SIXTEEN PAGES PLUS 2 SUPPLEMENTS

Students mount campaign

Stopping drunk driving is goal

A dedicated group of juniors and seniors at Cass City High School hope the hearse parked at their school is the only one students will see this prom and graduation season.

"I've got a lot of good friends in this class. I wouldn't like to see any of them killed in a drunk driving accident," senior Chuck Merchant remarked last week. "I wouldn't want to see any of them hurt."

Merchant and senior Kathy Marshall spearheaded the Project Graduation program at Cass City this year. Both Student Council members, they, along with the Student Council and other upper classmen, have taken charge of developing the local campaign.

The idea, Marshall explained, is "to not drink and drive so we'll all be around to see each other in the future."

Among the students' activities this spring—the school's third year of participation in Project Graduation—are a 5-minute homemade video tape on the campaign shown to all junior and senior classes, and placement of the hearse, the use of which was donated by a student.

"The hearse got quite a few of them (students)," Marshall said. The vehicle, a graphic reminder of what can happen if drinking and driving are mixed, can't be missed. Parked only a few yards from the school's entrance way, the vehicle is occupied by a pair of skeletons dressed in prom attire. The students also administered Project Graduation pledge sheets, handed out last week to the school's 230 or so juniors and seniors.

PLEDGE SHEETS

"The pledge sheet asks the student not to drink and drive during prom and graduation, and not to ride with someone who is drinking," high school Counselor

Jerry Cleland explained, adding that both students and parents are asked to sign and return the forms. "For the parent, if their son or daughter calls, they agree to go and get them with no questions asked that night."

A little more than 50 percent of the juniors and seniors signed and returned the pledge sheets in 1985-86, the first year Cass City students were involved in Project Graduation. The participation jumped to more than 75 percent last year, and Cleland expects at least that amount to take part this year.

The key to the program's success locally, according to Cleland, is the students' initiative and willingness to get involved.

"That's the really nice thing about this. It is being carried out by the kids, who like to party," he said. "I think it's showing a pretty high degree of responsibility on their part."

NETWORK

Aside from regular Project Graduation activities, Cleland noted that students will sometimes organize a network in which certain students agree to be available on given nights to provide rides to classmates who have been drinking.

close to 20 percent of injury accidents, which means that 130,000 teenagers are injured per year in drunk driving accidents.

—Although teenagers comprise only 8 percent of the driver population and account for only 6 percent of the vehicle miles traveled in this country, they add up to 17 percent of all alcohol involved drivers and at least 15 percent of all drunk drivers in accidents.

—Of 330 children born today in the U.S., one will die and 4 will sustain serious or crippling injuries in an alcohol-related crash before they reach the age of 24.

—Insurance companies have estimated that teenage drunk driving accidents are costing society close to $6 billion per year in damage, hospital costs, lost work, etc. Statistics prepared by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, U.S. Department of Transportation.

Sober facts about teen drunk driving

Facts about teenage drunk driving:

—Teenage drivers are involved in one out of every 6 fatal motor vehicle accidents that occur, with close to 6,700 teenagers (15 to 19 years old) killed each year in this country.

—Almost 60 percent of fatally injured teenage drivers were found to have alcohol in their blood systems prior to their crash, with 43 percent at legally intoxicating levels.

—Of the 25,000 persons who die each year in drunk driving accidents, 4,000 are teenagers. That means that 11 teenagers die each day in drunk driving accidents.

—Alcohol involvement in teenage fatal accidents is at least 3 times greater in nighttime accidents (8 p.m. to 4 a.m.) than it is in the daytime accidents (4 a.m. to 8 p.m.).

—Teenage drivers are involved in one out of every 4 injury accidents, with a total of 650,000 being injured each year. Alcohol is involved in

Induct 18 into Cass City National Honor Society

Eighteen students from Cass City High School were inducted into membership of the National Honor Society in an evening ceremony held Tuesday, April 19. The induction program, planned by Mrs. Karen Wallace and Mrs. Kathleen Jackson, Honor Society Advisors, was held in the Cass City High School gymnasium.

The purpose of National Honor Society is to recognize those outstanding students who are involved in the school and community. Additions to the Society's membership are made each spring by a faculty council from a list of students who meet the scholar-

Training camp protest meeting attracts crowd

The Tuscola Department of Social Services Board was expected to have plenty of company at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The session, called for the purpose of making a recommendation on a proposed "work and learn" camp in Koylton Township for teenage criminal offenders, came on the heels of a well attended public meeting on the issue Monday evening in Kingston.

Some 200 persons, most of them opposed to the camp, gathered at Kingston Elementary School Monday to hear comments from both local citizens and representatives of Residents Against Ineffective Detention, a citizens group based in Oakland County.

The controversy surrounds a request by Pioneer Work and Learn Center, a division of Wolverine Human Services of Detroit, to establish the camp south of Kingston.

According to Wolverine officials, the camp, which has served inner city youths during the summer months, would serve up to 50 boys ages 13 to 17.

Some 40 percent of the youths would be from Wayne County, while the remaining teens would be from other counties, they said, adding that Tuscola teens would get first priority, and none of the youths accepted into the camp would have been convicted of a violent crime.

A number of Koylton Township residents, led by a local citizens group, however, say the camp represents a threat to residents' safety. They also fear a further decline in land values near the camp and question how many of the 53 jobs created by the project would go to local residents.

They also point out that the area already is home to a Teen Ranch facility.

Among the speakers Monday were Nancy Strole and Chester Koop, both representing RAID, township residents Carl Papke, Harry McDonald and Russell Woods, and Dan Dundas, a member of the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department.

SECRECY

According to Strole, the "work and learn" camp concept has been laced with inconsistencies and secrecy since it emerged a year ago.

The first attempt to operate such a camp through the state DSS involved a $7.75 million contract, awarded without competitive bids, to a contractor who was unsuccessful in establishing the camp, first in Oakland County, then in Washtenaw and Sanilac counties, Strole said. She said that the state is still trying to recover more than $500,000 in advance money given the contractor.

That contract was cancelled in December, and another unsuccessful attempt was made to establish a camp in Livingston County before the proposal in Tuscola County emerged, Strole said.

She remarked that the concept "looked good" initially. "It sounded great on the surface, but there were nagging questions."

Strole noted that she and other RAID members have done extensive research over the past year, including obtaining DSS and other documents through the Freedom of Information Act, in order to get some answers.

She said issues that bothered herself and others included the speed at which the "learn and work" concept went from an idea to proposed establishment of camps. Three such camps were proposed by the DSS in the first 3 1/2 months, she pointed out.

QUESTIONS

Also, why was the first contract let without competitive bids, why did the state and contractor refuse to hold public meetings on the proposal, and, locally, how can you operate an effective program if 20 to 30 employees out of a staff of 53 are going to be local residents who are inexperienced in such work, Strole asked.

She pointed out that RAID was unable to obtain a copy of the proposed contract in Koylton Township from the DSS through the FOI act, and thus couldn't address residents' specific questions about the local proposal.

Although the proposed camp, with few exceptions, appears to be similar to the other "work and learn" plans, Strole acknowledged that the Pioneer agency is much more experienced than the initial contractor.

She suggested that the camps, supported by both Gov. James J. Blanchard and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, are an ineffective quick fix.

"In a nutshell, it seems what has been driving this...in our view, is a politically expedient solution to a very, very serious (social) problem."

The other speakers, including Dundas, who relayed problems experienced with a "learn and work" camp proposal in Sanilac County, agreed.

THE OTHER SIDE

Pioneer Work and Learn Center officials, meanwhile, don't agree.

"These kids are not a danger to the community," Robert E. Wollack, executive director of Wolverine Human Services and chief executive officer of Pioneer, remarked Monday afternoon.

"We think that these kids need to be removed from an environment that is conducive to crime. When we get these children, we will...treat them in an intensely therapeutic, outdoor setting," he said.

Wollack said youths at the camp would each receive 6 months of rehabilitation there, followed by another 6 months of treatment in their own communities.

The camp program, guided by experienced professionals, would include vocational and wilderness training in addition to attending regular school classes at the camp and receiving individual and family counseling, he said, adding participants would have to "earn what they get" under a behavior modification approach that would be followed at the camp.

Wollack emphasized that the youths would not have been convicted of violent or assault related crimes. Many of the convictions involve property offenses, such as breaking and entering and larceny, as well as some drug offenses.

Anatomy of a project

by Melva E. Guinther

One of several places in the Guinther household that attracts clutter like metal shavings to a magnet is the top of the dryer.

After listening to a tape on goal achievement, I determined to clear it off.

The dryer, because of its strategic location 3 feet in front of the toilet, accommodated a current copy of U.S. News and World Report, a couple of less current periodicals, and some 1984 Reader's Digests.

While filing the magazines, I came across a cross stitch book in which I had to make a notation of the last project completed and its recipient. Of course, other notations needed to be checked and patterns for the next undertaking considered.

Back to the dryer -- a half hour later.

Almost a fixture there was a round plastic container that had been dusted around, over, and occasionally under, for heaven knows how long.

My fit of zeal revealed its contents: a rhinestone bobby pin, a rubber band, luggage keys, a cough drop, a 1986 stub from Arnold Transit Co., Mackinac Island, 2 Band-aids, a price tag from something medium marked down from $4.99 to $3.50, a basketball inflating needle, our son's 1980 high school class ring, a shoe lace, and 35 cents, mostly pennies.

A jackknife and an unidentified object demanded a consultation with Stan, who was cleaning golf clubs in the basement.

After learning that he wanted both the knife and the UO, a blunt arrow tip. I inspected the clubs and asked how you know which one to use when.

(What I know about golf would fit comfortably on one of those little things they put the ball on.)

With enthusiasm characteristic of an avid beginning golfer, he gave me a minilesson.

Back to the dryer...and the luggage keys.

Do we still have that Samsonite luggage or did we sell it at a garage sale?

A search of a seldom used closet revealed no luggage, but some forgotten summer clothes. I wonder if I can still wear them.

An hour later, a National Geographic bird poster on the dryer begged to be cross-referenced with the bird book regarding the strange duck on the lake by our son's home, and a suspected purple finch at the bird bath.

Match books from restaurants in Toronto and Fresno prompted a review of souvenirs from vacations past.

Freshening a jar of potpourri led to cleaning containers and changing potpourri throughout the house.

Dusty butterfly appliques provoked a search for the shirt they were long ago intended to adorn.

And so it went. Bill Keane could have made a Family Circus cartoon of my activities.

By bedtime, when the task was finally finished, I couldn't imagine why I was so tired and it was so late.

"If It Fitz..."

Welcome to the world of compassion

By Jim Fitzgerald

Two Detroit police officers refused to order a non-handicapped woman to move her car out of a handicapped parking space so a woman with multiple sclerosis could park there.

Instead, the officers threatened to ticket the handicapped woman — Geraldine Penxa — for blocking the parking lot area behind the handicapped parking space, according to Penxa and her husband, Robert.

On another day, another Detroit cop did ticket Penxa, who uses a wheelchair or, with difficulty, a walker. The offense? Her 4-year handicapped parking permit had run out 2 days earlier.

And when Penxa went to 11th (Davison) Precinct headquarters to discuss the ticket, she couldn't get inside because the building isn't accessible by wheelchair.

Welcome to the wonderful world of compassion for the disabled. The irony — the blunt contrast between those 2 examples of law enforcement experienced by Penxa — would be laughable if it weren't so dismaying.

Fifty-three-year-old Penxa has had MS for at least 25 years. She is president of REMS (Recreation and Education for Multiple Sclerosis) for St. Clair Shores, the Pointes and the east side of Detroit, where she lives.

Around 5 p.m. last Saturday, on their way home from a REMS meeting, the Penxas stopped at the Eagle Super Market on Hayes near Whittier. Both the handicapped parking spots in the store lot were occupied by cars without handicapped permits. There was a woman behind the wheel of one of the cars. She was in no way disabled, but refused to vacate the spot for the Penxas.

Robert Penxa complained to store management, to no avail. The police were phoned by a friend of the Penxas, and 2 officers from the 9th (Gratiot) precinct arrived quickly. By this time, according to Geraldine Penxa, several onlookers had gathered and were expressing support for the non-handicapped parker "because she got there first."

The officers wouldn't make the woman move because, they said, they couldn't see any sign reserving the spot for handicapped parkers. Later, in phone calls to the Free Press, the Penxas said they could see 2 such signs.

How could that be? I drove to the Eagle market to see for myself. Two large signs say "Reserved Parking" at the top and "Only" at the bottom. In between, some creep(s) defaced the familiar handicapped wheelchair logo so you have to look very close to see it was once there.

That was the cops' unbelievable justification for not opening the parking space for the woman with multiple sclerosis. Who in hell do they think the 2 spaces are reserved for at the Eagle Super Market, visiting dignitaries?

When I was there Tuesday morning, the small Eagle lot was filled — except for the 2 handicapped spots. Obviously, and thankfully, everyone isn't as dense as those 2 officers and the astonishing woman they refused to displace. Not to mention the onlookers who thought she was right. I wonder how they'd like to go grocery shopping in a wheelchair.

It was a few weeks earlier that Geraldine Penxa was caught committing the heartless crime of being 2 days late in renewing her handicapped parking permit. She'd parked in a handicap spot while shopping at a Target store on Eight Mile Road. It took a diligent, sharp-eyed officer to note the lapse on the permit on Penxa's dashboard.

It was nice that the officer wanted to make sure it was legal for Penxa's car to be in a handicap space. And maybe it was OK to write the ticket reminding her it was renewal time.

But Geraldine Penxa can't be blamed for wondering where all that sharp-eyed diligence and concern for the handicapped were when she asked for police help in using the parking space reserved for her at the Eagle Super Market.

Cass City police report 2 mishaps

Two minor vehicle mishaps over the past week were reported Monday by the Cass City Police Department.

A 2-vehicle accident at the intersection of Main Street and Doerr Road Saturday evening resulted in light damage to both vehicles.

Reports state that a westbound vehicle driven by a 16-year-old Cass City youth struck an eastbound vehicle, driven by another Cass City youth, while making a left turn onto Doerr Road at about 9:55 p.m.

Reports state that the eastbound vehicle did not have its lights on at the time of the mishap, which occurred at a lighted intersection.

Also last week, a vehicle driven by Joyce A. LaRoche, 4208 Sherman St., Cass City, backed into a parked vehicle, owned by Robert A. McCue, Cass City, April 19.

The 5:50 p.m. mishap, which occurred at a private driveway at 4805 Hospital Drive, resulted in slight damage to both vehicles, reports state.

The Haire Net

At first blush the proposed increased sales tax coupled with a decreased property tax is the medicine needed to cure our ailing pocketbooks. But all that glitters is not gold and it might just well be that a little tarnish might appear after we reach for the golden ring dangled before us.

The governor's proposal calls for an increase from 4 to 6 cents in the state sales tax with the money earmarked for property tax relief, quality education initiatives and equity improvements in per pupil financing.

The property tax relief comes from an exemption of the first $30,000 in the value of a home or business in school property tax liability.

If you own a home there's little doubt that in the beginning you would save some bucks. In my case I'd be a triple dipper with savings on home, cottage and business. Wealthy persons with extensive real estate would net a bundle of bucks.

Sales tax is of course regressive, hitting the poor harder than the rich because of the percentage of income the tax would command.

There's a hidden cost to all of this. Inevitably the cost of homes will increase as the tax burden goes down. As the valuation increases so does the tax and how long will it be before the exemption authorized is eaten away by the increase in home value?

The real stinger in all of this is the provision that would require by law "educational quality provisions." Read that more control by the state, less by local boards of education. Read that more control by special interest groups, less by individual taxpayers.

Can you name one area in which state control has proved more effective or less costly than it was when the guy who foots the bill had the right to decide the course of action?

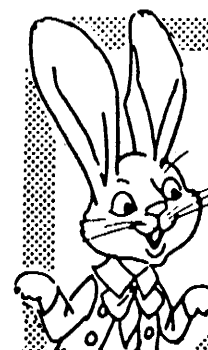

The proposal also calls for students to attend "schools of choice." That's a little vague, but the assumption is that a student could pick and choose where he attends school. That raises all kinds of questions. Kids in Cass City going to Caro? Owen-Gage children to Cass City and vice versa?

It's easy to see what chaos that would bring. Realistically it's conceded that this problem could be solved and probably would be.

If you believe in the tooth fairy, you probably would believe that as valuations rise and tax revenues increase, sales tax rates would be adjusted downwards.

Sure it would. After all when the sales tax first came our way in the 1930's it was a temporary tax for a few years to get our state out of a temporary financial crunch.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Notice to all budding Thespians. The Cass City Community Education Department is attempting to organize a Community Theatre Group if enough interest is shown.

That will be determined at an organizational meeting Monday, May 2, at Cass City High School Library.

It's something Community Education Director Dave Lovejoy says, that we've had numerous inquiries about and we want to find out if there is enough interest to start the program.

It's been a long, long time since this writer has covered the Cass City Village Council. I believe the only person still serving when I was a regular at the meeting is President Lambert Althaver... and he was a councilman then.

But some things never change. One of them is that the newest member of the council gets appointed (spell that S-T-U-C-K) with the chairmanship of the annual Memorial Day Parade and Service. Welcome to the council, Matt Prieskorn.

Area's newest tune-up headquarters for fuel injection autos.

Introductory Special $39.95

Fuel injection systems are complex and subject to fouling - particularly in the small nozzle tip openings of each fuel injector which results in loss of engine power.

Removes varnish, gum and other deposits to restore injector efficiency. Improves fuel atomization, helps engine run smoother and better.

BLESSED EVENT -- Triplets were born to one of Mark and Carol Stoeckle's Barbados sheep last week at the couple's farm near Cass City. The newborns joined a host of unusual animals, including a llama and miniature donkeys, horses and mules, owned by the area couple.

Circuit court

2 men sentenced to jail

Four Tuscola County men were sentenced in Tuscola County Circuit Court Friday.

Vassar resident John P. Spellerberg, 6319 State Rd., was sentenced to 5 years probation for a guilty plea to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense.

Spellerberg, 46, also was ordered to complete a 90-day residential treatment program and 180 hours of community service, and pay a $500 fine and $200 in costs.

His conviction stems from an incident June 7 in Tuscola Township, court records state.

Gary C. Gipson, 27, 2075 Swaffer Rd., Millington was sentenced for a guilty plea to operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor, second offense, Sept. 23 in Millington Township.

He was sentenced to 180 days in the county jail with credit for time already served; 2 years probation, alcohol counseling, a fine and costs totaling $600 and restitution of $40.

Also ordered to serve 180 days in the county jail was Timothy J. Tracy, 4660 Larbee Rd., Vassar, who was sentenced on a plea of no contest to Criminal Sexual Conduct, second degree.

Tracy, 36, also was sentenced to 5 years probation and to undergo mental health counseling, and pay a $200 fine and costs totaling $200.

According to court records, Tracy was charged with engaging in sexual contact with a person under the age of 13 years Aug. 1 in Juniata Township.

Also sentenced was Scott M. Neurohr, 18, 1650 O'Brien Rd., Mayville, who was convicted of larceny in a building.

Neurohr received a one year delayed sentence and was ordered to complete 100 hours of community service and pay attorney fees.

Restitution is to be determined.

The conviction stems from the Jan. 25 larceny of a microwave oven, tools, gas cans and other items from a mechanics shop at 4702 Saginaw Rd., Vassar.

In other proceedings Friday, a 30-year-old Reese man during his arraignment entered a plea of guilty to larceny in a building, and habitual offender.

Sentencing for Martin J. Stockmeyer, 2201 S. Reese Rd., is to be set. Bond was continued at $10,000.

The plea stems from the larceny of a vacuum cleaner from a storage closet at 2201 S. Reese Rd., Feb. 13, records state.

4-H event planned

Robots, computers and digital electronics are the waves of the future. Tuscola County teenagers can get hands-on experience in these technologies at 4-H Exploration Days, June 22-24, at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Enrollment in 4-H Exploration Days is limited and interested persons are urged to contact John Wurm at the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service office for more information. The registration deadline is May 1.

"Young people who sign up for Exploration Days can learn the basics of operating personal computers or explore the exciting field of robotics at Ford Motor Company," Wurm, a county 4-H youth agent said. "4-H'ers interested in electronics will build digital and analog circuit projects using basic electronic components."

Basic and advanced computer applications and programming classes are among more than 200 learning options for 4-H members to choose from at 4-H Exploration Days. Other classes are offered in modeling, sailing, career exploration and sign language for the deaf.

"Exploration Days is a 3-day event that brings more than 3,000 4-H members to MSU every June," remarked Wurm. "It's an opportunity for teens to meet new friends, learn skills in areas that interest them and live on a Big 10 college campus for a few days. Kids have fun while learning new things."

Your neighbor says

Pre-pay tuition plan good idea for youths

Parents interested in participating in the state's guaranteed college tuition program could sign up as early as late May or June.

Under the program, adopted early last week by the Michigan Education Trust board, parents of children 13 and younger would pay $6,400 to $8,000 for their child in a lump sum or monthly installments. The state would invest the money and guarantee that it would cover 4 years of tuition at any of the state's 15 public 4-year universities when the child attained college age.

Parents of newborn children would get a discount on current college tuition rates of 20 to 25 percent, while parents of older children, up to age 18, would receive less of a discount.

Your neighbor, long-time Cass City resident Joyce Januchowski, says she believes the program represents an important investment.

"I think that's a good idea because nowadays, you have to plan for your future," she said.

"College is awful expensive, (but) if you don't have your college education you're not going to get anywhere," Januchowski continued. "It's like, now everything's going to computers. If you can't work with computers, where are you going to be?"

Originally from Alpena, Januchowski moved to Cass City about 16 years ago to begin work at General Cable Co., where she has been employed since as a knitter server operator.

The area resident lives at 4130 Elizabeth St.

Sun tanning caution needed

In a Doonesbury comic strip of a few years back, Zonker, the tanning fanatic, was told that his skin had a pre-cancerous look to it. Had Zonker been a real-life character, the observation might well have been true. While our society continues to admire the tanned body, the fact is that tanned skin is injured skin, not healthy skin, as devotees of the beach and the tanning salon believe. It is the ultraviolet rays of the sun and the sunlamp that cause the skin to tan. These rays stimulate special cells in the skin—melanocyte cells—to release melanin, which is the skin's darkening, protective pigment. In fact, then, tanning is the skin's way of protecting itself.

There are a number of adverse effects of the skin's exposure to ultraviolet rays. Some unwanted effects, such as skin cancer and early aging of the skin, are usually the cumulative effects of life-long exposure...or, more accurately, overexposure. More acute problems, such as eye damage, can occur from just one unprotected exposure to a tanning lamp. Skin cancer, I might note here, is the most prevalent form of cancer in this country, with more than 400,000 cases a year.

comes in 2 forms: UVA and UVB. UVB works quickly. UVA burns and tans more slowly, but the rays penetrate more deeply.

Tanning can be damaging to the skin whether it's done at the beach, under a sunlamp at home or in a commercial tanning salon. Indoor tanning has become increasingly popular in the United States, and its popularity is not limited to northern areas or to winter months. Indeed, much of the indoor tanning is done in sunny climates and in the summer by tan worshippers who can't make it to the beach as often as they would like.

Sunlamps used in indoor tanning salons usually are UVA and sometimes are touted as being "safer than sunlight." The claim is inaccurate. Like ultraviolet radiation from sunlight, UVA radiation poses acute and long-term health hazards. UVA radiation may appear safer because it works more slowly on the skin, but because it penetrates more deeply, its effects may not be so readily seen. Moreover, almost all tanning devices also emit some UVB radiation.

There is evidence that a combination of outdoor and indoor tanning may be especially harmful to the skin because UVA radiation from indoor lamps augments the harmful effects of outdoor exposure.

Eye damage is another important concern. Burned corneas and retinal injury can result from indoor tanning if protective eyewear is not used or is used improperly. Cataracts can be another consequence of repeated, unprotected exposure to UV radiation.

The Food and Drug Administration, which inspects and regulates tanning devices, requires prominent display of a label that warns users of the dangers of UV radiation. The FDA also requires that eyewear that absorbs UV radiation be worn. Manufacturers of the tanning devices must supply that protective eyewear.

Another FDA stipulation is that a recommended exposure schedule be provided in a tanning salon, along with a statement of the time it may take before skin-tanning appears. There also must be a timer that can be set according to the exposure schedule and a control that allows the user to turn off the device at any time.

Whether tanning indoors or out, people who take certain types of medications, such as antibiotics, birth control pills and tranquilizers, may become hypersensitive to UV radiation and receive serious skin burns and rashes when tanning. These people—in fact, anyone who is unsure of the side effects of his or her medications—should consult their physicians before exposing their skin to UV radiation for extended periods of time.

Moderation in tanning, as in most other things, is the best rule for the majority of tanning enthusiasts to follow. Prolonged exposure, repeated over the years, can bring real problems in later life.

Herrington seeks representative post

Bad Axe attorney David Herrington has officially announced his candidacy for State Representative, 77th district. The district encompasses Huron and most of Tuscola Counties.

Herrington, 31, is a Huron County native. He resides in Bad Axe with his wife, Shelley, and son, Cameron. He is a graduate of Bad Axe High School, the University of Michigan and the Thomas M. Cooley Law School, Lansing.

"I decided to run because I care about the future of this area. I will bring enthusiasm, dedication, and commitment to improving the quality of life in the Thumb," he said. "I've lived here virtually all my life and I believe I have a clear understanding of the problems that face the district."

Herrington said he thinks the single-most important issue concerning the area is school finance reform.

"Tuscola and Huron lead the state in declining state equalized value. Our present system of funding education is unfair. It's important to change the way we fund our schools to a system that is fair to taxpayers, students, and school districts. We need to shift it to a sales tax-based method rather than a property tax-based system," he said.

He added he supports a recent proposal in the legislature which would result in annual property tax savings of about $500 for the average taxpayer.

"The Thumb area has a tradition of high quality education and with the drastic decline in land values it is important to change the system to maintain that quality," Herrington said.

He said he also saw a need for continued growth in tourism. Herrington said Michigan has broken tourism records the past 3 years and the Thumb has to do everything possible to attract visitors.

"We have many fine recreational opportunities that can be developed and improved. We have to maintain the quality of our services and facilities and the beauty of our surroundings. I believe there is a demand we are not able to meet," he said.

Herrington said he will work to streamline state regulatory agencies to improve the business climate in Michigan, and will work with local economic development corporations to encourage industry in the area.

Herrington said he will push for farm programs such as Public Act 116 to protect farm families and bolster the agricultural economy.

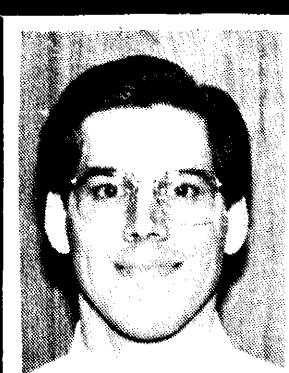

"Also, it is critical to support and improve programs like the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Services that so greatly benefit our farmers," Herrington said.

"I can make a difference to the citizens of this area by working hard and being an effective legislator. As a lawyer, my skills as an advocate and the techniques I use in my work resolving problems are directly applicable to the responsibilities of a state representative."

"I will be an available representative and sponsor legislation that will benefit the district as a whole, as well as do my best to meet the needs of individual constituents," Herrington said.

PROTECTING YOUR EYES

Is your child protecting his or her eyes when engaging in active sports? Almost 90 percent of the estimated 167,000 eye injuries that occurred in 1987 could have been prevented by wearing protective eyewear. And that's especially true in racquetball, where the high speed of the ball is causing many serious eye injuries to the unprotected player. Here are just four ideas to consider:

- Use sturdy frames with polycarbonate lenses. Polycarbonate lenses resist shattering better than other types.
- Try frames made especially for sports, with padded bridges and attachments for a headband.
- See if you are comfortable in goggles, especially designed for sports protection. Prescription lenses can be put into this type of goggle.
- Wear an eye/face guard over regular contact lenses or glasses.

Serotkin candidate for Appeals Court

Former Michigan Senator David M. Serotkin has announced his candidacy for one of the 2 new judgeships on the Michigan Court of Appeals, 2nd District, to be filled by election this year.

The 2nd District is made up of the counties of Oakland, Macomb, Genesee, Ingham, Shiawassee, Lapeer, St. Clair, Sanilac, Tuscola, Huron, Bay, Gladwin, Arenac, Ogemaw, and Midland.

A bi-partisan campaign committee consisting so far of some 80 prominent citizens and lawyers, including more than 2 score current and former elected officials from throughout the 2nd District has been formed to assist Serotkin in the race.

Serotkin is an honors graduate of Princeton University; holds a juris doctorate from the University of Michigan Law School, and has 20 years of experience in the private practice of law in Michigan, with appearances in Michigan courts at all levels.

David Serotkin

In addition, Serotkin has served in both houses of the Michigan Legislature and on the Judiciary Committees of both bodies. He was chair of the Senate Education Committee and vice-chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He has considerable experience with statutory law.

Serotkin also served on the Board of Control of Saginaw Valley University.

Hawks off to flying start with doubleheader wins

The Cass City High School softball team gave notice last week that it is a team to be reckoned with in the Thumb B Association race this year, by sweeping both ends of 2 doubleheaders.

The Hawks defeated Bad Axe Monday, April 18, and Caro Thursday in the home opener. Tammy Hurd, in an iron woman's role, pitched both ends of both doubleheaders to chalk up 4 wins within 4 days.

The pitching has to be a concern for Coach Jim Fox down the road when successful tournament teams are required to play several games in one day. Hurd has been the one dependable chucker in these early season games.

But with Cass City in a hot chase for the league title, it's likely that Fox will keep Hurd on the mound as often as possible.

Cass City's victory over Bad Axe in the first game, 13-9, was the result of timely hitting by key veterans on the squad. It was a cold day and pitchers for both teams had trouble getting under motion.

The Hawks jumped off to a 10-4 lead after 4 innings and appeared to be coasting towards victory when the Hatchets combined 4 hits with a walk to score 4 and close the gap to 2 runs. With their lead threatened, the Hawks added 3 runs in the top of the fifth to ice the contest.

Hurd helped her own cause with 3 hits and 2 RBI's. LeAnn LaRoche also had 3 hits and 2 RBI's. Darlene Monroe and Brandy Eason each collected 2 hits.

In the nightcap the Hawks and the Hatchets sent a parade of runners across the plate as Cass City won by a football-type score of 27-11.

Cass City sent 11 players to the plate in the third and sixth innings when they scored 15 of their 27 runs.

The Hawk stickers were led by Hurd with 4 hits and 4 runs batted in and LaRoche with 5 hits in 5 tries and 4 RBI's. In all Cass City rapped out 18 hits. Hurd got the win despite an uncharacteristic 9 walks that Fox attributed to the cold weather.

CARO GAMES

What pleased Fox most about his twin bill win over the Caro Tigers is that they beat Sierocki, a very good pitcher. In one of the better played games of the season, the Hawks won, 4-3. Cass City played tight defense and key hits in the clutch were the difference. Cass City got off on the right foot when Teri Wilson opened the game with a home run. Brenda Severance walked, stole 2 bases and came home on a fly ball by Cindy Powell. Caro rallied with a run in the first and 2 more in the third, but after that Hurd blanked the visitors the rest of the way.

Hurd helped her own cause by knocking in Darlene Monroe, who had walked in the fourth inning, to tie the score. The winning run scored when Severance singled, stole 2 bases and rode home on a double by LaRoche.

Sierocki struck out 11, walked 3 and allowed just 4 hits but still took the loss. Hurd was touched for 10 hits and walked one, but was tough when she had to be to take the win.

The Hawks broke up a tight 3-3 game in the fourth inning by scoring 5 times on 4 walks and 3 hits to put the game on ice.

Sierocki was not nearly as effective in this game as she gave up 7 hits, walked 8 and struck out 9. Hurd allowed 7 hits and walked 2.

The Hawks were led by Powell and Tanya Hatmaker, who each collected one hit that drove in 2 runs.

Bulldogs need quick NCTL start

First year mentor Joe Salcido inherits 8 letter winners from last year's Bulldog baseball squad that went 4-12 in the North Central Thumb League and 4-15 overall.

And although the Bulldogs are young, one senior and 2 juniors, Salcido feels his gang should give a strong showing in the NCTL.

"If we can get off to a quick start, we'll have something to say about who wins the crown," said Salcido.

If the Bulldogs are to turn around their program, they will have to start by finding replacements for two of last year's better hitters, Stu Stirrett and Steve Czup.

Expected to help fill the void left by graduation and anchor the infield will be 4th year shortstop Chris Abbe.

Abbe, noted for a good stick, will get plenty of help on offense from Graham Besonen and Brad Susalla.

On the defense side of the diamond, Marc Reinhardt and Chad Zimmerman will give the Bulldogs the base for one of the best outfields in the NCTL. Opponents would be foolish to try to advance on Reinhardt, who possesses one of the league's top arms.

Holding down the mound duties for the Bulldogs will be fire baller Kevin Koch. Reinhardt may also be called upon to pitch.

"Our biggest obstacle thus far has been the weather; there's only so much you can do inside," said Salcido.

Early 19th century French looms were controlled by punched cards that were the forerunners of those used in modern data storage systems.

Key replacements needed

O-G girls ready for season

Coach Judy Campbell opens the 1988 slate with 14 letter winners from Owen-Gage's softball squad of a year ago which posted a 18-5 overall record, along with a satisfying 12-4 showing in the North Central Thumb League.

Coach Campbell will have to find replacements for 3 key positions that are vacant due to graduation, if the Bulldogs hope to capture the NCTL crown.

Two of these positions are in the Bulldog infield. Most missed will be Cindy Enderle. Enderle was a team leader from behind the plate, at her catcher's position, and also filled in at shortstop.

Another infielder lost via graduation who will be sadly missed is Charlene Goslin. Goslin was a timely hitter and sure-handed 2nd baseman.

Also gone from last year's unit is pitcher/outfielder Barb Hellebuyck.

The good news for Coach Campbell is that she will have the nucleus of last year's team back to build on.

The foundation of the Bulldog crew will be pitcher Susie Salcido. Salcido also plays shortstop when not on mound duty and is one of the team's better hitters.

"Good all around" says Campbell about her pitching ace.

Andrea Mandich will fill in for Goslin at second base. Mandich should be the Bulldog's leading base stealer this season.

The Bulldogs will also be looking for another banner year from 3rd baseman Angie Bolzman. This will be Bolzman's 3rd year in the varsity ranks.

Production will also be demanded from Dawn Holland, Tonya Haldane and Patti Ondrajka in the NCTL race.

Campbell sees Peck and Akron-Fairgrove as league favorites, with Deckerville being the league sleeper.

Compete at Mayville

Thinclads split with Lakers

Although Hawk track teams failed to win any of the events outright, the boys picked up enough points to finish fourth and the girls, fifth in the Wildcat Relays at Mayville Friday.

The boys' competition was won by Vassar with 78 points. Other scores were: Millington, 75, Mayville, 72, Cass City, 37, Lakers, 33, Unionville-Sebewaing, 31, Harbor Beach, 26, and Kingston 20.

The girls' meet was won by Mayville with 96 points. Other scores were: Harbor Beach, 68, Lakers, 66, Millington, 43, Cass City 38, Vassar, 37, USA, 16, Kingston, one.

In the boys' meet, Cass City earned 3 second place finishes; in the shuttle hurdle relay, behind Vassar, in the sprint medley, behind Millington, and in the running field event, behind Mayville.

Cass City girls finished in a tie for first with Harbor Beach in the high jump relay with a total of 13 feet, 6 inches. Cass City was second to USA in the long jump relay.

LAKER MEET

Cass City boys won their first meet of the year Thursday with a 95-68 decision over the Lakers. Cass

City girls are still looking for their first victory, as the Laker girls won 99-53.

The boys won 9 of the 16 events. Cass City's strength in the relays decided the winner. Hawk relay teams won all 4 events. Running a leg in all 4 events was freshman Al Dadacki.

The girls were able to win just 4 events. Two of the wins were posted by Jandi Hillaker in the 100 and 200-meter dashes.

The winners were:

BOYS' TRACK

3200 meter relay - Cass City, Profit, A. Dadacki, Smith, Tuckey, 9:31.3.

Lose to Caro, Bad Axe

Hawk 9 drops twin bills

Chances of the Cass City Red Hawks successfully defending the Thumb B Association co-championship won last year were dimmed last week as Coach Ron Lomasney's charges dropped 2 doubleheaders to league foes.

Monday, April 18, the Hawks fell at Bad Axe, 7-1 and 10-2. In the opening game, Cass City's lead-off batter, Jeff Sontag, scored after getting on base via an error, riding home on a hit by Jeff Dillon.

That was the beginning and the end of the Hawk offense as Joel Mesnard tossed a 2-hitter and shut Cass City out the rest of the way. Meanwhile his teammates were banging out 10 hits and walking 4 times against Jeff Krol. The game was actually decided when the Hatchets bunched 3 hits for 3 runs in the second. Bad Axe added 2 insurance runs in each of the next 2 innings to ice the contest. Hordos led the attack for the winners with 2 hits, 2 RBI's and 2 runs scored. Krol was the only other Hawk to get a hit in the game.

In the nightcap it was all over for the Hawks after the first inning as the Hatchets jumped all over Jeremy Capps for 7 hits and 7 runs. Included in the barrage were 3 home runs by Rob Dont, Mesnard and Jason Hordos. Paul Tuckey took over in the third and allowed 2 runs in 3 innings but by then it was too late.

Hordos limited the Hawks to just 4 hits by 4 different batters while whiffing 13 in the 6 innings and allowing just one walk.

CARO GAME

It takes more than 3 runs in 2 games to win most of the time and it took more than that Thursday as the visiting Caro Tigers won a twin bill, 4-3 in the opener and 11-0 in the nightcap.

It was a close game all the way in the opener. The Hawks jumped off to a 2-run lead in the top of the first on hits by Sontag, Dillon and Darin Monroe. The Tigers got those back in their half of the inning with 2 unearned runs on 2 Hawk errors, a walk and a single by Chapelo.

In the third, Tuckey lashed a triple with one away and came home on a passed ball. The Tigers went ahead to stay in the bottom of the third by bunching 4 hits including a 2-run circuit clout by Trisch.

After that both pitchers dominated the action. Krol struck out 7 while allowing 5 hits. Trisch was touched for 7 hits in the six innings and struck out 8.

The nightcap was just too much for Cass City. Too much pitching. DeBoer struck out 6, allowed just 2 hits and no runs in the 11-0 decision. Too much hitting. The Tigers bashed Hawk pitching for 15 hits and 5 walks. Too much defense. Caro played errorless ball behind DeBoer, who faced just 2 batters over the minimum.

Tuckey started and took the loss in the game called in the fifth because of the mercy rule in high school baseball.

Gagetown Nazarenes set church dedication Sunday

The fruits of 3 years of labor, dedication and love will be celebrated Sunday by members, friends and guests of the Gagetown Church of the Nazarene, 6609 Lincoln St.

The area church family will gather at 2:30 p.m. for a dedication service at the church, which has been remodeled and expanded by church members who completed the debt-free project on a volunteer labor basis.

Dr. Marselle Knight, district superintendent of the Eastern Michigan District, will present the dedication message. Also, former pastors will be involved in the celebration, and refreshments will be served following the service. The public is invited to attend.

"Three years ago the congregation's vision was on paper only—an architect's blueprints. Today the facilities are completed, in constant use and free of debt," the Rev. Tom Humphreys, pastor of the Gagetown church, remarked.

Humphreys explained that the estimated $30,000 project, covered by funds raised over a 5-year period, was prompted by a need for additional space and a desire to improve the 60-year-old structure.

"The church people agreed before beginning construction that work would proceed on a cash-only basis," he said.

"It's a common sense approach, and one that churches across the country are seriously considering these days. The cash-only basis has helped us to accomplish 2 important objectives. One is that we avoid the extra costs of borrowing money and carrying long-term monthly payments, (and) the other is that our hands are financially free at all times to be in a position to help others, both locally and in world missions."

Humphreys credits the project completion primarily to the 60-some members of his congregation, although local churches and others helped in various ways. Guided by church member John Roemer, who provided much of the building expertise, church members did everything from cleanup to construction, Humphreys said.

"It is really remarkable what God has helped these committed Christians to accomplish," he commented, adding that the sanctuary has been completely remodeled (ceiling, lights, walls and carpet) and expanded by 50 percent; new electrical service and wiring have been installed throughout the building; a fellowship hall that can double as classrooms has been added, and existing classrooms have been remodeled and soon will be equipped with new tables, chairs, chalk boards and bulletin boards.

"I really think that this church believes the best days are ahead of us. And, they (church members) have shown that they are committed to help make it happen right here," the pastor continued.

"What has helped us throughout is that the congregation planned carefully and planned well from the very beginning. They have always viewed this building project as just a means to a greater end, and that greater end is that we are now in a better position than ever before to provide Christian ministries to the entire family—children, youth and adults."

Schultheiss to seek reelection

Sanilac County Clerk Delene Schultheiss has announced that she will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for county clerk at the August 2 primary election.

Delene Schultheiss

Schultheiss is completing her second term as county clerk. She is a member of the First United Methodist Church of Sandusky, a member of the Sanilac Area Business and Professional Women's organization and was selected as their Woman of the Year in 1981. She also is a member of the Sandusky Lions Club and is an active member of the Sanilac County Republican Committee. She has served as a 4-H leader for more than 20 years.

Schultheiss, 51, and her husband, Bob, reside in Sandusky. They are the parents of 4 children and have 2 grandsons.

THE REV. TOM Humphreys, pastor of the Gagetown Church of the Nazarene, poses near the entrance of the church's newly remodeled and expanded sanctuary, which will be dedicated at a special service slated for 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Melanie Joles is contest winner

Gagetown youth Melanie R. Joles, 11, was the winner Friday in the Youth Division of a lip sync contest held in conjunction with the Perch Festival in Caseville.

Joles, a fifth grader at Gagetown Elementary School, received $25 for her first place performance. She is the daughter of Rick and Pamela Joles of Gagetown.

Ronald A. Wood

Airman Ronald A. Wood basic training graduate

Airman Ronald A. Wood has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the 6-week training session, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, he received credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

Wood, 19, plans to specialize in aircraft electrical maintenance and repair.

The 1987 Sandusky High School graduate is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wood, 3364 Washington St., Snover.

Top 10 Ubly seniors named

Ubly High School Principal W.C. Courliss recently announced Ubly's top students in the class of 1988, led by valedictorian Julie M. Booms and salutatorian Sarah E. Landeryou.

Booms, the daughter of Alvin and the late Audrey Booms of Minden City, has achieved a grade point average of 3.966 after 7 semesters.

Having followed a college preparatory curriculum in high school, she plans to study speech pathology and audiology at Central Michigan University beginning in the fall.

Booms began attending Ubly Community Schools as a freshman after attending Ruth Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic School during her elementary and junior high years.

She has received medals for the highest achievement in algebra I, geometry, Spanish I, short stories and writing II/American literature, and psychology. She has also earned certificates of merit in general business, English 9, biology I, speech I and essential living skills, and scored 100 percent on the 1985-86 Michigan Educational Assessment Program test.

Booms served as secretary of her sophomore class and is currently the president of Ubly's National Honor Society.

Her other activities include participation in the 1987-88 school play, "Who Dunit?" and writing. Her work has been published in the Huron Daily Tribune, and she has had numerous selections in the Horizon and Thumb Thoughts magazines. Booms, who has attended creative writing workshops at Interlochen, also has been published by American Poetry Anthology.

Booms is a member of Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Ruth, where she has been a member of the youth choir for 5 years. She also has participated as a teacher's aide in a Summer Vacation Bible School.

Landeryou, meanwhile, also has followed a college preparatory curriculum at Ubly. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Landeryou, she has maintained a grade point average of 3.919 after 7 semesters.

Her future plans include attending Northwestern University or the University of Michigan.

Landeryou, who has attended school in Ubly since kindergarten, has earned an academic letter in addition to academic awards in biology II, Spanish I and II, and physical education. She has received certificates in English, short stories and writing I, speech I, word processing, psychology, world history, chemistry and biology I.

As a sophomore, Landeryou placed second in the Voice of Democracy speech competition, and was honored for an excellent performance on the Michigan Assessment test.

She currently is a member of the National Honor Society.

Landeryou also has been involved in athletics, taking part in volleyball, cross country and track. She was named Most Improved in track, and was MVP and all-conference in cross country.

Landeryou also was in the cast of the senior play and is a member of the journalism staff. She has held the position of class treasurer for 3 years, and has served as Band Council librarian and president.

She has been a member of the high school band for 4 years, serving as field conductor this year. Allen seeks fourth term as District Representative

Caro Republican Dick Allen has announced that he will seek a fourth term as state representative, 77th District, in the Michigan House of Representatives.

The former veteran newspaper editor stated his 6 years of experience in the House and 4 years as a member of the Appropriations Committee have given him immeasurable influence with which to continue his efforts to aid in the economic development of both Huron and Tuscola Counties.

Allen cited his experience as a member of the Agriculture Subcommittee with enabling him to help shape a number of pieces of crucial farm legislation including both the no-interest and the low-interest farm loan programs which he is hopeful will be extended; the PCB contaminated silo removal bill which gave priority assistance to several Huron and Tuscola County farm families, and he was the chief author of a House Republican Plan to phase out the Single Business Tax for agriculture and forestry processing facilities, and efforts to create an Agriculture and Forestry Research and Development Fund, to mention a few.

His efforts to enhance the Thumb's tourism industry brought more than 170 representatives of local businesses and tourism, together with tourism experts from all over the state to learn how to fully use the natural beauty of the Thumb.

Allen credits the heavy involvement of local community leaders and local elected officials with helping to facilitate the thousands of dollars earmarked by the State for recreational development all across the 100 miles of shoreline in his district. "I want to continue working with local communities to maximize our potential in these areas, and to continue our joint efforts to create more jobs for our citizens, better road systems and continuing our efforts to help with the daily individual problems which are part of this job," he said.

Allen said he is continuing to support an educational finance reform package which will guarantee equity among all the state's school districts; recognizing a need to press for additional insurance liability reforms, and to continue efforts to improve Michigan's job competitiveness by reducing the burden on Michigan businesses.

"There are many other vital issues confronting the state today, including the crime problem," Allen said. "However, the recently passed comprehensive crime package will greatly assist law enforcement officials in waging a more successful war against the criminal element," he stated.

"The past six years representing the residents of the Thumb area have been very productive and meaningful. I look forward to continuing to serve the constituency of the 77th House District," Allen concluded.

Obituaries

Alice Fournier

Miss Alice Mary Fournier, 78, of Gagetown died Tuesday, April 19, at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw after a short illness.

She was born Sept. 9, 1909, in Elmwood Township, the daughter of William and Emma (Rocheleau) Fournier. She had lived in Detroit, Dearborn and Flint, where she worked in retail sales management before coming to Gagetown in 1963.

Surviving are 2 sisters, Miss Isabelle Fournier and Mrs. LeRoy (Eleanor) Stapleton, both of Gagetown; one niece, Miss Jane Stapleton, and one nephew, James Stapleton, both of Gagetown. Two brothers, Victor and Maurice Fournier, died previously.

Prayers were recited Thursday evening at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, and funeral services were conducted Friday at St. Agatha Catholic Church, Gagetown, with Father Julius Spleet, pastor, officiating.

Interment was in St. Agatha Cemetery, Gagetown.

Vern Johnson

Vern Melvin Johnson, 70, of Decker died Saturday, April 23, at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City after a lengthy illness.

He was born Nov. 30, 1917, in Muskegon, the son of Hans and Nellie (Adkins) Johnson. He had been married to Violet Wright in 1948 in Muskegon, to Donna Audridge, and Dec. 30, 1972, married Kay Parks in Decker.

He had been employed as a security guard by a mobile home manufacturer in Marlette.

Surviving are his wife, Kay; 3 sons, Ray Johnson of Owosso, John Johnson of Lansbury and John Johnson of Uby; 3 daughters, Mrs. Sherrel Orwelle of Owosso, Miss Rose Johnson of Owosso and Mrs. Ellie Sholart of Uby, and 6 grandchildren. Also surviving are 3 brothers, Art Johnson of Muskegon, Hans Johnson of Montague, and Raymond Leone of Plainwell, and 6 sisters, Mrs. Emma Adams of Racine, Wis., Mrs. Josie Riley and Mrs. Betty Upton, both of Muskegon, Mrs. Nellie Wells of Barryton, and Mrs. Hilda Moore and Mrs. Violet Visser, both of Grand Rapids.

Funeral services were scheduled Tuesday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church of Cass City, officiating.

Interment will be in Peck.

Virgil Van Norman

Virgil Doyle Van Norman, 77, of Decker died Wednesday, April 20, at his residence.

He was born April 19, 1911, in Evergreen Township, the son of William and Mary (Atkins) Van Norman.

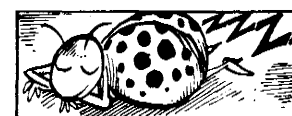

He was married to Miss Verna Flannigan Nov. 8, 1930, in Elkton. They made their home in Decker.

Mr. Van Norman had been employed by the Sanilac County Road Commission for 40 years, retiring in 1976. He attended the Deford Community Church.

He is survived by his wife, Verna; one daughter, Mrs. Esther Hopkins of Saginaw; 2 granddaughters, Mrs. Laurie Dennison of Saginaw and Mrs. Julaine Haremski of Freeport; one great-granddaughter, Angela Dennison of Saginaw, and one brother, Arthur Van Norman of Boynton Beach, Fla. One brother, Roy Van Norman, preceded him in death.

He was taken from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, Saturday to the Deford Community Church to lie in state until funeral services. Rev. Gerald Rodgers, pastor, officiated.

Burial was in Evergreen Township Cemetery, Sanilac County, Mi.

Irene Stafford

Irene Eva Stafford, 73, of Cass City died Friday, April 22, at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw after a brief illness.

She was born May 21, 1914, in Grant Township, Huron County, the daughter of Clare and Beatrice (Bingham) Stafford.

Miss Stafford married Mr. Max Johnson many years ago in Ohio. She had been employed by the Cass City State Bank for many years and was a past member of the Cass City Business and Professional Women's Club and had attended Trinity United Methodist Church of Cass City. She moved to Leesburg, Fla., in 1968, returning to Cass City in 1982.

Miss Stafford is survived by one sister, Mrs. Neva Greenleaf of Cass City, and one brother, Carl Stafford of Vermilion, Ohio, and 3 nieces, Mrs. Sue Werschky of Cass City, Mrs. Sharron Gettens of Vermilion, Ohio, and Mrs. Sandra Ambuehl of Granite City, Ill., and a number of grand-nieces and nephews. A daughter, Beverly Ann Johnson, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Clare Patton, pastor of the Salem United Methodist Church of Cass City, officiating.

Interment was in Elkland Cemetery.

John Pionk

John Pionk, 63, Paris Township, died Wednesday, April 20, at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after an apparent heart attack.

He was born July 12, 1924, in Bingham Township, son of John and Frances (Gosdzinski) Pionk.

He married Beatrice Klama Jan. 31, 1953, at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Parisville.

Mr. Pionk attended Kelly Rural School and farmed for many years in Huron County. He was a parishioner of St. Mary's Catholic Church for 35 years.

Surviving are his wife, Beatrice, Ruth; 2 sons, Gary Pionk and Herb Pionk, both of Ruth; 2 daughters, Sharon Pozsgay, Deckerville, and Mrs. Randy (Arlene) Brown, Bad Axe; 7 grandchildren; 4 brothers, Enoch Pionk, Elmer Pionk and Archie Pionk, all of Uby, and James Pionk, Kinde; 4 sisters, Mrs. Joseph (Susie) Peruski, Uby, Anna Susalla, Bad Axe, Selma Grifka, Argyle, and Mrs. Frank (Rose) Lemanski, Minden City.

He was preceded in death by one granddaughter, Stephanie; 3 brothers, Clarence Pionk, Sylvester Pionk and Stanley Pionk, and one sister, Lucy Osentoski.

Services were held Saturday at St. Mary's Catholic Church. The Rev. Leonard Wilkusi, pastor, officiated. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Zinger-Smigielski Funeral Home, Uby, handled arrangements.

Republican Sauber seeks county clerk position

Indianfields Township resident Patricia Sauber has announced her candidacy for the position of Tuscola County Clerk. She will be running on the Republican ticket.

Sauber currently holds the position of executive secretary for the Tuscola County Friend of the Court. Prior to accepting that position she served as court administrator and assignment clerk for Circuit Court.

She has held the position of treasurer, program director, and executive secretary for the Caro Arts Society. She currently is vice-president for the Caro Arts Society and presently serves as the executive board secretary for the Car Mar Games. Past community involvement has included district director of the Michigan Jaycees and former officer of the local Jaycees.

She has been a resident of Tuscola County for 12 years. A junior at Saginaw Valley State University, Sauber is pursuing a degree in business management. The mother of 3 girls, she is also a member of Sacred Heart Church.

Extensive experience with the functionings of the Circuit Court provides a solid base for dealing with that important area of the county clerk's responsibilities, Sauber says. She added that she's confident that the professional and organizational skills she has gained will provide her with the ability to coordinate and supervise the various elections-related duties of county clerk.

Two area MSU grads announced

Two former area residents are among recently announced Michigan State University graduates.

They are Pamela J. (Harris) Broussard, formerly of Cass City, and Camie R. (Gaskill) Heleski, formerly of Owendale.

Broussard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newell Harris, 4630 Huron St., Cass City, earned a bachelor's degree in communication arts. She and her husband, Rene, who married March 26, are making their home in Houston, Texas.

Camie Heleski is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gaskill, 3276 Webster Rd., Owendale. She graduated with honors, earning a bachelor of science degree in animal science.

Heleski, who resides in Birch Run with her husband of about 8 months, Ernest, plans to earn a master's degree in animal science. She says she hopes to eventually teach and conduct research on horse physiology at a university.

HDC receives $10,000 check

In an effort to assist low-income individuals in their service area, Perry Johnson of Southeastern Michigan Gas Company presented a $10,000 check to representatives of the Human Development Commission last month.

SEMG provided these funds to HDC for utilization within its Home Weatherization Program. The program is available to eligible individuals in Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola and Lapeer Counties. It's a one-time service in which various materials are installed in homes to reduce energy bills.

Southeastern Michigan Gas serves more than 65,000 customers in the Thumb area. Previously, SEMG provided $5,000 to HDC in order to obtain a housing rehabilitation grant for Speaker Township within Sanilac County.

Around the farm

Bill Bortel

The Department of Entomology at Michigan State University has listed a partial list of cultivated and weed plant hosts to aid sugar beet growers in the selection of fields.

All Tuscola County and Michigan sugar beet growers should avoid planting land with these crops or weed problems if the land is to be used for sugar beet production. This should be mandatory for farms with known sugar beet nematode infestations.

During the past 30 years, the Michigan sugar beet industry has done an excellent job of managing potential sugar beet cyst nematode problems through rigorous use of appropriate crop rotations. These have included the basic 3-year rotation for Rhizoctonia control. This system has significantly reduced the risk of sugar beet cyst nematode. In fields where sugar beet nematode infestations are known, a minimum of a 5-year rotation has been a recommended agricultural practice.

In some sites, Michigan sugar beet growers with sugar beet cyst nematode infestations have been able to demonstrate an economic benefit from rotations as long as 8 years.

In all Michigan sugar beet sites known to be infested with the sugar beet cyst nematode, soil sampling for nematode analysis is recommended prior to planting the next sugar beet crop.

A list of cultivated and weed plant hosts of Heterodera schachtii include: Redroot pigweed, Common Chickweed, Mangel, Red table beet, Sugar beet, Lambsquarters, Yellow-rocket, Common mustard, Shepherd's-purse, Wild radish, Common hemp-nettle, Smartweed, Curled dock, Purslane, Nightshade and Black nightshade.

CALL ME ROGER: The story of how Roger Smith, Chairman of General Motors, transformed the industry leader into a fallen giant. By Albert Lee (non-fiction). A former General Motors executive speech-writer, Lee presents a shocking view of the once-preeminent automaker's inner workings as Roger Bonham Smith, chairman since 1980, autocratically pursues a 10-year "21st Century" technological master plan that has failed to avert GM's plunge to a third-place market share. Virtually identical vehicles for all brands from Chevrolet to Cadillac were served up for years, the author recalls, as the new Saturn line and other futuristic projects persistently lagged. To stimulate production, and at a price of $2.55 billion, Smith bought H. Ross Perot's Electronic Data Systems, meshing the 2 companies to the point of chaos (staff phone directories updated weekly and robots welding car doors shut), then paid $900 million more to buy out and oust Perot himself. Such actions caused the down-spiraling of morale and productivity of union workers, the need for whose cooperation and compensation Smith failed to grasp - choosing instead to please economy-minded shareholders with employee layoffs and plant closings (accompanied by hefty top-management bonuses), according to Lee.

SPEAKING OUT: THE REAGAN PRESIDENCY FROM INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE by Larry Speakes and Robert Pack (non-fiction). In this account of his stint as presidential spokesman for the Reagan administration, Larry Speakes manages to develop a voice of his own, however indistinctive or less than profound. Whether rehashing the major events of the first 6 years of the presidency (the assassination attempt, the trouble with terrorists, Reagan's cancer, the summits, the Iran-Contra mess), or relating White House gossip (the numerous, high-ranking, White House leakers, Reagan's "very good gay imitation," Nancy's wrath), Speakes fails to reveal any real insights, although there is lots of superficial analysis. Not that Speakes is uninteresting or has no opinions of his own - his comments on key members of the administration and on the press are colorful and occasionally amusing - but he still comes off as a loyal apologist who parrots the Reagan line with only discrete differences. Kept in the dark about Grenada and Iran-Contra, Speakes distances himself from North, Poindexter, Casey, Meese, and other supporters of swashbuckling covert operations, revealing much infighting among the Reagan advisors. George Bush hardly makes an appearance in these pages, except as the silent partner, "the perfect yes-man." Speakes' access to the White House inner circle makes this memoir of interest but more as a historical curiosity than as a work of earthshaking disclosure.

It's unfair to keep young boys off ball field

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Editor,

This letter is to voice my feelings also about this year's little league.

I think it is so unfair that my child (and I'm sure a number of others) are not being allowed to play ball this year. So what if they didn't get signed up on time - we are talking about young boys anxious and eager to play a game - not major league players out dealing contract talks with owners or managers.

Last year, notes were sent home when it was time to sign up - why wasn't that done this year?

There must be a place to put the boys (and girls) that missed the sign up days. Why not just have another sign up day to allow every child the chance to play baseball.

I think more of an effort could be made by all the coaches to ensure everyone gets a chance to be a part of the team. What are you people proving by closing the door in the faces of these children?

My son is so disappointed - this was to be his first year of little league, and it would have also earned him a belt loop in sports for his cub scouts.

These kids are being left out in the cold and it's not fair! I would like to know who I (and the rest of us unhappy parents) can write to, to try and get all of the kids out there who want to play ball, the opportunity to play.

Little league is supposed to be summer time fun for the children, so come on people - let's not allow a handful or two of children to slip through the cracks and be so disappointed this summer.

Let's get these young boys out there on the ball field!

Sincerely,
Another parent with a boy wanting to play ball.

Susan Caister presents program at AAUW meet

The April 19 meeting of the Cass City branch of American Association of University Women was a dinner meeting held at Wildwood Farms.

The new slate of officers for the coming year was presented and approved. Barb Kosal will be president, Donna Emerson, vice-president in charge of membership, and Barb Stickle, treasurer.

Barb Kosal will attend the AAUW state convention in Ann Arbor in May. Jeanne de Sainte Marie reported on the Picture Lady program. After a lapse of a few years, AAUW hopes to start this program in the elementary schools in the fall.

Speaker for the evening was Susan Caister, a registered dietician from St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw, who presented a program on nutrition.

Hostesses for the evening were Sharon Dunn, Cathy Cooper and Marge McLellan.

Novesta Junior Choir to present spring cantata

The Novesta Church of Christ Junior Choir will present a spring youth cantata entitled, "The Music Machine," Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

"The Music Machine" is a musical adventure teaching the fruit of the Spirit to all ages. The cantata features a creatively constructed real live music machine.

The church is located at 2896 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City.

Lutherans attend annual retreat

Twelve women from Good Shepherd Lutheran Church were among the 62 attending the Lutheran Women's Missionary League Thumb Zone's annual retreat at Camp Jeddo, near Lexington, April 20-21. They are Helen Avery, Sue Baker, Ruth Balzer, Adeline Butler, Betty Fuller, Tina Hoard, Eileen Krug, Eleanor Miller, Lois Moslander, Lucille Stine, Donna Schuette and Mary Wheeler.

Elaine Bickel of Millington was the featured speaker and other activities included prayer, singing, skits and fellowship.

Rev. Allen Freundt, pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City, and counselor for the Thumb Zone LWML, led Bible study and officiated at morning chapel and the closing communion service.

A tribute

Opening Day
still specialby Tom Montgomery
News Editor

I still have trouble getting to sleep the night before opening day.

The last Saturday in April—the traditional trout season opener in Michigan—has always been a special tradition.

Anyone fortunate enough to have been introduced to the art of stream fishing (or any other type) by a father or grandfather, who knew the value of time invested in a youngster, knows what I mean.

It's been some time since my grandfather and I tramped any of the northern Michigan streams he shared with me during the years I was growing up. A Kentucky native who stood only about 5'5", he succumbed to Alzheimer's disease a few years ago. My grandmother, his wife of more than 50 years, died less than a year after he did.

Grandpa introduced me to stream fishing when I was about 9, the beginning of an opening day tradition he and I would share for a decade.

"Ray, guess who's here?" grandma would say as my mom drove up into my grandparents' driveway. Grandpa greeted me the same way each time I escaped Grand Rapids' northeast side for a fishing trip, which was as often as I could manage. "Hello fishin' partner; ready to get your limit tomorrow?"

Our opening day ritual would begin Friday evening, when we'd go outside, flashlights and empty soup cans in hands, in search of night crawlers.

The thought of paying 50 cents a dozen for crawlers then irked my grandpa, who year after year used the same old 8-foot steel fly rod and closed face reel. I think he won the antique equipment sometime in the 1940s.

Saturday would begin at 5 a.m. with the trip up to White Cloud. The journey there somehow seemed much shorter than the trip back.

Once at the stream, we'd part—he would head upstream, while I'd go downstream. "Remember to fish that big log," he'd remind me as he headed off into the brush at a surprisingly quick pace.

His earlier instruction always came back to me as I prepared to tempt a native brookie out from under that big log.

"Edge up to the stream slowly now," he'd say. "Just drop your bait in and work it until. Drift it along the sand until it slides into the hole."

A distinct tug on my line would pull me from my daze and I'd reel in a hefty 10-inch brookie. I usually picked up a couple more before heading back to the car for a lunch of bologna, cheese and crackers.

The day would end after visiting another stream or 2, and soon we would be pulling into my grandparents' driveway.

"You all are home kind of early aren't ya?" were my grandmother's first words as we entered the kitchen. She would glance down at the trout in the cooler. I knew what she'd say, grinning.

"Is that all you got? They look kind of puny," she'd tease.

"Is that so," grandpa would reply. "Well, next time we'll take you so you can catch the big ones for us," he'd say with a chuckle and a wink at me.

When I return again to those same old streams Saturday morning, I'm sure I'll relive past opening days. I can't help but feel grandpa's presence when I step from my car into a forest alive with chattering birds and squirrels, the rhythmic drumming of a ruffed grouse and the soft gurgling of a nearby brook.

I can think of no finer a tribute to the man. He left behind a part of himself in me which I hope to one day pass on to my own grandchildren.

HDC luncheon slated Friday

In celebration of 22 years of service to the Thumb area, the Human Development Commission will hold its annual luncheon and program Friday.

The event will be held at The Knights of Columbus Hall in Caro, beginning with a catered luncheon at noon and a program at 1 p.m. The keynote speaker for the day will be Elizabeth P. Howe, director of the Michigan Department of Labor.

Other special guests expected to attend include representatives from Senators Riegle and Levin's office and congressmen Traxler and Kildeer's office, in addition to state Sen. Jim Barcia, Rep. Dick Allen and Rep. Keith Muxlow. Local county commissioners, township and village officials and numerous others will also be present.

The program is open to the public. Those wishing to attend the luncheon are asked to contact the Human Development Commission office at (517) 673-4121 for a reservation.

Plentiful morel
crop is expected

The seasonal hunt for the delicious morel mushroom should be the most productive in recent years due to sufficient winter snowfall and this spring's warming temperatures and rainfall, reports AAA Michigan.

Morels—the cream of the mushroom crop because of their delicate, distinct, almost nutty taste—should be plentiful in much of the state, unlike last year's poor season due to a lack of early spring rainfall.

Mushroom enthusiasts who wish to savor the delectable morel will have their pick of festivals this year, including Mesick, May 6-8; Harrison, May 7; Boyne City, May 7-8, and Lewiston, May 14.

Festival highlights include mushroom cook-offs and cooking demonstrations, contests for the largest and the most picked mushrooms, art fairs, carnivals, dances and mushroom seminars. Some area restaurants will help capture the festive flavor by serving meals featuring mushrooms.

Individuals interested in the hunt will find the best times for picking are from early May to early June in the Lower Peninsula and from mid-May to early June in the Upper Peninsula.

Best hunting areas vary, but the black morel is most often found in hardwood forests, apple orchards and along roadsides while the white morel sprouts in moist areas near lakes and streams. Both also are often sighted near ash trees and dead or dying elms.

The giant morel, which grows up to a foot tall and is not as common as other varieties, is usually found in Southern Michigan in moist, heavy soil along streams, under ash or elm trees or in heavy grasses.

Skilled hunters stress that patience and persistence are required for best results, which generally occur following 2 or 3 consecutive evenings of above-freezing temperatures. Mushroom stalkers will find that once a productive area is discovered, the area should continue to produce annually.

AAA Michigan reminds that because morels are often mistaken for other mushrooms and many species are toxic, inexperienced hunters and children should go with an expert.

Enthusiasts should learn to identify the "false" morel, which has a pitted cap attached to the top of the stem. These types should not be eaten. Only unblemished mushrooms should be picked and they should be kept in a paper or net bag or basket. Plastic bags cause morels to spoil quickly.

Several clubs and instructional courses are offered through the North American Mycological Association to learn about the art of mushroom hunting. Those interested can call 313-971-2552 in Ann Arbor for more information.

HUNTING TIPS

Hunt with a skilled guide if inexperienced, since some false morels are toxic.

Pick only unblemished mushrooms and use knife to cut the base of the stem.

Look for mushrooms in groups and near hardwood trees, apple orchards and along roadsides.

Carry morels in net bags or baskets and do not use plastic sacks or containers in which early spoilage can occur.

Do not eat any wild mushrooms raw, as many species are indigestible.

Wear ordinary field clothes, comfortable walking shoes or boots.

WHEN TO HUNT

Upper Peninsula—Mid-May to Early June.

He said the camp, which would operate on an annual budget of $2.7 million, would offer employment to several area residents, and would pour close to $1 million of support into the area via employment and food and supply purchases.

Wollack, who remarked that he's confident the camp will be approved, disputed claims of secrecy regarding the proposal, saying, "We will answer any community questions. We have always been honest."

LIES

"There (are) a lot of lies being facilitated by residents in the area," he continued. "When we say we'll be having a certain type of (youth), that's what we'll have."

Peter Walsh, associate director of Wolverine Human Services, added, "There are a lot of misconceptions."

Walsh, who along with Wollack has a master's degree in social work, attended most of Monday night's meeting, but didn't comment, he said, because Wolverine officials weren't invited to the gathering.

Earlier Monday, he commented on the "work and learn" program. "This is a unique concept; it's new," he remarked. "We want to make intervention in these kids' lives while they're still young, but they (opponents) are scaring people here."

According to county DSS Director Onalee Detwiler, Tuesday's local DSS board recommendation will not decide the issue, but the board's opinion will weigh heavily on the state's decision to pursue the project, which recently received an endorsement by the Tuscola County Economic Development Corporation.

Taking
stock

By Bill Myers

In south Florida, among other places, seminars on estate planning are common, and are popular. There is a great interest in Living Trusts as a way to avoid probate, and people like the seminars as a way to get a little free legal counsel.

Among the odds and ends I picked up at the last one I attended:

A living trust properly drawn ordinarily includes empowering the co-trustee, or successor trustee, to handle such things as selling real estate, securities, and other assets in case the grantor becomes incapable of doing such things himself. It is quite common for the elderly to have strokes or other mental impairment and not being able to act. Everybody knows that, I hope.

Another way of giving others power to act is to have a comprehensive power of attorney. Such a document should specify the area in which the "attorney" (your spouse, for example) can act. But doing this in the trust document is better and more acceptable in transactions involving real estate or securities.

Although it is not usually done, it is possible to carry out the provisions of a trust after the grantor's death without hiring a lawyer. A CPA can make out the Federal tax return, and the successor trustee who is surviving can distribute the assets as specified. This assumes all assets of deceased are in the trust, and thus you avoid going to probate court.

Rough average cost of running an estate through probate is 5% of total assets. Even using a lawyer if you have a living trust would save three-fourths of that 5%.

Average cost of drawing up a living trust (and a will) for a man and wife is $1,500.

So you want to make gifts in excess of tax-free limit of $10,000 a year per person. You and/or your wife can give away up to $600,000 total at time of death. An "information return" needs to be filed. There is no net gain in exemptions because whatever you give now is subtracted from the $600,000 exemption at time of death.

Then why give it away now? You may want to reduce your taxable securities and give some to a grandchild who will be in a lower bracket. The child also might have need for the cash now for schooling, for example.

Whatever is your cost basis of the assets given becomes the cost basis of the recipient. Capital gains are deferred until sale but not avoided.

If you move to another state, get your will amended to show your new residence. Otherwise it is costly to produce witnesses and make the will valid. In Florida, for example, we have "self-proving" wills. If a will done here is properly witnessed and notarized, it is automatically accepted by the court. No need to scout around and find the people who witnessed it.

If you own real estate in another state, have your lawyer advise how to avoid it being taxed by that state.

If your will was drawn before 1982, have a lawyer look it over. Some changes in the law were made then, that you should take advantage of.

Some other tips that I've had from judges and attorneys over the years:

Don't depend on your heirs to divvy up the personal belongings the way you might like. Specific items as far as you can. There are marked personality changes in the survivors once the funeral is over. Sometimes even before the final rites.

The wisest man I ever knew, the late Judge George DesJardins of Lapeer, Mich., called his family together every Christmas season and told the group just what his current will provided, so that every one knew what to expect.

George was as susceptible to flattery as you and I. One year when a new grandson came into the family and was named after him, the will was amended to give the little fellow an extra $5,000 besides his share of the pool allotted to all the grandchildren.

George was my esteemed advisor for many years. He drew up my first will when I was 21.

I remember a bit of advice on buying or selling property:

Don't buy or sell as much as the tiniest backwoods cabin without having lawyer check the papers.

New books at the library

WHAT ME, MR. MOSLEY? by John Greenwood (mystery). Stolid, enraging his superiors by going any way but by the book (as ordered), British Detective Inspector Mosley intrudes into unassigned cases in Bagshawe Broome. At Dickie Holgate's stand in the market place, the detective spots what may be stolen wares. This is the impetus to search the home of recently deceased nonagenarian Henry Burgess, where signs of squatters broaden Mosley's investigation into the abduction of the adolescent daughter of the town's loan shark and other crimes. Refusing orders from his chief to mind his own business and leave the important work to experts, the lone paladin triumphs again.

QUICKSILVER by Clark Howard (fiction). Following World War I, a trio of ex-marines - Mike Donovan, Jim Delavane and Buck O'Crotty - encounters sensuous Ruby Surret. She and Jim have an affair, despite his recent marriage. When their torrid relationship inevitably ends, Ruby weds Mike while she is carrying Jim's child. Their destinies irrevocably meshed, they all settle in Virginia City, where Jim amasses wealth as a swaggering mine owner; Buck, a man of formidable integrity, is the mine worker's union representative, and Tony, Ruby and Jim's boy, is taken in by Buck after a fire kills the Donovans. Unaware of his real paternity, Tony courts Francie Delavane, Jim's daughter, but their misbegotten passion falters when Francie learns about Tony's background. Tony becomes an executive at the Flamingo, "Bugsy" Siegel's opulent hotel casino in Las Vegas. Now a sophisticated businessman and a protégé of mobster Meyer Lansky, Tony has 2 obsessions: finding Francie and identifying Buck's murderer.

DETOUR: A HOLLYWOOD STORY by Cheryl Crane (non-fiction). Lana Turner's daughter, Cheryl Crane, made headlines on Good Friday 1958 when she stabbed and killed her mother's boyfriend, mobster Johnny Stompanato. But murder was not the only tragedy that dogged the unfortunate Crane, who, with co-author Jahr's assistance, searingly describes the life of a "star-baby." There were plenty of perks, to be sure, but also a complex, often absent mother and a series of "uncles" and stepfathers, one of whom raped young Cheryl repeatedly from the time she was 10 years old until she found the courage to tell someone. After the Stompanato killing, which happened because Cheryl was afraid for her mother's safety and was attempting to protect her, Crane's psychiatric problems intensified until she was put into a mental institution. After extensive therapy she has become a happy, successful businesswoman who lives with her female lover (a subject on which the author is also remarkably candid).

Sanilac facility

slates quilt show

Sanilac Medical Care Facility will celebrate National Nursing Home Week May 8-14. This week is set aside to specifically honor the patients and residents living in our nation's 19,000 nursing home facilities.

This year's theme is "Respect - The Heart of Caring." It focuses attention not only on the continuing care of our nation's elderly and chronically ill with dignity and respect, but also on the extraordinary contributions made by the many nursing home staffs.

During this week, the community has an opportunity to demonstrate its respect for both the residents and the providers of the care. It also serves as a reminder that staff and volunteers are always needed, and that that need is rapidly growing.

In further commemoration of this week, the Sanilac Medical Care Facility will host its fifth annual quilt show. On display will be many "heirloom" and new quilts and other fine handiwork pieces made by patients and staff, their families and others from the community.

Exhibits may be viewed daily beginning May 10 through May 13 from 1 to 5 p.m. at 137 North Elk Street, Sandusky. A special "Senior Citizen's Day" will be hosted May 11.

THEY'RE HERE! THE AMERICAN DREAM MACHINES

What is a "Dream Machine?" A dream is an ideal. The ultimate. The Lawn-Boy Dream Machines represent the ideal, achieved. The ultimate in performance and value.

The key to the Lawn-Boy Rider/Tractor line is . . . quality throughout. The step-up in price doesn't represent good, better, best. It's best, best, best, and best. The step-up is for capability, workmanship and performance. Come see them.

All Lawn-Boy brand products work like a dream.
