County officials struggle with sinking valuations

Recommended 1987 Tuscola County equalization figures released this week confirm predictions that even tougher times are ahead for area farmers, out-of-formula school districts and local government.

A continuing trend of plummeting agricultural land values, as expected, is the big story among the recommended equalization figures.

Proposed reductions in the value of agricultural property, which makes up about 50 percent of the county, are being referred to as the biggest one-year decreases in memory.

In all, 12 townships sustained reductions of 26 percent or more, with the highest recommended reduction, 37.51 percent, being in Gifford Township. The lowest drop was in Millington Township, at 8.56 percent.

County-wide, agricultural property for 1987 is expected to drop by 29.34 percent from the previous year. The true cash value of the land is set at $440 million, compared to $622 million in 1986.

Overall, the total true cash value of all property in the county is expected to decrease 13.69 percent, with a recommended total value of $1.138 billion in 1987, compared to $1.318 billion in 1986.

Substantial reductions in agricultural property, which were seen last year for the first time in about 10 years, didn't surprise local and county officials, including Equalization Director Donald Graf.

"You could see it coming," Graf remarked Monday. "The (agricultural) values were high—they had a long ways to drop, and that's what they did."

Economic woes in the form of depressed farm commodity prices, climbing expenses and unprecedented flooding last fall are among the culprits for the downward trend, which Graf says probably will continue. "I think (the values) are going to decrease some more next year in some areas," he added.

Graf pointed out that agricultural property values began to rise in 1976 and continued upward through 1985. The true cash value of all agricultural property in the county that year was some $727 million, which decreased by about 14 percent in 1986.

In terms of soil/land types, the most expensive property in the county has been affected the most, Graf noted.

The top quality Flat Land, which occupies the northwestern third of the county, is valued at $1,300 per acre, compared to $2,700 an acre in 1985. Ridge Land, which occupies a stretch from Vassar to Cass City, is valued at $900, compared to $1,600 in 1985, and property south of the Cass River in the remaining southeastern portion of the county is for the most part valued at $650, compared to $1,000 in 1985.

Simpson fire loss set at $95,000

A suspected electrical fire aided by fierce winds Sunday morning is being blamed for the total loss of a house 9 miles northeast of Cass City.

There were no injuries in the blaze, according to Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., but damage estimates have been set at a total of $95,000—$65,000 for the home and $30,000 for personal property, including a valuable gun collection.

The home, located at 7711 Germania Road, is owned by Eugene Simpson, Root said, adding that Simpson's son, Bryan, was living at the residence when the fire broke out.

Elkland Township fire fighters were called at about 9:30 a.m. to assist a unit from Uby, but the house was "fully engulfed" by the time firemen arrived, Root explained.

"We had a terrible time getting there. Visibility was zero in some areas."

"We didn't have a Please turn to page 16.

"It reflects the direction that farm land's gone," Elkland Township Supervisor David J. Milligan observed. "I think (the report) is a pretty fair reflection" of values.

It's going to make a difference, there's no doubt about it," Milligan continued. "It's nice when the tax bill comes, but it's not nice when you find out you're not worth what you used to be."

The supervisor noted that it's difficult to determine agricultural property values currently.

FEW SALES

"It's hard to tell where the land market is—nobody knows (because) there haven't been any sales," he remarked.

Columbia Township Supervisor John H. Desimpelare agreed, adding, "There aren't a lot of sales to contradict or support" the figures. "It's hard to say."

Referring to the estimated drop in agricultural property values as a "drastic situation," Desimpelare observed, "When your income is based on valuation and it drops that severely, it's going to hurt."

In Novesta Township, Supervisor William O'Dell echoed the other supervisors' comments, but indicated he believes the estimated decrease in his township should be greater. The assessment, he added, "should be (-15.26) and more."

"I guess we'll just accept their recommendation. That's all we can do," O'Dell commented. "Sales are slowing up and it's hard to tell what the farm land is worth because nobody's buying it."

PROCEDURE

The recommended equalization figures will be presented to the County Board of Commissioners at its Feb. 13 meeting. Meanwhile, township supervisors have already received the report and are making adjustments up or down on individual assessments.

The value of each farm as required by state law is supposed to be 50 percent of the true cash value, though a range of 49 to 51 percent is acceptable.

Individual property owners who disagree with their assessor can appeal to their township boards of review, which meet in early March.

When the review boards are finished, their figures go to the county boards, which can accept each township's figures or make changes. The counties must adopt their final equalization report in April.

From there, the reports go to the State Tax Commission, which can impose a factor county-wide if it feels a county's valuation is too low or too high.

O-G Board debates plea for change in bus policy

A debate over who should decide whether or not sports/spectator buses stop at fast food restaurants was reopened during a nearly 4-hour Owen-Gage Board of Education meeting Monday night.

Also during the lengthy monthly session, the board learned that a hearing on the Belk property dispute between the Owen-Gage and Cass City school districts will be held by the State Board of Education beginning at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 18 in Lansing.

The debate over food stops, which was initiated by resident Darlene Dorsch, ended in few direct answers.

The board approved a motion to reduce sports transportation to one bus for both athletes and spectators unless there is a guarantee of at least 25 non-players attending a certain event. The action was based on a maximum spectator attendance of 14 students during the current school year.

But Dorsch, who previously brought the matter before the board in November, wasn't satisfied.

"I want to know who's going to make the decision" concerning whether a bus stops at a fast food restaurant on the way to or from a sports event, she remarked. Dorsch referred to an incident where a spectator bus stopped, while a player bus was not allowed to stop. The end result, she added, was a number of students returning home late without having eaten.

"It just ticks me off because it's not fair," she continued.

Board members debated who has the final authority—coaches or bus drivers—on making food stops.

Board member Donald Cummins indicated the coaches are responsible for students outside the bus, but other board members said the bus drivers are liable for students.

Board President Ronald Good commented that the decision should be left up to coaches and bus drivers, as is currently being done. "I think that's the place to leave it," he added.

A motion by board member Mary A. Abbe to ban all food stops was ignored. Said Abbe, "I'm sick of the partiality."

The board, which indicated that the bus drivers have the final say, agreed with a suggestion from a member of the audience that parents should send food with their children.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business Monday, the board met with about 20 noncertified school employees in an hour-long executive session to discuss the board's recent decision to continue a wage freeze. The closed session was requested by the employees.

The board opened several bids for a new bus. The board, audience members

Deford MMPA local sees problem with new drug

Place mats and napkins with the "Real" milk cow telling people why they should drink milk decorated the tables in the basement of the Shabbona United Methodist Church. But, for the 40 people who used the paper products, the message was not needed, because they were members of the Deford Local Michigan Milk Producers Association.

The MMPA held its annual meeting Saturday, when they shared lunch, talked about concerns and elected their 1987-1988 officers.

According to President Les Severance, the MMPA is a milk marketing co-op of dairy farmers. "Dairy farmers got together and organized a co-op to market our milk," said Severance. At the meeting, attended by the farmers and their families, one of the main concerns was the technology that the farmers will soon have to deal with.

A new growth hormone called, Growth Hormone Releasing Factor, is being tested by Michigan State University. According to the Deford MMPA Coordinator, Bill Satchell, the tests have shown a 26 percent increase in milk production. GRF is not expected to be on the market for another 8 to 10 years.

What concerned many of the farmers at the meeting was the problem they were having selling the amount of milk they produce now. With the government trying to stabilize the milk market with the National Buyout Program, the farmers didn't understand why there were tests being done to increase the production of milk.

Satchell told the farmers that "Technology is coming and you must use it to the best of your ability."

Bruce Protzman, who spoke on supply management, said the growth hormone, "is in the future and it is hanging over our heads." It is a competitive profit to "bring down production costs, but at the same time raise your milk," said Protzman. "We are going to get an increase in production if we keep the same amount of animals we have."

The National Buyout Program, according to Severance, is a program instituted by Congress a year ago that gives the farmers an option to sell their cows and to get out of production. Three farmers who attended the meeting will not be back next year because they are participating in

Walbro, O-G in work co-op plan

Owen-Gage School and Walbro Corp. officials are discussing a cooperative proposal designed to give students first-hand experience relating to the work environment.

The program, which is still in the planning stages, was briefly outlined by Owendale High School Principal Robert Andrews during a Board of Education meeting Monday night.

According to Andrews, the program, called "Partnership in Education," is designed to develop various educational activities in the school, work place and community which offer students an opportunity to attain excellence in their chosen educational fields.

"I think it's a great idea for our students to get involved," Andrews told the board. "It's great that (Walbro) decided to work along with us."

The principal stated that he met with Walbro's Director of Human Resources, Don G. Tonti, who indicated that the corporation will meet with school officials concerning Walbro's objectives and guidelines for the program.

Andrews explained that the program includes a variety of objectives to be reached through activities involving business and students.

The objectives include students receiving an increased awareness of career related topics, enhanced academic achievement, expansion of the program to include all businesses in the district and to serve as a model for other small, rural districts.

Tax increases sure for schools out of formula

Perhaps the hardest hit by lower property values are school districts whose out-of-formula status means being out of luck concerning lost revenue.

While the state may have to make up millions of dollars in lost property tax revenue in poorer, in-formula school districts, revenue lost in wealthier, out-of-formula districts is simply lost.

Implications of an expected 22 percent decrease in the 1987-88 school year in the Owen-Gage School District's state equalized valuation is being pondered by school officials there.

"It has to go to the finance committee, (which will) find out what holes we have to fill," school Supt. Harley Kirby commented Monday.

The expected loss of revenue will probably result in the need for an additional 4 mills for the next school year in addition to renewal of existing operational millage if the figures don't change, he added.

Kirby expressed concern about whether residents will understand the need for additional millage. "It's the same money, but you have to ask for more millage" to make up for the loss of property value.

"That's what the people have to understand," he continued. Of the 6 townships in the Owen-Gage district, expected decreases in agricultural property values in 1987 range from 14 percent in Huron County's Grant Township to 33.49 percent in Tuscola County's Columbia Township.

The situation is similar in the Akron-Fairgrove School District.

"We could have a budget deficit of $800,000 in 1987-88," Akron-Fairgrove Supt. John Smith said, adding that his district's SEV has dropped some 37 percent from the 1985-86 school year to 1987-88.

A mill in the district raised about $93,000 in 1985-86, but the same mill will bring in only about $59,000 in the next school year, he continued.

"In a district like ours, 97 percent of our revenues come from local sources, and 80 percent of that revenue comes from agricultural property," Smith explained. "It's a very difficult situation."

Even with the drop in property value, the district won't be in-formula, but Smith expects that the district will begin to enter the in-formula status in 1988-89.

PLANNING AHEAD

For Reese School officials, planning ahead in the form of building up fund equity has helped in coping with financial problems.

School Supt. Charles H. Tworck stated that the district expects a loss of $500,000 in property taxes in the next school year, which officials hope will be partly made up with 2 extra-voted mills. Residents will be asked to approve the millage increase at a special election March 9.

The school district sustained a 6 percent cut in SEV last year. Voters approved an additional mill, but the overall loss in revenue resulted in a reduction of services and transportation totalling $100,000.

The 2-mill request, if approved, will raise about $170,000, Tworck said, adding, "We've been planning for this year—we're going to be using some of our fund equity."

"We need about 5 mills over the next 3 or 4 years," he continued, adding that the district is expected to be in-formula during the next school year.

A number of area township officials, meanwhile, agree that recommended agricultural property values for their respective townships have decreased by at least as much as the county figures indicate.

2 eligible for 4-H Ford clinic

Tuscola County 4-H program is eligible to send 2 members to Dearborn for a 3-day program at Ford Motor World Headquarters.

The program called "Your Future - A Better Idea" is a statewide program sponsored by the Michigan 4-H Youth Programs and Ford Motor Company to help teens explore careers of the future.

The youth, from all over the state will gather April 28 and invest 3 days of intensive learning.

Some of the activities that the youth will participate in include:

- Visiting an assembly plant and seeing technology at work
- Visit an automobile dealership and interact with people who employ computer technology

Each youth will also be spending a morning with a person in the career area of their choice from Computer Applications Engineers to Systems Analysts. This type of program is a good example of the new direction of 4-H, giving youth a broader perspective of programming, says John Wurm, 4-H Youth Agent for Tuscola County. It is great to see that industry is getting involved with some of our High-Tech programs, says Wurm.

Anyone interested in this program or any other 4-H program is invited to contact the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Office or call 517-673-5999 ext. 228.

"If It Fitz..."

Bugged about cars

By Jim Fitzgerald

It is probably traitorous for a Detroit to admit it, but I don't like cars. I own two cars but always walk to work, or take the bus. I brag about how long it's been since my cars moved in the same way other people brag about how long it's been since they smoked a cigarette.

My 1977 Olds hasn't gone anywhere since last October. The only reason I still own it is because the dealer wouldn't give me anything for it when I bought a 1984 model. That made me angry.

All I want from a car is dependable transportation and reasonable comfort. I don't care how fast it goes, how much mileage it gets, what it looks like, or whether it's good for picking up sexy women. My 1977

Olds filled my requirements completely, and I resented some uppity dealer calling it worthless.

The only reason I bought a 1984 model was my wife, who is always driving out of town to buy something or visit someone. She decided it wasn't safe to be on the freeway alone in a car with more than 120,000 miles on the odometer. She said if I really loved her I wouldn't risk her life just to prove I'm an independent, unsupervised man unimpressed by optional equipment and strong enough to resist the slick entreaties of Lee Iacocca and other hucksters.

So I bought a new car to keep from becoming the villainous subject of a TV movie about a wife acquitted of murder — and subsequently elected president — because the only reason she killed her husband was to defend herself from dying of loneliness in a broken-down 1977 Oldsmobile marooned on I-75.

Disgustingly enough, although I seldom drive our family cars, I am responsible for their maintenance. Otherwise I have to iron my own shirts. So it was that last Saturday, after being told only 356 times that the right front tire of the '84 Olds was low, I agreed to do something about it.

Despite my exceedingly unmechanical bent, I thought it would be easy. My wife said any fool could put air in a tire, and I believed her. At the gas station, I was bugged to discover that air now costs 25 cents, but that didn't make me cry. The first whimper didn't come until, after bruising several knuckles, I became convinced there was no way in hell to affix the nozzle of the air hose to the tire valve stem, which was fiendishly obstructed by two spokes of the wire wheel cover.

How could such a thing be in a world full of tires that often need air?

A small boy passing by said I'd have to remove the wheel cover. It was locked. It took a long time — and more advice from the little boy — to find the key in the glove compartment because it didn't look like any damn key I'd ever seen.

With the wheel cover unlocked, I still couldn't remove it. The small boy said I'd have to pry the cover loose with the tire jack handle. What jack handle? The small boy said it was probably with my spare tire. That was when the whimpering turned to tears. I was humiliated to admit to a small boy that I had no idea where my spare tire was. It wasn't in the trunk.

I would have to take the floor out of the trunk to find the spare tire and jack handle, the small boy said. It was at this point that I put the small boy on my payroll. The financial cost of one short squish of air was $3.25. The cost to my psyche was much greater.

I don't understand a so-called civilized world that makes it so difficult to put air in a tire. Don't tell me that locked wheel covers thwart thieves. I had one stolen last year and it cost me $125. I learned that every self-respecting thief has his own wheel-cover key, easily obtained at the nearest car dealership. Besides, why doesn't the valve stem protrude outside the wheel cover?

Whatever happened to the old-fashioned hubcap? Why must the tire jack be located so you can't reach it without taking everything out of the trunk, including the floor? How come small boys are smarter than I am?

Stuff like that drives me nuts. I'm going to start ironing my own shirts.

The next major step ahead in the computer of the future is a machine that thinks. Regrettably, the future is here now at the Chronicle. How else would these machines know enough to break down only when you need them most? How else would they know to break down together rather than separately?

There was a time when most machines at the Chronicle could be repaired by a mechanically inclined repairman with an extra dose of common sense and a willingness to sweat a little.

Those days are long gone and a malfunction requires bringing the machine to the specialist or having the specialist come to repair the machine.

We went through a siege of the last 2 weeks. Three different repairmen were here a total of about 20 hours to fix a typesetter. A dozen different circuit boards were checked and rechecked. Still the problem continued.

The problem was finally solved when it was discovered that a rubber roller used to advance film needed cleaning. That's all that it was.

So even in advanced computers sometimes the problem is similar to ones that were found in cars before the arrival of the computer chip. It's no secret that repairing today's automobile is getting more and more difficult to the repairman that isn't checked out on the latest auto electronics.

Regardless, the good mechanic will still have a place. Let me tell you the story about our 1981 diesel. About a year ago it suffered the malady that many of them come down with. Just

December rates up

'86 unemployment rates down in area from '85

Unemployment rates in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties were up in the final month of 1986, despite a statewide trend of lower rates due to increased employment during the holidays.

The annual average unemployment rates for Sanilac and Tuscola counties, however, were down in 1986 compared to the previous year.

In Tuscola County, the rate in December was 10.3 percent, down by .2 of a percent from November. The total labor force increased by 350 persons to 22,025 in December, while there were 275 additional employed workers. Jobless workers increased by 50 to 2,250.

Sanilac County recorded the largest unemployment rate increase among the 3 counties for December, .9 of a percent to 9.9 percent.

Based on a labor force of 18,225, up by only 25 persons from November, the county had 125 fewer employed workers for a total of 16,425, while the number of unemployed workers jumped by 150 persons.

Huron County's unemployment rate for December was 10.0 percent, up by .2 of a percent from November. Both the labor force and number of employed workers dropped by 350 persons to 15,725 and 14,150, respectively. The number of jobless workers, meanwhile, remained the same at 1,575.

The annual average unemployment rate in Tuscola and Sanilac counties in 1986 was more than a 1 percent lower than the 1985 average, according to Michigan Employment Security Commission figures.

Tuscola County's 1986 average rate was 12.5 percent, compared to 13.6 percent in 1985, while Sanilac County recorded an average rate of 10.6 percent in 1986, compared to 11.9 percent the previous year.

Huron County experienced a slight increase in the average annual rate, which was 11.6 percent in 1986 and 11.4 percent in 1985.

Statewide, seasonal hiring during the December holiday period caused unemployment rates in most of Michigan's 12 major labor market areas to decline in December, according to MESC Director Richard Simmons Jr.

The MESC reported earlier in January that statewide unemployment fell to 7.6 percent in December from 8.0 percent in November. The number of jobless workers in the state declined by 19,000 during the month to 340,000.

Simmons explained that most major labor market areas had increases in their work forces during the final month of 1986 as jobseekers entered the labor market in search of holiday jobs. In most areas, the number of new jobs surpassed the number of new workers, resulting in lower unemployment rates.

4 area pupils qualify for leadership event

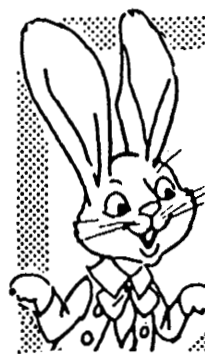

Four area Tuscola Area Skill Center students recently qualified to participate in a State Leadership Conference and Competition scheduled for March 13, 14 and 15 in Detroit.

The students, Holly Conely of Kingston, and Kevin Haley, Ted Particka and Kathy Connolly, all of Cass City, qualified for the state competition by placing in the Business Office Education Clubs Regional competition held Jan. 31 at Baker College.

The local pupils were among 53 students from the Tuscola Area Skill Center who competed against 539 students representing 19 area clubs in Region VII. The competition featured business clerical, data processing and accounting topics.

In the regional competition, Conely received a first place in an impromptu speech category, Haley and Particka each earned 3rd-place finishes in a spelling event, and Connolly placed 6th in an employment skills competition.

The odds are great that you have forgotten (if you knew) that the post office will be closed Monday, Feb. 16.

It's closed for Washington's birthday which really comes Feb. 22, but if celebrated then would kill a 3-day holiday weekend for the select few for whom it's a vacation day with pay.

Most of us never heard of Perth or Fremantle, Australia, before the recent America's Cup races. That's not the case with Floyd "Shorty" Luettkie of Cass City.

The television pictures of the race brought back memories for him. Shorty spent 28 months at Perth on duty with the Navy where he served as a patrol bomber gunner.

I was about as far away from home as I could get, he said, just a very few miles of being half way around the world.

Speaking of Fremantle, one Aussie laughed at visitors for calling it FreeMANTLE instead of FREEmantle. What do you want to bet if he visited the Motor City he would call it DETROIT rather than DETROIT? Just goes to show that you can always tell a native from a tourist.

Restaurant report: Visiting in Plymouth over the weekend gave us the opportunity to visit the Plymouth Landing.

It's located next to the tracks on Main Street in Plymouth. It's hard to see from the road and is semi-buried in a large office complex building.

It's worth searching out if food prepared a little differently is your bag. I had pickerel with a mustard sauce, my wife, baby calf liver.

The food is good, the decor adds to the dining experience. The 2 dinners without booze cost $24.50.

School looks for solutions

Financial problems strike Highland Pines

Solutions to aid the growing problem of expenditures exceeding revenues at the Highland Pines School will be the main topic of discussion at a Tuscola Intermediate Board of Education meeting scheduled for Feb. 16.

According to Jerome Thienes, deputy superintendent and business manager of the Tuscola Intermediate School, the Special Education school's expenditures exceed its revenues by $213,964 and the school will be forced to dip into its fund equity of $647,648 for this school year. However, the Intermediate Board of Education is looking for solutions to this dilemma so they won't be faced with it next school year.

At its Jan. 7 meeting, the board explained Highland Pines' situation and asked for feedback from the 9 Tuscola County boards of education which may be affected by the problem.

According to Thienes, Highland Pines supplies the area public schools with speech therapists and psychologists free of charge. However, each school district has a Local Education Agency which runs the special education classes at the schools. At the end of the school year Highland Pines pays back to the districts a certain amount of money, depending on how many special education classes are offered. For example, in the 1984-85 school year, Cass City offered 5 classes and at the end of the year they received $19,887. Highland Pines pays back a total of $173,118 for all 9 districts.

Thienes said that the school does not have to pay back the area schools this money. The schools, however, still would have to provide the services in accordance with state and federal laws, and the funds would have to be taken out of their budgets.

The area boards are faced with two possible options, raise additional millage for Highland Pines or lose the LEA payback. "Do they want to give us money in taxes or do they want us not to give them money back," said Thienes.

Donald G. Crouse, superintendent for the Cass City public schools, said that the village's Board of Education looked briefly at the Highland Pines problem, but the board members thought that the problem would not be addressed for at least another year.

Thienes said that the Cass City board was misinformed. "We will be dealing with the problem Feb. 16," he said.

THE PROBLEM

The dilemma facing Highland Pines School stems from many different problems. However, the main problem seems to be the dropping of enrollment of students that come from the state. According to Thienes, there are 2 types of children at the school as classified by the state: Section 52 children who are residents of the Tuscola County area, and Section 53, children who are court placed either in a foster home or in the Caro

Regional Mental Health Center.

According to Thienes, the school gets a 100 percent state funding for the Section 53 students while it gets only 24 percent funding for the Section 52 students. In 1976-1977 there were 318 mentally and physically handicapped students at the Caro Regional Center. This year there are only 61. "That's part of the problem, because we were getting 100 percent of the cost of these (section) 53 kids."

In the 1976-1977 school year, the ratio between the Section 52 kids and the Section 53 kids was 25-75. This year the ratio is 50-50. "That's what the enrollment does to us, because we got less kids, because the proportion (between the 2) is different. If we had that same portion (25-75) we probably still could survive," said Thienes. This is a complicated thing."

Why this drop in state placed children? Dr. Jan Baxter, supervisor of management information and finance for the Special Education, said the reason is a move to de-institutionalize. "The Department of Mental Health is moving the children back to their own communities. This started about 8 years ago," said Baxter. "In the 1970s the disabled children usually were placed in state care. Now, they are staying in (their own) communities and counties near their families. It is more beneficial to the children."

Caro Regional Health Center is also changing with the times. Once for children of epilepsy and other physical disorders, the center now is primarily for mentally ill adults. "The State Department of Mental Health has told us they are no longer going to use the Caro Regional Center for the type of clients that we have at Highland Pines," said Thienes. "That's how we lose our children and it doesn't look like that will change until the Regional Center changes."

OTHER PROBLEMS

Another problem that is helping to keep the school in the red is that land values are going down, especially the agricultural valuation, because of the problems the farmers are facing. "For years it's been going up," said Thienes. "The SEV rate was increasing 5 to 12 percent a year. Then we were able to live. As that went up, our income would

"As the SEV goes down, you start getting less local revenues and that's what is happening to us," Thienes said. "There are two ways you can increase local revenues. You can raise taxes by increasing the SEV or you can raise the SEV. We can't raise the SEV, so we will have to go for more millage. We have no control over this. If the SEV goes down, we have to ask for more millage to get the same revenues." The millage for the school right now is 1.6 mills, last raised in 1976.

Highland Pines is also losing children faster than they can replace them, through graduation. Students graduate at 26. "This year's graduating class will be 20-22, a very big loss," said Elton M. Mahan, acting principal for the school. "This is when we lose a lot of our students and we don't replace them all."

CUTBACKS

Thienes said that because of the loss of so many at graduation this year, they will be able to cut back about 3 teachers. "That decision has not been made by the board yet," he said. However, Thienes added that the school will not be gaining money through this cutback in staff. In fact, they may lose money. The state has reduced the number of students a speech therapist is allowed to teach and, because of this reduction, the school will have to hire two more therapists to take up the rest of the caseloads. Speech therapists right now have a caseload of 75, but next year that will be reduced to 60.

"We can't live within the new rules if we don't add several teachers in speech therapy. We can live within the rules and reduce a couple of classrooms at Highland Pines. That's our options,"

Unlike regular schools, Highland Pines cannot cut back on programs because it must follow many regulations laid down by the state and federal governments — Elton M. Mahan

"We have reduced in those areas as much as we felt we could without disrupting the quality of the service," said Thienes.

SOLUTIONS

The four possible solutions brought up at the Jan. 7 meet of the Intermediate Board of Education were: 1. Reduce quality services at Highland Pines School; 2. Reduce services to LEA's; 3. Utilize LEA payback, and, 4. Seek extra millage. Thienes and Mahan see number 4 as the best.

"Number 4, you could do it by a levy of anywhere from 1/2 mill to a mill, depending on it you eliminate the LEA payback. If you do this, then you don't have to ask as much," said Thienes.

"The decision will be made by the Intermediate Board of Education. If the board says that we are going to keep the increase in millage as small as possible and we are going to do some of these other things too, then this millage could be down very small."

The board hopes to find a solution to the problem at its Feb. 16 meeting, because if it decides to increase the millage, the board will have to plan 2 to 3 months in advance because of the election that has to take place. Thienes said the voting will most probably be done in late April.

PRESCHOOL TEACHER, Mary Ann Edwards, works with one of her severely mentally retarded children at Highland Pines School. The school is facing financial problems due to the dropping of enrollment of state institutionalized children.

Rising cost of living affects Rover, Kitty, pet owners say

Dogs and cats. Rover and Kitty. They simply lick their way into your hearts and become one of the family. But, with the rising cost of living, it is starting to become a little more expensive to raise Rover and Kitty than it was in the past.

"Prices have definitely gone up," said Judy Rocheleau of 4875 S. Elkland Rd. Rocheleau owns 9 German Shepherds and breeds and shows the dogs. "They are nice companions, but people have to be willing to pay the money to raise a pet."

"Everything is going up," said Rita Lovejoy of 6343 Church St. Lovejoy owns 2 cats and 2 dogs. "Vet bills are going up," she added.

However, according to Cass City Veterinarian Edward Scollon, prices have remained stable. It depends on the treatment and the animal, Scollon said. "Prices have stayed pretty stable for about the last 5 years." According to Scollon, rabies shots for dogs cost about $9 and for cats it is $6. Also the animals receive a combination shot for distemper and kennel cough, among other things, which runs about $10.

According to Lovejoy, most of her vet payments came when she first owned the 2 cats. "They both had to be fixed and declawed in the front paws," said Lovejoy. "But now they are both healthy cats."

Lovejoy said that she would be willing to take her animals to the vet if they needed a small operation or had to stay over a couple of nights. "If they were sick and needed to go in, sure,

I'd take them in," Lovejoy said. "If it was a major operation, however, it would be debatable."

According to Lovejoy and Rocheleau it is not only the vet bills that are going up, but the food bills. "Dog food prices are out of sight," said Lovejoy. "The price of cat food has gone up too." To keep costs down, however, Lovejoy buys generic biscuits and kitty litter. "I buy commercial food, however," she said. "I've read generic food doesn't have enough nutrients in it."

"I never had a bad experience with the generic brands," said Scollon. However, he did recommend that pets be fed commercial foods and that kittens and puppies are fed the chow made for them. "It's higher in protein," he said.

According to a generic dry cat food costs $1.45 while the most expensive commercial brand runs $3.25. In the canned food, the highest 6 ounce can is $.39 while the lowest is $.33.

But, even though the cost to have pets is on the rise, the companionship and entertainment Rover and Kitty bring are irreplaceable. "We're just one big happy family," said Lovejoy.

Several mishaps reported in area

A pair of 2-car accidents resulting in moderate to extensive damage were among several mishaps reported to the Cass City Police Department over the past 9 days.

A Cass City resident was cited for failure to yield the right of way Friday morning following an accident on Main Street at Oak Street.

Arvilla R. Smith, 6645 M St., was attempting to make a left turn from Oak Street onto Main Street when her vehicle struck another vehicle which was westbound on Main Street, the report stated.

The second vehicle was driven by a 16-year-old Decker youth.

Smith's vehicle sustained moderate damage, while the other vehicle sustained moderate to extensive damage.

In a similar accident reported Feb. 4, a vehicle driven by a 16-year-old Cass City youth failed to yield the right of way to a vehicle driven by Walter H. King, Salem, IL.

According to the report, the youth was southbound on Weaver Street and had stopped at a stop sign. Witnesses stated that he turned left onto Main Street into King's westbound path.

No citation was issued following the mishap, which resulted in moderate damage to both vehicles.

Only light damage was reported in a Feb. 3 accident on Church Street west of Weaver Street.

A vehicle driven by Lois E. Roy, 2777 Cass City Road, was backing out of a parking lot at 6233 Church Street when it struck an unoccupied parked vehicle across the street.

The second vehicle is owned by Duane Sangster, 3048 VanDyke Rd., Decker, the report stated.

Larry F. Young, Ubly, was traveling south on Cemetery Road just north of Bay City-Forestville Road Feb. 2 when a house shingle lying on the roadway flew out from a vehicle in front of him. The shingle struck Young's vehicle, doing damage to the hood, windshield and grill.

Moderate damage was reported in one of 3 deer/car mishaps during the past week. That accident involved Marilyn I. Hanselman, 8566 Cass St., Minden City, who was westbound on Cass City Road Thursday when she struck and killed a deer.

The mishap occurred 1/2 mile east of Schwegler Road at about 7:15 a.m.

Virginia M. Zawilinski, 4355 Leach St., was northbound on Cemetery Road north of Elmwood Road at about 3:30 a.m. Saturday when a deer ran into the driver's side of her vehicle. Light damage was reported.

Cass City resident Richard L. Bergeron also reported hitting a deer. Bergeron was westbound on E. Cass City Road east of Schwegler Road Friday evening when the incident, which resulted in slight damage, occurred.

HEALTH TIPS

Helpful hints can help smoker quit

You're not alone if you resolved to quit smoking in the new year. With the advent of Michigan's new clean indoor air act which took effect the first of the year, many people will choose to quit. You're also not alone if you are at a loss to figure out how others manage to actually succeed.

Most smokers know they should kick the habit. They realize that smoking poses a serious long-term threat to their health and well-being - a threat that grows more menacing with every cigarette they inhale. They may be aware of the terrifying statistics. Every year some 350,000 Americans die from disorders that can be directly attributed to cigarette smoking, such as heart attack, emphysema and lung cancer.

Cigarette smoking is the most important preventable cause of premature death in the United States, says the American Heart Association of Michigan (AHA/MI).

Given this grim information, it's easy to understand why smokers will admit they fervently wish to quit. But the task may seem next to impossible.

However, as Dr. Donald T. Frederickson, a physician and leading authority on quitting, emphasizes: "I am convinced beyond any shadow of a doubt that every cigarette smoker can stop smoking. And I mean every smoker. This is true no matter how long or how much you have smoked, or how addicted you may think you are."

It's never too late to benefit from quitting. Although some damage from long-term heavy smoking is irreversible, the health benefits are both immediate and cumulative when you stop smoking.

Each time you don't smoke a cigarette, you keep your arterial pulse rate from speeding up, the blood vessels that supply your heart and brain from constricting, your blood pressure from rising, and the tiny air passages in your lungs from narrowing and losing their elasticity.

And the longer you abstain from smoking, the more benefits accrue. A smokeless day is better than a smokeless hour; a smokeless week is better than a smokeless day and so on. The improvement is something you'll actually feel.

Many behavior specialists advocate a gradual program over a period of several weeks. Others advocate a "cold turkey" approach. Your own approach to "Quit Day" (or "Q-Day") is up to you. But experts and former smokers agree that before any anti-smoking program or tactic can work for you, you must honestly want to quit.

The next important step is to set a definite time, place and set of circumstances for quitting. Joining a group cessation program, even one as informal as the annual 24-hour National Smoke-Out, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, can be the catalyst that will help you to do this. But if you decide to tackle the job all by yourself, you can draw encouragement from a growing army of ex-smokers who have successfully undertaken the same challenge.

"If you look around, you can see that millions of people have quit," says Norman Hymowitz, Ph.D., of the New Jersey Medical School, a veteran smoking researcher and a member of the AHA's subcommittee on smoking. "At some point, most of them probably doubted that they could do it, too."

"The vast majority of people who quit do so on their own," Hymowitz adds. "But the 'cold-turkey' approach is frightening to many smokers, and a gradual smoking cessation program may be best for them because it will help them stop procrastinating and set a specific time to quit. Cessation programs can help break the habit down into manageable chunks, provide a structure for approaching the moment when you quit completely and build your confidence. Sooner or later, though, the time comes when you actually have to bite the bullet."

Whether you quit on your own or in an organized program, a careful process of self-assessment can be very helpful. "When they examine their own habits, lots of people find that they smoke far more than they thought," says Hymowitz, "and that they also smoke a lot of cigarettes they really don't want."

Once you have the information you need to quit, postponing the inevitable may not be the best course. Too gradual a withdrawal may actually heighten the chances of failure, according to Saul M. Shiffman and Murray E. Jarvik, M.D., Ph.D., of the UCLA School of Medicine. Their study showed that partial abstinence may cause a smoker's major withdrawal symptom - "severe craving for tobacco" - to last much longer than for those who quit "cold turkey."

Withdrawal symptoms tended to ease during the first few days for "cold turkey" quitters, the researchers found, making it easier to hold out until the symptoms ran their course. But smokers who merely tried to cut down often encountered "a chronic state of withdrawal" with prolonged symptoms.

In some people withdrawal symptoms may include irritability, aggression, anxiety or an inability to concentrate. Shiffman and Jarvik reported intense tobacco cravings several times a day, especially around 7 p.m. Many abstainers also experience tightness in the chest, slight dizziness, a "breathless" sensation, digestive upsets or unusual perspiration.

But these symptoms usually subside within a few weeks. There is no evidence that quitting poses any danger to your physical or mental health. The first two to four weeks are usually the hardest, but even during this critical time, the tobacco craving isn't the fierce, unrelenting obsession feared by many smokers. Instead, it intensifies from time to time, then ebbs.

Quitting "cold turkey" need not mean making an impetuous, spur-of-the-moment move. Since breaking the habit is one of the most important steps of a lifetime, treat it accordingly. Give yourself every possible advantage.

Here are some helpful pointers: "Set 'Q-Day' for a time when you aren't under a lot of pressure. The start of a vacation, a slow time at work or even a sore throat that makes smoking painful may offer a good opportunity."

"Well before 'Q-Day,'" write out a list of all the reasons you have for quitting - everything from better health and financial savings to no more burnholes in clothing and furniture. Keep the list handy and re-read it when the going gets tough. It will help you think in terms of what you're gaining instead of what you're giving up.

"When 'Q-Day' comes, strengthen your commitment by telling your family and co-workers what you're doing and ask for their support. Talk freely about your cravings with a sympathetic ex-smoker. 'Going public' will give you added incentive to succeed."

"Keep plenty of substitute forms of oral gratification handy, such as chewing gum, mints or hard candy. You can also drink water; chew mint leaves, cloves or cinnamon sticks; eat unshelled pumpkin or sunflower seeds; or nibble celery, carrots or even garlic."

"Although it is only available by prescription, a Swedish manufactured nicotine chewing gum called Nicorette has helped some hardened cigarette 'junkies.' Pilot studies showed it almost doubled the percentage of smokers who continued to abstain after one year as compared to those who chewed a regular gum. If you feel it could help you, ask your doctor."

"Lighting up is often a reflex action unconnected to tobacco cravings, so keep cigarettes out of easy reach to avoid "unconscious" smoking.

"Avoid substances and situations that you associate with smoking, especially coffee, other caffeine-containing drinks and alcohol. Instead try fruit juices, club soda or mineral water. If you're used to smoking while you watch TV, turn the set off and go for a walk, read a book or write a letter."

"If you must drink alcohol, go easy. It may not only lower your resolve not to smoke but may also intensify your desire for a cigarette. Try to stay away from cocktail parties and other smoke-filled gatherings for a while."

"With your doctor's approval, take up an exercise program. It will take your mind off smoking, help offset any extra pounds you may pick up and add to your feeling of accomplishment and well-being."

"Be informed. Read all the authoritative material you can find on how smoking affects the body. The more you learn, the more determined you'll be to remain an ex-smoker from now on. For help, contact AHA/MI, the American Cancer Society or the American Lung Association."

"Find diversions for your hands to ease tension. *Finally, if you do slip, don't despair. You've proven you can quit and it will make it easier the next time - or as many times as it takes to make it stick."

For more helpful hints, call your local office of the AHA/MI and ask for "Calling it Quits." This folder contains two informative brochures to help you become an ex-smoker.

If voters do not approve an additional 5.5 mills for operation, it is likely that transportation of students will be cut in half or more. That's the stark picture that Supt. Donald Crouse outlined for the school board members Monday evening.

Hard packed snow drifts closed schools again Monday. So far this winter, Cass City schools have been closed 6 1/2 days because of the weather.

Bette Lou Bond, S.N., of Detroit spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bond.

Fire believed started in a fuse box did extensive damage to a mobile home owned by Ray Smutek in Huntsville Trailer Park late Tuesday afternoon. Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said damage was around $8,000.

Three students from Cass City Intermediate School have earned the school's awards for their entries in the eighth annual America & Me essay contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance Group. The 3 top essayists, who will receive award certificates, are Wendy Smith, first; Deanna Sawdon, second; and Carol Dillon, third.

Twenty-three were present Thursday evening when the Progressive Class of Salem UM church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Walter. Gerald Auten presided over the business meeting at which plans were made for a retreat at the Pigeon River with Ronald Geiger in charge.

25 YEARS AGO

L/Cpl. Peter Kritzman, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kritzman, Decker, and a 12-man squad set a new record for the 5-mile cross-country run recently at Camp Schwab, Okinawa. New books at the library SKINWALKERS by Tony Hillerman (mystery). This is a novel of the spirit of the Navajo people of the Southwest. Joe Leaphorn and Jim Chee of the tribal police work together here, trying to solve crimes that resist logic. There are no clues to three homicides or to the attempted murder of Chee. Leaphorn thinks a "skinwalker," or witch, could have attacked the victims, all adherents of shamanism, as they are otherwise unrelated. The skinwalkers represent a schism between witchcraft and the traditional Navajo Way. A second attempt on Chee bolsters Leaphorn's suspicion since Chee is an aspiring shaman.

THE ROPESPINNER CONSPIRACY by Michael Thomas (fiction). Taking its cue from Lenin's line about capitalism selling the rope with which it will hang, this story traces a long and complex plot, the brainchild of a Communist and an American economist, in which the underpinnings of the Western economy will be undermined from within. In this context, the author attempts to show that the history of banking since the '30s, especially the deregulation and economic policies of the current administration, fit neatly into a plot that will eventually send Western capitalism into a violent and fatal tailspin.

PAT NIXON: The untold story by Julie Nixon Eisenhower (non-fiction). Semper fidelis is the Marine Corps motto and perhaps that of the Nixon family as well, as Julie Nixon Eisenhower presents what is billed as a biography of her mother. The opening chapters seem to offer some hope of fulfilling this promise as the author explores Pat Nixon's youth and education in great detail. But once Pat Ryan marries Richard Nixon, the image of the dutiful political wife takes charge. Instead of supplying further insights into her mother's experiences and personality, Eisenhower recasts personal and political events in a partisan manner, aiming for a vindictive replay of old battles and a resetting of scores. Strings of ad hominem attacks on Nixon critics alternate with unprompted testimonials to Pat Nixon's virtues in a narrative that is not so much a portrait of Mom as it is a defense of Dad.

Your neighbor says

Residents favor safety belt law

A new survey released by the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use revealed that 80 percent of the 500 Michigan residents surveyed favor the year and a half old safety belt law.

According to the survey, approximately 80 percent think that the safety belt law saves a significant number of lives and three-fourths said that they favor strict enforcement of the law.

A nation-wide survey, done in July 1986, showed that 76 percent of Americans favor safety-belt-use laws in their states and 81 percent feel that the laws are saving lives.

Cass City resident, Eleanor Keller, 75, of 4776 Robinson Rd., said that she always wears her safety belt and thinks it was good for the state to mandate its use. "Things happen," Keller said. "Even when stopping quick at a light" you could get hurt.

Keller should know about the law since both her son and granddaughter are police officers. "Most of the people I know of use their safety belts," said Keller.

Keller feels that because of the law more lives are saved.

Keller has been retired now for 10 years, but before her husband's death she was a "farmer's wife" and then a housekeeper here in the village.

According to the survey, 24 states and the District of Columbia have safety belt laws.

An unknown suspect(s) is being sought by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department for the charges of breaking and entering and larceny to a Deford home on Jan. 29.

According to a police report, Debbie Racine, 6784 Deckerville Rd., came home from work at approximately 4:10 and found her side door partially open with the double pane glass broken. Racine went to a neighbor's house and called the police.

According to Racine, the only items missing, after entering the house with police, were a VCR and a stereo amplifier.

The police investigation showed that the suspect had attempted to get into the house through the sliding glass doors, but they were locked. "The aluminum handle (on the glass doors) had been broken off as someone had attempted to pull on it." The suspect then went to the side door and smashed out the glass and gained entrance.

A 21-year-old Cass City woman called the police, when her brother started hitting her. She later decided not to press charges.

Kimberly M. Asher, 6330 Pine St., had a neighbor call the police on Feb. 4 when her 25-year-old brother, Gary D. Spencer, had an argument with her, according to a Tuscola County Sheriff's Department report.

Asher stated that her brother and she attended the same party, next door to Asher's apartment, and she told Spencer "not to come over to her apartment and spend the night because he had too much to drink and gets mean when he gets drunk." Asher left the party at 4 a.m. and at 4:30 a.m. Spencer kicked the door, when Asher told him he couldn't come in.

Asher unlocked the door so her brother wouldn't do any more damage and he, "stormed in the apartment and began throwing things," said Asher, who went to call the police at a neighbor's house. Spencer followed her out of the house and hit her.

When police arrived, Spencer told them that nothing was going on and that they would have to talk to his sister. Asher decided not to seek prosecution against her brother.

Because of poor visibility and blizzard conditions, a Unionville woman, unable to stop, hit the car in front of her, Sunday, according to a Tuscola County Sheriff's report.

The accident occurred on Cemetery Rd. at 3:20 p.m. when Merle F. Hudson, 34, 5443 Green Rd., Gagetown, had to stop due to the car ahead of him. Betty Janes, 38, 3036 Columbia St., was unable to stop and hit Hudson's car. Both cars suffered minimal damage.

Janes complained of injury, but sought her own treatment.

phone down and went out and cut some wood," and when he came back in and picked up his phone there was still an open line, Seidell stated.

Seidell wanted police to put a tap on the line. However, he did not know if he would be at that residence long enough to get it set up because he planned to move in a couple of weeks.

Seidell recorded the phone calls starting on Jan. 15 and continuing until Jan. 29.

STATE POLICE

An 18-year-old Kingston man struck a school bus when he tried to pass it on Phillips Rd. on Feb. 2, according to a State Police report. Woodrow W. Finley, 4242 English Rd., stated that he was traveling 25 mph and began to pass the bus when his left front tire struck deep snow and pulled him into a ditch. When he turned back on the road, he struck the bus.

Patricia A. Bruce, 49, 5100 Barrons Rd., Deford, said that she observed Finley starting to pass and moved farther right to allow more room. When she looked in her mirror again she saw Finley coming toward the bus and was struck.

Both vehicles sustained minimal damage.

Richard C. Witherspoon, 17, 4615 Oak St., Cass City, was driving south on Cemetery Rd when he struck and killed a deer attempting to cross the highway, according to a State Police report. Witherspoon's car received a moderate amount of damage.

Due to the high winds and blowing snow Sunday, a Roseville man struck a car ahead of him because of the poor visibility. There were no injuries reported.

Gary L. Cuiria, 26, 25434 Wiseman, struck Wesley B. Boye, 46, 3443 Washington St., Kingston, on M-53. Both drivers stated that they were traveling south and were driving slowly due to the road conditions. Cuiria struck Boye when he was "unable to stop in assured clear distance," according to a State Police report.

Sheriff's Department seeks suspect in B and E, larceny incident

Two transit systems to get state funds

Caro Thumbbody Express will be the recipient of $97,199 in state funds for the purchase of one replacement bus and maintenance equipment tools, and the Huron Transit Corporation will be the recipient of $61,105 in state funds for the purchase of one bus, a mobile radio, and maintenance equipment, Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) and Senator James Barcia (D-Bay City) announced last week.

The vehicles and equipment will be arriving about mid-summer, said Carol C. Norris, Michigan Department of Transportation's deputy director for urban and public transportation. "The new vehicles will make riding safer and the new equipment will improve efficiency of services for more than 100 million passengers who ride Michigan buses statewide," she said. MDOT will distribute a total of $4,105,665 to non-urban transit agencies throughout the state for the purchase of new buses and equipment.

"Both of these transportation systems are widely used. 1986 figures show ridership on the Caro Thumbbody Express system was 54,694, while on the Huron Transit Corporation system ridership was 132,753," said Senator Barcia.

"This new equipment will help keep our transit system up-to-date and assure safe dependable service for all of our citizens," Rep. Allen stated.

The Department has granted $9 million to match $21 million in federal funds to purchase new buses and related equipment for 58 transit systems throughout the state.

MYSTERY CALLER

A Clifford man called police Jan. 29 to complain about a number of harassing phone calls he was getting.

Michael Seidell, 6730 Cemetery Rd., stated in a police report that he was getting numerous telephone calls on his line where nobody would answer. "On one particular day he answered the phone, nobody was there, laid the

Bulldogs prepare to play top seated Deckerville, Friday

In the most recent 2 games, sophomore Marc Reinhardt has become more of an offensive force for the Owen-Gage Bulldogs, something that Coach Dean Roller says is very important to making the team better going into the remainder of the season and getting ready for the district tournament.

Reinhardt will have to continue his improvement and be at his best Friday if the Bulldogs are to have a chance of upsetting league leading visiting Decker-ville.

The Bulldogs tuned up for the league leaders with a pair of victories in North Central D competition last week. Tuesday, O-G overcame a slow start to defeat cellar dwelling Peck, 68-56.

Roller said that the key to the win was the strong rebounding by the Bulldogs. We were getting second and third shots on the offensive boards and limiting Peck to one shot most of the time.

Roller said that the club's shooting was okay, too, but pointed out that there were too many turnovers.

The Pirates started strong as Mark Mahar scored 3 buckets in the first period and Ron Ureel added a pair. O-G countered with a basket and 2 charity tosses by Reinhardt and 2 hoops by Dave Laurie. At the end of the first 8 minutes, Peck was in front 17-15.

The Bulldogs tightened up on defense in the second quarter, shutting out Mahar and allowing Peck just 2 field goals while using balanced scoring to move in front at the intermission, 31-28.

Steve Root took personal control of the offense in the second half. The husky center dominated the boards and whipped in 6 points in the third period and 8 more in the final frame, when the Bulldogs salted away the win.

Root led all scorers with 21 points and Stu Stirrett added 14. Ron Ureel led Peck's balanced scoring with 15.

KINGSTON GAME

Owen-Gage's 2 big guns, Stirrett and Root, got the Bulldogs off to a fast start Friday at Kingston and Coach Roller's charges racked up their second win of the week, 67-62.

The Bulldogs found Root on the inside and he promptly caged a couple of quick baskets to go with a couple of long jumpers by Stirrett to pace the early O-G attack. Stirrett also handled the ball to break the Kingston press all night.

The Bulldog defense did its part in the opening 2 quarters, holding the Cardinals to just 10 points in each period. Helped by great 61 percent shooting, O-G bounced into a big 35-20 lead at the intermission.

Although the Bulldogs were comfortably ahead most of the night, Kingston never folded. The Cardinals cut a 24-point O-G lead to 14 points and trailed by just 10 points with 30 seconds left. The loss dropped Kingston to 4-5 in the league while the Bulldogs moved to 8-3, in third place behind Port Hope and Deckerville.

The Bulldogs divided the scoring well with 4 players in double figures, led by Stirrett with 24 points. Shane Campbell netted 22 points for Kingston and could have had a banner night offensively with a little better foul shooting. Campbell went to the line 12 times and converted just 4 shots.

CHRIS ABBE missed this short pop from the side against Kingston, but the Bulldogs' firepower was too much Friday for the Cardinals as Owen-Gage moved its league record to 8-3 and kept flickering title hopes alive.

Sharks "phone home"

AT&T ran into an unexpected problem with its first deep sea fiber-optic telephone cable -- shark bites. According to National Wildlife magazine, the company laid the first 72 miles of test cable in the Canary Islands in September 1985. When the cable was hoisted six months later, it had shark teeth embedded in it. Company officials believe that the sharks were attracted by movement of the cable or by the electric current that helps amplify signals.

JEFF SONTAG ends a fast break with 2 points over the outstretched arms of Caro's Steve Turner.

Hawks take third at league meet

The Red Hawk grapplers came in third at the league tournament in Vassar Saturday, trailing first place Caro and Bad Axe by only 12 points.

"We had a shot at first place going into the last round and then we fell short," said Hawks Coach Don Markel.

According to Markel, 9 out of the 12 Hawk wrestlers won their matches Friday and placed for Saturday. "We had more wrestlers that placed than any of the other teams," he said. "But, we didn't place high enough."

The Tigers and Hatchets tied for first with 150 points. Third place Cass City had 138 points. Marlette ended the tournament with 108 points and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port came in fifth with 101.5. Bringing up the rear were Vassar and Imlay City.

Markel said that he was surprised at the Tigers' performance. "Caro wrestled a little better than I expected."

"Overall we did pretty good," said Markel. "We are more of a tournament team than a dual meet team. We have too many weaknesses in too many weight classes, but we have wrestlers that will place in a tournament."

The only Hawk grappler that placed first in his weight class was junior Mike Mikolon, who wrestles in the 155-pound division. "He's among the 2 or 3 most improved wrestlers," said Markel.

Four Hawks took second place in their division: junior Henry Smith, who wrestles in the 112-pound weight class; senior Mark

Hawks escape giant upset with last half rally against Caro

Veteran observers of the sports scene in the Thumb could have told you. When Cass City meets Caro, forget about previous records and come prepared, because anything might happen and probably will. Even with the unpredictable record between the 2 schools, it seems virtually impossible that winless Caro could seriously test league leading Cass City.

But the Tigers had Hawk fans squirming in their seats and if 3 of the Tiger regulars hadn't got into serious foul trouble, might have pulled off the upset of the year. As it was, the Hawks were pleased to come from behind in the last half to register a 63-55 decision and keep on track for a Thumb B Association crown. Cass City can virtually ice an undisputed conference crown Friday when North Branch comes to town. The Broncos are in second place, 2 games behind, and a Hawk win would put them 3 games in front of the pack with 4 conference games remaining.

Maybe one reason for the scare that the Tigers gave Cass City was because the team was looking ahead to the North Branch game. Whatever the reason, if Jerome Hebert, Mike Mutton and Tim Werth hadn't been sidelined because of fouls, the game might have had an unpleasant ending for Cass City.

The Tigers were matching the Hawks basket for basket through the first half. It was tied at the quarter, 14-14, and tied again with 1:30 left in the half. Caro edged in front, 30-27, at the intermission.

Because his players were in foul trouble, Coach Paul Meunier switched to a control ball offense in an attempt to keep his players in the game.

The move backfired when Cass City used some aggressive defense, led by Dave Miller and Kurt Bliss, to cause turnovers. Caro went over 6 minutes in the third quarter without scoring.

When Caro finally scored again, Cass City had forged into a 42-32 lead and the Hawk win string was preserved. In the streak, Bliss scored 3 quick baskets on turnovers. The senior Hawk guard was credited with 6 steals and 5 assists for the night.

Until Caro ran into foul trouble, the Tigers were hurting the Hawks on the boards with aggressive rebounding.

Miller led all scorers with 21 points and Bliss added 17. The Tigers were paced by Steve Turner with 20. The Tigers outscored Cass City from the field, 42-36, but Cass City's huge edge from the foul circle, 27-13, more than made up for the difference.

STILL UNDEFEATED

The Cass City junior varsity fell behind by 6 points in the third quarter before rallying to win, 64-56, to remain undefeated. The Caro

JV will be one of the sternest tests the young Hawks will have this season.

Hawk seniors accept leadership roles to guide wrestling squad

Responsibility, strength, caring and leadership all have a role in Mark Kappen's and Steve Wright's positions as co-captains for the Red Hawk wrestling team.

Kappen, 18, and Wright, 17, take the title of co-captain seriously. "You have to be a leader," said Kappen. "You have to set an example for all the young freshmen and sophomores so they want to be like you. You give them hope so they don't give up."

Wright agreed with Kappen about instilling in the younger wrestlers a desire to succeed in the sport. "I like to work with those that have low self-esteem," he said. "I don't like to see them give up, because they shouldn't give up."

Both boys have been wrestling for Cass City since they were freshmen. "I was in football my freshman year and I sat on the bench," Wright explained how he got started on the team. "When I went out for wrestling I went straight to varsity."

Kappen, who has been wrestling since seventh grade, said that he got his start in gym class. "I was undefeated in gym class," said Kappen. The coach of the wrestling team asked Kappen to a meet. "I didn't go to any practices and I took first place. I never was beaten my first year."

Kappen has gone up a weight class each year he has wrestled, and now competes in the 138 lb. weight class. Wright, however, has stayed at the 185 lb. weight class all 4 years. "I have no trouble keeping in the weight class," said Wright. "I only weigh about 178."

Both boys prepare for the meets in their own individual way. "I don't talk to anyone," said Wright. "I keep telling myself if I lose it's not the end of the world. Also, I pray a lot."

Kappen likes to watch his opponent before he has to wrestle him, to see what he does. "I stretch out before each match and say a prayer," said Kappen.

Both Kappen and Wright placed at Saturday's league meet at Vassar. Kappen placed second and Wright picked up third place. Kappen had hoped for a first place, "since it is my last year," he said.

Wright has suffered many injuries due to the sport, but that hasn't discouraged him. "My freshman year I was wrestling at the league meet and I was in a nasty position. I tore the muscle away from my vertebrae," said Wright. "I've also torn cartilage in my ribs and I dislocated my finger a week ago," he said holding up the injured digit.

Wrestling Coach Don Markel said that Kappen was his most conservative player. "He is very consistent and usually has real close matches, but he usually always winds up on top," said Markel.

"Scott did a fine job this year," said Markel. "His strong point is getting out from the bottom." Kappen was undefeated going into the league meet, while Wright was 19-5 for the year.

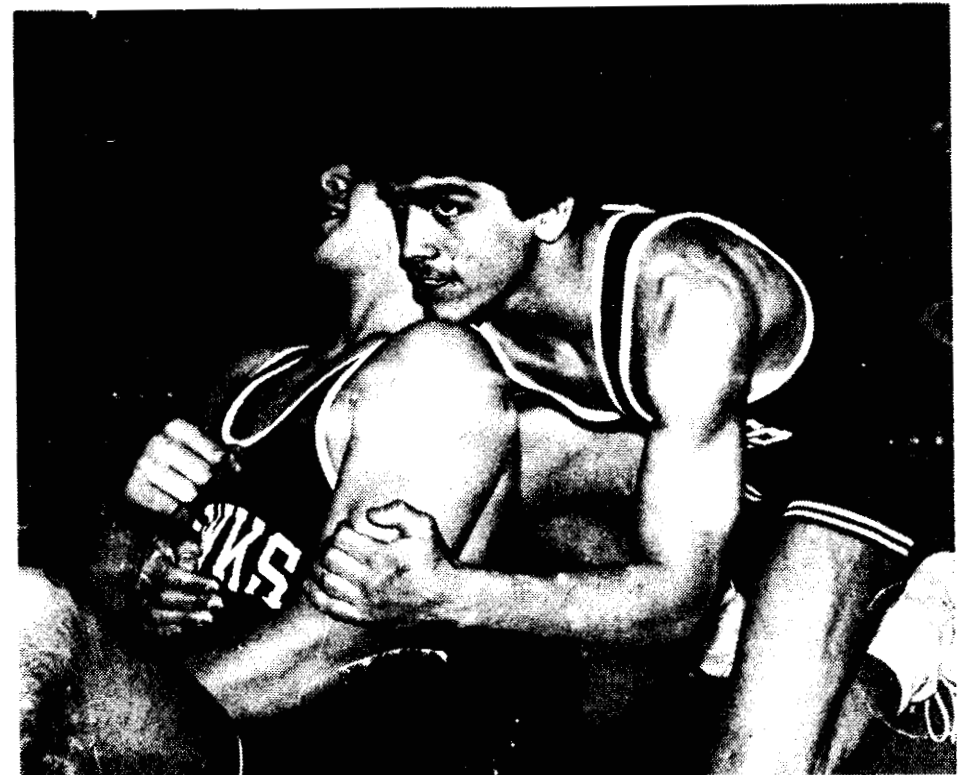

Both Kappen and Wright plan to attend college after they graduate from high school. "I want to go to Michigan (U of M)," said Kappen. "I'm planning to major in electrical engineering." Kappen said that he has talked to the wrestling coach at U of M and might give the team a try.

"It's a whole different ball game in college," said Wright, who plans to attend Michigan Christian in Rochester. He said he plans to go into social work. Michigan Christian does not have a wrestling team.

Kappen is the son of Gerald and Catherine Kappen, 5400 Bay City-Forestville Rd. Wright is the son of Otis and Carol Wright, 5694 Argyle Rd.

SENIORS, Scott Wright (left) and Mark Kappen demonstrate a wrestling hold. The two youths have been with the Red Hawks for four years and are the co-captains for the team.

Annual MMPA meet held Saturday

Harold Gremel of the MMPA state board said that in Michigan the Buyout Program has been a success. "Everyone was critical of the Buyout, saying the Buyout wasn't going to work," he said. But, according to latest figures, production is down in Michigan by 10 percent, 5 percent more than what was planned.

But guest speaker, Gary Trimmer, director of testing for the MMPA, pointed out that while production is down so are the dairy farms in Michigan.

The new officers for the Deford MMPA are: president, Severance; vice-president, Francis DeLong; secretary/treasurer, Jim Tuckey, and delegates, Severance, Satchell, Tuckey, DeLong and Hessel Venema.

More than $408 million wagered on horses in '86

Michigan horse racing fans wagered over $408 million in 1986, the second highest amount in state pari-mutual racing history, State Racing Commissioner William Cahalan announced.

Speaking at a press conference at Northville Downs Racetrack in Northville, Cahalan said, "Successful race meetings at our established tracks, combined with the opening of the race track at Swartz Creek, the first totally new track built in the state since 1950, put us over the $400 million mark for only the second time in 54 years."

Thoroughbred wagering at Detroit Race Track in Livonia reached $130.8 million, up $11 million or 9.3 percent. Harness wagering at the state's six standardbred tracks, in Allegan, Hazel Park, Jackson, Northville, Saginaw, and Swartz Creek, totaled nearly $276 million, a gain of $20.1 million or 8.1 percent.

Overall, wagering totaled $408.1 million, an increase of $32.1 million or 8.5 percent increase over 1985. Attendance overall also jumped, rising to 2,546,412, an increase of 5.2 percent.

GARY TRIMMER, director of testing of the Michigan Milk Producers Association, speaks with members of the Deford Local MMPA at its annual meeting Saturday. The luncheon and meeting were held at the Shabbona United Methodist Church.

and an ad hoc committee appointed to investigate the purchase held a lengthy discussion primarily concerning specifications for the vehicle's front axle and spring.

The bids, chassis proposals from McCormick Motors, Inc., Shoreline Ford and Osentoski Equipment, and a body bid from the McFadden Corp., were tabled. A special meeting is to be scheduled for action on the matter.

The board approved a change in the Owen-Gage Teachers Association's health insurance plan, which is expected to save the school district about $450 per month in premiums.

According to a representative of the association, administrators of the existing health insurance program have made an agreement with Blue Cross/Blue Shield to handle the program's "money matters."

The agreement, which takes effect after about 45 days, will result in a reduction of rates relating to major medical coverage.

There will be no change in the amount or coverage of the existing health insurance policy because of the change, the representative said.

No action was taken on a presentation by school Supt. Harley Kirby concerning joining the Michigan Out-Of-Formula School Districts Association.

The cost for joining would be about $84 for the remaining school year, Kirby explained, adding that the association is active in lobbying for state legislation on behalf of out-of-formula school districts.

A commendation was approved for the girls' volleyball team, which won the Klinger-Dast Invitational Volleyball Tournament held at Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port High School over the weekend.

Board member William Kretschmer was appointed as the board's representative to a Huron Intermediate School District budget hearing scheduled for Feb. 12 in Bad Axe.

The board approved advertising for bids concerning sale of a school diesel generator. A bid of $221 was previously rejected by the board, which has since investigated rebuilding the machine. Cost of the project is estimated at $800-$900, the board learned Monday.

Kirby, Good and board members Jack Brinkman and Joseph Warack were appointed to an advisory committee for upcoming teacher contract negotiations. An existing 4-year pact will expire this summer, Kirby noted.

Also formed by the board was a finance committee to consider budget preparations for the 1987-88 school year. Brinkman, Kretschmer and Donald Cummins will serve on that committee.

Fire destroys area home

chance" of saving the house because of the wind, Root continued. "The fire just came so fast. (Simpson) didn't get a thing out of the house."

Fire fighters remained at the scene for about one hour, according to Root, who noted that the fire apparently began near some television/stereo equipment.

Jackass vs coyote

Frustrated by coyote raids on their sheep and goats, some Texas ranchers are turning to an unlikely ally -- the jackass. National Wildlife magazine reports that while donkeys won't kill coyotes, they do chase them away. So far, at least 100 ranchers have decided to give them a try. Still, only females need apply. Male donkeys are apparently too ornery to be trusted, and might even attack the animals they're supposed to guard.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Here's a fellow we'll call Pete. He is 7 years from retirement. He had enough cash on hand to buy himself an annuity, but he doesn't want it to start until 1993.

He wanted:
1. Something certain, safe, and naturally, costing as little as possible under such requirements.
2. Available now, with a definite price and guaranteed annual payments, starting when he retires in 1993.

3. $12,000 a year for 18 years, starting in 1993.
So I went shopping for him. I tried three of the big brokerage houses.

One of them never got back to me. Another came back with a fuzzy bid of "about $80,000." I heard no more after that.

Broker No. 3 on the list came up with an iffy bid. The cost would be $7,000, if rates didn't change during the accumulation period of seven years before pay-out started. "We base figures on a 7% yield. If that is lower in the next 7 years then the cost will go up."

For a man who wants to know how much the deal will cost, that wasn't much help.

So we went it alone, via the zero-coupon government route. Most call these zeros CATS.

We bought $12,000 par value CATS maturing each year 1993 to 2011. Actual total net cost was $65,000.

That was a saving of $6,000 or 9.15% plus two important advantages:

1. This was certain. Cost was not going to vary no matter what interest costs would be in the next seven years. Let rates go up or down, the fellow already had his bonds, and they were surely safe.

2. If the buyer changed his mind and wanted to get out of the whole deal, he could. That wouldn't be true with an annuity. There'd be a big exit fee, around $2,000. If he wanted to spend a little more than the $12,000 some years, he could always peddle off a few of the CATS not yet due.

To do this, you need a broker who will spend some time putting the whole plan together. You can't buy CATS readily maturing every single year in a neat row of 18 years in this case. Your man will have to scratch around to fill the order and it may take several days before the job is done.

In this case the extra effort produced a $6,000 saving.

The head of a good accounting office was visiting the other day with me. Subject: tax shelters and annuities. We'll call him Joe. He has been doing tax work and accounting for many years, and he's smart, and he keeps up with every new wrinkle in the field, including investments and their tax features.

"Bill," he said. "I haven't seen a tax shelter yet that panned out the way it was promised."

"The salesmen and the deals themselves are too optimistic. The 'residual,' or the amount that is supposed to come to the buyer at the end of the plan, is always stated higher than it turns out to be in real life."

I showed Joe the home-made annuity I've described in this column.

"Just what I've always said -- you can make one yourself that's a better deal than the insurance company will give you."

Troy man arrested for OWLS

A Troy man was arrested by Cass City Police Sunday afternoon for suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while his license is suspended.

Dennis T. Merritt, 17, was stopped by an officer at about 4:30 p.m. while driving on Main Street near Seeger Street.
