Showers bring relief
Some crops helped;
late for others

Weekend rains ranging from .8 of an inch to 2 inches in Tuscola County arrived in time to relieve crops set for fall harvest, but too late to help those edging closer to cutting. The rain had no effect on wheat which is about 3 quarters harvested in the county. According to Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel, soybeans, dry beans, sugar beets and alfalfa were blessed by Saturday's precipitation. The effects of the accumulated moisture will help those crops over at least 5 days based on an average evaporation rate of .2 of an inch per day. Oats and barley, which are nearing harvest, however, did not benefit from the rain. Both crops are too far along to be helped by the long-awaited showers, Bortel said, adding that the 2 crops are expected to be cut in about one week. As for corn, no amount of rain could help this late in the season, Bortel pointed out. He explained that the dry summer has halted kernel formation. Bortel explained that the pollen shed on the corn tassels is putting out pollen early, and the silk on the ears which is supposed to catch the pollen is not doing so. The kernel forming process will not catch up, Bortel noted. Across the entire state, some 60 percent of Michigan's total corn crop was rated poor and very poor last week. The poor crop has resulted in prices that are about $1 more than a year ago. Though up about $.90 from last year's prices, wheat, which is nearly completely harvested, has fared best among Michigan's crops this year. "Most people are pleasantly pleased with the wheat," Bortel said. Because of the drought, farmers in Tuscola County are running 7 to 10 days ahead of schedule, while their Sanilac County neighbors are averaging an almost 2-week head start on harvesting, agricultural officials say. Tuscola County's harvest to-date averages 75 percent as measured at the Berger and Company elevator. Bortel noted that since wheat is harvested on a west to east progression, Cass City's average is about 10 percent less than the county as a whole. In Sanilac County about 10 percent of the wheat crop has been harvested, according to Martin L. Nagelkirk, who was recently appointed director of the extension service in Sanilac County. Nagelkirk stated that wheat yields are averaging about 50-55 bushels per acre on the best of the crop, with a test weight of about 55 pounds, down from normal Please turn to page 12

Council approves drug fight funding

The Cass City Village Council voted unanimously Monday night to support and provide $3,000 yearly to the Thumb Narcotics Enforcement Concept Team starting this year. The enforcement program is expected to cost $48,400 a year plus personnel. T.N.T. was proposed in June by law enforcement representatives of the 4 Thumb counties who formed the T.N.T. committee. The committee discussed its goals during a meeting July 12. Cass City Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie and police Chief Gene Wilson attended the session. Wilson explained that the team is to be modeled after similar narcotics squads in the Bay City and Flint areas that have been in existence for more than 2 years. T.N.T. is designed to be a 7-man team--representatives from 4 local agencies (one from each county involved) and 3 state troopers. The team's assignments would focus on enforcement of Michigan's narcotics and controlled substances laws. So far 3 members of the state police (a lieutenant to command, a sergeant to supervise and a trooper) have been committed to the team. A deputy sheriff from Lapeer County and a patrolman from the city of Lapeer have also joined the team. Huron County has also furnished one representative. Because of the cost of contributing one man to T.N.T., Tuscola County authorities haven't taken any action on the proposal. Sanilac County also has not committed anyone. The proposed location of Imlay City for the team's base has not been set, but a rent-free building there is still under consideration. The team would like to begin operations by early August, and LaPonsie said the team is ready to go as is. Council members agreed that their monetary contributions, taken from the village's General Fund, will help spur other support in Tuscola County as well as get the program off the ground. In other business during the regular meeting, councilmen discussed the application of asphalt to the downtown section of M-81. The Department of Transportation estimated the job, at a cost of $17,434, will require some 920 tons of asphalt. The state would pay for much of the street renovation, and $3,300 will be required from the village. Also, LaPonsie learned Monday that funding for road work on Doerr Road from Division Street to Garfield Avenue and Cemetery Road from the old limits to the new limits, has been granted for the village's scheduled projects in 1990. LaPonsie also reported to the council that inspection of the village's water level by Layne Northern, July 7, has shown the water level to be sufficient.

Novesta loses out on industry bid

By Tom Montgomery News Editor A plastics manufacturer has abandoned his plans to locate new industry in Novesta Township. Instead, the new plant apparently will be located in Caro, where businessman James A. Astley was prompted to search for a new spot to do business because of delays involved in getting 3 acres in Novesta Township out of a P.A. 116 contract. "When I figured out the time frame, we had to pass it (township site) up," Astley remarked Monday. "I felt really bad. I would still prefer to stay in the Phillips Road location." Township officials, too, voiced disappointment over the failed proposal. "We had people out here planning to maybe get a job there," township Supervisor William C. O'Dell remarked. "The DNR failed to move fast enough so the man could get set up and get his operation going. Because of their attitude down there, we lost it," O'Dell added. Astley had planned to locate the new business, Silverwood Products Ltd., on a site just northwest of Deford on Phillips Road. The plant's primary manufacturing product will be thermo plastic sheets used in vacuum forming, mainly for automotive tray packaging. The veteran businessman, who explained his proposal to the Township Board last month, was so confident he would be able to start production within a matter of weeks that he poured some $15,000 into the site to renovate existing farm buildings at the location. Thumb Electric Cooperative officials in Ubyly had agreed to provide power to the site. "It's not going to be a total loss because we can recover some of the materials," Astley remarked, adding that he decided to give up on Please turn to page 12

2 hired to share O-G principal post

The post of high school principal in the Owen-Gage school district will be shared by 2 current staff members following action at a special Owen-Gage Board of Education meeting Monday. Counselor Ronald D'Aoust, who has been with the district for 2 years, and veteran science teacher Manuel Thies, a 26-year faculty member and president of the Owen-Gage Education Association, will share the duties of principal during the 1988-89 school year. According to discussion Monday, D'Aoust will handle the bulk of the position's administrative duties, while Thies will be responsible for discipline. The pair's contract calls for D'Aoust to receive $6,195 for a 195-day period beginning Aug. 15. Thies, meanwhile, will receive $2,764 based on a standard 183-day teachers' contract Please turn to page 12

One of 3 charged in armed robbery enters guilty pleas

One of 3 defendants charged in the armed robbery of a Cass City couple in their upstairs apartment last February has pleaded guilty to armed robbery. Fernando Vega, 21, of Detroit, entered the plea in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday. Sentencing is to be set at a later date. Armed robbery is punishable by up to life imprisonment. Vega, who is being held by federal authorities, also entered a plea of guilty during his arraignment last Wednesday in front of U.S. District Judge James Churchill to a charge of the use of a firearm in a drug trafficking crime. Vega was referred to probation officials, who will conduct a pre-sentence investigation. Sentencing is to be set at a later date. A spokesman in the U.S. Attorney's office in Bay City said Vega faces a mandatory prison sentence of 5 years and a fine of up to $5,000 for the offense. That penalty is to run concurrently with the armed robbery conviction. Vega, along with Lonnie Jordan, 20, of Detroit, and Anthony E. Nerkowski Jr., 23, of Dearborn, were each charged with armed robbery and breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny following the Feb. 28 break-in of the Larry Wilding residence, 6359 Pine St., Cass City. Sidewalk sale profits sag in heat

Earnings at the Cass City sidewalk sales have been reported as the latest hot weather casualties by area merchants. Most retailers revealed that their sales at this year's 4-day event were greatly lower than those of last year. Some shop-keepers went as far as to tag this year's profits as "bad" for a lack of customers. Those working the annual event attributed the few shoppers to the weather. Many agree with Bill Krizman that "It was too hot to be out on the sidewalk." Still, Cindy McConkey of McConkey's Jewelry and Gift Shop reported "O.K. sales." The event's close only left a few items unsold that McConkey's is almost completely rid of now. McConkey noted that the most customers stopped by her patch of sidewalk Wednesday afternoon and Thursday evening, but overall the hot weather kept many would-be customers away from the entire event. Conversely, almost twice as many children as last year participated in the kids' events. Kids' games kicked off Thursday afternoon at the penny hunt, which attracted 29 youngsters. Many of the little scavengers returned the next day for the children's parade and games.

who participated last year, adding that those contributing to the good turnout seemed to have a good time and appreciated the prizes provided by village merchants. While better weather can't be expected to attract competitors to top this year's participation in the kids' events by much, merchants hope nicer weather graces next year's sidewalk sales and promotes more participation from shoppers.

30 area students attend "hands on" learning camp

More than 30 area junior high school students from Tuscola and Sanilac Counties recently attended a week-long high-tech day camp at the Tuscola Area Skill Center.

Students selected 2 classes. Their choices included design and visual arts, pre-medical, pre-engineering and pre-management.

For example, the pre-med students were busy with dissection. The pre-management class played games which simulated the stock market and executive decision making. The pre-engineering class learned to build geodesic domes, platonic solids and constructed aero space models.

The day camp is designed for high-ability students. It gives them an opportunity to learn what a skill center might offer them.

The program is a joint effort by the Vocational Education Department and the Tuscola Gifted and Talented Consortium.

The opinion polls all show that Michael Dukakis has a substantial lead in the race for the presidency.

I'd make it a large wager if George didn't come across so poorly on television.

With all of that going against him, why feel that Bush will triumph?

It's because of the economy. That one issue dwarfs all others. The national debt? That's for the economists to figure out.

When you talk about the pocketbook, you hit them where they live. And if nothing changes, the GOP has it going for them.

When Jimmy Carter lost in a close election 8 years ago, the pundits said it was because of the Iran prisoner escape fiasco.

The reason I feel strongly about this is because I'm old enough to remember the tail end of the depression years.

I had a friend who suffered through the depression. In the latter years of his life he had it made and I can remember him telling me, John, once you've been poor you never forget it.

That's true today, too. It's an image that the GOP has to fight. It might be a bad rap.

If you are a liberal, a black or a dyed-in-the-wool union man, chances are you should vote Democratic.

"If It Fitz..."

I didn't behave well

By Jim Fitzgerald

"The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is looking for a new conductor," I said to everyone around me.

I was attending a concert by the Irwin Philharmonic, requiring a 130-mile round-trip drive on roads mostly under repair.

I was especially impressed by the extremely talented performance of the young woman leading the Irwin Philharmonic because I knew she'd gone through surgery just 4 hours earlier.

She shaved her baton masterfully, in her right hand, supplementing it with a pointed left forefinger, calling forth beautiful music from the various musicians and their instruments -- bells, tambourines, cymbals, triangles and sticks of wood.

WRETCHED EXCESS BY GRANDPA

"That's my granddaughter Emily," I said proudly, grabbing the man standing beside me to make sure he was paying attention to this thrilling news.

"I thought so," Lynch answered calmly. He was not losing his mind.

The Irwin Philharmonic is made up of Bobbie Woods' morning and afternoon kindergarten students at Irwin Elementary School in Lapeer.

The first 2 acts included a country hoedown, with spirited square dancing, and a "Memory Lane" sequence featuring old songs -- "Merry Oldsmobile" was one -- that caused me to reflect that I was the only one in the room older than the Oldsmobile.

Around 50 youngsters -- each one the apple of several eyes -- participated in the show, but Emily was the only one whose grandfather embarrassed himself by telling strangers she should be directing the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The comparison with Ed Lynch was most telling. After the show, I learned the little girl who did such a great job narrating the "Memory Lane" sequence was named Maureen Lynch, Ed's granddaughter? Yes. While I was bragging about Emily, Ed didn't mention the talented Maureen.

Anyway, I was finally able to relieve the terrible pressure on my upper body. It was caused by Tricia, Emily's 2-year-old sister, who was sitting on my shoulders. I thought it would be safe to put her on the floor for just a minute. Wrong.

DISAPPEARING GRANDCHILD

As is her constant wont, Tricia immediately disappeared into the crowd, leaving me and other family members frustrated and miles behind.

Emily turned and smiled at Tricia, revealing the huge gap where her 2 front teeth had been until that afternoon when the dentist removed them so they wouldn't fall out by themselves, on stage in mid-conducting, and rattle a cymbal player.

The entertainment ended with everyone facing the flag and reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, led by...no, I'm not going to tell you.

After the show, there was a cast party at McDonald's. Tricia swiped Emily's French fries, dipped them in ketchup, and pushed them into my face. I don't know why I'm so lucky, but I sure am.

Cass City man arraigned on break-in charges

Two men, including a Cass City resident, were arraigned Friday in Tuscola County District Court in connection with the April 21 break-in of a house and pole barn in Dayton Township.

Larceny reported

The larceny of an American flag and 6-foot flag pole, and a plastic bird feeder, was reported recently to the Cass City Police Department.

Arthur Thomas, 4454 Woodland Avenue, Cass City, told police the items, valued at a total of $45, were taken from his residence some time between July 10 and 13.

Court records state the men are charged with breaking into a house and pole barn near the corner of M-46 and Shaw Road in Dayton Township.

The maximum penalty for the first count is 15 years imprisonment, and 10 years imprisonment for the second offense.

Mossop was arraigned earlier last week on charges of breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny, and unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle.

A preliminary examination on the charges, which stem from the March 26 break-in of a pole barn at 7181 Walter Rd., Cass City, and the allegedly unlawful use of a pickup truck owned by Hazen Brown, also has been scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Friday. Bond was set at $20,000.

Also arraigned Friday was a 31-year-old Cass City man who faces a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third or subsequent offense.

A preliminary examination for Garry M. Viney, 6750 Elmwood Rd., who was arrested by Cass City Police Thursday in Cass City, was slated for 8:30 a.m. Friday. Bond was set at $1,500.

If convicted, Viney could face a penalty of up to 5 years imprisonment and/or a $5,000 fine, and license revocation.

Gagetown resident William F. Abfalter, 22, 5381 Green St., was arraigned last Wednesday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense, and operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended or revoked, July 13 in Indianfields Township.

Abfalter, whose bond was set at $2,000, faces a preliminary examination at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

rates, inefficiencies due to operating certain plants beyond their capacity and increased research and development expenditures.

"Sales of Walbro products for automotive original equipment applications, especially electric fuel pumps, remained high during the second quarter and are expected to remain strong throughout the year," Althaver said.

"Demand for small engine carburetors was also very strong during the second quarter, and Walbro's carburetor manufacturing plants continued to operate at full capacity," Althaver noted.

"The current drought conditions in the United States have reduced retail sales of lawn and garden equipment. As a result, we expect some decline in demand for small engine carburetors in the second half of the year," he added.

WINNER by Maureen O'Donoghue (fiction). Born an Irish tinker, Macha Sheridan is barely 16 when, fleeing the conventions that 19th century society imposed on female orphans, she meets Coper Molloy. Said to "know more about horses than any other man living or dead," Molloy becomes not only her husband, but also her soul mate and tutor in horsemanship. With Molloy as mentor, Macha, in male attire, races winning thoroughbreds. As their future grows, they engineer the audacious event that brings one of their horses to stud with an Irish champion racer, thus ensuring the bloodline that will be a resource for Macha when adversity comes. The first tragedy is Molloy's capture for running Fenian guns and his subsequent suicide (rather than languishing in prison). Macha, now a marked woman, is exiled to England, leaving her twin children with the Irish tinker community. Tempestuous and free-spirited Macha uses her special talent as leverage, but her ascendancy in English society is achieved through 2 ill-fated marriages, one of which brings her a title and entry to the sporting circles of the pleasure-seeking monarch, Edward VII. Waiting patiently, however, is an Irish fellow traveler, similarly attuned to horses, who will journey with her to the States.

ONLY CHILDREN by Rafael Yglesias (fiction). This is a novel about 2 pairs of 35ish upper-middle-class Manhattanites and their only offspring - a son in each case - during the first 5 years of the kids' lives. Eric and Nina Gold, stockbroker and eventual fashion designer, are well married; Peter and Diane Hummel, well-heeled arts fundraiser and attorney, not so well. The story alternates between the Golds and the Hummels in bursts of prose never longer than a few pages. During this period, the fortunes of both marriages alter as Peter successfully undergoes analysis while Diane changes career emphasis and Eric nearly gets dumped from his firm, while Nina realizes her talent for design.

TAPESTRY by Belva Plain (fiction). Set in New York City and Europe during the Great Depression and World War II, this novel is about 32-year-old Paul Werner, son of a wealthy investment banker. Paul seems contented with his life; he's the very image of respectability. But a growing disquiet drives Paul to secretly pursue his former lover and the daughter they had together. Only Paul's wife, Marian, stands in the way of his happiness. Then we have Paul's cousin, Meg, whose husband's mob connections and hunger for power threaten to bring down the family. Both Meg and Paul must make irrevocable choices that will reverberate throughout the family and across 2 continents.

Area consumers can expect to find less produce, higher prices

Local residents can expect to find less produce and pay a little more for what they do find as the effects of the worst drought in years trickle down to consumers.

Area appliance retailers, meanwhile, are reporting a great season for hot weather items, but say those who have waited until now to purchase an air conditioner may be out of luck.

The Michigan Commission of Agriculture earlier this month declared the drought the worst in Michigan's history.

Despite that news, consumers should expect to see only slight to moderate increases in prices, according to Michigan Department of Agriculture spokesman Lori E. Wells, who noted the prices paid to farmers for their raw products are normally only a small percentage of the total cost of products at the retail level.

Area grocers say the drought is already affecting the prices and availability of some food items.

"We're experiencing a shortage of many of the produce items and higher prices when we do find them," Char Krueger, manager of Erla's Food Center in Cass City, remarked.

Krueger cited watermelons as an example, adding that she's had to buy smaller melons to keep prices down. She said she could buy a watermelon for $2 a couple of weeks ago, but now pays at least $2.50.

Other items, such as cauliflower and potatoes "are not the size they normally are and the prices are higher than normal," she continued.

"The farmers I've talked to say most of the crop they're harvesting now is half of what it usually is."

Krueger said the wholesalers she's talked with recently have warned that prices could increase by 5 to 7 percent if drought conditions don't turn around.

She noted that a one-percent price hike for flour, sugar and canned vegetables and fruit was to go into effect this week.

In contrast to produce, consumers can expect to be pleasantly surprised at their local meat counters, at least for a short while.

OUTLOOK

"The outlook for the next 6 months is that meat (prices) will drop," Krueger remarked. She noted high feed costs have resulted in an influx of beef into the market, causing supply to go up and prices to go down. However, prices will start inching back up as the supply decreases, she said.

Harry Lenda, owner of the Cass City IGA Foodliner, said he has also noticed a dip in the quantity of some produce items and a slight increase in prices, but remarked that the situation is "nothing to be concerned about."

"We haven't really been warned of anything. A few items are not up to quality, but nothing serious," he said.

Grocers aren't the only local businessmen feeling the effects of the drought.

"We've had to raise prices right across the line, but how can you recover all of it (loss)?" Joan Merchant, who along with her husband, Stu, own and operate Sommers' Bakery and Restaurant, said.

Merchant, who said rising costs for frying shortening, sugar and bread flour have hurt in recent weeks, added, "The people have accepted it (price increase) because they know what's happening."

Stu Merchant said the cost of soybean oil, used as frying shortening and in bread, has gone up 26 percent since early June. A 50-pound cube of shortening has increased from $16.90 to as high as $26.

Flour, meanwhile, has increased from $12 to $15.50 per hundred pounds over the past month, and sugar has gone from $28 to as high as $33 per hundred pounds, Merchant said, adding, "I'm expecting more increases in doughnut flour and shortening."

The same hot, dry conditions that have wreaked havoc on crops through the state and nation have boosted sales of air conditioners.

Locally, Russ Schneberger of Schneberger's Furniture and Appliances said the demand for air conditioners has overwhelmed the supply.

Detroit has best chance for phone competition

Of the 5 local Access and Transport Areas (LATA's) served by monopoly local telephone companies, only the Detroit area presents the best chance for some long term telephone competition, according to a 208-page report released recently.

The report was a result of an 18-month study conducted under the auspices of the Public Service Commission in considering potential telecommunications competition and alternative forms of regulation in Michigan's LATA's.

Competition is already permitted in providing long-distance telephone service between LATAs.

The PSC hopes to determine whether long distance service within LATA's should be open to all competitors or restricted to local telephone companies.

LATA's are areas that roughly correspond to area codes, although LATA boundaries generally are different from those of area codes.

Bill Ralls, director of Public Communications Associates which was one of 3 companies conducting the study, said it will be "a catalyst to consider competitive alternatives to local service."

He said Bell, other companies, potential competitors and consumer groups will all likely propose policy positions.

The study concluded that: --The potential for telephone competition in most of Michigan's LATA's is doubtful because of insufficient volume of calls or not dense enough population.

--The PSC should consider different rules for different LATAs because of the great differences that exist from one LATA to another in Michigan.

--Unrestricted competition should never be permitted in any one LATA because of the possibility that a lack of potential competitors could lead to an unregulated monopoly.

--Local telephone service should continue to be regulated by the PSC.

Bell spokesman Dean Hovey said the firm would not comment until officials have examined the report. Bell serves 3.5 million homes and businesses in Michigan, by far the largest number of customers for a local company in Michigan.

Lee Selwyn, president of Economics and Technology, Inc., who conducted the portion of the study dealing with the telecommunication market in Michigan, cautioned against eliminating telephone regulation due to Michigan's nature of geographic, population and other factors affecting service.

"I recommend that state policymakers retain existing regulatory oversight of dominant carrier pricing and services, while considering targeted policies that could allow specialized competition in certain market segments or 'niches,'" he said.

Tom Muth of the Department of Telecommunication at Michigan State University, who prepared the regulatory alternatives portion of the study, said the study concludes that deregulation has increased rather than decreased responsibilities of state telecommunication regulatory agencies.

State's best includes two from North Central Thumb League

About the last thing a rational person would be thinking about doing during the heat and drought of '88 would be dressing up in 25 pounds of gear, enclosing your head in an airless hard hat, and running wind sprints at midday.

But that's exactly what 2 area youths will be doing July 21-30 at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing as they prepare for the East-West All-Star football game, to be played Saturday, July 30.

The elite squad is made up of the finest high school players in the state from all classes.

The 2 youngest are graduates Gary Jaster of Kingston High School and Chris Abbe of Owen-Gage High School.

Both are competing for one reason and one reason only. Neither of the pair expect to play another year of organized football; neither will make money because of the game played with a pig skin, neither will be in the limelight because of football ever again.

Abbe will be joining the United States Marine Corps

Aug. 2, in the Security Forces Division, in pursuit of becoming a member of the State Police. Jaster, meanwhile, plans to head right into the work field, with college possible in the near future.

Both are doing this simply because they love football.

And that's why the two accomplished so much during their high school tenures, amplified by their banner senior years.

To start with, both were All State class D performers, as well as 2-way starters. Besides All State distinction, Abbe received recognition from the Tuscola County Advertiser, Saginaw News, Detroit Free Press and Detroit News.

Like Abbe, Jaster was also included on many dream teams, including the Tuscola County Advertiser, Saginaw News, and both Detroit papers. Both players were 1st team selections in the North Central Thumb League, Jaster on both offense and defense.

One might think to be this caliber of a football star you would have to be built out of the same mold. Abbe and Jaster could be twins. Both support about 6-foot tall frames and adhere to the rule, "beater to hit than to be hit," as both players would rather play defense than offense.

Both feel that football will be beneficial later in life. Jaster said the game has taught him "never to give up." Abbe remarked that the word "discipline" sums up better than anything else what football has taught him.

For Abbe, receiving this recognition tops his list of achievements. Jaster, on the other hand, had the opportunity of playing on the NCTL's championship team, and beating favorite Deckerville in this year's homecoming game.

According to Kingston's Head Coach Mike Rae, Jaster was "instrumental" in the Cardinal championship team.

And although both players really dread the thought of another week of summer practice, their least favorite part of the game, you can be sure that such determination will make each of these young men an even greater success in whatever lies in store for them in the future.

Winners earn trip

Students to name NASA's new shuttle

Students in kindergarten through 12th grade across the United States are invited to participate in a national competition to name a new Space Shuttle orbiter for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Interested parties can obtain an Announcement of Opportunity by contacting the Council of Chief State School Officers in Washington, D.C., which is administering the program for NASA. School faculty members may request Orbiter-Naming Program Entry Packets by calling (202) 783-5109 or (202) 783-5113, or by writing: NASA Orbiter-Naming Program, Council of Chief State School Officers, 400 North Capitol Street, N.W., Suite 379, Washington, D.C. 20001.

Faculty members must provide their name, the name of their school and the address to which they would like the packet sent.

To enter, elementary and secondary school students will form teams and research a name for the orbiter. Each team, under the guidance of a school faculty member who will serve as team coordinator, will prepare a classroom project to support and justify the name selected. The name proposed must be the name of a sea vessel used in research or exploration.

There will be 2 entry divisions: Division I will include kindergarten through 6th grade and Division II, 7th through 12th grades. Orbiter-naming projects must be completed during the fall semester and entries must be postmarked by Dec. 31, 1988. Students in public and nonpublic schools are eligible.

Winners from each division will be named at the state level in March 1989. NASA will announce the national winners in each division and the orbiter's name in May 1989.

Representatives of the national winning teams will receive an expense-paid trip to a NASA-related event, and a School Involvement Program will be conducted at the 2 schools.

The new orbiter, currently designated OV 105, is being built to replace the Challenger and is scheduled to be completed in 1991.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

One of the family is visiting us in Florida, and we're talking astronomy, of all things. My mental file on the subject is skimpy. I do remember during the war, we were convoying off Cuba the first day of summer. Taking a noon sight with the sextant, I find the sun is straight up—90 degrees. Enough to give you a crick in the neck.

Our latitude is 23°27' north.

A look at the tables shows that's as far north as the sun gets. Next day in the same spot it would say 89 1/2 degrees.

"Humph!" says our guest. "Then how come on Long Island in the summer it sets in the northwest? That's north of us, even up in New York."

I find in such situations it is simpler to write to The Old Navigator, sometimes known as Cap'n Fred Bold of San Francisco, and let him do the thinking. For the cost of a stamp, it's money well spent; it saves wearing out the brain cells.

What I get in reply is harder to fathom than the original problem.

The page of single-space typing is too much for me, during the July 1988 heat wave.

Cap'n Fred explains that the sun goes around a parallel of latitude in its daily circuit of the globe. But a line of latitude is not a straight line, except at the equator. Aha!

So after the sun passes from morning to afternoon, it is still following the line of latitude. As it sets, it is some 6,000 or 7,000 miles away, and we are looking across the chord, and it seems to be north.

For all his trouble Cap'n Fred extracts a quid pro quo. He wants to know what to do with some cash in a money market fund.

California is notorious for its state income tax, so you're talking about a total tax of State and Federal of 35%. You invest in stocks or corporate bonds or governments, you're going to keep only 65% of the return.

Apply this "keeping money" figure of 65% to taxable choices and you get: Money markets.....4.4% 10-year gov'ts.....5.85% A-rated Corps.....6.24%

Now look at California's State of California's

Of course, this is not an apples and apples comparison. Money market funds have such short maturities there is little change in the rate in a 30-day span. And you can peel off any amount you need.

An A-rated utility bond is good quality, but not in the class of a triple-A U.S. government.

The 7.7% California tax exempt goes out to 2011, over twice as long as the 10-year government, but a third shorter than the 30-year taxable utility bond.

Who's to say what's best to buy?

Still another choice: First Australia Fund, listed on ASE, closes-end mutual of Australia and New Zealand bonds. Yield about 12%, taxable. Yield to Californians in 35% tax bracket—7.8%. Fund sells at about 10% discount to assets. Currency exchange can help or hurt you. Easily marketable as a listed security.

Cap'n Fred also wants to know should he take some capital gains this year or wait for Democrats to get in and raise taxes in 1989. My own phrenologist says Federal tax rates will be left alone but the sneaky Petes in Washington will cancel off some deductions hoping you won't notice.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.

weight about 60 pounds per bushel.

Other than those figures it's still early to tell much more about the Sanilac County crop until more wheat comes in.

Tuscola County's crop, however, is doing unexpectedly well, Bortel said. He remarked that the wheat crop was anticipated by many to be hurt badly by the drought, but except for plants having small kernels, overall quality is "reasonably good."

Tuscola county has recorded yields per acre measuring from 5-60 bushels. Crops grown in the darker clay loam have averaged upwards to 50 bushels per acre, while the lighter sandy loam yields have averaged around the 30-bushel range, Bortel continued.

Nothing over 60 bushels, which is 25 bushels below normal levels and 10 bushels below last year's top yield of 70 bushels, has been reported.

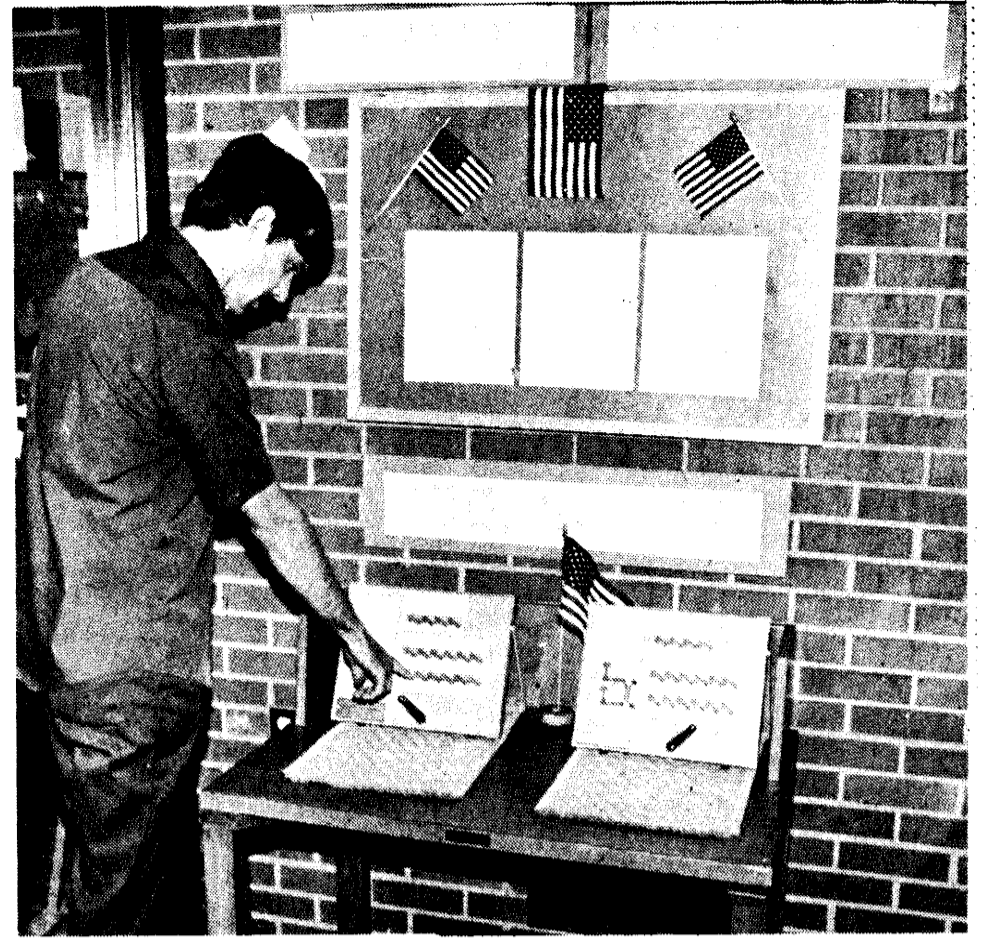

Test weights in Tuscola county have measured around 57 pounds, Bortel said. He attributed the 3-pound underweight crop to a decrease in density caused by dryness.

Bortel said no wheat has been totally destroyed by the drought, adding that most wheat has been harvested, especially the wheat grown on light sandy fields.

Something beneficial brought by the recent drought, Bortel mentioned, is the "fantastic weather to harvest in." In the past farmers have been hit by hard rains when they've started to harvest.

Also, the lack of rain has kept disease out of the fields. It's been too dry and the wheat is so small, Bortel commented, that "disease couldn't find the wheat."

One of 3 pleads guilty in robbery

Vega and Jordan also were charged with possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony, while Nerkowski was also charged with breaking and entering and larceny in a building in connection with the Feb. 28 break-in of the Joseph D. Rocheleau residence in Galetown.

Both incidents were drug related, according to authorities and testimony presented at the trio's preliminary examination last March.

Nerkowski is the only one of the 3 defendants free on bond.

In proceedings Friday, a 17-year-old Flint man was sentenced to prison for conviction of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny, and jail escape.

Daniel L. Gardner was sentenced to 7 1/2 years to 14 years on the first count, and one to 4 years, with credit for time already served, on the second count. Court records state Gardner was charged with breaking into houses at 2166 W. Brown Rd. in Fremont Township and 4578 S. Atkins Rd. in Vassar, March 6 and March 4, respectively. He escaped from the Tuscola County Jail May 21.

Also receiving a prison term was Matthew J. Saylor, 19, of Flint, who was sentenced to 24 months to 48 months in prison for a plea of guilty to felonious assault. He'll receive credit for time already served.

Court records state Saylor attacked Richard Jacques with a pipe or club Nov. 30, 1986, in Watertown Township.

Two county residents stood mute to charges of escaping from the county jail June 3.

Pre-trials for William C. Pomeroy Jr., 21, 3765 W. Caro Rd., Caro, and James Stevens Jr., 27, 4648 S. State Rd., Vassar, have been scheduled for Friday. Bond for each man was continued at $5,000.

Pomeroy is charged with escape while awaiting trial for a felony, while Stevens is charged with escape while awaiting transfer for sentence.

The offense carries a maximum penalty of 4 years imprisonment and/or a $2,000 fine.

Also Friday, Cass City resident Trevor A. Tyfair, 22, 4580 Hill St., entered a plea of guilty to probation violation during his arraignment.

Tyfair, who failed to report to his supervising parole officer, was ordered to pay court costs and fines in full. His probation was dismissed.

Tyfair was sentenced to 24 months probation after being convicted April 7, 1986, of unlawful use of a motor vehicle, and conspiracy for unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Both faculty members, the board and school Supt. Harley Kirby indicated they expect the arrangement to serve the high school well.

During discussion with the staff members, Thies indicated he and D'Aoust will complement each other. Although initial "bugs" are expected, he said, "I'm hoping, between the 2 of us, we can cover it."

"The 2 of us sat down with the idea of trying to see what the school system needed,"

Thies remarked, adding that splitting up the duties of discipline and administration makes sense. "A counselor can't be a disciplinarian and still be a counselor in my opinion, (and) it appeared I was already doing a lot of discipline myself," Thies continued.

Thies stated he intends to address a number of discipline problems, including finding a place, other than school halls, for kids who are kicked out of their classrooms.

"I'm going to find some place in here where I'm going to isolate those individuals," he said, adding that he plans to take advantage of the county's "quiet room" program if necessary. The program allows schools to send hard to handle students to a central "quiet room" as an alternative to suspension.

"I want the teacher to know that they have my backing," he added.

Both Thies and D'Aoust indicated they also intend to go over the school's student handbook.

In other business during the 2 1/2-hour special session, the board met with parent Judy Harp and bus driver Carol Ellicott in a 90-minute executive session to discuss complaints voiced by Harp over the treatment of her children by Ellicott.

Although Harp agreed to air the issue in open session, Ellicott requested that the matter be discussed behind closed doors.

Also Monday, the board hired Lynette Halabis to replace teacher John W. Osterland for the 1988-89 school year. The board granted Osterland a one-year leave of absence.

A Central Michigan University graduate, Halabis has a major in physical education and a minor in health education, Kirby pointed out, adding that her qualifications will aid the district in its plans to begin offering an AIDS curriculum in conjunction with health education.

Seat belt not worn by fatal accident victim

Following impact, Wilson's vehicle left the roadway and rolled over 2 to 3 times before coming to a stop, reports state.

Wilson, who was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, by Vassar Ambulance. Balluck, who was wearing a seat belt, sought her own treatment for minor injuries.

Injuries also were reported in other weekend crashes.

Three persons were hurt Friday evening in a 2-vehicle mishap on East Sanilac Road east of Hurds Corner Road in Wells Township.

Reports state a vehicle driven by Michelle K. Gibbs, 18, of Caro turned east onto M-46 and then attempted to turn left into a driveway when her vehicle was struck by another east-bound vehicle, driven by Eugene R. Sims, 63, 7751 Rossman Rd., Kingston.

Sims told troopers he didn't have time to stop and that he attempted to pass Gibbs' vehicle.

Gibbs and a passenger in her vehicle, Christine McCory, 4180 Cat Lake Rd., Mayville, were transported by EMS Ambulance to Caro Community Hospital, where they were treated and released. Sims sought his own treatment following the 6:15 p.m. crash.

Troopers, who noted they were assisted by Kingston Police, cited Gibbs for a seat belt violation.

A Caro motorist sought her own treatment for injuries sustained in a mishap Saturday near East Caro Road east of Colwood Road in Ellington Township.

Beverly J. Donnelly, 2215 Wells Rd., was injured when her northeast bound vehicle left East Caro Road in an effort to avoid striking another northeast bound vehicle, which was stopped in preparation for a turn.

Donnelly, who reports indicate was not wearing a seat belt, was cited by troopers for violating the basic speed law. Her vehicle sustained light to moderate damage in the 11 a.m. mishap.

Earlier last week, a Cass City area man was cited following a one-vehicle accident on Dickerson Road west of McGregor Road in Elmwood Township.

Reports state that Charles W. Kappen, 3192 E. Cass City Rd., was eastbound on Dickerson Road at 3:30 a.m. July 11 when he fell asleep, drove into a ditch and hit a cultivator.

Kappen was cited for failing to report a property damage accident, careless driving and a seat belt violation.

Area motorists arrested in separate incidents Thursday

Cass City Police arrested 2 motorists--one on his birthday--in separate incidents at about the same time Thursday on suspicion of drinking and driving.

Garry M. Viney, 31, 6531 E. Main St., Cass City, was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor following a 2-vehicle accident on Seeger Street near Main Street.

Witnesses told police that Viney's northbound vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed when it struck another northbound vehicle, driven by Joseph B. Steadman, 6556 Pine St., Cass City. Steadman's vehicle was stopped and preparing to make a right turn onto

Main Street at the time of the 10:05 p.m. crash, police said.

Steadman sought his own treatment for minor injuries. Both vehicles sustained light damage.

At about the same time at the intersection of North Seeger and Seed streets, Ronald T. Heckroth, 23, 7256 Mushroom Rd., Deford, was stopped and arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Reports state police stopped Heckroth, who turned 23 Thursday, after observing his vehicle drive left of the Seeger Street center line.

Police also reported a number of minor vehicle mishaps over the past week. John Maharg, Cass City, reported minor damage to his vehicle, which was struck by an unknown vehicle Friday while parked at Rolling Hills Golf Course. Two eastbound vehicles, driven by Kenneth A. McBride, 6595 VanDyke Rd., Bad Axe, and Theodore W. Thayer II, 6510 Kelly Rd., Cass City, collided Thursday on Main Street at the Seeger Street intersection.

A vehicle driven by Michael C. Hess of Hartford pulled out from a parking space on Main Street east of Leach Street and struck an eastbound vehicle driven by Mary E. Wilson, 5354 E. Cass City Rd., Cass City, at about 12:30 p.m. last Wednesday.

Also last Wednesday, a northbound vehicle driven by Douglas L. Wilson, 3678 Akron Rd., Cass City, ran a red light at the intersection of Main and Seeger streets and was struck by a westbound vehicle, driven by Danny B. Gee, 6603 Elizabeth St., Cass City.

Nagelkirk new director in Sanilac County

Port Sanilac resident Martin L. Nagelkirk has been appointed the director of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in Sanilac County.

Nagelkirk replaces district dairy agent Joseph R. Shaltry, who has been acting county extension director since Roberta Weber left the position in November.

Nagelkirk graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in crop and soil sciences in 1977. He obtained his master's degree in agronomy from Cornell University in 1985.

Nagelkirk was an extension agricultural agent in Onondaga County in New York from 1978 to 1987. He was also the New York State Fair superintendent for the forage and grain department during that time. Then he moved to Sanilac County as the extension agricultural agent.

He will be responsible for the administration and continuation of extension education programs in agriculture and marketing, home economics, natural resources and public policy.

Nagelkirk will also maintain a working relationship with the Sanilac County Board of Commissioners, extension advisory groups and other organizations interested in the continued improvement of extension programs for Sanilac County residents.

The Sanilac County Extension Offices are located at 37 Austin St., Sandusky.

Barbara Koepf, mother of 3, graduated with an associate's degree in business administration. Currently, Koepf is seeking employment in her field of study. She said she hopes to find her new job in the Cass City area.

Koepf and her husband John reside at 2557 N. Dodge Rd.

Fellow graduate, Edward LaBelle, 6793 3rd St. acquired an associate's degree in accounting from GLJC. LaBelle remains employed at Blue Water Harvestore Systems Inc., Marlette, where he has worked 6 years.

LaBelle, the father of 2, and his wife Pam have been residents of Cass City for 20 years ago.
