CASS CITY, MICHIGAN—WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1986

MENTS

TEACHERS AT CASS CITY SCHOOLS were on the picket line early Tuesday morning, as negotiations for a new contract broke off Wednesday, Aug. 27, and no new bargaining sessions were planned.

Expert to present views Tuesday on ways to revitalize Main Street

The first step towards revitalizing Main Street in Cass City will be taken Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 7 p.m., when a meeting is scheduled in the library at Cass City High School under the auspices of the Economic Development Corporation of Cass City. The formation of a Downtown Development Authority will be discussed.

Jim McLoskey, director of the Tuscola County Economic Development Corporation, said that Robert Terry, director of the Michigan Main Street Program, Michigan Department of Commerce, local development service bureau, will speak.

Terry has wide experience across the state developing DDAs and he will make suggestions gained from his experiences in other communities, according to McLoskey. Terry was in Cass City early last week to examine the buildings in the business district.

Lambert Althaver, chairman of the county EDC board and a member of the Cass City EDC, explained that there is concern about Cass City's downtown. It's not doing as well as it might, he said, and this is the first step in getting everyone involved in the problem.

We urge everyone to come to this important meeting, he added. We will have a general discussion and we want residents and businessmen to ask questions.

Terry is expected to reveal the kinds of problems that downtown development groups have faced across the state and suggest solutions to the problems.

VASSAR EXPERIENCE

While a Downtown Development Authority is new in Cass City, it is by no means new in Tuscola County. Vassar has had a DDA for 7 years and over the years it has made some significant progress in the development of the business district there.

It all started when a plan for downtown development was completed over a 2-year period and a grant procured. Then a detailed street-by-street plan was completed. It was really complete, too, says Michael Deeb, who is now chairman of the Vassar DDA board, but not on the board when the development started. It was detailed right down to the type trees we should plant and where they should be located, Deeb explained. A theme, "Turn of the century, 1900's," was also adopted.

To get where it is today, the city had to overcome setbacks. The major one, recalled Deeb, was when we worked for a $1.5 million grant for downtown development and the emphasis to providing grant money switched to plans for expansion that provided jobs. Undaunted, the group went back to the drawing board and submitted a proposal for a grant to build an addition to a local factory. It was approved for $180,000 and the concern, Dula Corporation, is paying $1,800 monthly to the Authority for 15 years.

That money and money to come from sale of a building that formerly housed a theatre that was given to the DDA is being used to improve the business district.

Persons wanting to improve buildings within the district established by the DDA can be paid for their efforts on a rigidly outlined scale up to a maximum of $7,500.

For instance, painting can be reimbursed at 50 cents per square foot. New brick is worth $3.00 per square foot. Other improvements are paid accordingly.

Several committees have been formed to keep projects forging ahead. The tree committee sees that the money budgeted is spent and the trees planted according to the original plans formulated in the Please turn to page 18.

Sides far apart as teachers strike Tuesday

Cass City teachers formed picket lines on the sidewalks in front of the high school and intermediate school Tuesday morning as a last ditch negotiation session Wednesday, Aug. 27, failed.

According to Sheldon Markley, Tri-County Bargaining Association representative, and Donald Crouse, superintendent, the 2 sides are far apart.

The final offer rejected by the teachers called for a minimum increase of 2.4 percent, according to the teachers, or 5.75 percent, according to the school.

The difference, Crouse says, is that the teachers do not include increases granted for length of service when figuring the amount of increase offered. After 13 years in the system in Cass City, a teacher with a BA degree will receive $9,207 more than one starting the first year.

The length of time it takes to get to the top of the scale is one of the issues in current negotiations. It takes 13 years at Cass City to reach the top payment bracket. No school takes longer and several schools reached the top in 11 or 12 years in salaries paid in 1985-86.

A major problem for the teachers in the contract is securing an additional payment for completing 20 credits after a BA degree. Cass City does not pay extra for earning these credits and most other schools in the area do.

It makes comparing salaries among area school districts confusing. Cass City was near the top in salaries paid for teachers with 13 years of experience with a total payment of $25,832, just one dollar less than that paid teachers at Caro and $478 more than was paid Reese teachers, who were in third place.

There is a wide difference of opinion between the union and the school board about the district's ability to meet the demands of the Tri-County Bargaining Association. For the respective outlooks see page 18.

However, when comparing salaries paid teachers with 20 credits over a BA, Cass City drops to eighth place in the rankings, $711 less than that paid to Caro teachers. The picture changes again when comparing teachers with a Master's degree. At the top of the scale Cass City ranked fourth with a salary of $27,841 and Millington paid the most with a salary of $28,571.

Other area schools pay extra for work beyond a Master's and these teachers in Cass City are not paid for these credits. In this category, Cass City ranks seventh with a payment of $27,841 while Mayville is at the top with a payment of $30,180. Leading all teachers are those in the Tuscola County Intermediate School District with a top pay of $32,788.

The school negotiators point to a minimum increase of $1,600 per teacher when discussing the wage offer and that includes payment for length of service.

Markley says that length of service pay is required Please turn to page 18.

Freedom Festival slated in village

One of the fall sales that has been well accepted by local area shoppers is the one that kicks off the fall season in September and this year members of the Cass City Retail Committee have gone all out to make it the best of any yet offered. It is scheduled Wednesday through Saturday, Sept. 10-13.

Highlighting the Freedom Festival this year will be the "Banjo Kings," a group of 6 musicians from the Auto City Banjo Club. Fans will hear 3 banjos, 2 horns and a piano. They will play between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12. The Kings have appeared at Warwick Hills and Atlas Valley Golf Course this summer.

There will be a full day of entertainment and events Sept. 12. The traditional free bean soup will be given away and plenty of goodies will be offered at bake sales and vegetable stands. A group from Thumb Gymnastics will perform at 4 p.m., followed by the Sally Doerr Dancers at 5 p.m.

To make it a complete weekend celebration, Cass City retailers are planning to offer some of the best buys of the year on merchandise that includes many new items for fall and school.

Gifted writer Howard Cogan dies in crash

by John Haire

A memorial service was held Friday morning at the W. A. Trahan Funeral Chapel for Howard L. "Sonny" Cogan, 56, who was killed Tuesday, Aug. 26, in an accident at the corner of Dickerson Road and M-138.

Mr. Cogan was returning to his home in Bay City from his job at the Cass City Chronicle when he drove his small foreign car from Dickerson Road onto M-138 and was struck by a vehicle driven by Peggy S. Linzner, 30, of Unionville.

According to investigators Linzner could not avoid the Cogan car. Mr. Cogan did not have a seat belt on at the time of the crash. Linzner was wearing a seat belt. Cogan was pronounced dead at Caro Community Hospital.

According to a witness at the scene, the corner had driver vision impaired by a couple of cars parked for a share-the-ride program and a tall field of corn. I was parked at the corner, she said, with my 2 daughters when the crash came. It was horrible, I couldn't sleep that night.

Mr. Cogan had a long and varied career in the newspaper business, starting as a summer employee at the Bay City Times in 1950-51, while attending Michigan State University. He graduated from Bay City Central in 1948 where he was a 4-letter winner in baseball. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism from State in 1953.

He worked for the United Press International bureau in Lansing, the Mount Pleasant Times-News and the United Press bureau in Detroit. He worked as a script writer at WXYZ radio station in Detroit.

He returned to the Times in 1961 as a reporter. He was state editor in 1964, leaving in 1967. He returned again to the Times in 1974 as a reporter and took early retirement in 1984.

Mr. Cogan was born in Bay City Nov. 21, 1929. He is survived by his wife, Shirley, a daughter and 3 sons.

HOWARD "SONNY" COGAN
1929 - 1986

Chances are great that you never had the opportunity to become acquainted with Howard Cogan in the 4 short months that he worked at the Chronicle. Chances are even greater that he touched most of you in the paper's news columns.

Perhaps it was a chuckle or 2 in his "Dear Boss" column. Or his observations as "The City Slicker." Or his views in "Main Street Charlie." If not that, then almost certainly his portraits of local personalities such as his final one depicting Charles Haun of Gagetown in last week's paper. Or his entertaining, informative style when he dug deep to bring you stories such as the recent award for damages to the Randy Hampshires.

Over the years we've been exposed to many fine writers, several of whom have moved into the big time metro papers, and none were better than Cogan.

He was a true artist with the computer. Painting word pictures that left the reader with no doubts about what was happening and why it happened. When Howard sat down to write, words poured out in a torrent and often he would produce a column of type almost without pause and almost without any need for a rewrite.

He came to us because his health had forced him to quit the daily grind. He had to have time off to keep his unruly stomach under control and to quiet screeching nerves.

A true professional in the business, he helped produce what we feel were some outstanding editions.

There was nothing of the prima donna in Cogan and he quickly became a favorite with the front office staff and the men who man the presses.

Although the day he died was to have been his last day here, a measure of our respect was that we told him that whenever he wanted to work for a day, a week, or a summer all he had to do was come in and hang up his hat.

Howard was pleased when we told him that, saying that he really liked the community and the people in it and, health permitting, that we hadn't seen the last of him.

Book Club meets at library

The Book Club resumed monthly meetings Tuesday after vacationing during the summer months.

The meetings will be held in Rawson Memorial Library this year. Alice Donahue is chairman.

The book of the day was "Texas" by James Michener. Nine women attended and Lucy Auten was hostess for the meeting.

By Melva Guinther

Our offspring were home for a visit recently and began quizzing parents and grandparents about the old days, and what we did when we were kids.

Notice I didn't refer to the good old days. Frankly, there's not a lot I'd care to return to.

Nevertheless, flooded with nostalgia, we reminisced about the era, sans television, which included some memorable radio shows.

Were we less sophisticated, or more imaginative, then? It seems almost inconceivable now, that listening to voices and sound effects could keep a person spellbound. But it did.

"Lux presents Hollywood..." always promised an hour of first class entertainment.

After-school programs I looked forward to were "Tom Mix" and "King, of the Royal Mounted."

Another favorite began with "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men? The Shadow knows! Heh, heh, heh. (Ominous laughter)."

Mother had her daytime serials, the antecedent to today's infamous soap operas. The fact that I remember so many of them without ever consciously listening, attests to the indelible influence on the subconscious mind.

Helen Trent, with the aid of a guy named Gil, was constantly proving "what so many women long to prove...that romance can begin at 35 and even beyond." Big deal! Look at the "Golden Girls." Then there was the girl from a little mining town in the West who sought to find happiness as the wife of a wealthy and titled Englishman, "Our Gal Sunday."

"Young Dr. Malone" could well have been the forerunner of "General Hospital." Others, which I remember only by title, are "Lorenzo Jones," "Vic and Sade" and "Ma Perkins."

Mornings, when we were getting ready for school, Mother tuned in "Jolly Joe." Even then, I wasn't a morning person. Jolly sang his little ditty: "Oh, if you will only listen to Jolly Joe, My how happy I will be, Soooo tie a little string around your finger, So you'll remember me."

I listened in, but neither he nor Happy Hank could make me smile first thing in the morning.

Saturdays, at a more reasonable hour, we were treated to "Let's Pretend," a dramatization of fairy tales. In our naivete, we didn't realize that they were dangerously sexist and fostered violence. We just enjoyed.

Of course, everyone listened to the adventures of the masked man and his faithful Indian companion. Another program we like featured Jack, Doc and Reggie. Anybody remember the title?

Some of those old shows are available on records and cassettes, but I don't think I'll bother with them.

Maybe I'm afraid the magic will be gone.

YOU ARE INVITED

The Economic Development Corporation of the Village of Cass City cordially invites you to attend a meeting September 9, 1986 in the Speech Auditorium of the Cass City High School at 7:00 p.m. to hear a presentation by the State Department of Commerce concerning the problems of downtown development.

Following the presentation, representatives of various organizations and citizens of the community will be encouraged to speak out on their ideas concerning the problems of our downtown and potential solutions. It is the hope of the Economic Development Corporation that this meeting can be a first step toward strengthening the retail section of our community. The presentation by the Department of Commerce will not be just another discussion concerning the updating of facades, but will concentrate on the kinds of problems downtown development faces in many small communities in the State and possible solutions to these problems.

Since this meeting will be open to the public, and it is possible that we may have inadvertently neglected to invite certain individuals or organizations, please feel free to encourage all interested persons of the community to attend the meeting.

If you have questions, please contact any member of the Economic Development Corporation board as listed below.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Until the strike started at Cass City High School, summer mentally was over for me and I was ready to turn my attention to the rituals of fall. It's different somehow when school isn't in session.

This week, let's talk about Chinese food. Two restaurants that we've found enjoyable and fairly priced are House of Ing in Bay City and Wong's in Windsor.

There's a difference in the food served in each and I can't tell you what makes it different.

Anyway, both are as good as any of its type that have been experienced.

In the Windsor restaurant you can take advantage of the nearly 40 percent exchange rate.

The Windsor restaurant must be a true Chinese operation. The bill we received was written in Chinese.

It's no secret that the number of farms is continuing to fall. A recent release by the Michigan Department of Agriculture shows that in 1986 there were 61,000 Michigan farms, averaging 185 acres, and total farm land was 11.3 million acres.

That compares with 64,000 farms, averaging 178 acres out of a total of 11.4 million farm acres in 1982.

Taking pictures of persons standing still is often harder than it appears, but compared to getting a shot of wild-fowl it's nothing at all.

On a tip from Tom Herron we rushed out to the farm property owned by the Dale Damms on Milligan Road, just outside the northwest village limits. What we wanted to photograph were at least 500 ducks that winged in for an evening meal. It was the second night in a row they descended on the field.

Commissioners authorize new DSS office building

At the meeting of the Tuscola County Commissioners Tuesday, August 26, the commissioners were notified that a petition is circulating on behalf of the Thumb Area Commission on Aging.

Vivian Winter, chairman of the TACA board, said that 600 signatures have been collected from all 3 counties. She said that the petition will be presented at TACA's appeal on September 12 in Bay City. The purpose of coming before the commissioners was to let them know that the senior citizens are busy on their own working to keep TACA, Winter said.

In other action, the commissioners authorized the Department of Social Services to build a facility on county owned land on Cleaver Road near the Medical Care Facility with review of incorporating the Health Department and Mental Health as part of a joint project.

The Department of Social Services lease expires July 1, 1987. A building housing all 3 agencies would require 60,000 sq. feet of space, according to Commissioner William Worth, at a cost of $3 million. Worth told the group that the building would pay for itself in 8 or 9 years.

Kingston teen uninjured as car rolls over Sunday

A Kingston teen was uninjured Sunday when his car rolled over, according to the State Police in Caro.

Roger P. Warrington, 16, was eastbound on M-46 a half mile east of East Lee Hill Road at 3:10 a.m. when he fell asleep, crossed the center line and drove into the ditch and rolled over, states the report.

There was a 3 car collision on Bay City-Forestville Road Friday morning, George Hite Jr., 22, of Warren was following a car driven by Gerald J. Mallon, 21, of Royal Oak when a third car, driven by John Olszak, 17, of Gageton hit the Hite vehicle causing him to rear-end the Mallon car, states the report. Olszak told police that he did not see Hite stopping until the last moment and was unable to stop in time. State police responded to a report of malicious destruction of property to window screens at the Deford school Tuesday, Aug. 26. Gilbert Freeman, a custodian at the school, 6010 Dekerville Road, told police that when he arrived at work at 6:30 a.m. that morning he discovered someone had removed 8 screens from the windows and most were bent and torn, according to the report. Six of the screens, valued at $25 apiece, were damaged beyond repair.

The Haire
Net

The main difference between being 24 as compared to 64 years old is that when you are 24 there's no doubt, no doubt at all. About anything.

It takes a few years before doubt creeps in. Doubt generated by failures that seemed impossible. By buddies struck down by illness or accident. By families split. The realization that yes, Virginia, it can happen here.

Other than that, the outlook from this corner is about the same as it was when I arrived, a fresh faced kid ready to do battle with all the answers.

I suppose there have been superficial changes. I may not wander down to watch the ball teams at the park much anymore, but sitting at home doing nothing is as boring as ever.

Realistically, I know that plans should be made for retirement and every so often the thoughts drift that way, only to be forgotten when business engulfs or a game of golf looms on the horizon.

The good news is that at this stage of the business career, the need to pay the mortgage, to meet expenses or take care of the kids is over. The bad news is that some persons can't sit back and roll with the tide and I'm one of them. It's ingrained to do all that is possible to put out the best paper possible and to make the operation as profitable as possible.

If retirement were forced tomorrow, there might be doubt about what course to follow. The only thing sure (sure today, who knows about tomorrow?) is what has been eliminated. Winters in Florida are a definite no-no. A couple of weeks in Arizona could be tolerated, but the world wouldn't come to an end if Michigan were home the year around. Golf, fishing and other leisure time activities are out on a daily basis. Half of the fun in playing sports is the break in the daily routine. Doing it every day makes it work, not fun.

There's no hope that mowing the lawn or planting a garden will ever be on the agenda. I'd rather wash a press than do that and I practically never wash a press these days.

There are a lot of places that beckon when there's the time. The question that keeps surfacing is, will it be as great as my fantasies about that trip to Europe or Alaska?

I pointed out in the beginning, the basic outlook hasn't changed much from 24 to 64, but I was wrong. When I was 24, thinking about what to do when I was an ancient 64 never entered my mind.

The goal then was to retire at the ripe old age of 40.

Extra sister, oldest friend

By Jim Fitzgerald

When I write about Suzy Moons, I call her my extra sister. I have four actual sisters—no brothers—and I need an extra sister as much as Terrible Jean needs a motel guide.

Terrible Jean, my by-far-the-oldest sister, has spent most of her long, long life making friends with strangers from out of town so she can stay in their homes whenever she happens to be spending a month passing through their front door. She thinks a room clerk is the K mart employee who makes space for more merchandise to be displayed.

Anyway, the four sisters have always picked on me unmercifully. When we were children, the three youngest took advantage of the fact that I was raised to believe boys never hit girls, no matter how cruel the provocation. Terrible Jean took advantage of the fact that she played both right and left end on the neighborhood football team — at the same time. I couldn't even watch the games from the bleachers because I was so skinny I kept slipping between the cracks and falling to the ground where dogs buried me.

So I've certainly never felt the need for an extra sister to fill in when one of the real sisters was unable to be present at a family beat-up-on-Jim gathering. However, Suzy Moons often performed that function with great animation during our adult years, never tiring of describing the time I was a 10-year-old cowboy who rode into her front yard on a garden rake. I soon rode out backward — "He backed all the way home and it was three blocks," she howled — because the rake ripped the seat out of my pants. Suzy and I were the same age and thrown together at infancy — whether we liked it or not — because our parents were best friends. Parents always want their children to marry the children of their best friends. When the parents of the bride and groom belong to the same dance and bridge clubs, they have the same friends, and this cuts down tremendously on the number of people you have to invite to the wedding.

It never worked out that way, although I was certainly willing. Suzy was the prettiest girl in Port Huron, but I wasn't the only boy to notice it. I was, though, the only boy Suzy knew who had good reason to worry about being buried by a dog under the bleachers.

Suzanne Reid married Bob Moons and they had six gorgeous daughters. Those daughters were grown and mostly scattered when, several months ago, it became apparent their mother was losing a long fight against cancer. Suzy didn't want to die in a hospital. So all six daughters came home to care for her and make it possible for her to die at home.

By just hanging around, I've become a member of the oldest surviving generation of my family. I've reached the age in which I made a mental list of the people I love whose funerals I don't want to attend. Selfishly, I want to go first. Suzy was on that list.

But, like our parents' plan for our marriage, it didn't work out that way. During Suzy's funeral Saturday, it suddenly occurred to me that she was my oldest friend. That is, when Suzy died, she'd known me longer than any other friend alive had. (Not counting Terrible Jean, of course, who has known the whole world longer than anyone else has.)

It was a fine Irish wake. Dozens of Suzy's friends drove from a Birmingham church to attend graveside services in Emmett, the Ireland of Michigan. At the afterglow, countless Suzy stories were told, most of them concerning her sense of humor (her favorite activity was water fights). She kept laughing until the very last. When she could barely see, speak, hear or move, she was still making jokes to make things easier on her family.

The only time I cried was when everyone sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." But I will probably cry again when, headed for the next family gathering, I remember there's no chance at all that my extra sister will be there.

Children should stay away from strangers

Going back to school doesn't guarantee that children will be safe from danger. Actually, says Sheriff Paul Berry of Tuscola County, because kids may be spending more time away from parents' supervision, they may be more at risk from contact with strangers.

Now is the time to warn children about talking to strangers, getting into a car with a stranger, or letting a stranger touch them. Sheriff Berry reminds parents.

Children should play in groups and never in a vacant building or alley, he says. They should take a friend along when they go out.

Children should be encouraged to tell their parents about any adults who bother them or act strangely. Teach kids to be aware of playmates getting into a stranger's car and if a stranger bothers them ask children to get a car license number.

As parents, Sheriff Berry recommends getting to know the background of baby-sitters or other adults who become friendly with your children.

Teach children that there are certain people they can depend on, such as law enforcement officers and teachers.

"The sheriff's office is concerned about the safety of all children," says Sheriff Berry. "Please report any unusual incidents in which your children might be involved. The sheriff's office is here to help."

Cass City Lions receive $300 check from GTE

The Cass City Lions Club received a check for $300 from General Telephone Tuesday, Aug. 26, to improve local baseball diamonds, thanks to GTE's Volunteer Initiative Program and volunteer efforts by GTE's employee Robert E. Bootz.

The VIP program was started in 1984 to recognize and encourage employees who donate their time and talents to nonprofit agencies in their communities.

Grants of $100 TO $1,000 are awarded twice a year for selected projects sponsored by employees' volunteer organizations.

The local Lions will use the $300 to install new fencing at local Little League baseball diamonds.

Bootz, Cass City supervisor-central office equipment maintenance, secured the grant for the club. The local Lions are among 19 Michigan service organizations sharing $10,000 in VIP grants, according to Bill Buschle, division manager for GTE.

"General Telephone is proud of its many employees who contribute their personal time and energy to volunteer organizations," said Buschle. "It gives me a good feeling to know we're helping them to help make their communities better places to live."

Kathy Weisenbach, who had a busy day last Tuesday, enrolling her remaining son in Cass City school, said "I guess I still haven't accepted it yet. I keep thinking I'll see them coming around the back of the house. It's been hard. But everyone tells me to keep busy and I'm trying..."

Two fund drives were initiated immediately to aid the grief-stricken survivors, one by the Milk Products Division of Michigan

Bodies of the boys were found huddled in the bathroom, at the rear of the home, which is located less than a block away from the fire station.

Firemen, many of whom raced directly to the scene instead of to the fire hall, were unable to enter the home when they arrived because it was then engulfed in flames.

Dean and Kathy Weisenbach are desperately seeking to rent a two or three-bedroom home in the Cass City School District, located between Cass City and Sebawaing.

Their desperation comes following the loss Sunday, Aug. 17, of not only their home in Sebawaing in a flash fire, but the fatal loss of three of their four sons, aged 5, 3 and 1, in the blaze.

None of the family's belongings, furniture, clothing, appliances could be saved.

Nicholas, 5, Bryan, 3, and Jeffrey, 1, perished. A fourth son, Clinton, was at a neighbor's house when the fire broke out.

Dean and Kathy Weisenbach were in the front part of the dwelling and were driven outside by heat, flames and smoke, hoping to find their children had somehow escaped outside too.

At the Milk Products Division, Debbie Bloomfield is coordinating a drive for clothes, household equipment and furniture and cash donations. Phone her at 883-3170 if you would like to help.

Donations may be made to the Weisenbach Fund, care of Immanuel Lutheran Church in Sebawaing also.

One fireman was quoted as saying the family "lost everything, not only three sons, but every stitch of clothing and food, and every piece of furniture. Right now, they need everything..."

Among the survivors, besides the parents, are grandparents, Gerald and Betty Howard, Cass City; Henry and Irene Williams, Atlanta; great-grandparents, Mrs. Alice Flemington, Birmingham, and Peter and Thelma Proconier, Lincoln.

If anyone has a two or three-bedroom home in the Cass City School District they might want to rent, please phone the Weisenbachs at 872-2030.

Falling tree injures Cass City man

At 1:01 p.m. Thursday Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies responded to a report of a man being struck down by a falling tree on Elmer Road one and a half miles south of M-46 in Elmer Township.

According to responding deputies, Elmer Nitz, 3192 E. Cass City Road, had used a chain saw to cut down a tree and it had fallen on him.

A friend that was with him, Carl Hool of Columbiaville, used a tractor to lift the tree off Nitz before going for help.

Nitz was taken to McKenzie Hospital in Sandusky and later transferred by Marlette ambulance to Saginaw St. Mary's where he remains in serious condition.

Modern postage stamps came into use in 1840.

O-G seniors to hold auction

The Owen-Gage Senior Citizens held a potluck dinner for 44 members and guest Mary Kretzschmer Aug. 21. Table prayer was given by Stella Pisarek. A decision was made to have the October dinner at the Methodist Church of Gagetown Thursday, Oct. 9, and there will be no potluck dinner in October. The members had a short discussion about the Human Development Commission and the Thumb Area Commission on Aging. Euchre winners were:

men's high, Louis Ouvry and low, Homer Kretzschmer; women's high, Millie Munro and low, Bernadine Good; traveling prize, Bob Schell; door prizes, Homer Kretzschmer and Justina Jantz. September's committee is Bernadine Good, Justina Jantz, Ada Salgat and Bertha Shagena. The next meeting will be Sept. 4 and members are asked to bring a sealed brown paper bag containing an item for the auction. The Aug. 7 business meeting of the Senior Citizens was held at the St. Agatha's parish hall. There were 47 members present and 28 blood pressures were taken by Heidi Thane, PLN. President Mable Ondrajka opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer and Pledge of Allegiance. There was a moment of silent prayer for Ed Good and Ed Mellendorf who passed away. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. President Ondrajka called for a volunteer to replace Ed Good as vice-president. Stella Pisarek will serve as vice-president until the end of the year.

It was suggested by President Ondrajka that a sealed brown bag auction be held September 4 and all the members agreed. The items either new, used or homemade, with a $2 value, will be auctioned off by Lloyd Finkbeiner, volunteer auctioneer, and the money will be used to help pay for the October dinner.

The president read an answer to a letter of inquiry she had written regarding Health Plus for Seniors on medicare. The insurance is not available in this area. Door prizes went to Lloyd Finkbeiner and Mary Kushnel.

Good actors

For some members of the animal kingdom good acting can mean the difference between life or death, reports National Wildlife magazine. For example, the bombardier beetle, which lives in the Arizona desert, fights off predators by spraying an irritant from its abdomen while doing a headstand. A related beetle, which has no poison but good acting skills, manages to scare off enemies by imitating the same headstand position.

HEALTH TIPS Obesity a factor in diabetes risk

American parents for years have been warning their children about eating too many sweets. "You'll win't up with diabetes," is the bleak prediction.

That, in the eyes of most experts, is a lot of nonsense, a preconceived notion that has never been proved.

There are, however, established factors that put some people at a good deal more risk of developing diabetes than others. Heredity and obesity are the main ones, and obesity is the only one you can do anything about.

Women run a greater risk than men; the incidence among blacks is almost twice as high as among whites. Diabetes is also more prevalent in industrialized countries and generally in more affluent societies.

Age is a factor, too. The most common type of diabetes in this country -- non-insulin-dependent diabetes, which affects about 90 percent of the estimated 11 million diabetic patients in the United States -- usually strikes after the age of 40. The other major type of diabetes, which leaves the patient completely dependent on insulin injections for survival, generally shows up in the earlier years. In fact, it was once called "juvenile-onset" diabetes.

The major risk in both types of diabetes, however, appears to be a genetic predisposition affecting the production or action of insulin, thus impairing the body's ability to transform blood sugar into energy. Obesity is a risk factor only for non-insulin-dependent diabetes.

The first objective study indicating heredity as a factor goes back to 1933, and evidence has continued to mount since then. Despite intensive research, though, a specific gene associated with diabetes has yet to be identified.

Bolstering the genetic theory is a study of the frequency of non-insulin-dependent diabetes in twins -- that is, if one twin has diabetes, how often can you expect to find it in the sibling? One study of identical twins found it happened nearly 100 percent of the time. In another study, involving fraternal twins (those who differ one from the other in genetic makeup) only slightly more than 3 percent of the pairs both had diabetes.

WHAT ARE YOUR CHANCES?

Simply put, if there's a history of diabetes in your family, your chances of developing non-insulin-dependent diabetes are high. If one of your parents plus a grandparent and an aunt or uncle have had the disease, some physicians say your chances of developing diabetes are near 85 percent. (See accompanying figure.)

OBESITY IS A MAJOR PROBLEM

The influence of obesity on non-insulin-dependent diabetes is easier to track. According to the National Health and Nutrition Examination (NHANE) survey, 26 percent of all adults in the U.S. -- about 34 million people between the ages of 20 and 75 -- are significantly overweight. And there's little question that there is a direct relationship between obesity and the most common form of diabetes.

Whether obesity actually causes non-insulin-dependent diabetes or merely enhances its development is not clear. Regardless, the 1976-1980 NHANE survey showed that the relative risk of diabetes in overweight individuals is nearly three times that of adults who are not overweight. Beyond the age of 75, the risk of diabetes for overweight Americans is about twice that of others in the same age group.

Diabetes, of course, is not the only obesity-related health problem. The "excessive mortality" rate is 20 percent for obese men and 10 percent for obese women, primarily because of an increased incidence of hypertension, diseases of the digestive tract and diabetes. Obesity may also increase the risk of cardiovascular disease, kidney stones and certain types of cancer.

Even among the obese there are differences. Long-term cross-sectional studies have shown that the distribution of excessive fat on the upper part of the body or around the waist (the "potbelly") is a much stronger indicator of diabetes risk than excessive fat over the buttocks and thighs.

Tendency toward obesity -- which is defined as 20 percent or more superfluous body weight -- is an inherited trait. That is not to say that diet and exercise can't succeed in controlling the tendency, however.

But how does obesity affect diabetes? One theory holds that obesity modifies the function of the insulin-producing cells of the pancreas to the point that too much insulin is released into the bloodstream. That excess is believed to inhibit individual cell reaction to insulin, thus impairing the body's ability to change sugar into energy. Still, this has yet to be proved.

What has been demonstrated, though, is that in cultures where obesity is uncommon, the incidence of diabetes is low. More proof: Even modest weight loss brought about by diet and exercise can dramatically improve control of non-insulin-dependent diabetes.

Although 60 to 90 percent of patients with non-insulin-dependent diabetes are obese, the disease occurs in those whose weight is in check, too, especially the aged. And insulin-dependent diabetes is not generally marked by obesity at all. Rather, it is believed to be either an autoimmune disease (one in which the immune system attacks body cells) and/or one precipitated by an early viral infection.

SEX AND RACE PLAY A ROLE

At greatest risk for non-insulin-dependent diabetes are women, particularly obese women, particularly black obese women. Overall, women are 50 percent more likely to develop diabetes than men, and more than twice as many black women over the age of 45 have the disease than do their white counterparts.

Pregnancy also plays a role in that women who have had many children are more likely to develop diabetes than those who have had few or no children. Giving birth to large babies over nine pounds, while not a causative factor, is often a sign that a woman is at risk. In fact, 2 to 5 percent of expectant mothers develop diabetes (gestational diabetes) during pregnancy each year.

There appears to be an ethnic factor involved also. Among blacks in the U.S., diabetes has been diagnosed at a rate of 42 in every 1,000 people, compared with only 22 among every 1,000 whites. Mexican-Americans are also considered at high risk.

Among the Pima Indians, about 50 percent of the men have diabetes. Poverty may have something to do with it. One study pegged the incidence of diabetes as three times greater when the family income was less than $5,000 per year than when it exceeded $10,000.

AGE MAKES A DIFFERENCE

With each additional 10 years of life, the risk of developing non-insulin-dependent diabetes rises. Among people over the age of 65, for instance, diabetes is 60 times more common than in those under the age of 17.

Obviously, it appears that many factors can contribute to diabetes -- race, heredity, diet, environment, age, pregnancy, perhaps even a virus. That variety of risk factors has led some researchers to consider the idea that non-insulin-dependent diabetes may not be just one disease, but rather a general classification for a number of diseases, all of which are manifested by the impaired action of insulin in the body.

THE RISK FACTOR WE CAN CONTROL

So what can we do to prevent diabetes? What it comes down to is that of all the risk factors, the only one we can control -- pregnancy being an exception -- is obesity. How can that be done? The answer is simple: diet and exercise.

Coming to grips with that answer is something else, however. As Ogden Nash wrote:

"The human body is composed of head and limbs and torso
Kept thin by gents
At great expense,
By ladies even more so."

Gospel group at Salem Church

The Messengers Quartet, a gospel group from Lansing, will be at Salem United Methodist Church, Cass City, Sunday, Sept. 7. They will be singing during Sunday School at 10:00 a.m. and the worship service at 11:00 a.m.

First organized in the fall of 1972 at Capital City Christian High School in Lansing, the quartet has a uniqueness and versatility found in younger groups today, but also has developed sound and style that seem to have been around for years.

Traveling approximately 15,000 miles annually, they share their God-given talents in concerts and churches throughout Michigan, the midwestern United States and Canada.

The public is invited.

Leather-bound books will benefit from periodic applications of saddle soap, neatsfoot oil or petroleum jelly.

New books at the library

GHOST by Piers Anthony (science fiction). Captain Shetland takes command of a starship in search of new energy sources for an impoverished and decadent Earth. He finds himself entering a universe of ghosts -- not merely ghosts of dead humans, but ghosts of planets, stars, etc. -- in short, a whole ghost cosmos. Shetland's success in escaping from this universe will save Earth; however, his failure will doom his crew to an especially unpleasant sort of hell.

GROUND MONEY by Rex Burns (mystery). The main man here is detective Gabe Wager of the Denver homicide unit. Battered old rodeo star Tommy Sanchez, a hero of Wager's sleuthing, takes him into the rodeo world (both boys are involved in steer roping and bronco riding) and, ultimately, into a murder investigation.

CREATURE COMFORTS by Jessica Stirling (fiction). This is the second volume in Stirling's proposed trilogy, set in rural Scotland in the last century. The daughters of Gaddy Cochran, the indomitable drover's woman who was a central character in the first book, realize the haunting of their hard-scrabble youth in tragically flawed marriages. Elspeth, the founding raised by Gaddy, stifled in a mysteriously non-consummated marriage with a wealthy weaver, and Anna, the sensual dairymaid wed to Matt of the upright Sinclair family, but lusting for the newly installed laird and landowner, are the focus -- as well as indirect precipitators -- of the havoc that descends on the tiny enclave. The complex plot, enhanced with the schemes of crafty rurals, kept in check by the honorable Sinclairs, is an arresting exploration of thwarted ambitions and damaged lives.

Criminal calls down

The number of criminal calls in the monthly report of the Tuscola County sheriff's department went down considerably in July from a June total of 795 to a July total of 718.

The number of emergency calls on the other hand rose 30, from 164 to 194.

Larceny and vandalism calls each declined only slightly in July. The total of vandalism calls for July was 72 and 73 in June, while larceny calls totaled 61 in July and 63 in the previous month.

Falling off considerably, auto theft calls amounted to 3, down from 12 calls in June.

Burglary calls climbed slightly from 28 to 35. Disorderly/vagrancy calls were also up from 35 to 44. Harassing/obscene phone calls took the biggest jump from 4 in June to 12 in July.

Stalled car hits telephone pole

A Cass City man was cited for failure to use due care after his car struck a telephone pole Thursday.

According to a Tuscola County Sheriff's report, Gordon J. Roy, 24, 4578 Hill Street, came down the hill on Hill Street and turned east on Church Street and his vehicle stalled. The power steering then went out and the driver was unable to control the vehicle, which went over the curb and travelled 84 feet, hitting the pole and guide wire.

Daniel Putnam, 3755 East

Dutcher Road, told police that his golf bag and clubs were stolen from the rear of his pickup sometime Saturday, Aug. 23. He told officers that the golf clubs and bag, valued at $950, were possibly stolen while he was at the Station Bar in Cass City Saturday night.

Your neighbor says

Penal system is too soft

Michigan residents have been trying to abolish the state's ban on capital punishment.

It now looks like the death penalty won't make it to the Nov. 4 ballot thanks to a Michigan Supreme Court ruling which says that petition signatures must be collected within 180 days. The 350,000 signatures were collected over a period of 3 years.

Michigan has not had the death penalty since the 1880's.

What are your feelings about the death penalty?

"I just read about the Supreme Court ruling. I think it (the 180 day law) is a legitimate rule because if that's the way the law's enacted then that's the way it is, but I am for the death penalty," said Bob Wiederhold.

He explained that it's not that he believes in an eye for an eye or a tooth for a tooth, but he feels that it would deter potential murderers.

"I think a man would think twice if he knew his life would be taken if he got caught," he remarked, adding that that is the main reason Michigan should have a death penalty.

Wiederhold believes that society needs some kind of penal system other than sending a man to jail because that just isn't enough.

"My pastor just told us that the average sentence of a murderer that's been put in prison has been 7 years before he's paroled," he said.

The penal system is too soft, according to Wiederhold, and it needs an authoritative base. "We look up to authority whether you like it or not and we need it. It's something that's unchanging, always the same. That's one thing about the Bible, it does not change. It's not up and down. Rules are constant and that's what society needs," he said.

Wiederhold, 37, lives in Gagetown and is co-owner of Wiederhold Freight Lines in Elkton.

The Regular Meeting of Village Council

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held Aug. 26, 1986 at 7:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present. President Pro-Tem Dorothy Stahlbaum chaired the meeting in the absence of President, Davis.

President Pro-Tem Stahlbaum presented Frank Guilds with a plaque for appreciation of 21 years of faithful service to the village in recognition of his retirement of Sept. 30, 1986.

The minutes of the regular July meeting were approved as presented.

The July Financial Statement was reviewed.

The treasurer's report was presented showing 88% of the taxes collected to date.

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee McIntosh to extend the period of tax collection until Oct. 15, 1986. Motion carried 6 yeas, 0 nays.

A motion was made by Trustee Weaver and supported by Trustee Hopper that the bills be approved as presented. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

The Streets and Parking Committee reported that a petition was received by 3 residents of Sherman Street between Third and Garfield for curb and gutter.

A motion was made by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Weaver to install a 15" storm drain at an approximate cost of $4,500.00 to be placed at Scotty McCullough Drive and Church Street. Motion carried 6 yeas, 0 nays.

The Parks and Recreation Committee reported that they have received a request for additional basketball courts.

A motion was made by Trustee Weaver and supported by Trustee McIntosh to adjourn into an executive session to discuss Police negotiations. Motion carried 6 yeas, 0 nays.

The regular session was reconvened.

The Rules Committee reported that an amended Village Manager's Ordinance has been drafted and sent to the Village Attorney for review.

A report from the Planning Commission on the updating of the Village Zoning Ordinance was reviewed.

The superintendent's report was reviewed.

The council has been invited to attend a meeting of the Cass City EDC Sept. 9, 1986 at the Cass City High School in regards to problems in downtown development.

A presentation is to be made by Bob Terry of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Weaver to change next month's meeting from Sept. 30 to Monday, Sept. 29. Motion carried 6 yeas, 0 nays.

20 years strong

Teen Ranch is family model

It was in the late 1950s when Ray Clendenan, now 58 and administrative director of Teen Ranch, and Joe Koch of the Vassar Building Center spawned the idea for a licensed residential care program for non-school oriented kids who need help.

Clendenan, born in Detroit but raised on his family farm near North Branch, became involved with church-oriented young people in the Youth For Christ program in 1952 and soon was involved as a Boy Scout and 4-H Club leader.

In the mid-1950s, the YFC ran summer camps for boys and girls and it was at the end of one camping season, when Clendenan and Koch were driving back home, that Koch asked, "What more could be done for those boys?"

It took several years of organizational work before Teen Ranch Inc. was officially formed and its original board of directors went to work on making the idea a reality.

The original board consisted of Koch as chairman, Verlin Morgan, Marlette, vice-chairman, Arnold Moore, Kingston, Don Jensen, Millington, Dave Sturtevant, Cass City, Paul Findlay, Akron, Gordon Glazier, Vassar (current board chairman), Ed Erb, Vassar, Lee VanAllen, Caro, Walt Mawdesley, Vassar, Carson Kibbe, Vassar, and Jim Rey, Brown City, directors.

Clendenan, who has been executive director since Teen Ranch's inception, said, "We first drafted the philosophy for creating the care facility. It had three parts:

-- We would only work through married houseparents, couples.

-- We would create a family model emphasizing the balanced life (a) mentally through the local schools, (b) spiritually through local churches, (c) physically by teaching normal family skills, (d) socially by going out to the community for involvement with businesses.

-- We would provide vocational skills much like 4-H."

The vocational skills include bookkeeping, cooking, animal care, motor mechanics, carpentry, building maintenance and custodial care, welding and farm mechanics.

In 1966, Teen Ranch launched a big fund-raising program, in which the late Lucille Bauer of Mayville and Cass City took a major part, and raised $10,000 to get started.

The Teen Ranch directors borrowed another $15,000 from the Kingston State Bank and purchased 100 acres of farm land in Koylton Township, Tuscola County, four miles south of Kingston.

An 86-by-28 foot ranch home, with basement, was built and Teen Ranch borrowed another $10,000 to pay for operations as the first 10 boys arrived Jan. 23, 1967, to be greeted by houseparents Ted and Dot Sampson, who came here from Iowa.

From then on, a new house or a new building was built every year. Two more farms were purchased, 145 acres five miles from the original farm in Marlette School District, and 80 acres in Burlington Township, Lapeer County, seven miles away.

Now, on the eve of the 20th anniversary of Teen Ranch, which will be marked Sept. 6 with an open house at all three farms and a chicken barbecue, at which some 500 are expected, Teen Ranch has residential care facilities for 72 boys, a staff of 50 full-time employees, a headquarters office building containing 29 separate offices in Marlette, and a yearly operational budget of around $600,000.

Teen Ranch, which is licensed as a nonprofit organization by the Michigan Department of Social Services, gets 70 percent of its operational costs from per diem payments from the state, the rest from donations and solicitations.

From a residential care unit primarily in 1976, Teen Ranch has now expanded to offer troubled young boys, aged 11-17:

-- Family milieu in addition to residential care.

-- Consulting clinical psychologist providing therapy supervision and psychological evaluations.

-- Independent living house and avocational experiences.

-- Community-based utilization of local schools.

-- Foster care services for boys and girls, 5-17 years old, offered by 28 licensed families.

-- Adoption services for special needs children, 5-17 years old. Adoptive families are recruited from Huron, Lapeer, Tuscola, Sanilac and St. Clair counties.

"The prime goal of Teen Ranch," said Clendenan, "is to return a youngster back to his community as an asset, rather than a liability...teach them skills and get them jobs so they can become taxpayers instead of living on tax dollars."

Clendenan announced the Teen Ranch just opened a new office on Telegraph and Eight Mile roads in Detroit to start up a new foster care program there, and he expects the Detroit office will have 100 boys enrolled by the end of this year.

Teen Ranch is for troubled boys

Teen Ranch is a nonprofit, nonsectarian agency, licensed by the state as a residential child caring facility for troubled boys. Its emphasis is on family living.

Utilizing ranch style group homes, 10 boys are placed in each home with houseparents who are on duty 24 hours a day. Each boy is assigned a therapist and social worker. Public schools are used to meet all educational needs.

Boys, 11 to 17 years old, who are dependent, neglected, abused, or with delinquent backgrounds are considered for admission.

However, boys who are non-ambulatory, mentally retarded (IQ of less than 68), those certified as educable mentally impaired, those requiring on-grounds schooling, those requiring a closed or secure program, those addicted to drugs or alcohol, and children evaluated as actively psychotic or requiring psychiatric services can't be admitted.

Basic reason for placement of a boy at Teen Ranch is to work out his personal problems. Parents are expected to accompany their child to the initial interview prior to placement.

A therapist will make arrangements to visit the parents during the first 30 days after the child is placed at Teen Ranch.

About three times a year, a family conference will be conducted to review the boy's case.

Upon a boy's discharge from the ranch, aftercare workers will maintain contact with the child and family for the first 60 days after discharge.

Referrals for placement at Teen Ranch come from the juvenile divisions of probate courts from across the state, county department of social services and the department of mental health.

Christian school opens

Khourys leave beloved United States

by Cymbre Sommerville
The Khoury children could not get a Christian education in Mafrag, Jordan so the Khoury family came to the United States and settled into a typically American life in Cass City. The decision to uproot 6 children and move to another country was not an easy one, but getting Christian schooling was important to Nasri (Victor) and his wife Manahi.

So 6 years ago the Khourys became U.S. residents, but not without a catch. They made a promise to themselves and God that if a Christian school opened in Mafrag (which is situated close to the Syrian border), they would go back.

On August 25 the Khourys went back to Jordan. Five weeks before they left Cass City, Nasri was told that a Christian school would open if they came back. There will be a total of 7 children at the fledgling school, 5 of whom will be Khourys.

During their 6 year stay, the family became well acquainted with the American lifestyle which could easily be seen as the younger children sat on the floor of the nearly empty house playing video games with expertise.

Nasri doesn't have enough good to say about the United States. "This country we love and thank God for it. This is the greatest country in the world and don't let anyone tell you no," he said with conviction. Manahi was silent, but nodded in agreement. Her English is admittedly not as good as her husband's.

"I tell the kids that my kids bring home that if they will go outside the United States to some other European country, middle east, wherever, they will appreciate what they have here. We don't appreciate what we've got over here because we don't see anything different here," he remarked.

Having a different color skin and an accent in a small town such as Cass City may have caused comment or other forms of prejudice, but the Khourys said it wasn't worth mentioning. "When we got here we were happy with the church and church people. They loved us and welcomed us and we felt at home, even closer than home. It's breaking our heart now how we are going to leave them," said Nasri.

Children can be especially cruel when someone is different and Nasri said that his kids, ages 8 to 19, had some problems because of their accents. But he quickly added, "I can't blame the other kids for something like that because kids are kids. We were expecting something like this. I believe if those kids (American) were overseas maybe they'd be treated the same way." "But," he added, "those kids should realize that these kids (his children) speak 2 languages (Arabic and English) but they don't see it that way."

A small middle east country bordering Saudi Arabia, Israel and Syria, Jordan is unlike its neighbors as peace abides where Jews, Moslems and Christians live together. Nasri said that there is no persecution thanks to King Hussein who has ruled for 33 years.

As Christians, the Khourys are among the minority, 2 Christians to every 100 Moslems. Nasri guesses, "Sometimes kids throw stones at our church but other than that there is no trouble," he said.

Jordan is a very poor country, said Nasri. "Here there are big farms and factories where people go to work. In Jordan the people are well-educated and go to neighboring countries and work for high wages. That is how the country makes its money—in good markets in neighboring countries, especially in the Gulf in countries such as Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. In those countries they need a lot of doctors and engineers and Jordan has them," he explained.

In Jordan luxury items are very expensive. Nasri's K-car would sell for $18,000 in that country. "There is a 200 percent tax on everything. If something costs you $10, you pay $30. That is how the government makes its money," he explained.

In Jordan, Nasri who is a registered nurse, will work at Annoor Sanatorium, a 60 bed mission hospital. The hospital is supported by charities all over the world not only the U.S. but Arab countries, England, Sweden and Australia.

Though the Khourys sold everything here, they are going back to a house which missionaries have kept up over the years. Nasri owned a grocery business in Vassar which he has left for his employees to run. "If they let it go down the drain, then I'll sell it," he laughed.

They are anxious to go back and see relatives, yet a small note of regret can be detected in their voices. The 3 younger children, Anne 10, Jonathan, 9, and Karren, 8 have been raised basically as Americans, but they seemed excited about embarking on the adventure of a new home in a new country. Louise, said she wanted to see her relatives, but would miss her friends.

Nasri summed up the family's feelings: "We are Americans and this is really our country. We will live over there as foreigners now."

Will they come back someday? "I hope so," smiled Nasri. He said the children will probably come back and attend college in Michigan.

When asked to describe his impressions of America, he had this to say "God bless America. My father always said this to me when I was a kid: 'This is the mother of the world and if the U.S. goes hungry the world will go hungry'."

New hours at

Rawson Library

Patrons at Rawson Memorial Library in Cass City will now be able to use the facilities every weekday, as the library board has authorized opening an additional day, Wednesday, each week. Librarian Barbara Hutchinson said that the hours have been extended due to an increase in revenues. Penal fines have been uniformly good and raise about a third of the facility's $89,000 annual budget. An equal amount is raised by the three-quarters of a mill tax approved by Elkland Township taxpayers, and the remainder from Sanilac County and other area townships that use the facility. Surprisingly enough, Hutchinson said, video rentals are our third largest revenue source, although it wasn't planned that way.

The librarian estimated that it will cost $5,000 extra yearly to remain open the additional day.

In addition to the Wednesday opening, the facility has made capital improvements that include new furniture in the meeting room. Currently the library open hours are:
Monday-9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.
Tuesday-9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Wednesday-9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
Thursday-9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
Friday-9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.
Saturday-9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Alleviate back pain

Many people who suffer from chronic back pain can trace their problems to years of faulty postural habits, many experts agree. Yet good posture is something that is within the reach of most everyone willing to work for it, according to the American Physical Therapy Association.

The APTA offers this exercise to help bring back the good posture feeling:

- Stand with your back against a wall, heels about three inches from the wall and feet about six inches apart; distribute your weight evenly.
- Place arms at your sides, with ankles straight and knees facing front.
- Straighten the upper back, lifting the chest and bringing your shoulders back against the wall.
- Pull up and in with the muscles in the lower abdomen, trying to flatten the abdomen.
- Hold this position for about ten seconds; relax and repeat three to four times.

Break losing streak

O-G girls bow in finals of Caseville Invitational

First year coach Dean Roller was confident that this would be the year it happened. And it did, last Monday, August 25.

After two years without a victory, the Owen-Gage varsity girls' basketball team opened their season with a 53-36 victory over Caseville at the Caseville Invitational.

In the season opener for both clubs, the Owen-Gage girls demonstrated that they will be a running ball club whenever the situation allows it.

"We got the ball down the court real well," said Roller, who was impressed with the efforts of sophomore point guard Andrea Mandich. Mandich started many of the Bulldogs' fast break opportunities by out-quicking her Caseville defenders.

The Bulldogs were led by Juniors Sue Salcido and Jean Billy. Salcido finished with 17 points and collected 15 rebounds, while Billy captured game scoring honors by netting 18 and swiping 14 boards. Yvonne Miller led Caseville with 9 points and 17 rebounds. The triumph matched Owen-Gage against the Mayville Wildcats for the tournament championship. CHAMPIONSHIP GAME You can bet Coach Roller will have his girls at the charity stripe for most of this week's practice, as the Bulldogs converted on only 6 of 25 free throws in losing to Mayville 33-30, Saturday, August 30.

Trailing 8-4 at the end of one quarter, the Bulldogs quickly knotted the score at 9 in the opening minutes of the second quarter. The Bulldogs then proceeded to miss 10 free throw opportunities and fell behind 20-9 at the half.

Owen-Gage started the third quarter with a full court press and outscored the Wildcats 12-10 to end the quarter trailing 30-21.

The Bulldogs continued to hound the Wildcats with their pressure defense in the fourth quarter. But 4 more missed free throw chances by the Bulldogs iced the victory for the Wildcats.

Susie Salcido led the scoring attack for the losers with 10 points. Cindy Enderle chipped in with 9.

JV GAMES

The Owen-Gage JV team captured the tournament championship by defeating Caseville 32-17 and knocking off Mayville in the championship, 28-10.

THE SCHEDULE

The schedule doesn't do much to get the Bulldogs off to a fast start. The next game Sept. 9 is against Uby and the Bearcats are tough in the class C league they compete in.

The Bulldogs will swing into North Central D competition when they entertain North Huron Sept. 11. That game should go a long way in telling how the season will go for O-G this season.

7 tips to keep people safe in water

The following seven tips may help you keep your child from drowning:

1. Never leave a child alone out of eye contact supervision in or near a pool or spa—not even for a second.
2. Young children should never be considered water-safe despite their swimming skills, previous instruction or experience.
3. Access to the pool or spa should be limited by locked doors or gates whenever swimming or soaking cannot be supervised.
4. Do not rely solely on plastic innertubes, inflatable arm bands or other toys to prevent accidents.
5. Keep toys, particularly tricycles or wheel toys, away from the pool or spa. A child playing with these could accidentally fall into the water.
6. During social gatherings, be certain someone has the major responsibility for watching the children and swimmers at all times.
7. Teach your child the most effective way to get out of the pool or spa quickly.

Every year, over 260 children under the age of five drown in backyard swimming pools. Keeping these tips from the experts at the National Spa and Pool Institute in mind can help you keep your own youngsters out of such statistics.

Children Aren't Waterproof, a free brochure of more helpful, possibly life-saving suggestions is available from the National Spa and Pool Institute, Dept. CW, 2111 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22314.

Governor to ask for no parole for certain crimes

Governor James Blanchard has said he will ask the Legislature to extend life sentences without the possibility of parole to certain crimes that "shock the public conscience."

Under existing Michigan law, those full life sentences are applied only to persons convicted of first degree murder, large sales of dangerous drugs and injury by explosives.

"When an adult inflicts a cruel and disabling injury intentionally upon an innocent person, the conscience of the community is shocked," Blanchard said.

"We feel, instinctively, that our justice system must keep that criminal locked away to protect the rest of the community," he added.

Under the governor's plan, juries would have the option to request a full life sentence for individuals convicted of certain heinous crimes, including child torture, forcible sexual assault with serious injury, placing an explosive with intent to injure or kill resulting in death, kidnapping with intent to extort money or a political objective, and killing a police officer or correctional officers acting in the line of duty.

Currently, persons sentenced to life for other felonies become eligible for parole after 10 years.

Meanwhile, Senate Corrections Committee Chairman Jack Welborn (R-Kalamazoo) expressed concern that the governor is delaying substantive action by presenting yet another repetitive report. "I congratulate the governor for recognizing that there is indeed a problem in corrections. His attention should be placed on passing the Senate's legislation and eliminating the Corrections Commission to make it more accountable to his administration," Welborn said.

He cited several bills passed by the Senate as part of a "safe streets" package, including new mandatory minimum sentences, taxing illegal controlled substances and providing tax breaks for businesses employing minors.

SESQUICENTENNIAL GRANT AWARDS

The governor recently announced 65 Michigan Sesquicentennial grants to organizations throughout the state for a variety of

Hawks host Mayville in grid opener

The Cass City Red Hawks lift the curtain on the 1986 grid season Friday against Mayville at Cass City Recreational Park and the Hawks are aiming for a better offensive performance than the team exhibited in the opener against the same club last year.

While the offense wasn't anything to write home about, the Hawks would undoubtedly be pleased if the defense played as well as it did last season. Cass City won 2-0.

The game was even closer than the final score indicated. Mayville missed a game winning field goal with 2 minutes left that was wide, left, from about the 30-yard line.

The Hawks should be familiar with the Mayville offense as it plays the same type offense and defense that Coach Don Schelke employs.

The coaches had an opportunity to see this year's team in action in a 4-team scrimmage with Ubley, Akron-Fairgrove and Brown City.

Barring injury between now and Friday, the Hawks will enter the game in good physical condition.

A major problem for the defense will be halfback Dale Barnhart, who Coach Larry Robinson says is as good as any back Cass City will face this year. In addition to leading the offense, Barnhart anchors the defense from a linebacker position.

Hawks prep for golf opener

In his first year as coach of the Cass City High School golf team, Coach Jim Fox will not be competing this fall with a totally green squad. In fact, there are 6 returning letter winners, including 3 boys who were in the top 5 and represented the school in every meet.

The boys who have been tested under fire are Jason McCallum, Randy Guinther and Dave Miller.

That's the good news. The bad news is that Cass City will be playing without Randy Teichman, an all conference golfer who graduated last spring.

There are 14 candidates for the team this season and they include just 2 freshmen and 2 sophomores. Fox would dearly love to see more underclassmen out for the team.

Besides the letter winners, another candidate is Rob Nicholas, a senior who skipped golf as a junior. Fox believes he will be a factor for the Hawks before the season ends.

Fox predicts that the Hawks will play about .500 average this year, winning as many as they lose, while Bad Axe and Vassar appear to have the dominant talent returning.

Obituaries

Vernon Bradley

Vernon L. Bradley, 21, of Wyoming, Mi., died Saturday morning, Aug. 30, in Marquette, Mi., as result of an automobile accident.

He was born May 11, 1965, in Alma, the son of Kale L. Bradley and Diana L. (Fisher) Post.

He graduated from St. Louis High School and received an associate's degree in electrical engineering from Michigan Technological University, Houghton.

He was employed by Johnson Controls in Grand Rapids.

Survivors are: his parents, Kale Bradley of Gagetown and Mrs. Diana Post of St. Louis; one sister, Perri, and two brothers, Cory and Jason Bradley, all of St. Louis.

Others are: maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fisher of St. Louis, paternal grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor Bradley of Breckenridge, and maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Fisher of Alma.

Services were held Tuesday at Alward-Carter Funeral Home, St. Louis, with

Rev. Rodney Shoemaker officiating.

Burial was in Emerson Township Cemetery in Gratiot County.

Memorials may be made to St. Louis High School, St. Louis, Mi.

Neil J. Sherman

Neil James Sherman, 86, of Cass City died Saturday, Aug. 30, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born May 12, 1900, in Colfax Township, Huron County, the son of Merrit and Agnes (Everett) Sherman.

He was united in marriage to Miss Janet Faye Guinor Aug. 27, 1938, in Toledo, Ohio. Following their marriage, they made their home in Miami Beach, Fla., and Detroit before coming to Cass City in 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman founded Sherman's Restaurant in Cass City in 1958 and operated it until retiring in 1975.

He is survived by his wife, Janet Faye; one son, James Sherman and his wife, Erika, of Cass City; 4 grandchildren, Mrs. Tim (Tina) Senior of Walled Lake, Mrs. James (Katy) Henderson of Uby, Miss Ruby Sherman of Ann Arbor and Howard Sherman of Cass City; one sister, Mrs. Merle Kitchen of Cass City, and three brothers, William Sherman of Frieburg, Bruce Sherman of Cass City and Henry Sherman of Flint.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church of Cass City, officiating.

Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

D. Brown completes 27th trek

Dagmar Brown completed her 27th trek across the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day in 61 minutes.

The crowd was estimated at 40,000. This has grown from a group of less than 200 on Labor Day 1958, led by Governor Williams.

Ms. Brown is a retired licensed practical nurse from the Caro Regional Center, also the U.S. Naval Reserves. She spends most of her time on a farm on North Hurds Corner Road.

When Harvard College was founded in 1636 it was surrounded by a tall stockade to keep out prowling wolves.

Letter to the editor

Need emergency service personnel

Dear John,

I've been thinking about writing this letter for quite some time now and due to recent developments, the time to write is now.

I don't think the people in the Cass City area realize the importance of having an ambulance service and fire department so close at hand.

I have lived in the Cass City area for some 19 years and of those 19 years (13) thirteen of them have been spent working on the fire department and ambulance. I have heard numerous complaints and very few "thank you's!"

It seems that most, not all, but most people in this community just want to stand back and let somebody else "get involved!"

Well, let me put it this way, unless somebody starts getting "involved," we just may lose our ambulance service, not completely, but especially daytime hours.

We hurt for both firemen and ambulance personnel for daytime hours. I work the midnight shift at a local factory, so that makes me available for both services, but how does one decide which is more important.

I know certain people complain about how fast the ambulance or fire personnel drive to get to the station, but, if they are the certain ones waiting for either service, they complain and ask why it took us so long to get there.

Contrary to popular belief, we do not sleep or live at the fire station, we all have our own personal lives to live.

I guess in writing this letter, I am asking someone, anyone, please get involved. The pay isn't that great and you receive numerous complaints from the public, but one also gets great personal gratification and satisfaction just from knowing that they did all that was humanly possible on their part.

If anyone is interested in getting "involved," please contact

David McNaughton, as there will be classes starting this month for ambulance personnel, and if they are interested in the fire department, just contact any fireman.

This is a great community and I don't think we want to rely on emergency services from out of our area.

Fireman/Ambulance attendant
Ronald J. Pawloski

Letters to the Editor

The Chronicle welcomes letters to the editor.

Letters must include the writer's name, address and telephone number. The latter is in case it is necessary to call for verification, but won't be used in the newspaper.

Names will be withheld from publication upon request, for an adequate reason.

The Chronicle reserves the right to edit letters for length and clarity.

We will not publish thank you letters of a specific nature, for instance, from a club thanking merchants who donated prizes for a raffle.

Crossed wires cause accident on M-81

Cass City police responded to a 2 car accident at the intersection of East Cass City Road and Doerr Road Friday morning.

Ronald J. Struble Jr., 25, of Bay City was towing a vehicle and was attempting a right turn onto Doerr Road, but the wiring harness was hooked up in reverse, thus displaying a left turn signal instead of a right, according to the report. Anthony E. Sweeney, 24, 3490 Bach Road, was following Struble and observed the left turn signal and began to veer around to the right but struck the Struble vehicle.

Friday, Linda McMahan, 26, reported a larceny of approximately $2,500. McMahan told police that she placed a deposit in the night deposit at the Cass City State Bank July 12 and when she received the monthly statement which covered that period, the deposit was not recorded.

She talked to Sherry Seeley, head cashier, and was told that there was no problem with the drop slot and the money must have been stolen, according to the report. Seeley told police that the deposit area had been looked at and nothing was found. The incident is under investigation.

At 2:02 p.m. Thursday, a car fire was reported at 4297 Maple Street. Mark W. Stover, 5654 Milligan Road, was parked in the driveway when homeowner Eldon Stoutenburg, who was working on his vehicle in front of the house, noticed smoke coming from the passenger window.

Stoutenburg used a fire extinguisher to put out the fire, which had begun to burn through the top center of the dashboard of the 1979 Monte Carlo. The fire was believed to have been electrical in nature.

Paul McClorey, 20, of Cass City was picked up at the Huron County jail Monday and lodged in the Tuscola County jail on a warrant from the Cass City police department for failing to appear on a charge of possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

The charge stems from an incident in Elkland Township April 12.

Animal games
Do animals play games? National Wildlife magazine reports that animals apparently have more fun than we originally thought. Chimpanzee juveniles, like human children, play follow the leader, hide-and-seek, king of the hill, and tug-o-war. Young white whales playfully butt against their mother and slide off their brows, and river otters repeatedly slide down streambanks.

Different perspectives

Bargainers clash over salaries

The ability of the Cass City School District to devote more money to salaries is seen in a sharply different perspective by the school district and the union.

Sheldon Markley, Tri-County Bargaining Association negotiator, says that Cass City School District is well able to meet teacher demands for increases in salary. He points to a fund surplus of $369,747 as evidence of the district's ability to pay.

School authorities say that the fund balance is necessary as a sound business practice and point to the 1985-86 financial statement, which showed that the district dipped into reserves last year for $77,660.51.

According to Ben Hobart, a school board member, the last offer to the teachers would cost the district about $130,000 in "new" money, that is money over and above the amount paid teachers last year.

Although the amount coming from state aid is uncertain now, Hobart told members of the Cass City Rotary Club that the school anticipated being able to meet the increase offered because of a slight increase in students attending and an increase in state aid.

Markley says that the school has more funds available because the district passed a one-mill tax levy for the removal of asbestos this year. If that one mill hadn't been approved, the school would have had to take the money from the general fund to do the work. Since it doesn't, he said, there is that amount more available to pay the teachers. A mill in the Cass City district raises approximately $100,000.

Hobart was asked at the Rotary meeting about cutting curriculum to meet the teacher demands. He pointed out that the district went that route previously and that the board was extremely reluctant to consider such a course again.

Hobart said that the proposal by the Tri-County Bargaining Association, if compounded, would result in an increase of 74 percent from what teachers make today and would make at the end of a 3-year contract.

According to a release issued by Markley, a fair settlement would be: An increase of 9.1 percent at the Bachelor degree base and 7.8 at the Master degree maximum.

Reaching the maximum in not more than 11 years instead of 13.

Provision for extra pay for a BA degree plus 18 semester hours, a Master degree and a Master degree plus 15 semester hours. Cass City now pays more for a Master degree and none of the incentives available at some of the other area school districts.

Because so little progress has been made, the union is charging the school district with a refusal to bargain.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Beulah, Mich. --

An Indian courier who trekked across the Ontario wilderness from New Hampshire to northern Michigan arrived bearing a message written in mulberry juice on birch bark:

"To my friend who keeps overlooking good buys in the stock market -- wise up and get some of these: HEINZ, SUPERMARKETS GENERAL, WALGREEN'S."

Charley Redfield."

Ol' Charley, in case you don't remember, is the Juno Beach, Fla., guru oft-quoted in this column. He has nagged me to buy such things as Jacobson's Stores (OTC) and Disney, and things like that. Which have done very nicely, even if they don't pay much in dividends.

Charley hates to take capital gains, but he knows he can't spend his profits until he does pay this tax, and it does dilute his joy. But it doesn't soften his chortling when he reminds me of his success (luck?) in the stock market. Now he's in New Hampshire with his pretty wife, where his ego is recovering from that 46-point drop in the market one July day.

I am sharing with you his latest recommendations. If they don't grab you, then look at an attractive tax-exempt, a recent Texas Housing issue, rated AA and with an 8.25% coupon on the long maturities. The glut of Texas bonds and the scare about oil prices makes bonds down, that way cheap, and that's when I like to buy them.

Look out for the mutual bond funds that claim you'll get fat yields on their shares.

The ads mislead when they say "present yield on offering price." Actually they speak of "current yield" which with bonds quite different from the real yield, or yield to maturity.

An example: a fund has bonds bought at a premium, because they have high coupons, or interest rates. The coupon is 12% and the bonds have cost the fund 120. The fund can advertise this as "10% present yield on offering price."

So you have some bonds that cost you 120, and they're going to mature, or come due, in 10 years. That 120 you have in them now is going to shrink to par or 100 when the pay-off comes in 1996.

Your actual, average annual yield is 8.93%, because you have to absorb that 2 point shrink over the life of the bonds.

But that doesn't look so good in the ads and sound so good in the phone calls from "those nice young men." Next time, ask the man on the other end of the line what the yield to maturity is on the whole fund. He'll have some interesting answers, such as: "Oh, we don't keep them to maturity always, because we supervise the holdings very closely, and so on and so on."

Mutual bond funds have advantages of being easier to buy and sell than individual issues, but you pay for this. About a tenth of the income goes to the fund management.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.

Voters in Owen-Gage to hit polls for third time

Voters in the Owen-Gage school district will be given a third chance to decide the fate of a 6-mill, one year special tax levy Monday, Oct. 20.

The decision by the school board to hold another election was made at a special meeting Wednesday night. It came in the wake of an Aug. 25 election which defeated the millage proposal by a mere 4 votes, 231-235.

The proposed millage, which would be used for operational expenditures, was also defeated June 9.

The October election would still allow the millage to be on this year's taxes.

According to treasurer Jack Brinkman, the district needs close to $300,000. The proposed millage would levy about $240,000 which would still leave the district in the red but would help to get their head above water.

Residents suggested cutting back the millage but board members explained that the $300,000 is needed to operate at current levels. "I think we have a nice rounded curriculum and we'd like to keep it that way," said Ron Good, board president.

Another reason for the 6 mill levy is another anticipated drop in state equalized valuation which would further lower the tax base on which tax revenues are figured. The district has already seen a fall in the SEV from $47 million to $43 million.

Harley Kirby the newly hired superintendent was in attendance and made his recommendation based on the close vote to go again as soon as possible. "We need to have some meetings and set up a program for informing the public...to answer questions and remove fears some people have."

In the following weeks board members and residents will be working to inform voters about the millage. "We better get out in the community and push hard for it this time," said Good. Kirby added that he feels that information to the people is the key.

In other action the board accepted the resignation of Larry J. Romain, who was a counselor, teacher and J.V. basketball coach. Romain has accepted a position in Deckerville as a counselor.

The board also okayed hiring first year English teacher Lisa Ehrle who will start Sept. 2.

School out but sports to continue

by law and the amount paid for service is a dead issue when he walks into negotiations.

FINAL MEETING

Although a mediator was present at the final meeting, neither side yielded previously adopted positions. For the first time since bargaining began, Crouse and Markley were at the bargaining table and the Cass City School Board was present in another room to give its okay to any compromise agreement that might have been reached.

SPORTS TO CONTINUE

Markley says that coaches have agreed to continue and normal athletic schedules will be held at

Blood pressure treatment

Many people take diuretics or "water pills" for high blood pressure. These medications are very effective and time-tested for safety. Many doctors use them as the first choice of treatment. Diuretics along with a salt-restricted diet, usually help your doctor maintain your blood pressure within a normal range.

A problem sometimes associated with diuretics is low potassium. The main loss of potassium from the body is through urination. As a result, many diuretic users at one time or another are low in potassium. Drinking a glass of orange juice or eating a banana daily may not be enough to prevent this. A potassium supplement can be prescribed by your doctor. If you experience symptoms of low potassium: excessive tiredness, muscle weakness or cramps and irregular heart beats—the heart is a muscle—you should see your doctor.

With a simple blood test, your doctor can easily find out if there's a problem.
