County v. ... drops $75 million

by TOM MONTGOMERY
News Editor

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners last week swallowed a bitter pill in the form of a 1987 Equalization Report showing a total state equalized valuation drop of some $75 million—11.49 percent—in the county.

For some taxpayers, the drop may be good news. For commissioners, already laboring with a tight budget and a grim financial future, however, the news is bad albeit not surprising. While the county saw increases in the SEV of commercial (.57 percent), residential (4 percent) and industrial land (9.8 percent), there was also a record drop of some 29 percent in the SEV of agricultural property.

The SEV of all real property in the county dropped by some 13 percent, while personal property increased by 8.2 percent.

The total SEV for the county is $581,024,066 compared to $656,449,211 in 1986.

The 1987 figures are in line with an expected trend of plummeting agricultural land values in the Thumb. A trend of increasing agricultural land values began in 1976 and peaked in 1985 with a true cash value of some $727 million, compared to a true cash value of some $441.8 million this year. Last year, the agricultural land fell in value by about 14 percent.

In a related matter, the board during its regular meeting April 28 also reviewed and approved an audit of county finances.

According to county Controller Michael Hoagland, the audit shows that the county has practiced sound management considering loss of revenue over the past year.

Hoagland noted that the county had some $184,000 fewer dollars in property taxes to work with this year, and expects to have some $300,000 fewer tax dollars in 1988 due to the drop in SEV in the county.

The report shows "we made it on our own without the federal monies," Hoagland remarked, adding that the county has banked some $546,000 in federal revenue sharing money and budgeted the funds for use this year. The money is budgeted, but may not all be used, Hoagland pointed out.

According to the audit, the county had revenues totaling $5.06 million and expenditures of $4.88 million in the fiscal year which ended Dec. 31. The county had an unreserved fund balance of $927,694, and a reserved fund balance of $210,000.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business last week, the board met in a 2

1/2-hour executive session to discuss salary negotiations with Friend of the Court representatives, and set wages and hours for the now part-time Emergency Services and Veterans Counseling positions.

According to Hoagland, the changes recently ordered by the board concerning the positions will benefit the county to the tune of roughly $12,000 in savings annually. "By readjusting the wage rates... and by making them part-time versus full time, there will be some significant savings," he added.

The board set up an Emergency Services budget of $5,223, and set the position at 832 hours per year at the non-certified deputy hourly wage rate ($6.83 per hour).

The Veterans Counseling budget, meanwhile, was amended from $9,759 to $10,426 for 1987, with third and fourth-quarter appropriations of $2,773 to provide for the hiring of a part-time veterans counselor at 1,170 hours per year at an hourly wage rate of $6.98.

Turning to the planned Department of Social Services building project, the board approved signing of a quitclaim deed for the structure to the DSS.

The board also approved a resolution stating that it's in favor of various county departments cooperating with a summer youth program through the Job Training Partnership Act, and accepted a letter from the courthouse employees' union also in favor of the program; approved paying an additional $1,500 to repair a parking lot at the Cooperative Extension Office; authorized Rick Greania to build 8 tables at $80 per table for Vanderbilt Park in Wisner Township; approved summer hours at the courthouse of 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m. May 26 through Sept. 4, with the exception of the Friend of the Court Office; and appointed Commissioner Robert Russell to the Senior Citizens Advisory Council.

Okay revision in Kingston ordinance

Some 19 Kingston Township residents voiced approval, opposition and concern towards a proposed junk ordinance during a 2 1/2-hour public hearing conducted by the Township Planning Commission Thursday night.

The ordinance, designed to eliminate blighting factors in the township such as junk vehicles, garbage and other eyesores along township roads, received mixed reactions from residents, according to commission secretary Sally Wood.

"I think they were in favor, generally, to have the regulations if (they) would be effective" and at the same time not impede areas such as farm operations, Wood remarked. "A lot of people were concerned; they wanted to know how the ordinance reads and how it (would) affect them."

While some residents stated their opposition to additional regulations, many who said they're against the ordinance are involved in agriculture and are concerned about keep-

Despite AIDS threat, residents divided on school sex education

by TOM MONTGOMERY
News Editor

AIDS. The disease may seem far away to Cass City and surrounding area residents nestled in the heart of rural Michigan.

A seemingly constant stream of alarming statistics and tragic stories surrounding AIDS patients is seen and heard through the media from seemingly far away places.

But as medical experts debate the world-wide implications of the virus which cripples the immune system, local educators and parents are faced with a question—are today's children equipped with the knowledge to protect themselves?

AIDS has spawned creation of sex education and/or birth control classes in American schools. Although unthinkable a decade ago, schools in some of the larger urban areas have opened birth control clinics which distribute condoms like pencils and notebooks.

Locally, the issue of sex education classes in the Cass City school district has been met with significant opposition in the past, but there's been "almost no mention of it" in recent years, according to school Supt. Donald Crouse.

According to a recent survey of area teachers, parents and clergymen, sex ed, at least in the Cass City area, continues to be a can of worms which few are anxious to open.

While those interviewed didn't all agree on whether a sex education class should be offered to all students in certain grade levels, most agreed that parents, many of whom because of AIDS seem more hesitant to talk about sex, are responsible for educating their children.

They also agreed that few parents are living up to that responsibility.

"If there were interest exhibited in the community for a program of this type, there are guidelines set by the state" which could be used, Crouse said, adding that he's uncertain as to whether such interest exists.

A voluntary sex ed course offered through Cass City Community Education 4 years ago drew only about 6 junior high and 4 high school students. Even fewer participated the following year, and the course, which received support from a number of area clergymen, was canceled a year later.

Crouse indicated he's in favor of sex education in the schools as an alternative to kids gaining sexual knowledge from their friends.

"Some people feel this is the responsibility of the home and church, and it certainly is," he added.

TEACHERS

Cass City High School social studies teacher Leo Gengler also is in favor of a sex ed class in the school system.

Gengler noted that material on sex now offered in health education classes reaches only a small percentage of students. "It's probably something that should be made available to everyone, particularly with the AIDS situation," he said.

"Probably there should be some sort of approval or permission from parents," Gengler, who has 2 children aged 9 and 10 years, continued.

High school science instructor Stephen Steffke agreed, but drew a line between sex education and birth control education.

"I'm in favor of sex ed in a limited fashion—I think it can be taught in a general way," he explained. "As far as birth control, that's one I'm still not sure of."

Steffke added, "It's got to be taught with morals and values, and that's hard to do." Intermediate school physical education teacher Larry Robinson, who has 2 daughters, aged 14 and 18 years, also indicated approval of sex ed in light of AIDS and parents who can't or won't talk to their kids about the topic.

"That's the problem; if it were being done (in the home), I would have no problem leaving it alone," he said, adding that he and his wife Sharon, also a teacher, have educated their children about sex.

In terms of a class, Robinson said, "I would want it structured so it would be educational, meaningful; not only the facts, but the complications." Doug Hall, a sixth grade teacher, disagrees with creating a sex ed class in the school system because such a class, in his opinion, would not be allowed to cross the border separating church and state.

"Kids need more than head knowledge about AIDS and what it can do," Hall, the father of 3 boys aged 9, 12 and 15 years, remarked.

"If I'm not allowed to use God's name in school, other than in vain, then that means He's not a very big part of my life. How do I leave my morals at home when I go to school to teach?"

CLERGYMEN

The Rev. John R. Wood, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Cass City, also would like to see sex education.

Do you remember?

by Melva E. Guinther

While discussing the history of our fair village recently, someone recalled the era when everyone came to town on Saturday nights. Ostensibly, they came to shop, but mostly, it was a social affair. If you came early enough to get a parking spot (angle, not parallel) in front of Federated or Townsends', you could be sure of seeing just about everybody in the passing parade. Actually, the town had switched to Friday nights by the time I served my stint as a soda jerk at Parrott's Dairy Bar. At that time, everyone who didn't go to the tavern came to Parrott's for a Friday night sundae, or so it seemed. Except for getting sticky up to the armpits from digging ice cream out of the 5-gallon cans, it's a pleasant memory. The customers were nice people. While we're waxing nostalgic, remember the free shows? Usually they were westerns. Being "country kids," we went to Deford to see them. As a youngster, the prospect of spending 5c for candy at Hubbards' Grocery was more exciting to me than the movie. Once, after blowing the whole nickel on licorice, I got sick. Licorice has never since appealed to me. Remember when Monday was wash day and Tuesday was ironing day? And clothes were sprinkled and rolled up before ironing? Remember inflating flat tires with a hand pump? Or pulling into a gas station for a dollar's worth of gas, and having the attendant automatically check your oil and wash the windshield? Remember when: --milk was delivered to your door, and mail wasn't? --meat was kept in frozen food lockers? --one of the 2 employees (usually the owners of the store) took your grocery list and brought the merchandise to the counter? --you told the telephone operator what number you wanted? (The Chronicle's number was 13. On a party line, your ring might be 2 long and 3 short, but any of the 12-15 families on the line could hear the rings and listen in if they were interested.) --Cass City had 2 meat markets, and soup bones were free? --store-bought bread, with its even slices, was a treat? --all the neighbors came on threshing day, the men to help with the harvest and the women, with the sumptuous feast? --just about everything edible was rationed, along with gas and tires, during the war? --roller skating parties were held in the high school gym? --the Watkins and Fuller Brush men sold wares door to door? One more thing, what ever happened to singing around the piano?

"If It Fitz..."

"Wheel" trouble

By Jim Fitzgerald

The date was Wednesday, April 8, 1987. The category was "things." My dismay was total. I don't want to watch "Wheel of Fortune" on TV anymore. I don't want to be married anymore.

There was nothing except blanks on Vanna White's stupid board. Like this: ----- The first spin of the wheel had not yet been made.

"Musical instruments," my wife said.

It turned out she was right. God help me, she was right. Given absolutely no clue except the all-purpose, all-encompassing, totally obscure "things," she correctly guessed every letter of the 18-letter answer. How did she do that? Why did she have to do it to me?

Such a feat is occasionally accomplished when the category is "place" because the correct answer is often a city and state. A few years ago I did it on "-----" by remembering that Ohio is a four-letter state, and I used to write for the newspaper in Columbus. It was three weeks before I stopped chortling.

But I'd never heard of anybody filling every blank without a clue in the "things" category. Unless they cheated. That was my first reaction: "Don't kid me, you saw this show at 7 o'clock on Channel 29."

She reminded me that we'd watched "Jeopardy!" together on Channel 4 at 7 o'clock. She hadn't left my presence once during the 30 minutes preceding the start of "Wheel of Fortune" on Channel 4 at 7:30. Besides, it's impossible to get Channel 29 — a Canadian station — on the two other TV sets in our home.

OK, she must have made a sneaky phone call to a friend living in another time zone. I know a guy in San Diego who amazes his friends — and wins barroom bets — by yelling out correct "Wheel of Fortune" answers he got three hours earlier by phoning a confederate in Michigan.

My wife resented being accused of such treachery. She reminded me that — according to my own proclamation — she is congenitally unable to talk on the phone for less than 45 minutes per call, and certainly I would have noticed and yelled at her for talking so long, just like always.

"You won't admit I won honestly because you can't stand it that I beat you so badly at a dumb game you think you play better than everyone," she said. "You brag for days after you get the right answer before I do. You call up our children and tell them if you get an answer when only a few letters are showing. So it drives you crazy that I did something playing 'Wheel of Fortune' that you've never done, and never will do, no matter how long you live."

But how on earth did she do it? Why did she say "musical instruments" when there are a trillion other "things" she might have said? She admitted she hadn't counted that there were 18 blanks on Vanna's board, and she had no idea there were 18 letters in "musical instruments." She simply said "musical instruments" because the words jumped into her mind and she knew they were right.

There was one possible explanation for my humiliating defeat, she finally conceded, probably feeling pressured by my sobs and threats of suicide. A jukebox was the bonus prize on that round of "Wheel of Fortune" and, to designate it, the word "music" was inserted over one of the dollar numbers on the wheel. Perhaps that influenced her answer?

Perhaps. But I am reminded of an old movie called "I Married a Witch." And now she has a new incantation. Since the evening of my great discontent, circumstances have required that I speak to my wife. I've asked her when's dinner, where's my other sock, and other important stuff like that. And each time she has answered: "Musical instruments, musical instruments, musical instruments..."

I may never chortle again.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Quick note on 4 days spent in Washington, D.C. A little of the political savvy has trickled down to businesses. We stayed at the Holiday Inn, a downtown location within walking distance of most of the sightseeing attractions.

Even though it was a reduced (from $124) rate to $105 a night for 2, we thought that the price was stiff. We didn't know that there was a 10 percent room tax to be added and another $1.00 a night "occupancy tax."

The room was fine, but there were none of the perks, jacuzzi, swimming pool, recreation rooms, etc., that are common in motels today. In Washington, location is everything.

General Telephone says that local telephone rates are going to decrease about 75 cents a month due to the new Federal Tax Reform Act.

That's the good news. The bad news is that the reduction won't begin to nullify the rate increase we all received with the break-up of the traditional system of phone service. The 75 cents per customer doesn't sound like much but GTE estimates it amounts to $4.2 million annually.

Why is it that when you leave town for 4 or 5 days it seems as if you've been gone almost forever and then after you return home for a day it seems as if you've never been away?

Like many of you, probably, I had heard about the Brookings Institution before reading about one of the activities of the organization in the April 22 issue of the Detroit News.

Really, I had no idea about just what it did. In the back of my mind there was a picture of a bunch of intellectuals getting together in Washington for some serious think tank mulling over some of the perplexing problems of the universe. Maybe spending a little time figuring out the origins of the planet or how to smash an atom or a nucleus or 2. Really prestigious stuff.

Forget it. One of the institute's recent projects was trying to prove that seat belt laws aren't effective and amount to bad public policy. On the face of it, a study like this should provide some grass roots, nitty-gritty information for all of us to form an opinion on a topic that is of nationwide concern.

Let me clue you in. As a rational motorist, the basis for the conclusions in the study are ludicrous. What the institute has attempted to do is figure out if seat belts are good or bad on the basis of cost.

Without attempting to bore you with a host of details, what the study did was figure out what it costs to fasten a seat belt. Their figure is 38 cents each time you buckle up or $6,442 for the life of a vehicle. If you buckle up there is a 21.4 percent reduction in the probability of injury or a savings of $5,249 over the life of the vehicle.

There's a way that the institute could make the cost-benefit ratio of doing away with seat belts even more cost advantageous. Make every motorist drive at least 70. That way there will be more drivers killed instead of injured in accidents, and you don't have to be a Brookings Institute Fellow to know that it costs less to kill than it does to maim accident victims.

Some auto safety advocates believe that belts should fasten automatically so that motorists do not have the option of unfastening them. That's called passive restraint.

I don't know what that will do the cost-benefit formula worked out by the institute, but let me tell you right now I'm against passive restraints if the figures presented in the study are correct.

I've been fastening those seat belts for years and I'm just waiting for the day that I can earn 38 cents every time I do it. In fact, I'd like nothing better than getting paid for fastening those belts all day long.

I don't know about you, but I never figured that fastening those belts was worth a plugged nickel in time spent.

The only pay I get for fastening those belts is their proven safety effectiveness. That's worth nothing unless you have an accident. When you do, they become cost effective beyond any price any study can put on them.

The location where Sommers' Bakery and Restaurant are situated were originally granted to William Winnspear, a service veteran, in 1852 by the U.S. Government. The original brick building which houses the bakery was designed to be built by C. S. Lauderbach in Sept., 1899. All particulars, from foundation to eaves troughs, were hand written in beautiful script. Lauderbach had an ice cream parlor which was purchased by Earl A. Hiller in 1919 for use as a bakery, to be continued as such by J. D. and Lucille Sommers in 1937. A bakery has been in this spot continuously for 78 years.

Police have suspect Forgery case investigated

The Cass City Police Department has a suspect in connection with a complaint Friday of forgery/obtaining money under false pretenses at Old Wood Drug Store in Cass City.

According to a report on the case, Janice D. Rands, an employee at the store, was asked by a man at about noon to cash a check made out to John and Valerie Wesolowski, 6472 Main Street. The check, for $50, was signed by the suspect as "John Wesolowski." The suspect then bought a carton of cigarettes and left the store, Rands indicated.

Although the check was drawn on an out-of-town bank, Rands stated that she knows Valerie Wesolowski. The report stated that Rands later heard Valerie Wesolowski talking about a problem of losing mail from her apartment mailbox.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said the suspect's name is being withheld pending a warrant being issued. The U.S. Postal Service has been notified, he added.

A 21-year-old Lansing woman was arrested Sunday afternoon on suspicion of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and transporting an open container of alcohol.

Kristen J. Kuerbitz was stopped by police on North Seeger Street near Kennebec Drive for exceeding the posted speed limit. The report stated that she allegedly had been drinking, had open intoxicants in the vehicle, and that she failed sobriety tests.

Two larceny complaints were filed with the department.

Marion Rabideau, 6433 Garfield St., reported that a hanging flower pot and a brass pot were taken from a sun porch on the south side of her residence sometime during the evening April 22 or early morning hours April 23.

Light damage reported in Cass City accident

Minor damage was reported in a 2-car mishap at Main and Leach streets in Cass City Sunday evening.

According to the Cass City Police Department, a vehicle driven by Corey W. Harmon, 6360 Houghton St., was westbound in the right lane on Main Street and attempted to change to the left westbound lane when the incident occurred. Harmon's vehicle, which failed to yield the right-of-way, struck another westbound vehicle driven by Michael K. Culbert, 3596 W. Gilford Rd., Caro.

Both vehicles sustained light damage. No citation was issued.

Also reported over the past week was slight damage to a vehicle parked in the north alley behind Bigelow's Hardware.

Bernard Lesoski, 4784 South St., Gagetown, who reported the incident, stated that his vehicle was struck by an unknown vehicle April 27.

Saginaw man sentenced for negligent homicide

A 23-year-old Saginaw man was sentenced Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court for a plea of guilty to negligent homicide.

Jeffrey Anker, 9381 Wadsworth Rd., was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail with credit for one day served. He also was ordered to pay $600 in fines and costs, serve 3 years probation and told not to consume alcoholic beverages.

Anker's conviction stems from an accident on June 28, 1986, on Akron Road near Cramer Road in Fair-grove Township in which Pamela J. Cramer was killed.

Court records state that he operated a motor vehicle "at an immoderate speed or in a careless, reckless or negligent manner, but not willfully or wantonly, while under the influence of alcohol."

Also Monday, a plea of no contest from Steven Myers, 22, to a count of second degree criminal sexual conduct was taken under advisement by the court.

Sentencing is to be set and bond was continued, according to court records.

Myers is charged with having sexual contact with a person under the age of 13 years on Dec. 25, 1986, in Vassar Township.

Caro resident Gregg C. Guild, 1585 E. Dayton Rd., was sentenced for a plea of guilty to forgery.

Guild, 18, received a one-year delayed sentence, and was ordered to pay $300 in costs plus restitution, and serve 100 hours of community service.

His conviction stems from an Aug. 19, 1986, incident in Caro involving improper use of a check for $82.12. The check was drawn on Peoples State Bank.

Cass City resident Duane S. Wilcox, Huntsville Trailer Park, was sentenced for a guilty plea to unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Scott R. Ackerman, 4677 Kennebec Drive, was ordered to pay fines of $87 and $63 in costs, to be paid by Ackerman's conviction stems from an April 25, 1986, incident in which he exposed himself to some female Cass City High School students in Cass City's Village Park.

Area man named in law suit filed in Circuit Court

A Cass City man is named as the defendant in a law suit filed Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

The man, Gene K. Hopper, is being sued for damages in excess of $10,000 by Barry G. Lapp, according to court records.

The suit also alleges that Lapp sustained "various facial injuries" and has incurred medical expenses of some $3,881 to date.

Franchise approved by Twp. board

A cable television franchise was approved and a maintenance mechanic supervisor hired during an hour-long Elkland Township meeting Monday night.

Township Clerk Norma Wallace said the board approved the cable TV franchise to Centel Cable Company for Walnut Trailer Park, which is located just outside the Cass City Village limits to the south.

Turning to the hiring of a mechanic supervisor, the board hired Walt Jezewski, an Elkland Township fireman, to fill the position.

"We're hoping to cut down on some of the maintenance costs" related to the fire department, Wallace remarked, adding that a job description is to be established by the board. Jezewski will receive $125 annually in the new position.

In other business Monday, the board approved a resolution to clean out, burn pile and level dirt in the Westerby Drain located in the north end of the township.

HEALTH TIPS

Many strokes can be prevented

What is a stroke? Stroke is the leading cause of handicaps in the United States and the third leading cause of death, after heart disease and cancer. This devastating and often fatal health problem, in many instances, can be prevented.

Progress in the medical field has clearly identified many of the risk factors and warning signs that help detect people at risk of having a stroke. These people are then able to actively pursue activities that could reduce their risk of stroke. Relaying this important health information is the idea behind the American Heart Association's (AHA) first annual Stroke Awareness Week, which takes place May 17-23.

What is a stroke? What causes it, and can it be prevented?

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or cutoff, and as a result, the nerve cells in that part of the brain cannot function. Consequently, the part of the body controlled by these nerve cells is unable to function properly.

Interference with the blood supply to the brain can be due to a number of causes:

* Thrombosis -- the blocking of a blood vessel in the brain by a blood clot that forms inside the vessel.

* Hemorrhage -- when a diseased artery leaks or bursts, causing blood to seep out and damage surrounding brain tissue.

* Embolism -- when a blood clot breaks loose from another part of the body and is carried to the brain, where it blocks a small artery.

* Compression -- pressure on the arteries supplying the brain, for example, from a brain tumor.

Possible effects of a stroke include weakness, loss of feeling or paralysis of one side of the body, difficulty with vision, inability to walk, and difficulty in speaking or understanding speech (aphasia).

If stroke is to be prevented, people must be aware of their personal risk factors. The leading risk factors are:

* hypertension (high blood pressure)

* heart disease

Other contributing factors include:

* diabetes

* hyperlipidemia (high blood fat levels)

* oral contraceptives

* smoking

* obesity

* stress

* family history of heart disease, hypertension or stroke.

In many cases, changes in a person's lifestyle and/or careful medical supervision can lower the chance of a stroke. If you have any of the risk factors mentioned above, don't let them go untreated. If necessary, the doctor may prescribe medication to control hypertension, diabetes or heart conditions. Be sure to take any prescribed medication regularly.

It is wise to eat a diet low in fat and cholesterol. A high fat/high cholesterol diet tends to cause a fatty deposit to build up on artery walls and interfere with blood flow. To lower your fat and cholesterol intake, you should eat lean meats along with poultry and fish. Drink low-fat or skim milk instead of whole milk, eat fewer eggs and substitute margarine for butter.

Since sodium is linked to high blood pressure, lowering salt intake is also important. Use herbs and seasonings instead of salt for flavor. Prepare fresh or frozen vegetables, since they contain less salt than canned varieties. If you do decide to use canned foods, make sure they are labeled low-sodium.

Although the evidence is not yet conclusive, smoking seems to increase the risk of stroke indirectly by increasing the chance of heart disease. Physicians usually advise against smoking. Additionally, women taking oral contraceptives seem to have a greater chance of stroke.

Finally, don't disregard the warning signs of stroke. Remember that stroke attacks people of all ages, even children and infants. Sometimes major strokes are preceded by "little strokes" or TIA's (transient ischemic attacks). The symptoms spell DANGER:

Dizziness or unsteadiness
A temporary loss of memory or change in mental ability
Numbness, weakness or paralysis in face, arm or leg

Garbled speech or difficulty understanding speech
Eye problems -- a temporary dimness/loss of sight or double vision
Recent, severe, sudden headaches

"A new Seed Growers Cooperative has been organized with the name Greater Michigan Seed Growers Cooperative, Incorporated," states William Humpert, resident agent of the new cooperative, from Fairgrove.

Thirty-four growers have applied for membership, with a limited membership of 35 during the first year. Final approval of the cooperative is expected from the Department of Commerce in the very near future.

"The cooperative will then be issuing membership certificates to the proposed 34 seed growers," states Humpert. The proposed members must be members of Michigan Crop Improvement Association, recognized for quality seed production.

"The purpose of the cooperative is promotion and quality production of private and public seed releases of wheat, spring grains (barley and oats), all dry beans (navy and colored) and soybeans," states Humpert. This would include Michigan Certified Seed, along with individual company releases.

The growers requesting membership represent 8 counties in Michigan. Acres under production from these farming units with proposed membership include over 3,000 acres of wheat, 3,500 acres of navy beans, 1,200 acres of colored dry beans, 2,000 acres of soybeans, and 1,200 acres of barley and oats.

For further information, you may contact William R. Humpert, Resident Agent, 8301 W. Akron Rd., Fairgrove, MI 48733. The telephone number is 517-693-6415.

Woodward ends training

Navy Seaman Rodney A. Woodward, son of Robert Woodward and Janet Hull, both of Snover, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During Woodward's 8-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Woodward's studies included seamanship, close order drill, naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for 3 hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

A 1985 graduate of Sandusky High School, he joined the Navy in November 1986.

New books at the library

GLAD AWAKENING by Betty Ford and Chris Chase (non-fiction). Betty Ford details with spirited candor her battle with drug and alcohol addiction. The drug problem she ascribes to a long struggle with a painful neck condition, but the alcoholism she feels is a genetically transferred condition that has afflicted other family members. Ford covers the development and discovery of her illness, the initial intervention and detoxification, the period of treatment at a Long Beach naval hospital, and the continuing group sessions with her fellow alcoholics. These experiences also led her to help found the Betty Ford Center in Southern California, a pioneering program for addicts that has helped to bring the alcohol and drug problem to public attention - sometimes almost too successfully for the center's patient load and Ford's publicity purposes. Family, friends, and fellow addicts add their voices to Ford's personal account, enforcing the books' impact with their testimony and demonstrating that drug and alcohol abuse affects not only addicts, but also the lives of everyone around them.

BRUISED FRUIT by Amy Ephron (fiction). Suspicion falls on Kate Bailey, an actress and model, when her live-in lover, Michael Kennon is killed. Kate is indicted, but the Los Angeles police lack the evidence to arrest her. As police detective Murphy waits, watching his suspect, Kate's career falls apart and her mental health suffers.

AMERICAN TROPIC by David A. Kaufelt (fiction). The story begins with 3 escapees from the Spanish Inquisition - a grandee, a Jew and a fiery actress - who come to the New World and prepare the way, albeit unconsciously, for an Indian prophecy that the descendants of "Three Black Doves" will possess what is now Florida and destroy the work of "the Great Spirit." The second half of the book deals with the booming of Miami to the arrival of refugees from Castro's Cuba. The author leaves moot the question of whether the legacy of the 3 "doves" has indeed been able to bring disharmony to "the World Below the Sky."

Your neighbor says May 10, day to remember mom

This Sunday, hundreds of mothers across the nation will be waking up to breakfast in bed, school-made gifts, and flowers from their smiling families, to celebrate Mother's Day.

Cindy McConkey is not a mother herself, but remembers the Mother's Day her family celebrated with their mother, Martha E. Kanaby.

"It's a wonderful day to celebrate. We would all get together," McConkey said.

When asked if she thought the special holidays are too commercialized, she shook her head. "I think it is a good occasion to tell them you are thinking about them and to let them know that they're special," McConkey said. "We should do this all year round."

McConkey said that she couldn't remember a Mother's Day that has really stuck in her mind, but added all of them were special. "Each one was special, just with all the love we shared. We would get her special flowers or a personal gift. It showed her that we appreciated her."

"She helped us all the best she could and she was always there for us," McConkey said.

McConkey and her husband own McConkey's Jewelry and Gift Shop at 6458 Main St. Her husband has owned the business for 40 years and she has been helping him for 12.

She said that her mother and father moved to Cass City for a short time, before her mother died. Her father still lives in the village. The family is originally from the Ubyly area.

McConkey has a sister that lives in Gagetown, a brother and a sister in Ubyly and a sister in Kinde.

Project Graduation supported by pupils

A junked car with the words, "The best of life is yet to be" painted on one side has been placed in front of Cass City High School.

The smashed vehicle, complete with fake blood painted on the steering wheel, is a graphic reminder to students of what can happen when alcohol and driving are combined.

School administrators, staff and students, some of whom know someone who died in an alcohol-related crash, are determined to keep their friends and peers out of the headlines this prom and graduation season.

"I think there's a definite commitment by the kids (against) drinking and driving," high school counselor Jerry Cleland remarked.

Cleland also serves as advisor to the school's Student Council, which kicked off its 1987 Project Graduation campaign Thursday and Friday by accepting pledges not to drink and drive from students, including more than 90 percent of the seniors.

In all, 91 seniors and 67

juniors signed pledges not to drink and drive or ride with persons who do.

Students also took part in some public service spots sponsored by WJRT-TV 12, which paid a visit to the school Friday.

According to Cleland, who noted this is Cass City's second year of participation in the nationwide program, students' commitment to eliminate drinking and driving, especially by high school students, has increased over the past year.

Last year, Cass City High School students' participation was ranked among the highest in Michigan among public schools, with some 51 percent of 260 juniors and seniors signing pledges not to drink and drive.

"We wanted to be involved in this," Cleland explained about how Cass City became interested in the program. He added that the Student Council was enthusiastic about the idea. "It turned out to be a good choice," he said. "They've invested a good amount of money and time in it."

The counselor pointed out a number of new projects taken on by students this year. Aside from the television spot, students also have produced audio tapes for use at area radio stations.

The students also are signing posters at the school in support of the program, and attended a presentation by a representative of the State Police post in Caro on drinking and driving.

The junked car was donated by Bartnik's, Cleland added.

"We've been fortunate," he commented. "It's been a long time since we've had any problems around prom and graduation time." Cleland observed that the program isn't geared toward eliminating teenage drinking, and he acknowledged "there are still some holdouts" in terms of student participation in the program.

"We just want these kids to be around for their fifth year reunion," he said.

High school seniors Jeff Lince and Brent Kostanko, both very active in Cass City's Project Graduation, agreed.

"It's a time for celebration, but I don't want to remember my senior prom in terms of someone getting into an accident and getting killed," Lince remarked.

Kostanko added, "(We want) to keep our friends from getting killed."

Lince hopes in the future to be a police officer, while Kostanko has enlisted in the Navy. Both say they know a number of students who drink.

But the pair also agreed that they want to make others realize that by getting involved with drinking and driving, innocent lives are placed in jeopardy.

"I lost 2 friends in January," Lince commented. "I know how it felt and I never want to go through that again."

LETTER TO EDITOR

Hospital lauded for diabetes seminar

Three cheers for the staff at Hills & Dales Hospital, that put on the seminar for diabetics. Also for the people that were brave enough to come and participate.

As a support person, I had no conception as to how complex diabetes really is, but I have learned much.

It is my firm opinion, that if one member of a family has diabetes, that it would be extremely beneficial for the whole family to be able to attend a seminar as this. I believe that it would make coping with the situation much easier for all concerned.

Lord only knows, maybe some day down the road my pancreas may stop functioning.

Novesta board okays road work

The Novesta Township Board, during a 90-minute regular meeting Monday night, approved putting nearly $30,000 of road work out on bids.

Roads scheduled to receive grading, graveling and/or ditching where necessary are one mile of Dodge Road between Shabbona and Severance roads ($10,800), .3 of a mile of River Road from the old railroad crossing to Cemetery Road ($3,000), one mile of Elmwood Road from Crawford to Lamton roads ($11,000), 1/2 mile of Warner Road starting from Kelly Road south ($3,200) and .057 of a mile of Crawford Road starting from Shabbona Road south ($1,400).

According to Township Clerk Nurse L. Kloc, board members also decided to obtain estimates for placing gravel on Dodge Road from White Creek to Deckerville Road, and on Englehart Road between Shabbona and Deckerville roads.

In a related matter, the board approved a ditch petition for clearing of a portion of Tracy Drain. The petition was presented by residents Keith and Harold Little, Kloc said.

More fiber in the diet desirable

by Kathy Hale
Extension Home Economist

An issue that has received much attention lately is how fiber could be related to nutrition and our health. The possible benefits of dietary fiber for colon cancer, heart disease, diabetes, and obesity are being studied. Whether such benefits exist is not yet known. It is not clear exactly how much and what types of fiber we need in our diets daily. However, for most Americans, a moderate increase in dietary fiber by eating more fiber-containing foods is desirable.

So what is fiber? Dietary fiber (or roughage) is the parts of plants that humans can't digest. There are several types of fiber, such as cellulose, pectin, lignin, and gums. Plants differ in the types and amounts of fiber they contain. Also, different types of fiber function differently in the body.

It is important to eat a variety of plant foods to benefit from effects of different kinds of fiber. Fiber can have a laxative effect, producing softer, bulkier stools and more rapid movement of wastes through the intestine. Fiber is helpful in preventing and treating constipation and diverticular disease. Contrary to some information that has been in print, there is no reason to take fiber supplements or to add fiber to foods that do not already contain it when you are eating a variety of foods in your diet.

Did you know that the form of the food you eat will affect its fiber content. For example, 3/4 cup of apple juice contains 0.2 grams of fiber, 1/2 cup of applesauce contains 2.1 grams of fiber, and one whole apple with peel contains 3.6 grams of fiber.

Some foods to eat for fiber include: whole grain breads, whole grain breakfast cereals, whole-wheat pasta, vegetables, especially with edible skins, stems, or seeds, dry beans and peas, whole fruits, especially with edible skins or seeds and nuts and seeds. Whole grain doesn't have to mean bread or cereal. For other alternatives try: brown rice, corn tortillas, popcorn, Scotch barley and bulgar.

Dietary fiber, like other nutritional controversies, is open to much misinformation and quackery because of its "newness" in the American diet. A caution to use when confronted with nutritional information is to check it out with a qualified person who has a background in foods and nutrition and always eat any food in moderation.

Closely related to fiber is starch, because many starchy foods are also good sources of fiber. When you cut down on fat and sugars as suggested by the "Dietary Guidelines," you may need to increase the amount of starchy foods you eat to help supply your body's energy needs. Unlike sugars and sweets, starchy foods provide many vitamins and minerals as well as energy. Many people believe that starchy foods such as potatoes and bread are fattening.

In fact, most of the calories come from the company they keep - calorie-rich additions such as butter or margarine.

CASS CITY'S JENNIFER PALMER couldn't quite hang on to this throw to first from a teammate during the lady Red Hawks' doubleheader with Marlette Thursday. Cass City took the first game, 7-6, but lost in the nightcap, 5-6.

Cass City remained in contention for the Thumb B Association baseball crown heading into another full week of action Tuesday with a 5-1 league record, 8-1 overall.

But coach Don Schelke, faced with nagging injuries sustained by a couple of his key players, is cautiously optimistic when talking about future games.

"The pitching's holding up," he remarked, adding that hitting also remains strong. "We'll just have to see what happens."

Standout pitcher Kevin Parrish and shortstop Dennis Zimba sustained injuries in a double-header Thursday against Marlette. The Red Hawks swept the twin bill, 16-2 and 8-5, but both Parrish and Zimba were questionable in terms of action Tuesday at Vassar.

Schelke noted that "we'll know where we're at" after Thursday's double-header against Imlay City, which took sole possession of first place in the league standings last week after Cass

City split a twin bill with Bad Axe.

Balanced scoring was key in the first game against Marlette Thursday, when Cass City picked up all 16 of its runs on 13 hits in the first four innings to win on the 10-run "mercy" rule.

Rob Nicholas paced the Red Hawk bats with a single and a home run, while Jeff Sontag went 3 for 4 with 2 singles and a double. Parrish, Jeff Dillon and Jeff Krol all were 2 for 3 at the plate.

Krol struck out 5 batters while walking 3 en route to claiming the win.

Cass City's hitting slowed in the nightcap, but the Red Hawks went ahead early with 3 runs in the first inning to take control. Cass City added 2 more in the second inning, another in the fourth and the remaining 2 in the fifth to ice the win.

Nicholas again topped hitting for the Red Hawks with a 2 for 3 finish, including a triple. Paul Tuckey and Jeremy Capps each went 2 for 2.

Capps also was the winning pitcher. He was replaced by Krol after relieving Dave Miller on the mound.

Cass City relinquished a 5-game winning streak April 28 against Bad Axe, losing in the first game, 4-11, and coming back to claim the nightcap, 7-1.

The Hatchets, described as a "really hard-hitting team" by Schelke, walked away from the Red Hawks in the third inning with 8 runs on 9 hits for a 10-2 lead. Cass City, which committed 8 errors in the contest, couldn't get a rally going after that.

Tuckey, who cracked a triple and single, was 2 for 3 along with teammate Dillon for Cass City. Parrish, who was relieved on the mound after 2 1/3 innings by Krol, took the loss.

Writers club sets meet

The Thumb Area Writer's Club (TAWC) will meet Tuesday evening, May 12, in Sandusky. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Sanilac County Cooperative Extension office, 37 Austin St.

Writers of fiction, nonfiction and poetry are invited to bring manuscripts to read. Critiques are offered in a supportive and encouraging manner.

The deadline for TAWC's amateur writing contest is June 15. Persons who still wish to participate should send for contest details immediately. The address is: TAWC; 215 Ellington St., Caro, MI 48723. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope. Include 50¢ if you would like a sample copy of the club's monthly newsletter, THUMBPRINTS.

lette for second place behind North Branch, which remained undefeated early last week.

Cass City split a league twin bill Thursday at home against Marlette, losing in the nightcap, 5-6, after edging the Red Raiders, 7-6.

The lady Red Hawks took control of the first game with 3 runs in the fifth inning and held on for the win.

Marlette's Jill Atkins wielded a strong pitching arm, striking out 8 Cass City batters. But lady Red Hawks Connie Robinson and Kelly Deering, who both cracked doubles, and Shelly Woodruff each managed 2 hits to pace a balanced offensive attack.

Woodruff was 2 for 2 and Robinson was 2 for 3, both with an RBI, while Deering was 2 for 3 with 4 RBIs. Sparkplug Tammy Hurd was the winning pitcher.

Marlette dashed Cass City's hopes of sweeping the double-header in the nightcap, scoring 3 runs in the sixth inning to lead by one, which was good enough for the victory.

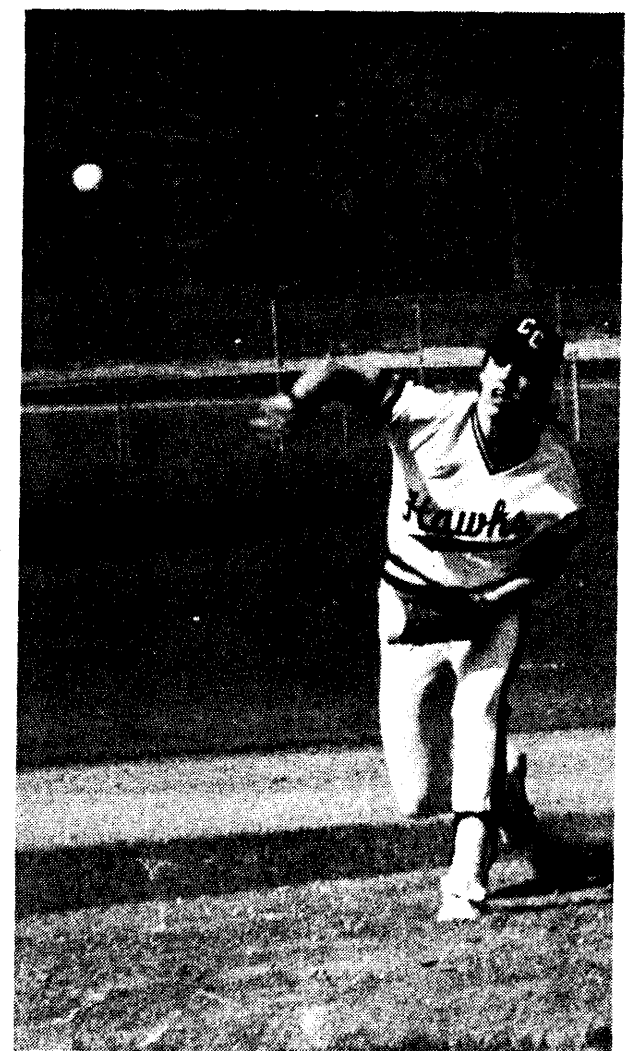

Fox, who noted the winning run was unearned, added that errors lost the game.

Terri Summers led lady Red Hawk batters with a 2 for 4 performance and one RBI. Hurd, who relieved Shannon McIntosh on the mound in the sixth inning, took the loss.

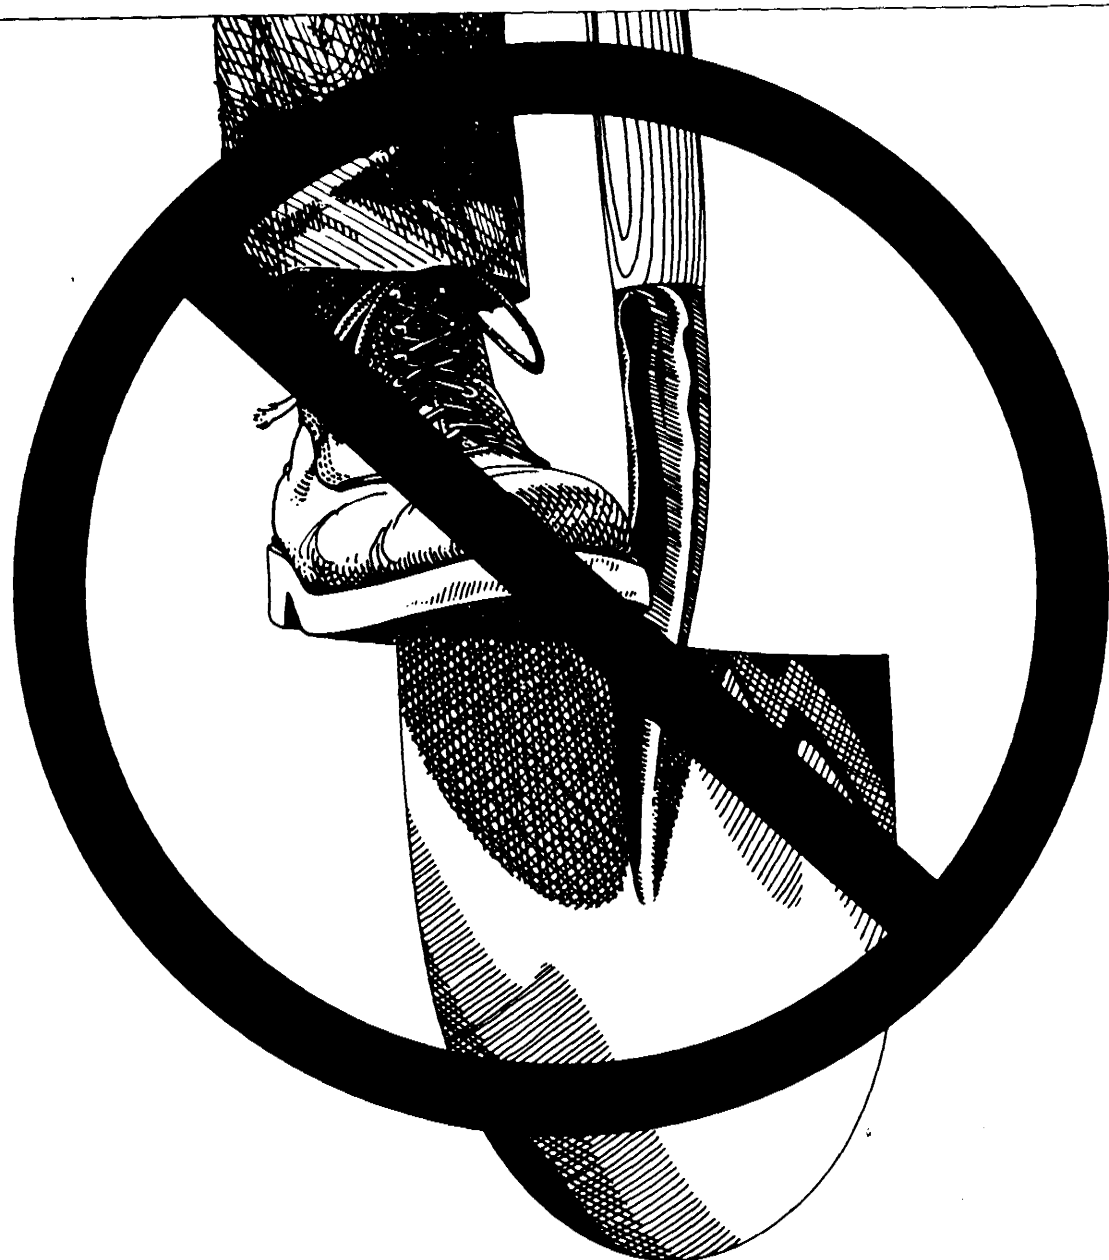

In action April 28, Hurd led her teammates with a 3-hitter in the opener of a double-header with Bad Axe. Cass City swept the 2-game series, 9-0 and 28-12.

Brenda Severance paced the potent offensive attack with a home run, while Bonnie Wilson contributed a 2 for 2 performance with 2 stolen bases.

A flurry of 19 hits by the lady Red Hawks in the nightcap ended Bad Axe's hopes for a comeback. McIntosh, the winning pitcher, as well as Woodruff and Sandy Frank each were 3 for 4 with a combined 7 RBIs. Teri Wilson went 3 for 3 with 4 RBIs, and Deering was 2 for 3 with 2 RBIs.

CASS CITY PITCHER Jeff Krol fires a strike in the opening game of a doubleheader with Marlette Thursday. The Red Hawks swept the twin bill, 16-2 and 8-5.

No digging zone!

Call before you dig into someone else's conversation.

If you're planning to do any kind of underground digging, give a quick call to "Miss Dig" 1-800-482-7171. This agency will notify GTE and other member utilities so that underground facilities can be located and marked. The call is toll-free and it can help ensure trouble-free service. It can save time, trouble and interrupted conversation for unsuspecting telephone users.

Maybe someone's just about to pop the question. Or get a great job offer. Then the line goes dead because you cut into their telephone cable.

There is a free service designed to help prevent these accidents. Just call us two working days before the start of construction. Michigan law requires would-be diggers to give utility companies two working days' notice before digging.

So if you're putting in fence posts, building a shopping center or expanding a freeway, call us. We'll come right out and mark the precise location of the underground telephone cable...so you won't cut in on someone's important conversation.

O-G boys post 2 wins in double dual meet; girls win and tie

THE BULLDOGS' Stu Stirrett heaves a discus 92' 8½" to finish first in the event during an April 28 meet against Peck. Stirrett placed second against Caseville, which also competed in the meet, in the discus.

It was a great day for Susie Salcido and the rest of the Owen-Gage High School girls' track team April 28 when they beat Caseville and tied with Peck.

Salcido broke a school discus record with a throw of 96' 2 1/2".

The lady Bulldogs beat Caseville, 56-13, and tied Peck, 47-47. The boys' team, meanwhile, defeated Caseville, 70-42, and walked away from Peck, 81-42.

Owen-Gage, which was scheduled to take part in its last dual meet of the season Tuesday against Carsonville-Port Sanilac and Port Hope at CPS, will head for Lakers High School May 12 for the Thumb D League meet.

Coach Arnie Besonen remarked that the recent victories are, in part, attributable to good attendance by his charges at the meets. Lately, Besonen has been having trouble getting enough athletes to compete in various events.

Aside from the discus, Salcido took the shot put with a mark of 28' 9".

Andrea Mandich, who couldn't make last week's double dual meet against Akron-Fairgrove and North Huron, won the 100-meter dash against both teams in addition to taking the long jump against Caseville. She came in second in the event against Peck.

Brandy Salcido won the 800-meter run in both meets and Dawn Dorsch took the 300-meter low hurdles with a time of 42.4 in the Caseville meet.

In the boys' meet, Rick Salcido took first in both the high and long jump against Peck, and was second in the events against Caseville.

Steve Root won the shot put in both meets, throwing it 38' 2". In the last field event, the discus, Stu Stirrett earned a first in the Peck meet with a throw of 92' 8 1/2", and a second in the Caseville meet. Stirrett was a first-place finisher in both meets in the 110-meter high hurdles.

Other winners in both meets were: Marc Reinhardt in the 100-meter dash, Bill Kuhl in the 200-meter dash, and Brad Susalla in the 400-meter dash. Chris Abbe took first in the 1600-meter run against Peck and finished second against Caseville.

The 800-meter relay team and the 400-meter relay team beat both Caseville and Peck.

Hawk girls still winless, but coach says team improving

The Cass City High School girls' track team was still looking for its first dual meet win following a full week of action last week, including a tie against Imlay City.

The lady Red Hawks, who were to host Vassar Tuesday, will travel to Lakers Thursday for their final dual meet of the season.

Despite a loss over the past week to Marlette, and a seventh-place finish in the Reese Invitational, coach Larry Robinson says his young team is showing steady improvement.

"Sprint time speed is pretty hard to bring down, but the distance girls are definitely bringing down their times," the coach remarked. Robinson noted that Melissa Osentowski has reduced her distance time by 45 seconds, while Candy Heaton, another distance runner, has improved her time by 30 seconds.

"The attitude has been good," Robinson said, adding, "I was pleased with some of the performances."

Sparkplug Sue Papp led her teammates in action at the Reese Invitational Friday. She finished second in both the long jump (15' 5") and the 300 hurdles (57.69), and placed third in the high hurdles (17.05).

Lisa Nicholas, meanwhile, recorded a sixth-place finish in the high hurdles (18.18).

Area power Akron-Fairgrove clinched the invitational with 9 first-place finishes, followed by Harbor Beach and Mayville. In all, 11 schools competed.

Thursday, Cass City fell to Marlette, 38-114.

Papp gave the lady Red Hawks first place finishes in the 120 high hurdles (18.29), and in the 330 low hurdles (52.77). She also finished second in the long jump with a 15' 2" performance, and in the high jump (4' 6").

Nicholas placed second in the 120 high hurdles with a time of 18.37, and finished third in the 330 low hurdles at 56.34. Team captain Jeannie Sweeney picked up second-place finishes in the 100-yard dash with a mark of 12.90, and in the 330 low hurdles at 55.59.

Other performances for Cass City were second-place finishes by Osentowski in the mile run (6:33.11), and in the 2-mile run (14:41.9); third place in the 880 run by Tracey Haas (2:57.97), and a third-place in the shot put by Tina Ballard (22' 1").

It was a moral victory for the lady Hawks April 28 when they tied with Imlay City, 76-76.

"We're about as close as 2 teams could be," Robinson said, adding that both teams had 14 girls competing.

"One point would have made the difference for either team," the coach continued. He remarked that the meet came down to the last event, the one mile relay, which is not one of the the lady Red Hawks' stronger events. Imlay City beat the Hawks by more than a minute.

Dennille MacAlpine, who was back in action after being injured earlier, took first in the 220-yard dash with a time of 30.83. She placed fourth in the 100-yard dash. "Her times weren't outstanding, but she did fine," Robinson said.

Papp was once again leading the pack with 3 first places—the long jump, the 100 hurdles and the 330 hurdles. She earned a second place in the high jump.

Sweeney won the 100-yard dash with a time of 12.85, and Ballard threw the discus 65' 1" to earn a first place finish in the meet.

O-G nine still look for 1st win

Owen-Gage High School baseball coach Jim Wissner and his inexperienced charges were hoping to clinch their first win of the season this week after disappointing losses to North Huron and Peck last week.

The Bulldogs, who took on N.B. Wesleyan Monday, will host Deckerville Thursday.

Despite an 0-8 record, Wissner says his team is "learning every game" and showing steady improvement.

"We're going to take our knocks," the coach acknowledged. "But next year and later on, they're going to win a lot of games."

Owen-Gage suffered 2 tough losses in a double-header Thursday with Peck, partly because of what Wissner referred to as poor officiating.

Peck, which swept the twin bill, 15-1 and 11-3, picked up all 15 of its runs on 2 hits in the first inning of the opener. Nine Peck batters were walked in the game, which ended after 3 1/2 innings on the 10-run "mercy" rule.

Sophomore Marc Reinhardt was the losing pitcher, while Al Ureco claimed the victory.

In the nightcap, Owen-Gage stayed close to Peck until the fifth inning, when the Pirates scored 6 runs to ice the victory.

For the Bulldogs, Jay Susalla cracked a double and Brian Abbe contributed 2 singles. Dennis Maxwell, another sophomore pitcher, took the loss.

In action April 29, Owen-Gage fell to North Huron, 3-13 and 9-17.

Stu Stirrett, the Bulldogs' lone senior, had 2 doubles to lead his team in the first game. Brad Susalla and Chris Abbe, meanwhile, each had a double.

Freshman Kevin Koch was the losing pitcher. Greg Szymanski claimed the win for North Huron.

In the nightcap, Jay Susalla cracked a home run for Owen-Gage, while Reinhardt had a single and a double, Chris Abbe picked up 3 singles and Graham Besonen added a double.

Stirrett took the loss; Al Craig was the winning pitcher.

Correction

A Cass City girls' track story last week incorrectly quoted coach Larry Robinson as saying, "We just don't have a lot of talent." The quote should have read, "We just don't have a lot of natural talent."

Thinclads top Spartans

Hawks bow to Marlette

Despite a pounding by Marlette, the Cass City High School boys' track squad, 4-2, continued to show it's a force to be reckoned with, during action over the past week.

The Red Hawks, who were set to host Vassar Tuesday and will travel to Lakers Thursday for the final dual meet of the season, finished fourth among 12 teams in the Reese Invitational held Friday.

Cass City's mile relay team was victorious at the meet, with Ken Pasanski filling in for Jeff Lefler. The other relay members are Mike Kelley, Jeremy Brown and Steve Ross.

In other team events, Cass City placed second in the 800-meter relay and third in the 400-meter relay.

Individually, Al Rosenstangle finished third in the discus. Ross placed fourth in the 110-meter high hurdles and fifth in the 300-meter low hurdles, while Kelley and Brown finished fourth and fifth, respectively, in the 400-meter dash, and Dan Schmaltz and Lefler placed fourth and sixth in the long jump.

The invitational's overall winner was Sandusky, followed by Reese and Valley Lutheran.

"I'm pretty pleased with the way things are turning out," coach Don Markel remarked, adding that his charges are turning in fairly consistent performances.

Cass City had a rough day Thursday against Marlette, losing 62 1/2-100 1/2.

The Red Hawks took 6 of 11 events, with 4 second-place finishes. Top performances were turned in by Ross, who won the 120 high hurdles (15.79) and the 330 low hurdles (41.0); Kelley, who took the 440 run (54.35); Lefler, who won the 220 (24.6), and Schmaltz, who clinched the long jump with a mark of 19' 5 3/4".

Cass City also won the 880-relay with a time of 1:35.95.

Second-place finishes were posted by Dennis Dadacki in the 100-yard dash (11.56), Brett Toner in the mile run (5:04.82) and the 2-mile run (11:08.83). Brown in the 440 (54.40) and Jeff Lince in the shot put (43' 3 1/2").

The thinclads swept past Imlay City, 108-55, April 28, taking first in 13 of 17 events.

Markel called the meet "practice" and moved some of his charges around to see how they would do in other events.

The only 4 events Imlay City took were the high jump, 2-mile relay, one mile run and the 220-yard dash.

Ross took first in both hurdle events. The strong mile relay team beat Imlay City by more than 50 seconds.

Lefler took first in pole vaulting, clearing 9' 6".

In other field events, Rosenstangle took the discus, Lince was first in the shot put, and Schmaltz won the long jump event with a leap of 19 feet.

In the running events, Lefler took first in the 100 yard dash, Kelley was first in the 440 at 55.83. Brown took the 880 with a time of 2:24.28 and Toner was the 2-mile run winner with a time of 11:30.

Cass City's 880 and 440 relay teams also placed first.

$5,000 offered in free state fish contest

Michigan's free Sesqui-centennial Fishing Gold Rush Contest will be held May 15 through Sept. 13, in Lake Huron, according to the East Michigan Tourist Association.

The 3-month fishing contest is open to all anglers and will offer prizes for king and coho salmon, lake trout, brown trout and steelhead. The contest will feature hundreds of merchandise prizes and a grand prize of $5,000 in gold to the overall winner.

Official weigh-in centers will be established at key points in shoreline resort cities. Entry form packets will contain complete descriptions of the prizes, entry form and weigh-in registration centers.

The contest has been approved for a special state

The grant allows the free contest to be open to all licensed fishermen and women who register plus their children under age 17 at no charge, unique for a major fishing contest. Participants will have an opportunity for the $5,000 in gold in addition to prizes such as rods, reels, lures, downriggers and other sports equipment. The prizes will be awarded following completion of the contest Sept. 13. An official list of prize winners will be made available.

Complete Gold Rush Contest information and entry forms are available by calling the Travel Bureau toll free, 1-800-5432 YES; or by writing the Michigan Travel Bureau, P.O. ## Sheriff reports few accidents

Few vehicle mishaps involving the Cass City area were reported by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department over the past week.

The Owen-Gage High School girls' softball squad will try to get back into the thick of the North Central Thumb D League race Thursday against Deckerville, following its first 2 losses of the season last week.

The lady Bulldogs, who were to host N.B. Wesleyan Monday, fell 3-12 and 4-8 to the league-leading Peck Pirates in a twin bill Thursday. The losses dropped Owen-Gage to 6-2 in the league and overall.

"I thought we played well against Peck; we just had a bad inning—too many errors—in each game," coach Judy Porter remarked.

Owen-Gage found itself behind early in the first game when Peck rallied with 5 runs in the second inning for a 6-1 lead. The Pirates made it 8-1 in the third before the lady Bulldogs scored again.

Losing pitcher Angie Bolzman contributed a 2 for 3 performance in the batter's box, while teammate Susie Salcido was 3 for 3 with one single and 2 doubles.

Kim McCanham, who struck out 7 Owen-Gage batters, was the winning pitcher.

In the nightcap, the lady Bulldogs stayed within one run of the Pirates up until the fourth inning, when Peck picked up 4 runs for a 7-2 lead. Errors again plagued Owen-Gage, which couldn't put together a strong rally.

Barb Hellebuyck was the losing pitcher, while Diane Cowley took the win.

Top hitters for Owen-Gage were Salcido, who had a single and an RBI, and Andrea Mandich and Tonya Haldane, who each contributed a single.

Owen-Gage had better luck in a rescheduled double-header against North Huron April 29, sweeping the series, 13-9 and 14-9.

The lady Bulldogs used a balanced scoring attack, with Angie Bolzman cracking a single and triple for 2 RBIs, and Salcido adding 2 singles and 2 RBIs. Haldane contributed a triple in the winning effort.

Salcido picked up the win, while Shelli Tibbitts took the loss.

Owen-Gage wasted no time in the nightcap, getting 6 runs in the first inning. North Huron came back in the second with 6 runs of their own for a 7-6 lead, but the lady Bulldogs rallied in the fourth with 5 runs after tying the game, 8-8, in the third.

Salcido again paced Owen-Gage bats with a home run and 3 RBIs, while Bolzman added a double and one RBI.

Hellebuyck was the winning pitcher.

Motel construction slated

It was an idea in the back of Clare Comment's mind when he built the Charmont, and now it's becoming reality.

Last week Comment started building a 12-unit motel, calling it (what else?) the Charmont Motel.

The facility, located just west of the restaurant, should be ready for business sometime in July.

Comment, who estimated the cost of the 60 by 90 foot structure at more than $200,000, remarked that he doesn't know if the motel will be a good investment or not.

"I'm gambling a little," he said. "I would never build it if I had just the motel to run. I hope it goes over. I kind of think it will."

The word motel will be added to the Charmont sign, with the motel office being located in the restaurant.

"It's going to be nice," Comment continued, describing his motel. "There aren't going to be any doors (on the outside). You have to go down the hall to get into your rooms. There will be 6 on each side," he added.

In each room there will be a 4' by 6' window. The view one has will depend on the location of the room.

Constructing the doors on the inside was one of the toughest decisions to make in terms of planning the motel, according to the area businessman. "Some people don't mind walking down the hall to get to their rooms, and others would like to drive up to their doors and get out."

Other reasons cited by Comment for putting the doors inside are that the motel will be easier to clean, and because of Michigan's cold winters.

Also reported was a mishap on Akron Road east of Colwood Road in Elmwood Township, April 28.

The report, which didn't list the driver's name, indicated the vehicle involved was traveling west on Akron Road when it left the road, hit a mailbox and then hit a culvert.

Minor damage to the vehicle was reported.

40 top scholars honored

Name all conference academic team

The second annual Thumb B Association academic all-conference team was announced this week by league authorities. The squad is composed of the 5 top students at each of the league's 18 schools as submitted by school principals. The students are then ranked by their grade point average and ACT test results. The top 8 students are on the first team and the second 8 are on the second team. The remainder of the squad earns honorable mention.

Although Cass City High School failed to earn a place on the varsity, 4 of the 5 students representing the high school were on the second team and the fifth, Carolyn Tuckey, finished high on the list of honorable mentions.

The competition was severe. There were 3 students on the varsity with perfect grade point averages, but there were also 13 on the second team with perfect scholastic averages. It took a combination of near top grades and a high mark on the ACT test to earn a spot among the top 8.

While Cass City dominated the second team selections, the Lakers, Bad Axe and Caro shared top honors on the varsity with 2 selections each. Rounding out the varsity team was a student from Marlette.

The scoring system multiplies by 250 the grade point average and then multiplies the ACT composite score by 28.571 and, according to the sponsors, if the result is over 2,000, the score was figured wrong. Wilson Wu of Bad Axe was tops in the league with a score of 1914.272.

As might be expected, the group included outstanding athletes, student council and class officers and members of nearly all school organizations.

include membership in band and orchestra, where she served as a member of the pep band, concert band and marching band. She attended the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp and the Rotary Youth Leadership Camp. She was a member of the Ski Club and the Tri-county Honors Band. In addition, she tutored, assisted the United Way food distribution and earned the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award. She plans to study engineering in college.

MARK KAPPEN-Sports played a large role in his high school career. He was wrestling captain for 3 years and played football. He served as president of St. Agatha's Catholic Church, Gagetown, youth group and was its representative on the parish council. He plans to study engineering at the University of Michigan.

JAMES N. KRITZMAN-While working at a part-time job, he still found time to compete in track, practice karate and work on science projects. His long-range plan is to become a physician and he feels that his studies in Cass City will provide a solid background for his career.

ERIC TRAUBE-He won an award in the Michigan mathematics prize competition that recognizes outstanding students in mathematics in high schools. He was a member of a 6-man team that finished second in science in the academic games competition. He was a member of the Cross-country Skiing Club, Foreign Language Club, Drama Club and Journalism Club. In addition, he tutored in algebra. Plans to attend Vanderbilt University or University of Michigan.

CAROLYN TUCKEY-Held a part-time job throughout her senior year. Was a member of the cross-country and track teams for 2 years. Participated in band and academic games. Was a member of the Foreign Language Club. Plans to attend Michigan State University to study pre-law.

Sanilac agricultural agent now on duty

Martin L. Nagelkirk, of Marcellus, N.Y., began his duties Tuesday as the Cooperative Extension Service agricultural agent in Sanilac County.

He was graduated from Michigan State University in 1977 with a bachelor's degree in crop and soil sciences and received his master's degree in agronomy from Cornell University in 1983.

Prior to his Sanilac County appointment, he was a Cooperative Extension Service agent in Onondaga County (New York) and was the New York State Fair forage and grain department superintendent.

Nagelkirk's primary responsibility will be to conduct Extension educational programs in agronomy, including the marketing and management of field crops.

He will rely on the county Extension advisory system to assess and help improve educational programs for the benefit of farmers and agribusinesses and to determine priorities in educational efforts.

Nagelkirk will work out of the county MSU Cooperative Extension office at 37 Austin Street in Sandusky.

Michigan leads nation in child support collections

Michigan collected $424.6 million in child support payments in 1985-86, topping all other states, Social Services Director C. Patrick Babcock announced.

Data collected by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services showed Michigan collected more money per capita than any other state. The DSS Office of Child Support located 80,217 absent parents and prosecuting attorneys established or modified 57,845 child support orders, officials said.

The $424.6 million was 24.5 percent higher than the prior year and included $125.4 million in welfare cases and $299.2 million in general child support cases.

In recent years, Michigan has been second to Pennsylvania in the total amount of money collected and has been the leading state in the process of locating absent parents.

It instituted a statewide child support payment enforcement program in 1975.

The state's child support program is a cooperative effort among circuit courts, county prosecuting attorneys and the Department of Social Services.

State's new businesses increase

Governor James Blanchard recently announced new business incorporations in the state during 1986 surpassed the previous year high by more than 5 percent, reaching 24,778.

He said 1986 marked the fourth consecutive year that new business starts in Michigan have set a record noting the new firms will become the key sources of new job creation in the future.

Blanchard said a breakdown by county or job sector is not yet available, but initial indications show that the growth is spread throughout the state, with the majority of the business starts occurring in the tri-county region of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb.

A report from the Department of Commerce indicated that 18,501 new businesses were started in the state in 1982, 20,003 in 1983, 21,099 in 1984 and 23,583 in 1985.

Superintendents say state school financing fails

Michigan's funding system for schools fails on several fronts in trying to support basic education services, various school superintendents told a special finance reform group recently.

Chiefs in both urban and rural areas and with varying degrees of wealth stressed that the quality of education should not be so closely tied to a school's property value, which is largely blamed for the gap between the lowest and highest spending districts of $1,785 and $5,915 per pupil.

The presentations to the State Board of Education's School Finance Commission came in the first 2 sessions involving local superintendents.

Funding for basic educational services should not be subject to periodic property tax votes, Kent

Reynolds, superintendent of the Crawford AuSable district in Grayling, said.

He said a foundation plan guaranteeing minimal level of spending must be part of a new school finance system. He suggested the current school aid formula which is based on property wealth should include a factor for household income.

The Grayling district has so much property value per student that it does not quality for basic membership aid from the state, but he said its median household income and percent of households in poverty suffers in relation to some other districts which do receive state aid because of poorer property values.

Redford-Union superintendent Ken Ericksen said his district is unable to provide as rich a program as neighboring districts because of very low property values.

Voters have never turned down a millage request, but the district is already at the legal limit, he said.

Richard Smith, assistant Detroit superintendent, said the financial condition of the state's largest district has improved over the last 3 years, but said projected future state aid allotments will be insufficient "to meet the cost of doing business in our schools."

And, he said school leaders cannot continue to ask voters for higher taxes, when the overall school-local government rate is the state's highest at over 80 mills.

Smith said not only must state aid detach itself from property value to guarantee basic education, the formula must take into account what he said are the higher costs of providing education and maintaining schools in urban areas.

Two other urban administrators—Flint superintendent Joseph Pollack and Pontiac deputy superintendent Byron Love—also complained of austere school programs despite high tax levels, a situation that will be worsened in both districts if General Motors wins multi-million dollar property assessment appeals.

But Pollack was less critical than many of the property tax, saying it provides a stable and predictable income source, but suggested statewide assessment of large commercial and industrial property would improve the system for both schools and taxpayers.

Township on a misdemeanor warrant for non-support out of Oakland County.

According to a report on the incident, a deputy observed a van parked in an open field across from a residence near Rossman Road east of Plain Road. Inside the vehicle was Jerome W. Rugowski, who stated that he owned the property and was preparing to build a house.

Following a radio check, Rugowski was arrested on the warrant.

Also in Wells Township, deputies investigated a suspicious car/person report from the Tuscola County Road Commission.

The report stated that a car was observed near the intersection of Wells and Cat Lake roads. Deputies found a white female, Kathy L. Teddy, apparently sleeping inside the vehicle.

Teddy, 28, Cincinnati, Ohio, stated that she had taken a ride after a family disagreement, and that she wanted to leave the scene.

The deputy, who indicated the woman was intoxicated, took her keys, gave her his name and department phone number, and told her she could get the keys back after she "sobered up."

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

From the American Automobile Association magazine, AAA World, May/June 1987, page 12:

"...many automotive (sic) experts believe the time has come to retire the tune-up to the Smithsonian museums, alongside the Model T."

"We need to forget about that antiquated word, tune-up," says AAA's director of engineering, John Fobian.

"There is really no such thing (tune-up) for today's cars," says Jack Herr, director of AAA of Texas auto repair program.

Now turn to page 20, same issue.

"Facilities admitted to the AAA repair program must be able to perform engine tune-ups..."

The Wall Street Journal ran a page ad of its advertising salesmen. There were 67 men and 21 women in this notable group of achievers, whose efforts have fueled the Journal in its march to become one of the most successful papers in the world.

Of the 67 pictures, just 3 had a beard. Only one had a mod haircut with his locks hanging over his collar.

Cutting your hair short won't make you successful, but it is a mark of men who convince or persuade other people to buy their product.

Tales keep coming in of families who plunk down all their savings with mortgage companies hawking mortgages at 12%, 14% and higher rates. The high returns lure the unwary into their trap. In many cases, the poor investors don't even get a mortgage.

Big interest is paid for a time, while the scam is at its height. But the money comes from the latest batch of suckers. It's known as the Ponzi method, named after the man who made the scheme so successful years ago.

When you see an ad for securities or mutual funds or whatever that offers you far more income than CD's or government bonds or good tax-exempt bonds (rated A or better)...look out. When the honeyed voice on the phone tells you of a big deal in gold or old master's oil paintings or real estate or oil drilling, or tax shelters...beware. Check it out with your bank, or a broker you've known a long time. Your lawyer could help you, and though it might cost a bit, it would be cheaper than plunging into some phony deal and losing thousands.

I recall an impressionable friend back in my home town in Lapeer. Somebody had a hot tip for him in the stock market—Warner Aircraft, I think it was—selling for $1.50 a share. So ol' Steve plunked down $500—half his net worth at that point—and bought Warner Aircraft. It didn't turn out so well.

"Why didn't you go ask Charlie Laesch at the bank what he thought about it?" I asked Steve.

"Aw, he would have told me not to buy it."

There is a magazine called Campus Voice, distributed nationwide, and aimed obviously for the student crowd. The one I saw was given away by courtesy of the Florida Atlantic University Alumni Association.

Leading article was by one of the Campus Voice staff, Scott Weinberger, about John Stockwell, the ex-CIA agent who defected from the CIA and now is spilling his guts about his former employer.

"The CIA isn't saving you from Communism," says Stockwell. "It's threatening democracy."

Move over, Stockwell. Amy Carter has just joined you.

Another feature article was about 3 enterprising University of Texas students earning $300 a week by taking phone orders and delivering condoms and vaginal sponges late evenings to fellow students in the heavy-breathing stage. Thirty-minute delivery was guaranteed.

Such is the editorial fare sponsored by alumni, blessed by the colleges, and lapped up by the students.

"King Mud" once ruled the roads

by Edward J. Boucher

Even as a territory before 1837, Michigan had a governor—never a king.

Yet, references to a ruling monarch of sorts appear in writings of early state officials, notably Horatio S. Earle, the first state highway commissioner, who declared war on the "mighty monarch mud, who rules the road to the exclusion of everyone."

Why such a fuss over something so simple as mud?

To a large degree, the history of early roadbuilding in Michigan is a history of a fight against mud. When roads turn to mud, nothing moves, not even horses or pedestrians, much less motor vehicles.

With the exception of the western Upper Peninsula and a few other hilly areas, the first settlers found Michigan terrain flat to gently rolling—good news for roadbuilders, travelers and transportation.

The bad news was that Michigan, now nicknamed the "Water Wonderland," had 36,000 miles of streams and rivers to be bridged or forged, 11,000 lakes to be avoided and an estimated 11 million acres of wetlands to be circumvented. Another impediment was the heavy clay loam soil that turns to mud every spring, and every time it rains.

Testifying to the necessity of roads for survival in a new land, Nineteenth Century Michigan law required all male inhabitants over 21 to perform work, or pay for work, on roads in their respective areas. The only exceptions stated in the law were "disabled veterans, paupers, idiots and lunatics."

Despite what was then an all-out effort to construct and maintain wagon roads, every spring—and when it rained—"King Mud" took over the roads, stopping all travel and transportation except by rail or water.

Early settlers fought back with brush, sticks, stones, hay and logs laid down on roads. The first real—although short lived—victory over mud came in 1837 when the Michigan

Legislature granted a charter to a private road company to construct a plank toll road between Ann Arbor, Plymouth and Detroit. In 1848, the Legislature passed a general plank road law, authorizing any company to build and operate plank toll roads.

Lumber then was plentiful in Michigan.

The so-called plank road craze was on, with a total of 202 companies receiving charters for operation. Eventually, 1,179 miles of plank road were constructed and operated in Michigan.

For the first time in state history, horse-drawn and pedestrian traffic was free to travel during spring thaws.

Yet, water—and mud—began to demolish planks almost as soon as they were laid. Aided by Michigan's humidity, mud splashed up from the roadbed, preventing planks from drying.

Under such conditions, planks had to be replaced every 3 years. The cost of maintaining plank roads put many private road companies into bankruptcy. By 1900, virtually all plank roads had disappeared.

King Mud was back.

By then, however, roadbuilders were experimenting with brick, asphalt, stone, wooden blocks and combinations of clay, gravel and sand. Bricks were introduced in the 1870s and asphalt in the 1880s. Builders gave more attention to the road base and to draining water from roads before it could be churned to mud.

Clay for bricks was plentiful in Michigan and throughout the Midwest. Bricks were easy to replace and stood up well under traffic. It was easy to repair a brick road surface.

Brick surfaces, however, were rough and slippery when wet or covered with snow or frost. They played havoc with steel-rimmed wagon wheels and early motor trucks and cars with hard rubber tires. As vehicle speeds increased, more and more brick-surfaced roads disappeared, usually under some form of asphalt covering. Some brick surfaces still survive in many cities and towns. Bricks, however, normally were used only in cities and towns, not on long stretches of roadway between cities.

Today, all of Michigan's 9,500-mile system of highways and freeways is paved with either concrete or asphalt as are nearly all of the 18,000 miles of city streets.

Only 39,000 miles of the 89,000-mile system of county roads are paved, leaving a 50,000-mile playground for King Mud. These roads are usually surfaced with mixtures of clay, gravel, sand or stone with improved drainage, making travel possible most of the year—give or take a little mud or dust.

For most Michigan motorists and transporters, the battle with King Mud has been won.

The war, however, still goes on. Every spring, mud briefly rises from beneath pavements to create potholes to pester motorists. On the unpaved roads, mud sometimes makes a complete comeback, although usually only for brief periods.

There, motorists still get stuck and spin their wheels—and curse mud—just as their forebears did years ago.

(Edward J. Boucher is a free-lance writer formerly associated with the Michigan Department of Transportation and Secretary of State.)

WHEN "KING MUD" RULED MICHIGAN ROADS—The frustration of automobile driving in the early decades of the century is depicted in the contortions of this unlucky motorist trying to dislodge his car from a mud-clogged road. A massive building program in the 1920s brought asphalt and concrete highways to Michigan and pulled it out of the mud.

Sex education gets mixed reviews in Cass City area

tion remain out of the public schools.

"I think sex education belongs in the home, and biblically, it's the role of the parents. But obviously, parents have abdicated that role and left a vacuum," Wood commented.

He pointed out that church leaders are becoming more active regarding the topic and are currently looking at some films and similar material which could be used at the church.

Like drugs, he remarked, kids can be taught to say "no."

The Rev. Eldred L. Kelley, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church, echoed Wood's comments.

"The AIDS scare is certainly causing us to do some scrambling," he observed, adding that while the ideal is for youths to learn about sex in the home, the next best thing would be a program designed for use in the church.

"I think there's no such thing for our kids as 'safe sex,'" Kelley remarked about contraceptive ads recently introduced into the media.

Although the Rev. Julius A. Spleet of St. Pancratius Catholic Church agreed with his fellow clergymen, he indicated that he would be in favor of sex education in the schools providing that values as well as facts were presented.

Spleet added, "My thoughts are that I'm for it, but I guess a public school can't" present the class in that manner.

PARENTS

Of the 2 parents interviewed, one is in favor of sex education in school, the other is not.

Bernard Dadacki, 3050 Phillips Rd., remarked, "I think it should be handled outside the school. I believe the kids can get enough education there (at home)."

Dadacki has 2 kids, one in the intermediate school and one in the high school.

JoAnn Osentowski, 6673 Severance Rd., meanwhile, indicated she believes kids should have the opportunity to learn as much as they can on the subject. "We talk about it at home," she said of her older children, "but I don't think it would hurt for them to have more education."

With kids in first, sixth, ninth and 10th grades, she noted that such classes should begin in the sixth grade. "If you wait until high school, it's too late," she added.

Although most of the persons interviewed addressed sex education in terms of teaching kids, one suggested a different approach.

Said Wood, "I think we ought to train parents to teach sex education."

Ordinance revised

ing old machinery on their land for use as parts, Wood noted.

Two major changes to the ordinance were approved during the meeting, according to Wood. First, "farming equipment" was removed from a section of the ordinance dealing with keeping various equipment enclosed. Second, Wood said, a section on keeping vacant dwellings locked, boarded up or otherwise protected against vandals was omitted from the ordinance.

Wood, who stated that the ordinance will now be examined by county planning officials, added she's uncertain on when final action will be taken by the township board.
