Police report

Halloween loss minimal

Area law enforcement agencies were among the recipients of pleasantly uneventful "Devil's" and Halloween nights last week.

Despite a rash of 17 tire slashings in Cass City Oct. 22, Village Police Department Chief Gene Wilson said that little such malicious destruction took place during Halloween festivities.

"We were in pretty good shape. We had a few eggs thrown both nights, and a few broken pumpkins, but that's about it," he said.

"We've had about 3, 4 years of pretty quiet (Halloween and Devil's) nights," Wilson continued, adding, "You can't expect nothing to happen. The actual physical damage is where it gets bad."

Less damage to property over past years may be partly due to increased patrols during the Halloween celebration, according to Wilson, who said he used "quite a few more officers" late last week. "The kids, they usually don't do things by themselves," he explained. "The kids see 2 patrol cars running around... and it doesn't give them a chance to gang (up) as much." The Cass City Police Department reported only one malicious destruction case during the past week—a complaint stemming from an egg being thrown at a moving car.

Light Halloween destruction wasn't limited to the Cass City area, according to Tuscola County Sheriff Paul Berry, who said that damage in the county was probably lighter than in past years. "Things were unusually quiet for Halloween throughout the county as far as we can tell." Berry didn't have a total of prank/destruction reports, but noted that most of the reports received involved junk being thrown into streets, destruction of mailboxes, toilet papering and similar pranks. He said that he heard of only one fire in the area, a barn fire in Sanilac County.

The sheriff's department also deployed additional officers during the 2-day celebration. "I did have one extra car during the evening hours of both days," Berry said.

Leaves raked on road can be dangerous to children

Piles of multi-colored leaves left by the fall season can be nearly irresistible to youngsters of any age.

But the same leaves which are great for jumping into and playing in also present danger, particularly in the Cass City area where residents rake them onto the roadway to be vacuumed by village employees.

At least one area resident was concerned enough about the safety risks of kids playing in leaf piles to request that a warning be placed in the Chronicle.

Beverly Louks, 6632 Pine St., said a near tragic accident 9 years ago with her own children convinced her that parents should take care in knowing where their children are playing. Louks said that 2 of her children, aged 8 and 9 years at the time, were raking leaves onto the home's driveway when she left to run an errand. "I came back from the store and I was going to drive through the pile of leaves (in the driveway), but for some reason I decided not to," Louks explained. Soon thereafter, she discovered the 2 children hidden under the leaf pile.

"I tell you, it was frightening. I think of that every time I drive down the street," Louks remarked. "You see little kids out there—it only takes a minute for someone to drive up in a 4-wheel drive vehicle and decide to squash a pile of leaves."

Louks said she warns her neighbors about the potential risks when kids, leaves and a street are combined. "I tell the kids not to play in the leaves that are in the street," she continued. "Just be careful with those little kids playing in the leaves. That's all I have to say."

Fortunately, no serious accidents involving youngsters playing in leaves have occurred near area roadways, according to Cass City Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie, who noted residents were allowed to burn leaves up until a no-burning ordinance, which went into effect last year.

LaPonsie acknowledged the risk of what could be a "disastrous" accident, but he added that safety precautions could reduce the chances of tragedy. "What we're asking people to do is instead of piling (leaves), to windrow them—spread them out in a narrow strip," he said. "It's much easier for our machine to pick them up."

LaPonsie said that the Please turn to page 14.

Police contract talks require mediation

by Tom Montgomery

Few details on negotiations of a new contract for 2 full-time Cass City police officers are being released, but village and labor attorney Clinton C. House Monday indicated that a new contract isn't far off.

"Something will be done pretty quickly," House said about current negotiations of a contract to replace a 3-year pact which ended April 30.

The attorney said that a state mediator has been called in, but would not say which of the 2 parties requested mediation. He also declined to list any details of negotiations. "When we have a contract... that's when someone will talk about it," he added.

Representing the village in negotiations, which began in early April, are House and Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie, while full-time officers Donald Miller and Phillip Klaus make up the Cass City Police Association, Fraternal Order of Police.

LaPonsie referred questions about negotiations to House, but the village manager remarked that the expired contract is more than comparable to contracts in area departments of similar size. "I don't know of any that are better in the Thumb," he said.

The expired Cass City Police Department contract, which began May 1, 1983, included 5 percent raises in each of the contract's 3 years. In the final year of the contract, salaries ranged from $17,770 for a one-year employee to $22,571 for an employee with 5 or more years. The low and high figures in 1983 were $16,118 and $20,472.

A survey of area police departments covering town populations of from 1,761 to 4,317 persons revealed that wages (or salaries) and benefits received by Cass City officers are comparable to those received by officers in Bad Axe, Caro, Marlette and Vassar.

Of the 5 departments, Caro has the largest population, about 4,317 persons, in addition to the largest full-time staff. Caro has a chief, 7 full-time officers, 5 part-time officers, one part-time meter maid, 2 part-time noncertified officers and one full-time secretary. Second in population is Bad Axe, which has 3,184 persons. That department has a chief, sergeant and 4 full-time officers. Located in Caro and Bad Axe are the Tuscola County and Huron County Sheriff's departments, respectively, as well as State Police posts.

Vassar has the next highest population, 2,727, and a staff of chief, sergeant, 2 full-time officers, 13 part-time officers and 11 reserve officers. Cass City is next with 2,258 persons and a department consisting of a chief, 2 full-time officers and 4 part-time officers, while Marlette has 1,761 persons and a department composed of a chief and 2 full-time officers.

Three of the 5 departments are represented by unions—Cass City and Bad Axe by the Fraternal Order of Police and Vassar by Teamsters Union Local 129. The Caro and Marlette departments negotiate wages and benefits directly with their local government unit each year.

Florence Karr honored

Elkland-Novesta United Way goal cut to $15,000

by Meg Carpenter

The Elkland-Novesta United Way campaign held a kick-off dinner Oct. 29 at the Charmont.

Acting President Art Holmberg said the 1986 goal would be less than the 1986 goal.

"Traditionally in our United Way we keep raising the goals," Holmberg explained. "We realize this year some people are suffering economic problems—particularly farmers. If farmers suffer, businesses suffer also. We have dropped back our goal to $15,000. Last year our goal was $17,000 and we barely made it."

Elkland-Novesta United Way is unique in two ways, according to Holmberg.

"First of all, we contribute a larger part of our budget to local agencies," he explained. "Secondly, we're the only ones who attempt to make a door to door campaign."

Holmberg presented Mrs. Florence Karr with a plaque honoring her for her untiring work and dedication.

"These jobs are unpaid, unglamorous and often times unappreciated," said Acting President Art Holmberg. "Everyone believes they're good and should be done, but not everyone is willing to do them."

Holmberg described Karr as someone who has "gone above and beyond the call of duty, been affiliated with Elkland-Novesta United Way campaign as long as I have, has been a solicitor with me and a board member, and our very own capable treasurer."

Mrs. Karr has been involved in the United Way campaign for six years and has been treasurer all that time. She was Financial Director for Hills and Dale Hospital for 23 years until she retired in 1981.

"I like keeping books and I like keeping busy," Karr said. "Since I retired, I really look forward to it (the campaign)."

Karr and her husband, Preston, have a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Dimaggio, and two granddaughters.

Holmberg expressed his appreciation to The Chemical Bank, Thumb National Bank and the Cass City State Bank for sponsoring the meal.

He also asked the volunteers not to wait until the last week before Thanksgiving to solicit donations.

"Jim Jezewski has the thermometer up and I've got the red paint and the brush ready to go," Holmberg said.

Bartle injured

Power takeoff accident threatens Dennis Bartle with loss of leg

A Cass City man remains at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor following an accident Sunday morning involving a power takeoff.

Dennis Bartle, 32, was reportedly working at the scenic Golf Course near Caseville Sunday at approximately 11:30 a.m. when his leg became caught in a power takeoff which was being used to run a water pump. He was taken to a medical facility in Pigeon and then transferred by helicopter to Ann Arbor, according to Bartle's father, Bruce Bartle.

The elder Bartle Tuesday morning described the injury as "pretty bad," but said he didn't know whether the leg could be saved. "It's kind of up in the air right now," he said. "I don't know what they're going to do. They haven't made any decision yet that I know of."

FARM ACCIDENT

A Deford man walked away with only a limp after the tractor he was driving tipped over on him, according to Tuscola Sheriff's Department Deputy Wayne Newton.

Monday at around 7:30 p.m. when he tried to get back on the road with the tractor he was driving.

Shotwell attempted to cross a shallow ditch but tall weeds covered a culvert and the tractor tipped to the side. Shotwell was caught between the steering wheel and gas tank.

"He was lucky it didn't pin him under," Randy Hampshire said. "He was unconscious for a while."

Hampshire said it didn't take too long to get Shotwell out from under the tractor.

Shotwell was taken to Cass City Hills and Dales Hospital by the Marlette ambulance. He was treated and released.

Thanksgiving dinner planned at St. Pancratius

Cass City churches are uniting to plan a Thanksgiving dinner for people who are alone or without a traditional dinner.

The meal is free and will be served at 1 p.m. Thanksgiving Day at St. Pancratius Hall.

"It started as an idea at the Christian Service Committee of our parish and we've asked other parishes to cooperate," Father Julius Spleet of St. Pancratius said. "We came up with the idea a month ago. We've never done anything like this."

Alan Kico, chairperson of the Thanksgiving dinner, said all of the food and work will be donated. "We started talking about it and all of a sudden a group donated all of the turkeys," Kico said. "It was before we even had a meeting."

The menu features traditional Thanksgiving dinner fare: turkey, mashed potatoes, stuffing, vegetables, coleslaw, cranberries and pie.

Because it's the first time a Thanksgiving dinner like this has been planned, Kico said he wasn't sure how many people would help prepare and serve the meal. From baking pies to volunteering at St. Pancratius Thanksgiving Day, anyone is welcome to help.

Dinner coordinators are asking people who are interested in coming to this meal to call 872-4168, 872-3336, 872-4263, 872-5188 or their own church for reservations.

Positive perks

By Melva Guinther

A recent letter to the editor demonstrates a philosophy to which I subscribe, but which I don't practice often enough.

The letter praised the local librarian for services above and beyond the call of duty. (I would extend that commendation to the entire library staff. Where else can a proof reader verify the spelling of Mikhail Gorbachev or Martina Navratilova in a hurry?)

In the same spirit, a grateful reader sent a co-worker a rose last week.

The philosophy involved doesn't require a letter or flowers, though. It's a simple matter of expressing appreciation and admiration when deserved, rather than only complaining and criticizing when there's a problem...accentuating the positive, so to speak. Unfortunately, human nature generally doesn't lend itself to this concept.

Why is it so much easier to gripe about a delay than to express gratitude for prompt service?

As adults, don't we more readily condemn young people for "unacceptable" behavior than we praise them for doing good?

Complaining about the government, taxes and politics seems to come much more naturally than thankfulness for freedom of speech, the privilege of voting and the lifestyle most of us enjoy as Americans.

Do we think to tell the pastor when his sermon has been especially inspiring, or do we only grumble when it's too long?

How often do we thank the clerk, hair dresser or nurse who good-naturedly goes out of his or her way to satisfy us? It's true. They get paid for doing their job, but so does the sourpuss who gives as little as is required.

How about the baby sitter who takes a genuine interest in the kids, washes the dishes and tidies up after they're in bed? Does she know her extra effort is recognized?

Everybody likes to feel appreciated, and it takes very little effort to say "Thanks" or "You did a good job."

Besides spreading a little cheer, an added bonus is that the person thanked or complimented will invariably try to do even better.

Good will is contagious. So is ill humor. It's possible to influence, if not control, the atmosphere surrounding our little space in life by practicing positive attitudes.

Everybody has a "down" day occasionally. Most of the time, though, we have a lot to buoy us up, things often taken for granted -- home, family, health, job, friends, freedom -- until they are jeopardized or lost.

Maybe we should institute an "Accentuate the Positive" week during which everyone would refrain from griping and consider the good in every situation.

It could become a delightful habit.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire (And anyone else he can get to help.)

Most folks around here don't need the warning issued this week by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) (and I still want to call it the Michigan Conservation Department) telling us about hazards of car-deer accidents. There were 6,379 of these accidents in Michigan in 1985. Five persons were killed and 1,255 injured in the crashes.

*****

Incidentally, if I had a vote, I'd stick to the old fashioned conservation moniker rather than the chic DNR label.

*****

Lou Bishop of Cass City went pheasant hunting with 4 companions on a preserve near Lapeer recently. He returned home apologizing to the folks that he only shot 3 of the 4 birds flushed, missing one.

Lou blames it on being rusty. He hasn't shot a gun in several years, now.

His age had nothing to do with it. After all, he's only 89 years old.

Before going into this week's restaurant report, let me lay this on you. How about submitting one of your dining experiences for publication?

There are only a couple of rules. Keep it short, 100 words or less. Don't write about places within 25 miles. The idea is to pass on info about places that may interest others when they are away from home.

Restaurant report: Cruising the highway along the St. Clair River is fun on a nice day. The Haires did it Sunday. On the way, we stopped at the Village Inn in St. Clair, across the street and about a block from the renowned St. Clair Inn.

We've eaten at the St. Clair Inn and it's not too shabby. If we wanted to spend the night out and start a celebration, that's where we would go in the area. The food is pretty good and the atmosphere great.

If we wanted to stop at a restaurant where the food is about as good for about half the price, we'd suggest the Village Inn.

BERT CHASE, left, looks over Cass City's Main Street for the first time in 55 years. He was visiting his "brother" Bob Neiman of Cass City.

Colorado deputy sheriff visits his hometown

Because Bert Chase, 76, wanted to be a cowboy, he left Cass City in 1921 and headed west. Last week he returned to his old home town for the first time in 55 years.

What's new in 55 years? Just about everything, some good and some bad, said the grizzled visitor as he tipped back his cowboy hat and gave his impressions of the old home town. The business district is worse, he said, than I remember it.

But the new hospital and the new homes are really nice. Good, too, is the (Cass City Recreational) park. When he was in town, explained Bob Neiman, 72, of Cass City, the park was known as the Cass City Fairgrounds.

Neiman was the reason that Chase visited his old home town after so many years. We were raised together and we regard each other as brothers, they explained. While Chase has not returned from the West since he left, he has seen Neiman, who has made trips to Colorado, to visit and who will make another in a few months when he heads west to visit his son, Jim.

When Chase headed west after completing his schooling at the old Brown School, located on Kelley road before it was turned into a home, his aim was to be a cowboy, and he was for about 15 years.

After that he turned to a variety of jobs, got married and raised a family of 7 children with his wife, who did not make the trip to Cass

City.

For 24 years he was a deputy sheriff and is now retired from the job.

Lights stolen from pickup

Frank Spencer of 4082 Cemetery Road, Cass City, reported 4 stolen off-road lights to the sheriff's department.

Spencer said sometime late Oct. 22 or early the 23rd, someone was on Frank's Service Station property and took 4 off-road lights mounted on a 1973 GMC pickup belonging to Anthony W. Yost of 6950 Decker Road, Cass City. Each KC off-road light was worth $40.

"If It Fitz..."

A few things you should know

By Jim Fitzgerald

There are a few things you should know....

• A flashing electric sign at county-operated Metro Airport advises motorists: "County Executive William Lucas reminds you to buckle up and enjoy your stay."

Lucas, the GOP gubernatorial candidate whose photo is on airport welcome signs, has accused Gov. Blanchard of using taxpayers' money to promote his reelection campaign through "Say Yes to Michigan" advertising.

But I'm not here to accuse Lucas of hypocrisy. He undoubtedly plans to reimburse county taxpayers for the cost of any self-advertising signs that aid his campaign for governor. My purpose is to call attention to what the buckle-up sign doesn't say.

It doesn't say that if motorists ignore Lucas' advice to use seat belts, and he is elected governor, he will order state troopers to seize control of all offending cars. This will save you from the danger of living under a local government that doesn't give citizens sufficient protection from unbuckled drivers. And it will ease the threat of people taking the law into their own hands by leaning into cars to commit forcible buckling up.

Also, after the Lucas victory, speed limit signs near the state border will be changed to say: Gov. William Lucas reminds you to drive 55 and enjoy your stay."

• Sadly, it was no joke when someone sent me a get-well card saying "Sorry your sick." Honest, it was a legitimate card manufactured by the Workshop Cards Corp. of Concord, N.H. And if you don't understand what's bugging me, shame on you. (It's "you're," not "your.")

• Recently I wrote something about saving string. And a reader responded with the story of the small box found among the effects of a recently deceased spinster in New England. According to the label, the box contained "pieces of string too short to save."

• On Oct. 22, the letter board on TV's "Wheel of Fortune" said ----- The category was "place." Kay Roodvoets of Lapeer said " Fargo, North Dakota." She got it right with no letters. Naturally, I immediately interviewed her in depth.

"I don't know how I did it," she explained.

The only way to top her is give the correct answer before you see the blanks—perhaps five minutes before the program begins on Channel 4. Which can be done, of course, if you saw the same show earlier on a channel out of Ohio or Canada. Several readers suggested I bedazzle my wife by cheating in this manner, so I tried it—with no success.

The trouble is that, while I can cheat convincingly, I can't gloat without laughing. I can successfully pretend that extrasensory perception allowed me to divine the right answer several minutes before Vanna White began work. But for some reason I can't parade my falsely attained superiority—can't really rub it in—without emitting a guilty giggle that my wife, through long experience, immediately and correctly translates into treachery.

It is a weakness that precludes cheating, because if the winner can't gloat, I don't want to play.

• A Detroit TV reporter was suspended for paying a source for news. Journalism is more flexible on a country weekly newspaper. Recently the Lapeer County Press was irked because the Lapeer city manager had an unlisted home phone number. So the newspaper owner printed a $50 offer to the first person to supply the information. The number was quickly purchased—and published.

I was reminded of when the same newspaper was told by a Washington bureaucrat that it had no right to print some requested information—"You don't even have the right to print my name." The next week a long editorial contained nothing except the bureaucrat's name repeated over and over, probably 5,000 times.

The Haire Net

Pardon me for the jaundiced view of the new tax law that is hailed by sponsors as the best thing since power steering. It's going to be an easy drive to a new fair tax that will soak the other guy and reduce your taxes.

Sure it will. Pardon me for a cynical view of the real good that the tax reform hailed by President Reagan brings.

The experts say that the tax bill will go down for most taxpayers when the new tax code is fully implemented. Making up the difference will be an increase in the rates paid by corporations.

There won't be much public lament about that. Not right away at least. Down the road it may be different. When corporations pay more, it's reflected in the cost of doing business. The removal of investment credit is one area which many observers feel will have a long range negative impact on jobs.

Business has a way of adapting. If there's no way of handling the new tax code, be sure it will be changed.

Perhaps that's what the one expert had in mind when he appeared on Wall Street Week, the show on public television that interviews successful financial persons on topics of the day. He said that he didn't expect the new tax law to have much impact. One reason for his view was that when the amendments start to roll in, there really wouldn't be much change in the way taxes are administered after a few years. Evidently newsmen aren't the only cynical persons around.

What always plays well in Peoria is that the rich should pay more because they can afford it. That's true, but it will never happen and if it did, it wouldn't make much difference. The big buck boys will hire the experts to beat the system. There are plenty of tax exempt investments still around and when the amendments start rolling in there will be more.

If the impossible were achieved and the rich were soaked for everything, it wouldn't really help reduce most tax bills.

There aren't enough rich persons to dent the total tax bill. The poor haven't got it. You can't get blood out of a turnip.

That leaves the middle class, the same group that has paid and paid through the years. When it's all ironed out, we'll still be paying.

There is one area of the new tax bill that receives our wholehearted endorsement. That's the provision that everyone will pay a minimum tax if they have the income, regardless of the tax loopholes that are available.

That won't really affect how much you and I will pay, but it makes me feel good anyway.

Cass City man opposes

Commissioners to decide if Veterans' office moves

A Cass City man told the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners at its Tuesday, Oct. 28 meeting he opposes the Emergency Services/Veterans Services proposed move to the Health Department.

"We tried to convince the board that we don't want the office moved out there," Andrew Koza said. "In the first place, it's too small. In the second place, people are already confused when they try to find the Veterans' office."

Koza said Emergency Services/Veterans Services Director Jim McCann needs a secretary—not another office. Koza thought the present office at the county annex building was big enough.

Although the Health Department is barrier free, McCann said it may be hard for veterans and disabled people to use the facility because of the broken sidewalk.

At its Oct. 21 meeting, the board said it would inquire if McCann could use a pool of Health Department secretaries, thus saving the board in secretarial costs. It also passed a resolution allowing McCann part-time secretarial help.

Koza, who was appointed to the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Committee and chairman of the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund, said using the secretaries from the Health Department wouldn't work.

"We cannot do that because they have a new secretary every day," Koza said. "The secretaries would be confused by those forms (Veterans Administration forms). If they're not correct, the VA sends them back and it takes 5-10 days to correct them. The problem is, when you have more than one secretary you have to train them all to do this kind of paper work for the VA."

Koza said the part-time help hasn't started yet.

"They (commissioners) said it would start when we move out into the new office," Koza said.

"We haven't gotten any help yet," McCann said. "At the Health Department they indicated the help there will have to do their work first, so that won't help us."

Commissioner Mike Green (District 5) said it didn't work out with the employees to whom the board was going to give the extra time. Their status would have changed from part-time to full time.

The board will decide if it will move the office at its next meeting.

SHERIFF'S EMPLOYEES CONTRACT RATIFIED

The Board of Commissioners approved the labor contract of the Sheriff's employees in bargaining Unit number 2, which affects one lieutenant, four sergeants, two detectives and the sheriff's secretary. The contract specified no pay increase for 1986 but called for a 3 percent increase on July 1 of 1987 and 1988.

A dental plan would be added in 1988 and a rider was attached to their retirement plan. They can retire at age 50 if they have 25 years of service and they'll receive the same amount of pension as they would have received when retiring at age 60.

Base pay was set at $23,590.94 for sergeants and detectives, $24,984.54 for a lieutenant and $17,114 for a secretary. They would earn top pay after three years of service.

TROUBLED YOUTH PROGRAM

The board added $2500 to the Co-Operative Extension Service to continue the Troubled Youth Program until June.

Co-Operative Extension Director Bill Bortel asked the board at its last meeting to reinstate $5000 for the program because it had been cut out of the 1987 budget.

Bortel said the $2500 would allow the program coordinator to work 2 days a week from now until June. Then it would be re-evaluated in June and, if the commissioners found positive aspects, the funding would continue through the rest of the year, Bortel said.

"We need to work more on preventing kids from getting in trouble," Bortel said. "Let's identify the problem and find measures that are going to work. A prevention program like Troubled Youths costs a lot less than what it costs to send a kid through Judge Kent's court (Probate Court)."

The Troubled Youth Program has older students working with younger students to help prevent youngsters from getting in trouble with the law.

NEW BUILDING

The board agreed to adopt a sole source bidder agreement with the State to construct the Department of Social Services Building.

"By us being the sole source bidder, the State gives us the control and the State pays for the building the first 10 years," Commissioner Michael Green (District 7) said. "After that, for the next 10 years the county is obligated to allow Social Services to stay there rent-free. The advantage is, we can get the building we want. We can build the building to our specifications."

Paul Lefler, Building Codes Administrator, was appointed project manager for the Social Services building. An ad hoc committee, composed of Commissioners Michael Green and William Worth (District 7), will make decisions regarding the project between board meetings.

Controller Michael Hoagland said Attorney John Axe of Birmingham is preparing the necessary information for the project's bond. He also said the bond wouldn't have to be approved by voters. The actual bond is conducted through the county's Building Authority. The Building Authority Committee consists of Lefler, County Clerk Elsie Hicks and County Treasurer Elgene Keller.

The amount of the bond won't be known until spring, Axe said.

"We have to get the final cost amounts, then we'll have to finalize plans," Axe said. "The Board of Commissioners has to approve the project, a notice of intent will be placed in the papers and the County and Building Authority have to approve the contracts. When the plans and specifications are completed, bids will be taken."

Commissioner Royce Russell (District 2) said the board hopes to break ground April 1.

Soule Family Notebook keeps relatives informed

A parent's death can sever ties children once had to their relatives.

Eloise Nielsen strengthened those ties by weaving the threads of family communication into the Soule Family Notebook. She gathered her collection of letters, family trees and other contributions from family members into book-let form and had it printed. She sold 50 copies to family members for $4.

Nielsen was the only child of the late Jessie Hacker and Stanley Soule of Tyre. Her father later stayed at Cass City's Provincial House. Her mother died in 1980 and her father died in 1984.

Before her father died, Nielsen and her husband, Harold, had come to Cass City to visit him. Afterward, she and her husband couldn't always make it to Michigan family reunions from their Peoria, IL, home.

"My roots are more up there than in Peoria," Nielsen said over the phone.

So Nielsen gathered her collection of letters, family trees and other contributions from family members into The Soule Family Notebook. She had 50 copies printed and sold them to family members for $3 or $4.

The 1987 edition will be her fourth notebook. Nielsen has already asked relatives to write about their "first, best and worst" jobs and people who have helped them.

"We aren't as interested in the past as what people are doing now," Nielsen said.

Most articles are kept intact and Nielsen embellishes the pages with calligraphy. She also set up a contest to find a new name for the notebook.

Caro's Veda Soule Timko contributes to it. Poems and stories about her dad were published in the notebook.

"She does a really good job," Timko said of Nielsen. "It (the notebook) is of anything anyone wants to put in. There are recipes, poems and family histories."

There are 106 members of the Soule family. It goes back 9 or 10 generations, all the way to George Soule, an ancestor listed on the Mayflower roster, according to Nielsen.

Nielsen said many Soule descendants are living in the Thumb area. Guy and Muriel Soule have a centennial farm in Austin Township, now farmed by Bob and Nila Soule. Susan Soule has been historian for the Sanilac County book.

Such names as Armstrong, Hacker, Warner, Ewald, Franzel, Walsh, Hay, Pfaff, Wright, Prange, Foote and Haag are area family names related to the Soules and often appear in the Cass City Chronicle, Nielsen said.

Nielsen graduated from Ubyly High School in 1940 and has degrees from CMU and Michigan State University. She currently teaches special education at Peoria.

Nielsen works on the notebook during the summer. She said next year's notebook will be bigger and more people are interested in it—a tribute to the lines of communication she has not let fray.

Mabel Brian says prohibition was vote issue in '29

The first time she voted, Mabel Brian said she had to decide if she wanted to be dry or wet—and she wasn't talking about the weather.

"The first time I ever voted in Cass City was way back when I was working at the Frutchee Grain Company elevator," the 94-year-old Brian said. "It was in 1929 or 30. Four of us went down and we voted. Two of us girls were for it (Prohibition) and two men we went with were against it."

Mabel voted at the old Town Hall, where the recreational park is now.

Mabel graduated from high school in 1911. She said of her eight classmates, she is the only one still alive. Her first job was as a bookkeeper at the elevator, where she earned $10 a week.

For a short time Brian did the bookkeeping for the Frutchee owned bank, the grain company and their lumber yard in Deford. She took the PO and N train to work and back. It cost her $1.44 a week in carfare. Later, Mabel drove new cars from Buick Motors in Flint to Bob Agar's ABC Garage in Cass City.

She had to quit and take care of her elderly parents, Alec and Elizabeth Brian, and later she worked at the Ben Franklin store until she was 85.

Although problems with her eyes and heart caused her to retire, Mabel proudly said she never doctored except once, until she turned 85. (Once she had the measles and went to the doctor.)

Mabel remembered when Indian Dave and his son used to come to her home for dinner. Mabel and her sister Nellie were about 7 or 8 years old and they would crawl under the bed because they were scared.

She and Nel used to walk all the time, and back then there were only stone gutters, no sidewalks. The stores had lanterns hanging instead of lights.

When asked if she still votes, Mabel said no.

"My friend, Harry Crandell, and I kind of got disgusted with voting," Mabel said.

Caro wins FFA judging contest

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District sponsored a land judging contest recently, according to Henry Gruber, District Chairman.

Caro FFA won first place and are the recipients of the Bruce Ruggles Memorial award with Kris Czaplá first, Brian Campeau second, and Jeff Enos third. Second place went to USA FFA with Sherri Lenz, Dan Hallock and Andy Spanagel placing first, second and third, respectively. Reese FFA was third with Joe Felske, Scott Hadaway and Kim Facker placing first, second and third in their school.

Kris Czaplá of Caro was the high individual scorer for the county with Brian Campeau of Caro placing second and Jeff Enos of Caro placing third.

The land judging contest is sponsored to help in teaching students to determine physical features of the soil, problems which affect the use and treatment of the area land capability classification, recommend treatments and conservation practices for agricultural land use and suitability for non-agricultural uses.

Caro FFA will receive the first place trophy and the Bruce Ruggles Memorial Award ($40 cash award). USA and Reese will receive trophies. Kris Czaplá will receive the high individual award. Awards will be presented at the Tuscola Soil Conservation District annual meeting Jan. 22.

Of all the 250,000 species of flowering plants, there are just two that don't need water from the soil. One is the pygmy cedar and the other is the caper plant of the Sahara. Both take all the moisture they need from the night air.

Tax spread is approved by county board

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners accepted the Equalization Department's 1986 apportionment report at its Oct. 28 meeting.

The county expects to collect $26,869,614.87 in taxes in 1986 based on the county's State Equalized Valuation of $656,449,211.

Last year the county collected $27,792,066.42 in taxes because the S.E.V. was $700,281,856, nearly $44 million more compared to this year's S.E.V.

Of the taxes received by the county, 71.70 percent goes to local schools, 10.11 percent goes to the county, 7.75 percent goes to intermediate schools, 6.70 percent goes to the townships, 1.20 percent goes to bridges and streets, 1.20 percent goes to the Medical Care Facility, .85 percent goes to drains and .49 percent goes to senior citizens.

The Cass City School District is levying 28.05 mills. Property owners living in the Goslin Property will be levied 26.9 mills for school taxes. The Tuscola Intermediate School District will levy 3.25 mills.

Saturday, Oct. 26, Fred and Cathy Sullivan attended the funeral of Niles "Nudge" Sullivan at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Bay City.

Thursday was an in-service day for Owen-Gage teachers. They attended lectures on "Professional Development" at Lakeland High School, Pigeon.

Mrs. Nida Kreger of Sandusky and Marge and Don Schwartz were guests last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Kreger's sister, Martha Boening of Remus. Mrs. Boening is moving in the near future to Waco, Tex., to live near her children.

Sister Nancy Ayotte attended a Diocesan pastoral council meeting in Saginaw Thursday and was the overnight guest of Sister Pat Wilson.

The Owen-Gage Elementary School children staged a Halloween parade of monsters and goblins Friday afternoon. At 1:10 p.m. they marched through the Gagetown Senior Manor and then around town. Chaperone teachers were in costume, as was Principal Bill Britt. Supt. Harley Kirby of Owendale came to view the festivities.

The scenery on W. State St. was changed last week when one of the last of the stately maple trees that lined the street was cut down by workmen. It was located on the property of Harry and Gen Kehoe and because of the danger of falling rotted limbs, the maple, with another giant tree, had to be removed.

Another change is the absence of the antique steam engine, long present on the property of Eugene Comment. The steam engine was sold to an antique buff and transported to Pontiac with the water wagon soon to follow.

Saturday, under the leadership of the Christian Service Committee and Sister Nancy, several volunteers from St. Agatha Parish spent the morning packing donated articles for a united Thanksgiving clothing drive for 3rd world countries, an annual event in the Saginaw Diocese.

The Ron and Jim Turner families made a stop in their "Trick or Treat" rounds Friday evening at the home of Marian and Eugene Comment.

MISSION DAY

Bishop Kenneth Untener of Saginaw and Sr. Liz Picken of St. John's Seminary in Plymouth conducted a Mission Day Sunday at St. Agatha Church. The day began at 10 a.m. in the church hall with a session on prayer and the meaning of life. It was followed by 11:00 a.m. Mass in church, with Bishop Untener as celebrant.

A potluck lunch was served at noon in the hall with about 75 persons attending.

An afternoon teaching session, with much participation by the laity and some group singing continued to the 3:30 p.m. closing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arvoy of Owosso attended the Mass Sunday at St. Agatha Church in memory of Mr. and Mrs. John Bliss and Vernita Comment. They spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment. Several members of Bliss families from Cass City also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griffin are the new attendant resident couple at the Gagetown Senior Manor.

Your neighbor says

Cass City is the best town

Your neighbors, Marian E. Day and Mary E. Sting, came into town last Friday to say hi to everybody. They caught the tail end of the elementary school children parading Main Street in their costumes.

"We came to Cass City to take the day and go down one street and up another," Day said, smiling. "I do my banking at the Pinney Bank and I just love to go in and see them all."

Day, who now lives in Owendale, said she was born in Cass City and lived here 16 years before moving. She likes to come to town with her friend Mary and see how it's improved. Mary Sting lives on Maxwell Road in Gagetown.

The two had dinner at Johnny's Drive-In before taking in the town. They have an itinerary that does take them from one end of town to the other. They even try to hit the library.

"I like to go in Coach Light and say hi because they deliver my medicine by United Parcel," Day said.

A number of problems forced the two to stop coming to Cass City for a few months. First, the Huron County transportation bus Day used to take to Cass City quit going to Tuscola County. Sting used to drive the two, but she was not feeling well for a while. It's been a long time since I was back here, Day commented.

"We used to come to Cass City once a month," Sting said. "Ottomar, my husband, drives us here, now. We think Cass City is the best town."

HEALTH TIPS

Emotional illness is legitimate

"Who? Me depressed? Of course not!"

That's a fairly normal reaction to the suggestion that one might be experiencing a psychological illness, but emotional disorders are a lot more prevalent -- and more serious -- than most people realize.

Often, the primary-care physician -- a family doctor, general practitioner or internist -- is in the best position to spot changes that herald mental or emotional troubles. And trouble there is...lots of it!

A review of recent studies from the National Institute of Mental Health and other sources reveals these sobering facts:

* In any six-month period one out of 5 adults suffers from a mental disorder, drug abuse or alcohol abuse.

* The most common problems are anxiety disorders, depressive disorders, substance abuse (mostly alcoholism) and antisocial personality.

* People often have a combination of psychiatric and physical problems.

* Most people with psychological problems receive no treatment for them at all. Only one-fifth of them had sought help for such problems in the previous six months.

* About half of those treated for mental illness never see any doctor other than their "regular" doctor -- a general practitioner, family physician, internist or pediatrician.

* But people with mental illness receive much more frequent medical care -- for physical problems -- than do others.

RECOGNIZING MENTAL ILLNESS

Primary-care physicians treat or refer to a mental health professional virtually everyone with psychological problems who requests treatment specifically for those problems. But all too many patients do not seek treatment. Many others are never properly diagnosed, even by their doctors, because they seek help only for physical symptoms. Most patients consider physical symptoms the only "legitimate" reason for seeing a physician.

Primary-care physicians must listen with a fine ear to identify the emotional problems patients can't express or are unaware of. A physical symptom, such as stomach pain or headache, may be a blend of true pain and a cry of distress. Where physicians suspect that anxiety or depression may be the basic problem, they can use brief questionnaires, called rating scales, to help evaluate the degree of disturbance. Changes in eating or sleeping patterns, chronic fatigue, difficulty concentrating as well as persistent anxious or depressed feelings -- all may be tipoffs to an emotional problem. Particular attention must be given to patients with substance-abuse disorders, who frequently deny their problem, even when directly asked.

PHYSICIAN'S ROLE

Primary-care physicians increasingly appreciate the need to identify psychiatric illness. Unfortunately, most studies to date have found that such physicians are frequently unaware of their patients' psychological problems. In one study, for instance, hospital interns and residents failed to recognize 34 percent of psychiatric disturbances even though they were told they would be asked to identify disturbed patients.

One reason so few mental illnesses are diagnosed and treated may be that when doctors find a physical problem, they tend to concentrate on that. Wayne Katon, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the University of Washington in Seattle, reports that physical complaints often obscure coexisting psychiatric syndromes. His study of some 60 cases indicates that when physicians treat physical disorders, they often fail to treat those same patients' mental problems.

Perhaps, too, primary-care physicians are coming from psychological problems. The six most common mental health problems they see are depression, anxiety, obesity, marital discord, alcohol abuse and sexual problems. Such problems often seem too tangled to handle. Their treatment may be perceived as too time consuming and not as urgent as immediate physical complaints.

Increasingly, however, primary-care physicians (and others as well) are realizing that it's imperative to deal with the "whole" patient -- body and mind -- in the context of the patient's life circumstances. Medical schools are concentrating harder on training all students to more effectively identify and treat the psychological aspects of illness -- and to refer patients to specialists as needed.

This is particularly urgent because at present only a small percentage of people who have mental problems or abuse drugs seek help from a mental health professional. Most are reluctant to do so.

The medical community appears to be on its way to conquering the bias that psychiatric disturbances are not as real or as important as organic problems. Evidence is growing that many psychiatric disorders, in fact, have biochemical causes -- just as do many physical diseases -- and can be dealt with in part by medicines that correct biochemical imbalances. In many cases, the combination of medication and psychotherapy is considered most effective in handling the common mental disorders. But primary care physicians need more training in the appropriate use of these tools and in recognizing when it's imperative to refer a patient to a specialist.

LINK TO ORGANIC DISORDERS AND EARLY DEATHS

An important milestone has been the accumulation of evidence that emotional problems can contribute to physical illness and play a large role in accidents and suicides -- factors that cause a high percentage of premature deaths. And it must be remembered that anxiety, depression, psychosis, alcoholism and other conditions can be as crippling as angina or severe arthritis.

Take heart disease, the number one killer in the United States. Some data suggest that psychological factors such as personality style or anxiety disorders may increase the risk of heart disease. And there is evidence that life stresses can lead to or worsen other physical illnesses as well.

OPPORTUNITY FOR IMPROVED CARE

As trusted confidants who have an opportunity to listen to and question patients with mental problems that might go untreated, physicians in general or family practice, pediatrics and internal medicine can expand their role in total health care. Medical education must prepare them for that role by providing greater skill in diagnosing, treating and referring such patients. Patients, in turn, must be helped to understand that emotional and behavioral problems are as legitimate as physical illness to discuss with physicians.

Ironically, improved treatment of patients' mental disorders at the primary care level may result from pressures to reduce health care costs. Currently, such patients use twice the normal amount of health care resources. The strain they place on the overall health system should decline if their underlying mental or substance abuse problems are recognized and treated.

Ultimately, the brunt of the responsibility for uncovering mental disorders lies with the primary-care physician, who is not only closer to the patient than other health care providers, but who also has so many more opportunities to make an early -- and correct -- diagnosis.

Rockets edge Hawks, 17-14, in season finale

It was a sad ending to a season that could have been great and, all things considered, was better than most fans expected when the season started. With a few breaks along the way, the Hawks could have won every game played this season, with the exception of the Laker contest.

The season's final against Reese was another that could have been in the win instead of the loss column as the Hawks gave up an early touchdown and were never quite able to catch up. The score was 17-14.

The Rockets went in front their first possession. Quarterback Jeff Ryers sneaked over the center and cut into the left flat, shook a tackler and raced 57 yards to score. Matt Sahr, whose educated toe was the difference in the game, booted the extra point.

Cass City got that touchdown back on a sustained drive that started on the Reese 39. Three running plays moved the ball for a pair of first downs to the Reese 19. When the drive threatened to bog down, a pass to Dan Ware to the 7-yard line on fourth down kept the march alive. Two plays later Ken Pasanski drove over from the 6. Coach Don Schelke elected to try for 2 points on the extra points try, but Reese stopped the attempt.

Neither team was able to generate much offense until the closing minutes of the half when Reese moved deep into Hawk territory. Cass City succeeded in halting the drive but Reese called on Sahr and he responded with a 43-yard field goal that split the uprights.

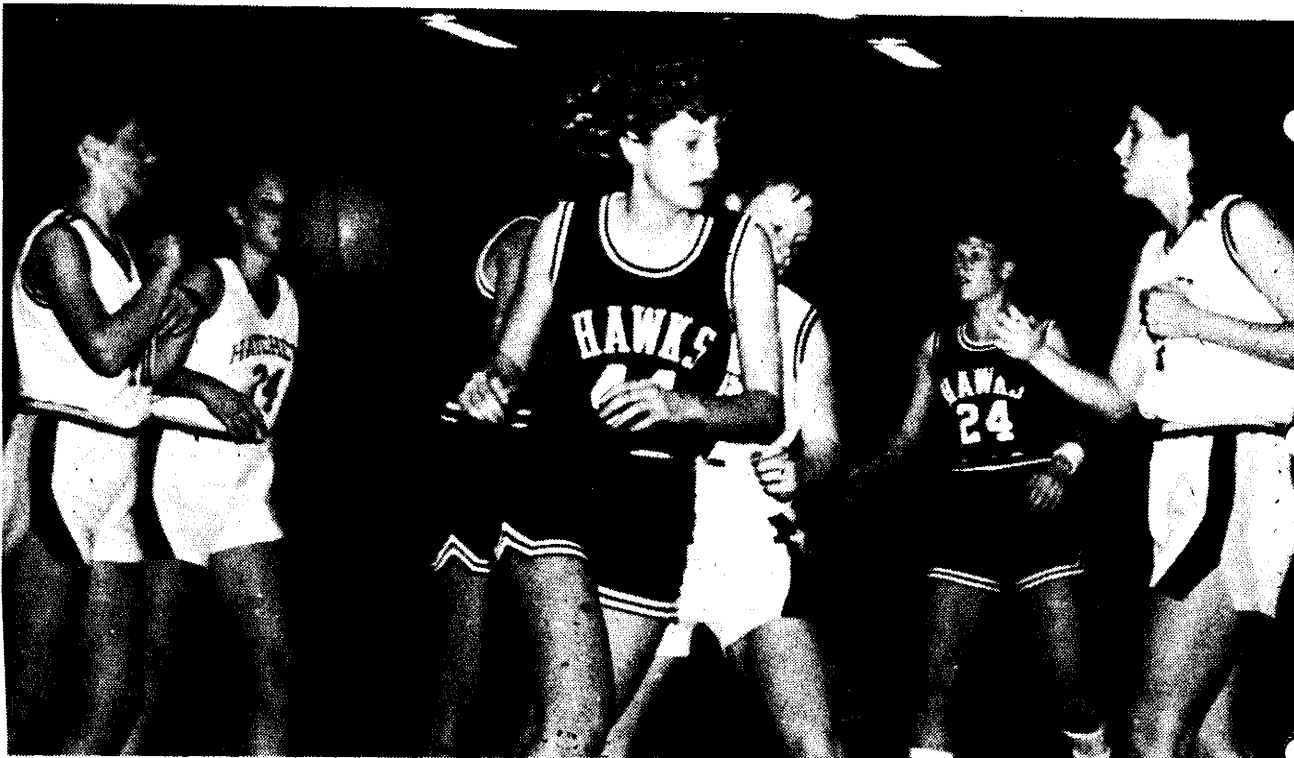

Reese struck from long range again midway through the third quarter. Ryers hit Sahr with a pass and he scampered into the end zone on a play that covered 40 yards. The kick for extra point was good.

Cass City got right back into the game before the third quarter ended. Dennis Ziemba capped a long sustained drive, going over from the 2. Gary Suzor passed to Ware for the extra 2 points.

Pasanski had another good day on defense for the Hawks. He was credited with 11 solo tackles and 6 assists. Among the linemen, Chuck Merchant showed the way with 4 solo tackles and 3 assists.

Both teams kept turnovers at a minimum. Reese did not turn the ball over at all and neither did Cass City, although the Hawks fumbled once, but recovered the ball.

WHO WANTS THE BALL? Looks like no one is interested in this loose ball, which was actually a basket for Cass City's Chris Britt. Cindy Powell (24) looks on as the Hawks went on to post their second win in the Thumb B Conference against Bad Axe 52-51.

Cass City cagers slip by Hatchets, lose to Broncos

Last Tuesday's game with the Bad Axe Hatchets may have looked unimportant to most observers, but to the Hawks it represented a chance to escape from the Thumb B basement. That's exactly what happened as the girls held on to record an exciting come-from-behind 52-51 victory. The win, which preceded a slashing from league leader North Branch on Thursday, could give the Hawks the much needed confidence going into their next three games with Imlay City, Marlette and Vassar. If the Hawk team can continue their recent play, they could win all three contests and salvage a respectable season. The Hawk record now stands at 3-14.

The Hawks started slow against the Hatchets and trailed 14-6 after one period of play. But Shannon McIntosh's efforts early in the second quarter knotted the score at 18 when she hit a jumper from the right side of the lane. The basket was McIntosh's third of the quarter and the Hawks went on to capture a 24-23 half-time lead.

The two teams traded baskets and leads throughout the 3rd quarter and entered the final quarter deadlocked at 34. Coach Daryl Iwankovitch felt his squad was playing some of their best ball of the season. "Whether we win or lose this game, we played good. Though Kelly (Deering) and Lisa (Nicholas) didn't score, they played very key roles on defense as well as the coming up with key rebounds at the end."

The Hawks tried to put the Hatchets away early in the 4th quarter but the Hatchets stuck close by converting 7 of 8, many late in the quarter. The Hawks tried to hold the ball, leading 52-51 with 50 seconds remaining in the game when Lisa Hirn was fouled. Hirn, who had her best scoring night of the season and netted 10 second-half points, missed her first free throw, but got her own rebound and was fouled again. Hirn was unable to hit on the free throw but the Hawks' defense tightened and they were able to hold on for the win.

The Hawks shot 38% from the floor compared to the Hatchets' 34%. Cass City also had a slight edge in the rebounding department, which was led by Darlene Monroe's 13. Monroe led Cass City with 17 points. She was followed by McIntosh, who netted 16.

The junior varsity posted their 6th win of the season against Bad Axe, 48-46. Sue Papp was high scorer with 15 points.

The Hawks had a poor night shooting against the Broncos on Thursday, Oct. 30, and were buried 63-36 at home. The Hawks shot 19% on the night, which wouldn't be nearly enough to conquer the Thumb B leader.

The Broncos' rough and aggressive style of play gave them a 29-18 lead at the half, after slipping out in front 13-6 at the end of the opening quarter. Coach Iwankovitch was impressed with the Bronco defense which held Monroe down most of the night. "Darlene had 9 rebounds but only 6 points as they were really packing their zone down tight."

The Broncos added to their lead in the third quarter and were up 44-29 to start the game's final 8 minutes. The Hawks wouldn't get any closer.

Leading the way for the Hawks was Chris Britt, who had 11 rebounds and 13 points. Britt was the only Hawk to score in double figures.

O-G win streak ended by 45-27 loss to Eagles

Owen-Gage had a plan. Simply beat up on the North Central Thumb League's bottom half. Record 5 wins in a row and steamroll into this week's showdown with league leaders Akron-Fairgrove and Peck.

The Bulldogs' plan was crushed last Thursday when Deckerville ended their 4 game win streak with a 45-27 triumph. Coach Dean Roller summed up his team's performance, "It's hard to do anything with 43 turnovers. This is probably the worst game we played all year."

The Bulldogs had trouble from the start in this one and fell behind 13-6 to start the second quarter. Things got worse in the second quarter and the Eagles built a 27-15 half-time lead.

Deckerville came out in the second half with fire in their eyes and recorded the first 8 points of the quarter, making the score 35-15 with over half of the quarter remaining. Ball game.

The Eagles ended the 3rd quarter leading 41-21. From here they emptied their bench. Leading the attack for Deckerville was Karen Stone, who netted 18 points on the night. Stone was the only player on the floor to score in each quarter. The winners also had Michele Slate in double figures with 10 points.

Owen-Gage had little trouble recording their 3rd win over Caseville this year as they stomped on the visitors last Tuesday 62-51. Coach Roller was pleased with the production of Barb Hellebuyck, who came off the bench to help mount a second quarter rally that would be the game's difference.

"We were again in foul trouble throughout the game. Barb came off the bench and did a good job for us."

The Bulldogs used the hot hand of Susie Salcido to open a 14-8 lead in the 1st quarter. Salcido scored 8 of her game high 19 points by quarter's end. Salcido teamed with Hellebuyck in the second quarter as the Bulldogs netted 24 points to take a 38-20 advantage into the second half.

Caseville went cold for the first 4 minutes of the 3rd quarter and would never recover as the Bulldogs entered the final quarter leading 50-34 and went on to win big.

Neither team shot well from the floor as Caseville hit on only 29% of their shots coupled with a 36% effort from the Bulldogs. The Bulldogs boasted 3 players in double figures. Hellebuyck had an even dozen, while center Jane Billy chipped in 14 to go along with Salcido's 19 tallies.

1-car mishap Sunday ends in Millington man's death

A Millington man was killed around 3:45 a.m. Sunday when the car he was a passenger in rolled over him.

John Stiff, 19, of Center Road, Millington, was southbound on Millman Road (a gravel road) south of Arbela Road when he lost control of the car and went sideways into a ditch. The car hit a tree stump just in front of the passenger door and the Millington police believe the passenger, Mark Edward Lee, was thrown from the car. The car rolled over Lee and rolled over again, landing on its roof.

Lee, 19, of Millman Road, Millington, was pronounced dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital.

Stiff was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Flint by the Vassar Ambulance. He was treated and released.

The accident is still under investigation.

Season finale

Orioles beat O-G, 20-6

Owen-Gage closed out its season with a 20-6 loss to Mid State Athletic Conference opponent Morrice last Friday. The loss puts the Bulldogs at 5-4 in the history books, while the Orioles improved to 4-5. Coach Arnie Besonen felt his '86 season was a success. "It's a decent season whenever you have a winning record."

Morrice principal Michael Dewey had nothing but praise for the visitors from the North Central Thumb League. "Both schools were very competitive and handled themselves like young gentlemen."

The Bulldogs jumped on top of the Orioles just before the first quarter ended. With 11 seconds remaining, Marc Reinhardt hit Stu Stirrett for a 59-yard touchdown to end a drive that covered 65 yards in 3 plays. It would be the Bulldogs' only lead of the game. The try point after failed.

"We punched in the early touchdown and then seemed to go flat against a good team. They beat us off the ball which opened huge holes for their backs."

The Orioles ran for 248 yards against the Bulldogs, which accounted for all but 4 of their total yards. The Orioles scored twice in the second quarter on 2-yard runs by their fine halfback

Mike Godfrey. Godfrey's first marker came at the 10:42 mark and tied the game at 6. Morrice's try for points after failed. Godfrey put his team on top for good with 3:43 remaining in the half. Morrice's try for points after again was stopped short and the Bulldogs trailed at the half 12-8.

Morrice, who has been hurt by the pass earlier in the year, came up with 3 interceptions to prevent the Bulldogs from getting back into the game. Dewey noted his defensive backs' effort against the Bulldogs. "They had time (to pass) but their receivers were covered well."

The Orioles put the game away when Ray Olsen scored from the 3-yard line. Mark Pkaczyk added the two-point conversion and the Bulldogs trailed 20-6 with 4 minutes remaining in the 3rd quarter. Neither team would score in the game's final quarter.

The Bulldogs were led on defense by Stirrett, who was involved in 18 tackles. Rick Salcido followed with 11 tackles and Jay Susalla had 10.

Walbro plant gets first bomb threat

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department reported the Elkland Fire Department and Cass City Police Department responded to a bomb threat phoned in to Walbro's Cass City main plant Monday, Oct. 27, around 11 p.m.

Officer Klaus requested the Caro Police Department and fire department to check the Caro plant as the call came through the switchboard and they weren't certain if it was meant for the Caro or Cass City Walbro plant.

No bomb was found, according to Cass City fireman Roger Hurley. "That's the first time the Cass City plant has had a bomb threat," Hurley said. "Caro has had them on a regular basis. We've got to treat it as a bomb. If the threat's been made, the potential's there."

The sheriff's department also reported a couple Halloween shenanigans.

Vickie Elrod of 286 Crawford Road reported someone spray painted their mailbox and road Friday. Pam Powell of 4178 Cemetery Road reported someone shot out her passenger window or threw something to smash it Friday.

Paula Spencer of 5966 River Road reported a prowler tried to enter her house Oct. 29.

Mrs. Diaz of 2317 E. Caro Road reported a prowler tried to enter her home Oct. 30.

Cass City police report 5 crimes, 1 auto mishap

The Cass City Police Department apparently had a quiet past week, as a total of only one accident and 5 crime reports were on hand Monday.

Ronald R. Young, 39, 3310 Pirrin Drive, Waterford, was arrested Oct. 31 at 10:20 p.m. for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Young was observed in the Caro area and was reported as a possible OUIL suspect to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, which issued a "be on the lookout" bulletin. He was seen driving eastbound into Cass City exceeding the posted speed limit and he passed a vehicle in front of him on the right hand side of Main St., the report stated. Young, who when stopped said he thought he was in Bad Axe, failed 2 of 4 sobriety tests.

Larceny of a bicycle was reported by Louis Salas, 6457 Garfield St., Cass City. Salas reported that he left the black Huffy 10-speed on his back porch and later noticed it missing, sometime after 6:45 a.m. Oct. 17. The bicycle was purchased for $90 new.

Thomas L. Hyatt, 4733 Deckerville Rd., Snover, reported paint damage to his 1977 Chevrolet Camaro Oct. 31 when someone threw an egg at the vehicle at approximately 9 p.m. He was driving on Main Street near Nestle Street when the incident occurred, the report said.

Thomas Proctor reported a Maxon radar detector stolen from his car Oct. 31. The car was parked in the village parking lot at Leach Street and Pine Street. The detector was valued at $100.

Glen Guilds of 4661 Oak Street said a chain saw worth $300 was stolen from his garage. Guilds used the chain saw Oct. 26 and when he went to use it Saturday, it was gone.

The only accident report was made by James D. Hillaker, 4897 N. Seeger St., Cass City, who hit a deer while driving eastbound on E. Cass City Road about 1/2 mile east of Schwegler Road at 10 p.m. Oct. 31. The deer continued south after the collision and was not located following the accident, which resulted in light damage to the 1979 Chevrolet pickup truck.

Hospital employees honored at tea

More than 19 Hills and Dales General Hospital employees were honored last week at an annual awards tea.

Persons who have served 5, 10, 15 or 25 years at the hospital, or are retiring, were honored at the event.

Among those recognized, and their position or department, were 25-year employee Theron Middaugh, lab assistant; 15-year employees Shirley Buschlen, purchasing, Genevieve Crawley, outpatient care coordinator, Elizabeth Evans, medical records, Gloria Peddie, ward secretary and Joann Brown, radiology technician; 10-year employees Marilyn Carpenter, R.N.;

Jean Anthony, R.N., Carol Bliss, ward secretary and Faith Fahrner, in-patient care coordinator.

Employees recognized for 5 years of service were Winnie Jensen, Sue Kappen, Patricia Wutzke, Don Reich, Ronda Hume, Mike Field, John Secord, Dee Garety and Nadine Lounsbury.

Also honored were retirees Catherine Zeilinger, a nurse attendant for 20 years, and Helen Copeland, who has worked in the medical records department for the past 16 years.

The walking stick, an insect, was so-named because it resembles the twigs of the plants on which it lives.

Gagetown man's car rolls in ditch

A Gagetown man sought his own treatment after his car slid into a ditch and rolled over Wednesday, Oct. 29, according to a State Police report.

Drug abuse seminar at Cass City

A drug abuse seminar entitled "Issues in Chemical Dependency" will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 7, at the Colony House in Cass City. Sponsored by McKenzie Memorial Hospital, Sandusky, and Bay Medical Center's Chemical Dependency Program—Bay Haven, Bay City, the program is aimed at parents, teachers, counselors, clergy, social workers, police and probation workers, and Alcoholics Anonymous members. Any interested person is welcome, however.

Topics at the seminar will include intervention for the adolescent, treatment for teens, medical aspects of chemical dependency, the disease of chemical dependency and the special needs of the woman alcoholic.

Additional information on registration and fees for the workshop are available by contacting Louise Blasius at (313) 648-3770.

Randy D. Thompson, 26, of 3105 Bay City-Forestville Road, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road east of Colwood Road when he lost control of his car and slid into a ditch on the north shoulder of the road. The front of Thompson's car struck the edge of the ditch, causing the car to roll onto its top.

Thompson said his rear wheels locked up and caused the car to go into a skid. He told a State Police trooper he was going 35-45 miles per hour at the time of the accident. The trooper said Thompson had 4 bald tires, which probably contributed to the accident.

State Police reported another incident last Wednesday.

Robert L. Wood, 48, of 2138 Keilitz Road, Cass City, was eastbound on Dekerville Road hauling a load of brush in his pickup's box. The brush dragged on the road shoulder, causing stones to fly up and strike the windshield of a car driven by Terry L. Burrows, 36, of 532 Gilford Road, Caro. The windshield was broken in 4 places.

PRAYER TO THE Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit, you who made me see everything and showed me the way to reach my ideal, you who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray the prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish. After third day, wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as this favor is granted. P.A.W.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

A full-page ad in the Wall Street Journal went down the drain Oct. 15. Vanguard Securities of Valley Forge, with great enthusiasm, announced their new "Index Bond Fund." It was supposed to be like the index stock funds designed to give you performance akin to the averages.

"Call 24 hours, 7 days," said the ad. Readers were also invited to ask for the IRA kit and the Keogh/Pension plan kit.

So I dialed the 800 number, and after a while got a sweet young thing. "How can I help you?" she asked.

"The Index Bond fund information, also IRA and Keogh/Pension kits."

"Sorry, the Index Bond Fund ad was run by mistake of the Wall Street Journal. Maybe next month Vanguard will know more about the fund, whether it will come out or not."

"Then send the IRA and Keogh kits."

"Sorry, we don't have the Keogh kits."

"O.K. -- just the IRA then."

"Thank you, you will have it in about 10 days."

"Why does it take so long?"

"Because it takes that much time."

All this might be enough to dull a fellow's appetite for advertising, at least, Vanguard's.

Discount brokers may be all right for buying or selling stocks, but for bonds, I'll stick with the big houses. Recently I asked Alan Bush for a quote on buying 50 Wayne Co. Airports, 8% due 12-1-14. Their net price was $103.25. I called Thomson McKinnon in Detroit a minute later, got the bonds for $102.75, saving $250.

There's a lot of fussing over IRA deductions under the new tax bill. If you're among the worry-warts, better you should spend your time on more important problems, such as crabgrass.

Until now you could deduct up to $2,000 of earned income (non-investment)

Commission leases land

The Tuscola County Road Commission met Oct. 30 and leased 9 1/4 acres in Almer Township to Meridian Energy Corporation. Meridian Energy Corporation paid $125 per acre for the oil and gas lease, according to Clerk Jim Miklovic.

and put it in an IRA account. Income in the account was not taxed until you took it out. The withdrawal could be postponed until age 59½, but not later than 70½ without penalty for taking it out too soon.

The new law kicks out IRA's for persons covered by company pensions. Some exceptions for middle-income people: Earn under $25,000 as a single, or $40,000 if married, and you can still have IRA deductions. This income level gets phased out to $35,000 single and $50,000 double.

A further exception (sort of): You can continue to put in the old $2,000, regardless of income, but the amount isn't deductible. However, the income is deferred. This is like a U.S. Savings bond.

When you come to take money OUT of your IRA, if you've had some of these non-deductible deposits, it gets really complicated. The rules will drive you nuts.

Why go crazy when you can avoid this condition? Just don't put in these non-deductible IRA deposits. If you have cash to invest for your retirement, and you can't deduct it from your income, put it in a fund of your own, and forget IRA. Suggestions:

1. Put it in U.S. Savings bonds. They pay 7.5% interest and you don't pay income tax until you cash the bonds.

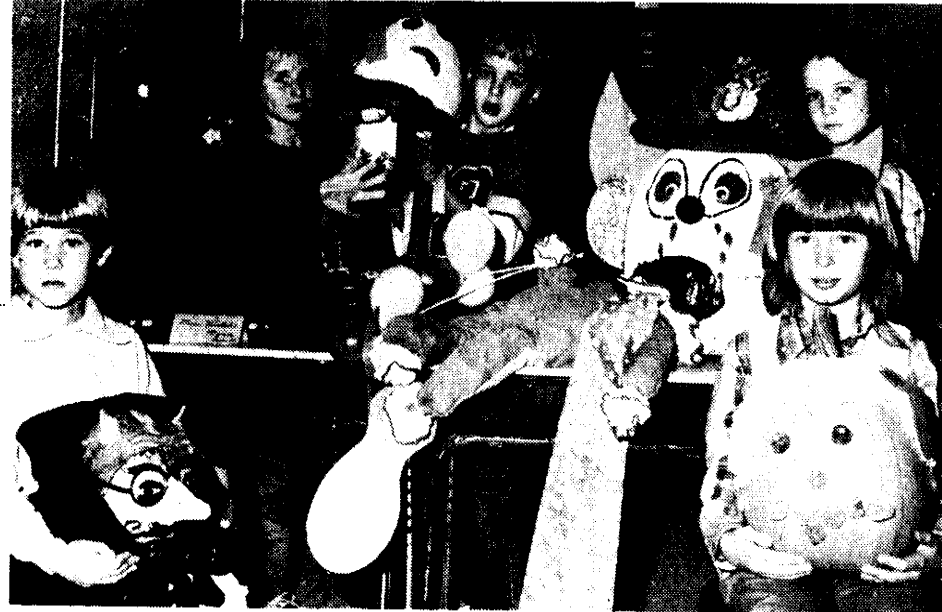

2. Put it in a no-load mutual bond fund, where income and safety are the two things you're after. Look out for the funds advertising over 10% yield; they're risky.

3. Buy some zero-coupon tax-free bonds, maturing about the time you retire. Say that's 30 years away. For $2,000 you can get bonds worth about $20,000 in 2016, assuming around an 8% rate. No tax on these during the time you hold them, no tax when they mature. And no re-investment problems in the meantime.

I now prefer zeros other than those issued for housing projects, because a lot of them are being called and it's a nuisance to re-invest the proceeds. There are some issued by utilities such as Intermountain Power of Utah and Jacksonville Electric of Florida. Both are quality credits.

Brokers and banks that now have an IRA account for you naturally want you to continue your deposits, whether or not such deposits are deductible under the new law. Put in such non-deductible amounts starting in '87, and you're asking for problems later with ol' Uncle Whiskers.

Vassar couple charged with manufacturing of marijuana

A Vassar couple was charged with manufacturing of marijuana, in district court Oct. 27.

Eugene Kelley Jr., 32, and Vivian E. Kelley, 31, of 4790 Sheridan Road were charged stemming from a Sept. 5 incident. Both have a preliminary examination Nov. 7.

Eugene Kelley Jr.'s bond was set at $7500. He was on probation for three years and had to pay fines and costs in 1975 for delivery of marijuana in Flint.

The bond for Vivian E. Kelley, a Caro Walbro employee, was set at $5000.

CIRCUIT COURT

Steven M. Pomeroy, 17, of 2034 Keilitz Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty to uttering and publishing in front of Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn Nov. 3.

Pomeroy pleaded guilty to forging a check for $135 Sept. 2 at Central Shop-Rite in Caro. He also pleaded guilty to attempting to forge a check for $118.58 at Kilbourne Service Aug. 28.

Sentence is to be set. Mollie B. Hartel, 30, of 427 Gibbs Street, Caro, was sentenced to zero to three years probation, fined $300 and must pay costs of $300 for embezzling over $100 from Accounting Data Systems of Caro from August-November 1985. Hartel must also receive mental health counseling.

John Ross, 18, of 514 W. Frank Street, Caro, pleaded guilty to breaking into a 1984 Pontiac Oct. 17 and stealing property worth more than $5. He also pleaded guilty to attempted joyriding in a 1980 Chevy Citation belonging to Michael Martinez Oct. 17.

Bond was continued at $5000. Sentencing will be set. John Elledge, 19, of 3811

Cass City police require mediator

Approximate yearly pay for full-time officers is highest among the five departments in Caro and Vassar, with figures of $23,691 and $23,201, respectively. Cass City officers earn between $17,770 and $22,571, depending on years of employment, while Bad Axe officers earn between $17,971 and $21,881, and Marlette officers between $15,600 and $17,160.

Bad Axe, Caro and Vassar all have sergeants, who are paid $24,850, $25,000 and $24,767, respectively.

Salaries of police chiefs, which also varied among the five departments, also are based on the number of years of employment. Chiefs, and in some departments, sergeants, are not members of department unions. Highest paid among the five is 20-year Vassar Police Chief John Horwath at $29,400. Next is Cass City Chief Gene Wilson, 16 1/2 years as chief, at $28,238; Caro Chief Ron Iseler, 20 months, at $27,539; Bad Axe Chief Dave Neuendorf, 2 months, at $26,000, and Marlette Chief Steve Schaub, 10 months, at $20,000 plus a $1,500 overtime/holiday bonus.

In terms of benefits, Cass City is among the top 2 of departments surveyed. Full-time Cass City officers are allowed 12 sick days per year with a maximum accrued 120 days. Unused sick days are paid according to a contract formula upon retirement or a minimum of 5 years employment. Also included in the package are 10 paid holidays; medical, dental, prescription and eye care insurance coverage, and a village-furnished retirement plan. The plan pays 25 percent of an employee's monthly salary providing the employee has been there for a minimum 20 years. Retirement benefits are reduced proportionately for persons employed for less than 20 years.

Bad Axe offers 10 holidays and 12 sick days per year with a maximum accrued 120 days; medical, prescription and dental insurance; a retirement plan where the employee pays in 2.5 percent and the city pays 8.5 percent. In Caro, benefits include 9 holidays and 12 sick days per year with a maximum accrued 90 days; medical and prescription insurance, and a retirement plan where the employee pays 2 percent and the village pays 4 percent. Marlette offers 7 holidays and 15 sick days per year with a maximum accrued 90 days; medical, dental and eye care insurance, and a retirement plan where the village pays 9 percent after 2 years of employment. Vassar offers 10 holidays and 12 sick days per year with a maximum accrued 120 days; medical insurance, and a retirement plan of 3 percent of the first $4,200 and 5 percent thereafter paid by the employee and about half that amount paid by the city, which has equity built up in the program.

Leaves can be dangerous

leaf vacuum machine has been covering the entire village every 2 or 3 days for the past two weeks, but that it's difficult to be certain where the machine will be on any certain day because of a limited Department of Public Works staff. "That's why we prefer the windrow, so children and animals can't hide in the (leaf) piles."

The village manager noted that the new leaf machine is extremely powerful and could easily suck up a gallon jug of water. He urged residents to keep rocks and other foreign material away from areas to be swept.

Payment of a $19,243 Tuscola County Road Commission bill for road work over the past 6 months was approved by the Novesta Township board at an hour-long regular meeting Monday night.

The payment marks the depletion and then some of the township's $58,000 road budget for the fiscal year which began April 1, Township Clerk Nurse L. Kloc said. She added that flood damage due to heavy September rains resulted in unscheduled road work.

"There were a lot of roads, but I don't know how much (the commission) had to do," Kloc explained. "We will probably run over $3,000 or $4,000."
