NEW REGULATIONS concerning junk and other refuse will be enforced in Kingston Township if a proposed ordinance is approved. Township officials will hold a public hearing on the ordinance April 30 at the Township Hall in Wilmot.

Kingston Township seeks to beef up law against litter

Kingston Township residents guilty of leaving piles of junk or garbage or both lying around their property will be forced to "clean up their act" if a new ordinance is approved.

A public hearing on the proposed ordinance has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. April 30 at the Kingston Township Hall in Wilmot.

Township Supervisor Robert Gilmore said the proposed regulation applies to "anything that's unsightly that you don't want to see when you're driving down the road."

While the existing township ordinance partially addresses the problem, there is a need for specific regulations concerning junk and garbage, Gilmore added. "We want to put more teeth into" the ordinance.

Gilmore indicated that the Township Board has seen, and approves of the proposed ordinance.

According to Township Zoning Administrator Robert Sims, the proposal is designed to insure clean-up by guilty individuals.

"We're not looking for people to pick on," he remarked. "What we want is to go after the resident who is belligerent about junk or trash laying around."

The ordinance lists a number of specific violations, including junk vehicles, building materials, abandoned structures which are no longer used, partially completed structures, vacant buildings not protected against vandalism, and substandard construction.

Sims pointed out that there are exceptions, particularly when an individual is working under a valid building permit. Vacant buildings are allowed, he said, as long as a structure meets current building codes and is locked, boarded up or otherwise protected against vandals.

Violators, under the ordinance, "have 30 days after being served notice to clean up the condition," he continued, adding extensions would be available in cases where an individual makes a reasonable effort to correct the problem.

On the other hand, persons who ignore the law (if approved) will receive an invitation to court. Upon conviction, a violation of the proposed ordinance calls for a $500 fine and/or 90 days imprisonment.

Further, an individual who neglects to correct a violation after being convicted will be charged again, Sims said.

Fed funds saved, county moves Emergency Service

A request that Tuscola County pay back $44,741 in federal grant funds was canceled last week when the Board of Commissioners voted to move the Emergency Services Office back to the Sheriff's Department building.

The board, during its regular meeting April 21, also voted to split the full-time Veterans Counseling/Emergency Services offices office director position into 2 part-time jobs, with the veterans office remaining at the Health Department Building on West Caro Road.

The board in December voted to move Emergency Services Director James McCann out of the Emergency Services Office, located in the Sheriff's Department building, and into the Health Department building. The action drew a complaint that the move was a violation of an agreement with the federal government.

The agreement allegedly states that the county will man its Emergency Services Office.

But county officials say last week's action was not prompted by the complaint or contention that the county, by moving McCann out of his office, would be forced to reimburse the federal government for grant dollars used to purchase equipment for the emergency services.

Ben Sizemore, a State Police sergeant who serves as the state's 3rd District Emergency Management Coordinator, said the board's action last week "satisfies the federal requirement" that the Emergency Services Office and its director be located in the same building.

Sizemore told commissioners in February that the county was in violation of the alleged federal agreement, and said commissioners could either return the Emergency Services director to his office or reimburse the government for a portion of grant money received by the county over the years.

Commissioners at that time indicated they would take no action until Sizemore produced proof of the agreement.

According to County Controller Michael Hoagland, the board's recent action was based on logic and expected savings to the county.

"Many of the emergency services activities center around the Sheriff's Department," he said, adding, "from a cost standpoint, there may be some reduction in costs by having 2 part-time positions versus one full-time position."

Hoagland indicated salaries have not yet been determined for the part-time positions. McCann, who has resigned effective June 1, received about $22,790 per year as director of both offices.

USER FEES

In other business last week, the board heard a report from representatives of David M. Griffith and Associates, LTD of Bay City, who said the county could see an additional $150,000 in revenue by increasing fees for county services.

Discussion of possible increases in user fees stems from major reductions in revenue recently, particularly the loss of federal revenue sharing funds and cuts in tax revenues due to plummeting land values.

According to the representatives, the departments most heavily affected by user fee increases would be the Health, Sheriff's, Building Codes and Equalization departments. Following discussion, the board indicated it will consider paying the Bay City firm $25,000 for an initial study of the fees, and $5,000 per year for 2 years of work related to updating the study.

Turning to other matters, the board rejected on a 4-3 vote a motion to put a special millage request on the 1988 primary election ballot to fund mosquito control through the Health Department.

Casting "yes" votes were commissioners Michael Green, Chris Taylor and Terry Houthoofd, while commissioners Kim D. Glaspie, John Goodchild, Robert Russell and board Chairman William Worth rejected the proposal.

The board accepted an insurance proposal from Schillinger and Schillinger Insurance Company of $158,419 for 1987, up from last year's cost of $136,117.

Hoagland, who indicated the 1987 figure is expected to be adjusted down slightly, noted this year's increase is due to hikes in the cost of liability coverage.

The commissioners also set time aside (8 p.m.) in its April 28 meeting for the County Equalization Report; approved a plan for reorganization of space in the Annex Building; approved paying $1,334 to purchase 4 new phones for the Sheriff's Department, and $500 to create a partition in the courthouse; approved a resolution commending the Lovira Hart farm as the county's only Michigan sesquicentennial farm; hired Rich Greenia to maintain Vanderbilt Park in Wisner Township for 2 years at $1,250 per year; and voted to allow the County Prosecutor to apply for a federal grant to help fund costs related to handling OUIL (operating while under the influence of liquor) offenses.

Carelessness cause of fires

Carelessness is being blamed for 2 grass fires which scorched some 7 acres in the Cass City area over the weekend.

The fires increased the total number of blazes handled by the Elkland Township Fire Department this year to 20, an unusually high number, according to Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr.

Fire fighters were called to the Dewain Jones residence, 4182 Pringle Rd., at about 3:30 Friday afternoon to extinguish a 5-acre fire 1.2 mile east of Germania Road.

It took nearly an hour to quench the blaze, which apparently was started by sparks from a trash burner. Root said the burner was inadequately equipped as it had no mesh screening. A mesh covering with holes no larger than 1/4 inch is required for such devices, he added.

Firemen were called out again early Sunday afternoon when a fire, possibly sparked by a careless smoker, broke out in an open field just south of Cass City.

About 2 acres were burned, Root said, adding fire fighters received that call at 2:43, and returned from the scene at 3:10.

Asbestos bids favorable

Split classes nearly sure at 2 schools

Although the official vote will be delayed until the May meeting of the Cass City Board of Education, it is almost certain that when the vote is taken, combined grades in the classrooms at Evergreen and Deford schools will be continued.

That's because a survey presented to the board at its regular meeting held this month at Evergreen School showed that a sizeable majority of the parents of children attending the 2 schools would prefer the split classes to busing children to Deford for a half year and then to Evergreen for a half year.

Barbara Kirn, a teacher at Evergreen, presented the survey and said that the wishes of the parents and that of the committee were not the same. The committee sent a survey form in March to the parents of the 2 schools. The results at Deford were: 78 of 85 returned with 59 against busing and 18 in favor. At Evergreen 58 surveys were returned and 35 were against busing and 15 in favor.

One suggestion was to move the boundaries so that more children could be taken to the 2 schools. Changing the boundaries is not the answer, Supt. Donald Crouse said, and told of another district that used this system and abandoned it at the request of the parents. He also added that most teachers were strongly against split classes, but no proof has ever been presented to show that students in split classes did more poorly than those in single grade classes.

The reason that split-grade classes are needed at the 2 schools is that there are not enough pupils to have separate grades in each building. It was proposed by the board to bus students to form grades large enough to avoid split classes. But the survey indicates that parents would much rather have split classes than busing to one school or the other.

ASBESTOS BIDS OPENED

Three bids were received for the removal of asbestos in Campbell Elementary School, the intermediate school, the high school and Evergreen School. The 3 bids were considerably under the $173,000 estimated for the work. The low bid was $86,850 and was submitted by Trust Thermal Systems. Other bids of $97,850 and $102,400 were received.

Because of the nature of the work, an investigation of the low bidder will be made by a committee of Allan Hartwick, Richard Wallace and Ben Hobart, with the power to let the bid to the low bidder. However, if the low bid is not honored, a special board meeting will be held to decide the issue.

In addition to the asbestos removal, summer projects tentatively approved will include a sidewalk on the west side of Seeger Street, painting the high school gym and building a bus wash slab.

BOOST PRICES

Because it appears as if the hot lunch program will finish with a deficit, the board approved a boost in prices. Student prices increased 5 cents each. Elementary students' cost went from 85 cents to 90 cents; secondary students' lunches went from 90 to 95 cents. Cost of adult lunches increased from $1.15 to $1.25. Trustee Hobart said that he felt that wage earning adults should pay more. However, the increases passed as suggested by the superintendent when discussion revealed that there were not enough adults eating to make much impact on the deficit. The price of milk remains at 25 cents.

ACADEMIC LETTERS

The board approved issuing academic letters and set standards for earning a letter. Freshmen must have a 4-point, sophomores a 3.75, juniors a 3.5 and seniors a 3.25 to qualify. The letters will have the traditional double C and include a "lamp of knowledge" in the center.

In another issue involving academics, the board approved guidelines for students to advance grade levels in the high school. Pupils with 0-5 credits are considered freshmen; 5-10 credits earned are sophomores; 10-15 credits, juniors, and 15 and over credits, seniors. Principal Ken Micklash said that the criteria was adopted so that students would know where they are on the road to graduation.

OTHER BUSINESS

Kris Deering reported on the use of computers at the elementary level.

Election inspectors were authorized for the June 8 election. The inspectors will be selected as needed from a panel of 8. A resolution was approved calling the election and authorizing the vote for the renewal of operating millage.

Because the payment of delinquent taxes may be delayed this year due to problems with the new tax law and the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the board okayed borrowing if needed before the end of the school year.

Induct 48 into National Honor Society

Forty-eight students from Cass City High School were inducted into membership of the National Honor Society in an evening ceremony held April 14. The induction program, planned by honor society advisors Karen Wallace and Kathleen Jackson, was held in the Cass City High School gymnasium.

The purpose of National Honor Society is to recognize outstanding students who are involved in both the school and community. All students deserving recognition for consistent, above-average performance receive this acknowledgement. Additions to the society's membership are made by a faculty council each spring from a list of students who meet the scholarship requirement.

To be eligible for membership, sophomores, juniors and seniors must have at least a 3.0 grade point average. In addition, potential members must meet high standards in leadership, service and character. Leadership is based on students' participation in 2 or more community or school activities or election to an office. To meet the service requirement, students must be active in 3 or more service projects in the school or community. Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics and cooperation with both students and faculty.

Burno killed in accident

State Police troopers in Caro have identified a man who died sometime late Thursday or early Friday after losing control of his motorcycle and crashing about 5 miles west of Cass City on M-81.

Timothy A. Burno, 30, of Ecorse, was apparently heading west when he ran off the highway into a ditch where he was thrown from the motorcycle, according to a spokesman at the Caro post, who said the time of the accident is unknown.

The fatal accident was reported by a motorist at about 7:24 a.m. Friday.

Burno, who was reportedly visiting relatives in Owendale, was pronounced dead at Caro Community Hospital.

A PERFECT DAY - Cass City resident Rick Mohr was among a handful of early steelhead fishermen to try their luck recently at Harbor Beach. Action was slow due to cold water temperatures, but the anglers didn't seem to mind too much. The regular trout season for all species opens Saturday.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

It's unlikely that the Detroit Tigers will attract as many fans in 1987 as the team did in any of the preceding 4 years. Sunday was a gorgeous day but there were only 14,269 at the park. A check of the lineup reveals the reason. The Mercados, Heaths and Harpers of the baseball world aren't of much interest to the fans.

Without the crowd, the excitement of the game is less. The good news is that there is virtually no traffic, especially in a 7-2 game when many leave early.

Because of this, we were able to leave after sunrise service, have breakfast, go to Greektown (only to find Trappers' Alley closed) and be home again at 6:30 p.m.

At the end of this month, Sommers' Bakery will celebrate 50 years under the ownership of the same family. It seems as if when you do this, invariably you forget someone, but the only other business that comes to mind that qualifies in Cass City is Harris-Hampshire Insurance. Earl Harris started that business in 1925.

A couple of old-time businesses under the ownership of one owner the longest are Rabideau Motors Farm Division with Wayne "Buck" Rabideau and McConkey Jewelry with Keith McConkey. Both started in the late 1940's.

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce is toying with the idea of establishing the nursery rhyme displays at Cass City Recreational Park at Christmas, much like they were in the 1950's.

There could be trouble ahead if they do. Cindy McConkey decorated the tree in front of McConkey's Jewelry on Main Street with colorful Easter eggs suspended from wires.

She got it from Gordon Bensinger in Ubyl, who has been successful with it. Anyway, she suspended the eggs on the tree on Monday and Tuesday morning all but one were gone. It was taken Tuesday night.

By contrast, the Ubyl display is up for a couple of weeks or more and is left untouched, Mrs. McConkey reports.

Given that record, can we assume that the displays at the park will be left unscathed?

LANE (WRAPPED in a blanket -- Dennis Czap) has just been rescued from the lake and is professing his love for Kate (Kendra Reehl) while Charlie (the corpse -- Chad Stirrett) hovers over the couple in "Absolutely Murder," a play to be presented by Owen-Gage High School students tonight and Friday at Gagetown Elementary.

O-G play opens tonight

Owen-Gage High School students will present a play entitled, "Absolutely Murder," beginning at 7:30 p.m. tonight and Friday at the Gagetown Elementary School gymnasium.

The story, which takes place at an old abandoned gunpowder factory called Muldoon's Mill (the scene of a knife murder), features a large cast of characters, including Auntie Bess, who wants to buy the mill and remodel it into a house; Bess' niece, Kate, who along with her 2 rival boyfriends combines courting and detective work; 3 nit-witted girls who arrive on the scene en route to a mental rest home, and a walking corpse.

The Haire Net

If the statistics compiled by the industry are correct, one of 3 reading this own a radar detector, perhaps better known as a fuzz-buster to the persons who use them to circumvent police while beating the speed limit.

The proposed law that will stretch the speed limit on rural interstate highways from 55 to 65 miles per hour has a kicker. Unless it also contains a proviso that makes fuzz-busters illegal, Gov. James Blanchard has vowed to veto the bill when it reaches his desk.

That has the $40 million radar detector industry frothing at the mouth. David Fisher, who heads the National Radar Testing Lab and is part of the Michigan Radar Task Force at Michigan State University says the industry is too large to pass a law restricting the legal use of detectors.

Defenders also say that the detectors heighten driver awareness and a ban would be a violation of drivers' rights.

Banning detectors could be regarded as an infringement on the rights of the owners, but then so is forcing a motorist to stop behind a school bus. Detectors have only one purpose; to circumvent the law. How many do you think would be sold if there were no speed limits?

What inspired these words is the stance of the industry. Saying that the industry is too large to be restricted is a valid reason for keeping detectors legal is really a lame brain proposition. Use that reasoning and the sale of cocaine and unrestricted gambling should be allowed. Certainly those "industries" are bigger than radar detector manufacturing.

After all the talking is over, what will decide this issue is not logic nor will it be the moral question of whether or not it is right to allow a device to be used to beat the law.

When this proposed bill gets before members of the state house, possibly this week, what will be the determining factor is how great the desire for a more relaxed speed limit is. It's almost a lead pipe cinch that if the governor had not announced his veto plans the 65-miles-per-hour speed limit bill would have reached his desk with no amendments prohibiting the use of fuzz-busters.

We suspect that the majority of voters have little burning desire to see a law restricting their use even if they, personally, would not buy or use one.

If that's true you have to admire Gov. Blanchard for his stand. It is an everything to lose nothing to gain proposition. It's sure to be unpopular with every driver that uses them and a matter of indifference to most of them that don't.

It could result in slowing down some of the motorists who feel anything under 80 is standing still and perhaps save a life or 2. That won't gain the governor any votes.

After all, accidents always happen to the other guy.

"If It Fitz..." Looking silly

By Jim Fitzgerald

Children can make adults look silly. It happened to President Reagan recently in a Columbia, Mo., school-room, when 11-year-old Heather Watson asked him if being president was worthwhile. Reagan responded with a discussion of his Iran policy.

"He never did answer my question," Heather said later with earnest honesty, albeit no diplomacy.

"...I believe I answered the question," Reagan told reporters while not cupping his hand around his hearing aid.

He appeared a little foolish, the same way I looked during a recent picnic with 5-year-old Emily. In cold weather, we have these picnics in the public hallway outside my 26th-floor apartment. We sit on the floor and eat off tiny plates. We are often accompanied by Cricket, a large doll with an extensive vocabulary activated by pushing buttons in her back.

"Stay here until I get back," Emily ordered as she disappeared into the apartment, shutting — and automatically locking — the door behind her. OK. To ward off boredom, I pushed Cricket's buttons.

Suddenly, the elevator door opened and out stepped the doctor who lives across the hall. He is a past-middle-age bachelor, almost primly proper but a nice man who certainly can't be criticized for being surprised to see a grown man sitting on the hallway floor with his hand up a doll's dress.

Emily's presence would have explained everything, but she was beyond immediate recall, and there was nowhere for me to flee.

What would the doctor think? I was falling-down drunk and my wife had locked me out?

"I'm looking up a phone number," I explained with a weak smile.

It was plausible. Astonishingly, Cricket has a toll-free number on her back, just below her buttons. It is to be called in case of emergency. I wanted to phone and ask whoever answered to please explain how Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy survived so long without their own personal hot line.

Moving right along, it is possible for a child to make an adult look silly many years after the fact. My wife showed me a recent snapshot and said, "Twenty years from now, when our great-grandchildren look at this picture, what will they think you are doing?"

In the photo, I am sitting in my big chair with my arms outstretched in front of me, hands about a foot apart, as though I were reading a newspaper or book. But there is nothing in my hands. Also, my mouth is twisted into a grotesque pout.

The telltale clue can barely be seen, sitting on the windowsill behind the chair. It is Emily. She is a bus passenger and I am the driver. My hands are on the invisible steering wheel and my mouth is making motor sounds.

If it were a moving picture, my great-grandchildren would have an easier time interpreting my silly behavior 20 years from now. They would see me stomp on the brake and open the door as Emily stepped on my head to get out of the bus.

As I run out of space, I'm finding it difficult to end this column on a properly silly note. My original intention was to fashion an internationally significant moral from a Missouri schoolgirl embarrassing President Reagan and Emily leaving me holding a doll with an 800 phone number under her dress.

But the other day I read that 15-year-old Xavier Aldrich was shot by an unknown young man while walking near the corner of E. Lafayette and Chene. That corner is easily visible from the window that Emily leans against while riding in the bus I steer with an invisible steering wheel.

At the time, Xavier was the 77th child under 17 shot in Detroit in 1987. The total is undoubtedly higher today. And the moral is that adults are lucky to have children to make them look silly, and we don't appreciate it nearly enough.

Program set for new 4-H project ideas

"An exciting evening of mini sessions has been planned by the Cooperative Extension Service of Tuscola County. This will give the whole family an opportunity to pick up some new ideas," says John Wurm, Tuscola County Extension 4-H Youth Agent.

"This event is open to all people in the county and will also give some of our 4-H leaders and members an opportunity to take any new ideas back to their club," says Wurm.

The date is April 30, at the Tuscola Area Skills Center, 1401 Cleaver Road, north of Caro. Registration will be 6:30 to 6:45 p.m. The first options will run from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m., and the second options from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. The cost for the entire evening is $1.00 at the door, or 50¢ if pre-registered by April 23. This will include all materials and refreshments for the evening.

Class choices will include: ATV safety, master vegetable gardening, backyard fruit orchards, developing support groups, photography, high technology in 4-H, having a small flock, landscaping, family communications and developing a wildlife refuge.

"We have something for everyone of all ages, and we look for a good turnout and a fun evening," concludes Wurm.

Unionville man threatens deputies, arrested on suspicion of OUIL

A 35-year-old Unionville man described as "combative" by Tuscola County sheriff's deputies was arrested last week in Elmwood Township on suspicion of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor (OUIL).

Kris W. Matt, 5163 Colwood Rd., was stopped April 15 after deputies saw the vehicle he was driving run a stop sign at the intersection of Colwood and Dickerson roads. Matt's vehicle was seen going off the roadway and then crossing the road center line.

Matt, who was confronted by deputies at his nearby residence, was less than cooperative, according to the report, which indicated he threatened deputies and ordered them to leave his property.

Also arrested last week on suspicion of OUIL was Uby resident Randy R. Rite, 7601 Germania Rd., who was stopped Friday in Ellington Township.

Rite, 30, was arrested after his vehicle left Hurds Corner Road south of M-81 and struck a ditch.

A passenger in Rite's vehicle, Paul G. Dybilas, also was arrested, according to the report, which stated that Dybilas was wanted by troopers at the state police post in Bad Axe for failure to pay fines.

A 21-year-old Novesta Township man, who reported being assaulted by a motorist on Shabbona Road just east of Cemetery Road April 15, was arrested on a warrant stating that he failed to appear in court on suspicion of possessing an open beer container.

Terry L. Czekai, 7279 E. Elmwood Rd., told deputies he was traveling south on Cemetery Road when a white van passed his vehicle, stopped and backed into his vehicle. Czekai stated that during a second contact with the van later on Shabbona Road, the driver of the van stepped out of his vehicle and assaulted him.

According to the report, deputies learned about the warrant on Czekai while investigating the incidents. Czekai decided not to press charges, the report said.

Also reported to the sheriff's department was a malicious destruction of property complaint concerning a mailbox at the Clifford Seeley residence, 5217 Buehrly Rd., Elkland Township.

The mailbox, described as being "beyond repair," was damaged by Scot A.

Bostick, 2105 Elmwood Rd., Caro, who used a baseball bat, according to the report, which stated that Bostick confessed to the vandalism.

During an investigation, deputies found tracks leading from the mailbox to an abandoned vehicle stuck in a nearby ditch. The bat also was found near the vehicle.

An offer by Bostick to pay for the mailbox ($15) was accepted by Seeley.

Robert Titus, 2882 E. Akron Rd., Caro, filed a breaking and entering complaint concerning an old schoolhouse at the corner of McGregory and East Akron roads.

Titus stated that someone broke into the schoolhouse Friday evening and was ringing the school bell.

An investigation showed that the front door of the building, owned by Alvin Smith, 80, had been kicked in, although deputies were uncertain as to whether the door was damaged prior to Friday's incident. Nothing was taken from the building, the report stated.

Island lizards

American chameleons are providing clues to the origin of the Caribbean Islands. According to National Wildlife magazine, these tropical lizards have been around since the first islands were formed. By studying the tiny creatures, scientists have concluded that many of the islands are far older than previously thought, dating back as far as 100 million years. They also believe the lizards weren't washed ashore from elsewhere, as has been suggested, but were descended from common ancestors that were present when the islands spread apart from larger land masses.

Long-time Edison employee begins new career as a full-time pastor

KEN AND ESTHER PROCTOR -- enjoying a "new beginning" at Mizpah Missionary Church.

Mishaps down in Cass City

Law enforcement agencies in the county reported few mishaps related to the Cass City area over the past week.

The state police post in Caro reported one 2-car incident April 14 involving a Cass City resident.

According to the report, a vehicle driven by Arvilla R. Smith, 6645 M St., Cass City, turned into another vehicle, driven by Bay City resident John P. Kaczmarek, which was attempting to pass Smith's vehicle on E. Caro Road about 1/2 mile west of Dodge Road.

The report stated that there was a third vehicle involved. That vehicle, which also attempted to pass Smith's vehicle, left the accident scene before troopers arrived.

Smith's vehicle sustained moderate damage, while

Kaczmarek's vehicle received light damage.

The Cass City Police and Tuscola County Sheriff's departments each reported one car-deer mishap.

According to the sheriff's report, Lori A. Walker, 6670 Huron St., Cass City, was traveling west on Decker-ville Road west of Dodge Road April 15 when she struck a deer. Walker's vehicle sustained slight damage.

Also hitting a deer was Fred E. Wilson, 6109 East Cass City Road, Cass City. Wilson, who reported the incident to a Cass City Police officer, stated that he was eastbound on East Cass City Road Sunday evening when the animal leaped into his path.

Wilson's vehicle sustained light to moderate damage.

At 57, Ken Proctor could easily be looking forward to years of leisure in Florida or some other retirement mecca after 33 years as a mobile equipment operator for Detroit Edison.

He and his wife of 39 years, Esther, have had more than their share of time schedules, child-rearing and other responsibilities associated with couples in their 20s and 30s.

While many of their peers are ending careers and slowing down, however, the Proctors have turned retirement into a new beginning, which includes the realization of a lifelong ambition—working in a full-time ministry.

The couple moved to the area from Harbor Beach last month following a call for Ken to serve as pastor to a small congregation at the Mizpah Missionary Church, southeast of Cass City at 4619 N. VanDyke Rd.

Proctor, who has served as a guest pastor on and off since being converted at the age of 34, says he had planned to enter a full-time ministry some time after retiring.

"I retired early so I would have some years for Christian work," Ken explained.

"We thought we'd take a year off and bum around for awhile, but the Lord saw to it that it came to us first."

"I retired on Jan. 3 and got a call (from the church) on the 4th," he continued. "It was a surprise, but a very pleasant surprise."

Both Ken and Esther, who celebrated their wedding anniversary last week, speak with the enthusiasm of newlyweds. Their smiles appear uncontrollable when talking about their work and family.

ADVENTURE

"A lot of older people retire and take it easy, but with us, it's like we're starting over and it's an adventure," Esther remarked.

The couple explained that Ken's retirement was partly due to knee problems. He underwent surgery last October to receive an artificial knee.

"We decided he couldn't go back to the job," Esther said. She added that after surgery, a minister friend asked what their plans were. Three weeks later, the Proctors were asked to take on the full-time ministry.

"I thought it would overwhelm me, but it really hasn't," Ken commented.

With about 15 to 20 hours spent each week preparing sermons in addition to other duties, he added, "My respect for a pastor has increased."

Although not ordained, Ken ministers under a special worker's license issued by the Missionary Church. He has taken correspondence courses through St. Clair Community College in Port Huron, and Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music, and is now taking courses through Fort Wayne Bible College, Indiana, his denomination's school.

Ken says he believes there are a number of advantages in beginning a ministry at the age of 57.

"We have a lot more to draw from as far as experience in life," he pointed out. "Foster parenting (has been) a real experience, too."

Aside from their own 6 children, one of which is adopted, the couple has had 10 foster children.

FULL HOUSE

The Proctors explained that within 12 years after marrying at the age of 18 (the Port Huron natives met at 14), they had 5 children. They wanted another, but couldn't have one. Esther indicated it took a little while to convince Ken to take in foster children, but once he agreed, there always seemed to be a houseful.

"Plan on crying a lot," Esther said of the advice she gives to prospective foster parents.

Now, the Proctor's children are grown and scattered, the couple said, adding that their "retirement" isn't exactly what the kids had in mind. "They thought mom and dad would pull their toes in," Esther remarked.

Ken agreed. "To me, it's amazing to see how the Lord works things out."

"Everything I do is my first," he added, referring to his new role as leader of the 45-member church congregation. Ken noted he's anticipating presiding over his first baby dedication and communion. "The people here are so wonderful. We're really rejoicing."

"The guys at work would ask me what I planned to do when I retired," he recalled. "I'd say, 'I'd love to get a small church somewhere and preach for the Lord.'"

"In the back of my mind, I never thought it would happen."

Musical history scheduled

The Deckerville Council of Churches will present a sesquicentennial program, entitled "A Musical History of the Michigan Thumb Area," beginning at 7:30 p.m. May 2 at the Deckerville Methodist Church.

Special music for the event, which will depict historical events in the Thumb area over the past 150 years, has been written by program director Joyce

Reid and Mary Leipprandt of Pigeon.

Local musicians participating in the program are Reid, Darlene Davis, Elva Cleland, Louis Frent, Arthur Caswell, Jell Allen, Lisa Pawlowski, Michael Wilson, Bruce Jones, Marie Leckrone, Sharlene Thompson and the Deckerville children's choir. Narrator of the program will be Lloyd Buhl.

CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY fourth grader Carol Guza has been named the winner of a nutrition poster contest at Hills and Dales General Hospital. The first-place entry, shown above with Carol and registered dietitian Bonnie Johnson, now goes to state competition.

Carol Guza enters top nutrition poster

A Campbell Elementary School student has been named the winner of a nutrition poster competition held recently at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Fourth grader Carol Guza, a pupil in Linda Gray's classroom, entered the winning poster in the contest, co-sponsored by the Michigan Dietetic Association and Dairy Council of Michigan.

Carol, who received a gift certificate donated by the Charmont, will now participate in state competition. The top poster will be used to promote National Nutrition Month, March 1988.

TEN YEARS AGO

Mrs. Helen Baker was named "Citizen of the Year" in Cass City Saturday night, and Cathy Hobart, daughter of Ben Hobart of Gagetown, was named "Junior Citizen of the Year" at the annual Spring Community Banquet of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

Martin Tworck, who resides on Severance Rd. south of Cass City, hit the jackpot Monday afternoon when he won $10,000 in the Michigan Lottery's instant game.

Martin Electric Co. of Cass City was the lowest of 3 bidders at $1,120 on electrical wiring for lights at the 2 newest softball diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, Mrs. George Jetta and Mrs. Theda Seeger attended the spring rally of the OES Thumb Association held Saturday evening at Sebewaing.

25 YEARS AGO

Several people from Cass City braved Friday's snow and cold to attend the opening baseball game at Tiger stadium. Among them were: Dick Wallace, Vic Guernsey, Lambert Althaver, Chris Schneider, Ralph Chapman, Howard Bacon, Phil Retherford, John Haire, Jim Moore, Art Randall and M.B. Auten.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Murphy, Kristine and Mike and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kritzman enjoyed dinner Sunday at the Crossroads Restaurant in honor of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Kritzman.

A music revue featuring 38 Frank Studio students from Cass City and Bad Axe, will be held Monday, April 23, at the Cass City High School. Eldred Kelley will be master of ceremonies and the program will be under the direction of Stephen J. Frank.

An estimated 120 Cass City School students have enrolled in driver's training courses, according to Superintendent Willis Campbell. Bob Stickle and Jim Seals will be teaching the course.

35 YEARS AGO

Oscar Brooks writes from Baumholder, Germany that it is fairly warm there now. He is stationed in the mountains together with French troops.

The Hawks' first game was called due to rain. Players whom Coach Irv Claseman was counting on include: Gerald Whittaker, Don Tuckey, Pete Martin, Dean Hoag, Bob Wallace, Maynard Helwig, Tim Burdon, Bill Martus and Russ Foy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bliss have purchased from Mrs. Matt Parker, her home west of town, and will move there in the near future. Mrs. Parker has moved into a trailer house.

Hunger walk set

On May 3 county residents will take to the streets and walk more than 6 miles to raise money for the hungry, at the fifth annual Caro Area CROP Walk.

CROP originally stood for Christian Rural Overseas Program but was changed in order to include anyone who wanted to help, according to the Rev. Duane M. Harris, pastor of the Sutton Sunshine United Methodist Church. The acronym now stands for Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Services (CWS).

The event begins at 1:30 p.m. with the start and finish line at the Caro United Methodist Church on Gilford Road.

Last year 69 residents walked for the cause and raised $3,600 for the hungry. This year's organizers are hoping to double the number of walkers. The funds raised are divided up, with 75 percent going to CWS to meet emergency needs and support self-help programs in over 70 countries, while the remaining 25 percent will be given to the Human Development Commission of Caro.

Participants in the walk are encouraged to walk as far as they can, and vehicles will be near the walkers if any need rides back to the church. The walkers will be sponsored by area residents.

CWS/CROP celebrated its 40th anniversary March 28. According to Harris, in 1947 Michigan farmers began collecting corn and beans to be shipped to European refugees, which marked the beginning of the state doing something about the world hunger problem.

Those who are interested in participating in the walk and need more information should call 673-6630.

Your neighbor says Evangelists are ordinary people too

The war between the TV evangelists is slowly drifting to the back pages of the newspapers, but the Jim Bakker scandal, which started it all, is still fresh in almost everyone's mind. Bakker resigned last month as chairman of the Praise the Lord (PTL) network after acknowledging having an affair 7 years ago with Jessica Hahn, a church secretary.

Kathleen Cummins, 40, 6644 Third St., said that she almost had a job with the PTL network. While living in Glenview, Ill., Cummins used to watch Bakker and his wife, Tammy, and donate money to the network. She wrote them asking about job openings in the child care area. The network responded and Cummins said, "I was actually thinking about it and, if I hadn't come back home, I would be there."

Cummins moved back to Cass City, her hometown, to be close to her family, and said she couldn't watch Bakker, because Cass City area doesn't pick up the PTL channel. However, sometimes she catches the Jimmy Swaggart show on Sundays, but feels that all he does is ask for money.

When asked about evangelist Oral Roberts' statement that he talked to God and was told if he didn't raise $8 million for his medical students, he would die, she said, "God doesn't work that way. There is pressure up there (being an evangelist)...you think you've got good people and you find out they are ordinary people."

Cummins does see some danger in people putting all their trust in a pastor. She used the extreme example of Jim Jones and his congregation committing suicide in Guyana by drinking poisonous Kool-Aid. "You follow God, not your pastor. He (the pastor) is your shepherd and you follow him to a point, but not when he takes all your money and your life as well," Cummins added.

Cummins has worked for Allen Health Care for 2 years and is a live-in nurse's aide. She belongs to the Cass City Church of God.

At Palm Sunday services at St. Agatha's, Jody Hurd and Michael Kappen were given special blessings by the celebrant, Father Julius Spleet, as they begin their preparations for the Sacrament of the Eucharist. Jody is the daughter of Duane and Diane Hurd and Michael's parents are Gerald and Catherine Kappen.

Tuesday, April 7, 8 volunteer visitors helped 8 residents to celebrate April birthdays at the Gagetown Senior Manor. Honorees were Louie Cragg, 70, Mrs. Mildred Poppy, 89, and Mrs. Anna Yorko, 94.

Rev. Father Lucien Bourget died last week at St. Francis Retirement Home in Saginaw. He was 85. Father Bourget was pastor at St. Agatha, Gagetown, in 1950, and his funeral took place last Wednesday at St. Anne's Church, Linwood, with burial in the church cemetery. Bishop Kenneth Untener, of Saginaw, officiated.

Mrs. Dirk Lowry of Caro, Sally Bates and children, Randy Russell and daughter of Fairgrove, and Tom and Katie Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment returned after 6 weeks visiting their families in Colleyville, Tex., and Marietta, Ga. Also returning home were Les and Milly Munro and George and Frances Baranic, after their winters in Florida and Arizona.

SOCIETY MEETS

Fifteen members attended the April meeting of St. Agatha Women's Society Tuesday, April 14. They brought their wedding pictures for viewing and reminiscing and answered roll call with "Where we went on our honeymoon."

President Arlene Enderle conducted the business meeting and plans were made for the Holy Thursday potluck supper, a one-day trip to Dow Gardens in June and for attending the East Region Council spring meeting in Palms April 29. Hostesses Sally Patnaude and Shirley Lenhard served refreshments.

Mrs. Carl Sieland underwent surgery last Monday at Caro Community Hospital. Her granddaughter, Jane Cox, ICU nurse at Bon Secour Hospital, Grosse Pointe, came for the surgery and while here was the overnight guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Langlois.

Arnold Karr and his son Eric, of Syracuse, Ind., spent a few days with his parents, Leonard and Marge Karr.

The funerals of 2 of Gagetown's elder residents took place during the past week. Harry Comment was buried Wednesday, his 80th birthday, and James Dunn, 82, was buried Friday. Some of those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fay Davis and daughters of Flint, Harold Parsell of Bay City, Katherine LaFave of Unionville, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cummings, Essexville, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Proulx of Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weir of Lake Orion, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Comment of Rochester, Rose Ann Krauss of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Elizabeth Bain of Drayton Plains. Mrs. Krauss and Mrs. Bain are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Comment.

Brad and Ann Goslin and children were guests of Keith and Marie Goslin for Easter Sunday brunch. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vaughn and children, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney P. Shannon of Fairgrove, Patricia Goslin and Jim Tophan of Saginaw.

Easter Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Patnaude were their sons, Jim and John, and Mr. and Mrs. Jude Patnaude and daughters of Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lenhard entertained Sunday in honor of the birthday of John Lenhard of Caro. Guests were Tom Lenhard of Bad Axe, Ann and Mary Lenhard and Brad McKlosovic of Saginaw.

Both the morning and afternoon kindergarten pupils at Gagetown school presented an Easter play in the gymnasium Thursday afternoon for the enjoyment of parents and guests. Sandy Parks was their teacher/director.

Mrs. Gerry Carolan accompanied her son and daughter-in-law, Gary and Mary Carolan of Marlette and they were dinner guests of Toni Watterworth and John Speck in Caseville Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe were Easter Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wen Birch of Bay City. Other guests were Celeste and Mark Baranek, Brett and Brendon of Bay City.

Marlette celebrates 125 years of quilting

Set Youth

Temperance rally

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, 8th District, is planning a Youth Temperance Rally from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at Deford Community Church.

Interested persons are asked to make reservations by calling Deford Christian School at 872-4055.

Saturday's main feature will be Fritz Klein of Springfield, Ill., who will impersonate Abraham Lincoln in a speech.

Students from both public and Christian schools have been invited to participate in the rally, which will also include Bible memorization, essay and poster contests for youths in grades 4 and up. A coloring sheet contest has been scheduled for younger children. Several businesses and organizations have donated awards for the contest winners.

Cass City places 4th in Science Olympics

The Cass City Science Olympics team placed fourth in the Regional Science Olympiad which was held at Delta College recently.

Fourteen students attended the event and 8 brought home medals. Mike Kelley earned 2 gold medals and Steve Bills received one. Eric Traube and Dan Tuckey both won silver medals. Tuckey also took home a third place medal, along with Mark Kappen, Dale Smerdon, Jane Dickinson and Ken Pasanski.

Cass City competed against 12 different high schools on March 21 and at one time was tied for second, but slipped down to fourth in the last half of the competition. Midland High School took first and Meridian High School followed close behind. Both schools attended the State Olympiad on April 11.

The students competed in such events as bridge building, computer programming, science bowl (patterned after college bowl), designer genes, name that organism, map reading, as well as others.

Cpl. Aaron Lefler

During the special deployment, Lefler participated in exercises designed to increase the defensive capabilities of the Republic of Korea and the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps units from both countries were involved in the exercise, with some 26,000 7th Fleet sailors and Marines taking part.

Lefler, 20, a 1985 Cass City High School graduate, is expected to finish his one-year duty in Okinawa this summer. He is the son of Robert E. and Doris M. Lefler, 8254 VanDyke Rd., Cass City.

HEALTH TIPS

Sleep disturbances cause distress in Alzheimer's

Howard Crystal, M.D.
Assistant Professor of Neurology
Albert Einstein College of Medicine
Bronx, New York

It was 3 o'clock in the morning. Wandering aimlessly through the night, Jim was finally picked up by the police 5 miles from his home - without identification, confused, lost.

The nocturnal wanderings of the 2 to 3 million people in the United States who have Alzheimer's disease pose a serious problem for the patients' families who must care for them.

Alzheimer's disease is a progressive neurological disorder characterized by a steady deterioration of the patient's ability to function mentally. It usually progresses over a period of years and its symptoms include: memory loss, personality disorders, insomnia, confusion, incontinence, agitation and seizures. In the final stages of the disease, brain damage is so extensive that patients are immobile and have difficulty swallowing.

There is no simple laboratory test or neurologic examination that can readily detect Alzheimer's disease, although scientists are actively working on the development of such a test. In fact, diagnosis can only be confirmed with certainty after the patient has died and an autopsy is performed.

Diagnosis: A Process of Elimination

To arrive at a tentative diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease, the physician must first rule out the possibility that the so-called senility is due to emotional problems or other physical disorders. For example, multi-infarct dementia, caused by blockage of blood vessels in the brain, resembles Alzheimer's disease. A detailed medical history may reveal the abrupt onset of the disease and the occurrence of mini-strokes, thus distinguishing it from Alzheimer's disease.

A similar problem is sometimes encountered in differentiating Alzheimer's disease from depression in the elderly. A brief trial with antidepressant medications may help unravel the mystery. Generally, symptoms of depression respond to medications, while Alzheimer's symptoms, such as memory impairment, do not. Accurately distinguishing Alzheimer's disease from other neurological and psychiatric problems is crucial in order for families to be fully prepared for the series of problems unique to Alzheimer's patients.

Sundowning: Nighttime Agitation

Sundowning is a term often used to describe the confusion and agitation seen in Alzheimer's patients when the sun goes down, and is believed to be one of the major reasons families opt to institutionalize patients with Alzheimer's disease. Nobody knows for sure what causes this phenomenon, but it may be related to a resetting of the biological clock causing changes in the sleep-wake cycle.

Sleep disturbances in Alzheimer's disease ordinarily develop some time after patients first lose awareness of their surroundings but before the onset of confusion about identity and relationships. At this stage of the disease, individuals may opt to stay up all night, despite their families' urging them to go to bed. Understandably, family members can become frustrated and exhausted by this pattern, particularly since some patients may wander from home and be unable to find their way back.

Subtle Changes in Sleep Cycle Detected

Several recent studies indicate that patients with moderate to severe Alzheimer's disease spend significantly less time than others in rapid eye movement (REM) sleep. While a person is in REM sleep, the eyes dart quickly from side to side although the lids usually remain tightly shut, and it is the time of night when we have vivid dreams.

Scientists speculate that sleep disturbances in Alzheimer's disease may be due to shortened periods of REM sleep caused by degeneration of specific brain regions. However, early stages of the disease do not produce measurable changes in REM that could prove useful in screening for the disorder.

Meanwhile, there is considerable evidence of a shortage of the brain chemical acetylcholine in patients with Alzheimer's disease, and this deficiency may be linked to REM sleep disturbances. Acetylcholine helps convey chemical messages from one nerve cell to another in the brain. In fact, some scientists believe that acetylcholine regulates REM sleep. Thus, a shortage of this chemical might account for the diminished REM sleep.

An encouraging recent report on the effects of the drug tetrahydroaminoacridine (THA), which elevates acetylcholine levels in the brain, supports a direct role for this brain chemical in Alzheimer's disease. When THA was given to a group of patients with moderate to severe Alzheimer's disease, 75 percent of the patients showed improvement in certain symptoms. Scientists have also recently reported that an unusual protein (designated A-68) occurs in the brain and spinal fluid of Alzheimer's patients. The discovery of this protein could lead to the development of a diagnostic test for the disease that could channel people into therapy sooner.

Further research in other aspects of the sleep cycle may prove useful in developing a diagnostic tool in the future as well.

Breathing Disorders During Sleep Observed in Some Patients

Researchers at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine have reported that female patients with Alzheimer's disease had 5 times the number of episodes of sleep apnea (periods of disrupted breathing during sleep) than did women of the same age without Alzheimer's disease. In contrast, there was no significant increase in sleep apnea in male patients compared with a control group. Interestingly, sleep apnea is generally more common in men than women.

The Pittsburgh researchers say sleep apnea may be caused by degeneration in parts of the brain that control breathing during sleep. Since the more severely demented patients had the greatest amount of breathing disturbances during sleep, the investigators speculate that sleep apnea may worsen the mental confusion that already exists in these patients.

What Can Be Done for Alzheimer's Patients?

Currently, the degenerative process in Alzheimer's disease cannot be prevented, and thus emphasis must be placed on increasing supportive care during each stage of the disease. While this is a very frustrating problem, there are some basic measures that can be taken to help the patients and their families:

- Try to keep the patient from napping during the day.
- Daytime exercise may cut down on patient's evening agitation.
- Have patient avoid beverages that contain caffeine (coffee, tea, soft drinks) before bedtime.
- Identify the patient's source of distress. Nightlights may help orient patients and avoid agitation due to unfamiliar surroundings at night in the home.

When these measures are unsuccessful, the physician may prescribe over a brief period of time a short-acting nighttime sleep-inducing medication such as triazolam (Halcion, Upjohn). Major tranquilizers, such as loxapine (Loxitane, Lederle), are sometimes necessary when disruptive behaviors become too difficult for home or hospital management.

Symptoms in the final stages of Alzheimer's disease may include loss of bowel control, seizures, feeding difficulties, sleep and movement disturbances.

Sleep disturbances are one of the most distressing aspects of the disease process for patients and families during the time that the patient is cared for at home. An informed approach to this problem can assist in improving the quality of life for both patient and family during this difficult period.

Flood victims offered new help

A new, temporary counseling and referral agency recently began operation in Tuscola County to assist residents affected by flood damage last fall.

The agency, Flood Outreach Recovery Team, is running the federally-funded program with a grant through the county Cooperative Extension Service and county Mental Health. The 8-month program will end Nov. 30.

"Our function is to assist flood victims in Tuscola County," agency spokesman Pam Roth, a Sebawa-area farm wife said. Roth is one of 3 counselors who, along with program coordinator Dale Hines, compose the recovery team. Also serving as counselors are Cass City resident Jill Baker and Marilyn Hascall of Vassar.

"This is a critical time when people tend to isolate themselves," Roth explained about why the new agency was formed. "Several months after a disaster, it really hits home. Sometimes it's easier to call on someone who isn't close."

The no-cost service will consist chiefly of obtaining emotional, financial and other help for flood victims by matching individuals with the agencies that can help them, according to Roth. She added that the recovery team has drafted a list of free and low-cost programs available in the county.

Among the recovery team's contact agencies are the Department of Social Services, Red Cross, Cooperative Extension Service, Mental Health, Thumb Legal Services, Health Department and Human Development Commission.

Additional information on the program is available by contacting the recovery team office at 673-8565. The office, located in the Broadcast House, 1184 Cleaver Rd., Caro, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, with evening and weekend hours available by appointment.

Raatz war mementos depict "Big Red One" role in World War II

"Every man who set foot on Omaha Beach that day was a hero."

--Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Invasion Commander, U.S. Ground Forces, June 6, 1944

For many area residents, World War II may be little more than a blurry memory. For younger members of the community, the "war to end all wars" is but a few chapters in a history textbook.

But for area veterans, like 67-year-old Gagetown resident DuWayne J. Raatz, the war represents a period of bittersweet victory, patriotism and courage.

walking into a museum. His collection of authentic war memorabilia includes a small yellow flag with cross bones, used by the Germans to mark land mines.

Raatz, 6545 Third St., recently was reminded of his years with the 1st Battalion, 18th Infantry, 1st Division--better known as the "Big Red One"--when he received 2 honors to add to his vast collection of medals, certificates and other honors.

Raatz was awarded the Belgian Fourragere for his participation in liberating the Belgians from German occupation in August-September 1944, and the Badge of Courage, an award honoring veterans of the 1st Division who stormed the shores of North Africa during "Operation Torch" on Nov. 8, 1942.

Raatz, a 14-year member of the Disabled American Veterans, 2 years of which he has served as chaplain of Chapter 50 in Caro, has already received 2 Bronze Stars with V for Valor, 3 Purple Hearts, a European Theatre of Operations medal with 6 Major Battle Stars, an American Defense Medal, a World War II Victory Medal, the Presidential Citation, the French Fourragere, a Combat Infantry Badge and a Blue Infantry Braid.

Last spring, he was decorated with his second Bronze Star for the invasion of Normandy (D-Day) by Lt. Gen. Robert York of California. In October, he received a plaque from his former home church, the North Perry Baptist Church in Pontiac, for "Distinguished Service to God and Country."

BIG RED ONE

Raatz, a retired General Motors press operator, moved to Gagetown in 1982. He recently recalled the major battles he took part in as a member of the "Big Red One."

After joining the Army in 1940 at the age of 21, Raatz took his basic training in San Francisco, Calif., with the 30th Infantry, 3rd Division. He joined the 1st Division in time for the invasion of North Africa on Nov. 8, 1942.

Other battles he recalls are the defeat of "Desert Fox" Erwin Rommel in North Africa in 1943; the invasion of Sicily, Italy, at Gela on July 10, 1943; the Normandy Invasion (D-Day) on June 6, 1944; the liberation of Paris, 1944; and breaking through the Siegfried Line, Germany, 1944.

Raatz also remembers the circumstances which led to his purple hearts.

The first occurred 43 years ago on April 8. Raatz said he was a messenger driving a jeep in North Africa when he hit 2 German land mines. He sustained facial lacerations; his company commander was killed.

About 3 months later, he took some shrapnel in his left arm while stationed in Sicily. The third purple heart was for injuries sustained when the jeep he was driving on Dec. 9, 1944 hit a mine crater in Germany.

Perhaps Raatz's most vivid memories are those surrounding D-Day, when the 25-year-old private first class on June 5, 1944, boarded a ship en route to Normandy, France.

Raatz has put his memories of the invasion down on paper for a special history project being conducted by the University of New Orleans.

"Before we got on board, we had coffee and donuts from the Red Cross. I remember General Ike giving us a written speech on the eyes of the world being upon us."

Raatz continued. "The water was rough and it was very windy going across the English Channel. Of what I remember, the assault forces were about 30,000. (At) 6:45 a.m., we spearheaded the most difficult point to Omaha Beach."

"I made 2 invasions before this--North Africa and Sicily--so I thought I knew a little bit of what it might be like, but...when I saw the beaches of Normandy, my spirits dropped. There were stakes, ramps, obstacles and curved rails sticking out of the water. That's when I started to pray and think about what I was going to do."

Raatz prepared to man his jeep as he was a driver for "Messenger Center." He said that his jeep made it to the beach, but not much further because of the sand. "Many of my buddies were killed or wounded. I sure prayed, sweat and cried the rest of the day."

"By 10 a.m., the beach was full so I could not go any place. I laid under my jeep until a shell would hit close, then I would run from one vehicle to another, back and forth, because I couldn't dig a fox hole in the beach sand."

Raatz added that he finally did get his jeep off the beach. "There was more shelling, mortars, machine gun fire, fires, dead bodies, knocked-out equipment...more than you can imagine," he remarked. "I hope I will never see anything like that again."

WORLD WAR II veteran DuWayne J. Raatz holds his Army jacket, decorated with medals and braids he earned as a member of the famed First Division ("Big Red One"). He's standing in the den of his Gagetown home.

Bean seed supply crucial

By Bill Bortel

The question is being raised throughout the dry bean growing area of Michigan--Where do we locate quality navy bean seed for '87? Bean growers are facing the most crucial seed supply and quality crisis in modern history. Seed quality has been severely affected as a recent survey by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association showed the average germination of unprocessed navy bean seed to be only 69%. The survey found only 20% of the samples to have a germination of 90% or higher and further showed that only 35% of the samples to have a germination of 80% or better. This can be a serious problem for dry bean producers to locate good germination seed for the coming season.

The quality is far below what is considered acceptable to dry bean producers. Because of the wide variation in quality and limited availability of good quality seed, it is very important for bean growers to locate your seed immediately for 1987 planting if you have not made a purchase as of this date.

Seed purchased from an elevator, seed dealer or certified seed grower, is required to be labeled on the basis of laboratory germination tests. Home-grown seed or seed purchased from a neighbor, should be tested by submitting a one-pound sample for laboratory germination testing. With the seed quality crisis, we believe it is very important to know the germination of the seed bean growers will be purchasing. In addition to germination, special vigor tests are available which place additional stress (under cold conditions) on the germinating seed and, thus, help identify the seed lots most likely to perform well under adverse weather and soil conditions. The cost for a germination test is $2.50 per sample at the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, which is financed at $3.50 below the normal cost by the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service. Samples may be sent to MCIA at P.O. Box 21008, Lansing, MI 48909. The turn-around time between receiving the samples and sending out the results is normally about 2-3 weeks.

In looking at all options for 1987, we think your first choice in selection of navy bean seed should be good germination levels--90% or more of Michigan Certified Seed, Western Certified Seed or Uncertified Seed. The second choice would be Michigan Certified Seed harvested during or after wet weather. Select on basis of best germination and vigor available. The last choice would be Michigan Uncertified Seed harvested after onset of wet weather. Select on basis of best germination and vigor available. Insist on blight test results on all seed.

Navy bean seed supplies of Seafarer, C-20, Westland and Midland are very short. There are still Bunsen-type navy beans with quality seed available. These include Bunsen, Ex-Rico 23, OAC Rico, B-155 of Asgrow and Crestwood of Pro Seeds. Growers with poor germinating seed are urged to test the germ within 30 days of planting. The last germ will tell if the seed germ has deteriorated in storage.

We are hearing bean growers stating that they will just plant more seed if the germination of the seed is poor. This is one option, however, usually you do not have an even distribution of non-germinating seed. You will have rows with skips in them. We believe another option is planting the poorer germinating seed later (June 10-20) when the ground and weather conditions should be better.

Growers of dry beans should take steps immediately to make sure you have the best possible seed for '87.

Gulls are pests

The gull is fast becoming the number one pest in urban areas around the Great Lakes and throughout the eastern United States and Canada. According to International Wildlife magazine, the birds threaten flight safety at airports, damage crops, create a health hazard with their droppings and generally make a nuisance of themselves at parks and other recreational areas. Controlling the birds will be tough. Experts say the birds aren't easily gulled.

Old, toothy fish boasted huge jaws

What has a jaw large enough to drive a small car through and a body longer than 2 school buses? Car-chardon megalodon, the 30-million-year-old ancestor of today's great white sharks. According to Ranger Rick magazine, there were no people around when this big fish lived. But if there were, the shark could have swallowed 8 people at once.

Coin-operated washers and dryers damaged in larceny attempt last week

Several coin-operated washers and dryers were damaged early last week in Cass City when vandal(s) attempted to steal coin boxes attached to the appliances, according to a Cass City Police Department report.

The incidents took place in 2 apartment complexes--4572 Hill St. and 4574 Hill St.--both owned by Mike Weaver, the report stated.

No damage estimate was available in the case.

A 17-year-old Cass City man was stopped and cited Thursday for being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Michael W. Langenburg, 6197 Koepfgen Rd., was issued a court appearance ticket after the vehicle he was driving was stopped. Langenburg had 4 cans of beer in his possession, according to the report.

Also last week, a Walled Lake man wanted on a bench warrant was arrested Saturday at the Charmont parking lot after being recognized by officer

William C. Hartzell.

Hartzell stated in his report that he saw Derik N. Harmon, 18, riding in a car which pulled into the parking lot. Hartzell noted he was aware that Harmon was wanted on a valid warrant issued out of District Court in Bad Axe.

A larceny complaint was filed last week by Danny Gee, 6472 Main St., who told officers he believes food stamps valued at a total of $82 have been stolen from his mailbox.

Gee said that he checked with the Department of Social Services in Caro to confirm that the stamps had already been sent out. He added that he had expected to receive the stamps April 9.

Karen Meyer, 6318 Houghton St., filed a report relating to attempted larceny from her vehicle after 7 p.m. April 15 and before 8 a.m. April 16.

According to the report, someone apparently tried to pry open the driver's door with a bar.

Damage is estimated at $60.

A malicious destruction of property report was filed by Lucille M. Hayes, 4413 West St., who stated that someone cut 2 vinyl clotheslines at her residence April 17 or April 18.

Hayes, who indicated last week's incident wasn't the first, noted the clotheslines are valued at a total of $3.50.

Negligence charged in suit

A trial by jury has been demanded in a law suit filed April 13 by a couple against Carpenter Farms, Deford, and Charles W. Carpenter, following a Nov. 7, 1984, accident in Cass City.

In the suit, which seeks in excess of $10,000, Leland and Carol Beyette charge that Carpenter and Carpenter Farms were negligent in an accident which occurred at the then Pillsbury Grain Elevator.

The suit contends that because of the incident, Leland Beyette is "permanently disabled from working and has loss of income and wages... loss of ability to perform and enjoy sports activities, hobbies, household activities, and loss of consortium..." with Carol Beyette.

On the day of the mishap, according to the suit, Carpenter took a gravity wagon and flatbed dump wagon owned by Carpenter Farms to the grain elevator to dump a load of wet corn. Leland was asked to clean out corn which remained in the wagon after being emptied.

The suit charges that while Leland was still cleaning out the wagon, Carpenter climbed onto a tractor attached to the wagon and "drove off quickly at a high rate of speed without first checking to see" where Leland was at the time.

Negligent homicide charged

A 20-year-old Millington

man was charged with negligent homicide Thursday in Tuscola County District Court.

John L. Stiff, 8182 Center Rd., faces a preliminary exam at 9 a.m. Friday. Bond has been set at $5,000.

Stiff is charged with operating a motor vehicle on Millman Road in Millington Township Nov. 2, 1986, "at an immoderate rate of speed or in a careless, reckless or negligent manner, but not willfully or wantonly... while under the influence of intoxicating liquor." Stiff's actions allegedly contributed to the death of Mark E. Lee.

If convicted, he faces a maximum sentence of 2 years imprisonment and/or a $2,000 fine.

Also charged last week were Barbara J. Ames, 30, and Ronald E. Ames, 27, both of 2435 Remington Rd., Caro.

Each is charged with manufacturing marijuana on March 3 in Almer Township.

Preliminary exams for the pair, who face maximum sentences of 4 years imprisonment and/or a $2,000 fine if convicted, have been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. May 12. Bond has been set at $10,000 each.

Illegal vehicle use nets 90-day jail sentence

A Flint man was sentenced last week in Tuscola County Circuit Court to 90 days in jail, with credit for 67 days already served, for a guilty plea to unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Ronald C. Guenther, 20, 1718 Webster Rd., used a vehicle owned by Linda Sbresny without authorization on Nov. 9, 1986, in Koylton Township, court records state.

In court proceedings held April 13, another Flint man, 17-year-old William L. Freeman, pleaded guilty to unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle on Feb. 10 in Arbela Township.

Freeman, 5168 N. Genesee Rd., took an off-road vehicle owned by Alexander Bellanger.

A sentencing date is to be set.

Also April 13, a 31-year-old Caro man pleaded guilty to probation violation, and was sentenced to 6 months in jail with credit for time already served.

Richard D. Holmes, 1037 E. Dayton Rd., violated his probation by failing to report to his probation officer on Sept. 5 and Oct. 3, 1985, according to court records.

Holmes is serving 36 months of probation, which began April 29, 1985, after being convicted of delivering marijuana.

A lifetime hobby

Working with wood relaxes Ray Fleenor

The room is cluttered but organized. Wood, cut and uncut, is stacked according to height, tools are hung on 2 peg boards that reach to the ceiling, and the 4 machines are placed in easy reach of each other.

The only things that belie somebody works here are sawdust which covers the floor and the smell of fresh cut wood.

This is Ray Fleenor's workshop, where he spends his time creating with wood.

Fleenor, who is a retired refrigerator and appliance repairman, insists he's not a wood carver, but he uses the large machines to make toys for his 8 grandchildren, lamps and other items to sell at a church bazaar and furniture around his home.

"I tell the kids to tell me if they want me to make anything for them," Fleenor said. "I don't like making something that nobody wants."

Fleenor spends a lot of his time making items to sell at the Salem United Methodist Church bazaar held a week before hunting season. "What I don't sell at the bazaar, I usually give to the kids for Christmas," he said with a smile. "Last year it was candleholders."

Fleenor says he likes to do things he can finish in 2 or 3 days, but the work he's the most proud of has taken him months to complete.

He shows off his gun cabinet made out of maple wood that took him about 5 months to complete. He made a headboard for his bed out of cherry wood to match the turn of the century dresser given to him by his grandmother. An end table and a cherry wood framed mirror complete the set.

"I guess the most satisfying project I've ever done was when I built a home back in 1957 on Houghton Street," Fleenor said. He did all the work on the house himself except for the masonry. "I carved the kitchen cabinets made of walnut and birch."

Fleenor said the thing he likes about his hobby is it is just that. "It's very relaxing to do it at your own time and when you know you don't have to do it. It's a pleasure," he added.

THE BEGINNING

Fleenor has been working with wood since he was in high school, but said that the first thing he made out of wood was a toy gun. "We didn't have any supersonic guns back then. We whittled out a gun and went BANG, BANG, BANG," Fleenor laughed, using his finger and cocked thumb to demonstrate.

He said that he always liked wood and liked to build things. "My dad was a carpenter, one of my grandfathers was a blacksmith and the other worked with wood," Fleenor said. But it wasn't until he was in high school and spent 2 summers with his uncle, who was also a carpenter, that he realized he was good at the craft and enjoyed it.

In his workshop are the 4 machines that he bought in the 1940's to expand his hobby. "The first piece was a band saw that I bought about 1940," Fleenor said. The shaper and drill press were added later in the decade and the last of the group, the table saw, was purchased in 1950.

The machines aren't the only things that are more than 40 years old. In 1945 Fleenor purchased 3,000 feet of cherry and walnut wood at $35 for 1,000 feet. He has only used half the wood over the years. Today, for 1,000 feet of walnut or cherry wood it would cost $700 to $800.

Fleenor explained that his craft is "something you pick up yourself or you just don't get it." He said he's still learning, even after more than 50 years of working with wood. "You never learn all that there is to know. The longer you work at it the more proficient you get."

The workshop will be quiet for about a month because Fleenor's eyes are bothered by the dust, but he said that when his wife lets him, he'll be in there creating with his machines.

WOOD CRAFTER Ray Fleenor shows off a gun case he built with cherry wood.

WARNING! Before having your CARPET CLEANED on the premises know this:

So-called "steam" cleaning methods can be injurious to your fine carpet. If steam (212°F) were used it would be ruinous! Actually, what is used is just hot water, sometimes with added detergent. And water left in carpet is often harmful — causing mildew, shrinkage and browning. Injuring carpet fibers, backing, under pad and flooring. Tests show up to 6 gallons of liquid left in a 9' x 12' area. That's a whole lot of liquid! Such soggy carpet can take as much as 9 hours for even the surface to dry! And that still leaves the backing, under pad and floor damp! So, you would be well advised to play it safe by using the method recommended by leading carpet manufacturers —

Caro sprints past Red Hawk boys' and girls' thinclads

If they weren't convinced before, Cass City track coaches Don Markel and Larry Robinson are now sure their charges are facing a rocky season following tough meets last week against Caro and Mayville.

Both Red Hawk coaches expressed surprise at the strength and depth of their opponents. Mayville fell to Cass City's boys' squad, but buried the Lady Red Hawks; and both Cass City teams did little more than show up against Caro.

"Caro's a lot stronger than I thought they were," Markel commented about Thursday's meet. The boys' team fell to Caro, 104-59, with top finishes in only 6 of 17 events.

Strong performances for the Hawks were turned in by Jeff Lefler, who took the long jump with a mark of 18' 5 1/2"; Steve Ross, who finished first in the 110-meter high hurdles and 300-meter hurdles in times of 16.2 and 41.22, respectively; Mike Kelley, who took the 400-meter run in 54.84; and Don Herron, who topped all high jumpers with a leap of 5'6". The Hawks also won the 1,600-meter relay with a time of 3:39.06.

"We've got depth when it comes to sprinters, and I've got some sophomores who are doing real well," Markel said.

Robinson, meanwhile, had fewer optimistic remarks concerning the lady Red Hawks, who lost, 127-25.

"They're just young," the coach said, adding, "Caro's the 2nd best team in the league" after Vassar.

Robinson remarked, "I was pleased with some of the girls and their efforts. I'm trying to convince the girls that they've got to want to run and they've got to want to win."

Freshman standout Sue Papp provided a bright spot, giving the girls' team its only first-place finish in the meet. Papp, who took the long jump at 14'10", also placed second in the high jump and third place in the 100 and 300-meter hurdles.

Cass City also took second place in the 400, 800, 1,600 and 3,200 relays.

Both Cass City squads opened the season April 13 against Mayville, with the boys' team posting a hard fought 77-51 win, and the girls' squad losing, 101-27.

The Hawks took first place in 9 of 17 events, and ran away with the majority of the second-place points.

Ross was the only double first-place winner, with victories in both the 110 and 300-meter hurdles.

Markel said he was surprised at how tough Mayville was. "They have real good sprinters," he said, adding that the Hawks are still weak in distance events, and that he plans to work more with his distance runners.

For the girls' squad, who faced a dominant Mayville team, the story was very different.

For Robinson, however, the loss was no surprise. "Mayville has a real strong team. I was expecting a real tough one," he said.

Robinson noted he's pleased with the 2 first-place scores posted by sparkplug Papp in the long and high jump. Papp took the long jump with a 14'9" performance, and tied in the high jump with a 4'6" mark.

Solid Hawk hitters set for opener

Cass City will take solid hitting, an improved pitching squad and a 3-0 record into its Thumb B Conference baseball opener Thursday against Lakers.

And coach Don Schelke says he's expecting good things from his charges. The Lakers "have been good in the past," Schelke said. But "it looks like we've improved quite a bit from last year."

The coach added that pitching has been the big story during his team's first week of action. Schelke noted he expects Dave Miller to take the mound Thursday. He'll have plenty of support in pitching from a host of Red Hawks, including Dennis Ziemba, Jeff Kroll and Kevin Parrish.

Cass City wrapped up a week of non-league competition Thursday by sweeping North Huron in a double-header after beating Akron-Fairgrove April 13. A planned double-header with Frankenmuth, scheduled for April 15, was canceled.

Kroll, a sophomore, pitched a 2-hitter in the nightcap Thursday en route to a 7-0 win. He had a no-hitter going up until the sixth inning, when the Warrior's Norm DeVries hit a single.

Rich Witherspoon paced a balanced offensive attack for the Red Hawks, who iced the victory with 5 runs in the fourth inning.

Jeremy Capps topped Cass City batters with 4 hits in the opening game, which ended in a 10-4 decision. The junior also was the winning pitcher. Teammate Parrish, meanwhile, had 2 hits.

A-F DOUBLE HEADER

In Cass City's opening double-header against non-league Akron-Fairgrove, the Hawks won the first game, 10-7, and tied the Vikings in the nightcap before the game was called because of darkness.

Miller pitched the first 3 innings of the first game, walking 3 batters and striking out 3. Parrish relieved him at the top of the fourth, and walked one Viking.

Lions Club's White Cane drive set

The Michigan Lions Clubs' White Cane drive is underway or scheduled to begin soon in area communities in conjunction with the annual White Cane Week, April 24 through May 3.

Cass City Lions Club members, who annually raise some $1,000 in the drive, will be out on the streets collecting donations May 1-2.

Money collected from the sale of white cane pins is used to support Lions Club while striking out 4.

Parrish was also hot in the batter's box, getting on base 3 out of the 4 times at bat. Dennis Hyatt helped the team out by getting a 2-base hit which sent Paul Tuckey in to score in the sixth.

In the second game, the teams were able to play 6 innings before the game was called. Ziemba pitched 4 innings, allowing 1 walk and striking out 4 Vikings. Kroll relieved him in the fifth and walked one and struck out one.

The Hawks rallied in the fifth inning with 6 runs, paying back the Vikings for their 7-run flurry in the fourth inning.

According to state white cane chairman William "Larry" Young, thousands of Michigan residents have already benefited from Leader Dogs for the Blind, Rochester, now "graduating" more than 350 dog-student teams annually; the Leader Dog puppy program; Welcome Home for the Blind, Grand Rapids; the Michigan Lions Eye Banks; and Penickton Center for the Multi-Handicapped, Taylor.

"Our goal of $1.5 million will enable us to purchase white canes, Braille watches, eyeglasses, examinations and various other aids for the blind," Young remarked, adding there are more than 33,000 blind persons in the state. A year ago, Gov. James J. Blanchard signed into law an amendment to the original white cane legislation of 1936. In addition to requiring motorists to stop for a person carrying a white cane or being led by a guide dog, the law also defines blindness, provides for mandatory punishment of offenders and requires knowledge of the law through driver education courses and driver licensing exams.

Soil, water conservation poster contest to be held

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is sponsoring a youth soil and water conservation poster contest again and is urging all students in grades 1 through 8 to enter.

Student categories are: Division I 1st and 2nd grade students, Division II 3rd and 4th grade students, Division III 5th and 6th grade students and Division IV 7th and 8th grade students.

Posters will be judged at the district level and 2 posters will be selected in each division. One will be the winner and 2nd place will be runner-up. The winners will be entered in state competition.

Rules are as follows: Poster must be turned into the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro, by April 30. The name, complete address, phone number, division, school, teacher's name and your soil conservation district must be attached on the back or printed on the back of each poster. Size of all entries must be at least 8 1/2" x 11", but no larger than 14" x 22". Choice of materials is optional, but poster board, railroad board or a sturdy material is preferred.

The 1987 theme is "Prevent Erosion" and it must appear on the front of each poster.

Entries will be judged on the basis of originality, appropriateness of the theme, clarity, visual impact and overall appearance. The winner will receive awards at the local level at the Tuscola SCD annual meeting.

For further information contact the Tuscola SCD office, 852 S. Hooper Street in Caro or phone 673-8174.

New books at the library

LADY YESTERDAY by Loren D. Estleman (mystery). Hard-bitten private eye Amos Walker stalks the bleak, windy streets and the smoke-filled nightclubs of Detroit. When Walker is hired by a Jamaican ex-prostitute, Iris, to find her father, an obscure jazz musician, he has no trouble picking up the trail of the missing trombone player. What he does not bargain for are some harshly explicit warnings from the drug czar of Detroit, Iris's kidnapping, and the forming of an uneasy alliance between himself and the highest levels of organized crime. Walker pursues his case with dogged intensity, bringing to his investigation total cynicism and a casual disregard for scruples.

WARS OF THE HEART by Elizabeth Villars (fiction). At the start of World War II, Isabel Childs is a student at Smith, Eliza Kramer is a young wife and mother on Manhattan's Upper West Side and Lily Hartarski is in high school in Iowa. When war is declared, Isabel defies her wealthy parents and takes a job in network radio. The dependent and dutiful Eliza moves back with her parents after her husband joins the service and then, narrowly avoiding a nervous breakdown, takes a job in advertising. Lily follows Tom to the West Coast where she is "discovered" by a movie director and turned into the sensational Lily Hart. Through a mutual friend, Eliza meets Isabel, who has become the first female newscaster in radio, and who soon moves into Isabel's town house. Isabel and Lily also become friends, and the town house becomes Lily's East Coast refuge. While their men are overseas, the women shape their own lives with varying degrees of success and satisfaction: Isabel with a kind of aggressive happiness, Eliza in spite of herself and Lily almost against her will. By war's end, the reunions they looked forward to will turn out to be vastly different from what they expected.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

"My broker..." Sentences start that way often, especially in the Under 50 set. Age hasn't yet rubbed off their tendency to be impressionable, to believe too many things they hear, too many things they read, such as the outpourings from the brokerage firms.

You don't hear "My clothing salesman..." "My life insurance salesman..." "My magazine subscription salesman..." "My used car salesman..."

People don't feel they have a proprietary interest in other kinds of sellers of merchandise. What kind of magic has the broker wrought that makes him special, and so often believed without reservation?

"My broker put me into this mutual fund....It ought to double by December."

Did you ask him why he's selling you a fund with a 9% "load," or commission, instead of a no-load fund that has just as good a record?

No one has ever proved that load funds as a group do any better than the no-loads, that don't employ salesmen and brokers to peddle their wares.

If you were a broker would you sell something to a customer that brought you no commission?

If you were a broker would you push bonds when there would be 4 times the commission in selling a "Universal Life" policy?

Would you push stocks when a so-called "tax shelter" deal would double your income?

As your hair gets grayer and thinner and those dark freckles appear on the backs of your hands, it may occur to you that "nice young men" are salesmen, pure and simple, peddling wares designed to line their pockets before they line yours.

Before you say, "They're not all that way," let me interject the same comment. I've known a number, and the number is 4, in some 40 years of dealing with brokers, of fellows who would sell me no trash, and who would sell things they felt would serve me well in years to come.

Oh, I've bought junk from these noble souls, but it was usually my idea, and if it was theirs, they often took a flyer themselves in the same scheme.

Point is, the customer's long-term good was the first consideration, not a juicy commission.

They weren't so saintly as to steer me into a no-load mutual fund, but neither did they tout some 9%-commission mutual.

I've been lucky to have hooked up with brokers with integrity, rather than boys with the fast buck always before their eyes. Actually, these ethical men have done just great in their profession, following that old Rotary Club motto, "He profits most who serves best."

If you find such a man in the securities business, never let him go. Put up with the foul-ups that his firm does in the back office. Put up with mistakes in statements, and other nuisances in this field, but stick with your man. You can truly call him: "My broker."

The other kind is not "my broker" at all. He is his broker. His profits come ahead of yours. Chances are 5 years from now he'll have a list of disillusioned customers, and will have moved on to another firm and a fresh crop of innocent investors. The new investors will think he's "a nice young man" and believe everything they hear from him, even though the recording sounds a little scratchy as years go by.

A note of lightness, to leave a column that may be getting too heavy. The Rotary motto, "He profits most who serves best," brings to mind a story.

Back in Lapeer, Mich., when I was running the paper, one of the customers was Denny Alison, head of a Detroit brokerage house bearing his name. Denny had a farm near Lapeer and the principal income came from a Belgian stallion named Preston Wolfe.

I had a free hand advertising Preston Wolfe, and in time Preston became a household word for virility. To call a man Preston Wolfe was a great tribute.

I was running low on new ideas for promotion when it occurred to me that Preston Wolfe was a natural candidate to be a member of the Lapeer Rotary Club. Certainly he "served best," and certainly he and his owner profited. Why, Preston served anything that was trucked to Denny's farm.

I proposed Preston as a member to a couple Rotarians and they thought it a great stunt. I phoned Denny Alison about it, and he said he'd come up to the meeting the next Tuesday.

Well, I had talked to the wrong Rotarians. The others, when they heard about it, were mad as hops, and thought the club was being insulted, and they'd permit no such smart-aleck shenanigans in Lapeer Rotary.

I was stuck. Denny was going to make a trip to Lapeer, to be present at the ceremonies, and I had to be the one to call him and tell him the whole wonderful plan was off.

I agonized all weekend. I knew I'd have to call him first thing Tuesday morning.

Know what? Denny called me instead. Preston Wolfe had dropped dead in his stall, the night before. Praise the Lord!

OLD AND NEW members of the Cass City High School National Honor Society listen to valedictorian Deb Blue talk about the scholarship aspect of the group. There were 48 new members inducted into the society April 14.

Cass City High School Honor Society inducts 48 new members

membership certificates were presented to the new members by counselor Wayne Dillon. High School Principal Ken Micklash presented Deborah E. Blue with an award recognizing her 4.0 GPA compiled over the past 4 years. This average represents perfect academic achievement in her high school career.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's schools, and since 1921 more than 12 million students have been selected as members. Millions of dollars in scholarships have been awarded to senior members since 1972 by the sponsoring organization, the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Walbro's first quarter sales, income up from previous year

L. E. Althaver, president and chief executive officer, Walbro Corporation, reported sales from continuing operations of $32,272,000 for the first quarter ended March 31, compared with $26,488,000 for the same period in 1986. Income from continuing operations for the first quarter was $2,730,000 compared with $1,953,000 for the first quarter of 1986.

Income per share from continuing operations for the first quarter of 1987 was $.79, based on an average of 3,465,268 shares outstanding. This compared with $.66 per share from continuing operations for the first quarter of 1986, based on 2,944,611 shares outstanding.

The final first quarter figures confirmed previously announced preliminary results that called for sales in excess of $32,000,000 and a 40 percent increase in income compared with the first quarter of 1986.

Althaver noted that first quarter 1987 results were the highest for any quarter in the history of the company. Sales were 19 percent higher than the previous record set in the fourth quarter of 1986. Income from continuing operations rose 40 percent above the first quarter of 1986, the previous high for a single quarter.

He attributed the record sales and income levels to "strong demand across the board for the company's fuel system products, especially automotive electronic fuel injection (EFI) components and carburetors for lawn and garden applications."

"It is unlikely, however, that the company will sustain the same record pace

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week set

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week, a national and statewide campaign, will be held May 10-17. Human Development Commission Director Mary A. Vandemark announced recently.

The syndrome consists of a group of birth defects which result from drinking during pregnancy, according to Vandemark, who said that babies born with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome are shorter and lighter in weight than normal, and they don't "catch up," even after special post-natal care is provided.

They also have severe facial irregularities, joint and limb abnormalities, heart defects and poor coordination, she continued, adding most are mentally retarded and show a number of behavioral problems.

For every infant born with the syndrome, there are several more born with only some of the symptoms, referred to as "alcohol-related birth defects," Vandemark said.

She explained that when a pregnant woman takes a drink, the alcohol readily crosses the placenta to the fetus. It then travels through the baby's bloodstream. The tiny, developing system of the fetus is not equipped to handle alcohol, Vandemark continued.

Vandemark noted that there is no possibility of a child having Fetal Alcohol Syndrome if the child's mother avoids alcohol during pregnancy. The HDC Substance Abuse Coordinating Agency is asking women who are pregnant or considering pregnancy not to drink, she said.

of sales and income throughout 1987. Due to a previously announced reduction in automotive throttle body orders, we anticipate modest growth in sales for the year," Althaver said.

Bird talk

Birds of a feather stick together for good reason. According to National Wildlife magazine, cliff swallows nest in large colonies in order to share information about locating food. The birds feed on swarms of insects that are temporarily sucked up into the air by convection currents. By following individuals that have located a swarm, colony members are more successful in finding food than if they foraged alone.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

"My broker..." Sentences start that way often, especially in the Under 50 set. Age hasn't yet rubbed off their tendency to be impressionable, to believe too many things they hear, too many things they read, such as the outpourings from the brokerage firms.

You don't hear "My clothing salesman..." "My life insurance salesman..." "My magazine subscription salesman..." "My used car salesman..."

People don't feel they have a proprietary interest in other kinds of sellers of merchandise. What kind of magic has the broker wrought that makes him special, and so often believed without reservation?

"My broker put me into this mutual fund....It ought to double by December."

Did you ask him why he's selling you a fund with a 9% "load," or commission, instead of a no-load fund that has just as good a record?

No one has ever proved that load funds as a group do any better than the no-loads, that don't employ salesmen and brokers to peddle their wares.

If you were a broker would you sell something to a customer that brought you no commission?

If you were a broker would you push bonds when there would be 4 times the commission in selling a "Universal Life" policy?

Would you push stocks when a so-called "tax shelter" deal would double your income?

As your hair gets grayer and thinner and those dark freckles appear on the backs of your hands, it may occur to you that "nice young men" are salesmen, pure and simple, peddling wares designed to line their pockets before they line yours.

Before you say, "They're not all that way," let me interject the same comment. I've known a number, and the number is 4, in some 40 years of dealing with brokers, of fellows who would sell me no trash, and who would sell things they felt would serve me well in years to come.

Oh, I've bought junk from these noble souls, but it was usually my idea, and if it was theirs, they often took a flyer themselves in the same scheme.

Point is, the customer's long-term good was the first consideration, not a juicy commission.

They weren't so saintly as to steer me into a no-load mutual fund, but neither did they tout some 9%-commission mutual.

I've been lucky to have hooked up with brokers with integrity, rather than boys with the fast buck always before their eyes. Actually, these ethical men have done just great in their profession, following that old Rotary Club motto, "He profits most who serves best."

If you find such a man in the securities business, never let him go. Put up with the foul-ups that his firm does in the back office. Put up with mistakes in statements, and other nuisances in this field, but stick with your man. You can truly call him: "My broker."

The other kind is not "my broker" at all. He is his broker. His profits come ahead of yours. Chances are 5 years from now he'll have a list of disillusioned customers, and will have moved on to another firm and a fresh crop of innocent investors. The new investors will think he's "a nice young man" and believe everything they hear from him, even though the recording sounds a little scratchy as years go by.

A note of lightness, to lighten a column that may be getting too heavy. The Rotary motto, "He profits most who serves best," brings to mind a story.

Back in Lapeer, Mich., when I was running the paper, one of the customers was Denny Alison, head of a Detroit brokerage house bearing his name. Denny had a farm near Lapeer and the principal income came from a Belgian stallion named Preston Wolfe.

I had a free hand advertising Preston Wolfe, and in time Preston became a household word for virility. To call a man Preston Wolfe was a great tribute.

I was running low on new ideas for promotion when it occurred to me that Preston Wolfe was a natural candidate to be a member of the Lapeer Rotary Club. Certainly he "served best," and certainly he and his owner profited. Why, Preston served anything that was trucked to Denny's farm.

I proposed Preston as a member to a couple Rotarians and they thought it a great stunt. I phoned Denny Alison about it, and he said he'd come up to the meeting the next Tuesday.

Well, I had talked to the wrong Rotarians. The others, when they heard about it, were mad as hops, and thought the club was being insulted, and they'd permit no such smart-aleck shenanigans in Lapeer Rotary.

I was stuck. Denny was going to make a trip to Lapeer, to be present at the ceremonies, and I had to be the one to call him and tell him the whole wonderful plan was off.

I agonized all weekend. I knew I'd have to call him first thing Tuesday morning.

Know what? Denny called me instead. Preston Wolfe had dropped dead in his stall, the night before. Praise the Lord!

OLD AND NEW members of the Cass City High School National Honor Society listen to valedictorian Deb Blue talk about the scholarship aspect of the group. There were 48 new members inducted into the society April 14.

Cass City High School Honor Society inducts 48 new members

membership certificates were presented to the new members by counselor Wayne Dillon. High School Principal Ken Micklash presented Deborah E. Blue with an award recognizing her 4.0 GPA compiled over the past 4 years. This average represents perfect academic achievement in her high school career.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's schools, and since 1921 more than 12 million students have been selected as members. Millions of dollars in scholarships have been awarded to senior members since 1972 by the sponsoring organization, the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Walbro's first quarter sales, income up from previous year

L.E. Althaver, president and chief executive officer, Walbro Corporation, reported sales from continuing operations of $32,272,000 for the first quarter ended March 31, compared with $26,488,000 for the same period in 1986. Income from continuing operations for the first quarter was $2,730,000 compared with $1,953,000 for the first quarter of 1986.

Income per share from continuing operations for the first quarter of 1987 was $.79, based on an average of 3,465,268 shares outstanding. This compared with $.66 per share from continuing operations for the first quarter of 1986, based on 2,944,611 shares outstanding.

The final first quarter figures confirmed previously-announced preliminary results that called for sales in excess of $32,000,000 and a 40 percent increase in income compared with the first quarter of 1986.

Althaver noted that first quarter 1987 results were the highest for any quarter in the history of the company. Sales were 19 percent higher than the previous record set in the fourth quarter of 1986. Income from continuing operations rose 40 percent above the first quarter of 1986, the previous high for a single quarter.

He attributed the record sales and income levels to "strong demand across the board for the company's fuel system products, especially automotive electronic fuel injection (EFI) components and carburetors for lawn and garden applications."

"It is unlikely, however, that the company will sustain the same record pace of sales and income throughout 1987. Due to a previously-announced reduction in automotive throttle body orders, we anticipate modest growth in sales for the year," Althaver said.

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week set

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week, a national and statewide campaign, will be held May 10-17. Human Development Commission Director Mary A. Vandemark announced recently.

The syndrome consists of a group of birth defects which result from drinking during pregnancy, according to Vandemark, who said that babies born with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome are shorter and lighter in weight than normal, and they don't "catch up," even after special post-natal care is provided.

They also have severe facial irregularities, joint and limb abnormalities, heart defects and poor coordination, she continued, adding most are mentally retarded and show a number of behavioral problems.

For every infant born with the syndrome, there are several more born with only some of the symptoms, referred to as "alcohol-related birth defects," Vandemark said.

She explained that when a pregnant woman takes a drink, the alcohol readily crosses the placenta to the fetus. It then travels through the baby's bloodstream. The tiny, developing system of the fetus is not equipped to handle alcohol, Vandemark continued.

Vandemark noted that there is no possibility of a child having Fetal Alcohol Syndrome if the child's mother avoids alcohol during pregnancy. The HDC Substance Abuse Coordinating Agency is asking women who are pregnant or considering pregnancy not to drink, she said.

Falsey named pastor of 2 area churches

The Rev. James E. Falsey, former pastor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Chesaning, has been named as the new pastor of St. Michael Church in Wilmot, and St. Joseph Church in Mayville.

Rev. Falsey is one of 9 priests of the Diocese of Saginaw who recently received new assignments effective July 1987. The announcement was made by Bishop Kenneth E. Untener.

Rev. Falsey, a Midland native, was ordained in 1970. He attended high school at St. Paul Seminary in Saginaw, and attended Mt. St. Mary Seminary in Emmitsburg, Md., St. John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth and the University of Detroit, where he received his master's degree.

Rev. Falsey has been an associate pastor at St. James Parish in Bay City, and St. Mary University Parish in Mt. Pleasant. He served as chaplain for All Saints High School, Bay City, and has been pastor of St. Michael Parish in Oakley.

He has been a member of the Association of Priests and the Michigan Catholic Campus Ministry Michigan Province.

Bird talk

Birds of a feather stick together for good reason. According to National Wildlife magazine, cliff swallows nest in large colonies in order to share information about locating food. The birds feed on swarms of insects that are temporarily sucked up into the air by convection currents. By following individuals that have located a swarm, colony members are more successful in finding food than if they foraged alone.

FILLED POCKETS

4 Holly Farms Boneless Chicken Breasts
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 small onion, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
3/4 cup ketchup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
1 tablespoon white vinegar
1 1/2 teaspoons chili powder, salt, and pepper dash hot pepper sauce
4 large pita pockets, warmed lettuce leaves
8 slices tomato
1 green pepper, seeded and cut into 8 rings

Cut chicken into 1/2 inch cubes. Melt butter in large skillet, add chicken, and cook over high heat until lightly browned. Lower heat, add brown sugar, and stir until sugar is melted and chicken is coated. Add onion and garlic and cook until onion is transparent. Combine ketchup, 1/4 cup water, Worcestershire, vinegar, and chili powder in small bowl. Stir to blend. Add to skillet and stir well. Season with salt, pepper, and hot pepper sauce. Simmer, stirring until sauce is very thick, about 5 minutes. Split pita pockets in half crosswise and line each half with lettuce. Place 2 tomato slices and 2 pepper rings into each pocket. Spoon chicken mixture into pockets and serve. Makes 4 servings.
