SIXTH STREET RESIDENT Julie Gohsman (above) was among the hardest hit over the weekend when vandals slashed clotheslines, clothes, garden hoses and other items throughout Cass City. Damage at the Gohsman residence alone totaled nearly $150.

Rash of vandalism strikes Cass City over weekend

More than $380 in damage to items ranging from clotheslines to outdoor furniture to clothing was reported by several Cass City residents following a rash of vandalism in the village over the weekend.

A group of what Cass City Police believe were youths hit all ends of the village Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Damage, most of which involved the slashing of property, ranged from a cut clothesline at one residence

Kirby stated he believes a new teachers' contract will be approved before the school year starts. Although teachers have been working without a contract since last August, Kirby noted they have received "step" raises and other benefits over the past year.

Also Monday, the board learned that Susie Salcido has again been hired as a Summer Youth Employee, and voted not to re-join the Michigan Out-of-Formula Association.

The board, prior to their regular meeting, conducted an annual reorganizational meeting.

Officers reelected

AIDS course in, ag. course out for year

A quiet session of the Cass City Schools board Monday night was highlighted by the reelection of all officers, the adoption of an AIDS policy and several curriculum changes.

The AIDS policy calling for classes in grades 7 through 12 was adopted together with a plan for implementing them. On the suggestion of Trustee Ben Hobart, who said because of the sensitive nature of the classes which include sex education, letters should be mailed to parents of the students so that they could return a form if they desire their children eliminated from the class. The AIDS classes will comply with the mandate set for all public schools in Michigan.

The election of officers was simply routine as all were reelected. The officers are: President Dr. Ed Scollon, Vice-president Allan Hartwick, Treasurer Dick Wallace and Secretary Ben Hobart.

High School Principal Russ Biefer presented a plan for the addition of calculus to the curriculum. He said that there are 10 students who will take the advanced course and that in the future he hopes to expand it to 15 to 18 per year. Adding this course, Biefer told the board, is a step in the planned expansion to a 4year curriculum in the high school in math.

While the math program is being expanded, agriculture has been eliminated at least for a year at the school. There were only 9 students interested in an agriculture course, Biefer said.

Hobart and Trustee Fred Matthews voiced concern about the end of the program and urged that alternatives be found to save the FFA program. Hobart said that something might be worked out with USA schools in a joint program. In another year, Biefer said, perhaps an agriculture program could be moved into the science field and credit earned for the course. This has resulted in expanded interest in other districts, he said.

BIDS OPENED

Bids were received for an operating loan of $1.29 million for the district. Valid bids were received from Chemical Bay Area Bank and Thumb National Bank and Trust. The Thumb National bid of 5.12 percent was low and was accepted. Total cost to the district will be $46,417.07. Thumb National was also low bidder for a loan of $51,212 for 5 years to pay for school busses. The interest rate is 7

Five banks were approved to handle school funds. They are Thumb National, Chemical Bay Area, Cass City State, all of Cass City; Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank, Flint, and Second National Bank,

TRANSFER DECISION

Two requests for transfer of students into Campbell Elementary School were heard. One was denied and a compromise reached on the other.

lowed to transfer from Deford School to Campbell. Her request had been denied at the June board meeting. Because she feels that her son has a conflict with the teacher at Deford and would have had the same teacher this year, she is determined to see that he is not at Deford when school starts.

She had attempted to transfer to Caro Schools but was informed that the classes were full there. She told the board that rather than send her boy to Deford, she would enroll him at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Union-

The board appeared ready to turn down the request when Trustee Beverley Auten suggested that the boy be allowed to attend Evergreen School, where there is room in his grade. That was agreeable and will be allowed if transportation can be worked out so that there is no increased cost to the district. A request by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kaake to have her daughter attend kindergarten at Campbell instead of Evergreen because of baby sitting problems was denied

OTHER BUSINESS

A salary was set for newly hired Elementary Principal Dave Lovejoy. It will be $42,000 per year with 5 weeks off in the summer, the same contract as the intermediate principal receives. The contract is for 2 years, but the salary is for one.

Only one bid was received for some used equipment at the school and trustees voted to reject the bid as inadequate.

Daryl Ireveit of Osentoski's Farm Equipment in Pigeon appeared before the board to explain the merits of diesel engines over gas engines. There was a wide discussion about the engines and more study is anticipated. Supt. Ken Micklash compared the engines and his figures indicated that gas is best for Cass City. However, it may be that the cost figures for the diesel as compared to gas were incorrect and more study is indicated. There is no pressure for an immediate decision as the next bus purchase is 6 months or more away.

Sidewalk sale activities galore savings sale event of the summer is the Sidewalk Sale, sponsored by the Cass City Retail Committee. This year the committee is going all out to make the 4day event that starts Wednesday and concludes Saturday the best in the history of the event.

Wednesday there will be bake sales. Arts and crafts sales will be held all 4 days and a quilt show will be held at the Cultural Center Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Thursday's activities will be highlighted by visits by Cass City clowns and a kids' penny hunt at 4 p.m. in the village parking lot behind

McMahan Auto Supply.
Friday there will be a kids' parade starting at 9:30 a.m. and free ice cream will be given parade participants. Kids' games follow the parade and will be held at halfhour intervals starting at the

> The special events will be concluded Saturday at 1 p.m. when a softball game between WHNN and the Thumb Area Consortium will be held. Admission is a cash donation or a new toy. All proceeds go to the Toys for Tots program.

Free swimming has been provided by the Committee each day of the sale between one and 5 p.m.

The many events are really icing on the cake for area shoppers. The big draw is the one-time opportunity for the bargain conscious to buy at prices one-half off and more.

I challenge you to read this column without yawning.

The University of California, Berkeley, Wellness Letter features a lot of information on health topics, from the current odds on getting AIDS to how to protect yourself from skin cancer.

It also contains some tidbits on other subjects, not quite as sensational, but interesting.

This month's issue discusses the enigmatic yawn. It decries the myth that the yawn's purpose is to increase oxygen intake. That notion has never been proven, says The Letter. Studies have shown that high oxygen levels in the blood do not inhibit yawn-

If we did yawn to get oxygen, it shouldn't matter whether air comes in through the nose, as in a stifled yawn, or the mouth. Yet breathing through the nose just doesn't take the place of a yawn.

Both humans and animals yawn, and in humans it appears that situations short on stimuli favor yawning — a long wait, a monotonous

Some researchers suggest that it fills a psychological vacuum. We're most likely to yawn when we're tired or bored. In one study, yawning frequency increased just before bedtime and upon awaking.

In another, the subjects who yawned most often were students in a calculus class. (I know that would do it for me.) The same study showed that subway riders in thinly populated cars tended to yawn more often than riders in the crowds of

Other researchers theorize that a yawn may force blood through cerebral blood vessels to increase mental alert-

The only definite benefit is that yawning balances the air pressure between your middle ear and the cabin air during ascent or descent on a plane.

In spite of all the studies, it all boils down to the fact that yawning is universal and oddly contagious, and nobody really knows why it happens.

Another item in The Letter tells of the benefits of gardening and yard work.

Even the less strenuous forms of gardening like weeding, trimming and raking can burn off about 300 calories an hour, according to the article.

Spading, lifting, tilling and raking can improve muscle tone and strength as well.

Some recommendations from The Letter include: bend at the knees and hips when picking up tools; use a cushion if you spend time on your knees; keep your back straight and don't sit on your heels; stand up and stretch every 10 minutes or so; use a lightweight, long handled shovel or spade and don't overload it.

While it's not a good idea to abandon all other exercise for working in the yard, gardening offers some dividends that other forms of exercise don't-fresh vegetables and flowers.

Speaking of reviews, we took in "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?", the movie that cost $45 million to produce. The animation was spectacular and if cartoons turn you on, you're sure to rave about this show. Break-in reported locally

Cass City resident John Rands, 6424 Main St., reported to the Cass City Police Department that someone broke into his apartment early Saturday morning and stole a video cassette recorder.

According to police, the person(s) responsible gained entry by prying a latch bolt on the east entrance door to Rands' upstairs apartment. Aside from the theft, Rands also reported eggs were broken on his living room floor, and furniture was tipped over. Reports indicate police have suspects in the incident, which is believed to have occurred between 1:20 and 1:40 a.m.

No estimate was available on the value of the VCR. Also reported recently was damage to a children's ride located at the front of the Cass City Family Dollar Store, 6094 E. Cass City Rd. Jo Ellen Kessler told police that the coin-operated 3wheeler was pulled off and broken away from a mounting bracket between July 4 and July 7.

Damage is listed at $80.

Everyone agrees that it has been H-O-T AND D-R-Y, but after that, agreement ends when the weather is the topic, which it invariably is as the temperature climbs to 100 and over.

Put a group together and there's always one person simply delighted with the scorching sidewalks and heat shimmering pavements. For those I recommend a spot just under the air conditioner on the outside of the entrance to Eicher's Cleaners on Main Street. Stand there at 2 p.m. and you'll second my vote naming it the hottest spot in

But I digress. The topic is how the heat is perceived among us. On the opposite end of the scale is the cold weather junkie who goes around in his shirt-sleeves when the weather hovers around 20 degrees, saying, what do you mean cold? This weather is just about right although it would be nicer if it cooled off a little more.

The vast majority of us fall somewhere in between. Given the option the vote here would be for weather on the cold side rather than the

That's for the normal activities including work. This weather isn't all that bad if you are vacationing on the lake and can take a boat cruise or quick dip whenever the fancy strikes. Most of us have limited opportunities for this.

The hot weather advocates always say I'll take 100 degrees over 10 degrees any day, immediately adding that air conditioning is available to everyone at least part of the time.

It's available, it helps, but it really doesn't do the trick. I'm writing this in an air conditioned office and the

I'd like to alibi that I'm a man about town who meets a lot of people, so I should be excused for getting names mixed up. But that would be a lie. I'm a man about stuffed leather chair with matching footstool. I don't meet many people because I'm shy and prefer sitting in a dark corner, behind a post.

. It's understandable why Charles Brown misunderstood me on that noisy bus. Why would I thank him for writing me a letter he didn't write? It was natural for him to assume I was asking him to write such a letter. He had no way of knowing I was born dumber than everyone else. Now he knows.

I am impressed by Charles Brown's extreme civility. He didn't ask what business it was of mine what he ate. He humored the big clown and immediately mailed me his food preferences. He even closed his letter with a

Support group aids compulsive eaters in battle to stay thin ages, Karen said she takes

Staff Writer

Karen shared the frustration and disappointment of those who knew her during her failing fight to become and remain thin.

No sooner would she reach a desired weight then Karen would find herself on a binge, eating her way back to obesity.

For the instant she ate, she would feel "good," always thinking of that next bite. As soon as she stopped eating she would kick herself for what she'd done. Her only comfort lay in eating and she hated herself for that degroup that offered support in or an analysis of one of the pendence.

Karen tried numerous fad diets and some 8 weight loss clubs. Some produced results that only faded as her compulsive eating returned the lost pounds.

her way to join clubs that were unaware of her previous failures only to experience further disappointments, Karen discovered a new plan, different from diets and diet clubs.

A group's advertising in a local newspaper intrigued Karen. She read about the dealing with both the physical and emotional symptoms of compulsive overeating, an affliction she knew she had. Willing to try again, Karen attended a meeting of Overeaters Anonymous some 6 years After traveling miles out of ago in Akron. "I went to the first couple of meetings and I knew that was where I belonged," Karen recalled of her first experiences with the group that has since merged with a Cass City group. "It was a great feeling to find OA," > she said. At OA she discovered that her problem was more than extra weight. She learned that the weight was a result of her compulsive attitude that made her feel extremely up or down and caused her to OA's solution is to strive for abstinence from compulsive overeating with the aid of a higher power, however the individual interprets it, Karen explained.

"People that don't eat compulsively don't understand compulsive people," Karen noted, pointing out that the people in OA do. 'Meetings help you to feel better about yourself," she

MEETINGS

A typical OA meeting lasts about one hour, according to Bonnie Johnson, R.D. at Hills and Dales Hospital, who helped bring the OA chapter to Cass City nearly 2 years ago.

OA has drawn a standard form for meetings which the Cass City group and the group in Caro, which Karen now attends, follow. The groups begin their meetings by reading the 12 steps, adapted from Alcoholics Anonymous, asking for help from a higher power.

After a reading of the 12 steps, individuals in the group, who know each other only by first name, comment on their problems and successes during their battle either high or low. OA against compulsive eating. The group then focuses on one topic for the rest of the hour, Johnson explained. A topic like resentment or guilt 12 steps may be discussed. Some written material may be distributed, read and commented on.

"Everyone gets a turn to read (and) comment,' Johnson explained. "Some people don't want to talk. We don't force anyone to, she said stressing, "meetings are held in strict confidence.'

OA groups strive to help members learn about why they act like they do through group discussions. Other than learning about their actions, members are versed on the foods they are addicted to.

"We deal with food the way alcoholics deal with alcohol," Johnson said, explaining the correlation between alcohol and food. Addictive foods contain some of the same ingredients as alcohol, like grains and sugars. Members of OA try to lessen their intake of those 2 foods, Johnson said. "It's not the same for everyone," she said, "but those are the most common addicting foods.'

INNER CHANGE

To help kick the food addiction, members agree that they will strive to make an inner change. "A spiritual change, not religious, Karen pointed out.

"Our goal is to strive for abstinence from compulsive eating,"she said, adding that through the support of the group and reliance on God, she has been able to reach and maintain the goal. "The higher power is always with you, (and) the group makes you feel better about yourself," she continued.

Since going to OA, Karen, 42, has lost 55 pounds and has maintained the weight loss for over 5 years. She has learned to live with her compulsiveness and herself through OA. She explains "I'm a perfectionist and nothing was ever good enough before OA. I was people strive to be moderate. I strive to be moderate (and) I'm a lot better person

COMMITMENT

Karen and Johnson believe the program is successful, even though many people try and abandon OA before they experience a change.

OA has a low success rate, only about 2% of its members maintain weight loss, Karen said. Johnson pointed out that the people who come to OA usually come as a last resort and that the dropout rate is high.

Still, Karen feels strong in her 6th year of recovery and Jackie, of Gagetown, also expressed her conviction to stay with the group far into the future.

Jackie came to the Cass City meetings about 6 months ago and in that time has lost some 61 pounds. Over half-way to her goal, Jackie said she already feels better about herself.

"You learn how to control your compulsive overeating, and God is a big part of OA. I never thought of Him as helping me control my Rotary Club food," she remarked, adding that the spiritual part of OA

Since her membership, Jackie, 39, has lost more than weight. She no longer to program feels the pain of a bad knee, her short temper has tamed and her low self-esteem has vanished.

Like Karen, whom she has never met, Jackie believes her involvement in OA will become a lifelong commitment.

"The more you go, the more enthused you get about talking to new people," she said. The last Cass City meeting attracted 6 new members, she commented, adding "I hope they come back.

The 16-member Cass City group Jackie attends meets Mondays at 4 p.m. in the basement meeting room at Hills and Dales. The organization is not run through the hospital, though it meets there. Johnson said. The nonprofessional group was brought to the hospital in the interest of helping area residents concerned about a weight problem.

The 7-year-old group Karen now attends claims 12 members and meets at the United Methodist Church of Caro, Wednesdays at 7 p.m. Both groups include men and women members who range in age from teens to the middle-aged.

The 28-year-old fellowship requires no fees or dues. Donations from members are accepted at meetings, but are not required. "The only requirement for mem-bership is a desire to stop eating compulsively." For answers to questions on OA or to find the nearest meeting place persons should call free, 1-800-802-1767.

100-year farms named

Eighteen Michigan farms, including 2 in Tuscola County, have been certified as Centennial Farms, Secretary of State Richard H. Austin announced recently.

Farms owned by Dennis Becker and Douglas Montei of Caro are newly-certified Centennial Farms. Becker's farm, 3960 N. Graf, has been in the family for 102 years. The Montei family farm, 88 S. Merry Rd., has been in that family for 109 years.

"Şince our program began 40 years ago, the Department of State has recognized nearly 6,000 homesteads as Centennial Farms," Austin remarked. "I am happy to recognize the commitment of the Montei and Becker families to Michigan agriculture and the preservation of our heritage.

To be designated a state Centennial Farm, a homestead must be at least 10 acres in size and owned by the same family for at least 100 years. Owners receive a Michigan Centennial Farm Certificate from the Department of State's Bureau of History and an on-farm marker. Centennial Farm markers are provided by Detroit Edison and Consumers Power Company.

The program is administered by the Bureau of History, Michigan Department of State.

Special camp made possible via support

Dear Editor:

As president of the Tuscola Unit of the American Cancer Society, Michigan Division. I would like to inform people living in the area about a new summer camp for children with cancer that will be held north of Muskegon, near Montague, July 24-31.

There is no charge or fee for this summer camp.

Activities offered include a 2-hour canoe trip, non-competitive games where everyone wins, plus all kinds of traditional summer activities like swimming, archery, boating and fishing.

Camp "Catch-A-Rainbow" is only possible because of the ongoing support that the American Cancer Society receives from people here in Cass City. So, if you know a child who might want to attend this new summer camp for children with cancer, call this toll-free American Cancer Society number for more information: 1-800-ACS-

The Regular Meeting of Village Council

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held June 20, 1988, at 7:00 p.m. All Trustees were present with the exception of Trustees Stahlbaum and

The May financial statement was reviewed. A motion was made by

that the bills be approved as presented. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

A motion was made by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Weaver to adopt Ord. #126 for the sale of Certain Village Owned Real Estate. Roll Call Vote: Weaver-yea, Helwig-yea. Tuttle-yea, Prieskorn-yea, Althaver-yea. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays (attached).

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Weaver to sell at public auction real estate located on the Cass River and previously used as a dump with sealed bids to be received by August 22, 1988, and awarded at the regular August meeting. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays (attached).

Nat Tuttle, the Public Services committee chairman, reported that the Camp Tuscola workers are no longer using the Elkland Township Fire Hall.

Tuscola County Task Force has submitted a priority list to the Department of Commerce for funding in the Federal Aid System. There are two projects from within the Cass City Village Limits. One is on North Seeger Street from the North Village limits south approximately 1,320 lineal feet. The other project is on Doerr Road from Garfield Avenue to Division Street with a length of approximately 2,000 lineal feet. The approximate cost of these two projects would be $157,000.00. The cost to the village would be 25% of the project or $39,000.00 plus engineering cost of approximately $17,000.00.

A motion was made by Trustee Weaver and supported by Trustee Prieskorn to adopt a permanent Resolution authorizing the Police Chief to make application to the Michigan Department of Transportation on behalf of the Village of Cass City for the necessary permits to permit parades and the hanging of banners within the right-of-way of State Trunk Line M-81. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

The Planning Commission minutes were reviewed. The Manager's report was reviewed. The Council wishes to thank the Cass City Lions for their donation of $2,000.00 for materials to side the recreation building. The Council also wishes to thank the Cass City Boy Scouts for their assistance in the planting of flowers in the downtown business district in May.

A petition was received from residents on Brooker Street for Curb and Gutter from Main Street to Third Street and on Third Street from Brooker to Vulcan. The petition was turned over to the Streets and Parking committee.

Copies of "Capitalizing on Michigan" describing proposals to improve the State Capitol Complex were received and will be distributed to the Planning Commission, the Parks Committee and one will be retained in the office.

June 8th, a quit claim deed was signed on the Grand Trunk Railroad property running from the Cass River north approximately 2,900 lineal feet by 50 feet wide.

A letter was received from the Michigan Strategic Fund explaining the IDRB pooled bond program.

Having met the require-ments established by the Michigan Department of Commerce and the Michigan Industrial Developers Association, the Cass City Industrial Park qualifies as a Michigan Certified Industrial Park. A plaque has been received from the Michigan Department of Commerce and will be placed in the Council chambers.

A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Weaver that the meeting be adjourned. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

Your neighbor says

U.S. cruiser acted correctly

Iranian Air Airbus, suspicions concerning the circumstances surrounding the incident have been high. Still, questions about whether the captain and crew of the USS Vincennes acted correctly in shooting down the plane, and what if anything the Americans owe the Iranians as a result of the mishap are being investigated by teams of American officials.

Your neighbors, Tom and Verna Dobbs of Cass City, have been following the issue and agree that the skipper and crew acted correctly, given the circumstances.

'They were right in doing it," Verna remarked. She continued that because the cruiser's radar picked up conflicting signals, that of both a civilian and military at 4234 Maple St.

Since the downing of the aircraft, the captain had no other choice but to act to "protect his ship and men." "I'm suspicious of the Iranian part in it," she said.

> Tom agrees that some facts are yet unknown and unproven about Iran's action. "I feel it was a setup," he commented.

Because of the circum-ste es, the Dobbs do not volue y sort of compensation or apology is in order from the American government to the Iranian government or the families of the 290 persons killed in the crash. "We don't owe them anything," Tom stated, adding that an appropriate action would be one made by the Iranian government to the U.S. They should "give our hostages back," he said. State Rd., in Gagetown, MI,

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Population is still 474, as it has been for years. The summer crowd comes in, but they aren't counted, although they are welcome in this friendly village. There are no parking meters and you don't need a VISA to buy things. If you're downtown and don't have cash just tell Perry Ely at the grocery store to mark it down on a slip and you'll take care of it next time you're downtown.

You can do that up and down the street of stores.

I go into Central State Bank, where I keep a modest savings account. I plump down a bunch of travelers checks left over, oddly enough, from a jaunt to Europe.

I ask the pleasant blonde girl, Laurie Smith, at the loan desk if I need to go to a teller with them.

"Oh, no, I'll take care of them.'

"Do I need to also endorse them on the back? (Barnett bank in Florida insists on this, although I already have 2 signatures on the check.) Laurie counts them out and starts to give me cash.

"I wanted to deposit them in my savings account."

She finds this hard to believe from a summer resident.

I then ask where to go to get some copies made.

"Oh, I'll do them for you." After she has done the 19 copies I ask her how much.

"That's all right. No charge. You're a regular customer."

You'll be old and gray and withered before you'll hear a reply like that in a Florida bank.

On the way out, Nancy McCarthy, the secretary, gives a cheery "Hello and how are you and did you have a good winter? Nice to see you back.' The rest of the summer I'll go up to any window that's open, plunk down an out-oftown check, a third party check, or whatever, and ask for cash and I will get it without producing a driver's license or any identification.

It makes you feel good. At the post office, they've been holding mail for me. I phone them. It's 5 p.m. and a good-natured clerk says, "Sure we can have Allen Forrester leave off your mail at your place tomorrow morning.

And next morning it's at the door.

Try that on your city post office. They won't even answer the phone at 5 p.m. It has now been a week since leaving Florida. Our forwarded mail hasn't got here yet - - 5 days behind schedule.

Heat-related health problems hit young and old hardest, threaten all Farmers may be feeling a have their health.

Though the area was graced with showers over the weekend, breaking the week-long record breaking temperatures, the summer's overall extreme heat and overly dry conditions have kept many farmers from long hours in their fields, and area hospitals for heat related illnesses as well.

In-service director at Hills and Dales Hospital Jane Mitchell noted that as of late no farmers have received treatment for heat related illnesses at the hospital this

"If farmers were able to do their normal work right now, I'm sure we would have some in for treatment," Mitchell said

Mitchell stated that once temperatures climb into the 90's, victims of heat exhaustion and heat stroke begin appearing at the hospital.

Heat exhaustion claims the most victims during periods of intense heat. The condition is caused by excessive loss of water and salt from the body. This loss causes circulation to the heart and brain to be disturbed by the pooling of blood in the skin's capillaries trying to cool the body. The constriction of the capillaries causes the victim's skin to appear pale and clammy.

financial hit, but they still condition include dilated pupils, normal or subnormal body temperature, weakness, headaches, nausea and cramps. Mitchell pointed out that the "symptoms come on quite suddenly."

Heat exhaustion needs care, but is not usually life threatening. Persons suffering from symptoms of heat exhaustion should rest in a shaded area, apply cloths soaked in cool water to their body and "sip, not gulp, cool water," Mitchell said. Gulping cold water could result in vomiting and remove even more body fluids and salts from the victim, Mitchell explained, adding that tak-

hospitals may administer it. HOSPITALIZATION

ing salt is not recommended

as a home remedy to heat exhaustion victims, though

"If (the symptoms) do not dissipate in a short while, persons should come in to the hospital," she continued.

Treatment at the hospital emergency room usually includes sponging the patient with cool water, administering some type of intervenous fluid and monitoring the person's vital signs for a return to normal before being released. Patients may be kept for a few hours or a few days before being released, Mitchell

Heat stroke, a condition with a mortality rate of greater than 50 percent, calls for immediate medical attention. Heat stroke victims suffer from a failure in their body's regulatory systems. Also, victims' main avenue of heat loss (evaporation of sweat) is blocked, keeping all heat trapped within the body. Symptoms of heat stroke include hot, dry skin, red skin, very high body temperature, constricted pupils, dizziness, cramps, nausea and headaches. Hills and Dales reports that no cases of heat stroke have been treated this year, and only a few cases of heat stroke were treated last year, However, heat exhaustion and other heat related illnesses have been treated at Hills and Dales recently. 'Most of the patients are middle-aged," Mitchell remarked, adding that the very young and the very old are usually the most susceptible to heat illnesses.

none resulting in fatalities.

The recent cases at Hills and Dales were the result of persons overexerting themselves outdoors during the Fourth of July holiday.

FEW CASES

Emergency room nurses at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, report that only one case of heat related illness has been treated at the hospital this year. The patient was treated and monitored for 6 hours before being released.

Sue Dennis, in-service coordinator at Huron Memorial, attributes the absence of patients complaining of heat related symptoms to the high heat itself. "People are more aware of the effects of the heat,' Dennis said, "but with this intense heat, it's just obvious not to go out in the sun." The absence of humidity also cuts down on the effects of the heat. "Humidity keeps you from perspiring like you should," Dennis explained, adding that "it takes less temperature to reach the same effects (of high temperature) in high humidity. Other than heat exhaustion, heat stroke, or other symptoms caused by the heat, other health problems may result from high temperatures. Persons with chronic lung disease or allergies may experience greater than normal trouble breathing. Heart patients and those with high blood pressure may also feel a

at special meet

An amended 1987-88 budget of $1.418 million and a preliminary 1988-89 spending plan of $1.382 million were approved by the Owen-Gage Board of Education during a special session held June 27.

The preliminary 1988-89 spending plan represents a decrease of $36,252, or 2.5 percent, from 1987-88.

School Supt. Harley Kirby said the board is considering various options for cutting costs to meet the reduced tentative budget, but no specifics have been decided on

He noted the tentative budget includes funds (about $102,422) the school expects to receive as an informula school district. Previously the district received no "membership", or per-pupil, state aid. In other business during the special meeting, the board met in executive session to discuss teacher contract negotiations, hired Sandra Peters as cheerleading advisor, and read a letter from the Caseville Board of Education stating that the school district intends to withdraw its football program from league play for 2 years due to a lack of players.

PREVENTION

"Go some place air conditioned," Mitchell suggests. "Keep a fan going," to keep air circulating. Other than drinking large quantities of cool water or other liquids, Mitchell recommends wearing loose, cotton clothing, and a hat for shade. Also, because of the increase it causes in heart rate, people are advised to keep their caffeine intake down. Additional strain on the heart may also be lessened by avoiding alcohol.

Dennis suggests that people who want to work outside do so early in the morning and late in the eveavoid outdoor activity is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. when temperatures are hottest and ultraviolet rays strongest. wear sun screen, she said.

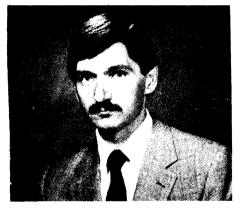

The American Cancer Society recommends a factor 15 or higher be worn on all exposed skin during outdoor activity. Sun screens containing PABA (paraaminobenzoic acid) provide the best protection when applied 45 minutes before sun exposure. The society points out that the sun's ultraviolet rays may reach exposed skin through clouds, shade, wet clothes and up to 3 feet of water. To fully protect skin, a sun block should be worn. Zinc oxide provides the greatest protection from the sun's rays, according to the society, which emphasizes that the fairer the skin, the greater the risk of burns in any temperature.

Extra precautions should ning. The prime time to be taken in higher temperatures, however. People should be aware of their own tolerance to the heat and sun. Mitchell said, reminding Those out in the sun should everyone to "take it easy outdoors."

The state disputes the calculation of the amount of sanctions and contends the error rate standard is unreasonable, a conclusion it says is supported by recent federal studies.

In the latest move, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services on May 12 denied Michigan's request for the 1981-82 and 1982-83 money in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Food Stamp programs.

The state will ask the HHS Grant Appeals Board to overturn or reduce the penalties once the notice is received, said Harold Gazan, director of quality improvement for the Department of Social Services.

The state contends the sanction system is not fair, is not administered uniformly, is excessively punitive, and fails to consider factors such for a waiver of the sanctions as subsequent state recoupment of misspent funds and fiscal years for misspent collection of child support payments.

Gazan said the state is still hopeful the sanctions will never be imposed (only one state has been sanctioned since the system was implemented in 1981), noting reports by the General Accounting Office and the National Academy of Sciences which support the contentions by the state that the system is unfair.

"When you have a quality control system that finds 90 percent of the states not meeting the threshold, then you either conclude that it is set unrealistically low or there are some other problems with the entire system outside the ability of states to control," Gazan said.

The $42.4 million in penalties—part of which was first announced in December, 1986 — is just a portion of $132.4 million in proposed sanctions against Michigan through the 1985-86 year in

It has always complied with federal standards in the Medicaid program.

The Reagan administration has included the sanctions - $358.4 million nationwide for those 2 years as revenue in its 1988-89 budget proposals.

Proposed sanctions for years up to 1986 are in various stages of development, and Michigan has filed a request for waiver of 1983-84 sanctions.

Michigan's 1981-82 AFDC error rate was 8.2 percent, compared to the 5.7 percent standard set by federal officials, and 1982-83 rate was 9.1 percent, compared to a 4 percent standard. It has since cut the rate to 5.03 percent in the latest 6-month period, while the federal standard is 3 percent.

The National Academy of Sciences recommended using a range of percentages to determine error rates, developing a way to more accurately determine past sanction amounts, elimination of

KELLEY INTERVENES

Attorney General Kelley recently announced that he has intervened in a Federal Energy Regulatory Commission rate case involving Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, a major interstate natural gas supplier servicing Michigan utilities.

Kelley's intervention on behalf of the Public Service Commission is an attempt to safeguard the interests of Michigan consumers.

Panhandle has proposed restructuring of its rates and services to include a passthrough of its "take-orpay costs" to Michigan utilities and ratepayers.

This proposed "take-orpay" provision seeks to charge Michigan utilities and their customers for natural gas supplies contracted from the pipeline, regardless of whether utilities and their customers take or need the

Congressman against dairy reduction

Congressman Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) was to have introduced legislation last Wednesday to prevent a 50cent-per-hundredweight reduction in the dairy price support program which is expected Jan. 1.

"With dairy farmers being pressed with higher feed prices due to the drought, it would be wrong to require that they take an additional reduction in the price of milk," Traxler said.

Under the provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill, if the secretary of agriculture determines that the Commodity Credit Corporation is likely to acquire more than 5 billion pounds of milk due to the operation of the dairy price support program, the secretary is supposed to re-
