AREA RESIDENTS affected by the closing of Cemetery Road bridge may be happy to learn that county officials are cautiously hoping to temporarily reopen the road this month for winter travel. The bridge has been out since August.

Community pays last respects to W.E. Walpole

Cass City lost one of its most respected and prominent citizens Thursday when W.E. Walpole, founder and chairman of the board at Walbro Corporation, died in Indianapolis, Ind. He was 81 years old.

Under his guidance for 36 years, Mr. Walpole took a fledgling company from nothing to an international corporation that is the largest independent manufacturer of small engine carburetors in the world and a well established supplier to the automotive industry.

At the age of 45 he left a position as secretary-treasurer of Borg-Warner Corporation to establish Walbro Corporation in Fenton in 1950. He gambled his life savings, took a second mortgage on his home and with investment help from a few business associates, started his new company.

He came to Cass City in September, 1954, with an order from Clinton Corporation and the first production of carburetors started that month. It was the start of an association that has been beneficial for both the company and the community that continues today.

Although Mr. Walpole worked long hours at his job, he found time to work with numerous schools and civic organizations. He was a strong advocate of a service to all, including the community, and the company and the employees in it have been strong supporters of every community project over the years. Today nearly every volunteer group has one or more Walbro employee on it.

Mr. Walpole served on the boards of many organizations. Included were Japhet School of Madison Heights, MI, a Christian Science School for students through the eighth grade; the Leelanau Center for Education, a Christian Science school for grades K through 12, and the National Advisory Committee for Entrepreneurship Institute at Columbus, OH.

Mr. Walpole attended Principia College and was granted an honorary Doctor of Law Degree from Saginaw Valley State College.

He took a strong personal interest in his employees. Al Avery, a company employee for 14 years, said, "I never met a better man. He came through the plant and he would know nearly everyone working by their first name." Bill Eberline, the first employee of the company, starting when it was in Fenton, said that his association with Mr. Walpole extended over 42 years and during those years he was a true friend, always supporting whatever was good for the workers and for the community. Dr. H. T. Donahue said that no one would have believed that he could accomplish what he did for his company and for the community. He was simply a great fellow, he added.

The community paid its respects at 2 memorial services held Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church, Cass City.

Mr. Walpole was a first reader and a member of the board of directors of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Caro.

He was born Aug. 16, 1905, in Chicago, Ill. He and his first wife, Elizabeth, had 5 children, Holly Althaver, Alice Guernsey and Robert Walpole, all of Cass City; Forrest Walpole of Caro, and Perry Lynn Rader of Winter Park, Fla. After the death of Elizabeth, he married Catherine, who survives. Also surviving are 2 stepchildren, Karen MacFalone and Ann Taylor; a sister, Lucy Cheveaux; 14 grandchildren, 6 step-grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren.

Five brothers and sisters preceded him in death.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that memorials be sent to one of 3 organizations, Teen Ranch of Kingston, Leelanau Center for Education or Michigan Visiting Nurse Service. Memorials can be sent in care of Walbro Corporation, Cass City.

Temporary opening planned

Residents unhappy with bridge detour

Area resident Terri Graichen "has had it" with the detour around the Cemetery Road bridge north of her home at 1050 Cemetery Rd.

The 32-year-old Walbro Corp. employee says she, like a number of other residents affected by construction of the new bridge, limits trips to Cass City because of the inconvenience. The problem is especially marked during winter, she adds.

"I'm really upset," Graichen said of the bridge, which has been out since August. "I'm very concerned with winter. I mean, we have 2 months of very bad weather."

Graichen added that her detour route to Cass City is only an extra 2 miles one way, "but they're the worst 2 miles. Back roads are noted for ice staying on them," she continued. "When they thaw, it's a washboard."

"I don't make the extra trip (to Cass City) when I don't have to, so you're losing business. It's double the distance to Caro, but I've got good roads," Graichen remarked.

that good weather is a must this week in order to prepare the structure for traffic temporarily. "If there's snow or rain or something, the heavy equipment can't move."

A shipment of pre-stress concrete beams from Grand Rapids is expected Friday, according to Wellington, who noted that abutments, or footings, for the bridge are already in place. It will take approximately one week to finish the work after the beams arrive, he said, adding that gravel will be placed on the road surface.

The bridge will be closed again for about 2 weeks in the spring, when asphalt plants reopen and the project can be completed, Wellington explained.

FROM THE BEGINNING

There's no doubt in Wellington's mind that residents living south of the bridge aren't happy about the delays. "We've received complaints about it," he said.

But county officials have waited much longer than the 5 months or so the bridge has been out to get the project underway.

In terms of background, Wellington said that the bridge is thought to have been built in 1934, making it about 52 years old.

Years of weather and other factors took their toll. "It was posted with a weight limit in 1981," the engineer stated. The weight limits imposed were 12 tons for "regular" trucks, 36 tons for semi-trucks and 38 tons for double-bottomed trucks.

The normal weight limits for those vehicles are 20 tons, 50 tons and 77 tons, respectively, Wellington noted.

The county's first move in replacing the aging structure was in 1979, when it applied for Michigan Critical Bridge Program funds.

WELLINGTON'S hopeful that the detour signs on either side of the bridge can be removed soon, at least for the winter months.

-state and federal money earmarked for such projects. Officials again applied for the funding in 1981.

In December 1985, the county was notified by the state that construction plans would proceed. Wellington explained that state requirements slowed the start of construction. "A lot of people don't know that the state will not award a contract for 30 days" after bids have been submitted.

Six months later, the project was let to C.R. Hunt Construction Company of Cass City, the low bidder among about 8 firms. The contract price tag at that time was set at $204,000, according to the company's office manager Rick Doerr, who stated that the final cost will exceed estimates because of delays.

That will mean more money coming out of County Road Commission funds, which are covering 10 percent of the project because it involves a primary road. The remaining 90 percent will be paid with state and federal money.

"I have no way of knowing how much" more the project will be, Doerr remarked. "The state has to come out and determine how much it's going to be and then it goes to the federal boys."

FLOODING

The date of completion for the project was initially set for the summer of 1987, although Wellington says it would have been finished earlier if it hadn't been for heavy rains and flooding, which began Sept. 9.

"When you let a bridge (contract), you usually give them one year to do it—they need a full construction season. Without the flooding, it would have been done this fall," Wellington predicted.

At the time of the flooding, a construction crew was in the process of removing the existing bridge. High water "washed everything out," causing a delay of at least 6 weeks, he said.

Chamber offers $100 for best sign

The Cass City Economic Development Committee, in cooperation with the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, is sponsoring a contest with a $100 gift certificate prize for the person creating the best new sign to be erected at the entrances of Cass City.

Persons desiring to enter can secure complete details by calling the Cass City village offices, 872-2911. Sponsors say the present signs leading to the village must be removed and the design judged best by an impartial committee will be used when the new signs are erected.

The winner of the contest will be given a $100 certificate which can be spent at businesses of any Cass City Chamber of Commerce member.

Deadline for submitting entries is Feb. 21.

Weighmaster says Tuscola County truck violations up

Truck violations causing an increased risk to public safety and roadway damage in Tuscola County are on the rise, according to the county weighmaster's annual report released this week.

Weighmaster Richard L. Letts Jr. reported that commercial truck violations in 1986 were up by 83 percent over 1985, and farm truck violations were up by 72 percent.

A total of 252 commercial trucks were cited in 1986, compared to 211 in 1985, while farm truck citations were up by 14 to a total of 51 citations.

The use of expired or improper registrations by truckers in 1986 cost taxpayers a "huge amount" in lost road-use funds, according to Letts, who caught 94 violators, totaling some $50,366 in lost revenue.

Other areas pointed out by Letts in his report include 13 trucks being caught carrying hazardous material in such a way that the vehicles were overloaded or spilling cargo onto the roadway; trucks operating with defective or no brakes are on the increase, and trucks operating at speeds as high as 77 miles per hour in residential areas have been caught.

"I believe that through the effort given by the Road Commission Board that no deaths of our citizens have occurred this year due to truckers being at fault..." Letts continued.

The weighmaster also pointed out a need for a second weighmaster in the county as "State Motor Carrier officers were not patrolling the county (in 1986) during September, October, November and December."

In summary, Letts stated that he inspected 660 commercial vehicles traveling on the county's 1,758 miles of roads open to the public.

Of those, 152 were weighed, resulting in more than 1.24 million pounds of overweight loads; 243 warnings were issued concerning state law violations; 303 citations were issued; 40 complaints were handled; 3 arrests were made; 18 warrants obtained; 15 court cases tried; 12 cases of assisting county police agencies were recorded; 18 motorists were assisted, and 12 objects were removed from county roads.

GIFTS GALORE awaited the birth of the area's first baby of 1987, Julie Christine Martin, who took her time in arriving at Hills and Dales General Hospital Jan. 2 at 10:29 p.m. The healthy, 5-pound, 9-ounce baby girl is the daughter of Terry and Kathy Martin, 755 Wells Rd., Caro. The Cass City business community annually donates a number of gifts to the first baby of each New Year born at the hospital.

Meg's Peg
Cat tricks
by Melva E. Guinther

A friend who is not a cat fancier once remarked, "I don't trust cats. They always look like they've been up to something."

He may be right. I'm beginning to suspect that they team up to humiliate us.

Dale and Mary Damm's cat and accomplice could have made a classic cartoon, had someone been on hand with a movie camera.

Because they can't trust her with their home furnishings, Kitty is exiled to the basement when the Damm's aren't around.

One day, while home for lunch, they let the cat upstairs as usual. When she emerged from behind the sofa a little later, they noticed black smudges on her face and wondered what she could have gotten into.

Next time she came around the corner, they were relieved to see that she'd cleaned herself up and was white as usual.

Soon she reappeared with the black stuff on her face again, and so it went.

Although deeply concerned, they didn't have time then to investigate the source of the mysterious smudges.

As they left to return to work, a neighbor asked if they'd found their cat. "I knew you wouldn't want her out in this cold, so I let her in the house," he told them.

Sure enough, the second cat was the spitting image of their own, but with black facial markings.

Now what are the odds of those 2 cats making alternate solo appearances by accident?

A few days earlier, walking home, I saw our daughter's cat, who is in our custody, sitting under the neighbors' shrub.

"Now how did you get out?" I asked in a typical one-sided conversation with a cat. "And what are you doing in the neighbors' yard?"

She didn't answer. She never does.

So I proceeded into the house. Imagine my surprise to see her sitting on the kitchen mat giving me that haughty, Morris-ish look through the slits of her eyes.

Incredulous, I dropped my packages and ran to the back door. There she was, still under the shrub, looking smug.

Duped again.

I'd considered trying to teach the cat some tricks, but I have reservations. She's over 14 years old, and besides, I suspect she may be smarter than I am.

"If It Fitz..."

Too much to bear

By Jim Fitzgerald

When Gov. Blanchard felt sick in Washington and had to go to the hospital recently, first reports were that he suffered pains in the chest. Later, the chest pains were strongly denied, and it was explained that the governor was merely exhausted from seeing too many stage plays in New York City.

"He probably just had a stomachache," Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths told a reporter. "Most men can't distinguish their stomachs from their chests anyway."

Well, I was shocked. That was a sexist remark, and it came from one of this nation's best-known feminists. During her many years in Congress, and as Michigan's second-highest elected official, Martha Griffiths always fought for equal rights for both sexes. She has been permanently scornful of sexual stereotypes that declare males are born better qualified than women for various jobs, such as chairman of the board or president of the United States.

If I were to write that most women can't stop talking on the phone long enough to run a nation, Griffiths would be outraged. So where does she get off implying that most men, when they get sick, are big babies who don't know a heart attack from a bellyache?

It just so happens that I've been terribly sick for the past two weeks. I have continued to work every day, because I am responsible enough to realize how very much my wife depends upon me to pay the phone bill. But I've missed four holiday parties because I simply didn't feel strong enough to appear in a social setting where I would be required to explain why there are no whites in my eyes.

In my circles, which revolve around saloons, bloodshot eyes are usually associated with dissipation. Currently my eyes are so red it appears I've been on a two-year drunk. This is embarrassing. I don't have enough panache to wear dark glasses to cocktail parties — people would drop coins in my egg nog cup. So I've mostly stayed home, wrapped in a quilt, bravely facing up to the bitter tragedy of a world-class hangover preceded by no fun at all.

"You just have a little cold that settled in your eyes," my wife keeps saying and saying. She makes it sound like pioneer germs headed west decided, while crossing the bridge of my nose, to settle down and raise sheep there. According to her, I don't need medicine, I need an eviction notice.

Actually, I've always taken Alka-Seltzer for whatever ailed me. All my adult life, with fine success, I've been jiggling those little round white wafers, two at a time, out of the familiar round skinny glass bottle. So near-mortal insult was added to grievous illness when the man at the drugstore said Alka-Seltzer is no longer sold in bottles.

"Try not to panic," my wife said when I staggered home with the awful news. She doesn't understand how much I hate the foil packages that Alka-Seltzer says I now must tear open to get at their wafers. Those little packets make my fingers sweat, and they can't be opened with wet fingers.

"I've never been able to open one of those fiendish things without breaking the wafer into crumbs that fall on the kitchen floor," I sobbed into my wife's shoulder. "What am I going to do without Alka-Seltzer in bottles? I'll probably die and no one will care."

But in the meantime, it must be remembered that Martha Griffiths is only one breath away from being governor. Jimmy Blanchard better stay off Broadway. Michigan shouldn't be run by a woman who doesn't realize that if men didn't know their stomachs from their chests, their belts would be nearer their chins.

Besides, every time someone suggests that Martha Griffiths, 74, is too old to be governor, she points out that she's younger than President Reagan. If that is supposed to be a job recommendation, Martha might as well stay on the phone.

A CHECK FOR $5,000 was presented last week to Hills and Dales General Hospital administrator Ken Jensen by the hospital auxiliary for a recently purchased mammography machine. Betty Russell (left) and Maxine Clara presented the check, which represents the auxiliary's first contribution toward a commitment of $30,000.

In Cass City

Area stress seminar is scheduled for Saturday

A workshop on stress management relating to current economic problems affecting area farmers and the surrounding community will be held beginning at 10 a.m. Jan. 10 at Cass City High School.

The workshop is the first of 3 seminars dealing with methods of coping during crisis/disaster situations.

The first seminar will focus on farm families, businessmen and the community as a whole. The program will examine specific topics associated with stress due to current economic conditions, the impact on individuals and families, and ways to cope with stress.

Ken Petersen, clinical director of the Tuscola County Community Mental Health facility, will be the special speaker.

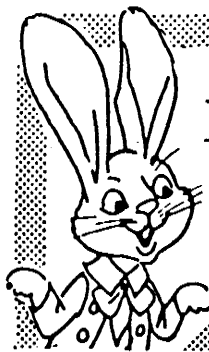

The second seminar, scheduled for 10 a.m. Jan. 31, is entitled "Finances in Crisis," and will examine management of production costs and how to make investment decisions with future costs in mind.

Bob Tuckey, a partner in the Caro accounting firm of Anderson, Tuckey and Bernhardt Associates, and Dennis Stein, the extension agricultural agent for Tuscola County, will present the program.

The third seminar, set for 10 a.m. Feb. 21, will be presented by a father and son team of county attorneys, who will discuss agricultural contracts, bankruptcies and other related topics.

Entitled "Legalities of Crisis," this program, presented by Caro attorneys James R. and Thomas D. Abbey, will give members of the audience an opportunity to learn the legal obligations and options with legalities for the coming year.

Tuscola County Extension Director William Bortel will be the moderator of the programs, which are being sponsored by the Tuscola County Extension Service and Community Mental Health, Cass City Rotary Club, Cass City Ministerial Association, Cass City Public Schools, United Methodist Church, Detroit Conference Flood Relief and the Tuscola County Advertiser.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

You can depend on Jack Esau to keep his eyes open for events in the news that have a Cass City connection. He came up with another last week. Ken Higgins, the University of Michigan football player, is the great-grandson of Ab Higgins, a businessman in the community in the 1940's.

Of the 17 persons that work here, just 3 were smokers in 1986. That number has been reduced to 2 Monday as 1 of the 3 is attempting to swear off the life threatening weed. Don't feel sorry for tobacco companies. Consumption is down 2 percent, but profits for the companies increased about 9 percent, according to Forbes magazine.

Restaurant report:

On the banks of the river in Kawkawlin is the Rivertown Restaurant. At one time it was a showplace home owned by the J.B. Harris family of Pinconning (the town where I was reared.)

Because of this, we stopped for Sunday brunch. It was better than any around considering the $6.95 price tag. It had all the usual brunch dishes, including 6 meat items.

What puts it a notch above most is the variety of breads and desserts and omelets made to order at the brunch bar.

You have to be envious of the success of a couple of Michigan communities that have become meccas for tourists.

The Frankenmuth Bavarian Festival and Traverse City's National Cherry Festival have been listed among "The Top 100 Travel Events in North America" for 1987.

Each drew 250,000 visitors last year, according to the Michigan Travel Bureau at Lansing.

"Cash for trash" is popular

The opportunity to win cash for trash has convinced the citizens of Rockford, Ill., of the value of recycling. According to National Wildlife magazine, a randomly selected bag of trash is opened each week by a wildly costumed character known as Trashman. If the bag contains no recyclable newspapers or aluminum cans, the owner wins $1,000. Material being recycled has tripled since the "Cash for Trash" campaign began 3 months ago.

The Haire Net

My first exposure to W.E. (Wally) Walpole was at a meeting when he told a group of Cass City businessmen why they should invest in a struggling young company in Fenton that was on the verge of bankruptcy. He had little more than an untried product and an unbounded faith that he and his company would succeed. Yet enough of the small group that attended were so impressed by the man (not the product) that a decision was made to back him to the hilt.

That was in 1954 and it was a decision that would prove to be extremely beneficial to all of us in that room and to the lifeblood of the entire community.

To survive in the rough and tumble world of business today requires some tough decisions and the fact that Walbro is what it is today attests to the fact that he made them.

What most folks that knew him will remember is that he made them without sacrificing the guiding principle that he used in over 35 years with the company he founded.

He gave a lot more than lip service to his basic tenet, that if the company was of service to the community, to its customers, to its suppliers, to its employees and to the nation, profits and success would inevitably follow.

It's a philosophy that was followed while he was at the helm at Walbro and it's one that the company follows today.

It was typical of Wally that when the fortunes of his company were at the lowest ebb, he was at his best. At one time when it was touch and go for Walbro in the minds of qualified observers, he never for an instant doubted that success was assured. When the company stock sank to $2 per share, he purchased it and I can remember him sitting behind his desk and saying, John, you'd better buy more (stock) right now. (I should have listened.)

Casual observers often remark on how hard he worked, often with a bit of wondering praise and admiration.

Wally didn't earn any stars from me for that. Maybe a little envy, but that's all. For hard work and sauntering down to the office in the wee hours of the morning were what made him tick. He was happy when working. Not many of us can get the enjoyment out of the job that he did. If you can spend your life doing what you like to do best, what else is there?

Wally did earn stars for following his convictions. At one time early in the company's history in Cass City there was a shake-up in the executive ranks on moral grounds with several persons in management forced to leave because of conduct off the job. Every annual meeting where he presided was opened with a prayer. He never got so big that he forgot about his employees or the community.

All of us can be grateful for that.

CHANCE OF A LIFETIME!

Laurie to chair road commission

Cass City area native Grover Laurie last week began his 29th year as a Tuscola County Road Commission member after being elected chairman of the board Dec. 24.

Laurie, 74, a long-time area dairy and cash crop farmer, is the only remaining veteran of the 3-member board. He's outlasted at least 6 other commissioners during his lengthy tenure.

The father of newly elected Michigan Farm Bureau head Jack Laurie, the elder Laurie in a recent interview said he's seen many changes in the commission since he was appointed in October 1955.

"We've built millions of dollars worth of bridges and millions of dollars of roads, and I've seen wages (grow) by 5 times" what they were, Laurie reminisced. He noted that employees' wages have jumped from about $1.50 per hour to $12 an hour.

Equipment, too, has changed, with 1 1/2-ton trucks being replaced with 3 to 4-ton trucks for snow plowing. "It's been a terrific change." Advances in equipment have, in part, led to a decrease in the number of employees of the road commission from about 100 in 1955 to 60 today, according to Laurie.

A major accomplishment by the commission over the past 3 decades or so has been the maintenance, improvement and construction of the county's bridge system, Laurie observed. He added, "Tuscola County is looked up to for their bridge system."

"I've enjoyed it," he remarked about his years with the commission. "It's just the regular business of it that I enjoy. Once in a while you run into a little difficulty, but things work out," Laurie continued. "We've got real good, efficient employees, and that helps."

Laurie noted that 1988 will mark the end of his current 6-year term on the commission, which includes vice-chairman Leon Keinath and Richard Donahue. The commission has a "gentleman's agreement" that the last 2 years of a commissioner's term are to be served as chairman, he said.

Laurie lives with his wife Gladys at their home of 49 years at 4907 Hoppe Rd. The couple will celebrate their 49th anniversary in March.

Asked if he would accept another appointment to the commission after this term, Laurie remarked, "I hope to, but there's always someone else who wants it too."

The Regular Meeting of Village Council

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held Dec. 29, 1986 at 7:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present with the exceptions of Trustees McIntosh and Tuttle.

As advertised, a Public Hearing was opened concerning the 1987 budget. Hearing no objections the hearing was closed.

The minutes of the regular November and the special meeting of November 26, 1986 were approved as presented.

The November Financial Statement was reviewed.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Weaver that the bills be approved as presented. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Weaver to adopt the revised 1986 budget. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Weaver to adopt the proposed 1987 Budget Summary. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

The Public Services Committee gave a report concerning the Industrial Park.

The Streets and Parking Committee reported that Detroit Edison is waiting for the main cable for the new lighting for downtown.

Minutes of the Planning Commission were reviewed and it was noted that Claude Coates was not able to be present because of weather conditions.

The Manager's report was reviewed.

A letter was received from Harold Perry, Chairman for the Sesquicentennial Kick-Off Dinner information. This was turned over to the Parks and Promotion Committee.

A check in the amount of $100.00 was received from Ken and Carolyn Martin for the purchase of a grill for the Village Park.

A motion was made by Trustee Weaver and supported by Trustee Helwig to approve the wage and fringe package as presented by the Public Safety and Personnel Committee. Three percent to the D.P.W., W.W.T., Police Chief and Village Manager and 50¢ per hour to the Office. The Village Manager shall receive a 5% bonus of his 1986 base pay, the D.P.W. and the W.W.T. will also receive 1 pair of safety shoes. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Stahlbaum that the meeting be adjourned. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

Cass City man charged with 2nd OUIL offense

A Cass City man faces a Jan. 13 pre-trial hearing at 10:30 a.m. in Tuscola County District Court after being charged last week with a second offense of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

James L. Schram, 6379 Garfield St., also was found to be driving with an expired operator's license when he was stopped by State Police troopers on M-81 in Cass City Dec. 14.

Schram, 24, faces a maximum sentence of one year in jail and/or a $1,000 fine, and the loss of his operator's license, in addition to 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine.

Deford resident Terry E.

Bruce, 24, 1786 Montague St., was charged with assault and battery in connection with a Nov. 24 incident against Tammy Marquardt in Kingston Township.

Bruce was to report for a pre-trial hearing at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday (Jan. 6).

Bond was set at $1,500. If convicted, he faces a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine.

Another Deford resident, James O. Dorland, 4006 Decker-ville Rd., was charged with deer hunting without a license Dec. 7 near Decker-ville and Plaine roads in El-lington Township.

Dorland, 32, is scheduled to report for a pre-trial hearing at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 13.

Sheriff's Department

Stolen pickup truck is found destroyed in field

A destroyed, suspected stolen 1982 red pickup truck was found Dec. 26 near the intersection of Elmwood and Phillips Roads by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

James Tuckey, 5699 E. Elmwood Rd., reported the vehicle in an open field near his home. Two tires were missing from the truck, which had been set on fire, according to the report.

The vehicle, valued at $3,500, was reported stolen out of the Westland area, and is registered to Theodore W. Wilcox, Inkster.

A Cass City area man was arrested Dec. 17 for suspicion of being a minor in possession of alcohol and failing to appear in court.

The report stated the sheriff's department was informed that James S. Terbush Jr., 3933 E. Caro Rd., was residing at the Rainbow Motel. Additional investigation showed that a warrant had been issued out of Huron County for his arrest.

Dawn and Scott Woidan, 6048 DeLong Rd., Novesta Township, reported that someone had broken into both of their vehicles—a pickup truck and a passenger car—and taken an electric "juicer" valued at $22.

James McDonald, 7181 E. Cass City Rd., Cass City, reported that someone took $50 to $100 from his wallet Dec. 21 in Elkland Township.

McDonald, who stated that he believes a 17-year-old Cass City youth took the money, indicated that he doesn't want to press charges, according to the report. The case remains open pending action by McDonald.

A complaint of parental kidnapping was filed by a Gagetown resident Dec. 17.

Alberta Fischer, 6554 Gage St., reported that a 4-year-old child that she has legal custody of was picked up by his mother, Lorina L. Lynch, during a visit and not returned.

Following an investigation by sheriff's deputies, Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent ordered that Lynch shall have an extended visit with the child at her residence in Detroit until the matter can be brought for a hearing.

A LONG AWAITED rest and travel are in the future for retiring insurance agent and Sanilac County dairy farmer Lloyd Severance.

Long-time Sanilac County dairy farmer Lloyd Severance has handed the reins as an insurance agent for the past 38 years over to his grandson with plans to "keep active" and travel.

The spry, 70-year-old Severance, who recently retired as vice-president and a director of Sanilac Mutual Insurance Co., is well known locally—he's the second of 3 generations of his family who have helped build the area's dairy farming and insurance industries.

Severance began at Sanilac Mutual as director of the Shabbona District in January 1948, taking over for his father, Charles Severance. He was appointed to the company's board of directors in December 1960, and became vice-president March 8, 1968.

Previously, Charles Severance was elected director of the Shabbona District in January 1913. Now, Randall Severance, Lloyd's grandson, has taken over the district.

Severance has seen a number of changes in the insurance field over the years, but says casualty coverage for farms and homes, which he has dealt with, haven't changed much. Rates have been relatively stable, with the exception of those for liability insurance, which have skyrocketed, he said.

"There are still fires, there are still windstorms. They aren't any worse (than) they ever were," he added.

FARMING FIRST

Despite a lengthy tenure as an insurance agent, Severance says the job was part-time and came only after his first love, farming.

"Dad had 510 acres and we farmed with 7 horses and 2 men. (It) was one of the bigger farms in the area," Severance recalled. "I've seen farming progress from horses to computers. I've loved every bit of it."

Charles Severance settled a homestead at 6003 Severance Rd.—where Lloyd was born and still lives—in 1900. "We milked 25 cows, all by hand, of course," Severance reminisced.

Now, Severance's sons, Arthur, 45, and Leslie, 43, run Severance Farms. The 2 men have farms about one mile apart, with their father's home located in the middle. The family has a total of some 900 acres, with each son milking about 100 cows.

One of Severance's daughters, Linda, married dairy farmer Leland Hirsch, of Decker, who milks about 90 cows. The Severances have another daughter, Ruth Ann.

Severance says he's all but retired from the business. "My role now is just as a helper—that's my ideal retirement," he said with a grin. "I help out when I want to."

"I think the key for farming now is not to have too much debt. Back in the 70s, that was the thing—borrow,"

Severance guided the creation of an updated personnel policy in county government and has done the same as chairman of the Sanilac County Health Board. "We have a real good working organization now," he added.

On the township level, Severance has served as supervisor, treasurer and trustee in Evergreen Township.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Farming hasn't completely dominated Severance's activities over the past several years as he also nurtured an interest in local government.

He was elected to the Sanilac County Board of Commissioners in 1972 and served a total of 4 consecutive 2-year terms. He served as chairman of the finance and personnel committee during the last four years.

"Probably the best thing I worked on while I was there was the personnel policy. Believe it or not, county government didn't have" a consistent policy, Severance said.

Other activities pursued over the years include 20 years of service in local 4-H programs as a leader, board member and fair worker.

FUTURE PLANS

Severance and his wife of 48 years, Esther, don't plan to stay home during retirement. Recent excursions to Florida and California have convinced the grandparents of 13 that there's much to look forward to in the future.

And with the knowledge that the family legacy will continue, Severance can focus on relaxation. "As long as we're physically able, we want to keep traveling."

Millington man sentenced to 7 years in state prison

A 27-year-old Millington man was sentenced to more than 7 years in prison and jail Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court for intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, and simple assault.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn sentenced Steven W. Johnson, 9801 State Rd., to 7 years to 14 years in prison for the first count, and 90 days in the county jail for the second count, with credit for 191 days already served.

In addition, Johnson must post a $100,000 cash or surety bond to be released during any possible appeal action.

Johnson was convicted Dec. 17 on 2 of 3 charges of assault following a 2-day jury trial.

He was convicted of assaulting John Wilson, 7803 Vassar Rd., Millington, with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. He was also found guilty of simple assault against Jeri L. Wilson, also of 7803 Vassar Rd.

Both convictions stem from a March 7 incident at the Wilson residence.

Following Johnson's conviction last month, he pleaded guilty to being an habitual offender. The plea is related to charges of larceny from a building and larceny conversion with a total value of more than $100.

Those charges stem from May 6 and 29 incidents, in which Johnson was charged with taking cash and other property from a Millington residence, and converting Kirby Vacuum Co. merchandise to his own use.

CC WOMAN SENTENCED

A Cass City woman was sentenced to 90 days in jail and $400 in fines and costs for attempting to carry a controlled substance into a prison facility.

Eva M. King, 30, 6348 Ritter Rd., also faces 2 years of probation. She'll receive credit for one day already served in the county jail.

King pleaded guilty to the charge, which carries a maximum sentence of 5 years in prison.

The conviction is based on a Sept. 22 incident in which King attempted to carry marijuana into Camp Tuscola Michigan Correctional Institution.

Ronald E. Rouse, 24, 1729 Montague St., Deford, was sentenced to 90 days in jail with work release for a guilty plea to attempting to commit forgery, but failing to execute the crime.

Rouse was also ordered to serve 3 years probation and pay $600 in costs, attorney fees and fines. He received credit for 3 days already served in jail.

Rouse wrote a fraudulent personal check for $154 Sept. 4 in Almer Township, according to court records, which list Helen L. Speller as the complainant.

Vassar resident Alan L. Dawson, 3585 Waltan Rd., was sentenced to 6 months in jail, 3 years probation and $1,300 in court costs and fines for a guilty plea to attempted delivery of marijuana Sept. 4 in Vassar Township.

Dawson, 33, was ordered to serve the first 8 days of his sentence immediately on weekends, with the remaining time to be deferred to the end of his probation.

CASE DISMISSED

Judge Joslyn dismissed a case involving Thomas J. Szagsh Jr., 999 N. Cass Avenue, Vassar.

Szagsh, 22, had pleaded guilty to committing larceny of property and/or cash in excess of $100. But he received a one-year sentencing delay during which he was ordered to follow court-ordered guidelines concerning probation.

Court records indicate Szagsh followed the rules, which included doing 80 hours of community service, seeking and maintaining steady employment, $400 in costs and making truthful reports at regularly scheduled meetings with his probation officer.

Szagsh's conviction stems from a Sept. 16 incident involving Shoonies Family Dining, 183 E. Huron Avenue, Vassar.

Greg M. Luke, 19, 7124 Down Creek Rd., Vassar, entered a plea of guilty to probation violation.

Luke, who is serving a 60-month probation term, failed to report to his probation officer Oct. 2 and Nov. 6, court records state.

A sentencing date had not yet been scheduled. Bond was set at $500.

HEALTH TIPS

Anxiety is the most common mental illness

Is anxiety something to be anxious about? If it signals an anxiety disorder, the answer, according to the latest medical research, is a resounding "Yes."

Anxiety is one of the most common of all emotions. The man who wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin" could just as easily have been talking about paupers as kings.

In general usage, anxiety denotes a state of painful uneasiness respecting an impending or anticipated ill. Its medical definition is, of course, more precise: "A pathologic condition occurring in nervous or mental disease as a state of restlessness or agitation with a distressing sense of oppression to the heart."

The latter describes the anxiety disorders, by far the most common of the mental illnesses, affecting 13.1 million Americans -- one in 12 adults.

One of the anxiety disorders, panic disorder, is quite possibly caused by or related to a biochemical abnormality, although this has yet to be proved. It is characterized by brief episodes of intense apprehension or fear, during which the victim experiences at least 4 of the following symptoms: rapid breathing, palpitations, chest pain, weakness, choking, dizziness, feelings of unreality, hot and cold flashes, sweating, faintness, trembling, or fear of dying or doing something uncontrolled during an attack.

Untreated panic disorder may ultimately escalate to agoraphobia with panic attacks, a condition in which the victim avoids public settings, fearing that a panic attack may strike in such environments.

Other phobias are also categorized as anxiety disorders. Simple phobia is the irrational fear of specific objects or places (such as fear of snakes or heights). And social phobia is fear of situations in which the victim is subjected to the scrutiny of others -- speaking or eating in public, for example. The relationship of these phobias to panic disorder is unclear.

If a continually apprehensive individual doesn't have panic attacks, phobias or obsessive-compulsive disorder (recurrent disturbing thoughts or ritualized behavior performed to reduce anxiety), he or she may be a victim of generalized anxiety disorder. Its symptoms include persistent anticipation of misfortune, jitteriness, inability to relax, insomnia, difficulty concentrating and such physical signs of tension as sweating, heart racing, clammy hands and upset stomach.

PATIENTS AND DOCTORS MISLED

One major problem is that the anxiety-ridden patient tends to go to the doctor with generalized, ill-defined symptoms that can easily lead to misdiagnosis and improper treatment. The frightening fact is that an estimated 3 out of 4 patients with anxiety disorders are never properly diagnosed or treated.

Panic disorder, for example, is frequently mistaken for a cardiac or digestive problem. In a study at the University of Washington in Seattle, 89 percent of panic disorder patients originally complained of one or 2 physical problems -- and the misdiagnosis of those complaints were often continued for months and even years.

HOW THE BODY RESPONDS TO ANXIETY

Some anxiety can, of course, be the result of stress, either real or imagined. Physicians in general practice estimate that between half and three-quarters of all their patients come seeking relief from stress-related symptoms. The President's Commission on Mental Health, in fact, found that one of every 4 Americans is suffering "severe emotional stress" although no diagnosable physical illness is evident.

But anxiety disorders may sometimes have a biological basis. A growing body of evidence points to biochemical abnormalities in the brain, possibly inherited ones. Anxiety often triggers an outflow of adrenaline from the adrenal gland and the release of similar substances in the brain. These chemicals, in turn, stimulate the heart, blood pressure, muscles and respiratory system. At the same time, they activate the liver and spleen, but inactivate other organs -- such as the digestive system. The result is sharpened senses, muscular tension, heavy breathing and increased heart rate -- all symptoms of anxiety.

When left untreated, anxiety disorders may lead to or aggravate physical symptoms. Some studies have shown, for instance, that irregular heartbeat, chest pain, dizziness, and even sudden cardiac death can be linked to anxiety.

Various other complications are associated with anxiety disorders. The rate of depression among anxiety patients appears exceedingly high, for example, though no direct connection between the conditions has been proved. The suicide rate among patients with anxiety appears to be higher than in the general population. And a study at the University of Iowa has found an excessive number of deaths from unnatural causes among panic-disorder patients.

OLD-FASHIONED REMEDIES?

Relaxation techniques such as meditating, taking a warm bath or exercising may help dispel mild feelings of anxiety. In cases of hyperventilation, some doctors say the old folk-medicine remedy of breathing into a paper bag can actually relieve the heavy breathing and feeling of light-headedness that patients experience.

Alcohol is no help in the long run. In fact, habitually relieving anxiety with alcohol can lead to alcohol abuse. A study of Rutgers Medical School in New Jersey found that more than a fifth of patients admitted for alcohol detoxification met the American Psychiatric Association's criteria for one or more anxiety disorders.

Counseling by friends, relatives or physicians can often ease feelings of anxiety, but when symptoms are troubling enough to be classified as an anxiety disorder, professional help becomes essential. Psychotherapy or anti-anxiety agents are effective in many cases, and a combination of the 2 is generally regarded as the best approach, particularly for panic disorder.

In the past 10 years, the most widely used medications for controlling anxiety have been the benzodiazepines. Currently there are nearly a score of them on the market. One of them, alprazolam (Xanax, Upjohn), has also shown promise in clinical trials against panic disorder and is being studied for antidepressant activity.

A major advantage of the benzodiazepines is the fact that they're among the safest medications used in psychiatry. There is little danger that the anxiety-ridden patient could take a lethal dose trying to ease his state of mind quickly. Even overt suicide attempts with benzodiazepines rarely succeed -- unless alcohol or other drugs are also involved. By contrast, the antidepressants are often used in successful suicide attempts.

The point is that anxiety in its more severe forms can and should be treated, because there are now ways to relieve it that are generally both safe and effective.

THE BOTTOM LINE

The cost of untreated anxiety in lost work production, diminished social opportunities, impaired life styles and strain on the health care system is too high to be ignored, either by society or by the individual.

Until recent years, for example, panic disorder and agoraphobia were largely undiagnosed and untreated. Though this is but one species of anxiety, it's clearly a major one. The National Institute of Mental Health estimates that 1.1 million Americans are treated for it each year. Untreated victims often turn to alcohol for relief. Their rate of mortality is significantly higher.

A study being conducted by Douglas M. McNair, Ph.D., professor of psychology and director of the clinical psychopharmacology laboratory at Boston University, is aimed at measuring the cost to society of untreated panic disorder. Preliminary results of this work suggest a very high cost. Soon to be published, Dr. McNair's figures are expected to drive home in a dramatic way the destructive effect of this anxiety disorder on our pocketbooks and on our lives.

The most recent American Psychiatric Association figures (from 1984) indicate that between 15 and 18 percent of the population (between 31 and 41 million Americans) suffer from a clearly diagnosable mental disorder that interferes with employment, school attendance or independent living. (The National Institute of Mental Health estimates run higher -- at 19 percent.) Direct and indirect costs to American society, according to a 1983 study, total a staggering $218 billion annually.

The cost can be measured in other ways, such as evaluating the "potentially productive years of life lost." For example, accidents (25 to 50 percent of which are attributable to alcohol abuse) are the fourth leading cause of death in the United States, but they rank first in the loss of productive years due to premature death.

Another cost consideration is that individuals with substance abuse and mental problems significantly drain general health care resources. The cost of their health care is twice that of people without such problems.

The bottom line is that the cost to society of anxiety and related disorders is very high and largely avoidable. We simply can't afford to leave them untreated or undertreated.

Betheldale Regal Rag Apple Sue, a Holstein cow owned by Vernon, Clare and Richard Carpenter, Cass City, produced 18,660 pounds of milk and 700 pounds of butterfat in 305 days on a twice daily milking schedule to complete an outstanding official production record. Michigan State University supervised the testing and weighing of the 10-year-old cow's production.

Mrs. Willard Burdon entertained for dinner Christmas evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Clara of Cass City,

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Rice Jr., and Cheryl, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Freeman and Charles McPhail of Owendale.

35 YEARS AGO

Cynthia Lee Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Sherman of Caro, is the first baby of the new year born in the local hospitals in Cass City.

The Cass City Red Hawks romped to an easy win over Unionville, 66-37. Tim Burdon, Bob Wallace and Tom Schwaderer played heads-up ball and were ably assisted by the rest of the squad.

A fire, Wednesday morning, thought to have been caused by a faulty chimney, broke out in the roof of the Walter Posluszny home, one-half mile east of Deford, destroying the roof and the front half of the upstairs of the frame building. When the fire started, Mr. Posluszny was away and the neighbors and firemen were forced to carry the furniture out of the home.

LaDonna and Ilene Ludlow, student nurses at Saginaw General Hospital, came last Thursday to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ludlow. Ilene spent the week, but LaDonna returned to duty on Saturday.

Free film, lecture set at hospital

Eating disorders are very common. If symptoms such as obsession with food or thinness, binge eating, purging, emaciation or weight gain greater than 30% above desirable weight should occur or be noticeable in another, medical attention should be sought or encouraged.

Wednesday, Jan. 14, at 7 p.m. a free film and lecture will be presented at Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, in the large meeting room in the basement. Dr. Martin, internist, a registered dietician and a clinical psychologist, will discuss these common medical problems and answer your questions.

Reed training in Texas

A 1982 Cass City High School graduate and Army private is expected to complete his studies in late January at an academy of science in health at Fort Sam Houston where he's stationed.

Russell N. Reed, 22, previously completed basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky. During the training, he received instruction in drills and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy and justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

He is the son of Elizabeth Reed, 6256 River Rd., Cass City, and Charles Reed, 317 Lytle St., Harbor Beach.

Offer horse care course

"A 5-week course on the basic care and health requirements of horses is being offered in 4 communities by Michigan State University," says Dennis Stein, Tuscola County Extension Agricultural Agent. The series will be conducted in the following locations:

Romeo, at the high school, beginning Jan. 12.

Charlotte, at the high school, beginning Jan. 13.

Grant, at the high school, beginning Jan. 14.

Ann Arbor, at Washtenaw Community College, beginning Jan. 15.

The course will cover the conditioning of the equine athlete, breeding and foaling, soundness, first aid and emergency care, equine nutrition and preventive medicine.

"The series is open to anyone age 14 and older and is intended for people who want to buy horses or already have them," states Stein.

The shortcourse cost is $30 for all 5 sessions. The fee covers the program, a printed notebook, class materials and refreshments. The fee for those not wanting the notebook is $25. Prepaid registration is required and participation will be limited to the capacity of the facilities at each of the 4 locations.

Registration at the first session will be held from 6:00 to 6:45 p.m. All sessions will run from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m.

Prospective participants should call the MSU Cooperative Extension Service offices in the counties where the shortcourse is being conducted. For the Romeo shortcourse, the telephone number is (313) 469-5180. For Grant, (616) 924-0500. For Charlotte, (517) 543-2310, and Ann Arbor (313) 973-9510.

New books at the library

COLD IRON by Nicolas Freeling (mystery). French detective Henri Castang, can toss off quotations from Virginia Woolf and Auden, among others. An aristocratic lady has been murdered. Member of a reactionary family that still looks back upon the glory that was Napoleon, she loathed the heathen Algerians and was insanely convinced of a diabolical plot against LaPatrie by villainous Communists, Jews and Freemasons. Newly posted to the provinces (to his dismay), Castang and his partner, the frisky, foul-mouthed Amazon, Veronique, are assigned to the case. Then the victim's husband, a rich wine merchant, is also murdered, and there is yet another suspicious death.

I AM THE ONLY RUNNING FOOTMAN by Martha Grimes (mystery). Scotland Yard's wise, kind Superintendent Richard Jury must determine if the case of Ivy Childress, strangled in London, is related to a similar crime in Devon. Ivy had left her sometime lover, David Marr, after a tiff in the Footman, so he heads the list of suspects. Jury's interrogation ends with Marr offering a strong alibi, backed by his prestigious family. Calling on the man's sister and other kin, the superintendent senses private fears behind a gracious facade. Jury is right, but his suspicions produce no evidence of collusion until a shocking truth sends him racing to save the killer's third intended victim.

BLOOD COUNT by Dell Shannon (mystery). A woman visiting L.A. from Indianapolis is found murdered in her car, a well-manicured derelict's corpse turns up and an old man is discovered lying dead amongst his scattered furniture. Most upsetting are the crimes against children; the rape of a 12-year-old girl, the murder of an infant and the suicide of a youngster egged on by her fanatical father.

Bowler of the week

The Thumb Area Women's Bowling Association Bowler of the Week for Dec. 15-21 is Marilyn Smith with a 575 actual series.
She rolled games of 174, 195 and 206. She bowls for Budweiser on the Sunday Night Kings & Queens League at Almac Lanes, Bad Axe.
Other 550 and higher series bowled were: Doreen Lackowski, 573, Bad Axe Lanes; Penny Carder, 565, Bad Axe Lanes; Joyce LaRoche, 562, Charmont, Cass City; Kathy Behnke, 561, Blue Water Lanes, Harbor Beach; Connie Swartzentruber, 558, Crazy Horse, Ubly, and Shirley Soldan, 553, Charmont, Cass City.

Thirteen is considered so unlucky that at one time in Paris no houses had that number.

MIRACULOUSLY, the driver of this vehicle sustained only minor injuries after losing control on Deckerville Road Friday afternoon. The car left the roadway and flipped over in a ditch. Both the Sheriff's Department and Elkland Township Fire Department responded to the scene.

Minor injuries

Driver escapes crash

A Pensacola, Fla., man escaped serious injury early Friday afternoon when the car he was driving left Deckerville Road in Elkington Township and plunged into a ditch.

Daniel L. Moody, 5415 Rawson Lane, was traveling eastbound on Deckerville Road about 1/2 mile east of Plain Road when he lost control of his vehicle on the slush-covered roadway. The vehicle then left the road on the north side and rolled over.

Moody's vehicle sustained extensive damage in the accident, which resulted in minor injuries to himself, according to the report.

The Elkland Township Fire Department responded to the scene for a possible gas leak.

CASS CITY POLICE

Two car/deer mishaps were reported by the Cass City Police Department over the past week.

Gale M. Mathews, 6530 Maple St., Clarkston, reported hitting and killing a deer Dec. 29 at 1:15 a.m. while traveling on VanDyke Road about 2 miles north of Cass City Road.

Mathews was southbound when the mishap, which resulted in moderate damage to her vehicle, occurred.

Minor injuries were reported in a Dec. 30 mishap involving a vehicle driven by Charles C. O'Dell, who reported hitting and killing a deer.

O'Dell, 4323 Krapf Rd., was westbound on Cass City

Road when the animal crossed the path of his pickup truck west of VanDyke Road. A passenger in the vehicle, Robert O'Dell, complained of minor injuries, the report stated.

The vehicle sustained light to moderate damage.

Bulldogs win AuGres holiday cage tourney

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs started the new year right with a pair of victories in the AuGres Holiday Invitational tournament to use as a springboard for success in the North Central D conference.

The Bulldogs topped AuGres, 55-46, in the opener Friday and took home the crown with a 60-49 decision over Arenac Eastern Tuesday.

Coach Dean Roller is hoping that the success will carry over when Carsonville-Port Sanilac comes to town next Tuesday. Following that the Bulldogs will face tough Deckerville.

Roller saw some positive improvement in the games played in the tourney. We started to play better defense, he points out, holding opponents under 50 points the last 4 games.

The Bulldogs were able to get the ball inside against the inexperienced AuGres quintet and Roller feels that was the key to the Owen-Gage win. The Bulldogs showed good balance with 6 players sharing in the scoring. Steve Root and Dave Laurie shared scoring honors with 14 points each. Stu Stirrett notched 11. Marc Reinhardt and Chris Abbe contributed 6 points and Rick Salcido 4 points. For AuGres, Roy Kolhagen scored 15 and Rick Paradies scored 11.

In the championship contest Stirrett had a career night and his stellar performance paced the Bulldogs to the championship and won him a spot on the all tourney team. Stirrett scored 32 points on 12 buckets and 8 of 13 charity tosses. Root was also in double figures with 12 points.

Pacing the losers were Mark Wycoff, 18 points, and Mark Devereank, 15 points. Devereank was voted the tournament's most valuable player.

Although it was a fine tourney for the O-G varsity, it was disappointing for the junior varsity. The JV lost both games by a total of just 3 points. The Bulldogs lost to Whittemore-Prescott, 45-43, and to AuGres, 37-36.

CASS CITY VILLAGE employees are loading more snow this winter than last winter at this time with hopes that the mild weather will continue.

Mild winter no help yet to removal crews

Despite what seems to be an overall lack of consistent snow cover in the area, village officials say they haven't yet seen a reduction in the amount of money spent on road maintenance this winter compared to last season.

But a continued mild winter could mean substantial savings, according to Village Manager Lou LaPonsie.

Snow measured in the Cass City area totaled about 14 inches this winter as of late December, compared to 17 inches during the same period last season, LaPonsie remarked.

"The biggest cost is in overtime, although we haven't had that much this year. We're still getting the snowfall, we're still getting the snow removal," he added.

Some 42 tons of salt were used during the period last winter, which is close to the 45 tons used this season, LaPonsie explained. In contrast, 131 truckloads of snow have been removed by village employees this season, compared to 12 loads last winter during the same period.

According to the manager, the increased number of loads this winter is due to heavier snowfalls. This winter's snows have come in amounts of 3, 4 and 6 inches, compared to snowfalls during the same period last season of no more than 1 1/2 inches at a time.

Some $54,450 was budgeted last year for road maintenance, including snow removal and salt for major and local streets, and trunklines. This year, about $43,950 has been budgeted for road maintenance.

LaPonsie indicated that savings are possible during very mild winters, such as in 1984, when a total of $25,500 was spent on road maintenance. By this time in 1984, a total of about 2 inches of snow had been recorded, 11 tons of salt had been used and no snow removed.

"We hope to use less (than $43,950) this year, but we don't know what we'll wind up with," he commented. "There really hasn't been any savings to speak of between this year and last year."

A wait-and-see attitude also is held by a Tuscola County road official, who indicated that a "mild" winter would be one in which heavier January and February snowfalls are limited.

"You don't anticipate that many storms in November and December anyway," County Road Commission secretary/clerk James Miklovic remarked.

Miklovic had no figures, but stated that savings from one year are applied to the next year. Savings are in the form of less overtime, fuel, salt and maintenance to county vehicles, he said.

"You definitely save money if you don't have winter storms," he added. "If this type of weather would continue it would help."

For court appointed lawyers

Board nixes early pay plan

A proposal to pay $5,128 one month early for Tuscola County Circuit Court-appointed attorneys fees received little support last week from the County Board of Commissioners, who rejected the motion.

The action took place at the board's year-end meeting Dec. 30. Commissioners tied up loose ends at the regular session, which included budget adjustments and approving bylaws of the Thumb Area Commission on Aging.

County Clerk Elsie Hicks said that Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn wanted the board to approve the $5,128 bill in December so it could be covered by available funds in the 1986 budget.

The bill ordinarily would, and will, be paid in January, she explained, adding, "It will come out of the 1987 Circuit Court budget."

Hicks stated that the motion wasn't necessarily unanimously defeated, but that there was no support for it.

Budget adjustments with a total projected year-end deficit of $70,972 were approved by the board.

The bulk of the deficit—$49,729 for the Sheriff's Department—is the result of overtime pay for personnel during heavy fall rains and flooding. Commissioner Royce Russell (District 2) explained.

TACA BYLAWS

Also approved were proposed amended bylaws of TACA, which were drafted by county attorney John Axe.

Under the new laws, the TACA's board of directors is to consist of 3 Tuscola County board members and one commissioner each from the Huron and Sanilac boards.

The bylaws were drafted to maintain TACA as a conduit for county millage funds to the Human Development Commission, which was chosen in August by the Region VII Area Agency on Aging to provide senior services.

Hicks noted that one year remains on a 5-year millage being levied for senior services. A 2 of a mill request for 3 years was rejected by voters Nov. 4.

Hicks pointed out that the Sanilac and Huron County boards must still approve the plan.

The board approved compliance with the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act. The action means county employees who retire will be allowed to stay on the county's Blue Cross plan for one year, Hicks commented.

She added that such employees must pay their own premium in addition to paying 102 percent of the applicable group premium, which totals about $45 a year.

Approval to authorize the Title IV-D Cooperative Reimbursement Program contract application between the Department of Social Services and the Tuscola County Friend of the Court was given for 1987.

Hicks explained that the county collects delinquent child support money with the help of the state, which in turn reimburses the county a portion of the money collected.

TAX PAYMENT OKAYED

Some $4,185 in property taxes for the Green Street property, on which the new Cooperative Extension Services building is located, were approved by the board.

The property was already on the tax rolls in Indianfields Township when it was purchased last year by the county, which normally doesn't pay taxes on county property, Russell said.

Other expenditures approved last week were $626 for the county's portion of labor arbitration expenses incurred during a dispute settled last year involving a custodian, who unsuccessfully made a grievance against the county, and $6,985 for carpeting at the Annex Building, the new home for county board offices and a meeting room.

The board approved compliance with the Clean Indoor Air Act of 1986. The county's policy states that no smoking is allowed in the annex, courthouse and sheriff's facilities except in designated smoking areas.

In personnel matters, the board approved requesting that county employee Michael T. Pine be allowed to transfer credited service earned in the Municipal Employees Retirement System while employed with the village of Sebawaing. Pine was hired by the county Aug. 4 after working in Sebawaing for 4 years and 9 months.

The board accepted the resignation of Alma Darbee, who works in the Friend of the Court office. The resignation is effective Feb. 6.

First permanent courthouse in Huron County recalled

Sesqui...What?
by Ruby Maschke

The story of the first permanent courthouse in

Huron County revealed many controversies. But despite the problems with laborers, bricks, shipping delays, etc., the courthouse was eventually completed.

A farmer in Bingham Township wrote a letter to the editor of the Huron News. Part of that letter reads as follows: "...I was out to Bad Axe a couple of weeks ago on some business. They were fixing the steeple concern on the top. I suppose it will look nice when it is finished...I heard somebody say the roof was a great support to it (the building), and would help hold it together, but isn't that something like lifting yourself up by the bootstraps? I was thinking it would be better to leave all the scaffolding and rigging around the outside. Maybe they might help to brace it up considerable. Of course, it would not look so good, but then what about the looks of a thing compared with what's safe?"

In December of 1875, the county officers moved into the new courthouse without any fanfare. Many dramatic events took place within its walls. Criminals were brought to justice, innocent men were freed, divorce cases heard, lawsuits decided, citizenship examinations conducted. There were administrations of estates in the Probate Court; collections of taxes through the County Treasurer's office; recording of valuable documents in the Register of Deeds office.

The yellow brick courthouse was one of two buildings that survived the terrible fire of 1881. At the time it was demolished by a wrecking crew it was the oldest building in Bad Axe.

On July 1, 1965, the Huron County Board of Supervisors adopted Articles of Incorporation creating the Building Authority of Huron County. On Nov. 9 of that same year, the Board of Supervisors entered into an Agreement with the Authority to rent the building at $86,000 a year to pay revenue bonds of $1,225,000 and interest. The lease is for a period of 25 years, and when the bond issue is retired, the Building Authority will deed the structure to Huron County.

As always, different people have different ideas, and in the case of the current courthouse, the following letter was written to the editor of the Huron Daily Tribune on April 4, 1966, four months before the actual ground breaking ceremony.

"...As government programs are increased, more citizens of Huron County will come to Bad Axe to seek information and advice. The most likely form of transportation will most naturally be by car. I therefore propose the cars will need parking space. The new courthouse should not be erected in the city of Bad Axe, but somewhere outside of town. Since the present trend of building shopping centers, etc., is on the outskirts of town or city, I feel this would be most appropriate also for the courthouse. I and many other people believe that since the county has property in the vicinity of the health center, this would be an ideal location for our new courthouse."

The contract was awarded in the early summer of 1966, and ground was broken Aug. 1. The building was completed in December of 1967 and offices moved from the old courthouse to the new structure. Total cost of the new courthouse, $1,360,000.

And to think that first one-story structure, including the clearing of the land, cost $2,500. What a contrast between THEN and NOW!

Residents can order trees, shrubs now

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is accepting orders for trees and shrubs to be available in the spring.

Available trees are white, red, scotch and Austrian pine; white, Norway and Colorado blue spruce; white cedar, black walnut, Carolina poplar and white ash. Shrubs available are black walnut and honeysuckle.

The vegetation can be used for re-forestation, windbreaks, erosion control, Christmas trees, restocking woodlots, wildlife cover and to beautify surroundings, according to SCD officials.

The pines, spruce and shrubs may be purchased in bundles of 50 with the price being based on a customer's total order. Most of the trees on sale are 2 years old and are available in bundles of 100, 500 or 1,000.

Additional information on ordering, price lists and payment is available by calling the SCD office at 673-8174.

Hazel, died previously.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church of Cass City, officiating. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery, Cass City.

Domitila Lopez

Mrs. Domitila S. Lopez, 77, of Gagetown died Sunday, Jan. 4, at Lapeer General Hospital after an illness of several months.

She was born March 3, 1909, in Zacatecas, Mexico, the daughter of Manuel and Ysidra (Sanchez) Benitez. She came to the United States as a young child and to Gagetown from Kansas as a young woman. She married Regino V. Lopez Nov. 23, 1935, in Gagetown. He died April 24, 1975.

Mrs. Lopez was a member of St. Agatha Catholic Church of Gagetown and its Altar Society, a member of the Guadalupe Society and the Gagetown - Owendale Senior Citizens.

She is survived by 3 daughters, Mrs. William (Margaret) Roberts of St. Clair Shores, Mrs. Robert (Petra) Chisholm Jr. of Caro and Miss Joan Lopez of Gagetown; 4 sons, Regino Lopez of Long Beach, CA, Benjamin Lopez of Louisville, KY, Alejandro Lopez of Lapeer and Pablo

R. Lopez of Millington; 1 grandchildren; 2 brothers, Nat Benitez and Frank Benitez, both of Gagetown and one sister, Mrs. Leo Chesser of Indianola, IA. Twelve brothers and sisters preceded her in death.

A prayer service was scheduled Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City. Funeral services were to be held Wednesday at 11 a.m. at Agatha Catholic Church of Gagetown, with Father Julius Spleet, pastor of St. Pancratius Catholic Church of Cass City, officiating.

Interment will be in St. Agatha Cemetery, Gagetown.

Tasty snack

If you're going to Africa, be prepared for something unusual in the party mix. The mopanie worm, the four-inch larva of the emperor moth, is becoming a popular snack food there. In Africa, these caterpillars traditionally have been consumed fried, dried, stewed or raw. National Wildlife magazine reports that the mopanie worm, now being marketed as a cheap, nutritious, fast-food item. But how do they taste? Some say they have a nutty flavor, others complain of a dry taste. Of course dryness can be avoided by eating them raw...Bon appetit!

Your neighbor says

Bad habits are hard to give up

While some of us are trying desperately to stick to our New Year's resolutions, most of which are little ways to improve the way we live, others like your neighbor, Cass City resident John Ballard, see no reason to drop a couple of bad habits he rather enjoys.

"I sleep in too late," John confessed when asked what bad habits he intends to keep for 1987. "I get up when I have to."

John also admitted that he "drives too fast. I was ticketed in 4 different states during the last year."

John, who works for a major auto firm as a marketing representative, drives about 70,000 miles a year, he estimates, setting up driving seminars all over the country for various auto dealerships. Ballard, who resides with his mother, Dorothy, at 4698 Huron Dr., Cass City, when he's not on the road, will be spending the next couple of weeks in the "sunny" southern parts of Arizona and California, where he intends to mix a little pleasure with business.

"I plan to stop at Las Vegas a couple of days and hopefully get some skiing in with friends who live around the Lake Tahoe area."

Although John doesn't plan to ease up on the gas pedal, he has taken a step that he hopes will reduce his chances of being nabbed on the highway. "I purchased a fuzz buster two days ago," the smiling 29-year-old said.

When asked what other bad habits John plans to hang onto for another year or two, the easygoing Ballard responded, "Hey, I had to struggle to come up with the other two."

Ag Department urges farmers to apply for aid by Jan. 30

The Michigan Department of Agriculture is reminding all farmers in the declared counties eligible for emergency disaster grants and/or loans -- for crop losses caused by drought, heat, flood, hail or excessive moisture in 1986 -- to apply at their county U.S. Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office now.

Deadline for application for a Federal grant is Jan. 30. Eligible farmers can expect to receive a PIK certificate within 45 days of application.

Farmers have until June 30 to apply for the State Disaster Loan Program.

All producers who may be eligible for the 1986 Federal or Michigan Disaster Loan Programs should promptly report to their local county ASCS office. Before farmers actually apply for benefits under the programs, ASCS staff will certify acreage and production losses to determine eligibility.

"The most important factor is getting all farmers to go to their ASCS office where they will certify losses to see if they qualify for relief under the Federal Program," Dr. Paul E. Kindinger, director of MDA, said.

"All farmers may not qualify for the Federal PIK grants, but they still must be certified through ASCS first, before applying for the Michigan loan program."

Governor James J. Blanchard signed into law Dec. 3 a $200 million farm disaster loan program for Michigan farmers who suffered weather-related damage in 1986.

Under the program, farmers may be eligible for interest-free loans through commercial banks and the Farm Credit System Offices for the value of their crops losses up to $200,000. However, the amount of the loan will be reduced by the amount of crop insurance or any Federal PIK granted to the farmer.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman has been requested by MDA to consider the quality of the crops harvested and not solely the quantity of losses. A ruling on this issue will be forthcoming.

Edwin Renkie, assistant director, MDA's Office of Toxic Substances and Emergency Services said, "If the ruling is adopted, farmers stand a very good chance of qualifying under the State Program."

Farmers should bring to their ASCS office copies of 1986 records, such as delivery or sales receipts, seed, fertilizer or spray receipts, and production by usage records for the past 3 years. Farmers needing help in preparing documentation of non-program (specialty) crop losses should contact the Cooperative Extension Service's Emergency Management Assistance Team (EMAT).

All crops - program and nonprogram - are covered and payments are limited to $100,000 for Federal PIK grants and $200,000 for Michigan zero-interest loans.

For further information, contact the MDA Hotline at 1-800-346-FARM.

Public meetings set in Saginaw River

The East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region will be sponsoring a series of public meetings in January and February to solicit public opinion regarding the remedial action plan for Saginaw River/Bay that is currently in preparation. The primary goal of the remedial action planning process is to restore beneficial uses of the river and bay that are currently impaired due to degraded water quality.

Cabbage is ninety-one percent water.

In order for the planning process to be successful, the plan must reflect the wishes of the public. Persons attending the meetings will be asked to participate in frank and open discussions of the water quality problems in the Saginaw River and Saginaw Bay, and to comment on what issues are most important to them. The planning team needs these discussions to insure that the plan, when completed, reflects the desires of the public.

In Tuscola County the meeting will be Feb. 5 at the Tuscola County Building Annex, 207 East Grant, Caro, 7:30 p.m.

For additional information, contact Richard Moore, ECMPDR Regional Planner (517) 752-0100, or, within the 517 area, 1-800-322-0207.

Wanted to Buy

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

You hear a lot of howling about zero-coupon bonds and how their value dives when interest rates go up. Manufacturers Hanover cites a horrible case of a 30-year zero-coupon bond bought at an original level of 11% yield. At the end of the first year rates go to 14%. Wham! The bond is worth half as much.

Then the bank shows a 10-year bond, and a more usual interest rate change of 1%. The 11%/10-year bond now shows a slight gain in value.

Going back to the 30-year zero, if interest rates fall from 11% to 8%, the value of the bond after a year has gone up 157%.

Somehow you don't hear so much of those cases.

Both examples are extreme. I have figured out some more realistic cases based on present market prices of 8.5% for a government zero (CATS, ETR's, STRIPS as they're called).

On an increase in interest rate levels to 9.5% from the current 8.5%, you're still ahead with your shorter zero, one due 1-1-97, even if the drop comes the first year. With the longer zero you're a little behind for a couple years but after 3 years your value is still more than your cost.

Remember, in all cases the eventual value will be 100, and the U.S. government is behind it.

The pundits have been saying rates will climb to their old sky-high levels -- but instead, rates have come down sharply this year.

I don't try to see over the horizon. I think rates are still quite liberal historically. If they go still higher, I keep the zeros I have, and sleep soundly, knowing they'll mature at 100.

If the rates go still higher (and prices down, of course) then I buy some more.

If rates go down, I may take some profits, if another sector of the bond market looks more attractive. Some CATS bought for my grandson, have doubled in value since the lad was born 2 years ago.

One thing about buying zero coupons: You should insist on buying them on a yield basis -- not the way some firms like, at so much per bond, say $7.50 a bond.

In the example below the cost of some 30-year zeros, to yield 8.5% to maturity, the price should be 18.9, or

When snow melts off your roof while the air is still frigid, it's a sure sign your home loses heat through the roof.

$189 per $1,000 bond. Cost of 50 bonds is $9460. The broker's cost was say based on an 8.6% yield so they cost him $9281. His commission was $179, which is not bad.

But if the broker wants to charge $7.50 a bond, cost to you would be $375 for the deal.

Get an idea from the Blue List of prices for various CATS in various maturities, and then offer to buy them at 10 basis points off the quotes, which are usually on a yield basis. If some are offered to yield 8.60, try to get them at an 8.50 yield or better.

You're buying bonds, not at par, but at a fraction of 100, so the old system of so much per bond shouldn't apply.

HOW INTEREST RATE CHANGES AFFECT VALUE OF ZERO COUPONS

Ten-year and 20-year zero-coupon bonds bought at 8.5% rate on Jan. 2, 1987:

	Due 1-1-97	Due 1-1-07
Cost	43.5	18.9

Value if rate drops to 7.5%

Date	1-1-88	1-1-89	1-1-90
Value	51.5	24.7	21.6
	55.5	21.6	28.6

Value if rate goes up to 9.5%

Date	1-1-88	1-1-89	1-1-90
Value	43.4	17.1	18.8
	47.6	18.8	20.6

Value if rate goes up to 10.5%

Date	1-1-88	1-1-89	1-1-90
Value	39.8	14.3	15.8

Novesta Township

Money matters dominate regular board meeting

A proposed 15 percent cut in a planned 1987-88 budget, and an expected "substantial" deduction from township employees' salaries because of new Medicare guidelines, dominated discussion at a Novesta Township meeting Monday night.

Township Supervisor William C. O'Dell, during the 90-minute regular session, requested that board members consider holding the township's upcoming budget to 15 percent less than the current spending plan, Township Clerk Nurse L. Kloc said.

Budget preparations for 1987-88 won't begin until next month, but current economic conditions will probably require a reduced budget, Kloc explained.

"We know our taxes are coming in slowly, and agricultural taxes are going to be cut, we're told," she continued. "We don't know where the cuts are going to be" at this time.

The 1986-87 budget, which ends March 31, totals some $96,450.

Kloc stated that new Medicare guidelines will be felt by some 15 township employees making more than $100 a month.

The law, retroactive to April 1986, means that 1.49 percent of each person's salary must be deducted each month for the program. The township will begin withholding the tax this month, but the taxes due from months dating back to April will all be deducted from December 1986 checks, she added.

The township must match the employee deductions under the new guidelines, Kloc remarked. In other business, the board approved a motion to send a letter to Gov. James J. Blanchard protesting a proposed "huge" raise in state legislators' salaries.

The board also swore in 2 of 3 Township Board of Review members. Arthur Hartwick and Keith Little were sworn in, while member Edward Lebioda did not attend the meeting. All 3 are serving 2-year terms on the board.

THE CALVARYMEN Quartet sang to a nearly full house New Year's Eve during the annual concert held at Cass City High School. The Flint-based gospel group was one of several music performances at the event, which drew some 1,600 persons.

20 years in Cass City

Annual New Year's Eve concert still popular, draws about 1,600

A packed parking lot at Cass City High School New Year's Eve served as evidence to passers-by that something big was taking place.

Unlike many traditional New Year's celebrations in the area, this event involved neither alcohol nor paper hats. But cheerful, smiling faces, singing and clapping hands indicated those in attendance were having a good time.

Some 1,600 persons of all ages packed into the high school gymnasium on the mild, but cool evening for the 20th annual New Year's Eve concert. Only a few patches of empty bleacher seats remained open during the 4-hour concert.

Sponsored by the Cass City Layman's Club, this year's celebration met the expectations of both the audience and organizers, club secretary Arthur Severance remarked.

"This is by far the best night we've ever had weather-wise and I'd say it was as big a crowd as we've ever had," he added.

"I think the 2 main reasons for (the popularity) are that the concert gives all the Christian people a chance to go out and celebrate together, and it's free," Severance continued. He added that many area churches cooperate by not scheduling services which conflict with the event.

Featured Wednesday evening was the Flint-based Calvarymen Quartet, which has taken part in the celebration since its beginning in December 1966. The group belted out lively renditions of old-time gospel favorites and praise tunes.

The concert was opened with a brief hymn sing and prayer, followed by 2 numbers presented by area residents Suzanne Hirsch and Kristy Marshall, granddaughters of Layman's Club vice-president Lloyd Severance.

Other gospel artists taking part were the Kenny Parker Trio, a Soddy-

Daisy, Tenn., group which has participated in the celebration for the past 8 years, and the Tender Touch, a brother/sister duet from Brown City.

CHANGES

Severance noted that the annual concert has changed over the years.

What began with a $300 budget, 2 musical groups and an audience of about 500 has blossomed into a major local event with a budget of some $1,800, he remarked.

"It has gradually grown every year. The talent we've had has been upgraded," he added.

Much of the legwork for the first concert was done by Bill O'Dell and Lloyd Severance, who were the first club officers along with Keith McConkey and the late Warren Kelley, Severance said. The club was formed in April 1967.

For the first 3 years, the event was held at the Intermediate school building, Severance recalled. Admission was charged for the first year, but club members decided not to continue charging a fee. "We only had one year where we had trouble" meeting our budget, he said. "These groups don't ask for anything, they just take what we can give them."

Audience response each year has been "really good," according to club president Arleon Retherford, who indicated that the celebration is a wholesome alternative for entertainment on New Year's Eve. "You stay sober and have a good, inspiring evening," he said.

Retherford also lauded the Calvarymen for their continued support of the event. "They really, truly are the backbone. We have depended on them and they have been faithful."

Suspended license suspected in arrest

A 20-year-old Cass City man was arrested early Saturday morning for suspicion of driving a motor vehicle while his license was suspended.

Kevin Montreuil, 4091 Crane Rd., was stopped by a Cass City Police officer on Cass City Road near Doerr Road at approximately 2:40 a.m. after the officer had received a tip that the suspect's license had been suspended.

According to the report, Trevor K. Kain and John W. Rands, both of Cass City, filed a complaint against Montreuil the day before. The pair claim that he tried to kick their apartment door down and threatened to kill them. They also indicated that he was driving with a suspended license.

Hugh D. Bulla, 28 Maude St., Elkton, reported that he was assaulted and his car damaged during a Dec. 31 incident on Leach Street south of Main Street.

Bulla stated that he was assaulted after 1 a.m. by a suspect who he claims then took his keys and slashed all 4 tires on his 1970 car. Damage is estimated at $200.

Cass City resident Larry R. McNeil, 17, 4441 Ale St., was arrested at his home Friday by a Cass City Police officer following notification by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department that 2 valid traffic warrants were out on the suspect.

Also arrested was Allen P. Sherman, 28, 6991 Severance Rd., on suspicion of operating a vehicle while his license was suspended and for a valid arrest warrant held by the sheriff's department.

Sherman was arrested Sunday after an officer stopped him on N. Seeger Street near the Church Street intersection. Sherman, who was southbound, was clocked at a speed of 39 miles per hour in a 25 m.p.h. zone, the report stated.

The valid sheriff's department warrant is for suspicion of having no operator's license in possession.

Cemetery Road bridge to reopen temporarily

Wellington indicated he's hopeful that the detour signs on either side of the bridge can be removed soon, at least for the winter months.

Meanwhile, those affected by the inconvenience will have to continue coping with alternate routes until then.

For some, like Iva and Everett Field, 7729 Decker-ville Rd., the detour isn't much of a problem. "We just go on M-53, although it is an inconvenience," Iva Field commented.

For others, however, like Graichen, and Betty and Clare Daley, 435 Cemetery Rd., the problem continues to hinder visits to Cass City.

"Every time we come to Cass City, it's inconvenient. And it keeps us from going into town sometimes," Betty Daley said, adding the detour adds an extra 3 miles one way en route to the village.

Said Allan J. Hartwick, 1751 Cemetery Rd., "Normally we go to Cass City quite often, but now..." The 49-year-old cash crop farmer indicated he's frustrated.

"By the time you go through that goofy detour, you might as well go to Caro."
