Political race lift due Nov. 8 in Tuscola County

Area voters will head to their respective polling places next week, Tuesday, Nov. 8, to choose a new president as well as decide a host of state, county and local races and propositions. The polls will open at 7 a.m. and remain open until 8 p.m. By far the biggest face lift in county government in the upper Thumb will take place in Tuscola County, where voters will elect a new prosecutor, sheriff, clerk, treasurer, register of deeds and at least 2 new county commissioners.

Voters also will decide the fate of a county-wide millage request for veterans services, and a proposed $20 motor vehicle registration fee.

Area voters in Huron and Sanilac counties also will elect new sheriffs.

In addition, area Sanilac voters also will elect a new drain commissioner and a new commissioner in District 5, which includes Evergreen and Greenleaf townships, as well as vote on a county-wide millage request for renovation work at the county courthouse.

Huron County voters will also elect a probate judge and a commissioner in District 6 as well as decide a county-wide millage request for the county medical care facility.

Locally, a new supervisor, treasurer and clerk will be elected, and 3 millage questions decided in 4 area townships.

NOVESTA

Novesta Township voters will both choose a new supervisor and decide the fate of a millage request for road improvements.

Two long-time Deford residents—Republican Danny Allen and Democrat Maynard A. Stine—are vying for the supervisor's post, held for the past 12 years by William C. O'Dell, who decided not to seek reelection. Allen, 45, a Deford businessman, has lived in the township since 1948. He owns and operates Dan's Auto and Fireplace Shop. Stine, 63, has been a farmer all his life. He has lived in the Deford area for 27 years. Neither of the candidates has previous political experience.

The millage request, 2 mills for 3 years, would raise about $24,000 per year and would be used to prepare unpaved township roads for black topping. A similar request, one mill for 5 years for roads, was defeated by voters in a special election held April 5.

ELMWOOD

Registered voters in Elmwood Township also will decide a township race as well as a millage question.

Republican Jeannine Hobart and Democrat Richard J. Patnaude are both seeking election to the office of township treasurer. Incumbent Treasurer Kenneth M. Hofmeister decided not to seek reelection.

Patnaude, 62, has been a cash crop farmer in Gageton since 1945. He also has worked as a tax consultant for businesses and private individuals for 20 years.

Hobart, 56, also is a cash crop farmer. The Unionville native, who has lived in the township for 12 years, served one year on the Columbia Township Zoning Board.

Voters will again be asked please turn to page 9.

Farm accident claims life of Mayville man

A 36-year-old Mayville area farmer died last week following a power take-off accident in Fremont Township.

According to a report filed by Deputy Curtis Chambers, who assisted ambulance personnel responding to the scene, the farmer, Michael L. Blonde, 1495 E. Grove Rd., apparently was unloading corn from a gravity wagon onto a corn elevator behind a residence on North Grove Road, east of M-24, when the accident occurred late Thursday afternoon.

Blonde apparently moved too close to the machinery and his clothing became entangled in the power take-off shaft, the deputy reported.

Blonde, who was transported via helicopter to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, later died due to the extent of injuries sustained in the accident.

70 sign petition

Area residents protesting 48-unit apartment complex

Proposed development of a 48-unit low-to-moderate income apartment complex south of Maple Street has drawn fire from residents living in that area of the village.

A petition signed by nearly 70 residents who don't want the multiple family housing complex recently was presented to the Cass City Village Council, which discussed the issue with a spokeswoman for the residents during its monthly meeting Monday night.

Elizabeth Street resident Nancy Weippert, who attended the meeting along with Frank Schott and Gerald Polk, both Woodland Avenue residents, outlined the group's opposition.

She said residents don't believe the proposed site is sufficient for 48 units without creating a great deal of congestion, and the incoming streets to the area would not sufficiently support the increase in traffic.

She noted that the council in 1984-85 assured residents that the rezoning of that section of town was done only for the purpose of developing senior citizen housing, not general occupancy apartments.

Weippert also said she has spoken with residents living near the village's other low-to-moderate income apartment complex, located north of Provincial House. She said comments about living near the complex have been "unfavorable."

Another concern of the citizens, she pointed out, is that the proposed site is across from a gravel pit. She said children living at the proposed apartment complex would be attracted to the pit, thus increasing the liability of the county.

Trespassing is already rampant at the gravel pit and probably will continue, despite a recent decision by the county road commission to erect a cable and signs there, she continued.

"We have 3-wheelers and 4-wheelers and target practice" at the gravel pit, she remarked. "I've seen it all, and now we're going to have children playing there? It's just asking for trouble, in my opinion."

The council addressed some of the points raised by residents.

ASSURANCE

Council President L.E. Althaver said the assurance given residents in 1984-85 regarding the type of housing that would be developed in that part of town was specific to village-owned property, 3 acres of which was sold for construction of a senior citizen apartment complex.

Althaver and the council also noted that village zoning would allow construction of 48 units at the proposed site, which would be accessed by Maple, Sherman and Elizabeth streets.

Althaver pointed out that the proposed complex is still only a proposal, and that if the project proceeds, residents will receive ample opportunity to voice their opinions at public hearings required for annexation and zoning changes.

"We took the position we did primarily because there is a desperate need for housing," Althaver commented. "There is a need for apartments in the community."

The council in September approved a motion in support of the project provided all necessary legal steps, including annexation of the proposed property to the village, are taken.

Milo S. Turner of S.I.D.C. Ltd. Partnership, Frank-enmuth, approached village officials with the proposal in early September. Assuming financing is approved, Turner indicated he would like to build the complex on a 4-acre parcel that starts at the south end of Maple Street and continues east 891 feet. The parcel, owned by Bruce Gee, is 200 feet wide.

Village officials indicated Turner represents the same firm that built the village's existing low-to-moderate income apartment complex.

LICENSE TRANSFER

In other business Monday, the council approved a recommendation to transfer a liquor and dance license for The Station bar in Cass City.

The transfer request was made through the Liquor Control Commission by Donald J. Stilson, who previously owned The Station, later sold it to Cherry Enterprises Inc., and now is in the process of reacquiring the business.

If approved, the license will allow only the same activities as allowed previously—sales of liquor by the glass, and dancing. Police Chief Gene Wilson and the council have recommended that Stilson's request for an entertainment permit not be approved.

Council trustees noted that their approval of the license transfer is subject to "reasonable resolution" of 2 citations—one for serving a minor and another for patrons on the premises after hours—recently issued against the business.

It was noted that, according to the Liquor Control Commission, the transfer of ownership cannot be completed until the violations have been settled.

MASTER PLAN

A motion to include expenditures of up to $15,000 in Cass City's 1989 budget to update the village's master plan was also approved.

The council, which noted the plan has not been updated since its completion some 30 years ago, stated that an update is needed in order to insure orderly growth and development in the community in future years.

An up-to-date master plan also is a must if officials hope to secure certain state and federal funding in the

Elkland-Novesta United Way goal to remain at $17,000

Elkland-Novesta United Way officials quietly kicked off their 1988 campaign this week in hopes of reaching last year's goal of $17,000.

The local United Way board, which met Thursday, decided not to hold a formal kick-off dinner this year, according to group President Doug Herringshaw.

"This year what we're going to do is reverse it" and say thank-you to the volunteers at the end of the campaign, he remarked, adding the campaign began Nov. 1 and will continue through Nov. 23.

Proceeds collected by local volunteers, who traditionally have met their goals, are used annually to support several local agencies and, through the Tuscola and Michigan United Way groups, contribute to at least 40 county, state and national charitable organizations.

Contributions totaling $16,975 were made possible through the 1987 local campaign.

Funds went to the Cass City Literacy Council ($250), Cass City Girls' Softball League ($1,500), Boy Scout Troop 594 ($600), Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women-RIF ($150), Cass City AAUW Youth Theatre ($400), Cass City Cub Scouts ($300), Village Bach Festival ($1,000), Cass City Park System ($2,000), Pony League Baseball ($550), Tom Thumb Singers ($525), Cass City Little League ($1,700), Mid-Thumb Girl Scouts ($1,000), and the Tuscola County United Way ($7,000).

Herringshaw pointed out that the $7,000 donation to the county United Way provided services in excess of $40,000 in the Elkland-Novesta United Way area.

HALLOWEEN COSTUME PARADE CONTEST WINNERS were selected by judges Saturday afternoon. Each of the winners received gift certificates donated by Cass City merchants.

Parents of the bride are Tony and Pat Enderle of Owendale. The groom is the son of Juanita and the late William Warack of Gagetown.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white satin gown featuring a Sabrina neckline with lace and hanging crystal beads. The fitted bodice was accented with crystal beads, pearls and iridescent sequins. The cathedral train was surrounded by Chantilly lace. To complete her attire, she wore a bow headpiece outlined in pearls with streamers of lily of the valley. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations, accented with purple statice.

Marcy Enderle of Bay City was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Enderle of Ann Arbor, Stacy Enderle of Owendale and Beth Lievens of Sterling Heights. They wore tea-length dark purple satin gowns.

Jeff Warack of Sebawaing was best man. Groomsmen were Bill Warack of Sebawaing, James Warack of Gagetown and Craig Enderle of Owendale. Ushers were John Retford, Owendale, and Ross McCallum, Cass City.

The bride's mother wore a street-length dress of dusty rose quiana knit with a crystal pleated bodice, accented with a bow at the neckline. The groom's mother wore an aqua street-length dress accented with sequins.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Colony House, Cass City. Tiffany Reinhardt, cousin of the bride, and Angie Winchester, niece of the groom, served as hostesses.

Following a honeymoon trip to northern Michigan, the couple resides near Owendale.

Name that product!

by Melva E. Guinther

The ad people would have been disappointed had they seen the results of a game played at a bridal shower recently. The object was to name the product or company associated with a particular advertising slogan. Most of the women at the shower were familiar with the slogans, but remembering what product they represented was another story. I came up with a meager 15 out of 30, and I guessed at some of them. Here are 25 mottoes from TV commercials or newspaper ads (Hint: We slipped in a few from local merchants.) See how many you can identify.

13. We treat you right.
14. Atta boy, Dave.
15. Nothing else delights you like _____.
16. We run the tightest ship in the shipping business.
17. The great American road belongs to _____.
18. Things made the traditional way.
19. Nothing runs like a _____.
20. Where quality and fashion fit.
21. So nice to come home to.
22. We're there at every turn.
23. Because so much is riding on your tires.
24. It's the right thing to do and the right way to do it.
25. Livin' in real time.

1. We bring good things to life.
2. Quality is job 1.
3. Where everything you buy is guaranteed.
4. You're in good hands with _____.
5. Good to the last drop.
6. All the right parts in all the right places.
7. Taste them again for the first time.
8. Everything we do is in good taste.
9. Nothing says lovin' like something from the oven.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Michigan State Police have released figures for 1987 showing that there were 40,000 car-deer accidents in Michigan. In Tuscola County there were 644 accidents with 16 injuries. In Sanilac the figures were 720 car-deer accidents with one person killed and 28 injured. Huron County's tolls were 18 injuries and 522 accidents.

I'll bet a cookie that there will be more accidents and more injuries when everything is added up for 1988.

Walbro Corporation has joined the war against smoking by holding classes at the company plants in conjunction with Hills and Dales General Hospital. The classes are half over in Cass City and have been completed in Caro. Jane Mitchell, who conducts the classes, says that national averages indicate that about 40 percent of those taking classes will be successful in quitting.

There's no telling how much success the employees enrolled in the classes will have, Mitchell says, because she has had classes where the success ratio has been as high as 90 percent.

Meanwhile, Walbro is formulating a policy that will restrict more areas in the plant from smoking.

Officials at Hardee's have issued invitations for some of the leaders in the community to attend a reception in celebration of the opening of the restaurant in Cass City.

No, not at the spanking new facility. It's being held at the Charmont. It's probable that most folks will have seen the new building by the time the reception is held. Interest in Cass City's first fast food chain restaurant has been high.

One of the world's most thankless jobs is judging the employee Halloween costume contest sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce. Thankless and long lasting. It took the judges about 3 hours to come up with the various winners listed elsewhere in this issue. There are times when names make the news, but we omit them to save innocent volunteers from undeserved rebukes and this is one of them. (Who says the Chronicle has no heart?)

VERNA MAE MacRAE, center, accepts a tray as BPW's woman of the year from Business & Professional Women president Clara Gaffney (right) and long-time friend and club member Gerry Fischer.

"Woman of Year" MacRae honored by club

Long-time Cass City area resident Verna Mae MacRae was named "Woman of the Year" by the Cass City Business and Professional Women's Club during a meeting at the Charmont last week.

An active charter member and fourth president of the local BPW organization, MacRae has also been active in other civic organizations, including the Junior Women's Club, hospital auxiliary and community bell choir.

She has held a variety of jobs over the years. She worked in the office at Buick Motors in Flint before coming to Cass City, where she worked at Clara Flower Shop, Shellane Fuelgas and Bauer Candy Co. Her most recent employment was with General Telephone Co. as office supervisor, later transferring to the Davison office and then retiring after 20 years of service.

She has spent many years playing piano for Rotary Club luncheons, and is a former member and organist of Fraser Presbyterian Church, and a current member of the Cass City Presbyterian Church, where she served as organist for 10 years and still plays on special occasions.

MacRae, who attended Flint Jr. College and Ferris State College after graduating from Flushing High School, met her husband, Calvin, while at Ferris State.

The pair moved to the area after marrying Feb. 12, 1944. They have 2 daughters, Mrs. John (Charlene) Nipper and Mrs. Phillip (Barbara) Rockwell, and 4 grandchildren.

Following a "This is Your Life" program presented in honor of MacRae, the 1988

Woman of the Year was given a silver tray. Among those in attendance during the special program were 2 guests, Evelyn MacRae and Barb Rockwell.

The group's next meeting will be held Nov. 28.

Interest at the local level in the general election is about as great as I can recall in 37 years on the corner of Oak and Main streets. More local competition for offices and more propositions that stir the electorate.

Probably the most controversial is state proposal A, which requests the elimination of tax funds for abortions for persons receiving public assistance. We are convinced that voting in favor will not reduce our tax burden, but increase it, and is unfair to the poor. We urge a no vote.

We have no opinion about proposition B, concerning crime victims' rights. We heartily endorse proposition C, bonding for improvement of the environment, and proposition D, bonding for state and local recreation projects. The need is urgent and grows greater daily. Michigan's greatest long term asset is its water and its recreation area. A trip around the Saginaw Bay shoreline or the coast of Lake Michigan is all that is required to see that the time left to solve the burgeoning problems caused by a burgeoning population is short.

One of the propositions sure to be watched closely is the request for $20 each for every vehicle registered in the county for local road improvements. We are ambivalent about this one. There is no doubt about the need. I lost my vote when the recent request for a millage increase went down. To raise the money by a registration tax strikes me as an unfair way to raise the money. We all use the roads, regardless of whether we own a car or not. We should share in the cost. To charge the owner of a car the same amount as the owner of a semi-truck isn't the most equitable of arrangements. No tax is perfectly fair, of course, and the money is needed. List me among the undecided on this one.

"If It Fitz..."

Alone and desperate

By Jim Fitzgerald

Last Wednesday was scheduled to be my day with my youngest grandchild, 2 1/2-year-old Tricia. Just she and I. I'd promised to do whatever she wanted. Things got off to a disastrous start.

The plan was for me to meet Tricia, her mother Ferd and my wife — who'd temporarily deserted me — at 10 a.m. at a Rochester mall, midway between our Lapeer and Detroit homes. Mom and Grandma would go shopping and lunching and to Meadowbrook Theatre. Tricia and I would go adventuring. We also would go to Lapeer to pick up her sister Emily when she got out of school at 3 p.m. After further adventuring, we three would rejoin Mom and Grandma at Meadowbrook at 5 p.m. Nothing to it.

Except when it came time for me to leave for the 10 a.m. meeting in Rochester, I couldn't find the keys to my car. How could that be? I always leave them on the same kitchen hook. I knew I hadn't left them in the car, garaged 26 floors below, because I hadn't driven it since Sunday, and the keys had been in my pocket Monday and Tuesday. The second set of keys was 65 miles away in Lapeer with my wife.

RUINED RENDEZVOUS?

I was alone and desperate in Detroit. Luckily, my phone call reached Ferd's home before they left for Rochester. It was with great shame that I admitted I'd lost my keys. I pride myself in never losing anything. Dumb, careless people lose things, but not I. I told Ferd to stay put until I phoned with better news. She didn't have to tell me there was no other baby-sitter available for Tricia, and no one else to pick up Emily. My stupidity was going to ruin the day for her and my wife, and waste two theater tickets.

Maybe the keys had fallen off the hook and into the wastebasket below. I searched the basket and got awful yucky stuff on my hands. I searched the pockets of all my clothing. I looked under furniture and tore closets apart. I reached deep under chair cushions, finding 63 cents and cutting a finger on a petrified potato chip. I phoned every place I'd been in the last two days, to see if any keys were found. No luck.

I phoned my son Nerd at work, to borrow his car, but he wasn't there. Finally, Ferd phoned with a solution of sorts. Her husband had to drive into the Detroit area on business, and he could bring me Tricia and my wife's keys. I would then drive Tricia back to Lapeer to pick up Emily and then to Meadowbrook, where I would trade Tricia and Emily to Ferd for my wife, whom I would drive back to Detroit. Got that?

A few minutes after I agreed to Ferd's plan, my son called. You won't believe this. He said he'd taken my car keys by mistake, not discovering his error until reaching the apartment garage. So he put the keys under the floor mat in my car, where I wouldn't have thought to look for them in 50 years. He hadn't phoned me sooner about this rather important development in my life because he was busy.

SO LITTLE TIME

After fervently promising my son to kill him the next time I saw him, I hung up and called Lapeer. Too late. Ferd and my wife had already left for Rochester, and Tricia and her dad were on their way to Detroit. Ninety minutes later, I had Tricia and two sets of car keys in Detroit, and it was time to go to Lapeer. Tricia was puzzled, especially by my tears.

We found time to do most of what Tricia wanted — eat at a McDonald's, ride a merry-go-round at a K mart and play on the playground behind Emily's school. The most fun of being with Tricia, besides hugging her, is listening to her speak. She speaks strangely.

When she doesn't want to lie down, she says, "I wanna lie up." When she wants help removing her clothes, she says, "Button me off." When she thinks you're talking too much, she puts her hand over your mouth and says, "You makin' me crazy." She continually asks me what time it is, and when I tell her, she says, "Oh."

At the playground, while I was teeter-tottering with Emily, Tricia got stuck on the monkey bars. She hollered: "Me havin' a problem here."

I told her she wouldn't know what a problem was until she got married and had a son like her Uncle Nerd.

"Living Truth" coming to Cass City

"Living Truth" will be holding special services Nov. 6-9 starting at 7 p.m. at Salem United Methodist Church, 4446 Al-St., Cass City.

"Living Truth" is a unique music group composed of Dale and Debi Ackerman of Elkton, and Russ and Dee Dee Tibbitts and Tammie Barbret of Caro. They play 17 instruments, both antique and contemporary. These include hammered and Appalachian dulcimers, recorders, zither, ukelin, marzaphone, steel drum, melodica, flute, guitar and synthesizer.

They have traveled throughout much of the United States presenting their diversified musical program in combination with a meaningful testimony of their vital relationship with Jesus Christ.

The ancient Greeks awarded crowns made of laurel leaves to victorious athletes. The ancient Romans decorated their war heroes with crowns of oak leaves.

Evangelical services set at Church of Nazarene

A series of special evangelical services has been scheduled for this week at Cass City Church of The Nazarene. The services will begin at 7 p.m. today through Saturday, and at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday. The special speaker will be the Rev. Dallas E. McFarland, who has served as pastor of Lansing Woodview Church for the past year.

The son of the Rev. and Mrs. A.E. McFarland of Cass City, he previously pastored churches in Boyne City (3 years) and Coldwater (12 years). The elder McFarland, who is current pastor at the Cass City church, invites the public to attend the services, which will include special music by area residents Dale and Fay Bullock.

CASS CITY STUDENTS will present the comedy, "The American Dame", Nov. 10 and 11 beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the high school. The cast includes (above, left) Janet Koch, Adam Wright, Amiee Cooper, Chris Folk, Judy Matthews, Sally Brooks, Caren Britt, Floyd Stilson, Dana Johnson and Pam Nieboer.

All-school play slated Nov. 10, 11

Cass City High School students will present an all-school play entitled, "The American Dame", Nov. 10 and 11 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Although "The American Dame", written by Philip C. Lewis, is a comedy, it's best described as a "play/out", according to Director Jane Reif. She explained that a play/out consists of actors announcing a theme and then playing out that theme. With the simplest of props and costumes, cast members will assume a variety of characters in many situations. "The whole idea is to give the audience the pleasure of watching actors act and make ideas fun," she said. Reif continued, "In this case the theme is the saga of American womanhood, humorously and comprehensively set forth through material drawn from a wide range of sources. The general format is a series of contiguous skits and readings." Reif noted that the cast will begin at the beginning—with Eve and the apple. "With this earliest hint of what is to come we move through Biblical and Elizabethan times and, drawing closer to home, to the lot of Indian squaws and puritan and colonial ladies," she said, adding the play moves on to witty examinations of the first American working girl, the educated woman, the frontier wife, the suffragette, the bloomer girl and the club woman. "The audience will be fascinated by the tremendous talent the young adults at Cass City have as they shift from character to character," Reif remarked. The all-school play cast consists of 12 actors—7 seniors, 2 juniors and 3 sophomores—plus a lighting crew composed of Adam Suzor, Brent Sturtevant and Deb Adams.

L. Nerkowski enters plea to obstruction

A Cass City area man pleaded guilty Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to a charge of obstruction of justice. Sentencing for Lawrence A. Nerkowski, 38, 7791 Bay City-Forestville Rd., will be held at 9 a.m. Dec. 9. Bond was continued at $5,000. The plea stems from the late February armed robbery of a Cass City couple (Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wilding) in their apartment by 3 men, one of whom police believe was Nerkowski's brother, Anthony E. Nerkowski of Dearborn. Court records state Lawrence Nerkowski obstructed justice in the case by willfully and unlawfully threatening or coercing or offering payment to . . . Larry Wilding in order to prevent him from testifying in the case against Anthony Nerkowski. Also entering a guilty plea was Eddie F. Bowman, 20, of Pontiac, who is charged with Criminal Sexual Conduct, fourth degree. Bowman's plea, however, was refused by the court, which ordered the scheduling of a pre-trial hearing.

Records state that Bowman, initially charged with third degree CSC, a 15-year felony, allegedly engaged in sexual penetration with a person at least 13 years of age but less than 16 years June 4 in Dayton Township. David F. Champagne, 20, of Caro, stood mute to a charge of larceny over $100 at his arraignment. A plea of not guilty was entered on his behalf. Bond was continued at $5,000. A pre-trial is scheduled for Friday. Champagne is charged with stealing a 3-wheel off-road recreational vehicle Jan. 12 in Koylton Township, according to records, which state the offense carries a maximum sentence of 5 years or $2,500. In other proceedings Friday, Carl W. Jacques, 23, 502 Fremont St., Caro, was sentenced to 120 days in the county jail, and his probation was revoked for an Oct. 18 conviction of probation violation. Records state he violated probation by consuming alcoholic beverages.

Society sets meet

The Watrousville/Caro Area Historical Society will meet on Tuesday, Nov. 8, at the Caro Municipal Building, 317 S. State St., Caro. The meeting begins at 8:00 p.m. Featured speaker will be James T. McCann who retired with 24 years of military service and 14 years with Tuscola County as Veteran Administrator. McCann's main topic will be on the changes in benefits due veterans, widows and their children. Special tribute was paid to the 13 Civil War Veterans buried in the Watrousville Cemetery and all other veterans by the planting of a Sugar Legacy Maple tree in their memory by the Historical Society from the memorial fund. Refreshments will be served following the program. The public is invited to attend.

3-way tie for first after upsets

Bulldog cagers lose shooting touch and NCTL advantage

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs' 12-game winning streak came to an abrupt halt last week, when they lost 2 North Central Thumb League contests.

More importantly, with the losses, the Bulldogs relinquish their 2-game lead over both Deckerville and Peck in the race for the league title.

By no coincidence, it was the Peck Pirates who downed the Bulldogs Thursday 57-45, and the Deckerville Eagles who conquered Owen-Gage earlier in the week, 44-31.

Both losses were attributed to poor shooting, very poor shooting. The Bulldogs will now have to regroup by this Friday when they travel to Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

With only 3 NCTL games left, the schedule favors the Bulldogs to cop at least a share of the conference crown.

Couldn't believe our poor shooting problems would continue into the Peck game, stated Coach Dean Roller. Especially in the 4th quarter.

After trading baskets for most of the night, the Bulldogs folded in the final stanza.

It was the inside work of the Bulldogs' Angie Bolzman and Dawn Dorsch that kept the host team in front early. Dorsch recorded 6 of her 14 tallies in the opening quarter and Bolzman dumped in 4 baskets in the 2nd period to give the Bulldogs a 29-28 advantage at the halfway point.

It was the same pair that the Bulldogs turned to in the second half, and the duel kept the Bulldogs close before Peck's Shelly Ross took control of the contest.

Ross heated up late in the 3rd quarter, knocking in 4 buckets along with a pair of charity tosses, and helped her unit capture a one-point margin heading into the final 8 minutes.

That's where the Bulldogs went ice cold. Dorsch and Bolzman were held to just one free throw toss between them and the Bulldogs recorded only 4 points, to allow the Pirates to run away with an easy win, thanks mostly to Ross, who added 8 of her game-high 26 points in the quarter while the contest was still close.

On the night the Bulldogs shot a measly 29% from the field while the Pirates burned the nets at a 52% clip.

The Bulldogs also had their share of trouble from the foul stripe, where they hit on only 11 of 20 attempts.

DECKERVILLE GAME Despite jumping out to a 7-0 lead, the Bulldogs couldn't survive an 8-46 performance from the field and fell victims to the Deckerville Eagles Tuesday and suffered their first road loss of the season, 44-31.

"We missed a lot of easy shots, and that would be the story of the game," said Roller.

Foul trouble also hurt the Bulldogs as Andrea Goslin, the team's leading scorer, and Dorsch sat out much of the 2nd and 3rd periods where the host team outscored the Bulldogs 26-14 to build a 9-point cushion with one quarter to play.

Both Dorsch and Goslin fouled out in the final period as Deckerville's big girls took over the game, scoring 31 of their team's total points and giving the Eagles a 52-29 rebounding advantage.

Dawn Dorsch's 8 points were high for the losers.

All Bulldog mentor Arnie Besonen could say after his gridders tumbled 36-0 at Kingston Friday in the Bulldogs' final football game of the season was "only 281 days until next year." The Bulldogs finish the season at 7-2.

"Pretty good for a team that wasn't even talked about before the season started," said Besonen.

"A lot of our success has to go to our offensive line," Besonen commented about his team's season. The Bulldogs will return all but one, tackle Warren Volz, from the starting line in 1989.

Although the Bulldog offensive line is a good one, it was no match for a bigger Kingston front wall, which controlled the line of scrimmage.

The Bulldogs took the opening kickoff and marched down inside the Cardinals' own 10-yard line but the drive stalled after the Bulldogs were penalized. Kingston took over on downs and put the first points on the scoreboard when Mike McLaglin was on the receiving end of a 5-yard pass from quarterback Shane Campbell.

Trailing 6-0, the Bulldogs were able to penetrate the Cardinals' 20-yard line in the 2nd quarter, where they fumbled on first down, killing a great opportunity to climb back into the contest. Kingston's 1000-plus yard rusher, Ron Moore, made the Bulldogs pay on the miscue as he scored on a one-yard run. Moore closed out the scoring in the first half when he added the 2-point conversion.

The second half belonged to the Cardinal trenchmen, as they wouldn't allow the bang-up Bulldogs, who played without starting quarterback Chad Stirrett and running sensation Marc Reinhardt, to mount any substantial drive.

Coach Besonen wouldn't attribute the Bulldogs' injuries to his team's inability to move the ball in the second half, but they had to take their toll on the night.

"Kingston is a big, tough and good football team," said Besonen.

Kingston put the game away in the 3rd period, when they racked up 15 points to go up 29-0 heading into the final period.

Their first score in the second half came on Campbell's 2nd touchdown toss of the night. This time Dave Retan accounted for the marker. Moore's 2nd touchdown on the night followed Haroldo Leite's 11-yard field goal, and the game was well in hand for the Cardinals, who finished the year at 7-2.

The Bulldogs got a fine defensive effort from Nick Pavlichek, who closed out his Bulldog career with 11 tackles.

Looks to other sports

Injuries force Stirrett from Owen-Gage football

Disappointment looms on the face of Owen-Gage junior Chad Stirrett. It's also a look of puzzlement, disarray and simply "why me?"

For the 3rd successive season, the star athlete has sustained a broken limb during the football campaign. The first 2 times, the 6'4", 150-lb. Bulldog quarterback escaped with relatively minor breaks in his right arm. This time Stirrett's injury won't let him off so easily.

Oddly enough, Stirrett suffered his broken arms on exactly the same day, and in precisely the same spot, 2 seasons apart.

Stirrett's injury this season, which happened Oct. 14 in a home game against Peck, will keep the laid back sports enthusiast out of action for at least 6 months. His broken right leg is encased in a full-length cast.

Full recovery is expected but the break (2 different bones plus a bone chip) is already causing the junior plenty of grief.

"I've missed the state play-off in golf," said Stirrett, who was coming off his best round of the season. "I posted a 37 last week at Gagetown."

But what Stirrett grudges the most about his football injury is still ahead. He'll miss the sport he likes the most, the one that is more important to him than all the others. Stirrett will be sitting out the basketball campaign.

"Basketball takes more skills than any other sport, the movement, the finesse," declared Stirrett on why basketball is his true love.

Stirrett, nicknamed Gilligan by his running mates because of his similarity to the television character, will still be active during the hoop season, but not in the capacity he or coach Dean Roller anticipated.

"I'll keep stats when I can get into a walking cast. I also plan to hit the weight room in a couple of weeks," explains the youngster.

Understandably, Stirrett's injury will end his football. "No sense in playing one sport and giving up 4 others," stated Stirrett.

Even before his high school career, Chad had been prone to injury around the football field.

In 4th grade while playing recess football, Stirrett broke his nose. The following year in a pick up grid game, Stirrett broke his left arm.

And although Stirrett's injury will keep him sidelined the entire basketball season, he plans to try to improve on his game.

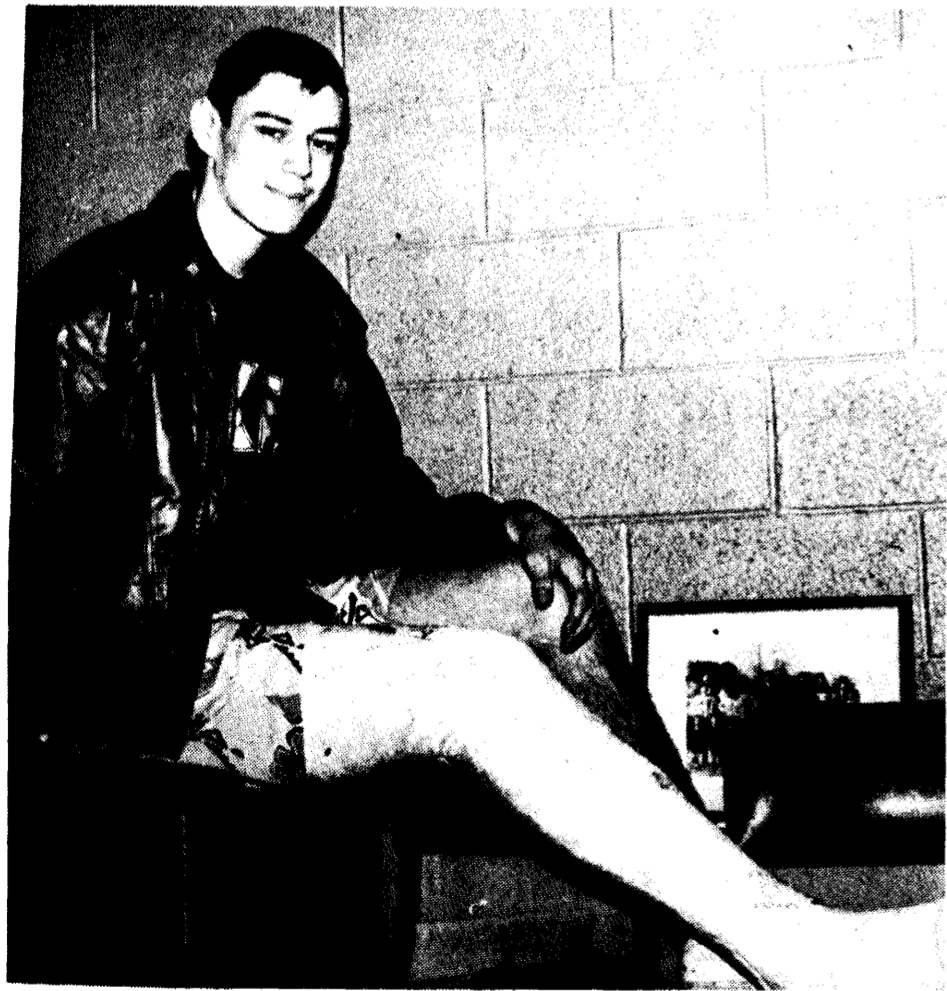

"I'll start that weight lifting program when I get into my walking cast," says Chad.

Chad's dad, Jerry, a truck driver, and mother, LeeAnn, office employee at Evans Products, feel their son is making the right choice in giving up his football career.

"My mother wasn't real happy about me playing this year, but I thought I could help our team and I figured we have a good team," Chad said with a grin.

And till this last in a series of unfortunate injuries hit, Stirrett was helping as the Bulldogs were making a serious run for the North Central D title before his injury.

Now the likeable junior won't be around to help out the grid team next year, but he will be around for all the other sports in which he excels and that's bad news for teams that play the Bulldogs and good news for all Owen-Gage sports fans.

FIRST DOCTOR REPORTS HAD CHAD STIRRETT out for the entire school year. But now the Owen-Gage junior hopes to be back for the Bulldogs' baseball opener.

Estate planning seminar set

An estate planning seminar will be held Nov. 16 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Franklin Inn in Bad Axe. A fee will be charged for the day-long seminar, which includes lunch and materials.

The morning session will focus on estate planning tools, deeds, trusts, life insurance and the new tax laws. All of these tools are an important consideration when deciding what will happen to a person's property after death. This session will be presented by Bill Hamilton of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The afternoon session will be presented by probate court Judge David Clabusch. He will discuss the steps necessary to effectively plan your estate transfer. There will be a discussion on the guidelines for wills and the probate process, and he will answer general questions.

This seminar, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, will provide participants with the information on wills, as well as the steps necessary to begin or update present estate plans. Persons can enroll by calling 269-9949 and asking for Barbara Neuman, extension home economist. Deadline for enrolling is Nov. 9.

33-0 win 5th straight

Cass City whips Reese in finale

Cass City rolled to its fifth straight victory Friday in the last game of the season with a nonconference decision over winless Reese, 33-0, at Cass City Recreational Park.

Neither team was able to mount a sustained drive in the early minutes of the game, although it looked as if it was just a matter of time before Cass City would score as the Hawks were moving the ball.

It took a turnover to open the floodgates. With about 2 1/2 minutes left in the first quarter, a fumble recovery gave the Hawks possession on the Reese 24-yard line. From there Cass City moved in to score with Paul Tuckey getting credit for the TD from 4 yards out with 33 seconds left in the period. The familiar passing combination of Tuckey to Jeff Dillon produced the extra points.

when Beecher scored from 4 yards out with 8:43 left. The try for point missed.

Later in the period Cass City mounted a drive that started on its own 35-yard line and was capped when Dennis Dadacki ran over for the 4.

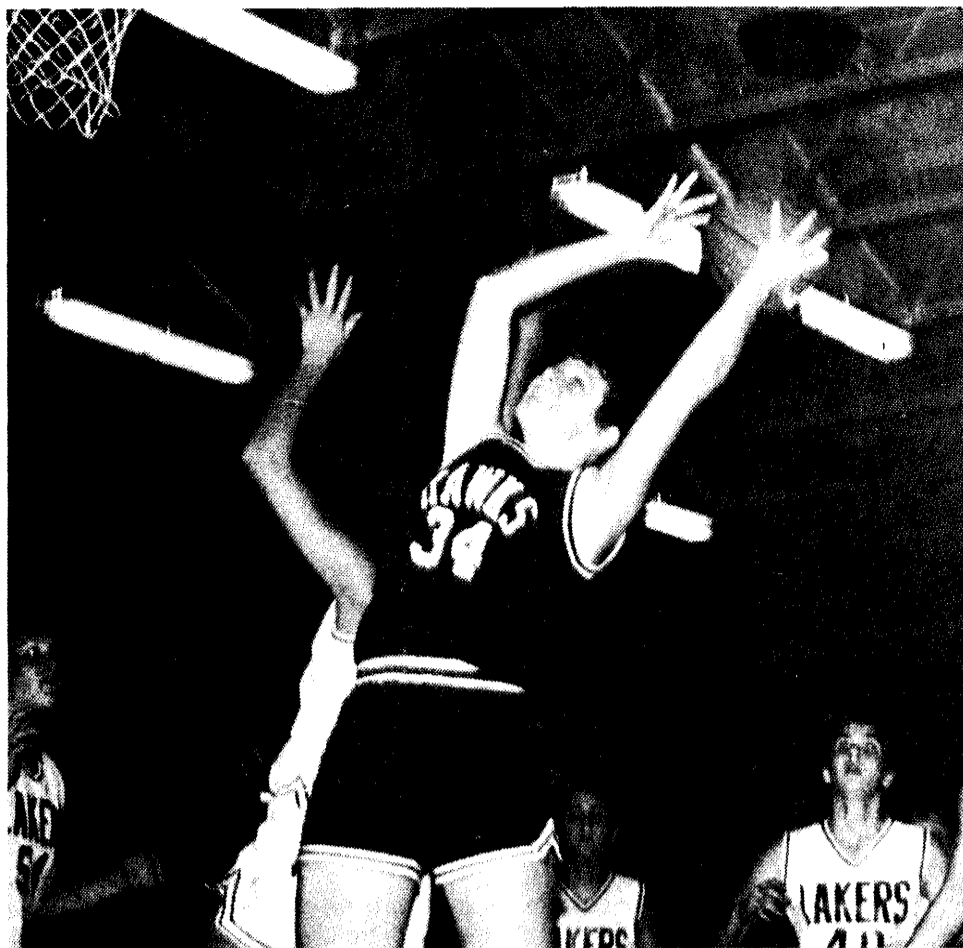

The final score came on a 99-yard jaunt with a pass interception by Steve Wright with less than 10 minutes left in the game.

Singled out for special achievement with decals were Lee Massingale, special teams; Brent Meininger, offensive line, and Greg Mika, defensive line. Also receiving decals were Tuckey, offensive back, and Jeff Dillon, defensive back. It was the final high school game for 9 seniors on the team. They are Tuckey, Wright, Brent Beecher, Dadacki, Greg Mika, Jeff Dillon, Bill Kappen, Jason Smith and Meininger.

Cass City ends the year with a 5-3 Thumb B Association record and 6-3 overall.

Table with 3 columns: Stat, CC, R. Rows include First downs, Rushing attempts, Rushing yards, Passes complete, Passing yards, Passes intercepted, Fumbles lost, Penalties, yards.

DARLENE MONROE SWIPES another rebound off the glass Tuesday against the Lakers in a 44-42 Hawk victory. Monroe led Cass City in both rebounding and scoring to help the Hawks down the Lakers for the second time this season.

THIS PASS FROM Paul Tuckey to Jason Robertson misfired, but the passing attack helped the Hawks to an easy win over Reese in the final game of the year.

Van reported stolen

A Kingston man last week reported his van stolen to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Dale Cummings, 3046 S. Kingston Rd., stated that upon leaving Kingswood Inn between 6:30 and 7 p.m. Oct. 26, he discovered his 1988 full-size van missing, according to a report filed at the department. Cummings said he kept one of 3 sets of keys with him, while the other 2 were locked in the vehicle, which is valued at about $22,000.

Reports indicate deputies have a suspect in the case, which remains under investigation.

Cass City added its second touchdown as the clock ran out for the half. It came on a fake field goal with Tuckey passing to (you guessed it) Jeff Dillon for the score. Brent Beecher kicked the extra point.

Whatever suspense was left in the game was quickly dispelled in the early moments of the third quarter

Hawks tune up for league leading Broncos with pair of Thumb B wins

Cass City rolled to a pair of wins last week in Thumb B Association competition and Coach Marty Daniel said that strong performances of players coming off the bench were one of the reasons for the victories.

The Hawks measured the Lakers for the second time this year last Tuesday at Cass City, 44-42. The game was every bit as close as the final score indicated.

In the first 8 minutes it appeared as if the game was going to be a scoring contest between Darlene Monroe, who pushed home 8 points, and Tracie Henne, who scored 11 points, as Cass City ended the quarter in front 12-11.

But the Hawk defense tightened on Henne and the Laker leader was held to just 2 baskets the rest of the way.

The Lakers also slowed Monroe down in the final 3 quarters, although her rebounding was one of the reasons the Hawks were able to pull the game out of the fire. Another reason, Daniel said, was the outside shooting of Beth Powell that helped negate the Laker pressing defense.

Equally important, Daniel said, was the work of the bench. The coach was particularly pleased with the timely shooting of Vicki Robinson and the defensive efforts of Amy Francis and Andrea Isard.

After leaving the floor tied at the intermission, Cass City fell behind by a bucket, 32-30, going into the final quarter.

The Hawks won the game at the free throw line. Led by Robinson and Beth Powell, with 2 for 2 each, and Sue Papp, with 2 for 3, Cass City outscored the visitors 6-4 from the charity stripe and that was the difference in the game.

Monroe led the Hawks with 16 points. Beth Powell added 12, while Henne, with 15, and Brenda Buschlen, with 10, were in double figures for the Lakers.

gers, and the Cass City offense was confined to Monroe, who accounted for all of the Hawks' points in the second quarter with 3 baskets and a field goal.

Cass City stopped its slide in the third quarter. Daniel gives much of the credit to Isard, who hit Monroe with 5 passes in the post to beat the diamond and one defense that the Tigers used to try and stop Monroe.

The 5 passes were turned into 10 points and Cindy Powell chipped in 3 baskets to get the team back on track. The scoring, plus some tight defense that held the Tigers to 7 points, pushed Cass City in front 40-33 going into the final period. Cindy Powell continued her scoring rampage in the period with 11 points to kill any chance that the Tigers had of climbing back into the game.

For the night, Monroe led all scorers with 24 points. Cindy Powell netted 19 and Beth Powell, 11. Sharp was the only Tiger in double figures, with 14.

In the preliminary games the Hawk JV lost a heartbreaker to the Laker JV, 36-35, and then bounced back against the Caro JV to take a 45-35 decision.

ity as Cass City gave both schools a battle in the first games played.

Friday, Nov. 4, it will be the undefeated North Branch Broncos coming to town. The Broncos defeated Cass City 67-52 in the first meeting between the schools. Friday, Nov. 11, it will be the Marlette Red Raiders, who topped Cass City 46-40 when they met in Marlette.

IMPORTANT GAMES Cass City fans will have a chance to see a couple of state ranked teams in action the next 2 Fridays. Although the Hawks will be the underdogs in both of these games, an upset in either is well within the realm of possibil-

Huron, Sanilac voters to elect sheriffs

Strickler, Lakatos vie for support in Sanilac

A hotly contested primary race staged the battle for the office of sheriff between Sandusky Police Chief Virgil Strickler, Sandusky, and criminal justice Professor William Lakatos of Deckerville.

Strickler defeated 2 other candidates, including one-term incumbent John G. Osborn, to win the Republican nomination in August, while Lakatos claimed the Democratic nomination over Frederick Graff of Sandusky.

Strickler, 40, has served as police chief in Sandusky for the past 12 years. He joined the department in 1971 after spending 4 years in the Air Force.

He holds an associate's degree in criminal justice from St. Clair Community College, and is currently working towards a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and business management through Saginaw Valley State University.

Lakatos, 48, has been a professor at St. Clair Community College, where he earned an associate's degree in criminal justice, for the past 15 years. He also holds a bachelor's degree in police administration from Wayne State University, and a master's degree in education and community development from the University of Michigan.

Lakatos began his law enforcement career in Detroit, where he was a police officer for 6 years. He then served as a deputy sheriff in Sanilac County for about 6 years.

DISTRICT 5 RACE
Deckerville Village President Bradley Apsey, Republican, faces Forestville Democrat Joanne Dawson, a nurse and homemaker, in the race for the District 5 Sanilac County Board of Commissioners seat.

District 5 represents 8 townships plus a portion of another. The district includes Greenleaf, Evergreen, Argyle and Lamotte townships.

Apsey, 37, won his party's nomination by defeating incumbent Eugene Foote, Uby, in the August primary. Dawson ran unopposed in the election.

Apsey is owner of Apsey Funeral Home in Deckerville and is currently serving his second 2-year term as village council president there. He also is a member of the Deckerville Hospital Board.

Dawson, 53, has been a registered nurse for more than 30 years. She currently is in her third year as a member of the Forestville Village Council. A Detroit native, Dawson has made her home in the Thumb for the past 18 years.

DRAIN OFFICE
Two Sandusky residents are vying for the post of drain commissioner.

Running for the office are Republican Harold Donaghy and Democrat Walter Tereschuk. Incumbent Stuart Armstead, Snover, is retiring.

Donaghy, who defeated James Bowerman, Carsonville, and Howard Osterhout, Sandusky, in the August primary, currently serves as deputy drain commissioner.

His opponent is a lifelong Sandusky area resident and farm owner. Currently a factory employee, Tereschuk also ran a fuel oil business for 18 years and serves as secretary of the Sandusky Christian School Committee.

3 battle for sheriff's office in Huron County

As is the case in Tuscola and Sanilac counties, area voters in Huron County will elect a new sheriff Nov. 8 as well as a probate judge and county commissioner.

Unlike the neighboring counties, however, there are 3 candidates vying for the Huron County sheriff's post. They are Republican Michael Gage of Kinde, Democrat John Stickney of Port Hope, and independent candidate Larry W. Scheuerlein of Caseville.

The race to next week's Nov. 8 showdown opened up in late May when 4-term incumbent Sheriff Richard V. Stokan announced he would not seek reelection.

In the August primary, Gage defeated Undersheriff Robert F. Finkbeiner for the Republican nod, while Stickney won his party's nomination unopposed.

Gage, 43, most recently served as Huron County's Emergency Services director, a position he held for more than 14 years before leaving to seek the office of sheriff.

Gage also served on the administrative staff of the Sheriff's Department for 6

1/2 years.

He and his wife, Carol, have 3 children.

Stickney, 59, boasts 28 years of involvement in law enforcement, including training under the auspices of the Michigan State Police.

Currently a licensed private investigator and part-time police officer with the Port Austin Police Department, his previous employment has included 15 years as Harbor Beach Police chief and serving as constable for 8 years in Clawson, located in southeastern Oakland County. He also worked as a probation officer in district court in that area.

Stickney and his wife, Elaine, have 2 daughters.

Scheuerlein, 52, currently is police chief in Fairhaven Township. He has served in that capacity for about 2 years, but has been with the department for a total of 14 years. Before that he worked as a law enforcement officer in Macomb County for 6 years.

Scheuerlein, who recently earned his advanced police officer training certification, holds a bachelor's degree in Education from Concordia Teacher's College in Illinois, and a master's degree plus 36 semester hours in administration and supervision from Central Michigan University.

He and his wife, Donna, have 4 grown children.

Millage questions set in tri-counties

Aside from a host of township and county races, voters in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac will be asked to approve special county-wide millage requests Nov. 8.

In addition, Tuscola County residents will be asked to approve a $20 motor vehicle registration fee.

Registered voters in Tuscola County, who in August approved a combined millage increase of 1.1 mills for senior services and the sheriff's road patrol and dispatch, will be asked next week to approve .1 of a mill for 4 years to fund veterans services.

Representatives of the Allied Veterans Council said the additional taxes—more than $56,000—would be used in 2 areas. The majority of the funding would be used to expand the county veterans office hours from 3 to 5 days, and the remainder would go towards the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund.

For the owner of a home with a state equalized valuation of $20,000 ($40,000 market value), the millage would cost an additional $2 in taxes per year.

The registration fee—$20 per registered motor vehicle in the county for 5 years—is being requested in an attempt to fund a county-wide road improvement program for major streets and primary roads.

The fee would raise between $800,000 and $900,000 per year.

In the Primary Election, residents defeated by a margin of nearly 1,000 votes a county-wide millage request of 2 mills for 4 years for road improvements.

raise about $1.42 million over the 3 years, would be used to build an addition to the north end of the courthouse that would put the structure into compliance with federal barrier-free requirements.

The law requires that public buildings provide barrier-free access to handicapped persons.

The courthouse, built more than 70 years ago, currently is out of compliance because it has no elevator in the 3-story building, and the restrooms aren't accessible to persons in wheelchairs.

If approved, the millage would mean a tax increase of about $20 per year for the average homeowner ($20,000 SEV).

PROBATE JUDGE
Probate Judge David L. Clabuesch, Pigeon, is being challenged by Peter Burns Capling of Bad Axe for a 6-year term as probate judge.

Clabuesch, 38, was appointed to the post last April by Gov. James J. Blanchard to replace retiring Judge Neil MacCallum.

Capling, 54, is an attorney. He served as county prosecutor from 1969 to 1980.

New ag. program announced

"Teen Adventure Into the Future" is a new program in agriculture career and leadership development for teens.

Sanilac County, along with 6 other counties, was asked to pilot the program last spring. It is partially supported by grants from Michigan Livestock Exchange and the National 4-H Council.

In June, Steve Jones, Dan Gibbs, and Tonya Kamen of Deckerville; Jeff Hassler of Sandusky; Les Roggenbuck and Neil Best of Snover, and Jeff Gillig of Marlette attended a week-long workshop at Michigan State University.

Hassler, Kamen, Best, Roggenbuck and Aletha Mahaffy, program assistant/Ag in Transition, attended a second workshop Oct. 22 and 23 at Michigan State University. The 2 days were spent on exploring additional career opportunities and on developing their leadership and team building skills.

A workshop is being planned for February in Sanilac County.

SANILAC
In Sanilac County, voters are being asked to okay a request of one mill for 3 years to pay for construction of a small annex to the county courthouse, for energy plant improvements and maintenance, and fire and safety renovation.

The millage, expected to Huron County voters will decide a millage request of .5 of a mill for 4 years. If approved, the millage would be used towards operation and maintenance of the Huron County Medical Care Facility.

The hike would raise nearly $323,000 per year and would mean a tax increase of about $10 per year for the average homeowner ($20,000 SEV).

Smokeless tobacco not safer
Do you dip or chew smokeless tobacco? Many people think that chewing tobacco is not as bad as smoking cigarettes, but that is not the case. Using smokeless tobacco exposes you to more nicotine than cigarettes do, and also causes cancer in your cheeks, gums, and throat. to allow voters to participate in the presidential nomination process. The new law requires voters to declare a political party preference to be eligible to vote in the presidential primary.

Implementation of the law began Sept. 1 when voters were given the opportunity for the first time to complete a Political Party Preference Form when registering to vote.

Voters going to the polls Nov. 8, and during each election up until Feb. 15, 1992, will also be given an opportunity to declare their political party preference for the presidential primary.

Voters who do not declare their political party preference at least 30 days before the presidential primary will not be allowed to vote in that primary. The presidential primary, which will be held on the third Tuesday of March in presidential election years, will be held for the first time March 17, 1992.

Each polling location will provide voters with the Political Party Preference Form after they vote Nov. 8. Voters have several options when they receive the form, which was developed by the Department of State's Bureau of Elections staff, voters may:

- * complete the form and hand it in at the polls;
- * take the form with them, complete it at a later date, and return it to their city or township clerk; or
- * they can choose not to fill out the form.

The form requests the voters name, address, county and city or township of residence, and date of birth. It also requests the voter's driver license or personal identification card number, however, declaration of that number is not required in order to vote in the presidential primary.

Voters who choose not to declare their political party preference will not affect their eligibility to vote in any election other than the presidential primary.

In addition to having the opportunity to declare party preference when voting, the option will be incorporated into the voter registration form used by city and township clerks and in Secretary of State branch offices.

As part of the Presidential Primary Law, the Secretary of State will be offering voters the right to register to vote and declare their political party preference when renewing their driving license by mail beginning March 1, 1989.

to approve a millage request for fire protection provided by the Elmwood-Gagetown Fire Department. The request is .5 of a mill for 10 years. If approved, the millage would raise about $7,600 per year.

ELLINGTON

Democrat Virginia Papp and Republican Fred Bardwell Jr. are vying for the office of Ellington township clerk, previously held by Clayton L. Turner, who did not seek reelection. Papp was born and raised in the township, where she is a cash crop farmer. The 43-year-old currently is vice-president of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau. She also has served as a lobbyist for that organization for 2 years and has been on the executive committee of Farm Bureau for 3 years. Bardwell, 42, is a former 6-year Ellington Township supervisor. A life-long resident of the township, he currently is employed as a financial systems analyst with Saginaw Steering Gear.

GREENLEAF

Voters in Sanilac County's Greenleaf Township will be asked to renew a special millage for fire protection, which is provided by fire departments in Cass City and Ubyly. A request of one mill for 4 years has been placed on the ballot. The millage would raise about $8,900 per year.

Oct. 25 on a charge of Criminal Sexual Conduct, first degree.

A preliminary examination was scheduled for today (Wednesday) at 9 a.m. Bond was set at $8,000.

Court records state the defendant engaged in sexual penetration with a person at least 13 years of age but less than 16 years of age, and that the defendant is related to the victim. The offense allegedly occurred in 1981-1982 in Indianfields Township.

The offense carries a maximum term of life or any term of years in prison.

David A. Church, 24, of Flint, was arraigned Thursday on a charge of Criminal Sexual Conduct, third degree, and furnishing alcohol to a minor June 14 in Vassar Township.

Church's preliminary exam also was scheduled for today at 9 a.m. Bond was set at $5,000.

Church allegedly engaged in sexual penetration with a person at least 13 years old but less than 16 years, according to records, which state the offense carries a maximum penalty of 15 years imprisonment.

A 26-year-old Caro woman was arraigned Oct. 25 on a charge of felonious assault, and assault and battery.

Kristal L. Jurish, 147 E. Congress St., was scheduled to appear at her preliminary examination today. Bond has been set at $1,500.

Court records state Jurish is charged with assaulting Gerald Bradley with a knife, and assaulting Paul Strasz Oct. 25 in Caro. The maximum penalty for the offenses is 4 years imprisonment and/or a $2,000 fine.

Three men were arraigned Oct. 26 on charges of carrying concealed weapons the day before in Koylton Township. Preliminary exams for all 3 were scheduled for 9 a.m. today. Bond was set at $5,000 each.

Arraigned are Andrew J. Gutierrez, 21, of Lapeer, who is charged with carrying a compound bow and arrows in a motor vehicle; Eugene R. Bond, 34, also of Lapeer, who is charged with carrying a pistol, and Ronald E. Betts Jr., 30, of South Branch, who is charged with carrying a pistol and compound bow and arrows. Betts also faces a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended.

Carrying a concealed weapon is punishable by up to 5 years imprisonment or a $2,500 fine.

Grand Blanc resident Morley H. Pulford III, 43, was arraigned Oct. 26 on 2 counts of nonsufficient fund checks for $200 or more.

Bond for Pulford, who also was to have a preliminary examination today, was set at $2,000.

The charges stem from 2 incidents that allegedly occurred between May 26 and June 1 involving checks for $500 and $911 received at Manufacturer's National Bank of Detroit.

Russell A. Rhodes, 20, of Gastonia, N.C., was arraigned Friday on a charge of unlawful driving away an automobile Oct. 13 in Arbel Township. If convicted, he could face a sentence of up to 5 years imprisonment.

Rhodes faces a preliminary examination at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 9. Bond was set at $5,000.

Also last Friday, Camp Tuscola inmate Richard V. Cummings, 50, was arraigned after an unsuccessful escape attempt.

Bond was set at $100,000. A preliminary examination will be held at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 9.

If convicted, he faces a maximum sentence of up to 5 years imprisonment, to be served after termination of his current sentence.

Deford youth hurt in crash

State police at the Caro post reported several minor vehicle accidents involving area residents over the past week.

A 16-year-old Deford youth sought his own treatment for minor injuries sustained in a one-vehicle mishap Friday.

Reports state Robert D. Sharrard, 605 Kingston Rd., was northbound on Kingston Road southeast of Shabbona Road in Novesta Township when his vehicle ran off the right side of the road and entered a ditch. Sharrard told troopers he had hit his brakes after observing several deer near the

Letters to the editor

Pornography awareness underway

Dear Editor,

Tuscola County American Family Association in conjunction with the National Organization of the American Family Association is sponsoring Pornography Awareness Week Oct. 30-Nov. 6. The Morality in Media is advocating a campaign against pornography - WRAP. You can help in this campaign by displaying white ribbons on house doors, in house or store windows, on car antennas, or on trees. Some people will be wearing white ribbons on their clothing.

It is suggested that we use two and three fourths (2 3/4) inch wide ribbon cut in 18 inch length strips for car antennas. You can make bows for doors, windows, etc. to show your concern. Smaller bows would be appropriate for clothing.

Thank you for your help and concern.

Sincerely yours,
Shirley Rhodes

Appreciates surplus food distributions

Dear Mr. Haire,

I am writing about the surplus food - full of bugs. We also have rice that we received from the Human Development Comm. I finished one bag of rice last week, and opened another one this week. We had chicken and rice (without legs) last night, and will have rice pudding tomorrow. I examined the remaining bags I have stored very carefully, and they are free of bugs.

We appreciate the surplus food very much, and hope they don't stop giving it. Not all people get food stamps.

Sincerely,
Myrtle Helwig

Nov. 22 recital to kick off Bach Festival

To commence the 10th season of the Village Bach Festival, a unique recital will be held Nov. 22 at the First Presbyterian Church, Caro, at 8:15 p.m. It will feature soloists of the Village Bach Festival, Jacqueline Hofto, flute; Frank Kowalsky, clarinet; Catherine McMichael, piano, and Susan Reim, organ.

The program includes solo Bach works on the organ by Bach and Karl Elert, which are virtuoso pieces illustrating Bach's genius as an organ composer as well as the musical potential of the Aeolian Skinner pipe organ. The varied program includes Debussy's "The Engulfed Cathedral" for piano and suites by Widor and Weber for solo flute and solo clarinet.

Kowalsky and Hofto are recent soloists at the Village Bach Festival and both have served as faculty members at Interlochen, as members of the Northwood Orchestra, and as guest soloists throughout the country and abroad.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling (517) 872-5400 between 1:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Other information is available by calling (517) 872-2131 extension 269.

T. Mozden training in Colorado

Airman First Class Timothy M. Mozden, 18, of Deford is undergoing technical training in electronics at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., following his completion of Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the 6 weeks of basic training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

Timothy M. Mozden

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force. Mozden, the son of Ronald J. and Marcia A. Mozden, 1520 N. Kingston Rd., Deford, is a 1988 graduate of Deford Christian Academy.

15 winners in Halloween contest named Monday

Fifteen winners in the second annual Halloween contest for employees in Cass City, sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, were named Monday and presented with gift certificates or other prizes.

The best group prize was won by the staff at Dr. Green's dental office. A centerpiece was awarded to Provincial House for the largest group participation.

Receiving gift certificates were the remaining winners. Raelynn Rocheleau's "Kodak" box from Haebler's Studios was one of 3 most original costumes winning awards. Others were Kim Wing, Clothes Closet, for "Diet Coke" and Denise Hazard of Cass City Floral for flower.

Three awards for most frightening were presented: Kim Hendrick of Old Wood Pharmacy for "Frankenstein's Bride"; Dawn Kipper of Cass City Floral for a witch, and Evelyn Witkovsky of Provincial House for a devil.

Terry Kostanko's "Aunt Jemima" won the famous character category. Three awards were presented in the humorous division: Clara Gaffney from Family Dollar for "Clara Bell" clown; Janice Pyonk for baby with diaper from Provincial House and Marsha Grady for "sick person" from Old Wood Pharmacy.

Period costume awards were won by 2 Ben Franklin Store employees, Karen Hittler and Mary Rabideau. A "pretty" award went to Juanita Bradley from Dr. Martin's office for "Hawaiian girl."

No ban planned

In a "Report to the President and Congress on the Need for Leaded Gasoline on the Farm," the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has announced that it currently has no plans to ban leaded gasoline.

The agency had earlier proposed a lead ban for Jan. 1, 1989, but a provision of the 1985 farm bill, sought by Farm Bureau, required EPA to delay the ban and conduct a study with the U.S. Department of Agriculture on the effects of unleaded and low-lead fuel on farm equipment.

The study determined that severe valve damage occurs to older farm engines with the use of unleaded fuel.

While the report said that EPA does not have any final plans to ban leaded gasoline, the agency will continue to "aggressively evaluate the nationwide health effects of lead."

HILLS AND DALES Hospital officials last week honored their own, including 15-year employee (left) Janet Kratz, and 20-year employees Phyllis Little and Isabel Wright.

AMONG THE 10-year hospital employees honored were (left) Millie Mark, Nancy Walters and Rosemary Gaeth.

HILLS AND DALES Hospital Administrator Ken E. Jensen presents a certificate of achievement to Johanna Miklovich, who is retiring from the hospital after 17 years of service.

Hospital employees honored

Oct. 26

Hills and Dales Hospital officials honored 14 employees during the annual recognition tea held Oct. 26 at the hospital.

Among those recognized was Johanna Miklovich, who is retiring after 17 years of service in housekeeping and as a nurses aide.

Honored for 20 years of employment were Mary Ann Abbe, medical records diagnosis related groups coordinator; Florence Sweeney, R.N.; Phyllis Little, R.N.; and Isabel Wright, director of support services.

Janet Kratz, an operating room technician, was recognized for 15 years of service, while 4 employees celebrated 10 years of service. They are Nancy Walters, dietary aide; Iva Rockwell, dietary clerk; Rosemary Gaeth, x-ray assistant; Millie Mark, housekeeper; and Nancy Karr, ward secretary.

Also honored were 5-year employees Martha Hill, housekeeper; Bonnie Johnson, registered dietician, and Lynda Rocheleau, nursing administrative assistant.

Local artist displays work

A selection of paintings done by Cass City area native and artist Pat Britt is on display at Rawson Memorial Library, 6495 Pine St., Cass City.

The exhibit begins today (Wednesday) and will continue through Nov. 8. The hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. today, Friday and Monday; 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Thursday and Tuesday, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Britt, who will be on hand to meet the public from 7 to 9 p.m. today, Friday and Monday, has been painting most of her life.

"I've gotten to the point to where I feel confident that I want some people to see what I can do," she remarked in a recent interview, adding that she wants to share her art with others. "It's exciting for me."

Britt said her display of paintings will feature a wide variety of themes composed primarily of oil paints, but also water colors, charcoal and other mediums.

"It doesn't stick to any one style," she explained. "It (themes) goes anywhere from fairly realistic to outright abstract."

Britt and her husband, Richard, reside at 5820 Greenland Rd. The couple have 2 children, Lisa, 18, a student at Central Michigan University, and Paul, 17, a senior at Cass City High School.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Excerpts from a talk to a group of old folks at Delray Beach, Fla.

Like any good medicine show, we have something to attract your attention - in this case a milk stool. It comes from the wilds of East Africa, where it is also used as a pillow at night - accounting for the long necks of the natives. It is no different in function than the 3-legged stools many of you have used to milk a cow. The feature of a 3-legged stool is that it doesn't tip over on uncertain ground. It can be pretty crude and still work. The legs don't have to be the same size and only roughly the same length.

We will use it as a foundation to extract milk from the money cow. The 3 legs each have a name. One of them is SECURITY or SAFETY. In other words you want to get your money back. After Social Security and pensions, investments will be the only source of income. It's not as though we were 30 years old and could get into another field if we go broke.

SAFETY, then, is an essential leg of the stool. Another leg is INCOME. NET income. After taxes. What good is a Safe and Secure investment if it doesn't produce dividends or interest or returns of some kind - and again, NET returns after expenses, and commissions and taxes.

The third leg is LIQUIDITY. I've known so many people who have owned apartment buildings or vacant lots or parts of small businesses. It was easier to get in than it was to get out. At our state in life, we don't have time enough to be patient.

There are too many contingencies ahead that we could need big sums of money for, accidents, illnesses, catastrophes in the family.

In our own case, I could sell everything I own, except the apartment, by lunch time today. (I forgot about the sailboat. That would take a little longer.)

At this stage in life, this 3 legged stool is recommended. It is not for the yuppie crowd, who can afford to take risks and try more sophisticated ways of making money. If one career, or some system doesn't work, then they have the time and strength to try another.

So we have a platform from which to milk the cow. Supported by our stool of Security, Good Net Income and Liquidity, we're ready to ask old Bossy to "give down."

What breed of cow are we looking for? Stocks, bonds, real estate, gold, old paintings, china, or single premium annuities or the Florida State Lottery or bingo with the Seminoles.

Running down the list and applying our 3 vital signs...

REAL ESTATE - secure enough, in that it won't disappear, but not liquid, not saleable, and so often not a good producer of income.

GOLD - no income. You hope for capital gains if the price goes up. People hoped for that a few years and bought some at $800 an ounce. Within a year it fell to $200. In more recent years it has been going nowhere. And the commissions to buy or sell are high.

OLD PAINTINGS - The quotes are on the retail sale prices. When you buy there's a 10% commission. If and when you sell there's a 10% commission. Meanwhile there is no income.

SINGLE PREMIUM ANNUITIES - not all they're cracked up to be. Some withdrawals are with taxes deferred. The commissions (which are buried) and the overhead costs reduce the net income. They aren't saleable except at a penalty. Brokers push them because commissions are high.

You can buy MORTGAGES. Income is pretty good, but it's taxable. Most of them are secure enough. But they're easier to buy than they are to sell, except at a discount. Liquidity is poor.

TAX SHELTERS? Beef feeding schemes, oil well "partnerships," movie partnerships? They're pushed by brokers because the commissions are high. The man who does my tax return, and has for 20 years, is Steve Tubbs at Grossman Weinberg on Glades Road. I asked him about these "shelters."

"I've seen hundreds of these go by across my desk."

"Ever see any that worked out as promised?"
"Oh, yes, one - maybe 2.

They all start out as promised but when they are finally liquidated - when the cattle are sold, when the movie is through running or the oil well has been drilled, there is never as much money left as the promoters figured."

Typical ones I've seen in these final stages settle for 25 cents on the dollar.

They're also not liquid while they're active. You can't sell out except at a discount of say 35%. So we're getting down to the old bread and butter stuff - savings accounts and CD's, stocks and bonds.

CD's have some features. They're easy to buy and there are no commissions. With $100,000 Federal insurance, you'll get your money back. Interest rates are pretty good - say 8% or so. But it's taxable. If your income tax is 28%, a CD at 8.5% will net you 6.12%.

They are semi-liquid. You can cash them before maturity but with a penalty.

Now we're down to STOCKS. Stocks aren't as much fun as they used to be. In the wonderful 13 years from 1974 to 1987, the market went up 500% - from 575 to 2775. That was in August a year ago. When I stood here Oct. 15, 1987, it fell 100 points that day, over 100 the next, and on Black Monday, Oct. 19, it dropped 504 points. It hit bottom around 1700 - a total fall of 43%. And it hasn't been the same since.

An investment that falls from 2700 to 1700 is not my idea of security. An investment that at the market peak was returning 3% of taxable dividends is not my idea of income. I will admit that stocks are liquid, but so much of the liquid seems to have leaked out before you try to pour it from the pitcher.

In all the cold water I've thrown at other choices of investments, I do so from OUR standpoint, of retired people, past the stage of taking flyers, taking our lumps and then getting up and trying something else. We need to hang onto what we have, make it produce good income after taxes, and letting us go to sleep at night.

The answer for me, and for these times, is bonds. Tax exempt municipal bonds. Or taxable corporate bonds or governments, depending on the kind of your other income.

There you have SECURITY, the debt of an established company such as Southern Bell, with payments of interest and principal a prior lien on the company's obligations. You have good and steady income, say 10%. It comes twice a year, and it doesn't vary. The bonds are liquid. Sell them with a phone call. They are also taxable. The 10% in income shrinks to 7.2% if you're in a 28% bracket. That's better, though, than the 6.1% after-tax from an 8.5% CD.

Finally we come to tax-free municipal bonds. State of Florida, for example, whose general obligations bonds are rated AA - just a notch below government bonds - return 7 3/4% tax free. There are some good quality municipal bonds - Intermountain Powers of Utah, Georgia Municipal Electric, North Carolina Eastern Municipal Power, Jacksonville Electric, that yield 8% or more, again, tax free.

Compare that yield to average dividends, about 4% now, and taxable. After income tax on dividends of 28% - less than 3% net - 3% or 8%. 3% net from a market whose values dropped 43% in 2 months. A year later it has recouped half its big loss.

Apply our yardsticks - the 3 legs of the stool. Bonds are secure, they produce good after tax income, and they're liquid. I like them - and enjoy arguing about them.

Joles says suit is not really for the money

Owen-Gage Schools, its football coach and a student are named as defendants in a suit filed recently in U.S. District Court, Bay City, by an area couple who claim their son was assaulted after a football game nearly 2 years ago.

The suit, filed Oct. 12 by Rick and Pamela Joles of Cass City, contends their son, Jack, then a sophomore at Owen-Gage, sustained severe contusions on his torso and 2 fractured bones in his nose when some teammates struck him in a "hit line" as they rode home on a school bus from a winning football game Oct. 17, 1986.

Among the couple's claims are negligence on the part of school officials, and assault and battery.

The Joles are seeking in excess of $10,000 in compensatory, punitive and exemplary damages from the school district, veteran Owen-Gage football coach Arnie Besonen, and Nick Pavlichek, an Owen-Gage student and football player who Joles claims struck him.

The Joles acknowledged their intent to seek legal action against the school, coach and student nearly 2 years ago following a series of meetings with Owen-Gage School officials and the Board of Education after the alleged incident took place.

The Joles, at that time, stated they first met with then high school Principal Robert Andrews Oct. 20, 1986, and gave him 3 days to investigate the incident. Two days later, the couple, Andrews, 2 coaches and the father of the student allegedly involved met, but little progress was made.

The school board met with the couple and their attorney, Brian R. Schrope, during a closed session Nov. 10. Also during that monthly meeting, the school board approved a policy on student conduct in relation to school-sponsored transportation and extracurricular activities.

The Joles, meanwhile, sought to have Besonen fired, but the school board didn't agree with that suggestion.

According to Pam Joles, her son's alleged experience with a "hit line" wasn't the first time for him, and, based on affidavits, the practice had gone on for at least 6 years, she said.

She explained that a "hit line" consists of certain players—usually non-starting freshmen and sophomores—being called to the back of a bus by their teammates. She added that the underclassmen are then punched, pushed, tripped, inappropriately grabbed and have their clothing torn.

In a brief telephone interview Monday, Joles remarked her goal in filing the lawsuit remains the same.

"We don't give a dang about the money," she said. "We want to make sure that Besonen is no longer coaching. That is the ultimate goal."

School Supt. Harley Kirby said Monday that neither he nor Besonen had been notified of the suit yet.

Several car-deer accidents reported

Tuscola Sheriff's deputies reported several car-deer mishaps over the past week, including 2 involving area residents.

Edward J. Stoutenburg, 6692 Houghton St., Cass City, was driving on Schwegler Road north of East Cass City Road in Elkland Township Saturday when a deer ran into the path of his southbound vehicle.

Damage to the vehicle in the 7:15 p.m. mishap was light.

Simon Pollum of Deford was southbound on Cemetery Road north of Kelly Road in Novesta Township Friday when a deer ran into the side of his vehicle.

Pollum's vehicle sustained slight damage.

General Cable fetes Nina Davis for 35 years' service

Area resident Nina Davis recently celebrated 35 years of service with General Cable Company.

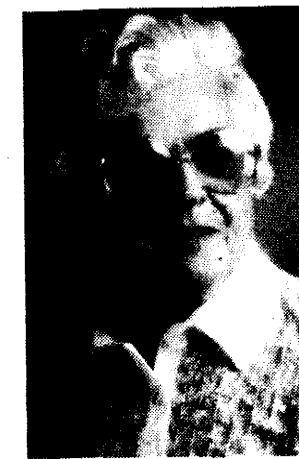

She has the longest tenure of service of any employee in Cass City with 10 years service with Commercial Cord Company of New York, and 25 years with General Cable Co. of Cass City.

Davis currently is the senior accounting assistant for General Cable and reports to the controller, Garre Cochran.

In addition to her full time work, Davis is very active within the community. She is on the board of the Novesta United Way, a member of the Business and Professional Women's organization, a volunteer with the Women's Auxiliary at Hills and Dales Hospital, captain of the Live Wire Bowling team and currently president of the Tuesday night bowling league, and a very active member of St. Pancratius Parish, Cass City.

In recognition of her many years of service with the company, Davis received a Howard Miller Mantel Clock with Westminster Chimes, a leaded crystal dish and candlesticks.

Candidates answer questions about offices

Editor's note: Candidates seeking the offices of sheriff, clerk, treasurer and register of deeds in Tuscola County, and the District 2 seat on the county Board of Commissioners, were asked to respond briefly to 3 questions related to their office. The following are their replies and some brief background on each candidate.

The race for county clerk

Erma Brown

The questions

- 1) As you see it, what are the most important duties of this office, and how are you best qualified to perform these duties?
- 2) How could you improve the effectiveness and efficiency of operations in this office?
- 3) What are the greatest challenges the winning candidate will face over the next 4 years?

Alexandria Maylou

The race for Tuscola County Sheriff

The questions

- 1) If elected, on what issues would you focus your attention over the next 4 years? How do you stand on those issues?
- 2) How could you improve effectiveness and efficiency of operations in this office?
- 3) What are the greatest challenges the winning candidate will face over the next 4 years?

Tom T. Kern

The race for sheriff in Tuscola County has continued to heat up since the Primary Election.

Businessman William Montague stunned 2 term incumbent Paul Berry in August for the Republican nod, while Reese Democrat Tom Kern easily defeated Nettie Prokopanko, setting the stage for next week's vote.

Montague, 51, is a former 8-year member of the Caro Police Department. The Vassar area resident currently is a district court officer in Caro in addition to being co-owner of a tax business with his wife, Shirley. The couple have 7 grown children.

Kern, 44, is a 17-year veteran of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, including 13 years as a command officer. He supervises the county's breathalyzer program and heads the department's LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) computer operation.

He holds an associate degree in police administration from Delta College and a bachelor of arts degree from Saginaw Valley State University.

Kern and his wife, June, have 3 children.

William (Bill) Montague

Kern's answers

I would like to focus on the drug and alcohol problems. We need a combination of both enforcement and education in regards to those two areas. As far as the education aspect, I would hope to work with local law enforcement officials and schools to enhance the existing programs and assist in the introduction of new ones. When it comes to enforcement, it is two-fold. First, work with ENACT in setting up local drug enforcement, second, work with State agencies in setting up the multi-county drug unit.

To improve effectiveness, I would attempt to bring extra dollars into our county by seeking out monies available through grants. Also to be effective I feel that I would have to be in touch with all the communities to find out their needs and problems.

To improve efficiency, I would like to reorganize our department. Personnel need to be placed in areas where they are best suited. Also, I have a great desire to computerize areas within our department. Many man hours are spent in recording statistics in law enforcement and with the help of a computer we would be able to increase our efficiency.

There are many challenges that face a Sheriff over the next years. First of all, funding is always a problem for law enforcement. Although our road patrol millage passed, it does not allow monies for extra help and at the present time our dispatch is totally inadequate for the amount of calls and radio traffic coming in.

Another challenge is creating an atmosphere in the department that would encourage the officers to have a positive approach to the challenging job in law enforcement today. Police officers deal with a variety of negatives on a daily basis and get very little positive feedback. They need the reinforcement from a leader who can respond to everyday problems encountered by the employees.

Montague's answers

Drug Enforcement: It could be held in check by active involvement, extensive training and educational programs for all age groups.

Drunk Driving and Highway safety: Although much has been done by law enforcement at all levels, this remains a severe problem on the highways of the county and state. An active enforcement policy may be the best effort in controlling this problem along with availability of training and education of officers.

Crime Prevention: Using and expanding programs such as citizens watches and having high visibility of patrol units on the road in an attempt to stop crime before it occurs.

Make greater use of available resources. Research records and attempt to schedule and place units in areas when and where problems have been identified.

Attempt to develop a civilian dispatch program to enable certified officers to be placed in cars on patrol or assigned other law enforcement duties. (Detectives, surveillance.)

Again make use of civilian resources, most people care enough to become involved with assisting law enforcement through existing programs that should be expanded to every township, village, and city in the county. (Citizens watches, REACT, etc.)

Maintaining and attempting to improve programs and services within the budget allowed.

Bringing the joint operation into compliance with Dept. of Corrections standards and begin planning for future construction of jail facilities to avoid overcrowding and very costly prisoner boarding and inmate civil suits, and to improve services.

Improving the morale and efficiency of the present staff. Training, education and proper assignment of personnel will improve attitudes and performance with minimal cost to the taxpayer.

It's Brown vs. Maylou

Deputy Clerk Erma Brown, a long-time Mayville resident, emerged the victor in the primary, defeating 4 other Republican candidates who sought the opportunity to face Democrat Alexandria Maylou in the General Election.

Brown's answers

The most important duty of this office is to serve the public to its fullest. Every aspect of the office is important in its own way. I have worked in the office for the past 10 years, I have the experience and knowledge of the functions of the office.

The possibility of going to computers within other areas of the office.

Changes in voters registration that may be required by the State. Space within the office. Budget and Staff.

Maylou's answers

Serving the public as the record keeper for the county as well as involving the eligible voter in the arena of government, both local and national. Education in the latter is essential.

For starters - keep the office open during the noon lunch hour which, in many instances, is the only time people can take care of whatever business they may have with the office, since the latter closes earlier than most businesses do and is not open on Saturdays.

An increasing population, volatile in movement, which requires increased, more sophisticated logistics. How to best cope with increased costs commensurate with such growth without added burden to the already overburdened taxpayer. Working in conjunction with existing computer services, leasing such time and services - when needed - as opposed to purchase expenditure.

The commissioner's race in district 2

The questions

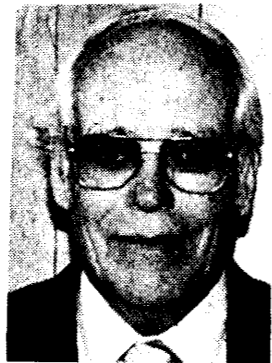

Kim D. Glaspie

The fight for the District 2 seat on the county board pits Cass City attorney and Democrat Kim D. Glaspie, the incumbent, against Cass City farmer and veteran school board treasurer Jack Brinkman, Republican.

- 1) If elected, on what issues would you focus your attention over the next 2 years? How do you stand on those issues?
- 2) How could you improve the effectiveness and efficiency of (county) operations in this office?
- 3) What are the greatest challenges the winning candidate will face over the next 2 years?

Both candidates ran unopposed in the primary. Glaspie is seeking a second term following his history-making victory 2 years ago over 4-term incumbent Royce Russell, Republican. Glaspie's narrow win marked the first Democrat elected to represent District 2. The district is composed of Elmwood, Elkland, Novesta and Kingston Townships.

Glaspie is a Cass City native. He began practicing law in Cass City after completing his education at Thomas M. Cooley Law School, where he earned his law degree in 1980. He earned a bachelor's degree at the University of Michigan in 1977.

During his first term as a commissioner, Glaspie served on the board's Personnel Committee as well as on an ad hoc committee charged with making recommendations related to county finances and millage proposals.

He and his wife, Jacqueline, have 3 children. Brinkman also is a lifelong county resident. A Korean War veteran, he has served as treasurer and as a member of the negotiating committee for the Owen-Gage Board of Education for 14 years.

Brinkman and his wife, Bonnie, have 2 children.

address issues arising in those offices, such as hiring of personnel, purchasing equipment and supplies and the general budgeting needs of the department.

The greatest challenge is the ability to keep abreast of the county's financial condition. This is an ongoing process that must be monitored constantly. It does not end with the adoption of the budget, but continues throughout the year. Many variables change during the course of a year and it is vital that we stay abreast of those changes so that we may respond quickly and appropriately when necessary.

Another challenge is to predict what the future holds for the county, and to shape policies and recommendations based on those projections. We as commissioners, cannot be satisfied to react to situations as they arise. We must look beyond the present to the future, so that we may better deal with our ever changing county government.

Virginia McLaren

The race for Tuscola County Register of Deeds

Millington resident Virginia (Ginny) McLaren hopes to defeat Democrat Sheri L. Rundel next week to win a first term as register of deeds following her appointment to the post this summer.

Her appointment filled a vacancy left by the un-

The questions

- 1) As you see it, what are the most important duties of this office, and how are you best qualified to perform these duties?
- 2) How could you improve the effectiveness and efficiency of operations in this office?
- 3) What are the greatest challenges the winning candidate will face over the next 4 years?

Sheri L. Rundel

expected death of Ann Saetelberg in late May. McLaren, who defeated 2 Republican opponents in the primary, served as deputy register of deeds for 3 1/2 years before her most recent appointment. She has worked in the office since 1981. McLaren and her husband,

McLaren's answers

The most important duties of the Register of Deeds are to record, maintain and update all real and personal property records of the county; to keep accurate accounts of all documents and monies and to be of service to the county as a whole. I feel I am the best qualified because of my nearly 8 years experience in the office - over 3 1/2 of those years as the Deputy Register. I also have past experience in the accounting field and an excellent business education background.

The greatest way to improve the effectiveness is to start at ground level where the laws governing our office begin. I feel all the county offices should become more involved in promoting or instituting legislative acts that are beneficial to our county and voice our opinions on those that might be detrimental. Our policies have usually been to accept the laws as they are passed instead of actively getting involved as a representative of the county. As far as efficiency, I would eventually like to see a computer installed. It would, however, need to have the capacity to be linked with the other offices and a system that has proven itself in county government. The program would have to be capable of handling all the line items that are now done manually as well as being able to add others to be completely cost efficient. This type of system would make our office more accountable to the public since it would allow us to pull records not just by grantor/grantee, but also by address, property description, dates, etc.

The greatest challenges in the future will probably be in keeping up with new technology and changing laws. Also, closing the gaps between state/county/township governments is necessary to strengthen county government as a whole. Greater cooperation would allow us to utilize everyone's opinions and knowledge to see all the aspects of situations as they arise. One person in any elected position cannot make changes for the better alone, everyone must work together in order for all of us to benefit.

The duties of the office include collection of property taxes, either from the various treasurers. Preparing all changes in names and addresses on tax descriptions for billing purposes, and the investment of county funds from the time of their collection until they are needed for the operation of county government.

Rundel's answers

The most important duties of the office of Register of Deeds involves serving the public and handling the duties within. I am best qualified because of my past experiences through my job, and my church work, also keeping records with my scout troop. With my position as treasurer of the local 2641 of American Federation of State, Local and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), through the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility, gives me experience at keeping records and handling funds.

The effectiveness of the office can best be improved by a concentrated effort to help each person as he or she enters the register of deeds office. One main goal would be to make everyone feel welcome as they enter and satisfied with the help provided when they leave.

The greatest challenge, as I see it, would be to computerize the office. This won't be easy, as it would be necessary to have an efficient computer system to handle the volume of data required. This would be a tremendous asset however, as it would speed up access to the information needed, thus serving the people of Tuscola County more efficiently.

Free breast exams offered

Another in the series of free clinics will be offered on Wednesdays in November by Dr. Beatriz Martin.

The doctor will give free breast exams at her office at 4612 Hill Street in Cass City.

It is requested that an appointment be made by calling 872-4331.

The candidates for Tuscola Co. Treasurer

Republican L. James White of Caro is challenging Treasurer Patricia L. Donovan, Democrat, for her post. White, who defeated Caro Republican Joseph Mellen-dorf in the primary, is a Mayville native. He is a loan originator for the Mortgage Company of Bay City and is owner of Regional Abstract and Title Co. in Caro. White also is a former president of Peoples State Bank and former vice-president of American Home Bank. Donovan has worked in the treasurer's office for some 15 years. The Fairgrove resident was hired after high school and was later promoted from clerk-typist to bookkeeper before being appointed deputy treasurer.

She was appointed treasurer in late 1987 following the resignation of Elgene

L. James White

Patricia L. Donovan

Donovan's answers

One of the most important duties of the county treasurer is being responsible for the county's money. The treasurer must oversee that the money is put into the correct accounts and that the proper agencies get the correct amount of funds.

The treasurer must also invest surplus money the county has in a safe place and get the best interest for the money. The treasurer must be able to work well with the other department heads, fellow employees and the public.

I feel I can handle all of these duties because I have 16 years' experience in the office and have been doing these duties since I was appointed to the office Jan. 1, 1988.

I would like to improve the relationship between the county and the townships, our office has to work closely with the township treasurers and supervisors and a closer relationship would help in many cases.

I believe the efficiency of the office is very good now; my staff is very knowledgeable at what they do.

The greatest challenge over the next 4 years will be earning the most interest possible for the county general fund, being available for the public when they have problems, working with the new department heads and commissioners, and being a fair and honest treasurer for the people of Tuscola County.

The questions

- 1) As you see it, what are the most important duties of this office, and how are you best qualified to perform these duties?
- 2) How could you improve the effectiveness and efficiency of operations in this office?
- 3) What are the greatest challenges the winning candidate will face over the next 4 years?

White's answers

Because of reduced revenues, all county departments are saying that they are understaffed. I don't have any feeling for this, as to whether this is true or not. I have in the past put in the time required to get my job done and I am willing and able to do this now. Each person coming to the office needs the best possible service.

One of the greatest challenges is making the tax funds go the farthest to provide service to all departments of county government and to make county government as accountable to county citizens as possible. It is going to be a challenge to be able to operate the county government on the funds provided, with the decreasing tax revenues because of shrinking assessed valuations. Government should react the same way that we as individuals do and when income is reduced, then expenses need to be reduced as well.

I feel that my 30 years of banking experience gives me some knowledge of investing of funds as well as dealing with the public. Banking is strictly a service business, and that is all that I have done my entire life. My goal has always been to give the best possible service, whether it was a loan customer or deposit customer, because I wanted to treat customers as I like to be treated when I am seeking either some service or product.

Brinkman's answers

I would emphasize the promotion of bringing new businesses into our county, whether it be by way of tourism, agriculture, or small manufacturing facilities. We need to be far more aggressive in applying and pursuing grant monies, we need to expand existing businesses and make all efforts possible in preserving business presently located here. This in turn will expand and stabilize our tax base which will help us provide essential services to our residents and make jobs available for our young people so they do not have to leave family and friends in search of employment. I believe a firm stand must be taken by the Board when dealing with the county's judges. We must formulate a plan to deal with the county's solid waste problem before the Department of Natural Resources dictates exactly what we must do. To act now would save tax dollars and not catch us completely unprepared.

I would keep in touch with the people of my District. I fail to see how one can represent the people if you do not go to your township meetings or keep in contact with them. This is one thing I would definitely do, because I will never forget that I serve the people and will work towards their best interests.

I believe solid waste will be a very real problem as will many of the problems that have plagued us over the years. We have to deal with diversifying our economy so that jobs will be available in our county and operating a county government which costs will continue to increase while it appears the available revenue to operate it will not keep pace. It will be the job of the Commissioners to keep a responsible conservative fiscal policy in place.

Glaspie's answers

The number one issue the past two years of my term has been the financial condition of the County. This issue will remain as the issue requiring the most attention. The current board has developed a four year financial plan to ensure the soundness of the county's financial condition.

Over the past three years, Tuscola has had the largest percentage drop in SEV (State Equalized Value). Federal Revenue Sharing monies are a thing of the past and Tuscola County has the lowest operating millage in the State. The combination of these factors created a situation in our county where the gap between revenues and expenditures was ever widening. In an attempt to rectify this problem, the board instituted a plan whereby, the special purpose millage monies, the existing revenues and some judicious use of our reserves were budgeted to balance our budget.

When re-elected, I intend to continue to support this plan for the next two years. By then, I hope that our decreasing SEV has leveled off and a gradual increase has begun and that we find new ways to generate revenues by way of user fees and centralized purchasing of supplies. We will continue to monitor the existing programs to make sure that they are run as cost-effectively as possible.

We must also continue to monitor senior citizen programs to make sure that the seniors are receiving the most for the dollars that are spent on the programs.

A county commissioner can best improve the effectiveness and efficiency of county operations by staying involved with the operations of the individual offices and departments. I work with clients and our work involves the use of services provided by a wide range of county offices. By using these services and knowing how a particular office functions, a commissioner is better equipped to Flu vaccine available at health dept.

The season for flu is nearly here and the long-awaited flu vaccine is now available through the Sanilac County Health Department, officials recently announced.

This year's vaccine will protect against somewhat different strains than last year's vaccine, so persons will need to be immunized even if they received a vaccine in 1987, Karen Buck, public health nursing supervisor said.

She noted that the vaccine is recommended for all persons 60 years old and older; other persons with chronic health problems, such as heart disease, lung disease, diabetes, neuromuscular diseases and anemia; persons with immune system problems; and health care, fire and police personnel who have frequent contact with high-risk persons or who perform essential community services.

Information on cost of the vaccine and immunization dates and times is available by contacting Buck at (313) 648-4098.

Crisis Center offers volunteer training

The Thumb Area Assault Crisis Center will be conducting volunteer training sessions the weekends of Nov. 12 and 13, and Dec. 3 and 4 for persons interested in working with victims of domestic violence.

An orientation session is scheduled for Nov. 8 from 7-9 p.m. at the Human Development Commission's Central Office, 429 Montague St., Caro.

All sessions will be held at the HDC central office. The training is designed to teach skills in effective listening, empathy, crisis intervention and problem solving techniques. In addition, participants will be introduced to the dynamics of domestic violence and what their role will be in dealing with this problem.

Once trained, volunteers will be qualified to work in the newly-opened shelter for abused women and to assist clients with advocacy issues, transportation arrangements and crisis management in the 4-county area of Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola and Lapeer.

Persons desiring further information about the shelter house or the training can contact Mary Ann Osentoski at (517) 673-4121 or 1-800-292-3666.

Owen-Gage seniors hold meets

Nearly 50 persons attended each of the Owen-Gage Senior Citizens' bi-monthly meetings last month.

The Gagetown United Methodist Women served 49 members at a dinner meeting held Oct. 20 at the Gagetown United Methodist Church. Guests in attendance were the Rev. Mary Neal and Mary Kretzschmer.

Bob and Florence Schell furnished pumpkins as table decorations, and the pumpkins were later given away, by drawing, to Margaret Beckett, Helen Pyrek, Elma Miklovich, Bernadine Good, Beatrice Jones, Venita Kling, Louise Ashmore, Mary Wald, Alma Wald and Mary Blondell.

Euchre winners were Bob Schell and Iva Peterson (high), and Mary Kuehne and Homer Kretzschmer (low). The traveling prize was won by Mary Kretzschmer, and Homer Kretzschmer and Leonora Shantz received the door prizes.

At the group's Oct. 6 meeting, held at St. Agatha's Parish hall, 45 persons attended, 16 of whom had their blood pressure reading taken. One guest, Lloyd Finkbeiner, also was in attendance.

The terms of president and vice-president expire in December, a nominating committee composed of Iva Peterson, Elma Miklovich and Venita Kling was appointed.

Also during the meeting, the 55th wedding anniversary of Luther and Martha Durham was honored, and door prizes were won by Stella Erer and Lloyd Finkbeiner.

Your neighbor says Halloween comes only once a year

Every year there are complaints about the traditional Halloween night trick or treats programs. Some feel it is something that should be curbed and are bothered by the hordes that visit. Most persons look on it as a once a year event and aren't bothered by the many ghosts and goblins that visit. Markay Prang of Warren, whose parents, Jess and Bernice Kanapsky, were former residents in the Shabbona area, said that in the subdivision where she lives, she has 150 or more visitors every Halloween.

Any trouble? We get the usual soaping of windows and toilet paper on the trees, she laughed, but as long as it is just once a year, it's okay. What bothers Prang is vandalism that occurs in Detroit. Burning of homes and the placing of razor blades in candy and fruit is a concern. We haven't had this problem where I live, she explained, but when you read about it happening, you just have to be concerned.

Exercise class is available at school

Kalosomatics is an organized exercise routine of the body geared to ability. This class is held Monday and Wednesday evenings at the Cass City Intermediate Cafeteria. It is possible to take just one of the nights to exercise. Classes begin Monday, Nov. 14, and continue through December 20, from 7-8 p.m. It runs for 6 weeks and there is a fee charged with a discount for senior citizens.

Tae Kwon Do is also offered. It is a form of karate for men, women and school-age children interested in exercising mind and body together. You can increase coordination while learning this ancient art of self defense. The session lasts 6 weeks, from 7-9 p.m. Monday evenings beginning Nov. 14 and continuing to Dec. 19 at Campbell Elementary School gym. There is a sliding fee for family participation.

Call the Cass City Community Education Office at 872-4151 for more information on these offerings.

Fall achievement

Ubly 4-H'ers earn awards

A number of Ubly youths were among those who received 1988 4-H Fall Achievement Awards in Huron County, Oct. 17.

The awards recognized Huron County 4-H members for outstanding work in project areas, competitive activities and in leadership roles in the 4-H Youth Program.

Among the Ubly youths recognized is Amy Glaza, who received a Mill End Stores Best of Show Award in the "sewing for fun" division.

Among those earning individual county project medals, and their divisions, are Kristy Elliott, arts; Kevin Morell, beef; Ricky Beaver, collections; Chandra Koglin and Donald Koglin Jr., cosmetology; Jason Booms and Denise Weber, crafts; Chandra Koglin, crocheting; Lisa Sweeney, floriculture and horticulture; Tracy Sweeney and Tracy Robinson, foods and nutrition; Tracy Robinson, home design.

Special county awards were presented to several 4-H members, including 2 Ubly youths, based on total involvement and accomplishment. The area youths are Dawn Beaver, who received an "all-achievement award," and Michelle Smigielski, who received a "citizenship" award.

"Best Report" awards, based on neatness, content, quality and completeness of a report and story submitted, were given to several youths in their first year in 4-H. Among them are Christina Sadro (age 9 division), Denise Weber (age 10), Ricky Beaver and Ryan Sadro (age 11), and Chandra Koglin and Keith Sweeney (age 12).
