CASS CITY, MICHIGAN—WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1986

Twenty-five cents

FOURTEEN PAGES PLUS THREE SUPPLEMENTS

Pledge program meets goals

This is the happy story of a tragedy that never happened.

Maybe we were just lucky. Maybe fate favored us.

The fact is, no teenage graduate died needlessly in a traffic accident following a party during the high school graduation season in our area.

The heart-stopping shriek of speeding tires against night-wet pavement didn't awaken our slumber. There was no sound of exploding metal as a car veered across the center line and smashed into an oncoming vehicle, or skidded off the roadway and plowed headlong into an unyielding abutment.

There was no need for an ambulance or a highway patrol car to rend the night stillness with blaring sirens, flashing lights; no need for paramedics to pry smashed pieces of blood-smeared flesh and bone and bodies from detonated vehicles.

There was no need for a community-wide wake of mourning; no need for eulogies from the pulpits; no assemblies of grief at a gravesite; no need for a community-wide outpouring of unanswerable questions as to who or what was to blame for the needless snuffing out of young lives at their prime.

Yes, we were lucky. The fates were with us...this time.

But what about next time? What about all future times?

Maybe...hopefully, maybe... local high school students themselves have come up with a sensible project that can lead to a solution of a problem that has plagued us for too many past graduation seasons -- drinking and driving by student party-goers.

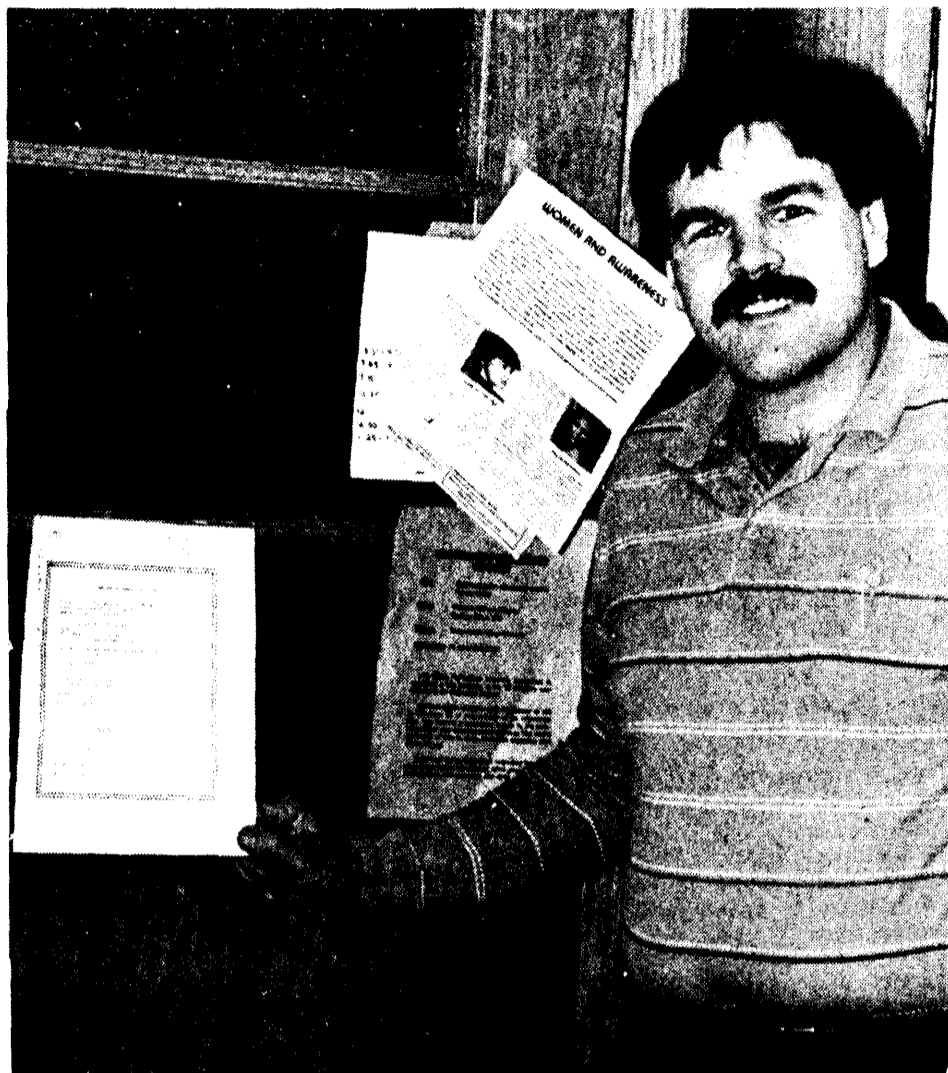

It's called "Project Graduation."

Simply stated, its aim was to get many junior and senior high school students to sign a unique pledge with their parents that they would not drink and drive, that they would not ride with drivers who had been drinking, that they would phone home as the last resort and the parents would come and drive them home safely...with no questions asked.

Parents also pledged not to serve alcoholic beverages to underage students. Project Graduation started two years ago nationwide. Cass City High School joined for the first time this year.

The project is a cooperative effort of media, health and safety organizations aimed at stemming drinking student driving deaths on the nation's roadways, specifically during the graduation party season.

JIM HOBBS, teacher, points to the sign in Campbell Elementary School telling of the danger to pupils from asbestos. District taxpayers are being asked for one mill for 2 years to remove it from all 5 school buildings.

"Whatyawanabe" reactions

Area pastors tell views of camp

On the bathhouse doors, both signs at Camp Whatyawanabe near Bad Axe in Huron County read "ladies," says a headline in The Sunday Detroit News, describing a recently opened women's campground that caters to lesbians and the furor it's creating among area residents there.

To find out what the Cass City religious community thinks about the camp, a check of several local pastors was conducted Monday. One area minister called the camp a serious blow to the moral fiber of Huron County, "a stench in God's nostrils -- truly repugnant..."

News of the camp surfaced about three weeks ago by way of an ad in a Hazel Park-based gay magazine, and a meeting was held with members of the camp and about 100 Huron County residents.

Christina Emmons, a 36-year-old homosexual Southgate accountant and co-founder of the camp, thinks it's a big fuss over nothing.

"This is also a retreat for women, not just for lesbians."

The camp covers about 40 acres along the Pigeon

River, includes a swimming pool, volleyball court and baseball diamond. It was sold by David Dannis, an Elkton businessman, for a reported $300,000 to an organization called Women in New Dimensions.

News of the new camp stirred obscene phone calls, bomb threats, and some minor vandalism.

Things have quieted down somewhat now, but there is some talk and some concern about the camp among church groups in outlying areas including Cass City.

A spot survey by The Chronicle of area ministers indicates mostly opposition, but there is some diversity of sentiment worth noting.

"Homosexuality is wrong Biblically, but in our country, if they want such a camp under our freedoms we can't change it," said one minister, who preferred not to be named.

"I think most people who have spoken about the issue have a mixed reaction in our church," said another minister. "There is a lot of curiosity about the camp. Both sides in the issue quote scripture defending their side."

"The problem in dealing with such an issue is that the more you talk about it, the more publicity you give to their cause," said another.

"I personally am against the camp. I think it is absurd that they (lesbians) have to have such a place in the first place..."

"There has been some concern and most of our people are against the camp. But it's the sort of thing that's hard to deal with. We definitely are against the vandalism that might occur in opposing the camp."

"We don't feel threatened. Maybe that's because Cass City is located quite a distance away from the camp site and the immediate problems surrounding it in Huron County. But were the camp located in our neighborhood, we would feel a lot more concerned."

This minister believes that now that Camp Whatyawanabe is established, it'll be a hard thing to stop because of the fine points of law. But perhaps a sort of boycott on services the community offers, such as fuel for heating in the winter can be tried."

"It is the sort of thing that

Annual elections Monday

3 area schools to seek extra millage

Voters in Cass City, Kingston, Owen-Gage and Ubyly school districts will be heading to the polls Monday, June 9, to decide the fate of millage proposals and to elect candidates to the school boards.

In Cass City, voters will be asked to approve a one-mill levy for 2 years to be earmarked only for removal of asbestos in buildings. The asbestos was found in a routine check by state officials after a county inspection failed to find any asbestos problem.

The tax, if approved, will raise about $100,000 per year. A mill is $1 per $1,000 of the state's equalized valuation.

Because of the nature of the work, the cost for the project cannot be exactly determined. The plan is to do as much as possible with the money available.

If the vote passes, the removal will start in the summer of 1987 when the first year of the special tax has been collected. All work will be completed during vacation periods because of the hazardous nature of the work.

The polls are at Cass City High School and remain open until 8 p.m.

THE CANDIDATE

Incumbent Richard Wallace, 52, said that he hopes to continue what he already feels is good quality education in the Cass City school system. As treasurer of the board, he has been well aware of the financial situation.

"I know what teachers want and what parents want and we do as much as we can for both with the funds provided," said Wallace. He continued, "I feel we have an excellent staff and my goal is to continue working with the staff and continue to give quality education."

Wallace is Vice-president of the Cass City State Bank. He is secretary and treasurer of the Merchants Bowling League and the Cass City Golf League. He is also a member of the Gavel Club and an Elder at the First Presbyterian Church, Cass City. Wallace has 2 children, one who is currently enrolled in the Cass City school system and the other a recent graduate.

OWEN-GAGE

Owen-Gage voters will be facing a list of choices in the upcoming elections. A total of 5 candidates, 2 of whom are incumbents will be vying for a seat on the school board. Voters will also decide the fate of 2 millage proposals.

The first is asking for a renewal of 9.75 mills for 5 years. An additional proposal of 6 mills for one year also finds a place on the ballot. If approved, money generated by both millage levies would be used for general operational purposes.

According to Superintendent Ronald Erickson at an April 14 school board meeting, the district has not seen a millage increase in the last 5 years and the increased millage is needed just to keep up with services now offered. Erickson projected a 10 percent decrease in the district-wide state equalized valuation (SEV). He also pointed out a 7 percent increase in expenditures.

THE CANDIDATES

Incumbent Donna Salcido, 55, has served one term on the board and would like to continue her involvement in school activities. She would like to be involved in making the school better for the future. "We have a good school, but I would like to be involved in anything that might make an improvement," she said. Salcido has 4 children who have gone through the Owen-Gage school system.

William Kretzschmer, 45, believes that, being a farmer, he has important input. "I think that the farmer needs more representation, since this is a farming community," he said. There are other things he would like to see changed, such as the ongoing conflicts that are causing a lot of problems. Kretzschmer has been a member of the Owendale Volunteer fire department for 20 years. He is also a trustee of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Bach.

Donald Dorsch, 36, says that he is running for the school board because he feels that it is time some changes were made. "The board is not being run the way I feel a school board should be run," he commented. Dorsch has 7 children all of whom attend the Owen-Gage schools. He attends St. Paul Lutheran Church in Linkville and works at Bay City Chevrolet.

Susan Albrecht, at 26, is the youngest candidate running. "My kids are coming up in school and I want to know what kind of education they are receiving," she said. She says that she feels education is important and wants to have a say in the operation of the system. She has 2 children. One will be starting kindergarten in the fall. She teaches Sunday school at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Bach.

Incumbent Jack Brinkman, 53, said that he has been on the school board for 12 years and would like to continue to help the district. "I'm the treasurer of the board so I know what the district's financial situation is," he said. Brinkman has 2 children and both graduated from Owen-Gage high school. Brinkman owns a farm near Gagetown.

UBLY

A light voter turnout is expected in Ubyly. There are no millage proposals on the ballot and the 2 incumbents to the school board are running unopposed. A millage may be proposed later in the summer but, because the SEV (State Equalized Valuation) figures were received just 2 weeks ago, Ubyly was too unsure of its financial status to propose a millage on the June ballot. Mark TenBusch, who handles accounting for the school, said that this year they stand to lose $142,550 in taxes because of the lowering of the SEV. This is a decrease of 7.88 percent. "That's a lot of money for a small school to lose," he said.

THE CANDIDATES

Kenneth Dekoski, 41, has been on the Ubyly school board a total of 8 years. His goal is "to try to keep a quality grade of education in the Ubyly schools." He said that the school system has had some financial problems and he will work on keeping the schools open. Dekoski has 7 children, 3 are currently enrolled in school and 4 graduated from Ubyly High School. He farms 600 acres and is a member of St. Mary's parish and its men's club.

Benefit breakfast scheduled

Ubyly youth succumbs after month-long battle

A month-long vigil for the Evans Gibbard family came to its inevitable tragic conclusion when 16-year-old Thomas Gibbard died in St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw Monday.

The Ubyly youth was stricken with an incurable brain tumor a little over one month ago. Prior to that he had never suffered from a serious illness.

The first indication that something was wrong came when Thomas complained of a ringing in his ears. He was hospitalized for a few days at Hills and Dales

General Hospital in Cass City, returned home briefly and then was admitted to St. Mary's 29 days ago.

Because of the expenses incurred, friends have arranged a benefit breakfast at Ubyly High School, where Thomas was a sophomore student. It is scheduled Sunday from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. A member of the Future Farmers of America, he was the youngest of 6 children.

Surviving are his parents, Evans and Lillian Gibbard; a brother, Daniel, of Ubyly; 4 sisters, Ms.

Theresa Laming of Decker, Mrs. Greg (Christine) Moore of Snover, Sandra Gibbard and Kimberly Gibbard, at home; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Otulakowski of Cass City, and 3 nieces and 3 nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 11 a.m. from St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Argyle. Father Michael Bell, pastor, will officiate.

Little's Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

A wake service will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 at Little's Funeral Home in Cass City.

Committee reviews plans for annual Fourth fete

In just a few weeks the eighth annual Fourth of July Festival will be in full swing. As in previous years there are events and activities for all ages. At a meeting of the festival committee Wednesday, May 28, updates were given and the schedule of events became more focused.

No. fourth celebration would be complete without a parade and fireworks. Cass City is lucky to have both again this year. The fireworks will be put on by a company out of Pennsylvania. The 20 minute show will be held at dusk Friday night. If any group or individual would like to give donations in order to pay for a longer fireworks display, more information can be obtained by calling Alan Sward at 872-3548.

The parade will start at 11 a.m. and according to Gary Jones parade coordinator 40 units have been committed. He said that he has had trouble getting commitments from musical groups which seems to be a problem every year. Any musical group or other party interested in participating in the parade is asked to call Jones at 872-2639.

OTHER EVENTS

The Irish Gaels, a sing along group which should prove to be fun for all ages, will be coming to town Thursday, July 3. They will be at Charmon from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and tickets are $5. There are a total of 250 tickets and they are available at Kritzmans, Old Wood, Coach Light and Ben Franklin.

The bed races are scheduled for 10 a.m. on Main St. Participants are asked to be there no later than 9:40 a.m. The race is one block long and participants are judged for the best decorated and fastest bed and crew. Deadline for sign up is Tuesday, July 1. Anyone interested can call Wayne Dillon at 872-3442 or Ron Nurnberger at 872-3500.

Mud Volleyball is on again this year for 3:00 p.m. west of the Cass City Park Pavilion. Each team is required to have at least 6 members. Trophies will be awarded to first and second place winners. For sign up or more information call Beth Howard at 872-4579 or Ron Nurnberger at 872-3500.

General Telephone residential and single line business customers started paying 29 cents per month June 1 to access the intrastate long distance network, according to Max Preston, vice-president - general manager for the company.

The 29-cent "common access line charge," recently approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission, is in addition to the $1 per month charge authorized earlier by the Federal Communications Commission which also went into effect June 1. The latter charge is for providing access to interstate long distance service. Calls to points outside of Michigan are considered interstate long distance service. Intrastate long distance service refers to calls to points within Michigan.

"If It Fitz..."

Nursery school grad

By Jim Fitzgerald

The graduates were seated on a stage at one end of the room. When they were asked to stand and say their names, several refused. One of them fell off the stage onto my feet.

What in God's name was I doing there? My distaste for pomp and ceremony of any type is well known among the innocent people in a position to be annoyed by hearing me say, for the 4,566th time: "I didn't even attend my own commencement exercises when I graduated from college, so you can hardly expect me to go to anyone else's."

Certainly it was ridiculous to suggest that, last Friday evening, when I wanted to attend the opening of a new musical revue just a few blocks from my home, I should instead drive 130 miles to watch the awarding of diplomas signifying that a dozen four-year-old children — only one of them my granddaughter — had studied long and hard enough to graduate from nursery school.

"There is no pressure on you to go and watch Emily graduate," my wife said. "But the last time her school had a party, many of the children's grandparents attended, and she cried because you weren't there."

When my wife applies no pressure, strangers 500 miles away break out into a cold sweat. My choice was clear: I could be the type of man who prefers nursery school commencement exercises to drinking vodka while watching beautiful women sing in a nightclub. Or I could be the type of scum who doesn't mind breaking his precious little granddaughter's heart and losing the intimate companionship of his wife for the rest of his stupid worthless life.

Also, there is the fact that since the birth of Emily's little sister, Tricia, four months ago, their mother has been calling Emily "The Wall." That's because whenever I get near Tricia, Emily moves between us like a wall. And — my wife says — it's my fault that Emily is jealous because I spoiled her terribly since the day she was born.

It's true, as all you Emily fans know (everyone else quit reading four paragraphs ago, and I don't blame them). I've always made Emily behave perfectly by cleverly giving her everything she wants. That's what grandfathers are for.

It's also true that Emily should be taught to relinquish the limelight to her little sister. That's what parents are for. And they'd better hurry and get their job done before Tricia is old enough to notice me neglecting her on the other side of The Wall.

Meanwhile, while all those about her are cooing at Tricia, Emily needs my attention — my wife says — even if I have to drive 130 miles to see strange tots in caps and gowns. It wasn't as boring as college commencements. Emily was one of the graduates who agreed to give her name and she smiled at me when she recited it. (The graduate who fell off the stage wasn't injured. I picked him up and told him I had one word for him: "Plastics.")

After the ceremony, we had dinner in a restaurant. Tricia was the center of attention because she spurned her bottle and ate hashed brown potatoes. Her mother said four-month-old babies aren't supposed to eat potatoes. I said four-year-old kids aren't supposed to graduate, but the world keeps changing (where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio?).

While everyone else was eating, Emily took me outside, where we pretended the parking meters were robots waiting in line to be fed, and we fed them. I told her I used to live in her town, before she was born, and I showed her where a saloon caught fire and burned down one night I was in it.

"I hope you had sense enough to run out of there," Emily said, and added: "Of course you did, or you wouldn't be at my graduation party."

Her grandmother wasn't listening, so I told Emily I'd rather be at her graduation party than anywhere else, even the opening of a new musical revue. But she knew that, and so did you.

STAR POINTING is Mrs. Sally Milholin as her 5th grade Cass City Intermediate science students study the constellations in their own homemade planetarium.

Star gazing

Class builds planetarium

The 26 students of Mrs. Sally Milholin's fifth grade class have been seeing stars and probing the heavens for constellations. And they've been doing the exploring right in classroom 24 at Cass City Intermediate. They don't need to go outside to see the universe.

That's because they've built their own planetarium.

It's 8 feet in diameter, made of chicken wire and papier-mache, and hangs from a ceiling drop cord that can be raised and lowered for better viewing.

It's painted sky blue — naturally — on the outside and nighttime black on the inside.

Multi-colored stars are pasted on the inside of the umbrella-shaped project.

Each of the 26 students taking part in the science project was assigned one constellation and they pasted their own stars in appropriated places.

The southern and northern hemispheres were covered.

Did they learn anything? Ask where the North Star is located and 26 hands go up instantly, pointing.

The Haire Net

If you were around the Thumb in 1974, the odds are that you participated in the excitement surrounding the visit of President Richard M. Nixon. Never mind that his political star was in rapid descent and Tricky Dick was no longer the revered statesman that he was when he won election by a landslide just 2 years earlier. He was the president of the United States and a visit to tiny Cass City was almost beyond belief.

Since the president's caravan was to lead directly down Main Street and stop at the main 4 corners of town, the Chronicle staff and all the folks who had access to second floor apartments were jubilant. A fantastic front row seat with an unobstructed view of all the activities.

How naive we all were. We all thought we could see from the upper floors and, after a day spent in Saginaw to obtain press clearance, I figured to be right next to the action.

What happened was that the press clearance netted a spot in the front row behind the ropes and anyone caught looking out an upstairs window while the president was in the vicinity risked getting shot. Literally. There were secret service men armed to the teeth on every roof top overlooking the president's travel path.

The president's visit was recalled because of a visit by Robert Dole, senate majority leader, the Saturday before Memorial Day. Every one of the 400 persons attending was able to get up close to Dole and many did, to ask him questions and get a feel for the man. It was a rare opportunity.

Persons at that banquet were able to go one on one with a man who might very well be the next president of the United States.

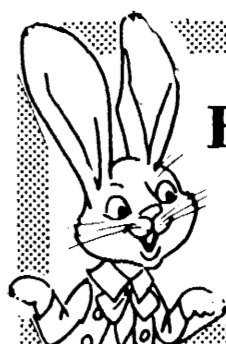

From the experience gained when Nixon visited, it's clear that if Dole makes it to the White House there's no chance, no — at all, that anyone could talk with him like they did at the banquet, even if by some remote chance he should ever come this way again.

But if Dole makes it, the 400 at that banquet will be able to boast that they talked with the president up close and personally.

If he does become president, there will be many GOP boosters who bought tickets and stayed home that will regret it.

Really it was a golden opportunity to speak with a person who will be influencing the important decisions that affect each of us, even if he never becomes the chief executive.

You might be sorry if you missed it.

Moving steadily up the ladder in the newspaper business is Susan Benkelman. The Chronicle received a reprint of a story concerning Consumers Power Co.'s Midland plant.

It was from the Detroit News Washington Bureau and was bylined by Susan Benkelman.

Susan is the daughter of the Bob Benkelmans of Caro. They are formerly of Cass City. She is a graduate of Caro High School.

The Cass City Junior Varsity basketball team will have a new coach when the season rolls around. Last year's mentor, Shelly LaPeer, won't be back. I enjoyed it, LaPeer says, but next year I will be in school full time and won't be able to work coaching into my schedule.

After 6 months of fooling around with computers, there's one sure conclusion. Programming the computer is child's play compared to programming the persons that use them. Especially if they are at the end rather than the start of a career.

The athletic department at Cass City High School is trying something different this year. Thursday, from 6-8 p.m. physicals will be given in the high school gym for all persons who will compete in athletics in the next school year.

That's a change from normal procedure when exams were given in the fall. The change has been made to cut down on absenteeism, Russell Bieffer, athletic director, explained.

As an old timer I can remember when physicals were given before the start of sports in fall, winter and spring.

Academic All-American

Donald Smith Jr., who attends Cass City Intermediate School, has been named an Academic All-American for scholastic excellence.

Smith, son of Donald and Janice Smith of Decker, was nominated for the National Secondary Education Council award by Richard Partlo, Intermediate counselor. Academic All-American scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Donald's name will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory.

Donald's grandparents are John Dunlap of Caro and Mrs. John Dunlap of Decker.

Malnutrition widespread

The WIC team turns lives around

by Cymbre Sommerville

There are many adverse effects that an improper diet can have on the human body, especially on infants and children. The WIC (Women, Infants and Children) staff at the Tuscola County Health Department sees its fair share of the health problems caused by poor diet. It is the staff's job to investigate the diet of both mother and child and provide a supplemental food program for them.

WIC Coordinator Nancy Bortel and clinical assistants, Nancy McCollum and Marsha Clark, make up the WIC team. These dedicated ladies spend their days meeting with clients, putting them on a food program and recommending additional medical care if it is needed. "One of our main goals is to get the children into the medical mainstream," said Clark. This means that if a child comes in for the WIC program and other health problems are detected, the staff sees that the child receives the proper medical attention. "Some are referred to the dentist, crippled children's program, mental health...not necessarily programs within the Health Department," said Clark, who has been with the program since day one, 5 years ago. "Part of my job is to do dietary and medical health assessments," said Bortel.

Priority people are often pregnant women because many babies born to mothers who do not practice healthy eating habits or who smoke or drink have health problems. In the first trimester development of the heart can be affected, in the second trimester babies of alcoholic mothers can be spontaneously aborted and in the third trimester weight gain can be affected, causing babies to be born prematurely or at a low birth weight.

Malnutrition in a child is reflected in a number of ways. Clark said that often children's hair is fine and ratty looking and some have patches with no hair. Dry skin and dark circles under the eyes are other signs. Other problems found are an increase of infections, bad teeth and under or over weight children.

One health problem which is relatively widespread is called nursing baby bottle mouth. "It's caused by improper use of the baby bottle," said Bortel. The 4 front teeth rot out from sugar in the bottle. "If the child is sent to bed with a bottle and the liquid stays in the mouth, then teeth can rot before they come in," she said. It's often seen when the mother gives her baby kool-aid or pop, but can be caused by the sugars in milk.

The WIC program provides for women who are pregnant or breast-feeding, infants under one year old and children one to 5 years old. The program is open to those with low to moderate incomes. "We are not a welfare program," said Bortel.

The foods offered are high in calcium, iron, Vitamin C and protein. Nutritional education is also provided. A mother is given a list of foods she is eligible to receive and chooses one item from each food group. She is then given coupons, not food stamps, which are filled out and redeemed at vendors (most grocery stores) of WIC. It is a supplemental food program offered by the Dept. of Agriculture, and the coupons are redeemed by the state.

According to Bortel, who stepped in as WIC coordinator 3 months ago, WIC recipients stay on the program until they develop proper eating habits. "It's positive to go off the program," she said.

One child who benefited positively from the program was a foster baby who was brought in a couple of years ago. Clark said that she was a "failure to thrive" baby which means she was of low birth weight, wouldn't eat and basically didn't have a lot of will to live. She was an abused child who had been taken from her parents because she received a broken arm and a skull fracture. She was traumatized and would not make eye contact with anyone. "She could have been described as very dull," said Clark. Through work with the foster parents and the WIC program, the infant is now 2 years old and "you'd never guess anything had been wrong," commented Clark. "These are the kinds of things we see turn around," she said. Of course the staff gives most of the credit to the foster parents, but proper nutrition plays an important role. "It's been said that the child's development is 90 percent environmental and 10 percent physical," said Nancy McCollum who has been with the program 4-1/2 years.

A Harvard study done several years ago indicated that WIC helped to minimize incidents of low birth weight and other health related problems among newborns. "The study states that 'each $1 spent on pregnant women in the WIC program results in an estimated $3 savings in hospitalization costs for low birth weight babies.'" Of course the numbers may have changed by now, but this is one example of WIC's benefits.

According to Bortel, the majority of the participants have nutrition problems because they have not learned proper eating habits. Many become very aware of how to correct their diet after they learn the basics of proper nutrition.

When WIC started, the case load goal was 600. Today the case load peaks out at 1,029. Approximately 35 percent are from single parent families. One reason for the large number involved in WIC is high unemployment in the county which makes it hard for people to afford to feed their families properly. WIC is required by the state to prove that they service a certain number of clients to maintain their case load, but there is no problem doing that because they have appointments booked well into June, said Clark.

chapter could nominate 2 senior students based on their leadership, scholastic achievement, character, and service. Nominees submitted a form outlining their participation in school organizations and clubs, academic accomplishments, employment experience, and community service.

"Piereson has demonstrated outstanding ability in his academic work and service to his school and community," said Scott Thomson, executive director, NASSP. "He's a fine example of the outstanding calibre of young people in America's high schools."

While at Lincoln High School, Piereson has been senior class president, captain of the swim team and the track team, president of the National Honor Society, vice-president of student council, Junior Rotarian, a recipient of the Rotary International Scholarship, and was honorable mention in the 1986 Academic All-Stars. Piereson also placed 7th in the Class "B" State diving competition in March.

This fall he plans to attend the University of Michigan to study pre-medicine.

Asbestos in the Cass City Public Schools

On Monday, December 30, 1985, an asbestos survey of all of the school buildings in the Cass City Public Schools was conducted by Asbestos Management, Incorporated. The survey included sixty-six (66) bulk samples and three (3) air samples.

All five Cass City school buildings were found to contain some degree of asbestos containing materials. The materials were on a variety of surfaces and in various states of deterioration. Of the sixty-six bulk samples collected, thirty-four were found to have greater than one percent asbestos. The most significant findings of asbestos containing materials included the ceiling of a large part of the Campbell Elementary school, acoustical tile in the band room at the high school, and numerous pipes and boilers found throughout the five school buildings.

In the high school and the intermediate school, samples were taken from dust in the filters of the fan rooms. These samples did not indicate the presence of asbestos fibers. Any fibers found here could have been an indication of airborne fibers. However, absence of asbestos in these samples cannot be interpreted to mean that no airborne fibers have been present in the school air. The air samples taken at Campbell Elementary contained no asbestos within the detection limit.

The tests conducted in the school buildings indicated that at the present time the health of the students and employees housed in the buildings is not endangered. However, the potential problem will not go away unless and until it is corrected. The best time to tackle the problem is now, rather than in an emergency situation.

There are three available options for handling asbestos containing materials. The three include, removal, encapsulation and enclosure:

1. REMOVAL -- This is by far the preferred method, being the only way to guarantee that future fiber release will not occur.

2. ENCAPSULATION -- This method is sometimes used in lieu of removal, mainly due to decreased cost. It entails coating the asbestos materials with a commercial substance that seals the asbestos in. Encapsulation is a temporary solution.

3. ENCLOSURE -- This method utilizes air tight barriers to enclose the asbestos material. As with encapsulation, enclosure is a temporary solution.

If the millage is approved in June, the plans are to undertake the asbestos abatement during the summer of 1987 using removal as the correcting means. The one mill for two years that is being requested will provide about $200,000 to apply toward correcting the asbestos problem in our schools.

Your neighbor says

Americans need the help, too

On Sunday, May 25 Americans put on an all out effort to help raise money for the impoverished in this country. The project, called Hands Across America, was in the form of a human chain that reached across the continent. Each participant donated money for a spot in the line. Was this a good idea?

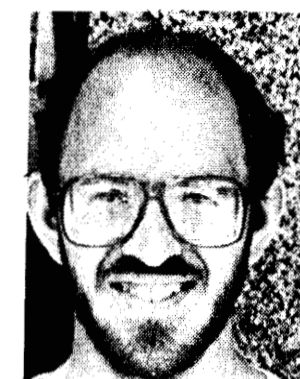

Scott Ackerman, 29, of Cass City believes that it was a good idea. "It was something that's never been tried before...and it made a record for the longest human chain," he commented.

He said that he thinks that it was needed. "I guess there are a lot more poor people than we realize" (in America).

Does he think that the money will ever be seen in this area? "I think it's hard to say. It should if they spread it out right." He continued, "I don't imagine it would be like they say happened in Africa where a lot of the money and food that went over there never got to the people. I don't think that would happen here."

Scott is a native of Cass City and was formerly employed with Albee Hardware.

HEALTH TIPS

Postnatal facts

During a pregnancy, which averages 40 weeks in length, your body undergoes many changes to accommodate the development of the fetus. After your delivery, however, your body returns to its normal state in less than half that time.

Immediately after delivery you will be relieved but exhausted. There may be some cramping for several hours after birth as the uterus begins to contract as it returns to normal size. If you had an episiotomy—an incision that widens the vagina—the incision may be sore for several days.

A discharge—called lochia—begins right after delivery. Over a period of several weeks, it will change from bright red to pink to yellow-white before ending. Plan to have some sanitary napkins for use at home, as you should not use tampons until the discharge stops.

Once you're home, the most important thing for you to take care of is yourself and your baby. If you can, let your husband, relatives, or friends handle the cooking and cleaning. Your baby will do best if you are rested and relaxed, especially if you choose to breastfeed. It's not uncommon to experience "baby blues," a feeling of depression or sadness. These feelings, which are caused in part by changing hormones, should disappear within several days to a week or so.

Around 6 weeks, your uterus will have returned to its normal size, and you will have your first visit with the doctor after delivery. Many physicians recommend that their patients not resume sexual relations before this visit. Others feel it's okay before then as long as the woman is comfortable and any incisions have healed. This visit is also a good time to discuss birth control to make sure that your next child is conceived when you're ready and not before.

If you breastfeed your baby, it is not a good idea to diet to take off any additional weight from the pregnancy. A breastfeeding mother needs additional calories and especially extra liquids to insure an adequate supply of breastmilk. Dieting may be fine if you're not breastfeeding, but don't restrict your food intake too much if you are fighting fatigue.

After waiting patiently for 9 months for your baby to arrive, it may be hard to wait for your body and emotions to readjust. But give yourself time to recover from an amazing performance—giving birth.

"Experience is in the fingers and head. The heart is inexperienced."
Henry David Thoreau

New books at the library

CODE EZRA by Gay Courter (fiction). At the center of this novel is Israeli spy master Eli Katzar and the three women he recruits to form his "Ezra" team: Charlotte, an American princess from Scarsdale; Lily, survivor of the death camps, and Israeli-born Aviva. During a mission in France in the late 1970's, an Israeli scientist is murdered and Katzar realizes that one of the three has betrayed him. The story moves back and forth between Katzar's attempt to discover the turncoat with flashbacks of his own recruitment and training of the three women and the dangerous careers they survived as Israeli agents.

PORTRAIT OF A MARRIED WOMAN by Sally Mandel (fiction). On the verge of her 38th birthday, Maggie Hollander is vaguely unhappy. Married to her college sweetheart, ex-Harvard athletic champ and dreamboat Matthew (they met when Maggie was at Radcliffe, naturally), Maggie has two bright teenagers, a lovely Manhattan apartment and a bridge group. So why isn't she happy? For one thing, she has put aside her painting in favor of full-time wife - and motherhood. She fears her talent has gone - but surprise! - it's still there waiting to be used, and at her very first art class she meets this sexy, soulful sculptor, David Golden, he of the "uncivilized" blue eyes and urgent sexual need. How will Maggie be able to reconcile a career with the demands of her family life? How will she make a decision between husband and lover?

DR. LENDON SMITH'S DIET PLAN FOR TEENAGERS by Dr. Lendon Smith (non-fiction). Teenagers often use food as a way of rebelling against parental authority or as a means of coping with the social stresses of adolescence. Lendon Smith, the popular pediatrician and best-selling author, displays his sensitivities to teenage insecurities in his latest diet book. Smith doesn't believe in counting calories; instead, he maintains that following a diet high in complex carbohydrates and low in fat discourages overeating while improving overall health. In addition to five different diets that are geared to specific teen problems such as acne or allergies, Smith emphasizes reliance on vitamin therapy but fails to note the effect of individual differences, such as body weight.

Sanilac 4-H youth agent to leave

The Sanilac Cooperative Extension Service Director, A. Rex Sieting, has announced that Patrick Livingston, 4-H Youth Agent, will be leaving Aug. 15.

Livingston will be traveling with his family to Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge where he has been awarded a fellowship to pursue a graduate degree in the field of International and Extension Education. Upon completion of the program, he plans to return to 4-H Extension work in the state of Michigan.

Livingston began 4-H work in Sanilac in June of 1981 when he transferred north from an Extension Sea Grant position in Wayne County. Prior to his joining Extension in 1977, he served as an agricultural field aide with the U.S. Peace Corps in Nepal from 1972-1976.

"Although I'm looking forward to the future, I will miss the members, parents, and leaders I've had the pleasure to work with in Sanilac over the past 5 years," states Livingston. "I am proud to have been able to work with these people to help maintain our status as one of the top 4-H programs in the state of Michigan."

"Pat has been an asset to Sanilac 4-H with his many innovative ideas, and the Sanilac Cooperative Extension Service 4-H programs have benefitted from Pat's work," said Sieting.

"Due to the size and quality of the Sanilac 4-H Programs and number of 4-H volunteer leaders, the Sanilac position will be filled very shortly by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service," said Sieting.

The first sidewalk in the U.S. was laid in 1657 on a New York thoroughfare called Stone Street.

Tourney win surprises

Young Hawks turn tide into regionals

THE SENIORS THAT played a key role in Cass City High School's victory in the district softball tournament pose with the championship trophy. From left, Yvette Hurd and Deb Cook.

Lamotte leading church league

It's much too early to tell where the power is in the Cass City Church League, which opened last week, but followers of Lamotte should be pleased with the first week of the season.

Lamotte stands at the top of the league with 2 wins in as many tries. With the exception of Cass City Missionary and the Baptists, the remainder of the teams are at 500 with splits in the opening 2 games. Missionary bowed in the first tilts of the season and are at 0-2 while the Baptists are 0-1.

Tuesday, May 27, Lamotte won its opening game with a 12-5 decision over Baptist. Jim Keller chalked up the win and Hutchinson took the loss. Mellendorf, Hartwick and Fisher had 2 hits for the Baptists and Jim D'Arcy and Brian Hirsch paced the winners at the plate.

Tim Severance pitched Shabbona to an 8-2 nod over the Catholics. Gary Robinson was charged with the loss.

Church of Christ, behind Dave Speirs' shutout hurling, slipped by Missionary, 3-0. Al McKee was the tough luck hurler tagged with the defeat.

THURSDAY GAMES

Lamotte and Shabbona hooked up in a tight pitching duel in one of Thursday night's contests. Vern Jacobs bested Severance, 3-2. Jacobs helped his own cause with 2 hits. The Evangelical Free Church (EFC) easily rolled over Trinity Methodist, 7-1. The game was highlighted by a triple play by EFC. The play went third to home, to first and back to home again. Paul Bliss slapped a triple for the winners.

Colwood took a close decision over Deford, 7-0. The game winning hit was collected by Lowell Smith with 2 out in the seventh inning. The blow lifted Dale Smith to a win over Dave Smith. Tim Babich and Bob Tobey collected 2 hits.

Deford evened its record with a 6-3 victory over Missionary. Mike Wilson pitched the win and McKee took the loss. Ed Stoutenburg rapped 4 hits and Dave Smith collected a pair of safeties to pace the winners. Brian Schember had 2 hits for the losers.

The odds were great that 1985-86 would go down as one of the most dismal years in history for Cass City Red Hawk varsity teams. The teams were also rans in volleyball, basketball, football and track. Going into district competition Friday, the Hawks were 10-11 and they were scheduled to meet Unionville-Sebewaing (USA), which boasted a 25-4 record, and it appeared almost certain that the softball team would join in making it an all losing season at Cass City High School.

But the young Hawk squad (only 2 seniors play) suddenly came of age and when the tourney ended, Cass City had earned its way into the regionals Saturday at 11 a.m. at Marlette. It was the 2 seniors that played key roles in the twin wins.

Yvette Hurd put on an astonishing display of control as she pitched both ends of 2 extra-innings games and didn't walk a batter as Cass City downed USA in 10 innings, 8-5, in the first game and 1-0 in the championship tilt in 8 innings. The other senior, Deb Cook, came up with the key hit that gave the Hawks the title.

The 2 seniors and the remainder of the club will have to be at their very best if Cass City is going to get by the opening round of the regionals. The Hawks face Armada, which boasts a 21-3 record. Armada is spearheaded by Jeanette Schard, a junior who has "a whole lot of no hitters to her credit," according to Armada school officials.

Cass City will be definite underdogs when they enter the regionals, but then, they were in the same position when they entered the districts.

Coach Jim Fox said that Hurd's solid steady pitching and rock steady defense were the keys to the victories. The Hawks trailed USA in the early innings but rallied to tie the score with a pair of runs in the sixth. The teams traded scores in the first inning as the Patriots scored on a hit and an error and the Hawks came back to tie it the same way. USA jumped ahead on a double by Schultz and singles by Kelcher and Reiman.

In the sixth, Severance opened with a walk and after 2 were out, Hurd walked and scored on an error and a bases loaded hit by Summers.

That ended the scoring until the 10th, when Cass City loaded the bases with 2 outs and Shannon McIntosh and Severance ripped out 2 key hits to break the game open. USA scored twice in their half of the inning, but it was too little, too late for the pre-tourney favorites.

The second game was as fine an exhibition of softball as you are likely to see, Fox said. Both sides played outstanding defensive ball without errors.

The Lakers, who defeated favored Mayville (21-12) in their first district game, got excellent pitching from Rhonda Baur in both games.

Baur allowed just 6 hits in the game against the Hawks in the 10 innings, good enough to win most games, but not good enough Saturday. Hurd not only showed perfect control, but limited the Lakers to just 3 hits.

If it weren't for Cook, the 2 teams might still be playing. Cass City loaded the bases with no one out in the tenth, but the marathon game looked like it might continue anyway as a strikeout and a pop-up kept the bases loaded. To score and end the game, the Hawks now needed a hit. Cook supplied it, a line drive between the outfielders that would have cleared the bases if needed, although it goes into the record books as a single.

It was the biggest single of the year for Hawk fans.

3 young Hawks win honor spots

The Cass City Red Hawks failed to place a player on the all-star Thumb B Association softball team, but succeeded in placing a pair of sophomores and a junior on the second team.

Terry Sommers and Brenda Severance were named to outfield positions. Kelly Deering, a junior who played shortstop for the Hawks, was named to an infield position.

Imlay City, which moved from the bottom of the league in 1985 to the championship this spring, dominated the first team with 4 players on the squad.

The first team: OUTFIELD-Betsy Herp, Bad Axe; Tina Endert, Vassar; Ann VanDenberg, Imlay City.

INFILDER-Lynn Drews, BA; Amy Ramirez and Julie Bayers, IC.

PITCHERS - Brenda Ruhlman, North Branch; Marla Long, Marlette.

CATCHER - Chris Shevnoek, IC.

DESIGNATED HITTER-Terri Lagos, Caro.

SECOND TEAM

OUTFIELD - Sommers and Severance, Cass City; Deanna Malcewski, IC.

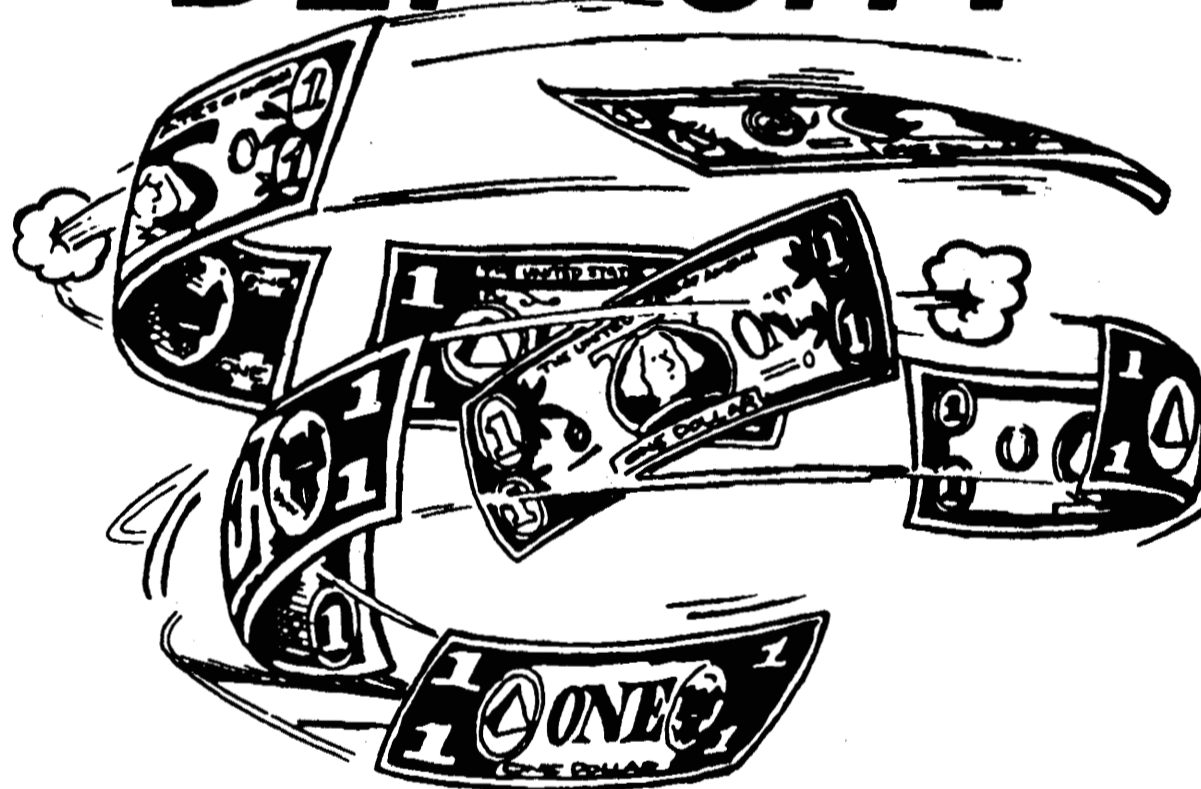

INFILDER - Deering, CC; Beth Blasius and Mary Ann Callahan, Vassar; Cathy Wurst, Lakers.

PITCHERS-Sandi Finton, IC; Rhonda Baur, L.

TOP BOWLER for the second year in a row is Connie Swartzentruber of Uby (middle above) who was honored at the Thumb Area Women's Bowling Association's third annual tourney held at Elkton May 14-15. Other top place winners, from left, were Marilyn Smith, Kinde, fourth; Bea Harwood, Kinde, second; Swartzentruber, first; Diana McGee, Elkton, third, and Jeanne Ney, Bad Axe, fifth.

The second annual Croft-Clara Invitational starts at 7:30 p.m. Friday with Croft-Clara Kings hosting Westbay Honda.

Heartened by the return of Don Galbraith, the Kings are hoping to better a Memorial Day weekend showing of two wins, three losses at Aurora, Ill.

Williamson tripled in the second game, a 5-3 loss to Creative D.J.s of Aurora, as Craig Helwig took the loss at the mound.

The returning Galbraith singled and tripled in 4

RBIs to go along with a Williamson homer as the Kings beat Alton, Ill., with Martin getting the win.

With Craig Helwig on the mound, the Kings were snuffed by Delta Vans of Elkhart, Ind. Williamson tripled in a losing cause.

David Skornicka went 2 for 2 and Galbraith 2 for 3 in another losing cause against Coors Silver Bullet of Aurora in the final game.

Millage reviewed at Cass City Village Council meeting

At the monthly meeting of the Cass City Village Council Tuesday, May 27, a millage of 15.2723 was accepted by the trustees. It is a decrease of .2926, less than one-third of a mill. The reason for the decrease was an increase of the state equalization value (SEV).

Sanilac celebrates Park Week

The weekend of June 13-15, residents of Sanilac County and the surrounding area can take advantage of a wide variety of events scheduled at all 4 Sanilac county parks.

Games, food, recreation and entertainment for all ages have been planned in conjunction with Sanilac county parks' first annual "County Parks Awareness Week" June 9-15. According to Tom Youatt, parks director, Delaware, Evergreen, Forester, and Lexington Parks will all host events with the majority held at Forester Park on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. "We hope to expand activities next year for all the parks and make this an annual event," said Youatt. Some of the planned activities include a horseshoe tournament, flea market, canoe race, magic show, volleyball tournament, bands and hayrides. Youatt said that they will also be offering discounts on golfing at local courses and a discount of $25 per person on charter fishing.

Evergreen Park, which is located a few miles south of M-81 on M-53, will have park staff on hand to rent canoes at a discounted cost of $2 an hour said Youatt. There will be free balloons for the kids and hot dogs on the grill for those who have an appetite. The baseball diamond will also be available.

The major attraction of the week will be free camping for County residents at Forester and Delaware Parks during the weekend of June 13-15. Reservations are required and a nominal fee of $3 per reservation will be charged. Reservations can be made by calling the park office at (313) 622-8715.

The idea for the week originated with the parks commission. "In the last 2 or 3 years significant improvements have been made (in Sanilac county parks) and many residents were unaware of what has been done. This is an incentive to get people to go to the parks and see what they have to offer," said Youatt.

Commissioners approve TACA by-laws

At the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners meeting Tuesday, May 27, the board approved the new by-laws for the Thumb Area Commission on Aging. They also appointed Vivian Winter to a 2 year term on the TACA board and Nellie Nickert as alternate. Walter Parrott was appointed to a one year term on the board with Melvin Price as alternate.

According to County Clerk Elsie Hicks, Drain Commissioner Stanley Henry asked for borrowing resolutions for 3 drains he is presently working on. The board also passed a resolution confirming the replacement of a bridge in Ellington township. The bridge is located over White Creek on Deckerville Rd. The resolution is needed in order to receive federal money for the work.

In other action, $5,552.50 was transferred from the general fund to the Department of Social Services. Hicks said that the money is the DSS's third quarterly budgeted appropriation.

On the lighter side, the board gave the go ahead to the Caro pumpkin festival committee to display pumpkins on the courthouse lawn on Oct. 3, 4, and 5.

Kingston man killed when run over

A Kingston man was killed Sunday when he was run over by his own car, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Neil E. Daniels, 58, of Kingston, had pulled off the side of Froede Road, got out and was run over. It is unknown why he got out of the car.

According to Sheriff's reports, Daniels left home at approximately 12:30 p.m. to check farm land he owned. Neighbors found the car about an hour later. It was in reverse and running. They searched the area and didn't find anything.

The body was discovered at 5:40 p.m. when a neighbor started to tow the car.

THERE'S NO SUBSTITUTE FOR A TEACHER

We've all had them - the people who gave us the attention we needed in math, or French, or history; the people who were genuinely interested in what we thought and did. Teachers. Teachers, who through their time and patience, helped us form the foundation upon which we've built our successes.

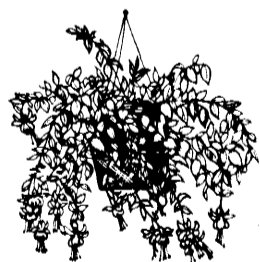

Good teachers are no less important today than when we were in school. Yet in Michigan's Thumb Area, the salaries teachers earn are a poor reflection of that importance. Nearly every national study has recommended immediate and sizeable increases in teachers' salaries.

Action is essential. To raise salaries and keep today's teachers in the classroom the public must demand higher teacher salaries. After all, there is no substitute for a teacher.

Moving? Know your rights

If you're getting ready to move your household, it's important that you know what recourse you have in case something is lost or damaged. The legal liability of the carrier to whom you entrust your possessions is limited by the value YOU place on your goods before releasing them for shipment.

Ask your carrier to explain the various types of protection plans available and the cost of each. Minimal protection ($60 per pound per article) is available at no cost. You also have the choice of declaring the full value of your goods or releasing them at a depreciated value. If you do not indicate a choice, your goods will move at a depreciated value equal to the pound weight of the shipment multiplied by $1.25.

How can you get help fast when your car is smashed? No problem.

Count on the "no problem" people at Auto-Owners Insurance. They pride themselves on fast, fair claims service based on their strong common sense approach to settlements. Just ask your Auto-Owners agent about his "no problem" claims service or better yet, ask someone who's had a claim handled by Auto-Owners!

HOLDING CERTIFICATES as President's Academic Fitness Award winners are these 4th graders at Campbell Elementary.

Academic Fitness Awards presented to 28 fourth graders for academic excellence

Presidential Academic Fitness Awards were presented last Friday to 28 fourth grade students at Cass City Campbell Elementary who have earned B-plus grade averages or better.

Two of the 28 earned special awards for extraordinary effort, Jodi Schember and Becky Britt.

The awards, which have national significance, were presented to the students by Jacqueline Freiburger, Campbell Elementary principal, who said she was very proud of the large number of eligible fourth graders this year.

Award recipients included:

Hornbacher.

Also: Noel Hornbacher, Stacey Klinkman, Petrina Kritzman, Mark Kubacki, Sarah Lovejoy, Rachel Malone, Kristy Messing.

Each of the honored students received a lapel pin, a certificate signed by President Ronald Reagan and Secretary of Education William Bennett and a personal congratulatory note from the president.

Jenny Milligan, Darcie Monroe, Steven Muska, Eddie Park, Michelle Peruski, Mike Sherman, Jason Walther and Lindy VanVliet.

In addition to achieving a B-plus grade average or better, each of the award recipients received a score on the most recent test taken placing the student at or above the 80th percentile on a nationally recognized standardized achievement test battery.

The two extraordinary effort awards were presented at the discretion of the principal.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Favors asbestos millage

Dear Editor:

The people of Cass City need to pass the millage bill to pay for removing all asbestos from all school buildings.

This asbestos will work its way into the air our children are breathing and give them first, asbestosis which later turns to asbestos cancer. I have no doubt that it already is in the air they breathe.

I am personally acquainted with people who got both of these maladies. Some of these I know have died of asbestos cancer. Industrial workers and construction workers are the most numerous victims.

Please, fellow citizens, let's remove this time bomb from our school teachers, students and employees of the schools. Let's do this by passing the millage on the first try.

Sincerely,
Willard L. Dodson

Coast Guard to build new station

Congressman Bob Traxler announced last week that the U.S. Coast Guard will build a new station at Harbor Beach.

According to Traxler, construction of the new station is expected to get underway as soon as possible with completion of the facility scheduled for May 1987. The Harbor Beach facility is listed a minor construction in the Coast Guard's budget and will cost close to $500,000 to build.

"The construction of the new station is certainly good news for Harbor Beach and the Thumb area," said Traxler. "It's essential that the Coast Guard maintain operations to protect the health and safety of the increasing number of boaters and fishermen on Lake Huron."

Traxler noted that high water levels on Lake Huron have damaged the existing Coast Guard Station, which was built during the 1930s. The new Coast Guard station will be 4800 square feet and will be relocated adjacent to the new marina. It's expected that the one story wood frame station will be cost-effective and less expensive to operate than the existing facility.

Project graduation

Pledges signed by over half

Locally, Shannon McIntosh, 17, a junior at Cass City High, was the project's chief student spokesperson. She was aided by a 5-member student committee and guided by Jerry Cleland, junior-senior class counselor.

"I attended an assembly at the school in which the aims of Project Graduation were told, and I thought then that such a project was a good thing and it was needed," she said.

"There's a potential problem of teen drinking and driving just about any place, not only in the high school," she said, adding, "I don't drink, but I know a number of kids that do. And I know that they would drink at graduation parties no matter what."

"I was really just sort of a spokesman trying to explain about the pledges between students and their parents. It (the pledge) made sense to me and to a lot of the kids and parents I talked with."

Shannon, daughter of Dale and Lynda McIntosh, 6824 Houghton St., said her role as spokesperson was to explain to student group meetings just what the pledges were all about.

"We didn't want to tell students that they can't drink at parties. We just didn't want them to drink and drive."

Shannon and her five-member committee tried to impress fellow students that if they had been drinking and didn't want to call home to get a driver, they could rely on friends.

Helping Shannon get the message across were juniors Mike Kelley and Chris Britt, seniors Tammy Iseler, Debra Cook and Shelley Nicholas.

Cleland said the project had an impact that other promotions aimed at cutting down drinking-driving accidents such as "REACH" and "MADD" don't have.

"The REACH program, involving students, and MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Drivers) are out and out against drinking," Cleland said.

"The Project Graduation seemed to involve the entire student body, the "straight" students, who are against all drinking, and the "party" students. Each had a role in making the project work."

A total of 145 students signed pledges with their parents out of the 250 students of the junior and senior classes.

"We know that some students were going to drink at parties during the graduation season," said Cleland. "We just wanted to make sure that all of the students made it through the final day."

Cleland said Project Graduation was successful its initial year, "and we're going to see it get better and better in years coming up."

Project Graduation began in December, 1985, when a coalition -- spearheaded by WFUM-TV28 (PBS), WJRT-TV12 and Connexion, a health promotion and risk reduction agency -- was formed with the intent to heighten awareness among high school students and their parents about the risks in-involved with drinking and driving.

The coalition consists of the Bay-Arenac Intermediate School District, Genesee County Commission on Substance Abuse Services, Genesee Intermediate School District, Human Development Commission of Caro, MADD, Michigan State Police, Midland Intermediate School District, Mott Children's Health Center, SADD, Saginaw/Bay Substance Abuse Services, Saginaw Intermediate School District and WWCK-105FM.

Millage and school board candidates on June ballot

Alfred Grifka, 46, has been on the board one term. His first priority is to improve the school system. "I also want to straighten out the money problems," he said. Grifka has 5 children, 2 in school and 3 who have graduated. He owns a farm near Ubyly.

KINGSTON

Kingston voters will decide the fate of 2 millage proposals and vote for 2 unopposed incumbents.

The millage proposal is a renewal proposition which asks for 4 mills for 4 years. The second proposition is for a half mill for 6 years. The money generated from this millage would be used only as operating millage for the repair of school facilities.

THE CANDIDATES

Wesley Scott, 40, has served on the board for 4 years. He is running again because he wants to have a voice in the running of the school. "We have initiated forward planning in maintenance and curriculum and I want to be around to see more advances in those areas," he said. Scott has 3 children, one has graduated and 2 are still in school. He is Deacon and treasurer of the Dayton Center Church in Silverwood.

Incumbent Gary Koehler, 53, has been running for the school board for about 25 years and it's a habit that continues, he joked. He said that he would like to see the curriculum continue to improve and would like to hold down the cost as well. "I also think that common sense is important," he said. Koehler has 4 children, 2 have graduated from Kingston High School and 2 are still in school. He owns a farm near Kingston.

Gagetown man enters guilty plea

In Tuscola County District Court action Monday, a 21-year-old Gagetown man entered a plea of guilty before Judge Richard Kern.

Thomas A. Wood entered a plea of guilty to a charge of impaired driving. He was ordered to pay restitution of $60, stemming from an incident May 18.

Dempsey Whittle, 39, of Kingston entered a plea of guilty to driving while his license was suspended. He was sentenced to 3 days in the county jail, fined $42 and charged costs of $33, stemming from an incident May 12.

should be dealt with. Those individuals that attend such camps might need personal help."

"Whether we approve of the camp or not is not the issue," said another local pastor. Such situations are not uncommon and we feel no personal threat from the camp or its residents.

"They live a different lifestyle than we do. The church goal, as I see it, is not condemnation but reconciliation with people who live a variety of lifestyles that are different from our own."

Jesus and His disciples were people regarded as radicals by church leaders of their day and Jesus Himself was condemned for it.

"This may sound harsh, but I think that homosexuals create a sort of fear among people who may not be able to come to terms with their own sexuality."

All sorts of personal conflicts can result from this.

There are homosexuals here in Cass City. People know who they are, but they're not driving them out. There's no problem with that and I think we're to be congratulated for it.

"Basically, I think the whole issue of Camp Whatyawanabe has been blown right out of proportion..."

Another local minister said he was definitely opposed to the camp whose "principles are contrary to those of the community."

"I hope they (Bad Axe community leaders in opposition to the camp) do enact an ordinance outlawing such activity," he said. "I wouldn't be surprised if a coalition of church leaders is formed to legally oppose the camp. I'm 100 percent committed to legal means, but opposed to vandalism as a way to deal with the situation."

Taking part in the Chronicle survey were: Gary Merrill of Holbrook Baptist Church, Mark Cole of Cass City Church of God, Harry Capps of Cass City First Presbyterian, Allen Fruend of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Ben R. Haynes of Mizpah Missionary Church, A.E. McFarland of Cass City Church of The Nazarene, Clare Patton, Salem United Methodist Church, and S. Joe Robertson, Trinity United Methodist Church.

Inmate back after walkaway from jail

An 18-year-old inmate at the Tuscola County Jail is back in custody after he walked away from the jail at 3:20 p.m. Friday, according to a Tuscola County Sheriff's report.

Michael W. Curtis of Vassar was on garden duty when he left the facility. He turned himself in and was back in custody at 11 p.m. Saturday.

Frank Puskas, 72, 5671 Robinson Rd., was eastbound on M-81 a half mile east of Greenland Rd. Thursday night and was unable to avoid striking a deer.

Scott Boyl, 22, of Kingston was westbound on Kingston Rd. near the intersection of Cartwright Rd. when a deer ran into the path of his car.

A break-in Saturday, May 10, was reported at White Creek Club, Dodge Rd., Cass City. According to a sheriff's report, cement blocks had been thrown through a sliding glass door, resulting in $250 in damage. Some beer bottles and cans were knocked off a shelf, but no other vandalism was apparent.

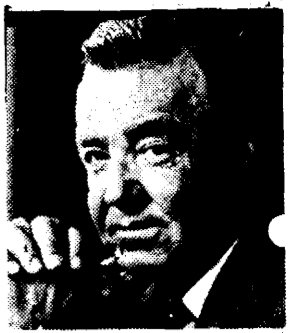

CMU honors list

Central Michigan University's winter semester honors list includes six students from the Cass City area, including Beatrice McLachlan, a senior from Ubyly who earned straight A's for the semester.

Named to the honors list as students chosen from the top 10 percent of each academic class were Karla J. Kretschmer, Owendale senior; Kris A. Proctor, Cass City senior; Angela L. Wallace, Cass City sophomore, and Lori K. Sawdon, Deford senior.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Let not joy be unconfined when Great White Fathers at Washington conjure up a new tax bill. Somebody's going to get stuck.

Let's say your family taxable income is between $25,000 and $71,000. That's after exemptions and deductions.

Middle class America, wouldn't you say, with such income?

Capital gains can come from sale of a house or stocks or bonds that you realized a profit from. Not a freak figure, but one rather typical in most years.

On capital gains of $5,500 in the $25,000 to $31,000 bracket, you now pay $550. We assume long term capital gains, assets held over six months.

Under the next tax bill you'd pay $1,485 -- 2.7 x as much!

In all the blathering about the new tax bill, taxing capital gains the same as regular income is brushed off with the remark: "Why the old rate was 20%. The new rate, same as the top income rate on regular income is only 27%... not much at all."

They gloss it over by saying that 27% is only a bit more than 20%. Only 7%. Nuts. It's 720ths more or 35% more than the amount you paid before.

But the real sting comes from a fact the politicians and the papers and the telly ignore:

The "20% rate" on capital gains, is paid only by those with joint taxable incomes over $169,000. How many people like that do you know? I wish, myself, I knew more, for I like rich people, and find them almost always smarter and more fun than the poor.

The present rate on capital gains (long term, over 6 months) is figured one of 2 ways:

1. Exempt 60% of the gains. Of the remaining 40% treat it as regular income. Or--
2. Take a straight 20% tax on the gains as a separate figure, and don't include any part of the gains in regular income.

In almost all cases up to the level of $169,000, a taxpayer just exempts 60% of the gains and tosses the balance of 40% into his regular income pile.

Under the new proposed law that everyone is so ecstatic about, there's just a straight 27% on all cap. gains, with no deductions, such as the 60% you exclude now.

Here are examples of the old and the new taxes on capital gains in four different income levels. Income shown as "taxable income" after exemptions and deductions. Figures are rounded slightly.

1. Income from $25,000 to $31,000. Capital gains tax on $5,500 extra income of this sort of $5,500--$550.

Under proposed law -- tax would be $1,485.

2. Income from $31,000 to $36,600. Tax now on extra capital gains income of $5,500--$616.

Under proposed law -- $1,485.

3. Income $36,600 to $47,600. Capital gains tax on next $11,000 of income -- $1,452.

Under proposed law -- $2,970.

4. Income from $47,600 to $62,500. Capital gains tax on next $15,000 of capital gains -- $2,280.

Under proposed law -- $4,050.

There you are -- From nearly twice as much to nearly 3 times as much as you're paying now.

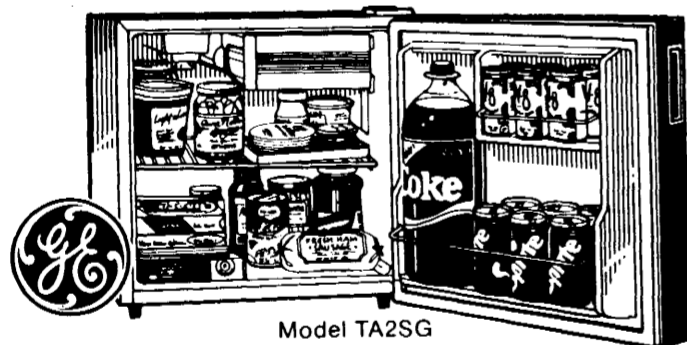

Remember, the whole package is supposed to produce the same take for the government as before. You gain on the peanuts, you lose it on the popcorn.

So what to do about it? If the tax bill goes through, it looks for sure that the capital gains tax will be much higher than it is now. Unless the boys at Washington back up the effective date, you'll have less tax to pay if you take your capital gains this year.

Remember, you exclude 60% of the gains, and then pay your regular tax rate on the rest. Sometimes the extra income kicks you into the next bracket, but even then you're better off than waiting until 1987.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.
