At Deford and Evergreen

Plan student switch to end split classes

The budget for 1985-86 appears on page 14.

A change in the number of students expected to attend school at Deford and Evergreen Schools next fall is expected to eliminate a problem that has faced the Cass City School Board in recent years.

The problem is split classes where students in more than one grade are grouped and taught by the same teacher because there were not enough students to form a class for each grade.

The school board listened to a plan to solve the problem Monday night in its regular session at Cass City High School. It involves reorganization of classes at Deford and Evergreen schools. The plan calls for students in grades kindergarten through second to be taught at Deford and students in grades 3, 4 and 5 to be taught at Evergreen. A developmental kindergarten room will be available at Deford for students who are not yet ready for regular kindergarten classes because of age or development.

Under this plan, grades 4 and 5 would have 30 students each while all others would have fewer. Dorland Kuntz, principal at Deford, said that he would rather teach 30 children in one grade than 27 in 2 grades.

Trustee Fred Matthews, who has been steadfastly against students transferring from their home area school to another school in the system, applauded the suggested plan.

A drawback to the plan could be some students who had been within walking distance being required to take a bus ride and perhaps transfer buses to get to school and home again. Under the new plan, a half less teacher would be required at Deford-Evergreen and would be used in Cass City.

While the student numbers favor the new plan next year, Supt. Don Crouse said that there were no guarantees about future years when enrollment might make it impossible to operate economically without again resorting to split classes.

While the change in classes was warmly received by the board, a suggestion by Tammy Iseler and Yvette Hurd, graduating seniors, to eliminate final exams for high school students with a B or better average and not more than 5 absences was not.

Trustees Dick Wallace and Louis Horner were generally receptive to the plan, but the remainder of the board was not. I don't feel strongly enough about it to press the issue, Horner said, but I would vote for it.

Iseler presented a survey of Cass City teachers to Crouse to give the board. It showed that 14 teachers favored eliminating finals and 6 did not.

BUDGET HEARING

A budget hearing is required by law. It has been the policy of the board to adopt a budget the same as the one adopted the previous year and then change it at a later date to one that accurately reflects expenditures and revenues. That's done, Crouse explained, because it is impossible to adopt a meaningful budget until the Michigan legislature adopts a state aid budget for the year.

The board adopted a revised budget for 1985-86 showing that the school will end its fiscal year (June 30) with a deficit of $68,002. It was originally estimated that the deficit would be $75,630. The deficit will be taken from the school's cash carry-over fund balance of $462,984.

The budget indicated that the school revenue increased $76,647 in 1985-86 over the previous year.

Taxpayers will pay 1.1 mills more school taxes next year than they did this year. The increase is due to a special one-mill tax voted last week for asbestos removal and .1 of a mill increase to retire the 1965 building debt. The tenth of a mill increase was made necessary by a decrease in the state's equalized valuation of $5.3 million. Because of the state aid formula, the decrease in valuation does not affect the district's operating revenues. Total school tax for 1986-87 is Please turn to page 14.

A MARLETTE TEEN suffocated Monday after being trapped in the second story of this grain bin at a farm in Evergreen Township.

Grain bin accident claims life of Todd Izydorek, 16

A Marlette teen trapped in a grain bin on a farm at 3485 Decker Rd., in Evergreen Township, died Monday.

Todd Izydorek, 16, of 6625 Mayville Rd. was working in the second story grain bin with his cousin when he became caught in the opening in the floor and the suction of the pouring grain pulled him partially through the hole. According to the Sanilac Sheriff's Department, rescue units cut an additional hole around Izydorek and he was eventually pulled up through the hole, where CPR was administered. The sheriff's department received the call at 11:16 a.m. and the sheriff estimates that he was under the grain approximately 15 minutes. He was rushed to Hills and Dales Hospital, where he was pronounced deceased at 12:30 p.m.

Jerome Root, Elkland Township Fire Chief, said the accident was at the farm owned by Edward Peters and the shed where the accident occurred was about 24 feet square and the ceiling was also about 24 feet high.

The youth had just completed his sophomore year at Marlette High School, where he was a member of the baseball and football teams. He is the son of Eugene and Patricia Izydorek of Mayville Road, Marlette.

Accidents reported

3 strikes and still out for "half-hearted" thief

Three "half-hearted" attempts to enter three Cass City stores Wednesday evening, June 11, were investigated by local police officers.

First try, reported at 10:05 p.m., was at Bigelow Hardware. Police found the rear door to the store was marred by some sharp object such as a claw hammer or tire iron. The attempted entry was reported by Janice Hunt, store owner.

Next report came at 10:15 p.m. when William Kritzman of Kritzman's Store, 6447 Main Street, reported someone marred the front door in a vain attempt to enter.

At the same time, Mrs. Joyce Knowlton reported her car, parked in an alley nearby, had been entered, but nothing was missing.

The third store entry attempt was reported at 10:50 p.m. at Betty Lynn's Store, 6537 Main Street. Police said the "amateur" would be burglar tried to pry open the front door to the apartment joining the store, thinking it was the store's entry.

Cindy Sage, the apartment dweller, told police she thought she heard a noise at the door about 7 p.m. She said her car, parked nearby, was also entered, but nothing was taken.

THEFT

Louis Kanaby, 6649 Third

Street, reported theft of two hanging flower pots, valued at $25 each, sometime Tuesday night or early Wednesday, June 11.

One of the planters, measuring about 2 feet across, contained petunias, the other a blue flower, Kanaby told police.

Two footprints were found in the dirt near the porch, one a size 10, the other size 5 or 6, but that was the only evidence.

VANDALS

Police report someone apparently tossed a stone or heavy object into a 2-foot by 3-foot plate glass window and screen on the west side of Hair Benders Salon, 6350 Garfield, sometime overnight Friday, June 13. Damage was estimated at $65. The vandalism was reported by Kathy Smith when she opened the salon about 7 a.m. Saturday, June 14. The window damage is covered by insurance.

Robert D. Brown, 21, of Flint, was arrested about 2 p.m. Sunday, June 15, for speeding, 44 mph in a 25 mph zone, on North Seeger Street at Seed Street by Cass City police.

A police check showed Brown was driving while his license was under suspension, and he was lodged in Tuscola County Jail, Caro.

Donald L. Hurren, 33, of Gagetown was injured slightly about 2:45 p.m. Tuesday, June 10, when a passing auto threw a stone into the windshield of his motorcycle while traveling south on Caseville Road. He was treated at Hills and Dales Hospital, police said.

Rebecca Hennessey, 4159 Seeger Street, hit a deer about 10:20 p.m., Tuesday, June 10, while driving east on East Caro Road, west of the Colwood Road intersection. She told police the deer jumped into the path of her auto and she couldn't avoid hitting it. She wasn't hurt in the mishap.

77-year-old knew theft was wrong

A 77-year-old man, who admitted pilfering at least six packs of cigarettes from the Quaker Maid Dairy over the past several weeks, was apprehended in the store by Cheryl Osentoski and another store employee.

Osentoski told police she saw the man take a pack of cigarettes and then attempt to leave without paying.

When confronted by the two store employees, the man admitted he had taken a number of packs of David Dorland, 55, of 604 W. Deckerville Road, was cited for driving under the influence of liquor about 4 p.m. Saturday, June 14, when his auto backed into a parked car on Main Street, west of the Sherman Street intersection.

Police also charged Dorland with having improper registration plates on his vehicle.

The damaged parked auto was owned by Frank J. Preba, 6311 Bay City-Forestville Road.

Police reported tests showed Dorland registered .16 intoxication rate, and a .10 rate is considered being drunk.

cigarettes from the store over the past several weeks.

"I knew it was wrong...I don't know why I did it," he told a police officer called to the scene. The elderly man showed he had money enough to pay for the cigarettes and vowed he would pay for the other packs he admitted pilfering.

The store owners said no charges would be filed against the elderly man because of his age.

"Putting is the toughest part of the game," John Maharg of Rolling Hills Golf Course told 11-year-old beginner Robert Broecker, who knows all about tough games.

Robert, improving steadily after a two-year up-hill battle against cancer of the bone and muscle, rolled in a slick 10-footer on the practice green as a delighted Maharg applauded.

"I've played golf twice with my uncle, Harry Perrin, at the Marysville golf course and really like the game," the boy said, with a grin. He told Maharg that maybe he'll join the Cass City school golf team in a couple of years.

Right now, though, Robert's main thoughts are about a plane flight he's taking today (June 18) to California to meet his sister Deborah, who is graduating from a Navy school she has completed.

The two will then drive back here allowing Bob to see much of the country during the five-day trek.

"I think it's the long stays in the hospital bed, not seeing what's up close outside; missing home; losing my hair..." Bob said as he looked back over the last two years of chemotherapy treatments he underwent at Wm. Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

The soft-spoken youngster didn't mention loss of sight in his left eye; the burn-like rash on his hands, and a similar rash that sometimes covered the inside of his mouth; loss of his appetite resulting in a drastic loss of weight; the lethargic feeling of tiredness all over.

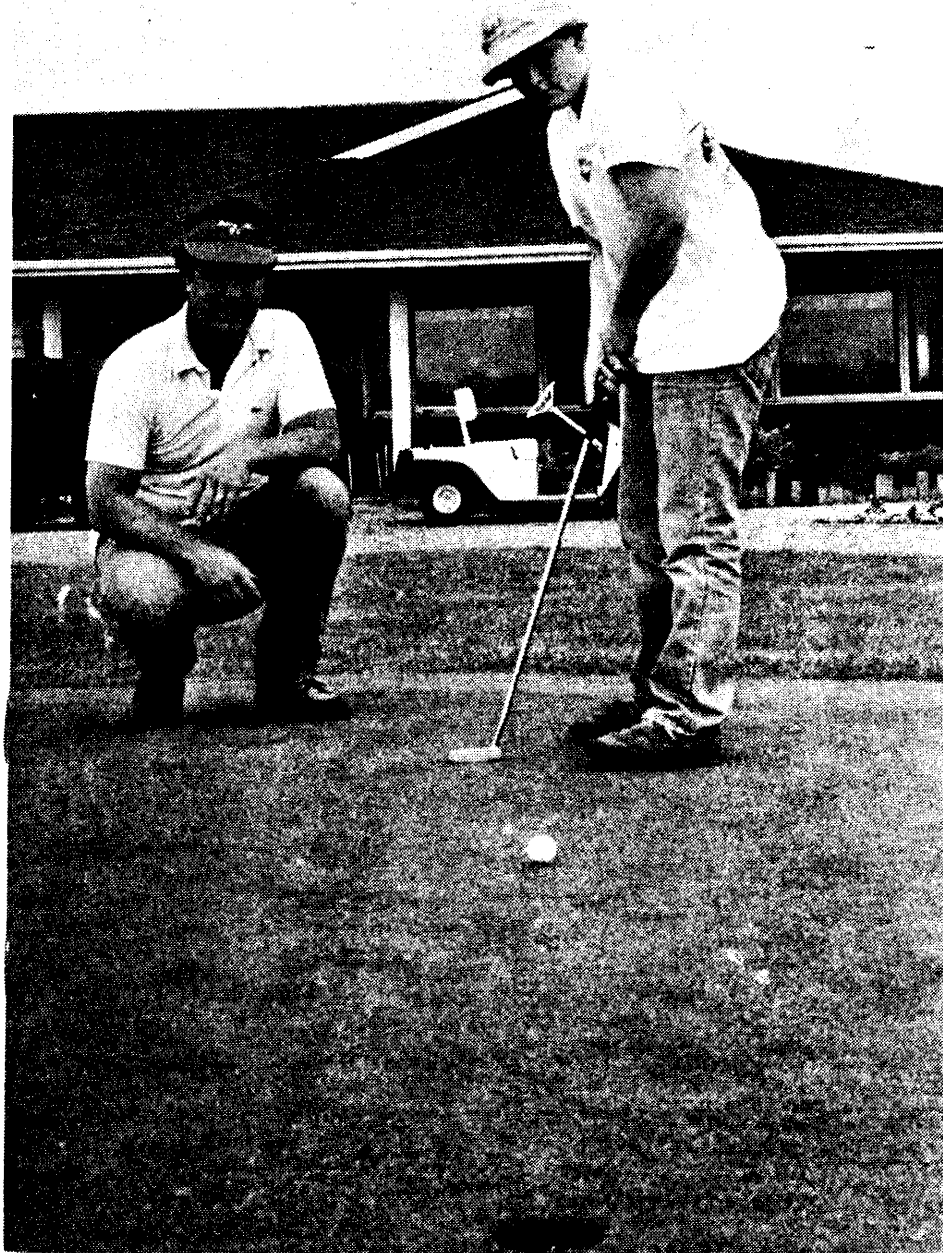

Each of the chemotherapy treatments lasted from 1 to 5 days. Ten days rest was needed between treatments.

It was a long, bitter struggle that hopefully now will become a dwindling memory.

"Kids are stronger than we think," said his mother, Rachel. "They don't give up. Robert was more concerned about us, his family, than himself."

But all the bad stuff is pretty much over now for young Bob, his father, Arnold, and the friends and relatives who live near the Broecker farm home, 6060 Downington Road, Decker.

Robert still must undergo checkups every six weeks, which could continue for several more years, at Beaumont Hospital. These checkups themselves are no easy walk-through. Involved are a bone scan that can take as much as four hours, a CAT scan and Please turn to page 14.

MORE AND MORE OF THE PEOPLE DROPPING OUT OF SCHOOL AREN'T STUDENTS

The number of teachers leaving our school systems grows larger each year. The reason has very little to do with dedication or the search for a greater challenge. In most instances it boils down to a small bi-weekly paycheck - a poor reflection on the time and effort it takes to educate young people. Too many of today's teachers can no longer afford to be teachers.

The issue of low teacher's salaries is not one that requires your sympathy, IT DEMANDS YOUR ATTENTION. You can help bring about the pay increases that will keep any more teachers from dropping out. Prevent a lesson from being learned the hard way.

"If It Fitz..."

What's a fartlek?

By Jim Fitzgerald

A phone-caller said: "Knowing your background, I'm sure you can tell me what a fartlek is. I can't find 'fartlek' in my dictionary."

Why me? Because, the caller said, "fartlek" was used that day in a Free Press advertisement for the Free Press Marathon Training Program and I always participate in the annual marathon, sort of.

I quickly read the ad. It tells veteran marathoners: "You could use some advice on speedwork, mileage, repeats, fartlek, hills, etc...."

I did not giggle. I don't have that type of little-boy mentality. I know marathon runners are serious, dedicated people and I wouldn't be childish enough to make fun of their nomenclature.

It's the best way for marathoners to run while passing gas stations. That

Singers to hold rehearsals for July 4 concert

Count on the Classifieds to Do the Job

was my most intellectual guess as to what a fartlek is. But conscientious journalists don't guess; they make sure.

Besides, I've already made my big mistake for this month. Recently, while discussing my acting career, I wrote that ex-priest Bill Kienzle used to be pastor of Detroit's Holy Redeemer Church where "The Rosary Murders," the movie of Kienzle's book, is currently being filmed, starring Donald Sutherland and me.

Several well-informed Catholics quickly phoned to say I couldn't be true. Priests permanently assigned to Holy Redeemer must be members of the Redemptorist order, and Kienzle wasn't. My poor excuse is that I'd heard Bobby Laurel, producer of the movie, say he'd been an altar boy at Holy Redeemer and served mass for then-Father Kienzle.

It turns out that Kienzle did say a few masses at Holy Redeemer — maybe three — and it's possible Laurel was his altar boy, although Kienzle doesn't recall it. But he definitely was never pastor there, and I apologize for my carelessness. It must have been the stars in my eyes.

Anyway, I wanted to be more careful with "fartlek." It wasn't in my dictionary, either. It wasn't even in the largest dictionary in the Free Press building. I began to worry that it might have been a typographical error, in which case I wouldn't want to publicize it further, for fear of endangering the proposed joint operating agreement between the Free Press and the Detroit News. I didn't want to be responsible for U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese ruling that Detroit newspapers might not lose money if they would quit fartlekking around.

Fortunately, while I was pondering the word in the Free Press ad, my glance chanced upon co-worker Mark Josaitis, who writes a running column. He furnished the answer without hesitation. "Fartlek" is a Swedish term that roughly translates into "speed play." It describes the method marathoners use to vary their pace — faster, slower, faster — to enhance their staying power.

That settles that. All I have to ponder now is how I might best use fartlek while training to sit through next October's Free Press International Marathon. As you may recall, I try to sit longer than it takes the slowest runner to finish the 26-mile-plus course.

Perhaps I could enhance my sitting staying power by varying the speed of the up, down and sideways scooches I make in my upholstered leather chair — slower, slowest and movement invisible to the naked eye (and only a dog can hear the leather creak). I'll try it and let you know.

Meanwhile, I'm reminded that WJR's J.P. McCarthy hasn't yet kept a promise to let me know when he will next play that famous tape of the late, great broadcaster Lowell Thomas accidentally saying a word similar to fartlek. Thomas started to laugh and couldn't stop, no matter how hard he tried, and unwillingly created the funniest news program in radio history.

While I'm still in the non-giggling, unchildish mood induced by the Free Press Marathon ad offering advice on passing gas stations, I'd like to hear Lowell Thomas laugh again.

Area graduates receive degrees from MSU

Seven Cass City area residents recently received degrees at Michigan State University. Among the graduates were Ruby M. Sherman of Cass City, Kimberly K. Sangster, Decker, Paul Sowden, Owendale, Scott B. Hobart, Gageton, James and Gregory Harper and Douglas J. Peter, Kingston.

Ruby Sherman, daughter of Jim and Erika Sherman, graduated with a dual major and honors. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree in criminal justice and recognition equivalent in psychology.

RUBY SHERMAN

She graduated in the top 7 percent of her class. She plans to work in counseling this summer and return to college to work on her Master's degree.

Douglas J. Peter, son of Richard and Janet Peter of Kingston, received a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering.

Peter, who has worked as a summer trainee at Saginaw Division of General Motors Corp., formerly Saginaw Steering Gear, the last two years, will return to the plant as a full-time employee July 1 as a manufacturing control systems engineer.

A 1981 graduate of Kingston High School, Peter, 23, said if things work out, he'd like, sometime in the future, to return to college to get a Master's degree in business administration.

Kimberly Sangster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sangster of Decker, received a Bachelor of Science degree in dietetics.

KIMBERLY SANGSTER

A 1982 graduate of Cass City High School, Kimberly, 21, left almost immediately after her graduation to travel to Taiwan where she will be involved in a church-sponsored missionary program, returning home in mid-August.

She will then go to a St. Louis veterans' hospital where she will serve her internship in dietetics.

SCOTT HOBART

Scott B. Hobart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hobart of Gageton, received a Bachelor of Science degree in food systems economics and management.

Scott, 22, a 1982 graduate of Cass City High School, will join Procter & Gamble Co. in Chicago, Ill., in territory management of its Paper Products Div.

Last summer, he worked as a bio-chem internist for PPG Industries Inc. in Indianapolis.

A member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity at MSU, he was COAC chairman in setting up conferences for the fraternity. He also was a member of the National Agri-Marketing Association and was an ambassador for the MSU College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

In his last year at MSU, he served as a student-teaching assistant in the college's Department of Agriculture Economics.

He was named Outstanding Senior Student by the Agriculture Economics Department. He also received the John Thompson Award for Outstanding Senior for Phi Delta Theta.

Paul C. Sowden, of Owendale, received a Bachelor of Science degree in agribusiness and natural resources.

New energy

Despite the current oil glut, Americans are turning to renewable energy resources, reports National Wildlife magazine. Nine percent of our country's energy comes from wood, hydro-, and wind-powered generators; that's up 50 percent since 1979.

CHIRLD ANN SHAGENA

She earned BA degrees in history and anthropology.

Miss Shagena is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Shagena of Sebewaing and granddaughter of Mrs. Bertha Shagena of Cass City.

It's not that I enjoy beating a dead horse, but just when it seems sure that an issue has been talked to death, written about from every conceivable angle, something fans the embers and the fire burns brightly again.

The other day a story appeared outlining a case where the parents of Scott Adams, 19, of Dearborn Heights were awarded $1 million after he was killed in an auto crash.

The youth was killed when a car driven by Patrick Stodart, who, testimony indicated, was drunk, crossed the center line and crashed head-on into the Adams vehicle. Stodart died in the crash.

I know what you are saying. Stodart should pay the million. If he were, this episode would never be a topic for discussion. But Stodart is not paying. The judgement is against the Center Stage Nightclub. The who? The Center Stage Nightclub. It got into the act because they served Adams liquor prior to the accident.

The rationale for the decision is that Adams was under the legal drinking age (21) and if he had not been drunk, might have been able to avoid the car when it came careening down on him.

It's possible. There's little doubt that reactions are slowed by alcohol, but should $1 million be awarded because a youth received liquor illegally?

The nightclub may have been lax by serving liquor to a minor and if the liquor license was lost because of it, fine. But large settlements like this place all the blame on the seller and place none on the individual.

It's certain that no one forced the unfortunate youth to take a drink or get drunk. Sooner or later we are going to have to make the individual more responsible for his or her action.

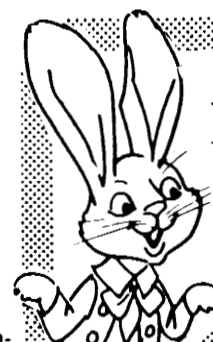

Liability insurance is so expensive today that more bars are without it than are with it. Many have formed corporations so that if sued, only a small fraction of the property is tied in with the license.

That practice has not been tested in court, or if it has, none of the owners of liquor licenses in the area are aware of it.

At best it's a stopgap. What's needed is a change in liability laws, which has been debated now for a couple of years without any really significant improvement.

There will be continuing pressure for change from hard-pressed businessmen and others. There's sure to be action when steadily increasing costs for products and services are linked to the large settlements in the minds of consumers.

It can't happen too soon.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Nearly everyone is aware that television and radio audiences are measured by companies that make scientific surveys.

Until last week it was a mystery why no one personally known was ever contacted. Well, yes, Virginia, those companies do call. The other day a letter was received announcing that a contact was to be made by Arbitron Ratings for a phone interview.

The letter was addressed to me at the cabin in Boyne City where the Arbitron phone peons have 2 chances to get an answer... slim and none. Will this call be listed, "No Opinion?"

As regular as the sun rising in the east over the years has been the Holbrook news written by Thelma Jackson. This week that news was curtailed a bit, but not stopped.

Mrs. Lillian Gibbard of Uby is concerned that many persons connected with a benefit breakfast held for the family will not receive credit for their part in the successful breakfast. It was a cooperative effort of many friends and neighbors, she reports.

Sign of the times. A report from Consumers Power Co. revealed that in 1949 Consumers was the first and only utility to have 100,000 farm customers.

From that high water mark numbers have been declining steadily. Today Consumers serves about 49,000 farms.

There's an added interest in those GM commercials saluting this year's top high school grads as Annette Stachura co-oped at the Chronicle and Tammy Iseler is the daughter of a friend.

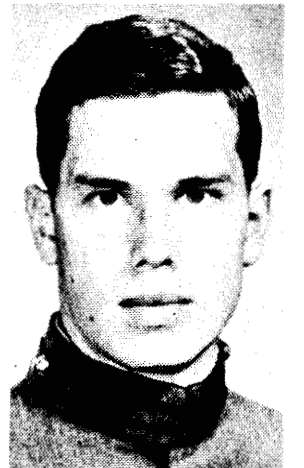

You know it would happen. Akron-Fairgrove, Marlette, Bad Axe and a host of other area schools' grads have been seen, but Cass City? Forget it.

Ladies from Cardiff are enjoying the area

A big family reunion June 22 at Caro and what could be a slightly sticky July 4th Independence Day celebration will be among the highlights of a nearly two-month visit here for two lovely Welsh ladies.

The two, Lily Pengilley, 75, and Lucy Edwards, in her 60s, who live in Cardiff, South Wales, Great Britain, are visiting Mrs. Leta Gelatt, of Woodland Apartments.

Lily and Leta are cousins and for years just corresponded with each other through the mail. It's the first visit ever for both Lily and her friend. And they're having a fine time.

They've visited Macinac Island and the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, and both noted, with smiles, that the island and the Soo area itself once belonged to the British.

Their recent motor trek through Northern Michigan stretched along the Lake Huron shoreline which was "very pretty," they said.

"Your country, your area, are so vast...not congested like our small island country," said Mrs. Edwards.

Both visitors waxed poetic, in their sprightly Welsh accents, in talking about their home town, Cardiff, where both were wed and raised families.

Pengilley is a Cornish name, phonetically pronounced Peng-ga-lee. She worked in a paper mill in Cardiff for 31 years, except for WWII war duty, which sent both women into compulsory bomber aircraft construction.

"I was sent to a training school and then did wiring in a bomber plant from 1939 to 1943," recalled Mrs. Edwards. Husbands of both women fought and survived WWII.

Both recall the night bombings. Cardiff, the capital of Wales, famed as a coal mining and shipping center along with its big machine tool industry, was a favorite target for German bombers.

Both knew many victims of the night bombing raids, but neither suffered injury from them.

"I was born in the valleys surrounding Cardiff. Singer Tom Jones and actor Richard Burton grew up in that area, and the song, 'The Green, Green Grass of Home' was of the area," Mrs. Edwards said.

"We're known for our rugby. There's a big stadium in Cardiff. And we're noted for our singing, our choirs."

"There are many famous castles either in Cardiff or nearby, and many famous ruins dating back to the Roman conquest," she said. Mrs. Edwards is now a widow, has two sons and four grandchildren.

"The Prince of Wales has a farm only 10 miles from our house," added Mrs. Pengilley. "We've both seen him and all the members of the Royal Family. We're very proud of them."

Both visitors said they "feel right at home in Cass City. People here are so very friendly, and helpful." Mrs. Pengilley is also now a widow, has a son and a daughter and four grandchildren.

The visitors, along with their hostess, Mrs. Gelatt, will attend the Joseph Perry reunion June 22 at Caro Fairgrounds. Mrs. Pengilley's mother was Joseph Perry's oldest daughter.

Perry, born in 1844 in Somersetshire, England, came to America in 1874, settling on a farm near Elmwood a short time later.

The Perry reunion should be fun for the sprightly visitors, but, with a glint in their eyes, they say: "We're looking forward to joining in on your July 4th celebration."

The two plan to return home July 9.

Acid rain

The Swiss government is charging that acid rain and other air pollutants have increased the possibilities of avalanches and landslides, says International Wildlife magazine. Declining tree counts, due to air pollution problems, provide fewer natural barriers against heavy snows and rains.

Fourth T-shirts available

The time is winding down quickly and only 2 and a half weeks remain before the July 4 festival.

To help raise money and stir up some spirit, there is something new this year - 4th T-shirts. They were designed by Cass City High School student Danny Ware. The shirts are available in red and blue and are $6 for adults and $5 for children sizes. They are available at Ben Franklin, Coach Light, Kritzman's and Old Wood Drug.

There is still plenty of space in the parade lineup, according to parade coordinator Gary Jones. Anyone is welcome to join in the procession, which begins at 11 a.m. Friday. Entrants are asked to call Jones at 872-2639.

For basketball enthusiasts, something different will be offered Friday at 1 p.m. on the basketball courts. For a $5 entry fee, participants can compete in the first annual Thro-Up Bowl tournaments, sponsored by Henry "Spud" Thro-Up. There are 3 divisions: 7th-9th grade, 10th-12th grade and adults. Each team of 2 has a total of 10 minutes to make as many baskets as possible. The winners in each division will receive trophies. Entry blanks will be available Wednesday at Ben Franklin, Coach Light and Old Wood. To guarantee a division entry, entry blanks must be received by July 3.

Lend an Ear, a support program for farmers needs volunteers

For now, it seems that the media has put the plight of the farmer on the back burner, but for many the problems that threaten their way of life are alive and well. This puts the farmer and his family under a great deal of stress and pressure.

"There are a lot more problems out there than people realize," an area farmer told representatives from various agencies, at an informational meeting Wednesday.

Both farmers and representatives were there to learn about a relatively new Ag-related help program called Lend an Ear. Tom Moore from the Department of Agriculture told the group that it's an addition to, not a replacement of, other farm-related programs.

Moore explained Lend an Ear as a program that involves volunteers (farmers) who would be willing to "lend an ear" to other farmers who may feel more comfortable talking to a peer. "It's not to help them solve problems...just hear them out. We know that if you're at a very high stress level that if you can just get whatever's inside you out for awhile it will lower the stress level," explained Moore. The volunteers not only listen but are knowledgeable about existing services such as EMAT, Mental Health and Extension services.

They are there to understand and recognize the problem, not to put blame on anyone or anything. Moore pointed out that it provides a non-governmental link to farmers in a stressful situation.

He said that over 50 volunteers have been through a training program, but only 2 Lend an Ear calls have been received. He pointed out, however, that both of those callers were at the breaking point. "It was very, very serious—the call unlocked some doors for them," he said.

Home economist Betty Pattullo said, "I've had many more calls than that at my office. I wish I could refer them to someone out there who was willing to listen at a time when they just needed to talk through their problems."

The 4 farmers in attendance agreed that Lend an Ear sounded like a good idea. "I'd be willing to use it," one said. "We're a goofy bunch (farmers) and have to get pretty low before we talk to anyone," said another. Lend an Ear is unique because the volunteers may have been through the same thing the callers have.

Pattullo told the group that she would like to develop a network in Tuscola County. Moore said that a minimum of 8 to 12 volunteers are needed. Couples are encouraged to volunteer. Often it is the wife who answers the phone and she has shared her husband's problems.

Moore said that a need for such a program came up at a number of hearings and meetings last spring when they were setting up the Ag-Assistance program. "Some organizations had farmers approach them and say if I only had a farmer to talk to...to cry on his shoulder. He'd understand how I got into the problem I'm in," said Moore.

As one of the farmers pointed out, "You could go down a road and stop at every farm and you'd find stress."

Anyone interested in finding out more about Lend an Ear, becoming a volunteer or who would like more information on other Ag-Assistance programs is asked to call Pattullo at 673-5999.

Veronica's return to U.S. after WWII remains a memorable experience

"It's nice that they are restoring the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, but I'm not thinking about going back to New York to see it when it's done," says Veronica (Danko) Gaszczynski, owner of Veronica's Restaurant on Main Street.

She passed through the immigration stalls at Ellis Island shortly after World War II when she was about 13 years old.

She was born in Acosto, Pa., a small mining town near Youngstown, but her parents moved to Czechoslovakia when she was a baby. She was one of eight children in the Danko family, four born in the U.S. and four born in Europe.

Following the war, great masses of people from Europe were migrating to this country. She was among them, traveling alone, unable to speak English, only Polish and Slavic.

"It's been so long ago it's really hard to recall things. I remember the trip by train from Czechoslovakia to Germany, then to France where I boarded a ship bound for New York."

"I stayed in a small stateroom on the second deck of the three-deck ship. It was packed with people. Few could speak English. The trip took about six days."

"I remember how old everyone seemed to look, and they weren't really old, but young. Just toil-worn."

"The ship came into New York harbor at night and the Statue of Liberty was all lit up."

"We were taught in school that when you see the Statue of Liberty, you've arrived...finally."

"I remember I had to stay aboard ship until an agent, a sort of sponsor who spoke eight or nine languages, came to get me. I guess because I was a citizen, having been born in America, the processing through Ellis Island didn't take too long."

"I've heard people say they recall that Ellis Island was a dirty, old-fashioned sort of place. I don't recall it really being dirty, but it did seem old-fashioned, old coal or wood-burning stoves to take the chill out of the big assembly room. I arrived in September. It was kind of chilly."

Veronica stayed with a cousin in New York for two weeks before a brother who lived in Pennsylvania came for her. "I didn't go to school to learn English and for that I could kick myself."

Only a few months went by when Veronica decided to contact her immigration sponsor in New York to try and get a housekeeping job.

"In those days it was quite easy for younger immigrants, who couldn't speak English, to get jobs in households in New York and I soon went to work for a fine young Jewish family whose mother could speak five languages. Her children taught me English. They'd bring me kindergarten and first grade books so that I could learn."

"I stayed with the family in New York for six years. I was treated as one of the family. They took me with them on trips and vacations. I was very fortunate."

A brother, John, brought Veronica to Hamtramck when she was 19 and she got a job for a then well-known European restaurant called Hazen's. "Hamtramck is still a good place to go for European food, but personally I think American food is better," she said.

Soon Veronica met and wed her husband, Chester, who died in 1980.

"Chester came from the Kingston area and we moved to a farm near there in 1951 where my husband farmed and also drove to Detroit to work at the Dodge Main plant."

Later, Veronica landed a job in the Cass City Hotel restaurant, and still later

His wife, the former Cheryl Karr of Cass City, a teacher and graduate of Eastern Michigan University, is with him.

Chambers, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chambers of Unionville, hopes to return to Michigan to practice on completion of his residency training at Duke.

"OLD COUNTRY FOOD is good, but not as good as American food," says Veronica Gaszczynski, who adds she won't go back to New York to see the restored Statue of Liberty or Ellis Island, where she was processed through immigration shortly after World War II.

worked for the late Pat Martin in Martin's Restaurant, a business Veronica purchased 12 years ago and still operates.

"I've never gone back to New York nor to Europe," she said. "Never wanted to. They have too many restrictions over traveling, over everything."

"I watched television coverage of Billy Graham's tour of Czechoslovakia recently and the people there still look old. Things never change over there. I've got two brothers and a sister still living there."

Veronica still speaks a sort of broken English and she says "I'm very self-conscious about it."

Veronica and her husband had four children, three still living, Michael, who works at Bad Axe Huron Memorial Hospital, Leonard, who lives in Colorado, and Chester Jr., who works at Walbro in Cass City.

Veronica never utilized her own linguistic skills. "I can understand Russian, Polish, Slavic languages, when TV news reports show Russian or Polish speakers, I can tell what they're saying in their own language."

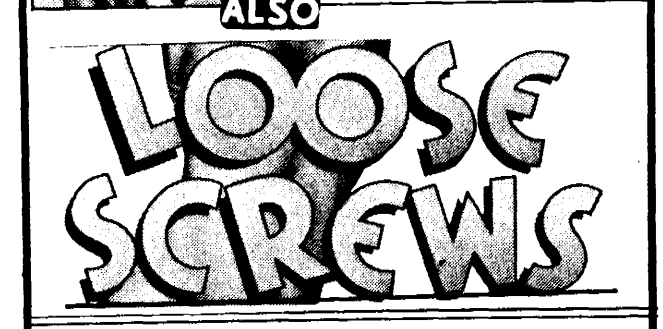

"My sons tell me they wish I'd have taught them some foreign languages, especially Michael at Bad Axe. He runs into a number of Slavic people at the hospital and it would really help him."

"My sons all seem to speak broken English. They grew up with me and they talk like me."

As for traveling to New York again to see a newly restored Statue of Liberty, no way. "When I worked in New York I took the ferry to Jersey City each Thursday on my day off to visit a cousin who could speak Slavic and the ferry steered right past the statue, coming and going. So I got a good look at it as I want."

HEALTH TIPS

Older people need exercise

Nearly half of the people in this country get some form of regular exercise, according to recent reports. Slimming down and shaping up may be America's favorite pastime of the 1980s.

With all of this exercise going on, it seems odd that many in our country's fastest growing population group — people over age 55 — are not involved in the "get fit" effort. One reason may be that the promoters of health programs are targeting their efforts at younger people. Another, possibly better, reason was identified in a recent study of older people's beliefs about exercise. In that study, many older Americans said they believed that there was no need for them to exercise and that exercise actually was dangerous for older people. The reasons they cited most often for not exercising were fear of heart attacks, falls, and strokes.

Their fear is understandable, but the fact is that exercise, if done properly, benefits older people just as it does other age groups. Particularly when it is vigorous and habitual, exercise appears to have a role in increasing and maintaining overall cardiovascular health.

Another recent study of the habits and health of 17,000 middle-aged and older men concluded that even modest exercise, notably an expenditure of 2000 calories a week in walking, jogging, or sports (brisk walking burns up about 450 calories and jogging about 480 to 600 calories an hour) prolongs life. The death rates among men who did not exercise were almost twice as high as those in the most active group — a particularly strong endorsement of the benefits of regular exercise.

There is some evidence that exercise helps in reducing high blood pressure, stress and stroke, as well as improving overall physical condition. Psychological stress plays a role in coronary heart disease, and exercise offers reduced neuromuscular tension, helps to lift depression and relieves hostility. A program of regular exercise also tends to promote better diet and sleep.

I'd like to emphasize that when older people choose an exercise that is right for their individual abilities and condition, there is very little risk involved. Of course, different types of exercise provide different benefits. Stretching exercises, including ballet, modern dance, yoga, aquatic exercises, and gardening can help increase flexibility, which makes everyday movement easier. Calisthenics, walking, jogging, and working out with weights help build muscle strength. Heart and lung strengtheners include brisk walking, jogging, bicycling, swimming, aerobic dancing, cross country skiing, jumping rope, and exercycles or rowing machines.

HOW TO START AN EXERCISE PROGRAM

Determining what benefits you want to obtain is the first step in selecting a proper exercise program. After deciding what exercise is right for you, you should think about whether you would be more likely to enjoy and stick with your program if you exercise alone, with a friend or with a group of people. Many community groups such as the YMCA and senior centers across the country offer exercise programs that cater to older people.

If you're not used to vigorous exercises, you should check with your doctor before you begin, just to assure yourself that it's okay. People with insulin-dependent diabetes, recent heart trouble, arthritis or extreme shortness of breath definitely must check with their doctor first.

Start any routine slowly and build yourself up over time. It takes a while to get into shape, so don't try to do too much at once. Make exercise a part of your weekly routine by setting aside time especially for it. In order to get the benefits of a healthy heart and stay in shape, you should exercise vigorously at least 3 times a week for a minimum of 15 to 20 minutes.

Remember, regular exercise is an easy, inexpensive way for you to stay healthy, look better, sleep better, and feel more energetic and confident.

New books at the library

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF QUILTMaking by Michele Walker (non-fiction). This book is a color gallery of patchwork and applique quilts, both traditional and contemporary. It is an ordered examination of methods of designing and working such quilts, beginning with one-patch designs, then repeated block designs in all their variety, and, finally, designs employing a single central image.

JAMES HERRIOT'S DOG STORIES by James Herriot (non-fiction). In his introduction, Herriot reveals that his dream was to be a small-animal veterinarian; time and circumstances forced him into farm practice. He talks about his own dogs, a pair of patients that he detested, an epidemic of strychnine poisoning. Among his other patients were Juny, the nurse dog; a golden Labrador who lined up with the children at the playground for his turn on the slide; Theo, the pub terrier; and Venus, who didn't survive.

THE ROTATION DIET by Martin Katahn (non-fiction). Martin Katahn; Director of the Vanderbilt University Weight Management Program, provides here a simple, sensible approach to controlling weight on a long-term basis. Men and women vary the number of calories they consume during a three-week period (the rotation for women is 600/900/1200 calories; for men, 1200/1500/1800); after three weeks and presumably a hearty weight loss, the dieter takes a breather and is allowed to return to "normal" eating habits. The premise at work here is that diets fail because people get tired of dieting and because metabolism gradually slows after the body maintains a strict diet. To control eating during the maintenance phase, Katahn makes a number of helpful suggestions (i.e., exercise, drink plenty of water and avoid artificially sweetened drinks) and includes some not-so-exciting recipes.

Clayton McKellar and Gerald McKellar of Marine City were overnight guests of Mrs. Mary McKellar Wednesday, June 4, and visited other relatives in the Cass City area.

Recent guests of Mrs. Sue Penrod were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Peelap of Farwell.

Bill Ashmore was released from Saginaw General Hospital Wednesday, June 4, and is recuperating at home. June 2, while still hospitalized, he celebrated his 75th birthday when his family gathered for a visit, and nurses supplied a birthday cake.

En route home after spending last weekend in Farmington Hills, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe visited their grandson, Brian Kehoe in Brighton. Brian was released 2 days earlier from St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he underwent surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Walsh of Redford spent last weekend at their farm home here and were accompanied by Madge Murray, recently released from U of M Hospital, Ann Arbor. Mrs. Murray, spent her birthday, May 11, in the hospital and was the recipient of a card shower. While here for the weekend, they called on Mrs. W.C. Hunter.

With the assistance and know-how of one professional, several volunteer men (mostly retirees) were building an access ramp on the south side of St. Agatha Church during the past week. A side door will provide barrier-free entrance for the handicapped.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Perchard of Caseville returned home recently after spending the winter in Port St. Lucie, Fla., where they recently built a home. The Perchards were callers Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hobart and Clayton attended graduation ceremonies June 7 at MSU when Scott Hobart was one of the graduates. Scott has accepted employment with the Procter and Gamble Co. in Chicago, Ill.

In recent tryouts at the elementary school in Sebewaing, a local group was among those chosen to appear at the Sebewaing Sugar Festival Friday, June 20, at 7:00 p.m. to compete for a hundred dollar prize. The group consists of Melanie Joles, daughter of Rick and Pam Joles of Gagetown, Chris Roemer, daughter of Bill and Dawn Roemer of Sebewaing, and Jamie Sting, daughter of Linda and Jim Sting of Gagetown. The girls did a lip-synch number to a record by the Pointer Sisters. They call themselves the Electric Sisters.

Sunday, June 8, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pisarek Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pisarek Jr. and children attended an open house celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Darmofal, in honor of their graduate son, David Darmofal.

Harry Comment was admitted last Sunday to Hills and Dales Hospital in Cass City.

Mrs. Marian Stanton of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., spent a few days with Mrs. Gerry Carolan. Dinner guests last Monday at the Carolan home were Gary Carolan and Mary Gilkerson of Marlette.

WOMEN'S SOCIETY MEET

Twenty-two members of St. Agatha Women's Society were present for the meeting Tuesday afternoon, June 10, in the church hall. Pres. Helen Kubiak conducted a short business meeting during which routine matters, a June bake sale and housekeeping, were discussed.

This being election time, the meeting was turned over to the nominating committee, who supplied ballots and conducted the voting. New officers elected are: president, Arlene Enderle; vice-president, Nel Wald; secretary, Marian Carroll, and treasurer, Marian Comment.

The retiring officers are: Helen Kubiak, Vernita Comment, Lori Seurnynck and Shirley Lenhard.

The new officers will be installed in ceremonies July 8 at 11:00 a.m. mass, followed by a luncheon meeting at Sherwood-on-the-Hill.

A few games of bingo were played and hostesses Jackie Goodell, Stella Pisarek and Louise Ashmore served dessert and coffee.

*****

Al Goslin of Unionville was transferred last week from Veterans Hospital in Saginaw to Veterans Hospital in Highland Park where he is receiving treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Rabideau and daughter, Lisa Beth of Lansing, spent last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Dick Carroll. Sunday they attended a graduation open house at the home of Barb and Jerry Generous of Caro, in honor of Ganelle Generous. Last week's news erroneously reported the honoree to be Julie Generous. Ganelle is a graduate of Caro High School. Harold Johnston of Alma and Pat and John Arvo of Owosso, were also among those attending.

In a recent outing in their new van, Sister Josepha of the H & M Retirement Home escorted the 7 residents, 2 of whom are 91, for a visit with the Les Munros and an ice cream treat at the Koo Koo Kow in Caro.

Last Tuesday luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe were Mrs. Carl Seland and Mrs. Paul Langlois of Caro and Velma Helwig. Mrs. Seland and Mrs. Langlois had spent Monday in Fairview visiting Dick and Barb Seland and family.

Announcement was made on Caro radio during last week of the death in Lapeer of Mrs. Jimmy Schraeder. Mrs. Schraeder was the former Phyllis (Phyla) Jancech. She spent her school years here and graduated from Gagetown High School. Her funeral took place in Lapeer Friday.

The Gordon Wolfgang family, Gordon, Mary and Megan of Mellis, Mass., arrived at Tri-City Airport Thursday evening to spend the Father's Day weekend with Mr. and Mrs. William Goodell. The Bob Beauchamps of Bay City joined the rest of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe were callers Friday evening at Oak Beach, where the Bill Blisses of Cass City are spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arvo and sons of Owosso were week-end guests of the Eugene Comments.

Sugarless jams and jellies

by Betty Pattullo
Extension Home Economist

People who want to reduce the sugar in their diet often believe they must give up sweets, including jams and jellies. Instead of doing without, it's possible to make jams and jellies without sugar. The results will be slightly different but should be acceptable.

Sugar is an important ingredient in making jams and jellies. It helps gel formation, serves as a preserving agent and contributes to the flavor and texture. Jams and jellies made

Your neighbor says

Shriner loves kids and helps prove it

On Friday, Shriners were out on all 4 corners of Main and Seeger raising money for their orthopedic hospitals and burn clinics.

What motivates someone to be a Shriner and spend a beautiful day on a street corner?

"I'm a Shriner because I love people," said Ken E. Jensen. He also said that they (the Shriners) do a lot for the country and for humanity.

He said that the hospitals take in children from newborn to age 18 and provide their care for the duration free of charge. "Since the inception in 1922, about $98 million has been raised, which is a fair piece of change," said Jensen.

"You see a youngster that can't walk, has scoliosis or some other disabling injury and we take them in, straighten them out and they can walk as straight and tall as you do—that's what I'm all about," he said.

Jensen has been a Shriner for 20 years. When asked his age he said, "Well, let's say I'll never see 50 again." He is married to "his best friend and sweetheart," Georgine, who owns Georgine's. They live at 4661 Hospital Dr. and have 4 children and 4 grandchildren. He works at the hospital.

Horner gets degree, goes to Germany

Timothy L. Horner, son of Louis and Janice Horner, 4410 Seeger Street, recently received a Bachelor of Arts degree in language sciences and arts from the University of Michigan.

He is currently employed by Walbro Corp. and has been assigned to Stuttgart, Germany, where he is working as a trouble shooter in sales.

Horner, 22, a 1982 graduate of Cass City High School, has tentatively made plans to return to U-of-M next May to earn a law degree.

The Horners have three other children either in college, a college graduate of bound for college.

TIMOTHY HORNER

Sherril has completed two years at Central Michigan University and plans to be a psychologist. Scott graduated from Cass City High in May and plans to enter CMU to take up forestry, and Carol is a CMU graduate currently working at the YWCA in Grand Rapids.

Another area student who recently received a Bachelor of Business Administration degree at U of M is Charles R. Heckroth of Unionville.

TOWNSHIP OF ELKLAND NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Zoning Board of the Township of Elkland, Tuscola County, Michigan will conduct a Public Hearing on a proposed new Rural Zoning Ordinance to replace the Township's current ordinance, which was adopted on September 21, 1971, and as amended. The Public Hearing will be held as follows:

WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1986 at 7:00 p.m.

ELKLAND TOWNSHIP HALL/FIRE STATION

6691 Church Street

Cass City, Michigan 48726

The proposed revisions are intended to replace the 1971 ordinance in light of changes in the state enabling act, state supreme court decisions and the experience of the Township with the ordinance. These changes principally effect the purpose, land use district, and special land use permits as provided in the ordinance. It is proposed that the RA Residential Agricultural District be changed to three districts including an A-1, Agricultural District, an RR-1 Rural Residential District and an RC-1 Residential Cluster District. The B Business District will be revised into a B-1 Business District and the I-1 Light Industrial District will be revised into an M-1 Manufacturing/Distribution District. In addition, a new FC-1 Forestry Conservation District will be added. The proposed changes will be explained at the Public Hearing.

The zoning map will accordingly be changed to reflect the revised districts. Generally the proposed RC-1 districts will be limited to areas surrounding the Village of Cass City. The B-1 Districts will be principally on M-81 and principally near the Village. M-1 Districts will be mainly south and west of the Village. RR-1 Districts will be in rural areas that are not prime agricultural land, while A-1 Agricultural Districts will be in the principal farming areas. The FC-1 Districts will include most State Game Area and other lands not suitable for agriculture or development including wooded areas and lowlands.

The proposed revision of the Zoning Ordinance Text and Zoning District Map will be on file for public inspection at the Rawson Memorial Library, 6495 Pine Street, Cass City during normal library hours. Copies may also be reviewed by calling the Township Supervisor at 872-2937. Written comments regarding the proposed revisions will also be accepted for review at the public hearing.

Township of Elkland

Lamb fiber show slated in Bad Axe

Baa-B-Q lamb and sheep dogs (lamb bratwurst) will be featured items on the menu at the community 1986 Thumb Area Lamb and Fiber affair July 4-5 at the Huron Community Fairgrounds, Bad Axe.

The event is sponsored by the Thumb Sheep Breeders, Thumb Fiber Friends, Northern Angora Goat Rancher's Cooperative, American Sheep Producers Council and the Huron County Cooperative Extension Service.

In addition to lamb food items, there will be booths specializing in natural fiber products, sheep equipment and spinning and weaving equipment.

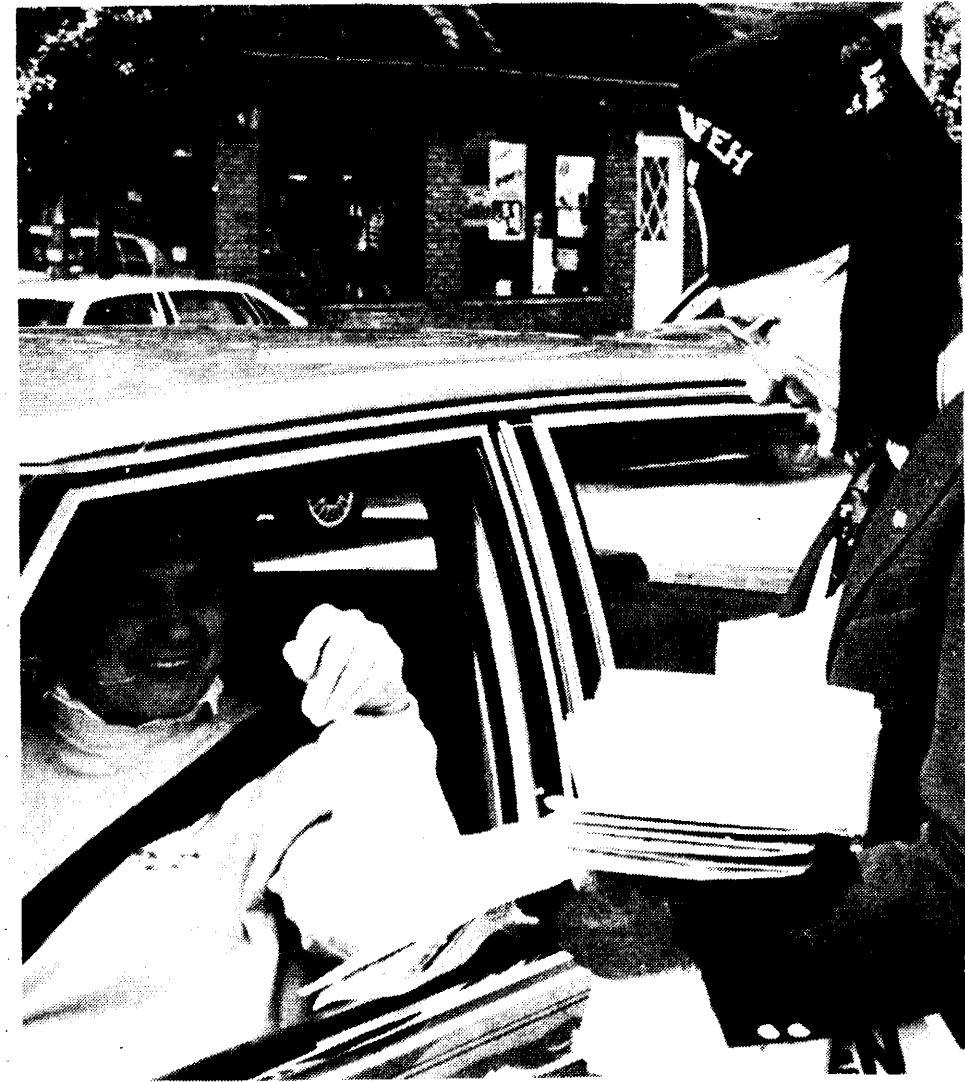

Demonstrations and seminars on fiber dyeing, producing Angora goats, plucking rabbits, sheep shearing and wool picking will be held during the 2-day event.

A special event will be a "Crier to Creation" demonstration. A sheep will be sheared, the fleece will be carded and spun immediately and others in the group will be weaving the fiber into a shawl. Appreciation for natural fiber clothing is on the rise, as well as the utilization of lamb, states Jim LeCureux, Extension Agricultural Agent.

Other activities include live animal shows, which feature white and colored wool breeds, Angora goats, rabbits, Suffolk breeding stock, Jackpot Lamb Show for 4-H and FFA members and a Junior Showmanship contest.

Admission is free, as well as parking.

SHRINE NEWSPAPER HAWKER Kermit Hartwick makes a sale for a "good cause." A total of $822.68 was raised in the day-long solicitation.

Youngster in fair condition after being struck by auto

Cory R. Hill, 5, son of Mrs. Barbara Hill, 4131 Krapf Road, was listed in fair condition Monday at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, from injuries suffered June 9 when he ran out in front of a car on Downington Road, Decker, in Sanilac County.

The youngster was first taken by private car to Hills and Dales Hospital and then transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in serious condition.

Sanilac County sheriff's deputies, who investigated, said the boy ran out of the weeds alongside Downington Road as a car driven by Charles D. Chard, 37, of 5151 Downington Road, Decker, was traveling eastbound on the road. Chard told deputies he was driving from 30 to 35 mph when he saw the boy and hit the brakes. Deputies found 75 feet of skid marks on the road before the vehicle hit the youngster.

In another Sanilac County mishap reported June 9, Bradley A Huett, 16, of Sandusky, was injured slightly when he rode his bike into the path of a car driven by Connie A. Shoemaker, 28, of Snover. The mishap occurred on Frenchline Road, one-half mile west of Townline Road in Elmer Township.

Huett was treated at McKenzie Memorial Hospital and released.

Groundwater pollution near Battle Creek grounds for lawsuit

Attorney General Frank Kelley has filed suit in federal district court in Grand Rapids seeking to recover for damages plus penalties and reimbursement of state funds to investigate and remedy groundwater pollution in the Battle Creek area.

The action involves 3 contamination sites identified as sources of the toxic chemicals that polluted water in and around the Verona Well Field, which provides the Battle Creek municipal water supply.

The sites are the former Thomas Solvent Company Raymond Road Facility, the solvent company's former annex facility and the Grand Trunk Western Railroad Marshalling Yard.

The 2 solvent facilities were used to store and transfer solvents and other hazardous chemicals until 1984 at which time an earlier suit forced their closure. Grand Trunk has used chemicals for cleaning and maintenance in its marshalling yard.

Kelly said that investigation by the Departments of Natural Resources and Public Health, along with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, have identified the sites as sources of "massive" groundwater pollution.

The suit asks the court to order reimbursement for the costs of investigative, enforcement and remedial actions, payment of damages for the injuries to the state's natural resources and payment of civil penalties of $10,000 for each day of violation of the state water pollution law.

DNR Director Gordon E. Guyer said the suit reflects years of investigative and enforcement work on the part of the department and the staff of the attorney general's office.

He said there would be a strengthening of the working relationship between the DNR and the attorney general's office to further protect the environment.

"We will use all appropriate legal means to force those responsible to compensate the people of this state for clean-up costs and damages to our natural resources," Guyer said.

Auto crashes claim lives of 3 in Tuscola County

A Millington woman was killed Sunday in a 2 car collision at the intersection of M-15 and Birch Run Rd., according to the Millington police department.

Harry T. Novoselsky, 25, of Detroit was eastbound on Birch Run Rd. at approximately 3 a.m. when he allegedly ran the stop sign, according to the Millington police, and broadsided a car driven by 20-year-old Christine M. Cloutier. She was thrown from her car. Cloutier was taken to Caro Community Hospital, where she was pronounced dead. Novoselsky and his 24-year-old passenger from East Detroit were uninjured. According to the Millington police department, the accident is under investigation by the Tuscola County Prosecutor's office.

A 2 car collision Monday, June 9, on Millington Rd. near the intersection of Edwards Rd. claimed the lives of 2 men.

A car driven by Thomas Terbush, 39, of Flint was eastbound on Millington Rd. when he crossed into the westbound lane into the path of an oncoming car driven by Brian J. Duff, 30, of Mayville. The cars hit head-on and the Terbush vehicle caught fire. The jaws of life were used to remove both drivers from the vehicles, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's report.

Two Kingston men were seriously injured when the car they were riding in rolled over.

A car driven by Billy J. Simmons, 56, of Kingston, in which Robert Bailey, 54, of Kingston was a passenger, was northbound on Phillips Rd. at 12:18 a.m. when Simmons hit potholes in the road and the driver's seat reclined and he lost control. The car went off the west shoulder of the road into a deep ditch and rolled over.

Charles Nizzula, 62, of Deford was westbound on Bevens Rd. near the intersection of English Rd. Monday when he struck a horse which was standing in the westbound lane. According to the sheriff's report, it was foggy and he was unable to avoid the horse.

Daniel R. Sherman, 28, of Deford was westbound on Deckerville Rd. Wednesday when he was unable to avoid hitting a deer.

Thomas Farwell of Kingston reported a boat motor valued at $400 was taken off his boat Sunday, June 8. The boat was parked in the driveway.

Dale Simpson of Deford reported a window broken after they returned home Sunday, June 8. Nothing was taken from the house.

Minnie David of Kingston reported someone threw an object at her residence and broke a window.

Foot-sore Shriners spend day in street for a good cause

A trio of "old bucks," aided by a busy, younger Elf Khurafeh Temple associate, braved busy traffic at the corner of Main and Seeger Streets last Friday to sell Shriner newspapers in the annual Crippled Children's aid campaign.

"It gets kinda scary out here in the middle of the street," Kermit Hartwick, 70, of 6823 East Main Street, admitted.

"But, at least this year, I'm not freezing."

It was the fourth year in a row that Hartwick, a fez with its familiar tassel perched jauntily atop his head, a smiling face, a diamond Masonic pin in the lapel of his brown business suit, patrolled the middle of the street soliciting money for the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Hartwick, a 15-year member of the Elf Khurafeh Temple at Saginaw, was looking forward to ending his stretch in the middle of the street a little earlier this year.

"My feet hurt," he said. "I'm just not as young as I used to be," he grinned. "But if they need me, I'll probably end up sticking to the job."

Hartwick said he hoped the one-day solicitation last Friday would net around $800. "It's really for a good cause," he said, seriously.

"I don't see how he (Hartwick) does it," said John Marshall, 71, of 6683 Bay City-Forestville Road, complaining of "my tired back. Had surgery a year ago...still ain't right."

Marshall, despite his nagging back pains, has been a stalwart each of the last four years along with Hartwick in the annual solicitation, "even though I averaged only about two hours last couple of years," he said.

Lloyd Finkbeiner, 72, of 4451 Green Road, said "I'm doing fine...no problem." He pointed out that his post on the busy main street corner was on Seeger, where the traffic isn't as numerous or speedy.

"When we first got out here in the middle of the street about 8 a.m., a woman driver came roaring through town...must have been going 90. Sure made my coat tails flap as she went by," grinned Hartwick.

The other member of the four-corner quartet Friday was Ken Jensen, of 4661 Hospital Drive, Hills and Dales Hospital administrator. Office duties called him away before the day's solicitation stint was over.

"I'll probably have to stand in for him," shrugged the foot-sore Hartwick as he flagged down another "customer."

The Shrine of North America has spent about $988 million operating hospitals for crippled children and nearly $214 million in hospital construction over the 63 years the solicitation program has been operating.

It has been called "The World's Greatest Philanthropy," said Warren Richards, this year's general chairman of the paper sales committee.

Largest number of hotline calls received in Thumb area

THE NUMBER in each county represents the number of hot line calls received since April, 1985. The Thumb has the highest concentration of calls.

Since the Michigan Agriculture Assistance Network hotline began in April 9, 1985, until June 6 of this year, it has received a total of 6,364 calls.

Of that total, agricultural assistance farm service requests amounted to 1,346. Miscellaneous calls from farmers accounted for 2,641 and from non-farmers a total of 2,377 contacts were made. Non-farmers included state staff, news media, legislators, attorneys, lending institutions and concerned relatives or friends of farmers.

The largest concentration of calls made in the state came from the Thumb area. The highest number of calls was from Huron County with a total of 85. Tom Moore of the Department of Agriculture said that he received 29 calls from one man, although this number is not included in the 85. The second highest number came from Sanilac County with 67. Saginaw County followed with 61 and Tuscola County pulled in fourth with 53 contacts.

In the last few weeks, calls have fallen off. Moore said that the calls come in 2 or 3 day spurts and he was surprised he didn't get more during the rainy weather. Moore said that some of the calls may be picked up in the individual county.

"Most of the calls now are concerned with money, and where they can get it," said Moore.

Callers are directed to the various local, state or federal agencies that have services to offer that farmers may not know are available. "The governor directed each one of the department heads to make a person in each department available to us to form an advisory group. Departments such as the Department of Social Services, Mental Health, treasury, labor and others are very, very active," he said.

The hotline number is 1-800-346-FARM.

3 qualify for golf nationals

Three Cass City golfers are among 120 women in the United States to qualify for the 10th United States Women's Amateur Public Links Championship. They are Harriet Richards, Mary Rabideau and Toby Weaver, who qualified in a sectional tournament at Gaylord.

The national tournament will be held June 18-22 at Sentryworld Golf Course, Stevens Point, Wis. Weaver and Rabideau have entered, but Richards is unable to attend. Her place on the Cass City team will be taken by Joyce Harlukowicz of Royal Oak.

The team competition will be in connection with the 36-hole qualifying rounds, June 18-19. The low total score of the team will decide the winner among the 30 teams.

The players with the low 32 scores in the 36 holes will enter match play to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

THIS BIG one didn't get away Monday, June 9. Jeff Reed said that he took the big pike from the Cass River at the Cemetery Road bridge at about 3:30 p.m. The fish was 34 inches long and weighed 6 pounds. It was taken on a "Mr. Twister" lure.

At hospital Hypertension is meet topic

If you're afflicted with high blood pressure, or just worried about the possibility, a meeting open to anyone will be held tonight (Wednesday) from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the meeting room at Hills and Dales Hospital.

Dr. Beatriz Martin will present the program, which will underscore the fact that high blood pressure is treatable.

High blood pressure is one of the more serious diseases in America. It affects about one out of every four adults.

But, medical spokesmen say, many deaths from high blood pressure can be prevented if hypertension is detected and treated early, and managed properly. Knowledge about high blood pressure, and its

Reds leading softball league

Last week was a big week for the Reds in the Cass City Little League softball competition as the team chalked up 3 wins in a row, defeating the Cubs, Braves and Tigers.

The first win was registered Tuesday, June 10, over the Cubs, 14-2. Jan Erla was credited with the win and Kathy Bolton took the loss. Leann LaRoche paced the Red attack with a grand slam homer and a 3-run circuit clout and accounted for 9 runs batted in. She was helped by Jandi Hillaker, Beth Powell, Suzy Britt and Pam Stoll, with 2 hits each. Jodi Wright slammed 3 singles for the Cubs.

The Reds kept their spot on the top of the league and remained undefeated in 6 outings with a double-header win Friday.

Erla pitched a 3-hitter and her teammates backed her with an 18-run attack in the one-sided 18-1 Red win over the Tigers.

Powell, LaRoche and Jodi Hillaker collected 2 hits each for the Reds and Barb Kelly had 2 of the 3 Tiger hits. Julie Knowlton had the third. Mya Pakonen was charged with the loss.

The Braves were no match for the Reds in the final game of the week as Erla notched a win over Michelle Kelly. The score was 12-8.

It was a close game. The Braves tied the game at 8-all in the 5th inning, but the Reds countered with a 4-run outburst in the fifth and held the Braves in the bottom of the 5th to register the win. Fulcher and Powell, with 2 hits each, led the Reds while the Braves' offensive punch was furnished by Heather Kelly, Leslie Goslin, Shannon Goslin and Carol Kubacki, with 2 hits each.

Seek girls for county bean queen

The Tuscola County Bean Queen Committee is accepting applications from young ladies to participate in the 1986 Tuscola County Bean Queen Contest, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director. Businesses, groups, clubs or individuals may sponsor a contestant. The only charge is $6.00 and the money will be used for a corsage for the contestant. All contestants will receive a minimum of $50.00 and the winner will receive $100.00.

Entry forms are available at the Cooperative Extension Office in Caro or the County Farm Bureau office in Caro. The pageant will be held in connection with the Tuscola County Fair Wednesday evening, July 30. The deadline for entering the contest is July 15 and the following Monday evening, July 21, the contestants will be meeting with the judges for a dinner interview.

Rules for entering are as follows: (1) Must be unmarried and a farmer's daughter, who has grown beans within the past 5 years. (2) Age limitations -- 17 to 25, inclusive (as of July 1, 1986). (3) County Bean Queen of previous years, not eligible. (4) Dress must be formal for pageant July 30. (5) A six dollar ($6.00) check must accompany the entry blank by the sponsor to cover the cost of the contestant's corsage which will be given to the girl the evening at the fair.

The Tuscola County Bean Queen Committee members are: Ed and Connie Spannagel of Unionville, Tom and Pat Starkey of Akron, Barry and Sally Hedley of Unionville, Ron and Kay Keinath of Vassar and John and Joan Borek Jr. of Clifford.

Most students going on to college will receive financial assistance

A survey of Cass City area school districts indicates from 35 to 50 percent of the 1986 senior high school classes will be going on to college or other post-prep training.

High school guidance counselors contacted in the survey said it's an average year for our area.

A majority of the families sending their recent prep graduates on to college have either inquired or will receive financial aid of some kind, loans, grants or scholarships.

Of the 122 members of this year's graduating class at Cass City High School, 67 plan to further their education.

Wayne Dillon, local high school guidance counselor, said 20 male grads and 34 female grads are now, or will be, enrolled in four-year colleges; 13 graduates of this year's class plan to enter business or trade schools; 13 male grads and one female graduate plan to enter the military to further their education in specialized fields.

Dillon, who keeps tab of Cass City High grads even years after they get their diplomas, said 13 of this year's graduating class have full-time jobs; 14 are looking for jobs; two girl graduates are getting married soon, as are four male grads.

Dillon said "We urge all parents of college-bound children to apply for financial aid grants regardless of their personal financial status."

Federal or state-backed school aid funds, grants or loans, are distributed based on need of individual students, Dillon said.

"If a kid wants to go on to college but needs financial help, there's no reason today why he won't be able to get it," Dillon said.

Out of the 67 Cass City seniors who are going on to college, 60 filled out requests for financial aid, he said.

Mary Thomson, guidance counselor at Akron-Fairgrove School District, reported 19 of this year's graduating class of 55 are going on to college, and all but two or three of those filled out financial aid requests.

She said the number of Akron-Fairgrove grads going on to higher education is about average for the district.

James Priestap, guidance counselor at Kingston High School, said the number of this year's graduating class of 35 who indicated they were going on to college was down slightly, about 40 percent opting for higher education.

He noted it was a small graduating class that included four foreign exchange students.

A more normal percentage of seniors from Kingston going on to college would be 50 to 60 percent of the graduating class, he said. Most college-bound students from the Kingston area do apply for financial help, he noted.

"We encourage parents to apply for help during workshops that we hold early in the fall when the financial aid forms are usually handed out to those interested. There is help available even for mid-income level parents, he said.

William Conway, Caro High School principal, said 51 percent of this year's graduating seniors are going on to college or higher education, "which is about average for us."

"I've worked in school districts, though, where the percentage of seniors going on to college is much lower," he added.

"Caro, and I think most of the Tuscola County area, is very educationally minded. And the number of youngsters from any community who go on to college depends a lot on the socioeconomic structure of the community."

Wayne Wright, Owen-Gage High School principal, noted this year's graduating class of 22 is lower in number than usual.

But 11 of the 22 indicated they will be going on to college or some form of higher education. And the 50 percent is normal for the district, Wright said.

Wright said most parents of college-bound Owen-Gage seniors have applied for financial aid "which is pretty routine these days" with spiraling costs of higher education.

Gloria Vandemark, high school guidance counselor at USA (Unionville-Sebewaing Area) School District, said 54 of the 97 members of this year's graduating class will go on to higher education; 10 others will be going into the military.

"Just about all of the graduates going on to college have filed for financial aid," she said.

Alert public is best defense against medicine tampering

The over-the-counter drug industry and the United States government are doing all they can to prevent additional cases of tampering with medicine capsules.

The Proprietary Association represents manufacturers and distributors of non-prescription, over-the-counter (OTC) medication. That includes pain relievers, cold medicines, antacids and many others. Americans are very well served by and often in need of these medications. They use OTCs to take care of fully a third of their everyday aches and ailments. They call or visit their doctor for only one in ten of these problems.

The industry is committed to placing products in tamper-resistant packaging (TRP). Although tamper-proof packaging is impossible, one goal is to try to keep people from opening OTC packages without leaving evidence.

Today there are 11 forms of TRP in use and our OTC medicines are today the most safely packaged consumer goods in the world. Although the concept was easy, putting it in practice was difficult—for example, making them accessible to the physically impaired.

Another important step taken by the industry was to join with the government and others in a continuing effort to raise people's awareness of their own responsibility for self-protection. A brochure, "Tips Against Tampering," is a keystone of this effort.

An alert public is the best protection against the criminal who would use our medicines against us. The industry is redoubling its efforts to develop even better technologies to extend the TRP system now in place.

The best hope to control criminal tampering is fivefold: An industry which puts its products in the most effective and yet reasonable TRP; a dedicated and adequately funded Food and Drug Administration; effective law enforcement; appropriate vigilance on the part of all in the distribution chain: manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers; and an informed and prudent public which exercises care in buying and using consumer goods, including medicines.

For a free leaflet on OTC medicine safety write to PA, Office of Public Affairs, 1150 Connecticut Avenue, NW, Washington DC 20036.

Area teachers

attend 4 day seminar

Two Cass City elementary teachers, Anita O'Berski and Kelly Seuryneck, joined 16 other Tuscola County grade school teachers who attended a four-day comprehensive health education training program conducted by Tuscola County Intermediate School District in Caro.

Ellen Glaza, who is the health education coordinator for the region, moderated the program, which highlighted 10 health subject areas: children's safety at school and home; nutrition and exercise; family health; consumer health; community health; growth and development; substance abuse and use; children's personal health practices; good emotional and mental health; disease prevention and cure.

The teachers attending made many of the games and activities needed for their classroom instruction this coming fall.

Some of the consultants who took part in the training included: Steve White of Caro, associated with AAA of Michigan; Dr. Carol Laethem of NuVision, Caro; Dr. Douglas Hegyi of Caro Community Hospital; Jane and Robert Ponder, social workers in Caro; John Ecken, protective services, D.D.S.; Kathy Young of McKenzie Hospital, and Lillian Wyatt of Dairy Council of Michigan.

All participants in the training session received State of Michigan Model certification awards the final day of the program, June 12.

MEAT NUTRI-FACTS

This Weeks Feature:

RIB EYE STEAKS WITH
MUSHROOM SAUCE

4 beef rib eye steaks, cut 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick
(approximately 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 pounds)
1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
1/2 cup hot water
2 tablespoons butter, divided
1 cup thinly sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons finely minced shallot or green onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Dissolve bouillon granules in water; reserve.
Cook mushrooms and shallot in 1 tablespoon butter in a large frying pan 1 to 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add reserved beef broth; cook and stir 3 to 4 minutes. Meanwhile heat remaining butter in another large frying pan. Quickly cook steaks 1 to 2 minutes on each side or to desired degree of doneness. Season with salt and pepper.
Pour sauce over steaks and heat 1 minute, stirring occasionally. 4 servings.
