Drought lowers Thumb water table; bonanza for area drillers

The area's worst drought in years has contributed to banner season for Thumb-area well-drilling companies, many of which are reporting more work than they can handle, and then some.

According to local estimates, the water table throughout much of the Thumb has dropped an average of 6 to 8 feet following a "dry" winter and below-average rainfall this summer.

The drop shouldn't prove to be serious for persons who have deep wells and adequate well pumps in good condition, contractors say. But for those with shallow wells, insufficient pumps or pumps in poor condition, dropping water levels are causing some problems.

Cass City native and veteran well driller Arthur Brown, who at age 62 still drills 10 to 15 wells a year, said he's noticed a drop in the water table locally.

"In Cass City I would say it's dropped 6 feet at least," he remarked. Brown based his comment on wells he's drilled recently, and on wells he owns 1 1/2 miles south of Cass City.

He added, however, "You don't notice a difference with a 6-foot drop. If you do, your well wasn't very good in the first place. If you've got 40 or 50 feet of water, you're not going to be bothered."

He explained that many of the residential wells in the Cass City and Gagetown areas range in depth from 45 feet to 200-plus feet, depending on the location.

Brown, who lives 7 miles west of Cass City, remarked that the drought is likely to affect "point" wells the most. Those wells, he explained, have average depths of 18 to 20 feet and are used for a variety of purposes, including watering lawns.

STOPPED FLOWING
Brown remarked that he noticed the recent drought has also affected a popular well located about 2 miles south of Elkton along the west side of Cemetery Road. "That's been flowing ever since I can remember," he said, adding that during a visit to the area last week, he noticed the well had stopped flowing.

While Brown drills only as many wells as he wants to in semi-retirement, particularly after undergoing by-pass surgery almost 3 years ago, full-time drillers doing business in the area are putting in a lot of overtime.

"This is our busiest year ever. We're about 30 jobs behind," Frank E. Franzel Jr., another veteran driller remarked.

"We get an average of 5 or 6 calls a day. On the average, we drill probably 3 to 4 wells per week and repair 4 or 5," he said. Franzel, who owns F.E. Franzel Well Drilling of Mayville and Postoria, added, "We could drill everyday, but we just can't keep up with it."

Franzel noted that he's hearing the same story from other drillers in the Thumb.

"The water tables are definitely down. We've had wells that were flowing east of Cass City, and now they're not," he said.

Franzel, whose father started the family well-drilling business in 1936, indicated that repair work has been a major portion of the company's business this summer. He said the drop in the water table is forcing a number of persons to have inadequate or old water pumps and associated equipment serviced or replaced.

"This drought has affected a lot of the shallow wells," he explained, adding that in many cases, shallow-well pumps are being replaced by deep well pumps.

Paul Scherniawski,

owner of Paul's Pump Repair in Caro, also has been kept busy installing, servicing and repairing wells.

"There have been a lot of problems, especially with the older wells," he commented.

"I've got a guy who had a 2-inch well drilled last summer, then this summer his water dropped 10 feet," Scherniawski said, adding that the shallow-well pump installed at the well was pumping only 2 1/2 gallons per minute. Installation of a larger pump has helped, but "it's still pumping below what you would expect."

According to Scherniawski, the drop in water levels this summer surpasses droughts sustained by the area during the past several years.

"I've been doing this for about 14 years," he said. "I've seen isolated cases where farmers are irrigating and the surrounding wells will drop, but I've never seen it this bad."

3rd request

Ubly to try again for school millage

The Ubly Board of Education Monday night decided it will ask voters a third time to approve a millage increase following rejection Thursday of a request for 2.2 additional mills for one year for school operations.

The board, during a 90-minute special meeting, approved asking for an additional 1.4 mills instead of the 2.2 mill request, which was rejected 524-362 during the annual school election June 8, and again Thursday by a vote of 529-375.

According to school Supt. David Landeryou, the board set Oct. 30 as a target date for the special election.

Also Monday, the board approved hiring 2 full-time teachers to replace instructors who resigned following the 1986-87 school year, and voted in favor of hiring a part-time high school art teacher.

Landeryou explained following Monday's meeting that the board's decision regarding asking for a reduced increase in millage is based on the district's student population.

"... for the first time in 10 years, the Ubly Schools are going to have (24) new students," he said, adding that the increase in pupils breaks a trend of declining enrollment.

Being an "in formula" district, Ubly receives a specified amount of state aid—this year about $2,432—per pupil.

The increased aid expected because of those new students, in addition to some $88,000 which would be raised if the 1.4 mills are approved, would cover some $140,000 in lost tax revenue over the past year due to falling land values, Landeryou remarked.

He noted that the school board did not know prior to the recent millage campaign that the district would have the additional students, 5 of which enrolled over the past week.

HIRINGS

Landeryou stated that fourth grade teacher Carolyn Guza, who was laid off in 1982, was hired Monday to replace Rosalie Walsh, who resigned last spring.

Also hired as a replacement was Kyle Murphy, who will take the place of agriculture teacher Denise Keller, who resigned earlier this month.

No one has been hired as yet for the part-time art teaching position, which will consist of 2 hours per day.

"We're anticipating that it's (new position) going to cost us $6,000 per year," Landeryou said. He noted that the other 2 hirings, being replacements, won't cost the district more.

"We did a lot tonight and I'm hopeful we can pass this thing in October," the superintendent commented.

He noted that the majority of about 12 persons in attendance during Monday's special session were in favor of another election. "They wanted to go back and ask for another vote," he said.

About 28 percent of the district's voters turned out for Thursday's vote. A total of 905 persons cast ballots, one of which was spoiled, compared to 891 voters (including 5 spoiled votes) in the June 8 election. In that election, voters approved a request for one mill for 5 years to purchase buses.

The district's current tax rate is 26.6 mills.

Prior to Thursday's election, Landeryou had predicted that the district would have to make cuts if the millage request were defeated. The cuts, including possibly not replacing Walsh, implementing split classrooms in the elementary school and reducing supplies, would be necessary to make up for decreases in the district's state equalized valuation.

The district's SEV dropped from $75 million in 1985 to $63 million this year.

Veteran Ubly drag racer dies in crash

A veteran drag racer, well-known to fans in the area, lost control of his car in a race at Ubly Drag Strip Sunday afternoon and was fatally injured when his car hit a utility pole.

Dead on arrival at Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe was Gary Mardlin, 45, of Lake Orion.

Mardlin had been racing against a motorcycle driven by Ron Hunyady of Flint. He reached a speed of 155 miles per hour before the crash and drivers say that he never knew that the motorcycle fouled and that he had won the race.

Mardlin lost control when the right rear wheel of his car veered from the asphalt track to the dirt shoulder.

The car returned to the hard surface but left the road again and hit the utility pole that was more than 2 miles from the finish line. The pole was severed by the impact.

The car was an assembled fiberglass replica of a 1986 Chevrolet Camaro. The "Jaws of Life" were used to get the driver from the wrecked car.

Observers speculated that the wind may have been a factor in the crash. The victim had been down the track hundreds of times before. Drivers decided to turn over the proceeds from the races to the victim's family. Mardlin's wife and 2 sons were at the track at the time of the accident.

HDC receives $43,000 grant

The Caro-based Human Development Commission is one of 12 nonprofit groups which will share $757,584 in grants to help provide shelter for Michigan's homeless, Gov. James J. Blanchard announced last week.

The grants are the second round of awards made from a $1 million program for the homeless established by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

The HDC, which serves Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer counties, will receive $43,000.

According to HDC Director Mary Ann Vandemark, the money will be used in conjunction with HDC funds for a $75,000 project involving the purchase and rehabilitation of a house to provide shelter and other services to victims of domestic and sexual assault.

"It (the money) will be used as a down payment on the home," Vandemark remarked. She said that the shelter, a limited-stay facility, will house 6 to 7 families (up to 26 persons), compared to 4 families at an existing shelter.

The location of the house is confidential for safety reasons, Vandemark said.

She added that the additional space has been in demand for some time.

"We've had so much utilization at the (current) facility that we've been sending people to Flint and Saginaw," she said. "We just haven't been able to house them all."

Vandemark, who noted that the facility has been used "much more than you would have thought," noted that many potential clients "may accept help, but don't want to go into the city" for shelter.

"We're very, very pleased," she continued. "We'll expand and we won't have to transport people to other areas."

While the number of clients will increase with the new facility, the staff will remain the same, according to Vandemark. The staff currently consists of 4 full-time employees, 2 part-time workers, one on-call employee and 25 volunteers.

To see pope in Detroit

Surplus tickets at area Catholic churches

Officials at 3 area Catholic churches have finalized transportation plans to the Pontiac Silverdome for a handful of parishioners who plan to see Pope John Paul II in person when he visits Sept. 19.

According to local church officials, the number of tickets allotted to the churches far outnumber the persons planning to go so far.

The Sept. 19 visit will be the last stop on the pope's 10-day, 8-city tour of the United States.

The pope, who will make public appearances in Hamtramck at about 8 a.m. and again just before noon at the Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit, will say mass at the Silverdome beginning at 5 p.m.

Among the some 90,000 persons expected to pack into the Silverdome will be some parishioners from St.

Pancratius in Cass City, St. Agatha's in Gagetown and St. Michael's in Wilmet.

The Rev. Julius Spleet, pastor at St. Pancratius, stated that members of his church who plan to see the pope will board a bus leaving at 10:30 a.m. from St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Mayville. Also taking that bus will be members of St. Michael's Church, Wilmet, and St. Joseph's.

Spleet, who noted that tickets for the mass won't be mailed until after Sept. 11, added that the 20 tickets allotted to his church are "certainly far from being used up."

About 10 persons from St. Michael's are expected to make the trip, according to the Rev. Jim Falsey, who said that his church was allotted 16 tickets.

Six members of St. Agatha's, meanwhile, plan to make the trip, according to Sharon Wood, one of those who will see the pope in person.

The church was allotted 18 tickets, according to Wood, who noted that transportation arrangements were finalized Monday. Members will share a charter bus with members of other churches, including St. Hedwig in Bay City, where the bus will begin the trip.

According to local church officials, members of individual parishes in the state must make group travel arrangements because cars won't be allowed near the Silverdome. Only after such arrangements are made will the tickets be issued.

Each church is allotted a certain number of tickets for the mass based on the number of families in a parish. Any tickets not used by a parish will go to a parish with a waiting list, officials say.

Organizers of the mass have released a number of rules regarding the event. Persons attending the celebration will not be allowed to take cameras (picture or video), food, purses or bags into the Silverdome.

The Michigan State Police, meanwhile, are reminding those traveling by bus to Detroit or Hamtramck for the pope's public appearances that all buses, whether church-related or privately leased, must have a permit to park.

Applications are available from the Detroit Police Department, and organizers advise that requests be made as early as possible. The permits, which include directions to a designated parking area, can be obtained by writing to: Detroit Police Department, Papal Planning Task Force, 1300 Beaubien, Detroit, 48226.

DEFORD RESIDENTS Adolph and Jennie Mozdzen are anxiously anticipating attending a Mass officiated by Pope John Paul II in the Pontiac Silverdome Sept. 19. (Story page 16)

"If It Fitz..."

Dirty looks

By Jim Fitzgerald

According to my research, there is absolutely nothing funny you can say to someone who asks you to "please put out that (!&*%$ cigar."

I did my research by reading a book titled "101 Ways to Answer the Request 'Would You Please Put Out That (!&*%$ Cigar.'" It was written by five comedy writers hired by the Cigar Association of America and published by Simon & Schuster (127 pages, $5.95).

If someone at a class reunion asks you to put out your cigar, this book says you should answer: "Does the smoke bother your nose job?" If the request is made at the racetrack, your answer should be: "If I can't smoke near a lowlife like you, where can I smoke?"

Obviously, this book is as funny as cancer. Its apparent intent is to furnish cigar smokers with snappy retorts for use on louts self-enough to want to breathe the pure air. The ultimate hope is that a clever insult, delivered with an I'm only-kidding smile, might charm the smoke-hater into forgiving the smoker his pollution.

fuses to be disarmed by a witty remark, and continues to demand that you extinguish the cigar, you will at least have the satisfaction of being nasty to someone who interfered with your freedom to enjoy a cigar.

As one who occasionally enjoys a cigar, I was eager to read 101 ways to defend myself against pure-air addicts. It is my experience that people don't verbally ask me to put out my cigar; instead, they send dirty looks my way. I usually don't see these dirty looks, but my wife can spot one on the other side of a wall. So what I was actually looking for was 101 ways to charm my wife into not telling me a woman in Toledo wrinkled her nose when I lit my cigar in Detroit.

But the Cigar Association's book offers no advice on the use of wit in the disarming of women embarrassed to be married to cigar smokers. The closest it comes is this remark from a new bridegroom when his bride first discovers he smokes cigars: "Gosh darling, our first fight. And just think, we'll be able to repeat it every time I light up."

Har har.

In the interest of justice, it should be noted that I quit cigars in 1954, when the surgeon general was an intern private. I never smoke cigars at home, at work or in the car. I used to average one cigar a week, but now it's more like one a month because of the increasing shortage of places without dirty looks. I even hesitate to light up at open-air Tiger Stadium although cigar smokers continually ignore the no-smoking signs in such enclosed stadiums as Joe Louis Arena and the Silverdome.

I used to feel safe lighting up in the smoking sections of restaurants, but lately too many menus announce in snooty italics: "No cigars or pipes anywhere, please." Such blatant discrimination has forced me to drop the average-sized cigar I enjoyed for 30 years in favor of dinky cigarette-sized cigars that I hide in one hand and pull under the table while pretending to retrieve a dropped napkin.

The point is that I'm really a sterling fellow who tries mightily to offend no one with my cigar. But still there seems to be no secure sanctuary from dirty looks, and increasingly I'm persuaded that small puffs of pleasure snuck in the fringe of Big Brother's glare aren't worth the (!&*%$ trouble.

Management has banned all smoking in the downtown Free Press building except in designated areas on the ground floor, a long trip for several tobacco-stained journalists who swear they can't work at their desks without smoking. When my cigarette-smoking co-workers are asked 101 times to snuff their butts, I'll sympathize with them.

And I'll root for them to come up with funnier answers than the Cigar Association of America did. At least funnier than cancer.

The Haire Net

When you think about it, it really doesn't make much sense. There's really no rational reason why a sports fan is a sports fan. Especially a professional sports fan.

Understanding becoming emotionally involved with a local team is easy. You know the kids, how hard they work, how hard they try. It may not be your kid out there, but in small towns like Cass City it most certainly is the kid next door or down the block.

To a lesser extent it's the same at the college level. Theoretically, at least, the guys on the gridiron on Saturday afternoon are amateurs and the color of the game can stir emotions.

In professional sports you don't have that excuse.

Let's take the Detroit Tigers for instance. They are composed of the most part of a bunch of guys that could care less about Detroit. The vast majority live thousands of miles away. That makes no difference to all of the dyed-in-the-wool Tiger nuts. We immediately take to our hearts the enemies of a few short years or in some instances a few short days ago. Right now our heroes are Doyle Alexander and Bill Madlock, veteran performers who have played for teams all over the leagues and next year may very well move on again.

Despite all this I remain a Tiger fan and not like some of the fair weather fans who are fans when they win or tie. It's been Detroit for me when they were champions and when they finished dead last.

Perhaps that's one of the reasons that, despite all reason, what the Tigers do is important to me. The Tigers are all wrapped in nostalgia. Waiting all night to see a world series game in 1935, buying tickets on the sidewalk to see the Tigers lose to the Athletics, sitting in the bleachers in 1984 and sneaking off from work in the late 1940's to see Detroit being creamed by the Yankees in a futile bid to win the pennant are vivid memories.

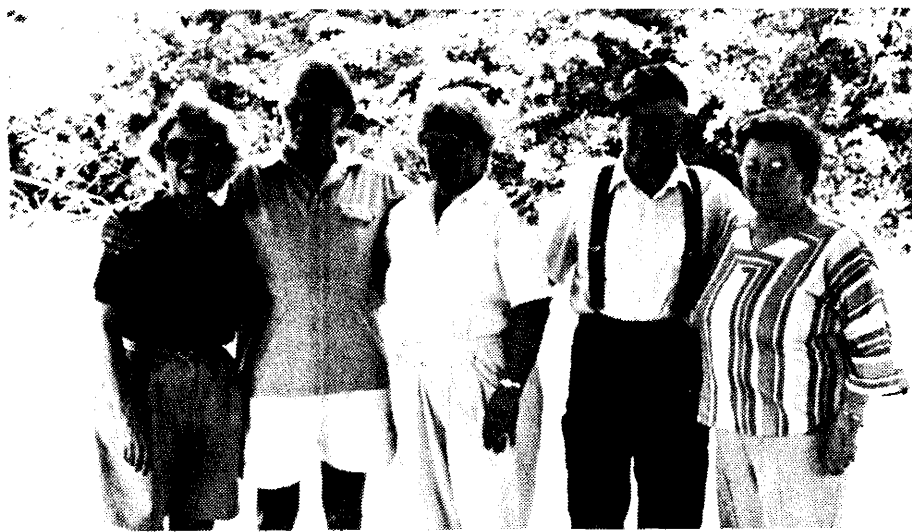

What's more they are associated with friends and events that come immediately to mind when the incidents are recalled.

That's part of the explanation, but certainly not all. For me there's no explaining why I am a fan. It's like waking in the morning and shaving, a fact of life.

It's strange to care if the Tigers win or lose, but I'm happy that I do. That botched commercial printing job or mistake in a key story is the farthest thing from my mind when the team trails by a run in the ninth and has runners on second and third.

We don't buy the tale fostered in Big Town that the Tigers winning unites the town and averts racial strife. We do say that there's a happy glow when the Tigers take over first in the pennant race. If you are not into it, you are missing something.

Cass City's business community is bustling these days. New stores will open in the very near future.

In the building that formerly housed Albee Hardware, a new store has signed a lease and another is expected to sign and share the building. Remodeling of the building is scheduled.

A new children's store is coming in October. In addition, Sally Doerr Dance Studio has moved on Main Street and Special Scents is moving to the former Kids' Village store, also on Main Street.

Our congratulations to Charmont, which won the Michigan Class C slowpitch championship last week, and Osentoski Realty of Bad Axe, which copped the state Class B title.

More on this next week.

Area schools are open or due to open shortly and a reminder is in order. In the past 5 years an average of 93 youngsters, 5-14, died in traffic accidents and over 10,000 were injured.

Statistics reveal that most times the student is at fault and one of the leading causes of accidents is crossing the road at mid-block.

The Department of Natural Resources will auction off 1,300 acres of surplus property divided into 3,201 sale units at 5 auctions at various sites in September.

Sale booklets containing property descriptions are available at all area county courthouses. Mineral rights are reserved and land in Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron Counties is included.

Immunizations

Act 299, Public Acts of 1975, authorized the Director of the Michigan Department of Public Health to specify, by regulation, the immunizations and tests required of all children enrolling in Michigan schools for the first time. This year the following immunizations are required: Diphtheria, Tetanus, Rubella, Pertussis, Measles, Poliomyelitis.

In addition, each new school entry must have had a vision screening test.

The parent or guardian who, because of religious or other convictions, does not want his child protected from these diseases must submit a signed statement to that effect.

As part of our school admission procedure for your child, we must enforce the law stated above. We must have the health record or a similar statement in order to admit your child officially to school.

If you have questions about this, please consult your local school, your doctor, or the Thumb District Health Department.

Guidance and Counseling

The school guidance program is designed to assist students who have personal and social concerns, and to help students design academic programs to meet their individual needs and abilities. College admission and financial aid assistance is provided for students interested in continuing their schooling after graduation. One of the programs designed to benefit both the student and the community is the co-operative education program. Under this program, some students are placed in on-the-job work situations for part of each school day. Students and parents desiring more information are encouraged to contact the guidance offices.

Emergency School Closing

Special announcements concerning school closing will be made through the following public service facilities: Radio WKYO -- Caro, Radio WMIC -- Sandusky, Radio WLEW -- Bad Axe.

Announcements will be made as soon as a decision is reached.

Free and Reduced Price Student Meals

The Cass City Public Schools policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast or Commodity School Programs uses the following household size and income criteria to determine eligibility:

Total Family Size	Scale for Free Meals and Free Milk	Scale for Reduced-Price Meals
1	$7,150	$10,175
2	9,620	13,690
3	12,090	17,205
4	14,560	20,720
5	17,030	24,235
6	19,500	27,750
7	21,970	31,265
8	24,440	34,780
Each additional family member	+ 2,470	+ 3,515

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free and reduced-price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-priced meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school. Households should answer all questions on the form. An application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: (1) the total household income AND the amount and source of income received by each household member (such as wages, child support, etc.); OR the household's food stamp case or AFDC number if the household is on food stamps or receives AFDC; (2) names of all household members; (3) social security numbers of all household members 21 years of age or older, or the word "none" for any adult household member who does not have a social security number; and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

Food Stamp/AFDC Households: If you currently receive Food Stamps or "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" (AFDC) for your child, you only have to list your child's name and Food Stamp or AFDC case number, print your name and sign the application.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced-price meals, the household must report to the school increases in household income over $50 per month ($600 per year) and decreases in household size.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

In most cases foster children are eligible for these benefits regardless of the household's income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for free or reduced-price meals for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

Under the provisions of the policy each building principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

Parents and guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing Jo Donald Crouse, Superintendent, Cass City Public Schools, 4868 North Seeger Street, Cass City, Michigan 48726 (Telephone 517-872-2200). Each school and the Superintendent's office have a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

In the operation of the child feeding programs no child will be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Lakers team to beat

25-player squad preps for grid opener

The best guess is that the Cass City Red Hawks will finish somewhere in the middle of the pack in the Thumb B Association this fall as Coach Don Schelke's charges struggle to replace players at the skill positions that were lost by graduation.

The veteran Hawk coach says that experience in the offensive backfield and at end are major problems. The positions were among the best manned in 1986 with Jeff Lefler, Ken Pasanski and Dennis Ziemba piling up yardage in the backfield and Dan Ware and Pete Leiterman giving size and experience at the end positions. Replacing them will be a major problem. Also gone is Gary Suzor, who split time at quarterback and was available for defense. Sure to be sorely missed are Dennis Steely at center, Tony Yost at tackle and Jim Hahn at guard.

That's the bad news. There is good news, too. There are 11 lettermen back to anchor the team. Eight of the 11 were starters last year. One of them is Jeremy Capps, who will be starting his third year at quarterback. In past years he's shown ability to produce in the clutch and isn't afraid to take charge when the going gets tough. Darin

Monroe is expected to be at fullback and, at 6 feet and 178 pounds, will provide needed blocking and punch at this important position. Mike Mikolon, a 5-10, 170-pound guard, is a proven competitor around which to build a line. Jeff Sontag will be at a halfback spot and Mark Hirn will also be counted on as a running back.

Veteran linemen who were starters last year in addition to Mikolon are Greg Hanby, a 210-pound tackle; Chuck Merchant, 175-pound center, and Al Rosenstangel, 160-pound guard. Other lettermen sure to see plenty of action are Reed Keyser and Ray Stachura. All the lettermen are seniors.

What well may decide just how good the 1987 Hawks will be is the play of a very good crop of juniors up from the junior varsity. These players posted the best record of any Cass City junior varsity team in recent years, losing just one game all season. About half the squad, 12 of the 25-man roster, are juniors and how quickly they adjust to varsity competition will go a long way in determining the success of the team.

THE COMPETITION

As usual, the Lakers are considered the team to beat, Coach Schelke feels, followed by North Branch, traditionally strong in football, and the Vassar Vulcans. Last year Cass City ended 5-4 overall and 4-3 in the Thumb B Association.

THE CASS CITY CHAMBER of Commerce Fun Day Thursday attracted an estimated 100 to play cards and golf and enjoy a steak dinner. The golf scramble tournament featured special requirements for every hole. Two teams tied for first with par 34 scores. One team included, from left, John Haire, Bob Ridenour, Alden Asher and Phil Retherford (front). The other team, from left, Charles Alley, Dick Erla, Clark Boylan and Joe Male. $350 Hereford cow shot on Sanilac Road

A complaint filed earlier this month by a Kingston man involving the shooting of his cow remains under investigation by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Stuart D. Copeland, 6935 E. Sanilac Rd., told deputies Aug. 7 that someone shot one of his Hereford cows sometime after Aug.

2 but before Aug. 6. The 5-month-old animal, which weighed 400 to 500 pounds, is valued at $350.

Ray and Shirley Spaulding, 3551 E. Caro Rd., Cass City, reported their mailbox smashed and their lawn damaged Aug. 8.

The damage apparently was done by a northbound vehicle, which ran off the shoulder of the road and into a ditch before leaving the scene, according to a report on the incident.

A stone with a hole in it is considered lucky by some.

Fishing's fine, say local anglers

A smallmouth bass 17 inches long and weighing 3 pounds was caught by Corey Harmon, 20, and Rodney Romain, 13, both of Cass City. It hit a spinner and twister while the pair were fishing in the Cass River, south of the village. It put up a big fight, the 2 anglers agreed.

Besides these 2 veterans, there are 3 other girls with varsity experience. Lisa Nicholas, 5-9 senior, can play either center or forward, and Krista Nurnberger, 5-5 senior guard, is expected to play a key role on defense.

Three juniors and a pair of sophomores round out the squad. All are expected to see plenty of action. The juniors are Amy Francis, Andrea Isard and Heather Merchant. The sophomores who showed the talent necessary to jump to the varsity are Sue Papp and Beth Powell.

HEALTH TIPS

Immunotherapy may fight lung cancer

Lung cancer patients' own killer cells may hold hope for effective future treatment of their disease.

Richard D. deShazo, M.D., of the Veterans Administration Research Service and Tulane Medical School in New Orleans, Louisiana, said that new immunologic therapies will be an important factor in the treatment of cancers of various types and other diseases involving abnormalities in the immune system. He presented his findings at the recent Annual Meeting of the American Lung Association, the Christmas Seal People, in New Orleans.

Cytotoxic lymphocytes are white blood cells that play a key role in the body's defense against cancer. One type of these cells, LAK cells, can be removed from the blood of lung cancer patients, grown in the presence of the immune stimulator interleukin 2 (IL-2) and returned to the same patient in an amount large enough to cause tumor shrinkage.

"Another type of cytotoxic cell, natural killer cells, although present in normal lungs, has decreased activity in the lungs of lung cancer patients," Dr. deShazo said. "Our study shows, however, that these cells can be found in the circulating blood of these patients."

The outlook is hopeful because lung cancer patients have lymphocytes that can be stimulated in culture to produce normal levels of NK and LAK cell activity. Thus, therapies using biological response modifiers such as IL-2 and interferon can be applied to lung cancer patients, as their cytotoxic cells retain the ability to respond to these activators.

"Although only a small percentage of the patients treated with such therapies so far responded significantly, it must be remembered that immunotherapy is still in an early experimental state of development," Dr. deShazo said.

Your neighbor says

No interest in flying

Investigators of the devastating crash of Northwest Airlines Flight 255 Aug. 16 say it could be months before they know for sure what caused the fiery disaster.

The tragic end of Flight 255, a modified DC-9, left some 154 persons dead, including 2 persons on the ground. Only one passenger on the flight, a 4-year-old girl, survived.

Witnesses said the plane crashed in a busy area near Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, striking a rental car business before hitting the ground and destroying 30 to 40 parked cars. The crash, the first fatal accident for Northwest in some 24 years, is being called one of the worst in years both state and nationwide.

Your neighbor, Ruth Webb of Snover, says she has no interest in flying. "I've never been on a plane; I never really wanted to," she remarked, adding, "I doubt I would fly, unless it was an emergency. I don't know."

Webb's attitude toward taking to the "friendly skies" isn't based solely on the risks involved. The recent airline crash was terrible, but other forms of travel are equally dangerous, she pointed out. "Of course, you're not safe on the roads, either. You can even walk out in your yard" and get hurt, she added.

Originally from Marlette, Webb has lived in the Snover area since 1958. She and her husband, the late Franklin B. Webb, have no children, but she does have relatives—a brother-in-law and his wife, Ron and Iva Webb—living in Cass City.

Cpl. Finley

Mediterranean

Marine Lance Cpl. Daniel A. Finley recently returned from a 6-month Mediterranean deployment with the 26th Marine Amphibious Unit, Camp Lejeune, N.C., as part of Landing Force 6th Fleet 2-87.

Cpl. Daniel A. Finley

During the deployment, Finley participated in 5 combined amphibious exercises and one unilateral joint amphibious exercise. And, for the first time in 15 years, Marines conducted an exercise on the island of Corsica which allowed the landing force to practice and refine special operations techniques developed during their pre-deployment training.

A 1983 graduate of Kingston Community High School, Finley, 22, is the son of Raymond G. and Betty L. Finley, 4242 English Rd., Kingston.

Finley, who joined the Marine Corps in December 1983, is one of 4 brothers who have served or are serving in the armed forces.

Final disaster assistance

payments being processed

U.S. Senator Donald Riegle last week announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has begun to distribute the remaining 24 percent of the disaster assistance payments authorized in this year's Supplemental Appropriations bill.

Late last month, Senators Riegle and Levin had written to the Department of Agriculture expressing concern that processing delays in payments were preventing Michigan farmers from receiving the additional 24 percent which they qualified for under the terms of the program.

Last year Congress approved 76 percent of these payments to farmers. The remaining payments were authorized by Congress this year.

Riegle said, "Michigan farmers have been forestalling creditors for several months in anticipation of these additional funds. Further delay in obtaining payments would be very harmful to both producers and creditors. Around 6,000 Michigan farmers are due $23 million in assistance, for last year's heavy flooding. I'm very pleased that this aid which we fought hard for is finally on the way to the farmers who need it."

The USDA began distribution of disaster assistance payments last week and should complete distribution by the end of this week.

9 area youths help fix homes

Nine youths from the Argyle and Shabbona United Methodist Churches spent part of their summer vacations repairing and restoring homes in Mingo County, W.V. for the Appalachia Service Project (ASP).

The ASP is a home repair

Bee beards

A bee-coming beard: Every year, beekeepers and their bees gather for a contest to determine who can "grow" the longest or most impressive beard of live honeybees -- and do so without swallowing a mouthful of stingers. According to National Wildlife magazine, a Pennsylvania State University student currently holds the record for the most bees piled on a person: He tipped the scales with some 20 pounds of bees.

project affiliated with the Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church. It uses volunteer labor to make substantial repairs on the homes of economically disadvantaged families in Appalachia.

"This was the third ASP work project for these midthumb churches which are part of the Decker parish in the Port Huron District," the Rev. Peter Crawford said.

"Though a few in the group who had not been to ASP before were skeptical about what they would find, they all were satisfied with the work when their week was completed on July 3 and they headed back," he added.

According to Pastor Crawford, part of what makes ASP an enjoyable experience is the joining together with other work groups from U.M. churches from other states. Each morning and evening there were scheduled opportunities for Christian fellowship and recreation. Friendships are quickly made when you share an elementary school classroom as a bedroom with 20 other people from all over the U.S. he remarked.

The Argyle and Shabbona UMYF raised most of the funds to finance their way, as well as the support for adults who accompanied them. This year the UMYF sold candy, held a bake auction, and held a pop can drive to help raise much of the project's $2,000 cost.

Those attending the ASP were Jeff Bader, Brenda Severance, Kris King, Nancy Willerton, Edna Willerton, Duane Hadrich, Rick Pfaff, Kathy Rockwell and Dennielle MacAlpine. Youth leaders were Carl Broecker, Tom Foote, Teena Allen and Pastor Crawford and his wife, Kay.

Sept. 1 in Cass City

Circus coming to town

THERE WILL BE clowns aplenty when the Kelly-Miller Brothers Circus comes to town Sept. 1.

Few programs that have been brought into the Cass City area received such wide acclaim as the Kelly-Miller Brothers Circus when it played here July 7, 1985, at the Cass City Recreational Park.

Now the sponsor 2 years ago, the Cass City Rotary, is bringing back the same circus. Because of its wide popularity, the date available in the Cass City area was Tuesday, Sept. 1. That is also the first day of classes at most area schools.

In addition to bringing quality entertainment back, Rotarians hope that the circus will be profitable. That's because all profits will be used to help fill the club's $5,000 commitment to the polio-plus drive. Polio-plus is the name given to Rotary's international campaign to immunize the world's children against polio, which kills 27,000 and cripples 10 times that many every year. Rotary International's goal is $32 million for polio-plus.

The circus will again feature a big 3-ring show with wild animals, elephants, horses, ponies and arena stars from all nations.

Two performances are scheduled, one at 4:30 p.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are on sale at either Cass City drug store or from any member of the Cass City Rotary.

Residents can get a free preview of the circus activities by coming to the park on the morning of the performances and watching the big top being erected.

THE CHOICE by Henry Denker (fiction). Walter Duncan is an outstanding orthopedic surgeon at a prestigious midwestern hospital. Duncan is dedicated and compassionate, but his professional commitment often results in neglect of his wife and daughter, even though he tells himself they are getting "quality time." His newest patient is a promising young tennis star who has contracted osteogenic sarcoma (bone cancer). He handles Amy Bedford's case brilliantly, but just as his patient begins to recover, Duncan's own daughter is stricken with leukemia. Duncan must now confront himself, his wife and his profession as well as the gloomy prospects that lie ahead.

COUNTRY KITCHENS REMEMBERED: A MEMOIR WITH FAVORITE FAMILY RECIPES by Marilyn Kluger (non-fiction). Marilyn Kluger spent her childhood on a southern Indiana farm in the 1930s, and she rhapsodizes about a pressed-glass spoon holder, her mother's precise rendition of angel food cake, the peddler's wagon, her father's orchard, washdays, threshing day, Thanksgiving and Christmas, and Jewel, whom she calls "the hired girl" although she was married to a cousin. The hearty, uncomplicated fare reflects some German influence and includes a variety of pies (chocolate cream, chicken pot, green grape, green tomato, buttermilk, mince, sorghum nut, boiled cider, peach custard, blackberry, chess and golden delicious apple), as well as chicken-fried beefsteak and milk gravy, and roast goose with sauerkraut and apple stuffing.

HEIRESS by Janet Daily (fiction). Born into a wealthy Texas family, Abby Lawson grows up on the beautiful, sprawling ranch where her father Dean breeds Arabian horses; in California, her illegitimate sister Rachel aches for the father she rarely sees. After the two square off at Dean's funeral, Abby's initial anger turns to shock when she finds Rachel has inherited while she and her mother not only are saddled with debts but lose their home to the interloper, who marries well and promptly sets out to duplicate the life her half-sister has enjoyed all along. The bitterness between the two escalates yearly as they cross paths and swords, using husbands, lovers and children as ammunition in their war.

College strengthens Loeding's career

"Being in the Business Administration curriculum at Great Lakes Junior College is helping strengthen my present career," says Dwight Loeding, a real estate agent for Kelly and Company in Cass City and Caro.

"The marketing and accounting courses I'm taking have been a great benefit to me."

Loeding, 26, a father of three children and a Cass City resident says the flexibility of offering day and night classes at the Caro campus has really helped him balance his time between college and a career.

Although he has attended a realtor's school during the past few years, Loeding decided that he needed to take his education a bit further.

"I just believe that education can never hurt you. I need the education to make myself better."

Loeding says he tries to spend as much quality time as possible with his 2 sons and daughter.

"It's much easier attending school out here instead of driving to Saginaw," he said. "Also, because I work in the area, it's only a few minutes away to attend classes."

A recent dean's list student during winter term, Loeding says that Great

Letters to the editor

DNR spokesman expresses thanks for community interest

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Department of Natural Resources, I wish to express our appreciation to many fine citizens of the Thumb Area community who helped make the recent dedication of the Cass City Field Office a success.

Over 200 people attended the dedication ceremonies, and besides the obvious DNR connection, they were treated to a truly community celebration.

Those attending the event were treated to free hot dogs, cookies, and soft drinks, which were courteously provided by Croft-Clara Lumber of Cass City, Caro Concrete, Caro True Value Hardware, and McDonald's of Caro. Refreshments were served by representatives of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce. A thank you should also go to representatives of WKYO Radio in Caro who helped alert area residents of the dedication through a remote broadcast from the site of the new office during the open house.

Lastly, 2 members of the DNR community merit our praise. Mr. Thomas J. Anderson of Southgate made the long trip north with his wife, Marge, to deliver the keynote address. And, Jim Melin, Fire Officer assigned to the Cass City Field Office, was most instrumental in planning and organizing the day's events.

It is easy to see what I mean by community involvement in this event. I salute every resident of the 3-county area who took an interest in our dedication. They, and everyone else residing in the Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac County area, are encouraged to stop by the office (located on M-81, 4 miles west of Cass City) for a visit. We hope to be of service to you for many, many years.

Sincerely,
Michael D. Moore
Deputy Director
517-322-5112

Lakes' emphasis on the business world, and its expectations, has really been a benefit to him.

Loeding was familiar with Great Lakes Junior College because his sister had attended, when it was known as Saginaw Business Institute, and graduated in 1984.

Loeding plans on graduating from Great Lakes in the fall of 1988.

"I'd like to remain in the area and also stay in the real estate field," he says. "The educational experience acts as a good reinforcement."

Dwight Loeding

Mozdzens say seeing pope will bring them closer to their faith

When thousands of people immigrated to America from Poland between 1900-1910, chances are none of them ever even dreamed their children could ever see a pope, or that a pope would be chosen from their motherland.

But in 1987 Adolph and Jennie Mozdzens, the children of Polish immigrants, are looking forward to seeing Pope John Paul II celebrate Mass at the Pontiac Silverdome Saturday, Sept. 19.

"My parents came from Poland in 1905. At that time they were all coming over," Jennie said.

"Back in those days the pope never traveled so they never figured they would ever get a chance to see him," Adolph added.

Some 90,000 people are expected to fill the Silverdome to catch a glimpse of the pope.

The announcement of plans for his American tour came last year while the Mozdzens were in Florida spending the winter.

"When they first started talking about it we had sort of decided we were going to go to Florida earlier this year and see him in Miami," Adolph remarked.

When word came in January of the pope's stop in Detroit, however, the Mozdzens breathed a sigh of relief.

"It's better to see him up here. It's a long way to Miami and we'd hate to go there right now," Adolph explained.

SPEAKING POLISH

The Mozdzens have a clipping on their refrigerator door with an itinerary for the pontiff's visit to Detroit. Included in the 23-hour visit is a speech to be made on the main street in Hamtramck Saturday morning.

The pontiff will make his speech in Polish, which Adolph and Jennie say they both speak.

"I write and read it, too," Adolph said.

The language was not passed on to their children, however.

"We had 7 children and none of them speak it," Jennie remarked.

About 30,000 people are expected to attend the speech in Hamtramck.

"They're telling restaurants to stay open because people will be there all night to make sure they get a good spot to see the pope," Jennie pointed out.

The couple had planned on attending the speech by themselves, but elected instead to go with fellow parishioners at St. Michael's of Wilmot. Jennie said they registered to go recently.

Their ambition and enthusiasm about seeing the pope stems from a yearning to have a deeper sense of their faith.

"There's a certain kind of urge in my heart that says I have to, that I should go to see him -- this may be the last opportunity we'll have to see him," Adolph explained.

"I think he'll bring us closer to our faith, that's all we live for, now," he concluded.

Jennie gave another reason for their anticipation.

"We're Catholics and he's our leader, so naturally we're going to be excited to see him. He's Polish and we're also of Polish descent and his being the first Polish pope is something great, too," she explained.

The rumors of the overcrowding and discomfort they may experience in order to see the pope don't deter them at all, they say.

"I'm sure once we see the pope any discomfort will be gone. We know already it's going to be a long day, but it'll be worth it," Adolph said.

Eating Great Lakes fish topic of extension bulletin

Many questions about eating Great Lakes fish arise because of people's concern about contaminants. A new Michigan Sea Grant Extension bulletin, "Eating Great Lakes Fish," answers these questions.

Where do contaminants come from? What are the major contaminants in the Great Lakes? How do contaminants get into fish? How can you tell if a fish is contaminated? How can contaminants in Great Lakes fish affect human health? Who is supposed to ensure that the fish are safe to eat? What precautions can people take to reduce exposure to contaminants in Great Lakes fish? The bulletin answers these questions and more.

The publication can help both people who worry about eating Great Lakes fish because they've heard about toxic substances and those who ignore fish consumption advisories because they see no ill effects from the fish they eat.

Michigan residents may obtain a free copy of "Eating Great Lakes Fish" by contacting the nearest county Cooperative Extension Service office, or by requesting bulletin E-2028 from the MSU Bulletin Office, P.O. Box 6640, East Lansing, MI 48826-6640. Additional copies are available at 25 cents each.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Where are interest rates going? That's a common question tossed at me. I never try to answer it.

A couple dozen of the top economists at America's biggest brokerage houses make two forecasts a year, predicting what the yield on long Treasury's will be six months hence. Last December their average guess for the June 30 level of rates was 7.05%. Indeed, a cluster diagram showed the most X's between 6.7% and 7.10%.

The actual rate on the long governments on June 30 was 8.5%.

A lot of phenologists did that well.

In 1948, Gerrit Baker, oft-quoted in these columns for his E-bond investments right after the war, plunked down $15,000 in these government securities, then called U.S. Savings bonds. The $15,000 was after-tax profits from his car dealership in Gary, Indiana. (Ah! Those were the days.)

The $15,000 then could have bought 10 Chevy Bel Airs, the top of the line, at $1,500 apiece.

Today, he still has the bonds. If he cashed them in and paid the income tax resulting, he would have about $74,000, which would buy him 7.4 Chevrolets.

Gerrit admits the 1987's would have some features such as air conditioning and automatic transmissions, and all around would be a better car.

Adjusting for this you could say the popular savings bonds of the U.S. government have enabled him to break even despite inflation.

Straight governments in most of those years paid higher rates, but they didn't offer the tax-deferral feature of the E bonds (or Savings bonds).

Offhand, I'd guess that a person in a medium high tax bracket could have done better in tax-exempt bonds, and of course compounding the income.

Right now the current rate, good until Oct. 1, 1987, is 5.84%.

Minimum rate for bonds bought since Nov., 1986, is 6%.

Rates are based on 85% of the market average on 5-year governments.

These savings bonds offer the features of tax deferral until they are cashed in. They can also be bought in small denominations for as little as $25 (face value is always twice the purchase price). The time it takes the bonds to reach the face value depends on interest rates. If rates stay at present levels, about 12.5 years will see their value double.

Let's compare with tax exemptions. You spend $100 for the savings bonds. In 12 years, you get $200, but $100 of this is subject to tax. Say your rate is 28%. Then: Pre-tax income... $100 Less 28% tax... $28 Net after tax... $72

Or: Buy $100 worth of 0% tax exempts, due in 12 years to yield 8%. Maturity value will be... $256.

There is no tax, so the net gain is $156 over your investment. Compare to the $72 net from the government savings bonds.

You pay a high fee for the features of such U.S. bonds.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.

teers. Vandemark said that she hopes to have the house, which will replace the existing facility, completed and begin operation by Dec. 1.

The shelter project calls for some $10,000 in renovation work, she explained, adding that the grant and HDC funds will be used to furnish the $35,000 to $42,000 house.
