AGES PLUS 3 SUPPLEMENTS

TUSCOLA COUNTY CONTROLLER Michael Hoagland (standing) and Commissioner Michael Green (far left) discussed financial trends and options, regarding serious financial difficulties being experienced by the county, during a press conference Friday. Also in attendance was county board Chairman William Worth.

County service cut or tax boost certain, say officials

Tuscola County officials re-emphasized existing and projected future financial woes last week, saying that either major service cuts or a tax increase is inevitable within the next 2 budget years.

County Board of Commissioners Chairman William Worth, Commissioner Michael Green and county Controller Michael Hoagland presented current and projected financial trends to reporters during a press conference Friday in Caro.

Green, who serves as chairman of the board's finance committee, also is on an ad hoc committee studying plans for the county's 1988 budget.

That committee, which also includes commissioners Kim D. Glaspie and Christopher Taylor, is expected to make recommendations to the full board during a Sept. 8 regular meeting.

Green pointed out 4 major factors regarding the county's financial situation. He noted that Tuscola

County has the lowest operating millage (4.2 mills) and has sustained the greatest percentage drop in state equalized valuation over the past 2 years (17 percent) among Michigan counties; that a third consecutive drop in SEV of 7 percent is projected for 1988, and that the county has sustained the loss of some $500,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

"It may be good for the taxpayer, (but) it's also very difficult for us to maintain the service base," Green remarked. "I feel basically that we've cut all the fat in our budget."

"Not only are we losing operating money, we're losing special millage money too," he continued, adding that declining property values, primarily agricultural land, are cutting into millage revenues.

OTHER REVENUE

Green said that officials are investigating the possibility of supplementing operational revenue in the 1988 budget with funds from other sources, such as banked federal revenue sharing and delinquent tax revolving fund monies.

Although county officials have looked into increasing user fees and similar measures to help cover existing and future shortfalls, Green acknowledged that a tax increase is "the only revenue we can see that could offset the expected costs. Either we're going to lose a big chunk of services in the county or we're going to have a tax increase."

According to Hoagland, county officials expect expenses to exceed revenues this year by more than $300,000.

"The county is very dependent on SEV," he explained. "Sixty percent of our total revenue generated comes from the property tax."

Hoagland stated that the county's SEV dropped by 6.3 percent in 1986-87 (a loss of $184,000 in property taxes), and 11.5 percent in 1987-88 (a loss of $317,000). The projected drop in 1988-89 would mean a loss of an additional $176,000, he said, adding that those losses in conjunction with the elimination of federal revenue sharing funds are the culprits in the county's troubled finances.

Hoagland pointed out that even if land values increased drastically, the county wouldn't be able to reap the benefits, at least not at the same rate, because of the Headlee Amendment. The SEV can't rise any faster than the Consumer Price Index, he said.

In terms of supplementing operational revenue with other sources, Hoagland said that $546,000 in federal revenue sharing monies has been banked, while another $600,000 in delinquent tax revolving fund monies could be used. But the controller cautioned that the 2 revenue sources can't be depended on from year to year.

Appointed by council

Althaver returns to head village

Former long-time Cass City Village Council president and councilman Lambert E. Althaver is again in the council president seat following his appointment to the position Monday night.

Also during the monthly meeting, councilmen announced that they've dumped a new liability insurance package, approved last month, which was to save the village some $12,500 compared to previous coverage.

Althaver, president and chief executive officer of Walbro Corp., was present and accepted the appointment as council president Monday.

He will finish the 2-year term of former president Larry Davis, who was elected to the seat in March 1986. Davis resigned effective Aug. 1 to accept a job in California.

Althaver's past contributions as a village official include serving as a councilman from 1963 through 1965, and serving as president from 1965 through 1984.

Turning to liability insurance, the council discussed briefly the status of its liability coverage following cancellation of a package it approved last month.

Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie and councilman Mike Weaver explained that the village's insurance agency, Harris Hampshire Agency, Inc., Cass City, recommended after additional investigation that the village cancel its purchase of a package from the Michigan Township Participating Plan for $29,500.

The policy, including $1 million in liability coverage and a $2 million umbrella policy, was cancelled within a week after approval during the council's July 27 regular meeting.

The recommendation was based on a belief that the package is offered by a company which isn't "stable," LaPonsie said.

"They've (Harris Hampshire) asked us to go back under Auto-Owners Insurance," he continued, adding that the move means paying some $42,000, compared to the $29,500 price for the cancelled package.

Councilmen were scheduled to meet with insurance consultant Richard Beekman of the Bay City/Saginaw area Tuesday evening to discuss the village's options regarding liability insurance.

PURCHASE PROPOSAL

In other business during the hour-long regular meeting, councilmen approved a proposed purchase of about 3.3 acres located near the southeast corner of the Walbro property south to the Cass River.

The council, which okayed an offer price of $3,960 for the land, approved the proposal subject to a title search.

The council's Public Services and Street Committee recommended purchase of the former Grand Trunk Railroad property, through Deerfield Real Estate, Inc., of North Branch, to allow the village ease of access in the maintenance and repair of existing ditches and a sanitary line along or within a portion of an existing railroad right-of-way.

Other reasons cited by the committee are to acquire right-of-way for the future expansion of utilities and to allow the village to be contiguous to properties from which the village may seek annexation in the future.

Also Monday, the council learned that 3 new channels are expected to be offered by Centel Cable by September. The new channels, part of an agreement in a contract with the village, are Channel 66 Flint, "Lifetime" and "MTV."

Councilmen indicated they won't act on a proposed purchase of 3 lots, owned by Richard and Flora Turner, bordering the south side of Church Street adjacent to the village park.

A letter from Kelly and Co. Realty, Cass City, offering the lots for a total of $24,000, listed a 7-day deadline for councilmen to decide if they wanted to purchase the property.

Council President Pro Tem Dorothy Stahlbaum remarked that she thinks the price is fair, but added, "The only reason we would consider (the purchase) is for protection" of the village park.

LaPonsie gave a brief report on village participation on a sidewalk construction.

DNR delays fish kill in Cass River

Area fishermen who want to voice an opinion on the Department of Natural Resources' proposed fish kill in the Cass River will now have to wait until sometime next spring.

The delay may be good news for those in opposition to the proposal.

DNR officials say they will "spot" survey portions of the river again in the spring, following comments by opponents to the measure who feel that the DNR has misinterpreted the results of a survey conducted in September.

A series of public input meetings on the proposal were to be held this summer, but staffing problems at the DNR office in Imlay City have forced a delay in scheduling the meetings, according to DNR fisheries technician Joe Leonardi.

Leonardi stated that 5 new employees, including a district supervisor, have been assigned to the office this year. The staff now consists of 4 fisheries technicians, 2 habitat biologists and a district supervisor, he said, adding that another fisheries technician position remains vacant.

"We've had so much trouble getting this off the ground" because of inadequate staffing, Leonardi said. "It doesn't look like anything is going to be done this year" on the fish kill proposal.

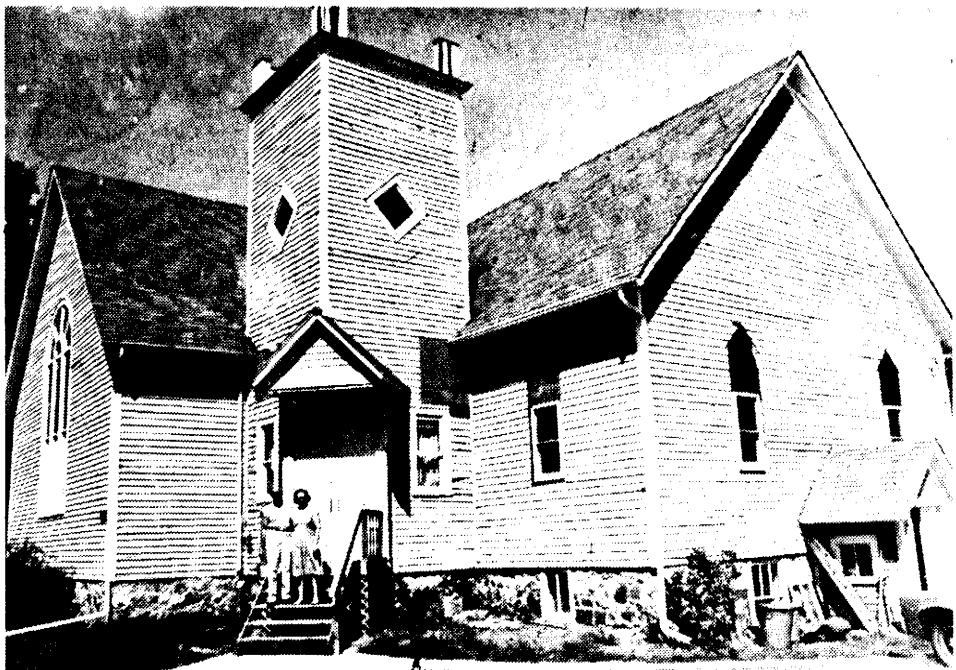

The fisheries technician acknowledged there is a lot of public interest in the proposal, and noted that the DNR plans to address area fishermen's concerns, including some opponents' belief that the DNR survey doesn't accurately reflect the game fish population in the river.

"We understand that," Leonardi said, referring to opponents' belief that there

Week-long ceremonies

Kingston church celebrates 125 years

THIS OLD CHURCH building served the Kingston Wesleyan Church congregation from 1886 to about 1977. The structure, just south of the new church, was purchased 3 years ago by church members Clyde and Phyllis Baugher (above), who along with their son, Daniel, are renovating the structure into a home. (Current church pictured on back page.)

It was 125 years ago this month that a group of Kingston area residents gathered to organize a new church.

The newly formed congregation, which formed a branch of the then Free Will Baptist Church, gathered to worship in a log schoolhouse just east of the village.

Many of the descendants and relatives of that first congregation will observe the church's beginnings Sept. 13-20, when the Kingston Wesleyan Church celebrates more than a century of worship.

The celebration will begin with a service Sept. 13 in which Dr. J.D. Abbott, general superintendent of the Wesleyan Church denomination, will be the special speaker at 10:30 a.m. Special music will be presented by the Bartsch Family of Bellaire, who will also present a gospel concert at 3 p.m.

Special services will continue Sept. 15-20, when 6 former pastors of the church will be preaching.

The scheduled speakers, in order beginning Tuesday, will be the Rev. W.F. Kinnan, district superintendent; the Rev. C.R. Dean, pastored 1963-1969; the Rev. Lester Nelson, pastored 1957-1963; the Rev. V.V. Skinner, pastored 1969-1975; the Rev. Howard Rogers, pastored 1954-1957; the Rev. Lowell Davis, pastored 1975-1981, and the Rev. H.C. Rickner, pastored 1948-1952.

With the exception of Davis, who will speak during the Sunday morning service, the speakers will preach during evening services at 7 p.m. (6 p.m. Sunday).

Special music will be presented at 5 p.m. Sept. 20 by Dan and Ronda Chapin. Dan was formerly the Campus Life director for Cass City and Kingston high schools and now works through Youth For Christ in Grand Rapids.

FEW RECORDS

According to the Rev. Rudyard K. Fay, who has been pastor at the church for the past 3 years, there are few records remaining regarding the early history of the church.

The congregation's first church building was constructed in 1886. The structure still stands just south of the current building, which was constructed in 1977 at the north end of Kingston.

Fay said that a postcard with a picture of the first building was found by an acquaintance of one of the members in an antique store. The picture on the postcard, dated Feb. 23, 1909, is estimated to have been taken in 1900.

Fay explained that the original church didn't remain a Free Will Baptist Church. "Somewhere along the line, they became an independent church," he said, adding, "In 1947, they joined the Pilgrim Holiness Church," which in 1968 merged with the Wesleyan Methodist Church to form the Wesleyan Church.

Although data isn't available on many historical aspects of the church, such as size of the church congregation (now averaging about 147 persons) or the number of pastors the church has had, Fay pointed out that the current congregation is a unique display of the church's roots.

He explained that many current members are either related to one another or are descendants of earlier church members.

"Over the years, there has been inter-marrying until many of the congregation members are second or third cousins," Fay commented. "The ones that have lived here a while, somewhere down the line, are probably related."

OLDEST MEMBER

The church's oldest living member today is Nina Moore, 92, now a resident of Provincial House in Cass City. She and her late husband, Burrell, moved to Kingston in 1914, shortly after marrying, Fay said.

Burrell served as church treasurer for several years, a duty which was taken over by his son, Arnold, who

Scouts take 4-day trip

Seven area Girl Scouts and 2 scout leaders toured Mackinaw City, Mackinac Island and Sault Ste. Marie during a recent 4-day trip.
The scouts, Shannon Dohning, Wendy Hurley, Laura Jamison, Jennifer Knowlton, Kristy Messing and Ann Urban from Troop 958, and Loretta Rolston from Troop 874, were chaperoned by troop leaders Pat Jamison and Janet Hurley.
The trip, taken Aug. 10-13, included a tour of a museum ship, Valley Camp.
Part of the scouts' uniforms during the event, 75th anniversary T-shirts, were donated by the Cass City Zonta Club.

Area residents honored for grades at SVSC

Two area residents have been named to Saginaw Valley State College's president's list for the summer of 1987, while another was among those on the college's dean's list for the same period.
Gregory G. Armstead, 6658 Houghton St., Cass City, and Carolyn A. Wright, 5654 Argyle Rd., Decker, each were named to the president's list for maintaining a 4.0 grade point average while carrying a minimum of 12 credit hours.
James L. Thompson, 4192 Bach Rd., Cass City, meanwhile, was named to the dean's list for maintaining between a 3.4 and 3.99 GPA while carrying at least 12 credit hours.

Here it is again, the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth as seen from the corner of Main and Oak in Cass City.

Call me an old mossback if you will, but playing regularly scheduled athletic contests before high school opens leaves a sour taste. Cass City has escaped this year and no games are scheduled prior to school, but the girls have a basketball game on the opening day of classes. That's shaving it pretty close.
Sure, the colleges do it every year. That's no reason why high schools should do it, too.
The new 3-point shot in basketball will air for the first time when the girls take the floor Tuesday. Guess what? I'm not against it. On the other hand, I'm not for it either.
It will make it possible for teams to come from a long way behind to win and that should add excitement. But it also will put an even greater premium on talent than ever before.
It was possible for a team with less athletic ability to play a tight, controlled-ball defense and win games from clubs with much superior talent. With a 50 percent premium on the outside shot, packing the middle and forcing the shot just won't work. It's too bad for Hawk fans, because

The next best thing to a sure bet is that someone will drown during the summer in Saginaw Bay. Equally sure is that one or more cars will plunge through the ice this winter.
Most times the victim will be someone who doesn't understand the perils of the bay.
I learned about that the hard way a couple of decades ago when I spent the night on the bay because the outboard conked out and we had no oars for the rowboat. If a storm had come up, another fatality could well have been recorded.

Provided that the weather cooperates between now and harvest time it looks as if things will be a lot brighter economically. Farmer friends tell me that there won't be a bumper crop and in isolated incidences there has been complete disaster. However, for most there will be a decent harvest and that is a different song than the one sung during the height of the drought.
Couple that with the announcements of new stores coming to town and the continued expansion at Walbro and you have to feel better than you did a month ago. Certainly a lot better than all of us did after the rains came last fall.

There's been a complete reversal in this corner over the question of parking meters. We thought about that the other day in downtown Bay City when we stopped for hot dogs at a favorite restaurant. There was plenty of parking and the meters have been taken out for a while.
Now Caro is preparing to take the meters out, too. Cass City should follow suit. As long as there is no parking problem, meters should be abandoned. The revenue they generate should not be a consideration. Pleasing the customer and doing all we can to generate business has to be the only concern.
If it didn't work, it would be easy to get the meters going again. But judging by the reaction from other communities, once the meters are gone they just won't come back.

"If It Fitz..."

Flecked out

By Jim Fitzgerald

Early in our until-then happy northern vacation there suddenly came a moment of terrible anguish. Quickly forgotten was the pristine pleasure of youthful music in the forest at Interlochen. Abruptly diminished was the sybaritic joy of sleeping, eating and drinking too much in a high-rise luxury hotel that protrudes incongruously — astonishingly — from a rural setting.

A phone call from home brought the dreadful news: The painters had failed to arrive!

Months of careful plotting were shattered. It was last January that my wife declared, for the 1,234th time (I counted the rings around my psyche) that our apartment had to be painted or management would throw us out of the building in disgrace for excessive flecking.

I finally agreed, provided I was out of town when the painting was done. I don't mind paying for new paint, even when it's the exact same color as the old paint it covers. (Why do wives do that? I never buy a new suit that looks like my old suit. I want visitors to immediately see the difference and appreciate the extreme magnanimity of my investing hard-earned money in the never-ending fight against my wife's irrational fear of fleck.)

But I don't like to watch while professional painters use 10-yard-long rollers to demonstrate how easily I could save hundreds of dollars if only the ugly phrase "do-it-yourself" didn't cause me to retch and blotch uncontrollably because of my rational fear of hypens.

Besides, the smell of paint reminds me painfully of the terribly sad day my infant son dived into a bucket of paint and I had to rush him to the hospital emergency room and watch helplessly while $10 worth of grey deck enamel was scraped off his head and washed wastefully down a drain. Twenty-seven years later, I can still hear myself sobbing.

So anyway, my wife arranged for the painters to arrive one hour after we headed north, and to be completely finished before we returned 4 days later. In preparation, several tons of books, dishes, linens and appliances were removed from bookcases, cabinets and closets and stacked in out-of-the-way places where I usually go to get out of the way.

(That brings up another question about wives. Why do they require paint for the inside of closets that no one can see inside of because they are so cramped? I asked her who would know whether or not our closets were painted. She said the painters would know. Honest. I told her to buy a car and bury it so no one except the car salesman will know she bought it.)

As you can plainly see, the scene was well set for despair to ruin tranquility. There we were: At Interlochen's National Music Camp to enjoy our flute-playing granddaughter's contribution to a marvelous concert by the University of Michigan All-State Intermediate Band. And also at Acme to watch our tax dollars at work in the ultra-plush Grand Traverse Resort Village hotel. (Even though the feds gave up the right to collect $8 million in interest that the resort owed taxpayers, I didn't steal one towel.)

Most important, although I was paying $115 a day for the cheapest room available, I was nevertheless happy because the TV had remote control and my home was being painted at a minimum risk to my propensity to retch and blotch uncontrollably (there are no hypens in nevertheless).

My wife was equally contented because she thought she'd finally flecked me out. Then came the phone call from a daughter: The painters hadn't arrived one hour after we left and, 36 hours later, there was still no tint of them.

(This has to be a to-be-continued-next-week column because that was 3 hypens and I'm unable to continue today.)

Tuscola County Commissioners

Debate cutting staff of prosecutor

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners last week accepted the resignation of assistant prosecutor David Grunst, but refused permission to replace him immediately.

Grunst, who joined the prosecutor's staff in February 1985, is the second employee in that office to quit in the past 6 weeks. Following acceptance of Grunst's resignation, effective Aug. 28, county Prosecutor William Bond appeared before commissioners during their Aug. 25 regular meeting and requested that he be allowed to fill the assistant position. But commissioners took no action on the request, and instead directed the personnel committee to explore the feasibility of not replacing Grunst.

According to Commissioner Kim D. Glaspie, a member of the personnel committee, Grunst's position in the prosecutor's office included work on paternity suits, for which the state reimbursed the office for a portion of his salary and associated costs. The board, Glaspie explained, wants the committee to consider placing those cooperative reimbursement duties under the jurisdiction of the Friend of the Court.

Glaspie stated that the committee will also discuss whether moving Grunst's former position to the Friend of the Court office would mean hiring someone to handle those duties.

Glaspie noted that the prosecutor is in the process of trying to secure an Alcohol Enforcement Program Prosecution Enhancement grant, which if approved would pay the cost of an additional staff member to work on drunk driving related cases in the prosecutor's office.

Bond last week indicated that chances of receiving the grant are promising, although no official authorization has been received. The original proposed grant request of some $30,000 has been cut slightly to about $28,000, Bond told commissioners.

Currently, the prosecutor's office is staffed by Bond, an assistant chief prosecutor and an assistant.

Victor A. Fitz, who's been with the office since September 1983, was named chief assistant prosecuting attorney recently after JoEllen O'Connor resigned from the position July 24.

said, could affect funding from the Area Agency on Aging.

HDC Director Mary Ann Vandemark, who was unavailable for comment last week, was to meet with the Area Agency on Aging's executive board Friday.

Also last week, commissioners accepted a resignation from probation officer Roland Price, effective Sept. 11.

The board approved a $500 general fund budget adjustment allowing the Building Codes department to hire part-time help for up to 10 days.

WCTU elects new officers

The Cass River WCTU held a picnic dinner Friday at the home of Mildred Trisch. Martha Putnam said grace.

Harriet Rayl gave devotions on "Everything that God created in the beginning for man and beast."

The business meeting, with the vice-president presiding, included a song service, prayer by Mrs. Trisch and pledges to the flags. Ten members and 4 guests responded to secretary Phyllis Wright's roll call with scripture verses. Two new members, Delores Hartsell and Donna Dingle, joined the group.

Ruth Dorman, 8th district WCTU chairman, reported on the fall convention, to be held Oct. 6 in the Wesleyan Church in Kingston. Details are to be given later.

Officers elected were: president, Martha Remsing; vice-president, Beatrice Soldan; secretary-treasurer, Phyllis Wright; assistant secretary-treasurer and news reporter, Georgia Thompson, and social secretary, Delores Hartsell.

The September meeting will be at the home of Phyllis Wright at Sept. 25.

Paint problem

Scientists at the University of Florida have found a real off-the-wall reason why some common houseplants mysteriously wither and die. It seems that mercury added to some paints to retard mildew is highly toxic to some indoor plants. Because of their sensitivity, such plants could prove useful for detecting low levels of toxic chemicals in the indoor environment, International Wildlife magazine reports.

Break park lights

Vandals spray paint restrooms

The Cass City Police Department is investigating a rash of malicious destruction of property complaints, including 2 involving village park restrooms, filed over the past week.

Village employee Leann LaRoche reported that someone spray painted the ladies' restroom at the Lions Pavilion sometime Aug. 25. She discovered the damage at 7:30 a.m. Aug. 26.

Officer William C. Hartzell, meanwhile, discovered additional damage at the restrooms Aug. 26.

Hartzell, who was making a property inspection, stated that a wash sink in the ladies' restroom had been ripped from the wall, and a utility sink torn from the wall of the men's restroom.

There was no damage at the restrooms near the village tennis courts, but paper towel and trash were found dumped on the floors of both facilities located at the far north end of the village park, Hartzell's report states.

No damage estimate was available.

Ken Martin reported 7 Cass City High School football field light bulbs and light covers missing. The lights, mounted on 90-foot poles, were discovered missing last week.

Replacing and repairing the lighting equipment, including 5 lights which were shot out sometime last season, will cost some $2,000, according to Martin.

Also filing a malicious destruction of property complaint was Cass City Postmaster Bill Zinnecker, who reported that someone kicked the lower door of a mail collection box at the southeast corner of Main and Seeger streets.

The damage, a large dent, occurred Aug. 25 or 26.

In a separate incident involving a reported reckless driver, Gary Jones, 6809 Herron Drive, told police that a light color compact car was eastbound on Herron Drive at a high rate of speed Saturday evening when it failed to negotiate a curve, jumped a curb and struck his mailbox.

Damage to the mailbox and post was estimated at $50, the report states.

Also reported by the police department was the arrest of Saginaw resident Gerald D. Harrington, 1414 Phelon St., on a traffic warrant out of the Zilwaukee Police Department.

Harrington, 25, was a passenger in a red pickup truck which was observed exceeding the posted speed limit on Main Street Saturday afternoon. The driver of the vehicle, a minor, was cited for driving an unregistered motor vehicle.

WON'T MEET GOAL

In other business last week, the board approved a resolution which states that the Human Development Commission, because of "unanticipated direct and indirect hindrances," won't meet its contractual goal of senior service levels as prescribed for 1986-87 in an agreement with the county beginning Oct. 1, 1986.

According to County Controller Michael Hoagland, the resolution, which also recommends that the HDC be approved as the 1987-88 senior services provider for Tuscola County, is official acknowledgment by the board that the HDC won't be able to provide as many meals as listed in the contract.

Milligans hold 8th reunion

The 8th annual Milligan reunion was held Sunday, Aug. 16, at the Grant Brown home.

Approximately 45 guests attended from Ohio, Indiana and various Michigan cities.

A potluck dinner was served after which a business meeting was held, led by Marion Oatley of Allen Park. The secretary's report was given by Arnold Karr of Syracuse, Ind.

Officers elected for the 1988 reunion were president, Agnes Milligan, and secretary, Dave Milligan, both of Cass City.

The 1988 reunion will be held at the home of Grant Brown Aug. 21.

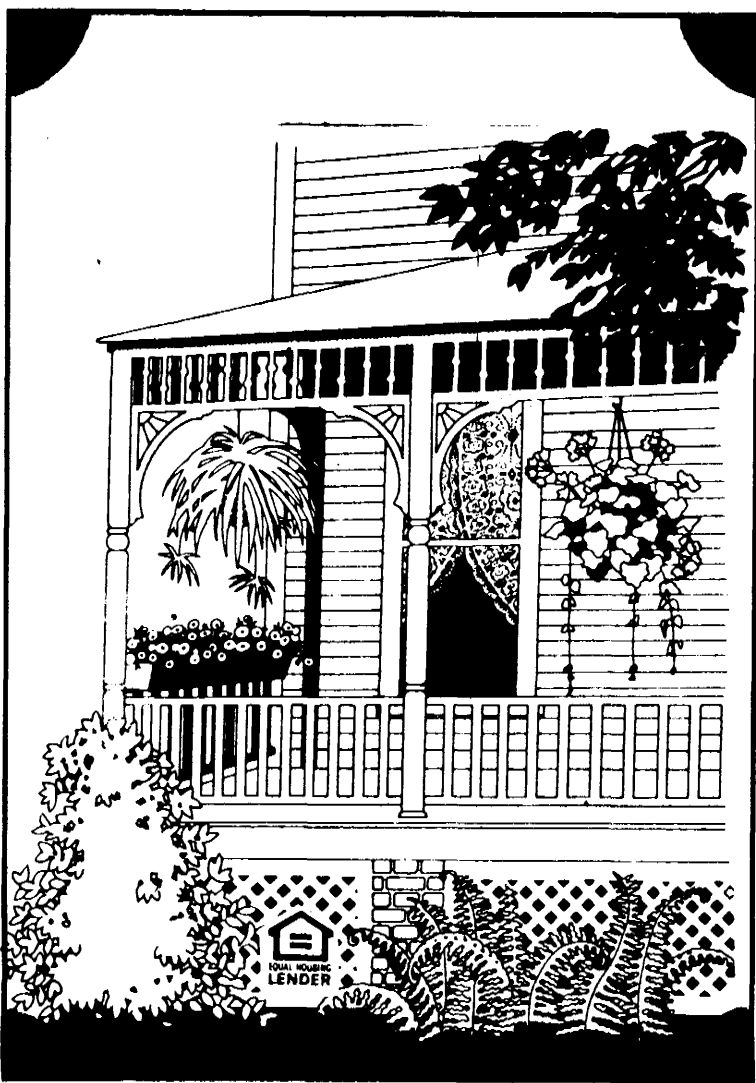

County to face tax increase

The finance committee, he added, is "studying ways to use some of these funds without affecting the stability of the county financial" situation.

Regardless of how the other sources of revenue may be used, Hoagland indicated that with an expected decline in revenue and expected increases in expenses, the budget committee and county board will have "some tough decisions to make."

Better rating for state bonds could mean $70 million in savings

Treasurer Robert Bowman recently announced the rating for State Building Authority bonds has been upgraded by Moody's Investors Service.

He said notification that the bond rating upgrade from Baa-1 to A could mean a taxpayer savings of some $70 million in future interest costs on bonds sold to finance construction of prisons and other public buildings.

He added savings could go even higher if it is advantageous to refinance some current building authority bonding.

Robert Carr, chair of the State Building Authority, said the upgrade was particularly timely in that the state is in the market with a $101 million bond offer for prison construction at Jackson, Ionia and Lapeer.

Carr said the rating jump would probably mean a savings of one-half of one percent on this and future offerings. Carr added, most immediately, the upgrade allowed the state to cancel insurance on the offer saving the state $750,000.

The building authority, Bowman reported, has received 3 credit upgrades within the past few years, 2 of those by Moody's.

The investors service had earlier raised the SBA's credit rating from Baa to Baa-1 in May, 1986. In addition, Standard & Poor's raised the authority's credit rating in May, 1986, from A to A-plus.

In announcing the upgrade, Moody's cited sustained improvements in the condition of the general fund, including the elimination of short-term operating borrowing and buildup of counter cyclical revenues to prevent against fluctuations in the economy giving broader protection to bonds of the authority, secured solely by annual legislative appropriations.

The state currently has some $675 million in outstanding Building Authority bonds. The bonding limit was increased to $1,350 million by the Legislature last spring in anticipation of future bonding needs for prison construction.

Meanwhile, the state's general obligation bond ratings remain at A-1 with Moody's and AA- with Standard & Poor's. Both rating houses last upgraded the bonds in April, 1986. Moody's previously upgraded the state's general obligation bonds from Baa-1 to A in November, 1984.

Six credit rating upgrades have now been granted during the state's recovery from the deep recession of the late 1970's. The agencies have credited the general economic improvement and a return to

A warrant is being sought for a 28-year-old Marlette man in connection with a hit and run accident Aug. 25 which left a Sandusky man injured.

According to reports filed with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, Zane A. Ziegelmann, 4158 S. Van Dyke Rd., was the driver of a vehicle that struck a motorcyclist, Robert F. Stoliker, 52, from behind and then fled the scene.

Stoliker, Sandusky, was on his way home along eastbound M-46 east of White Creek Road at about 6:32 p.m. when his motorcycle was hit. The impact of the collision threw Stoliker off his motorcycle and onto the hood of Ziegelmann's vehicle. He then rolled off the hood and hit the shoulder of the road.

Stoliker, who was wearing a helmet, was taken to MacKenzie Memorial Hospital in Sandusky, where he was treated for cracked ribs and lacerations on his hands and arms.

Ziegelmann, meanwhile, was later arrested on a non-support warrant out of Lapeer County for failure to appear in court for a show cause hearing.

Ziegelmann, whose operator's license and insurance were expired, was cited for failure to stop and report a personal injury accident.

Also injured in a vehicle accident over the past 8 days was Ann M. Thompson, 2105 Hobart Rd., Gagetown, who lost control of her vehicle on McGregory Road south of Bay City-Forestville Road in Elmwood Township Thursday.

Thompson, who was treated and released at Hills and Dales General Hospital, was southbound on McGregory Road when she lost control, skidded to the right and crossed a ditch into a field, according to the report, which noted that the road is "rough" due to washboard effect.

Thompson's vehicle sustained light damage.

No injuries were reported in a 2-car mishap Saturday on Mayville Road north-west of English Road in Koylton Township.

A vehicle driven by Timothy J. Powers, 1825 Castle Rd., North Branch, was southbound on English Road when it struck a westbound vehicle driven by Nancy A. Nelson, 6617 Harris Rd., Kingston. The report states that Powers had stopped at a yield sign before entering the intersection. No citation was issued in the accident, which left both vehicles damaged slightly.

8 are arraigned on drug charges

At least 8 men, including 2 Cass City area residents, were arraigned on drug related charges over the past 9 days in Tuscola County District Court.

The arraignments stem from a string of arrests made by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department beginning Aug. 24 following a year-long drug investigation in the county.

The investigation has led to some 24 warrants being issued, with several others still awaiting authorization.

According to Tuscola County Undersheriff Paul Megge, 12 persons have been arrested—9 on felonies—to date.

Among those facing preliminary exams today (Wednesday) on charges of delivery of marijuana are Terry E. Bruce, 25, of DeFord; Paul G. Dybilas, 24, of West Street, Cass City; David A. Glasgow, 38, of Millington; Wesley J. Martin Jr., 19, of Vassar; Gregory C. Guild, E. Dayton Road, Caro, and Robert E. Severn, 22, Hanes Road, Vassar.

Anthony A. Ruiz, 23, State Street, Caro, faces a charge of delivery of LSD, while Ronald S. Karr, 22, of Cemetery Road, Cass City, faces a charge of delivery of marijuana without payment.

Also arraigned in district court was Alvin M. Benavides, 3305 Walters St., Saginaw, on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense; operating a motor vehicle while operator's license suspended, subsequent offense, and transporting an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle.

Benavides, 24, faces a preliminary exam at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 9.

The charges, which carry a maximum penalty of 5 years imprisonment and/or a $5,000 fine and a revoked license, stem from an incident Aug. 23 in Indianfields Township.

SENTENCING

Also in district court, a 26-year-old Cass City man was sentenced Monday on an Aug. 3 conviction of driving with an unlawful blood alcohol level.

Dale J. Peters, 4510 Leach St., was sentenced to 5 days in the county jail, 2 years probation, a $267 fine, $183 in costs and restitution of $60. His operator's license was ordered suspended for one year.

Peters' conviction stems from an incident on M-81 in Ellington Township Jan. 31.

4 honored at meal site

The monthly birthday dinner at the Cass City senior meal site celebrated 4 birthdays Friday. Clifford Jackson, Mary Vargo, Bertha Shagena and Frankie Anker were honored guests. Floyd Ratz provided the ice cream.

A letter of resignation was read from Donna Rees. She has resigned her position at Hills and Dales General Hospital. Jane Mitchell will be visiting the site to take blood pressures.

A film on Sweden will be shown for the program at Wednesday's meet.

There will be no meal site Monday, Sept. 7.

Anyone in need of home-delivered meals, can call the Human Development Commission, Caro, 673-4121.

High school football, leaf colors changing from green to various shades of red, orange and yellow, and cool, crisp evenings, are among the signs that another summer is blending into fall.

Fashion, too, is changing, with shorts, T-shirts and swimming suits being replaced by slacks, sweaters and earmuffs.

Area youths are starting another school year, while farmers are preparing for another fall harvest.

Your neighbor, Roger Bouck of Cass City, says that his favorite changes in the fall are the colors and cooler temperatures. He and his family also enjoy "a few" Cass City football games.

A cash crop and dairy farmer, the Cass City native also is anticipating another harvest, and hoping this fall will be kinder to his crops than the summer has been.

"Hopefully, we'll get a good fall—not freeze too quickly," he remarked. "I hope we'll get some dry weather so we can get the crops out."

Bouck remembers well last fall's deluge, which spelled disaster for Thumb-area farmers. The flooding was followed up this summer with drought conditions.

Bouck noted that the yields of both corn and bean crops on his 500-acre farm, which includes 100 head of cattle, are expected to be down this year due to the dry conditions over the summer. "We'll have to wait and see," he added.

Bouck and his wife, Vera, reside with their 5 children, 4 of whom attend Cass City Schools, at 5719 Bay City-Forestville Rd. The children, and their ages, are Patricia, 15, Ronald, 13, Nathan, 11, Zachary, 6, and Jessie, 3.

Social phobia disabling but treatable illness

Imagine Kathy, a pretty 16-year-old, standing fixed before the closed door to the immense hall. She can hear the buzzing voices of people, already seated. It's time for her to enter. But she is too afraid -- her hands are trembling uncontrollably, her heart pounds. She's perspiring profusely and feels unable to catch her breath. She can think only of the thousand eyes that will be on her.

Her debut at the Metropolitan Opera?

No. Kathy is a high school student trying to enter the school cafeteria. She has lunch there most school days, but it literally terrifies her every time. Kathy imagines that all the students stare at her and think she looks "stupid." In fact, she draws no more notice than any other student, and no one ever speaks disparagingly to or about her.

Kathy is not paranoid or psychotic. In most respects she's absolutely normal. But she is one of perhaps a million or more individuals who suffer from a seldom-discussed anxiety disorder called "social phobia." These people experience incapacitating anxiety at the prospect of entering situations where they believe they will be scrutinized by others. The condition is a distinct illness recognized by the "Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders" (DSM-III), the psychiatric "bible" for mental health professionals and medical insurance companies.

Social phobia is different from the social anxiety we all feel about new situations, such as giving a sales presentation, delivering a speech or performing music before an audience. For most people, these tasks become easier with experience. Indeed, the nervousness may even be beneficial, prompting us to prepare and rehearse so we do our best. But for the social phobic, social exposure often becomes more difficult with repeated efforts. The person may become increasingly aware of a physical symptom, such as a hand tremor, and grow convinced that everyone will see it and know he or she is scared. This conviction magnifies anxiety and generates more shaking, sweating and other physical signs.

Impact on Behavior

Unlike moderate shyness or the fairly common social anxiety, social phobia does not go away by itself. People remain gripped by the irrational fear that they will act in a way that is humiliating, even though they know the fear is excessive. This anxiety disorder takes many forms -- fear of speaking or eating in public, fear of using public lavatories, inability to write in the presence of others, terror of attending parties or social functions, and fear of going on dates. The individuals modify their life styles to adjust to their anxiety, which leads to severe restriction in social activity and, often, in occupational activity as well.

In one group of patients that I evaluated, social phobia had prevented the majority from advancing in their careers. About half avoided all social contacts outside the immediate family. More than a third abused alcohol, and some dropped out of school or were unable to work.

The role of social phobia in causing alcoholism may be very significant -- and largely unrecognized. In one group of 102 alcoholics, 25 percent of the men and 17 percent of the women could not face social situations without alcohol or medication. An additional 35 percent of the men and 28 percent of the women were borderline social phobics; social settings were extremely stressful to them. Another study found that 39 percent of a group of abstinent alcoholics had suffered from social phobia, and 60 to 70 percent of these socially phobic alcoholics had used alcohol to cope with social anxiety.

Different From Other Anxiety Disorders

It's important to distinguish social phobia from the other anxiety disorders that are also called phobias. Simple phobia is an irrational fear of a particular type of object or situation, such as dogs, spiders, thunder or heights. In contrast, the outstanding fear for social phobics is any situation where they feel they may be singled out for ridicule.

A person with agoraphobia has a dread of being alone in a public place. Most agoraphobics also suffer from panic disorder, experiencing panic attacks marked by severe, irrational apprehension, dizziness, sweating, pounding heart and a feeling of being suffocated. The underlying fear of such individuals is that they might have a panic attack in a place where escape may be difficult. They are comforted by the presence of a close friend or family member. Social phobics are generally afraid only of situations where they imagine they'll be stared at, and feel most comfortable when alone.

Social phobia is different in another respect: It affects men and women fairly equally, and may even be more common among men. Agoraphobics appear to be overwhelmingly women (75 to 86 percent) -- accounting for the "housebound woman" syndrome in which women are afraid to leave the house. The onset of social phobia is also likely to be earlier, the first symptoms appearing in adolescence, though its victims do not usually seek treatment until 10 years later. Agoraphobics generally develop symptoms in their mid-twenties and may not seek help until well into their thirties.

How Social Phobia Begins

It is a mystery why these people who very much desire normal social contact suffer incapacitating anxiety that results in a genuine disability. Equally puzzling is why they do not adjust to social situations and become more confident, as most other people do.

One possible cause is an inborn, inherited tendency that is not easily overcome. A Norwegian study found that identical twins were far more likely to have social phobic traits in common than nonidentical twins, who genetically are like ordinary brothers and sisters. Another feature found commonly in people with social phobia is great sensitivity to rejection. This trait often exists in people prone to types of depression. In fact, many social phobics have suffered from depression.

Social phobics may also have a pronounced tendency to produce bodily reactions to uncomfortable situations. In one study, 34 social phobics experienced greater increases in heart rate while talking to a stranger of the opposite sex than 36 claustrophobics (who fear closed, narrow places) experienced when confined in a small room. What's more, the social phobics were extremely aware of their accelerated heart rate. In life situations, this awareness tends to add to their anxiety.

Promising Treatments

The major obstacle to helping social phobics is getting them to seek assistance instead of retreating into protective seclusion -- which, of course, is not protective since they are generally anguished. Specialized anxiety clinics have begun to make significant therapeutic inroads. Behavior-oriented psychotherapy and medication offer considerable hope for the future.

The various psychotherapeutic approaches employ behavioral programs, often used most successfully in combination.

Relaxation training. People are taught to relax different sets of muscles to eliminate tension. They do this while imagining (or while actually in) threatening social situations.

Cognitive restructuring. Social phobics are made aware of how they sabotage self-confidence with belittling self-messages: "I look like a fool" or "everyone sees me sweating." They are helped to substitute positive self-messages: "I look very good today" and "My presentation is truly interesting."

Social skills training/desensitization/exposure. These behavioral techniques help people become -- as well as feel -- capable regarding skills in which they feel so deficient. They practice conversational skills with a therapist or a therapy group and deliver talks as if at a staff meeting. Eventually, they engage in "real-life" exercises, such as walking up to a gathering and joining their conversation.

The other promising area of research is with medications. Beta blockers -- drugs normally used for high blood pressure, angina and migraines -- have been helpful to people who experience social anxiety, such as musicians who suffer stage fright. These drugs may help social phobics also, by suppressing the rapid heart beat, flushing and other signs of anxiety that alarm them and make their distress unmanageable. While some individuals with social phobia appear to have been helped by beta blockers, research findings are too mixed to point to beta blockers as the future remedy.

Other studies with phenelzine, an antidepressant medication of the group called monoamine oxidase inhibitors, find that a considerable percentage of social phobics respond favorably. Phenelzine not only blocks the physical manifestations of anxiety but also may act on the central nervous system to increase confidence. Serious potential side effects, however, are a major obstacle to its use. Promising studies are in progress with other medications, such as benzodiazepine anti-anxiety agents.

The most valuable first step is to appreciate that a young person who is so anxious that he or she avoids participating in social and classroom activities may be suffering from more than shyness. Enlisting help early can save years of pain. Gratifying progress in treatment studies makes involved professionals believe that disabled social phobics may be highly responsive to treatment.

Fire guts Deford area residence

Kingston Fire Department officials early this week had no dollar estimate on damage to a house near Deford which was gutted by fire Thursday.

No one was home at the time of the fire, which left the structure a total loss, according to fire officials.

The 2-story frame house at 4186 Mushroom Rd., owned by Jack Putman, was engulfed in flames when fire fighters responded to the alarm at 12:06 p.m., according to Charles Kotsch Jr., assistant chief of the Kingston Fire Department.

The fire apparently started in a new kitchen addition, but no cause has been determined, Kotsch said.

2 area men escape harm in mishap

No one was injured in a one-vehicle accident involving 2 Gagetown men Saturday night on Notter Road, just east of Owendale.

According to the Huron County Sheriff's Department, a pickup truck driven by John R. Olszak was traveling west on Sebewing Road and attempted to turn south on Notter Road at about 10:45 p.m. when the vehicle left the roadway and rolled in a ditch.

Also in the truck was John Parks, who along with Olszak was wearing a seat belt, reports indicate.

Flood recovery answers

Q: I read your column every week - this really isn't like your farm questions, but I wonder if you could answer this anyway. We live on a farm, and when I get upset about something, I usually call my neighbor to talk. Lately, everything I say, she's experienced it too - only much worse than me. I'm getting so I don't want to call her - but I still need to talk to someone. How can I get her to stop this?

A: You probably won't be able to get her to stop unless you stop using her as a complaint office. It's possible that life at her house really is more difficult, and she may need someone to sound off to as much as you do. If this is the case, the ideal solution would be for both of you to join a support group where you can learn to deal with your frustrations more effectively. If this isn't possible, perhaps now is the time to redefine your friendship, make an effort to call her when you are feeling good. Invite her out for a cup of coffee or maybe a walk in the park. The point being to start enjoying some happy times together and break this cycle of dumping problems on each other. It's much easier to share problems within a complete relationship, sharing the good times as well as the bad. By treating her as a friend, it will raise her self-esteem. This will help to curb her need to "out-do" you in either negative or positive ways.

We hope this will help to strengthen your relationship with your friend. If you would like someone to talk with, please feel free to give us a call at 673-8565.

Hawks lift curtain on '87 grid season at Mayville

There were bright spots and areas where the Cass City Red Hawks definitely will need to improve if the team is to be a contender in this year, Coach Don Schelke said Monday after reviewing the activities of the team in a 4-school scrimmage last week with Uby, Brown City and Akron-Fairgrove.

The Hawks open the season in a non-league tilt against the Mayville

Wildcats Friday.

We are much slower than we were last year, Schelke says. On the plus side of the coin, the coach added, was the play of the interior line on defense. Mike Mikolon, Greg Hanby, Greg Mika and Darin Monroe played well.

The coach can look to a group of juniors up from the junior varsity for help as the season progresses, but their lack of varsity experience will limit their effectiveness in the early games.

One of the juniors who is sure to see action is Dennis Dadacki, the fastest player on the squad, at halfback. Jeff Dillon is expected to see action at end and linebacker.

A couple of other juniors that have shown promise are injured. Brent Meininger has an injured hand and Brent Beecher has a deep leg bruise.

The Mayville opener is at Mayville and the Wildcats are coming off a dismal season, and the Hawks should be favored to repeat last year's victory when Cass City rallied in the last half for a 14-0 decision. After that road game, Cass City opens the home season against the Lakers, who are favored to win the conference crown again this season.

Close encounter

A close encounter of a most unusual kind happened recently over Alaska when an airplane collided in mid-air with a fish! According to National Wildlife magazine, the mishap occurred when a bald eagle dropped a fish that it was carrying in its talons. The fish slammed into a passing airplane, denting its fuselage. Fortunately, the aircraft sustained only minor damage, and the eagle reportedly was not hurt.

Helwig team wins first annual golf tourney

The first annual Hammer & Cane golf tournament, sponsored by the Cass City Lions and Gavel clubs Saturday, was won by the 3-man team of Elwyn Helwig, Cass City, and Dave Powers and Mike Gates of the Lansing area. The trio finished the regulation tournament tied with a team of Dave Batzer and Ed Walker of Bad Axe and Pat McGee of Caro.

The Helwig team won in a play-off on the first extra hole. The winning team shared a prize purse of $1,200. The tournament was a combination "scramble" for 9 holes and "best ball" for 9 holes.

Prizes were awarded to the first 5 finishers in the tourney that attracted 102 golfers. Other finishers were: third, Tom MacAlpine, Bad Axe, and Dave Landeryou and John MacEachin, Uby; fourth, Dave Patterson, Dave Strachan and Jerry Stringer, and fifth, Gary Binder and John and Clarke Haire.

Ladies elect officers at final golf meet

The Rolling Hills Tuesday Morning League concluded its season last Tuesday with guests from the Caro Golf Club Ladies' League. Approximately 60 women participated in a scramble with lunch and prizes awarded following the golf outing.

A Scotch doubles, meeting and banquet luncheon were held by the league Aug. 11.

Election of officers was conducted for the 1988 season. President will be Nelle Maharg; vice-president is Mary Rabideau; secretary, Ruth Grassmann, and Verna May MacRae, treasurer.

Winners of 1st, second and third places in their respective flights with prizes awarded went to: 1st flight

- Mary Rabideau, Linda Helwig and June Licht; 2nd flight - Ruth Grassmann, Marilyn Carpenter and Linda Herron, 3rd flight - Phyllis Ridge, Jan Kritzman and Verna May MacRae and 4th flight - Virginia Ruthko, Betty Hammond and Gloria Schelke.

The most improved player for the 1987 season was Ruth Grassmann.

Lack of size O-G problem as season opens Friday

Veteran Owen-Gage High School football coach Arnie Besonen is brushing up on his copy of the book, "The Little Engine that Could" these days.

It's a story that bears a number of striking similarities to the coach's 1987 squad, which ranges from a 72-pound freshman halfback to a 198-pound sophomore guard.

With a majority of underclassmen suited up, size is and will be a problem. "It's tough to practice. We can't run full-speed against the younger guys," Besonen remarked. "We're not coaching football, we're coaching legality."

The Bulldogs do have some good things going for them—an experienced coaching staff, with Besonen in his 19th year and assistant coach John Osterland in his 17th year at Owen-Gage; a handful of experienced players; and a schedule with a majority of games at home, including the team's opener Friday night against Arenac Eastern.

Attitude is another factor which could be an advantage, Besonen said during a pre-season practice recently. He added, "Their strength, I think, is their attitude—they've got to perform."

The good news, however, ends there.

Besonen has a 22-man roster, including 16 freshmen and sophomores. There are 6 returning starters from his 1986 squad, which finished with a 5-4 mark. Several players, including 2 starters, are ineligible to play.

The team's only seniors, Chris Abbe and Troy Reehl, will be relied on heavily to provide leadership as captains this season.

Abbe, who Besonen refers to as the potential MVP on the line, is a 6', 167-pound senior tackle who last season was an all-conference and second-team all-area performer. He and junior Nick Pavlecheck, a 5'11", 183-pound tight end and an all-area honorable mention pick, are the only players back from Besonen's 1986 offensive line.

Other key players named by Besonen are sophomore Graham Besonen, a 5'8", 140-pound fullback and the team's second-leading rusher last year; sophomore Kevin Koch, a 5'10", 180-pound cornerback/outside linebacker; junior Marc Reinhardt, who at 5'9" and 155 pounds served as a quarterback last year but will be in the backfield this season; and junior Jay Susalla, who switched from halfback last season to tight end this year. Susalla, who's 5'9" and 150 pounds, is an all-conference, 3-year starter.

Also expected to see a lot of action are a pair of freshman tackles—Bobby Haldane, 5'10" and 162 pounds, and Scott Norcross, 5'11" and 140 pounds.

Besonen named an untested Chad Stirrett, a 6', 145-pound sophomore, as quarterback. Stirrett was a defensive back last year until a broken arm sidelined him in mid-season.

Besonen pointed out heavy losses from graduation last year in terms of experience in key positions.

The losses include first-team all-state linebacker Steve Root, who at 6'3" and 195 pounds will be sorely missed.

Also gone are Dave Laurie, a 6'4", 172-pound defensive end/offensive tackle; all-conference and all-area honorable mention performer Stu Stirrett, a 6'2", 185-pound tight end and linebacker; Bill Kuhl, 5'6", 145 pounds last year's leading rusher at halfback; Rick Salcido, a 5'9", 152-pound nose guard; and Gabe Millbocker, a 6', 170-pound center and defensive end.

Besonen predicts that Deckerville will be extremely tough this season along with Kingston and Peck. His other picks, in order, are Caseville, Akron, CPS and North Huron.

And Owen-Gage?

"If we don't get any injuries, we may end up towards the fourth or fifth slot," Besonen remarked, adding that the Bulldogs simply can't compete against larger teams.

Owen-Gage will host Arenac Eastern Friday and then will travel to Webberville Sept. 11 before hosting Kingston in the Bulldogs' North Central Thumb League opener Sept. 18.

Depth an asset

Veterans to carry O-G cagers, says Coach Roller

After last year's "miracle" season, girls' basketball fans in the Owen-Gage School District probably won't be surprised to hear that the Lady Bulldogs are expected to be strong contenders this year.

Owen-Gage, which was scheduled to open the season Monday against Caseville at the Caseville Tournament, will travel to Uby Sept. 8 before the team's North Central Thumb League opener Sept. 10 at North Huron.

Last season Owen-Gage staged a comeback behind the leadership of then first-year girls' coach Dean Roller. The squad finished fourth in the league with a 10-6 mark, 12-10 overall, after 2 consecutive winless seasons.

According to Roller, this year's squad, anchored by 4 returning starters, has plenty of depth and should be quicker than last year's team.

"I think that if we can stay injury-free and do the things we need to do, we should have a pretty good season," Roller remarked. "I think we're going to be real quick."

"Depth is our biggest strength," the coach continued. "We've got 11 on the team and we've got probably 8 I could start."

Back from last year's squad to provide leadership are senior captains Susie Salcido, Marcie Draschil and Jane Billy.

Salcido, a 5'8" forward and a second-team all-conference performer last season, as well as Billy, a 5'10" center, are expected to provide rebounding strength to the team along with junior Dawn Dorsch, a 5'8" forward.

Another returning starter, Andrea Mandich, a 5'5" junior guard, is described as being one of the quickest players in the league. The all-conference honorable mention performer will be joined by Draschil, a 5'5" guard, and junior 5'4-5" guards Angie Bolzman and Dawn Holland. "They can all move quick," Roller remarked, adding that Bolzman and Holland will see a lot of playing time this season.

Rounding out the squad are 3 juniors in the guard/forward position—Shirley Ashmore, Denise Anthes and Andrea Goslin—and junior forward Jackie Norcross.

Despite the loss of steady performers Cindy Enderle and Barb Hellebuyck, both guards who graduated, this year's team isn't hurting for talent, Roller said.

He pointed out last year's junior varsity team, which posted a 16-4 mark. "I think the J.V. that I have coming up will replace" players lost through graduation, Roller added.

Roller predicts that Deckerville, Akron and Peck will again be top contenders for the conference crown this season, with Deckerville being the top pick.

Letters to the editor

Main Street being used like speedway

Dear Editor,
Main Street - Highway M-81, in Cass City is being used like a speedway by many drivers. Some of these drivers run two abreast, and appear to be racing each other at times - at high speed.

She remembers Harry Jarkey

Dear Mr. Haire:

I read in your "Rabbit Tracks" a few weeks ago that "anyone who remembers Harry Jarkey from his days at the Wenonah Beach Casino in Bay City was knocking on the door of retirement." I lived in Bay City for 13 years and I remember seeing his show several times and I am NOT knocking on the doors of retirement (maybe just leaning a little!). I must admit, however, that I was not of legal age back then either!!!!

Sincerely yours,
Martha E. Parsons

along with his brothers, Stanley and Raymond, continue to attend the church with their children and grandchildren.

Fay noted that Ronda Chapin, who is scheduled to present a concert with her husband at the church Sept. 20, is Nina and Burrell's great-granddaughter.

Another family attending the church also has fourth generation members. Myrtle Lyons' father was a member, while she and husband Alton now attend the church with their son, Edward, and his daughter, Erica.

Another couple, Eugene and Ruth Sutphen, are related to former pastors. Ruth's father, the Rev. B.A. Sherk, pastored at the church for some 13 years, while Eugene's grandfather also pastored at the church for a number of years.

THE REV. RUDYARD K. Fay stands in front of the current Kingston Wesleyan Church building -- a far cry from the old log schoolhouse used by the first congregation when it organized in August 1862.

Walbro Corp. ends joint venture with Champion

Walbro Corporation recently announced the decision to discontinue its joint venture with Champion Spark Plug Company, Toledo, Ohio, formed for the purpose of manufacturing and selling fuel systems components to the European automotive market.

In announcing the decision, Walbro president and chief executive officer L.E. Althaver said that Walbro will continue to serve the European auto industry through sales offices in Brussels, Belgium, and Nürtingen, West Germany. Walbro will also establish an automotive fuel systems technical center at its West German facility.

In discussing the decision to discontinue the joint venture, Althaver emphasized that both Walbro and Champion have changed in terms of marketing direction and resources since the initial decision to form a joint venture in late 1985.

"Walbro's growth in sales and products and our enhanced European visibility now give us the opportunity to approach Europe on our own. We are confident that we will successfully penetrate the European automotive market with our growing line of fuel systems products," Althaver said.

Fish kill proposal for Cass River delayed by DNR is a significant game fish population. "We're going to go back and re-survey some of the stations next spring. We're going to try to find some of the 'right' spots suggested by the proposal's opponents," he said.

Leonardi, who acknowledged that the gear needed to conduct such surveys somewhat limits the survey locations, remarked that the spot survey may "confirm our belief that the river is dominated by rough fish. We still feel we picked representative spots" in the earlier survey.

In that survey, the DNR examined 33,000 pounds of fish taken from an area covering about 12 acres from the headwaters to the dam at Frankenmuth. Of the fish examined, 75 percent were non-game fish, such as suckers and carp; 15 percent were minnows and other forage fish, and 10 percent were game fish.

Cass City fisherman David Dunn is among those strongly against the proposed fish kill. He says the survey does not represent the true game fish population of the river.

Dunn, who has collected 1,068 signatures from persons against the proposed fish kill, remarked that the delay will give him additional time to try to convince DNR officials that the measure isn't necessary. "I think it'll probably knock it (fishing) out for 3, possibly even 4 years," he said, adding there is a significant game fish population in the river, but that finding the fish is a matter of searching out the appropriate cover areas.

Dunn said he would help DNR officials locate such areas. He added, "I still say that if they'll come up and fish it with me, I might be able to change their mind."

Leonardi re-emphasized the DNR's position regarding public input, saying, "We're not going to do anything unless the people support it."

"Definitely we will discuss the (survey) results with the fisheries people and then present them to the public and see what their response is," he said.

Althaver appointed council president

tion project across from Cass City High School.

The Cass City Board of Education approved the project last month at a cost of $8,120, and decided to request that the village provide fill in order to insure a level sidewalk.

LaPonsie reported that the village assisted the school in the layout of the project, furnished pit run gravel and will furnish crew help if needed.

Councilmen accepted a high bid of $1,278 from Bob Musall for a village-owned 1981 Chevrolet. A total of 5 bids were opened, the lowest of which was $356.

The council learned that a report on July's village pool earnings was incorrect due to an accounting error. July's earnings were reported to be $10,947, but actually were $7,124, which is still nearly $2,000 more than last year's total during the same period. The pool's earnings for August totaled about $2,060.

The council also learned that the state Liquor Control Commission has received an application for a new resort SDD license (packaged liquor sales) from Quaker Maid, 6614 E. Main St., Cass City.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Dear Bill:

I have 880 shares of Rochester Telephone, along with a lot of other common stocks, which puts me in the top income bracket -- 38.5% they tell me for this year.

I suppose if I sell you'll then tell me to put it in bonds.

M.M.

Dear M.M.:

You have 880 shares of Rochester Telephone. It's a good company, and I like telephones. S & P rates it A.

Here is what it is doing for you in terms of money: Yield is 5.9% on current price of $45. So your before tax income is:

880 shares x $45.....$39,600
Return at 5.9%.....2,336
After tax (in your case) at 38 1/2%.....1,436

Now compare with a municipal utility, the highly-regarded Jacksonville, Fla., Electric, rate A+.

Buy $39,600 worth of these bonds, to yield tax-free 8.2%.

$39,600 x 8.2% = $3,247 net yield, with no tax to pay.

You have improved your income by 126% ($3,247 vs $1,436) and you have in effect a mortgage on Jacksonville Electric, which will pay off at 100% on the dollar in the future. That's more than Rochester Tel can promise you.

BILL MYERS

The bull market marked its 5th birthday the second week in August. The stock averages (The 'Dow') were up 233.6% in that period.

A glorious climb, which so many of us didn't take part in.

For that matter, only 12 of the 30 stocks in the Dow

Jones Industrials that make up the widely-quoted averages, did better than that 233.6% gain.

The chances were 3 to 2 that the buyer of stocks in the averages, did worse than average.

Here are the 12 star performers and their gains:

% Gain, 1982-'87

American Express	312
Boeing	339
Coca Cola	321
DuPont	313
Exxon	28
General Electric	282
McDonald's	317
Merck	491
Philip Morris	333
Westinghouse	427
F.W. Woolworth	563
Dow averages	233.6

Here are what some old darlings did, some of the bluest chips:

% Gain, 1982-'87

A T & T (excluding Bell Co's)....	34
Chevron	139
Eastman Kodak	101
General Motors	117
IBM	163
Procter & Gamble	131
Texaco	71
Dow averages	233.6

Barron's had a great coverage of this 5-year market described above, so we should forgive a blip of reporter Jaye Scholl who said:

"The leaders of the 5-year-old bull market haven't been the small company growth stocks but the GM's, the Mercks and the Philip Morrises."

GM rose 117.8% in that period. The Dow averages were up 233.6%, as reported by the Wall Street Journal. Some leader!
