Women hospitalized after crash

2 die in separate county accidents

A 27-year-old Millington man was killed last week when the car he was driving pulled out into the path of a semi-truck on M-46 at the Kirk Road intersection in Juniata Township.

Keene was northbound on Kirk Road, stopped at the intersection with M-46 and then entered the intersection, according to the report, which states that the semi-truck, driven by Steven L. Bertossi of Anchorville, was eastbound on M-46.

The report indicates that Bertossi was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident, while it was impossible to determine whether Keene was wearing a seat belt.

control of the tractor he was driving and the vehicle rolled on top of him. Killed was Kenneth M. Veitengruber, 9948 Van Cleve Rd., who was dumping stones over a 50-foot bank into the Cass River when he lost control of the tractor and drove it over the drop-off at about 2:59 p.m., a Tuscola County Sheriff's dispatcher stated.

The accident occurred near 9951 Van Cleve Rd., near Veitengruber's home, he said.

adding, "As quick as it came up, it went away." Commissioners in 1985 asked that the county be considered as the prison site, but that request was withdrawn after protests from residents.

The board indicated that the projection is based on an expected 4 percent annual increase in expenses, with revenues only increasing by one percent each year.

After 1929 - residents remember how it was Black Monday, Oct. 19, 1929. To many "average" persons, the reference may mean very little, except what they might have heard in a news report or read in a newspaper.

"I can remember getting quite a few welfare orders," he said. Hartwick recalled a time when doctors made house calls. He noted that a Cass City doctor made a visit to his parents' home, about 5 miles west of Cass City, after he was born. The fee was $4.

Harold Perry, a Cass City native and former long-time educator, was a school superintendent in Shiawassee County in 1929. He was 25.

recalled, "I think I had under $30 on hand; I was rich." The 83-year-old returned to his family farm near Cass City in 1933, and then attended Michigan State University, earning a degree in agriculture in 1937.

NO MONEY "There was just no money at all. You would work for a dollar if you could get one," he remarked, adding that the local economy slowly began to recover.

At the age of 24, Holmberg was married, and he and his wife lived in Detroit while he finished school. His wife taught a teacher's salary at the time in the city was about $120 per month.

At that rate, the deficit would total $5.7 million, according to Hoagland, who stated that only about $1.4 million could be recovered during that period by using the delinquent tax funds.

Hoagland cautioned that the projection includes a Please turn to page 10.

HEADLINES Cass City resident Arlan Hartwick, 78, was 20 years old when the market crashed.

Although the recollections aren't exact, and some memories have faded somewhat, all of the residents agreed the recent "crash" doesn't compare with that of 1929.

Oh, there are vague memories of grandfather talking about his money that was lost in the bank and the poor souls who were headed towards the poor house. But it didn't mean much to me.

Maybe that's because in those early years when I was a grade school student I had it good. One of the lucky ones. There was always food on the table and most times we had meat once a day. There was heat in the house and we didn't have to walk the tracks in hopes of finding a few stray lumps of coal that may have fallen from the steam engine tender.

The common story was, that working in the factories was great, but highly uncertain, very unsteady. There was no unemployment compensation. You got paid when you worked.

Working for $15 was considered the safer and better route during many of the depression years.

Maybe it's better now looking through the mist of time than it was then.

Waking up happy

By Melva E. Guinther

Did you catch the tips from the sleep experts in the "Reader's Digest" for getting out of bed in the morning? They could never have been written by night people.

Since early morning is the bane of my existence, I was naturally drawn by the headline, "Tips to wake up happy."

Tip no. 1 suggested "stepping outside for about 15 minutes to take advantage of light's powerful impact on human body rhythms." Turning your bedroom light on, say the experts, is a poor substitute. It's not intense enough.

A couple fallacies leapt out at me. In the first place, there IS no natural light to wield a powerful impact on human body rhythms at the time I have to get up in order to get to work 5-10 minutes late.

Morning people, who are bright eyed and bushy tailed at that hour, have reassured me that it is, indeed, still dark at 7 a.m.

(This is being written before the "fall-back" that results in that wonderful extra hour of sleep.)

In the second place, even if I could find the door, the world is not ready for the likes of me upon first arising.

Although questioning the credibility of these experts, I nevertheless read on.

"Keep exercise moderate" was another pointer. Surely they jest! Pouring a cup of coffee brewed via pre-programming the previous night is as much exercise as this bod can muster in the morning. But that's okay. The article says that too much too soon may strain your heart.

"Meditate. After the alarm goes off," the article continues, "try lying there and thinking positive thoughts..."

I've tried that. The alarm clock is deliberately placed across the room so it's necessary to get out of bed to shut it off. Then it's back into bed for meditation.

Fifteen or 20 minutes later, the "meditation" is rudely shattered by Stan calling up the stairs that if I don't get up, I'm going to be late.

(It must be true that opposites attract each other. He's disgustingly alert and good-natured in the morning. Fortunately, he knows better than to attempt any meaningful conversation with yours truly.)

The experts concluded with "good old common sense. If it's hard to get up in the morning, try getting to bed earlier the night before."

But that's prime time. I can think of a dozen things to do at 11 p.m.

Never mind the adages about the early bird getting the worm, and being healthy, wealthy and wise. At some point in time some night owl must have made a comment worth quoting. Unfortunately, I can't think of any.

"If It Fitz..."

Buy a kid a book

By Jim Fitzgerald

My Oldsmobile and I were idling in a line of cars waiting to leave the parking garage under Kennedy Square. Because of the incredibly stupid behavior of the woman driving the car in front of me. I wanted to crash into her rear end, or at least honk her into startled realization of her dumbness.

But I didn't. Instead, I read a magazine. Thank God for reading. Buy a kid a book.

I never leave home without something to read while waiting. In this case, the waiting was caused by a woman, perhaps 35, who didn't start looking for her parking ticket until she reached the toll booth.

She'd been waiting in line for 2 or 3 minutes, slowly inching forward as the motorists in front paid to get out. Why didn't she spend that time finding the time-stamped ticket that tells the booth attendant how much is owed? Why didn't she have her ticket and money ready ahead of time, the way I did? Why didn't she care about the people behind her, the people she was making late for important appointments? Why did she have to be in front of me? Why was she allowed to live?

She didn't even reach for her suitcase-sized purse until drawing even with the booth window. And then the hopeless fumbling began. She also looked in the glove compartment and on the dashboard and floor. And then returned to the purse.

By this time, I was reading. That's what I always do in such situations, to avoid losing my temper and wasting my time. I'm always equipped with a paper, magazine or paperback book.

In doctors' offices, reading material is supplied in a frank admission that the doctor may keep you waiting weeks beyond your appointment time because he is firmly convinced his time is more valuable than yours. But you have to furnish your own reading for waiting while the one bank teller behind 10 teller windows turns her back to spend the afternoon making change for fellow employees.

It's easy to read standing up in bank, movie, restaurant and bureaucratic lines as long as you don't try to rest the book in your lap or your elbows on the floor. In the sitting or lying position, I read for the usual reasons — entertainment, information, my job and so on. In the vertical position, I read for those same reasons and one more — to keep from going nuts and screaming at the people who make me wait.

In my car, there is always something to read while waiting for my wife to "skip into the supermarket to buy some bread" and return in 2 hours with a year's rations for a family of 10. So I was prepared for the woman who couldn't find her parking garage ticket. Thanks to reading, which makes all waiting bearable, I didn't honk at her once, not even when, after she finally discovered the ticket in her purse — probably hidden under a change of clothing — she also discovered she wasn't parked close enough to hand her money to the man in the booth. She had to get out of the car to complete the transaction and I wasn't surprised to see her move painfully because of ungodly tight jeans and highly spiked heels. Stupidity must be a requirement for people who dress like that.

I can't imagine not knowing how to read, but a lot of grown people can't. It is dismaying to think about how much they miss, how much they suffer because no one ever read to them when they were little. It is splendid that the Free Press is trying to do something about it, with your help. For Christmas, we want to give 25,500 new books to needy children who otherwise might never see a book in their homes.

Buy a kid a book. It could save him or her from a fate a thousand times worse than getting stuck with nothing to read behind a woman who can't find her parking garage ticket. It could save him or her from the blank life of illiteracy. So awfully blank.

The Haire Net

Try as I might it's impossible to set her straight. She just goes blithely on saying that watching a movie more than once is just plain nuts.

In fact if things get a little quiet, a little serene, a little boring all that needs to be done is tell Dorothy that there's a great movie on the tube and to get in and see it... again.

Wow! How stupid can you get? Watching movies that you have already seen and know the answer? Better you should (pick one or more depending on the season) mow the lawn, rake the lawn, wash the dog, wash the car, help with the dishes, clean the garage, etc., etc., etc.

She just doesn't understand that just because I've seen "Casablanca" so many times that I can repeat the dialogue in the better scenes before Humphrey Bogart mouths the words, doesn't mean that you can't enjoy the film.

It's even harder to understand why she won't even watch a great musical the second time around. It falls on deaf ears when I ask her why she wants to hear a favorite song more than once and refuses to watch a movie with one of the same grand songs in it more than once.

You see what I put up with? Of course you do. The last time we went round and round about this as I was watching "The Sting" again I challenged her to put it to the test. She agreed quicker than the time it takes her to switch the rerun movie off the boob tube and that's about as quick as it gets.

What I suggested was to ask you who was in the mainstream and who was the freak in this affair.

Give us a ring, tell us your name and how you vote. Better yet, write us your opinion. We'll do our best to pass your letters on to the readers (especially if they are the sensible ones in favor of enjoying a movie more than once).

The story that outlined the salary of superintendent-elect Ken Micklash caused, as it usually does, more comment than most any other that is published during the year.

All of the talk centered around his salary of $49,500 to start and all thought it should be lower. When it is pointed out that the salary is not excessive when compared to salaries of other superintendents in the area, not much of an impression is made.

If compared to average salaries in the area, it is a lot of money. But if Micklash is as good in getting the most for the taxpayers' dollar as Don Crouse, the man he replaces, the money will be well spent.

Cass City operates at one of the lower costs per pupil educated in the State. Against the total school budget of over $4.5 million the amount paid the superintendent will have no appreciable effect on the taxes you pay. The way the school is operated will.

Micklash promises to be a fiscal conservative and seems to be practicing what he is preaching in the announcement of the cut of the assistant principal from the high school staff.

Time will tell how good he is. We should judge the total job of the administration rather than penny-wise and dollar-foolish by hiring a man as cheap as we can rather than as good as we can.

Cass City woman gets "head start" on her career

Cass City resident, Shelly Nicholas, a Great Lakes Junior College night school student at the Caro campus, says she's getting a "head start" on her career.

Nicholas, 18, is attending Great Lakes to receive an Associates degree in legal secretarial. She is also working in her prospective career area already. Nicholas is a legal secretary for the law offices of John C. Burns in Cass City.

But why attend college when you're already working in your career area? "It's simple," Nicholas said. "The education will back up my work experience. There are many businesses today that won't hire you because you don't have a degree from a college. The degree will help make me more marketable out in the job field."

Nicholas began working at the law firm in June. As a legal secretary, she is responsible for transcription work on a computer, waiting on clients, filing, working with documents and reception duties.

Although she sometimes finds it difficult going to school and working at the same time, Nicholas says she sees benefits in doing both.

"My classroom experience helps me in the office and then the office work will help me when I'm in the classroom," she explained. "By working, I can also earn money to continue going to school."

Currently Nicholas is receiving a Michigan Tuition Grant and a Michigan Business Schools Association scholarship. She says that both have helped her in obtaining her education.

A 1986 graduate of Cass City High School, Nicholas decided that she didn't want to go away to school.

"At first I didn't know that there was going to be a Caro campus, so I planned on going to Great Lakes in Saginaw. Luckily, a campus is here and I'm now attending. It's to my advantage because now I can go to school, live, and work in approximately the same area."

"The faculty really help you out a lot," she says. "I've heard from my friends that at other schools they don't sit down and work with you like they do at Great Lakes. At Great Lakes you're more of a name, not a number." Nicholas says that after graduating in June 1988 she plans to stay where she is for a while. "Five years down the road I may look at things differently, but for now I'm content to stay where I'm at."

"I would recommend Great Lakes Junior College to other prospective students," Nicholas says, "especially those who want to stay here in the area. The new campus is in the center of a lot of things out here."

AREA RESIDENT Shelly Nicholas is combining education with work experience in her career.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Ernie is a truck driver for a paper company that regularly delivers to the Chronicle and other places in Cass City.

He's missed his calling. He should have been a financial advisor, or, at the very least, a stock broker. "I sold all my stocks 2 weeks ago," he said, when discussing Black Monday on the exchange.

You look up Marv Winter's business in the phone book and it says truck sales. What it should be listed as is rigger deluxe.

The Chronicle last week installed a new machine used to make plates for printing. When it arrived it was discovered that it was too wide to get through the doors leading upstairs to the composing room.

Luck was with it when a window on the second floor was measured. The window was 43 inches, the machine 42½ inches.

Winter loaded it on his fork lift on top of his flatbed truck and deposited it without trouble on the second floor.

What's more, it only took him about 15 minutes to do it after it was uncrated.

On South Seeger where the Haires live, it's normal on Halloween to have 100 to 150 trick or treaters stop by.

Given the fine weather Saturday, we looked for and prepared for at least that many.

It wasn't that way. There were perhaps a dozen youngsters all evening.

Halloween vandalism also was less than most years, according to police reports.

Barcia calls for veterans facility in the Thumb

Citing impressive statistics that dramatize the need for a veterans long-term care facility in the Thumb region, state Senator James A. Barcia (D-Bay City) has introduced 2 measures that call for a feasibility study by the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund Board of Trustees.

Senate Resolution 308 and Senate Concurrent Resolution 372, which were introduced in the Senate recently, place the upper chamber (with the House of Representatives concurring) in the position of officially requesting the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund Board of Trustees to undertake the study.

The resolutions, which were referred for study to the Senate Committee on Local Government and Veterans, also request that a final report be presented to the Legislature by March 1, 1988.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the 9-county Thumb region is overdue for a veterans long-term care facility," Barcia said. "According to information supplied by the U.S. Veterans Administration, 111,250 veterans, 29,740 of them over the age of 60, live in the Thumb area and yet Michigan's only veterans long-term care facilities are located in Grand Rapids and Marquette."

Barcia also pointed out that Michigan falls far short of the recommended federal level of nursing home beds, which is at least 4 beds per 1,000.

"For a total state veterans population of 1,112,000, the recommended number of beds is 4,448, but Michigan currently has less than 1,000 long-term care beds," Barcia stated. "Even with the proposed conversion of the Allen Park veterans medical center into a long-term care facility, still more beds will be desperately needed," he added.

"The statistics clearly point to the need for a veterans long-term care facility in the Thumb area," Barcia said. "Our veterans have served us and our country well. I think we owe it to them to provide them with the long-term medical care they need at a facility that is close to their homes and families."

Ag agent moves to Bay County

The Tuscola County Agricultural Agent's position which Dennis Stein has held for the past 4 1/2 years is open as of Nov. 1. Stein will be filling a position in Bay County as agricultural agent for the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

"The time spent here, in Tuscola County, has been very enjoyable and challenging," Stein remarked recently. "The county and the agriculture community have undergone some real challenges these past few years. I feel confident that the agricultural sector will overcome the current situations and will prosper for some time in the future."

"This county has a strong, progressive agriculture base, which adapts to the changes in the ag economy and to continuing progress," Stein concluded.

New books at the library

TORNADO-WATCH #211 by John G. Fuller. On May 31, 1985, it was hot and clear in western Pennsylvania and northeastern Ohio. In late afternoon, the area experienced a collision between moist, unstable Gulf air and cold, dry Canadian air. In less than four-and-a-half hours, 28 tornadoes, with winds up to 300 miles per hour, killed 75 people, injured 1,023, and flattened entire towns. Fuller's vivid, powerful account of that day charts the developing storm system, takes the reader inside the national and local weather offices, and shows the transformation of ordinary small-town life into scenes of incomprehensible horror and destruction.

NOT WITHOUT MY DAUGHTER by Betty Mahmoody and William Hoffer (non-fiction). When an American woman married to an Iranian doctor goes with her husband and their young daughter to his native country in 1984, culture shock turns to personal tragedy as the husband reveals a secret plan to remain with his family in Iran. Mahmoody describes how she and her 4-year-old daughter - unwilling participants in the Islamic cultural revolution - were kept in Iran against their will until they were smuggled over the Turkish border in 1986. Their long battle as victims of physical and emotional torture is punctuated with flashbacks that might have alerted more observant persons that all was not right let alone equal in this family, but that in Mahmoody's case only inflame and confirm her domestic bitterness.

CROSSING TO SAFETY by Wallace Stegner (fiction). Two young couples from different backgrounds and regions meet in the academic backwater of a Wisconsin university. At first, they are excited by the future success they fantasize about, but soon they are confronted by the threat of scholastic failure and physical illness. The bonds-both within the individual marriages and between the two couples-remain strong, and despite separation and disappointment, their friendships prosper until the prospect of death finally forces a brutal reconsideration of what life has handed each of these four people.

Ilene Dunlap WARREN
in Scotland

Ilene Dunlap Warren is a former resident of the Shabbona area and for several years wrote a column called "Wandering With Warren." This is the last of 4 columns on Scotland which tells of places to go and the cost of doing so...

After 4 trips to Scotland, all of them self-planned even to the prebooking of our housing, our routine has been quite easy and, for the most part, inexpensive. We take a direct flight to London, transfer to Dan-Aire and go right to the Inverness Airport (Dalcross) where we pick up our rental car and we are on our way! In 1981, by a lucky choice in the Tourist Board's (then British) brochure, we booked in at the Osprey Hotel, Kingussie, for a week. It was that experience that made us vow to return to Scotland! It is convenient to most that one will wish to see in the Highlands - from Edinburgh (which is on the edge of the Highlands) to the Duncansby Stacks or to Inverewe Garden.

Since our first trip, the Scottish Tourist Board has been established and it has been much easier to glean information about the Regions and Districts of Scotland. In 1986 Podor's came out with the first book on Scotland alone! This has been advantageous both to Scotland's tourist industry and to people in the United States who wish to travel there.

We have noticed that many people travel by rail after flying to Great Britain. We prefer a car. And we prefer to seek out the B roads and have even learned to travel those "single track roads with passing places" without too many tremors! It is on the B roads that one discovers those places not known to the tourist agencies, and if you want to tour the Applecross Peninsula or trek down the east side of Kintyre, you MUST drive the track roads.

Most hotels where we have stayed have been D.B.&B (Dinner, Bed and Breakfast) and have varied from $25 to $36 per night, per person. There are several that are set up for just B&B with dinner optional -

Some trees have flaws

By Bill Bortel

Who knows what problems lurk behind an otherwise beautiful tree? Before you are deceived, review the recommendations from experts across the country on which trees to avoid.

There are no bad trees. All trees have at least one exemplary characteristic. There are, however, some trees whose flaws override their strengths, making them poor choices over better, more desirable trees. Obvious flaws, such as weak branching, messy fruit and rapid growth that leads to high maintenance, can rule out a tree across the board.

Other flaws are more subtle, sometimes only becoming evident once the tree matures. For example, a young tree with characteristically weak branching can survive without serious damage for a short while. That same tree at maturity has heavier branches that will snap at the crotch in the first strong wind or heavy snowfall. In other cases, a species performs well in one part of the country but is affected by insect and disease problems elsewhere.

Even though some trees seem to be native, they can be pest- or problem-prone because pioneers moving west transplanted species from the eastern United States. Out of their native regions, some trees fail to adapt completely and are the target of many pests.

Experts from across the country made recommendations on which trees to avoid in their regions, so you can make more informed tree selections in your area. You may also gain more information from your county extension agent or state forestry expert.

The trees to avoid in our state are the following. We can still grow these trees, however, there will be more potential problems than selecting trees which are affected with minimum insect and disease problems.

1. Box Elder - Reasons to avoid: Has weak wood. Is host for home-invading box elder bugs. Has persistent and weedy seedlings.

2. European White Birch - Reasons to avoid: Mandatory pesticide applications to fight leaf miner and bronze birch borer.

3. Russian Olive - Reasons to avoid: Is susceptible to canker and Verticillium wilt. Is short-lived.

4. Colorado Blue Spruce - Reasons to avoid: Is susceptible to Cytospora canker, which disfigures and eventually kills the tree.

5. Poplars - Reasons to avoid: Is susceptible to aphids, borers, cankers, galls, leaf blisters, powdery mildews, rusts and scales. Is fast-growing and has weak wood, which makes it susceptible to wind and ice damage.

6. Purple-Leaf Plum - Reasons to avoid: Is susceptible to numerous insect and disease problems, so it becomes short-lived.

7. Willow - Reasons to avoid: Is susceptible to twig blight, crown gall, various cankers, borers, leaf spot, powdery mildew, scales, aphids, imported willow leaf and beetle and galls. Is fast-growing and susceptible to damage from environmental conditions.

8. European Mountain Ash - Reasons to avoid: Is susceptible to scales, mountain ash sawfly, scab, cankers, borers and fire blight.

9. Siberian Elm - Reasons to avoid: Has brittle, weak wood that litters. Is a host for the home-invading elm leaf beetle.

Knits mittens for kids

Keeping busy keeps Lois Binder going

Cass City native Lois Binder has probably warmed more little hands, ears, feet, heads and hearts over the years than most. Known as "Mrs. B" locally, the 75-year-old silver-haired grandmother loves to knit and crochet. Just ask any one of hundreds of area youngsters wearing mittens made by her arthritic, yet more than able fingers.

In truth, the veteran special education teacher, who taught in Cass City for 15 years before retiring a decade ago, simply loves children. She loves to do anything that will keep her busy.

That philosophy seems to be Binder's "fountain of youth."

"As far as I'm concerned, what I do isn't newsworthy," Binder remarked recently at her Garfield Street residence.

"I love to make them (mittens), in the first place," she said. "I think that when one retires, if he doesn't find a job, he's going to die. It isn't good for you to sit and do nothing. If we look, we can find so many people who are worse off than we."

"You can always spare time and make a pair of mittens," Binder noted. She recently completed 2 dozen pairs of mittens for DeFord Elementary School students, and has made as many as 100 pairs in one year.

"I knit or crochet everything," she explained, adding that she also makes hats, scarfs, slippers and, occasionally, a pair of socks.

Binder started out by making mittens and various other items for members of her family, but it didn't take long before she "adopted" a much larger family.

"Golly, you just start making them and... I had a youngster come to the door and his hands were blue he was so cold. I said, 'Where are your mittens, child?' He said, 'I don't have any,' and I said, 'Well, you will have in a minute,' and I went and got him a pair."

ESPECIALLY FOND

Binder has always been especially fond of children. The mother of one, son David who is athletic director and assistant principal in the Bronson School District, has 4 grandchildren.

But there's a special place in her heart for her special education students, whom she devoted 15 years to after giving up on plans for a career in social work.

"I've said many times that I'd rather teach special education students because they seem to appreciate everything you do. Even their parents do, and so many of them (kids) just need to be loved."

Binder's husband, the late Erwin "Pat" Binder, urged her to return to high school after the pair were married in 1928. "I said, 'No, a married woman doesn't go back to school,'" Binder commented.

With only 2 credits needed to graduate, however, she went back and earned her diploma in 1955. Binder then went on to earn a degree in elementary education from Central Michigan University in 1962. After that, she received a state certificate and taught at Greenleaf School for 3 years before teaching special education students in Cass City, where she initiated a special ed. program.

Binder worked at Boag and Churchill, Inc. (now Ryland and Guc, Inc.) in downtown Cass City for 10 years before going into teaching. She worked days while attending night classes in Bad Axe, Caro and Sandusky. She quit the job because "there was no future in it."

"BIJI"

Although Binder's husband died some 15 years ago, her dog "BiJi" (pronounced BeeGee), has helped ease the loneliness for the past 9 years. The toy Manchester looks and sounds like a miniature Doberman, but Binder says the live-in companion is gentle.

"I wouldn't know what to do without her. I'd be lost," she said. "She's very protective. She takes good care of me."

The dog helps Binder, who has some trouble hearing, by letting her know when someone is at the door. "She's the only 'kid' I have right now, so she's spoiled," Binder added.

Actually, Binder has many adopted "kids" thanks to her knitting efforts. She maintains the knitting is something she wants to do. Like gardening, she says, "it keeps me from going crazy."

"I don't eat it (garden crops) all, of course. I share it with the neighbors. The garden is good for me."

Binder, who lives only about 5 miles from where she was born in 1912 in Novesta Township, has a great deal of patience, except when it comes to seeing inactive fellow senior citizens.

"It really scorches me when people just feel sorry for themselves," she explained. "I don't think the years make a difference—you just have to do what comes your way. I guess the Lord took me at my word because I have a lot more to do than I can do."

Binder continued, "I've got a lot more to do than waiting for the sun to go back down so I can go back to bed."

MAKING MITTENS FOR area children is one of several on-going projects that keep Cass City's Lois Binder, 75, young and active. The retired special education teacher last week donated 24 pairs to Deford Elementary School.

BINDER IS PICTURED above next to a Christmas tree decorated with a variety of her mittens. The photo was taken about 5 years ago at Novesta Church of Christ, where she attends.

Ask new taxes for Wayne County

A legislative package to infuse Wayne County with $26.5 million in new revenues, including additional lottery funds, while unloading some costs for indigent health care to deal with what some have called a fiscal emergency, was outlined to the Legislature recently by County Executive Edward McNamara.

McNamara promoted the plan in a luncheon meeting with legislators from the county, but said he is not wedded to its specifics and asked for any other suggestions to help the county over its fiscal problems.

The county's fiscal year ends Dec. 31, and McNamara's proposed budget for the new year requires $11 million more in revenues. The county also has about $110-$130 million in short term debts to the state, which officials intend to repay through bonds.

The package includes: —$18 million from a 5 percent surcharge on lottery winnings and a third Lotto game. Another $16 million raised by that plan would be distributed to counties around the state. Currently, the School Aid Fund gets all lottery profits.

—$6 million with a 30 percent surcharge on airport parking.

—A $2.5 million by raising circuit court fees.

A revision of the indigent health care program, which is costing the county about $32.5 million a year, would cap its costs at $22.5 million and shift up to $16.5 million to the federal government.

State costs are expected to remain unchanged. The new program would contract with hospitals and other providers to guarantee care for general assistance recipients at specified per capita costs, instead of the county having to simply cover overruns for whatever charges are submitted by poor persons.

A change in Medicaid eligibility would shift health care costs for other low-income persons, who are not on GA, to the federal government. A private agency would authorize lengths of stays in hospitals.

That proposal is expected to be well-received in the Senate, where Republicans had proposed similar plans for turning administration of Medicaid programs to private entities.

Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton) had introduced bills (HB 5042 and HB 5043) providing lower airport parking surcharges and including airport-based companies in the property tax, and another measure providing a new hotel tax.

STATES RAISE TAXES

The dollar amount of taxes raised by state governments in 1987 was the highest since the recession year of 1983, even though state spending is increasing at the smallest rate since the recession, according to a national survey.

The survey by the National Governors' Association and the National Association of State Budget Officers showed 33 states raising taxes by $6.6 billion to shore up budgets hurt by a weakening economy.

With 6 other states cutting taxes by $500 million, the net $6.1 billion increase was surpassed only by the $7.4 billion raised with tax increases in 38 states in 1983. Meanwhile, the 1987-88 budgets for the states will grow 1.1 percent, after adjusting for inflation.

Michigan was one of 17 states showing no real growth.

NASBO Executive Director Gerald Miller said small budget increases and the various tax changes "illustrate the result of slow-to-moderate growth of the national economy."

The survey showed that in 1986-87, 24 states cut $3 billion from the budgets they had enacted due to depressed revenues. The survey said the number and size is unusually high for a nonrecession year.

The survey showed only 8 states projecting year-end budget balances of at least 5 percent, the benchmark used to determine a healthy financial condition.

Elkland board meets for fast 30 minutes thorized the hiring of Sharon Thomas to fill the vacancy of secretary in the Cooperative Extension Service office effective Oct. 26. The board also authorized filling Thomas' former position as a part-time general office clerk in the same office.

George Cooklin was hired as a full-time corrections officer beginning Nov. 1. He'll fill the position recently vacated by Deputy Richard Blakely, who is working on a special youth crime prevention project made possible by a state criminal justice grant awarded to the county.

Also, the board received, but took no action on a letter received from circuit court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn urging the board to "standardize all judicial salaries."

Susan E. Damm, 4307 Leach St., Cass City, was traveling north on Cemetery Road 1/4 mile south of DeLong Road early Saturday morning when the vehicle she was driving hit a deer. Her vehicle sustained light damage in the 2:34 a.m. mishap.

Novesta officials air refuse plans

Novesta Township residents will continue to have 2 garbage pick-ups per month this winter, but the township board Monday night made it clear that nonresidents are not welcome to take their garbage to pick-up sites.

Township Clerk Nursie L. Kloc stated that the pick-ups will be on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month.

"We're going to be very strict about turning people away who don't live in the township," Kloc said, adding, "It's been a problem all along."

Kloc noted that township residents are issued I.D. cards to participate in the refuse pick-ups, but those cards may be reissued and include drivers license numbers if non-township residents continue to take trash to the township for removal.

The township currently pays about $190 per truck load of garbage.

In other business during the 75-minute monthly meeting, the board approved a road commission bill of $10,000. Kloc noted that the payment leaves a balance of $7,244 yet to be paid.

Recommendations from the regional conferences will be forwarded to the state conference in the spring of 1988 where they will become part of the starting issues agenda.

Gavel Club wants plan for all park improvements

The new press box at the football field at Cass City Recreational Park has worked well in the recently finished football season, Don Schelke, president of the Cass City Gavel Club, said this week.

The press box is the most recent project sponsored by the Gavel Club, which has been involved in many of the projects for improvement of athletic facilities at the park. Schelke said that the project was conceived 5 or 6 years ago as a start of a master plan for improvements at the park. We hope to get others involved and devise a master plan for park improvement, Schelke explained.

The addition to the stadium cost members close to $8,000 and included a great deal of volunteer help.

Doing much of the building was the carpentry class of Gavel member Dave Hoard. Also helping was builder Tom Herron, who donated labor for the project. The press box is 8 by 28 feet. It has private areas for spotters for both the home and visiting teams. Across the front of the box is a shelf for the use of the spotters and the press. The building can handle up to 20 persons.

The enclosed area under the working press area is designed to be used for storage.

Halloween weekend considered quiet

An otherwise quiet Halloween weekend in Cass City was marred by the reported theft Friday of an undisclosed amount of cash from a safe at the Charmont, 6138 Cass City Rd.

Cass City police are investigating the burglary, which is thought to have occurred after 10 p.m. Thursday and before 2 a.m. Friday.

According to police Chief Gene Wilson, the suspect(s) cut a padlock off the safe, which is located in an unlocked office in the basement of the Charmont.

An employee of the business discovered the theft at 1:45 a.m., Wilson stated.

Also last week, Cass City businessman Thomas Bills reported 3 new batteries taken from company vehicles at his business, Thomas Roofing, 6351 Sixth St.

The theft, the second such larceny reported by Bills in the past month, occurred after 6 p.m. Oct. 26 and before 7:30 a.m. Oct. 27, according to police, who also discovered damage to the vehicles' hood latches and battery holders.

Bills reported the larceny of 2 vehicle batteries Sept. 21.

Police also arrested a 36-year-old Cass City man on a bench warrant for non-support.

Donald R. Leiterman, 6212 Cedar Drive, was arrested Friday evening at the Station Bar, 6432 Main St. He was wanted on a warrant out of 54th Circuit Court in Tuscola County.

arrived, they rented a house on Oak Street for $12 per month, he recalled, adding that a hamburger cost about 12 cents at the time.

Shabbona native James MacTavish also remembers the cost of living and wages of the early 1930s.

MacTavish, who was in his early 20s when the crash occurred, recalls working as a farm hand for 50 cents a day. "Back in '38, I worked at the Nestles Milk Plant for 37 cents an hour," he commented.

He also worked for the Ford Motor Company in Detroit. In 1938, he said, the company increased wages from $5 to $6 a day.

"Back in the '30s, a dollar would buy groceries for a weekend," MacTavish said, adding that a loaf of bread could be purchased for a dime. He remembers a house being built in Cass City in 1941 for $2,700—the basement was dug with a team of horses. Still, he added, "the '30's were rough."

Cass City resident Lee Hendrick was only 17 when the stock market crashed, but he recalls working on his step father's farm. Working on farms might have brought in 75 cents a day, or $1 per day for hoeing beans, he said.

"It was pretty rough—if you would earn a dollar you were lucky," Hendrick, who has farmed most of his 74 years, added.

LESS ROUGH

He noted, however, that times may have been less rough for farmers than for businessmen because farmers raised their own food. Hendrick recalls a price of $15 for dairy cows in 1937. "You could buy a shirt for 39 cents, and a pair of shoes for $1.50."

Another Cass City resident, Arthur Hartwick, 78, also remembers how tough it was to earn a living.

Despite the depression, Hartwick got a job at the old Buick foundry in Flint in the early 1930s. He waited in line along with 250 other persons for several days before getting hired. "I was there quite a few days. That fella (who hired me) figured I must want a job," he remarked.

"The (crash) didn't bother the farmers as much—at that time, one farmer was only feeding 15 to 20 people. Now he's feeding 72 people."

"Everything was tied up" in the banks, Hartwick said. "It disrupted an awful lot of businesses."

30-point first half spoils Pavlichek's heroics for O-G

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs saved their best play of the 1987 season till the last half of their last game, where they outscored Carsonville-Port Sanilac 22-6. Unfortunately, CPS raced to a 30-6 lead by the intermission and recorded their third North Central Thumb League win, 36-28. The Bulldogs went winless in the NCTL and entered a 1-8 mark into the record books. "A typical Saturday afternoon syndrome, it took us a half to get going; you can't give up 30 points in the first half and expect to win," said head Coach Arnie Besonen. CPS's Joe Rickett put his team on top when he capped a 70 yard drive, which consumed 8 plays, with a one yard touchdown dive on CPS's first possession. The run for points after failed. CPS exploded for 3 touchdowns and 3 two point conversions in the second quarter. Todd Draggio was credited with CPS's first marker when he scored from 3 yards out early in the quarter to stake the host team to a 14 point advantage after teammate Rickett completed the 2 point conversion. The Bulldogs were able to get 6 of those points back within 14 seconds when Nick Pavlichek returned the CPS kickoff 65 yards for the Bulldogs' only score in the first half. CPS's final 2 touchdowns in the first half were recorded on pass plays from

Jason Willis to Jay Wallace, the latter marker coming with only 16 seconds remaining in the half, on a play which covered 15 yards. "Our defense wasn't able to control the big play; however, we made a tremendous comeback," said Besonen. The comeback started early in the third quarter when Marc Reinhardt found Pavlichek in the end zone and narrowed CPS's lead to 16, after Reinhardt ran for the 2 point conversion. Owen-Gage's Warren Volz set up the Bulldogs' next marker when he pounced on a CPS fumble on CPS's own 18 yard line. Reinhardt made CPS pay thanks to Pavlichek's 28 yard touchdown jaunt with only 40 seconds gone in the game's last quarter. Pavlichek's 3rd touchdown of the game came on a nifty end around run from his wide receiver position as Pavlichek outraced the CPS secondary to pay dirt. Owen-Gage's 2 point conversion and bid to tie the game failed. Both teams' defenses tightened for the remainder of the game until CPS's Bob Hill scored around the 2 minute mark on a 2 yard run. The Bulldogs were able to stop the pass for points after, and had one more chance to pull the game out, but couldn't as time expired.

Deckerville tops Bulldogs 55-52

The Owen-Gage girls' basketball team's win streak ended at 6 last Thursday when the Deckerville Eagles handed the Bulldogs a 55-52 setback on the Bulldogs' home court. Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, Owen-Gage defeated Caseville 44-30. The Bulldogs' league mark now stands at 9-4 with undefeated Peck coming to town on Thursday.

"The difference in this game was rebounding, especially offensive," said Head Coach Dean Roller.

Deckerville out-rebounded the host team 43-27 on the night.

Jumping out to a 19-14 lead after one period, the Bulldogs tightened their defense to shrink the Eagle lead to 3, 29-26, at the half. The Bulldogs missed 4 free throws in the 2nd period, including the front ends of 2 one and one situations. The Eagles came out hot in the 3rd period and blistered the nets for 16 points. The Bulldogs meanwhile were held to just 8 points in the period, 6 of which were recorded by Andrea Mandich, who captured game scoring honors with 17 points, including 13 in the last half.

The Bulldogs were able to bounce back in the final period behind the play of Mandich and Susie Salcido to put their team within 2 points with only a minute remaining. The Bulldogs then fouled Michelle Slater, who calmly converted 2 one and one foul shots to ice the game for Deckerville. The game featured one of the area's more balanced scoring attacks as the Bulldogs put 8 different girls into the scoring column, and the Eagles posted 9 different girls in the record books. CASEVILLE GAME

"Consistency seems to be our problem right now," said Roller after his team jumped out to a brilliant start against Caseville, then struggled to score in a contest that was closer than the final margin indicated. The Bulldogs scored the game's first 13 points in under 3 minutes, but would only manage 5 more before the half to take claim to an 18-11 lead. The Bulldogs sputtered through most of the third period, which ended with the Bulldogs in front 26-21. The Bulldogs recaptured their shooting eye in the final stanza, as Susie Salcido got loose inside and paced the Bulldogs with 12 points. Salcido finished the night with 20 points. The only other Bulldog in double digits was Mandich, who tallied 11.

CASS CITY'S Sue Papp gets between Caro defenders Heather Cramer (43) and Beth Spaulding (11) to score 2 points in the Hawks' 39-23 win last Tuesday at home.

Hawks finish season winning impressively over Rockets 21-7

Cass City ended its 1987 grid campaign on a bright note as the Hawks rode the air arm of Paul Tuckey to a convincing win over the Reese Rockets Friday, 21-7. Coach Don Schelke said that he was pleased with the way the Hawks fought back after a dismal start, losing the first 4 games. It would have been nice, he said wistfully, if we could have gotten it all together sooner.

There was nothing fluky about the 3 Hawk touchdowns. All came after sustained drives down the field.

The Hawks cashed in first at the 6:06 mark in the second quarter after a 72-yard march down the field. In the drive, Paul Tuckey hit 3 of 4 passes for 50 yards, including a 13-yard scoring strike to Jeff Sontag. Cass City added a safety midway through the second quarter when Mark Hirn crashed through to nail the ball carrier in the end zone.

The Hawks scored the touchdown that put the game out of reach with just 45 seconds left in the first half. Tuckey hit 3 passes that covered 31 of the 51 yards covered in the drive and Jeremy Capps rammed over from the 3.

Reese moved back into contention in the early moments of the final quarter. After intercepting a Tuckey pass, the Rockets had a first down on the Cass City 21. Three plays later Brad Knatkowski scored on 7-yard run, and when Matt Sahr booted the extra point, only a touchdown and extra point separated the 2 teams.

The Hawks drove deep into Rocket territory in an effort to add an insurance touchdown, but Reese stiffened and held. But it was only a temporary setback. Cass City marched 67 yards in the dying moments to score. A 20-yard pass from Tuckey to Jeff Dillon picked up the points with just 56 seconds left in the game. Mario Haddad kicked the extra point.

Tuckey had the best night of his career with 174 yards passing and 2 touchdowns. Capps was the leading receiver with 8 catches.

It was a team defense Friday as one player, Al Rosenstangel, was credited with 8 tackles and 5 other Hawks had 7 tackles each. The players were: Mark Hirn, Dennis Dadacki, Dillon, Chuck Merchant and Mike Mikolon.

Charmont to host $1,000 tourney over weekend

Thumb National Bank of Pigeon and Cass City is sponsoring a bowling tournament at Charmont Lanes in Cass City Saturday and Sunday where a first prize of $1,000 awaits the winner. The tourney is a scratch affair and is open to bowlers in the Frankenmuth Association, Upper Thumb Association and the Mid-Thumb Association.

Besides the top prize, other prizes will be awarded for the top 10 finishers. Second prize is $500; third, $250; fourth, $150; fifth and sixth, $100, and seventh through tenth, $60 each.

Thumb Bank has donated $500 towards the prize money. Total entry fee, including bowling, is $50.

Bowlers will qualify Saturday, playing 6 games. The top 18 qualifiers will bowl 6 games, with the top 2 seeded for the stepladder finals. The third through tenth bowlers will bowl 2 games each. Winners will advance to meet the one and 2 seeded bowlers. To come out of the final pack of 10 bowlers and win it all, a bowler would be required to win 5 games.

Record pink salmon taken

A 29-inch, 8-pound, 9-ounce pink salmon taken from the Carp River in Mackinac County has been confirmed as a new state record fish -- Michigan's fourth state record fish this year -- Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division personnel reported.

The record catch was landed by Ron Karasek, 49, of Michigan Center Sept. 19. Karasek was spincasting from the river with a 4 1/2-foot Diawa bluegill rod, using a #2 Mepps Spinner as bait, when he caught the fish.

Karasek's catch surpasses the previous record set in 1985, a 26-inch, 6-pound, 3.5-ounce pink salmon taken from the AuSable River in Isosco County by Joseph Torres of Utica.

Council questions value of lowering dietary cholesterol

Will lowering cholesterol intake by consuming fewer eggs and other cholesterol-containing foods reduce Americans' blood cholesterol levels and risk of heart disease? This question is a subject of continuing discussion among medical authorities, reports the Dairy Council of Michigan.

In the face of this issue, Dr. Donald McNamara points to accumulating evidence that, for the majority of Americans, changes in dietary cholesterol have little, if any, effect on blood cholesterol. A high blood cholesterol level is one of several factors which can increase risk of heart disease, explains McNamara, a professor at the University of Arizona. Other risk factors include elevated blood pressure or hypertension, obesity, and smoking.

Not all individuals respond to changes in dietary cholesterol in the same way, says McNamara, who led a series of 75 12-week studies looking at how individuals handle changes in dietary cholesterol and fat.

In about 70-80% of the population, blood cholesterol is relatively stable regardless of cholesterol intake. For these individuals, lowering dietary cholesterol can be expected to be of little benefit.

Blood cholesterol reflects both cholesterol intake from the diet and cholesterol produced in the body. For the majority of the population, an increase in cholesterol intake triggers a cut back in the body's production of cholesterol with the result that blood cholesterol is unchanged, McNamara explains. However, for about 20-30% of the population, there appears to be a defect in the mechanism controlling cholesterol production in the body. McNamara found that in those individuals who responded to an increase in dietary cholesterol with an increase in blood cholesterol, their bodies failed to decrease cholesterol production.

The finding that reducing dietary cholesterol has a small effect on blood cholesterol in the majority of the population raises serious questions about the benefit of making recommendations to lower dietary cholesterol for everyone. Indeed, some experts worry that the nationwide push to lower cholesterol levels may be harmful to health. The American Academy of Pediatrics has expressed concern that lowering dietary fat and cholesterol may fail to "adequately support growth, especially during the adolescent growth spurt."

For optimal health, it is important that all persons consume a nutritionally balanced diet made up of a variety of foods from each of the 4 food groups - the milk, meat, fruit-vegetable, and grain groups, advises the Dairy Council of Michigan. Individuals should find out what their blood cholesterol level is, and if it is elevated, consult a physician.

Thumb youth choir plans France tour

A Thumb-area youth choir, consisting of members from Cass City, Caro and other local communities, is planning a number of fund-raisers in preparation for a spring trip/tour to France.

The 26-member choir is composed of 2 Thumb singing groups—the Vassar Ecumenical Choir and "Satisfaction," a youth choir connected with the Tuscola County Youth for Christ organization.

The new group, called the "Resurrection Singers," received an invitation from the French National Director of Youth for Christ. Area choir members are Dan Tuckey of Cass City, and Naomi Mellendorf, a Caro resident who attends Deford Christian Academy.

While in France, the choir will stay at a Youth for Christ camp in Valence, located about 400 miles south of Paris. From there the group will travel daily to communities throughout the country to sing and minister. The choir also is planning side trips to Switzerland, Paris and the French Riviera during the 15-day trip.

Members of the choir are expected to defray the more than $1,000 in expenses themselves, according to organizers, who stated that fund-raisers, including an on-going candy sale, are being planned.

Senior citizens guide book is now available

A comprehensive, updated "Senior Citizens Resource Guide" book containing valuable information on programs available to area senior citizens is being offered free of charge by state Senator James A. Barcia (D-Bay City).

"The book contains information on the many agencies and programs that serve senior citizens living in Bay, Arenac, Gladwin, Huron and Tuscola Counties, which comprise the 34th Senatorial District that I represent," Barcia explained. "It also contains a long list of state toll-free telephone numbers and information on Medicaid, Medicare, meal sites, the state homestead property tax credit program and other available tax credits."

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the booklet can write to Senator James A. Barcia, Michigan State Senate, State Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48913, and remember to include their own address.

Best costumes net prizes in Cass City

Merchants, adults and youngsters participated in the Cass City Retail Committee sponsored Halloween costume contest, parade and dance.

Gift certificates were given to 4 adults and 3 children for outstanding costumes as judged by Dorothy Stahlbaum and Kathleen Jackson.

Other gift certificates were awarded Friday to merchants for their best costumes. Receiving certificates were Jamie Spencer, Lola Osentoski, Denise Janssen and Doreen Williams. Others were Mike Weaver, Virginia Sutter, Dale Kelly, Tom Sutter, Georgine Jensen and Donna Profit.

Pictures of the various winners were lost when Halloween gremlins ruined the film. Pictures presented here are through the courtesy of Tom Proctor.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

(Third of 3 articles)

In 2 previous columns on estate problems, we wrote about choices:

A. You have no will to specify how your estate will be divided. So the state writes one for you. Whatever your wishes were when you were living, they are disregarded when you die, and the property is whacked off according to formula. The process is slow and costly, because it is court-supervised.

B. You have written a will, giving your estate to whom you wish (although your spouse must get at least a third, or thereabouts, depending on the state).

Cost is little for the will itself, but after death probate costs will more than offset the savings now. Process is slow -- over a year, usually, to settle the estate and distribute the property.

C. Another choice: A Living Trust. Let's look at it:

1. It's revocable any time. You can amend it any time. At your death, it can't be changed, just as a will is final then.

2. Process: You name yourself as trustee. You put your assets into this revocable trust. Bank accounts, securities, other possessions.

Some people have their house and car joint with their spouses. Pros and cons on this: get your lawyer's views.

Some declare personal items -- furniture, jewelry, art objects -- joint. In some states personal items can be given by letter to recipients. Again, discuss with your lawyer.

The big, important point: Leave nothing unallotted, and subject to probate. Get it into the trust, or made joint, or given by some specific means, such as a letter.

Some lawyers pooh-pooh this and say "We'll write a 'pour-over' will for you and stray items can be poured into the trust and distributed from the trust. The fallacy: Such assets can't 'pour' until they're probated. That's the main reason your trust has been created -- to avoid the delays and expense of probate.

4. How to transfer assets into your trust:

Take a summary of your trust document to your bank and have your accounts re-titled to you as trustee. It will take 15 minutes. Your account is not a whit different than it was before; it just has a different title: "Mary John Jones, trustee."

If your broker doesn't have your securities already, take the certificates to him, along with a trust summary document and have him change your account to the new title. If your securities are now registered in your name, then have the broker get them re-registered to you as trustee. The broker will do all the work.

Other property -- your home, unless already joint, other real estate, and your car, for example -- talk it over with your lawyer. It's no big job to have them put into the trust, or made joint, if you prefer.

If you can't do all this in a half a day, you're not very efficient.

5. When you die: Your successor trustee takes over. This person, or the lawyer, makes a trip to the courthouse, gets clearance from county and state taxing authorities, files the will with the proper agency. Since the estate, if things have been done right, has no assets (they're all in the trust), this part is just a formality.

Your lawyer or CPA, once given an appraisal of the estate, can file the Federal and State tax forms. If it's a simple estate and if no tax is due, distribution can start very, very quickly. It can be done in a few weeks vs. over a year via the probate route.

I know of a Michigan case where a country law firm actually settled the estate and distributed the assets before the funeral. When a city lawyer reads this he will promptly have a fit, and he will jerk and twitch, and foam will come out of his mouth. Later, apoplexy sets in.

5. Cost of settling. My own attorney in Boca Raton, Fla., estimates for my estate, in a living trust, naturally, cost will be one fourth of what it would cost through probate.

6. Fly specks in the ointments. Some lawyers say a partnership interest can't be put into a trust. They also say sometimes stock held under employee option plans can't go into a trust. State laws govern, so even if this might be true in Michigan, for instance, it isn't necessarily true in the other 49 states. Don't let these details side-track you from the larger goal of a living trust.

A Sacramento lawyer told a friend of mine he couldn't trade in the commodities market if his account was in a living trust. This is pure baloney.

Every account I handle is in the owner's living trust. I've traded everything from options to futures to bonds and stocks and short sales.

Sacramento is a backward community.

7. Another advantage -- not related to disposal of your estate: In a trust you can provide for your successor (or co-trustee) to carry on for you and run the show when you no longer are able to. Without a trust set-up, your kin will have to go to court and get a guardian and conservator appointed when you are disabled. It costs a bundle and takes months, and it all becomes public knowledge.

After all this on living trusts, if you are of a mind to set one up, the thing to do is see a lawyer. Not any lawyer, but one who has an active practice in estates. Your banker will have a suggestion. And then find out if the lawyer believes in living trusts. Not all do. They find probate work more rewarding and will talk against living trusts.

I asked a respected elder lawyer in Boca Raton, "Is there any compelling reason NOT to have a living trust?"

"In my judgment," he replied, "any attorney who does not tell a client all the advantages of such trusts, is guilty of malpractice."

2 killed, 2 badly hurt in county accidents over the past week

day on Hurds Corner Road just west of Elmwood Road in Ellington Township.

Listed as "serious" at the hospital is Janet C. Martin, 73, 4667 State St., Gagetown, while a passenger in Martin's vehicle, Edith Schriber, 88, 1285 Cleaver Rd., Caro, is listed in "critical" condition.

According to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, a beet truck driven westbound by Dwain C. Vollmar, 2270 Elmwood Rd., Caro, pulled out into the path of a vehicle driven by Martin, who was northbound on Hurds Corner Road at the time of the 3:20 p.m. accident.

Vollmar, who was cited for failing to yield the right of way, stated that he stopped at the intersection, but did not see Martin's vehicle, which sustained heavy damage in the accident. Vollmar's vehicle sustained light damage.

Reports indicate all 3 persons involved were wearing seat belts.

A 29-year-old Snover woman was arrested Saturday on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Katherine A. Hanson, 1455 Argyle Rd., was arrested after her eastbound vehicle was stopped by deputies on Deckerville Road near Kingston Road in Novesta Township.

Hanson's vehicle was stopped after it was observed traveling left of the road center line and off the shoulder.

Mark S. Panknin, 4906 Rossman Rd., Kingston, reported hitting a deer Thursday while traveling west on M-46 east of Phillips Road in Koylton Township.

Panknin, whose vehicle sustained moderate damage in the 3:25 a.m. mishap, stated that he was unable to avoid hitting the deer.

Also reporting a car-deer accident was Jerry L. Kern, 1012 Turner Drive, Caro.

Kern told deputies that he was traveling east on M-81 about 14 mile west of Cedar Run Road Friday morning when a deer leaped into his path. Kern's vehicle sustained moderate damage in the mishap, which occurred at 6:30 a.m.

HDC slates food distribution Nov. 5

The Human Development Commission will be having a Surplus Commodity Distribution at Cass City Village Park, Cass City; Ivan Middleton Hall, Fairgrounds, Caro, Nov. 5 from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Due to the volume of commodities, individuals are asked to bring cardboard boxes to carry their commodities.

Individuals must report to the distribution site, in person, and present their Surplus Commodity Registration Card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution site themselves, may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the surplus commodity card is shown.

The surplus commodities have been made available to the Human Development Commission, the local community action agency serving Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties, from the federal government and is intended for personal consumption by eligible low income families.
