other controversy involving Work and Learn Center. the "work and learn" camp slated to open this month in Koylton township hasn't deterred plans to begin the program.

Officials representing Pioneer Work and Learn Center, Southfield, who have been hired to run the juvenile rehabilitation camp for the state Department of Social Services, say they hope to welcome the first youths as soon as electrical service work can be completed, possibly early next

However, concerns regarding whether the camp has an adequate septic system, water supply and kitchen facilities for yearround operations have been raised.

Tuscola County Health Department Director Ed Golson said Monday he has repeatedly requested, but not received, plans from Pioneer officials for a sewage system at the camp.

He said the county Health Department has previously approved the camp's facilities, but only for summer or occasional use, not for yearround occupancy as proposed in the "work and learn" program.

"We told them, if you're going to occupy on a yearround basis. . .we want you to submit some plans for a complete sewage disposal system," Golson said. "Those sewage systems are 30 years old to the best of our knowledge, and we have no records of what's down there."

Golson said he also has questions about the camp's kitchen facility, particularly how a camp-type kitchen can meet the needs of an intensive food program serving probably more than 300 meals a day.

"We (also) have concerns with their water supply. They have one well down there," he pointed out.

Golson said the only reply he has received (as of Monday afternoon) was correspondence, disputing some of his concerns, from an at-

The director pointed out that if a problem were to arise at the camp, the local health department would normally be the first avenue for relief. That being the case, he said local health officials should have a voice in health measures at the facility. "The philosophy seems to be, we'll throw the kids in there and see" if anything goes wrong, he said. Who's going to take responsibility for that?" "All we want is for there to be some safeguards in place so it's going to be a healthy, wholesome environment.

Golson said his next step, if he receives no plans, will to visit the prosecuting attorney's office "to see what our options are.' Robert Wollack, chief executive officer of Pioneer Work and Learn Center, agreed the camp should be safe, and pointed out Monday that the facility has already received a "class A" rating from county health officials.

Wollack, who said the camp has been used by as many as 150 persons at one time, added a plan for action has been established in case of septic problems. The kitchen, he said, has been renovated to meet the camp's needs. "Whatever needs to be done according to the health inspector, we will certainly look into. We are here for the benefit of the children. We're not going to let anything happen" to them, he

TRAINING COMPLETED

Wollack remarked that he hopes to open the camp Monday. He said the first wave of camp staff members has completed a 3-week training session, and those 21 employees are enough to, accommodate 25 youths, although the program will start with only 10 juveniles. Another 10 youths will be added in each of the subsequent months until the maximum of 50 is reached.

While plans to open the camp apparently will proceed, the heated debate which has embroiled the proposal ever since it emerged locally hasn't sub-

GTE settles but employees unhappy

A 44-day day strike by members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 1106 against GTE North Inc. ended late last week with the ratification of a new 3-year

But Local 1106 officials and area union members remain bitter over the con-

According to Max Preston, vice-president and general manager of the company, the new labor package is worth an average of more than $3,000 in additional wages and benefits for each of the 2,200 bargaining unit members and will cost the company an additional $6.7 million.

'The new contract provides improved wages and fringe benefits, including an overall wage improvement of one percent the first year, 2 percent in the second year and 2 percent in the third year," he said.

The pact also provides for a $275 ratification bonus, a savings and investment plan and company paid health insurance for those who retire between the ages of 60 based on. and 65 (previously it was tinued.

"We can now turn our full attention to our number one priority—providing service to our customers," he added.

Local union members, however, say it's clear employees are not one of the company's priorities.

Union members say that while the company did move somewhat from its final offer, important concessions remain in the new contract, including a 2-tier pay scale and elimination of premium hours for telephone operators, and eventual elimination of overtime meal allowances and double time, which has been raised from over 52 hours to over 56 hours in the first 2 years of the contract.

"The company has come out with a lot of programs and wanted us to do better," one veteran GTE North construction employee, who works out of the Cass City office, remarked. The area resident, who asked not to be identified, added, "I feel we have really been producing. We have increased produc-

"All they've (GTE North officials) done is move dollars around. We might have gotten a little bit, but it was very nominal," he said of the contract, which was ratified by 68 percent of the union membership.

"I was one of the 32 percent that didn't vote for it."

"It was a feeling that we're not going to better ourselves by staying out (on strike) longer. Getting a pay check was the lesser of 2 evils."

Good news for 2

Area schools complete census

2 area schools and sad news for 3 others as the annual "fourth Friday" counts of students enrolled were completed. The count on the fourth Friday in September kindergarten class is actuis what state aid to schools is ally less than it was last year,

For in formula schools it ages 62 to 65), Preston con- amounts to around $2,500 per student.

CASS CITY The news was good in Cass City. After suffering a steep drop of over 40 students last year, the district rebounded and increased by 15 students this year. The increase was not expected. Early projections anticipated a loss of about 20 students.

Each student is worth $2,595 in state aid, Supt. Ken Micklash said, so the district will have $38,985 more for operation from state aid because of the increased enrollment.

In the last 4 years school enrollment has fluctuated, but remained fairly constant. In 1985-86 there was an enrollment of 1,658. Prior to 1986 there was a steady decline in students in the school. In 1984 the en-

There was good news for the peak, there were over 2,000 students in the system. Micklash said that the unexpected student windfall was due to 70 new enrollees from other districts. Our he pointed out.

KINGSTON

Kingston will also have more money for operation as there was an increase in enrollment of 16 students in the district. Although the school superintendent was not available Monday afternoon to give exact state aid figures the extra students should give the district in the neighborhood of $37,000 more for operation.

The count at Kingston this year was 752 students and in 1987-88, 736 students. CARO Hardest hit by a loss in enrollment was Caro Schools. The count there was 2,259 students as compared to 2,304 students last year. State aid in Caro Schools is $2,800 each, Supt. Thomas Lanway said, and the 45-student loss translates into $126,000 less rollment was 1,804 and at for operation of the school.

in students was not unexpected, but still makes it more difficult to balance the budget

OWENGAGE

Owendale-Gagetown District also recorded a drop in enrollment, but will receive state aid for the first time. For the first time the district will be an in formula district and will receive state aid of $89,000.

That helps, of course, but not nearly enough to make up for the loss in valuation. The reason that the district became in formula was that valuation dropped about $5.5 million and decreased school revenues about $267,000. The district now levies the state maximum of 41 mills.

UBLY

Ubly enrollment also declined slightly. The enroll-ment was 807 students, 12 less than the previous year. The enrollment was about as anticipated, school authoritics said.

Enrollment figures for all schools are unofficial and could vary slightly when official counts are tabulated.

If HDC officials still are not satisfied after that, they can appeal to the state Office of Services to the Aging, Vandemark pointed out, adding HDC will continue providing services until the appeal

Although the HDC board maintains their proposed unit rates cannot be reduced without the quality of services being drastically affected, Region VII officials contend administrative costs are too high and should be trimmed so more seniors can benefit.

The bride is the daughter of Holly and Lambert Althaver of Cass City. The groom's parents are Honorine Piontkowski of Haslett and Edward Piontkowski of Williamston. The bride's grandmother is Catherine Walpole of Caro.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an off-shoulder gown of white peau de soie, designed by Frank Masandrea. The deep portrait neckline was complimented by small puffed sleeves and a fitted bodice. Aurora borealis beads over Venetian lace cut-out designs accented the bodice, skirt and train. A chapel length veil fell from a lace and bead trimmed bow.

Matron of honor Perry Lynn Rader of Winter Park, Fla., is the bride's aunt. Bridal attendants included Cynthia Branoff and Ann Guernsey, the bride's cousins from Cass City; Allyn Barghini, a friend from Eagan, Minn., and Cathy Heatley, a friend from Waterford. Flower girl was Emily Ann Guernsey, cousin of the bride.

Best man was Steven Engelhart of Sylvan Lake. Groomsmen included Brian Althaver, the bride's brother from Tokyo, Japan, Robert and Edward Piontkowski Jr., the groom's brothers from Haslett, and Richard Barghini, a friend from Eagan, Minn.

The attendants wore pink tea length silk organza gowns with portrait necklines and bouffant sleeves. They carried cascades of pink roses, white Dendrobian orchids, Queen Anne's lace and English ivy. The matron of honor's silver gown was identical.

Before and during the nuptials, chamber music was Probably everyone is aware that "Type A" personalities, people who are impatient, short-tempered, competitive, etc., are thought to be more prone to heart attacks than their calmer, slower paced counterparts, the Type Bs. A new wrinkle presented by researchers indicates that the workers whose jobs create more risk of heart disease may be somewhat lower on the status scale than was previously believed. Data from 2 national health studies seems to reveal that it's not the business executives, doctors and lawyers who suffer the most psychological strain, since they have the freedom to make decisions that affect their jobs. Rather it's those workers who have "insufficient control over their work situation to be able to satisfactorily deal with the level of demands being placed on them" who are stressed the most.

The researchers conclude that it's the responsibility of employers to improve the health environment of their employees.

Earl Nightingale, in the August issue of Insight, suggests 7 steps to help a Type A individual become a >1. Do one thing at a time. Stop-right now, todaytrying to do more than one thing well at a time.

>2. Listen without interrupting. No matter how much it hurts, learn to listen to what the other person is saying until he finishes what he wants to say and has a right to say.

>3. Read books that demand concentration. Read "The Brothers Karamazov" Dostoevski Solzhenitsyn's "Gulag Archipelago" or books by someone such as Saul Bel-

>4. Eat leisurely. Savor your food. Find out what food really tastes like. Enjoy it for a change. Take smaller bites, and savor them. Put your knife and fork down on the table between bites, instead of having the next bite ready and waiting to be wolfed down.

>5. Have a retreat where you can be alone. Sometimes that's tough, but it's important.

>6. Avoid people and events that irritate you. Don't go to parties if you don't like them. Don't see people you don't like.

>7. Plan a loafing period every day—a time when you can perhaps stretch out and relax, read a good book or take a nap.

Sometimes when you find yourself tied in knots mentally and emotionally, it helps to sit back and ask yourself how important the things that are pressuring you really are in the overall scheme of life. What's the worst that can happen, and how will you feel about it a year from now?

Maybe things aren't as urgent as they seem at the moment. And maybe if you relax, you'll live long enough to find out.

The Tuscola County Department of Social Services is seeking volunteers for a Telephone Reassurance Program covering the county.

The program is a protective service wherein daily telephone calls are made by a volunteer at an appointed time to check on the wellbeing of an elderly or incapacitated person who lives

There are a large number of effective Telephone Reassurance Service and similar programs operating all across the country. The main goal of the service is to assist elderly and disabled to remain independent and continue to live in their own homes. For the volunteer, there is a satisfaction one receives knowing that someone in their community is not forgotten, but will receive attention whatever the need.

Today's world of poor grump. I used to be a peaceable person who ate awful restaurant food rather than complain to the waitress. I didn't want to create a scene.

Now I do. It's a rare day that I don't snap at someone for giving me less than my money's worth or otherwise treating me poorly. I like to think I do it in a partially jocular manner but, as my wife reminds me, the people I snarl at have no idea I'm chuckling below my fiery breath — somehwere near Highland Appliance is currently providing an example of what makes me crazy. I love Highland's funny TV commercials — the prisoner on Death Row whose last request is to attend a Highland sale, or the bride facing marriage in an empty church because everyone, including the groom, is off chasing Highland bargains.

And there is a Highland commercial featuring 2 teleyision stands, one with a TV set on it, and one without. The theme is that the missing Brand X TV is in the shop for repairs, but the present and operating fine TV was purchased from Highland. I can't help thinking of the ice maker missing from our Hotpoint refrigerator, purchased from Highland.

PETTINESS BRINGS OTHER GRIPES

So here I am, feeling grumpy. Not just about Highland Appliance. I drove into my neighborhood Mobile station for full service and the attendant told me I'd have to "wait awhile because it's change of shift time." I waited 10 minutes, hollered, and drove away. Full service?

I snapped at a National Bank of Detroit teller when she insisted that, even though the check was made out to "Jim Fitzgerald," I should have endorsed it "James E. Fitzgerald." In fifty years of banking, I'd never heard that one before.

Also, I climbed all over the management of my apartment building and the police for providing the lousy security that repeatedly allows my cars to be stolen. And when an auto burglar alarm rang all night in my neighborhood, I opened the window and hollered at no one. Worst of all, youngsters are getting shot dead in this city every day. That's real trouble. I'm letting petty stuff make me grumpy,

According to one study, it costs 28 cents per mile, up 2.3 cents since last year, to drive a car. That includes finance charges, depreciation, insurance and license and registration fees. That's based on driving 15,000 miles per year and comes to $4,200 a year.

It may be an accurate figure nation-wide, but I'd bet the homestead that folks around here don't average anywhere near that cost.

If you are like me, you will be sure to forget until you go to the mailbox Monday that the post office is closed. It's Columbus Day, an official Federal employee holiday.

That means, of course, that if we don't get items though the mail by Saturday, we won't get them in time for publication

A friend complained the other day about the new baseball diamond approved for construction on the school grounds east of the high school. He said that he voted for the extra millage Water Problems?? I pointed out that the school paid to maintain the field at the park when it was used and that the original $5,000, while important, would not materially affect his taxes or allow for even a part-time extra teacher.

benefit of a couple dozen

Thinking about it afterwards, it became apparent that we were both remiss. He was guilty of forming a conclusion without knowing all the facts. I was guilty of assuming that my reader was as aware of the background information as I was.

Thinking about it afterwards, there were other points that I wish I would have made. The assumption of the baseball field critic was that only a few played baseball and that the entire student body was helped by money spent on courses in the curriculum.

That's not true. A course in French, for instance, probably serves no more students than a baseball diamond and probably costs more, since it requires a qualified teacher. At first glance it seems that comparing French to baseball is like comparing apples and oranges. On the surface that's correct. But think a minute. Barring the occasional student that makes language a career or snags a job where knowing how to speak French is important, the course has no more postschool commercial value than winning a letter on the basebali team.

own Olympics.

That doesn't mean that a course in French isn't valuable. It's surprising how many times the background learned comes in handy. Not that it ever put a nickel in my ieans, but fallout from learning the language has widened my awareness of the world and widened my English vocabulary too.

Baseball never made any money for the players either, except for the rare animal good enough to be a professional. But a lot of guys have spent a lot of pleasurable hours playing long after they left the high school team. Okay, you ask, if it came to French or baseball, which would you give up? That's a stickler and I truthfully don't know which would get the nod if I were forced to choose. Baseball would be a greater benefit to some students, French would help others. If it were reading, writing or arithmetic, there's no question. The basics are what school is all about. What everyone needs

> Accountants told the MET Board that the prices that were tentatively set in June will likely remain unchanged because of the distribution of applications.

A breakdown on the 82,495 MET applications received during Aug. 1-5 reveals that 37.1 percent of all applicants have not yet entered kindergarten, and final contract language, 58.5 percent of the applicants are in grade 2 and below

The highest age group of applicants was from children born in 1987, 7.9 percent, while only .3 percent of high school seniors applied. The percentage of applicants drops off with each grade following grade 1's 7.4 percentage.

"By not having (MET) benefits drawn in any one year, it makes for an ideal world," Treasurer and Board Chair Robert Bowman said. "Such a diversity of ages among MET applicants assures parents that the trust will be financially sound.

Bowman said the MET Board would wait until it had completed a zip code analysis -- expected to be completed Thursday - of applicants before finalizing its price structure.

The accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand reported that 24 percent of University of Michigan students are from Oakland County, and if a high percentage of Oakland County residents sent in applications, it could force a change in the price structure previously announced ($1,689 per year for a new-

Bowman also plans to do an income tax analysis of the applicants, hoping to disprove the theory that the MET program only benefits the middle class. He said he will turn over the results of the income tax analysis to the Legislature.

Other major items that could affect actual results unfavorably would be if an excessively large portion of the fund is locked in when interest rates are rising rapidly, substantially decreased participation in future years, or if very few of

Fire Prevention Week slated for Oct. 9-15

Root, in cooperation with the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division, reminds area residents that Fire Prevention Week begins Sunday and continues through Oct. 15.

The theme for this year's observance is "A Sound You Can Live With...Test Your Smoke Detector."

According to Root, the proper installation of one or more smoke detectors in a home, and regular checks of smoke detector batteries, is among the keys to home fire prevention.

Also important is drafting and practicing an escape plan in case of fire. Area residents are asked to join the state police Fire Marshal Division in "Operation E.D.I.T.H." (Exit Drills In The Home) at 8 p.m. Oct. 12, when families throughout the state will practice their escape plans.

Among officials' suggestions for developing an escape plan are draw a floor plan for a home and identify 2 escape routes from each room, pre-arrange a "safe place" for the family to meet outside, and explain the drill so everyone understands.

The plan, which should be practiced several times a year, should also include: MEMORIZE THE FIRE Edward J. Goralewski of Caro, chairman of the group, said seniors can make the difference in the Nov. 8 presidential election.

'Bush cast the deciding vote against seniors when he Vassar woman voted to freeze social security cost of living benefits in 1985," Goralewski said. "The administration he is a part of cut health care and medicare benefits. He makes seniors spend more money out of smaller incomes.'

Goralewski said Dukakis supports full benefits and cost of living adjustments for social security benefici-

"Dukakis got legislation in Massachusetts that guarantees health care to every citizen, and led the fight to require physicians to accept medicare as payment in full for medicare-covered services," Goralewski said.

He said Democratic Vice-Lloyd Bentsen also has a strong record of support for senior citizens, while Republican Dan Quayle has voted against seniors on almost every issue.

"Bush is for the rich, and Dukakis is for everyone,' Goralewski said. "Not many senior citizens are rich, so the choice is clear."

HEALTH TIPS Help available for hay fever sufferers noses, and itchy, swollen eyes of hay fever are here, and allergy specialists believe we may have a heavy pollen season that will make symptoms more se-

But Dr. Larry Sell, senior vice-president of Health Care Affairs for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, has good news for those afflicted with hay

New drugs and treatments make it possible for most hay fever sufferers to get through the season with a minimum of discomfort. Each year fewer and fewer people have to resort to allergy shots for relief of hay fever symptoms, Dr. Sell says

His advice:

First, reduce your exposure to the pollen that to keep members of the causes hay fever. In Michigan, that's ragweed pollen, the male fertilizing element. In the case of ragweed it is transported by air. Breathing pollen-laden air is what causes hay fever miserable and its symptoms, explains Dr.

So stay inside as much as

If you must be outside, particularly in the countryside where pollen is most prevalent, and if you suffer from hay fever, wearing a face mask filters out the pollen.

Compresses lukewarm water can give temporary relief for burning, itching eyés, Dr. Sell counsels. Brisk exercise seems to shrink nasal passages and thus helps reduce nasal congestion.

A number of over the counter (OTC) anti-histamine drugs will relieve much of hay fever's symptoms.

Anti-histamines, however, can make people very drowsy. Try different antihistamines or lower dosages to help avoid those causing drowsiness. Don't drive or operate machinery if you're taking an anti-histamine, Dr. Sell warns.

One of the breakthroughs doors, place a decal or piece in the last few years is forof colored tape on the glass mulation of an anti-hisdown at your youngster's tamine that is non-sedateye level to let them know ing. It is available only with a doctor's prescription. People often use nasal

The sneezes, stuffed-up sprays for relief, but they pose a real threat of abuse and of making congestion worse. Particularly dangerous are the long-acting decongestant nasal sprays or inhalers. Doctors find that those who use these regularly can become almost totally congested; a result mostly of the sprays or inhalers, not the hay fever, according to Dr. Sell.

> There are 2 kinds of prescription nasal sprays which are non-addictive and will offer considerable relief of nasal congestion, and some relief from eve symptoms. These are a topical cortisone-like drug which reduces inflamation and a cromolyn preparation which blocks the release of histamine that causes many allergic symptoms.

If symptoms are not controlled by the treatments outlined, or if symptoms get progressively worse over the years, or if symptoms are associated with asthma, then an allergist should be seen, Dr. Sell advises last Friday against Bad Axe, 8-7. It was a case of winning ugly, said coach Don Markel after his charges had done everything wrong all night with the exception of one drive that proved to be just enough to win.

Hay fever sufferers can take some comfort that there's an end to this irritating condition. The hay fever season usually peaks around Labor Day and ends in October when the ragweed plants cease to produce pollen.

It's certain that Cass City will need to play much, much better Friday at North Branch to have a chance to top the Broncos on their Hatchet drive on the Cass home field.

Cass City scored the game winning points with a 60yard sustained drive. Mixing passes and runs, the team moved deep into Bad Axe territory. The drive appeared halted when the Hawks were third and 11. But the Hatchets were guilty of pass interference and Cass City had a first on the 12. Three plays moved the ball to the 5, from where Paul Tuckey took the ball

LITTLE ROOM TO RUN — Cass City's Brent Beecher found the Hatchet defense tough to beat during the Red Hawks' 8-7 win Friday night. Bad Axe held Cass City to just 137 yards in total offense on the night.

Meet Broncos in league lead battle

Hawks notch 2 more wins

have already accomplished more than was expected this season and are co-leaders in the Thumb B Association, but will be definite underdogs in a battle for the league lead Thursday at North Branch.

The Broncos are not only undefeated in the league, they have an 8-0 record overall and have lived up to pre-season billings as the team to beat in the conference this year.

Cass City showed that it was ready for the big game with a pair of victories over Bad Axe and Mayville.

The Hawks won a very physical game against Bad Axe, 55-38, which coach Marty Daniel said proved to him that his charges could play under control and with poise regardless of what kind of game was played. single point, 25-24. Daniel was very pleased with the efforts of his bench

Andrea Isard and Vicky Robinson played a strong game, keeping the team in the game when Darlene Monroe was on the bench with foul trouble. We played well against a taller team, Daniel said.

It looked as if the Hawks were going to have an easy time against the winless Hatchets in the opening quarter. Paced by the 2 leading scorers on the team, Monroe with 4 baskets and Cindy Powell with 2, Cass City jumped off to a 16-9 first period lead.

Bad Axe didn't play like a team that had failed to win a game, and refused to fold. Using balanced scoring, the Hatchets outscored the Hawks 15-9 in the second quarter and the game was up for grabs at the intermission with Cass City anead by scored a pair of buckets, and some tight defense, Cass City moved comfortably in front, 41-30, going into the final 8 minutes.

Sue Papp made sure that the Hatchets couldn't close the gap as she scored 8 of her 12 points in the last quarter. Monroe led Cass City's balanced scoring with 13 points. Cindy Powell added 12. Jackie Gavitt and Jennifer Bryrying each scored 10 for Bad Axe.

Daniel probably wished for some better shooting percentages from his charges. Cass City converted just 9 of 19 for 47 percent from the charity stripe and just 23 of 59 for 38 percent from the Fox said that before the season ending tournaments, the Hawks would have a qualifying shoot-out to decide who will play on the team. Our Freshmen probably could have beat us the way we played against Imlay City, Fox said.

The loss was even more frustrating to Cass City because the match was played on Cass City's home course, Rolling Hills.

Cass City's best score was posted by Mike Francis, a 44. Other scores were Ken Micklash, 46; Steve Hammett, 49, and Garen Barker, 45. Several Hawk golfers, whose scores were not counted, bested the team golfers, led by Chris Herringshaw with 43 and Troy Osentoski, 42.

Imlay City golfers posted identical scores of 44 each. Members of the team are Aaron Dotson, Andy Stryker, Mike Spink and Ray Hycho.

Homecoming Friday

Bulldogs whip Vikings to remain in NCTL title race

The Owen-Gage football team rebounded from last week's loss to Deckerville with a splendid showing at Akron-Fairgrove, where they downed the Vikings 35-14, spoiling the host team's homecoming along with any aspirations of capturing the North Central Thumb League crown. The Vikings fell to 1-2 in league play.

The Bulldogs, however, remain in the thick of the conference picture as their record advances to 4-1 on the year, with Caseville coming to town on Friday for the Bulldog homecom-

The Bulldogs will be overwhelming favorites against Caseville.

"We put it all together, both offensively and defensively, Friday," stated head coach Arnie Besonen. "We did a fine job of holding Akron-Fairgrove's talented back Jeff Green at bay."

The Bulldogs moved the ball easily in the opening series Friday as they marched 80 yards on 8 plays for the game's first score. Marc Reinhardt

"Work and learn" camp draws more questions

Barcia, Allen air efforts to fight camp

Dear Editor:

We are writing in response to Marie Remmert's letter to the editor, published in your Sept. 14 edition, concerning the "work and learn" camp in Kingston.

As state representative and state senator for Tuscola County, we are your elected state officials. Ms. Remmert couldn't be farther from the truth in her statement that the work and learn camp "has the backing of...your elected state officials." Being from Oakland County, she is obviously unaware of the many efforts we have made on behalf of the residents of the Thumb area in trying to keep this camp out of our district.

Both of us, Rep. Allen and Sen. Barcia, have been actively fighting the work and learn camp for juvenile offenders by every means available to us. We were successful on both the House and Senate floors in removing funding for the camp program from this year's budget. Unfortunately, with the Governor's strong desire to see this program move forward, the House/Senate Budget Conference Committee removed the language we had inserted. It is extremely frustrating when the majority will of the people and of the State Legislature is ignored and such a project is forced upon us. We are continuing to work diligently to assist our constituents concerning this matter in any way possible.

Thank you for allowing us to set the record straight.

Sincerely,

Dick Allen State Representative 77th District

James Barcia State Senator 34th District

What is the big cover up?

Why do they keep calling this experimental project a Work and Learn "Camp"? The Michigan Department of Social Services describes a camp as providing "care and supervision for the same group of children for not more than 12 weeks" (Child Care Organizations. Act 116 of

What is the big cover up that causes the Michigan Department of Social Services and the Pioneer Work and Learn Center Inc., to continue to make false statements to the community?

In Koylton Township, we have 2 well administered Teen Ranches for troubled youth from all over the state. Gov. Blanchard could not criticize us. We are doing our part for the displaced youth.

We have a disproportionate number of foster homes which many of the few individuals who are planning on a big profit from the Work and Learn Center would like to eliminate.

Sincerely, Joan Nickens

Discrepancies are abundant

Dear Editor,

Yes, Governor Blanchard is getting his Work and Learn "Camp". This long awaited "camp" will fulfill his promise to Mayor Young with the mayor's growing youth problem. This program is being pushed to open in the rural Kingston area. I was told as I grew up that "cheaters never win", but when it comes to political promises, Pioneer Work and Learn Center, Inc., and $2.9 million, being honest is only for those who believe in fairy tales.

Judge Keith Leenouts, camp owner, said if the community was concerned he would withdraw his camp property. When the community showed solid opposition that was the last we heard from the judge.

Pioneer spokesman Robert Wollack is a very experienced man in what to do to get around laws set up for the common folk. After the April 26th Tuscola County Department of Social Service meeting in which the Work and Learn Center was turned down, Wollack said ahead anyway, the local DSS decision meant nothing and the township would need a large chest to fight this program.. Wollack has been given $23,000 plus of our tax money by the MDSS to fight this township in court. Wollack said, in the Detroit Free Press, that he has an O.K. from the attorney general. Through the Freedom of Information act, the attorney general wrote us and said he hasn't given an opinion on the Kingston Hills

Camp. These are just a few of the many discrepancies and false statements that seem so abundant in this fight to set up this Work and Learn "camp". Is the fight for the good of the troubled youth or for the $2.9 million dollars?

Jean Kempa Kingston, MI

Camp officials completely ignore laws

To the Editor:

As a citizen of the State we are expected to obey the laws and regulations that our government enacts. Now we see Judge Keith Leenhout, the Michigan Department of Social Services, and Pioneer Work and Learn completely ignore the laws. W.J. Maxey of the Michigan Department of Social Services, in a telephone conversation, told me that they had received an opinion

from the Assistant Attorney

General regarding the "Kingston Hills Camp." From materials received through a Freedom of Information Act request, we see no opinion given. Mr. Maxey also said the camp had received an A-l rating regarding the camp from the Tuscola Health Department. In truth, the Health Department said that there should be a plan presented for a septic system, and that it should be implemented before detainees were admit-

The building department suggested that the cement slabs under the building should be replaced. Farmers are advised to have better foundations for swine than the camp has for humans. The Michigan Department of Social Services has very precise rules regarding what constitutes a camp. Yearround facilities are no longer a camp, but a child care fa-

Why do foster homes have to follow definite regulations? The State mandates the need for zoning laws. Why is the State not required to observe their own laws and regulations?

Why is Pioneer Work and this program was going Learn like a military contract? They are paid cost plus, therefore they do not need to live within a budget.

Why is what the Michigan Department of Social Service officials say such news? When MDSS breaks laws or rules and regulations the media turns its head.

We want justice!

Sincerely, Elizabeth Baggleman

20 attend church group She bowls on the Tuesday 5:00 p.m. Women's League meeting

A meeting of St. Columbkille's Christian Mothers was called to order Sept. 20 at St. Columbkille Church, Ubly, by new President Marilyn White, with Sister Carmella Conway leading prayers.

A total of 20 members and one guest attended the meeting, during which Winifred Sofka and Bertha Sweeney each presented quilts to be donated for the annual barbecue raffle.

A motion to host the spring meeting of Eastern Region of Catholic Women, if needed, was passed.

Also, new business was discussed, with several event dates being finalized. Marilyn White reported that plans for the craft show, set for Oct. 8, are progressing well. The annual November trip was discussed, and a November Mass, including induction of any new members, is being planned. There was general agreement to attend Port Austin's musical, "My Fair Lady" Nov. 6, and the annual Christmas dinner and party will be held Dec. 10.

Ladies are asked to bring items for harvest display to the October meeting. Decorating of the church will follow the meeting.

Following completion of new business, Sister Conway made a short film presentation to the group.

September gift winners were Jeannie Hatlas, Sally Sweeney, Catherine O'Henly and Alice Hoppe. The October Hostess Committee is composed of Barb, Sally and Denise Sweeney.

Space ride, space program is desirable

After nearly 3 years, the United States is back in space. Their shuttle, Discovery, has launched its $100 million Tracking and Data Relay System satellite and the 4-day mission has been dubbed a success.

But considering the price tag and risk that were made apparent with the Challenger disaster in January 1986, is the space program worth the trouble?

Your neighbor, Seeger Street resident Bill Morgan, believes it is.

"I think they should continue with the space station project," says Bill. From there they can expand to other destinations, responded Bill when asked what direction the space program should head. 'There may be other accidents, but I don't think they'll be as bad as Challenger's mishap, because of the new technology," commented the 24-

The Walbro employee also feels that future space flights should be manned rather than unmanned and that civilians should still be a part of them.

When asked if he would travel in spaced if asked, the single Morgan replied "Definitely. I am all for that."

Obituaries

Alice McAleer

Mrs. Alice Edith McAleer, 88, of Cass City died Monday, Sept. 26, at Provincial House in Cass City after a lengthy illness.

The former Alice McGay, she was born July 29, 1900. in Oak Park, Ill. She married Donald McAleer June 24, 1925, and they lived in Royal Oak: They came to Cass City in 1954, where Mr. McAleer set up a law practice. He died Jan. 3,

She had been a paraprofessional practicing civil law. She was on the board of directors for Rawson Memorial Library, had been employed by Hills and Dales General Hospital, and was a past member of the Zonta Club of Cass City.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Frazier (Margaret) Foren of Royal Oak; 2 sons, John E. McAleer of Portland, Ore., and Walter H. McAleer of Manila, Philippines; 9 grandchildren, and 5 great-grandchildren. Two brothers and one sister preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held Saturday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church of Cass City, officiating.

Interment was in Elkland Cemetery.

Amy Kelley

Former long-time area resident Amy M. (Van Blaricom) Kelley, born July 25, 1902, in Kingston, died

Aug. 4. She was 86. Kelly grew up in Deford and later met her husband, Maurice E. Kelley of Cass City. Married in 1921, the couple spent their early years together farming in the Cass City area.

In 1935 they moved to Flint, where their only daughter, Doris Jean, was born. The child later died at the age of 2 years.

Amy began a career in real estate and spent the rest of her professional years in that field. She was known as "one of the top" in her area. After 25 years she and Maurice, a General Motors employee, retired to Bradenton, Fla., where they enjoyed another 25 years together.

Upon her husband's death in 1986, Amy returned to Michigan to be near her grandniece.

Aside from her daughter and husband, Amy was preceded in death by her brother, Foster Van Blaricom. She is survived by her sister, Edna (Sadler) Harris of Marlette, and many nieces, nephews and her grandniece, Doris Jean.

at Novesta Township Cemetery with the Rev. Eldred Kelley officiating.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

"GM and other auto producers plan a major boost in production the rest of the vear. But analysts say any drop in sales will force makers to reduce output or face big inventories.'

You know, you can almost count on that. If you make more than you can sell, it's going to pile up on you, until it occurs to you to quit making so much. A Harvard MBA gets paid for figuring out things like that. Nothing like a college education.

Now and then I exchange notes on sinus cures with a fellow sufferer, Jim Sawyer of Barnawatha, Australia. Latest suggestion from Down Under is a mixture of horse radish and garlic.

The horse radish part makes sense. You get the right kind and it will clear out your pipes like Drano. The garlic part, I'm afraid it would cost me my last 2 remaining friends.

There was the tale of the fellow who had a terrible sinus condition, and traveled world over, seeking a cure. Allergists, nose-andthroat men, internists and other assorted specialists all were baffled. None of their nostrums did a darned thing for the poor guy.

Finally he saw a famed medic in Vienna, who exam-

Class outlines parental responsibility

Several Cass City High School juniors and seniors Monday became the proud parents of an equal number of 5-pound sacks of flour, "delivered" by Dr. (alias Principal) Russell Biefer.

Although humorous, the ceremony was part of a semester class that offers some serious lessons on parenting.

The relatively new home economics course, taught by veteran instructor Katie Jackson, covers everything from prenatal development to developmental skills and is designed to help students understand the enormous responsibility of being a parent.

Among the class goals, Jackson says, is "hopefully to let them (students) know some of the downfalls, particularly before marriage."

Prior to Monday, the class focused on areas of prenatal child development, including a visit to a hospital obstetrics unit.

During the next 3 weeks, however, the 40 students involved will turn their attention toward caring for,

Pioneer officials, meanwhile, say the "work and learn" program is a camping program like any other camping program and thus meets local zoning laws.

Although that issue remained unsettled after a brief fight in Tuscola

County Circuit Court in July, Koylton Township Zoning Board member Russell Mayer said Monday that zoning officials are now preparing to present their case to the township Zoning Board of Appeals.

A hearing for both sides to present their arguments has been scheduled for Oct. 12. If the appeals board decides in favor of the zoning board, circuit court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn will be asked to review the decision, Mayer
