O-G board struggles with pupil transfers

An agreement that would allow 4 students to attend the schools of their choice in the Owen-Gage and Cass City school districts was approved unanimously by the Owen-Gage Board of Education Monday.

The board continued to struggle with its student transfer request policy, however, voting 3-2 in favor of another transfer request.

School Supt. Harley B. Kirby told the board that he and Cass City School Supt. Kenneth Micklash have drafted an agreement that will allow the children of Mr. and Mrs. James Brinkman and the children of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mikolon to attend the schools of their choice through graduation.

All 4 children already have received permission to continue attending their respective schools in the 1988-89 school year.

Under the agreement, which will be presented to the Cass City board May 16, state aid, if applicable, will be collected by the school where the children are attending.

Kirby noted that he has requested a one-month postponement of a State Board of Education hearing on a property transfer request filed by the Brinkmans. The hearing was to have been held May 12, he said.

Turning to another student transfer request, the board approved a motion that will allow the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bumhoffer, Sebewaing, to continue attending USA High School for the 1988-89 school year. The Bumhofers stated that they plan to move into the Owen-Gage district this summer, but want to allow their son, who will be a sophomore, to continue in the USA district.

"NO" VOTES

Board trustees Mary A. Abbe and William Kretzschmer cast the dissenting votes on a motion to grant the request. Trustee Joseph Warack did not attend the meeting.

The board, at its April meeting, tabled a request by Greg and Lore Festian, Gageton, who asked that their son be allowed to attend kindergarten in Cass City in the 1988-89 school year.

The couple stated at that

CASS CITY VETERINARIAN Dr. Edward Scollon (right) says he's seeing a big increase in the number of pet owners getting their animals vaccinated against rabies. Marlette resident Duane Chamberlain (above), who took 4 dogs in for shots last week, remarked that the recent rabies outbreak in the county "woke us up."

At area schools

Graduation swirl starting

Area high schools will close out the 1987-88 school year with concerts, awards assemblies and final exams before officially recognizing graduates during commencement exercises this month.

Four area schools—Cass City, Owen-Gage, Kingston and Ubyly—plan to graduate a total of nearly 300 students. Cass City, with 121 seniors, has the largest class among the 4, while Owen-Gage has the smallest, with 21.

CASS CITY

Several Cass City students will be honored at an annual awards assembly slated for 1 p.m. Friday in the high school gym. The event will recognize a variety of honors, both academic and athletic.

Also scheduled this month is the senior high band concert, set for May 19 beginning at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.

May 19 will also be the last day of school for seniors, who are scheduled to take final exams May 18 and 19. Other students will finish out the year June 9, with finals set for June 8 and 9.

The school's baccalaureate ceremony will begin at 2 p.m. May 22 at the school. The Rev. S. Joe Robertson, pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker.

The class of 1987-88 will graduate during exercises slated to start at 8 p.m. May 26 at the high school. One of the class' 4 valedictorians, Jane Dickinson, and honor student David Burnette have been selected to speak at the ceremony. High school Principal Russell Biefer will present the class to school Supt. Kenneth Micklash, who will award the diplomas.

OWEN-GAGE

End-of-the-year activities at Owen-Gage High School include an academic and other awards assembly at 9 a.m. Monday in the high school gym. Athletic awards will be presented at a ceremony scheduled for May 24 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the elementary school.

Seniors are set to take their final exams May 19 and 20. Their last day of school is scheduled for May 20, while other students will finish out the year June 8 following final exams June 7 and 8.

Some 50 students who have remained on the honor roll throughout the school year will take a one-day trip to Cedar Point June 10.

The Rev. Patrick C. O'Connor of St. Columbkille Church, Ubyly, will give the message at the school's baccalaureate, to be held at 7:30 p.m. May 22 in the elementary school gym.

Commencement exercises will begin at 8 p.m. May 26 in the high school gym. Manuel Thies, high school science teacher and senior class advisor, will be the special speaker. Diplomas will be presented by Board of Education President Ronald Good.

KINGSTON

Kingston High School's

junior-senior prom is slated for Saturday at the Bavarian Inn in Frankenmuth. The event will begin at 6 p.m.

The year will draw to a close May 25 for seniors, who are scheduled to take their final exams May 23, 24 and 25. Finals for other students will be given June 7 and 8, with the June 8 being the last day of classes.

Sixty seniors are expected to take part in commencement exercises set to begin at 2 p.m. May 29 in the high school gym. No baccalaureate is planned.

Kingston High School graduate Thomas T. Lanway, who now serves as superintendent of the Caro School District, will be the guest commencement speaker. He will be joined by Kingston's 1988 valedictorian, Mary R. Cherniawski, and salutatorian, Donald M. Weinand Jr., who will each address their classmates. Diplomas will be awarded by Board of Education President Louis Wenzlaff.

State health panel airs rabies problem

Dr. Kenneth Wilcox from the Michigan Department of Health in Lansing, together with a group of other doctors from the department and a veterinarian, outlined the problems and concerns with the discovery of rabies in 3 animals in the Mayville area at a press meeting Monday afternoon in Marlette.

The Thumb is a "rabies belt" in Michigan because of the proximity of wild animals to household pets and to people.

Dogs, cats and bats are most dangerous to humans because they are most likely to become infected from foxes, coyotes, skunks, raccoons and bats.

The health department urges all owners of pets to have them vaccinated. Dogs are required by law to have the vaccination, but enforcement has been a problem, according to area animal control officers.

A statewide distribution of a new rabies vaccine started Monday and is available free. It is being given to area health departments and will be made available to doctors and hospital emergency rooms.

There is good news about this new vaccine, Wilcox told the press Monday. It requires only 5 relatively painless shots for protection.

The commercial cost of the vaccine would be $200, but the health department's aim is to make it available to everyone without regard to the ability to pay.

Wilcox said that how soon after exposure to a suspected rabid animal treatment should start depends on the circumstances. However, the sooner treatment is started after a bite by an animal that does prove to be infected, the better the Area pet owners flock to vets

The recent outbreak of rabies in southeastern Tuscola County is causing area pet owners to "wake up."

That's the conclusion of a number of area veterinarians, who say they've been swamped in recent weeks with calls from persons who want their dog or cat vaccinated against the disease.

An informal survey of several clinics revealed that veterinarians in recent weeks have been administering 2 and 3 times the number of rabies vaccinations they normally would this time of year.

Most of the doctors attribute the sharp increase to 3 animals in the Mayville and east Mayville areas that, since February, have tested positive for rabies.

Aside from those animals, a raccoon, which bit a county resident, escaped, and officials are waiting for test results on another "suspicious" raccoon. The Tuscola cases were the first in Michigan this year.

To date, 11 persons, including 2 who were bitten, have been exposed to the deadly virus in Tuscola County and are undergoing treatment.

According to area veterinarians, including Dr. Edward Scollon, DVM, of Cass City, pet owners are apparently listening to local and state health officials' pleas to make sure domestic animals are immunized.

"There's been quite an increase in the number bringing in their pets for immunizations over the last 2 weeks," Scollon remarked.

He reported vaccinating 22 animals last week, compared to the 5 or 6 animals he would normally vaccinate over the same time period.

Scollon noted that a dog or cat that gets its first rabies vaccination between the ages of 6 months and one year would be safe for one year. After that, each vaccination, which costs an average of $10, is effective for 3 years.

GOOD SIGN

Scollon pointed out that residents are taking cats as well as dogs to his office for vaccinations. That's a good sign, he said, because while the state requires dogs to be vaccinated in order to be licensed, no such law exists for cats, which are as likely as dogs to be exposed to the virus.

Pam Reid of the Caro Veterinary Clinic echoed Scollon's observations.

"A lot of people are calling to see if their animals are up to date," she noted. "We're seeing a lot of people calling for rabies vaccinations, (and) we're seeing more cats than in the past."

Every time it (rabies) comes out in the news, we've noticed a surge in the next day," Reid continued.

Dr. Rod Ellis, DVM, of the Companion Animal Care Center in Caro, reported a "2 or 3-fold increase" in rabies vaccinations. Normally, 5 to 10 vaccinations or fewer would be given per day, but the number has ranged from 20 to 25 per day in recent weeks, he said.

"This is normally the busiest season for us because it's heart worm check time, so it's been doubly busy," Ellis remarked, adding, "It's too bad this kind of thing has to happen to get" pet owners in.

Ellis' wife, Dr. Carol Galka, DVM, who operates the Companion Animal Hospital in Cass City, commented, "We're seeing a lot of people who don't (normally) have veterinary care for their animals. There's been quite an increase ever since the news broke about the rabies cases."

Galka said she's glad pet owners are taking the initiative to protect themselves and others, but added she's disturbed by reports that some persons, out of fear, are shooting any domestic animals they see.

"That's not going to alleviate the problem; it's not the answer," she said. "The only way to stop it is to vaccinate the animals."

Opponents vow court battle over proposed Kingston camp

A court battle appears inevitable in the planned opening of a "work and learn" camp in Koylton Township for juvenile delinquents.

A state Department of Social Services official Monday said the camp is slated to open as soon as possible, although he acknowledged the issue may be decided in court.

That appears to be one of the few points on which both sides agree.

The township board, during a special meeting Saturday, joined the Concerned Citizens of Koylton Township in hiring Sandusky attorney Anthony Sykora in anticipation of a legal battle over whether the camp meets township zoning laws.

Saturday's action came only 4 days after the State Administrative Board approved a contract, of up to $4.5 million for up to 17 months, authorizing Pioneer Work and Learn Center, Inc., to develop and open the camp at the Koylton Township site, located 1 1/2 miles south of Kingston.

The state board's decision came one week after the local DSS board voted 2-1 not to recommend approval of the camp in the township.

According to DSS officials, Pioneer, a division of Wolverine Human Services of Detroit, is one of 6 firms that bid on the camp contract, which authorizes a facility for 50 youths, ages 13 through 17. The youths can be multiple offenders, but will not have been convicted of an assault related crime.

Youths would spend 6 months at the camp, which emphasizes a combination of regular academic instruction, vocational education and a wilderness survival experience based on the "Outward Bound" model. Family and individual counseling, during and after the camp stay, also is an integral part of the program.

TRIAL CONTRACT

State DSS official Ken Visser said the agreement approved last week calls for a trial contract of up to 90 days, during which Pioneer will attempt to resolve a zoning dispute, and obtain licensing, necessary building permits and estimates on planned renovation at the camp.

Another contract will then be executed with an expiration date of Sept. 30, 1989, he said.

Visser said the zoning dispute is focused on whether the camp is "grandfathered" into the existing township zoning as a continuing nonconforming use.

"We believe that it is," he remarked, adding, "The attorneys for the camp program (have) read the zoning, and they have interpreted it to say they have a right to go in."

Township board trustee Richard Borek, however, said Monday that the camp is not zoned for use as a "work and learn" facility. He added, "They're not going to get a zoning permit as far as we're concerned."

Concerned Citizens of Koylton Township spokesman Carl Papke, whose farm is located about 1,300 feet south of Kingston Hills Camp, remarked that residents have clearly shown they don't want another youth camp in their area. There are already 3 Teen Ranch facilities within an 8 mile radius of the proposed camp, he said.

SAFETY

The safety of residents, particularly the elderly and students who attend school in the nearby Kingston district is a primary concern of residents, according to Papke.

Significant opposition to the proposal, he repeated, has been proven with 700 signatures obtained from residents in the township and in the Kingston School District who are opposed to the camp, the local DSS board's vote and recent meetings on the issue which were attended by at least 150 persons against the camp.

"You tell me how the state can do this. This isn't Russia," he said. "How else can the people of the com-

Meg's Peg Weird news by Melva E. Guinther. Includes a photo of a woman and a small graphic.

Between Christmas and New Year's, when few had time to appreciate them fully, The Detroit News printed a summary of "Weird News" stories that occurred during 1987.

I found them in my files recently and decided to share a few with those of you who likewise didn't get to read them earlier.

One tale of woe was about a Midland man who was treated for minor injuries after the following series of events: He picked up the newspaper from his lawn, got in his car and headed for work; he found a live bird inside the paper and stopped to let it out; he fell out of the car in the process, chased the car as it rolled off without him, crashing into a neighbor's house, and he lost his pants running after it.

Some days you shoulda stood in bed. A London man was convicted after robbing gas stations wearing nothing but a stocking mask because he "didn't want to be identified by his clothes." Holdup victims identified him instead by vaccination marks and skin blemishes.

Who can understand the criminal mind? A bank robber sued a California savings and loan for $2 million in damages after a booby-trapped bundle of cash exploded in his pants.

A milestone in 1987: Alaskan airline officials recorded what is thought to be the first midair collision involving a fish, when an eagle dropped a salmon or cod (probably hard to distinguish after the fact) onto the cockpit roof of a Boeing 737.

And what were people buying last year? A Maine insurance salesman received at least 200 orders for necklaces made of oven-dried, lacquered moose droppings, at $22.50 each. The entrepreneurial spirit is alive, but sick! Lloyds of London insured the prototype of "My Pet Slug," which we've mentioned here previously, for over $1,000.

Singer Michael Jackson tried unsuccessfully to buy the mortal remains of John Merrick, "The Elephant Man," from London Hospital Medical College. It was never explained publicly what he intended to do with the deformed skeleton. It's probably just as well.

Albert Lowry, author of "How You Can Become Financially Independent by Investing in Real Estate" and "Hidden Fortunes: How to Profit from the New Opportunities in the Eighties," filed for bankruptcy. Perhaps it's all part of his scheme?

Also in 1987, a wholesale jeweler in Georgia changed his name from Gary Eugene Duda to Zippidy Duda.

Although these events took place last year, a sobering observation made by the News writer remains valid. "These people are all out there -- somewhere."

"If It Fitz..."

It was a grand car

By Jim Fitzgerald

So this is how it ends, after 12 years of faithful service, in a dusty metallic graveyard. Someone should play taps.

I'd like to play taps on someone's head. That's what I thought Saturday as I stood in a tow shop storage lot, viewing the remains of my 1977 Oldsmobile, recovered 10 days after it was stolen. I have owned several 2-doors and 4-doors, but this was the first no-door.

Why would someone take 4 doors off that battered, poorly repainted old car? I wasn't surprised the wheels were missing, also the radio, CB and speakers. But those doors were beginning to rust through and were prime evidence that, as my wife often said, I shouldn't be allowed within 2 miles of a can of spray paint. Is there really a market for such shoddy auto parts?

Sure, according to police. My doors were most likely stolen in order for a repair shop that needed them — cheap — to restore a wrecked car for less money than an insurance company was paying. That's maddening. There would be fewer thefts if there weren't so many "respectable" businesses eager to buy bargain merchandise they know damn well is stolen.

I was surprised at how bad I felt to see my old Olds reduced to junk. To me, cars are nothing more than transportation. That's why I keep one as long as it runs decently. I couldn't care less about sleek styling, powerful engines or chic nameplates.

A CAR PACKED WITH MEMORIES

But when you drive a car forever, it picks up precious memories. That '77 Olds took us to California for a family wedding, with frequent stops so my youngest daughter, pregnant with Emily, could throw up. It returned me to Camp Polk, La., for the first time in 35 years, and my wife was so excited by my World War II reminiscing that she slept for 2 days straight.

Most eye-watering, that car was the last in which I took my mother and her 2 sisters out to dinner. They thought it was a grand car, and I drove it to their funerals. For me, it was a grand car, and it deserved a better fate than to be torn apart by creeps.

Patrick Stanley, an east-side businessman and New Baltimore resident, also had his car stolen. His 1987 Chevrolet wagon disappeared from Greektown April 24. Four days later, Stanley received a phone call from a private security officer who'd seen the car parked near Rivard and Warren. He'd had no trouble getting Stanley's identification from inside the car because the front window was broken, the ignition smashed and the radio ripped out of the dashboard.

A 2-year-old moron could see it was a stolen, burglarized car. But get this: There were 3 parking tickets under the windshield wiper. They'd been written on 3 different days by the same officer.

THE VICTIMS HAVE TO PAY

This Municipal Parking Department officer did not report the obviously stolen car. If the security officer hadn't reported it to Stanley, and to police, Stanley's stolen car might still be getting a ticket a day from the same intrepid parking officer.

Subsequently, according to Stanley, a police officer said he'd have to pay the tickets. A friendly way for the city to treat a crime victim.

"I won't pay," Stanley said. God bless him. It was the third car he's had stolen in Detroit.

As for my old car, I had to pay a $35 towing fee to kiss it goodbye. Police questioned the man who pawned the golf clubs from the trunk for $10 but said there was no way to disprove his story that he'd bought them for $5 from "some guy named Larry," address unknown.

My car was stripped in a residential neighborhood on the east side. For a minute, I was naive enough to wonder why some citizens didn't observe this obviously criminal behavior and call the cops. But then I remembered the 3 tickets on Stanley's car, and I laughed out loud at my stupidity.

Auto theft is a rinky-dink crime in this drug-infested, shoot-em-up city. Most of the public, including Stanley, perceives Parking Department officers as regular cops, more than just "meter maids." And if a cop doesn't give a damn about your missing car, why should a citizen?

In Cass City

Theatrical club formed

Around 20 enthused and interested people attended an informal meeting Monday night, May 2, at the Cass City High School library to form what will be called the "Cass City Players."

The theatrical club, which boasts a wide range of ages, will hold their next meeting Monday, May 16, at 8:00 p.m., again in the library. The public is welcome.

The meeting will be chaired by Ken Hofmeister, information resource center coordinator at Walbro in Cass City.

Hofmeister said that a pre-play committee has been established and a play will be voted on at the next meeting.

The club will be looking for donations to help defray the cost of its first play, which Hofmeister said should air in late summer.

Two types of donations will be accepted and may be sent to Cass City Community Education in care of Michelle Zdrojewski.

A patron membership, according to Hofmeister, will cost $25 and will include recognition in the program along with 2 tickets to the production.

A benefactor designation will cost $50 and will also include recognition in the program along with 2 tickets to the play.

Theft of 2 snowmobiles, trailer reported recently

The theft of 2 snowmobiles, a trailer and an air compressor from an Ellington Township residence was recently investigated by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Robert Papp, 2289 E. Dutcher Rd., Caro, told deputies that someone stole the items between April 28 and April 30. The snowmobiles had been parked on the trailer near a driveway, according to reports, which state that the air compressor was taken from a nearby shed.

The snowmobiles are valued at $2,000 and $2,800, while the trailer is valued at $520 and the air compressor, $200.

Evelyn MacRae has a long history of public service and is one of the most likeable, friendly persons that I have worked with over the years . . . except when you try to put her in the limelight.

I tried to tell this to Jane Hittler, who is ramrodding the campaign to keep the flowers growing on the Main Street plots, when she called to say that an "adopt a tree" program has been started.

What's wanted are persons to volunteer to see that a tree they adopted has the flowers watered and the weeds pulled. (Sad to say, not all property owners along the main stem will do it.)

Hittler said that one of the first to volunteer was Evelyn MacRae. Too bad, I said, I would love to take a picture. No problem, says Hittler, who called back to say that MacRae would be in Monday morning for a picture.

Monday came and went and no MacRae appeared for a photo.

That probably only surprised Hittler. Over the years I've learned that MacRae is as shy about publicity as she is dependable about doing the work.

Her tree is in good hands even if no one will ever know who was responsible.

But shy or otherwise, more volunteers are needed. Just call Hittler at 872-3147.

Now this is a case of real apple polishing. On every teacher's desk on Teachers' Day, May 3, there was a nice shiny apple, Dick Partlo, teacher, reports.

No information about where they came from in the note that crossed my desk.

Last chance to get the latest information about the upcoming vote for 3 mills for operation of Cass City Public Schools comes your way Thursday, May 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the speech room at the high school.

The 2 additional mills and one renewal mill vote is scheduled in the annual school election June 13.

The Haire Net

The headlines said that Northwest Airlines was getting indigestion over a furor about hot dogs and ice cream.

They are not alone. It made me a little sick to my stomach, too, when I read about it.

In case you missed it this is what the furor was all about. The Teamsters Union accuses Northwest of establishing a policy that prohibits flight attendants from eating hot dogs and ice cream while in uniform because it may be sexually suggestive.

Northwest denies that there ever was such a policy and said that the whole thing is a hoax. Ken Daugherty, Teamsters representative, says that it definitely isn't a hoax and came from the Northwest Detroit Inflight, the monthly employee bulletin.

He is threatening to sue. Isn't that great? Talk about frivolous lawsuits clogging our courts. This one goes to the top of the list on all counts.

It's not that eating a hot dog or an ice cream can't be sexually suggestive. Certainly it can. It depends on who is doing the eating and the mind of the person watching. There are ladies in this world who can be sexually suggestive walking down the street.

But I digress. The question is why would the Teamsters or anyone else continue to threaten a lawsuit when the person threatened has said that the policy under question has already been abandoned, even in the now doubtful event that it ever occurred as questioned.

Let's assume that Northwest is guilty and that the alleged policy was handed down from headquarters. The question then centers around what damage the policy caused. It's hard for me to believe that flight attendants are diminished personally or financially by this eating ban. In fact it may be the opposite. When you wear a uniform everyone that wears it is painted with the same brush. What one soldier does tends to reflect on every other soldier.

On the face of it then, going to court would appear to benefit only the lawyers for the defendants and for the plaintiffs.

But on sober second thought I admit that might not be the case. There have been very strange (to put it mildly) decisions handed down by juries in damage cases. Outlandish rewards of amounts that defy any rational explanation.

These decisions have to be passed on to the consumers as insurance rates skyrocket. If your medical insurance bill comes from your pocket, you unhappily know where I'm coming from.

When you get right down to it, the only sure outcome of cases like the Northwest-Teamsters fracas is that all of the rest of us are going to be losers.

HEALTH TIPS

Ignoring high blood pressure can kill you

Uncontrolled high blood pressure can damage your body in a number of ways. If ignored, it can kill you.

"People with uncontrolled blood pressure are, for instance, seven times as likely to have a stroke as individuals with controlled blood pressure," said American Heart Association of Michigan (AHA/MI), stroke committee chairman John McGillicuddy, M.D.

The AHA/MI is emphasizing how to control high blood pressure during May, which is High Blood Pressure Month, and also is increasing its stroke prevention messages during Stroke Awareness Week May 8-14.

Although high blood pressure can not be cured, it usually can be controlled. The AHA/MI says high blood pressure is often controlled through exercise, weight, loss, reduction in sodium intake and healthy eating habits.

Maintaining a healthy diet and weight level is an important part of controlling high blood pressure. Many people who have high blood pressure are also overweight.

"If you weigh much more than your ideal body weight your doctor may tell you to cut down on calories and lose weight," said McGillicuddy.

Exercise will probably also be included in a daily program to reduce high blood pressure. Exercise can help shed extra pounds or maintain ideal weight.

"Often when people lose weight, their blood pressure drops automatically," says McGillicuddy.

Sometimes reducing sodium in the diet can help lower blood pressure. The extra fluid that sodium (salt) causes the body to retain may put an added burden on the heart and cause the blood vessels to contract or narrow more easily. A sodium-reduced diet will mean avoiding salty foods, cutting down on the amount of salt used in cooking and at the table and reading package labels regularly to learn about the sodium content of prepared foods.

When purchasing prepackaged foods, the AHA/MI says to watch for the words soda, sodium and the symbol "Na" on labels—these identify products that contain sodium.

"Reading food labels is especially helpful if you are on a sodium-controlled diet," said McGillicuddy. "You may be surprised about foods you have been purchasing that are low in calories but high in sodium."

Because most herbs and spices do not contain sodium, they can be used in place of salt as seasonings.

The following seasonings make a good substitute for salt with the listed foods:

Beef: Bay leaf, dry mustard powder, green pepper, marjoram, fresh mushrooms, nutmeg, onion, pepper, sage, thyme.

Chicken: Green paper, lemon juice, marjoram, fresh mushrooms, paprika, parsley, poultry seasoning, sage, thyme.

Fish: Bay leaf, curry powder, dry mustard powder, green pepper, lemon juice, marjoram, fresh mushrooms, paprika.

Pork: Apple, applesauce, garlic, onion, sage.

Another important eating habit to start is to eat a number of foods containing potassium and calcium, which may help lower blood pressure in some people.

Good sources of potassium include: banana, cantaloupe, potatoes, molasses, cooked dried beans or lima beans, sweet potato, fresh tomato, watermelon, peaches and unsalted peanuts.

Dairy products, of course, are good sources of calcium, but remember to choose low-fat or skim milk and low-fat cheeses to keep total fat content down.

Other good sources are broccoli, turnip greens, kale, collards, sardine and salmon with bones, and tofu.

"The important thing to remember with any change in an eating plan is that it should be prescribed by your doctor," said McGillicuddy.

Don't be frightened of high blood pressure. It can be controlled. The AHA/MI recommends having your blood pressure checked at least once a year by a qualified health professional.

For more information about diet, high blood pressure, or stroke, contact the American Heart Association of Michigan at (313) 557-9500, or any other office of the American Heart Association of Michigan, a United Way agency.

Area man sentenced for drug related conviction

A 20-year-old Cass City man was sentenced Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to one year in the county jail, with credit for time served in the county jail, with credit for time served, for a conviction of attempted delivery of LSD.

Robert A. Cook, 4442 Doerr Rd., also was ordered to serve 5 years probation, undergo substance abuse counseling, and pay $600 in fines and costs and attorney fees.

According to court records, the offense took place June 19, 1986, in Elkland Township. Cook was arrested Sept. 12, 1987. He pleaded guilty March 11.

Gagetown resident David J. Seibel, 6803 N. Colwood

Rd., was sentenced to one year in the county jail, with credit for time served and while in an in-treatment program, for a plea of guilty Feb. 22 to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense.

Seibel, 34, also was ordered to serve 5 years probation and pay a $500 fine and attorney fees.

Seibel's third offense took place Dec. 24 in Elmwood Township, court records state.

Also sentenced Friday was Robert E. Witkovsky, 20, 624 Frank St., Caro, who received a one year delayed sentence for a plea of guilty March 25 to unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle.

Witkovsky also was ordered to pay costs totaling $300 in addition to attorney fees. Restitution is to be determined.

The conviction stems from an incident Nov. 17 in Caro.

Richard R. Lawrie, 19, 502 E. Frank St., Caro, entered a plea of guilty to breaking and entering a motor vehicle, and larceny from a motor vehicle.

Sentencing for Lawrie is to be set. Bond was continued at $5,000.

The offense, which involved a 1987 vehicle and a radio converter, took place April 26 in Caro, according to court records.

CUB SCOUT OF the year Scott Iwankovitsch poses with award, presenter Evelyn MacRae (left), father, Daryl, and mother, Connie, all of Cass City.

"Cub Scout of the Year" announced

Cub Scout Pack 3594 named its "Cub Scout of the Year" during the final 1987-88 pack meeting, held Thursday evening at Cass City Intermediate School.

The award was established by the Gavel Club in memory of Ivan MacRae. Special guest Evelyn MacRae attended the meeting to tell the pack about the recipient and his accomplishments this year.

This year's award recipient, Scott Iwankovitsch, son of Daryl and Connie Iwankovitsch, has been an active member of the pack for 3 years.

Iwankovitsch has received various badges and arrows over his years as a scout, including the Arrow of Light award, the highest Cub Scout award. This award was presented by Eagle Scout Ray Stachura.

As a Cub Scout, Iwankovitsch took part in competition in district Olympics, attended Cub Day Camp, Webelos camp, a Boy Scout camp-out and Klondike Derby.

Iwankovitsch presently attends 5th grade at Cass City Intermediate School. He participates in band, basketball, Battle of the Books and Little League.

He is a member of St. Pancratius Catholic Church, where he sings in youth choir, serves as altar server and has earned the "Parvuli Dei" (children of God) Award.

Finishing off his last meeting as a Cub Scout, Iwankovitsch and another scout, Luke Taylor, were inducted into Boy Scout Troup No. 594.

Other Cub Scouts received various awards at the Thursday meeting, which included a brief slide show on the history of Cass City, presented by Cass City historian Jack Esau.

Presentations of the Wolf badge Thursday evening were made to: Matthew Miller, David Malone, Mike Proowski, Mike Rolando, Tim Sherman, Matthew Zigich, and Nathan Weippert. Bear badge recipient Richard Priestart also received his award Thursday.

Other awards went to: Kurt Iwankovitsch, Anthony Rolando, Josh Little, Benji Hennessey, Ken Roehl, and Joseph Khoury.

Inducted into the Cub pack were: Nathan Brown, Nathan Haag, Nathan Hennessey, Jason Humpert, Isaac Ponder, Matthew Ross, and Eric Zawilinski.

Robert A. Hendrick Jr., 19, entered a plea of guilty to false pretenses of $100 or less, and to possession of a short barrel shotgun.

Sentencing is to be set. Bond was continue at $5,000.

Also, bond on a bench warrant for Hendrick, 8964 Vanderbilt Rd., Fairgrove, for non-appearance was set at $15,000.

The charge involving false pretenses involves a $50 check written Dec. 1 and drawn on Akron State Bank, court records state.

In court proceedings Thursday, a jury found Reese resident Jeffrey J. Waters, 26, innocent on 3 charges of felonious assault following a 2-day trial.

Waters, 9206 Wilder Rd., had been charged with assaulting 3 persons with a rifle Dec. 8 in Denmark Township.

Shoplifting complaint reported

A 21-year-old Cass City man was arrested early Monday morning on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended.

According to the Cass City Police Department, Trevor K. Kain, 6567 Church St., was observed driving a pickup truck north on West Street when it "rolled" through a stop sign at Church Street and turned east on Church Street. Police stopped the vehicle and arrested Kain at about 2:05 a.m., reports state.

Police interrogated and released a 17-year-old area resident Friday afternoon in connection with a shoplifting complaint at Old Wood Drug, 6498 Main St., Cass City.

The name of the resident, who is suspected of taking a carton of cigarettes, was being withheld Monday pending further legal action.

A malicious destruction of property complaint involving a smashed car window was filed recently by Cass City resident Harold Whittaker, 6608 Pine St.

The vehicle's rear window apparently was shot with a BB, according to reports, which state that the incident occurred between 4 and 5 p.m. May 3.

Ugly man hospitalized after crash

An 18-year-old Ugly man was listed in "stable" condition at Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe Tuesday morning following a 2-car collision Saturday about one mile southeast of Ugly.

According to a Huron County Sheriff's Department spokesman, the 8:25 p.m. accident occurred when Harold F. Morrish, 58, of Cass City, attempted to make a left turn into a private driveway from eastbound Atwater Road and collided with an oncoming vehicle driven by Dennis M. Briolat, 18, of Ugly.

Morrish and Kenneth A. Briolat, 23, of Wixom, a passenger in Briolat's vehicle, were treated at Huron Memorial Hospital and released.

MANY HANDS WORKED together at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cass City to make a quilt for Sarah Miller, who is recovering from injuries sustained in a car accident. The quilt was prepared by children at the church, who each made a square with their handprint, and women in the Ladies Aid, who sewed and tied the gift.

Tuscola drivers set for "Rodeo"

Eighty-five professional school bus drivers representing school districts in 11 counties, including Tuscola County, will compete in a regional School Bus Rodeo at 9 a.m. Saturday at Mt. Pleasant High School, Mt. Pleasant.

The rodeo involves drivers from Arenac, Bay, Isabella, Lake, Mason, Mecosta, Midland, Montcalm, Osceola, Saginaw and Tuscola Counties and is one of 15 regional competitions scheduled through June 4.

Nearly 700 school bus drivers will compete this spring. The top 3 from each regional rodeo will advance to the 11th annual state finals June 22 in Eaton Rapids.

AAA Michigan and the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation (MAPT) have sponsored the competition since 1978. More than 5,500 drivers have competed in the program.

"Besides encouraging the drivers to improve their skills, the rodeos also provide an opportunity to recognize the many safety-minded bus drivers," Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic manager, remarked.

"This year's competition will be even tougher with the inclusion of a new event, safe school curb parking." Participants must operate a standard school bus in narrow areas, back into a stall and perform other maneuvers requiring judgment of clearance and distance. They are also tested on verbal, written and behind-the-wheel knowledge of safety regulations.

The rodeo competition concludes with an awards ceremony.

Traube named Scholastic All-American

Cass City Intermediate School eighth grader Scott Traube has been named a Scholastic All-American by the National Secondary Education Council.

The NSEC has established the Scholastic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The scholars, selected by secondary school instructors, counselors or other qualified sponsors, must earn a minimum 3.3 grade point average.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the Scholastic All-American Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the National Secondary Education Council, said.

Traube, who was nominated for the honor by intermediate school counselor R.B. Partlo and science teacher James Mastie, is the son of John and Vija Traube. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H. Traube and Konstance Tirzmalis, all of Marshalltown, Iowa.

New books at the library

THE FIFTH CHILD by Doris Lessing (fiction). Mildly eccentric English couple Harriet and David Lovatt are the contented parents of 4 healthy children. Suddenly, their peace is forever shattered by their fifth child, Ben, a fiercely malevolent goblin-child with a penchant for violence. It is suggested that Ben is a throwback to earlier, precivilized time, that he represents a random settling of Neanderthal-like genes that all humans carry. Only Harriet tries to civilize the boy, and he gradually learns to function on a primitive level and even collects a band of similar outcasts about him. Unwanted, they leave their homes to wander England like modern-day troglodytes. Society's complicity with their fate is a reflection of its callousness.

TELL IT TO THE KING by Larry King (non-fiction). "The King" was a Dodgers-worshipping kid from Brooklyn who went on to star in his own TV and radio call-in talk show. In this capacity he has had the opportunity to chat with baseball greats Jackie Robinson, Stan Musial and Joe DiMaggio, as well as with notables of stage, screen, politics, finance, law, organized crime, literature, etc. - thousands of names spanning the world of celebrity. King attributes his success to the curiosity he expresses in an interview situation: "What made you decide to...?" From more than 30 years' accumulation of interviews, the authors here assemble a host of anecdotes - illuminating, embarrassing, hilarious, poignant - involving the likes of Lenny Bruce, Don Rickles, John F. Kennedy, Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, Jacqueline Susann and Judith Krantz ("A little mouse"). King retains a boyish admiration for an earlier broadcaster, his acknowledged mentor Arthur Godfrey, about whom he says, "The best thing he did was that he did himself."

BILLAROOBY by Jim Anderson (fiction). Lindsay Armstrong, aged 11, relates events generated by his parents, Jack and Lillian, who move the family from England to Billaroooby, a remote community in the outback. Although the reason for emigrating is never mentioned to the boy, Lindsay suspects it was an unspeakable act in his father's past. Jack is crude, a hard drinker, and Lindsay avoids him. He elects as a hero, instead, a Japanese soldier whom he glimpses during the prisoner's brief escape from a nearby camp. Empathy between the boy and the prisoner strengthens as he secretly visits the encampment and sees them brutally treated. "Tensions in the community are exacerbated by a devastating drought and by incitements to riot when Jack and fellow racists make Billaroooby a war zone."

O-G valedictorian earns scholarship

Owen-Gage High School senior Jill A. Janke has been awarded the prestigious Ferris Honor Scholarship.

She will receive a $750 renewable scholarship starting in the 1988-89 academic year. She will be awarded a certificate at an academic awards assembly slated for May 16.

Janke competed against some 300 applicants with cumulative grade point averages of at least 3.25. Final selection was made on the basis of an index score which combined the American College Testing composite score and a student's cumulative grade point average.

Janke, the 1988 valedictorian at Owen-Gage, is the daughter of Edward and Norma Janke, 3810 S. Risky Rd., Sebawaing.

Area residents cautioned to check bins

Area residents are being cautioned to check their home stored commodities as the weather warms up.

Quite often, insects will become active and can cause hundreds of dollars worth of damage, Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel explained, adding that insects, along with temperature changes and moisture will cause a commodity to deteriorate at a very rapid pace.

"If you find insect activity, be sure to identify the problem and treat it immediately. Check your bins often!" Bortel said.

Vassar to host students at Young Author Day

Nearly 50 Cass City School elementary and intermediate students were honored recently for books they wrote during "Young Author Days."

Activities April 28 and 29 included a visit by professional storyteller Pamela Vanderploeg, Grand Haven, who publishes the "Great Lakes Storytellers Gazette." Her visit was partially funded by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Humanities.

Also, each of the elementary grade classes followed this year's Young Author Day theme, "International Day," by choosing a country to study and then taking part in a day featuring crafts, food and costumes related to the country being studied.

Of the 47 students honored last week, 20 will represent Cass City Schools at the Thumb Area Young Author Day Saturday in Vassar. Among those pupils are Campbell Elementary students Amanda Hudson, Andrea Cooper, Cori Britt, Rebecca Bennett, Tim Marker, Sam Hobbs and Doug Ball; Deford Elementary students Lisa Deering, Jennifer Churchill and Amanda Smith, and Evergreen Elementary students Lisa Wallace, Amy Burns and Michelle Brown.

Charity Gaszczynski, Natalie Ponder, Corey Uffig, Blake Hall, Heather Dunn, Brenda Lounsbury, Nicky Bliss, Amy Schelke, Jill Wright, Mike Peruski, Shawna Long, Anthony Rolando, Craig Swiderski, Jonathan Fobear, Ben Reinhold, Lindsay Maharg, Tim Micklash, Suzanne Smolkiewicz, David Hobbs and Rose Hoelzle.

Evergreen Elementary-- Billi Jo Hawley, Steven Wren, Aaron Morell, Rebecca Smutek and James Matthews.

Other students honored were: Campbell Elementary--

Deford Elementary-- Melissa Veldman.

Letter to the editor

Teach them not to drink, says reader

Dear Editor:

I would like to commend those students of Cass City High School who are trying to encourage their classmates not to drink and drive during the graduation season. However, I think I have a better idea. It can be expressed by the following story.

A woman asked her elderly father why he had never gotten into the habit of drinking alcoholic beverages. Thinking she knew the answer, she said, "Could it be that you didn't like them?" Her father's response was quite surprising. "No," he said, "the reason I didn't drink them was not because I didn't like them, but because I did." Recognizing that alcohol appealed to him, and mindful of the danger and heartache awaiting those who are victimized by it, he shunned it like poison.

Many drinkers have discovered too late, and to their ruin, that liquor has a way of getting such a firm grip on its victims that they find it impossible to escape its deadly clutches. It becomes their master, it dominates their lives, controls their actions, and destroys their careers. It ends relationships, produces heartache, grief, and tears and even kills. The consequences of enslavement to alcohol are tragic beyond belief.

I graduated from Cass City High School in 1930. I have never even once used alcohol as a beverage - neither has my wife. We have raised a son and a daughter, both married to non-drinkers, and they are raising their children in alcohol-free homes. It can be done.

AROUND THE FARM

Read the label carefully

By Bill Bortel

Reading the pesticide container label and carefully following the directions are the first steps in making a safe application.

"The label not only gives directions for mixing and applying the pesticide, it also tells farmers how to protect themselves from accidental exposure," Howard Doss, Michigan State University Extension agricultural safety specialist, says. "Wearing the right kind of clothing can help to reduce exposure to pesticides."

Studies show that most skin exposures to pesticides come through the hands. Once the skin is exposed, the chemicals can enter the bloodstream.

Farmers should wear unlined, chemical-resistant gloves when working with any agricultural chemical. Gloves long enough to cover at least part of the operator's forearms reduce the potential for skin exposure to chemicals by 95 percent.

Turn up the cuffs of the gloves to catch drips. Always wear a long-sleeved shirt with the sleeves tucked inside the gloves.

Operators need to take care when removing gloves so they don't contaminate their hands by touching the outside of the gloves. Wash hands thoroughly after removing the gloves.

Operators can reduce the risk of pesticide poisoning by wearing clean clothes daily.

Farmers who use diazinon, Guthrion, malathion or other organophosphate insecticides should have a blood cholinesterase level test before working with the pesticides. Organophosphate compounds, which are related to nerve gases, are toxic because they interfere with cholinesterase enzymes, which control nerve impulse transmission. Farmers who use such pesticides regularly should have a cholinesterase test at least every 2 weeks during the season to detect overexposure so corrective measures can be taken before the situation becomes dangerous.

Initial symptoms may include headaches, weakness, blurred vision, perspiration and nausea.

Minimizing exposure to pesticides will reduce the risk of accidental poisoning. Obviously, a chemical that kills insects has the potential to have a detrimental effect on humans.

Chorus wins Novice award

The Lake Huron Chorus recently returned from a weekend of choral competition in London, Ontario, where they were awarded the Novice Chorus Award.

The award is given only to newly-formed choruses during their first 2 participations in competition, and only if enough judging points are earned in the categories of music, sound, expression and showmanship.

Bev Houghton of Cass City and Carol Bietz of Gageton are 2 area members who attended the competition with the chorus.

This was the chorus' second competition (having competed last year in Flint under the direction of Laurie Easton of Bay City). However, this year the chorus was under the direction of Marian Rathje and Peg Hartman of Pigeon.

A total of 23 choruses competed from the Region 2 area which encompasses part of Michigan and Ontario, and size ranged from 16 participating singers to choruses with as many as 112 participating singers.

Obituaries

L.J. Dillon

L.J. Dillon, 61, of Unionville, died Thursday at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw following a brief illness.

Born April 17, 1927, in Ralston, Wash., Dillon moved to Tuscola County with his parents, Leland and Wilma Fifield Dillon, when he was a young boy.

Dillon married Delphine Stock Sept. 4, 1948, in Gageton, where the couple made their home.

Dillon was a member of St. Pancratius Catholic Church in Cass City. He held membership and the past position of Grand Knight with the Caro Knights of Columbus Council No. 3224. He also served with the United States Army in Europe.

Surviving are his wife, Delphine; 3 sons, Stephen Dillon, Dean Dillon, both of Irving, Texas, and Dennis Dillon of Unionville; one daughter, Mrs. Thomas (Kay) Guinther of Cass City; 5 grandchildren, Jennifer, Sheena, and Chris, of Irving, Texas, and Kerry and Amanda of Cass City. Dillon was preceded in death by one son, Terry Dillon, Nov. 23, 1986.

A Rosary was recited by the Knights of Columbus Friday evening at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at St. Pancratius. The Rev. Julius Spleet, pastor, officiated.

Interment was in St. Agatha Cemetery, Gageton.

Martha Lubaczewski

Mrs. Martha Lubaczewski, 97, of Cass City died at Provincial House Tuesday, May 3, after a lengthy illness.

She was born Jan. 5, 1891, in Poland, the daughter of Anthony and Anastasa (Lubanski) Teodorski and came to New York in 1911. She was married to Frank Lubaczewski in Poland in 1911. They lived in Detroit and she made her home in Gageton for 67 years before coming to Cass City.

She was a member of St. Pancratius Catholic Church of Cass City.

Surviving are 3 sons, Casimer Lubaczewski of Cass City, with whom she made her home, Walter Lubaczewski of Gageton and Sylvester Lubaczewski of Caro; 9 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. Her husband and 2 sons died previously.

Funeral services were held Saturday at St. Pancratius Catholic Church, Cass City, with Father Julius Spleet, pastor, officiating.

Interment was in Elkland Cemetery. Little's Funeral Home handled arrangements.

Sylvester Pinkoski

Sylvester Pinkoski, 75, of Gageton died Friday, May 6, at the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility following a 2-month illness.

He was born June 2, 1912, in Port Austin, the son of Herman and Lucinda (Moots) Pinkoski.

He was a Gageton area resident for 35 years. Pinkoski married Loretta Champagne May 12, 1936, in Pigeon. His wife died in 1976.

He was a member of St. Agatha Catholic Church, Gageton. Pinkoski retired from the Caro Regional Center in 1976 and was an interior decorator.

Surviving are 5 children, Mrs. Morris (Cecelia) Creason of Memphis, MI, Kenneth Pinkoski of Mantion, Mrs. Terry (Sandy) Stone of Pekin, Ill., Terry Pinkoski of Gageton and David Pinkoski of Detroit; 16 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren, and one brother, Leo Pinkoski of Port Austin.

Preceding him in death were 2 brothers, Ray and John, and 2 sisters, Mary and Alice.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at St. Agatha Church with Fr. Julius Spleet and Sister Nancy Ayotte officiating. Burial was in St. Agatha Cemetery.

Collon Funeral Home, Caro, handled arrangements.

Clare Root

Clare Root, 91, of Caro died Thursday, May 5, at the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility after a lengthy illness.

Born March 18, 1897, in Cass City, he was the son of Claude and Almira (White) Root.

He was a lifelong resident of the Deford and Caro areas.

Root married Grace Hurd May 16, 1962, in Cass City.

He was a member of the Caro Senior Citizens Group and was a retired farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Grace; one daughter, Mrs. Frank (Lois) Nelson of Santa Clara, Calif.; one son, Carmen W. Root of Cupertino, Calif.; 5 grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren.

Twin brothers preceded him in death.

Funeral services were scheduled Tuesday at Collon Funeral Home, Caro, with Ron Ledford officiating.

Burial was in the Novesta Township Cemetery.

W. Pettinger top graduate

Seaman Wayne Pettinger has graduated with honors from an advanced electrician course at the Electronics and Gunnery School at Great Lakes Naval Base, Ill.

A 1979 Ubyly High School graduate, Pettinger received a plaque for graduating at the top of his class.

Wayne Pettinger

The 26-year-old was transferred and promoted to Petty Officer Third Class in January, when he reported to his new post at Mayport Naval Base, Fla. There he serves aboard the USS Samson, a DDG-10 destroyer.

When he's not aboard ship, Pettinger resides on base with his wife, Maxine. He is the son of Harold and Velda Pettinger of Ubyly.

Reil is national award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Lyle J. Reil, an eighth grader at Cass City Intermediate School, has been named a United States National Award winner in mathematics.

The award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain, according to academy officials, who note that the academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American high school students.

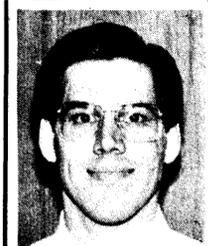

Reil's name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

"Recognizing our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certain United States Achievement Academy Award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the academy, remarked.

BIFOCALS

The attitude towards bifocals is changing rapidly. At one time, many people disliked the idea of bifocals because they felt they'd look "old." Today, even children are fitted with bifocals to correct their distance vision and reduce near-seeing stress that often comes with increased reading.

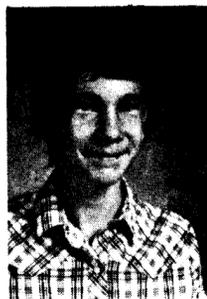

The standard bifocal has one segment for correcting distance vision and another for correcting near vision. The size of the segments depend on the type of lifestyle and work the patient does.

Many "anti-bifocal diehards" can now choose progressive lenses. These have no lines to differentiate between the distance and near segments, but gradually change their power as the lens descends from top to bottom. A small channel in the center of the lens provides intermediate-distance correction for the patient, too.

After your needs have been determined through a thorough examination, discuss whether bifocals or progressive lenses are best for you.

Grandfathers "adopted" at Cass City Provincial House

A small Tiger Cub Scout pack from the Kingston area last February became the first boy scouting group to "adopt" grandfathers at Provincial House in Cass City.

Since that time, the 5 first graders who make up the pack have nurtured their newfound friendships.

Their goal is to replace loneliness with friendship. "We did not want this to be a one-time deal," Patti Rodenbo said of the grandparent adoptions. Rodenbo, the mother of a Tiger Cub Scout and one of several parents who work with the pack, added, "With a grandmother in Provincial House, I understand how the (residents) feel. They really look forward to the boys coming."

"The relationships that the boys have developed with the grandfathers is so heartwarming. The boys really fill a void in their lives," she observed.

The young scouts have been visiting their adopted grandfathers once or twice a month.

Last Wednesday, each of the scouts paired up with a grandfather to plant pine trees at the nursing home. It wasn't the first time the boys worked together with their grandfathers on a project. Earlier this year they built bird houses together.

In April, the scouts made Easter eggs out of papier mache, and homemade Easter bunny baskets, which were filled with goodies for the grandfathers.

Other pack meetings have been spent working on crafts for, and visiting with the Provincial House residents.

"We are hoping to continue with our grandfathers on through the summer and into next year, when the boys become Wolves—the next step in Cub Scouts," Rodenbo said.

"I'd really love to see more boys and parents get involved in Kingston's Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts. I think (Cubmaster) Debbie Anger has done a great job," she remarked, adding that interested boys and parents can get more information about the cub scout program by calling Anger at 683-2033.

Mary Vatter, activity director at Provincial House, said groups such as the scouts are very important to Provincial House residents.

"I really think this is going to be a good group," she said of the Kingston scouts, adding that the scouts are among several youth groups, including some 100 Girl Scouts and a group from the Deford Community Church Academy, that have followed through in terms of maintaining contact with their adopted grandparents.

"The residents receive mail from them—that's a big deal. It's just a real good program," Vatter commented. "I guess you could say children are one of the things the residents enjoy the most."

Salt everywhere

Salt used in its pure form and in many chemicals derived from it, directly affects almost all major industries. There's salt in shoe leather, in the dye of a hat and tons go into the production of paper.

VILLAGE OF GAGETOWN
Gagetown, Michigan 48735

Sampling by the Michigan Department of Public Health has confirmed the presence of lead in drinking water from certain piping systems where the water has remained stagnant for a period of time. Levels in excess of the current drinking water standard (50 parts per billion) have been detected. Laboratory testing has shown that the principal sources of lead are lead piping and lead based solders and fluxes used to join copper piping. Based on these results and those from other studies, the Michigan Department of Labor, Bureau of Construction Codes and the Michigan Department of Public Health have supported legislation which prohibits the use of lead based solders and fluxes in potable water piping systems. The plumbing industry and homeowners who may construct potable drinking water piping systems must no longer use lead based solders and fluxes for joining copper piping. Other solder materials or joining methods are available and must be used. Lead piping has not been allowed for new installations for about the last ten years. Building copper piping water systems constructed to date likely contain lead based solder and flux.

Water is the universal solvent and even relatively stable water when stagnant for a period of even a few hours in contact with lead solder and flux can result in a significant concentration of lead in the water. The health department is recommending that those piping systems in which the water has remained stagnant overnight or for longer periods be flushed for several minutes prior to using the water for drinking or cooking purposes. This typically has been found to satisfactorily reduce the level of lead and other metals that may concentrate in the water within the building's piping system.

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

"Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes,
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

Besides lead in water from certain piping systems, there are other exposure pathways to lead including:

- air - from industrial discharges, automobile exhaust
- food - from airborne deposition of lead on crops, or lead solder seams in some food containers
- nonfood items - lead based paint, dirt, solder, or any object containing lead

It should be noted that the major source of lead exposure and lead poisoning in the United States is due to children consuming lead based paint chips.

People who may have concerns about the concentration of lead from their building or household piping are advised to contact a reputable private laboratory for a water analysis. Others who may have specific concerns relative to any possible health effects are urged to contact their physician.

For more information about this matter, please contact your water department, JOHN TENZLER at (517) 665-9960.

Ugly 4-H'ers win at Spring Achievement

Several Ugly area 4-H members were among the winners at 4-H Spring Achievement Day, held April 25 at Bad Axe Intermediate School, Bad Axe.

The achievement event involved 4-H members who have completed projects in clothing, crocheting, sewing for fun, "buymanship" and crafts.

Members with personal appearance projects took part in an evaluation session, where they discussed their project progress and concerns with 4-H leaders. Following the session, members participated in a fashion show where style revue winners and honor roll winners were chosen on the basis of the appropriateness of the garment, style, modeling ability and general appearance of the garment and member.

The Ugly area winners: In the clothing category, Deanna Smalley and Tracy Robinson netted junior teen-style revue honors; and Michelle Smigielski was a senior teen winner.

In the crocheting event, the young teen-style revue winners were Jamie Bukoski and Jolene Rumpitz, while Bethany Brahmaer, was named to the honor roll. Also, Nichole Bailey was the junior teen winner, and Jamie and Michelle Pivalowski were the senior teen winners.

Rhonda Heleski was a young teen winner in the crocheting-for-fun (nonclothing items) category, while Deanna Smalley and Sue Peruski received honors as junior teens.

In the sewing-for-fun event, Jolene Rumpitz earned honor roll status as a young teen, while Brooke Smalley was a junior teen winner, Sue Peruski was named to the honor roll as a junior teen, and Amy Glaza was a senior teen winner.

Amy Glaza was a senior teen winner and Michelle Smigielski was named to the honor roll in a new category of competition this year—"buymanship." Participants, in this event, purchase an outfit, including accessories, valued under $100.

Walker receives army medal

Spec. 4 Margaret C. Walker, daughter of Robert E. Bootz, 4463 Seeger St., Cass City, has been decorated with the Army Commendation Medal in West Germany.

Margaret C. Walker

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Walker is an executive administrative assistant with the 32nd Signal Battalion. She is a 1984 graduate of Alma High School.

Your neighbor says Recalling earlier graduation days

The rejoicing of area high school seniors is nearly certain to grow as spring, and their high school years draw to a close.

Graduation for many students is a time of celebration, reflection and uncertainty.

It's also a time for past graduates to recall their years in school—what it was like to leave the safe environment of a school building and enter the "real world."

The education system has changed quite a bit over the past few decades, according to your neighbor, 80-year-old Decker area resident Charles Peters, who resides at 3131 N. VanDyke Rd.

"I walked 2 miles each day" to Argyle School, located about 1/2 mile north of Argyle, he remarked. "I came out with an eighth grade education, (and) I got my diploma, too. I became a marine engineer and worked on the lakes and the ocean."

Report 2 car-deer accidents

Two car-deer accidents involving Cass City area residents were recently reported to the state police post in Caro.

Kelly M. Dillon, 6172 Lakeside Drive, Cass City, told troopers she was southbound on Doerr Road south of Schell Street in Novesta Township Thursday when her vehicle struck a deer. Reports state Dillon's vehicle left the roadway in an unsuccessful attempt to miss the animal.

Damage in the 10:45 p.m. mishap was light, reports state.

Minor damage also was reported in a mishap Saturday in Elmwood Township. Blaise M. Posluszny, 6280 Deckerville Rd., Deford, reported hitting a deer at 9:15 p.m. while driving north on M-53 about one mile south of Deckerville Road.

Peters says he often reminisces about those days. There was a total of 60 to 70 kids in grades one through eight at the school, all under the supervision of one teacher, he noted. About 10 or 12 graduated the same year he did, in 1924.

Peters, who says he believes many kids go to school today "just for fun," added that he believes schools should return to an emphasis on the "basics" in education. "I blame the state today for sticking their noses in the education system. They have so many classes that are worthless.

Peters, who was born in 1907, was one of 8 children born to the late Jacob and Amelia Peters at their Argyle area farm. His only sister, Maude Palmer, resides in Cass City.

After winning first 7

Peck hands O-G first setback, 9-2

The Owen-Gage softball team dropped its first game of the year Thursday when they split a home twin bill with the Peck Pirates. The Bulldogs, still in the thick of the North Central Thumb League title chase, boast a lofty 7-1 record.

Coach Judy Campbell's troops rode the strong arm of Angie Bolzman in the opener Thursday to a 4-2 triumph.

Bolzman, who got off to a shaky start, allowed both Pirate runs to cross the plate in the first inning. From there she buckled down and held the Pirate offense at bay the rest of the contest.

Not only did Bolzman keep the Pirates from scoring another run, she held the visitors hitless after the opening stanza en route to tossing a 2 hitter.

Bolzman was the recipient of some splendid defense as her supporting cast came up with a fine defensive effort while committing only 2 miscues on the afternoon.

Char Durand was on the mound for the Pirates and was handed the loss. Durand gave up one run in the Bulldog first and 2 more in the second inning. The Bulldogs added an insurance run in their half of the fourth.

Leading the Bulldog attack, which picked up 6 hits, was shortstop Susie Salcido. Salcido collected 2 singles in 3 trips to the plate, knocking in 2 Bulldog runs.

The same 2 pitchers went at it again in the nightcap, but this time Durand bested Bolzman 9-2 giving the Bulldogs their only loss of the season.

The Pirates led this one from start to finish. Picking up 2 runs in the first, the Pirates added another run in the second to go along with a big 3rd inning when they scored 4 times.

And although the Bulldogs were held to just 4 hits, 2 of them doubles off Salcido's bat, it was their defense which threw them from the unbeaten ranks.

In a horrendous showing the Bulldogs' diamond 9 committed 8 errors in their worst defense struggle of the year.

NORTH HURON

The Bulldog bats were booming Monday, May 2, when they traveled to North Huron to win their 5th and 6th games of the year in as many tries.

The Bulldogs scored 15 runs on an 11 hit attack in the opener to give Owen-Gage pitcher Angie Bolzman the win. Shelli Tibbets suffered the loss for North Huron.

Bolzman helped her own cause at the plate, accounting for 5 of the Bulldog runs with 2 doubles and a single in 4 trips to the plate. Tonya Haldane and Dawn Holland also contributed to the Bulldog victory, which ended 15-5, adding 2 singles apiece.

The Bulldogs scored 5 times in the top of the 6th in the nightcap to post a wild one run win, 19-18.

Susie Salcido got credit for the win as she bested Rhonda Errer of North Huron.

The Bulldogs, who committed 5 errors, scored in every inning but the 2nd but trailed 14-15 entering their final at bats when they scored 5 times on 4 hits.

Leading the hit parade was Salcido who had 7 RBIs on 2 singles and a home run. Patti Ondrajka also had a banner day at the plate going 2 for 3 and adding 3 RBIs.

Two information seminars announced

There is relatively little focus in society on Parkinson's disease and Huntington's disease, 2 conditions which may be accompanied by dementia.

To help fill this gap, Valley Area Agency on Aging is sponsoring 2 community information seminars open to the general public.

The first seminar will be held May 20 at McLaren General Hospital's auditorium in Flint. A duplicate seminar will be held June 9 at the Tuscola Area Skills Center in Caro. Each seminar will run from 1 to 4 p.m.

More information is available by calling the Valley Area Agency on Aging at (313) 239-7671.

Delegate deadline May 24

Sanilac County Clerk Deleene Schultheiss reports that legislation has been enacted in Michigan that changes the provisions of the Michigan election law governing the election of precinct delegates.

Under House Bill 4090 a precinct delegate petition is now required to contain only 3 valid signatures of registered voters from the precinct of a delegate candidate. Formerly, a petition for a precinct delegate had to have 15 valid signatures. As before, the delegate petitions can have up to 20 signatures.

Delegate petitions must be filed in the Sanilac County Clerk's Office, Sandusky, by 4 p.m. May 24 in order to have their names printed on the ballots for the Aug. 2 primary election. Petition forms are available in the county clerk's office.

The number of delegates to be elected from each of the 43 precincts in Sanilac County varies from one to 16 as determined by the local Democratic and Republican parties. The Democratic party has a total of 213 delegates to be elected, and the Republican party has a total of 143 delegates to be elected. Schultheiss says this legislation will encourage more people to become involved in the precinct delegate election process by making it easier to have their names placed on the ballot.

Vassar woman arraigned

A 29-year-old Vassar woman was arraigned in Tuscola County District Court recently on 2 charges of writing no account checks. Bond for Corrine D. Somers, 876 E. Huron Avenue, has been set at $2,000 for each charge. A preliminary examination is scheduled for 9 a.m. May 18.

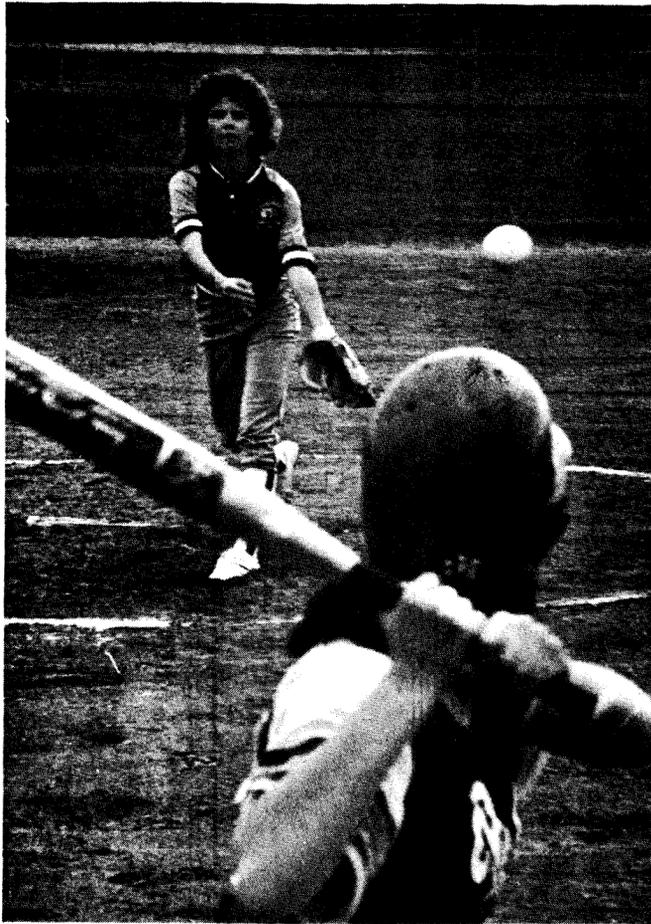

According to court records, Somers is charged with writing 2 checks to be covered by funds at Kingston State Bank, where she has no accounts. The checks, one for $80 dated March 30 and another for $95 dated April 1, were written payable to Uncle Ray's IGA in Vassar.

New homes at state park

Many new homes have recently appeared within the boundaries of Port Crescent State Park. "Yes," admitted Roy Elie, Park Manager, "we have several communities in different areas of the park. This includes woodland, meadow, and waterfront locations."

However, the occupants of these homes will not be of the human variety, for these "homes" are nesting boxes and platforms being provided by the Huron Audubon Club for use by several uncommon and threatened species of birds which breed in this region.

Because of habitat destruction and especially the clearing of standing dead wood, cavity-nesting birds' numbers have drastically declined. The "artificial" nesting cavities provide much-needed nesting opportunities. Boxes and platforms have been placed in suitable locations to provide nesting places for several species of owls, wood ducks, bluebirds, and the osprey, a raptor species of "threatened" by the Michigan DNR.

OWEN-GAGE'S Angie Bolzman displays the form which led the Bulldogs to a 4-2 victory Thursday against Peck. Bolzman hurled a 2 hitter against the Pirates.

Girls finish 2nd

Vikings whip O-G thinclad teams

The Owen-Gage track teams competed in their 2nd North Central Thumb League meet Tuesday, May 3 and were soundly beaten by host Akron-Fairgrove. In the girls' competition Akron-Fairgrove pulled down 15 first place finishes on its way to gathering 258.5 points.

Following the Vikings were Owen-Gage with 52 points, Flint Holy Rosary, 47.5, Caseville-32, Kingston-27 and Port Hope with 26 points.

The Bulldog girls were led by 32nd place finishers. Susie Salcido took second in the discus with a toss of 94' 4". Dawn Dorsch finished 2nd with a leap of 13' 10" in the long jump, while Andrea Mandich took second in the 200 meter dash with a time of 31.09.

In the boys' competition Akron-Fairgrove posted 235 points while capturing 11 first place finishes. They were followed by Kingston with 96 points, Flint Holy Rosary-91, Owen-Gage-47, Port Hope-40 and Caseville-18 points.

The Bulldogs recorded one first place finish, it was in the 100 meter dash where Andre Damm posted a time of 12.10.

O-G plans 2 millage meetings

Two millage informational meetings were scheduled by the Owen-Gage Board of Education Monday night.

The first session is slated for 7:30 p.m. May 31 in the Gageton Elementary School cafeteria, and the second will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 2 in the Owendale High School library.

The board last month approved asking voters for renewal of 15.5 mills for 2 years at the annual school election, set for June 13. If approved, the district would again levy a total of 41 mills for operations, the maximum amount allowed by law.

Minor damage reported

Minor damage was reported in 2 vehicle accidents involving parked cars recently in Cass City.

According to reports filed at the Cass City Police Department, a vehicle driven by David L. Peruski, 4163 Maple St., Cass City, backed from a driveway at the same address into a parked vehicle Sunday.

The parked vehicle is owned by Michael R. Gaszczyński.

A similar accident was reported Saturday on Main Street west of Leach Street. Reports state that a vehicle driven by Roger H. Gainforth, 625 Eighth St., Sebawaing, backed into a parked vehicle owned by Clare A. Schuette, 8374 Van-Dyke Rd., Cass City.

Kurt Proctor gets fellowship

The American Foundation for Pharmaceutical Education has awarded former Cass City resident, Kurt Proctor, the 1988 Pfizer Foundation-APPE Pharmacy Administration/Pharmaceutical Marketing Fellowship.

Kurt Proctor

APPE fellowships are awarded to students currently enrolled in graduate programs, administered by or affiliated with a College of Pharmacy, leading to a Ph.D. degree in the pharmaceutical sciences.

Proctor is a doctoral candidate studying pharmacy administration at the University of Texas at Austin. He is currently working on his dissertation entitled, "The Effect of the Drug Price Competition and Patent-Term Restoration Act of 1984 on Stock Returns of Research-Based and Generic Pharmaceutical Manufacturers."

After receiving his bachelor of science degree in Pharmacy from Ferris State University in 1984, Proctor went on to earn a master of science degree in Pharmacy at the University of Texas in May 1987. A 1979 graduate of Cass City High School, he is the son of Tom and Elaine Proctor of Cass City.

Retirees hold meet

The Cass City Retired Persons met April 14 at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Hall with 14 members present.

Following the noon potluck dinner, Jane Mitchell showed a film on stress and high blood pressure.

The next meeting will be May 12.

Memorial

IN MEMORIAM - Thoughts of you are with us. Eleven years have not dimmed our memory of your kind and loving ways. The Mabel Stine family. 13-5-11-1

Card of Thanks

I WOULD LIKE to thank everyone for their flowers, prayers, cards, concerns, food brought in and everything that was done for my family and me while I was in the hospital and at home recuperating. Dr. Jeung, the nurses, and everyone in the hospital were very kind. Nancy Ruggles. 13-5-11-1

Card of Thanks

I WOULD LIKE to thank my relatives and friends for all their prayers and cards, and those who visited me at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw. And thanks to Pastor Wood for his prayers and visits. Ruby Thorne. 13-5-4-2

DEAR FRIENDS - I wish to thank you during my long stay in the hospital, for all your flowers, cards, visits, prayers and good wishes. I wish to especially thank Rev. Patton, Father Spleet and Rev. Dodson for their calls and prayers, Agnes Milligan, Catherine Mac-Gillvray and Betty Greenleaf for all they did for me. God bless all of you with His richest blessings. Esther McCullough. 13-5-11-1

WE WISH TO express our sincere thanks and gratitude to neighbors, friends and relatives for prayers on our behalf; also for flowers, food, cards and other expressions of sympathy in the loss of our beloved husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather, Virgil VanNorman. A special thanks to Deford Community Church ladies for the lovely meal. Special thanks to Pastor Gerald Rodgers for his words of comfort and to Dr. G.G. Waun for his remarks and to Roger Little for his help and direction. God bless all of you. The Virgil VanNorman family. 13-5-11-1

I WANT TO thank all of the friends, relatives and neighbors for candy, plants, flowers, food and beautiful cards sent me while I was in the hospital and recuperating after surgery. Special thanks to Rev. and Mrs. Bennett and Elder Eric Richards for their inspirational visits. I couldn't have made it without your prayers. Also, a sincere thank you to the doctors, nurses and staff of Huron Memorial Hospital for their fine care. Bernadine Good. 13-5-11-1

THE FAMILY of Adolph Mozdzen would like to thank Father James Falsey and Rev. Gerald Rodgers for their comforting words. Thanks to the Knights of Columbus and the VFW of Caro for their services. Special thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors for mass cards, flowers, donations and good food. Also the ladies of St. Michael Altar Society for the lovely luncheon. Your acts of kindness will never be forgotten. God bless you all. 13-5-11-1

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

It was a shocking and tragic day in the family we'll call the Bakers. Charley, the 94-year-old father got up in the middle of dinner to go to the bathroom. It was only a few steps away so he didn't bother to use his walker. That was the big mistake, and the first of many dominoes to topple.

He lurched against a full-length mirror in the dining room, hitting it so hard the mirror fell from the wall, hitting Charley and knocking him into the table. From there he fell to the floor, along with all the dishes.

He lay stunned and lifeless. His wife screamed and ran for the phone to call their son, their only kin in south Florida.

Next she called the emergency number 911.

Then she keeled over onto the kitchen table. It was a heart attack.

The paramedics, bless them, got there quickly. The son rushed to the scene. There was so much confusion in the little house, that the paramedics told the son Jim to stay outside. He looked through the window and saw his father still on the floor, motionless, ashen, and with his eyes wide open, and apparently unconscious.

Two ambulances came and took the father and mother to the hospital. There, doctors found Charley had broken his "good" hip. The mother was put into Intensive Care for her heart attack.

Next day, surgeons gave Charley a new hip. A few days later he was put into a nursing home. Some days he was lucid and some days he wasn't. The outlook was dim, and doctors thought it doubtful he would get better, although he could linger a long time.

Charley's wife became paranoid and accused the son and others of trying to rob her.

As I write this, the son, Jim, is on his way to get his father out of the nursing home and bring him to his (Jim's) own home.

The troubles have just begun. The father, still mentally disturbed, can't even sign his name. He does have some money in a checking account, but it's in his name only.

There's also some cash in several other banks, thinks the son, but he isn't sure which of the dozens in this part of Florida.

Meanwhile, hospital bills, nursing home bills, the doctors' bills have piled up.

How will they get paid? The son doesn't have a power of attorney. The mother is antagonistic and mentally disturbed. The father is in-and-out of the real world. There is no "living trust," which usually provides for the trustee to step in and run things in a case like this.

If the health of these 2 very old people doesn't improve, then someone will have to go to court and be named a guardian. That process is costly and it's slow. Even after the guardianship is established, there are reports to make regularly to the court. If real estate has to be sold that's more red tape and expense.

It's an awful mess. It's sad and it's frustrating, but the financial problems could have been avoided. Two ways:

1. If a living trust had been in effect, then the trustee could take over, pay the bills, sell real estate, make investments, dispose of a car, for example, if it could no longer be used.

2. If the couple didn't want to go the living trust route and have a trustee who could act when they became incompetent, there was still a way to enable kinfolks to tend to their affairs. They call it a Durable Power of Attorney. It's quite simple, but it should be done by a lawyer, and it should specify it will continue in effect if the one granting it becomes incompetent. It should also satisfy the bank, when access to the grantor's funds becomes necessary.

There are some other provisions a power of attorney ought to have, so a lawyer is necessary. A blank form bought at the drug store might work, and it might not. I know that banks are skeptical of them.

With the exception of an otherwise smart Palm Beach doctor, I don't know of anyone who doesn't have at least a will and/or a living trust. Trouble with just a will is that it doesn't go into effect until death. The mess that this family I've described is in, is compounded because there is no way the son Jim can take over and manage. No way, except becoming a court-appointed guardian. It is quite possible this would take months, and also quite possible both the father and mother would be dead by that time.

I was given a power of attorney once by an old friend who was terminally ill. A nurse witnessed it, and the doctor wrote a letter that the patient was mentally competent.

The power of attorney enabled me to get out her safety deposit box at the bank, where we found bonds with long-past-due coupons that needed cashing. I was able to pay her current bills, taxes due on her house, dispose of her car, and a number of things that needed attention.

This is yet another illustration of problems of the elderly. I keep harping on this subject because it is very important, and you, too, will be old some day.

time that their daughter next school year will be attending preschool in Cass City, where their son has attended preschool in the current school year. Both full-time Walbro Corp. employees, the couple said they would have to hire 2 baby sitters if their son was forced to attend kindergarten in the Owen-Gage district.

Board members told the couple that they couldn't make a decision because of uncertainty regarding Owen-Gage's status as an in-formula district. If Owen-Gage is in-formula, which is partly based on student enrollment, the district would receive state "membership" aid.

MILLAGE SUPPORT

In other business Monday, the board approved a resolution supporting plans by the Huron Intermediate School District to request additional millage in the fall.

HISD Special Services Director Albert Tennant addressed the board briefly, saying that more millage is needed to offset declining state and local revenues, rising costs and a steady increase over the past decade in the number of handicapped students receiving special services.

The HISD, which provides only mandated programs, hasn't had a millage increase since 1969, Tennant told the board. He added that the local school districts, many of which are out-of-formula, will end up paying for the services if additional millage isn't approved.

Tennant stated that the intermediate district's state equalized valuation has gone from nearly $751 million in 1985-86 to an expected $610 million in 1988-89, a drop of about $142 million. Revenue, meanwhile, has gone from $790,000 in 1985-86 to an expected $630,000 in 1988-89, a drop of some $160,000.

State funding has gone from a peak of $409,720 in 1984-85 to an expected $227,450 in 1988-89, he said, adding that the district's fund equity has gone from nearly $600,000 in 1985-86 to an anticipated -$55,000 in 1988-89.

Also Monday, the board:

- Met in an hour-long executive session to discuss ongoing teacher contract negotiations.
- Heard comments from 3 parents regarding concern over what they thought was the hiring of 2 cheerleading advisors. The parents indicated they're not happy with the individuals chosen for the jobs. The board stated that no one has been hired yet, and that such action must receive final approval from the board.
- Approved a motion waiving $5,657 owed to the school district's General Fund by the Owendale Hot Lunch program for 4 months in the 1986-87 school year. Kirby stated the action will allow the lunch program to continue improving in terms of eventually paying for itself after several years of red ink.
- Okayed a request by physical education and health teacher John W. Osterland for a leave of absence in the 1988-89 school year to further his education.
- Approved Christine Wissner, Stella Errer, William Putman, Kay Karg, Genevieve Kehoe and Tom Laurie as election inspectors.

Cavanagh eyes new court post

Oakland County attorney Mark J. Cavanagh has filed his petitions for one of the 2 newly created seats on the Michigan Court of Appeals, 2nd District.

The 2nd District covers 15 counties, including Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties.

Cavanagh received a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and his law degree from the Detroit College of Law. He worked for a number of years at the Wayne County Friend of the Court. While in law school and after becoming a lawyer, he worked in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, first as a special assistant prosecutor and then as an assistant Wayne County Prosecutor assigned to the Detroit Recorder's Court Felony Trial Division.

"My years spent in investigative, research and trial work in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office have given me real insight and identification with the myriad of crimes real and alleged," he remarked.

"This, plus my experience in private practice since 1985, I believe, will be of real value to me in arriving at conclusions and judgements in cases that come before the court."

Since leaving the prosecutor's office in 1985, Cavanagh has maintained a general law practice and serves as a special assistant attorney general assigned to the Workers Compensation Division.

He and his wife, Linda, reside in Rochester Hills.

Officials meet on rabies cases chances of preventing rabies. In any case, vaccine should be administered within 3 days.

Persons who become infected and are not treated almost always die. The incubation period is usually between 2 to 8 weeks, but may vary from 10 days to a year.

Death comes from respiratory paralysis with delirium and convulsions occurring from 2 to 6 days before.

Although health officials are taking every available step to alert the public to the dangers of rabies, they caution against overreacting to the outbreak. It's not necessary to keep the children inside, members of the panel said. If they are playing in the woods and an animal appears, run, they said.

The best thing that parents and others can do for the children, the panel agreed, is see that their cats and dogs are vaccinated.

If a suspected rabid animal is observed, panel members said, the best thing to do is to call the local animal control center and let it handle it.

Assistance is available for persons who have questions about rabies from the state health department, 517 335-8050, or from the Tuscola County Health Department, 673-8114.

Although rabies is always fatal and extremely painful, Wilcox said that in Michigan there has only been one recorded death from the disease.

Court battle looms over camp proposal

munity feel but completely ignored."

Visser stated that residents' opposition has not been ignored. He added that the DSS has met with residents, answered their letters and talked with them on the phone.

"It's a matter that we don't agree with them," he said. "It's not the same."

Visser indicated that the DSS asked potential contractors to show "some evidence of community support and community involvement," not necessarily a majority opinion in favor of the camp.

Support for the camp was revealed, he said, in some 600 signatures obtained from residents within a 10-mile radius of the camp. Also, the county Economic Development Corporation and a local juvenile judge endorsed the proposal, he noted.

Urge Hib vaccine for youngsters

What is Hib Vaccine? Should I get it for my child? Are there any risks? All these questions may cross any parent's mind when they hear about this relatively new vaccine, according to Karen Buck, public health nursing supervisor.

Hib vaccine is short for Haemophilus b polysaccharide Vaccine. Given by injection, it offers a very high degree of protection against H. influenza b, a bacterium which can cause severe disease (meningitis, pneumonia, severe bone and blood infections) especially in children less than 5 years of age.

This bacterium does not cause the "flu." In the U.S. Haemophilus influenza b causes about 12,000 cases of meningitis (infection of the covering of the brain) each year, mostly in children under 5 years of age.

one child in every 20 with meningitis caused by Haemophilus b dies, and one out of 4 has permanent brain damage.

All children 2 to 5 years of age should be immunized. Children 1 1/2 to 2 years of age may also be considered for immunization if they are in a high risk group, such as those attending day care facilities. The vaccine does not cause the proper immune response in children under 18 months old.

The Hib Vaccine has been shown to be relatively free of side effects. The most common side effects are low fever for 24 hours after vaccination, or slight soreness at the vaccination site. As with any vaccine or drug, there is a rare possibility that allergic or other reactions could occur.

This vaccine is available free at the Sanilac Health Department, as are vaccines to immunize children against diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, measles, mumps, and rubella. Persons who have questions can check with their local physician or call the health department at (313) 648-4098.

Purvis is automotive award winner

A Deford resident recently received the I.W. Thompson Automotive Award at Northwood Institute, Midland.

David R. Purvis, a sophomore at Northwood, accepted the award at the college's annual Honors Convocation.

Purvis is the son of Shirley Purvis, Deford. To receive the award, a student must be a 2-year graduate and exhibit scholarship, demonstrate leadership ability and possess the potential to receive fine recognition in the automotive marketing field.

Northwood, a private, coeducational, accredited college, specializes in practical career preparation in business related fields. The college's curriculum includes both 2-year and 4-year career degree programs.

Mark J. Cavanagh

Cavanagh hopes to continue in the family tradition begun by his father, the late Jerome P. Cavanagh, who served as mayor of Detroit from 1962 to 1970. The elder Cavanagh was an influential leader in Michigan politics until his death in 1979.

Cavanagh's uncle, Michael F. Cavanagh, is a present justice of the Michigan Supreme Court. Justice Cavanagh was 2nd District Court of Appeals judge prior to election to the Supreme Court. A brother, David P. Cavanagh, is a Wayne County commissioner, and a cousin, James P. Cavanagh, is a county commissioner in Eaton.

Cattle branding was practiced 4,000 years ago. Old tomb paintings show Egyptians branding their cattle.
