

REGULAR CHIMNEY cleaning, demonstrated above by Deford businessman Dan Allen, as well as routine inspections and proper wood burning techniques, can prevent a costly chimney fire.

Hazardous creosote build-up poses problem for wood burners

It was a cool June evening when John Fuller decided to put a log in the fireplace at his Decker area home.

Something went wrong. Smoke began to pour from the fireplace into the home as a small accumulation of creosote caught fire just above the mantel in the chimney.

Luckily, neither John, 78, nor his wife, Doris, was hurt. But the incident gave the couple a good scare and a repair and cleaning bill totalling more than $2,500.

"It was a mess. The house was loaded with smoke," John remarked. "There wasn't a devil of a lot of it (creosote), but it only took a bit to catch on fire."

John remarked that the incident was his first brush with a chimney fire in 8 years of burning. Although the home is old, he noted he's used only seasoned hard wood and has had the chimney swept annually in addition to routine inspections.

According to Elkland Township Fire Chief Dick Root, the Fullers' chimney fire is one of 5 handled so far this year by the local fire department. Root, who annually issues caution to wood burners, said damage in those blazes has ranged from $1,200 to $4,000.

Last year Elkland firemen responded to only one chimney fire, but the number of incidents totalled 9 in 1986, 5 in 1985, 7 in 1984, 10 in 1983 and 2 in 1982.

"The only recommendation I can make for those who have wood burners is make sure (they're) clean, emphasize clean," Root remarked, adding, "If you're going to put one in, do it according to code." Dan Allen, owner of Dan's Auto and Fireplace Shop in Deford, agreed.

"Wood burning doesn't have to be, and isn't when done properly, dangerous to do," he said.

SAFE BURNING

Allen, whose business includes cleaning, inspection, repair and construction of chimneys, said making sure a chimney is up to code is among the keys to safe wood burning.

"There are a lot of good chimneys out there," but there also are many that are not up to code, he observed. "The way the code is today, if you hook up a new appliance to a chimney, then it (chimney) must be brought

Board okays new ball diamond at school

The Cass City School Board gave the green light to a new baseball field in back of the high school at its regular session Monday night in the school board room.

The field is expected to be ready for play in the spring of 1990 and will cost the district about $5,000, Athletic Director Don Schelke estimated. The village will participate in the construction by furnishing machinery and labor. Donations from interested persons are also expected to hold the cost down to $5,000 or less for the school.

One of the principal costs will be for a backstop, which is estimated at $2,000. Originally, the total cost was estimated at $5,000, but Schelke said that the cost could reach this amount even with the help of the village and others. When the field is finished, the village plans to turn the present baseball field into a slow pitch facility.

Another student transfer request was before the board. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Maxson, who live in the Cass City district but have 3 elementary students attending Owen-Gage, requested permission to keep the children at Owen-Gage.

Supt. Ken Micklash said that his discussion with the Maxsons indicated that they were attempting to purchase a home in Gagetown. He said that he had informed the couple that if they were going to complete the deal within a couple of weeks he would not object to them staying in Owen-Gage. Micklash said that he understood that if the home was purchased the Maxsons would inform him. However, Maxson was not at the meeting Monday and the board denied the transfer. The thinking behind the vote was that if Maxson moved to Gagetown it was out of Cass City's control. If, however, he stayed in the Cass City district and the transfer were approved, the district would lose state aid for the 3 children.

STAFF CHANGES

Several staff changes were announced and the salary for adult education teachers increased 5 per cent, the amount all nonunion personnel were previously granted. (The salary for staff teachers represented by the Tri-County Bargaining Association is still under negotiation.)

Teachers in high school completion will receive $13.76 per hour, plus an additional 25 cents per hour if 80 percent of the students enrolled in the class remain enrolled through the 4th

Friday after Labor Day, when the official count for state aid payment is made.

The board accepted the resignation of Judy Joslyn, special education teacher who was recalled to Caro Community Schools. A contract for Jo Ann Bowman was approved to replace her.

An unexpected increase in instructional cost faces the district in the special education department. There has been a sharp increase in the number of educable mentally impaired students. There are 22 students and the state mandates the maximum number per teacher at 12. For this reason another special education teacher will be hired.

Council approves 48-unit village apartment complex

A motion supporting development of a 48-unit apartment complex south of the village was unanimously approved by the Cass City Village Council Monday night.

Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie stated Milo S. Turner of S.I.D.C. Ltd. Partnership, Frank-enmuth, approached village officials with the low to moderate income housing proposal earlier this month.

The proposed site, which totals about 4 acres, starts at the south end of Maple Street and continues east 891 feet. The lot, owned by Bruce Gee, is about 200 feet wide.

Aside from council support, LaPonsie said, Turner requested whether village sewer and water would be available for the project, and asked if the property in question could be annexed and proper zoning attained. The information, he noted, is needed before Farmers Home Administration officials will process a loan application.

Council members stated water and sewer are available to the site, but the property would have to be annexed to the village in order for the developer to use the utilities. Annexation, they said, would have to be requested by the property owner.

In terms of zoning, LaPonsie said the land, upon annexation, would be automatically zoned RA-1 (single family residential). That classification would have to be changed to RC (multiple family) for apartments, he added.

"I recommend we advise... that we would look favorably on the project," Trustee Nat Tuttle remarked.

Village President L. E. Althaver, who noted the council has previously indicated support for similar housing projects, agreed. He said Monday's motion gives council support for the latest proposal provided all the appropriate steps are taken. "There's no question there's a need" for more housing, he added.

'89 ROAD WORK

An early request to authorize engineering work for the village's 1989 street improvement program was approved.

LaPonsie, who made the request, noted that although the engineering will be done before the next fiscal year, the estimated $12,000 cost will be taken out of the 1989 budget. The advantage, he said, is an ability to get an early start on the projects next year.

"We've found out if we can bid early on our street projects, it can pay off," he remarked.

Some 2,200 feet (6 blocks) of village streets are slated for grade and gravel, drainage work, curb and gutter and paving next year. The project, expected to cost a total of $110,000 to $120,000, will cover Vulcan Street, from Third Street to Garfield Avenue; Fourth Street, from West Street to Vulcan Street; and Brooker Street, from Main Street to Third Street.

Two of the 3 projects have been requested by residents via petitions, council members noted.

NOISE/LOITERING

The council's Rules Committee will look into noise and loitering ordinances following brief discussion.

"Some of the neighborhoods have had problems and the (police) officers feel they need more enforcement," Trustee Joanne Hopper told the council.

Among the problems discussed was loitering, particularly along Main Street businesses.

"It hasn't been a big problem, (but) it's a real problem for a few," LaPonsie commented, adding, "They (police) feel they're handicapped in some areas."

Althaver suggested the committee discuss the matter with a representative of the police department and village attorney Clinton C. House. "I'm concerned whether we need something new and whether we can enforce what we have on the books," he remarked.

In other business during the 40-minute rescheduled monthly meeting, council members authorized LaPonsie to order a new patrol car before the end of the current fiscal year, to be paid for out of the 1989 budget.

Normally the car would be ordered sometime in January as part of the village's 1 1/2-year purchase rotation, but the specific model desired reportedly won't be available after Dec. 12, Trustee Dorothy Stahibaum explained.

Cost of the car is estimated at about $13,200.

Council members acknowledged letters of thanks from Jerry and Marlene Langmaid, who lauded village officials and crew members for their work in correcting problems involving rust in Third Street residents' water, and from Connie Iwankovitch for use of the village park this summer for the 4-day Thumb District Cub Scout Day Camp.

Also Monday, the council approved a request to use the village park Oct. 15 for a Thumb District Cub Scout Olympics; received a report from the pool staff, which reported higher attendance (19,016 persons compared to 18,415 last year) and revenue ($10,512 compared to $9,498) this season, and set Halloween hours in the village from 5:30 to 7 p.m., the same as last year's hours.

Thumb future bright, says Ross

The number of successful businesses in the Thumb are pointing the way for the future of Michigan's economy, said Michigan Department of Commerce Director Doug Ross, Friday.

"In this area, we see many indicators that tell us it's 'Thumbs up' for the state's economy," said Ross. "There are signs of growth, additional employment and a commitment to stay in Michigan that can only spread to other parts of the state."

Ross presented an economic overview of Thumb activity to business and community development leaders at Plastech in Caro. Among the signs of economic strength cited by Ross were:

The purchase of Plastech, a 20-year-old plastics manufacturing company, by Julie Brown, who received the first woman-minority loan from the Michigan Strategic Fund's minority direct loan program.

The move by Accounting Data Services (ADS) of Caro to a new facility tripling its previous space to be used in the manufacture of computers and the addition of 10 to 12 new jobs within 2 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Wooster

Miss Susan Elizabeth Damm and Timothy John Wooster were united in marriage, Saturday, Aug. 6, at the Salem United Methodist Church in Cass City. Rev. Clare Patton performed the 4 o'clock double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Damm of Cass City and Mrs. Nancy Wooster of Caro and the late Ronald Wooster.

Mrs. Betty Kirn was pianist and accompanied Mrs. Barb Kirn who sang "Love's Grown Deep" and "Meet Me Half Way."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with a Queen Anne neckline trimmed with Venise lace, long sleeves of sheer lace and a full tiered skirt with an alencon and Venise lace chapel length train. Her bridal hat of acetate satin was trimmed with polyester flowers, Venise lace, simulated pearls and sequins and featured a fingertip nylon net pouf streamer. She carried a colonial bouquet of white Japhet orchids surrounded by white miniature carnations with a mist of baby's breath and white lace.

Maid of honor was Lori Hartwick of Deford, friend of the bride. She wore a fuchsia, full-length gown of tissue taffeta with a basque bodice, sweetheart neckline accented with lace, brief sleeves and a full skirt with a bustle in the back. She carried a colonial bouquet of light pink and fuchsia miniature carnations with a mist of baby's breath and satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Carmen Damm, sister-in-law of the bride, of Cass City, Danielle Robinson of Elkhart, Ind., Tammy Iseler of Cass City and Susan Zagorski of Cass City, friends of the bride. Their gowns and bouquets were identical to the maid of honor's.

Flower girl was Kira Groosbeck of Cass City, friend of the bride. Her dress was a copy of the bride's and was made by Mrs. Joyce Sugden of Cass City. She wore a halo of baby's breath in her hair and carried a delicate basket of Elegance petals.

Best man was Tom Davison of Caro, friend of the groom. He wore a dark gray tuxedo with tails and fuchsia accessories.

Groomsmen were Henry Wagner of Caro, Scott Harding of Vassar, Robert Daniels of Caro and Bryan Lehr of Mt. Morris, friends of the groom. They wore tuxedos identical to the best man's.

Ring bearer was Jason Damm, nephew of the bride, of Cass City. He wore a white tuxedo identical to the groom's.

Ushers were Randy Damm of Cass City and Rick Damm of Port Kichey, Fla., brothers of the bride.

Becky Daniels of Caro, friend of the bride and groom, was guest book attendant.

The bride's mother wore an ivory colored tea-length chiffon dress with cape-like sleeves and a satin sash at the waistline.

The groom's mother wore a light pink tea-length chiffon dress with long sheer sleeves and a satin sash at the waistline. Both mothers wore wrist corsages of pink and fuchsia miniature carnations and baby's breath.

A reception for around 300 guests was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Caro. Mrs. Iva Hartwick of Deford made and served the wedding cake.

After a week-long honeymoon to Niagara Fall, New York and Pennsylvania, the couple is residing at 12341 Adams St., Mt. Morris. Susan is a student at Ross Medical Education Center in Flint and Tim is employed at Al Serra Chevrolet in Flint.

"If It Fitz..." Teed off

By Jim Fitzgerald

As reported here just last week, I'm trying hard to laugh in the face of crime in the big city, really I am. Let's see, what's funny? How about this: I got on the bus, put my money in the fare box, and then turned around and immediately jumped off the bus. Is that funny or what?

The explanation is that a few rolls of the bus wheels moved me from in front of my apartment entrance to within sight of the building parking lot where I keep my car. I always look to see if it's still there, although I know there's really nothing to worry about because security guards are on duty throughout the night, and there's also TV surveillance.

My car wasn't there. I am now out of cars. I pay an exorbitant sum for two supposedly secure parking spots, but I have nothing to park in them. Maybe I could ship in dirt and plant tomatoes.

The hilarious total now reads like this: In the last 10 months, cars belonging to my family have been stolen and/or broken into 5 times while parked at my home. During one of the break-ins,

Employees' rights now in handbook

An "Employees' Rights Handbook" is now available state Sen. James A. Barcia (D-Bay City) announced recently.

"We now have a reference book that can help answer some of the questions Michigan workers have about major state labor laws affecting them," Barcia said.

The booklet covers wages, equal employment opportunity rights, occupational safety and health, youth employment and job training as well as other employment related topics.

The "Employees' Rights Handbook" can be obtained, by writing to Barcia at the State Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48909, or by calling (517) 373-1777.

my son and a friend were assaulted by 4 thugs who, fortunately, were apparently the only 4 teenagers in Detroit not carrying guns.

And I live in Lafayette Park, one of Detroit's best neighborhoods, within easy sight of police headquarters and a Greektown full of cops who keep busy guarding coffee shops from the inside. Another tenant of my building was so steamed about having his car ripped off that he turned out his apartment lights, put some good music on the stereo, and spent an entire night — 8 hours — looking out his window at Lafayette Blvd. He didn't see one marked patrol car drive by.

IT'S ENOUGH TO TEE YOU OFF

Buy hey, let's keep it light. How about this for a laugh: My golf clubs have now been stolen twice, and maybe someone will holler "FORE, MOTHER ---!" at me again.

It will be recalled that when my 1977 Olds was stolen in April, the first I heard of it was from a pawn shop that had just paid $10 for the golf clubs that were in the trunk, in a golf bag with my name all over it. According to law, the seller had to show his driver's license and be fingerprinted. According to real life, this didn't do any good because the seller subsequently told the cops he bought the clubs for $5 from "some guy named Larry," address unknown, and that was the end of that police investigation. The car was found later, fatally trashed.

After I recovered the clubs from the pawn shop, the profane "FORE....!" was yelled by a passing stranger amused by the strange sight of an old poop carrying the tools of a green-grass, tall-tree sport on the broken sidewalk of a mostly boarded-up, inner-city business strip. Looking for a sliced drive?

When my 1984 Olds was stolen Tuesday night, those same golf clubs were in the trunk. Wouldn't it be a riot if the same pawn shop bought them again?

SCORE ANOTHER FOR BAD GUYS

Here's another funny thing, if your sides aren't yet split: The underground parking garage at my apartment building has been closed all summer for repairs. Most of the cars were moved into a commercial garage 4 blocks away, in Greektown. But I was fortunate; I could move my 1984 Olds only a few feet into the "secure" spot left vacant when my older Olds was stolen. Lucky me.

Would I have been better off parking in Greektown? I don't know. A chauffeured mini-van was provided to transport tenants between the apartment building and the parking garage. One night the mini-van was stolen at gunpoint.

Anyway, I had to leave that bus quickly so I could report my latest missing car to the police — something I can do now in my sleep, and sometimes do. I also had to report to my wife, with a chuckle, that she could stop getting dressed up for a much-anticipated concert at Meadowbrook because she had no way to get there.

If you think she chuckled in return, you are out of your mind. Try outraged tears. The bad guys are still winning.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark McDonald

Carol Lee Mills of Grand Rapids and Mark Allan McDonald of Kalamazoo were married Aug. 20 at 3 p.m. in a double-ring, candlelight ceremony in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Grand Rapids, by Pastor Joseph Houston.

The parents of the couple are Glenn and Ethelyn Mills of Flushing and Bud and Jeannette McDonald of Owendale.

Classical music was provided by Karen Bartell on the harp.

Maid of honor for her sister was Susan Mills of Grand Rapids. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Susan McDonald, sister-in-law of the groom, of Coldwater, Dena McDonald, sister of the groom, of Sterling Heights, Mrs. Shelia Vanderkyst of Scandavia, Wis., and Mrs. Doris Monkowski of Grand Rapids, friend of the bride.

Best man for his brother was Darren McDonald of Coldwater. Groomsmen were friends of the groom, Brad Erickson of Allendale, Peter J. Klemkowski of Baltimore, Md., Duane Wilson of Kalamazoo and brother of the bride, Bill Mills of Grand Rapids. Brad and Bill also served as ushers.

A dinner reception for 200 guests was held at the Meijers Hall.

The bride is a graduate of Delta College with a degree in interior design and is employed at Helmholtz's, Grand Rapids. The groom is a graduate of Western Michigan University with a degree in engineering technology and is employed as Territorial Representative for Indusco of Kalamazoo.

After a week's honeymoon in Niagara Falls and Toronto, the couple reside at 2812 Newton S.E., Grand Rapids.

A statistic from Consumers Power reveals that baby boom households use, on average, 16 percent more electricity than do other age groups. The Haire Net

This summer, on a brief vacation, we visited the Indian reservation near Suttons Bay, in the Leelanau Peninsula in western Michigan.

The tribe there is lifting itself out of poverty with its gambling monopoly. Our group visited the casino, where some of us had a great time and others a good time.

No, it did not depend on winning or losing. Some of us simply get more of a kick out of gambling than others. I was one who had a great time. I enjoy gambling. Not risking the rent money, you understand, but playing the game. Sort of like the non-alcoholic who enjoys a cocktail before supper. That's me and gambling.

Now that you know that, you may be surprised to learn that a potential proliferation of Indian gambling has me up in arms.

If what I read is correct, under the right conditions, an Indian tribe could open up on the corner of Seeger and Main and be perfectly legal.

This is the way it works. The tribe buys a piece of property. Then it goes to the Federal government for a ruling, and based on need, would be able to open up for business and the village, township, county or state would be powerless to stop it.

One of the stories I read indicated that there is concern in Detroit that an Indian operated casino could be approved. Since it would be under the control of the Feds, I wonder if Detroit Mayor Coleman Young would be as hot for it as he was for casinos under the control of the city? But that's another story.

I figured that the reason the casinos were legal in the various northern communities was because they were on tribal land and under treaty rights were not subject to local laws, just as state fishing laws do not apply to Indians because of the treaty between the tribe and the United States.

Persons that read this that are morally opposed to gambling are undoubtedly finding fault with my position. If they are from the old school of straight-laced, Calvinistic Protestant persuasion, like my mother, they would be aghast at gambling if it were committed on the North Pole on the coldest day of the year.

But I submit that there's a huge difference in gambling on the reservation in northern Michigan and at the corner of Woodward and Michigan in Detroit.

The gambling there is improving the lot of these poverty stricken Americans. They are getting good paying jobs with new homes and all the rest of the benefits of a regular income.

The real kicker is that most of the money is coming from persons who can afford to drop a few bucks. When we were at Suttons Bay, it was obvious that everyone there could afford to lose. At the Indian casinos, real high stakes gambling is not allowed, although you can lose a bundle, I suppose, if you play long enough.

A casino in Detroit has to attract a more varied class of customers, not to mention the crime factor. They kill for a couple of bucks in Detroit.

Given the opportunity, I'd vote to leave the gambling on reservations alone, while emphatically opposing moving it anywhere else.

It remains to be seen if it can be done.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Lukacs

Miss Kris Anne Proctor and Nicholas W. Lukacs exchanged vows Saturday, Aug. 13, in Trinity United Methodist Church, Cass City. The Rev. S. Joe Robertson officiated at the 4:00 o'clock ceremony.

Tom and Elaine Proctor, Cass City, and Micklos and Connie Lukacs of Monroe are the couple's parents.

Kurt Proctor of Austin, Texas, was soloist at his sister's wedding, "Time In A Bottle" and "The Wedding Prayer." Paul Kerbyson of Bay City was organist and JoAnne Bailey of Midland, harpist.

The bride chose an ivory taffeta floor-length gown with beaded bodice, pouf peplum and long sleeves adorned with bugle beads and crystals. Her shoulder length veil was held with a crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and freesia with ivy, fern and curled greenery.

Mary Ross of Ann Arbor was maid of honor. Laurie Knight, sister of the groom, of Newport and Julie Novak of Port Charlotte, Fla., were bridesmaids.

They wore pale peach street length dresses designed with a pouf peplum, round neckline and long sleeves and carried crescent shaped bouquets of alstroemeria, roses and greenery.

John Lukacs of Canton, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Dave Nicosia and Brian Ziebert, both of Manchester, N.H.

A reception followed for 200 guests at Colony House. The rehearsal dinner was held at Wildwood Farms.

The bride is a gift sales representative for Russ Berrie & Co., Inc., and he is a PhD student at Wayne State University Medical School department of immunology.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Florida and are making their home in Dearborn Heights.

Orange-aid

There's a new killer chemical on the horizon, devastating to household pests but apparently safe for humans, animals and the environment. And it smells great. According to National Wildlife magazine, the magic ingredient is citrus oil from orange peels. Researchers have found it to be a valuable replacement for poison in killing houseflies, fleas and fire ants.

Girl Scout cookie sales set to begin

Mid-Thumb Area Girl Scout's Service Unit Director Kay Warner announced the Girl Scout Cookie Kick-off, set for Sept. 29 after school at the VFW Hall on Main Street.

At that time, Warner says, the girls will receive training and their cookie sheets. The guest speaker will be entrepreneur Geraldine Prieskorn, who will motivate the girls with a pep talk on successful sales.

Warner says proceedings will then move across the street to Main Street Park, where a balloon launch will take place. Girl Scouts will insert a cookie message inside before launching the brightly colored helium-filled balloons. Special guest for this event will be state Sen. James Barcia, who will pass out Girl Scout Cookies to spectators.

Door prizes for the Girl Scouts donated by local businesses will be given away at this time. A fish bowl will be placed in a local store filled with Yangles (cheddar cheese crackers), with 2 persons guessing closest to correct number of Yangles winning Girl Scout cookies.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Gardner

Mary Catherine Leach of Cass City and Timothy Lee Gardner of Essexville exchanged wedding vows Aug. 20 at St. Pancratius Catholic Church in Cass City. The Rev. Julius Spleet and the Rev. James Heller officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Roger and Janet Leach, 6729 Garfield Avenue, Cass City. The groom is the son of Leland and Judith Gardner, 1657 Jordan Lake Avenue, Lake Odessa.

The bride chose a white lace gown featuring a high neck line of silk Venice lace on an English net yoke. Venice lace outlined the yoke and lace flounce on an extended line fitted bodice with a Basque waist on a multi-flounced full skirt extending into an attached chapel train.

Her specially designed Juliet cap bridal headpiece was done in beaded chantilly lace accented by a fingertip, rolled edged, veil with lace appliques. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath and foresia.

The bride's sister, Peg Grove, served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Lisa Bonzer and Susan McLane, both friends of the bride, and Shelley Buchan, cousin of the bride. They wore pink floral print tea length gowns of polyester taffeta, and carried single pink roses with tre fern and baby's breath.

Deanna Gardner, sister of the groom, was the bride's personal attendant. Serving as best man was Stephan Wilcox, friend of the groom. Brothers of the groom, Jeff and Duane Gardner, were groomsmen along with Tom Leach, brother of the bride. The

Walbro Corp. announces third quarter dividend

The Board of Directors of Walbro Corp. has declared a third quarter dividend of 10 cents per share, payable Oct. 31, to stockholders of record Sept. 30. The dividend will be paid on approximately 4,086,204 shares outstanding.

The previously-announced three-for-two split of Walbro common stock was paid Aug. 26 to stockholders of record July 29. The third quarter dividend of 10 cents per share is equivalent to a 15-cent per share cash dividend on a pre-split basis. This represents a 25 percent increase from the 12 cents per share quarterly dividend payment which began in the fourth quarter of 1987 and continued through the second quarter of this year.

Budget amendments set

Financial matters, including approval of several millage-related budget amendments, dominated a regular meeting of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners last week.

County Controller Michael Hoagland said commissioners approved amendments restoring various department budgets following voter approval in August of 2 countywide millage questions.

Voters okayed .9 of a mill for the sheriff's road patrol and .2 of a mill for senior services.

In a related matter, commissioners formally set 1988 millage rates for operations (4.2 mills), county bridge and local streets (.5 of a mill), medical care facility (.5 of a mill), road patrol/dispatch (.9 of a mill) and senior citizens (.2 of a mill). The rates are based on a state equalized valuation of $561,962,317.

In other business, commissioners authorized the board chairman to sign a Secondary Road Patrol grant application to the state for up to $71,070; included in the 1989 budget an appropriation of $10,000 to the multi-county narcotics enforcement team; reinstated a deputy dog warden effective Sept. 14; approved fourth quarter appropriations for Veterans Counseling

($2,784), Health Department ($28,750) and Mental Health Department ($21,725); and appointed Caro residents Mary Young, Carol Ellsworth and Beccy Lloyd to the Thumb Area Private Industry Council.

3 named to SVSU honor lists

Three area residents are among 60 students recently named to the dean's and president's lists at Saginaw Valley State University for the summer 1988 semester.

Among those named to the president's list is Carolyn A. Wright of Decker, who earned the honor by maintaining a perfect 4.0 grade point average while carrying 12 or more credit hours during the summer.

Cass City resident Karen L. Nicol and Gagetown resident William E. LaFave, meanwhile, were named to the dean's list. To be eligible for the honor, students must maintain a grade point average of 3.4 to 3.99 while carrying a minimum of 12 credit hours.

"Adolescents are the most troubled segment of the population and the least served" by the medical community, asserts Subhash C. Inamdar, M.D., director of outpatient adolescent psychiatry at NYU/Bellevue Medical Center in New York City.

There is a growing concern that the mental health care needs of 40 million Americans between 10 and 21 years of age are not being met. According to Dr. Inamdar, who is also professor of psychiatry at New York University School of Medicine, only one-third of United States medical schools with psychiatric programs offer training in both general and child psychiatry. This means that fewer than half the child psychiatrists needed by 1990 are being trained today.

But there is another disturbing concern: Anxiety and depression in adolescents often go unrecognized. This lack of recognition appears to have multiple roots.

Dr. Inamdar believes that most adults cling to the myth of a blissful youth. "Society vicariously derives pleasure from the young," he said. "To see youth suffer is too painful for all of us."

Parents, teachers and doctors alike may dismiss adolescent mental disorders in a subconscious effort to preserve youth as an idyllic time.

Furthermore, because adolescence is an evolving state, clinical signs and symptoms of anxiety often tend to be less pronounced or sometimes altogether different from those exhibited by adults. This may contribute to massive underrecognition and underreporting in this age group.

Studies have shown that residents in internal medicine, pediatrics and psychiatry all find that adolescents are the most difficult group to work with. Many professionals are simply not comfortable trying to work with youngsters who are "acting out." This compounds the problem, Dr. Inamdar said.

factor in a whole host of conditions plaguing adolescents. Fears, phobias, obsessive-compulsive behaviors, eating disorders, panic, depression, aggression, hostility, substance abuse and suicidal behaviors are differing manifestations of anxiety.

It is comparatively easy to diagnose anxiety in adults and to recognize when they are not functioning effectively in society. Adolescents, on the other hand, may exhibit all sorts of "unacceptable" behavior and have it dismissed as just another "stage." Indeed, to differentiate between diagnosable psychiatric illness and the normal emotional difficulties arising out of developmental, family and social issues requires patience and skill.

The consequences of untreated anxiety are numerous and not yet completely understood. However, the significance for adolescents can be highlighted by some distressing statistics. While the overall death rate in the United States dropped by 20 percent for all ages over the last 2 decades, it increased by 11 percent for ages 15 to 24. This increase was due to the doubling of homicides and the tripling of suicides within the age group. Many doctors believe that underlying anxiety may be the common thread in such behavior.

Epidemiological and genetic studies show that children of depressed or anxious parents are at high risk of developing anxiety disorders, and there is increasing evidence that untreated anxiety in childhood and adolescence may continue into adult life.

Anxiety disorders are among the most common medical illnesses, affecting an estimated 8.3 percent of the adult population — some 15 million Americans — in any 6-month period, with women victims outnumbering men 2 to one. Yet an estimated 75 percent of people with anxiety disorders are never properly diagnosed or treated.

This need not be so, because anxiety disorders can be readily diagnosed and successfully treated. A range of psychotherapies, alone or in combination with anti-anxiety and antidepressant medications, are often effective in relieving physical and emotional symptoms of anxiety disorders.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Among the attractions at Farmer's Market Days in Cass City last week, in addition to many bargains, were free bean soup, fresh butter churned by Lorn Hillaker, Bill Zemke and Duane Chippi, horseshoeing demonstrations by Charles Carpenter and animals for petting from the Cass City 4-H Livestock Club.

The Gagetown Women's Study Club met Sept. 6, at the home of Vera Hoadley with 11 members and one guest present. Zora Walrod, newly elected president, conducted the meeting.

Jerry Langmaid won the plaque in the third annual Stickem in the Middle archery contest Sunday afternoon. A cookout preceded the contest, held at the home of Skip and Ellen Speirs, near Deford.

Clara Bond and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold LaPeer were Wednesday lunch guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fuester in Cass City.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Port Austin Board of Education last Thursday appointed Kenneth Micklash principal of the high school and elementary school. Micklash, his wife Theresa, and their children live on Virginia Drive in Cass City.

Steven Lee Bean, 18-year-old son of Mrs. Dorothy Curtis of Cass City recently joined the U.S. Army according to Sgt. Phil Boivin of the Caro Army recruiting office.

Richard Szarapski, of Kelly Road, caught four

German brown trout Friday morning while fishing off the mouth of the Pinnebog River in Saginaw Bay. They ranged in size from 8-10 pounds.

Mrs. John Zinnecker, Mrs. Grant Ball and Miss Beverly Hurley returned to Cass City Sept. 11 from a 3,600 mile trip by bus and boat. They traveled up through Nova Scotia and returned home by way of Montreal and Toronto.

25 YEARS AGO

A change in the Cass City business scene was reported this week when Russell Schneeberger announced that he is going out of the fruit business. He and his brother, Clarence "Bud" Schneeberger, plan to devote their entire operation to the growing television sales and service business.

David E. Binder of Cass City recently completed a three-day Reserve Officer Training Corps leadership course at Central Michigan University.

Bids to be opened for M-24 extension

State Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) and State Sen. Jim Barcia (D-Bay City) announced recently that the Department of Transportation is beginning plans for the extension of M-24 from Caro to highway 138.

The legislators were informed by the Department of Transportation that bids will be opened soon for the first section of this extension, which should be completed in August 1989.

The first phase of the project will be to extend M-24 south of Gun Club Road North to north of M-81. This will consist of approximately a one mile stretch of road and will include the replacement of the deck, repair and painting of the Cass River Bridge in Caro.

Estimated cost for the first phase of the project is placed at $1.9 million.

The remaining 8.3 miles of road that will connect M-24 and 138 is scheduled for construction in 1990.

"We are extremely pleased to see this project finally becoming a reality after so many years," Allen and Barcia commented.

Allen explained, "The extension of M-24 will be a major artery for travel through Tuscola County and along the Saginaw Bay shoreline. It is an important step in the development of the Thumb's economy and its tourism industry."

"We are very happy that the Department of Transportation has made the decision to start such a critical project in our area of the state. This certainly shows great prospects for continued growth in the Thumb," they concluded.

Small treasures

Microscopic diamonds older than the sun and the planets have been found imbedded in 3 different kinds of meteorites. Chemically unaltered since before the solar system was formed 4 and a half billion years ago, International Wildlife magazine reports that the diamonds may be the oldest particles ever discovered. They are so small that trillions of them could fit on the head of a pin.

Missionary fellowship holds meet

The Baptist Women's Missionary Fellowship met Monday evening, Sept. 12. The meeting was opened with prayer by President Isabelle Whittenburg. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given by Geri Perry. She reported on dime banks for Bibles International.

The new project this year is an Apollobath to be used at Michigan Christian Home in Grand Rapids.

Rosella Kretschmer and Betty Ewald had devotions on the Lord's Prayer. Mary Jane Warner was in charge of prayer time, reading letters from missionaries, the Marches, Ruffs, Curtises and Lorraine McDowell.

Refreshments and decorations were by Alice McComb and Mary Jane Warner.

Napoleon had conquered Italy by the time he was twenty-six.

Pam Hensley

Dean appointed at Great Lakes Junior College

Great Lakes Junior College, Caro, recently announced the appointment of an academic dean.

Pam Hensley, a Bay City resident, has been appointed to oversee the faculty and instructional methods of the college campus.

Although she is a Bay City resident, Hensley is no stranger to GLJC's Caro campus and community.

"I began teaching at the Caro campus in 1985 when Great Lakes first started offering classes at the Tuscola Area Skill Center. At the time, I was only one of 3 instructors," she stated.

Hensley continued teaching at the Caro campus as recently as fall term of last year. Since that time, she divided her teaching responsibilities between Caro and GLJC's Bay City campus.

"I look forward to this new position with a lot of enthusiasm," Hensley says. "I'm excited about being at the Caro campus because I feel I have an understanding of the community. I also know Pam Hensley many of the students, faculty and staff," she added.

"One of my goals is to blend the needs of the faculty members with the needs of the students," Hensley said. "I will also be striving to make GLJC's Caro campus an even more active participant in community functions and activities. I also hope to become acquainted with more civic organizations in the community."

Hensley's educational background includes a master's degree from Saginaw Valley State University, a bachelor's degree in Business Administration from SVSU, and an associate degree from Delta College.

Project's impact on Michigan's wetlands aired

Officials of the Michigan Superconducting Super Collider Commission recently reported that only about 260 acres of wetlands would be permanently disturbed if Michigan is selected as the site for the U.S. Department of Energy project.

An environmental impact statement released by the department pointed out that 2,800 acres of wetlands were included in the 16,000 acre Michigan site, but John F. Haneski, executive director of the commission, said only about 620 acres of the wetlands would be affected.

And of that, about 360 acres would be only temporarily disturbed and would be allowed to return to their natural state following construction.

Haneski said Michigan stands to lose less environmentally sensitive land than any of the 6 other competing states. For example, at the Arizona site, some 570 acres of desert would be lost, which he said is much more difficult to restore than are the wetlands.

Locating the project in Michigan would also disturb only one natural habitat, that of the Indiana bat. Haneski said the bat has not been found in the proposed SSC area, but federal regulations prohibit the destruction of any natural habitat.

Haneski also said a sandhill crane nesting area, which some had thought might be endangered by the project, would not be affected.

Jim Heinzman, a geologist with the commission, added that additional research has shown that "buried valleys," which are eroded depressions filled with sediment under the ground, do not exist to the degree had been thought by federal officials, who said they could present problems during construction of the SSC tunnel.

The project's construction would involve only about 200 acres, Haneski said, out of the 8,000 that the Department of Energy would have to purchase from the state.

Other advantages Michigan has, Haneski said, include the large number of persons who would be available for employment, thus reducing the influx which would be required to accommodate needs. Only about 5,290 people would have to come into the state, while 6,300 would have to migrate into Colorado, the next closest.

That would also result in fewer housing needs in Michigan, he said, and fewer increases in school enrollment and not as great a need for additional teachers.

In infrastructure needs, Haneski said Michigan would require only one additional mile of 4 lane highway and 7 additional of 2 lane roads, which is the lowest of the contenders, but 99 miles of road would need upgrading. The Colorado site would need 92 miles of 2 lane and the Arizona site would need 15 miles of 4 lane roads and 37 miles of 2 lane roads.

Haneski said a public hearing will be held Monday, Sept. 26, in Stockbridge, the proposed SSC site in Michigan. Governor James J. Blanchard is expected to meet in October with Department of Energy officials.

Between then and when the preliminary site selection is made after the November election, he said the state will continue its property acquisition efforts.

President Ronald Reagan is expected to finalize the decision before he leaves office in January.

CASS CITY'S CINDY POWELL uses her dribble to find an opening in the USA defense late in the 4th period. The senior guard poured in 6 points in the final stanza to help preserve Cass City's 42-36 win.

Hawks fall to Lakers

Caro game Friday key to season

If the Cass City Red Hawks will have a successful or a dismal season may well be determined Friday when the Caro Tigers come to town. The Hawks have lost their first 2 Thumb B Association games following a defeat last Friday at Laker High, 27-6.

That's not as bad as it might sound, as the 2 teams that topped the Hawks are among the elite in the league this year. Caro is a rebounding team, emerging after several talent-poor years. The game figures to be a tossup. A loss by Cass City would make it extremely difficult for the Hawks to come up with a respectable year. Although defeated in the 2 games, Cass City has played well in spurts for Coach Don Markel in his first year at the helm.

Errors have hurt the team's chances. The Hawks just can't afford mistakes against the better teams in the league. It was a mistake on the first play of the game that set the tone for the contest.

The Hawks fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and the Lakers recovered. On the first play after the bobble, Laker halfback Kevin Wolfram took the ball, shook off 3 Cass City tacklers and went to the 4-yard line. Shawn Parrish bulldozed over on the next play. The kick was good.

The Lakers scored again the next time they got the ball in a drive that covered 54 yards. Most of the distance was covered on a 37-yard scamper by Vince Gentile. Parrish again smashed over from the 2. When the kick was good, it was 14-0 with 5 minutes left in the first half and it appeared that a rout was in progress.

The Hawks showed some character in the next five minutes of the quarter. In the opening series, the offense was able to do nothing against the Laker forward wall. Behind by 2 touchdowns, Cass City suddenly found an offense. Starting from their 35, Cass City moved in to score. Nick Palazzola went for 15 on a quick opener. Jason Robertson followed with a 12-yard scamper and the Hawks had a first on the Laker 38.

It was the passing arm of Paul Tuckey that kept the drive alive. On fourth and 4, he passed for a first down to keep the drive alive. A pass took the ball to the 2, from where Brent Beecher took it over. A run for the extra points failed.

The touchdown put the Hawks back in the game until late in the second quarter. Neither team was able to sustain a drive until there was a little over 3 minutes left. The Lakers then staged a drive against Cass City and the clock and won them both. Starting on their own 34, the Green Machine went steadily down the field. Parrish capped the drive with a 15-yard run with just 36 seconds left on the clock. The kick was good and the defending league champions were well in control at the halftime intermission.

Parrish scored again in the third quarter on a 3-yard run that capped a 47-yard drive to complete the scoring for the night.

Markel awarded decals for outstanding play to Doug Marker and Mark Wark on the special teams. Offensive back Nick Palazzola and offensive lineman Brent Meininger were decal winners, as were back Tuckey and lineman Dennis Dadacki on defense.

USA falls, 42-36

One-point win over Lakers keeps Hawks unbeaten in Thumb B

It's nice to have a poor game and still be able to chalk up the win and save a superior performance for when it is needed to pull out a victory. That's what happened to Coach Marty Daniel's Cass City Red Hawks last week.

The Hawks defeated Unionville-Sebewaing Tuesday, 42-36, and Daniel said he was pretty upset with his cagers. We didn't maintain our composure in the game, he said. After charging to a 10-0 lead in the first quarter, the team turned the ball over 31 times in the last 3 quarters.

On the positive side of the ledger, Daniel said, the team played well offensively when USA went to a box and one to try and stop Darlene Monroe. Cass City exhibited balanced scoring against the defense with all 5 starters sharing in the scoring, with 4 players scoring 8 points and the fifth 6 points.

Using their 10-point spurt in the opening minutes, the Hawks ran up a 10-2 lead at the end of the first quarter. The defense limited the Patriots to a single hoop by Gwen Schafer.

But the visitors got their game in gear in the second period behind Kristy Adam's 5 points to wipe out the Cass City lead and go in front by a point at the half, 17-16.

Whatever Coach Daniel told his charges during intermission proved to be the right message as the defense got back in the game and held USA to 5 points while the offense used balanced scoring to score 13.

The Hawks made that 7-point lead hold up in the last 8 minutes as the teams traded baskets to the final whistle. The Hawks' leading scorers, with 8 each, were Monroe, Sue Papp, Cindy Powell and Jandi Hillaker.

The Cass City Junior Varsity defeated the USA JV in the preliminary, 33-29.

LAKER GAME

While Daniel was not at all pleased with the game his cagers played against USA, he was more than satisfied with them Thursday night when the Hawks topped the Lakers in a see-saw battle, 52-51.

There were heroes galore for Cass City and leading the list was Cindy Powell, who played what was probably the finest game of her high school career. She burned the nets for 23 points, including 5 during fourth quarter crunch time, and played what her coach called excellent defense on Laker star guard Brenda Buschlen.

The Hawks also received strong play in the post from Monroe, 11 points and 13 rebounds, and Sue Papp, 10 points. The pair dominated the defensive board, Daniel said.

Sophomore Jandi Hillaker directed the attack from her point guard spot and was strong on defense. Andrea Isard helped fill the void defensively when Monroe was on the bench with foul trouble.

Buschlen and Connie Schulz kept the Lakers in the game. Buschlen scored 14 points and Schulz led all scorers with 27 points.

The Lakers moved out in front 13-9 behind

Buschlen's 6 points in the first quarter, but the Hawks countered that in the second quarter as Powell came to life to score 8 points and keep the Hawks on the heels of the Lakers, 26-24, at the half.

The 2 teams traded baskets in the third period and headed into the final quarter tied at 38. Led by Powell, again Cass City charged into the lead in the early minutes of the last period and were in front by 8 with 2 minutes to go.

The Lakers refused to fold and staged a rally to move to within a point and an opportunity to win, but missed and the Hawks left the floor tied for first in the Thumb B Association for at least another week with a 2-0 conference record.

The Laker Junior Varsity proved to be too strong for the Cass City JV and posted a 58-25 decision.

THIS RUN BY the Lakers set up the first touchdown. Running in pursuit is Cass City's Brent Beecher.

In battle of undefeateds

Deckerville next test for Bulldogs after 26-0 win

Owen-Gage upped their record to 3-0 Friday with a 26-0 trouncing over winless North Huron Kinde, who have yet to register a point on the season. A victory over next week's opponent, Deckerville, believed by many to be favorites to capture the North Central Thumb League crown, could give the Bulldogs some championship thoughts of their own.

Both squads are undefeated. "We'll need four quarters of the best ball we're capable of playing," said head coach Arnie Besonen about next week's confrontation. "Error free ball for 4 quarters. We won't be able to go to sleep in the last half like we did the past couple of weeks if we want to win."

On paper the 2 grid teams match up pretty well. "Talent wise, it's even. The team that wants it the most will win," lamented Besonen.

The game will be Owen-Gage's 3rd away game in 4 weeks.

But the Bulldogs have proven that they can win on the road, as was the case Friday when they tallied 26 points in the first half at North Huron.

"Error free ball for 4 quarters. We won't be able to go to sleep in the last half like we did the past couple of weeks if we want to win."

Arnie Besonen
Bulldog coach

The Bulldogs were able to run at will against the Warriors, piling up 203 yards on 43 carries. They marched 68 yards for their first touchdown on the opening kickoff. Fullback Graham Besonen received credit for the visitors' first score when he crossed the goal line from 3 yards out. The Bulldogs, who went to the air only 13 times, mostly in the 2nd half, marched for 3 scores in the second quarter to put the game out of reach.

Marc Reinhardt accounted for 2 of those scores. His first offense in the second half as Besonen was provided the luxury of going to his bench late in the game.

The Bulldog defense out-muscled the Warrior offense all night. They were also aided by 4 Kinde miscues.

Leading the charges was the Bulldogs' leading tackler Reinhardt, who recorded 6 tackles. Besonen also praised the efforts of Billy Ehrlich, who had 3 solo tackles and a quarterback sack. The Warriors had only 54 total yards offense.

Roller's squad on top of NCTL standing at 3-0

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs recorded a pair of North Central Thumb League wins last week to remain on top of the conference race. The Bulldogs now stand at 3-0 in the league and will travel to Peck on Thursday to battle with last year's NCTL champs.

And although the Pirates are also perched on top of the league standings, they will be without the services of superstar, Char Durand, who has graduated.

After knocking Akron-Fairgrove from the unbeaten ranks earlier in the week, on Tuesday, the Bulldogs won their 3rd consecutive game Thursday at North Huron's expense, 56-46.

The contest was very physical as 7 girls fouled out.

"This (game) was a war. North Huron won the free throw contest, but we won the game," coach Dean Roller said afterwards.

There were 63 personal fouls called.

Dawn Dorsch led the Bulldog attack in the early going as she netted 10 points in the first quarter, helping stake the visitors to a 19-13 lead. Dorsch's scoring picked up the Bulldog offense, when Angie Bolzman had to sit down after collecting her 4th foul in the game's first 8 minutes.

The Bulldogs never trailed after the opening quarter and enjoyed an 11-point lead at the half. Coach Roller attributed much of the Bulldog success to his strong bench play.

"Marlo Goslin did a fine job off the bench with 11 rebounds," claimed Roller.

The Warriors made a couple of runs at the Bulldogs in the last half but were turned back, usually by the efforts of Andrea Goslin, who had her best night in a Bulldog uniform.

Goslin scored a career high 23 points to go along with a team high 13 rebounds. Dorsch also finished in double figures for the winners with 15 tallies.

AKRON-FAIRGROVE

The Bulldogs used pressure defense to hand Akron-Fairgrove their first NCTL loss Tuesday, 68-49.

The Bulldog defense handled the Viking guards effortlessly, which resulted in numerous steals and easy baskets throughout the contest.

Leading the defense charges were senior Andrea Mandich and sophomore Vicki Ricker, who recorded 8 and 7 steals, respectively.

The Bulldogs jumped all over the visiting Vikings in the opening quarter and led 21-6 before the Vikings could recover.

"I was very pleased with the hustle and defense," said Roller.

The Bulldogs had 3 girls finish in double digits. Mandich led all scorers with 17. Ricker had 15 and Angie Bolzman poured in 11 tallies.

Kim Butcher had 12 points to lead the Vikings in a losing effort.

Golf team off to good start despite first setback Monday

Just how good is the Cass City High School golf team, anyway? Before the season started, Coach Jim Fox figured his Hawks would be lucky to win half of their games and here they are after 5 matches, undefeated.

It may well be that the team is headed for rough waters ahead in the Thumb B Association as the team scores have not been that impressive. But the fact remains that they have been good enough to win each match in the young season, including the league opener Monday, Sept. 12, against Vassar at Rolling Hills Golf Course. The score was 185-189.

Medalist for the Hawks was Brent Hall with a 45. Mike Francis and Ken Micklash each shot 47 and Steve Hammett, 46.

For the Vulcans, Paul Emling was the meet medalist with a 44. Brett Szagash shot 48, Scott Williamson, 47, and Jeff Miner, 50.

Coach Fox said that the team was not as good as it can be and said that the pressure of the first league meet may have had something to do with it.

The Hawks continued their winning ways Tuesday at Arrowhead Golf Course with an easy nonleague win over Mayville, 189-210.

The Hawks were led by meet medalist Chris Herringshaw, who shot a sparkling 40. Fox used the meet to give some of the other players a chance to compete under game conditions. Steve Hammett shot 50 and Mike Scollon, 51. Troy Osentoski posted a 48. For Mayville, Kevin Vaughn led with a 47. Other Mayville scores were: Mike Robinson, 50; Roger Major, 57, and Chad Ruth, 56.

Victory number 5 for the season was posted at Laker High's home course, Scenic Country Club, Wednesday as the Hawks posted a 181-183 decision.

Caro man enters no contest plea

A 21-year-old Caro man entered a plea of nolo contendere (no contest) Thursday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to charges of conspiracy to commit larceny of $100 or less, and jail escape.

Sentencing is to be set for William C. Pomeroy, whose combined bond of $30,000 was continued.

Court records state the conspiracy charge stems from an incident March 3 at the M-46 Party Shoppe, 1020 W. Sanilac Rd., in Indianfields Township. The escape charge stems from a June 3 escape from the Tuscola County Jail.

Fox said, "We're still inconsistent and underachieving, scorewise, and must improve to be competitive with Caro, Bad Axe and Imlay City."

Medalist of the meet was Jeff Rosenthal of Lakers with a 42. But he didn't

Police arrest Caro motorist

Cass City Police arrested a Caro motorist early Saturday morning on suspicion of driving while under the influence of liquor, and violation of a restricted license.

Leland R. Smith, 27, 2770 E. Caro Rd., was stopped on Main Street near Comment Drive at about 2:20 a.m. after officers observed his westbound vehicle weaving. Reports state his license restricts driving to 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Also Saturday, Cass City resident Ronald Simpson reported someone hit the vehicle he had parked at Erla's Food Center, 6233 Church St.

The incident occurred sometime between 8:40 and 8:55 a.m., he stated. No injuries were reported in a 2-vehicle accident on Main Street near Ale Street Friday.

Reports state a westbound semi-trailer driven by Michael M. LeFevre of Bay City collided with another westbound vehicle, driven by David A. Ertman, 3865 Little Rd., Cass City, when LeFevre attempted to make a right turn and Ertman attempted to pass LeFevre in the inside lane.

Ertman's vehicle sustained slight damage in the 11:30 p.m. mishap.

Also last week, Beulah M. Zapfe, 6737 Third St., Cass City, was driving west on Main Street near Weaver Street when her vehicle struck a parked vehicle.

Both vehicles sustained light damage in the mishap, which occurred Sept. 13.

RAIN WASN'T THE ONLY THING that soused Cass City's golf team Monday night at Rolling Hills as the Caro Tigers handed the linksters their first loss of the season, 195-168. Pictured are Mike Francis and Ken Micklash (with umbrella), who are getting a read on Rolling Hill's first hole green.

Tom Baker appointed chairman

Cass City resident Thomas A. Baker has been appointed chairman to organize local training classes in The Life Underwriter Training Council's (LUTC's) personal, business, disability income, advanced sales, financial planning skills, and multiline skills courses.

The appointment was made by Ricardo Sanchez, president of the Saginaw Life Underwriters Association, which will sponsor the program.

Baker has been active in life insurance for 18 years. Presently he is branch manager for the Metropolitan Insurance Companies.

According to Baker, the classes will start late in October, and are scheduled to meet at Saginaw Township Hall, 4980 Shattuck Rd., Saginaw.

Life insurance sales professionals from this area are invited to learn more about the program, whether or not they are affiliated with the life underwriters association. They can contact Baker at 799-1315.

The classes involve students in practical exercises and studies which will help them provide professional services to clients. Nationally, an estimated 35,000 life underwriters will be involved in the program this year.

prevent tragic accident

When children and matches are combined, the results can be fatal. The best way to prevent a fire-related accident is to keep children from playing with matches, lighters or other possible sources of fire.

Betty Pattullo, Tuscola County Extension home economist, says there are also some safeguards that allow consumers to purchase children's clothing which will help reduce the number of fatalities and injuries caused by accidents with burning fabrics.

In 1972, the federal standards regarding children's sleepwear became effective. The original standard covered children's sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6X. In 1975, another standard covering sleepwear sizes 7 to 14 was implemented.

These standards cover nightgowns, pajamas and other items intended for sleeping. Diapers, underwear and outerwear are excluded.

Federal standards require sleepwear to be flame resistant, which means that the fibers used in the fabric must be treated to prevent the garment from burning in a flash if exposed to a flame. These modified fibers will not prevent the fabric from igniting or burning, but they will cause the flame to self-extinguish. The standards specify that flame-resistant finishes must be durable (withstand 50 washings), non-toxic and non-carcinogenic. They should not change the feel and texture of the fabric or have unpleasant odors.

The flame-retardant sleepwear garments require special laundering to preserve the flame resistance. Labels on the garments provide good care instructions. Phosphate detergents are recommended, but in Michigan, where phosphate detergents are banned, persons should use soft water and heavy duty detergents. Do not bleach or use soap, fabric softener or hot water.

It's important to remember that the only way children's sleepwear can catch on fire is if a flame or intense heat source is applied to it. There is no such thing as a fabric that will spontaneously burst into flame from the friction of a sheet or blanket against the fabric.

The best way to protect children from igniting their sleepwear or other clothes is to keep infants away from flames or intense heat sources and to teach young children to stay away from space heaters, fireplaces, gas stoves, candles, matches, cigarette lighters and any other sources of possible ignition.

Persons who have questions or concerns about a specific garment, brand or retail outlet, can contact Pattullo at the Cooperative Extension Service office, 362 Green St., Caro 48723, or call 517-673-5999 (ext. 228).

Obituaries

Donald Cross

Donald Cross, 73, of Deford died Friday, Sept. 16, at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Saginaw after a short illness.

He was born April 3, 1915, in Novesta Township, son of Elmer and Mary (Martin) Cross. In 1934 he married Miss Nellie McArthur in Deford. In April of 1972, he married Mrs. Winifred Jones Cork, who died Sept. 11, 1986. He lived in Pontiac, where he had been employed by Pontiac Motors, before returning to Deford in 1968.

He served with the United States Army during World War II in Africa, where he earned the Purple Heart. He was a life member of the Disabled American Veterans, Sanilac County Post #75.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Elsie Kelley of Deford; 2 nephews; one niece; seven grandnieces and nephews, and five great-grandnieces and nephews. One daughter, Donna, and one brother, Elmer, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Gerald Rodgers, pastor of the Deford Community Church, officiating.

Interment, with military graveside honors, was in Novesta Cemetery, Cass City.

Everett Moody

Ulay Everett Moody, 92, of Vero Beach, Fla., died at his residence Sept. 8 following a brief illness.

He was born Aug. 18, 1896, in Wautauga County, N.C., and had been a resident of Indian River County for the past 30 years, moving there from Warren, Mich. He was a station agent and telegraph operator in the railroad industry and also worked for Packard Motor Car Co. during WWII until 1958, when he moved to Indian River County and became active in the citrus industry.

Survivors include his wife, Geneva of Vero Beach; 2 daughters, Louise Long and Lucille Guc, both of Cass City; one son, George Moody of Vero Beach; one sister, Florence Jenkins of Bristol, Tenn.; 9 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Graveside services were held Monday, Sept. 12, at Winter Beach Cemetery, Winter Beach, Fla. The Rev. J.C. Glenn of Forest Park Baptist Church officiated.

Drought ups food freezer popularity

Publicity about the drought and higher food prices has generated some new home freezer sales.

Home food freezers actually provide more convenience than savings. But if you have already bought a new freezer or made the decision to buy one, it's smart to get the greatest value you can from this major purchase. This means utilizing expensive freezer space for more costly food products (eg. meats) or products which are not available throughout the year (your unsugared home-grown strawberries).

The unusually hot summer is giving home food freezers a real workout. Some older freezers can't take the strain and konk out completely. Sometimes freezer doors are left ajar. Whatever the cause, a fully or partially thawed freezer is a major catastrophe in most households.

So what do you do if you find yourself in this dilemma? First, determine the degree of thawing that has taken place. Foods have different densities and some will thaw faster than others. Freezer location will also affect how quickly foods thaw. You will need to know the warmest state reached by different foods i.e., red meats, poultry, fish, vegetable, fruits and fruit juices and combination foods (meat pies, casseroles, etc.). Knowing this will enable you and anyone you ask for advice to more accurately determine which foods can be safely salvaged.

After a very quick check on the extent of thawing, close the door and keep it closed. How long food will stay frozen depends on several factors. 1) The amount of food in the freezer. (A full freezer will stay cold many hours longer than a freezer 1/4 full.) 2) The kind of food. (A freezer full of meat will stay frozen much longer than a freezer full of baked goods.) 3) The temperature of the freezer. (Food in a freezer maintained at a temperature of 10 degrees below zero will stay frozen longer than food in a freezer operating at 20 degrees above zero. Experts recommend home freezers be set so they maintain a temperature of zero - even lower will maintain quality better, but it will cost more to operate freezers at lower temperature. 4) The freezer itself. (A well-insulated freezer will keep cold longer than one with little insulation - a factor to consider when purchasing a new freezer.)

If the freezer is a chest model located in a cool basement and is off for only a few hours, the extent of thawing will probably be minimal and all food can be saved. All other things being equal, food in an upright freezer will thaw more quickly. Foods in the door will thaw first. For this reason, it's well to store less critical items such as baked goods and fruit juices in the door. Another precaution is to position an upright freezer so the door will literally fall shut (due to gravity).

Be sure to keep the door of a chest freezer locked and the key out of the reach of small children.

If your freezer does lose power and you need to determine which foods can be salvaged you can contact the Sanilac Co. Cooperative Extension Home Economist at 37 Austin St., Sandusky, or call (313) 648-2515.

A set of food storage leaflets you should have on hand for reference is also available from this same office. The numbers are CMI 87, 88, 89. Refer to them and your equipment use-and-care booklet frequently to minimize food loss.

Your neighbor says Drug legalization not the solution

Lately there has been heated debate over the legalization of drugs.

At first one might think that idea is ludicrous, but some very educated people, William Buckley Jr. among others, support the idea.

Of course no one in their right mind believes drugs are a good thing, but many feel that a government controlled drug trade could turn around and use those profits to educate people, especially our youth, that drugs are wrong. It has been shown in research that education is one of our nation's best defenses against the drug war, which under the current system we are losing to street corner pushers.

Your neighbor, Paul Battel, is against the legalization of drugs. The 28-year-old feels strongly that making drugs more available is not the answer to the drug dilemma.

"It's morally wrong," stated Paul when interviewed. The lifelong Cass City resident also went on to say that big business would also suffer if drugs became available at the corner store.

Studies show that addicting drugs, like cocaine, would lead to more sick time in the work field, costing everyone more money because of down time, insurance, etc., advised Paul, who teaches at the Tuscola County Skill Center.

The 1978 graduate of Cass City High School resides on Koepfgen Rd. with his wife, Mary, who is employed at the high school.

Oct. 11 Stewardship banquet set

Caro High School will be the scene of Forgotten Man Ministries' 2nd Annual Huron County Stewardship Banquet, to be held Oct. 11 at 6:30 p.m. with dinner.

Forgotten Man Ministries, a non-profit nondenominational faith ministry, provides the Tuscola County jail with a chaplain, Rev. Watson Bilger, who coordinates all religious activity within the jail. Similar ministries are being conducted under the direction of Forgotten Man Ministries in 18 other counties across Michigan.

Following the dinner there will be a program featuring special music, an address by Tuscola County Sheriff Paul Berry, a report by Forgotten Man Ministries Founder and Executive Director W.H. "Bill" Most, and a former resident of the Tuscola County Jail will give his testimony of salvation in Christ.

Reservations must be made no later than Oct. 7 by calling Chaplain Bilger at 674-8402. A faith promise offering will be received at the banquet to support the ongoing ministry of Forgotten Man Ministries within Tuscola County.

Card of Thanks

WE WOULD LIKE to thank our relatives and many friends for attending our surprise 40th anniversary, for cards, gifts, money and those who brought food. A very special thanks to our family for a very lovely surprise party. Don and Betty Tracy. 13-9-21-1

I WOULD LIKE to thank all those who worked so hard to make my banquet such a success - the residents, employees and volunteers of Provincial House; Ruby Reid, banquet coordinator; Special Scents, decorations; Opal Sayers, hors d'oeuvres; Janice Winter, caterer; Ruth Esau, programs; Rose Osentoski, poem; Bob Ullrich, piano music, and all the wonderful people who came to share this special night with me. JoAnn Smerdon. 13-9-21-1 would like to thank all our family and friends for thinking of us during our difficult times.

We couldn't have done it without your support: mental, physical and financial, and for the thoughts, prayers and cards that arrive daily.

We hope to have Patrick Robert home by Christmas.

Thanks again

Cinzia and David

Chimney fires preventable

An important safety factor, according to Allen, is the type and construction of the liner used. One that is properly installed and resists uneven expansion is a must, he said, adding that small "chimney fires," which cause some expansion due to high temperatures, normally occur every day as small portions of creosote (a by-product resulting from the condensation of gases in the chimney) are burned.

Allen likened normal daily chimney fires to burning a tablespoon of gasoline. The tablespoon becomes comparable to a gallon when a build-up of creosote catches fire, he remarked.

"Expansion is the demise of chimneys. A bad chimney fire can reach 3,000 degrees. The mason chimney as we know it—a clay liner and block or brick—will not stand that; it will destruct," Allen continued.

Even more important is the method of burning wood. Done properly, he pointed out, excessive accumulation of creosote can be prevented.

"Anytime that you're going to load it (fireplace or burner) with wood, burn it hard for 15 or 20 minutes. You get more heat over a longer period of time with less buildup of creosote."

"A dangerous level of creosote can build up in a matter of days. That's why it's important," he explained, adding that creosote is formed when the temperature in a chimney falls to the 250-degree range.

"I've gone into chimneys where I couldn't put a 2-inch ball down an 8-inch chimney" because of the accumulation of creosote, he noted.

Allen pointed out that maintaining a safe wood burning system doesn't have to cost a lot because many of the routine inspections and cleaning can be done by the homeowner.

"Chimneys need continual inspection; once a month or every 6 weeks. With proper burning techniques, the chimney might only need to be swept once a year," he said. If homeowners have a good chimney, take the necessary precautions and are quick to respond to a burner that doesn't burn well or smokes, the risk of a fire is minimal, Allen repeated.

Just the same, John and Doris Fuller have decided not to go back to burning wood. "I don't think so," John remarked. "I'll stay with gas and my wife will be happier, too."

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Dear Mr. Myers:

My broker wants me to sell options on stock. He says I can make 12% to 18% doing this. For instance, he tells me to buy Eastman Kodak and then sell "calls" on it.

What do you think?

Mrs. M. M. Ann Arbor, Mich.

Dear Mrs. M. M.:

When this nice young man gets to the stage where he is referred to as "my broker," he will trot out all sorts of goodies for you to buy.

Selling - or to be more precise, "writing" - call options on stock you own is pretty conservative compared to most investments the boys are peddling. When a return of 12% to 18% is dangled in front of you, it bears a closer look.

Take the example you refer to, buying Kodak and writing an option on it.

Today Kodak was 43. You could sell (write) calls on it for $2. The buyer of the call would then have a right to buy your stock from you at a price of 45 anytime until next February.

Now for the arithmetic:

Buy of 500 Kodak . $21,500
Plus commission 380
Sell 5 calls at $2 1,000
per share 1,000
Less commission 75
Your net investment $20,955

Let's move ahead now to February next year. Assume Kodak is no higher, no lower than it is now. (Some would think that's optimistic, the market being what it is these days.) Anyhow, you still have the stock, and since the call price is 45, it hasn't been called away from you. Meanwhile you have received 2 quarterly dividends of 50¢ each, total of $1 per share or $500.

So your net investment of $20,955 is now worth:

Value of stock, 500 at 45 $21,500
Accumulated dividends 500

Original net investment $22,000
..... 20,955

6 mos. income 1,045
Return 5%
Annualized total 10%

This return includes dividends, which amount to about half the net. Getting into options, then, adds 5% to the annual return. Dividends provide the other 5%.

Investing, like life, is a matter of choices. Bell Telephone bonds will yield you 10%, same as the option deal. While bond prices go up and down, too, they rank a couple notches above common stock in quality. The 10% return in either case is taxable. Say your rate is 28%. That 10% taxable return on either stock plus options or corporate bonds then shrinks to 7.2% after tax.

Today I bought some Tampa, Fla., bonds, rated AA- to yield 8.25%, tax-exempt.

I'll make more money and I'll sleep better.

over the Easter holidays.

The request was refused because of liability problems. However, the trip might still be taken. The students are earning money and expect to have about $3,000 earned to apply towards trip expenses. That's far short of the amount needed. Trisch estimates that about 12 students would take the trip. For the bare essentials, the cost would be $1,145 each.

Trisch said that she plans to write letters to local businesses and ask for donations to help the kids take the trip.

The board heard a report from Dorland Kuntz, a member of the steering committee that arranged for the Activities for Integrating Math and Science (AIMS) workshops during the summer.

He said that 13 teachers from Cass City School Board were pleased with the program. It was funded by a Federal grant.

A supplemental grant is being applied for now to train additional teachers and add to the training of the teachers that attended the workshop this summer.

ASBESTOS PROGRAM
Supt. Micklash brought the board up to date on the asbestos removal program, saying that after all the scheduled work is completed there probably would be about $10,000 left to work on the pipes in the tunnels under Campbell Elementary School. Workers that enter the area now must wear protective clothing and a mask. Asbestos removal was not scheduled in the tunnels because they are not ordinarily used by school personnel or students.

In a related issue, the board requested an extension from the Oct. 12 deadline to submit asbestos management plan as required by the government. The work is being handled by DeLisle Associates and all 80 schools that the company is working with have requested similar extensions.

OTHER BUSINESS

Parent-teacher conferences will be held Monday, Oct. 24.

An in-service day for all teachers in the Tuscola County School District will be held Oct. 20 at Caro High School. There will be no classes that day.

A special board meeting has been scheduled Monday, Oct. 3, at 7:30 p.m. for the discussion of goals for the school.

The school band, cheer leaders and homecoming queen candidates were given permission to attend the Pumpkin Festival in Caro on Sunday, Oct. 9, with the understanding that they would leave the community at 12:30 p.m. so that participants would be able to attend church that day.

Resolutions were adopted relative to class size so that the school would qualify for supplemental state aid.

3 car-deer accidents reported

No injuries were reported in 3 recent car-deer accidents involving area residents. According to reports filed at the Tuscola County

Sheriff's Department, Dorothy J. Taylor, 6351 Greenland Rd., Cass City, was driving west on Cass City Road, about 1/2 mile west of Crawford Road, when a deer leaped into her path Friday.

Damage to Taylor's vehicle was listed as moderate in the 10:10 a.m. mishap.

Kingston resident Jonathan D. Powell, 5850 Fisher St., told deputies he was driving on Kingston Road north of Cartwright Road in Koylton Township Thursday when a deer ran into his northbound vehicle at about 7 p.m.

Powell reported only slight damage to his vehicle.

Earlier last week, Douglas J. Nichols, 5340 Argyle Rd., Decker, struck a deer while driving north on Cemetery Road north of Elmwood Road in Novesta Township.

Reports state the vehicle sustained extensive damage in the 8:20 p.m. mishap, which occurred Sept. 12.
