Think deaf, says instructor

18 at sign language class

The 18 area residents who gathered for the first time Thursday night in room 306 at Cass City High School may not appear to have much in common.

The group includes a high school student who works part-time as a library assistant, a bartender, a newspaper columnist, a proofreader and her husband, a General Cable employee, and a number of persons who have young children.

Despite their differences, however, each of the "students" shares a common goal—they want to learn how to communicate with the deaf.

Thursday's 2-hour session was the first of 6 for a new sign language class, offered to adults through the Cass City Community Education Department.

According to community ed. director, Dave Lovejoy, "a response to the class has been surprising."

"What I've found is that it's really popular. It's really taken off," Lovejoy remarked, adding that the class has proven popular with high school students in the past.

Sue Mellendorf, the class instructor, described the response as "overwhelming."

"You have to realize a lot of deaf people live in Michigan," she remarked. Mellendorf noted that a number of deaf persons are moving into more rural areas with special education programs becoming more widely available.

Still, she noted, deaf persons are often excluded from even simple socializing because of a lack of ability to communicate with those who don't know sign language.

THINK DEAF

"You have to think it (sign language) and realize it is a foreign language. You have to think deaf," Mellendorf explained, adding that students in the new class will begin by learning a simple alphabet with finger spelling. "From there, we take very simple sentences and begin to put them together," she said.

"When we're finished, if they've practiced weekly, they should be able to carry on a very simple conversation."

A veteran educator, Mellendorf is well acquainted with the struggle of being deaf. Her 22-year-old daughter, Esther, was one of thousands of children born deaf during an epidemic of Rubella (German measles) in 1965. Mellendorf contracted the illness in her 10th week of pregnancy.

A lengthy period of therapy, both at home and at school, followed Esther's birth. She was attending a speech and hearing clinic in South Bend, Ind., by the time she was 11 months old. With hearing aids, sign language and perseverance, Esther learned how to communicate and today is looking forward to a second year of college, Mellendorf said.

Esther is one of 2 daughters born to Sue and her husband, Joe, an Owendale native who is a real estate associate with Don Smith of Caro. The Mellendorfs' other daughter, Naomi, 16, is a senior at Deford Christian Academy. The family lives south of Caro.

25 YEARS TEACHING

Mellendorf has spent the last 17 years of her 25-year career in education teaching in the Lakeville School District.

She earned her bachelor's degree in 1962 at Marion College, Marion, Ind., and then earned a master's degree in guidance and counseling in 1966 at Ball State University. She earned her Please turn to page 16.

Owen-Gage discusses co-op football with Caseville

The possibility of forming a "cooperative" football program with the Caseville School District was discussed and an annual audit reviewed by the Owen-Gage Board of Education Monday night.

High school Principal Robert Andrews gave a brief outline of a cooperative football program and asked the board to consider approving or rejecting the idea.

Under such an arrangement, made possible by a new Michigan High School Athletic Association rule, class D schools can merge sports programs beginning with the 1988-89 school year providing certain requirements are met.

"There's a lot to be discussed, of course, but I think it's something we should look at," Andrews remarked. "The object is to hopefully build our football program."

"I don't think the way we stand with the football program that we can exist with just (this) school. I don't think we're ever going to have more than 20-some players," he continued.

Both the Owen-Gage and Caseville districts are among the smallest in the state to field football squads. The 2 teams combined have only about 35 players; neither school fields a junior varsity team, resulting in a number of unusually small players participating at the varsity level.

Andrews noted that if a merger were to take place, a junior varsity program could be established and younger players could begin competing at that level.

Andrews pointed out that the application deadline for schools interested in merging for the 1988 season is May 1. He said that both school boards would need to approve the proposal. A committee would then be formed to oversee the program.

Despite the positive aspects of such a program, Andrews and board members acknowledged there are a number of question marks, such as distribution of costs, coaching, transportation, eligibility and a host of other factors.

The board voted to table the issue pending further consideration.

AUDIT REPORT

Representatives of the district's auditing firm, Laine Appold & Co. of Bay City, presented a report on an audit of the district's finances over the 1986-87 fiscal year, which ended June 30.

Due to changes relating to the "Goslin" and "Belk" property transfer disputes, and a delay in receipt of taxes due to a legal dispute regarding county delinquent tax revolving funds, final revenue and expenditure totals show a deficit of some $210,000. Total revenues were $1,492,929, compared to total expenditures of $1,703,013.

But the district ended the year with a general fund balance of $105,269, down from $300,000, according to the report.

School Supt. Harley B. Kirby indicated he's happy with the ending fund balance considering expected further declines in agricultural property values, and the loss of $48,765, or $1,189,400 in state equalized valuation, related to the Belk property.

Still, he noted, the fund balance is far below an "ideal" fund balance, which would be about 1/3 of the district's budget, or some $467,000.

Recommendations by the auditing firm included continued work towards ending a deficit fund balance in the district's hot lunch program, and reducing inter-fund borrowing related to debt retirement funds.

Kirby noted that the district's lunch program, which showed a loss of some $12,000 over a 2-year period, had a deficit of about $700 in the 1986-87 fiscal year. He said changes introduced by school officials over the past year resulted in a $4,000 savings over one semester alone.

CLOSED SESSION

In other business during the nearly 3-hour monthly meeting, the board met with Marie Susalla and her son, Jay, in a 50-minute executive session. The closed session, requested by Susalla, was held to discuss a disciplinary matter, Kirby said.

The board called a special meeting for 8 p.m. Oct. 19 to further discuss that matter in addition to considering action on improvements to sidewalks near Gageton Elementary School. The meeting will be held at the elementary school.

Also Monday, the board approved a motion to borrow $58,702 to purchase 2 new school buses. The resolution names the First American Bank of Sebewia as the loan institution and calls for a 5-year loan at 7.5 percent interest per year beginning Nov. 1.

The board learned that a reduction in insurance costs is expected following adjustment of coverage for the former high school cafeteria and band room buildings, which are now used for storage.

Board members discussed, but took no action on the possibility of selling the buildings.

Weather helping, crop yields edge upwards

Average and near average crop yields are nurturing a growing feeling of optimism among area farmers and agriculture officials, despite predictions of disaster during drought conditions 2 months ago. And if a recent trend of cool, dry weather continues, farmers will have even more to smile about, officials say.

In Tuscola County, average yields overall are expected for the sugar beet crop, while dry bean yields are expected to be down only slightly, despite a delayed harvest. Corn appears to be the hardest hit among the county's crops, Cooperative Extension Service Director Bill Bortel said.

"We've had good weather the last couple, 3 weeks—can't complain," he remarked. "The next 2 weeks will move well" provided the weather cooperates.

Bortel reported that the dry bean harvest, which was in full swing last week, is 2-4 weeks behind schedule this year. The harvest is 25 to 30 percent complete, he pointed out, adding "By now we normally are 80 percent-plus done."

"What happened is the dry beans never really had proper moisture to set in July and August," Bortel explained. "We were scared stiff that there would be no beans."

Fortunately, the bean plants regenerated after hot, dry winds caused the first blossoms and pods to fall off, he added. "The whole physiological aspect of the plants was delayed, (but) in general, most of the fields were ready for a frost."

Bortel estimated average yields to be 15 to 25 bushels per acre, which he described as being "slightly below average."

CORN CROP

The corn crop is a different matter, with yields expected to be down 10 to 20 percent, according to Bortel. He explained that unlike beans, corn must be fertilized during a critical 2- to 3-week period.

"It was so hot and dry, the plants could not be fertilized properly. There are no ears on several stocks in some fields," he commented.

"We're probably down 10 to 20 bushels across the board," he continued, adding that the average is 80 to 90 bushels per acre, with the best soils producing up to 150 bushels. Harvesting of the crop should be completed by mid-November.

Bortel noted that there is good news for sugar beets.

"The beets are doing good. We'd like to see more sugar in them, but the tonnage is good."

He added that yields were uncertain as of Monday, with only about 20 percent of the crop harvested, but that he expects to see about 20 tons per acre overall, which is average.

Similar outlooks are being reported in Sanilac and Huron Counties.

According to Sanilac County ag agent Martin Nagelkirk, the dry bean harvest in that county is about 35 percent complete, with fair yields reported so far. "Overall, we'll come out with an average of 20 bushels per acre," he said. "There's quite a range—there are some good and excellent yields."

"I expect (corn) to be our weakest crop," Nagelkirk remarked. "I would expect yields to be down from the average." He added, "There's going to be some good yields because some of the farmers did get some rainfall" during the drought.

AVERAGE YIELDS

Nagelkirk indicated he's uncertain regarding the sugar beet harvest, but indicated the harvest is well under way with average yields reported.

In Huron County, an estimated 50 to 60 percent of the dry beans are harvested. Yields are average or above, according to county agriculture officials. As is the case in neighboring counties, growers have begun harvesting corn, and farmers are getting 98 to 120 bushels per acre, down 10 to 20 percent from the county average.

GETTING BUSY

Dave Sunderland, vice-president of agriculture for Michigan Sugar Co., reported the company's Caro and Sebewia plants are getting busier every day.

The Caro plant, which had already taken in more than 104,000 tons of beets by the first of the week, was expected to take in another 27,000 to 28,000 tons Monday. "Today (Monday) will be a big day; we'll be over 30 percent harvested," Sunderland stated.

Sunderland attributes the brisk business to improved weather. "It's just ideal for harvest," he said, adding, "The growers are really starting to move."

At the Sebewia plant, 20 percent of the crop (104,000 tons) was in as of Monday morning, according to Sunderland, who noted that sugar content is 15 to 15 1/2 percent, "which is a little bit below normal."

"The quality is coming up; each day it's getting better," he said.

Always

Most television commercials are viewed as a necessary evil. A select few are entertaining. More often they're merely endured.

Some, however, are sufficiently annoying to prompt me to switch channels, if the remote control is within reach.

Any of the boisterous car dealers will do it. Why must they scream and carry on like that? Do people actually buy cars from these characters?

Another that makes me want to throw something at the screen is the one featuring the obnoxious hotshot quarterback who eats only where they "do steak." I honestly doubt that I could eat in the same restaurant with that egomaniac. He obviously does nothing to enhance their image as far as I'm concerned.

The ad that possibly rankles most, though, is the one where the mother says, "Kids! Some days you love 'em and others..." What about the others? Unquestionably, their behavior is more lovable some days than others, but surely parents don't stop loving children because of something they do.

Whenever I see parents demonstrating undesired impatience and irritability with their youngsters, I have to stifle the urge to point out that those little ones will be grown up and gone before they know it.

The horror stories of children abused and even killed by parents are beyond comprehension. How could a mother place a 3-year-old in an automatic washer because she wet her pants?

Fortunately, for everyone, these incidents are not the norm.

From the vantage point of our kitchen window, we've been privileged to watch the growth and de-

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Buschlen

Teresa Flowers and Kyle Buschlen, both of Caseville, were united in marriage Sept. 19 at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Caseville. Rev. Randall P. Schultz officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sharon Powell, Deford, and Ray Flowers of Tennessee. The groom is the son of Shirley Buschlen, Cass City, and Duane Buschlen, Pigeon.

Musical selections included "Come With Me," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." The organist was Kathy Southworth of Elkton, pianist, Carole Anderson of Caseville and soloist, Al Pittenger of Caseville.

The processional aisle was decorated with white mum plants and pew bows with greenery. The altar was adorned with a unity arrangement of white mums and royal blue forget-me-nots offset by candelabra arranged with white mums.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Richard Powell, the bride selected a gown of white Tiffany satin, designed with a Beatoe neckline trimmed with Venice lace. The gown featured a fitted bodice and long leg-o-mutton sleeves scattered with pearls and sequins. The natural waistline fell into a cathedral train accented with embroidered lace inserts and Venice lace hemline. To complete her attire, she wore a matching beaded headpiece with waltz length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, japhet orchids, stephanotis and English ivy.

Dena Barnhart of Hazel Park was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Gwen Ploe, Jeri Kunding, Debra Pawluk and Sandy Johnson. All are friends of the bride from Caseville.

The attendants wore floor length royal blue matte taffeta gowns with bow accented puffed sleeves and embroidered lace neckline. They carried bouquets of white roses, stephanotis and English ivy.

The groom's brother, Robin Buschlen of Bay Port, was best man. Groomsmen were Dave Beachy of Elkton, Steve Klein of Pigeon, Bob Erla of Cass City, and Jim Chappel of Kinde. Seating guests were ushers Scott Gaeth of Bay Port, and Scott Pobanz of Pigeon.

The mother of the bride wore a floor length royal blue matte Georgette gown with slim silhouette sleeves and front drape accented at the neckline with crystal beaded motifs. She carried a japhet orchid corsage on a royal blue evening bag.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Pigeon VFW Hall.

"If It Fitz..."

Talk about bizarre....

By Jim Fitzgerald

Watch out! Eighty-year-old Carlon Foltz remains on the loose. The state Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that he can't be jailed forever for trespassing.

The high court overruled Oakland County Circuit Judge James Thorburn, who, in 1984, sentenced Foltz and several other dangerous peace-game players to stay in jail "conceivably for life" or until they promised never to picket at Commerce Township's Williams International Corp., manufacturer of engines for nuclear missiles.

Thorburn is the judge who, in 1986, acquitted a defendant, Michael Odell Parker, who admitted participating in a crime in which the victim was robbed, shot twice, thrown down a sewer and left to die.

Parker wasn't sentenced to one day in jail. Foltz, a retired minister, served almost 100 days for refusing to promise not to repeat his terrible crime — stepping on a factory driveway to protest nuclear weapons.

Thorburn's reasoning was that after the victim -

21-year-old Jeffrey Dudley - was shot twice, Parker stopped his accomplices from shooting him a third time. Thorburn said Parker saved Dudley's life.

But not for long. About a year later, Dudley died of a heart condition that his doctor said was induced by the robbery attack. It was too late to change Thorburn's freeing of Parker, but what the heck. It wasn't as though he'd committed a serious crime, such as picketing for peace.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Bizarre Patterson, proving he's not always bizarre, was so enraged by Parker's non-sentence that he began "keeping a file" on Judge Thorburn. "I feel at some point in time I will have enough evidence of misconduct to file charges with the Judicial Tenure Commission," Patterson said recently.

Ironically, I changed Patterson's middle name from Brooks to Bizarre in 1985 when he accused another Oakland County judge — Martin Boyle — of "bizarre" behavior after Boyle refused to put some peace-game players in jail forever for trespassing at the Williams plant. Patterson charged Boyle was "prejudiced in favor of the defendants" because he is active in a lawyers group that supports control of nuclear arms.

But Patterson's zeal for objective justice wasn't extended to Thorburn, who, offering no proof, once publicly suggested that the Williams protestors were part of a communist conspiracy. Thorburn sent many of them to jail without Patterson complaining about Thorburn's obvious prejudice against peace game players. That was really bizarre, and worth the name change.

Anyway, Carlon Foltz and the others were subsequently freed without making the I'll-never-do-it-again promise demanded by Thorburn. This was a tacit admission that it's outrageous for trespassers to be punished more severely than those who take part in a robbery and shooting. Tuesday's Supreme Court decision merely confirmed that justice should be blind, not stupid.

But I'm not celebrating too wildly. I've read all 66 pages of the brief submitted on behalf of Foltz and companions by the Detroit law firm of Goodman, Eden, Millender & Bedrosian. It includes the pleadings of three Michigan bishops concerning the devastating implications of Thorburn's decision on religious freedom. Also the opinion of three Michigan law associations concerning the constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment.

To me, the brief overwhelmingly proves the case against stifling dissent by locking people up until they promise to stop protesting nuclear weapons — or anything else. There should be no question about it in a free nation.

But the court vote overruling Thorburn was 4-3. That means there are three state Supreme Court justices — Dorothy Comstock Riley, Robert Griffin and Patricia Boyle — who apparently think Carlon Foltz still should be in jail. Talk about bizarre.

Cass City police

Report 4 minor accidents

The Cass City Police Department reported 4 minor vehicle accidents, including a car-pheasant mishap, over the past week.

A vehicle driven by Kurt E. Mika, 4556 Green Rd., Cass City, was traveling westbound on Milligan Road about one mile east of Schwegler Road when it left the road and entered a ditch Friday.

Mika drove his vehicle toward the north side of the road to allow room for an eastbound vehicle when the mishap occurred, a report on the incident states.

Police also reported that an unknown vehicle rammed Mika's vehicle 4 times while Mika was in Cass City getting a wrecker. Mika's vehicle sustained slight damage.

George L. Bushong Jr., 5722 E. Cass City Rd., Cass City, reported hitting a deer while traveling north on Cemetery Road south of DeLong Road Sunday. His vehicle sustained light damage.

Also reporting a mishap was Patrick W. Royalty of Merrill, who told police that a pheasant hit the passenger's side window of his vehicle Thursday while traveling on Cemetery Road south of Huron Line Road.

A vehicle driven by Robin R. Marr, 3700 Cemetery Rd., Cass City, sustained slight damage Oct. 6 when it struck a vacuum cleaner platform at a car wash at 4385 Doerr Rd.

Marr was backing out of a stall when the 4:15 p.m. incident occurred.

VETERAN CASS CITY gardener Joe Male picked these champion banana squash in his garden last week. He grew 30 of the squash, which ranged from 20 to 40 pounds and measured 2½ to 3 feet in length.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

A couple of weeks ago when it rained for a few days, everyone was saying, "not again," thinking back to the floods in the fall of 1986.

It appears now that the fall harvest season will be about normal although drought has cut yields.

As this is written it looks dark for the Tigers. As a Tiger fan I should have bet on the Minnesota Twins just to help the Tigers out. I bet on Toronto and the Bluejays lost their last 7 games to give Detroit the division championship.

The bow and arrow deer season is on and the regular deer season is about a month away. A decade ago hunters and most land owners were very upset with the Department of Natural Resources for allowing the killing of any deer.

You don't hear that today as deer have become so numerous they are almost pests. Certainly they are expensive for farmers and for motorists whose cars are smashed by deer running in front of them.

Having said all that, let me point out that it's still a thrill to see them regardless of how many times it happens.

One of the less reliable indicators about how anyone stacks up over the long haul is first impressions.

Some of the finest people I have known are those who seemed to be dull and uncommunicative when first met. Others that appeared congenial, witty and fun proved to be just the opposite as time wore out the outer shell.

Most of us have probably had the same experience. Yet we go on making the same mistakes again when a new wave of acquaintances comes rolling in.

There are exceptions. Once in a while you meet folks who seem not to be happy unless they are being contrary or mean.

They are apt to pop up anywhere. There was one in business who fit that description. Many moons ago, stores in Cass City were closed Thursday afternoons, as quaint as that idea seems in today's torrid competition. That went on for several years and one store in Cass City advertised that it was open Thursday afternoon.

Changing business conditions finally forced Cass City stores to remain open on Thursday afternoons. All but one. You guessed it. The store that advertised being open when the rest of the town was closed switched horses and ran an ad saying it would be closed.

You don't often find anyone as anti-everything as that. It's true that human nature is the same everywhere. The main difference between the guy in the city and the guy in the country is the environment. You get to know the guy in the country better than the guy in the city and he may act differently simply because he doesn't have a mass of people to hide in.

While acknowledging that people are the same generally, you have to concede that when it comes to towns, each has its own personality.

In citizen and business cooperation, Cass City has to be given high marks. We rank Pigeon up there, too. For a small town, it seems to keep things moving and shaking.

While Cass City business cooperation has been good, its total community involvement has been nothing short of sensational. There isn't another town in Michigan anywhere near our size that I know about that raised a half million dollars through donations to build a hospital. Remember, too, that was over 25 years ago when a buck was oh so much more than it is today. The next time you go to the park remember that it, too, was created with gifts and volunteer labor, not taxpayers' dollars. That's the original park. The park expansion came from our tax dollars. But many of the buildings, the tennis courts and the equipment were the results of continuing cooperation of public minded residents of the community.

That same cooperation resulted in the location of Walbro Corporation in Cass City and helped the company in its recent takeover battle with UIS Corp.

It's good that it still exists, for the challenges today are perhaps greater than ever before. A cliché is in order. We all hang together or we all hang separately.

And it wouldn't take us long to choke to death if we don't.

Circuit Court

Caro man, 28, sentenced for breaking and entering

A 28-year-old Caro man was sentenced to 2 to 10 years in prison Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court for breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling.

The sentencing of John C. Zwenke, 637 W. Lincoln St., includes credit for 81 days already served, court records state.

The sentencing stems from the Sept. 11 conviction of Zwenke, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a dwelling at 633 W. Lincoln St., Caro, July 4.

Douglas E. Slater, Holmes Beach, Fla., entered pleas of guilty to 2 counts of felonious assault.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Bond was continued at $20,000; sentencing is to be set.

According to court records, Slater, 37, assaulted Faye Kukulski and Robert Kukulski with a pistol Aug. 27, 1986, in Fremont Township. He faces a maximum sentence of 4 years imprisonment and/or a $2,000 fine per count.

Pleas of innocent were entered by a 20-year-old Caro man who's charged with felonious assault and resisting and obstructing a police officer, and procuring perjury related to a court proceeding.

Paul R. Lyttaker, 2538

Lazell Rd., is charged with assaulting Mary Evans with a knife and resisting a Tuscola County Sheriff's Department officer Sept. 25 in Ellington Township, and attempting to procure Suzanne Spiece Oct. 1, 1986, to commit perjury on the identity of the driver of an auto, as a witness in a case against Lyttaker. The case against Lyttaker was a drunk driving trial in Tuscola County District Court.

If convicted, Lyttaker faces a maximum sentence of 4 years and/or a $2,000 fine for the first 2 charges, and 5 years imprisonment for the third charge.

A 17-year-old Caro man pleaded guilty to grand larceny.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Jay C. Lind, 3631 Mushroom Rd. Bond was continued at $10,000; sentencing is to be set.

The conviction, which carries a maximum sentence of 15 years imprisonment, stems from the July 16 larceny of U.S. currency over $100 belonging to Judy Ezkovich in Fremont Township.

Two persons, including a Deford resident, entered pleas of guilty to drug related charges.

Terry E. Bruce, 25, 1786 Montague St., Deford, pleaded guilty to attempted possession and delivery of marijuana.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Bruce, who faces a maximum sentence of 4 years and/or $2,000. Bond was continued at $5,000; sentencing is to be set.

His conviction stems from an incident Feb. 19 in Kingston Township, court records state.

Gregory C. Guild, 1585 E. Dayton Rd., Caro, pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana Feb. 27 in Caro.

A pre-sentence investigation also was ordered for Guild, 18, whose bond was continued at $5,000. Sentencing is to be set.

A 21-year-old Vassar man serving 3 years of probation for a 1984 conviction of larceny in a building pleaded guilty to probation violation.

Sentencing is to be set for Allen D. Pero, 542 Birch Rd. Bond was continued at $10,000 and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Pero violated his probation by consuming alcohol June 13 in Vassar, and by being convicted on a plea of guilty June 29 in Tuscola County District Court of disorderly behavior—fighting in a public place.

Historical group slates annual banquet Oct. 22

Questions about the recently discovered freighter Regina, lost since a disastrous Lake Huron storm in 1913, will be answered during the Sanilac County Historical Society's annual banquet, set for Oct. 22.

The banquet, to be held at the VFW Hall in Lexington, will feature a presentation by commercial diver Wayne Brusate of Marysville, one of the finders of the lost freighter.

Brusate, who made the initial discovery last year, will present a film showing the Regina, which is 100 feet down in a sandy lake bed. He holds a permit to salvage the wreck.

Reservations and ticket information are available by contacting Jane Miller at 622-8941.

STRAINING THE FINAL PRODUCT
— Powell and Turner arrived at Johnson's cider mill with 22 bushels of apples and left with 52 gallons of cider.

2 of 19 persons injured last week still hospitalized

Two of 19 persons injured in 2 fatal vehicle accidents early last week on Tuscola County roads remained hospitalized Monday at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

Arthur S. Oaks, 26, of Caro, was listed in "critical" condition Monday at St. Mary's, while Oaks' 3-year-old son, Arthur S. Oaks II, was listed in "fair" condition.

The pair were involved in an accident Oct. 5 which claimed the life of Oaks' daughter, Audrey Lou Oaks, 3, who was a passenger in Oaks' vehicle.

Johnson's Cider Mill

Cider made old-fashioned way

by Tom Montgomery
News Editor

Years ago, when the leaves began to turn and fall's arrival was certain, cars could be seen lining up into Eldon Johnson's driveway off Snover Road just west of Snover.

The people who showed up at Johnson's home year after year about this time did so for some good conversation and a cup of what some say is the best apple cider around.

Now, Johnson, 67, has slowed down considerably, making fewer batches for fewer people. Not because the demand has slowed, but because of his age.

Nonetheless, the cider Johnson makes today, using an old cider press his grandfather purchased some 80 years ago, is still made the old-fashioned way—by hand, one batch at a time.

Johnson took some time to talk about the press, and making cider, while completing a batch last week for William Powell and Larry Turner, both of Brown City. Like Johnson's other customers, Powell and Turner took their own apples, and even helped Johnson with the equipment.

"I used to run it (the press) from 8 a.m. to 9 at night. Now, I don't; I just can't," Johnson remarked. "Now, I generally run 5, 6 days a week. It's by appointment only."

"It ain't nothing fancy, but it's the old-fashioned cider mill," he continued, adding, "As far as we know, he (Johnson's grandfather, Frank Mott) bought it from someone in Uby. It was 10 to 15 years old then."

Johnson explained the traditional cider making process, which begins with placing the apples into a grinder. Johnson, whose grinder is powered with a 2 1/2 horse electric motor, noted that grinding used to be done with a gasoline engine.

MIXTURE IS BEST

"A mixture of apples makes the best cider," he said, adding that the ground apples are then placed into large burlap sacks, which are shaped into large, flat squares, and then placed on the press in between wood boards.

Johnson noted that he usually places 4 of the sacks (as much as 7 or 8 bushels of apples) on the press at one time. The boards and sacks are then pressed together via the manual press. The cider, which runs into a wooden tub, is then dipped out and strained into plastic gallon jugs.

According to Powell and Turner, there's no better way to make cider.

"You don't buy this kind of cider in a store," Powell said, adding that the cider made with the old press has more "body" than commercially produced cider.

Turner agreed. "It's a lot darker. We're going to take this home and freeze it; we're going to have it all winter."

Unlike many of Johnson's patrons, Powell and Turner are brand new customers, who heard about Johnson from a milkman.

Johnson, who retired from being a carpenter some 10 years ago, meanwhile, says he isn't looking for an overwhelming amount of new business.

"I don't make a lot of money at it. It's just something I like to do; I like to meet the people and spend time talking. Sometimes I spend more time talking to the people than I do making the cider," he remarked.

Still, he added, customers dating years back continue to return each fall.

"Most anybody that has apples, year after year comes back," he said.

Reports indicate that no one in the Oaks vehicle was wearing a seat belt.

Tuscola County recorded its 10th traffic fatality of the year Oct. 6 when a car and bus crashed in front of Akron-Fairgrove High School, leaving one man dead and the bus driver and 15 students injured.

Killed was Bill P. Becker, 27, of 86 N. Hinson Rd., Fairgrove, whose car struck the side of the bus as it was pulling out from the school. Preliminary reports on the accident, which remains under investigation, indicate that the victim was northbound on Thomas Road when the bus pulled out in front of him.

The bus driver, Nettie A. Prokopenko, 45, 6366 Dickerson Rd., Akron, and 14 students were treated and released from medical facilities in Caro, Saginaw and Bay City, while another student was admitted and later discharged from St. Mary's Hospital.

The accident was the first involving a public school bus since Nov. 11, 1975.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A Deford woman and her 2 children were injured in a one-car accident east of Caro Friday.

Ronda Spencer, 26, was traveling west on Shabbona Road when her car went out of control and went into a ditch, a Tuscola County sheriff's deputy said.

Spencer was admitted and later discharged from Caro Community Hospital, while Aaron Spencer, 3, and Tammy Spencer, 8, were treated there and released.

A Brown City man was cited following a one-car mishap on Lanway Road northeast of Kingston Road in Koylton Township Oct. 7.

A vehicle driven by Lee D. Choate was traveling north on Kingston Road when it attempted to make a right turn onto Lanway Road, but was apparently traveling too fast to make the turn based on skid marks at the scene, a report on the mishap states.

Choate was cited for defective equipment following the 6 p.m. accident.

Also reported was a car-deer accident Oct. 7 on Dodge Road 1/2 mile south of Deckerville Road.

Sandra M. Putman, 4186 Mushroom Rd., Deford, told deputies that she was traveling south on Dodge Road at about 10:53 p.m. when a deer leaped into her path. The mishap resulted in light damage to Putman's vehicle.

Your neighbor says

Trespassers are a problem

With the fall hunting and recreational seasons getting well underway, a number of area landowners are stocking up on "No Hunting, No Trespassing" signs in hopes of keeping their private land private.

According to Department of Natural Resources and law enforcement agencies, fall is annually a busy time for trespassing complaints.

And the problem isn't limited to trespassing hunters.

The popular off-road recreational vehicle craze has created a new headache for resident land owners, who say the vehicles, in addition to snowmobiles in the winter, do a lot of damage to the land.

Your neighbor, Snover native Murell Peters, recently purchased several "No Hunting" signs, but he indicated the signs sometimes aren't much of a deterrent to trespassers.

"I buy them nearly every year," he remarked, adding. "I don't know if they do any good or not. I think it (signs) does a little bit of good."

Peters, who has 120 acres, annually grows a large vegetable garden. He also has a number of beehives and is enjoying a banner year with various fruits, including peaches and cherries, grown on his property.

Damage to the beehives and fruit trees by trespassers in the past has been a problem, he said. "It's snowmobiles in the winter and 3-wheelers in the summer. I don't want any (of them) in there."

"I wouldn't protest people hunting" if they would ask permission, he said, "but they take it for granted" that they can enter the property any time they want.

Peters, 72, retired a year ago after 32 years as a maintenance man with Garwood Industries, formerly of Detroit. The area bachelor lives at 2800 Stone Rd.

New books at the library

THE EVERLASTING COVENANT by Robyn Carr (fiction). Tortured by a love they cannot deny but must conceal from their feuding families, raven-haired beauty Anne Gifford and her dashing knight Dylan deFrayne are caught up in the Wars of the Roses, England's 15th century struggle for the throne. While England is ruled by a series of warring nobles (the feeble and insane Henry VI is unseated by young Edward IV, who then gives way to his brother, the unscrupulous Richard III), Anne likewise is claimed by a succession of knights, both honorable and base, as she struggles to realize a union with Dylan, her first and only love.

50 by Avery Corman (fiction). Doug Gardner, ordinary man, sportswriter, of his own principles and the demands of the marketplace. His problem is the common one of divorce, shared custody of two children and a mountain of bills, exacerbated by his fear that neither the love he gives his children nor the money he provides can compensate for the half-life of a divided household. Yet when the owner of his magazine tries to bribe him with a raise if he'll write articles he doesn't believe in, he quits; when he finds another job and comes enticingly close to big bucks, he takes a long look at the compromise involved and opts out. This in spite of the fact that his former wife has married a fabrics millionaire who, as Doug writhes in jealousy, houses the kids in castles and flies them to Europe for the weekend.

CARSON: The Unauthorized Biography by Paul Corkery (nonfiction). Corkery chronicles Carson's happy boyhood in the Midwest, his early career as a magician, his struggles to succeed in radio and TV, his triumph as successor to Jack Parr on the Tonight show. There are also interviews with the three ex-wives and much speculation about why each of the marriages failed.

Onset of asthma can begin in later years

People who have been free of asthma for most of their lives can start suffering from it after they are 60 years of age.

Asthma is almost always thought of as a disease that starts in childhood. But now the results of a new study conducted by Stuart M. Garay, M.D., of the New York University Medical Center in New York City shows that asthma can start in late years as well as in childhood.

"Most physicians are taught that asthma starts before middle age," Dr. Garay said. "Since one half of all patients with asthma develop their disease before the age of 18, few physicians even consider a diagnosis of asthma in the elderly."

Dr. Garay added that wheezing, which is the main indicator of asthma, may, in the elderly, be due to other conditions, such as heart disease, chronic bronchitis or tumors.

Dr. Garay studied 22 patients who had never smoked but developed wheezing and difficulty in breathing for the first time after age 60. Nine of the patients were 70 years of age or older. Nearly one-half of the patients studied had suffered a recent upper respiratory tract infection immediately before the onset of asthma. A history of sinus disease was noted in another 3. Only 7 of the 22 patients had no identifiable risk factors for possible precipitation of asthma. A family history of asthma or a history of allergies was noted in 16 patients.

Most of the patients had daily symptoms requiring therapy with theophylline and beta adrenergic aerosols. In addition about one half seemed to require therapy with corticosteroids. This is particularly risky in older persons, who are more susceptible to the sometimes severe side effects accompanying the use

Court restrains Walbro from buying back stock

Walbro Corporation announced last week that the Delaware Chancery Court has entered a temporary restraining order restraining Walbro from purchasing shares of its common stock. The order was entered in a suit filed by UIS, Inc. against Walbro, its directors and General Electric Credit Corporation relating to Walbro's sale of preferred stock to GECC. The Court did not block the sale of preferred stock to GECC. The order restrains Walbro from repurchasing additional shares of its stock for a period of 20 days, but does not otherwise affect Walbro's actions. The order also prevents UIS from purchasing any shares of Walbro stock while Walbro is so restrained. The Court denied UIS's request that the Court restrain GECC from voting the preferred stock and also refused UIS's request to restrain Walbro from expending the proceeds from the sale of the preferred stock. The Court scheduled a preliminary injunction hearing on the merits for Oct. 22.

Hawks win first Thumb B contest

The Cass City Red Hawks racked up win number 3 in 10 starts and the first in Thumb B Association competition by defeating the Imlay City Spartans, 52-41, at Imlay City Thursday.

The Hawks used a tight defense to jump off to a 10-point lead in the opening minutes of the game and were never behind.

Coach Daryl Iwan-kovitsch credited the win to the defense and the excellent shooting night of his team. Cass City hit 22 of 40 shots for 55 percent, much better than the team's average for the season.

Led by Darlene Monroe and Sue Papp, Cass City controlled the boards. Monroe had 20 boards and Papp, 13.

Monroe led all scorers with 17 points and all 8 members of the varsity broke into the scoring column.

Imlay City had 2 players in double figures. Tracy Moenart and Amy Ramirez both scored 12 points.

The win leaves the Hawks with a 1-4 conference mark and 3-7 overall. Imlay now is 2-3 in the conference and 3-7 overall.

Powerful Deckerville next

Mistakes cost Bulldogs win

Two close calls have gone against the Owen-Gage Bulldogs this year and both have affected the final scores of the games.

Earlier in the year, an inadvertent whistle took away an opening touchdown run against Kingston. The call had little to do with the game's outcome as Kingston powered its way to a lopsided 46-6 win.

That was not the case last Friday with Caseville as

	O-G	C
First downs	5	9
Rushing attempts	28	22
Rushing yards	49	88
Passes complete	14	14
Passes complete	5	1
Passes inter. by	1	3
Fumbles by	3	3
Penalties, yds.	80	75

the line official ruled that Graham Besonen's fumble on the Bulldogs' own 12-yard line was recovered by Caseville, which led to the game's only score midway through the final period. The fumble recovery was questionable because control had not been established before the ball, which was last touched by an Eagle defender, sailed out of bounds.

The Bulldogs will need to have more than a couple of calls go their way this week when they host powerful Deckerville on Friday. The Bulldogs will have to put together their best game of the season, while looking for their first North Central Thumb League win.

"Deckerville is the most awesome team we've seen. They do everything to perfection. Our goal will be to contain junior Richard Barker," stated head coach Arnie Besonen. Avid Cass City fans can attest to Barker's athletic skills as he haunted the Hawks' basketball team as a freshman.

Friday's game with Caseville was a defensive struggle all the way. The Bulldog offense looked good at times, penetrating deep into Eagle territory many times only to error in one way or another and come away empty-handed.

For the night the Bulldogs committed 3 fumbles and 3 interceptions to go along with 12 penalties which killed drive after drive.

"It's tough to have a good game when 4 of 5 of your interior linemen had only one practice last week," grunted Besonen.

Caseville's Rich Simons accounted for the game's only score at the 8:34 mark in the final period, giving the host team its margin of victory 6-0. The try for points failed.

The Bulldogs' offense, which sputtered most of the night, was led by Marc Reinhardt, who picked up 21 yards on 10 carries, and Nick Pavlichek, who netted 35 yards on 3 pass receptions.

The Bulldog defense was led by Chris Abbe, who had a brilliant defensive night with 11 tackles and one interception. Pavlichek chipped in with 7 tackles and one fumble recovery.

McCallum leads Hawk golfers to state finals; finish 6th in league play

Jason McCallum and the Cass City Red Hawks played some of their finest golf of the season Friday as Coach Jim Fox's charges finished third in the Michigan High School Athletic Association district golf tournament at Vassar.

Despite a cold, windy day with rain early in the match, McCallum was medalist of the meet with an 86. He finished in a tie with Steve Radlinski of Bad Axe and took the top spot after a playoff.

Finishing third qualified Cass City for a trip to Byron and the state finals Saturday. It was the finish that Fox was hoping to achieve before the match began.

Way out in front at the meet was Bad Axe, which finished with a 358 total, 25 strokes better than second place Vassar with 383. Cass City was just a stroke behind Vassar, finishing with 384.

The winners were paced by Radlinski with an 86 and Mike Paul with 89. Mike Chumblers scored 90 and Mickey LaLonde, 93.

For Cass City Ken Micklash had a 95; Mike Scollon, an even 100, and Dave Burnette, 103.

MAYVILLE MATCH

In a tune-up for the regionals Thursday, Cass City had little trouble defeating Mayville at Rolling Hills Golf Course, 179-218.

The Hawks weren't as good against the Cats as they were in the regionals, but they didn't have to be. McCallum scored a 41, Mike Francis, 47; Scollon, 46, and Micklash, 45, in the 9-hole contest.

Mayville failed to have a player break 50 as Roger Major, with a 52, was the low scorer for the visitors.

LEAGUE

It was a disappointing day for the Cass City High School golf team in the Thumb B Association league meet at Vassar Monday, Oct 5, but it was a good day individually for Jason McCallum.

The Hawks finished sixth among the 7 league teams with a 387 total while Caro ran away with the title with a 335 total.

McCallum shot an 84, good for a tie for 3rd place in the meet and a place on the all-conference team. Medalist for the meet was Jeff Raymond, who shot a 79. Second place went to Charles Ransford of Caro, and Mike Chamblers of Bad Axe tied with McCallum for a spot on the honor squad.

The standings in the league meet were: Caro, 335; Bad Axe, 357; Imlay City, 369; Vassar, 375; North Branch, 382; Cass City, 387, and Lakers, 405.

In addition to McCallum, Cass City individual results were: Mike Francis, 98; Mike Scollon, 105; Ken Micklash, 106; Dave Burnette, 100. Low 4 scores are counted in the competition.

CASEVILLE MATCH

The best team effort of the season came 2 days too late for Cass City as the Hawks burned up Scenic Golf Course Wednesday by rolling over Caseville in a nonconference encounter, 167-202.

It was by far our best effort of the season, said Coach Jim Fox, what I dreamed we would shoot in the league meet. McCallum led the team with a blistering 38. Scollon shot 41, his best of the season, and Micklash posted a 43. Francis shot a respectable 45 after double bogies on 2 of the first 3 holes.

Imlay City falls; tough Marlette Homecoming test for Hawks

The Cass City Red Hawks are on a mini win streak after a very slow start this fall, but to make it 3 wins in a row they must be at the very top of their game Friday in a homecoming clash with the Marlette Red Raiders.

The Hawks will enter the game fresh from what Coach Don Schelke calls the team's best performance of the season as his charges clearly dominated Imlay City while posting a 19-6 decision.

What hurt us in earlier games, Schelke said, were mistakes at crucial times. If we are to upset Marlette this week we will need to eliminate the costly errors. Marlette comes to town boasting a share of the league lead following a 28-27 decision over Vassar, the only team to defeat the Lakers this season. Marlette has great team speed, Schelke says, and they play straight football, nothing tricky. You know what they will do but that doesn't mean that you can stop them.

There was nothing easy about the first 2 touchdown drives Cass City staged against the Spartans. The first time the Hawks got the ball they marched steadily down the field for a first on the Imlay City 5, only to fail to score in 4 tries.

The next time Cass City had possession the team was not to be denied. Sparked by 4 completed passes in as many tries by Quarterback Paul Tuckey, Cass City marched 69 yards to score as Jeremy Capps punched over from the one-yard line. The touchdown came with just 55 seconds left in the first quarter.

The Hawks added their second touchdown after taking the opening second half kickoff and marching 70 yards. Key play in the drive was a 28-yard jaunt by Capps. Capps punched over from the one-yard line and also kicked the extra point.

The Hawks turned a break into their final score of the evening. The Spartans fumbled on their own 20 and Cass City recovered. On the first play Tuckey hit Jeff Dillon for a first down on the one from where Tuckey sneaked over for the 6 points.

Imlay City scored a touchdown in the final period when Mike Miller scored from the 4-yard line, but by that time the outcome had been decided. Tuckey had a great day at quarterback, hitting 9 of 9 good for 100 yards. Schelke singled out Mike Mikolon and Darin Monroe for outstanding defensive work. Monroe was credited with 7 tackles and recovered a fumble. Mikolon plays nose tackle and made 6 tackles despite being double-teamed most of the night. Capps was the leading ball carrier with 73 yards in 13 carries.

Salcido paces win

Bulldogs stop losing skid

After losing their last three North Central Thumb contests, the Owen-Gage girls coasted to an effortless win over Carsonville-Port Sanilac 62-40 on the Bulldog home floor a week ago Tuesday.

The win puts the Bulldogs' record at 6-5, while their league mark stands at 5-3. The Bulldogs were to have met North Huron Tuesday to begin the NCTL second round of competition. The girls will travel to Port Hope on Thursday.

Using a full court press, the Bulldogs jumped out to a 16-11 first quarter lead. Angie Bolzman, who filled in for injured center Jane Billy, played perhaps her best quarter as a Bulldog as she whipped in 7 points.

The second quarter belonged mostly to Susie Salcido. The senior forward, who came off a season high 25-point effort last week against Peck, continued her offensive display with a 24-point showing. She netted 9 in the second stanza, which ended with the Bulldogs enjoying a 31-17 lead. Salcido did most of her work in the game's first 3 quarters as coach Dean Roller went to his bench often in the last half.

Roller also praised the efforts of Dawn Dorsch, who finished with 5 points. Dorsch and Bolzman combined for 18 points while filling in for the injured Billy. The Bulldogs shot 26% from the floor, a measly percentage due to the easy shoot selection created by CPS turnovers against the Bulldog press. Andrea Mandich helped create some of those shots as she stripped her opponents cleanly 8 times off the aggressive Bulldog press.

The Bulldogs were able to convert on 10 of 17 free throws, an improvement from previous contests.

Thumb Ag Day slated in December

Thumb Agriculture Day will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 11 at the Colony House in Cass City. The day-long program will include agricultural exhibits as well as educational programs, according to Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension director.

The programs will be centered around the general theme of marketing: outlook and strategies. Bortel stated, adding that invited speakers will include individuals from the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Michigan State University, Michigan Farm Bureau, ASCS and more.

"A wide variety of exhibitors will be present to display their newest products and technologies, as well as answer questions. Farmers can compare types of products, services and prices without running all over the countryside," Bortel continued.

Thumb Agriculture Day is presented by the staff of the Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Cooperative Extension Services.

Additional information and registration is available by contacting the extension service at 673-5999.

Jubar's preliminary exam also was scheduled for Thursday at 10 a.m., and bond was set at $5,000.

The charge, which carries a maximum sentence of 5 years imprisonment, stems from an incident Sept. 19 in Akron Township involving a truck owned by James H. Weber.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Something about Ph.D.'s and economists: They use big words and long sentences.

The noted bond firm of John Nuveen, Inc. hired Dr. Cadmus Hicks, not only a Ph.D., but also a Certified Financial Analyst. He had a good research piece recently, showing how inflation hasn't changed much the last 5 years. When measured by the rate of increase in prices, December to December, the figures are:

3.9%	1982
3.8%	1983
4.0%	1984
3.8%	1985

Then in December 1986, the change from the year before was only 1.1%. This was because a sharp drop in oil prices carried the index unusually low. Since then it has resumed the "around 4%" annual rate of climb.

This is all reassuring, and important to those who think inflation has taken off again.

Dr. Hicks had caught my attention, all right. Then he developed a chart showing that bond buyers have been demanding about a 4.3% "real" return in the last few years. "Real" return is the market rate minus the inflation rate.

This is a high real return historically. It does offer a buffer against inflation getting worse. It also comforts bond buyers who have to decide whether to get into the market or get out.

So far, so good. Now back to the opening comments in this column - writing in big words and big sentences.

I was understanding Dr. Hicks pretty well until he threw this sentence at me: "Furthermore, since rising interest rates tend to dampen the level of economic activity, and since downturns in economic activity tend to have a restraining influence on the prices of consumer goods and services (other than those related to borrowing costs), the market's cautious insistence on a high rate of return may actually help keep inflation lower than it would be otherwise."

Whew! Sixty-four words. The longest sentence since I caught The Detroit News last summer in a 66-worder in an editorial. There are 13 words - or 20% - of 3 syllables or longer.

To apply the Fog Index, once printed in the Wall Street Journal:

Take the number of words in an average sentence. In this case we used just one sentence, which is not quite fair, but as umpire, we have certain privileges. Add to this percentage, the sentence length. Multiply the result by 0.4. Result is number of years of schooling it will take to understand the sentence.

Now, to rewrite the sentence in a style my father taught me:

"Rising interest prices hurt business. Falling profits follow. Soft prices result - except for borrowing. When bond buyers insist on high 'real' returns, this demand may help stave off inflation."

So we cut the 64 words down to 30. We used 4 sentences instead of one. Average length, 7.5 words. Four words had 3 syllables.

FOG INDEX RESULTS

	Dr. Hicks	Bill Myers
Sentence length	64	7.5
Long words, %	20	13.3
Total	84	20.8
X 0.4	33.6	8.32

The bottom lines show number of years schooling needed to understand - 33 years for Dr. Hicks' readers, 8 years for mine.

Vandalism to garage door reported locally

A complaint involving malicious destruction of property to a garage at 4417 Woodland St., Cass City, remains under investigation by the Cass City Police Department.

According to a report filed on the complaint, Kelly Smith reported Oct. 4 that someone apparently threw three pieces of cement at a fiberglass overhead door to the garage, resulting in the door being punctured with several holes.

Damage is estimated at $150, the report states.

Ilene Dunlap WARREN in Scotland

Ilene Dunlap Warren is a former resident of the Shabbona area and for several years wrote a column called "Wandering With Warren." This is the first of 4 columns on Scotland which tells of places to go and the cost of doing so.

This trip, the summer of 1987, we have been wandering all over Scotland. On the previous three trips we have mostly visited the Highlands with only modest times spent in the Lowlands; chiefly Edinburgh and visits to the village of Dunlop and the nearby Dunlop House.

1987 has remedied all that. From The Duncansby Stacks and Durness in the north to Carter Bar and the tip of the Kintyre Peninsula in the south; from Skye in the west to Arbroath and Montrose in the east, we have wandered Scotland. And loved every moment.

We'll, nearly every moment. The only bad time was our disappointment in the selfcatering cottage on the east side of the Kintyre Peninsula. Old, untidy and not quite clean, we just could not stay there and thus found ourselves with a week ahead of us with no booked reservation.

We were fortunate in finding the Putechan Lodge on Bellochantuy Bay above Campbeltown on the west coast of Kintyre and were able to book in there for two nights. We then headed for the Loch Awe area but it was very crowded. We ended up at Tinto Lodge a few miles west of Biggar and stayed there the rest of the week.

Perhaps the best parts of this year's wanderings have been the renewal of old friendships (Reeves, Thom and Gibson) and the making of new ones (McLean, Captain Grant, and Sullivan). We found during our previous holidays that it was more delightful to spend several days, a week if possible, in one place to get to know the place and the people, than to run from B&B to B&B, or hotel to hotel, just touching the surface of places and people.

Thus, the friendships that have become such an important part of our wandering in Scotland. One family visited us a fortnight in San Diego and we have promises from others to come to see us. Through such our world becomes smaller and more pleasant and it makes for happier wanderings!

elementary education degree at Michigan State University.

Aside from public school instruction, in which she often incorporates sign language, Mellendorf has taught deaf children. She also was Esther's Sunday School teacher at Deford Community Church for several years.

Mellendorf has been teaching sign language for about 6 years. Currently, she also teaches a 4-hour weekly session in the Lakeville-Millington Community Education program. That class is somewhat unique, she said, because it's one of the first in the area in which students are earning credit, following approval of state legislation a year ago.

Students in the Cass City Hrabec is scholarship recipient

Greg Hrabec of Cass City is the recipient of an ability-based scholarship for music from Ferris State College for the 1987-88 academic year, school officials recently announced.

The Ferris School of Arts and Sciences scholarship award is made available to students who have shown outstanding ability in the areas of music, drama, forensics and journalism. Ability-based scholarships have been awarded annually at Ferris since 1979, and range up to as high as $500 per year.

Hrabec was recommended for the music scholarship in the marching band by Donald Flickinger, director of the marching band and wind symphony.

program won't earn credit for their participation, but they will learn quite a bit, and within a relatively short amount of time, according to Mellendorf.

She noted that the class became available locally thanks to her sister-in-law, Helen Mellendorf. "Really, this came about last summer at a family reunion. Helen asked why we haven't learned sign language so we can talk to Esther," Mellendorf said. She added that she called the Cass City Community Education office, where she received an enthusiastic response.

"We have a lot of fun," Mellendorf commented. "I try to make it practical. We really pack it (each session) full."

According to the teacher, students in the class will take on a whole new perspective in communication. "They will become accustomed to looking at mouths. They'll become lip readers," she said.

"The pay... isn't what I'm here for - I'm here to help others learn sign language and help give them a total understanding of sign language and how much more language is available for deaf persons."

1. Chlorophyll a (Chl a) is the primary photosynthetic pigment in most plants and algae. It is a green pigment that absorbs light energy in the blue and red regions of the visible spectrum. Chl a is located in the thylakoid membranes of chloroplasts. It plays a central role in the light-dependent reactions of photosynthesis, where it captures light energy and converts it into chemical energy in the form of ATP and NADPH. The structure of Chl a consists of a central magnesium atom coordinated by four nitrogen atoms in a porphyrin-like ring, with a long phytol side chain attached to one of the ring carbons.
