sponsored by the Michigan Commission on Services to the Aging and the Legislature. Seniors were given an opportunity to express themselves either orally or through written testimony.

The most important part of the day was the Senior Power Day Platform. The elderly presented 4 planks of the platform for 1986. The first is elder aid which urged reducing the number of those institutionalized instead of the development of more institutions.

Health care is another concern. In simplest terms, the platform calls for more effective controls on the growth of hospital and insurance costs.

Third on the list was housing, which suggests alternatives to institutionalizing the elderly, such as home-sharing and senior home complexes.

Transportation is the final and fourth part of this year's platform. This plank calls for raising local funds to support transit programs.

On the lighter side, the day included a march to the Capitol and dancing on the Civic Center patio.

EDC to establish plan for county

The Tuscola County Economic Development Corporation (EDC) board of directors learned of efforts to establish a business plan for Tuscola County during its meeting Wednesday, May 7, in Caro.

Board members were told that arrangements to form the county-wide business plan were agreed to by Michigan Department of Commerce Director Doug Ross, during a stop in Caro last month.

EDC Executive Director James McLoskey said, "Some of the board members met with Doug Ross during the kick-off dinner for the EDC's revolving loan fund, and he agreed to have his people at the State Department of Commerce help us to set up a business plan for Tuscola County. If we can combine the opinions from experts in Lansing with the experience of local business people, then this business plan should be able to give Tuscola County an edge in job retention and creation."

McLoskey said the EDC is hoping that what has been done successfully at the state level will follow at the county level, as well. "Several states in the Great Lakes area have decided to concentrate their efforts in attracting just one type of business, as opposed to going after everything. Here in Michigan, we have been told that counties in the Thumb area and the Saginaw Valley are ideally located for the high-tech shops to provide "just in time" parts for the auto industry in Flint, Saginaw and Bay City. With this assistance from the state, the EDC board hopes that Tuscola County will be able to find a niche in the industrial and economic development process," McLoskey said.

Joslyn sends man to prison

In Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday, Judge Patrick Joslyn sentenced 21-year-old Brian Reil to Jackson prison.

Reil was charged with felonious driving and reckless driving, stemming from an incident Dec. 19 in Vassar Township. He was sentenced to 32 to 48 months at Jackson with 37 days credit for time served. He was also ordered to receive counseling, psychiatric evaluation and his license was suspended. Joslyn also sentenced Reil to 90 days in prison on the charge of reckless driving, with 37 days credit.

James Bucholz, 55, of Caro was remanded to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department without bond. He is charged with criminal sexual conduct in the first degree, stemming from an incident Feb. 10, 1981.

Probation was reinstated for David Bacon, 19, of Mayville. He is on probation stemming from an incident in Kingston Township June 22, 1983.

Carl Jacobs, 21, was arraigned on a probation violation and appointed an attorney. Bond was set at $5,000 cash or surety.

In a trial held May 6 and 7, David Bickel, 21, of Vassar was found not guilty of committing larceny Sept. 7, 1985.

In another trial held May 8 and 9, Wendall Payne, 42, of Center Line was found not guilty of second degree criminal sexual conduct.

Area roadeo slated

Thirty professional school bus drivers, representing school districts in 5 counties, will compete in a regional School Bus Roadeo Saturday, May 17, at Bullock Creek High School, 1429 S. Badour, Midland.

The roadeo involves drivers from Tuscola, Arenac, Bay, Midland and Saginaw Counties and is one of 13 regional competitions scheduled through June 7. Nearly 600 school bus drivers from across Michigan are expected to compete.

The top 3 drivers from each roadeo will advance to the state finals June 18 at Eaton Rapids.

The fear of the number 13 is called triskaidekaphobia.

The standout pitching of Dana Laurie, including a no-hitter in the second game, sparked Owen-Gage's two softball wins over visiting Akron-Fairgrove Monday. In the opener, Becky Howard clobbered a triple and two singles for the winners.

Low Interest Energy - Conservation Loans for Home-Owners and Landlords

Payment as low as $25.00 mo.

Thanks to an Energy Bank Program grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the city of Cass City is able to help many of its residents make energy-conservation improvements in their homes. This is Cass City's first home improvement program that is available to rental-property owners as well as home-owners including mobile homes.

The Program works like this: 1) An interested resident phones or visits the Cass City Village Office 872-2911 to see if she-he is eligible. The office personnel will help the applicant get bids from approved energy contractors and to select the best and lowest bid. 2) The city then pays a "principal reduction" for that loan. The amount of the principal reduction can vary from 50% to 20% of the improvement costs, depending primarily on the applicant's income.

To be eligible for this program, the owner of the home must:

- Be income-eligible, under certain circumstances with incomes as high as $55,200(except for owners of apartment buildings with more than 4 units, where there is no income limit).
- Be eligible for an FHA Title One Home Improvement Loan. Usually this means that you must own the home or be buying it on a mortgage or land contract.
- In general, borrow a minimum of $1,000, with a minimum monthly payment of $25 per month.
- Have an energy audit done of the house, either through the RCS program offered by Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. or through another approved auditor. Most audit costs over $15 may be included as part of the loan.

Eligible Improvements Include:

- Caulking and weatherstripping
- Furnaces and furnace efficiency modifications
- Insulation
- Storm doors and windows
- Energy-efficient lighting systems
- Conversions from master utility meters to individual utility meters
- Note: 1) Improvements begun before applying for this loan are in-eligible; 2) in general, improvements must be able to "pay for themselves" in seven years.

HUD's Energy Bank Program is administered in Michigan by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA), in cooperation with the Michigan Administration and the Michigan Public Service Commission. These agencies require that at least 20% of the loans go to households with gross annual incomes of $20,720 or less. To apply, or for more information, visit: Cass City Village Office, 6737 Church St., Cass City, Michigan 48726, 517-872-2911.

Myths about eye care

Whether caused by superstition or lack of information, many older people have misconceptions about their eyes. Here are some common myths about elderly eye care -- followed by the facts.

As I get older, I have to expect that vision won't be what it used to be.

This is not necessarily true. There is a great deal that can be done to preserve and protect the eye health of elderly people although they are particularly vulnerable to certain eye diseases. If you are 65 or over and do not have an eye physician, call the toll-free Helpline -- 1-800-222-EYES -- to obtain the name of an ophthalmologist who has volunteered to care for you.

Using my eyes too much, or even reading or doing close work in dim light, will damage my eyes.

Not true. The eyes cannot be damaged by being used, not even by watching "too much" television or reading in dim light. The muscles around the eyes, however may become tired and it might be more comfortable to rest them periodically when fatigue becomes apparent.

If I wear eyeglasses, I can help preserve the strength of my eyes.

False. Eyes, like the body's other organs and systems, are affected by the aging process, but glasses will not prevent that process from continuing.

I see perfectly well and my eyes don't hurt, so there is no reason for me to visit an ophthalmologist.

Not true. Regular medical eye exams are essential if eye disease is to be detected in an early stage, before serious damage has been done.

Glaucoma, in particular, is called the "thief of sight" because it often presents no obvious symptoms in its early stages. Glaucoma can usually be controlled by medication, yet it remains a leading cause of blindness. This means that many cases of glaucoma are discovered too late for effective treatment.

I don't have high blood pressure so there's little chance I will get glaucoma.

False. Glaucoma is not related to high blood pressure. It is caused by an increase in pressure within the eye. It may be controlled by a continuing use of medication or by surgery.

I understand that a cataract is a clouding of the lens, but I'm afraid of surgery.

Today, cataract surgery is easy and safe, and its success rate is extremely high.

Still, I would rather have my cataracts treated with pills or drops.

Not possible. Surgery is the only effective treatment that we have at present. No matter what you hear or read, nothing else works.

Can cataracts be removed by lasers?

Lasers are used only for procedures before or after cataract surgery, but not for the removal of the cataract itself.

I hate to bother doctors, especially if I don't have a real problem.

The best time to visit an ophthalmologist is before an eye problem has become severe. Early detection of an eye disease offers the best chance for effective treatment. Regular exams are especially important for people with a family history of eye disease and for diabetics, whose systemic problems often also affect their eyes.

******

The National Eye Care Project offers ophthalmological care to U.S. citizens and legal residents age 65 and over who have medical eye problems, but who don't have a medical eye physician. The toll-free Eye Care Helpline -- 1-800-222-EYES -- will open on a region-by-region basis over a six-month period, and be operating nationwide by July 21, 1986. It is sponsored by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and your state ophthalmology society.

Your neighbor says

We've got to protect ourselves

Reagan's decision to bomb Libya in retaliation for recent terrorist attacks has brought about mixed feelings. Should Reagan have ordered the bombing?

"I agree with the bombing," said Russ Schneeberger, partner in Schneeberger Furniture and Appliance store. "We've got to protect ourselves."

He feels that something had to be done because there seemed to be no end to the violence. Schneeberger said that it is up to strong countries like the United States to join forces with other strong countries to fight terrorism. "I don't think they will attack a country that won't put up with it," he said.

He also believes that stiffer penalties should be imposed when they do catch the terrorists.

Does he believe that we should use force again? "I think that we should do it again, If we back down, it will just continue. I sure don't want to see my son going (to war) and I'm sure no one else does either."

One solution Schneeberger suggested is boycotting any countries having known ties with terrorism. "If someone handed me a free ticket right now I wouldn't go (abroad)," he remarked.

Schneeberger lives in Cass City with his wife Olga. He has one son and 2 daughters.

Big fish

Talk about your big fish stories. Biologists at Michigan State University are exploring ways to produce 70-pound salmon by placing eggs in warm water, reports International Wildlife magazine. The higher temperature prevents fish from undergoing a key growth stage, making them sterile and overdeveloped.

New books at the library

HEART OF THE COMET by Gregory Benford and David Brin (fiction). This is a science fiction story of the twenty-first century return of Halley's comet. The adventures of an international expedition sent to explore and colonize the comet feature the discovery of life there and the later evolution of the colony's society.

REASONABLE DOUBT: AN INVESTIGATION INTO THE ASSASSINATION OF JOHN F. KENNEDY by Henry Hurt (non-fiction). The psychological damage the U.S. incurred when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in 1963 may never be assuaged. Worse still was the mockery made by government officials and security agencies in their investigation of the crime. The author does not revise the findings of the many critics of the Warren Commission (1964) or the House Select Committee on Assassinations (1978). His success in pulling together a voluminous mass of evidence and innuendo into a cohesive whole is nothing less than staggering. Americans have been duped and the citizenry continues to cry out for answers. Only a deathbed confession by a contrite coconspirator may provide the answers now.

HOUSE by Tracy Kidder (non-fiction). This is the story of a young Massachusetts couple who have commissioned an architect-designed country home. The author documents both the material and the spiritual requirements of the good life that this house represents for these people. He shows us some of the compromises that are faced in the delicate process of ongoing bargaining, by focusing on the actual procedures of design, bidding, and construction. The initial bright promises are frustrated by rising costs and missed deadlines, the silver lining breaks through when the house is finished, moving day arrives, and the new hearth is lit.

Displaced farmer employed thanks to area agencies

LINDA HERMAN (center) is a dislocated farmer due to the dairy herd buy-out program. Thanks to the Displaced Farmer Program sponsored by MSU, the Cooperative Extension Office and the Thumb Area Commission on Aging (TACA), she is now employed as a case manager with TACA. Also pictured are TACA Director Alan Sward and Betty Pattullo, Employment and Training Specialist for Dislocated Farmer Program.

Linda Herman and her husband Alan live on a 160 acre farm north of Elkton. They could have been dislocated farmers due to the recent dairy herd buy-out program.

But thanks to the Thumb Area Commission on Aging (TACA) and the dislocated farmer program offered through the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Office and Michigan State University, Linda has found a job.

She is one of 15 that the program has helped to place, said Betty Pattullo, Employment and Training Specialist for the dislocated farmer program.

Linda, 30, and mother of 3, saw the advertisement for a case manager opening at TACA in a local newspaper and decided to apply. In the meantime she got in touch with Pattullo, having learned of the displaced farmer program through various articles. Within days, Betty Pattullo, Linda and Alan Sward, director of TACA, met to work out the details of her employment.

The dislocated farmer program reimburses the hiring agency for 50% of the wages earned during the on-the-job training period, according to Pattullo. The fact that Linda was working with the dislocated farmer program was added incentive for hiring her, said Sward.

She will be a full-time case manager, and her job entails doing a number of things such as follow-ups on referrals of senior citizens reported eligible for homebound meals.

Linda and her husband were both employed by Elmer Herman, Alan's father. She said that between 75 and 100 head of cattle were sold. "It's tough seeing all those cows with the brand on their face go," she said.

The herd probably won't be gone until the end of July, Linda said, so her husband has to stay on the farm until then. Elmer Herman is retiring and will also rely on cash crops now that he's out of dairy farming, said Linda.

Linda has had previous experience working with the elderly. She worked at the Huron County Medical Care Facility and Sunny Acres Nursing Home, both of Bad Axe.

"I wish that everyone was this easy to place," said Pattullo. In the meantime she is moving full steam ahead on other programs such as a series of assessment and counseling sessions for farmers through the Sanilac County Career Center and she is putting together a similar program through the Tuscola County Career Center.

Stolen auto used to commit vandalism at schools recovered

Two automobiles were stolen sometime Sunday morning, according to Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson.

A Pinto owned by Dennis Regnerus of 6433 Church St. was discovered in his neighbor's driveway Monday morning. It was taken sometime after 11 p.m. Sunday and damage was done to the radiator.

Olivia Torres of 6372 Pine St. reported her car missing at 7:55 a.m. Monday. Her Mustang was taken sometime after midnight Sunday. The keys had been left in both vehicles.

The Mustang was recovered at approximately 11:00 a.m. at the park with a flat tire, said Wilson.

He said that it appears that the car was used to commit 2 acts of vandalism Sunday night - one at the Cass City High School and one at Campbell Elementary. The goal posts at the high school were rammed with a car and are still standing, but will have to be straightened. A bike rack at the elementary school was also run into and bent. Wilson said that marks on the car and the goal posts and bike rack match.

Leeroy Sellers, 19, of 6547 Kelly Rd., was eastbound on Kelly Rd., a quarter mile west of Cemetery Rd., Sunday morning when he fell asleep and drove into the ditch, according to the police report. Damage was done to a fence and posts belonging to Lyle Clarke of 3475 Cemetery Rd.

Reginia Bradley, 26, of 7953 Cass City Rd., reported to the Cass City Police that she was forced off Garfield Rd. Saturday night.

Janet McPeck was parked in front of Hair Benders between 5 p.m. and 6:15 p.m. Thursday, when she discovered a van window had been broken. Approximately $100 in damage was done.

Cheryl Gee reported a break-in at F & D Wholesale, 6491 Main St. Thursday. The rear door had been forced open and a number of items were taken such as sunglasses and wrenches.

John L. Sefton, 57, of Decker was northbound on M-53 near the intersection of M-81 when he struck a deer, Monday, May 5.

Drivers of 2 vehicles involved in an accident at the Main and Seeger Streets intersection in Cass City were slightly injured Monday noon.

One of the passengers, Donna Marilyn Seymour, 48, of 1525 LeRoy Street, Ferndale, who recently was treated for back problems, was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital emergency room for treatment and released.

According to Cass City Chief Gene Wilson, a car driven by Janet Rae Wielfeldt, 45, of 1777 River Road, Saginaw, was attempting to turn left onto Seeger Street from Main and collided with a car driven by Seymour. Wielfeldt was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way.

Witnesses said they felt both cars were traveling too fast and that the traffic light was about to change. Both cars were damaged and had to be towed from the scene.

Watch for fraud

by Betty Pattullo
Extension Home Economist

We've all seen those intriguing ads that tell us we can earn hundreds of dollars in our spare time at home.

These offers may sound very attractive, particularly if you're unable to leave your home to work. But be cautious about work-at-home ads, says Betty Pattullo, Employment and Training Specialist, Michigan State University, especially ones that promise large profits in a short period of time.

Home employment schemes are one of the oldest kinds of classified advertising fraud, states Pattullo.

Consumers deceived by these ads have lost thousands of dollars and wasted their time and energy.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FRAUD

If a work-at-home scheme is legitimate, its sponsor should tell you -- in writing and for free -- what is involved. Here are some questions you might ask:

--What tasks will I be required to perform? Ask them to list every step.

--Will I be paid on salary or commission?

--Who will pay me?

--What is the total cost to me, and what will I get for my money?

You may also wish to investigate the company's reputation by checking with the consumer protection agency and the Better Business Bureau where the company is located. These organizations can tell you if they have received any complaints about the work-at-home program that interests you. For more information contact Cooperative Extension Service at 517-673-5999 ext. 228.

Learn about stomach pains at hospital

People recognize stomach pains — heartburn, indigestion, cramps, gas — as common symptoms, but the causes of abdominal discomfort are more mysterious than many other health problems. Often people have no clue as to what might be wrong.

A film and lecture is slated at Hills and Dales General Hospital Wednesday, May 14, at 7:00 p.m. It focuses on common abdominal pains, including ulcers, gallstones, hiatal hernia, inflammatory bowel disease, and other digestive tract problems.

The Healthscope series is produced under an educational grant from The Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo.

Dr. Beatriz G. Martin of Cass City, a specialist in internal medicine, will present the lecture. She is a member of the American College of Physicians. Founded in 1915, the college is the largest medical specialty society in the United States.

Hawks lose 4 in sad week

It was a sad week for Cass City High School's baseball team as the squad lost 4 games in double bill action in Thumb B Association competition with Vassar and Lakers.

Monday, May 5, the Hawks entertained the Vassar Vulcans, losing the first game, 9-7, and the second, 10-3. In the opener the Hawks pounded out 8 hits including 2 each by Duane Wright and Chip Creason.

But Wright wasn't as effective on the mound as he was at the plate.

Vassar jumped off to a 7-run lead in the first 4 innings before Cass City bounced back with 2 runs in the bottom of the fourth and added four more in the fifth and another marker in the sixth.

In the nightcap, Dave Miller had one of his poorer outings of the season. He was touched for 3 runs in the first inning and the Vulcans never looked back after that.

Brian Morely was touched for 3 runs in the first 2 innings but after that shut the door on the Hawks, allowing just 2 hits the rest of the way. Andy Nichols led Cass City with 2 hits.

LAKER GAMES

The Lakers jumped off to a 3-run lead in the first inning Thursday touching Wright for 6 hits. Meanwhile the Hawks could do little with Wertz who limited Cass City to hits by Rob Nicholas and Creason in registering the 7-2 decision.

The nightcap was a well played game decided in the last inning.

Cass City jumped off to a 3-run lead in the second on a couple of walks and a key double by Mike Stevenson.

The Lakers touched Miller for 3 hits and as many runs in the fourth to tie the game. The winning run was scored in the top of the last inning with the aid of a couple of Hawk errors.

Miller allowed just 3 hits and Parrish was almost as effective for Lakers, allowing just 4 hits.

Nicholas was 2 of 3 for Cass City.

TOURNAMENT

Coach Don Schelke announced that Cass City has drawn Unionville-Sebewaing in the qualifying game to be eligible for the pre-district tournament.

The game is scheduled Tuesday at USA.

Only 2 qualify for big meet

Unless things change in the next 2 weeks, there will be relatively little interest in 4 area schools in the annual Meet of Champs at Stamats Field in Caro May 27.

Among area schools, Cass City, Kingston, Owen-Gage and Ubly, Ubly was the only school to have a performer qualify when results were tabulated May 9.

Ubly is qualified in the 1600 meter relay and Brian Block is qualified in the 100-yard dash. None of the other schools has an athlete eligible to participate.

The top male and female athletes of the meet will get engraved plaques. Each competitor will also receive an engraved certificate, and to a leading sports personality in the area will go the coveted "Thumb Sports Leader Award."

The winners of this year's events will be presented with the traditional gold, silver and bronze medals specially designed for the Meet of Champions. And, for the first time, medals will also be presented to the fourth, fifth and sixth place finishers in each of the 27 events of the meet, doubling the amount of medals to be presented.

IT LOOKED as if this runner would be an easy out on this play, but the umpire ruled she beat the throw for a leg hit against Vassar Monday, May 5.

Hawks split twin bill in Thumb B

The Cass City High School softball team split a couple of twin bills last week to conference opponents, Vassar Vulcans and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Lakers. The Hawks opened the week Monday, May 5, with a dramatic late inning rally to nip the Vulcans 11-10.

Wilson opened the scoring for Cass City as the Hawk lead-off hitter belted a home run and helped skate Cass City to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. The Hawks added to their lead in the 2nd inning when some costly fielding helped the Hawks to cross the plate two more times and take a 4-0 lead.

Cass City suffered from the long ball in the top of the 3rd as Vassar's Endert and Wilson each cleared the bases to jet the Vulcans into a 4-3 lead. Cass City wasted no time in its half of the 3rd, recapturing the lead with the help of 2 RBI singles off the bats of Kelly Deering and Terri Summers. The score remained 7-3 until the top of the 5th when the Vulcans sent 11 batters to the plate and scored 6 times with only one hit.

Cass City's heroics started when Renee Szarapski's pinch hit single scored Connie Robinson to bring the Hawks to within 2 with only 1 out. Wilson tied the score for the Hawks when she connected for a 3 bagger. Deb Cook provided the game winning RBI for the Hawks as she scored Wilson from third with a single.

Yvette Hurd was handed the mound duties for the Hawks and bested Vassar's Callahan.

GAME TWO

The Hawks fell apart in the nightcap enabling Vassar to rout Cass City 23-3. The Hawks recorded only 4 hits, collecting 3 of those in the first inning. Meanwhile the Vulcans' hitters were enjoying a field day at the plate as they had a 4 multi-run inning highlighted by a 10 run 5th inning when all 9 Vulcan batters scored at least once.

Vassar's Endert led a parade of hitters as she went 3-4 and knocked in 5 Vulcan runs including a home run with 2 runners aboard in the 10-run 5th inning.

Yvette Hurd started on the mound for Cass City and suffered the loss. She was relieved by Brenda Severance. Callahan, the Vulcan Iron Arm Mary, recorded the win while striking out 2 and walking 6.

LAKER GAME

The Hawks rebounded from their loss to Vassar with a 6-3 win Thursday afternoon to host team Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Lakers.

The Hawks scored 3 runs in the opening inning, taking advantage of three consecutive Laker errors. Two of those runs came when the Laker catcher missed 3rd strike swings on 2 different Hawk batters.

Coach Jim Fox praised the effort of Hawk hurler Yvette Hurd. The spunky southpaw threw one of her better games, striking out 4 while yielding only one walk. The Lakers touched Hurd for 7 hits, 6 of those coming in the first 2 innings.

Terri Summers went 2 for 3 to pace the Hawks at the plate.

GAME TWO

The Lakers wore down the Hawks in the second game, winning the finale 8-3. The Lakers, using mainly bunts as their offensive weapon, scored 4 runs in the bottom of the 5th to blow open a tight 3-2 Laker lead. Hawk ace Yvette Hurd looked sharp through the first 4 innings but tired, mainly from fielding so many bunts in both the first and second games. Hurd still struck out 2, but lost some of her stuff and gave up 9 hits.

Terri Summers continued to play well for the Hawks at the plate, going 2-3 and collecting one of the Hawks' 3 RBIs.

Herme notched the win for the Lakers. Hurd struck out 2 and walked 9.

Hawks host Marlette in tournament

The Cass City girls' softball team will host the Marlette Red Raiders May 23 at 4:30 in pre-district competition. The Hawks lost 2 games to the Red Raiders early this year losing at Marlette 4-3 in the first game and 8-3 in the nightcap. Hawk coach Jim Fox is optimistic about the girls' chances to revenge the Hawks' early setback and advance further into district play.

Double losses fatal

Hawk thinclads bow out of race

The Cass City girls' hopes of winning the Thumb B track title vanished last week when the Hawk lady thinclads were dropped by conference foes Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Lakers and the Caro Tigers. Cass City boys' track team found the Lakers and Tigers equally as strong and bore both losses.

The Laker girls' middle distance proved to be the difference Tuesday, May 6, as they earned a 90.5 to 62.5 win. Cass City's girls were led by double winner Joan Steely who won the 100-dash in a time of 12.59 and the shot put with a put of 30'4". Cass City's boys lost a hard fought match to the visiting Lakers 88.5 to 72.5. Cass City won 8 of the 17 events showing good team strength as Cass City's only dual winner was Steve Ross who captured both the 100 high hurdles and 300 low hurdles.

Cass City High School's track team visited the Caro Tigers Thursday and were soundly beaten on a warm ideal afternoon. Cass City's girls managed only 3 first place finishes and lost 109.5 to 42.5. Steely was the Hawks' only double winner. The boys were handed a 97 to 66 loss. Again Cass City showed good team balance by winning 7 events.

After injury

Jill battles back to mound

The Calvin College women's softball team had its own success story this season. Despite tendonitis in her shoulder, Jill Hutchinson, a Cass City resident, grappled her way into a top pitching spot for the Lady Knights.

JILL HUTCHINSON

Hutchinson injured her shoulder last year and came to Calvin in the fall barely able to throw the softball. Through a designed therapy program and hours of hard work, she restrengthened her arm finishing the season at the top of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) with a 1.95 earned run average and a 5-3 mark.

For the Lady Knights, "Hutch" doubled as a first baseman and pitcher this season, spending most of her time on the mound. Fielding helped strengthen her as a pitcher. "I think that my pitching coupled with an ability to play defense well has improved my overall performance on the mound," said Hutch. Her ability to play defense is evident by an errorless season while pitching and playing first.

Calvin's coach, Karla Wolters, commends Hutchinson for her ability to handle pressure situations. "With players on base, Jill usually pulls through with that key out to end the inning," said Wolters. Not only is Hutchinson a performer on the mound and in the field, but her hitting also is a valuable asset to the team. "She is probably our best hitter to the opposite (right) field, producing hits when there are runners in scoring position. She also has a good eye for the ball and doesn't go after any junk pitches," Wolters added.

Hutchinson contributed to a record-breaking Calvin season in which the Lady Knights set five school records in runs scored (166), RBI's (127), stolen bases (48), base-on-balls (113), and strike outs (100).

Hutchinson is leaning toward a sociology major the present time. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hutchinson of 6454 Seventh St.

Herron and Griesing participate in diabetic research program

CHERYL GRIESING explains the operation of an insulin pump. She wears the pump 24 hours a day in conjunction with an experimental diabetic program at Henry Ford Hospital.

DIABETIC ANGELA HERRON draws insulin, an everyday routine. In front of her are all the things she uses each day to keep her blood sugar at normal levels.

by Cymbre Sommerville

Angela, 15, appears to be a normal teenager in every way except that she requires one to 2 insulin shots a day and must keep a careful daily record of her blood sugar levels.

Cheryl, 22, also leads a normal life. She is married and works full-time, but wears an insulin pump on her belt. She is required to test her blood 7 times a day.

Both are diabetics and part of a research program called Diabetes Control and Complications Trial (DCCT) conducted by Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. DCCT is sponsored by the National Institute of Health.

Diabetes is defined as a malfunction of the pancreas which is the organ that is responsible for producing insulin that goes into the bloodstream in response to sugar levels.

According to Davida Kruger, clinical nurse specialist in diabetes and the DCCT coordinator, the diabetics participating in the program don't produce any insulin and are insulin-dependent. Their blood sugar level is controlled through daily injections of insulin.

Sometimes other forces can cause the blood sugar level to become too high. Any infection, for example, will automatically raise it. A head cold can be serious and stress can also bring levels up. "I know that sometimes before a test my blood sugar (level) goes up," said Angela.

The purpose of the DCCT is to develop new methods of keeping blood sugar levels of diabetics close to non-diabetic levels.

There are 2 groups that a volunteer can belong to, standard and experimental. The reason for comparing the standard treatment with newer forms of treatment is to find out whether the complications of diabetes can be prevented or slowed down. Assignment to a group is strictly random.

Angela Herron of Cass City belongs to the standard group, and has been part of the program since its beginning 3 years ago. Angela's mother, Linda, said they found out about the program when a relative pointed out an advertisement in the Detroit News asking for volunteers.

Angela was diagnosed with diabetes at age 11 after a serious illness the family originally thought was the flu.

Before the program, Angela said her blood sugar levels were often very high. "When I got sick, it would get up near 500," she said. Average blood sugar levels are 80-120.

She said that the program has made a lot of difference. "I'm missing less school," she said. "I used to miss one or 2 weeks every month." She also said that she can control the disease better.

The volunteers in the standard group require one to 2 injections a day. They are also put on a special diet and are expected to monitor their condition on a regular basis. Angela is required to take 3 blood samples a day. Follow-up is an important part of the treatment, and Angela travels the 100 miles to Ford hospital every 3 months.

Cheryl Griesing of Millington joined the DCCT in February and is in the experimental group.

She was diagnosed with the disease at age 11 also. Her brother had previously been diagnosed as a diabetic, so her parents were familiar with the symptoms. "They took me in (to the doctor) and my blood sugar was sky high." she said.

Volunteers in the experimental group are asked to try new techniques in order to achieve lower blood sugar levels. In Cheryl's case, she is on an insulin pump. The pump, which she wears on a belt around her waist, is comparable in size to a walkman.

"The pump gives me insulin all day,"Cheryl said. She pointed out the digital readout that was set at 1.1. In simplest terms, this means that she is getting 1.1 units of insulin an hour during the day and .9 at night. She is receiving the lower dosage during the night because she was waking up with too much insulin in her blood. She can change the dosage amount, depending on her blood sugar level, simply by referring to a chart and changing the numbers accordingly. Extending from the pump is a 42 inch cord which attaches to a needle in her leg. She said that overall she doesn't have any problems with it. The only time she was worried was the first time she slept with it. "I was afraid it (the pump) would fall out of bed or the needle would pull out my leg, but I think that was the only time I didn't move all night since I got the pump," Cheryl said. The pump entails daily upkeep such as replacement of the syringe and battery.

Other requirements are 7 blood sugar level checks a day at timed intervals before and after meals, and a 3 a.m. check once a week to determine the nightly sugar levels. She also must go to the hospital once a month.

Cheryl joined the program after the Herrons told her about it. "Before that I never checked my sugar levels," she said. Though she said she felt fine, not checking can lead to harmful side effects over a period of time such as impaired vision, and blood vessel and kidney damage. 'The program gives me incentive to do well and keep testing my sugar levels," Cheryl said. Linda Herron said that the problem is that diabetics often don't look at the long term effects of the disease.

Both Angela and Cheryl don't have enough nice things to say about the DCCT and the staff at Henry Ford.

"They pay for all our diabetic supplies which are expensive," said Linda. The treated strips used to test their blood cost $25 for 50 strips, or 50 cents each time they run the test, which is done several times a day. The hospital also pays for mileage and meals in the hospital cafeteria. "They're super," said Linda. "They encourage you to call whenever you have a problem or question," said Cheryl. "And no question is too dumb," added Linda. Kruger said they are available to participants 24 hours a day.

DCCT has recently been approved for 10 years, and it is one of 21 programs run in other clinics across the U.S. and Canada. Kruger said that those clinics are probably the best in dealing with diabetes and if she has any questions she can call one of them.

According to Kruger, there are currently 35 volunteers enrolled in the program ages 13 to 40 and 20 more are needed. "Angela and Cheryl are making such a big contribution," said Kruger, "and we need 20 more volunteers to do the same."

Said Kruger, "It's a remarkable study."

For more information on the DCCT contact Davida Kruger at Henry Ford Hospital 1-800-482-2404.

O-G splits 2 softball games

The Owen-Gage softball team split 2 finely pitched games last Thursday afternoon with visiting Carsonville-Port Sanilac, winning the first game 6 to 5 and bowing out in the nightcap 3 to 6.

In the opener, Owen-Gage ace Susie Salcido recorded the win. Salcido gave up only 5 hits to go along with 2 strikeouts. Owen-Gage defense was not as sharp as Salcido's pitching performance as they committed 7 errors to help stake CPS to their 5 runs. Salcido also helped her own cause at the plate as she racked up a single and homerun. Owen-Gage's Cindy Enderle and Marsha Lopez joined Salcido with 2 hits for the Bulldogs.

Sheila Osborn suffered the loss. Osborn gave up 6 runs on 7 hits while walking 4 and fanning one. CPS had 3 errors.

GAME TWO

CPS played one of its best defense game of the year in the nightcap to prevent the Bulldogs from a clean sweep. CPS committed only one error and pounded Owen-Gage 6-3. Barb Hellebuyck took the mound duties for the Bulldogs. She issued 6 walks and gave up a total of 6 hits. Owen-Gage's defense made little improvement in the finale as they had a total of 5 errors

Kim June was the winning pitcher for CPS. In 6 innings, June whiffed 3 batters and allowed 6 hits.

Angie Bolzman contributed a single and double for the losers.

WMF holds men's night

The Baptist Women's Missionary Fellowship held a men's night meeting at the church Monday evening, May 5, with 29 members and spouses attending. Each man brought a man's gift for the missionary closet.

Carol LaPonsie, president, conducted the business meeting. Isabelle Whittenburg reported on the Eastern Michigan GARBC meeting held in Ypsilanti. Ruth Fisher was in charge of prayer time for missionaries, and Shirley Shaw presented devotions.

Phyllis Vernier and Mrs. LaPonsie served refreshments.

Using more coal

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

The ad in the Wall Street Journal caught my eye.

SAVE UP TO $500 A YEAR ON LIFE INSURANCE.

An outfit called Select Quote in San Francisco offered to compile quotations on life insurance based on your age, sex and smoking habits and send figures to you free.

I sent in the coupon using my son's birthday. Insurance companies don't write insurance on geezers like me.

So we have a 40-year-old white male, and a non-smoker, for a rate example.

Back came the quotes on policies issued by these companies:

Bankers National Life, Berkshire Life, Federal Kemper Life Assurance, United Olympic Life and Presidential Life.

A M Best & Co., the company that rates insurance companies nationwide, gave Federal Kemper and Presidential a rating of A -Excellent. The others had the very top rating -- A+ Excellent. Bankers National was founded in 1927. Berkshire Life goes back 135 years when it was chartered in Massachusetts. It is among the 25 largest mutual companies in America.

Only a few days after I got all these figures, a friend in Delray Beach asked me to look over a couple of life insurance policies he had. Would you believe it -- he was 40 years old, didn't smoke, had term life policies, and $100,000 coverage in each policy. The fates must have directed me to ask for quotes that fit his case, when I didn't even know he had an insurance problem.

Call him Harry. Here are details of his two $100,000 policies:

Company No 1: (Old established mutual company.)

Average annual premium first 10 years.....$370.

No cash value build-up. Premiums gradually increase from year to year.

Average annual premium first 10 years.....$861.

Cash value after 10 years -- $6,387. Premiums about level first 10 years, then gradually slide down to around $500 by the 20th year, when Harry would be 60.

Company No. 3 -- one of those quoted by Select Quote: Bankers National Life.

Average annual premium first 10 years (age 40 to 50 for Harry) -- $194.

No cash value. Premium gradually increases as years go by.

(Berkshire Life (the 135-year-old Mass. company) had similar rates.)

Compare apples and apples for Harry:

Company No. 1 offered $100,000 in term life, no cash value. Premiums for Harry for the first 10 years would have totalled $3,700. This is a policy he now has, and has second thoughts about.

Bankers National offers the same thing for $1,940 for those 10 years. Berkshire's quote was an even $2,000.

Harry's other policy (Company No. 2) offers a cash value build-up. But boy, does he pay for it! His premiums for 10 years will cost him $8,610. Cash value will be $6,387.

If all the figures haven't made you dizzy, hang on for the final re-cap:

Present cost to Harry of his two $100,000 policies for the next 10 years -- $12,310. For this amount he will have been insured during that period and have at the end the cash value of $6,387.

Suppose Harry chooses to dump these two policies and instead get one $200,000 policy with Bankers National. This will cost him $3,980 total for 10 years.

But now for the bonus: Harry will take his savings per year of $833 and put it in a bond mutual fund paying say 10%. He does that faithfully for the 10 years until he becomes 50.

The $833 yearly deposit earning interest all the time becomes $14,603 in 10 years.

Either way, Harry is insured for $200,000. Present way he's doing it gives him a cash value in the one policy of $6,387. By getting only straight term insurance at Bankers National prices he also is insured for $200,000. Then, by investing the savings of $833 a year he'll have a "cash value" in his mutual fund of $14,603 -- more than twice as much as the insurance policy he now has promises him 10 years hence.

Looks to me like a lucky day for Harry I happened to clip that ad.

Interested in figures for your own case? Write Select Quote Insurance Services, 140 Second St., San Francisco, Calif. 94105. Or call 1-800-343-1985, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Annual Chamber banquet

200 see residents honored

Before an estimated 200 interested residents Tuesday night at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet at Cass City High School, 3 area residents were honored for achievements in the community.

Selected as Citizen of the Year was Jack Esau. Junior Citizen of the Year is Tammy Iseler. Herbert Ludlow was honored for his service with the Industrial Development Corporation.

Master of Ceremonies Kim Glaspie reviewed Esau's career, outlining the service that was responsible for his selection as citizen of the year.

It was easy for the committee to make sure that Esau attended the banquet without revealing that he had been selected to be honored.

He was asked to present his "Century of Progress" slides depicting the history of Cass City for 100 years.

Esau helped organize the Cass City Area Historical Society in 1977 and served as its first president. He was editor of the society's "The Way it Was."

Other community activities outlined for the group were:

- Member of the Cass City School Board and served as president.
- Volunteer work for veterans' hospital.
- Worker for United Way and cancer drive.
- Master of ceremonies for 26 years at the Elkland Township Memorial Day Services.
- Chairman of the committee that organized the first all Cass City High School reunion.

A Marine veteran of World War II, he remains a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and is quartermaster of the Cass City chapter.

Esau and his wife, Ruth, have 3 children, Anne, Mary Beth Bialick and Eric. All were at the meeting honoring their father.

JUNIOR CITIZEN

From among 10 outstanding senior students at Cass City High School, Tammy Elizabeth Iseler was selected Junior Citizen of the Year.

The daughter of Dale and Kathreen Iseler of Cass City, she earned a perfect, 4-point, scholastic record at Cass City High School.

She participated in the academic games and was a member of the basketball and cheerleading squads. She served as president of the junior class and is student council president. She was a member of the Rotary Leadership Camp.

Tammy works on the alcohol and drug education team and is an active member of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Cass City where she is a choir member and a Sunday School teacher. She plans to study business administration at Washington University in St. Louis.

Making the choice of the judges difficult were the 9 other candidates that John Maharg, who announced the winner of the competition, said were all outstanding individuals.

The other nominees were: Yvette Hurd, Andrew Brian Jeung, Sara MacRae, Annette Stachura, Timothy Davis, Susan Damm, Diane Cooper, Scott Adams and Christine Tuckey.

HERBERT LUDLOW

The Cass City Industrial Development Corporation (IDC) is being dissolved and absorbed into the Cass City Economic Development Corporation. For the 31 years that the IDC operated, Herbert Ludlow was a member of the board as well as one of the organizers of the group that helped bring industry to the community.

Bill Kritzman, a member of the IDC board, said that it was fitting that his service was recognized and honored. Rotary International has a motto, "Service Above Self," and this is a shining example of this type of service, Kritzman said.

Ludlow has served as past president and secretary of the IDC and was the second citizen of the year selected by the Chamber in 1964. Ludlow said as he received a plaque that the "credit really goes to the people of the town."

DAVIS SPEAKS

Village President Larry Davis presented the usual state of the village address. He said that the village's strongest assets were the people in it.

The village is in good financial condition, Davis said, but the reduction in revenue sharing could be a problem.

He said that the money received from this source was equal to about 2 mills of local taxes. The village now raises 15½ mills.

The Most Rev. Kenneth Untener, bishop of the Catholic Saginaw Diocese told the group that people are the "salt of the earth" and that everyone is important to the world around us.

Glaspie introduced 2 new members of the board, Kathy Neuman and Jeri Tordai.

Bids on area roadwork taken Wednesday

Bids on road work on various roadways will be taken Wednesday, May 14, in Lansing, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

In Tuscola County asphalt surfacing and gravel shoulders will be put on 6.67 miles of Bevens Road from E. Dayton Road to Kingston Road. The work is estimated to be finished in September 1986.

Other work includes construction and grading and drainage structures and gravel surfacing on nine-tenths of a mile of North Lake Road from one mile north of the south county line. The completion date for the work is scheduled for September 1986.

In Sanilac County road work includes removal of 4 existing bridges and construction of 4 precast post-tensioned concrete box beam bridges and approaches on Shabbona Road and Downington Road over the Black River, and Miller Road and Frenchline Road over the South Branch of the Cass River. The estimated completion date is November 1986.

These projects are among 56 statewide, costing an estimated 27 million.

Scouts hold annual derby

Thursday, April 24, Cub Scout Pack No. 3594 of Cass City sponsored its annual Pinewood Derby. Over 30 cars competed in 5 divisions. First-place winners in each age division received a trophy. They then competed in a "Grand Prix" race-off.

Trophy winners were Rob Gnagey, Aaron Biefer, Eddie Park and Jason Klein. "Grand Prix" champion was Eddie Park. Second- and third-place ribbons were also awarded in each division. A special division was added this year for non-Cubs, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters. Winner in this event was Tom Bills.

Drew and Vickie Guernsey organized the derby and Jenny Zawilinski made the trophies.

During the May 2-4 weekend, the Webelos den attended the Lake Huron Area Council Spring Camporee at Camp Pine Acres, Caro. The scouts had the opportunity to observe Boy Scouts in action and later participated in some of the events such as archery, rifle practice, compass reading and outdoor cooking. Those attending from Cass City Cub Scout Pack No. 3594 were David Bills, Ronnie Hudson, Jason Klein, Ronnie Miller, Bill Spencer, Marc Wallace, and assistant den leader Ken Spencer.

Wednesday, May 7, the Cub Scouts met at the Charmont for an evening of pizza and bowling and video games. High bowler was Mac Connolly with 92. Den leader Vickie Guernsey outbowled the adults with 125.

The next pack meeting is Thursday, May 22, at 7:00 p.m. in the Campbell school gym. All boys who are completing second, third or fourth grade and are interested in joining the Cub Scout program are invited to attend.

3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon oil
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dill weed
⅛ to ¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper

Combine water, lemon juice, oil, salt and dill weed. Place steak in plastic bag or utility dish. Pour marinade over steak, turning to coat. Tie bag securely or cover dish and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight, if desired), turning at least once. Remove steak from marinade and press pepper into surface of both sides. Place steak on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat and boil to rare or medium (25 to 35 minutes), turning and brushing with marinade. Carve steak in thin slices. 4 servings.
