St. Agatha dedicates new ramp

When Sister Nancy arrived last spring to take charge at St. Agatha's Catholic Church in Gagetown, one of her first tasks was to visit the members of the parish to find out how the church could better serve the needs of its members.

What I found, she said, was that handicapped persons had a great deal of trouble getting into the building. Time after time I was told about it.

I took the message to the parish council and an administrative committee studied the problem.

From that beginning a project was started that was culminated Sunday in the dedication of a new ramp at the church. The Rev. Kenneth A. Untener, bishop of the Saginaw diocese, was the dedication speaker.

The ramp was selected from among 5 options studied. One was to use the back door, but that would have required an elevator. Another was to use a north door with a chair lift. These and other plans were discarded in favor of the ramp which served the purpose and was less expensive than other plans.

We were able to do it, Sister Nancy said, because most of the work was done by people of the parish. The whole job was completed for less than $3,000.

A great big helping hand was given us, Sister Nancy said gratefully, by Jim Bryant who donated a lot of time and effort even though he is not a member of the parish.

Township propositions explained

Seek half-mill for care facility

Residents of Tuscola County will be going to the polls to decide the fate of the Medical Care Facility proposition.

The proposition asks for one-half mill for 5 years for the purpose of operating (including maintenance of effort payments) and maintaining (including capital improvements) the facility.

According to county commissioner Royce Russell, this is the first time that this has been brought before the voters.

He said the county pays $130-190,000 for maintenance of effort to the state for operating the facility. "The proposition will generate approximately $200,000 a year which is what the county is losing in tax base (caused by the lowered state equalized valuation).

The money will keep the county from going into the general fund. He said that the building is in need of maintenance such as new windows.

The facility's administrator, Darlene Davidson, said that the building, built in 1957, needs other improvements such as a new boiler and air exchange system. "It's starting to fall apart around us," she commented.

Russell said that if the proposal is not passed, then there is a possibility that the county will have to look to alternatives in order to keep the facility open such as selling or leasing the building. "It's not a mandated department," he added.

Russell said that if people are interested in the building, then he thinks the proposal will pass.

Elmwood

Elmwood township voters will decide the fate of 4 propositions. Two are for the fire department and 2 are for road repair.

The first proposition asks for one-half mill for 5 years for the operation of the fire department. This will bring in approximately $10,000 a year, according to township clerk, Joanne Sattelberg.

The second asks for one-half mill for 5 years for the maintenance and improvement of the fire department. Sattelberg said that the liability insurance will be doubling and the cost will exceed the annually budgeted $10,000.

The third proposition asks for a levy of one mill for 5 years for maintenance and repair of township roads.

The last proposition asks for 2 mills for a period of 5 years for construction and repair of township roads.

The township has $30,000 budgeted for road work, but Sattelberg said that the roads are getting bad and need work.

Novesta

Voters here will be asked to vote on a road proposition which asks for 1.5 mills for 3 years for new road construction. Township clerk Nursie Kloc said that the money would be used to build the roads up to specification for future blacktopping.

The proposal would raise an estimated $2,500 annually. There is $39,000 presently budgeted for road

Juniata

The annual meeting is at stake when voters go to the polls in Juniata township.

Residents will decide if the annual meeting of the township should be abolished.

According to Supervisor Carolyn Ferrier, she and township clerk Tom Hile were the only 2 present at the last annual meeting in March.

The township board would continue to meet on a monthly basis on the second Monday of every month.

HURON COUNTY

Bingham

Voters in Bingham township will be asked to decide the fate of 2 propositions.

The first asks voters to authorize the transfer of funds from the township blacktop fund to the general road fund. There is approximately $75,000 in the blacktop fund, according to township clerk Joseph Treposki.

A petition was brought to the annual meeting asking for the transfer. He said the money in the blacktop fund can be used only for the blacktopping of highways and the only way it can be legally transferred to the general fund is if it is approved by the voters.

Treposki said that he is unsure if the proposal will pass because it is a confusing issue.

The second proposal is asking for 6/10 of a mill for 3 years to purchase a new ambulance. Treposki said that the present ambulance is a 1978 model with over Please turn to page 14.

Expect light vote in primary elections

Slim turnouts at primary election polls in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties next Tuesday are expected by most voting officials.

Main interest centers on government races in both parties with Gov. James J. Blanchard listed as a runaway favorite over Henry Wilson for the Democratic ticket nod.

Heavy campaigning statewide by Dick Chrysler is focusing some attention on his race with Colleen Engler and William Lucas for the Republican place on the November general election ballot.

Some local interest may be generated in the Democratic race between incumbent U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler and Larry Samuelson, a Lyndon Larouche follower who resides in the Cass City area.

Other key races on local ballots are all but decided with State Sen. James A. Barcia all alone as a candidate; Dick Erla is assured of the Democratic nomination to oppose State Rep. Dick Allen of Caro, a Republican. Neither candidate has any primary opposition and will compete for the state post on the November ballot.

One money issue county-wide in Tuscola may spur interest in Tuesday's election. Tuscola County Medical Care Facility, Caro, is seeking voter approval of one-half mill tax for five years to help pay operational costs.

In addition, there are races in two Tuscola County commission districts.

Donna Rayl, incumbent commissioner in District 1, which covers Akron, Almer, Columbia, Wisner and Ellington townships, is not running for re-election. Seeking the post are Democrat George B. Ellesin, who is unopposed in the primary; and three Republican candidates. Dan E. Herman, Terry L. Houthoofd and Janet L. Rungtranont.

There is also a contest between two Democrats, Robert Russell, the incumbent, and George (Bill) Clark, for the District 6 commission seat. District 6 includes Tuscola and Vassar townships and the city of Vassar.

Royce Russell, incumbent Republican commissioner from District 2 is unopposed on the primary ballot, and barring write-in candidate opposition, is assured of re-election to the county post.

Few local issues grace the Sanilac County primary ballot, although there is one county commission race in District 4 where incumbent Republican Della M. Wright is opposed by another Republican, Harold Hobson. Ann Goryl is also seeking the District 4 post as a Democrat and will be on the November ballot since she has no primary opposition.

There are races in four of six Huron County commission districts.

Kelvin Reibling, incumbent from the District 2, is

Two candidates, both unopposed in the primary election, will vie in the November general election for the vacated District 5 seat representing Argyle, Austin, Delaware, Evergreen, part of Forester, Greenleaf, Lamotte, Marion and Minden townships.

Republican Eugene Foote and Democrat Vernon Burnison are unopposed in the primary poll. Incumbent Don Decker, a Republican, did not run for reelection.

Seeking the post are Democrat Vernon L. Kretzschmer and Republican R. Dale Wertz, both unopposed.

Incumbent Republican Peter J. Ney in District 3 is opposed by another Republican Edward E. Mazure.

Incumbent Republican Jean Talaski is opposed by another Republican, Maurice L. DesJardin, in District 4.

Incumbent Republican Ronald J. Knoblock is opposed by another Republican, Warren J. Krohn, in District 6. Democrat Jack Jensen is unopposed and will get a place on the November ballot.

Polls for the primary open at 7 a.m. Tuesday and will close at 8 p.m.

Unionville couple killed in crash

A Unionville couple were killed when the car they were riding in was broadsided Thursday morning.

Joseph Griesmayer Jr., 68, and his wife Wanda, 68, were southbound on Colling Road at approximately 7:30 a.m. when they were hit by a car driven by Jeffrey A. Mulrath, 16, 6434 River Road.

According to the Tuscola County Sheriff's report, Mulrath applied his brakes but went through the stop sign hitting the Griesmayer car in the driver's side. The Griesmayer car then slid sideways into a tree and struck a Michigan Bell Cable box on the passenger side. Mulrath was transported to Caro Community Hospital where he was treated and released. The jaws of life were used to remove the Griesmayer's from their car. Joseph Griesmayer was dead at the scene and Wanda Griesmayer died en route to the hospital.

According to prosecuting attorney Bill Bond, the matter is in review and will be turned over to the juvenile division of probate court.

In another fatal accident Friday afternoon a

Mayville man was killed after his pickup hit a tree.

Earl H. Woern, 65, was southbound on M-24 near Blackmore Road at 2:27 p.m. when his car left the roadway and hit a tree head-on, according to the sheriff's report. He was pinned in the vehicle and the Mayville Fire Department used the jaws of life to extricate Woern. He was transported to Caro Community Hospital where he later died.

In a 2 car accident Tuesday afternoon, Harland J. Wilson, 44, 6674 Severance Road, was following a car driven by Richard T. Powell, 22, of Mayville on High Street and turned the curve north on Blackmore when Powell stopped and Wilson stopped approximately 6 feet back. Powell then Please turn to page 14.

Investigate death of Pamela Spurling

The death of a Cass City woman is being investigated by the State Police post in Caro.

Police released the name of the woman who died Friday as Pamela K. Spurling, 25, and are not releasing any other information at this time.

State police reported a one car mishap Saturday which injured all 4 occupants of the car. Kenneth E. Mikolon, 17, of Gagetown was southbound on Englehart Road near the intersection of Kelly Road at an excessive speed, stated the report, when he ran off the end of the roadway and through a gate and fence. He was cited for careless driving.

Mikolon was taken to Hills and Dales Hospital where he was treated and released. Also in the car were Anthony Moran, 16, of Cass City, Michael Mikolon, 16, of Gagetown and Brian Casaceli, 16, of Utica. They were also treated and released.

Battisti gets 90 days in assault at lesbian camp

Victor Battisti, 17, of Gagetown pleaded guilty to 3 charges Monday in Huron County District Court after he was involved in a scuffle at the lesbian-owned Camp Whatyawanabe, on Sebewaing Road, east of Cemetery Road.

He was sentenced to 90 days on each of 3 charges, the sentences to be served concurrently.

The charges were: Unlawful entry. Assault and battery against 2 women at the camp.

According to the Huron County sheriff's deputies' report, the youth entered the campground at about 2 a.m. and attempted to subdue one of 4 deaf-mute women. When she awakened, Battisti ran off.

Two women chased the teen and caught him. In the process, the report states, one woman was struck in the face, bitten in the hand and knocked down. Battisti then fled, according to the report, but was later seen in a car with 2 other youths and arrested.

The incident at the camp was the first in several weeks. Spokesmen at the camp say that it has been quiet and that Battisti's invasion was just the result of a young kid out having fun.

Although it is the first incident in recent weeks, the camp has been a constant target of religious groups led by some Thumb ministers on moral grounds.

In the Cass City area most ministers did not condone the camp, but were not as actively opposed to the camp, possibly because it is about 14 miles away, a Chronicle survey revealed a few weeks after it became known that the camp was run by lesbians.

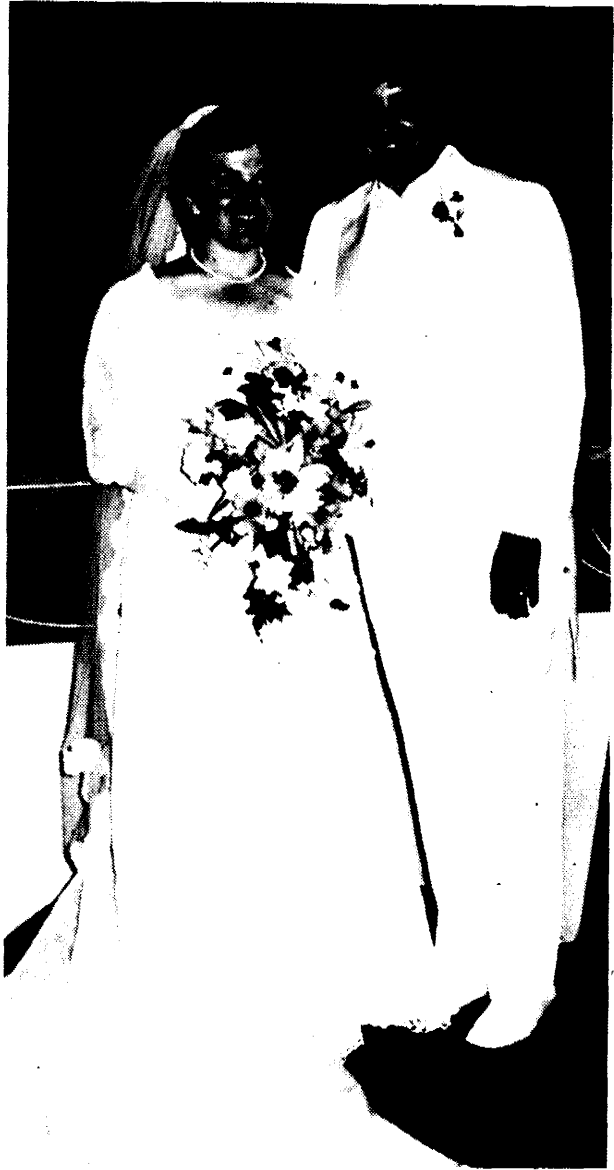

THE JAWS OF life were used to extricate a Unionville couple from this car after it was broadsided Thursday morning, killing both occupants.

An inveterate trasher could have a heyday in Detroit these days.

Trashers are refunders fanatic enough to rummage through other people's refuse in search of box tops, labels and UPC codes necessary to get a refund from a manufacturer.

In a recent edition of a daily, before the municipal workers went on strike, a citizen complained about having to re-gather trash placed at the curb because trashers ransacked and scattered it before the hauler arrived.

It would have to be a mighty attractive offer to entice me to go through my own trash, let alone someone else's.

I'm not throwing stones, mind you. Trashing, re-funding and coupon clipping are serious business, and those who diligently pursue the pastime deserve every quarter they save.

They have it down to a science. Every proof of purchase (POP), rebate form and coupon is carefully organized in filing cabinets. They have clubs, newsletters and magazines, and storage rooms full of on-sale products.

My problem is that I lack the discipline and drive to be a serious clipper/filer/saver. My innate frugal nature reproaches me for not being more coupon conscious, but it's losing ground.

If you do it my way, coupons are a nuisance. First there's the frustration of trying to sort the comics, TV guide and magazine from among the coupon supplements in the Sunday paper. Then you have to move the mounting pile you've set aside for later perusal every time you dust. When you finally get around to clipping the little beggars, they've either expired or you just stocked up on the product last week.

Just when you're feeling smug about having clipped a 50-cent or $1.00 coupon for a particular item you really want and having remembered to take it with you, you discover the store doesn't stock that brand.

A coupon devotee in Alabama won a radio sponsored "Fantasy Contest." What fantasy did she ask to have fulfilled? To renew wedding vows with her co-clipper/filer husband at a supermarket checkout counter, with the guests throwing coupons instead of rice. Why? Because she and hubby are hooked on clipping, filing and saving, and "supermarket shopping is one of our favorite things that we enjoy doing together."

Carrying a bouquet of colorful produce, she "walked with Larry down the frozen-food aisle, and everyone was smiling."

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Faist

Miss Heidi Sue Rockefeller, Gagetown and Jeffery S. Faist, Pigeon were united in marriage on July 19 at Holy Family Church, Sebewaing. Father Stanley Surman officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Ellen and Gary Rockefeller, Gagetown, and the groom is the son of Carol and Clark Faist, Pigeon.

The bride wore a formal white organza gown with white silk Venice motifs and beaded Chantilly lace on the bodice. The skirt was trimmed in Chantilly lace with a ruffled semi-cathedral train. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses, azaleas and mixture of greens.

Connie Gokey, Pigeon, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a maize gown of matte taffeta. She carried a bouquet of yellow, peach, rose and white azaleas.

The bridesmaids were Tammy Siewert, Pigeon, sister of the groom, Karen Koch, Gagetown, friend of the couple, Annette Pritch, Sebewaing, cousin of the bride and Peggy Licht, Pigeon, friend of the couple. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of yellow roses and white azaleas and were dressed identically to the maid of honor. The flower girl was Kellie Siewert, Pigeon, niece of the groom.

Terry Wing, Springdale, Ark., uncle of the groom was the best man. The groomsmen were Todd Rockefeller, Gagetown, brother of the bride, Steven Tenxant, Pigeon, friend of the couple, James Siewert, Pigeon, brother-in-law of the groom and Scott Krohn, Elkton, cousin of the groom. Ringbearer was Justin Swartzendruber, Pigeon, friend of the couple.

*"If It Fitz..."Lack of polish

By Jim Fitzgerald

I don't have to worry about ruining my manicure while playing polo.

Recently my wife and I stopped at a fancy men's shop in a northern suburb. We were in the area to seek out wealthy relatives, no matter how hard they tried to hide, and I needed a new collar pin. My old one was lost when I left it attached to a shirt designated for our washing machine, which was more careless than throwing the pin into the Bermuda Triangle.

When I said I wanted to buy the collar pin displayed inside a cabinet, the clerk said, "Oh dear." He was holding his hands as though they were frozen a few inches in front of his shoulders. He said he was afraid he couldn't open the cabinet without ruining the manicure he'd just had.

Instantly, I was intimidated. One of the more embarrassing secrets of my life is I've never had nerve enough to get a manicure. No matter how much it might improve my grooming, I've never wanted to pay a female stranger to scrape my fingernails. I'm not sure why. Several female strangers have scraped my teeth.

It undoubtedly has something to do with my inability to make small talk, not only with female strangers, but also the people I've been married to for 31 years. A man can't be expected to talk to a dental technician who has both hands inside his mouth, but what does he say while a manicurist files his fingernails, a task he's certainly big enough to do for himself.

"Please file my teeth so I can't talk to you?"

Anyway, so the clerk wouldn't think I was staring at him sliding open the cabinet door with his chin, I turned my attention to a nearby necktie. "That's a beautiful tie," he said, and I agreed until noticing what the price tag said — $38.

"This is your lucky day, it's on sale — 40 percent off," the clerk said.

I was intimidated again. My arithmetic resembles my small talk. The only way I could find out what $38 minus 40 percent is was buy the tie. It's $22.80. I've paid less for a three-piece suit.

I felt lucky to leave that shop with any timidity intact. As we continued the suburban search for wealthy relatives — we park in front of Bloomfield Hills mansions and honk, and if anybody comes to the door, we ask them to adopt us — my wife made small talk.

"I can't think of anything you are less likely to do than get a manicure," she said. "How about playing polo?" I said.

The Detroit area is hard up for genuine celebrities. After TV anchors and right fielders, there is a severe drop-off to parking lot attendants. As a consequence, I've been invited "to climb atop a prancing polo pony and take part in our Celebrity Polo Lesson."

Last month, to help kick off the Grand Prix, I was asked to enter a Celebrity Tricycle Race on a downtown street. I've also been asked to participate in celebrity fashion shows. Instead of riding a tricycle or modeling clothes in public, I'd rather hang from a tree by my nose.

Or play polo on the Harper Hospital lawn on Aug. 5 which, by significant coincidence, is the latest in a long line of birthdays for one of the oldest columnists extant. I have children too old to play polo.

It would be for a worthy cause — to publicize the Cadillac Challenge Cup polo match at the Detroit Polo Club Sept. 14. It's sponsored by the Harper Auxiliary and proceeds will help pay for the hospital's new Magnetic Resonance Imaging Center which, for all I know, restores good vibrations to magnetic images hurt by falling off refrigerators. My medical knowledge ranks right down there with my small talk and arithmetic.

The best thing about staying home to gum birthday cake on Aug. 5 is that I won't have to worry about falling off a prancing polo pony and breaking a manicured fingernail.

The Haire
Net

Ho-hum, next Tuesday is election day. As elections go this one ranks near the top on the boredom scale. What little interest that has been generated comes from the millage issue for the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility and the fight for the commission post vacated by Donna Rayl.

If you ranked it on a scale of 1 to 10, give it a 2 or, if you feel generous, a 3. That's a far cry from some of the slam-bang contests we've enjoyed in years past. One of the peak years was 1982 when everywhere you looked there was competition headed by Dick Allen's successful quest for representative from the 77th district. There were 7 candidates on the Republican ticket seeking the job and all waged vigorous campaigns.

In addition there were 3 Republicans and 2 Democrats seeking the newly created 34th district state senate job.

Add to that a couple of millage issues and you have all the ingredients for an exciting election. It undoubtedly was the best since Al DeGow, a political novice, came out of nowhere to defeat a host of candidates for a state senate seat and then kept it until he chose to retire.

With so much at stake and so many important local issues in 1982, it was certain that a record vote would be recorded. Sure it was.

When all the returns were in, just 27.3 of the registered voters cast ballots. The record would have been even more dismal if the percentage included all the potential voters who never bothered to register.

The picture was a little brighter in the Cass City-Gagetown area. Elkland township (which includes Cass City) turned out 42.5 percent and Elmwood township (including Gagetown) recorded a 38 percent turnout.

The vote in the 2 townships was considered heavy. It was, I guess, in comparison with the vote in other townships.

But it still is a sad commentary on the interest we have in how our government is operated.

If an election with all the issues gets only 27.3 percent of the voters to the polls, what will? In Tuscola County a wet-dry issue will turn the trick. Beer on Sunday turned us out in record numbers.

All of which is sort of a sad commentary in itself. There should be things more important than that no matter how you feel about the issue.

With this brief look at back history, it doesn't take a genius to predict that Tuesday's vote will be light, light, light. And that the one who cries the most after it is all over will probably be the person who failed to register.

Commissioners authorize funding of road patrol

At the county commissioners meeting Tuesday, July 22, Sheriff Paul Berry appeared before the board regarding state secondary road patrol funding.

The commissioners agreed to authorize the Sheriff to continue the secondary road patrol through Sept. 30 with the possibility it may be necessary for the county to provide the funding, if it is cut by the state.

The secondary road patrol is responsible for traffic enforcement on secondary county roads, the Sheriff said.

The patrol is in jeopardy because the county must show a maintenance of effort from Oct. 1, 1978 when the patrol of 5 officers was established and it is no longer being met, according to Sheriff Berry. He said that a budget crunch in 1979-80 caused a cutback from the original 5 to the 2 officers that are currently on the road.

Berry said that he has not had an increase in personnel since 1977 and that both the crime rate and workload have grown considerably since then. "We're trying to give the same amount of service, but without the same number of bodies," he said.

he said.

In other action, the Cooperative Extension will be getting a new home.

The board okayed a $16,000 budget to be established for the relocation. Royce Russell said that the present offices in the basement of the jail were only to be temporary when they moved there (10-15 years ago). The extension offices will be moving to the old MESC building on Green Street in Caro he said.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Whoever they were, they certainly qualify as the last of the big spenders.

Bill Wallace recounted this experience the other day while dining at The Bank in Port Austin. Three persons were eating at a table nearby and when they left, the bus-boys went over to the waitress and bug-eyed, asked her if she had seen the tip she got.

No, shrugged the girl nonchalantly, until she went over to pick it up.

A 50, that's right, one half of a hundred dollar bill.

There's no telling who these people are. The only thing certain is that they have nothing to do with weekly newspapers.

Around the coffee tables, the rumors are running hot and heavy that school won't open on time this fall because the teachers will not have a contract. (Negotiations are now underway.)

Relax. With school opening a month away, it's sure that not even the negotiators could tell you what's going to happen at the end of August.

We sat in on those talks for three years and it's like water behind a dam. Everything seems hopelessly backed up with no chance of settlement at all when suddenly agreement is reached on a sticky issue and everything falls into place and, like a crack in a dam, that brings the walls tumbling down, a contract is reached.

Just for fun, each week for a while we're going to give a capsule report on places to dine that we've enjoyed...or been disappointed with.

To start it off let me tell you where you'll find the finest steak. It's the Delmonico at Dimitris in Kalamazoo. They used to have the finest twice baked potatoes, too, but have stopped serving them since they became well known and busy. (Too much work?)

It's not cheap. The steak dinner cost around $15 last spring when I was there.

HDC or TACA?

Fate of TACA decided by Area Agency on Aging

Region VII Area Agency on Aging will decide Aug. 7 whether the Thumb Area Commission on Aging (TACA) based in Cass City will have to close its doors or not.

The Human Development Commission (HDC) of Caro has submitted a bid to take over TACA's meal programs for senior citizens in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties.

It's the second year in a row that the Caro-based service agency has bid for TACA's $900,000 meal and disbursement program which includes a staff of six full-time employees here and 67 full and part time workers (cooks, volunteer drivers who are paid 15 cents per mile, 21 site managers.)

TACA was formed in 1974 to "bring federal dollars to the three Thumb area counties to provide meal programs and sites for senior citizens over 60, provide home-delivered meals to the needy, along with emergency transportation, case management and social worker assistance."

In the last several months, TACA has been embroiled in two political scrapes which has resulted in loss of support on the county commission level in all three counties TACA serves.

The first dispute involved TACA's distribution of funds contributed by the three separate counties to help support the senior citizen meal programs.

Currently, Tuscola County contributes its entire 2/10ths of a mill senior tax levy amounting to $135,000 yearly, while Huron County contributes $25,000 in a general fund appropriation and Sanilac gives a portion of its 2/10ths of a mill senior tax amounting to $80,000 yearly.

Tuscola County commissioners demanded a county-by-county accounting of fund dispersal. Purpose was to guarantee services were delivered where the local tax money warranted.

The dispute brought Mohammed Khan, director of the parent Region VII Area Agency on Aging, along with his accountant, to Cass City June 20 to go over TACA's records.

"We met with TACA's director, Alan Sward, his nutrition director and his accountants and went over every record they had," Khan told The Chronicle. "We found absolutely no evidence TACA violated any federal regulation in its dispersal of funds. We concluded that allegations of any violations were based on hearsay and not evidence."

The second dispute involved a 10-year lease TACA signed in late 1985 to gain a new meal site on Argyle Street in Sandusky.

"I wasn't involved in that lease arrangement, but the argument for switching from the previous site at Sandusky High School seemed legitimate," said Sward, who took over TACA's administration last February.

The TACA board approved the site change believing it to be a better site with better facilities to serve TACA's then expanding home-delivered meal program in the Sandusky area.

The site change drew immediate citizen complaints that ended up on the floor of the Sanilac County commission where it still lays simmering.

Region VII director Khan told The Chronicle that TACA does currently spend more money for meal sites than any other agency in his service area. "Perhaps TACA didn't look into the financial aspects of its site leasing moves too carefully and costs mounted," he said.

The two simmering disputes have placed the Caro-based HDC's bid to take over the three-county senior meal service in a much more favorable position.

On Aug. 7 the board of Region VII Area Agency on Aging will hold its regular business meeting at the Bay-Arenac Mental Health building, 201 Mullholland, at 10 a.m. at which time it will decide which of the Tuscola County agencies will get the meal-service job.

Also in HDC's favor are unanimous votes by county commissions in all three counties endorsing it as the new meal provider.

"I don't know how our board will vote on the two contesting bids," said Khan. "But we do, and should, work very close with the county commissions of the counties we serve. We don't want the important senior services jeopardized by any feuding between service agencies and the governing bodies of these counties."

As to how much the unanimous endorsement by the three counties for HDC will sway the Aug. 7 decision, Khan said: "I don't know how you can read it (endorsement for HDC) any different."

On July 9, Sanilac County Commission endorsed HDC unanimously; On July 8, Huron Commissioners endorsed HDC unanimously; on June 24, Tuscola Commissioners backed TACA on a 4-3 vote, but then, on July 8, it reversed that endorsement apparently by unanimously supporting HDC's bid 6-0. Among those backing HDC over TACA was Commissioner Royce Russell of Cass City, who is also a member of the Region VII Area Agency on Aging and will have a vote on TACA's fate Aug. 7.

Sward believes the apparent switch in allegiance by county commissioners from TACA to HDC is the product of "some confusion in the voting. I think that the county commissions thought a resolution approving both agencies as bidders for the service was just a matter of routine. The unanimous votes for HDC does put us in a bad light, though."

Under federal law governing the meal disbursement program, regional agencies yearly must have competitive bids from area agencies. The aim is to come up with the most cost-efficient program.

Khan explained that the winning agency gains regional approval after passing a complex rating exam consisting of some 25 different items.

"Cost figures alone are not the only criteria. We must take into consideration an agency's ability to provide adequate service; its program design aimed at maintaining good service the most economical way possible; staffing needs; history of past performance; how active and interested agency board members are."

If the Aug. 7 decision is against TACA, the Cass City agency will close its doors.

"If HDC wins the job," Khan said, "we will try to work out a plan where HDC would interview current TACA personnel and give each of them a fair chance at being hired or kept on the job."

"In addition, we would require HDC to visit all sites in the Thumb counties to make sure they are cost-efficient, and if any are not, to come up with a plan to make them so.

"We will also insist that meal costs for individual seniors are not increased from that charged now."

"HDC will also be required to furnish us with detailed monthly financial reports so we can monitor its service operations."

"HDC would also be required to remove all useable equipment from the TACA offices and put the items into use."

"HDC would also be required to furnish a $50,000 performance bond, made payable to the Region VII agency, as beneficiary, if HDC fails to adequately maintain current service standards."

WINTER KILL and some diseases linked to a wet June are reducing wheat yields somewhat for area farmers.

Surprisingly, "Nanny" the goat was a very popular pet offer

Never underestimate the power of a Chronicle classified ad.

Barney Hoffman, 67, a retired farmer who lives at 4907 N. Cemetery Road, thought he'd best sign up for a four-week running of his ad offering a free nanny goat to anyone who just might want one.

"The phone nearly rang off the wall" shortly after the Chronicle, and the ad, hit the streets, Hoffman said.

"I gave the goat to Gary Czekai, 7279 Elmwood Road, who said one of his kids wanted it for a pet. There must have been 10 phone calls right in a row inquiring about the goat," Hoffman said. "Never thought there'd be so many folks around who would want one."

Hoffman was boarding the goat in his barn for a son, Kell Hoffman, 3595 Warner Road, who originally bought the animal as a pet for his children some two years ago.

The goat -- called "Nanny," wouldn't you know -- is a healthy, friendly, five-year-old brown and gray goat, complete with eight-inch horns.

Hoffman said neither he nor his son milked "Nanny" but Czekai, who has some beef calves at his homestead said the animal might prove useful.

It was Czekai's 13-year-old son, Gary Thomas, who really wanted "Nanny" for a pet and he'll probably be charged with feeding and watering the animal twice a day.

"I talked with a cattle raiser in Owendale who uses nanny goats as surrogate mothers. He lets the goats wander into pens where young calves are and those calves really go for goat's milk," said Czekai.

"I've used goat's milk to supplement calf diets and it really seems to be good for the calves. So, maybe we'll just let "Nanny" wander out amongst the calves and see what happens."

Wheat yields down slightly this year

Wheat yields on area farms are somewhat lower than last year's bumper harvest and prices reportedly were strengthening somewhat.

Winter kill and some fungus damage are blamed for lower per-acre yields for area farmers, and quality is also lower than last year.

"Shrunken heads with around 58-pound weights are average this year in Sanilac County," says agricultural agent Rex Sieting.

The Sanilac wheat harvest is nearly 90 percent completed, oat harvesting is just getting underway, and barley harvesting will begin soon, he said.

"I've noticed some red leaf in some oat fields, and some powder mildew on some barley," Sieting said. He expects yields per acre to be down somewhat for those two cash crops.

Dry beans and sugar beets, next crops to harvest, are "looking pretty good," he said.

Jim LeCureux, Huron agricultural agent, said wheat yields there are down from last year's good crop. "Disease, winter kill and bare spots in many fields are evident. The wheat harvest is about 75 percent complete in Huron."

Oat harvesting in Huron has barely started, but depressed prices (around 67 cents a bushel compared to 80 cents to $1 a bushel last year) are being faced.

"It'll be 10 days to two weeks before barley harvesting gets underway."

Bob Shaw of Berger & Co. elevators in Cass City says newly harvested wheat from area farmers "is not really too bad in our samples. They're running 57 to 58 pounds weight, while 60 pounds is normal for our area. Farmers further east and south and west of Saginaw report wheat samples running around 50 pounds."

He said wheat prices appeared to be strengthening, up to $2.45 a bushel as of Monday last. The government loan rate is $2.40 a bushel.

Most area farmers take the $2.40 a bushel loan rate offered by the federal government. They have nine months in which to repay the advance wheat loans, or to forfeit their crop at the $2.40 a bushel rate.

Shaw said he's heard that there have been a lot of farm forfeits so far this season on wheat as well as corn.

Helping bolster the wheat price levels for farmers this season is the recent Chernobyl nuclear plant explosion and fire. It brought pressure on Russia to increase its wheat purchases.

Statewide, the forecast of 1986 wheat production is 39.9 million bushels, 11 percent below 1985 output.

There are 700,000 acres for harvest, according to the Federal-State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. Yield forecast is 56 bushels per acre, down three bushels from the 1985 and the June 1 forecast.

Humid conditions during June spurred spread of several diseases, including septoria glume blotch, scab, mold and thorax.

U.S. winter wheat production is set at 1.55 billion bushels, 15 percent below a year ago. The July 1 forecast is 36 bushels per acre. White winter wheat production is forecast at 221.4 million bushels.

Summer potato production in Michigan is forecast at 2.88 million hundred-weight, 5 percent below a year ago. U.S. summer potato production is forecast at 21.9 million hundred-weight, a 21 percent drop from 1985.

History buff

Esau is a gold mine of information

A drive around town with local historical buff, Jack (John A.) Esau, is an education in itself.

Esau, one of the founders and first president of the Cass City Area Historical Society, is a font of knowledge when it comes to recounting the community's high and low points over the last century, its pioneers and leading citizens, its traditions and its memories.

First stop on a tour around town is Elkland Township Cemetery.

He points to gravestones dating back to the mid-1800s.

One burial site, marked by a distinctive polished marble spire, is the resting place for pioneer banker Curtis MacPhail and his famous son, Leland Stanford (Larry) MacPhail, one-time owner of the New York Yankees.

Eastward a short drive from the cemetery, Esau stops at the Horatio Sawyer Earle memorial marker.

"Fifty years ago the name Earle meant something to the area. Now it draws a blank look, as if to ask, 'Earl who?'" Esau writes in the current edition of the Historical Society's publication "The Way It Was" which he compiles.

Earle was an industrialist who moved his firm to Detroit where it produced haying tools. In 1905 he was appointed Michigan's first highway commissioner.

It was during Earle's tenure as state roads chief that the first mile of state road was built east of Cass City on M-81 under what was called "State Highway Reward Program". It was built in 1905 and the Cass City State Bank put up $300 of the $935 it cost to construct the nine-foot wide gravel road.

Next stop on Esau's tour is Walbro Corp. on Garfield.

"We're very fortunate to have such an industry which seems to grow each year," he noted, and then retraced some of the economic ups and downs the community has experienced over the years.

"The Nestle Milk Co. is one of Cass City's oldest industries, going back to its start here in 1917," said Esau.

"It operated here until 1954 when the market for condensed milk dried up. Through the years of its existence, it provided a good market for area dairymen.

"It was a real economic shock in 1954 when it closed. At its peak, it employed about 30 workers. Its closing was like Saginaw losing Steering Gear. But, as it turned out, it might have been a blessing."

Esau said the entire community rallied together in 1954 to try and lure some new job-producing industries.

"The Cass City Development Corp. was formed and the Detroit Edison Co. was very instrumental in getting Walbro, General Cable Co., and later, Anrod Screen Cylinder plants here," said Esau.

Leading figures in the development corp. were Herb Ludlow, the late Cliff Croft, James Gross, Harry Little, Joseph Riley and a lot of other people here, said Esau.

"In 1954, he recalled, there was a belief, then current, that big corporations, like GM and Ford, were considering decentralization moves which could result in moving a plant here. 'It never came about, though. Probably because of transportation disadvantages outside Detroit, or maybe because of the lack of skilled workers in this area at the time.'"

Over the last three decades, Esau said our population has changed considerably.

"We were primarily a rural, agricultural community until the mid-1950s. I knew probably 90 percent of all the people in town then. Now, I know only about 30 percent on a first-name basis."

"People who live here today, don't seem to make such permanent attachments to the community as they did back before 1950. They come and go now. And we've switched from an agricultural society to an industrial one."

Esau's tour continues into the newer home developments in the northwest part of town, pointing to several homes — big homes — now under construction.

"That shows progress," he said.

The tour continues past Hills and Dales Hospital, the gleaming high school on Seeger, the bright looking Provincial House, Cass City Recreational Park and its busy swimming pool, teeming with activity.

Back across town to the southside where the attractively landscaped and well maintained Cass City Sewage Disposal Plant is located.

Esau is not only one of the community's best salesmen, he's also the chief collector of its memories. He gives about a dozen slide-show presentations to various service groups and organizations and answers questions about the city's past.

"Fred Jaus, who died when he was 103 years old, got me started in collecting old photographs and documents. He gave me one picture that was taken 100 years ago," said Esau, who copies the photographs in slides for his presentations.

Jaus was a Cass City area farmer and was a set-up worker for a farm machinery firm here. In earlier days, the machinery was sent here in boxes and the equipment had to be assembled by hand, which was his job.

"He was an avid collector of old photographs and documents, but he wasn't much of a writer. So, he gave them to me for my collection," said Esau.

Esau was born in Detroit and came to the Cass City area when he was two. He graduated from Cass City High School in 1935, then worked as a meat cutter and counterman locally until 1940, more than a year before WWII broke out, when he joined the Marines.

He served in the South Pacific for 27 months and was at Bougainville, Guam and the Solomon Islands before being mustered out as a tech sergeant. He returned to Cass City in 1946 and wed the former Ruth Schenck, now a retired school teacher, in 1948. They have three children.

He served as a member of the school board, 1960-63, and was commander of the local VFW.

Current officers of the local Historical Society are Charlotte LaPeer, president, Velma Cleland, secretary, and Arlan Hartwick, treasurer.

Society founders besides Esau were Harold Perry, Robert Dilman, Dave Ackerman and Evelyn MacRae. Among Esau's more vivid memories of the not too long-ago past are the years of the great pheasant hunting in the Cass City area.

The 1940s were the golden decade of bird hunting in this area.

"Every restaurant in town was filled with hunters during the short hunting season and several churches put on benefit dinners to help feed them."

"I lived about a mile northwest of town and every day I'd see flocks — as high as 75 birds in a bunch, near my home."

"There were a lot of 10-acre farms around then with fences. Then it changed to 80-acre farms and no fence rows. We used to do the haying late in June or July. This allowed good cover for nesting. Then farmers started haying sooner, around Memorial Day, and the cover was gone. That along with lack of fence rows and chemical fertilizers, I think, are the reasons why our pheasant population is so low now."

The City Slicker

The Henry Ford II scandal opus, which has been published as an ongoing serial in an upstate newspaper, has run its course.

Looking at someone else's dirty linen is always scintillating, but, other than that, it's rarely inspiring.

And from what I've heard, the current Henry's off-the-field antics couldn't hold a candle to those of his grandpa, the original Henry Ford.

For those Fords are economic Caesars. They bestride our tiny world like a colossus.

And we, being petty men, peep out betwixt their toes, like Lilliputians.

So, if they are gods, in the mythological sense, why shouldn't they kick up their heels in mythological god-like fashion?

Mythological gods and Caesars live, work, scheme and play high atop Olympian sized mountains. They answer only to their peers. As it should be. For no one else would understand, admire or degrade them in a manner fitting and proper to mythological gods.

But the altitude high atop those Olympian sized mountains can sometimes lead to boredom and ennui. And when this happens, some of the more rebellious of the mythological gods flee down the hillside to seek the common ground below, perhaps to root around.

And it is here that they usually get into a peck of trouble. Look at all the problems Ulysses had to wade and sail through.

And so it is with the unhappy Fords, who have so much wealth and power that money itself is insignificant to them.

Because of that, they're more to be pitied, than envied.

Imagine, if you will, the difficulty Henry II faces trying to climb through the eye of a needle to get to the gates of Heaven.

But, because of his mythological god-like destiny, he probably doesn't care. Would you, if you were he?

Friend family to hold reunion in Romulus

The 10th anniversary of Friend Family Association of America will be held at the Airport Hilton Inn, Romulus, Aug. 15-17.

Attending, or being encouraged to attend, are descendants of such families having Abrams, Armstrong, Ashcraft, Cessna, Cox, Dern, Drake, Drenning, Floyd, Friend, Geiger, Hansel, Hendryx, Hinch, Hendrickson, Huff, Hulick, Hyatt, Johnson, Kirkpatrick, Long, Ogg, Phillips, Poling, Rose, Walters, Ward or Wilson last names.

Among the featured speakers Aug. 16 will be Dr. Weldon E. Petz, a native Detroit who is an authority of Lincolniana.

The Friend Family Association's main goal is to provide a strong and purposeful organization of kindred folks through which the members and their descendants may perpetuate the lives and deeds of their ancestors.

Two corrections: The diocese of Saginaw celebrates its golden year anniversary in 1988 and not its centennial. Father Julius Spleet was not the officiating clergyman at the wedding of Robin Sullivan and Chris Scuto. Father Mike Kayser of Warren, a friend of the groom, officiated at the wedding.

Monday, July 14, Janet Martin attended the meeting of retired teachers of the Caro school district and conducted the business meeting. It was a dinner meeting held at the Brentwood.

Last Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Muri LaFave of Owendale visited Mr. and Mrs. Pat LaFave of Caro.

Betty Ludwig and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Barry of Warren attended the recent Badour/Nast wedding and were callers at the home of Mrs. Fred McKellar.

Dick and Esther Walsh and Madge Murray of Redford spent the past week at the Walsh farm home here.

Mrs. Edith Schriber of Caro accompanied Mrs. Janet Martin and they attended the recent graduation of their grandson, Tim Schriber, at Milan. Tim is the son of Marilyn and Wayne Schriber, and they hosted a family dinner in his honor after his graduation from Milan High School.

Doris Bang and Richard Swick visited Mr. Swick's daughter, Cheryl Lamb, in Hillsdale Hospital, Hillsdale. Amanda Swick accompanied them on their return home.

Jason and Gina Carolan of Lapeer spent a few days with their aunt, Toni Watworth of Caseville, and last Wednesday they were luncheon guests of Mrs. Arthur Carolan.

Mark Nimtz of St. Louis, Mo., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Nimtz of Sebawaing. Last Wednesday the Arnold Nimtz family, Mark, Mr. and Mrs. Kerry McKellar, Sue Penrod and Mary McKellar took a bus trip to Cedar Point. Thursday evening, Mrs. Mary McKellar entertained at a family supper before Mark Nimtz left Saturday to return to St. Louis.

Rosie and Steve Early of Virginia Beach, Va., arrived on the weekend to spend the week with Mrs. Early's grandmother, Stella Leyva.

Recent guests of Mrs. Frank Weatherhead were her grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Weatherhead of Cleveland, Ohio.

Vacationing in Michigan, Lee McKellar and Margaret Crackle of Zephyrhills, Fla., were dinner guests of Mary McKellar. They also visited Clayton McKellar in Port Sanilac and left last Wednesday to return home.

Other vacationing visitors at the home of Mrs. McKellar were Mr. and Mrs. John Kohmann of Houghton Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton George of Clearwater, Fla., and Mrs. Bessie Kenney of Sandusky.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Loomis were their daughters and grandchildren, Becky Dornbush and daughter of Lansing, and Debbie Cooklin and children of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. Frank Weatherhead called on friends in Bay City last week.

Mrs. Ruth Freeman of Apple Valley, Calif., and Peter and Tyler Burrows of Mesa, Ariz., arrived July 8 to spend some time visiting in Michigan. Mrs. Freeman returned to California July 22 after visiting Nancy and Bill Burrows in Gagetown, Gretchen and Bob Rau in Frankenmuth, the Tom Abbys of Caro and other relatives. The Burrows' children are visiting their grandparents, Nancy and Bill Burrows until Aug. 12, and on the weekend were on a camping trip to Cedar Point.

Recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burdon were Joyce and Jim Harowitz of Long Branch, N.J., Ron Burdon of Peru, Ill., and Lynn McPhail of Houston, Tex. The Burdons' guests left last Wednesday to spend a few days with Bett and Jerry Mayer in St. Louis, before returning to their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burrows hosted a birthday celebration last weekend in honor of their daughter, Mary Kay. Among the guests were Kenny Koch of Rochester, and Marshall and Kathy Lupp and family of Sebawaing. The Lups will be moving in August from their present home in Sebawaing to Essexville.

Mrs. Phyllis Connors of Caseville was admitted July 19 to Bay Medical Center where she remains a patient. Mary Gilkerson and Gary Carolan of Marlette and Mrs. Gerry Carolan visited her Friday.

Sister Nancy Ayotte joined over 600 IHM Sisters in Monroe Friday as they celebrated silver, golden and diamond jubilees. Sister Nancy is on vacation this week in Canada and will return Saturday.

Paula Burdon, student at Alma College, is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burdon and Willard Burdon of Muskegon was home for the weekend. Week-end guests were Mark Baker of Tiffin, Ohio, and Diane Fuller of Muskegon. All attended the wedding Saturday of Colleen Irner and Joe Langenburg at St. Pancratius Church, Cass City.

Ellsworth Ziehm of Apache Junction, Ariz., visited Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ziehm, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ziehm and other relatives and friends.

ROCHELEAU REUNION

The family of the late Maggie and Arthur Rocheleau held their third annual reunion Sunday in the Gagetown village park with about 65 attending. The day began with 11:00 a.m. mass at St. Agatha Church, followed by a potluck luncheon and games for the kids and singing and visiting for adults.

The family of the late Hank and Iza LaFave were in charge of this year's event and the family of Helen Rocheleau and the late Jerome Rocheleau were chosen to chair next year's reunion. Family members came from Pontiac, Farmington Hills, Ann Arbor, Highland, Caro, Detroit, Bay City, Grand Rapids and Cass City.

THIEL REUNION

At a family reunion at Pontiac Lake last week the family of the late Matilda and Adolph Thiel celebrated family wedding anniversaries with the get-together. Louise (Thiel) and Glen Harding celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, flew from Hermosa Springs, Fla. Eleanor (Mazure) and Leo Thiel of Bad Axe celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary and Marie (Thiel) and Joe LaPak of Lake City also celebrated their 40th. The actual anniversary dates are in the winter, but the family reunion made it convenient for family members to attend. The Glen Hardings' 5 children and 8 grandchildren attended, 6 of the 8 children and 2 daughters of the Joe LaPaks attended. Others at the get-together were Rita (Thiel) Stewart of Pontiac, Paul and Jeanne Thiel and family of Royal Oak, Margie (Thiel) Schwartz of Cass City and grandson, Jason, and Eldon and Pat Bell of Kentucky.

Kevin Downing, student at Cornell University, spent a 2-week vacation with his parents, Harriet and Jack Downing. Kevin works summers on campus and the Downings took Saturday and Sunday to return their son to Ithaca.

Willie Birch of Bay City and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Prieur were overnight guests of Harry and Gen Kehoe Saturday and Sunday and attended the Rocheleau family reunion.

Lounsbury-Dean reunion held Sunday

The annual Lounsbury-Dean reunion was held July 27 at the Cass City village park. Ninety family members attended.

Leslie Lounsbury was the eldest of the Lounsburies present. Alicia King, 3 months old, was the youngest.

Harley Dean was the eldest of the Dean family and Dorothy Bissonnette was the youngest. Marion Quinn of Mesa, Ariz., traveled the furthest to attend.

Reelected were president, Tom Lounsbury; vice-president, Gordon Goodall, and secretary-treasurer, Carol Strecker.

Busy month for sheriff's department

The first month of summer proved to be a busy one for the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

The number of criminal calls climbed nearly 100 in June from 698 to 795, while emergency calls dropped slightly from 169 to 164.

The number of domestic calls rose the sharpest. The May total was 55, while the June total was 81. Vandalism and larceny calls also saw an increase. Vandalism calls were totaled at 73, up 12. Larceny went from 56 to 63.

The number of animal complaints were 16 in May and 25 in June and disturbance calls followed suit with a jump from 23 to 37.

Burglary calls fell from 36 to 28. Disorderly/vagrancy calls also dropped from 41 to 35 in June.

The county jail received 149 inmates for the month, of which 10 were females, and there were 147 released of which 10 were females. There was one inmate transported to Huron Valley Women's Facility in Ypsilanti to serve a sentence.

New books at the library

THE GREAT ALONE by Janet Dailey (fiction). This novel begins in the 17th century with the arrival of Russian fur hunters in the Aleutian Islands. One of them, Luka Kharkov, takes as his concubine the Aleut woman Winter Swan. This union spawns several generations of stalwart Alaskans physically and emotionally equipped to survive a host of environmental hazards, political upheavals, and natural disasters. The story includes a variety of dynamic characters including native Alaskan Indians, marauding Cossacks, and latter-day pioneers from the "lower 48."

BARRIER ISLAND by John D. MacDonald (fiction). In West Bay, Mississippi, Tuck Loomis fraudulently acquires Barrier Island, planning to turn the ecologically important land and waters into a posh recreation area. Loomis is accepted by the good ol' boys, wheeler-dealers who prosper from local developments, but not by real-estate agent Wade Rowley. Suspicious of Loomis, Rowley breaks up with his glib partner, Bern Gibbs, when they quarrel over the wily crook's plan to use their business as a front for his operation. Rowley learns that Loomis has bribed a representative of the U.S. Prosecutor's office to influence a hearing on Barrier Island. Acting too late, the federal government intends to acquire the island as a national park, which means paying a fortune to Loomis because of his fake title to the property. Lighting a long fuse, the perpetrator sets off a figurative bomb that destroys himself along with the others to whom morality is merely a word.

Extending business district

New zoning plan awaits approval

PROPOSED ZONING MAP for Elkland Township includes five separate zoning districts: A-1 is Agricultural; FC-1 is Forestry/Conservation; R-1 is Rural Residential; B-1 is Business; and M-1 is Manufacturing.

The new Elkland Township zoning plan is currently awaiting county approval before the last leg of its journey toward enactment.

Once it gains endorsement by the Tuscola County Zoning and Planning Commission, it goes before the Elkland Township board for its final OK.

Then the new zoning plan is published in area media for 30 days before the plan becomes law.

The new zoning, product of months of meetings and deliberations by a specially named township zoning committee and a professional consultant, has few basic changes from the current zoning ordinance adopted in 1971.

The new plan, though, does:

-- Extend the Business-1 district some 500 feet out M-81 west past Koepfgen Road to include the Elkland Professional Center. David Milligan, township supervisor, explained that the former Gene's Motel (now the professional center) was outside the 1971 zoning law's business district. The extension now would include the professional center as a business in a business district designation.

-- Extend about 500 feet out M-81 past Schwegler Road to the east to include Al Lapeer's bump shop in the new business district. The bump shop business was outside the current law's business district designation.

-- Extend about 500 feet out Seeger-Cemetery Road to Elmwood Road, the south Elkland Township border. The new business district extension would include Bob's Bump Shop, PJ's Auto Salvage and the old Thumb Area Commodity Co-op., businesses that are outside the business district line under the current zoning ordinance.

"These aren't drastic changes and won't affect any tax bases that the businesses are now assessed," said Milligan. The new zoning plan is divided into five zone districts:

-- A-1 (Agricultural) district intended to provide and protect the areas of the township that have high quality agricultural soils and to provide limited development of rural residential uses.

-- FC-1 (Forestry-Conservation) district intended to promote appropriate use of wooded, flood plain and natural areas to provide an attractive environment for area biota and interest for tourists and visitors. "Such zoning could pave the way for future development of the Cass River area," said Milligan.

-- R-1 (Residential) district intended for more intensive residential development clustered in a specific area so that future provision of public facilities and services is possible. Multi-family dwelling units are discouraged unless hooked to public sanitary sewer and water.

-- B-1 (Business) district intended for area retail shopping, offices, personal services, consumer convenience and related business uses including wholesale and warehouse activities on a small scale.

-- M-1 (Manufacturing) district intended for warehouses and wholesale businesses, terminals for trucks, manufacturing, assembling, fabrication and other light industrial uses.

The new zoning plan will comply with new state laws and court decisions. "The current zoning plan is out-of-date and probably is illegal," said Milligan.

The township zoning board, made up of Roger Root, chairman, Howard Muntz, Aaron Anthes, Dick deBeaubien and Ed Karr, were assisted by Howard Kundinger, deputy director of the Area Development Office, a part of Saginaw Area Growth Alliance.

Once the new zoning plan completes its journey through various legal steps to become law, Milligan said the township intends to launch a crackdown on junk car eyesores in the township.

There is a specific proviso in the new zoning plan spelling out junk restrictions in the township:

Junk is described as any discarded personal, or scrapped, property, including any property which may or may not be salvaged for reuse, resale, reduction or similar disposition, or which is possessed, transported, accumulated, dismantled or sorted for any such reason. The term shall include used and salvaged metals, paper, glass, rubber, rope, machinery or any motor vehicle which is for dismantling or salvaging. Two or more inoperative, unlicensed vehicles shall be construed as a junk yard.

Letter to the editor

Illegal dumping is a big problem

Dear John,

Quite frequently you have a question and answer column in the paper. I was wondering if we sent in some questions if you could give the answers.

We are the custodians at the Evergreen Park. People dumping household garbage in the dumpster provided for park campers and picnickers are just getting out of hand.

Could Cass City have who ever picks up the garbage provide a dumpster at the Cass City Park?

At the municipal building, they tell me that Cass City has unlimited pickup as long as it is in a container. It seems that some people who have grass bagging lawn mowers do not want to keep the filled sacks around until Monday. When you dump 6 or 8 bags of grass in the dumpster at the Evergreen Park it does not leave much room for other things.

When we find mail with an address on it, could we have the address published in the paper? Also, when we catch someone dumping household garbage could we have the license number published?

When we catch anyone dumping illegally they tell us they have the right to dump any place they want to.

It is so easy to check out the house numbers with a call to the municipal building and you can get the owners of the car license from the county sheriff.

Or perhaps some of the readers of the paper could give us some idea of how to cure this problem.

When the dumpster gets full, people just put it on the ground and then the dogs and raccoons make such a mess.

Thanks for any help you can give us.

Dear Boss:

Last assignment was a real bleep

Dear Boss:

Now I know you pay me to go where you point me. But I came up with zilch on that last assignment.

So, Detroit's all in an uproar over a black panther roaming back alleys and terrorizing the neighborhood.

These stories, Boss, are old hat. Newspapers run them out every time they run into a dry spell.

You remember the big, black bear invasion scare that had Bay City on its ear a couple of years back. (It wasn't fair of you to send me out to cover that story with a close-up, wide-angle lens on the camera.)

That story sure fizzled fast when two cubs climbed up a 12-foot sapling, scared to death by four young kindergarteners who came across the cubs while playing.

And that rumored giant crocodile, allegedly chewing up stray dogs, cats, cattle and horses -- to say nothing of cement and steel bridge abutments -- somewhere back in the Saginaw River watershed.

Remember what you told me, handing me a flashlight and a small fishing pole with a No. 6 hook: "Get the story, or don't come back!" Boss, do you have any idea how big the back eddies of the Saginaw River watershed are?

Let me tell you, it is BIG! Especially, when punting around in the dark in a canoe with a flashlight, that doesn't work, and a bent and broken fish pole as your only protection.

Well, I forgive you boss. Anything for a good story, I always say.

But, this last assignment really was a bleep.

I did just as you told me. I dressed up in dark, camouflaged battle garb, dubbed and blackened my face, put on soft moccasins, and quietly went out on the prow for game.

(Boss, you really weren't too explicit when you said my quarry was the new Cass City Monster! I didn't even find tracks of the old Cass City Monster!)

Up and down the dangerous streets I roamed, snuck, slithered -- minutely I examined every blade of grass, every turned and bruised limb, sniffed the wind, put my ear to the ground, climbed trees, wiggled through drain pipes.

I was the epitome of the mad hunter reporter hot on the trail of a good story.

Boss, I didn't even come up with a mildly aroused worm, to say nothing about a snaggle-toothed prehistoric tiger that chews up little kids.

Let's face it, boss. The story fizzled. Cass City just isn't the sort of place ferocious monsters like.

Now, that Loch Ness monster ... that's a real story! And I still got the flashlight.

Seek 75 smoke detectors for low income elderly

Seventy-five smoke detectors to be installed before fall in homes of low income elderly in Tuscola County is the goal of a new fund-raising project started by Volunteer Services of the Tuscola County Department of Social Services.

"By starting this program, we hope to help prevent serious injury, property loss and even save lives," said David Bluem, coordinator of Volunteer Services, 1900 West Caro Road, Caro.

The idea for a smoke detector fund-raising project originated about a year ago in Kalkaska County where home fires are a constant menace during winter months, said Bluem.

"A friend of mine, who is a former insurance adjuster, came up with the idea and it has been very successful there.

"I talked to a number of fire department officials in Tuscola County and they thought the smoke detector plan was a fine idea and they're very supportive. So, we sent out letters to newspapers and media in our area and also contacted various service clubs and organizations to gain their backing.

"I also surveyed a number of senior citizens in our area and found that the majority of them don't have smoke detectors in their homes. So there is a very definite need," Bluem said.

Bluem is also counting on area commissions on aging to help survey their people to find out who needs help in getting smoke detectors installed in their homes.

Bluem, who said he has three detectors installed in his home, made a personal check on area hardware stores to get advice on the most efficient detectors now on the market.

"When smoke detectors first became popular as an important safety move for homeowners, there were a number of different types of detectors on the market. Many of the poor or weaker detector units have been weeded out of the market, and there are probably three now available that work the best and last the longest," Bluem said.

Bluem thinks he can buy "at cost" good, long-lasting detectors from $9 to $11 each. He wants to get at least 75 detector units installed in senior citizen homes by this fall, before the critical winter months set in.

He said he also would like to see an on-going maintenance check program, maybe every six months or so, to make sure that the detectors installed in the project are working properly.

If the smoke detector fund-raising project is successful, Bluem said he'd like to see it expanded to the elderly, the handicapped and to low income families who are not now protected by such alarms. If you would like to donate to the "Smoke Detector Project" or want some information about it, phone (517) 673-4144.

Dick Carroll feted at school party

The school board and teachers threw a party for former Cass City High School teacher Dick Carroll on the last day of school last month at the Cass City High School Cafeteria. It was a farewell party to 31 years at the school.

Carroll said that he officially retired almost 2 years ago in January of 1985. Retirement parties are usually held the last day of school each year, so his was a little late in coming due to some mix-ups.

Carroll started his teaching career at Bay Port where he taught for 3-1/2 years before moving on to Pigeon High School for a year. His last move was to the Cass City High School in the fall of 1954.

Carroll, 62, was at the school 31 years and taught business subjects such as typing and bookkeeping.

What was most rewarding he said, "was working with the kids and ultimately seeing them graduate."

"I enjoyed it (teaching)

SAVE THE MEDICAL CARE FACILITY

VOTE ☒ YES AUGUST 5 ON THE COUNTY-WIDE PROPOSITION

PD. FOR BY CITIZENS' COMM. - TUS. CO. MED. CARE FACILITY
JOHN VAUGHN, TREAS. 424 LINCOLN ST. CARO, MI

Dear Voter:

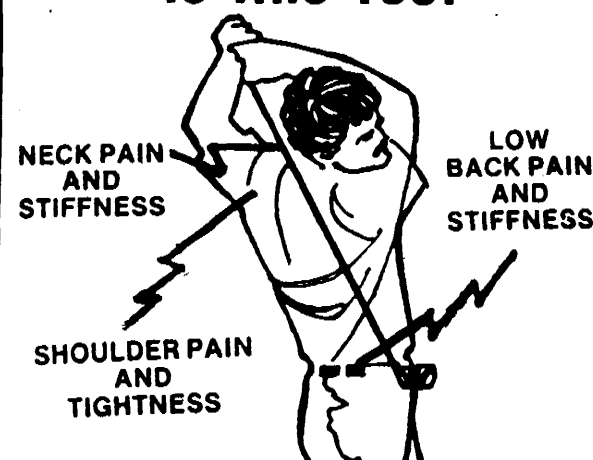

On Tuesday, August 5, you will have the opportunity to cast your vote on the referendum of 1/2 mill for five years to continue Tuscola County's operation and maintenance of the Medical Care Facility. You may well be deciding the fate of this institution, which employs over 135 people, and is dedicated to the basic and skilled care of our aging population.

We are hoping you will see your way clear to vote YES . . . as the people of our county did when the facility was built in 1957. Your YES vote will mean that only 50¢ per thousand equalized valuation will be spread across our county tax rolls for five years. The money derived will be used absolutely for the Medical Care Facility . . . as stated on the ballot proposition.

Please vote on Tuesday, August 5th, and please support this worthy human cause.

Thank You very much,
The Citizens' Committee
Tuscola County Medical Care Facility

30,000 expected

Sanilac County Fair in full swing

The Sanilac County 4-H Fair opened its seven-day run at Sandusky Sunday night with the crowning of the new 4-H king and queen and is expected to draw upwards of 30,000 before the curtain comes down Saturday night, Aug. 2.

Reigning over the fair this year are Brenda Severance, daughter of Leslie and Kay Severance of Decker, who is representing Evergreen Guys and Gals 4-H Club, and David McAllister, son of Roy and Sue McAllister of Applegate, who represents the Applegate 4-H Club.

Some 1,000 4-H and open class exhibitors will be displaying an estimated 3,700 projects, vying for some $10,000 in premium prize money.

Most popular grandstand events again this year will be the tractor and pickup pulling contests, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 1, and the demolition derby, set for 7 p.m. Saturday.

The grandstand seats up to 2,500 and it is expected to be filled for the two popular attractions.

New this year at the 30-acre fairgrounds site is a four-lane ticket entrance on Dawson Street. "It should make it easier and faster to get in and out of the fair, avoiding jam-ups of traffic that occurred in previous years," said Cindy Pfaff, the fair board's secretary-manager.

The Sanilac County 4-H Fair Board budgets around $100,000 yearly to maintain its fairgrounds, located at Sanilac Road and Dawson Street on the west side of Sandusky. Included at the site are 15 separate buildings along with the grandstand.

Currently in his second year as fair board president is John L. Cook. Other officers are Earl Warner, vice president; Virginia Auslander, secretary-treasurer; and directors Cecil Hamill, Duane Moore, Janet Perry, George Romzek, Lloyd Shephard, Robert Wood and Roger Wood.

The 1984 Miss Michigan, Barbara Jean Crandall, with her ventriloquist act, served as hostess for Monday night's grandstand shows which included a home-grown talent show.

Tuesday's feature was the first of two tractor and pickup pulling contests held at 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday's card is marked by return of the pedal tractor pull at 1 p.m. at the grandstand for children ages 4-11. At 7 p.m. the second annual ladies mud wrestling contest will be held with a $750 purse for winners.

Thursday's attractions include a pony pull at 7 p.m. at the outdoor horse arena. A country-western show and dance featuring the music of Tracy Lynn and the Mountain Express will be in the grandstand starting at 8 p.m.

Friday is Children's Day and also Handicapped Day with free gate admission offered to them.

Daytime events worth seeing this coming Friday will be a tractor operators contest at the north end of the grandstand at 10 a.m.; a horse pull in front of the grandstand at 2 p.m.; along with several key judging events in the livestock arena throughout the day.

Friday evening events will feature the crowning of the new Sanilac County Bean Queen in the grandstand at 7 p.m. followed by the popular tractor and pickup pulling contests at 7:30 p.m. The 4-H and FFA livestock and small animal sale will be held 1 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, in the livestock arena. Auctioneers will be Clare Waite and Jim O'Connor.

The demolition derby, sponsored by the Sandusky Lions Club and the fair board, starts at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Four heats are scheduled with each heat limited to 8 cars to provide more action. A grand finale heat will be held to determine the overall winner. The powder puff heat will be run after the finale.

Gate admission to the fair costs $1 a person. Tickets to the grandstand shows cost $3 per person, pre-schoolers admitted free.

Animal sales at Sanilac Fair learning experience

Two of the more interesting events offered at the annual Sanilac County 4-H Fair at Sandusky this week are the 4-H and FFA livestock and small animal sales.

The purpose of such sales is to provide youngsters an opportunity to gain hands-on experience in marketing animals that they have raised and shown.

The large animal sale will be held 1 p.m. Saturday, with the small animal sale to follow at 3:30 p.m. in the livestock arena.

Pre-registrations indicate a higher number of animals will be offered in this year's sales.

Bidding by anyone who attends the sale is usually, loud, spirited and fun to watch. And, there's a lot of money involved which makes it all the more interesting to spectators and young exhibitors. Listed below are the results of last year's auction. In the 1985 large animal sale, Scott Marshall, of the Evergreen Guys and Gals 4-H Club, sold the champion lamb weighing 120 pounds for $3.30 a pound to Shannon's Steak House represented by Joe Konen of Wolverine Acres, Crosswell.

The reserve champion lamb, raised by Brian Hirsch of the Lucky Stars 4-H Club, was bought by Vita Plus of Snover for $1.70 a pound. The lamb, also the champion homebred, weighed 127 pounds.

McDonald's of Sandusky bought the grand champion steer last year, sold by Brenda Severance of the Evergreen Guys and Gals club. The steer weighed 1,165 pounds and sold for $1.60 a pound.

The reserve champion steer was owned by Ann Leslie, also from Evergreen Guys and Gals. It weighed 1,130 pounds and was bought by the Cass City State Bank for $1 a pound. In the swine division, Linda Adam of the Lucky Stars 4-H club sold the champion hog, weighing 231 pounds, to the Snover Co-op for $3.60 a pound. The reserve champion, weighing 238 pounds and raised by Dan Seddon of the Peck Patriots, sold to Sheridan Real Estate of Peck for $2.25 a pound.

Rabbits, goats, birds and veal calves are sold in the small animal division.

Auctioneers for this year's sales will be Clare Waite of Sandusky and Jim O'Connor of Crosswell. Several of the animals bought at the sales are donated to the All Michigan Roast, proceeds from which go to the 4-H building fund.

If you are interested in becoming a first-time purchaser at this year's sale, contact the 4-H office at (313) 648-2515 to be placed on the invitation list.

Big crowd expected at 100th class reunion

Mrs. Frances (Goodall) Golding, now 83, is hoping that many of the 37-member Class of 1921 will show up for the 100th anniversary reunion of the Cass City High School Saturday.

"I've heard that a few members of the class have died in recent months, but I'm looking forward to seeing and talking to Fred Pinney of Cass City and Helen Ramsey of Marlette and to any others who show up," she said.

"I won't dance, though. And those bands! I wish they wouldn't play so loud when we're talking. Those drums and electric guitars drive you batty! But, please don't say I said that."

Mrs. Golding took a six-week class at Ypsilanti immediately after graduating in 1921 and taught two years as the lone teacher in the old Wright School on Schwegler Rd., north of the cemetery.

In 1923, she married Ed Golding and they raised two children, Betty, now Mrs. Royce Russell of Cass City and Edward, now an Alma insurance man. Her husband died last winter.

Mrs. Golding has attended the last two all-class reunions when upwards of 1,000 old grads came to rekindle old memories.

Some 800 reservations for Saturday's third all-class reunion are already in, and reunion sponsors are hoping 1,200 will show up by time the doors open at 4 p.m. at the Colony House, located four miles east of Cass City, and four miles north on M-53.

A cash bar will be available and dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Following dinner, there will be two bands for dancing or listening.

"The all-class reunions are held every five years and this is the third one," said Fred Auten, class of 1943.

"It's the camaraderie that brings people to the reunions." Old Cass City High grads come from as far away as California, Florida and the midwest.

First notices of the planned 100th anniversary reunion went out in the mails last fall, and reservations, in the second mailing, last May.

This year, because the reunion coincides with the 100th anniversary of the high school, Jack Esau, local historian, will present a slide show depicting the school through the years.

If you have any questions about the upcoming reunion, you can phone any of the five members of the reunion committee: Asel Collins, 856-4246; Clayton Turner, 872-2290; Wayne Dillon, 872-3442; Sherryl Seeley, 872-4338; or Kim Glaspie, 872-5018.

Nichol is new at road commission

Robert D. Nichol, presently working as engineer of the Lake County Road Commission in Baldwin, has been hired as the new engineer-manager of the Sanilac County Road Commission.

He replaces Jack L. Kineman, who will take up a similar post with the Barry County Road Commission.

Nichol is a graduate of Michigan State University and had worked for the city of Battle Creek, TRV Associates of Port Huron, and Rowe Engineering of Flushing before going to the Lake County post.

Nichol, 33, is married and has three children. His family is presently in the process of selecting a home in Sanilac County.

He begins his new job around Sept. 1.

So You Think Teachers Have It Easy Because They Only Work 10 Months?

Consider the following facts:

Senior employees in the private sector get 6 weeks paid vacations. Therefore, they work 46 weeks, get time-and-a-half for overtime, and at least 10 holidays.

Public school teachers work 37 weeks but estimates show that they work 47.5 hours per week, with no pay for overtime.

When you add it all up, 7.5 hours overtime per week without pay multiplied by 37 weeks = 44 weeks.

So, do teachers really work less time than private sector employees? Our estimates show that they work the same amount of time as senior employees in the private sector, and their salaries are considerably less.

Don't be deceived by the so-called 10 month teacher work year. Teachers' work year is comparable to other professions, but their salaries are not. Raise teacher salaries now!

Site of "cat scan" machine in question

Location of a site for a new, highly sophisticated "Cat Scan" machine that area hospitals, including Hills and Dales of Cass City, can use is currently up in the air.

Two sites, one at a new facility to be built in Auburn, midway between Bay City, Saginaw and Midland, and the other at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, are under consideration by the state department of health.

Ken Jensen, Hills and Dales hospital administrator, says, "We favor the new Auburn site because it would be more economical to run, thus less costly to our patients."

A coalition of three large hospitals -- Bay Medical Center at Bay City, Midland Hospital Center and St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw -- are offering to build and operate the single permanent, free-standing facility near Auburn.

Hills and Dales Hospital would not contribute funds for its construction or operation, but would send its patients there if the site gains approval over that proposed by St. Mary's Hospital, Jensen said.

Cost of a new so-called "Magnetic Resonance Imaging machine" alone would run around $750,000, and maintenance of the equipment another $100,000 annually, he estimated.

"The new sophisticated 'Cat Scan' equipment, used for bone and tissue study, is a generation up on the cat scans we get now," said Jensen, who explained the new machine offers much better pictures and information.

At present, it was reported, only Michigan State University has such a machine now in operation. Mark R. Taylor, a spokesman for the consortium that favors the Auburn site, said 18 of 23 hospitals in the region favor it also.

Prevent cancer

Before today, you may not have thought of cancer and good news together. The news about cancer is getting better -- the best news is about cancer prevention. For a free brochure on cancer prevention, call the Cancer Information Service of Michigan, toll-free, at 1-800-4-CANCER.

Taylor, of St. Luke's Hospital, said "both St. Mary's and our proposal initially were for a fixed facility. However, when St. Mary's received our Letter of Intent for the project, they scaled their project down from a $2.6 million fixed imaging center with 4,400 square feet to a less versatile, smaller $1,998,100 mobile unit with only 333 square feet and located on a concrete pad.

"Ours would be in a permanent brick building; theirs likely would have to be replaced with a unit similar to ours before long in a more long lasting building for an additional cost.

"Because our building would be larger and our unit more powerful, the consortium could serve more patients per day and reduce the cost to patients through improved efficiency."

Taylor went on to say that "If one hospital (St. Mary's) takes on the M.R.I. project by itself, it won't be long before this region's other four large hospitals initiate their own competing projects."

He concluded: "We're all concerned about health care costs right now. Medical expenses can be controlled more easily if we don't overbuild medical facilities and instead consolidate wherever possible."

Victor Olsen

Victor Olsen, 92, of Kinde died Tuesday, July 22, at Provincial House in Cass City after a lengthy illness.

He was born Jan. 17, 1894, in Oslo, Norway, the son of Oskar and Karen (Larsen) Olsen, coming to the United States as a young man.

Olsen was married to Miss Margaret Olsen June 10, 1916, in Chicago, where they made their home. Mrs. Olsen died Aug. 11, 1971.

Olsen, a world traveler, also lived in Norway and Spain. He traveled with the Bjornson Male Chorus. He came to Kinde in 1984 to make his home with his son.

He is survived by one son, Robert Olsen of Kinde; one daughter, Mrs. Lillian Marchen of Morton Grove, Ill.; two grandchildren; one brother, Knute Ome of Oslo, Norway, and two sisters, Mrs. May Jorpeland of Reston, VA, and Mrs. Borghild Johansen of Oslo. One brother, John, and one sister, Ragnild, preceded him in death.

Burial for Mr. Olsen was private.

Elsie Thompson

Mrs. Elsie Miranda Thompson, 95, of Cass City died Saturday, July 26, at Provincial House in Cass City after a brief illness.

She was born May 9, 1891, in Gilford Township, Tuscola County, the daughter of Charles and Ruth (Shafer) Sherman.

Miss Sherman married Reginald Field. He preceded her in death. She was united in marriage to Walter J. Thompson Aug. 12, 1916, in Bad Axe. Following their marriage, they made their home on a farm near Owendale, later moving to Flint and coming to the Cass City area in 1921. Her husband died Sept. 25, 1963.

She was a member of the WCTU and attended the Faith Gospel Tabernacle of Bad Axe.

Mrs. Thompson is survived by one son, James (Ron) Field of Prudenville; 2 daughters, Mrs. Genevieve VanAllen and Miss Georgia Thompson, both of Cass City; 5 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren.

Hormone linked to sleep apnea

The same male sex hormone that puts hair on a man's chest may also contribute to his breathing disorder during sleep, according to a new study. This new finding could help to explain why premenopausal women rarely suffer from sleep disordered breathing, which is a common condition in middle-aged and elderly men.

David P. White, M.D., of the Milton S. Eisenhower Medical Center, Pennsylvania State University in Hershey, discussed his study at the recent annual meeting of the American Lung Association--the Christmas Seal People--and its medical section, the American Thoracic Society. White said that his is the first systematic study of the role of male sex hormones in sleep disordered breathing, although this condition has previously been reported in men being treated with testosterone.

Dr. White studied 11 men with depressed gonadal function both during and after cessation of testosterone replacement therapy. Seven of these patients showed an increased occurrence of breathing disorders during sleep while taking the hormone, and the other four showed little change.

"This finding is an important step toward understanding the discrepancy between males and females in the incidence of this disorder," Dr. White said.

Sleep disordered breathing is a newly recognized disorder that has modern medicine in the dark, although progress has been made in recent years. The condition is common and occurs in one to five percent of American men, or about as frequently as asthma. It may be relatively mild, and may only be recognizable by its most common indicator--snoring (although most men who snore do not have this condition). At the other extreme, it may produce serious daytime effects including excessive sleepiness, memory impairment, impotence, irritability, and even personality changes.

The sleep apnea syndrome--characterized by frequent episodes of breathing cessation (apnea) during sleep that last for at least 10 seconds each--is the rare form of this condition. Men who have sleep apnea also tend to have a narrow pharyngeal airway, and frequently are obese.

More common is a less severe form of sleep disordered breathing that is usually seen in middle-aged and elderly men. In these cases, it is suspected that some interaction between anatomical features (such as a narrow airway) and the mechanisms that control breathing may be the source of the disorder.

Cessation of breathing does not occur in all patients with these conditions. In many cases, a reduction of airflow and chest wall motion (hypopnea) is the predominant disturbance noted. However, whatever its nature, severe and frequent episodes of breathing interruption during sleep can have serious consequences during waking hours.

For further information on lung health, please contact the American Lung Association of Michigan at 403 Seymour Avenue, Lansing, Mich. 48933, or call toll free at 1-800-292-5979.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Dear Mr. Myers:

Congratulations on the recent purchase of your home. We understand your excitement and wish you every happiness.

We also realize there are now many household goods and services you probably need to buy:

Furniture. Wallpaper. Appliances. Draperies. A lawn mower.

To make all this shopping pleasant and easy, we invite you to apply for a Southeast Bank VISA or MasterCard.

Enjoy your new home with all the credit you deserve.

JAMES R. BRANAM, JR.
Sr. Vice Pres.

Dear Mr. Branam:

It was six months ago we bought the place, so our excitement has moderated.

We hadn't thought much about buying a lawn mower because this is a 6th floor apartment. We have one of these green outdoor carpets on the porch, but it hasn't needed mowing yet.

We've had a Southeast Bank VISA card for years. We've never used it for credit because we think 18% is a little steep. As long as merchants charge us no more when using the VISA than when we pay cash, we'll continue to use it for buying things over $15 or $20. Saves carrying cash, and thwarts the robbers.

If we want to borrow amounts like the $4,000 you now say we can get from you, we call up our stock broker. He sends some cash to our checking account. The rate is half as much as you charge for VISA borrowings.

What else do you have to offer?

BILL MYERS

An old favorite of ours, Citizens Utilities, continues a record unbroken for 41 years. Earnings and dividends have been higher every year since 1945.

Since 1983 the stock price has more than doubled.

The company provides one or more of five utility services in over 500 communities in the United States...Phone, electric, gas, water, and wastewater—Citizens handles all of them, and in nearly every case, profitably.

Spread over so many areas, no one regulatory body can hurt over 20 percent of their operation. Consumers Power of Michigan must envy Citizens this set-up. A vindictive and unfair commission in Michigan has nearly bankrupted Consumers, which once enjoyed a AAA rating.

Citizens has been aggressive in fighting for fair rates, and in most cases has been treated fairly. Earnings have climbed from $1.38 a share in 1976 to $2.48 in 1985. Dividends have nearly doubled, from $1 to $1.96 in that 10-year span.

Speaking of dividends, this company has a rare set-up. There are two classes of stock—A & B. A has 17.3 million shares, convertible into Class B on share-for-share basis. B has 3.2 million shares.

Class A pays stock dividends only, equal in value to the dividends on Class B.

Last year the dividends were $1.96, about 5% over the year's stock dividends.

So if you hold Class A (dividends in stock) you get about 5% more shares each year—with no income tax or capital gains tax to pay until you sell the shares. What a bonanza that is for the shareholders who don't need the income currently from cash dividends.

Take an example of one year—1985 in this case:

CLASS B—Cash Dividends

You own 100 shares, average price during year, say $36. Dividends totalled $1.96. Your tax bracket was 30%, so you kept $1.37 per share. Net after-tax income: $137.

CLASS A—Stock dividends

This shareholder got 5.45 shares of stock worth on average same as the cash dividends for 100 shares of Class B—$196.

At end of six-months' holding period for long-term capital gains rates, he sells the 5.45 shares. Capital gains are then figured as follows:

Cost of original 100 shares at $36.....$3600.

Now he has 105.45 shares, so cost per share falls to $3600 divided by 105.45, or $34.14 per share. He sells the 5.45 dividend shares at $36 a share, a total of $196, getting the same as the fellow who took his dividends in cash.

His gain, though, is $1.86 per share...$36—$34.14 (new cost basis). Total capital gain is $1.86 x 5.45 shares or $10.14.

This is a long-term gain, so 60% of it is exempt. Now you're down to $4.06 taxable at your bracket of 30%. Total tax—$1.22.

The other fellow with his cash dividends paid 30% tax on $196, or $58.80.

No wonder 17 out of 20 stockholders in Citizens hold the stock dividend shares. Why more companies in the land don't adopt this scheme is a puzzle.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.

Residents to decide fate of millages

50,000 miles on it and is starting to tell its age. He feels this proposal will pass because people have been happy with the Bingham township ambulance service in the past.

Grant

Residents here will be asked to vote on a proposal which asks for 2 mills for 3 years. The money will be used for road repairs, according to township clerk Don Reid.

The proposal would bring approximately $28,000 to improve deteriorating roads. The county currently budgets $30,000 from the general fund to maintain roads.

Reid feels that there is little hope for passing the tax hike. He said that there have been other road improvement tax proposals on the ballot in the past and most have been defeated.

Sheridan

Voters in Sheridan township will be faced with the renewal of 2 millage propositions.

The first is a road improvement proposal which asks for 2 mills for 3 years. According to township supervisor Robert Becking, the millage will raise approximately $28,000 which he said is close to what it costs to build a road.

The second proposal is for one mill for 2 years for renewal of fire, ambulance and other public services, according to Ronald Hoffman, township clerk. It would raise approximately $14,000. Hoffman said that approximately 30-60 percent of the 400 registered voters usually go to the polls.

SANILAC COUNTY

Evergreen

In Evergreen township a proposal asking for one mill for 5 years finds itself on the ballot.

According to township clerk Otis Dorland, the money is to upgrade, widen, and gravel 5 miles of Germania Road, from Deckerville Road to Robinson Road.

The millage would raise approximately $12,000 a year for the road work. Dorland said that it isn't enough money to do a mile a year, but with that and other available funds it should be possible. Currently, the township has $38,000 budgeted for road work. He said that he's hoping voters will vote for it because the road is in bad shape in many areas, but it's questionable what the voters will decide.

Lamotte

There will be 2 propositions on the ballot for this township. Proposal number one is asking for one-half mill for 4 years for maintenance of the fire department. According to township treasurer Linda Hirsch, this would raise approximately $7,000.

Proposal number 2 is asking for one mill for 4 years for maintenance of roads and bridges, according to township clerk, Wayne Adam. He said that there is one new bridge that needs to go in and some blacktop roads will need to be resurfaced in the future.

CCPD reports minor damage to buses

Malicious destruction of an unspecified number of school buses parked in the lot at Cass City Intermediate school is being investigated, according to Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson.

James Fox discovered the damage Monday morning. According to Wilson some of the buses were entered and various damage was found. Some had broken turn signal indicators, bent license plates, and windshield wiper fluid containers removed. One had a smashed CB radio.

The transportation officer is still checking for damage, according to Wilson.

A sharp eye can be accredited for the recovery of a tent and its contents which were stolen from Dennis Little, 6353 Garfield on Thursday, July 17. According to the report, the officer was on his regular rounds Thursday morning, when he noticed a tent set up on a lot in Walnut Trailer Park, 4118 S. Cemetery Road, which matched the description of the one stolen a week earlier.

The tent was erected at Diane Chrzan's. After some investigation, police arrested 17-year-old Robert Horne and David Chrzan, 17. Both were transported to the Tuscola County jail. Both teens told the officer different stories about where and from whom they got the tent.

An unoccupied car hit a house Tuesday July 22. Herbert Bartle parked his car in a private drive at 4380

Woodland and told police that he thought he had put the car in park and got out. The car rolled out of the driveway and across the street, hitting a house belonging to Gary Barnes, 4391 Woodland.

Janet Marker reported the larceny of a $100 dollar bill Friday. She told police she was working the third shift at the Provincial House when the money turned up missing from her purse.

backed up into Wilson who was unable to get his emergency brake off in time to avoid being hit, according to the report.

John E. Krol Jr., 21, 4559 Shabbona Road, was southbound on Cemetery Road Monday when he was unable to avoid hitting a deer.

Paul R. King, 31, of Kingston was westbound M-46 Wednesday, when a deer ran into the path of his car.

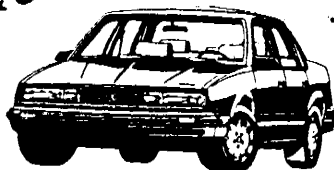

Louis Hatfield of Kingston reported a break-in of his shed Monday and a quadrunner, outboard motor, anchor and 6 gallon gas tank were taken. On Tuesday deputies recovered the items after an investigation of the incident.

MEAT NUTRI-FACTS

This Weeks Feature: 274 calories per serving

BROILED PORK CHOPS WITH PEA POD AND MUSHROOM DUO

4 pork loin rib chops, cut 1 1/2 inches thick
Salt and pepper
Pea Pod and Mushroom Duo*

Trim excess fat from pork chops. Place chops on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat. Broil at low to moderate temperature 10 minutes on each side. Continue broiling, turning occasionally about 10 minutes or until done. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Serve Pea Pod and Mushroom Duo with pork chops.

*PEA POD AND MUSHROOM DUO

1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
2 teaspoons oil
2 packages (6 ounces each) frozen pea pods, blanched and drained

Quickly cook mushrooms in oil in frying pan, stirring frequently. Sprinkle with soy sauce and add hot pea pods, stirring lightly to combine.
Serve immediately. 4 servings.
