Memorial for Fred Pinney set Wednesday

The community lost one of its strongest boosters and a retired prominent business leader Friday when Frederick Harry Pinney, 83, died at Midland Hospital Center in Midland.

A memorial service for the Cass City native will be held Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Cass City.

Pinney served with distinction for 57 years at the Pinney State Bank, now Chemical Bank Bay Area. He started at the bank as a clerk in 1926 at the insistence of his father, returning from college with only a year remaining to earn a law degree.

He became president in 1931, taking over from his mother, and served until 1976. He remained as chairman of the board. In 1982 the bank was sold to Chemical Financial Corporation. He continued to serve as chairman until April 20, 1987, when he retired.

Robert Keating, who worked with him as a teller and later as president, said that he was a good man to work with and for. He dedicated his life to the bank, Keating said, as a way to serve the community.

Dr. D. E. Rawson, Cass City, who had been associated with Pinney as a member of the Pinney State Bank board, as a friend and as a member of many community civic groups, said that Pinney always was interested in the community and in ways to promote it.

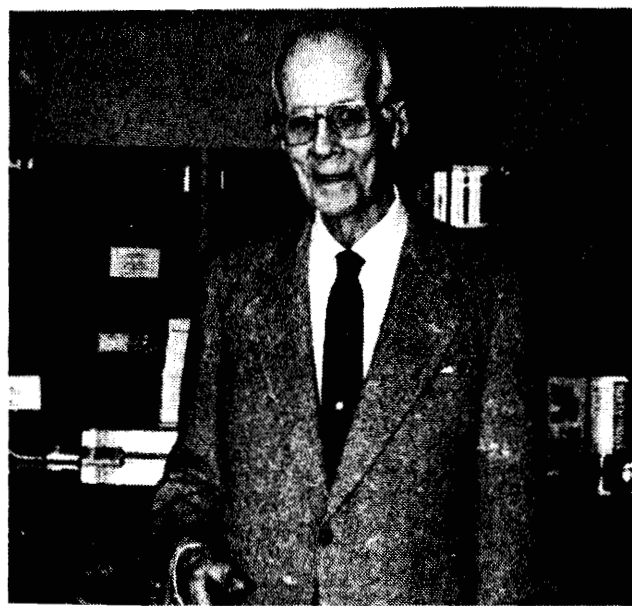

Pinney was a member of many civic and social groups. He was a member and singer in the famed Michigan Opera. He is a past president of the Cass City Rotary. He served as a member and later as president of the Cass City Village Council. He was a life member of Tyler Lodge

No. 317 F&AM, Cass City, and was a member and served as a trustee of the First Presbyterian Church, Cass City.

He could be counted on for support of any local project. He was a generous contributor to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Typical of his regard for the village was a donation by Chemical Bank of $1,500 to the village for the purchase of bleachers at the park as the bank celebrated its 100th year in 1986 while Pinney still served as chairman.

County okays vote to add millage

Tuscola County commissioners last week approved placing on the Nov. 8 General Election ballot a county-wide millage request of .1 of a mill to fund the county Veteran's Counselor office. Wilbur Partlo of Akron, one of 2 representatives of the Allied Veteran's Council to approach commissioners, said the millage would fund a full-time veterans office as well as provide money for the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund.

"We've got a lot of families that need a place to go. They don't even know what they're entitled to (and) there are a lot of benefits they never get," Partlo remarked after the county board's Aug. 23 meeting.

Partlo said the millage would be levied for 4 years beginning in 1989, and would raise about $57,000 per year. Some $47,000 of that would be used to expand the veterans office hours from 3 days to 5 days, he said, adding the remaining $10,000 would go to the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund, which provides for needy veterans and their families.

Partlo stressed the importance of approving the millage in order to expand service to area veterans. He noted that many of the county's 7,000 veteran files haven't been updated in years.

"I think we've got to sell it (millage)," Partlo said. "We're only talking $2 (more per year in taxes) for the average household."

TAX HEARING

Also during the board's regular session, commissioners approved holding a Truth in Taxation hearing Sept. 6 at 3:30 p.m.

The hearing, which is required of taxing units which stand to collect more revenue than in the previous year, is necessary primarily because of 2 additional millage levies approved by voters in August, county Controller Michael Hoagland said.

The levies—.2 of a mill for senior citizen services, and .9 of a mill for the sheriff's road patrol and dispatch—will increase the county's overall assessment from 5.2 mills to 6.3 mills, an increase of some $618,000 in taxes.

No action will be taken at the hearing, but commissioners, at a later meeting, can either accept the additional revenue or roll back taxes.

Negotiations continue

Cass City teachers work "day-by-day"

Teacher contract negotiations are progressing well in the Kingston and Owen-Gage school districts, but the prospects are less optimistic in Cass City, a Tri-County Bargaining Association official said Monday.

Talks are continuing in all 3 districts as the 1988-89 school year gets underway, but whether all 3 will avoid a strike remains a question, according to Sheldon Markley, executive director of the association.

Markley said there is "hardly any optimism" in on-going negotiations in the Cass City School District, where talks were scheduled to resume Tuesday.

"That one is going inordinately slow," he remarked. "The progress has not been something to write home to mother about."

"They're not even discussing the economic issues at this point," he continued, adding several issues remain open. "And the teachers have requested (and received) strike authorization."

According to Cass City Education Association President Lloyd Schinnerer, the teachers have taken a stand in which they agreed to work Monday and Tuesday (Aug. 29 and 30), but work thereafter will be decided on a day-to-day basis.

School Supt. Ken Micklash, who noted negotiations have been held regularly over the summer, commented he believes the talks are progressing on a new contract, which would replace a 2-year pact that expired Aug. 15.

"We've been moving along," he added.

In contrast, Markley said negotiations in the Kingston district are expected to net a contract soon. He said talks, held Thursday, Saturday and Monday, are tentatively set to resume Friday.

Monday and Tuesday. They will be on a day-to-day basis.

Markley noted teachers, whose current 2-year contract expires today (Wednesday), reported to work Monday "as an act of faith in hopes of settling a contract."

Although several issues remain open, recent discus-

ed to work

work thereafter

sions involving salaries and benefits are important, he pointed out. "If we can pull that off, we hope the rest of it (will) fall into place."

Kingston High School Principal Wayne Wright, who has been involved in the negotiations, also expressed optimism, saying relations at the table have been good.

Negotiations also appear promising in the Owen-Gage district, where teachers have been without a contract since August 1987, when a 4-year pact expired.

"We've resolved everything except the economics," Markley said. "They (teachers) have not requested strike authorization and I don't anticipate they will."

School Supt. Harley Kirby, who noted the next negotiation session is set for Sept. 15, said he's optimistic.

"It's going pretty smoothly. Our hang-up right now is in the insurance area, (but) we're moving right along. I don't expect any stoppage," he added.

Book dedicated to late Cass Cityan

A Colorado author has dedicated his latest book to late fellow author Lawrence Wright, who died Oct. 11, 1987, in Cass City after a lengthy bout with cancer. He was 44.

Fawcett Gold Medal novelist Jim Miller paid tribute to Wright via a dedication that reads: "This one is for Lawrence Wright, one helluva fighter. Like many a man of the frontier, he went before his time. And, like many of those men, he left a legacy and all the hope in the world."

Miller, who has 17 westerns in circulation and resides in Aurora, Colo., heard about the late author from the Aurora-based National Writers Club and Associated Business Writers of America (in metropolitan Denver).

Wright, who was married and the father of 3 children, wrote numerous articles for smaller publications and published a small press book, "Letters from God." Like many writers, he struggled for success, Miller said.

"Although he never made it big—as some would describe it—as a writer, he never gave up, not even when he was sick. Success is measured in many ways," the novelist pointed out.

In a letter to the National Writers Club, Wright's widow, Karen Wright of Cass City, wrote, "Please, don't let my husband's name be forgotten."

Miller heard of the request and remarked, "Tell Mrs. Wright her husband will be remembered." He wrote the tribute to Wright on a napkin over lunch and made it the dedication for his fifth "Long Gun Series" book from Fawcett Gold Medal, "That Damn Single Shot" is a 1988 summer release.

When Miller talked recently with Mrs. Wright by telephone to read the dedication and tell her the book was published, she burst into tears. "Today would have been our 18th wedding anniversary. Larry would have been so proud."

"What can I say," Miller commented later. "He deserved the recognition."

Grower survey indicates

Fruit quality, quantity still good despite drought

by Tom Montgomery
News Editor

Thumb area fruit stands and markets should have plenty of apples, pears, peaches and other favorites this season, but the fruit is expected to be smaller than normal due to record drought conditions.

Good crops of apples, peaches and pears are expected at Trisch's Orchard, located about 9 miles southwest of Cass City on Colwood Rd.

Ruth Trisch, who along with her husband, Lloyd, own and operate the 5-acre orchard, says the drought has taken a toll on their fruit. She added, however, "The last few rains are going to help the fruit size up better."

"The older trees seem to take it (drought) better, but the 4 to 6-year-old trees we had to keep watering," Trisch remarked. "There are going to be a lot of peaches, a good crop of apples (and) a good yield of pears, but they are a little smaller than they usually are."

The Trisch's, who grow a variety of apples as well as sweet cherries and plums, have about 1,000 fruit trees.

Trisch, who noted the harvest is just getting underway, said she expects prices to be comparable to last year.

Arnold and Louise Schweitzer, owners of Schweitzer's Orchard, located about 7 miles northeast of Owendale on Grassmere Road, also reported feeling the effects of the drought.

The couple said they've noticed that the amount of fruit this season varies from tree to tree in their 1,000-tree orchard, where they grow 17 varieties of apples.

"Some of the trees are loaded, and some don't have an apple on them. It's very uncertain at this stage just what's going to happen to these apples," Arnold remarked. "We've had some moisture, but we need some more."

"We'll have fruit, but how it's going to turn out, I don't know. There isn't going to be any luscious, big fruit around here," he continued, adding that it's too early to tell what prices will do.

"It's just one of those years where the farmers who are growing beans and corn aren't the only ones getting hurt," Arnold commented.

Kay Miller, who along with her husband, Everitt, own and operate Miller's Family Orchards, agreed.

SALABLE

"I think this is going to be one of those years where if we can get something that's salable, we're going to be thankful," she said.

The Millers, whose orchard is located about 8 miles southwest of Caro, have 130 acres in production. They sell a variety of fruit to some Thumb supermarkets in addition to operating a farm market.

"We're currently picking peaches. They look amazing," Miller remarked, adding, "We had a 2 1/2-inch rain; I think that was a factor."

"The apples are beginning to size now. They aren't going to be as large as they would have," she continued.

Although recent showers have helped, they fell too late for the Millers' cherry crop, about one third of which was lost due to high temperatures and winds.

Miller noted that consumers can expect to see higher prices. "They're going to have to be up, not so much because of the drought, but because production costs have gone up so much," she said.

According to Eric Frahm, an agricultural agent with Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service, fruit farmers may see longer lasting effects from the drought compared to other farmers because the quality of next year's fruit crop will be determined this year.

"They're going to see some reduced yields this year," he said, adding that area growers are doing better in terms of moisture this season than are farmers along the west side of the state.

According to the Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service, apples and peaches continue to be the fruit crops most affected by the high temperatures and drought.

The lack of rain has prevented the fruit from sizing normally, and warm night temperatures have kept apples from coloring well.

Grapes and pears are less affected. Grapes are generally deeply root, and are withstanding the weather better than other fruits.

Pears, meanwhile, actually show an increase in production, in part because last season's crop was small, and because the majority of Michigan's pear trees are old and have extensive, deep root systems. Plums, like apples, are smaller than normal and won't color well without cooler weather.

GOOD CROPS OF apples, peaches and pears are being reported by some Thumb orchard owners, despite effects, including smaller fruit, from record drought conditions this summer. Above, Ruth Trisch picks some early McIntosh apples from the Tuscola County orchard she and husband Lloyd own.

The joy of painting

by Melva E. Guinther

Heaven help us! Stan has rediscovered the joy of spray painting!

It's an awesome thing to behold when an innocent can of paint transforms this normally sensible, mild-mannered man into a frenzied maniac.

He gets a glint in his eye when he spies a can of Rustoleum Wood Saver or Pittsburgh Spray Enamel.

I wonder if it's the same mania that grips graffiti artists in the cities.

I'm just glad the kids aren't home to see him like this.

So far he's spray painted shelves, tables, chairs, cabinets and the basement. And the cat is getting nervous.

Fortunately, he's confined himself mostly to white, but I live in perpetual fear that he'll discover colors.

We had one of our biggest rows ever one Labor Day when he spray painted all the kitchen cupboards.

We had to vacate the house for 3 days.

It's really not safe to be around him when he's on a paint binge.

And he's so conservative when he's not painting.

No kidding, in our home, you can tell the age of an object by the color of its paint specks.

"The suitcase? Oh, we've had it at least 6 years. That's when Dad painted the bedroom peach."

"Now, Honey, you know it's time to discard those pants. You wore them when you painted the stairway back in '81."

"We must have bought that clock before the picture. See, it has beige specks and the picture's are white."

Of course, this current paint craze could be just a ruse. Bow hunting season begins Oct 1, followed by gun season, followed by bow season again.

Is a wife likely to complain about her spouse's absence if it means an end to the perpetual paint fumes?

Or perhaps he figures I'll opt to hire any work around the house done next time.

I really don't believe that much forethought goes into it though.

It's more like he gets a sudden surge of power from holding the paint can, similar to that imparted by the TV remote control.

I know some of you are saying I should be grateful. After all, his harmless painting keeps him out of the pool hall.

Do you suppose the pool hall could use a paint job?

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Morell were notified Thursday of the death of their nephew, Gordon Rickett, of Yale.

Mrs. Ed Hunt of Livonia and Jon Wilhelmi of East Detroit spent the week end with their mother, Mrs. Lilah Wilhelmi. Mrs. Hunt remained to spend the week with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hurd and daughter Sharada of Gagetown, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright of Davisburg were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright Sunday.

Dale and Mary Damm were dinner guests of their son and family, Randy, Carmen and Jason Damm, and daughter and son-in-law, Susan and Tim Wooster, at Wildwood Farms Sunday. The occasion was Dale and Mary's 35th wedding anniversary. They also have a son, Rick, of Port Richey, Fla., who spent a week with his parents, Aug. 1 to Aug. 8, and attended the wedding of Susan and Tim Wooster.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Geiger

Ronald and Shirley Geiger of Cass City were honored Sunday, Aug. 28, on their 40th wedding anniversary with dinner at Gracie's Country House, south of Saginaw.

The dinner was hosted by their 4 children and their

O-G seniors hold meeting

Also, a moment of silent prayer was observed for Art Thomas, who died recently.

Sinister fruit

Deathly delicious: Perhaps the most sinister of tropical fruits is the akee, whose toxic flesh and seeds have killed more than 5000 people since 1865. National Wildlife magazine reports that the fatal fruit is still popular in Jamaica. The akee is both sage and delicious when fully ripe and cooked.

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Burrows

Julie Ann Pillsbury and David William Burrows exchanged wedding vows

Saturday, June 11, at the Gagetown United Methodist Church. Rev. Zina Bennett performed the 4 o'clock double-ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Thomas Pillsbury of Saginaw and Caroline Ziolkowski of West Palm Beach, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. William Burrows of Gagetown are parents of the groom.

The bride wore a blush pink satin Victorian gown iced with beaded, sequin Alencon lace trim on the wedding band collar and bodice. The full ballroom skirt featured a bustle back and cathedral train. The dress was designed and sewn by the bride. A headpiece of white and pink satin flowers with fingertip veil and bouquet of white and pink roses accented with ivy complemented her attire.

Attending the bride was Diane Gaeth of Sebawaing. She wore a bright rose pink satin gown with fitted bodice and full ballroom skirt, accented at the sleeves and back with bows. She carried pink roses with white carnations.

Best man for his brother was Tim Burrows of Mesa, Ariz. Ushers were Jeff Sigmund of Sebawaing and Aaron DeMarrow of Mt. Pleasant.

All flowers were silk, designed and made by the bride, as was the wedding cake.

The bride's mother wore an ivory georgette dress with gold trim and the groom's mother chose a light aqua chiffon dress. Both had corsages of white silk roses.

A dinner reception for 200 guests was held at Sherwood on the Hill in Gagetown.

The couple honeymooned at Crystal Mountain Resort and are residing in Unionville.

The first scientist to distinguish vertebrates from invertebrates was Jean Baptiste de Lamarck, around the turn of the 19th century.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Fred Pinney has been retired for awhile now and out of the public eye for about a decade. A good many residents will probably be surprised by the things that he has done in the village.

A personal note about Fred. As a news source he left a lot to be desired. You had to pry out the story of any of his good deeds. He was naturally quiet and self-effacing and to learn what he accomplished was an accomplishment in itself. If he felt you were good for the community, he backed you with dollars as I learned when I went to the bank to get money to finish buying the Chronicle from a silent partner.

He evidently thought that the way the paper was run was good for Cass City as he lent me money and the only security he requested was my signature on the note.

My story could be repeated by many old-time Cass City business persons over the years.

Incidents of larceny and vandalism reported locally

Several incidents of larceny and malicious destruction of property were reported to the Cass City Police Department over the past week.

Cass City resident Richard C. Hall, 4741 N. Seeger St., reported a car stereo and 2 tool boxes stolen from the garage at his home sometime between 12:30 p.m. Aug. 19 and 6 p.m. Aug. 24.

The total value of the items is estimated at $200.

Richard Erla, 4633 Huron Avenue, Cass City, told police someone took a name sign and damaged a newspaper holder, both located in his front yard, Friday or Saturday.

Erla's neighbor, Grant O. Glaspie, 4663 Huron Avenue, reported similar vandalism at his home. Glaspie reported that he returned home Saturday to find an address sign and a yard decorative bird missing from his front yard.

Both items were later recovered in the parking lot of Dr. Beatriz Martin's clinic, reports state.

Larceny of an auto hood ornament was reported by Leona M. Englehart, 6530 E. Main St., Cass City.

Englehart told police the ornament was taken over the weekend while the car was parked in the parking lot behind Sommers Bakery.

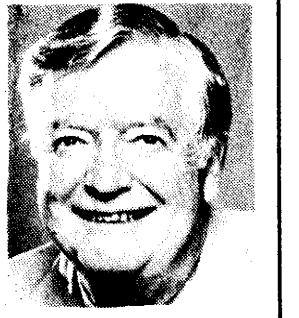

Also filing a report was Joanne E. Hopper, 4259 S. Seeger St., Cass City, who stated her car was damaged Aug. 27 when a tree limb fell on the vehicle.

No damage estimate was available.

"If It Fitz..."

Silly arguments

By Jim Fitzgerald

My wife is among the many opposed to casino gambling in Detroit. She has been to Las Vegas and Atlantic City, and was dismayed by the sight of people betting money for greed and excitement, rather than spending it on food for the hungry or shelter for the homeless.

I often ask how she feels when she goes shopping and sees the lines of people waiting to bet money on the greed and excitement sparked by the state lottery. Many of those bettors should spend the money on their own food and shelter.

But she doesn't buy my hypocrisy-discrimination argument. I say it's discrimination for the government to approve — encourage! — gambling by horse bettors and lottery players, while at the same time saying it's against the law for slot machine and blackjack players to have the same sort of fun. And it's monumentally hypocritical to say casino gambling is immoral, but betting on the lottery and horses isn't.

Casino opponents say "casinos are different" because they attract crime and, besides, they "won't save the city."

CRIME ARGUMENT IS OVERBLOWN

No sale. How much did government-controlled horse and lottery betting increase crime? Why should government-controlled casinos increase it any more? With honest, tight law enforcement, the only increase would be in street crime, in direct proportion to the increase in tourists attracted by casinos.

And the "won't save the city" argument is silly, a straw man set up for easy knockdown by casino opponents. Casinos wouldn't make Detroit prosperous. They would provide some low-paying, but surely needed, jobs and some added tax revenue. They would increase tourism and convention trade. They'd help a little, but Detroit needs a hell of a lot more than casinos. It needs businesses and industries that provide more than fast-food jobs. Anyone with half a brain knows that.

As for my moral-hypocrites argument, I realize it doesn't fit all casino opponents. Some of them are also opposed to horse betting and the lottery, they're just not as loud about it. But, then again, there is the group of black Detroit ministers who oppose casinos but are urging their flocks to vote against a proposal that would forbid casino gambling in Detroit if it's approved for the rest of the state.

The ministers' reasoning is that although casino gambling is immoral, it would be racial discrimination if Detroit couldn't have it, and other Michigan cities could. That's morality with geographical limitations, and it's incredible.

The Haire Net

MAYBE MORALITY IS TO BLAME

What about casinos attracting organized crime? There are those who believe "Morality Sustains Organized Crime." That was the headline on a 1972 column by Sydney Harris, the late nationally syndicated columnist whose clear-thinking logic was popular with Free Press readers for many years. Harris wrote:

"It is our morality — or what we construe as morality, in the narrow Puritan tradition — that indicts gambling as an "immoral" activity. And it is Puritan ethos that demands the immoral be made illegal.

"Because gambling is largely illegal in the U.S., this multibillion-dollar activity has fallen into the hands of illegal entrepreneurs. And gambling money is the "grubstake" these men use — the investment capital, as it were — to pry their way into dozens of other lucrative rackets and enterprises... Organized crime can flourish only as long as organized moralism keeps it rich."

Think about what Harris said the next time you make an illegal bet on football.

Casino gambling will never come to Detroit; the Puritan opposition is too large. Even Mayor Coleman Young seems to be giving up on the proposal. One story is he'll eventually settle for gambling on jai alai games. Why not? Most bettors know as much about playing jai alai as they do about riding racehorses. And members of the International Jai Alai Players Association recently voted to join the UAW.

Onward and Upward.

Last Tuesday was picture day for sporting teams at Cass City High School. It brought into focus the changes that have occurred over the years that sports have been covered by the writer.

Go back 3 decades and fall sports at the school consisted of the boys' football teams. Last week picture day included the football teams again and in addition: girls' basketball teams, cross country team, cheer leading team and golf team.

The other day when Athletic Director Don Schelke spoke to Cass City Rotary, he was asked if a tennis team could be formed. His answer pinpoints one of the 2 problems that faces school athletics today. Schelke pointed out that there are only about 500 students in the high school and about 280 participate in athletics.

If you add a sport, it inevitably subtracts from the number available for other sports, he says. The problem of numbers is apparent when the roster of the cross country team is examined. It takes 5 to make a team and last week there were only 4 girls on the squad. Last winter there were weight classes in wrestling with no one to fill them.

The second problem is finding coaches. There are 5 fall sports and only 2 (football and cross country) have members of the teaching staff at the helm.

We talked about that to a local businessman and he said that the teachers should do coaching as part of their job. That's what the coaches did back when he went to school. He conveniently forgets that at that time the 40-hour week was something that only the big factories enjoyed.

There is a growing group that feels that sports should be curtailed, not enlarged, and more emphasis placed on an intramural program. In Cass City, physical education as a class ends after the ninth grade.

Their rationale is that it would benefit all the students rather than the slightly over half that now participate. We don't buy that. Although only slightly more than half participate in the actual sporting event, nearly all students are part of the picture. As spectators, as homecoming queens and court and myriad other ways. Sports are an integral part of the high school learning experience and we lose if we don't have them.

It's true that some of the volunteer help in the past has been less effective than it could have been. To solve that problem and get trained professionals back at the helm, a lot more money would be needed. It's sure that the taxpayers aren't ready to dig any deeper than they already have and in our opinion they shouldn't.

One thing for sure. The volunteers now coaching aren't doing it for the money. We are lucky to have several with not only a sports background but also coaching experience.

The bottom line is that while Cass City may not have the finest program it could have, it does have as good a program as could be expected considering the size of the school and the school athletic budget.

We see no need for change.

Dietary tours set during food fest

Dietary tours through Erla's Market and the IGA Foodliner in Cass City, guided by Hills and Dales Hospital Dietitian Bonnie Johnson, will highlight the local program of "The American Heart Association's Food Festival," Sept. 11-17.

The aim of the store tours is to educate people in food purchasing, Johnson noted, adding that the central aim of the festival is to encourage consumers to reduce the amount of fat and cholesterol they routinely purchase.

Tours at Erla's at 1 p.m.

Monday Sept. 12 and Wed. Sept. 14 and at the IGA at 10 a.m. Tuesday Sept. 13, and 7 p.m. Thursday Sept. 15, will focus on food purchasing.

Johnson will head the tours of about 15 people each, instructing persons on foods' cholesterol and fat contents.

At both participating stores during the festival week, tables will be set up with some 15 different informational pamphlets on healthy diet available to all.

Those who participate in the tours will also receive a folder of information and an opportunity to enter a drawing for an American Heart Association cookbook.

The tour is expected to last 1 1/2 hours and include talks and exercises that are hoped to help people understand about cholesterol and fat and how to avoid too much of both in a diet.

Persons interested in taking the tour are asked to contact Hills and Dales Hospital to pre-register for the tour, and to bring a calculator to the store tour they are assigned to.

Also, on Thursday and Friday to further promote individual awareness of heart health, Hills and Dales will offer free blood pressure tests.

Blood pressure readings will be taken both days from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., free of charge, at the IGA store.

Your neighbor says

Ready to start the 1988-89 school year

For the first time in several years, Cass City students will be attending classes before the Labor Day weekend.

And although many students and adults (not to mention special interest groups such as business related to the tourism trade) would like to see a universal starting date for state schools after Labor Day, that's not the case with your neighbor, Holly Bogart.

"I'm ready for school to start," says Holly, who will be attending her first year at Cass City High School. And her favorite subject?

"Agriculture," replied the soft spoken sophomore, who recently moved to Cass City from Elkton.

Holly plans to join the FFA program at Cass City, which will be combined with an existing program at Unionville/Sebawaing. "I like the competition" in FFA, explained the 15-year-old. Last year at Lakers we won the FFA's Green Hand Opening and Closing Ceremonies in Michigan.

When asked if she was nervous about attending Cass City's high school, the modest youngster replied "a little," but she is looking forward to attending a larger school as she is originally from the Flint area.

Holly told us that she enjoyed a trip to Higgins Lake over the summer. Holly is the daughter of Debra and Larry Bogart.

Trailer damaged

Minor damage was sustained at a Cass City area couple's mobile home last Wednesday when the trailer's furnace overheated.

Elkland Township firemen were called to the Brian and Carol Hutchinson residence, 5824 E. Cass City Rd., at about 11:45 a.m. They remained at the scene for 45 minutes.

"The blower motor on the furnace (had) burned out and the furnace overheated," Chief Dick Root said. There was some smoke damage, he added, but "as far as fire damage, there was (none)."

Root estimated damage, including replacing the blower motor, at $500 to $600.

Protection of senior citizens program's goal

A new program designed to help protect senior citizens from securities fraud is available to area residents.

Carl L. Tyson, director of the Michigan Corporation and Securities Bureau, recently announced that the bureau, in conjunction with the Office of Services to the Aging and the Area Agencies on Aging Association, developed a program intended to reduce such fraud.

The program establishes a network of employees and volunteers in each of Michigan's 14 Area Agency on Aging regions to serve as contact points for seniors seeking information to use in evaluating investment offerings, according to Tyson.

The local contact person is Bonnie Philips, an outreach counselor at the Human Development Commission, 429 Montague St., Caro (673-4121).

"The reasons for development of the program were that seniors are disproportionately victimized by investment fraud; securities law enforcement activities, which take place after securities are sold, usually do not prevent losses to investors, and victims of investment fraud frequently do not know to whom to address questions or complaints," Tyson explained.

He added, "The program is intended to provide seniors with tools to be used in evaluating investment offerings, thereby reducing the incidence of fraud perpetrated against them, and alert the bureau to the existence of questionable offerings early, in order to reduce the amount of losses to investors."

At Rawson library

Hours extended

The open hours at Rawson Memorial Library will be extended to 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays beginning Sept. 6.

The schedule on Tuesdays and Thursdays will remain 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The new schedule doesn't include any extra hours put in by the library staff, but rather will be accomplished by rescheduling hours.

"The new evening hours will make it more convenient for working people and students to use the library. We want to make the library as accessible as possible for the public," Maynard McConkey, library board member, explained.

He noted the new schedule will be evaluated in December, when a decision will be made as to whether to continue the extra hours. Also new is a parking lot at the west end of the library. The lot has been graded and is expected to be paved within the next 3 weeks. The lot will provide 22 new parking spaces for library patrons, solving the present problem of congested street parking.

Safety funds awarded in county for enforcement

The office of Highway Safety Planning and Tuscola County Sheriff Paul Berry jointly announced recently that the sheriff's department will be awarded a yet-to-be announced amount of federal highway safety funds to provide for a directed effort to reduce the number of drivers exceeding both the 55 M.P.H. and posted limits within Tuscola

County. Ron Bos, a spokesman for the Michigan office of Highway Safety Planning, stated, "The additional patrols are expected to have an even greater impact in the Tuscola County area as the sheriff's department road patrol has been idle all summer due to budget cuts that stopped all patrol activity of the sheriff's department."

Bos also said that local agencies within Tuscola County have been participating in a speed enforcement program as well as enforcing the seat belt restraint laws as a result of a $34,000 federal highway safety grant through his office. Bos hopes the return of the sheriff's department's patrols will have an impact on the awareness of motorists in the area.

Berry noted that had the road patrols not been cut, a program of even greater magnitude had been approved through the office of Highway Safety Planning. Berry added that after meeting with Bos and Karen Tarrant, the director of that office, they both showed a true concern for the traffic problems in the county and vowed to do everything possible to work with his staff to see that some type of program could be funded and specific objectives of reducing speeders and increasing the use of seat belt restraint systems be addressed.

The current sheriff's department plan went into effect Saturday, the same day the road patrols were reinstated and will remain in effect through the Labor Day weekend.

Motorists are reminded that there will be up to 24 hours a day of extra sheriff's department patrols during this period and officers will be on the lookout for violations of the speed laws as well as ensuring that motorists and required passengers are "buckled up."

Camp serves over 125 area youths

Pine Acres Day Camp, located near Caro in Tuscola County, served over 125 girls, ages 5 to 18 from Cass City, Caro, Akron, Fairgrove, Mayville, Millington, Vassar, Owendale, Kingston and Clio with fun learning experiences in the outdoors this summer.

In addition to the girls who attended, the workers' sons and tots were included in a unit to give them a taste of Day Camp. Activities offered during the week included songs, games, crafts, food preparation and clean-up, and outdoor skills, including archery and compass.

Members of the Chippewa Indian Tribe from Midland gave a presentation on traditional Native American dances, with campers included in the dancing. Special guests were Mrs. Rosalyn Aspinel and her daughters, Mellissa and Rebecca, members of the Girl Guides of Australia, who shared their country's songs and "snacks" with each unit.

Anniversary and friendship patches were presented to the 2 groups from the area field director on behalf of Mitten Bay Scout Council.

Favorite activities of the week were the overnight campout held for those in fourth grade and older, and the petting zoo.

Cadette Girl Scouts learned about leadership by serving as program aides and unit helpers, and over 30 Tuscola County adults, headed by Director Dave Rundel, made sure that Mitten Bay Girl Scout Council's Pine Acres Day Camp was a fun experience for all involved.

Mitten Bay Girl Scout Council sponsors many types of camping experiences throughout its 21 counties, including resident camp, troop camping with a core staff, horse camp, and day camp.

Computer system aids search for library materials

Area residents can now find library materials faster than a speeding bullet and leap tall technologies in a single bound at Rawson Memorial Library.

Compact disks and computers that read them are being used to store and access information at the library as well as at 55 other libraries and branches in the White Pine Library Cooperative.

The system has been named "C.D. Cat" for compact disk catalog and replaces the "Com Cat" microfilm readers. This state of the art equipment was made possible by a grant from the Michigan Department of Commerce Outstate Equity Grant, contributions by the Cooperative and an $800 contribution from the local library.

The White Pine Library Cooperative and its 55 member libraries and branches are always looking for better, easier and more cost effective ways to better serve the 620,000 people in the Cooperative service area.

Favorite color

Favorite color: Not satisfied with your tomato crop? The solution may be as simple as changing the color of mulch in the garden. According to National Wildlife magazine, researchers have found that vegetables respond favorably to particular wavelengths of reflected sunlight. Tomato plants grown over red mulch produced 20 percent more top quality tomatoes than those grown over black plastic. Potatoes and green peppers, on the other hand, show a distinct preference for white mulch.

Mother's smoke can harm child

Girls, more than boys, are apt to experience retarded lung development if these children suffer from asthma or live with a mother who smokes.

Scott T. Weiss, M.D., of the Brigham and Women's Hospital and Harvard University Medical School in Boston, Mass., said that the findings in this ongoing study provide the best estimate to date of the effect of asthma on lung growth. He presented his results at the recent annual meeting of the American Lung Association.

"Several measures of lung function are adversely affected in children diagnosed as having asthma and who have experienced wheezing in the year prior to examination," Dr. Weiss said.

The study included 770 children between 5 and 9 years of age and has continued for 12 years to date. Periodic lung function examinations were conducted at the East Boston Health Center and a questionnaire provided information on respiratory symptoms, illnesses and smoking history. Mothers and children were defined as smokers if they smoked one or more cigarettes a day.

Asthma produced a marked effect on lung function in both boys and girls, but this effect was stronger on girls. Secondhand smoking also adversely affected lung function, though to a lesser extent than asthma. Here, too, girls were more adversely harmed than boys.

Several explanations are possible for the sex differences observed. A mother-to-be who smokes may be setting the stage for the underdevelopment of her child's lung function. Then, if she continues to smoke while the child is growing up, her child's lungs may be further damaged.

"Girls often spend more time with their mothers than boys do. This difference may in part explain why secondhand smoke seems to have a greater effect on girls if the mother smokes," said Dr. Weiss. Sex hormone differences also may influence lung susceptibility to secondhand smoke and changes in the lung due to asthma.

For further information on asthma or secondhand smoke, call the American Lung Association of Michigan toll free at 1-800-678-LUNG.

Hunter safety course set

A hunter safety course will be offered beginning Sept. 10 at the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, 420 Court St., Caro.

The course is open to persons ages 11 years and older who wish to obtain their first Hunter Safety Certificate.

Deputy Richard L. Blakely noted that hunters born on or after Jan. 1, 1960, who use handguns for hunting deer in the southern half of the lower peninsula must have in their possession a certificate of completion of a hunter safety course issued by Michigan, another state or another county.

The local hunter safety course will be conducted on 3 consecutive Saturdays, with the second meeting slated for Sept. 17 at the Caro Gun Club, and the third meeting set for Sept. 24 at the Richville Conservation Club. To pass the course, all 3 meetings must be attended.

The first 30 persons to pre-register either in person in the lobby of the sheriff's department or by telephone, (517) 673-8161, will be accepted.

A small fee will be charged and collected the second session of class to cover the cost of ammunition used at the range. Students are to provide their own sack lunch and beverage.

Ride sharing

"Don't Go It Alone: Share a Ride And Save." That's the slogan of the carpooling/vanpooling operation aptly titled "Rideshare" that is funded by the Michigan Department of Transportation and the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region (ECMPDR), a government cooperative of 14 counties.

In an attempt to increase the exposure of Rideshare, ECMPDR will be contacting major employers in the region, which includes the upper Thumb, with information on the program.

Free drought cope planner

Farmers throughout Michigan will soon have access to another special publication to help them cope with the aftermath of the drought.

This is the second drought publication that the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service has produced since July 28.

Sixty thousand copies of the tabloid-sized publication, "Coping with Drought: Second Edition," are being distributed through Extension's county offices. Distribution began Aug. 19.

"It essentially continues with the same type of information that was provided in the first publication," Frank Brewer, assistant director of Extension for agriculture and marketing programs, said.

Red Hawk golfers face tough schedule, competition in '88

The Cass City Red Hawk golf team, under the direction of coach Jim Fox, starting his third year at the helm, will face strong competition in the Thumb B Association with a relatively inexperienced team and a schedule that does nothing to help.

The Hawks are coming off a 2-4 season in 1987, when they tied for fourth in the league, and must find replacements for their 2 best players. Gone are Jason McCallum, all-conference and regional medalist, and Dave Burnette, one of the top 5 all last year.

Fox says that Cass City will face all the tough teams in the league at home (3 meets) and the teams that Cass City figures to have a chance to defeat will be played on the road. Vassar, Caro and Imlay City will be hosted, teams that Fox predicts will be at the top of the league, along with Bad Axe, when the season ends.

There are only 3 seniors on this year's squad and 2 of them have experience. Mike Scollon has won 2 letters and Fox would like him to accept a leadership role that the team lacks. Brent Hall was sixth man on the team most of last year and Fox calls him the squad's most improved player.

Several others are sure to help. Ken Micklash, junior, is a letter winner who plays better than he practices. Mike Francis, junior, won a letter last year, but Fox would like him to develop consistency this season.

A couple of underclassmen, Chris Herringshaw, sophomore, and Darin Barker, freshman, will help this year and make the long-range prospects for the Hawks excellent. Fox predicts that Barker will be an all-conference performer before he graduates. He describes Herringshaw as good, but inconsistent.

Bean meeting Sept. 6

The 1988 Tuscola County Dry Bean Twilight meeting will be held Sept. 6, according to Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension director.

The special evening will be held at the Vince and Rich Sattelberg farm, located 1 3/4 miles east of Colwood. The 1988 Michigan Dry Bean Producers Research Variety Plot is located at this farm on the north side of the road. In case of inclement weather, the meeting will be held at the Sattelberg tool shed.

The program will begin at 7 p.m., with Greg Varner, representing the Michigan Bean Commission and the Michigan Bean Shippers, summarizing the varietal research plot. A bean broker will present the dry bean market report from the Red River Valley, Ontario, and the state of Michigan.

"This will be an excellent opportunity for all growers in Tuscola County to hear first hand a report of what to expect from the 1988 crop and marketing strategies for the coming year," Bortel said. There will also be an election of 2 individuals representing Tuscola County to serve the next 3 years on the Bean Commission Board.

"All dry bean growers, agribusiness and any other people interested in the dry bean industry are welcome to attend.

Refreshments, sponsored by Agri-Sales, Inc., will be served at the close of the meeting, which is a joint effort of the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service and the Tuscola County Bean Growers' Association.

Hawk cagers, grididders ready for season

Hawk basketball team opens new offense, under new coach

Cass City High School basketball fans were expected to be greeted with a new style basketball Tuesday when the team was scheduled to open the season at Harbor Beach Tuesday under the direction of new head coach Marty Daniels.

The success of the new style will depend on the performance of a couple of veterans that started every game last season, 4 girls that earned varsity letters and a talented, but untested sophomore that made the varsity.

A good year from Darlene Monroe, 6-foot center who was second team All-Thumb B Association last year, is essential if the Hawks are to improve on last year's record. A consistent performance from Cindy Powell will also do much to put Cass City on the winning trail.

The other letter winners, Amy Francis, Andrea Isard, Beth Powell and Sue Papp, figure to be better with last year's varsity experience under their belts. Showing promise is Jandi Hillaker, a quick, gifted sophomore.

Daniels says that there is a lot to do and little time to do it as he puts his team into a new style basketball offense.

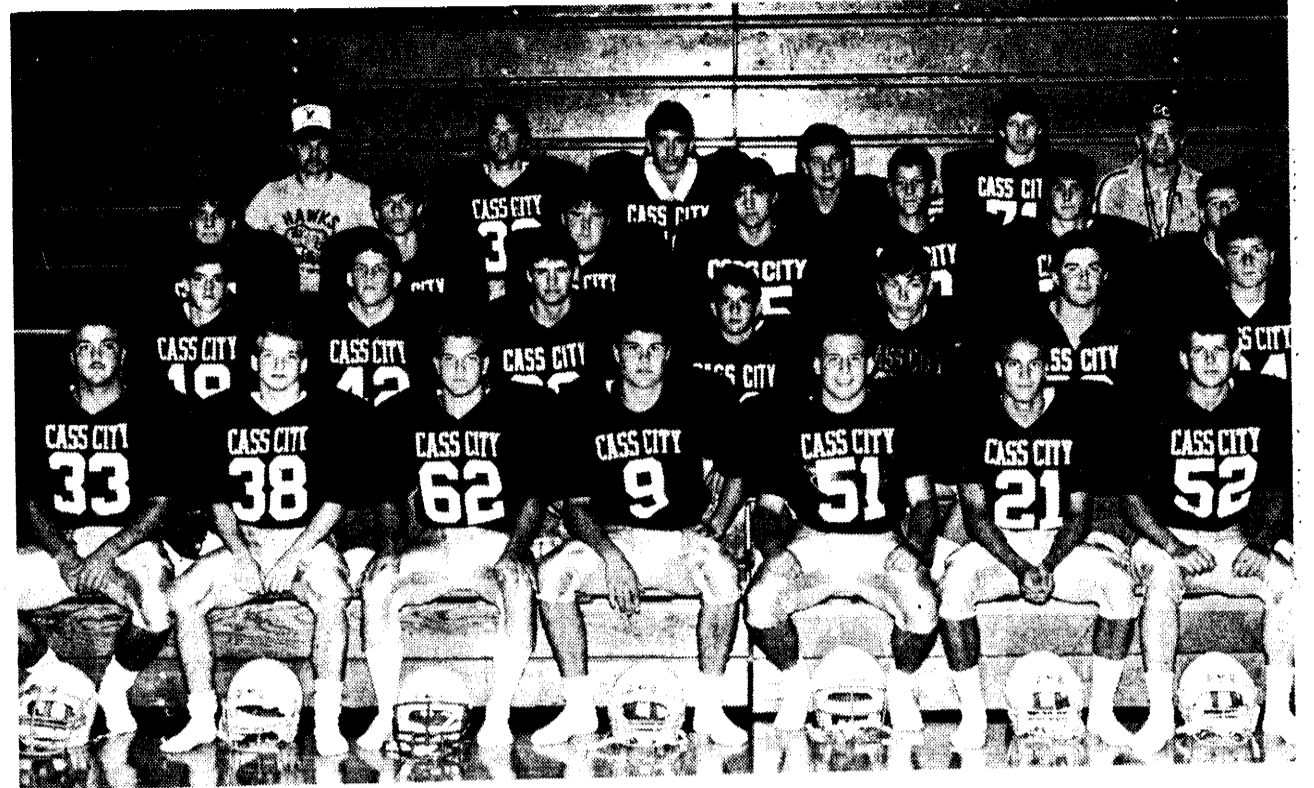

We are not as polished as I would like to see us, but the team is showing steady improvement in pre-season practice, Daniels says.

Our strength will be an aggressive offense and defense anchored by team quickness. Daniels believes in the fast break and a close man-to-man defense which will make Monroe's domination of the boards critical. Rebounding is essential to a fast break.

The Hawks won't have much time to polish the offense before the team begins its Thumb B Association schedule with Vassar at home Thursday, Sept. 8.

JUNIOR VARSITY There's a new coach at the junior varsity level this season. It's Craig Helwig. There are 14 candidates for the team as the girls' program continues its upsurge after hitting a low ebb a few years ago.

Cass City hosts Mayville in grid opener Friday

Although the Cass City Red Hawks have been practicing steadily since practice was allowed to open and have a scrimmage that was played last week under their belts, it's sure that new head coach Don Markel would have liked a little more time to prepare for Friday's early opener at home against Mayville.

The Hawks bowed to a good Wildcat team in the opener last year, 6-0, and if the Hawks are going to reverse that trend and start with a win, a few underclassmen will have to gain maturity in a hurry.

That's because they have to fill the shoes of some pretty fair grididders lost by graduation. Heading the list is Jeff Sontag, an all-league performer who played at halfback and was also a key defensive back. About as tough to replace will be Al Rosenstangle, a rough, tough guard, and Mike Mikolon, a guard that played bigger than his small size.

In the backfield, Jeremy Capps was a strong 2-way player and back-up quarterback. Darin Monroe and Mark Him shared the fullback slot. Greg Hanby, at tackle, was strong against the run and Chuck Merchant, at center, helped Cass City to a 3-4 and 4-5 record after a slow start. Also lost were Reed Keyser, halfback, Andy Izydorek, end, and Mario Haddad, kicker.

There will be one veteran this year in the backfield. He's Paul Tuckey, a senior, who became the starting quarterback in the last half of the season and sparked the Hawks' late surge.

Tuckey is 6-2 and his height will be an advantage in an offense that Markel says will be play-action pass oriented.

Although there are some gaping holes to be filled, there are some quality performers returning. Start with this year's captains. Besides Tuckey, they are Steve Wright, halfback and end, and Jeff Dillon, end. There are also 4 other linemen who have won letters. They are Bill Kappen and Greg Mika, guards; John Wright and Brent Meininger, tackles, and Randy Woodward, end.

The holes remaining in the line and backfield will have to be filled by players up from the junior varsity and seniors who have limited experience.

SIZE PROBLEMS

As usual, Cass City will be smaller than some of the schools which it faces. Despite this, Markel is confident that the Hawks will have a successful season. He hopes to make up for lack of size with quickness in both the line and backfield. We'll surprise some people this fall, he predicts.

Problems to be overcome will be lack of experience in the offensive backfield and holes in the offensive line. The defensive secondary will also be severely tested by teams with a strong pass oriented offense, Markel says.

A plus this season is a well balanced Thumb B Association. In recent years the league has been dominated by Lakers. This season the Lakers will be strong again, Markel feels, but Imlay City is expected to make a determined challenge in its last year in the league and Caro is coming back after a down cycle in sports. Vassar is also expected to contend for the title.

MANY CANDIDATES

Although it will not immediately show in the performance of the teams, the coaches have to be encouraged for the long term by the number of boys reporting. Cass City has about 70 boys out for football and will field a junior varsity and freshman team this year.

Missing are Randa Adelberg, Don Schafer, Alvin McKee, Tammy Whittaker, Shelly Miller and Vickie Thane.

"Scrubs" win for Special Olympics

The Hills and Dales General Hospital "Scrubs" softball team recently won a 3-day tournament and at the same time raised $220 for Special Olympics.

The 16-member squad was among 20 teams in 2 divisions in the tourney, held Aug. 12, 13 and 14. The Scrubs posted a 4-1 record in division play and went on to a 2-0 mark in the playoffs, beating Bay City Osteopathic in the semi-final round and Saginaw General Hospital in the finals.

Money raised for Special Olympics by the Hills and Dales and Caro hospitals will stay in Tuscola County. Each team had to sell at least $200 in tickets in order to participate in the tournament.

Besonen has 16 returning lettermen

Experienced Bulldogs ready to improve over '87 season

The key, according to veteran coach Arnie Besonen, for his Owen-Gage High School football squad to be successful this year will be staying injury free, and avoiding Sept. 16. Especially when Chad Stirrett is concerned.

Stirrett, regarded by many as the Bulldogs' best overall athlete, played defensive back as a freshman before switching to assume quarterback duties last season, has been sidelined in mid-season both years because of a broken arm.

Each time the 6', 160-pound junior broke his right arm, each time in the same spot and each time on the same day, Sept. 16.

"We're not letting Stirrett off the couch this Sept. 16th," joked Besonen, who is entering his 20th year in coaching.

When you lose a key player in a class D school you have to make adjustments at 4 or 5 positions. That's a hard thing to do in one week of practice, remarked Besonen.

Another problem facing Besonen will be finding replacements for last year's co-captains Chris Abbe and Troy Reehl.

Abbe, an all-conference and all-state performer, was the anchor of the Bulldog line. Reehl provided leadership and consistency from his offensive tackle position.

Besonen, however, does have 16 returning lettermen to work with, 9 of them starters who feel confident they can turn around last year's 1-8 record.

Most noteworthy is senior and 3-year starter Nick Pavlichek. The all North Central Thumb League player is the team's fastest player and, at 6'1" with a 210 frame, a first-rate blocker from his tight end position.

Another quality player and 3-year starter is Marc Reinhardt. The senior halfback and defensive linebacker was the Bulldogs' leading rusher the past season. Reinhardt, at 165 pounds, is also a speedster and sees the field as well as any back in the NCTL.

Rounding out the experienced backfield will be juniors Graham Besonen and Brad Susalla. Besonen, at 5'9 and 142 pounds, is the team's short yardage man and complements Reinhardt well. Besonen will also see action at defensive end. Susalla, a 2-year letter winner, is one of the team's most versatile players.

The Bulldog offensive line will also be stacked with players returning from last year's squad. In addition, the line has beefed up from a year ago.

Juniors Kevin Koch, 210-pound junior, and Mike Errer, 203 pounds, will be the team's starting tackles. Joining them will be senior split end Jay Susalla, a 3-year letter winner, and junior center Bryan Abbe, which should provide a quality line.

Also expected to see plenty of action are letter winners Scott Norcross and Warren Volz, who will give added strength in the trenches.

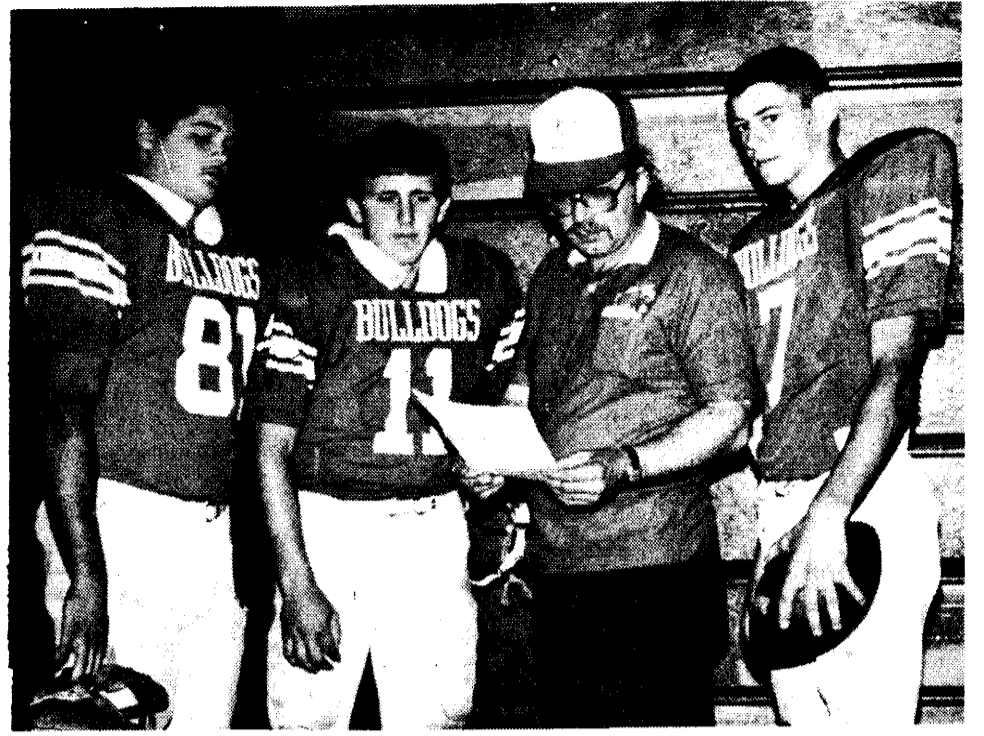

Senior Bill Erlich and sophomore Mike Kady will be called on to help out in the defensive backfield, as well as sophomore letter winner Fred Ondrajka.

Besonen sees Deckerville as the team to beat this year in the NCTL.

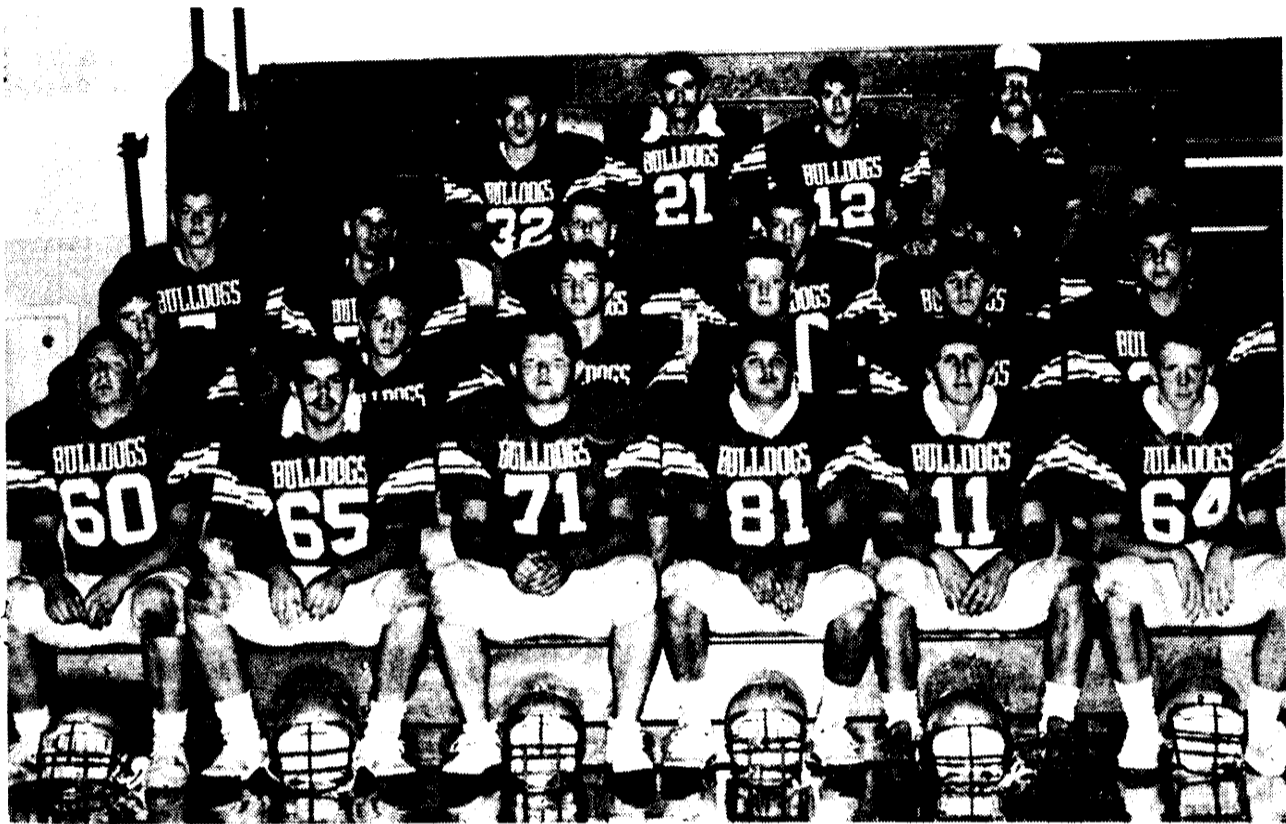

The Bulldogs open their season this Friday at Arenac East.

The one exception to this loss of interest deduction is some, or all, of the interest on loans secured by the equity in your home. A tax advisor would be in position to explain your particular ability to deduct interest paid on a home equity loan.

With a Home Equity Loan at our bank, you can use the money for anything you wish. You can purchase an auto, pay off other loans that may not have the ability to provide interest deduction, buy a boat or recreational vehicle, take a vacation, fix up your home... even buy real estate.

Sheriff's department Minor injuries reported in 2-vehicle accident

A Marlette woman sought her own treatment for minor injuries sustained in a 2-vehicle mishap early last week.

Mary Jo Kasdorf, 38, was injured when the vehicle in which she was a passenger was struck by another vehicle Aug. 22 on Kingstons Road north of Centerline Road in Koylton Township, according to a report filed at the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

The report states a vehicle driven by Douglas N. McQueen of Cass City struck the Kasdorf vehicle, driven by Dawn E. Kasdorf, 15, also of Marlette, as Kasdorf was backing out of a driveway onto Kingstons Road.

Both vehicles sustained minor damage.

No injuries were reported in a 2-vehicle accident Aug. 23 at the intersection of Cemetery and Elmwood roads in Elkland Township, despite extensive damage to both vehicles.

Reports state a southbound vehicle driven by Liddy P. Coates, 6732 E. Elmwood Rd., Cass City, was struck broadside by a northbound vehicle at the intersection when Coates attempted to turn onto Elmwood Road.

The driver of the northbound vehicle was Robert D. Sharard, 16, of Deford.

Also last week, Roy D. Nicol reported he was driving east on Deckerville Road west of Crawford Road in Novesta Township Thursday when his vehicle hit a deer.

Damage to the vehicle was light in the 6:30 a.m. mishap.

Oil, gas projects net park funding

Revenues generated from oil and gas leasing projects offshore in the oceans and the Gulf of Mexico have provided money for land purchases and the development of 30,000 separate park projects, including 16 projects totaling $264,526.46 in Tuscola County.

Among those projects were the Cass City Recreation

Quick swimmer

High-speed swimmer: You might guess the fastest fish in the water is the shark...but you would be all wet. According to Ranger Rick magazine, researchers believe the sailfish is the fastest fish in the water. The sailfish can swim up to 68 miles per hour. That's about as fast as a cheetah can run, and the cheetah is the fastest runner on earth.

"Robinson Crusoe" was based on the life of a real sailor, Alexander Selkirk, who lived alone on a desert island for more than four years.

Facility ($30,973), Cass City Recreation Park Expansion ($15,600) and Kingston Memory Park ($11,584).

Initiated in 1964, the Land and Water Conservation Fund has provided some $6.8 billion to help fund federal land purchases and state and local conservation and outdoor recreation projects in every state, despite the fact that drilling is done only off the coastal states.

Nearly 84 percent of the money has come from bonuses and rentals paid by the oil companies and from royalties on oil and natural gas produced from offshore leases, according to Robert E. Waldron, Waldron is executive director of Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan, which represents major oil companies in the state.

In Michigan, additional funding for recreational projects also comes from oil and gas drilling. The royalties the state receives for drilling on state-owned lands go into the Michigan Natural Resources Trust fund to help pay for state and local projects.

GLJC plans alumni program

Great Lakes Junior College of Business is establishing an Alumni Association designed to promote unity among alumni members and assist in the search for GLJC's Alumni and history.

Tom Brubaker, Alumni Relations coordinator, says that the association will be a great benefit in helping track the college's history. Founded in 1907 by Frederick H. Bliss, a noted author and publisher of accounting and business textbooks, and his son-in-law Francis R. Alger, the Bliss-Alger College had only 25 students and 3 faculty members at its office in the 200 block of North Franklin in Saginaw.

The school remained Bliss-Alger until 1929 when it was sold to the Business Institute, Inc. of Detroit. The Saginaw based school carried The Business Institute title until 1957 when Davenport Schools, Inc. of Grand Rapids took over. Today, the college has campuses in Saginaw, Midland, Bay City and Caro.

Many records dealing with the college's first 50 years have been lost. Some time in the mid-'50s, shortly before Davenport Schools assumed control of the Business Institute, nearly a half century of admission and student records were removed from the building.

"Our main intent in having an alumni association is to build a more detailed history and develop a sense of heritage," Brubaker said.

The college has also produced the Alumni File, an alumni newsletter which will be issued twice a year. The newsletter will feature profiles of alumni members, campus developments, historical points of interest and notices of upcoming alumni events.

"As we begin to locate more alumni, we will be able to plan activities for them," Brubaker states. "We hope to have a reception for them in the future."

Graduates and those who attended Bliss-Alger College, The Business Institute, or Saginaw Business Institute are urged to call or address correspondence to: Tom Brubaker, Public Information Coordinator, Great Lakes Junior College, positions vacated recently in his office.

Commissioners approved replacing Chief Assistant Prosecutor Victor Fitz, who resigned effective Sept. 2, and Assistant Prosecutor Ronald Higginson, who also resigned.

The board also approved hiring an investigator to replace Bernie Lenda, who retired effective Aug. 19. Also approved was a salary scale for the position ranging from $18,500 (start) to $20,500 (after 2 years continuous service). The scale replaces a flat salary of $20,055.

In a related matter, commissioners authorized submission of the prosecutor's OUIL Grant application. The grant has paid for the salary of an employee in the office who worked on cases dealing specifically with drinking and driving.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business last week, the board:

--Approved application by the Human Development Commission for a Michigan Small Cities Community Development Block Grant, which would provide funds to refurbish homes in the county.

--Received a request from Sgt. Fred LaPratt of the Vassar Police Department for a commitment of $10,000 from the county for regional narcotics enforcement through the newly-formed Thumb Area Narcotics Group. The request, which would match a commitment of $10,000 from Lapeer County, was referred to the Finance Committee for consideration.

LaPratt said the group's goal is to raise $68,800 (not including manpower) through donations from local units of government in Tuscola, Huron and Lapeer counties. The donations will be matched with cash and manpower from the Michigan State Police.

--Approved a 1988-89 proposed County Child Care budget as presented by Probate Court Juvenile Director Bob Popielarz. Popielarz said the county's portion of the budget allows for spending up to $310,000, but indicated he expects a reduction in institutional and residential child care costs next year. Also approved were 2 grants for the probate child care operation.

--Authorized Sheriff Paul Berry to hold a sale Oct. 8.

--Okayed a motion directing the County Planning Commission to prepare a County Recreation Plan in order to determine park system needs and so the county can have the potential to apply for state and federal park related grants.

--Hired a part-time Account

Clerk II (computer operator) in the clerk's office beginning Sept. 1.

--Received a resignation from sheriff's Deputy Jeffrey Rose.

--Granted permission for Joe Jarvis of Frontier Exploration Inc. to conduct a geophysical seismic survey for possible reserves of petroleum and/or natural gas on county park property.

3 arraigned in district court

Three Tuscola County residents, including a Kingston man, were arraigned recently on unrelated charges in Tuscola County District Court.

Eric T. Prather, a patient at the Caro Regional Mental Health Center in Caro, was arraigned last week on a charge of arson.

Bond was set at $10,000. A preliminary examination will be held at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

The charge against Prather, 31, stems from an incident Aug. 14 involving a house at the regional center, court records state.

Kingston resident Ronny A. Schmitt, 17, 6165 Bevens Rd., was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny, and larceny in a building.

GLJC plans alumni program

Great Lakes Junior College of Business is establishing an Alumni Association designed to promote unity among alumni members and assist in the search for GLJC's Alumni and history.

Tom Brubaker, Alumni Relations coordinator, says that the association will be a great benefit in helping track the college's history. Founded in 1907 by Frederick H. Bliss, a noted author and publisher of accounting and business textbooks, and his son-in-law Francis R. Alger, the Bliss-Alger College had only 25 students and 3 faculty members at its office in the 200 block of North Franklin in Saginaw.

The school remained Bliss-Alger until 1929 when it was sold to the Business Institute, Inc. of Detroit. The Saginaw based school carried The Business Institute title until 1957 when Davenport Schools, Inc. of Grand Rapids took over. Today, the college has campuses in Saginaw, Midland, Bay City and Caro.

Many records dealing with the college's first 50 years have been lost. Some time in the mid-'50s, shortly before Davenport Schools assumed control of the Business Institute, nearly a half century of admission and student records were removed from the building.

"Our main intent in having an alumni association is to build a more detailed history and develop a sense of heritage," Brubaker said.

The college has also produced the Alumni File, an alumni newsletter which will be issued twice a year. The newsletter will feature profiles of alumni members, campus developments, historical points of interest and notices of upcoming alumni events.

"As we begin to locate more alumni, we will be able to plan activities for them," Brubaker states. "We hope to have a reception for them in the future."

Graduates and those who attended Bliss-Alger College, The Business Institute, or Saginaw Business Institute are urged to call or address correspondence to: Tom Brubaker, Public Information Coordinator, Great Lakes Junior College,
