Village mulls increase in water-sewer rates

FREEDOM! --- This Pennsylvania wild turkey was more than willing Friday to leave the arms of Huron County Commissioner Dale Wertz to enter his new home in the Thumb. The bird is one of about 15 released in hopes of establishing a more plentiful turkey population in the area.

Possible water and/or sewer rate increases may be considered in the near future by the Cass City Village Council following an annual audit report Monday night.

The village's finances in 1986 received a clean bill of health, according to Gary Keller of Yeo and Yeo Certified Public Accountants, P.C. of Saginaw, which prepared the audit.

But Keller advised that potential problems exist in the future concerning the village's water and sewer funds.

"We have found nothing that we believe to be a material weakness," Keller told councilmen during the monthly meeting. But deficits in the sewer and water budgets "would lead me to believe that the council should be watching these funds."

The 1986 Sewer Fund consisted of $297,340 in revenues, compared to $251,444 in 1985, while expenditures totaled $262,625, compared to $230,157 the previous year.

The fund had a net income of $22,715 before depreciation, which totaled $209,622. When depreciation attributable to contributed capital from federal and state sources ($167,698) was subtracted, it left a net loss of $19,209. In 1985, the net income before depreciation was $11,287, with a net loss of $30,637.

The 1986 Water Fund ended with a net loss of $7,385, compared to a net income of $5,690 in 1985.

The fund's revenue in 1986 totaled $94,361. Expenditures were higher at $105,012, partly because of increased spending for well repairs and related work.

Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie said that the sewer and water fund deficits were covered in 1986 by surplus money in those budgets.

He agreed with the council and Keller, however, that the village has been subsidizing the funds and that steps must be taken to curb the deficits.

"We have to consider several things," council President Larry Davis commented. "There will have to be some sort of change."

CURRENT RATES

Currently, the village charges $10.56 for a minimum 5,000 gallons of water, plus a charge for additional gallons based on a decreasing fee scale.

For sewer, the village charges $36.12 for up to 10,000 gallons, plus $2.65 per 1,000 gallons thereafter.

The water rate hasn't been increased since 1978, while the sewer rate has remained unchanged since 1981.

LaPonsie pointed out that additional future expenses are expected, including the costs of purchasing equipment and chemicals to remove chlorine from treated water before it enters the Cass River.

The de-chlorination is being required by federal law beginning in 1988, LaPonsie continued, adding, "we're not sure what it's going to cost."

Keller remarked, and village officials agreed, that deficits in the 2 funds should be headed off so the village won't be forced to use fund balance money.

The fund balance is retained as an "emergency" fund, according to LaPonsie, who said that the 1986 ending balance equals about 10 percent of the village's budget. A reduced fund balance would be "wiped out" easily by an unexpected emergency, he added.

Keller summarized the 1986 audit report by briefly outlining various funds and making comments.

The spending plan had total general fund revenues of $592,524, and expenditures of $566,565.

The general fund ended with a balance of $114,416, slightly more than the 1985 ending balance of $113,853.

The Major Street fund had total revenues of $77,839 and expenditures of $65,665, while the Local Street fund consisted of $41,574 in revenues and $86,550 in expenditures. With operating transfers, the funds had a combined ending balance of $7,517.

OTHER BUDGETS

In other budgets, the Debt Service fund had total revenues of $70,586, compared to expenditures of $71,750; the Parking System Fund had revenues of $3,764 and expenditures of $7,380; and the Motor Vehicle Fund had $85,985 in revenues and $48,258 in expenditures.

The Special Assessment fund shows $8,396 due in 1986, with $3,814 paid. The remaining money owed to the village consists of $1,548 in current assessments, $2,011 in delinquent assessments, and $1,023 in deferred assessments.

"I don't have a material concern" about the village's finances, Keller again emphasized. "I think this village is very progressive. You do a lot of things and still manage to break even" in most of the funds.

DNR plants wild turkeys Friday

As far as the Department of Natural Resources is concerned, the wilder, the better.

At least that's the department's opinion concerning 6 Pennsylvania turkeys planted southeast of Bad Axe Friday morning.

For area sportsmen, the planting is reason to be optimistic about future hunting prospects in the Thumb. Conservation officials, meanwhile, are one step closer to their goal of establishing wild turkey flocks throughout southern Michigan.

"We wanted a new strain of turkey—a really wild strain," DNR District 11 biologist Dave Dominic remarked. "The experts we've talked to feel this is the wildest strain we can get."

Dominic, whose district includes the Thumb area, was among several DNR officials and a small crowd of spectators who watched as the birds—4 males and 2 females—were released in the recently-purchased Verona State Game Area. The 6,800-acre tract was formerly owned by Detroit Edison.

Another 9 females are expected to be released in the same area this winter.

"We feel we're putting them in the best place possible at this time," Dominic remarked, adding that if all goes well, there could be up to 200 turkeys in the area in 2 to 3 years.

"At that point, all the young ones from the first year have matured and begin to breed. Then (the population) really starts to take off."

By the end of 5 years, turkey numbers from the recent planting could reach 500 birds.

OTHER PLANTINGS

Friday's planting is only one of several sponsored by the DNR in District 11, which covers an area stretching from Lansing to Port Huron to Bay City.

In nearby Detord, a flock established 3 years ago is being deemed healthy and growing. About 22 turkeys were released initially, and the number grew to roughly 75 birds in the second year.

Flocks also have been started in Port Huron and Lapeer. "Our ultimate goal, 10 to 15 years from now, is to have turkeys throughout lower Michigan," Dominic said.

The wildlife specialist pointed out that most of the birds planted in Michigan come from Iowa and Missouri. The object, he said, is to get wild birds.

The various states have a type of cooperative concerning wild birds and animals, according to Dominic, who explained that Pennsylvania will receive one Sichuan pheasant (a bird native to China, but transplanted in Michigan) for each of its turkeys.

Although he's optimistic about the expected success of the turkey plantings, Dominic said that the program could be threatened by 2 problems. One is the introduction of domesticated or half-breed turkeys. "There have been people who have released turkeys on their own, and that's weakened the strain," he observed.

The other potential problem—poaching—hasn't yet surfaced as a real threat to the program, Dominic continued.

Persons convicted of poaching since approval of special legislation in 1986, have paid dearly for their crime. An individual who illegally kills a wild turkey, for example, faces a $1,000 fine (compared to $100 in 1985) in addition to a minimum 5-day jail sentence, and court costs and fines.

It's official! UPS-village reach agreement, building to start

United Parcel Service and Cass City officials have reached an agreement concerning sale of nearly 3 acres of Industrial Park land to UPS, which plans to relocate and expand.

Village manager Lou S. LaPonsie announced the news during a regular Village Council meeting Monday night, saying that officials signed the contract Thursday.

"They're going to be sending in a crew for soil borings," LaPonsie continued. "They want to get going."

The deal will be officially closed around April 15, according to council President Larry Davis. "We think the contract agreement is in order; it looks good," he added.

UPS is scheduled to begin construction of a new building on the site July 1. The village, meanwhile, will complete curb and gutter work, and place a gravel base on Division Street by Aug. 15. Paving of the roadway, which borders the land purchased by UPS, is to be completed by Sept. 15 under the agreement.

UPS will pay $5,000 per acre for the 2.73-acre Industrial Park tract.

Village officials are estimating road work costs at $55,000 to $60,000, which LaPonsie has said will be covered by proceeds from the land sale and general fund money.

MORE LIGHTING?

A proposal to expand conversion of downtown lighting—being changed from mercury vapor to high pressure sodium—to include all lights along Main and Seeger streets within the village was considered by the council.

Detroit Edison completed an initial project converting some 36 lights in the downtown area Feb. 13, and is now preparing to convert and add additional lighting in village-owned parking lots.

A total of 7 lights, including 4 new lights and poles, will be installed at parking lots located behind Sommers' Bakery and Restaurant, Cass City Floral and Konrad's Bakery and Restaurant.

The proposal presented Monday night by councilman Elwyn Helwig would add an additional 32 lights to be converted. The lights, which are hanging on cables, stretch east and west on Main Street and north and south on Seeger Street to the village limits.

The additional 32 lights would cost $1,280 for installation plus an annual operational fee of $21 per light for a total additional yearly cost of $1,952.

"We're tying the village together, we're taking care of the businesses and we're taking care of the trunklines," Helwig told the council. "I think that's adequate."

Councilmen tabled the proposal in order to investigate specific figures and whether more lighting in alley areas behind downtown businesses should be considered. That proposal probably would mean a maximum of 8 more lights, the council said.

"The only feedback I've gotten is, 'That is fantastic,'" LaPonsie remarked concerning the recently completed lighting conversion downtown.

Walbro reports increased sales, profit in 1986

L.E. Althaver, President and Chief Executive Officer, Walbro Corporation, reported sales from continuing operations for the year ended Dec. 31, 1986, of $102,777,000 compared with $73,008,000 for 1985. Income from continuing operations was $6,245,000 ($1.89 per share) compared with income from continuing operations of $4,936,000 ($1.68 per share) for 1985. Net income for 1986 was $5,995,000 ($1.81 per share) compared with net income of $3,314,000 ($1.13 per share) for 1985.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business during the regular session, which lasted one hour and 20 minutes, the council heard an update on drafting of a cable television ordinance.

The action is in response to a request from Welbec Cable Television Corp. of Washington, D.C. to extend by 10 years an existing agreement the village has with First Michigan Cablevision. An existing 15-year agreement is scheduled to expire in April. Welbec, a Centel Cable Company, plans to purchase the rights to provide cable service to area residents.

According to council members, the council's Rules Committee has met twice concerning the ordinance, and was scheduled to meet with cable officials on Tuesday (Feb. 24).

The council indicated it would like to act on the proposed agreement next month in order to renew the Clinic helps 50% quit smoking

Do you want to quit smoking? Have you told yourself a hundred times that today is the day, but couldn't make it through the morning without a cigarette? Well, if you are serious about quitting, there is a program that can help you.

The Fresh Start Program, put on by Hills and Dales Hospital, is a group support class for those smokers who want to quit, but can't. The program was started about 5 years ago by the American Cancer Society and Hills and Dales offered its first class Feb. 3.

Facilitator, Jane Mitchell, said the main function of the program is "to support people who already decided to quit smoking. It's a support group to help you get over the rough times."

The first class started Feb. 3 and meets every Tuesday and Thursday from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. for a total of 6 classes. The afternoon classes were set up for hospital employees, housewives and others who don't work in the afternoon, according to Mitchell. There will be a May program offered in the evening for people who work days.

Mitchell said for the program to really work, the smoker should start at the beginning. "Most of the program is talking and getting to know feelings," she said.

The first session starts out with an audio-visual about why a person should stop smoking and a discussion follows. Also, the participants in the class set a quitting date. "Members are encouraged to stop smoking by the second meeting," said Mitchell.

Mitchell says she recommends the members to quit cold turkey, but some start out by cutting down on the number of cigarettes they smoke. "We talk about various ways of quitting and techniques to use" to help the nicotine craving, said Mitchell.

Some of the techniques offered by Mitchell, who attended a seminar to become a facilitator, are: exercise, drinking lots of fluids, deep breathing, various relaxation techniques, and substituting toothpicks, low-calorie foods and gum for cigarettes. "Weight gain is the first excuse to get back on smoking," said Mitchell. She suggests eating carrot or celery sticks when craving a cigarette.

At the second meeting, the group talks about how they will survive the next few days without a cigarette. "Everyone gets a chance to talk," said Mitchell. The remaining 4 classes continue in this group discussion-group support atmosphere.

"This is not a negative program," said Mitchell. "We don't dwell on the negative aspects of smoking. The program is to support people who already decided to quit smoking and the support group is to help them through it."

Mitchell says the success rate of the program is about 50 percent. "Some people have to come back 4 or 5 times before they are successful. It's harder for a smoker to give up cigarettes than an alcoholic to give up liquor," she said. The Fresh Start Program is free but donations to the hospital or the American Cancer Society are welcome.

ABOUT 50 percent of participants in the Fresh Start Program "butt out" permanently.

Meg's Peg
Viewing account
by Melva E. Guinther

As this is being written, our household is engaged in a week-long stint of keeping a Nielsen TV viewing diary. I haven't been so excited since the guy outside the polls wanted to know how I voted.

So what if we're only one among several thousand. It's nice to know occasionally that your opinion counts.

At the beginning, there's an inclination to "vote" for the best program aired every hour. What they really want to know, however, is our normal viewing habits.

The instructions are quite clear and concise. All we have to do is mark down who watches what, when, in the handy little diary they provide for each TV set.

One thing troubles me, though. How are we going to record those half hour segments when old Nimble Fingers, drunk with the power of holding the remote control device, flicks repeatedly from one channel to another?

That drives me crazy. He leaves a program on just long enough to get your attention, then flicks to another, and another, until he's exhausted our 15 channels. Then he starts over.

Usually I leave the room. If sufficiently interested in the brief glimpse of a program caught in passing, I turn on the set in the kitchen, leaving him to his strange, fragmented viewing.

Our television tastes are quite divergent. Thanks to ESPN, not to mention College Basketball, NBA Basketball, Wide World of Sports, Michigan Outdoors, ad infinitum, there is never a dearth of sports programs for his enjoyment. He also likes the nature shows on PBS.

They're educational, but watching the mating habits of the aardvark and seeing a leopard rip apart a baboon don't really appeal to me. Nothing but sex and violence, I keep telling him.

My preference runs toward game shows, movies or TV specials that address social problems. He finds them depressing. (Those nature shows are surely depressing to the baboons of the world.)

Among our few mutual favorites are Cosby, Newhart and Mystery Theater.

A side benefit of participating in the survey is that they sent us a list telling how our channels correspond to those in the TV Times. What with the cable company's listing, the TV book listing and the knob on our set being stuck on 13, it had been frightfully confusing.

Another dubious advantage is that at the end of the week we'll be forced to face up to how much time is wasted in front of the tube.

I've already started reading a book.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

You have to be a real old-timer to remember when Margaret Boag worked on Main Street in Cass City. She hasn't been around town regularly for awhile now, but she's still active. Loves to read books and looks forward to working a crossword puzzle daily. So? So she's 91 years young, her daughter reported, as she dropped in to renew her mother's subscription to the Chronicle.

Okay, so you expect things to go a little astray when you return from a vacation. Excuse my crying, but I do believe my tale of woe is a little worse than average. When I returned Saturday night I found that the sewer at the house was plugged and we spent the weekend without the use of water. In addition, my car was stolen and left in Belleville, near Detroit.

I've said it before and I'm going to say it again. The amount of money floating around for leisure spending is amazing. In Salt Lake City, Utah, we rented a car and just for fun asked how much it would cost to rent a Cadillac or a Lincoln. Every one of these luxury cars were rented, we were told, and were booked for 2 weeks ahead. There were plenty of compacts and cheaper full sized cars available at all the rental agencies we checked.

Annual Prayer Day set

The Thumb Zone of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League has scheduled the Annual Day of Prayer Observance for Tuesday, March 3. The program will be "Radiant With God's Love" and will include worship service, Bible Study and fellowship. Services are planned at 3 locations: 6:30 p.m. - Peace Lutheran at Sandusky, 6:30 p.m. - Grace Lutheran at Fairgrove and 1:30 p.m. - St. John's Lutheran at Port Hope. A free-will offering will be taken and has been designated to go to the American Bible Society and Lutheran Bible Translators. All ladies and guests are welcome to attend and are requested to bring along their Bible.

AMONG CASS CITY'S top spellers are (from left) Tracey Burns, who will represent Cass City Schools in a regional spelling competition; Pam Stoll, who finished as runner-up behind Burns in the local spell-off, and 5th grade finalists Rachel Malone and Stacey Klinkman.

CC spelling bee

Burns named top speller

Being a "small town" girl, 12-year-old Tracey Burns may not be familiar with the meaning of metropolitan.

But the Cass City Intermediate School 6th grader knows how to spell the word, which turned out to be the winning word during a recent spelling bee sponsored by the Lawrence Institute of Technology and the Detroit News.

Burns will represent Cass City Schools in regional competition scheduled for the first week in March.

She is among 430 Cass City school 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th-grade students, including pupils from Deford and Evergreen elementary schools, who took part in the competition.

An elimination spell-off narrowed the competitors to 3 in each grade level, with Rachel Malone, Betsy Gengler and Stacey Klinkman representing the 5th grade; Burns, Rosie Blue and Lori Ypma in the 6th grade; Bart Hall, Rodney Romain and Shawn Sherman in the 7th grade; and Tricia Opal, Nichole Harris and Pam Stoll in the 8th grade.

Finalists in the competition were Malone, Burns, Hall and Harris, who competed with their 4 alternates to decide the winner. Stoll, an alternate, finished the final spell-off as runner-up behind Burns.

It will be held at the San-

The Haire Net

Travel by air these days is a crap shoot from the time the tickets are purchased until the trip is over. When the dice are rolling your way it can be great. When they are against you it can be, well, putrid is too mild a word, but the only one I can think of to say in a family newspaper.

We experienced both ends of the spectrum last week on a trip to Utah. It was a trip that was planned for several months and to take advantage of a special rate the tickets were purchased several months in advance for the "bargain" price of $288 round trip.

So right at the start the dice were loaded against us. Under a new special rate the ticket could have been $100 less and needed to be purchased only 2 days in advance. Our tickets couldn't be exchanged for the newer lower priced ones unless there was room on the original flights that had been booked. Need I tell you the answer to that one? Cross off the $100 savings.

The dice rolled our way on the trip out. Because the flight was overbooked, the 4 of us were transferred to the first class cabin and treated royally with special menus and free refreshments. Great!

You know that it was too good to last. That was the last bit of luck we had. After that it was snake eyes all the way.

The return home started normally. We wedged into the coach section with the rest of the sardines and reached Denver about on time.

The plane due out of the Mile High City was severely overbooked and the officials offered a round trip ticket to any place in the continental United States if the passenger was willing to take a later plane.

Since it would have been a matter of just 4 hours difference in our arrival time in Detroit, we offered our seats and were number 4 through 7 on the list.

Since the flight was overbooked by about 15 seats, we figured we were in and started daydreaming about where we would be going sometime within the next year. Free!

But right then the dice turned against us again. The good news was that something was found to be wrong with the plane while it was still on the ground. The bad news was that after a 4-hour wait it was discovered that it couldn't be fixed and a new plane was shuttled into service.

Meanwhile alternate travel lines were found for 12 of the 15 passengers that would have been without seats, leaving the free ticket offer cut off just before it got to us.

What it all boiled down to was that we got to Detroit at about the time we would have if we had been bumped from the flight but without the free tickets as compensation.

It could have been worse. Going and coming our luggage arrived when we did and the weather was ideal the entire week.

"If It Fitz..."

Excuse me

By Jim Fitzgerald

"Let's go someplace where we can talk," I said to my wife.

I've always wanted to say that. In movies and on TV, characters are continually suggesting that they go someplace where they can talk. Usually there are only two people present and they are already someplace where they can talk, otherwise they wouldn't be able to talk about going someplace where they can talk.

If there are three or more people present, one of them never suggests that he and only one of the other people go someplace where they can talk. This apparently would be rude, an insult to those people not invited to go along with the two people going someplace where they can talk.

So when there are three or more people in the scene, and two of them want to talk in private, they don't go someplace where they can talk. Instead, they ask the other people to excuse them.

This always works on TV. One of the two people who wants to talk simply says, "Will you excuse us?" and everyone else quickly walks away, leaving the two talkers with someplace to talk. I find that amazing.

If I asked one or more people to excuse my friend and me, with no further explanation, the immediate perception would be that we had both burped or done something else socially disruptive. Someone might say "Good lord!" but no one would automatically leave the scene.

Another thing I've noticed — mostly on sitcoms — is the characters who leave don't go far. They move to the other side of the room, off camera, but still only a few steps from the two people who want someplace to talk privately. And they talk loud enough to be heard across the street.

The audience is expected to believe the excusers can't hear the excused because of poor acoustics. I believe it. I also believe the reason sitcom families all sit on the same side of the dinner table isn't just so every face will be on camera. They do it because they think it's the Last Supper.

Anyway, I wanted to go someplace where I could talk to my wife about milk. I'm served a glass of milk with dinner and try hard to run out of milk and food at the same time. But sometimes it doesn't work out that way, and the solution is more honest than swiping a magazine from the barbershop because you haven't finished reading by the time the barber finishes clipping. I go to the refrigerator and bring back a half-gallon carton of milk, which I put in the middle of the table for reference in case a missing child walks by.

A carton of milk on the dinner table causes my wife to stomp. She feels the same way about a loaf of bread, but she never puts more than one slice of bread on the table, or more than one glass of milk. Before dinner, she even asks if I'm going to want bread, and if I say I'm not sure, but why doesn't she put a few slices on the table just in case, she refuses. Her theory is that if she can't see it, she won't be tempted to eat it, which has absolutely nothing to do with what I eat, except I married her.

On the evening in question, however, she did make an exception, probably because we had a guest and she wanted to avoid a scene. She put a pitcher of milk on the table. The pitcher is shaped exactly like a cow. I'm not kidding. The milk pours out of the cow's mouth, as though it is very ill. "That is the most disgusting thing I've ever seen," I said.

"I gave that pitcher to mother," said our guest, who was our 30-year-old daughter.

"You must have been very young at the time," I said.

At this point, I would have asked our daughter to excuse us, but she would have said gesundheit. So I asked my wife to go someplace where we could talk. She said she heard on TV that President Reagan loves Nancy so much he kisses her goodbye every time he leaves her, even when he's only going to the bathroom.

I don't know why she said that, but it makes as much sense as not feeding me so she won't gain weight.

Obituaries

Howard Langlois

Howard P. Langlois, 61, of Gagetown died Wednesday, Feb. 18, at Provincial House in Cass City, after a lingering illness.

He was born April 14, 1925, in Elmwood Township to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Langlois. He was a member of St. Agatha Catholic Church and the American Legion Post 421.

Survivors are his mother, Beatrice Langlois of Gagetown, one sister and brother-in-law, Marilyn and Robert Balzer of Unionville; 3 brothers, and sister-in-law, Harold and Lawrence Langlois of Gagetown and Richard and Betty Langlois of Gagetown; 11 nieces and nephews and 8 grandnieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Saturday, Feb. 21, at St. Agatha Catholic Church, Gagetown. Fr. Julius A. Spleet officiated. Burial was in the St. Agatha Cemetery. The Deisler Funeral Home handled arrangements.

Memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society or St. Agatha Masses or donor's choice.

Builders group schedules meet

The Home Builders Association of the Thumb will meet at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, March 4, at Wildwood Farms.

The program will be presented by Detroit Edison. All interested persons are invited, $8.00 non-members for dinner.

to be held Feb. 25 at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Argyle.

Joseph C. Reinelt, McKittrick, CA, was killed when the car he was driving left the roadway and entered a ditch off Ruth Road near Bay City-Forestville Road east of Minden City.

A passenger in Reinelt's vehicle, Keven S. Thompson, 31, Minden City, was seriously injured and listed as critical Monday at Deckerville Community Hospital.

According to Michigan State Police at the Sandusky post, Reinelt was northbound on Ruth Road when he left the road and apparently lost control of his vehicle.

Both Thompson and Reinelt, who was pronounced dead at the hospital Sunday morning, were wearing seat belts when the accident occurred.

Reinelt, formerly of Argyle, was born March 9, 1955 in Cass City, the son of Gerald and Helen (Kroetsch) Reinelt of Argyle.

He was a 1973 graduate of Deckerville High School, as well as a student for 2 years at Alpena Community College, where he studied forestry. Reinelt was employed for 7 years at Petro-Lewis Oil Co., McKittrick, and was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, McKittrick.

He is survived by 2 daughters, Joanna and Jessica Reinelt, McKittrick; his parents, Gerald and Helen, Argyle; 3 sisters, Diane Best, Sandusky, Linda Walsh, Walled Lake, and Nancy Pitcher, Freiburg, Germany.

Reinelt was preceded in death by 2 brothers, William Reinelt in 1970 and Gerald Reinelt in 1958.

The Rev. Michael Bell was to officiate at the funeral service. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Hospital employee calms down irate man

An unknown man became upset Feb. 13, when he found that the side rear window had been shattered by a rock of approximately 2 inches in size, which was found on the rear seat. According to the report, only about 6 inches of the glass had been knocked out of the window which permitted the suspects to reach in and unlock the door.

The case was closed because there were no suspects and all agreed nothing further could be done other than filing a report for insurance purposes. However, according to the report, the police officers at the scene questioned "why, when the door was closed, the remainder of the window did not shatter as it did upon officers investigating and touching the door."

A senior executive for Evans Products, Gagetown, called police Feb. 14 on what was believed at the time to be a breaking and entering, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Police arrived at the scene at 1:47 p.m. and talked to Fred Sullivan, 6581 Mill St., who stated that employee, Gene Wilson, had checked the building the night before and everything was fine. However, at about 12:30 p.m. all the windows in the general manager's office were found broken.

According to the report a beer bottle that had been broken on the wall had apparently come through the window. Sullivan said that "nothing was out of place, nothing had been tampered with and he did not believe that anyone had entered the building." There was a trace of blood on some of the pieces of the shattered bottle and police collected some of the broken glass. Sullivan told police that he would check at the plant to see if any of the employees had cut hands, but he never called the police back and the case is closed unless further evidence is found.

The damage to the broken window was $500.

ROAD MISHAPS

A 59-year-old Cass City man was uninjured when he went into a ditch after trying to avoid a dog that had walked in front of his car.

Harry A. Lenda, 6315 Brenda Dr., was southbound on Koeppgen Rd. on Feb. 22 at 12:15 p.m. when he tried to avoid the dog and drove on to the shoulder of the road and lost control of his car. Lenda then crossed the road and went into a ditch. There was very little damage to Lenda's car.

Teressa L. Woodward, 22, 7636 Deckerville, Deford, lost control of her car, Feb. 22 and went into a ditch.

According to a police report, Deckerville Road was covered with fresh wet snow, when the mishap occurred. Woodward was not injured, but there was a lot of damage done to her car.

A 21-year-old Deford man was uninjured when his car struck a deer on Phillips Road, Feb. 16 at 8 p.m.

Arnold J. Hahn, 1295 Phillips Rd., was driving southbound when a deer ran out from the west into the path of his car. There was only minimal damage done to the car.

Police report 3 road mishaps

Motor vehicle mishaps locally continue to be few and far between as only 3 accidents were reported by the Cass City Police Department during the past week.

Slippery road conditions Monday morning were blamed for a 2-car accident at Leach and 3rd streets.

According to Police Chief Gene Wilson, a vehicle driven by Constance A. Melendorf, 4255 Koepfgen Rd., was northbound on Leach Street when it slid through the 3rd Street intersection, striking an eastbound vehicle driven by Georgia N. Hightower, 4848 Dodge Rd. Only slight damage was sustained by both vehicles, Wilson said. No citation was issued.

A car/deer mishap on Friday also resulted in minor damage. According to the report, a vehicle driven by Robert J. Heilig, 6189 Cedar Drive, was traveling southbound on Doerr Road about 1/4 mile south of Garfield Road when it struck a deer. Also reported was a Feb. 12 incident involving a hit-and-run vehicle.

Dale J. McIntosh, 6824 Houghton St., reported that an unknown vehicle struck his vehicle while parked on South Alley between Leach and Seeger streets. Slight damage was reported.

Square dance at high school

Town and Country Club will hold a square dance Saturday, Feb. 28, at Cass City High School.

Dancing is from 8 to 11 p.m. Mike Rock will be calling and Marianne Senecal will call the rounds.

All square dancers are welcome.

3 youths to be arrested for joy riding incident

The Cass City Police Department is awaiting arrest warrants for 3 Cass City High School students following a joy riding incident early last week involving a car owned by the Cass City Chronicle.

According to the police report, Dorothy Haire filed a stolen vehicle report Feb. 16. The vehicle, a company car, had been parked at the newspaper at 2:30 p.m., but was gone at 3 p.m.

The vehicle, a 1981 dark blue Olds Cutlass, was recovered Feb. 17 in Belleville by Van Buren Township Police officials. Belleville is located about 7 miles east of Ypsilanti.

According to Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson, the students involved, all aged 17 years, have given statements to police officials.

Wilson said he is requesting that the youths be charged with unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle (joy riding), which is classified as a circuit court misdemeanor.

A 22-year-old Palms man was arrested Friday evening on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

Richard L. Zdrojewski was driving the wrong way on the one-way alley between Leach and West streets at about 9:40 p.m. when he was stopped by Cass City Police officers.

Also reported Friday was a malicious destruction of property complaint involving a damaged vehicle owned by Ubyly resident Scott G. McLachlan.

McLachlan reported someone smashed the driver's side window on his vehicle, which was parked from 10 p.m. Thursday through 2:15 a.m. Friday at the Municipal parking lot northeast of Leach and Pine streets.

Damage is estimated at $100.

Jeffrey W. Boyce filed a complaint involving malicious destruction of property under $100 on Feb. 18.

Boyce, 4488 Leach St. stated that a lower wooden door panel on the entrance door to his apartment was kicked out, with the resulting damage estimated at about $25.

According to the report, a suspect has been located and interviewed by local police officials, who are awaiting action by Boyce on the complaint.

Cass City man faces 5 to 14 years in prison

James S. Terbush, 19, 5824 W. Kelly Rd., Cass City, was sentenced Monday, in Tuscola County Circuit Court, to 5 to 14 years in prison to run concurrently, after he pleaded guilty Feb. 9 to charges of uttering and publishing.

According to a court report, Terbush wrote a personal check for $45 on Nov. 29, 1986, with "intent to injure and defraud."

A 19-year-old Vassar man was sentenced, Monday to one year in prison, with credit for 41 days already served, for criminal sexual conduct third degree.

Gregory M. Luke, 7124 Downcreek Dr., pleaded guilty Feb. 9 in a preliminary exam and, as part of the plea bargain accepted by the court, he could only be given a maximum penalty of one year in the county jail.

According to a Circuit Court file, Luke pleaded guilty to "attempting to commit criminal sexual conduct in the third degree... but failed in the perpetration or was prevented in the execution."

Thomas Martin, 20, 1713 Concord St., Flint, was sentenced Monday in Circuit Court to 60 days in the county jail with work release, 3 years probation, and fines and costs of $500.

Martin had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering of a coin operated car wash with intent to commit larceny. The incident happened on Jan. 12, 1987.

PERJURY TRIAL

A 45-year-old Vassar man was found guilty of perjury at a jury trial on Feb. 19 in Circuit Court. Sentencing is set for April 13 at 1:30 p.m.

Frederick L. Forbush, 694 Hazel St., was charged with perjury at a preliminary exam in the case of People versus John E. Welch, on March 21, 1986. The case dealt with embezzlement and attempted conspiracy to commit embezzlement.

According to a court report Forbush committed "perjury on a material matter by testifying as follows: that he had no knowledge of any theft of auto parts from DAB Manufacturing in Vassar, which occurred between Jan. 1, 1984 and Aug. 1, 1984 and that John Welch had never attempted to conspire with him to commit such thefts."

Monday, Schank faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison. His preliminary exam is set for March 3, at 1 p.m. He paid 10 percent of his $20,000 bond.

According to a report on Feb. 20, 1987, Schank allegedly did break and enter an unoccupied store "located at 110 W. Frank Street, with the intent to commit the crime of larceny."

Girl Scouts to celebrate anniversary

On March 16 Girl Scouts around the world will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization with an event called the Promise Circle.

The 118 local scouts will meet at the Cass City Intermediate School gym, and at 4 p.m. they will cross the right hand over the left and join with their neighbors and say the Girl Scout promise.

Scouts worldwide will participate in the event, each having their own Promise Circle at 4 p.m. in their time zone.

The celebration will be started at 2:30 p.m. in Washington D.C. with Betty F. Pillsbury, Girl Scout national president, joining hands with Girl Scout troops at the nation's capital.

Cass City Girl Scout Service Director Kay Warner said that a birthday party is also planned for the local girls after the Promise Circle event. "Long ago they (the Cass City Girl Scouts) would have a regular birthday party on March 12," said Warner. The party was replaced with a church service where the girls had refreshments afterwards.

There will be cake and party games to celebrate the anniversary. Alumnae of the organization are also invited to participate in the event.

During the anniversary year the girls will be able to earn special patches and bars to mark the celebration. Also special events will be held throughout the year.

On April 25 or 26 the scouts will be going to a council at Delta College for the Mitten Bay Girl Scouts.

On May 3, the Lioness Club will have a fashion show and uniforms, past and present, will be shown by the girls. The uniforms shown will date back to the 1920s all the way through until today's uniform. The uniforms will be borrowed from the Mackinaw Historical Society.

On May 29-31 the girls will head for the hills and camp out for 3 days.

The village scouts are growing in number quickly and Warner said that 25 new girls signed up during January and February and officially became scouts at a pinning ceremony held Thursday at the Cass City Intermediate School cafeteria.

Richard J. Schank, 20, 266 Norman St., Caro, was charged with breaking and entering an unoccupied building in District Court, Monday.

Owendale women hold meeting

Discussion concerning helping with or possibly sponsoring a community blood drive was held during a monthly Owendale Women's Club meeting Feb. 16.

A club spokesman indicated the project will be investigated.

In other business, the club, hosted by Arlene Enderle and Cathy Kropewnicki, donated an undisclosed amount of money to Cindy Enderle and Kendra Reehl, who will be participating in a state Lions Band program this summer.

Future activities being planned include a basket-making demonstration next month by Kropewnicki, and a drug-abuse program in April. That program, to be held in the Owendale High School library, will be presented by a representative of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Following regular business during the February meeting, club members played card bingo and awarded prizes to the winners. Lori Gunden won the door prize.

HEALTH TIPS

Dietary recommendations for healthy women

Women today face a number of health problems including obesity, osteoporosis, cancer, menstrual disorders, and heart disease.

More women than men are obese, says M.R.C. Greenwood, a biology professor at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. And over 50% of women 25 to 34 years follow low-calorie diets, most of which are limited in several nutrients in addition to calories, says Rutgers University researchers, Michele Fisher and Paul Lachance.

Osteoporosis, a bone-thinning disease causing bone fractures, affects as many as half of all women in the United States over 45 years of age and 90% of women over 75 years. While many factors including heredity, low estrogen levels, and lack of exercise undoubtedly contribute to this major health problem, considerable evidence supports a positive role for calcium in slowing bone loss.

Unfortunately, most women's diets fall short of meeting their calcium needs. "The average amount of calcium in the diets of American women 35-50 years old is less than 80% of the current Recommended Dietary Allowance," according to a 1985 government survey. Moreover, the Recommended Dietary Allowance of 800 mg of calcium is considered to be too low. The 1984 National Institutes of Health National Consensus Conference on Osteoporosis panel recommend 1000 mg to 1500 mg calcium beginning well before menopause to prevent osteoporosis.

Women are victims of cancer, particularly breast and uterine cancers. And as many as 30% of women of child-bearing age suffer some degree of premenstrual syndrome or PMS.

Because of these health and nutrition concerns of women, the American Dietetic Association (ADA) formed a task force to translate scientific findings into the following practical dietary recommendations for healthy women:

*Eat a daily variety of food from all major food groups. This means 3-4 servings of low-fat dairy foods, 2 servings of low-fat meats or meat alternatives, 4 servings of vegetables/fruits, and 4 servings of whole grain breads/cereals. Rely on foods for necessary nutrients and use vitamin and mineral supplements only under specific conditions.

*Emphasize foods rich in calcium (e.g., dairy foods), carbohydrates (e.g., pasta, beans), fiber (e.g., fresh fruit with the skin, legumes, whole grains), and iron (e.g., meats) daily.

*Limit total fat (i.e., to less than 1/3 of daily calories), salt, and alcohol, and avoid smoking.

*Maintain a healthy (not "ideal") body weight. Avoid skipping meals or eliminating food groups.

*Exercise regularly (i.e., 3 days/week/20 minutes).

*Adjust diet, exercise, and other health promotional behaviors to correspond with your own risk factors.

*Consult a registered dietitian to answer questions about the adequacy of your diet. In issuing these recommendations, the ADA emphasizes that diet is only one risk factor for chronic disease, and that heredity, life style, and environment are other potential contributors.

Membership in local FFA chapter steadily declining for past 4-5 years

Membership in the Cass City chapter of Future Farmers of America has been steadily declining for the past 4 or 5 years according to the organization's advisor Lyle Clark.

Treasurer for the local FFA, freshman Doug Marker, said that he wished more people would get into the group. "It's not just for farming," said Marker. There are a lot of areas "in agriculture that the FFA deals with and people really don't think about them."

There are 30 members in the organization right now and Clark, who has been advisor for the organization since 1953, said that much of the decrease is because of the problems the farmers are having and many people don't know that there are many different fields in agriculture besides farming.

President of the village chapter, senior Dan Merchant, said that the school had to cut back on "quite a few of the agricultural classes. There is just not enough interest and they (the school) couldn't come up with enough students to fill the classroom," said Merchant.

Merchant said that when he first started in the program 4 years ago there were 17 freshmen in the classroom. Last year there were only 2 juniors left.

Merchant, as well as many of the other members, spend part of the day at the skill center. The members in the organization take classes related to agriculture. "I'm taking ag-mechanics," said Merchant who plans to be an auto mechanic when he gets out of school. Merchant said he will be attending Northwestern in Lima, Ohio which specializes in his field.

But despite the decrease in members the group is still productive. Last year they planted barley and corn on the 30 acres in back of the school. "We raised them and watched them grow," said Merchant. "Mr. Clark used them for class demonstrations." The group harvested the crops and put them in an elevator and sold them throughout the year for money for the organization.

"We also had a feed bank," said Marker. "Kids could buy the corn to feed the livestock they were using for projects."

Marker is one of 2 FFA members who will be going to the regional competition in Ithaca on Feb. 26. Marker won the public speaking competition at the district contest which was held Feb. 12.

Member Brent Morell, also a freshman, won the greenhorn public speaking contest and will also be going to regionals.

The chapter doesn't know yet what they are going to be planting this year, but Merchant said the season won't be starting for another month or so.

Four teams, consisting of 3 members, will represent the village chapter at the spring judging contest to be held April 25 at Michigan State University. They will be entering the dairy contest, livestock contest, soil contest, and crop contest. Merchant, who has competed before in the crop contest, described it as "studying for a test." He said that you study the different seeds and crops and then you must identify them at the competition.

Some of the members are planning to enter either livestock or crops in the Tuscola County Fair held at Caro and are preparing for that event. Marker said that he is going to show crops at the fair.

When asked why he decided to join the organization, Merchant said, "It pertained to the classes I took and I had friends in it." Marker said that since he joined the organization a year ago he has learned the business aspect of agriculture which in his opinion is better than farming.

The FFA is a nation wide program with nearly 450,000 members and 8,000 chapters. The organization has declared Feb. 21-28 FFA week. Clark said that his group didn't plan anything for the week because it is before the growing season starts.

The other officers in the chapter include: vice president, Dave Schuette; secretary, Ryan Smith; reporter, Dan Marker; and sentinel, John Churchill.

FRESHMEN BRENT Morell, 14, left, and Doug Marker, 15, won the Public Speaking contest at the Future Farmers of America District Contest held at Reese Feb. 12. Both boys will be going to regionals Feb. 26 at Ithaca.

LEADERS FOR THE NEW FIELDS OF AGRICULTURE

National FFA Week
February 21-28

Farming. It's an ongoing search to find a better, more productive way, and the industrious members of our FFA play a big part. They're taught right from the start that the future of agriculture lies in keeping abreast of the latest technology, and that they must adapt to and embrace the new to achieve success. FFA continually produces a bumper crop of talented, inventive and dedicated young people to work in and lead the new fields of agriculture, and we're proud to show them our wholehearted support.

The State Farm Way

Your neighbor says Older Americans forgotten, ignored

Most of us have felt the pinch of Reaganomics in one way or the other. The farmers have been struggling under his presidency and so have the senior citizens of the nation.

With cuts in many of their programs the elderly of the nation have felt the pinch, sometimes a little harder than others. But, it's not just the economy that tends to forget them, but the people too.

Cindy Pettinger, 26, who has worked as a nurse's aid at Provincial House for 8 years, said that the people she deals with are "neglected sometimes and it's a shame." She says it isn't everyone, but some people have a hard time dealing with some of the sicknesses that come with growing old. Pettinger said some of the patients are in their second childhood, they don't deal with reality as well as they use to.

Many people say to me "that's not my father or that's not my mother." It's hard for the relatives to deal with, said Pettinger.

When asked about President Reagan, Pettinger said that she doesn't follow his policies too closely. "I've listened to him and he's getting up there," she said. "I think he should be more considerate," because he may need aid one of these days, too.

Pettinger, who lives at 6070 Wheeler Rd., Snover, says that she and her husband come to Cass City to do their shopping and business. Her husband works at Marshall Distributors and they have a 2-year-old daughter.

Retiree group holds meet

The Cass City Retired Persons group met Feb. 12 in the fellowship hall at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, with 14 members present.

Donna Rees took blood pressures of members. A potluck dinner was served at noon with Mildred Herr saying table grace.

President Lillian Hanby was in charge of the business meeting. Rose Worstell led in the salute to the flag.

Mrs. Hanby gave a report on the open house at the Tuscola Skill Center, Caro, Feb. 11, which was attended by 3 members. Also explained was what the Human Development Commission does for Senior Citizens.

The next meeting will be March 12. Lillian Dunlap of Caro will show slides of England.

Hawks cinch another Thumb B title

DAN WARE GOES up for a shot in the midst of a host of Vassar Vulcans Friday. Watching the play in the background is Jeff Sontag.

For the sixth time in the last 10 years the Cass City Red Hawks of coach Ron Nurnberger are champions of the Thumb B Association. The team made it official with the win against Marlette and added to its impressive record with a 60-49 decision over Vassar Friday. The last previous Cass City title was in 1983 when the Hawks also won the district.

Winning the district tournament, to be held this year in Cass City, will be the next goal for the Hawks who should reign as favorites when the annual spring classic starts.

Although Cass City led all the way against the Vulcans, the visitors stayed on the heels of the Hawks most of the way until the final period when the champions pulled away for a 60-49 win.

Using balanced scoring by Jeff Sontag, Dave Miller and Kurt Bliss the Hawks traded baskets with Vassar for the first 8 minutes. Mike Gohsman kept Vassar in the game with 6 points and at the end of the quarter Cass City was in front by a point, 13-12.

The Cass City defense came to life in the second quarter, holding Vassar to 9 points while the offense, led by Miller with 6 points, scored 15 to put the Hawks in front, 28-21, at the intermission.

The visitors refused to fold in the second half. Led by Brian Morley who ripped the nets for 4 buckets and Gohsman who added 6 points, Vassar outscored Cass City 16-13 and trailed by just 4 points going into the final quarter.

Mike Kelley, who was shut out in the first half, came to life in the last quarter to score a bucket and 3 free throws to pace a balanced Cass City attack that salted away the game and kept Cass City undefeated in league action.

Cass City shot well from the floor, hitting 24 of 48 for 50 percent while Vassar was 22 of 56 for 39 percent.

It was a different story from the free throw line where Cass City converted just 12 out of 20 for 57 percent while Vassar converted 5 of 7 for 71 percent.

Miller with 16 points and Bliss with 14 led Cass City while Gohsman with 22 points led all scorers and Morley added 15 for Vassar. Kelley snagged 11 rebounds.

OVERTIME WIN

The Cass City Junior Varsity preserved its undefeated string with a victory over the Vulcans. The Hawks were forced into overtime to record the win, 63-60.

CC VS MARLETTE

Cass City rallied back from a 14-point deficit against Marlette Feb. 17 to clinch the Thumb B Association crown.

The Red Hawks shut down an effective press by a scrappy Red Raiders squad to ice a 57-42 victory, which gave Cass City a 4-game lead over 2nd place North Branch and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port.

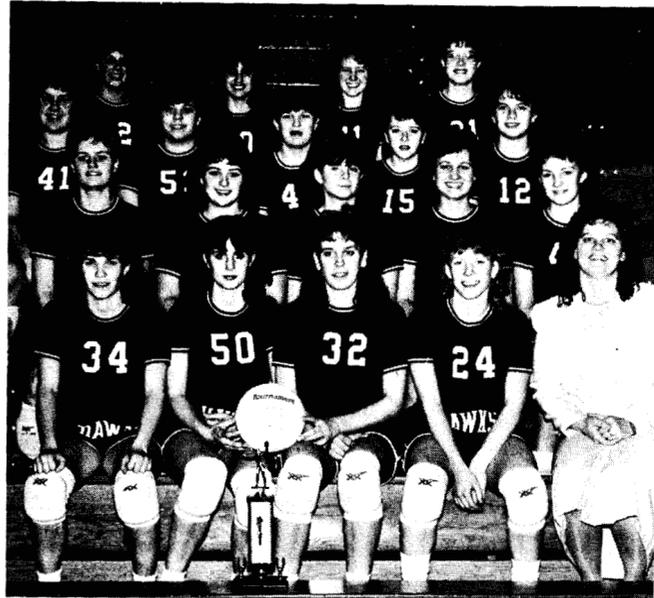

"It was a tough game," Nurnberger remarked. "Marlette's the most improved team in the Thumb B in the second half of the year. They played super intense in the first half (of the game), more than anybody else has against us this year."

The senior-dominated Marlette squad used its press and a "very aggressive" half-court defense to maintain a quick pace. Marlette lead by 6 after the first period, and was ahead 35-21 at the half.

"We tried to get real patient on offense" beginning in the 3rd quarter, Nurnberger commented. "And it worked." The coach added that the key was forcing Marlette to slow down.

Cass City trailed by 5 points after out-scoring its opponent 21-12 in the 3rd period, and went on to add 19 more in the final period versus Marlette's 11 to seal the victory.

Miller led the Red Hawks with 24 points, while Randall added 13 and Kelley 11.

JV spikers owe winning season to teamwork

Teamwork has been a key factor this season for the Cass City junior varsity volleyball squad, which has earned respect by effectively utilizing each team member's talent.

The end result? A winning season. "I feel we've had a great season, and I've really enjoyed working with the girls," first year coach Shelly Miller remarked. "The team works well together—the (girls) get along and you need that to make a good team."

The squad, which was to host Uby Monday, will end the season Friday at Lakers. Prior to Monday's match, Miller's team was 6-1 in the Thumb B Association, 8-2 overall.

"These girls have a lot of potential and I will enjoy watching them out on the court next season," Miller commented.

While the coach indicated she has 7 players she's depended on as starters this season, she added that each team member has exhibited certain talents which have led to a successful season.

The squad as a whole is young, with only 3 players having returned from last season. The returners are Tina Ballard, Andrea Isard and LeeAnn LaRoche, who sprained her ankle at the beginning of the season and hasn't seen any playing time.

Ballard and Isard have paced the team this season. Ballard is described as an all-around player and team leader, while Isard's specialty is front-row play.

Also a regular in front has been Sue Papp, whose spiking and blocking talents have contributed heavily. Rounding out the starting lineup have been all-around talents Cindy Powell and Christie Rutkowski, both service leaders; back-row player Beth Powell, and Leslie Navarro, whose strongest contribution this season may have been keeping her teammates "fired up."

Also on the team are back-up setters Suzy Britt, Wendy Mellendorf and Sandy Bulla, as well as Missy Knowlton, Bobbi Fischer, Carol Kubacki, Lynetta Allen, Wendy Weaver, Pat Bouck, Tisa Darr and Mary Shagena. "They haven't seen much playing time," Miller explained, "but the starters can't win without having the other team members helping them both on the floor and on the bench."

Musical group at Kingston U.M. Church

The New Life Singers, a contemporary Christian musical group from Central Michigan University, will present a musical entitled "We Are Called" at Kingston United Methodist Church Sunday evening, March 1, at 7:00 p.m.

The New Life Singers is an extracurricular group of about 45 students who practice and plan for approximately 30 concerts each school year.

The New Life Singers are supported by Mt. Pleasant Community Church, Evangelical Presbyterian, and is under the direction of Ed McCallum.

Pastor C. Wm. Bollinger welcomes all youth in the area at the 5:00 p.m. mini concert and a time of games and fun with the members of the choir. At 6:00 there will be a finger food carry-in dinner for youth and adults.

7 Cass City grapplers qualify Saturday for regional event

The Cass City Red Hawks qualified 7 wrestlers for regional competition Saturday in the Michigan High School Athletic Association district tourney held last Saturday at Cass City High School.

The Hawks finished fourth among the 14 teams competing behind champion New Lothrop which dominated with over 200 points; Burton Bendle with 154 points and Bad Axe with 125 1/2 points. The Hawks scored 104 1/2 points. Marlette was fifth with 63 points.

The Hawks had one second place finish among the 7 that qualified for the regionals. It was earned by Chuck Merchant in the 167-pound class. There were 4 third place finishes among the Hawks. They were: Henry Smith, 112 pounds; Mike Mikolon, 155 pounds; Scott Wright, 185 pounds; Jeff Lince, heavyweight. Rounding out the Hawk qualifiers were Bill Kappen, 132 pounds, and Mark Kappen, 138 pounds, who finished fourth.

Crowd pleaser

Teamwork, friendship key to Owen-Gage spikers' success

Joking and laughing, the Owen-Gage varsity and J.V. volleyball teams poured out of the girls locker room and started a 2-hour practice Wednesday night.

The 24-1 varsity Bulldogs say their success is due to teamwork. "We like playing with each other," said senior Tiffany Reinhardt, 18, who plays back row.

"We really work together as a team," said junior Janie Billy, 16, who is one of the spikers for the team.

And the friendship showed as the girls sat or laid on the gym floor talking. They giggled and teased one another, and they always praised their fellow teammates for their playing. "We don't let the wins go to our heads," said senior Heather Dorsch, 17. "We still get nervous before every game."

"We sure do," laughed junior Susie Salcido, 16, and a setter.

"They're a good team," Coach Judy Porter broke in. "As long as they stay away from arguments and play together they'll go places."

Senior Cindy Enderle, 17, a setter, said that Porter was one of the big factors in their success. "She's been working with us since junior high." The girls nodded in agreement.

The members of the team seemed to know their faults as well as their strengths. Before practice, Porter and the team watched a video cassette one of the parents had taped of last Thursday's game against Akron-Fairgrove. Although the Bulldogs won, Porter and her team saw a lot of holes and found places where they could improve.

Salcido said that the team will have to improve "digging the opposing team's spikes." She said "digging" is when the other team spikes the ball and you have to try to get it back into play.

Both Billy and Enderle said that one weakness is their blocking positions.

The team's spirit seems to have rubbed off on the parents and spectators. "We have an excellent crowd," said sophomore Andrea Mandich, 15, who is a setter for the team. "It's better than any other school. When we are getting down on ourselves they (the crowd) bring us back up."

Reinhardt said that once the parents of students who are not on the team come to one game, they are hooked for the rest of the season.

The team has 3 league games left and one non-league game and then they go to the District tournament to be held March 7 in Caseville. The girls said they are really looking forward to the tournament. "Caro took it away from us last year," said Billy. "But, we beat them at the Lakers

Port Hope, Peck fail to stop Bulldog spikers' winning streak

Bulldog spikers' winning streak

The Owen-Gage volleyball team is just like old man river, it just keeps rolling along in an irresistible tidal wave demolishing everything in its path.

This week Port Hope and Peck were added to the long list of victims as the girls raised their season's record to a gaudy 28-1.

Port Hope fell to the Bulldogs in straight games

Tournament," held Feb. 7. The Bulldog spikers won that tournament.

Porter is already planning for next year. She is bringing up sophomores from J.V. that will replace the 5 seniors she will be losing. "I brought up one sophomore a couple of weeks ago," to add to the 2 already on varsity.

"We'll be losing our 2 main setters," said Reinhardt. "But we are a young team and we'll do fine."

Reinhardt plans to go to Michigan State in September and, like the other seniors, doesn't plan to go out for the volleyball team. Dorsch is going to Saginaw Valley and senior Barb Hel-lebuyck, 17, plans to attend

Central Michigan University. Enderle was accepted at the University of Michigan and senior Charlene Goslin, 18, will be going to Ferris State. The seniors all said that they will probably play volleyball in the intramural sports program while attending college.

State park holds ski outing

Another candlelight cross-country ski outing and ski clinic will be held at Port Crescent State Park Sunday, March 8. The clinic will begin at 2 p.m. at the park headquarters and will be handled by qualified instructors who will give assistance to the beginner as well as the more experienced skier seeking more advanced tips.

A one-mile trail through the woods will be lighted by candles for the 2-hour evening event beginning at dark. The trail is located across the iron bridge at the west end of Port Crescent Road, 5 miles southwest of Port Austin on M-25. Warm refreshments and a bonfire will be part of the evening's activity.

The State Park Motor Vehicle Permit will be required for vehicle entry into all areas of the park except for the clinic at the headquarters.

Bulldogs lose to Port Hope; beat North Huron

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs needed a top effort from the entire squad, Friday, to have a chance to upset visiting Port Hope, the team that is all alone in second place in the North Central D League. Unfortunately, the Bulldogs ran into foul trouble early and Port Hope took advantage of the loss of key players for much of the game to post a 73-53 victory.

Both Steve Root and Dave Laurie picked up 3 fouls in the first half and spent part of the second quarter on the bench. Coach Dean Roller put the duo back in for the third period and they picked up their fourth fouls and were benched again. In the fourth quarter both fouled out of the game and so did Chris Abbe as the game was ending.

As a result of the fouls, Root was held to just 3 baskets and Laurie netted just 2 points. The Bulldogs missed the rebounding of Root and, without the big man in the lineup, Tim Murphy scored 29 points, including 17 of 19 from the free throw line to pace the Blue Stars to victory.

Stu Stirrett, the Bulldogs Mr. Everything, had a fine game, scoring 20 points and handling the ball well for Owen-Gage.

With all the starters in the game in the first quarter, the Bulldogs held their own with the visitors and after 8 minutes the score was tied, 13-11.

The visitors torched ahead in the second quarter with an 18-15 edge, but it was still anybody's ball game at the intermission. However, in the third quarter, Owen-Gage went stone cold from the field and Port Hope found the range to outscore their hosts, 20-8 in the period and settle the game for all practical purposes.

The Bulldogs sputtering offense got back in motion in the final quarter, but Port Hope also burned the nets to win by a comfortable margin.

With a 10-point lead at the half, Root went to work against the Warriors, who were having trouble making outside shots. Root's 10 points in the 3rd quarter doubled the Bulldogs' advantage to 20 points, which proved too much for North Huron to overcome.

"We didn't play real well, but our offense looked better than it has," Roller remarked, adding that Stirrett, who finished with 10 points, provided several key assists during the game.

Root paced the Bulldogs offensively with 22 points, while teammate Abbe contributed 12 points.

"They're pretty quick; they press all the time," Roller observed. "But we hurt them inside pretty badly—they couldn't stop it."

SHAN by Eric Van Lustbader (fiction). This novel follows the spectacular career of a former U.S. intelligence agent, the half-Chinese Jake Maroc. Jake's Chinese father was the guiding light behind the Cultural Revolution. Following in his father's footsteps, Jake becomes the "zhuan," the instrument through which the Jian's vision is to come to fruition, with China asserting itself as a world economic power. The gateway to this power is Hong Kong. Within a world of cutthroat diplomacy and espionage, Jake rises to the summit, helped by Bliss, the beautiful and dangerous woman he loves.

NEW ORLEANS LEGACY by Alexandra Ripley (fiction). Mary McAlister was raised in a convent in Pennsylvania. When Mary's father dies, leaving his fortune to his unscrupulous second wife, 16-year-old Mary sets out for New Orleans to find her real mother's family. The naive girl soon falls into the clutches of New Orleans' most infamous madam. Mary escapes the brothel, virtue intact, but not before she is seen there by Valmont Saint-Brevin, a handsome Creole aristocrat. As Mary wanders the strange city, her path crosses that of her Aunt Celeste who, hoping to retain the inheritance left by Mary's mother, hides her identity from her niece. Mary perseveres through poverty, drudgery, a sham marriage and subsequent rape, voodoo and a yellow fever epidemic, the mesmerizing Saint Brevin toying with her heart all the while.

THE STRATEGIES OF ZEUS by Gary Hart (fiction). Set during arms negotiations in 1987 and 1988, the story follows the intrigues of groups in both Washington and Moscow that are trying to sabotage the talks and accelerate the space arms race. Pitted against them is Frank Connaughton, a member of the U.S. negotiating team who is desperately trying to keep the talks going. He finds an ally in Ekaterina Davydov, an interpreter for the Soviets, who is equally determined to win an agreement. With the blessings of their immediate superiors, the two meet and exchange information that will aid the negotiations, but they are discovered by the forces who want to derail any treaty.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Mutual funds are roaring across the land like prairie fires. There are hundreds of such funds.

Some are better than others.

Some are downright speculative, like the commodity funds and option funds. Indeed, New York University did a study on commodity funds and found over a six-year period starting in 1979 the things had a MINUS return of around 5%. Just buying U.S. Treasury bills in that same period would have returned you over 9%—PLUS, not the 5% shrinkage of your capital in the riverboat gamble of commodity playing.

Leaving aside all the wild funds of junk bonds and junk stocks, you then get down to the long-established, conservative funds. At this point, do you want to get into a fund? It's a question often asked me.

If you have only a few thousand to invest, a mutual fund is handy to buy. You can invest all your funds, for funds give you fractional shares.

Supposedly there is supervision of the portfolio, but this won't mean the fund will do any better than the stock market averages. Anyhow, investment decisions are made by people who ought to know what they're doing.

They're easy to sell, in whole or in part.

Their fees for running the fund are not too bad—around 3/4ths of 1% of the value of your investment.

Now, the question is, do you get a "load" fund or a no-load fund. Load means the commission you pay to buy shares in the fund.

Typical charge of an investment up to $25,000 is 7.5%. Or that's what they tell you. Just a little hanky panky here. Say you have $10,000 to invest. Take 7.5% off that and you will have $9,250 worth of shares.

You have paid $750 for the privilege of investing $9,250. That is 8.1% of $9,250, not 7.5%. Your $9,250 worth of shares has got to earn 8.1% before you'll have $10,000 in your account—your original investment.

That's a year of earning, to break even. The salesman and the brokerage house keeps the $750 as commission.

Many will say it's well earned, and it covers a lot of expenses. They also say that such load funds show lower operating costs and management fees than the no-load funds, such as Scudder, T Rowe Price, and Dreyfus.

As far as performance goes—income and growth—nobody has yet proved that load funds do better than the no-load funds.

For the bigger investor, I usually recommend setting up his own fund, and bypassing the overhead expenses.

There was an exception recently, of a local club that had a hatful of cash they wouldn't need to tap for nine months. Their money market account at Merrill Lynch was paying 5.2%.

I suggested they get shares in the Scudder Ginnie Mae fund, paying 8.4% now. It satisfied most of the club requirements:

1. Safety—Government-backed securities.
2. Liquidity—withdrawals could be made in any amount at any time.

3. Good yield—3.2% more than money markets.

It is not a perfect solution for short-term money, because interest rate changes will make it more volatile than day-to-day money market funds. With a cushion of 3.2% more interest being paid, the club was willing to chance that risk.

We'll see how it all comes out.

Don't think that your top rate next year will be only 28%. The boys at Washington sort of gave that impression when the tax bill was passed.

It seems that 1987 will be a "transition year," to phase you down to the 28% level by 1988.

You will pay 28% (joint return) in 1987 for taxable income over $28,000 up to $45,000.

For $45,000 to $90,000 income you will pay 35% in this bracket.

If you make over $90,000, Uncle Whiskers will tap you for 38% over that level.

Dale Sella killed in auto crash

A 36-year-old Unionville man was killed early Monday morning when he lost control of his car on Bay Park Rd., slid off the roadway and rolled over in a plowed field, according to a state police report.

Dale J. Sella, 5098 Bay Park Rd., was dead on arrival at the Caro Community Hospital, at 1:15 a.m.

According to the report Sella was westbound on Bay Park Rd. when he lost control of his car on the icy roadway and slid off of the north side and rolled over into the field. Sella was not wearing his seat belt.

A 29-year-old Cass City woman complained of pain in the back of her head after her car was struck from behind by another vehicle on East Caro Road, Feb. 16 at 7:55 p.m., according to a police report.

Patricia O. Schneeberger, 5457 Delong St., had stopped for a school bus when a car, driven by Charles H. Tuckey, 55, 4681 Schwegler Rd., Cass City, struck her from behind. Tuckey was uninjured in the incident.

Tuckey said that he was distracted by a subject walking on the shoulder of the road and police issued a citation for not being able to stop.

The damage was moderate to Schneeberger's car while Tuckey's vehicle sustained only a small amount of damage.

Nicholas R. Colwell, 17, 5377 Cemetery Rd., Kingston, and his 3 passengers were uninjured Feb. 20 when his car struck and killed a deer on Cemetery Rd.

Colwell was driving north when the deer ran into his path and was struck. There was very little damage done to Colwell's car.

Silent Sisters hold annual meet

The 52nd annual silent sister party was held Wednesday evening, Feb. 11, with potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Tom Burk Jr. Co-hostess was Mrs. Tom Burk Sr. Seven members and one guest and silent secretary were present.

Valentine bingo was played with prizes awarded to Jane Faust, Carol Ellicott, Sharon Englehardt, Jeannette McDonald and Leanne Binder. "The Price is Right" was also played with Carol Stein in charge.

The brown bag auction was held with Sherry Burk auctioneer.

Gifts were exchanged and sisters revealed. New names were drawn and recorded by the silent secretary, Jeannette McDonald.

The group has a new member, Leanne Binder. The 1988 party will be held at the home of Mrs. Jeannette McDonald with Alice Ricker and Carol Ellicott in charge of games and entertainment.

ELECTED KING AND QUEEN of the Cass City High School Winter Carnival Friday night were seniors Brent Kostanko and Denise Cooper (holding flowers). Also in the running were seniors Kurt Bliss and Loreen Irrer (right), and Dave Miller and Robyn Powell (not shown). Also pictured are sophomore representatives Darin Gyomory and Julie Loomis.

Elect Kostanko, Cooper carnival king, queen

The Cass City High School Winter Carnival came to an end Friday when seniors Brent Kostanko and Denise Cooper were named king and queen during half time at the Red Hawks-Vulcans' basketball game.

Throughout the whole week, the students showed their spirit by following themes for each day and setting up booths for the carnival that was held Friday in the cafeteria.

"The school has a lot of spirit this year," said Senior Robyn Powell, president of the student council. The council is in charge of the Winter Carnival activities.

The windows of the high school were painted and students dressed in pajamas, sports T-shirts, nerd costumes and Red Hawk clothes following the theme for each day last week.

A dance was held Friday night with the Girls' Varsity Club hosting the event. The money the students earned at the carnival, according to Powell, will be saved for the prom. Seniors, however, used their earnings for graduation and for a class reunion fund.

Also in the running for the king and queen competition were king candidates Dave Miller and Kurt Bliss, and queen candidates Robyn Powell and Loreen Irrer.

On the junior court were Al Rosenstangel and Kathy Leino; the sophomore court, Darrin Gyomory and Julie Loomis; and the freshman court, Jason Robertson and Beth Powell.

Council-UPS reach accord existing agreement before it expires, but said that the draft must first be presented, and then acted on at a separate meeting.

Also discussed was a letter from the Department of Transportation regarding traffic flow at the intersection of Dber Road and Cass City Road (M-81).

"There was concern about traffic congestion at times at that corner," Davis explained.

According to the letter, state officials, following an investigation, found that existing conditions don't warrant a traffic light at the intersection.

Helwig remarked that he believes state officials should have observed traffic around noon, rather than at 3 or 4 p.m. "I disagree 110 percent. It's not a good, (accurate) evaluation of the intersection," he added.

Helwig, however, agreed with Davis that congestion at the corner is usually limited to brief periods. Davis added that state offi-

O-G seniors planning for card tourney

Some 39 members of the Owen-Gage Senior Citizen's group attended a monthly business meeting recently at St. Agatha's parish hall.

Business at the meeting included 20 blood pressures being taken by Johanna Miklovich, and the reading of a letter from the Human Development Commission explaining programs available to senior citizens.

Door prizes were awarded to Mike Pisarek and Vernita Jaster. About 43 group members attended a potluck dinner held Feb. 19.

Following brief discussion, the group decided to hold a craft and hobby show during its March 5 meeting.

Members will be able to sign up for an April 23 dinner at either the March 5 or March 19 meetings.

A euchre tournament was held following the dinner and meeting, with Louis Ouvry and Mary Blondell emerging as the high winners, and Bill Ashmore and Gerry Carolan as the low winners. Jim Winchester claimed the traveling prize, while door prizes went to Art Thomas and Iva Volz.

Estella Leyva, Bob and Florence Schell, and Art and Mary Thomas were appointed to the March committee.

Sales, profits up at Walbro

in 1987 remains bright," Althaver said. "We expect 1987 sales to reach a new high. Sales of Walbro electric fuel pumps for automotive original equipment applications are running at all-time high levels. Increased penetration for the company's lines of small engine carburetors is expected. Aftermarket demand for Walbro fuel system products also remains strong.

"It is unlikely, however, that the dramatic growth rate of recent years will be realized in 1987," he noted. "More modest growth is expected due in part to the fact that in mid-year, Walbro will begin to share some of its existing throttle body business with another supplier. We are hopeful, however, that our new product programs, combined with expanded marketing efforts, will result in accelerated growth in subsequent years."

Bethel Choir at Lamotte Church

The Bethel College Concert Choir will appear at Lamotte Missionary Church Tuesday, March 3, at 7 p.m.

About 35 musicians are under the direction of Dr. Elliott Nordgren, chairman of the Division of Fine Arts.

The group has earned a reputation over the past 35 years of fine music presented in a professional manner.

The choir, along with instrumental and vocal ensembles will perform a wide variety of styles, including selections from traditional choral masterpieces, spirituals and contemporary gospel.

The public is invited to attend. The Lamotte Church is located 8 miles north of Marlette on M-53.

CHICKEN THIGHS A L'ORANGE

1 package Holly Farms® Thin 'n' Fancy Chicken Thigh Fillets
3 tablespoons butter, divided
Salt and pepper to taste
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 cup orange juice
Pinch dry mustard

2 tablespoons current jelly
1/2 teaspoons grated orange peel
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons chicken stock or red wine
1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
Thin orange slices for garnish

Heat two tablespoons butter in large skillet. Salt and pepper chicken and sauté 5 to 7 minutes until lightly browned and cooked through. Remove from skillet and keep warm.
Add lemon juice, orange juice, mustard and lemon peels and jelly to skillet. Simmer over low heat, stirring about two minutes until smooth. Dissolve cornstarch in stock and stir into sauce. Swirl in remaining one tablespoon butter. Spoon sauce over chicken and serve immediately. Garnish with orange slices. Serves 4.
Approximate time: 15 minutes.
