Novesta Twp. Board wants local ambulance service

Emergency Medical Services of Saginaw has approached Cass City Ambulance Service regarding possible purchase of the local company, the Novesta Township Board learned Monday night.

Township Clerk Nursie L. Kloc said that Linda Boerner, the township's representative on the Cass City Ambulance Board, presented a report on the matter during the board's monthly meeting.

Although no formal proposal has been made, Kloc remarked, Saginaw ambulance officials have indicated that they would like to purchase and expand the Cass City service. Those plans, she said, include making more advanced lifesaving techniques available to the area.

The township board, during its annual meeting, indicated that it's against a buyout of the local ambulance service. Board members cited a possible loss of local control if an outside firm became the area's provider of ambulance service.

In other business Monday, the board approved paying $18,700 for work on a one-mile section of Kingston Road, and voted to allow the Old Settlers Reunion Committee to proceed with its fund-raising plans.

Kloc stated that the road work calls for recapping Kingston Road from Decker Road to Shabbona Road, a section which "breaks up badly" in the spring.

In a related matter, the board approved paying $25,000 of the township's $28,000 bill for road work completed to date.

Turning to the Old Settlers Reunion Committee, Kloc said that the committee has been the driest since 1974, added that the

For volunteer fire departments

Proposed legislation poses problems

by Tom Montgomery
News Editor

Recruiting volunteer firemen locally will be tougher in the near future if a bill in the state legislature receives approval. That's the conclusion of a number of area fire fighting officials, some of whom support the legislation.

House bill #4704, approved by the House of Representatives June 18, seeks to mandate a minimum 132 hours of training for volunteer and part-time fire fighters across the state. Firemen would have up to 2 years to fulfill the requirement, depending on availability of the training.

While there is no required minimum level of training under current law, many area fire departments already require or request that members have at least half of the proposed requirement.

"I think it's (the bill) going to hurt the volunteer fire department," Elkland Township Fire Department Chief Richard Root remarked last week.

"Granted, you can never have enough training—I'm all for that—but I think you've got to let them get that training at their own convenience and not force (them) into taking it in a certain length of time."

Root said that volunteers with the Elkland department already receive enough training for the department to be certified by the state.

"I would say most of the firemen get 36 to 40 hours" each year, including seminars and monthly departmental training sessions, he added.

The legislation under consideration, which is on hold until the Legislature goes back into session in mid-September, originally included a portion requiring firemen to receive 36 hours of in-service training per year in addition to the 132 hours. That portion, however, was dropped, Root pointed out.

"GRANDFATHERED" IN

The Elkland department's 23 volunteers, most of whom already have completed "Phase 1" training (66 hours, or half of the proposed requirement), are "grandfathered" into the legislation. They aren't affected by the legislation, Root said, but potential members would be.

Root, a fireman for 35 years, said maintaining adequate volunteer numbers hasn't been a problem in recent years, but that could change.

"We're holding our own on members but we don't have many auxiliary members," Root commented, adding he currently has 2 auxiliary members, with 2 more expected to join soon.

Root's comments were echoed by other area fire chiefs, who also reported that a majority of their volunteers receive the basic 66 hours of training plus monthly training sessions and meetings.

Kingston Fire Department Chief Bob Miller agreed recruiting may be hurt by the bill, but indicated he's not against the legislation.

"If the state's going to require the advanced training, there's not much you can do. I don't see any problem with it," Miller, a fireman since 1972, remarked.

"In our department, we require the basic 66—that's basic. I don't see how a guy could be a fireman without it," he continued, adding, "Most guys are happy to get the training."

Miller said that the department's 25 volunteers also receive monthly in-service training and attend seminars.

He acknowledged that the legislation may scare off some potential volunteers, particularly older persons, because of the time involved. "That training comes out of your personal time," he said.

John Bukoski, a fireman for some 18 years and chief of the Uby Fire Department, indicated that existing department requirements insure that his volunteers are well trained.

"Most everybody we have in our department is pretty hungry for knowledge. We're making it tough enough for a guy to get on," he commented.

Each of the Uby department's 20 volunteers has received the basic 66 hours of training. The department also requires each of its members to go through an individual certification process, which is overseen by a 3-man committee, Bukoski explained.

He said that while the legislation probably won't affect the department at first because replacement of personnel isn't expected for several years, recruiting problems may be experienced "4 or 5 years down the road."

"The smaller the department, the more it's going to affect them," he added. Gagetown Fire Department Chief Charles Wright agreed.

"You won't get any firemen" if the bill passes, he predicted. "You only have so much time. I think it would scare a lot of good men who would be good firemen."

"I can see (departmental) training, but I think they're going overboard," Wright said. "All the firemen have full-time jobs."

Wright, who's been a fireman for the past 27 years, added that one of his department's 18 volunteers has completed the basic 66 hours of training. "We have our own practices" in terms of training and drills, which totals at least 36 hours per year, he noted.

SUPPORT

According to Bad Axe resident Bill Reimann, a fireman for 20 years, an advanced fireman training instructor and Michigan's director for the National Volunteer Fire Council, there is widespread support for the legislation.

"I think most of the departments are supporting it," he said, adding that the council is pushing for states to incorporate minimum training requirements.

Reimann, a member of the Michigan State Fire Fighters Training Council and a former battalion chief for the Bad Axe Fire Department, indicated a law suit filed in southwestern Michigan against a fire department illustrates the need for mandated training. The suit alleges that the department's personnel in question were poorly trained, he explained.

"It (the training) is time consuming," Reimann acknowledged, adding that recruiting by fire departments is likely to be hindered at first if the bill passes. "But with the equipment we're dealing with and the materials...I can not picture a local government not insisting on a minimum of 132 hours training," he remarked.

Reimann, who said he believes mandatory training would be an advantage in the long run, added, "I've never been to a volunteer or part-time fire."

Weekend rain buys time for drought-ridden crops

Showers over the weekend will buy a few days of relief for farmers in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties, but the area's drought-stricken crops aren't out of the woods yet, agricultural officials reported Monday.

Farmers throughout the Thumb, meanwhile, are being urged to wait another 2 weeks or so before harvesting corn for silage due to high levels of moisture in the crop.

Rain totals ranging from less than 1/2 inch to 1 1/2 inches in the tri-county area were recorded by Sunday morning, but area precipitation totals remain way below average.

In Tuscola County, most areas received 1/2 inch or less, according to Tuscola County Agricultural Agent Dennis Stein, who said that one inch or more fell in the Frankenmuth area.

"You really need 1 1/2 inches to 2 inches to do the plants any good—to make any real difference," Stein remarked. Rain totals of 1/2 inch or less, he added, "will make it easier, but that will only last a day or 2. All it really does is give them (farmers) a little time."

Stein and agricultural agents in Huron and Sanilac counties agree that precipitation this summer has been extremely "spotty," with various rainfall amounts being recorded at individual farms.

DAILY LOSSES

Crops in some areas are holding their own, while others are "burning up" quickly, Stein added. Most crops, he said, particularly corn and beans, are sustaining yield losses on a daily basis.

Stein said that most of the corn in Tuscola County is at or through pollination, with more than half of the fields half pollinated. He said that even if substantial rain arrives, it's not going to significantly improve yields in many fields because the amount of grain the crop is going to produce is determined during pollination.

"We're in a drought situation and most of the crops are in serious condition," he continued. Stein added that precipitation totals have been below average since October, with some portions of the county receiving less than half of the average for July.

"We need about 1/2 inch per week (and) we just haven't gotten that," he said.

Huron County Agricultural Agent Jim LeCureux agreed with Stein, but said the weekend rains did "pretty well cover" Huron County with 3/4 of an inch to 1 1/2 inches, which "gives us a little reprieve."

LeCureux, who said this season has been the driest since 1974, added that the recent showers will buy some time, but no more than a week.

"We've been pretty dry up here and one to 1 1/2 inches can be sucked up pretty quick," he remarked, adding, "At this point in time, we need one inch per week."

TOO LATE FOR SOME

"Some of the crops (beans included) are pretty well set," LeCureux said. The rain "may help fill out the corn kernels, but that's about it. For some crops, it's too late."

Like Huron County, most of Sanilac County received some rain Saturday night, with a range of 3/10 of an inch to nearly an inch being recorded, Agricultural Agent Martin Nagelkirk said.

Nagelkirk indicated that Sanilac County hasn't been hit as hard by the drought. "There's probably 1/3 of our county that's really in duress in terms of moisture," he predicted.

Saturday's rain was very nice on top of other rains received by some areas," he reported, "(but) those that haven't had rain aren't out of the woods."

He added, "Very few fields in Sanilac County are at the point where you could say the crop isn't going to do anything."

DELAY URGED

Nagelkirk, LeCureux and Stein agree with the recommendations of a Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service specialist, who recommended after a recent visit to Thumb corn fields that area farmers not begin harvesting corn for silage yet.

"Farmers shouldn't do anything with those fields for at least another 2 or 3 weeks," Oran Hesterman, MSU Cooperative Extension forage specialist, said in his report Friday.

"The moisture in the corn plant, regardless of how bad the plant may appear now, is simply too high for it to make good silage," he explained. "Plant moisture must be 70 percent or less before corn is ensiled. Any silage made now would probably have a very low nutrient value and cattle would likely reject it," Hesterman added.

"When drought conditions prevent normal plant growth, the plant stalk may contain abnormally high amounts of nitrate, which, if fed in excessive amounts, can cause animals to go off-feed or even die," He continued.

Driest July, not the hottest

July 1987 probably won't be remembered as the hottest July in recent years, but it will be remembered as one of the driest by both Cass City area and other Thumb community residents.

July's rainfall in Cass City, recorded by the Wastewater Treatment Plant, totaled only 1.15 inches, the driest in at least 6 years. Despite 15 90-plus-degree days in July, the average temperature for the month was 86, compared to a sizzling average of 96 degrees in July 1983.

Unfortunately, the lack of rainfall during a crucial crop growing period is wreaking havoc on area farmers, some of whom can't afford 2 consecutive poor seasons.

And, ironically, the current drought is spawning the same type of helplessness felt by farmers last fall as they watched heavy rains slowly damage or destroy their harvests.

Tuscola County Agricultural Agent Dennis Stein, who, like agents in Huron and Sanilac counties, says this summer has been the driest in years, acknowledged, "It's getting tougher to be optimistic."

Although July 1987 recorded the least amount of rain for the period compared to the previous 6 years, a similar dry July was recorded in 1984, when the rainfall total was 1.52 inches.

"We're all way below what would be considered average" in terms of precipitation, Stein remarked Monday.

He added that "spotty" showers have, for the most part, only served to tease farmers. "That's the tough part; we've got to have enough rain to go around."

July	Rain total
1987	1.15"
1986	2.22"
1985	1.93"

The bride's hairpiece was of seed pearls, sequins, crystals and bridal sprigs encircling her face with a waltz length veil of silk English illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of red and white roses to complete her ensemble.

The groom wore a white pinstriped tux with tails and a red cummerbund and bow tie.

A recent column about the hot weather struck a chord for Helen Lorentzen of Cass City. The hottest time she can remember was in July 1936.

The temperature reached 107 degrees then, she knows, because her husband, Don, worked for Schwaderer Construction and went to work at 4 a.m. and quit at 9 a.m.

She remembers so distinctly because it was then that her daughter was born.

If you should want to rent a bus Saturday, Sept. 19, forget it, says Ed LaBelle. That's the day that the pope will be at the Silverdome.

LaBelle has been trying to rent a bus to take a group from the area to Pontiac and he says that there isn't one to be had as far as he knows in the entire state.

He also explained that private cars or vans will not be allowed near the Silverdome on that day. He hopes to be able to rent a school bus for the day.

On-call volunteers needed

County diving team set

Tuscola County Sheriff Paul Berry has announced the formation of a county-wide Emergency Response Diving Team and is seeking county sports divers who would like to serve on the team on an on-call volunteer basis.

According to Berry, Deputies David Bezenah and Wayne Newton, who have overseen departmental marine activities, will be in charge of the corps of divers who will be used in emergencies, search and rescue and other water-related activities.

Volunteers will need basic certification and be willing to take advanced training in diving activities.

Heading the new volunteer unit as Dive Master will be Duane Sprague, a Caro police officer who has been certified by the Professional Association of Diving Instructors (PADI).

Amateur divers interested in more information or wishing to volunteer are urged to call Dive Master Duane Sprague at 517-673-6710 as soon as possible.

45 '57 grads gather for 30-year reunion

Some 45 classmates of Cass City High School's class of 1957 gathered Saturday evening for their 30-year reunion, held at White Creek Club.

The classmates and their spouses, who came from Arizona, Virginia, Florida, Indiana and Colorado, as well as Michigan, enjoyed a pig roast. The event was arranged by Joanne O'Dell, Sandra Tierney, Doris Jones and Richard Little.

The reunion was recorded on video tape and each class member was interviewed. Following the reunion, Richard Little served breakfast to those attending, and plans were made for the next reunion, to be held in 5 years.

The Haire Net

The University of Michigan produces a magazine called "Healthwise" and in its summer issue the feature story is on memory. It lists warning signs for serious memory loss and gives tips about how to improve memory.

Naturally I read it avidly. There was a sinking feeling when he said that it's bad if you are in any kind of subjective discomfort because of memory loss. That kind of hit home. I don't know if the discomfort is subjective or not, but when folks I have known for years pass me on the street and pass by before the name registers, I have discomfort. I'm really bugged when the name eludes me for a couple of hours before it is dredged out of my memory.

Another bad sign is when you lose track of time. I've had that trouble for years, as I've tried to explain when I arrive home after a night out. I suggest that Dr. Stanley Berent, who co-authored the article, is certainly right when he says that a certain amount of memory loss seems to be normal. "Remember," he says, "that humans are imperfect." I get total agreement with that at home but somehow it doesn't seem to help much.

There was a little comfort when the good doctor said that a certain amount of memory loss seems to be normal with age.

Several suggestions for improving memory are listed in the story. One concerning numbers is when trying to remember 764-2556, you remember seven hundred sixty-four, twenty-five, fifty-six instead. If that works for you, believe me you don't have a problem.

Memory isn't perfect, nor should it be, says another expert. If we could remember everything we ever saw or learned it would be awful. The truth of the matter is that things get better when they get a little misty and we are all grateful for that. Or we should be.

Another key to memory is to use "SALT" to remember names. Say the name. Ask questions. Learn through repetitions. Terminate conversation with it. One time that I tried that I remembered the names of a couple of guys I was introduced to, but learned later that I had the names switched. Now most of the time I just mumble something that can't be understood and hope for the best. I console myself in times like this by rationalizing that it has happened to most folks and they understand. That's probably what the experts were thinking when they said that if you remembered everything it would be awful.

There is one suggested remedy that should be worth a try. According to the experts, with memory you use it or lose it. Boredom leads to depression and depression may cause fatigue.

Fatigue increases the chance of memory loss. The way to get around that is to get out more.

Sometimes those experts are right on and we should listen to them

"If It Fitz..."

Complex problems

By Jim Fitzgerald

I shouldn't spend so much time worrying — and writing — about complex national problems far beyond my ability to solve. Instead, I should write about something happy — for instance, the pile of drawings sent to me by dozens of schoolchildren.

But some complex national problems are too ominous to be ignored. One example: U.S. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for president. Do you realize what that means? It means there's a chance the United States could have a First Lady named Tipper. That's the real first name, not the nickname, of Sen. Gore's wife. Her nickname is Tippy.

I have not yet learned why her parents named her Tipper. There undoubtedly will be some explanation offered as campaigning heats up. Maybe she was named in honor of a grandfather whom all waitresses loved.

I've met several dogs named Tipper, so maybe she was named after a beloved family pet. In which case you have to admit it could be worse — the beloved family pet could have been named Rin Tin Tin.

Tipper sounds undeniably yuppy. A First Lady represents the American people at such important functions as summit meetings. Will someone named Tipper (or Tippy!) be taken seriously by the world leaders who control the nuclear weapons that could be used to wipe out all yuppies without making anyone else mad?

I was never comfortable with a president named Jimmy. People stopped calling me the diminutive Jimmy before I was old enough to vote; how come Carter was still diminutive when he was old enough to be voted for? Jimmy Carter was several months into his first campaign before I realized he was serious. At first I thought he was a country western singer borrowing a publicity idea from comedian Pat Paulsen.

So I worry about the possibility of a woman named Tipper in the White House. If everyone giggles at her name, she will have to defend it and she won't have time to help her husband retire the national debt and persuade the U.S. Marines to invade Lt. Col. North.

Another complex national problem I worry about is baseball announcers and writers. Recently the Detroit Tigers hit 3 consecutive home runs, and many announcers and writers described them as back-to-back-to-back home runs. There is no such animal.

A poker player can have back-to-back jacks if one is face down and the other face up. To be back-to-back, they must face in opposite directions. The term "batting order" means batters bat in order, one after the other, all facing the pitcher. They never face in opposite directions. They can't hit back-to-back-to-back homers anymore than 3 people walking abreast can go in 3 different directions. OK, sports fans?

But I should stop worrying about such national problems and write something happy: For Memorial Day, I lamented the multitude of war monuments and the lack of peace monuments in our parks. Teacher Noel Poissant's sixth-grade students at Northwood Elementary in Royal Oak responded with marvelous drawings and essays pertaining to peace. My thanks to them for making me feel good.

Also, last month, for some ill-conceived reason, I challenged teacher Barbara Rebbeck's English students at Lakeland High School in Milford to diagram an extra-long sentence I wrote about the TV show "St. Elsewhere." Their response was many educational drawings of Dr. Auschlander with his butt sticking out of a hospital gown.

There were also some notes, and my favorite, from A.J. Kaspor, said: "Your column is rather interesting, and if I bought the Free Press, I just might, on certain occasions, after reading Garfield, scan your column for more unnecessary extra-long-and-dumb sentences." Onward and Upward, Jimmy.

Peter W. Kritzman was sentenced to 40 months to 5 years imprisonment.

He had been serving a 3-year probation sentence for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor, third offense, when he was arrested in Antrim County May 15 for possessing alcoholic beverages while driving an automobile.

Bryan C. Adams, Vassar, was arraigned Friday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Adams, 27, pleaded guilty to the offense, which the court accepted. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and taken under advisement. Bond was continued at $400.

He was stopped and arrested by Tuscola County Sheriff's Department deputies on Chambers Road in Indianfields Township.

Charles M. Grignani, Millington, was convicted Friday on a charge of receiving stolen property with understanding.

Grignani, 27, was given a delayed sentence, with a pre-sentence investigation ordered and taken under advisement.

He was arrested in Arbel Township May 10 with stolen items such as guns, stereo equipment and calculators in his possession.

Daniel L. Kennedy, Vassar, was arraigned Friday on a charge of attempted uttering and publishing.

Kennedy, 30, pleaded guilty to the offense, which the court accepted. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Christine M. Gilmore, St. Clair, was arraigned Friday on a charge of writing nonsufficient funds checks within 10 days.

Gilmore, 19, pleaded guilty to the offense, which the court accepted. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Bond was continued at $5,000.

Gilmore wrote 3 checks April 26 and 27 in the amounts of $24.96, $24.96 and $29, respectively with nonsufficient funds in an account from Citizen's Federal Savings.

Edward Carlisle, Vassar, was arraigned Friday during a probation violation hearing.

Carlisle, 22, entered a plea of not guilty. The contested hearing is to be set.

The hearing stems from a March 20 incident when he was arrested for possession of an open container of alcohol in a motor vehicle, and being associated with Kenneth Westendorf, known to have a criminal record.

Carlisle had been serving a 5-year probation sentence for a conviction of larceny in a building.

Fire risk high

Caution urged by fire chief

Elkland Fire Department Chief Dick Root is urging area residents to take extreme care in smoking and burning following 2 brush fires Thursday, one of them an illegal fire.

"There's no ban on burning as of yet (outside village limits)," Root remarked, "but there is a precautionary measure they're (DNR) asking us to take."

Fire fighters responded at 2:45 p.m. to a blaze just north of the newly-constructed Charmont Motel, where construction workers apparently were clearing trash from the motel and burning debris in an open fire.

Root, who stated that burning within the village limits is illegal, added that he isn't sure whether a citation was issued as a result of the fire, which scorched "only a small area."

The Elkland department was again called out 2 hours later to a small grass fire about 6 miles west of Cass City on E. Cass City Road near Hurds Corner Road.

Root said that the fire, which burned a small patch of brush, appeared to have been started by a cigarette.

"The Thumb area is the worst" in lower Michigan in terms of drought at this time, Root said.

He explained that while nonagricultural burning outside the village is allowed provided a permit is issued and safety standards are complied with, he's being "very particular about issuing" such permits.

Village manager Lou S. LaPonsie confirmed regulations regarding burning in the village, saying, "The only thing you can burn now is your steak" on a grill. He noted that all burning has been prohibited for the past 2 to 3 years.

Three persons were injured in 4 accidents reported this week by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

The first accident occurred July 26 in Elmwood Township. As a result, a 25-year-old Cass City man was treated and released from Hills and Dales Hospital.

A motorcycle driven by Jack L. Edwards, 6321 Severance Rd., Cass City, was southbound on Cedar Run Road south of Hoppe Road when he failed to negotiate a curve in the road. The cycle went off the right hand shoulder into a ditch before flipping over and throwing the driver about 15 feet from where it landed, the report states.

The vehicle sustained moderate damage in the 7:30 p.m. mishap.

Edwards received citations for no proof of insurance and no motorcycle endorsement.

A 22-year-old Gagetown man was cited for careless driving Sunday morning following an accident in Elmwood Township.

Martin L. Midyett, 5833 N. Hurds Corner Rd., was treated and released from Hills and Dales Hospital, a spokesman said Monday afternoon.

Midyett told deputies he backed out of a private drive at 5615 Colwood Road and doesn't remember anything else until he was in a ditch.

Deputies suggest Midyett was backing in a northbound direction on the east side of the road until pulling his vehicle in a ditch. The vehicle tracks indicate it was traveling on the grassy area of the shoulder, the report states.

The vehicle sustained

There was no personal interview, just a resume for the officials to review," he remarked.

He will be leaving this week to be in Indianapolis in time for the opening ceremonies Saturday.

"Some of the trainers are already down there helping setting things up," he said Monday. The Games are expected to last throughout the entire month.

Daniel, 33, has been a certified athletic trainer for some 11 years. He received his bachelors and masters degrees from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., in sports medicine and physical education in 1976 and 1981, respectively.

He lives with his wife Jan at 4857 Spruce St., Cass City. They have 4 children: Jason, 11, Peyton, 9, Kyle, 7, and Emily, 3.

Daniel joins medical support team

A Cass City man has been selected to be a member of a medical support team for athletes at the Pan-American Games starting this week in Indianapolis.

Marty Daniel, manager of rehabilitation and wellness at Walbro Corporation for nearly 2 years and a certified athletic trainer, said he will be involved in 3 aspects of the support team: track and field, basketball and "a sports clinic in the center of housing for athletes as they need it."

He added that the Pan-American Games officials asked for volunteers in February and he sent his resume listing his credentials and experience.

"I received my official assignment in early July.

2 larceny complaints filed with Cass City Police

Two larceny complaints and a malicious destruction of property report were filed at the Cass City Police Department over the past 12 days.

Police are investigating a complaint made by Decker resident Matthew W. Heronemus, who reported that a "tool tote" and tools mounted on his pickup truck were stolen after 9 p.m. July 24 and before 1 a.m. July 25. The truck was parked on Leach Street just north of Pine Street when the theft occurred, Heronemus, 3563 Leslie Rd., said.

No estimate on the value of the property was available.

Also filing a report was Terry J. Nicholas, 6292 Cedar Drive, who stated that someone scratched both sides of his vehicle sometime after 11 p.m. July 27 and before 5:30 a.m. July 28.

Two scratches measuring 6 to 8 feet were found on the vehicle, which was parked in Nicholas' driveway at the time. No damage estimate was available.

Clarence S. Schneeberger, 4365 S. Seeger St., filed a complaint stating that someone stole his bicycle sometime between July 28 and 29. The bike is described as being an older, used model.

3 injured in 4 accidents reported by sheriff's dept.

slight damage in the 4:30 a.m. incident.

David E. Terry II, 17, Caro, was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital after injuring himself on a dirt bike July 27.

Terry had been driving a dirt bike in a gravel pit in the Jacob and Ellington roads area when he hit a bump and lost control, going end over end, the report states.

The dirt bike sustained slight damage in the mishap.

No citation was issued.

A car-deer accident was reported July 28 in Ellington Township.

According to the report, Janet R. Miller, 6795 Severance Rd., Cass City, was westbound on Deckerville Road east of Hurds Corner Road when a deer jumped into the vehicle's path, impacting on the windshield.

The vehicle sustained mild damage in the 8:45 a.m. mishap.

No citation was issued.

New books at the library

ALL MANNER OF RICHES by Mary Elmlad (fiction). Cassie Taylor is a spindly half-starved child in the driest Dust Bowl days of Eastern Oklahoma. Raised by a grandmother who believed real security came only with owning land, Cassie overcomes the hardships of poverty, ignorance and molestation (at the hands of her half-brother) to marry Jimmy Steele, the ne'er-do-well scion of the region's leading family. She is never truly accepted and leaves him to begin a new life in Dallas, where hard work and innate intelligence lead first to a law degree, then to considerable wealth and respect in the community. Success and social acceptance, however, can't fill the emptiness at the heart of Cassie's lonely life. Through her old friend, Dixon, who is also Jimmy's brother, Cassie buys the land she grew up on; she and Dixon become lovers but the demands of both their careers are too strong to keep them together. Until that is, Cassie discovers she is pregnant. More misunderstandings serve to keep the two apart a while longer. Yet in the end, although she has suffered from her own failings as well as from other's, Cassie basically has it all.

STOLEN GOODS by Susan Dworkin (fiction). Two days before the wedding, Anna Karavejian's fiance dies in a car crash. Anna goes numb, a central part of her psyche remaining that way for the next 15 years, first as she teaches math in the Bronx and later when she takes over her father's lower Manhattan printing firm. Even as she becomes a successful business figure, Anna holds no further expectations for her personal life. She remains close to her family, especially to her father and her two older sisters, the pristine and organized Lucia, married to a prominent cellist, and Mary, a political activist from the '60s, whose husband will serve a prison term 20 years after the fact for his protest activities. Through a client, Anna meets Charles, a crippled writer and teacher from Vermont. The stormy path of their romance - their first meeting involves a bizarre robbery - requires considerable accommodation on both sides before they are able to trust either themselves or each other.

PUSS IN BOOTS by Ed McBain (Mystery). In Calusa, Fla., Carlton Markham is accused of killing his wife Prudence, who was fatally stabbed after completing a porn film that has vanished along with its producer. Determined to prove his client innocent, attorney Matthew Hope concentrates on tracing the female rumored to play the film's starring sexual acrobat.

HEALTH TIPS

Diabetes is disease you can live with

Jim (Catfish) Hunter, just elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, has diabetes. So does Mary Tyler Moore. Both Thomas Edison and Ernest Hemingway suffered from it.

Clearly, diabetes is a disease you can live with.

Just as clearly, however, it's a disease that can kill you.

Diabetes, with its complications, is the third leading cause of death by disease in the United States today. Some 11 million Americans are believed to have diabetes. This year alone, an estimated 30,000 people will die from the disease itself and another 300,000 from its complications.

Complications: A Grim Picture

Diabetes (in which the body's capacity to convert sugar into energy is impaired) is not in itself usually a killer. But its attendant complications, brought on by high levels of unmetabolized sugar (glucose), present a grim picture: coma; blindness; kidney disease; blood vessel damage; infection; heart disease; nerve damage; high blood pressure; stroke; amputation; and poor outcome of pregnancy.

The good news today is that those complications, if caught early enough, can frequently be controlled. The bad news is that all too often they are not.

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) say that between 50 and 85 percent of the acute and chronic complications that are associated with diabetes and contribute to mortality are preventable or treatable.

Yet the death rate for diabetic patients under 45 years of age has been reported as 8 times that of the same age group in the general population.

Two recent studies lend weight to the CDC report. One, in the state of Washington, found that almost one-third of the deaths of young diabetes patients were due to acute complications for which definitive therapy exists. A study in Great Britain, meanwhile, reported that neglect of diabetes was considered a contributing factor in 27 percent of more than 400 deaths of diabetic patients who died before the age of 50.

Proof a Long Time Coming

Many of us who have devoted most of our professional lives to studying diabetes have long believed that maintaining blood glucose at levels near normal should slow the devastating complications of the disease. Our difficulty was that we had only animal studies to bear out the validity of our theory. Only in the last couple of years have human trials shown the same results.

Now, however, evidence is mounting on all sides to indicate that near normoglycemia (normal blood glucose levels) can delay the progression of heart disease, retinopathy (eye damage), nephropathy (kidney damage), hypertension (high blood pressure) and vascular (blood vessel) complications.

Patients with non-insulin-dependent diabetes (roughly 80 to 90 percent of the diabetic population in the United States) can most often maintain normal blood glucose levels through strict compliance with a restricted diet and a regulated exercise program. Patients with more intractable cases can add oral hypoglycemics (medications that bring down blood sugar levels) or insulin.

In patients with insulin-dependent diabetes, daily injections are necessary to life. But now we are finding that by giving these patients insulin in a manner which more closely mimics what the normal pancreas provides, we can not only keep them alive but also retard the development of complications.

Self-Monitoring Urged

One of the first steps to that approach is self-monitoring.

A National Institutes of Health (NIH) panel last year strongly recommended that patients with diabetes routinely monitor their own blood glucose levels (in the case of insulin-dependent diabetic patients, as often as 4 times a day).

Home-monitoring systems are relatively easy to use. If patients receive proper training, these systems are invaluable in giving them the information they need to help them achieve near normal blood sugar levels—tight control. And, perhaps because self-monitoring serves to focus patients' awareness on the seriousness of the situation, it actually appears to improve patients' compliance with their physicians' orders.

Definitive findings on just how tight control does affect the progression of complications is the object of a massive federally funded study now in its preliminary stages in 21 medical centers around the country. Called the Diabetes Control Complications Trial (DCCT), it will eventually involve more than 1,400 insulin-dependent patients for a period of up to 10 years.

So far, study participants receiving multiple injections or continuous insulin-pump infusions have been able to maintain blood glucose levels much closer to normal standards than have the individuals getting just one or two injections a day.

Solid Evidence Backs Theory

Most of us are confident the study will show conclusively that tight control can halt the progression of most diabetic complications. Even without the DCCT, however, there is now solid proof that tight control is indeed effective.

In fact, a series of studies on the subject since 1978 found unequivocally that "blood glucose levels are important for the development and progression of diabetic microangiopathy (small blood vessel damage) in humans." It follows then that control of glucose levels is vital to forestalling the development of such complications.

Most of the studies on the effects of tight control have involved young patients with insulin-dependent diabetes, but the incidence and consequences of complications are also major concerns in patients with non-insulin-dependent diabetes, most of whom are over the age of 55.

Elderly Patients at High Risk

David M. Nathan, M.D., assistant professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School, and his colleagues at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston compared 250 non-insulin-dependent diabetic patients with 50 age-matched controls. Those with diabetes showed a significant increase in eye, kidney and circulatory complications. The investigators said the notion that non-insulin-dependent diabetes in the elderly represents a "mild" disease with regard to complications must be discarded.

There is no doubt, the Massachusetts group said in another study, that retinopathy can be directly related to high blood glucose levels. The effective control of those levels, they said, might prevent or inhibit the progression of the disease that is likely to cause almost 6,000 cases of blindness in the U.S. this year.

Another study, from the Clinical Diabetes and Nutrition Section of NIH, found that tight control of glucose levels in patients with non-insulin-dependent diabetes can reverse the buildup of some of the more damaging elements of cholesterol, those that may lead to atherosclerosis and heart disease.

While all the proof is not yet in, it would appear that tight control of blood glucose levels offers a timely and effective approach to this still enigmatic disease. It cannot work, however, unless patients comply with their prescribed regimens. They have good reason to: It could be the most important step they ever take toward saving their own lives.

REUNIONS

Four families in the community, Mosack, Hunter, Rocheleau and Sontag, held family reunions last weekend.

The Mosack reunion took place Saturday at the Mosack home on South Street, with 43 people present.

The Sontags held their get-together at the K of C Hall in Caro Sunday. Among the 200 attending were Mr. and Mrs. Elery Sontag and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Stock. Members came from Reed City, Cass City, Marlette, Rochester and Jonesville.

The Hunter reunion was a weekend affair and 49 family members camped out at Mary Downing's, Irene Hunter's and Sherwood-on-the-Hill.

The weekend included a swimming party Saturday at the home of Deb Hunter in Caro, and Sunday potluck dinner at Downing's. Nancy and Tom Edwards of Atlanta, Ga., traveled the furthest to attend. The eldest family member was Delos Wood of Toledo, Ohio, and the youngest was the 6-week-old child of Diane and Rich Murphy of Harper Woods.

The 4th annual Rocheleau reunion was held Sunday at the Gagetown Village Park with 55 attending. The day began with Mass at St. Agatha, and was followed by a potluck dinner, games and visiting. Eldest family members present were Arthur and Rose Rocheleau of Redford, Myrtle Seland of Caro and Bea Langlois. Traveling furthest were Marilyn and Bill Martus of Richmond, Ind., and youngest was Leigh LaFave, 21-month-old daughter of Janice and Hank LaFave II of Bay City, granddaughter of Bud and Norma LaFave. This year's reunion was planned by the Jerome Rocheleau family and the next will be planned by the Alfred (Sy) Rocheleau family.

Marian Carroll, have been named Daniel Luke and Amy Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Russell spent last Sunday with Joan and Bill Quade of Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pisarek Sr. and family attended the funeral of Mr. Pisarek's brother, Frank Pisarek, 90, of Bay City. He had been a resident of Hampton Manor. The funeral was held at the Hyatt-Ewald Funeral Home with burial in Cadillac Memorial Gardens in Garden City.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Prieur of Farmington Hills spent last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe and attended the Rocheleau reunion.

Mrs. Sheila Burrows of Mesa, Ariz., arrived July 24 and visited her mother, Mrs. Aseneth Schniers of Caro. Tyler Burrows, who spent the past few weeks with Mrs. Schniers and Nancy and Bill Burrows, left Sunday with his mother to return to Mesa.

Residents moving recently to new locations are Mrs. Martin Kelly, moving to Caro, and Linda Downing and Ryan, moving to Cass City.

Kathy and Marshall Lupp of Essexville announce the birth July 31, of a baby daughter, Marissa Noelle, at Bay Medical Center, Bay City. She weighed 7 pounds and 2½ ounces. Marissa has a brother Zachary, 5, and a sister Megan, 2. Grandparents are Sam and Marie Lupp of Sebewaing and Nancy and Bill Burrows.

Postmasters Mary Downing and Jeanette McDonald attended a meeting Thursday.

Sister Liz Pickens of Plymouth spent a few days at St. Agatha Parish House. While her father, Les Munro, golfed last Tuesday with the Senior Men's League, Marg Krueger spent the day with her mother, Milly Munro, who is ill.

The recent report of the cross replacement in St. Agatha Cemetery was worded in an unclear manner. The old cross, which was in place for 35 years and had finally split badly, was a gift of the George Yost family, in his memory. The new cross, now in place, is the gift of the Harry Comment family, in his memory, and will bear a plaque with both names.

Correction please: Mrs. Harry Comment and Mrs. Bert Bain visited the Supinas in Hancock, not Hemlock.

Jack Tyo, visiting from Florida at the Bill Blisses and other relatives, was a caller Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment.

Diane Malapolski and son, Michael, of Roseville came Friday bringing Mrs. Sue Penrod, who had spent the week with them and Mrs. Alma Binge of Denver, Colo., who will spend a few weeks with Mrs. Penrod and Mary McKellar, her sisters. All were luncheon guests of Mrs. McKellar Friday.

Friday evening the McKellar home was the site for the 39th wedding anniversary celebration of George and Dorothy Prich. The party was planned mainly by the couple's great-granddaughters, Kelly and Marci Rueger and friend Tara McKellar, ages 7 and 8, and began as a plan for an amateur show. Guests were Kerry and Gloria McKellar, Arnie and Ruth Nimitz of Sebewaing, Sue Penrod, Alma Binge, Gary and Janice McKellar, and the Ruegers. The girls entertained with their songs in imitation of an amateur show.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment called Saturday on John Comment of Essexville, who celebrated a birthday last week.

Mrs. Fred McKellar attended the wedding Saturday of Miss Rene LaVasseur and John Witzke in Bay City. The wedding was held at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, with reception following at the Elks Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Barry of Warren, in the area to attend a wedding Saturday, visited Mrs. Sue Penrod and Alma Binge. Mrs. Barry, the former Anna Ludwig, is a cousin of the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Comment and Matthew of Export, Pa., spent the week with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Comment.

The funeral of Mrs. Tilly Witzke took place Sunday at 2:00 p.m. at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Bach. Mrs. Witzke was a resident of the Gagetown Senior Manor and died Thursday at Caro Community Hospital at age 86.

The wedding of Mary Kappen and Wayne Shantz took place Saturday, Aug. 1, at 2:00 p.m. at St. Agatha Catholic Church.

Janet Martin visited Mrs. Edith Schriber at Tuscola County Medical Care Facility in Caro Friday.

Mrs. Helen Pyrek spent a few days in Detroit with her sister, Theresa Peruski, who is ill.

Flood recovery answers

Q: Our household seems to have so much anger in it. When it hasn't rained in weeks, my husband yells at me and I, in turn, holler at the kids. If I watch them (the kids), pretty soon they yell at their dolls or the dog. Is this normal?

A: Of course it is normal for family members to experience this type of anger. When this behavior is found in nature, it is called "pecking order." In order to break the cycle, you must learn to stop passing on the frustrations. This is not an easy task to learn. When a learned behavior such as this is non-productive and possibly harmful to your children, it must be stopped. The only person's behavior you control is your own. Make it your goal to act and not react. When your husband yells at you, voice your frustrations. For example: I get so angry when you yell at me because - I can't change the situation. This should do 2 things:

- 1) Direct your frustration in the right direction.
- 2) You have gotten it off your chest in a way that shouldn't be threatening to him.

Try to talk to your husband so that you can work as a team. This may not stop the anger, but it should help to direct it in a less harmful way.

Lamotte, Colwood capture division crowns in church fastpitch league

by Kevin Shaw

Lamotte and Colwood emerged as the respective champions in the American and National Divisions of the Cass City fastpitch church league last week. After the final week of play, the final standings are:

AMERICAN DIVISION

	W	L
Lamotte	11	3
Evangelical	9	5
Missionary	5	9
Baptists	5	9
Deford	0	14

NATIONAL DIVISION

	W	L
Colwood	12	1
Catholics	11	2
Shabbona	6	8
Novesta	5	9
Lutherans	3	11

Recapping last week's play:

TUESDAY, JULY 28

Baptists vs. Missionary: Missionary's Roger Cooper hit a 2-RBI double in the bottom of the fifth to help Missionary defeat the Baptists, 6-2.

Ron Ouvry had given the Baptists a quick lead in the first with an RBI double, but pitcher Al McKee held the Baptists to just one more run and notched the win. Chuck Hartwick was the losing pitcher for the Baptists.

Shabbona vs. Lutherans: Tim Severance collected 3 hits and struck out 6 batters as Shabbona defeated the Lutherans 18-0 in a 5-inning mercy game.

The win moved Shabbona into third place in the National Division. Phil Roher was 2-3 for Shabbona. Ron Guinther took the loss for the Lutherans.

Lamotte vs. Evangelical: In the game which would decide the American Division champion, Lamotte defeated Evangelical, 11-4.

Lamotte grabbed an early 3-0 lead in the second and never trailed the game. Evangelical rallied in the fifth when they trailed 9-1. Rick Brinkman hit a double which scored 3, but Lamotte pitcher Jim Keller shut out Evangelical in the last 2 innings, taking the win.

Lenny King was 3-4 and Jim Marshall 2-4 for Lamotte. Bill Bader was the losing pitcher.

THURSDAY, JULY 30

Colwood Vs. Novesta: Dale Smith and Mike Wilson both pitched Colwood to a 9-3 victory over Novesta.

Colwood scored 7 runs in the top of the first and never looked back, posting its 12th victory of the year. Bob Wright was 2-3 for Colwood, while Dave Speirs was the losing pitcher.

Missionary vs. Evangelical: Missionary kept up its winning ways with an impressive 11-3 victory over Evangelical.

Tim Gardner's double with men at the corners scored 2 in the fifth to give Missionary a 7-1 lead which it never relinquished.

Jim Tuckey was 2-3 and Dave Martin 2-4 for Missionary as Al McKee was the winning pitcher of record. Steve Ross was 2-4 for Evangelical while Paul Bliss was the losing pitcher.

Lutherans vs. Catholics: The Catholics notched their 11th victory of the year, defeating the Lutherans, 9-0.

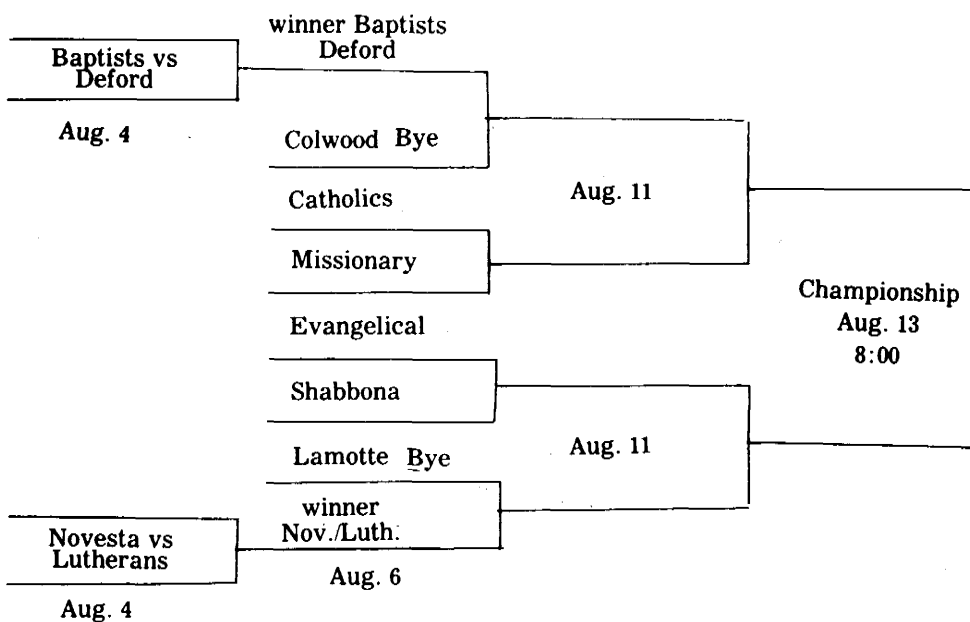

The Catholics scored 5 runs in the second and added 2 more in the third, while shutting out the Lutherans for 6 straight innings. Gary Robinson was the winning pitcher, while Johan Schultz took the loss.

Deford vs. Baptists: The final game of the regular season found Deford one run short of its first victory, losing to the Baptists 13-12.

Deford jumped out to a quick 7-2 lead after 2 innings. However, the Baptists rallied to tie the game in the bottom of the fourth. With the bases loaded and 2 out, Kevin Shaw's double to right center field put the Baptists up, 13-10. Deford scored 2 in the fifth, but the Baptists held on for the narrow victory.

Tim Babich was 3-3 (2 doubles and a HR) and Dave Heacock 4-4 for Deford as Dan Allen took the loss. Doug McArthur and Shaw were both 2-3, while

Playoff picture

Gary Mellendorf was the winning pitcher.

Notes from around the league.....

After the long 9½ week season, here's how the playoff picture has evolved:

The longest winning streak of the year belongs to Colwood. The first- and last-time Colwood lost a game was back on May 28 when Colwood dropped its opener to the Catholics. Since then, Colwood has won 12 straight. The second longest streak currently belongs to Lamotte, who has won 6 in a row.

If you are wondering how the tie breaker system in church league works, here's your answer. In the event that 2 teams tie with identical records, such as the Baptists and Missionary did, the first tie-breaker is head-to-head competition. In this case, the teams split. The next tie-breaker is record within the division. In this case, 4 of Missionary's 5 wins came within their division, while just 3 of the Baptists' 5 came against fellow divisional foes. Hence, Missionary got to pass the preliminary round, while the Baptists must play Deford in order to advance.

Both division winners were teams that have 2 solid starting pitchers. Lamotte has Rev. Jim Keller and Loyal Innes, while Colwood boasts Dale Smith and Mike Wilson. Many have requested that the top batting averages in the league be printed. This writer has no objections to that, except that one man's base hit is another's base on error. However, anyone who is willing to turn in his average for the season is welcome to do so. Please turn in your honest averages to me during the playoffs (nothing over .600 accepted).

CBF All-stars tie for third in tournament

Several Cass City residents are members of an All-Star team which tied for third place in the District No. 1 Senior League Championship Tournament in Caro which began July 13.

The players on the Caro Baseball Federation (CBF) Little League All-Star team were Scott Dillon, Bill Langenberg, Jason Robertson and Peter Volk. Mark Irrer, along with Ray Gardener of Caro, coached the 14 best players from the 4-team federation.

The CBF Little League opened its tournament with a 9-5 victory over Farwell. Robertson pitched in relief for Caro's Brian Lupton, striking out 2 and walking 5 during his stint on the mound. Robertson and Lupton let Farwell hitters connect for just 3 hits throughout the game. Cass City's Dillon and Volk connected for one hit apiece.

Midland Association was the CBF's next opponent. Robertson and Langenberg had one hit each for the 9-6 loss. Langenberg pitched the last 4 2/3 innings in relief of Caro's Todd Bezenah. The loss sent the team to a third game in the double elimination tournament.

All-star team finishes 3rd at Harbor Beach

The Cass City Boys' All-star traveling team finished third out of the 8 team tournament at Harbor Beach. The tournament was sponsored by the Harbor Beach Little League.

Cass City began tournament action with a victory over Sandusky 6-2. Cass City took an early lead with 3 runs in the first inning. Greg LeValley, Kent Winter and Tavis Osentoski each had 2 hits. Billy Graham had a home run in the fifth inning. Graham and LeValley shared the pitching duties.

The second game matched Cass City against Bad Axe Blue. Cass City lost the battle 2-1. The pitchers dominated the game on both sides. LeValley and Graham combined their efforts and allowed Bad Axe only 6 hits. The Bad Axe pitchers were even tougher by only allowing single hits to Graham, Winter and John Phillips.

Cass City went up against Bad Axe Gold for third place honors at the tournament. Unlike the previous game, Cass City's bats struck early and often to post a 17-0 drubbing of Bad Axe Gold. LeValley and Winter led the hitting attack with 3 hits each. Two of LeValley's hits were home runs. He was equally effective on the mound, not allowing a hit for 3 innings pitched and struck out 7. Graham took over in the fourth inning and finished the shut-out.

The Harbor Beach Tournament marked the end of a successful season for the Cass City team. The team finished with an overall record of 8-3.

Some 223 children signed up for the reading club or to play Michigan Bingo, which requires participants to read books on particular subjects. About 124 children finished by reading at least 10 books or getting a bingo on the Michigan Bingo card, library Director Barbara Hutchinson reported.

Children who covered their Michigan Bingo cards are Jenny Rick, Jennifer Romstad, Michelle Brown, Julie Matthews, Stacey Klinkman, Mark Kilbourn, Michelle Shaft, James Matthews and Karla Zinnecker.

All the people on the planet, lumped together, would weigh between 200 and 250 million tons.

Early morning drive lands Caro man in jail

A 23-year-old Caro man was arrested early Thursday morning in Ellington Township on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while license suspended, no proof of insurance and improper registration, according to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Nick E. Weirgowski, 292 W. Congress, was stopped by deputies while driving on private property in the Gilford and Albin roads area.

The deputies had been following the vehicle when it turned onto the private property owned by Detroit Edison and its headlights went off, the report stated.

The vehicle was confiscated at the time of the 2:10 a.m. arrest pending identification from the owner.

Another Caro man was arrested Friday morning on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor in Ellington Township.

Deputies were locating a vehicle involved in an incident at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds. They found the vehicle on Deckerville Road and followed it for 1 1/4 miles.

The deputies stopped Eric Hagen, 128 S. Kinyon, at about 3 a.m. after observing the vehicle he was driving cross the center line twice on Murray Road.

A suspect is sought in connection with an assault and battery complaint filed July 27 with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

The complainant, Elmer Nitz, a resident of Gageton Manor, South Street, told deputies he entered the Manor's kitchen June 26 at about 3:30 p.m. and a cook asked him if he wanted some iced tea.

After the cook got him the tea they talked for a few minutes before a man went in the room, struck Nitz hard enough to knock his eyeglasses across the room and yelled at him, the complaint states.

Deputies have a suspect in the case, a report on the complaint states.

Slight damage was sustained to the underside of the vehicle in the 9:30 p.m. incident. There was fuel leakage and the gas tank was ruptured but there was no fire, the report states. No citation was issued.

Elkland to blacktop drives in cemetery, insurance tabled until next meeting

A bid was accepted to blacktop paths in the Elkland Township Cemetery for $14,000 by the Elkland Township Board Monday evening.

PTI, Inc., was selected from 2 bidders to blacktop about a mile in drives through the cemetery east of Cass City, according to Township Clerk Norma Wallace.

"It was designated for roads, but we're not surfacing or resurfacing any roads this year so we decided this was a good year to do it. People have been requesting it," she said.

A possible change in liability plans was tabled until next month's meeting.

The policy brought to the board is similar to one approved by the Cass City Village Council July 27, but the change wouldn't save the township any money.

"We would have to pay $300 more in premiums, but the coverage would be better. The insurance company (Harris-Hampshire Agency Inc., Cass City) couldn't save us money like they could the village," Wallace explained.

Also Monday, Gerald Houghton was named to the Zoning Board. He replaces Howard Muntz, who recently accepted a position on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The board decided to change the September meeting from Sept. 7 to Sept. 14 due to Labor Day.

The meeting will still start at 7:30 p.m., and in October the meetings will resume to the first Monday of each month, Wallace said.

V.A. Fitz approved by county for new chief assistant attorney job

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners last week affirmed the appointment of Victor A. Fitz as the new chief assistant attorney.

Commissioners also adjusted the salary "steps" for chief assistant, and placed Fitz at the second salary level, an increase of $3,048 over his current salary as assistant.

The salary steps approved last week are: first step, $26,375, up from $24,800; second step, after one year's experience, $27,000; third step, after 2 years experience, $27,625; and the fourth step, after 3 years experience, $28,250, up from the current step 4 salary of $27,796.

Fitz, who has been in the prosecutor's office since September 1983, was approved for the new position effective Aug. 10. He replaces JoEllen O'Connor, who resigned July 24.

In other business during the July 28 regular meeting, the board accepted, but didn't approve, a rough draft of an amended Friend of the Court budget.

Bills totalling $4,634—submitted by Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn but refused by commissioners earlier this month because Joslyn had not submitted his amended budget at that time—also were approved.

According to county Controller Michael Hoagland, Joslyn's amended budget may undergo "possible modifications" of the distribution of funds in the spending plan, although the total isn't expected to change.

Hoagland noted that the $235,000 budget, amended from an initial budget totalling $155,000, includes an additional $35,000 in general fund money and $40,000 in FOC funds, approved by commissioners to end a dispute with Joslyn over funding and staffing in the FOC office.

Also last week, commissioners approved a change in the retirement program covering Tuscola County Mental Health employees. The change involves allowing persons to retire at the age of 55 if they have 15 years of service, instead of retirement at age 60 with 10 years of service.

A resolution in support of Senate Bill No. 106, which would provide state reimbursement to counties for certain expenses incurred by prosecuting attorneys, was approved.

The board voted to allow the sheriff to use about $180 in capital outlay project monies to purchase 2 calculators, which will replace 2 worn calculators.

Commissioners also adopted a county seal, and approved a motion allowing the Sheriff's Department to apply for Juvenile Justice Assistance grants for youth crime prevention.

Minor damage aired in 4 auto mishaps in Cass City last week

Only minor damage and no injuries were reported in 4 vehicle accidents reported to the Cass City Police Department over the past week.

Slight damage was sustained by 2 vehicles in a morning mishap July 29 in which a vehicle driven by Mark C. Tuckey, 4357 Koepfgen Rd., backed into a U.S. Postal Jeep on Brooker St. just south of Pine St.

According to the report, Tuckey, who notified mail carrier Dale Bullock of the accident, was backing out of a driveway onto Brooker St. when he hit the Jeep.

Cass City resident Kenneth L. Middaugh reported his vehicle sustained slight damage when he hit a deer on E. Cass City Road west of Comment Drive at 1 a.m. Friday.

Middaugh, 6204 Cedar Drive, was eastbound on E. Cass City Rd. when the mishap occurred.

Also filing a report was Leona M. Englehart, 6530 Main St., who stated that a door on her vehicle sustained damage Friday afternoon when a door on a vehicle driven by Genny O'Bee, 5110 VanDyke Rd., bumped the Englehart vehicle door.

Both vehicles were parked behind Englehart's residence at the time of the incident, which occurred between 3:30 and 4 p.m.

Pearl A. Lis, 4295 Sherman St., stated that her vehicle was hit by a vehicle driven by Maude Brown, 4261 Grassmere Rd., Bad Axe, at 4:05 p.m. Thursday.

Both vehicles were in a parking lot at Erla's, 6233 Church St., when the mishap occurred, with Lis' vehicle traveling southbound and Brown's vehicle backing out of a parking space, according to the report.

The 10-inch-wide tunnel, which runs 60 feet under a busy country road some 35 miles west of London, will enable lovesick toads to proceed safely to a nearby lake for romantic encounters. According to International Wildlife magazine, an estimated 20 tons of toads are squished each year on Britain's roads.

Your neighbor says

1955 the hottest summer in memory

If the summer of 1987 is to be remembered for anything, it may be when Lt. Col. Oliver North emerged from the Iran-Contra hearings a hero to a significant number of Americans.

Or it might be the summer the Detroit Tigers took the baseball world by surprise and ended up winning the World Series. Of course, this is yet to be seen.

This summer will probably be most remembered for the endless heat wave and dry weather that has plagued most of the state for the past 2 months. It has been said this is the hottest summer ever.

Your neighbor, George Cole, says this isn't the hottest summer he remembers. Rather, that distinction belongs to the summer of 1955.

"It was 105 degrees for 4 days. I remember it because I had just gotten a 1955 Chevy and when it got too hot I went out and drove around in it until I got cooled off. They didn't have air conditioning back then, you know," he noted.

While this summer may not be the hottest, Cole does say this has been the longest hot spell he can remember.

"It was also just as humid but it'd only be for 2, 3 or 4 days and then we'd get some relief. Not this heat and humidity going on for weeks and weeks," he said.

Cole says this is also the driest summer he can remember.

Cole, 76, is retired. He lives with his wife June at 6606 Church St., Cass City. They have a grown daughter, Joan Schultz, living in Bannister.

CLEANING UP - These 30 swimmers were able to clean up and go home a couple hours early at the year's Muscular Dystrophy Swim-a-thon. The swimmers reached their goal of 100 miles shortly before 8 a.m. Thursday, 2 hours shy of the 24-hour deadline at 10 a.m. The swimmers raised some $350 for MD.

Alley scores once more with giant cabbage

Area residents who admired Charles Alley's 12 to 14-foot cornstalks last year will be absolutely impressed this year with the DeFord man's cabbages.

The champion-sized heads growing in Alley's lush garden, located next to his home at 495 Cemetery Rd., weigh up to some 30 pounds and measure 14 to 15 inches across.

Alley, 68, annually produces a wide variety of vegetables, fruit and berries. The quality and size of some his crops are enough to make even a veteran grower envious.

Last year's story on Alley's corn reported that the crop was "high as a giraffe's eye" and still growing, while a tomato weighing in at 4 1/2 pounds drew attention the year before.

A retired machinist, Alley and his wife of 40 years, Stella, moved to DeFord from Utica 4 years ago. Originally from southwestern Virginia, he was employed by Formative Products in Troy for 15 years.

Alley more than lives up to the famous reputation regarding southern hospitality, and is happy to share his secrets on growing, a little humor and his produce with others.

His secret? For starters, he fills a barrel halfway with cow manure, adds water and then mixes the concoction. "When you draw it out, it's cow manure tea," he remarked, adding with a grin, "Anything you put that on is either going to grow or die."

Alley, whose pronunciation is still spiced with a mild southern drawl, despite having moved to Michigan some 30 years ago, also uses a couple of lifelike scarecrows and keeps a radio playing in his garden in the evenings.

"If I don't, the deer have a field day," he explained. Alley said the type of music doesn't seem to matter. "I told my wife I don't want any hillbilly music 'cause they'll start dancing, and that's worse than eating my corn."

Although he has 35 acres, he only farms a 300-foot by 50-foot section. He grows corn on another 10 acres for the resident deer population.

Aside from corn and cabbage, Alley grows Puerto Rican sweet potatoes, kale, several varieties of squash, Kentucky wonder pole beans, cantaloupe, tomatoes, cucumbers, broccoli, strawberries and black raspberries.

"We've already canned 96 quarts of green beans," Alley noted, adding that he annually gives away 9 or 10 bushels of apples from a tree in his front yard, and several bushels of tomatoes.

The Alleys have 2 grown sons, Jerry C., 38, who lives with his wife in a home he recently built next door, and Chuck Jr., 39, who along with his wife reside with their 2 sons in Utica.

Keep local service, says Novesta Board

tee, Kloc explained that the group plans to raise funds for a veteran's memorial, to be placed at the entrance of the Novesta Township Cemetery.

Also during the 90-minute meeting, The board approved Public Act 116 for 160 acres owned by Edward and Wanda Lebioda of Severance Road.

Plans by the Township Planning and Zoning Commission to update the township zoning ordinance were approved by the board.

Kloc, who noted the ordinance was written in 1978, added that the updated version will be put into book form.

A refuse pick-up for large items, such as refrigerators and other appliances, was slated for Sept. 26 at the township hall.

The board also heard comments from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Castranova, who complained that 2 asphalt plants near their home on Warner Road are operating all night, creating a disturbance.

The couple also asked the board to do something about large rocks being left on township roads after grading.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

You have to hand it to Merrill Lynch to come up with cute ideas in investments.

When some of their tax shelter schemes came into disfavor this year, they promptly have hopped into another field - guaranteed real estate partnerships.

Maybe I've talked to the wrong people, but I just haven't heard from anyone who got into a real estate limited partnership marketed by a brokerage firm that ever was happy with the outcome.

They were unhappy because they found out too late they had bought a security basically unmarketable, except at a big discount. So they had to hold on to it until finally the deal was liquidated. A typical one reported to me resulted in the final payout being about 25% of the original investment.

There was supposed to be a big chance for gain in these speculative investments - and indeed there should be in anything involving much risk. Trouble was that after the developers and the promoters and the brokers and the trust departments all got their slice, there wasn't much left for Mr. Little Guy who was putting up the cash.

Now Merrill Lynch proposes to eliminate the risk and come up with an insured return. The investor is guaranteed to get an 8.75% return over 10 years when he buys one of these limited partnerships. Too good to be true?

That's right - there's a catch. The 8.75% guaranteed return is SIMPLE INTEREST after a 10-year investment. "Simple" interest means it is not compounded. For a short period, it doesn't make much difference. But here we're talking of 10 years. Out comes the calculator. You be the judge:

Assume investment of $100,000

Interest rate of 8.75%

Return for 10 years, simple interest, not compounded

$100,000 x 8.75% x 10 years = $87,500

You are guaranteed in 1997 that your $10,000 will have grown to $18,750.

Take an investment in something that will bear a similar rate of 8.75%, such as a government agency, rated AAA. Such a bond, like virtually every other bond, pays interest every 6 months. Assume you reinvest at the same rate - or if you want to get a zero-coupon bond, such reinvestment will be done automatically.

Instead of your $10,000 investment growing to $18,750, it will grow to $23,546 in 10 years.

In other words, with a very marketable and safe investment you will get nearly $5,000 more at the end of 10 years than you would under the insured real estate partnership.

It is true that the real estate partnership has the chance of growing in value above the guaranteed $18,750 payout in 1997. For the chance of making this extra gain, though, you are passing up nearly $5,000 in extra return - also guaranteed - with a conventional bond.

Look at it another way: You want to be sure of having $18,750 in 1997 - 10 years hence. You can be guaranteed this amount by putting up $10,000 now in the real estate deal.

This country boy offers another idea: Buy zero-coupon bonds yielding 8.75%, maturing in 10 years. Not easy to find that yield in a 10-year span, but I've done it.

Instead of $10,000 in up-front money, you'll have to invest only $7,962. You've saved over 20% before you start.

You haven't passed up chance for gain, either. If bond prices go up you can make a neat profit in the early years. You are still guaranteed the payout at the end of 10 years. Personally, I've made as much as 50% gain in the value of zero coupon bonds in a couple of years - but I don't count on it. The steady old compounding of attractive current rates is good enough for me. If bond prices go up that's the frosting on the cake.

We haven't talked about income tax in comparing the real estate partnership. There could be some income deductions in the early years, and tax deferrals. But the big bloom is off this rose. Capital gains are now taxed at 28%, same as your regular income. Eventually when you get back $18,750 for $10,000 that $8,750 gain is going to be taxed same as income. All the changes in tax shelter rules in years ahead look to be anti-investor, to make up for years of gravy in the past.

With a zero-coupon municipal bond, there is no tax as you go along from year to year. There is no tax at maturity, and no capital gains at maturity.

And the interest the bonds contract to pay you is compounded every 6 months. Merrill Lynch's "simple interest" doesn't appeal to this simple country boy.

P.S. You think that 8.75% tax-free yield for a zero-coupon is far fetched. I bought some Michigan Housings yielding 8.85% due 1997. When? When the bond market was at its high point (prices, not interest rates) last March. When else?

Rain helps but more needed

The forage specialist, who visited Thumb fields with an MSU Extension dairy nutritionist, remarked, "We didn't see any fields, even in Huron County, that were ready to be chopped. I can appreciate that a lot of farmers are upset and worried, but attempting to do anything with the crop now will only make matters worse."

Hesterman suggests that farmers begin monitoring their fields and develop plans for handling the crop. He advises that farmers make random samples of their entire fields - the worst and best - every 5 to 7 days and test those samples for moisture content.

A free bulletin, "Managing Drought-Stressed Corn and Soybeans," written by Hesterman, is available through the county Cooperative Extension Service office and from MSU by calling (517) 355-0240.

Farmers, meanwhile, are urged to develop the best possible plans they can to make the most out of a bad situation.

Nagelkirk summed up the current rain situation, saying, "I think (farmers) will take anything they can get at this point."
