Board okays 1% raise for nonunion employees

School administrators and all nonunion employees at Cass City High School were granted an additional one percent salary increase Monday night at the regular meeting of the board at Cass City High School. The raise will bring the total salary increase to 6 percent for 1986-87, which is the percentage increase won by the teachers' union.

The increase, which will cost school taxpayers a total of $6,000, was not granted without heated discussion.

Against opening the contracts was Trustee Lou Horner, who said that he believed that the amount administrators and others are paid should not be tied in to what is negotiated by the union.

We should get away from percentages, he said, and talk about dollars.

Supt. Don Crouse said that it was impossible to separate the amount paid teachers from the amounts paid administrators. One year, he recalled, when the administrators' salaries were frozen, teachers at the top of the scale were paid more than the principals at Evergreen and Deford.

Trustee Dick Wallace said that if the salaries were tied to what the union negotiates, there was no incentive for the superintendent to cut teacher costs. Crouse said that he would be agreeable to having the board increase all the nonunion salaries except the superintendent's.

When the nonunion salaries were negotiated, it was with the provision that they would be adjusted depending on what the settlement with the union was. President Ed Scollon said that he understood that to be the case. Trustee Allan Hartwick felt that the board was inviting problems if the adjustment was not made. Crouse said that if the union can get more money for teachers than the administration can get, the board is inviting the administrators to join a union.

On a motion by Dr. Scollon, seconded by Hartwick, the raise was granted by a 6-1 vote, with Horner voting no.

In a related issue, a committee was appointed to review job performance and recommend salaries for the next school year. Serving will be Dr. Scollon, Beverly Auten and Horner.

The salary issue was one of 2 that sparked debate. The second was sponsorship of Cass City Girl Scouts so they could use school buses. Crouse explained to the board that he felt there were serious problems with sponsoring the scouts. The main objection was the matter of general liability which Crouse felt the school would incur. Unit leader Kay Warner was present to present the case for the scouts. She said that she had talked with the Michigan Department of Public Instruction and that they had cleared the liability question, saying that the school would only be liable for the time the children would be on the bus and not at the activity itself. Crouse asked that she get this in writing and explained that it was his and other administrators' experience that it could not be done.

Warner then outlined several schools, including 2 in the Thumb, that have voted to sponsor the scouts. Crouse will investigate other schools to see if they have considered all the ramifications of sponsorship.

It was agreed by the board that if the school sponsored the scouts, it would be impossible to turn down any youth group in the community if petitions were received.

POLICY CHANGES

Two policy changes were discussed and are likely to be adopted at the next regular meeting. The board has a policy of waiting one month after a policy has been proposed before voting on it. Counselor Jerry Cleland asked that students who transfer into the system and need 6 or fewer credits to graduate (seniors) not be required to take the Michigan Assessment Test because of the lack of time to have them retake a test if necessary. The board reaction was favorable.

The second request was to set a time limit allowable to take the comprehensive test required of all students that miss class 10 or more times without a doctor's signed excuse. The limit that is expected to be established is to give the test up to 10 times within 10 working days. The change was suggested because the administration had a request from a student to take the test for missing classes in 1985.

Council decides pact with UPS needs revision

A proposed purchase agreement between Cass City and the United Parcel Service will be sent back to UPS following amendments made by the village council at a brief special meeting early Friday morning.

The agreement concerns a proposal by UPS to purchase and relocate on about 3 acres in the village's Industrial Park. Also included is a commitment by the village to pave Division Street, which borders the land sought by UPS.

Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie Monday stated that the council, which met with himself and village attorney Clinton C. House Friday, agreed that the latest proposal from UPS needed some changes. "What we didn't agree with are 2 things. One is having the road built and completed by June 15, (and) there isn't any commitment on their part to a structure-getting something built on the property," he explained.

The village has until Feb. 27 to return the agreement, which will again be reviewed by UPS, LaPonsie said.

The village manager noted that funding for the street project will not include a Michigan Community Development Block grant as previously planned.

The council at its December regular meeting learned that UPS is not planning to expand by a minimum of 6 additional jobs over the next 2 years, a requirement for receiving the grant. UPS offered to hire 3 full-time employees and one part-time worker over the next 2 years.

UPS also indicated it won't comply with the Davis-Bacon Act prior to construction, another requirement for the grant. The act requires the project to be in compliance with state guidelines concerning wages, construction and similar issues.

The project was previously estimated at some $72,000. Under the original proposal, the village had planned on the grant paying for 70 percent of the project, with the village picking up the remaining cost, about $21,600.

But LaPonsie indicated that elimination of Davis-Bacon requirements will "significantly" reduce the price tag, bringing the total cost to within the village's means.

Village police employee quits FOP; union no longer active in Cass City

The Cass City Police Department's lone full-time union employee has successfully won a bid to drop his membership in the Fraternal Order of Police, voiding current union/village contract negotiations.

Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie said he was notified last week that the Labor Council of Michigan Fraternal Order of Police has withdrawn "any interest" in the labor case before the Employment Relations Commission.

The case stems from a petition filed Sept. 2 by former full-time officer Phillip Klaus on behalf of himself and officer Donald Miller requesting that they be allowed to end their union membership.

A hearing on the matter scheduled for Dec. 17 was postponed, and moved to Jan. 29, but the recent correspondence indicates "our people are out of the Fraternal Order of Police," LaPonsie said.

Prior to the officers' petition, a state mediator had been called in for the contract talks, which LaPonsie indicated were proceeding smoothly.

The would-be union contract was to replace a 3-year pact, which expired April 30. That contract included 5 percent raises in each year.

"As far as the village was concerned, we were coming to a point of a tentative agreement," he continued. "It appeared we were reaching that point."

LaPonsie acknowledged there were differences between the parties concerning wages and benefits, but that "a long space between meetings is what drew (negotiations) out as much as anything."

LaPonsie stated that the village's position on the union has been neutral, with the only difference now being that "we won't have to sit down every 2 or 3 years to re-work a contract." He added, "I can't say we've ever really had any problems" settling a contract.

The recent action marks the end of some 6 years of union representation in the department. The union, brought in in May 1981, first negotiated a 2-year contract for the department's then-staff of 4 eligible full-time officers.

COST VS BENEFITS

Both Miller and Klaus agree that their decision to leave the union was based on a feeling that they were paying union dues and still receiving the same salary and benefits as non-union village employees.

"I just couldn't see wasting $21 a month," Klaus, who transferred to the village Wastewater Treatment Plant in early December, said. The officer had been with the police department for 10 years prior to his job change.

Miller, a 15-year veteran with the department, indicated that a union has recently proved unnecessary considering there is only one eligible full-time employee (himself).

"When we negotiated the (latest) contract, there were 3 of us," he added.

The 3rd officer, Ken Schott, also transferred to the Wastewater Treatment Plant. He replaced operator Nelson Willy in May.

"With one man left, it was more costly than what was beneficial," Miller continued. "We were getting the same as the other village employees, and we were paying union dues."

SALARY, BENEFITS

LaPonsie said he'll propose that the Village Council approve a salary schedule for full-time police officers which is identical to the schedules approved for Department of Public Works and Wastewater Treatment Plant employees.

Under those schedules, approved by the council Dec. 29, Miller's salary, based on at least 5 years employment, would be $24,405 including a 3 percent across-the-board hike.

The salary for a first year employee is $19,217, followed by $20,329 for 2 years of employment, $21,496 for 3 years and $22,664 for 4 years.

The benefit package is upon retirement or a

Triskaidekaphobia

by Melva E. Guinther

If you have triskaidekaphobia, 1987 is not a good year. Triskaidekaphobics suffer from fear of the number 13, with Friday the 13th regarded as especially hazardous. 1987 has 3 of the "unlucky" days, in February, March and November.

When Ed Connell, a walking wealth of trivia, shared this information, I frankly had no idea how often the phenomenon occurs. Checking the calendars for '83-'88, which were readily accessible, I discovered that 1984 had 3; there were 2 in 1985, and one each in '83, '86 and '88.

Ed even trusted me with his 1987 "Old Farmer's Almanac," which has an article on the subject. According to the Almanac, the town fathers of French Lick Springs, IN, once decreed that all black cats should wear bells on Friday the 13th.

One fellow, prepared for the worst, suggests that to break the spell of a broken mirror on Friday the 13th, one should "go to the top of the highest mountain or building and burn all your socks with holes in them." Makes sense to me. While Friday the 13th concerns me no more than walking under ladders or encountering black cats, I no longer claim to be absolutely free of superstition. It's hard to explain, but there's a vague twinge of apprehension about vocalizing good fortune. A comment regarding how well the car has been performing, for example, seems to precipitate a malfunction under the hood. Superstition, according to Webster, is any belief or attitude, based on fear or ignorance, that is inconsistent with the known laws of science or with what is generally considered...true and rational.

On that basis, my idiosyncrasy might qualify as superstition. On the other hand, it could be argued that, based on the law of averages, if the car has been running well for a length of time worthy of comment, the odds are greater that something will go wrong.

Statistics are not my strong point. When contemplating how many ways one can arrange the 3 pieces of silverware we use in everyday dining, I consulted our son, who came up with 24. (By drawing little pictures of place settings, I concluded he was right.)

What prompted this discussion was the fact that hubby can arrange the silverware for 4 at a given meal 4 different ways and never get one correct, which is about as far removed from the subject of triskaidekaphobia as I dare to venture.

"If It Fitz..."

Outdone again

By Jim Fitzgerald

"Do you know how to get the lint out of a dryer?" my wife asked.

I thought it might be some kind of a riddle or joke, like "why does the chicken cross the road?"

"No," I said, "how do you get the lint out of a dryer?"

"Emily knows how," she answered.

Then I understood what games she was playing. She was playing the even-a-five-year-old-child-is-smarter-than-my-60-year-old-husband game. She often plays this game, the object of which is to humiliate me.

Every time a tiny grandchild successfully performs some minor household chore, my wife says, "I'll bet your grandfather can't do that." Subsequent investigation proves she wins her bet, and during the next Show and Tell at school, the grandchild announces how stupid I am.

I am not so stupid that I think lint begins on Ash Wednesday. I know lint is the fuzzy stuff in my pockets, and I wasn't surprised to learn that it sometimes accidentally shakes loose from clothing inside our clothes dryer. I was surprised, however, to learn that it is possible to find lost lint and remove it from our dryer. According to the countless unmatched socks in my sock drawer, it is impossible to find lost socks and remove them from our dryer, so how can this be done with very-much-smaller lint?

Determined to find out, I located our laundry room by following my wife and demanded that she teach me how Emily removes lint from the dryer. "First, Emily stands on the toilet," she said, so I stood on the toilet.

"Emily has to stand on the toilet to reach inside the dryer because she is little; you can do it standing on the floor," she said.

"I knew that," I explained. "I just wanted to approach this problem from a child's perspective."

I was shown how even a five-year-old child can remove a wire cage from deep inside a dryer. Inside the cage is captured lint. To free the lint from the cage and fling it into the wastebasket, you must wet several fingers and wipe them around the inside of the cage. Lint clings to wet fingers.

"Yuck," I said. "Anyone over five years old is too smart to do such a yucky thing. There's enough lint in there to knit a pair of socks."

All of a sudden a light bulb lit inside a balloon floating directly over my head. My wife saw it first. "Don't complain to me about losing socks," she warned. "I'm losing my identity."

It was not a non sequitur. To me, the lost-identity remark was not even surprising. That day the mailman had delivered a publication containing a photo taken of my wife and me at a charity function. The caption identified us as "Free Press columnist Jim Fitzgerald and his wife Jean."

My wife's name is Pat. Jean is the name of my much older sister, Terrible Jean. Pat keeps track, and this was the third time in a week that she'd been called Jean. The confusion is caused by the fact that I give Terrible Jean a lot of publicity (if I don't, she twists my head) and both women have the same last name because Terrible Jean married a Fitzgerald so she wouldn't have to change the "Fitz" welded to the seat of her mud-wrestling pants.

Apparently, I was wrong in thinking I was doing Pat a favor by always calling her only "my wife" in the newspaper, so that when a stranger asked if she were married to that stupid columnist, it would be easier for her to say she never heard of me.

"I'd rather admit you're my husband than have people think I used to be a mud wrestler," she said. "You have to stop calling me nothing except your wife."

I told her I'd give it up for lint.

A savvy business friend once told me as we were socializing in a local bistro that folks are never as rich as generally believed and also are never as poor as they appear.

I wouldn't want to bet the family farm that this bit of homespun philosophy is right all the time, but from observation I'd think that it is true more often than not.

It's the same for good fortune and bad fortune. Last September the gloom was so thick that you could cut it with a knife. There didn't appear to be much hope for the farm community with the flooding, the land devaluation and the low commodity prices all combining to deliver a body blow to agriculture.

No one would call it good today, but judging by the persons chatted with at the farm appreciation dinner sponsored by Rotary, things aren't quite as disastrous for many as was first feared.

That's a consensus and doesn't carry much weight for farm families forced out of business or into bankruptcy.

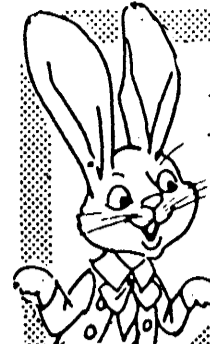

Maybe the farmers who are confident that next year will be better are living in a dream world. One businessman connected with banking in the Thumb said that he figures that there are going to be many farmers coming to banks for loans for feed and fertilizer that won't be able to get the money. The banks are going to ask for collateral and some of them won't have it, he says. If farmers didn't tend to look at the bright side, chances are most of them would be in another line of business. It's not for the fainthearted, that's sure. But then what business is?

While there's no way of knowing just what the final shakeout on the farm and in the villages will be, it's sure that the farmer that is here 5 years from now will be operating differently than he does today. The same is true for the businessman. It's adapt or perish.

The real tragedy in the changing economic scene is the ones that fall because of just plain bad luck. Like one farm friend said, it's a crap shoot, just like at Las Vegas.

What this year should have taught us is don't bet everything on one roll of the dice and lose your bankroll. Save enough to try your luck another day.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Here's a hot item for the good news, bad news department. The 1986 Michigan Taxpayers' Guide is now available free at the county clerk's and postal department offices.

Among the pertinent information in the booklet is information on property taxes, homestead property, farmland and open space tax relief, home heating assistance program and other tax related subjects.

Restaurant report:
Sometimes a catchy name is all that is needed to get you into a restaurant... once.

That's what the "Granary" in Boyne City is, one that has this kind of name and is coupled with a building that matches the motif.

Unfortunately the food doesn't match the name and building. It's not bad, you understand, but it's not exceptional either.

Wish I'd have written that department. Jim Fitzgerald writing on the joint operation of the Detroit Free Press and News where the editorial departments are separate and the printing and production departments are joined: "Joined at the hip if not the heart."

George Cantor writing about a subject where there is little understanding: "It's like looking at an object with a wax film over the glasses. You get the form and not the substance."

Valerie Johnson, Michigan business ombudsman, was to be guest speaker at Cass City Rotary Tuesday. "The ombudsman (I'm surprised it's not ombudsperson) tells Michigan business people that the government is listening and responding to the problems they face," says Gov. James Blanchard.

If nothing else, the visit promises to be educational. Chances are great that the majority of the Rotarians never knew Michigan had an ombudsman (woman) or even what an ombudsman is or does.

It's hard to say if it was the first one of 1987 or the last robin of the season but at 4:18 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 15, a robin was spotted under a willow tree at the home of Ruth and Jack Esau of rural Cass City.

The second floor was devoted exclusively to the Opera House, with a stage at one end, complete with dressing rooms and twelve different stage settings. There were 100 opera chairs for reserved seating while other chairs filled the remainder of the room which could hold about 400 people. This floor was also used as a ballroom, lighted with a chandelier of 26 lights.

The Masonic Temple comprised the third floor, with meeting rooms, a banquet room, and complete kitchen facilities. Total cost of the Opera House was $9,825. The grand opening took place on New Year's Day, January, 1892. Visiting dignitaries were met at the train depot, addresses were given, and at 5 p.m. the banquet was held, followed by dancing in the second floor ballroom. A full orchestra from Port Huron supplied the music, and Mr.

Thomas A. O'Bee will be stationed in Europe following 7 more weeks of training in San Diego, CA.

Harbor Beach first county seat

Sequi...What? by Ruby Maschke

Inasmuch as Harbor Beach was the first county seat for Huron County, the city deserves special recognition.

Although the first white fur trader didn't settle in Sand Beach, as it was then called, the first white settlers to Huron County were John Allen and Alanson Daggatt who came in 1837-1838, shortly after Michigan became a state. They sailed from Detroit with their families, supplies and equipment, and settled near Allen's Creek, now known as Rock Falls Creek. They built a water-powered sawmill at the mouth of the creek, which was then a rushing stream. In 1845 the Allen family moved elsewhere, but the Daggatt family remained at Allen's Creek for another 40 years.

Since Harbor Beach is one of the oldest communities in Huron County, it follows that some of the businesses and/or buildings have a history that goes "way back." For instance:

In 1890 the citizens of Sand Beach decided to build a structure for public meetings, entertainments, etc. After a great deal of discussion and dissension, a three story building was erected and it was given the name, Sand Beach Opera House. The first floor contained a 40x40 room for the hook and ladder fire trucks, hose cart and other fire fighting equipment. Other rooms were used for council meetings, the clerk's office and the jail.

The earliest hotel in Sand Beach Township was built in 1854 by Oscar F. Purdy, and became known as the "Purdy Hotel." It was located 5 1/2 miles south of Harbor Beach on an old Indian trail (now M-25). The first floor consisted of a kitchen, large dining hall, living quarters for the Purdy and Mrs. C.F. Dow led the dancers in a grand march. The City Opera House was destroyed by fire Nov. 15, 1911.

The first school building in Sand Beach was built on property donated to the community by Eber Ward, a lumber industrialist of Detroit. The school was built in 1857, when Jeremiah Ludington established a sawmill at that place. The school was a small log structure attended by a few children of the early pioneers. Alonzo Trescott was the first teacher at the school. The building burned in 1864 and was never rebuilt.

The first high school at Sand Beach was built in 1878. It was a small two-story frame building with grades from kindergarten to 12th, at the corner of State and Fifth Streets. In February of 1899 the school was destroyed by fire, and various classrooms were set up in locations throughout the village, an article in the Harbor Beach Times described the situation this way:

"Where do you attend school?" was asked a coy little miss. "Oh, I go to the Methodist Church," she solemnly replied.

"And you?" the reporter inquired of another young lady. "Me? Why I go to the Opera House."

"And where do you go?" indicating a demure little miss. "I receive my education, sir, at the Baptist Church."

"Where is your school room?" was asked a boy. "I go to Chamberlain's hardware store," he replied.

"And where are you found?" was put to a bright little chap. "Oh, at the old reliable."

Presbyterian Church," said he.

By September of that year the children were all under one roof again, in a new school.

Snow sculptor shares her talent

A Gagetown residence this winter has become a public outdoor art museum of sorts.

And the "museum's" curator, LeeAnn Anklam, has become the focus of much community praise, particularly from a group of more than 160 elementary school students and teachers.

Anklam, a special education teacher at Gagetown Elementary, specializes in making snow sculptures. And her work, area art critics say, leaves admirers believing they'll never again be satisfied with "ostly the snowman."

"It's just something I like to do," Anklam, 4690 State St., remarked.

"Last year I made a snowman, and it looked more like the cartoon character, Cathy," she continued, adding that's how her seasonal hobby began.

Anklam's 4-year-old son, Brian, has helped nurture his mom's art work by urging her to make a dog big enough for him to sit and play on. That project was followed by Anklam's second major sculpture this season—a nativity scene featuring Mary, the baby Jesus, Joseph, and a lamb.

Anklam's most recent project, which has lost considerable height and weight recently because of mild temperatures, is sitting up against a street sign in her front yard. The bigger-than-life-sized "Santa Bear" is a replica of Brian's smaller version of the popular stuffed animal, which is where she got the idea.

"I never really took any art (classes) or anything," she noted, adding that she usually studies a picture of a potential snow sculpture. She then breaks the figure down into snowballs of various sizes. "They usually range from 3 to 5 or 6 hours to complete," she added.

Despite a lack of formal training, Anklam isn't without her own trade secrets.

"Wet mittens is sort of my secret" to making the sculptures smooth, she said, adding, "by the time my mittens are wet, it's time to smooth it out."

"This isn't very good snow," Anklam continued, kicking at a small mound of the white stuff at her feet. "I like the fresh stuff."

"Snow is something everybody can do, so everybody gets into it," Anklam observed. "The kids in school give me a lot of ideas. (They) get so excited about anything I make—that's why I do it."

Anklam's hobby proved contagious last week as some 160 Gagetown Elementary students in grades one through six, in addition to several teachers, took to the schoolyard for a snow sculpturing session.

The 2-hour-long event netted some impressive, if temporary, results. Among the sculptures were a whale, alligator, walrus, Woody Woodpecker, a giant ice cream sundae complete with nuts and a cherry on top, a bulldog, Garfield the cat and a computer.

Anklam said the project was a "last-minute" idea. She gave the students a mini training session on planning their individual sculptures the day before.

"All the teachers at the elementary building have been more than supportive of any idea I've wanted to try," she added.

Anklam says that her husband Daniel, an industrial engineer, hasn't voiced an opinion concerning her hobby. "He doesn't say much. I think he likes it," she said.

And curious passersby? "A lot of people driving by will take double takes when they notice it's not a kid out there" playing in the snow, Anklam remarked. "They must think I'm crazy."

Anklam, who is seeking pictures taken of her earlier snow sculptures, said she hasn't planned her next masterpiece yet. "I'll have to get some ideas and think about it."

Regardless of what the local artist comes up with, residents are no doubt looking forward to the next sculpture with anticipation. "I'm really proud to do this for the people," Anklam said. "Gagetown really seems to love it."

Elkton man arrested on suspicion of drinking, driving

A 37-year-old Elkton man was arrested by a Cass City Police officer Saturday on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

William J. Garrick, 4693 Kilmanagh Rd., was arrested on Cass City Road west of Koepfgen Road after the officer observed him crossing left of the road center line 3 times in a distance of less than one mile, according to the report.

Prior to the arrest, Garrick was seen traveling on Church Street at a speed of about 35 miles per hour in a 25 m.p.h. zone, the report stated.

No arrests were made following a fight at the Pizza Villa early Saturday morning.

Police Chief Gene Wilson stated that some 11 persons were involved in the scuffle, which reportedly began with verbal abuse between 2 groups sitting at separate tables in the restaurant at 6637 Main St.

Both the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department and State Police assisted in the incident.

No charges have been filed as of yet, according to Wilson, who indicated that no one was hurt.

A malicious destruction of property complaint was filed by Sherry L. Lefler, 6718 Houghton St.

Lefler reported that she discovered damage to the left fender of her vehicle Friday. The date of the incident isn't known, according to the report, which listed damages totalling $100.

Cass City resident to chair bike-a-thon

Cass City resident Doris Rawson will serve as area chairman of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon for the 4th consecutive year, the hospital announced this month.

The event, which raised some $2,000 last year for the research facility, is tentatively scheduled for May 16.

"We aim to do a little bit better each year," Rawson said about the amount of money she believes the fund-raiser will net this year. Last year, some 50 persons participated.

Participants, who obtain pledges, ride their bicycles along either a 3- or 1 1/2-mile route.

St. Jude officials "told us we did very well last year for an area this size," Rawson, who resides with her husband, Delbert, at 4621 Kennebec Rd., added. "They were very pleased with the turnout."

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict children. The facility is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to more than 4,200 patients.

Apply now for youth 4-H exchange

Tuscola County 4-H'ers, ages 15-19, are asked to apply for the International 4-H Youth (IFYE) Ambassador program by mid February.

Participants have 16 countries to choose from for 1987. 4-H members wishing to apply should do so as soon as possible to secure the country of their choice. Assignments are currently being made.

Ambassadors live and work with host families for approximately 6 weeks, usually beginning in June.

"The IFYE program is an excellent chance for 4-H'ers to learn about local customs, visit historical and cultural sites, and become acquainted with another language," says John Wurm, Tuscola 4-H Youth Agent. "Some countries will emphasize a certain project area, while others will be more general in the activities covered."

Countries participating in 1987 include: Australia, Botswana, Costa Rica, Denmark, France, West Germany, Greece, Italy, Israel, Jamaica, Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand and United Kingdom.

For more information, stop by the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service Office or call John Wurm, 4-H Youth Agent at 517-673-5999, extension 228.

A TASTE FOR DEATH by P.D. James (fiction). When two bodies are discovered with their throats slashed in a London church, Commander Adam Dalgleish is called upon to solve the case. One victim is Sir Paul Berowne, former Minister of the Crown; the other is a tramp accustomed to sleeping in the church vestibule. It seems that these deaths may be tied to those of two young women who have recently been employed in the Berowne household. Dalgleish feels an unusual empathy in this case; he had known Berowne and sensed several parallels in their lives.

NIGHT OF THE FOX by Jack Higgins (fiction). An American colonel who knows the secrets of forthcoming D-Day has washed up, wounded, on the German-occupied island of Jersey, off the coast of England, and must be rescued. An ex-philosophy don of part-German descent is assigned to effect the rescue, disguised as a special envoy of the dreaded Himmler and accompanied by his "mistress." Enmeshed in this complex situation are the activities of Rommel, who sends a Jewish actor (somewhat improbably, also a Wehrmacht corporal) to impersonate him on an "inspection tour" of Jersey's defenses, while he secretly meets with other top generals bent on assassinating the führer. Caught up in the deadly game of "who's fooling-whom and for how long?" are an amorous Italian count, a Finnish air ace and a hero of the Irish cause, while in the background looms Eisenhower and Hitler himself.

MOTHER, I HAVE SOMETHING TO TELL YOU by Jo Brans (non-fiction). The Murray Institute at Harvard sponsored the research for this landmark book. Brans' excellent writing and empathy for her subjects deepen one's concern for the many women Smith, a sociologist, began interviewing in 1982. Traditional homemakers, they all are mothers of adults who had fallen into cults, drug addiction, crime, mental illness and other afflictions during the '60s and '70s. One particularly shocking fact is that fewer than half the respondents' children have recovered. Some are dead. The reader feels the pain suffered by these mothers, whose efforts failed to save their sons or daughters. Not the least reason why this study should be required reading for parents is Smith's assessment on the boundaries of responsibility; each mother interviewed has come to see herself and child as separate persons, neither one guilty for the other's actions.

Just as valuable as ever

If you are not covered by a company pension plan, the new tax law still allows you to tax-deduct all your IRA payments. Considering that—plus the fact that our IRA pays such high interest and guarantees a lifetime retirement income—an annuity from FB Annuity Company is still your best choice for an IRA.

Making your future a little more predictable.

"Fitness 7" to stress health care

by Betty Pattullo
Extension Home Economist

The Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service is happy to announce a 4 part program entitled "Fitness 7." The goal of Fitness 7 is to provide accurate information that will assist in making sound decisions about your health," states Betty Pattullo, Tuscola County Extension Home Economist.

The decisions you make and the style in which you live probably have more effect on the quality and length of your life than any advice or medicine a doctor or other health care giver can give you. Your behavior is the key factor in good health.

Major studies have shown that longer life and better health are related to a few simple, but basic health habits. These include regular meals and weight control, regular sleep, moderate exercise, minimizing chemical contamination, no smoking, alcohol in moderation and reduction of stress.

According to Pattullo, "Fitness 7 not only will provide you with accurate information to assist you in making sound decisions about your health, but will suggest methods and/or referral agencies to be utilized if you decide to make a major lifestyle change."

Fitness 7 will be taught by Peggy Kuhr, former Tuscola County Extension 4-H Youth Agent. The program will begin Thursday, Feb. 5, and will run for 4 consecutive Thursday afternoons from 1:30-3:00 p.m. Class sessions will include: Week 1, Who Am I? We Can Improve Your Chances For Survival

Every 15 minutes, three women develop breast cancer and one dies because of it. Breast cancer is a leading cancer killer of American women.

While advancing age and a previous personal or family history of breast cancer are the greatest factors, having no children, or having your first child after age 30 are also important risks.

The GOOD news: MAMMOGRAPHY, a safe, low-dose breast x-ray technique that can detect breast cancer up to three years before you can feel it, when it's most curable.

Hills and Dales makes mammography safe and convenient.
Newest Equipment: State-of-the-art, low-dose imaging equipment assures your safety and improved image quality.

Mammography is recommended by the American Cancer Society for women with:

- An original baseline mammogram between the ages of 35-40
- Mammograms every 1-2 years from 40-49
- Annually after age 50.

Included prior to the mammography examination is a short but thorough and helpful education program demonstrating the proper techniques for Breast Self Examination (BSE).

For confidential, professional answers to your questions about breast imaging and mammography, call your doctor or the

HEALTH TIPS

Careful planning reduces risk of jet lag problems

Travel and health experts warned recently that jet lag and other problems associated with long-distance travel can be more severe than most people realize.

Speaking at a symposium on "Jet Lag, Travel and Health," William C. Dement, M.D., Ph.D., professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at Stanford University School of Medicine in California, stated that 70 to 75 percent of travelers whose trips involve rapidly crossing several time zones suffer from jet lag. In 25 to 30 percent of people, this problem is severe.

Since many millions of people travel on such flights each year, jet lag has become an increasing concern to physicians. It is also the subject of study by sleep experts, including Dr. Dement. Known as the "father of sleep disorders medicine," Dr. Dement started the world's first sleep disorders clinic at Stanford in 1970.

The symptoms of jet lag are numerous, including sleep disturbances, hunger at odd hours, digestive problems, frequent urination, depression, anxiety, irritability, aggression, headaches, dizziness, nausea, fainting spells, fatigue, diminished alertness and impaired physical and mental performance. Depending on the distance traveled, these can sometimes last a week or even longer.

Heads of governments, athletes competing in international events, airline pilots, business travelers and tourists are some of the people whose work or pleasure may suffer as a result of jet lag.

"There are definitely steps travelers can take to reduce jet lag," said Dr. Dement. "Individuals who will be away from home for more than just a few days can try, while still at home, to gradually shift their daily schedules toward that of their travel destinations. Upon arrival, it's best to immediately adopt the time schedule of the new location."

Recent studies also suggest that spending some time out of doors there may be useful, since sunlight appears to help readjust the biological clock. Allowing a few days of leisure before taking up a rigorous work or vacation schedule is also wise, according to Dr. Dement. And, he said, it's best to avoid overeating or excessive use of alcohol, particularly while trying to readjust.

"As to medications," Dr. Dement said, "clinical practice is somewhat ahead of research. The National Institute of Mental Health Consensus Conference on Drugs and Insomnia advises use of a short-acting benzodiazepine (a type of prescription sleep medication) for a few nights when it's important to avoid transient insomnia due to jet lag. Actual laboratory studies of subjects with jet lag have recently been carried out, and results are just being published. These studies confirm that such medications do help, and many people are already benefiting. But more research is necessary to determine precisely what the drugs do, when they should be taken and how large the best doses are.

"Studies in our sleep lab have shown that people whose schedules have been shifted by 12 hours feel less sleepy after taking a short-acting sleep medication for a few days rather than a popular long-acting pill or a placebo (inactive substance)," he said. "We're not yet certain, however, whether the short-acting medication actually speeds resetting of the biological clock. That's one focus of our latest studies."

At the same meeting, Mark J. Goldberger, M.D., assistant professor of clinical medicine at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City, cautioned that many business and vacation trips are ruined needlessly by preventable illness. For example, as many as a third of the 16 million travelers from industrialized nations who visit developing countries each year contract traveler's diarrhea.

"While there are no vaccines or preventive drugs for traveler's diarrhea," Dr. Goldberger said, "careful avoidance of contaminated food and water can prevent it." The most risky items, he said, are uncooked vegetables, raw seafood, undercooked meat, tap water, ice, milk, other dairy products and unpeeled fruit.

There are effective medications, according to Dr. Goldberger, particularly nonprescription medications containing bismuth, to treat traveler's diarrhea. High fever or bloody stools, however, call for a medical consultation.

Dr. Goldberger emphasized that malaria and hepatitis are still major health concerns in many parts of the world. Before departure, travelers planning trips abroad should consult with their physicians and local health departments for advice specific to their health and their destinations.

"Most health problems encountered by travelers abroad are fairly minor," he said, "and ordinary common sense goes along way: Avoid too much sun or too much exposure to cold, be aware that the lack of oxygen at high altitudes can be dangerous, and be sure you have the required shots before visiting any foreign country."

Red Hawks' second period rally sparks win over Patriots, 72-64

All year long Coach Ron Nurnberger has been saying that one of the strengths of this year's Cass City High School basketball team is its depth.

Tuesday the Hawks proved him right as the bench sparked a rally that powered Cass City to a 72-64 decision over visiting Unionville-Sebewaing, the only team to defeat the Hawks this season. The Hawks were going nowhere when the bench went into action. In the first quarter, Cass City had scored the first 5 points when the Patriots went into a full court press and Cass City turned the ball over 3 straight times without getting a shot. USA scored 9 unanswered points and led at the quarter, 15-13. It was in the second period that the Hawks staged the rally that won the game. It came with Dave Miller, Kurt Bliss and Dan Ware, all starters, on the bench. Sparking the rally were Mike Randall, Steve Ross,

Virgil Peters and Jeff Sontag. Only Sontag started the game. Sontag started the rally with a pair of buckets to move Cass City to a tie with 5:01 left. The team solved the USA press and forged steadily ahead and by the half was in front, 33-24. Miller made sure that the Patriots would not come from behind to defeat Cass City as they did in the first encounter between the 2 teams. He scored 3 quick baskets in a row on short pops from the baseline and netted 8 points in the period to extend the Cass City lead to 12 points, 48-36, at the three-quarter mark. Cass City maintained its lead with some easy baskets against the USA defense that was pressing, trying to get back in the game in the free scoring final period.

The Cass City attack was led by Ross, who earlier had played a fine game without scoring much. Now he added a scoring punch as well to round out his best night as a varsity performer. In the last period he scored 9 of his 13 points. Also coming to life was Bliss, who sat out much of the first half and third period with fouls. He scored 6 points. Mike Kelley, who led all scorers with 20 points, also chipped in 7 points in the final 8 minutes to kill any chances for a comeback like the Patriots staged in the final quarter to win in the first game. The Patriots burned the nets in the last quarter on balanced scoring led by Bill Brinkman and Craig Fuerst with 6 points each. Cass City won the battle of the boards with 42 rebounds compared to 32 for USA as Kelley showed the way with 16 boards.

CLOSE GAME

The undefeated junior varsity survived its sternest test of the season, topping the Patriot JV, 44-41. Cass City trailed by 6 points with about 50 seconds left in the game before coming on to win.

Tight zone defense keys Hawk victory over Vassar

Two factors helped the Cass City Red Hawks turn a tight game into an easy victory Friday as the Hawks travelled to Vassar to register a 61-42 decision and remain undefeated in the Thumb B Association. The first good decision came in the opening quarter with the slow starting Hawks trailing 7-10. Coach Ron Nurnberger switched to a packed in zone defense and challenged the Vulcans to shoot over it. The Vulcans then missed 7 straight short jump shots in a row and the Hawks came from behind to lead at the quarter, 18-16, and never trailed again. The second turning point in the game came when Mike Gohsman, 6-4 junior center, and Craig Tyson, 6-1 senior forward, both picked up 3 fouls in the first half. The Hawks kept getting the ball in to the players that Tyson and Gohsman were guarding. Tyson later fouled out and Gohsman's effectiveness was reduced because he played with 4 fouls. The 2 big men were the key to the Vassar offense and defense. Although the Hawks won by a comfortable 19 points, the game was closer than that. At the half the Hawks were in front 29-24 and at the end of the third period were in front 42-32. Mike Kelley scored 10 of his 12 points in the last half as the Hawks kept feeding him the ball to put pressure on Gohsman. With a safe lead halfway through the final period, Nurnberger was able to turn to his bench and everybody played. Vassar never got back in the game once they slipped from in front and the shooting percentage tells why. Vassar converted just 15 of 52 field goal attempts for a horrible 29 percent average. Either the big men got the ball down low or Vassar did not score. Oddly enough, the Vulcans were very good from the foul line, hitting 12 of 14. Dave Miller played his usual strong game with 18 points and 10 rebounds. Kelley nabbed 14 boards to go with his 12 points. Dan Ware also was credited with a dozen points and 8 rebounds. Like the Vulcans, the Hawks had trouble with fouls. Kurt Bliss was forced to the bench early with fouls and eventually fouled out.

The Hawks were forced to play without Mike Randall, who was coming on strong in recent games. Randall is suffering from the flu and is not expected back for a week.

NOT CLOSE

After winning a pair of tight games previously, the undefeated Hawk junior varsity won a laugher, leading all the way to post a 61-46 decision.

Cass City tops Pirates

Red Hawks fall to Caro

Cass City Red Hawk spikers were defeated Thursday night by the Caro Tigers 3 games to one. The Tigers took the first 2 games, 15-11 and 15-13, and the Hawks won the third, 3-15, before losing the fourth game, 15-1. Coach Lisa LeValley was pleased with the communication among team members, but was disappointed with the execution of the Hawks. There were 27 bad ups and the team was only able to set the ball up about 50 percent of the time. The Tigers are too good a team to make errors like that, LeValley said. The hitting left something to be desired against Caro. The girls registered only 14 kills in over 50 tries. Kelly Deering showed the way with 6 kills. The Hawks got off to a good start in a game played Thursday, Jan. 8, in the Hawks' home opener, defeating Harbor Beach. LeValley said that serving was a key factor in the win. The Hawks garnered 18 aces in 77 attempts with only 16 net or out serves. Brenda Severance collected 19 good saves with 5 aces, followed by Kelly Deering with 16 good serves and 6 aces. Shannon McIntosh was credited with 14 good serves. Deering was effective at the net with 6 kills and one of her best games. Darlene Monroe contributed 5 kills. Good ups also contributed to the win. Terri Summers set the ball 63 times in 85 opportunities. Severance had 26 good ups and Jennifer Palmer was also effective in putting the ball up. LeValley was pleased with the teamwork exhibited by the squad and the way the girls backed each other up to help register the victory.

School slates annual book fair

Cass City Intermediate School will hold its tenth annual book fair Jan. 27 to Jan. 30. The sale will feature paperback books for children of all ages, as well as parents and teachers. The books are priced from $1 to $6. The book sale will be open to the public from 8:25 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Children will be allowed to attend the fair during school. Chapter One, a federally funded reading program, will be hosting the sale. Marilyn Peters, a local teacher for the Chapter One program, said the program is designed to help "children with reading deficiencies." Peters works with about 135 children and is the only Chapter One teacher for the district. According to Peters, 4 to 6 cases of books are delivered to the school by the School Book Fair Company, which also picks up the leftover books after the sale. The company receives 80 percent of the proceeds while the program receives 20 percent. Peters said the program usually makes a profit of $150 to $300. ment of Public Health. The 7 p.m. meeting will be held at the Delta Township Hall, 7710 West Saginaw Highway, Lansing. Public comments will be invited following a brief presentation on the department's current draft plan for future fish advisory development. Further information can be obtained by calling the Center for Environmental Health Sciences, Toxic and Health Hotline at 1-800-648-6942.

Bulldogs nipped at wire by Port Hope Friday, 62-61

The Bulldogs lost a crucial North Central Thumb League game Friday on the Port Hope Blue Stars' home floor, 62-61. The loss all but vanishes the Bulldogs' hopes of landing the NCTL crown as they slipped to 4-3 in NCTL contests, while Port Hope improved their league mark to 5-1, only a game behind league leader Deckerville, who stands at a perfect 6-0 in NCTL play.

The Bulldog loss, which followed a 46-42 Bulldog win over North Huron on Tuesday, makes this Friday's game with Akron-Fairgrove less significant as the Vikings failed twice last week, leaving them at 4-2 in NCTL encounters. Both teams will be looking to regain their winning ways though, as a victory would help lock in an upper division finish.

A strong second quarter by the Blue Stars' Todd Brown, who netted 18 first half points on short turn around jumpers and offensive rebounds, was the difference in the Bulldogs' one point loss last Friday.

"We handled their man to man press," stated Bulldog head coach Dean Roller, "but Brown killed us inside in the second quarter."

After falling behind at the end of the first period 18-19, Brown went to work giving the Blue Stars leads up to 9 points during the first half that ended in a 36-29 advantage for the home team.

The Bulldogs came out in the third quarter and were able to knot the score at 48, due mostly to sure shot Stu Stirrett. Stirrett, who gets most of his points from beyond 15 feet, filled the nets for 25 points as his patented jump shot connected 12 times. Stirrett also went 1-3 from the foul line.

The two teams traded baskets for most of the 4th quarter and the Bulldogs had a chance to win in the final 7 seconds. With Matt Brown on the charity line for the Blue Stars and leading 62-61, Coach Roller called time out. "I told my player if he missed, to get the ball down court and if you have a good shot, take it."

That's exactly what happened, as Rick Salcido ended up with the Bulldogs' final shot, which just hung on the rim and rolled out as time expired.

Beside Stirrett's 25 points, senior Steve Root finished in double figures also with 17.

Stirrett keys win over North Huron

The Bulldogs used a strong third period to turn back North Huron Tuesday, Jan. 13, 46-42. This time Stu Stirrett was the difference.

"The first half plagued us with turnovers," commented Roller, whose team fell behind 14-11 after the first period, despite 3 early baskets from Bulldog center Steve Root. The second quarter played to a stalemate and North Huron led at the half 26-23.

Stirrett took control at the start of the third quarter.

His first basket put the Bulldogs within one at 26-25. His next basket had his team up by one, 27-26. Stirrett hit again and then passed off for another basket before North Huron was able to get on track. Owen-Gage ended the 3rd quarter leading 37-33.

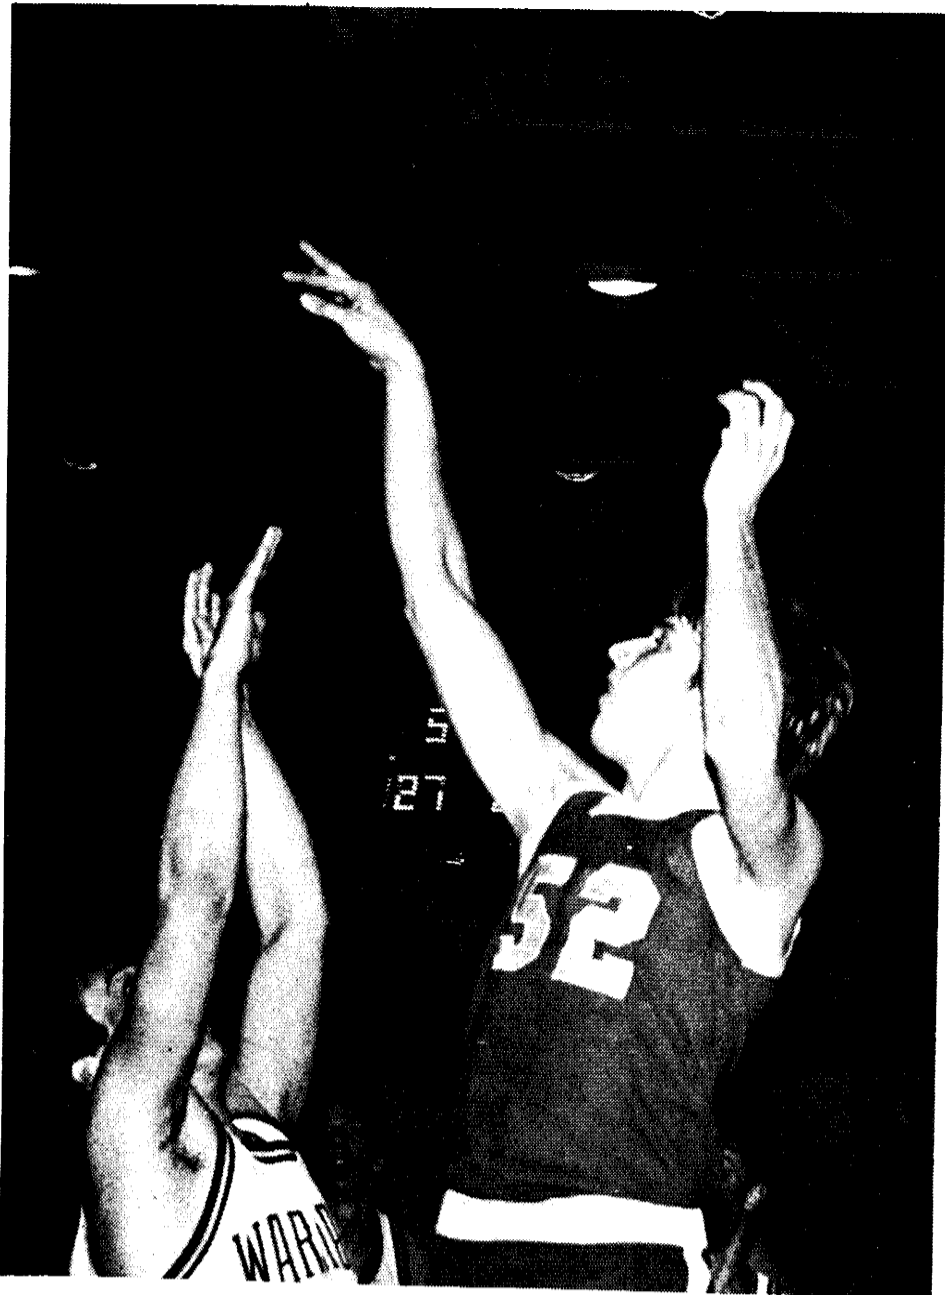

The Bulldogs led the entire 4th period, yet two free throws late in the game by Stirrett iced the game for the host team. "Defense won the game," according to Coach Roller.

Stirrett won game scoring honors with 19. Teammate Steve Root added 10.

Mike Fisher was the only player for North Huron to record double figures. He finished with 12.

Delta College TV station hits the cable airwaves

It's Thumb's Up for Delta College's WUCZ-TV. Residents of nearly 70,000 viewer homes in the Thumb can now receive Delta College's public broadcast service over Channel 35 or via any number of cable connections. "We're on the air and it's official," says Ruby Iwamasa, acting director of broadcasting at Delta. "Our new station located at Uby is providing a stronger signal for the Thumb for some homes and is a brand new option for other homes who could not receive us before."

WUCX-TV and WUCM-TV are call letters for the home base PBS affiliate owned and operated by Delta College. Delta offers a 2-year Associate Degree granting-curriculum in broadcasting. Training for business, industry, government and the professions is offered through yet another television operation at the college called "National Narrowcast."

Telecourses, college classes over TV-19 and TV-35 are provided each semester and enroll up to 400 students studying academic work for credit toward a degree.

Programming over the new TV-35 is the same as TV-19. And thanks to the many cable systems in the Thumb that have carried Channel 19 programming, Delta has many friends in this area.

People like Andrea and Ken Hofmeister, Gageton, who a few years back suggested a farm equipment auction on behalf of Channel 19... Jim McLosky, Caro, a former broadcasting student at Delta who is now very active as a Go-Getter Team Captain for "The Great TV Auction"... Don Richards, Director of the Regional Educational Media Center for Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac Counties, who was extremely supportive of our application to the FCC for Channel 35, and finally, Delta College friends at Walbro Corporation, Lambert and Holly Althaver.

Official dedication of WUCZ, Channel 35 is scheduled for the last week in February in the Thumb area.

Major changes announced for fish licenses

The 1987 fishing license guide, available from Department of Natural Resources (DNR) offices in February, will include 3 major changes this year, the DNR reported.

The changes include an earlier season opener in the Lower Peninsula for walleye, sauger, northern pike and muskellunge; an increase catch limit on Atlantic pink salmon, and an increase in the minimum size limit on muskellunge taken from Lake St. Clair and Chicago Lake in Iron County.

Anglers in the lower Peninsula will enjoy a 20-day head start over last year for fishing walleye, sauger, northern pike and muskellunge. The season will open April 25 and run through Sept. 30.

"This will be a shot in the arm for southern Michigan walleye anglers, particularly," John Scott, DNR Fisheries Division Chief, said. "Walleye are found in abundance in streams in April, just after spawning. We expect to see some really great walleye fishing in rivers, including the Muskegon, Grand, St. Joseph, Clinton and the Saginaw River System and its tributaries, such as the Titabawassee, especially," he added.

The popular early spring walleye opener was changed to mid-May in the late '60's when walleye populations in Michigan declined sharply, a result of degraded water quality. With the enforcement of tough water quality laws and the elimination of commercial harvest, followed by intensive walleye rearing and planting by the DNR, the walleye population has rebounded, with Michigan touted as one of the finest states to fish for walleye today.

Another significant change this year, allows anglers to take an additional 5 pink Atlantic salmon from streams during the April 25-Sept. 20 season, in addition to the regular daily catch limit of 5 pink salmon.

"There is an abundance of pink salmon in Michigan waters, with good fishing particularly in our Great Lakes tributary streams," Scott noted. "This increase in the pink salmon catch further enhances recreational fishing opportunities for our anglers," he added.

Thumb Ag Day speaker

Fowler emphasizes positive

Nationally - recognized speaker Ruth A. Fowler didn't solve area farmers' problems in her speech to a packed Colony House during Thumb Ag Day Friday afternoon.

But the several hundred farmers and other persons in attendance visibly enjoyed the Florida cooperative extension specialist's upbeat presentation. The motivational talk capped a full morning of activity, including mini-educational sessions on various agriculture topics and more than 60 commercial agribusiness exhibitions.

In a talk laced with humorous stories and anecdotes, Fowler, the daughter of a dairy farmer, urged farmers to put the past behind them and "do more with what you've got."

Fowler opened her speech by pointing out changes faced by farmers and associated businesses during the past 3 decades.

"In 30 years, we've changed. How can we respond to the new consumer? We have to work better with the products to make them better for the consumer," she remarked.

Fowler noted that some 15 percent of families in the United States lived and worked on farms in the 1950s, compared to about 2 percent today. Families, too, have changed, she added, with only 4 percent of families today being considered "traditional," compared to 70 percent in the 1950s.

She defined a traditional family as one which includes children, a husband who works outside the home and a mother who works and stays in the home.

The home economics specialist followed up suggestions to "be in control," "try to make a difference" and "set priorities," by comparing life to a landing airplane.

Airplane pilots know how much runway they need in order to land and stop a plane, Fowler said. But "the runway of life is a little bit different—we don't know how much runway we have in front of us." "How do you feel about where you are? That's the most important thing that has to do with rural farm family living," she commented.

Fowler added, "Circumstances do not make you, they reveal you."

"You're not going to be everything to everybody," she continued, adding that specialization has affected farmers in the same way that it's affected retailers.

"Stick to... what makes you different, and be the best at it."

Fowler had the audience chuckling loudly with an illustration of positive thinking.

An older gentleman was driving through his neighborhood when he saw a neighbor girl in front of her yard, Fowler said. The girl, she added, had posted a sign which said, "Dog for sale, $1,000." When the gentleman returned later, he saw that the sign, and the dog (a particularly homely animal), were gone. He asked the little girl if she had sold the dog, to which she answered yes, and did she get $1,000 for the animal.

"No, I did better than that," the girl replied. "I got $10 and 2 five-hundred-dollar cats."

Commitment and teamwork are other necessary factors for success in the face of existing financial problems for farmers, according to Fowler.

"Commitment gives you energy-giving power. Everybody in your particular business has made a commitment. If every team member is involved, you're going to get something done," she continued.

"You do absolutely nothing by yourself," she told the audience. "We need" agribusiness, accountants, bankers, farm workers, consumers..."

"Businesses break up because of a lack of communication and a lack of know-how. You must communicate what you want done."

Fowler urged farmers and other community members to be "leg-up" persons—those who help another person get one step closer to their goal. "It's called loving and working close," she added.

In closing, Fowler emphasized that future success for area farmers will depend, in part, on their ability to put the past behind them.

"You cannot land on a runway (that's) behind you. You can do nothing about yesterday," she remarked.

"You are looked up to in your community because of what you believe in. It doesn't have to do with money or production figures."

"You are looked to for the strength and stronghold you can give to the community."

"YOU'VE got to do more with what you've got" — Florida cooperative extension speaker Ruth A. Fowler.

AN ESTIMATED 850 farmers, agribusinessmen and cooperative extension officials discussed, debated and listened to new ideas on improvement to their industry during Thumb Ag Day Friday. Participants packed into the Colony House for the event, sponsored by the Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac County extension services.

In Circuit Court

Couple ordered to pay debt

A Fairgrove couple was ordered to pay some $237,000 to a fertilizer business following the conclusion of a Tuscola County Circuit Court trial Jan. 14.

Paul and Margaret Monte, 1715 N. Sheridan Rd., were defendants in the suit filed by Sohigro Service Company, Inc.

Court records state that on Jan. 12, 1983, both parties executed a promissory note making the defendants jointly and severally liable for late payments and accounts receivable owed to Sohigro Service. The note promised "full and final payment prior to Aug. 1, 1982."

The suit had also named Paul Monte, Inc., as a defendant. But the corporation had been under Chapter 11 since 1985, negating by law any action against Monte as a corporation.

The amount awarded Sohigro Service by Judge Patrick R. Joslyn is in addition to interest and costs to be taxed. Attorney fees were not included.

No damage reported in chimney fire

No damage was reported in a chimney fire Jan. 13 at 3825 Pringle Road.

Elkland Fire Department chief Jerome Root Jr. stated that there were no injuries in the incident, which is being blamed on a wood burner and a dirty chimney.

Root noted that 11 Elkland fire fighters responded to the scene shortly after the 8:41 p.m. siren, and were finished by 9:54 p.m.

ance, and a village-furnished retirement plan. The plan pays 25 percent of an employee's monthly salary providing the employee has been there for a minimum 20 years. Retirement benefits are reduced proportionately for persons employed for less than 20 years.

While the village is in the process of hiring another full-time officer to replace Klaus, the staff will remain at 3 full-time officers, including chief Gene Wilson, according to LaPonsie.

A loss of federal revenue sharing funds, previously used for police department salaries, is the culprit responsible for the smaller staff, he noted. The 1987 police department budget was slashed by some $28,000 from the 1986 budget of $186,900.

LaPonsie indicated that the voluntary transfers of Schott and Klaus to the Wastewater Treatment Plant met the approval of village officials.

"They both qualified as far as their background," he said. "We're happy to have them. They're doing a good job down there."

Charge against Terbush dropped

A charge of uttering and publishing against a Cass City man was dismissed Friday in Tuscola County District Court following a preliminary examination.

The charge, against James S. Terbush, 19, 5824 W. Kelly Rd., was dismissed because the "people failed to present proofs... at the time set for the preliminary exam," court records state.

The case stems from an incident in Caro Nov. 29 in which Terbush had allegedly written a fraudulent $45 personal check.

Also dismissed was a charge of assault and battery against Robert M. Krzeszewski, 29, 2448 Lee Hill Rd., Caro.

The charge, based on a Dec. 29 incident in Wells Township, was dropped Monday at the request of complainant Michael J. Stewart.

CHARGED

A 19-year-old Vassar man was charged Thursday with 3rd degree criminal sexual conduct.

Gregory M. Luke, 7124 Down Creek Drive, faces a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison if convicted. His preliminary examination has been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. Bond was set at $25,000.

The charge stems from an incident Dec. 23 in Vassar allegedly involving sexual penetration with a victim at least 13 years old, but under 16 years.

Regenia Bradley, 27, 1378 Boy Scout Rd., Caro, was charged Thursday with larceny by conversion over $100.

The charge relates to a Nov. 6 incident in Elkland Township in which Bradley allegedly converted to her own use money belonging to the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Family Grant Program.

A preliminary examination has been scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday. Bradley faces a maximum sentence of 5 years in prison or a $2,500 fine if convicted.

Roy F. Marcum, 24, 10038 Evelyn Drive, Clio, was charged Friday with breaking and entering, and larceny from an occupied dwelling.

Marcum, who faces a maximum 15-year prison sentence if convicted, allegedly broke into a mobile home at 10294 Baker Drive, Clio.

A preliminary examination has been scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday.

An 18-year-old Cass City man was charged Jan. 12 with larceny from a building.

Danny W. Miners, 6404 Seventh St., was to appear for a preliminary examination Jan. 20. Bond was set at $5,000.

The charge, which carries a maximum sentence of 4 years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine, stems from an Oct. 26, 1985, incident involving alleged stolen property from a house at 6429 Seventh St.

Gagetown resident William F. Abfalter, 20, was charged Monday with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Abfalter was arrested on suspicion of OUIL Jan. 2 in Cass City.

A pre-trial has been scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Feb. 3.

SENTENCED

A 28-year-old Cass City man was sentenced to 2 years probation and ordered to pay $350 in fines and costs for a plea of guilty to impaired driving.

Randal V. Middleton, 6566 Elizabeth St., was also ordered to pay $60 in restitution and received a 3-month license suspension.

Middleton was sentenced in relation to a Nov. 9 incident in which State Police troopers stopped him on M-81 in Ellington Township.

Another Cass City resident, 20-year-old Kevin L. Montreuil, 4091 Crane Rd., was sentenced Monday to 3 days in jail and 2 years probation, and ordered to pay $75 in fines and costs, following conviction on a plea of guilty to operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended.

Montreuil was stopped Jan. 2 on M-81 near Doerr Road.

Jeffrey J. Michalski, 1846 N. Kingston Rd., Deford, pleaded guilty Monday to failure to report a personal injury accident.

He was ordered to pay $60 in fines, costs and fees, in addition to $70 for violation of the basic speed law and defective equipment.

Michalski's plea stems from a Dec. 6 incident on Elmwood Road near Cemetery Road.

A Muskegon man was sentenced Friday for trespassing—refusal to depart. James E. Anderson, 53, 1942 Wood St., was sentenced to 2 years probation and ordered to pay $50 in fines and costs, and a $25 warrant fee.

The sentence relates to an incident Dec. 5 in Elkland Township.

Dick Root receives plaque for long tenure with Elkland Fire Department

"It's something that gets in your blood. If I wasn't on it, I'd be chasing the thing anyway," said Richard Root, a volunteer for the Elkland Township Fire Department for the last 35 years.

Root was recognized for his dedicated service to the department Jan. 17 in which he received a plaque at a dinner held at the Wildwood Farms Restaurant. "It was kind of a surprise," said Root. "They usually give a plaque after 25 years, but they never had anyone stay for 35 years." Root started his career with the fire department in 1952 when the department expanded its manpower from 12 to 15. "After 10 years I thought I'd get tired of it and quit," said Root.

According to Root, the department has seen a lot of changes over the years. "You fight fires scientifically now," he said. "You just don't go in there with a bunch of water. If you attack the fire the proper way you can save a lot of material." However, fighting fires has become more hazardous over the years. There are a lot of toxic materials in furniture and plastics. Anything you have in the house now is very toxic," Root said.

Root remembered fighting fires without the aid of air tanks, but because of the toxic materials the tanks are a must.

Another change is the amount of machinery the department has acquired over the years. When Root first started the department only had 2 pumps. Today it owns a tanker, a rescue wagon, a grass buggy (for wilderness fires) and an air compressor.

One of the important changes, Root said, is the fire fighters are better educated than in the past. "Every one of our members has at least 66 hours of basic fire fighting training," he said. Root has 260 hours and "many (firemen) have about 200 hours of training." Along with basic training the firemen are trained in arson investigation, rescue and other areas of fire fighting.

According to Root, fire fighting is a lot of hard work during the fire and after. "First thing you do at the scene of the fire is lay lines (laying out the hoses). It's hard work," said Root. "Fighting the fire is quite a chore." But, once the fire is out the firemen still have work to do. They have to pick up all the hoses, clean them, let them dry, then replace them on the truck. "It's a good hour's work," said Root. "We also have to make sure our equipment is ready to go."

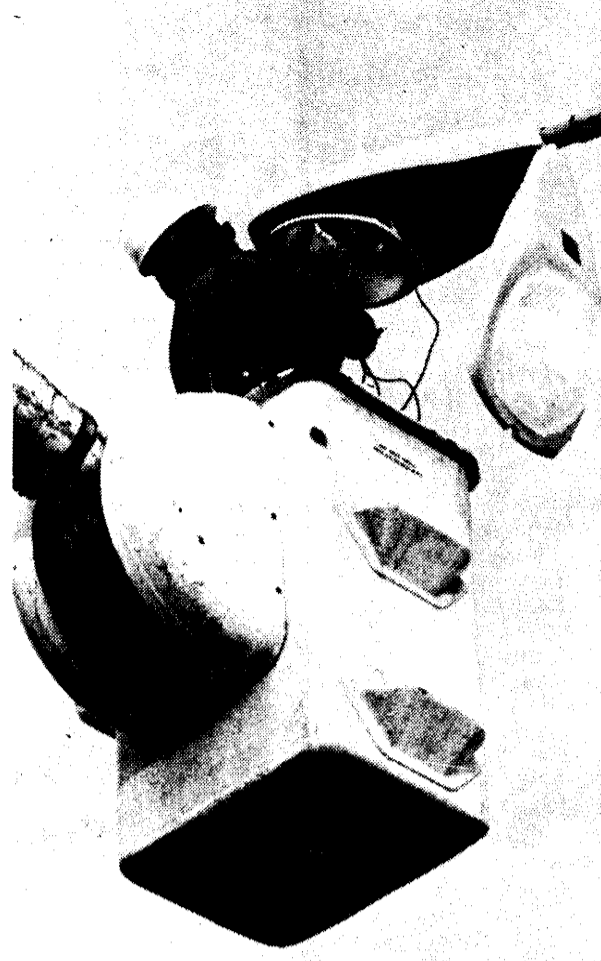

Root is not only a fireman, he has held more than 10 positions in the fire fighting area. He was assistant chief and chief of the Elkland Township Fire Department, president of both the Tuscola County Firemen Association and Huron County Firemen Association, as well as other positions.

Root says he plans to continue his job at the department. "As long as I can do the department good and the community good, I'll stay on. Once I become a hindrance, I'll quit," he said.

Cass City couple named chairpersons

Cass City residents Loren and Dana O'Harris, 5526 Dodge Rd., have been named chairpersons of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau's 1987 membership campaign.

Under the area couple's leadership, volunteer farm members in the county will aim at a goal of 2,849 families, which is Tuscola County's portion of the total Michigan Farm Bureau goal of 100,000 family memberships.

CONTRACTORS working for Detroit Edison are expected to complete conversion of Cass City's downtown lighting from 400-watt mercury vapor to 400-watt high pressure sodium this week. The project is expected to result in greater visibility at night.

Fatal vehicle accidents and related deaths on the rise in Tuscola County

A final tally of fatal accidents and persons killed in accidents in Tuscola County during 1986 isn't due until sometime in June, but figures already show that 1986 was the most costly in at least the past 5 years.

A total of 17 fatal accidents were recorded in the county in 1986, with 19 persons killed, according to statistics provided by the Michigan State Police Traffic Services Division.

The figures aren't final yet because the number of fatalities includes persons who die within 90 days of an accident date.

The 1986 death toll is more than double of that recorded in 1982, when 8 persons were killed in 8 accidents. The number of both accidents and fatalities has risen consistently since 1982.

In 1983, 9 accidents left 10 persons dead, while 14 accidents in 1984 resulted in 15 deaths. In 1985, 17 persons were killed in 15 accidents.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded fewer fatal and injury accidents, but more damage accidents in 1986, according to the Sheriff Paul Berry's December report to the County Board of Commissioners.

The report states that 10 fatal accidents and 12 persons killed were recorded by the department, compared to 11 accidents and 13 persons killed in 1985; 295 injury accidents, compared to 325 in 1985; and 844 damage accidents, compared to

Democrat to head County Board

County government history was made for the 2nd time in the past 3 months last week when the County Board of Commissioners narrowly approved the first Democrat ever as chairman.

The new board, at its Jan. 13 meeting, also decided that the position of emergency services director/veterans counselor will be directly responsible to the Health Board.

Millington's William Worth (District 7) won the chairman seat, formerly held by outgoing chairman and District 4 commissioner Christopher Taylor (R-Caro), on a 4-3 vote.

New District 2 Commissioner Kim D. Glaspie (D-Cass City) nominated Worth, while new District 1 Commissioner Terry Houthoofd (R-Akron) sealed Worth's election.

Glaspie made county history in the Nov. 4 general election when he defeated veteran commissioner Royce Russell by 3 votes to become the first Democrat elected to represent District 2.

Worth won the chairmanship over District 5 Commissioner Michael Green (R-Mayville), who had been nominated by Taylor. Green received votes from District 3 Commissioner John H. Goodchild (R-Fairgrove) and Taylor. Worth, meanwhile, was supported by Glaspie, Houthoofd and District 6 Commissioner Robert Russell (D-Vassar).

Concerning the emergency services/veterans counselor position, now held by James McCann, the board rejected on a 4-3 vote a motion by Goodchild that the position be held accountable to the county controller. Voting "no" were Green, Glaspie, Taylor and Houthoofd. Goodchild then made a motion, which was approved, to make the position administratively responsible to the Health Board and health officer.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business last week, the board approved a new committee structure which is reduced from 6 to 3 committees.

Green, who was reelected vice-chairman of the board, will chair the finance committee. Also on the committee are Russell and Houthoofd. Goodchild remains chairman of the personnel committee, with Glaspie and Taylor as members, while Russell and Goodchild are on the buildings and grounds committee, with Taylor as chairman.

The board also approved a motion to hold its 2nd meeting of the month in January, February and March beginning at 6 p.m.

The board's Feb. 10 meeting was rescheduled for Feb. 13.

Few mishaps reported despite snow

Despite a snowy weekend, only 3 vehicle accidents—all occurring Jan. 13-14—were reported to the Cass City Police Department during the past 8 days.

A vehicle owned by Virginia Zawilinski, 4355 Leach St., Cass City, was hit Jan. 13 while parked on Leach Street north of Third Street. Slight damage to the vehicle was reported.

Garry H. Randall, 4907 E. Milligan Rd., also reported a "hit and run" vehicle accident. Randall's vehicle was slightly damaged Jan. 13 when it was hit while parked in the General Cable Co. parking lot.

A car/deer mishap was reported by Bruce L. LeValley, 4225 Sherman St. LeValley was westbound on Cass City Road about 1/4 mile west of Crawford Road Jan. 14 when he hit the animal, the report stated.

Traffic mishaps blamed on slick roads and deer

A 24-year-old Cass City man was treated and released at Hills and Dales General Hospital Sunday for injuries sustained in an early morning accident on E. Cass City Road 1/2 mile east of Hurds Corner Rd.

John G. Churchill, 4131 Krapf Rd., was eastbound on Cass City Road at 1 a.m. when he lost control of his vehicle on the slippery roadway, according to a Tuscola County Sheriff's Department report. Churchill's vehicle spun around and went into a ditch.

The report indicated the vehicle received slight damage.

A 16-year-old Kingston youth was cited for driving left of a road center line following a 2-car mishap Saturday afternoon.

The youth was southbound on Phillips Rd. and attempted to slow down to stop and talk to the driver of a northbound vehicle on the same road when he slid into the northbound vehicle. The accident occurred south of E. Sanilac Rd.

Greg S. Haebler, 2274 S. Kingston Rd., Kingston, was the driver of the northbound vehicle, which sustained moderate damage. The other vehicle received slight damage, according to the report.

Slight damage also was reported in an accident Jan. 12. Kenneth Matthews, 4314 Dale Rd., Cass City, was southbound on Cedar Run Road north of Cass City Road when he lost control of his vehicle on an icy patch. The vehicle slid into a ditch after hitting a mailbox.

David L. Babcock, 3491 Deckerville Rd., Cass City, was eastbound on Deckerville Road west of Kingston Road Jan. 13 when he hit a deer.

The mishap, which occurred at about 5:50 a.m., resulted in slight damage to Babcock's vehicle.

Daniel E. Palazzola, 4815 Germania Rd., Snover, also reported hitting a deer.

Palazzola reported that he was westbound on Cass City Road east of Schwegler Road at about 6:10 p.m. Jan. 14 when the mishap occurred. Slight damage to the vehicle was reported.

STATE POLICE REPORTS

The State Police Post in Caro reported 2 minor-damage accidents relating to the Cass City area.

Richard D. Spencer, 1150 Gun Club Rd., Caro, reported hitting a deer in Elington Township at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Spencer was eastbound on Deckerville Road about 1/2 mile west of Murray Road when the accident occurred.

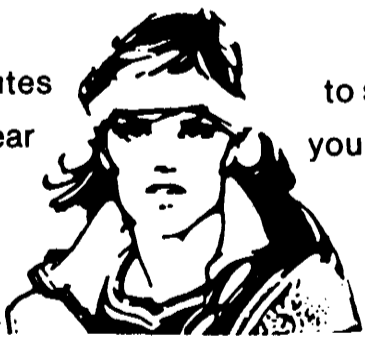

David A. Dunn, 6848 Heron Drive, Cass City, was westbound on Akron Road west of French Road in Elington Township Jan. 12 when he lost control of his vehicle on the snow-covered roadway. Dunn's vehicle slid into a ditch, but little damage was sustained.

Your neighbor says King was great civil rights leader

Monday marked the second national holiday in remembrance of the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was assassinated April 4, 1968. King, who would have turned 58 on Monday, is still recognized as a pioneer for civil rights by Cass City resident Gary Binder.

The 24-year-old office manager for Shetter's Plumbing and Heating admitted having trouble recalling memories about Dr. King from his childhood, but was well aware of Dr. King's contributions to society.

"He was a great black American civil (rights) leader," responded Gary when asked if he knew who Dr. King was. Gary went on to say that, although Dr. King was assassinated years ago, "(I) still feel his voice is heard today. (He) opened the doors for many black people."

Gary, who lives at 4786 Hospital Drive, is the son of Nelson and Eunice Binder of Pigeon. Binder believes that a black family would have no problems living in the Cass City area. "Everybody is so friendly in Cass City; people are welcomed with open arms." Gary, who is a member of the Cass City Jaycees, was of the opinion that a black person in rural America would probably face more discrimination than one in the city because there are few blacks to associate with in the rural area.

Binder moved to Cass City about 3 years ago to assume his job as office manager. He is a native of Pigeon.

Card of Thanks

WE WISH TO thank all our dear friends for the beautiful flower arrangements, cards, donations to Leader Dogs School at Rochester, MI, and St. Pancratius organ fund. It was heartwarming and consoling to the family for the reaching out across the miles at this time of sorrow. Ron would have been so proud! Wife Eloise Keegan, children, Ronald, Beverly, Judith, Jacqueline, and their families. 13-1-21-1

THANK YOU, Tom Proctor. Tom Proctor, owner of Old Wood Drug in Cass City, chose last week to remove all of the X-rated videos from his store. We want to express our appreciation to him for making that choice. Tom, as a respected leader of this community, has set an example that we hope will be followed by all other businesses of this county that supply X-rated videos for rent. We would also like to commend Tom for his selection of Christian books displayed in his store. We encourage you to support him by making use of this opportunity to purchase Christian books right here in our community. Appreciative Parent. 13-1-21-1

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Dear Brother Willie,
 You ought to be pretty humble these days, with stocks going up, up, up, and your old bonds moggling along, doing nothing. Don't you ever get bored with the things? I'm sure your readers do.

I must admit my income is pretty good, and Fred doesn't have to pay any taxes on my things -- but it's all very dull.

I hear you and Jeanne are going to Antarctica. By public demand?

BABY SISTER

Dear Baby Sister -- or should I call you Maude:
 I thought the holiday season might mellow you. Antarctica should lend enchantment to certain kin-folk of mine.

I never argue unless the facts are unavailable. This time they just happen to be, and I will try to make this as simple as possible, omitting decimal points and %'s. That last symbol, for your information, does not mean "in care of."

Recently the Wall Street Journal published results of many kinds of investments in 1986. When you compare stocks and bonds and rare coins, and CD's and real estate, it's like comparing apples and oranges and onions and tennis balls. If you don't recognize the differences then you should quit doing the cooking.

Keeping this in mind, here are the results in percentages gained or lost during the year. The figure includes dividends or interest, if any, plus capital gains, if any:

STOCKS 1986 % up or down

Dow Jones
 Industrials ..... 27.25
 (The Dow Industrials include 30 major stocks. All dividends are taxable. Figure includes price gains.)

Standard & Poor
 500 stocks ..... 18.57
 (The S & P 500 is widely used, and is a wider cross section of the whole market, although it's often quite close to the Dow.)

BONDS:
 Long-term (20 to 30 years) (governments) .... 24.20
 (Taxable. AAA rated, safest of all.)
 Municipal (tax free) bonds ..... 19.32

MUTUAL FUNDS:
 Growth & Income Funds ..... 17.11
 (Hundreds of varieties of mutual funds. Above is average of all domestic ones. Dividends plus price gains in figure. Taxable.)

BANK CD's:
 2½ year CD's ..... 7.33
 (Safe, insured by gov't but only up to $100,000. Non-marketable. Must be held to maturity or pay a penalty. Taxable. No capital gains.)

PRECIOUS METALS:
 Gold ..... 24.0
 Silver ..... 6.0
 (No dividends or interest. Storage charges sometimes. Heavy commission costs to buy and sell. Under old law, if held more than 6 months, long term capital gains if value goes up.)

ONE-FAMILY HOMES
 ..... 11.5%
 (Hardly an investment, but we include it anyway. Commissions and taxes and upkeep would amount to more than the 1986 gain in price, if you had planned to make money in this field.)

COLLECTIBLES:
 Paintings ..... 4.6
 Rare coins, top grade ..... 5.0
 (Commissions heavy in these fields. Marketability poor. No returns unless prices go up, and then they'd be capital gains under old law. New law, flat 28% on all capital gains.)
 Note that the "total returns" are all BEFORE TAXES

Assume a 38% bracket (joint return for about $48,000 to $62,000 of taxable income).

Assume for stocks, bonds and mutual funds that half of "total return" figures are capital gains. At 1986 rates, with income figures just stated, capital gains rate is 15.2%.

For CD's, all return is taxed income at assumed rate of 38%.

Gold and silver, coins, paintings, and real estate, all "total return" is capital gains. So we apply the 15.2% rate just computed.

For our li' darlin's, those municipal bonds you malign, interest income is exempt. The other half is at 15.2% capital gains rate.

Now, there's the revised, real, after-tax return for the vast bunch of investors -- the 38%-bracket ones:

AFTER-TAX TOTAL RETURN, 1986

Dow Jones stocks ..... %
 Std & Poor 500 stocks ..... 13.64
 Gov't bonds ..... 18.0
 Tax-free municipals ..... 18.22
 Mutual funds ..... 12.57
 Bank CD's ..... 4.98
 Paintings ..... 3.90
 Gold ..... 20.35
 Silver ..... -5.09
 One-family homes ..... 9.75

There's no comparison in the safety offered by government bonds and municipal bonds vs. stocks and other investments. They have better marketability than anything except stocks, and they do promise you'll get your money back. Even gold doesn't promise that.

The people who bought IBM at 160 last spring and now see it at 125 must envy some of us with our guaranteed pay-out from bonds.

In 1987 you could possibly pay out more in capital gains taxes than in regular income taxes. No use figuring that now. Maybe we won't have any capital gains. One thing for dang sure, though, we're going to have over twice as much after-tax income from municipals as we would have from a basketful of stocks.

Keep sweet. And keep away from the stock market.

Lovable Brother, BILL

Public restrooms priority for village, survey reveals

With about a 50 percent return of a shopper survey sponsored by the Cass City Economic Development Commission in, a need for public restrooms has emerged as a high-priority.

The survey, as well as a suggestion that the Chamber of Commerce might be able to set up an office at the now-vacant Cultural Arts Building, was discussed at a regular CCEDC meeting Jan. 13.

Of the alternatives discussed last week concerning public restrooms, including construction of such facilities, a suggestion that an arrangement be made with retailers probably is the most desirable, according to commission member Gerald Prieskorn. "I would like to work something out with individual store owners," he explained. "We want to encourage the retailers to make their restrooms more available where it's feasible."

"I think everybody would like to have" public restrooms. "But where do you build it? The village doesn't own any property uptown (and) you just can't set up a porta-potty," Prieskorn continued. He noted that even with heavy-duty fixtures, vandalism to such structures would be likely, not to mention problems with maintenance and cleaning.

Other high-priority items mentioned concerning the survey are installation of benches, lower gas prices, grocery stores being open on Sunday and more landscaping in the village.

"I would think we'd have a better idea" when all the surveys have been returned, Prieskorn said.

The survey, expected to be completed this week, is the second questionnaire distributed by the commission recently. A less in-depth survey was completed in October. Some 78 persons answered that questionnaire, with a majority stating they're most impressed with the area's friendly clerks.

The current survey, distributed to several local business and other offices, seeks information such as age, address, preferred shopping locations, and a rating of downtown businesses.

CHAMBER OFFICE?

A proposal to the Cass City Chamber of Commerce concerning possible office space in the downtown area was discussed.

According to commission chairman Lambert Althaver, discussion of the proposal was very preliminary.

"It was... an offer on the part of the company (Walbro Corp.) through me to make" the Cultural Arts Building, owned by the firm, available, he said.

"There was some discussion that maybe part of the strength of the whole downtown area would be having a chamber office downtown," Althaver explained.

Currently, chamber office activities are conducted through the village Municipal Building.

split grades at Evergreen and Deford schools. Serving will be the 3 grade principals. Also serving on the committee will be 3 representatives from the teachers' union and 3 citizens at large agreeable to the rest of the committee.

Representing the teachers will be Barbara Kirn, Barbara Tuckey and Donna Emerson. The committee was agreed to in negotiations with the Tri-County Bargaining Association.

Betsy Dillon explained the elementary physical education program. She spends 45 minutes once a week with students and is pleased with the program, although she says the time she has with each student is not enough to build muscle mass.

Fred Matthews reported on an Intermediate School Board meeting he attended that outlined the difficulties that the district is having with meeting expenses at the Highland Pine School for retarded children. A combination of a 50 percent reduction in student load and the reduction in valuation in the county has placed the operation in the red. Although nothing definite was decided at the meeting, Matthews told the board that he would not be surprised if the Intermediate District would seek a one-mill tax in the future.

Contracts for 7 teachers in the Cass City Adult High School completion courses were approved. They are: Donald Markel, U. S. History; Kathy Tuckey, writing skills; Deb Hobbs, basic math; Don Schelke, government; Marilyn Peters, reading improvement, and Pamela Roth, science.

A survey of the steam traps at the Campbell Elementary and Intermediate School buildings was authorized for an estimated $622. A.B.C. Steam Company was hired. Crouse told the board that the survey is apt to be the least expensive part of the project. The heating units are providing uneven heat and are losing efficiency, Crouse told the board.

Survey indicates credit card interest high

The Michigan Citizens Lobby reported its recent survey shows major Michigan banks are charging unjustifiably high interest rates on the credit cards they issue, but found that consumers can get better deals at some smaller banks.

The survey, completed by the state's largest consumer organization, was done in cooperation with a number of other state and national organizations to kick off a nationwide "Fight and Switch" campaign to combat what they characterized as excessive bank credit card interest rates.

"Our first goal is to provide consumers with adequate information so they can switch their credit card accounts to banks which have more reasonable interest rates. If the competitive system doesn't work, our next course of action is to ask Congress for a lower cap on rates and better disclosure standards," Joseph Tuchinsky, director of the Citizens Lobby said.

The survey found the state's 10 largest credit-card issuing banks all charging the legal maximum of 18 percent interest on purchases financed through their MasterCard and Visa credit cards.

That is also the average rate charged nationally, Tuchinsky said.

The lowest interest rates found in national surveys, 10.5 percent, are at Simmons First National and Union National Bank in Arkansas.

"If all banks would adopt such a reasonable interest rate on credit cards, U.S. consumers would save more than $4 billion each year," Tuchinsky said.

He said the major institutions have refused to compete against each other by cutting interest rates.

Tuchinsky said lower interest rates were found in Michigan at First National Bank of Mt. Clemens, which charges $10 a year for its Visa and MasterCard and has a 15 percent interest rate, and Security Savings Bank in Jackson, which currently has a 14.9 percent rate. Both institutions accept applications from anywhere in Michigan.

Don Heikkinen, senior vice-president of the Michigan Bankers Association, defended the interest rate levels, saying bank cards are a more costly method of providing credit than conventional loans such as mortgages and car loans.

"Cards are also the highest credit risk of all. I don't think an 18 percent rate is necessarily unreasonable, but I do think consumers should shop around for a better deal," Heikkinen said.

Bob Sznawajs, senior vice-president of Michigan National Corporation, the state's largest issuer of bank cards, said the market determines interest rates on credit cards and all other financing.

"There are different types of credit cards and rates available for consumers," Mr. Sznawajs said. "At Michigan National, we have an 18 percent interest rate, but we offer a 25-day interest-free grace period for customers who pay off their monthly balance. Some people choose to do all their banking at one place, and value the enhancements offered by institutions that charge an 18 percent interest rate," he said.

warded to Michigan headquarters to participate in a state-wide drawing for free prizes.

Tuscola County will also have a program commemorating the event at the courthouse in Caro. All counties in Michigan are expected to observe the date, Monday, that Michigan was accepted into the Union. The program in Caro is expected to start at 11:45 a.m. and will include the pledge of allegiance to the Michigan flag, the unfurling of the sesquicentennial flag, a reading of the statehood admission bill and a reading of the governor's proclamation.

and Lambert Althaver, chairman of the Economic Development Committee.

An unusual feature of the program will be a dozen or more grade school pupils who will be dressed the way they would be if they achieve the goal of being what they want to be as adults.

In addition to the sesquicentennial dinner, the community will also participate in a state-wide celebration program. Various merchants have drawing coupons in their stores. When winners are drawn, the names will be for-

Letters to the editor

Hospital boss disputes story

Dear John:
 I am concerned about one of the damage suits reported on the front page of your newspaper last week.

For a newspaper who prides itself in reporting factual information for the purpose of informing the public this story is slanted, biased, grossly incomplete, and, therefore, misleading to the reader.

The alleged complaint filed last week indicates the parties (in order) as:

RICHARD A. HALL, individually UNKNOWN PARTIES ONE and UNKNOWN PARTIES TWO, as described in the Complaint, Jointly and severally,

Defendants

Lynette M. Harder is not an elected official, a public servant nor a celebrity, therefore, I cannot understand why any reporter, or Editor, would want to publish on its front page very personal painful medical conditions which are about as private (hopefully) as anything can be. Are these personal physical abnormalities worthy information for informing the public? Personally, I feel it's irresponsible journalism, and in bad taste at that. Shame on you!

Sincerely,
 Ken E. Jensen

Honest man surprise to Otulakowski

Cass City Chronicle,
 Thanks to one small ad in your paper and an honest man, I had a tool box returned to me that was lost Dec. 14.

I never expected to see that tool box again. It is good to know we have people like David Matthews of Hadley Rd. among us.

Thanks,

BEEF-ZUCCHINI 'N PEPPER KABOBS

1½ pounds beef sirloin steak, cut into 1½-inch cubes
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup red wine vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon leaf oregano
¼ teaspoon cracked black pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
3 small zucchini, cut crosswise into 1-inch pieces
2 red peppers, each cut into 12 pieces
Salt

Combine salad oil, wine vinegar, sugar, oregano, pepper and garlic in small saucepan; cook slowly in plastic bag or utility dish, turning to coat meat.
Tie bag securely or cover dish and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight). Pour off and reserve marinade. Cut crosswise slits. ¼-inch Alternately thread beef cubes, red pepper and
