Predict increase in trash collection costs

Cass City and other area residents can add increasing waste disposal costs to the list of things that are certain in this life.

That's what Cass City Village Council trustees concluded following a brief discussion on the growing dilemma—local, state and nationwide—of where to put more refuse in fewer places.

The discussion was prompted by a request from Gateway Waste Partners asking the council to support the concept of recycling.

"We are really, in the next few years, going to be in a terrible bind," Trustee Nat Tuttle remarked, adding Gateway officials have said that it now costs $20 to dispose of one old auto tire.

"I think we're at the point where we're going to have to tell the homeowners we're not going to be able to take tires anymore," he continued.

Tuttle noted that the cost of tire disposal is only one example. Existing landfills are becoming increasingly restrictive in terms of what can be dumped, he said.

Private waste haulers are already forced to haul garbage from the upper Thumb counties to other Michigan counties. And, unfortunately, the volume of waste generated in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties combined isn't enough to make another landfill economically feasible. The same is true of large scale recycling.

"It's been the biggest problem over the past few years and it's going to get bigger," Trustee Elwyn Helwig remarked.

In the letter from Gateway, Ray Hayes stated that landfill rates "are on a rampage." He said recycling, although not cost effective yet, seems to be one of the best alternatives and that preparations should be made to begin planning for it now.

But Samuel E. McCargo, county sheriff and Millington Police officer, he put in 10 years as a full-time deputy after serving with the Vassar Police Department for about 4 years.

He also has worked as an Emergency Medical Technician, served as a volunteer fireman and was very active in the formation of a Neighborhood.

ing," he said. "The long prophesied day of high cost landfilling is at hand."

Council President L.E. Althaver keyed in on a portion of the letter in which Hayes stated that recycling related activity is being stimulated by public officials and activist citizens.

"I think we're seeing the state dictate, 'thou shalt not landfill', but they're not coming up with any answers," he said, adding that citizens urging their legislators to accelerate research of waste disposal alternatives might be the most effective means of getting some movement.

Althaver noted that in the meantime, area residents should enjoy current reasonable waste disposal costs but be prepared for rate increases in the near future.

In other business Monday, the council decided to re-apply for a state grant that would be used to help pay the costs of closing the village's landfill.

Tuttle noted that the village previously was denied the grant, after applying in 1985, because the landfill at that time was a Class III facility, which allowed the dumping of materials such as building rubble. Now the facility isn't used for dumping of such materials, and the Department of Natural Resources is urging the village to re-apply, he explained.

Officials had no specific estimates on the cost of the project. Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie said the cost in 1985 would have totaled about $137,000, including the village's share of the cost (nearly $36,000).

The grant, if approved, would pay for covering the site with 2 feet of clay and a layer of top dirt, and seeding.

Also Monday, the council approved a motion changing their monthly December meeting from Dec. 26 to Dec. 19.

TUSCOLA COUNTY SHERIFF-elect Tom Kern Monday announced James K. Fyvie Jr. (left) as his selection for undersheriff. Fyvie initiated and is currently executive director of the Vassar Area Ambulance Service. He also is a part-time deputy sheriff and Millington Police officer.

Appoint Fyvie new undersheriff

Tuscola County Sheriff-elect Tom Kern Monday ended speculation regarding who will serve as his undersheriff.

Kern, during a brief press conference, announced the position will be filled by James K. Fyvie, executive director of the Vassar Area Ambulance Service and a part-time police officer.

"I guess the thing I like about Jim is when (he) starts a project, he finishes it. That's something I appreciate," Kern remarked. "I think Jim is going to bring a lot of professionalism into the department."

Kern, Tuscola County's first elected Democrat sheriff, said he recently chose Fyvie, whom he's known for 18 years, over 3 other candidates.

Although he declined to be specific on what the undersheriff's duties will be, Kern made it clear Fyvie will be active, taking on several roles.

"It's hard for me to spell out duties when I haven't gotten in there yet," the sheriff-elect said. "The one thing I hope to have with Jim in there is greater lines, up and down, of communication."

Fyvie agreed, adding the relationships he's established over the years with various police, fire, ambulance and other departments will be a plus in his new role. Fyvie, 39, has accumulated experience in a host of public service areas.

Home-town news

by Melva E. Guinther

While we're aware that small-town paper bashing is a popular pastime, we also notice that some of those who bash most eagerly are also first in line when The Chronicle hits the newsstands.

Pauline McArthur shares a copy of a nostalgic poem about a little country weekly. I don't know how old it is, but the paper is brittle and yellow with age. The sentiments may seem a little maudlin, but there's more than a grain of truth in the notion that people who leave the small town for the big city are eager for the news that can only be found in the "home-town paper."

I have wondered at the pictures and other things therein, And hardly know upon which page 'twould be best to begin.

I like their snappy, modern ways, their wondrous stories, too; But somehow, when I'm lonesome and I'm feeling glum and blue, I find old friends around me, and I fairly hear them speak.

When I read the home-town paper which comes to me each week. It isn't much for beauty, and the print is sometimes blurred; But there's the news about the folks, and things which have occurred.

And it tells of how Ben Slocum has cut his crop of wheat; And it says the harvest apples are mighty good and sweet.

How Deacon Pitkin's youngest girl has gone away to school; It hints that nights are bad for corn, because they're rather cool.

A smile most always curls my lips, and I can feel my cheek Glow warm, when reading what it says about old friends each week.

In whispering tones it breathes to me a message drear and sad— How this or that old pal of mine has slipped and turned out bad.

Mixed in with sociables and things which tell of wholesome fun, I find the names of those for whom Life's sands have ceased to run.

And so I say, and have no fear that you will disagree, The greatest source of news on earth, for common folks like me, Is when I greet old friends anew, and with them sit and speak, As I read the home-town paper which comes to me each week.

Doris Hurd was a Thanksgiving dinner guest of her daughter, Margaret Pasanski, and family.

Newspapers for the blind

By Jim Fitzgerald

Judith M. Dixon, Ph.D., lives in Arlington, Va., but regularly gets information from only one newspaper — the Flint Journal. That's unusual. Also unusual is that Dixon benefits from a unique program that appears eminently qualified to receive some of the public funds annually spent to help handicapped people cope — but so far has received not one cent. The program, operated over the phone, is Newspapers for the Blind, based in Flint. Dixon uses it long distance. She is head of consumer relations for the Library of Congress for the Blind and Physically Handicapped in Washington. "Such an inexpensive, flexible service has never before been available to blind people and I believe that the service being offered by Newspapers for the Blind is one of the most significant advances in information dissemination to blind persons to be made in this decade," Dixon wrote. "It will be a wonderful thing when such a system is not only available in Flint, Mich., but available in every city and town across the country."

pushing the right buttons, listeners can select different newspaper sections and stories. The service began for Flint subscribers Feb. 9, 1987. Last July it was extended to Detroit, with recordings of the Detroit News. The Free Press is not yet offered, a terrible injustice against blind people that cries out for solution. The problem is money. Newspapers for the Blind currently operates on a paltry annual budget of $52,000. More equipment is badly needed. Until then, the talking newspaper must be limited to just two newspapers read to only 200 subscribers in Flint, and 200 more in Detroit. So far, the non-profit program has depended on private donations. Subscribers pay a small fee — $9 a month — if they can. No one is turned away because of inability to pay, Doherty said. But thousands of blind people are missing out on a marvelous service because there's not nearly enough funding to share it with them. As Dixon said, talking newspapers should be heard not only in Flint and Detroit, but everywhere.

Doherty can see that happening in the long run — if his limited, two-city operation manages to survive in the short run. The biggest obstacle is the program's newness. Government and private agencies are wary. They wonder: If talking newspapers are such a great idea, why didn't they or someone else think of it a long time ago? The annual budget for the Michigan Commission for the Blind is around $10 million, Doherty said. He would love to get a small hunk of that money, which is spent mostly on rehabilitation of the blind. Most aid-the-blind organizations aim at bringing mobility, rather than information, to the vision-impaired.

PROGRAM NEEDS A HAND

Talking newspapers can fill that information gap. There are no braille newspapers, Doherty pointed out, and only five percent of the blind can read braille, anyway. Braille is especially difficult for people who become blind in old age. Doherty has talked with the Michigan Commission for the Blind, also with federal agencies. He discovered that Michigan is often allotted more federal money for programs for the handicapped than it spends, and this money is returned to Washington for other states to spend. That hurts.

You can help by talking up talking newspapers with your elected representatives, and by suggesting Newspapers for the Blind as a worthy beneficiary of fund-raising parties. I touch-toned into a talking newspaper and immediately realized that, if I were blind, it would be a daily blessing. Except I'd want to hear the Free Press. Onward and Upward.

For information, write Newspapers for the Blind Inc., 932 Church St., Flint 48502, or phone 235-6630, 9-5 daily.

A VERY APOLOGETIC Santa Claus arrived in Cass City late and without his traditional fire truck escort Friday, but area youngsters, including (far left) Amanda Damoth, the daughter of Charles Jr. and Ruth Damoth of Cass City, didn't seem to mind.

Thieves smash, grab at Caro store

Four video camcorders and a tripod valued at more than $5,700 were taken from a Caro business in a "smash and grab" breaking and entering early last week.

which was broken with a large rock and then apparently kicked in. Most of the merchandise was within reach of the window, according to reports. Damage was estimated at $250. The case remains under investigation.

The Haire Net

Another chapter in the continuing saga of the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth as seen from the corner of Oak and Main. Listen up.

The Christmas decorations are up on Main Street, sparking the inevitable debate on whether or not it's too soon.

They are up before Thanksgiving mostly because local businessmen wanted it and I see nothing wrong with that. The real plus is that the decorations now up have solved a problem that concerned all of us that have been here for several years or more. Every year the Christmas lights became dwarfed by our wide streets and, despite oodles of work, always appeared anemic when the switch was thrown. Not any more.

What really bugs most of us that need to work downtown is the Christmas music. "Frosty the Snowman" is fun music...the first half dozen times it is played. But after that, bah! humbug!

Sheldon Markley says that Cass City's negotiation record stinks because the school either has a strike or goes a prolonged period without a contract.

Naturally Markley, as a chief negotiator for the Tri-County Bargaining Association, implies that it is the fault of the school representatives.

Yet, when you compare the salary and benefits that Cass City teachers receive, they check out near the middle of the pack, not high or low compared to other area schools. It's true that salaries are lower than those in urban areas, but if that were causing labor difficulties, every school in the Thumb would be without a contract.

One close observer of the school scene said that he felt that perhaps the mettle of new Supt. Ken Micklash was being tested, but we don't buy that. Maybe a little in preliminary discussions, but the talks are long past that now.

Like Markley, who had a gut reaction about the negotiations, I have one, too. It appears to me that little is changed from the way it was during the 3 years that I sat in on the bargaining as observer.

When it's all over, the prediction is that Cass City will remain at about the middle or slightly over the middle of Thumb school salary schedules.

And ready to take a strike before agreeing to more than that.

The curtain will have been rung on the 10th anniversary of the Bach Festival in Cass City when this is read. After 10 years, we know about what to expect. In the performances at Cass City, some 250 persons will attend each show.

If you measure it by the numbers, it doesn't add up to a big return for the money spent.

But if you are interested in Cass City as a place to live and a place to make a living in, don't judge it by the numbers. It's the wrong yardstick. The Festival gives Cass City something extra, something that you can't go a few miles down the road and find in any small town.

Like the "Christmas Town" reputation that we are gradually building up again, it's an intangible, but, believe it, intangibles like these eventually add up to very tangible results in the cash register.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire (And anyone else he can get to help.)

Horns of a dilemma department. It was inevitable that the incessant rainfall this fall (and when it would turn to snow) would become a topic of conversation around the coffee table. Joining the discussion was Roger Marshall.

Marshall's wintertime business (selling of snowmobile parts) is largely dependent on snow. He joined the discussion with a "think snow" declaration.

One of the group asked if he wanted it to snow and lose the field of sugar beets on land he owns next to his house. Tough call, he grinned.

That annual special subscription that goes to Santa Claus has been added to the list and a copy of the Chronicle will be sent winging its way to the North Pole each week from now to Christmas.

In these editions we'll publish all the letters to Santa. We'll add a picture, too, providing they are wallet size. Black and white is best, but most colored pictures, not all, also can be used.

HEALTH TIPS

Be careful shoveling snow

"Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow..." was easy for Bing Crosby to say. But to many people, heaps and heaps of the white stuff is no winter wonderland. In fact, snow shoveling poses a health risk for some of us. Winter can be cruel.

And don't try to tell us you love the snow, because we simply won't believe you. Just remember some of the undeniable joys of seasons past:

How many hours did you labor over your blizzard-wrecked driveway before the city street plow dumped Mount Everest directly in front of it?

How many times did those little darlings down the street hurl ice balls at your windshield as you drove by?

How long can your next-door neighbor use his snowblower - right up to the point where his sidewalk ends and yours begins - before you tell him what he can do with his snowblower?

The American Heart Association of Michigan (AHA/MI) urges you to take necessary precautions with this year's snowfall. Every year, snow shoveling accounts for a number of heart attacks in Michigan.

If you're over 40, lead a sedentary lifestyle, smoke cigarettes, or are overweight, you could be a likely candidate for shoveling-related heart attack. These are the secondary risk factors for heart disease, and are most commonly overlooked. High blood pressure and other heart conditions are primary risk factors that cannot be ignored. People with these conditions absolutely should NOT shovel snow.

As a safeguard, if you are over 40 years of age and have one or more risk factors, consult your physician before braving the elements.

The act of shoveling snow is strenuous physical activity. If you are not physically conditioned for such exercise, the stress on your cardiovascular system may be too great. Shoveling is static exertion; in other words, your lower extremities are likely to be standing still while your arms and upper torso are lifting often heavy amounts of snow. The strain on your heart is caused by unequally-proportioned effort. According to Dwight Gaal, exercise physiologist and AHA/MI exercise and cardiac rehab committee member, there are some simple exercises that can effectively prepare your body for shoveling.

"Getting involved in light activity such as walking with exaggerated arm swinging can promote proper cardiovascular conditioning," Gaal said.

"You may want to try carrying light hand weights as you walk, then gradually increase the weight over time."

If you do not own a pair of hand weights, Gaal recommends filling empty plastic gallon jugs with varying levels of water and sand. Practice rotating the jugs in the same fashion as if you were actually shoveling.

The cold weather plays a role, too, in adding up heart attack risk. "Cold weather forces your body to regulate its temperature, which means the blood vessels constrict to conserve normal body heat," said Gaal. Narrowed blood vessels increase blood pressure, which in turn, causes the heart to demand more oxygen. This is when angina pectoris (chest pain) can occur.

There are steps you should take if you must shovel snow:

- * Cover your face with a scarf to avoid direct inhaling of winter air.
- * Avoid shoveling during high windy periods. The wind chill factor can be dangerous in itself.
- * Layer yourself with lightweight, loose-fitting clothing.
- * Change wet clothing immediately.
- * Wear something on your head, since a large percentage of body heat is lost from this area.
- * Keep moving around; let your blood circulate freely.
- * Don't try to do the whole job at once. Take breaks to rest.
- * Don't hold your breath!

Strenuous lifting is most dangerous when you hold your breath. Remember to breathe when you shovel, and keep oxygen flowing in and out at a normal pace. Holding your breath can cause sudden, rapid changes in your heart rate and blood pressure.

These signals should alert you to cardiovascular stress:

- tight squeezing pain in chest, possibly moving to the arms
- shortness of breath, excessive sweating and nausea
- dizziness and/or fainting

If you feel any of these symptoms during or after shoveling, stop immediately and get help. Ignoring these important warning signs can cost you your life.

For young and old alike, should you fall or strain a muscle while shoveling snow, Gaal advises applying ice immediately. If you experience no adverse effects from aspirin, take one every 4 hours. Seek medical advice if your discomfort persists.

AHA/MI says "BAH HUMBUG" to shoveling snow. Our suggestion is to draft a local enterprising youngster to do the dirty deed for you. It may cost you a few bucks, but consider the alternative costs....

For more information on warning signs of heart attack, or heart disease risk factors, contact any office of the American Heart Association of Michigan, a United Way agency.

Act now to buy lifelong hunting, fishing licenses

Michigan residents can purchase special lifetime hunting and fishing licenses for 15 1/2 months only, beginning Nov. 15.

The licenses will be on sale through February of 1990 and may be purchased as gifts for residents of any age. Licenses purchased will be valid from March 1, 1989 and for the remainder of the license holders life, regardless of any subsequent license fee increases. The license remains good should the licensee move out of state.

The new law authorizes the Department of Natural Resources to sell Michigan lifetime licenses as follows:

License	Lifetime License Cost	Present Annual License Cost
Fishing	$ 220	$ 9.85
Combined Fishing & Trout/Salmon Stamp	$ 440	$19.70 ($9.85 each)
Small Game	$ 220	$ 9.85
Firearm Deer	$ 285	$12.85
Archery Deer	$ 285	$12.85
Sportpersons (includes above listed licenses)	$1,000	$45.35

"The concept of the lifetime license is to offer a convenience and savings to Michigan hunters and anglers," said (DNR) Director David F. Hales; "While, in turn, the state receives a direct and long-lasting revenue commitment each year from sportsmen and women, to continue DNR wildlife and fisheries management projects and protection programs," he added.

Proceeds from the sale of the lifetime licenses will be placed in a special Game and Fish Lifetime License Trust Fund. For each lifetime license sold, an amount, each year, equal to the current price of the corresponding annual license, will be transferred from the License Fund to the DNR's Game and Fish Protection Fund, to support wildlife and fisheries projects.

To apply for a lifetime license, applicants must first complete an application form, available from any DNR office or the state's 2,400 license agents, and submit their application and their check or money order to the DNR with at least 2 documents to provide residency.

For more information on the Michigan lifetime license, write the DNR's Administrative Services Division, License Control, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing MI 48909, or call 517-373-1204.

2 Cass City grads instrumental in nabbing of robbery suspect

A pair of well-known former residents, graduates of Cass City High School, and the sons of Russell Richards, former Cass City principal, and Harriett Richards, Cass City barber, were instrumental in bringing a man accused of bank robbery into custody earlier this month.

The pair are Steve and Mike Richards and the action came in Florida, where all of the Richards now live.

It started when Glen Lannan, a man who works for Steve Richards in a landscaping concern, was in a truck near the Florida National Bank in Orlando, Fla. He noticed a man run across a parking lot and jump into a silver colored van. After he entered Lannan saw red smoke inside the vehicle. A dye pack used to thwart robberies had exploded. Lannan saw that the money was kicked out of the van and the van took off.

Not able to keep the car in sight and still call the authorities, Lannan used the 2-way radio in the car to call his boss, Steve Richards. Steve Richards then enlisted the aid of his brother, Mike. Mike took directions from Lannan and Steve, then relayed it to police authorities. A 15-mile chase ended when police and deputies stopped the van and arrested the driver.

Accused was a prominent member of the community, William John Strawn, 54, dean of student services at Hillsborough Community College. An associate reported that Strawn had done a great job for the school, is well-known in Plant City, where he lives, and was a significant contributor to the community and its social programs.

10th Bach Fest draws near capacity crowds

The 10th anniversary Bach Festival was another in a long string of successes for the unique concerts that have become a tradition in Cass City at Thanksgiving time.

If the 10th was not the best, it was one of the best, patrons said, when discussing this year's event. Attendance was near capacity for all 3 performances and greater than it has been in at least the last 2 years.

Highlight of the Festival this season, Lambert Althaver, who handled much of the publicity for the Festival, said, was the original composition by Ray Luke, "Symphonic Dialogues II."

Luke was commissioned by the Festival committee to commemorate the 10th anniversary and in memoriam for Catherine Dufford Paulu, a Festival regular performer since it started.

The new work was so well received that the orchestra played it again after the conclusion of the Festival in answer to requests by the audience. It received a standing ovation.

Perhaps as many as half of the audience were guests from Bay City, Saginaw and Detroit. A feature story in the Detroit Free Press generated much interest from out of town music lovers, Althaver explained.

CATHERINE McMICHAEL, second year Festival performer from Saginaw, is intent as she rehearses on the harpsichord for the presentation of Giuseppe Torelli's Sinfonia con tromba (symphony for trumpets).

State treasurer reports

10,310 education contracts received

State Treasurer Robert Bowman has reported that 10,310 contracts have been received for enrollment into the Michigan Education Trust (MET).

Bowman said treasury expects a rush of last minute contracts during the final days prior to the deadline.

Enrollment deadline is November 30.

He noted that more than 600 savings institution branch offices, which are offering MET financing and contract processing, are reporting heavy traffic of participants with a large number of contracts being processed.

During the Aug. 1-5 application period, 82,495 applied for the program that guarantees college tuition payments for Michigan students attending state four- and two-year institutions of higher education.

The program further provides payment of tuition allowances to private colleges in the state and refunds for those students to attend out-of-state public or private colleges or those who decide not to attend college.

To date, Bowman said, the 10,310 MET contracts total more than $70 million for investment to guarantee further tuition costs for the participants.

RAIN-DAMAGED CROPS

Governor James J. Blanchard has announced that farmers suffering losses from recent heavy rains will be covered under the federal emergency drought relief program if they planted late because of the drought.

The problem of too much rain too late has delayed harvesting for many farmers, causing untold amounts of crop loss.

Agriculture officials report the amount of drought damage won't be known until farmers finish harvesting and applying for federal relief, but they added, the damage is considerably less than feared this summer.

Blanchard said farmers need to contact their local Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office to find out whether or not they qualify for the disaster relief.

COMPUTER VIRUS LEGISLATION

Reacting to a computer "virus" that paralyzed systems throughout the U.S. earlier this month, Sen. Vern Ehlers (R-Grand Rapids) said he plans to introduce legislation that would create specific penalties for those who create and spread replicating programs that often-time have lethal results.

Although the bill is still being drafted, Ehlers has requested establishing felony penalties for anyone convicted of deliberately introducing a virus into a computer system, either directly or through a network.

"A computer virus has the potential to not only halt computer operations but destroy information stored within the computers," Ehlers said, who as a Ph.D. physicist has over 30 years experience using and programming computers.

"Because this is a new type of crime, it is essential we address it directly with a law that deals with the unique nature of computers."

A computer virus is basically an information disorder. A virus carries in its instruction code the ability to make perfect copies of itself.

In a host computer, the typical virus takes temporary control of the computer's disk operating system.

Then, whenever the infected computer comes in contact with an uninfected piece of software, a fresh copy of the virus passes into the program.

Thus, the infection can be spread by unsuspecting users who either swap disks or send programs to one another over networks, and can then wipe out the memory of each computer it invades.

"The country recently saw how quickly a virus can spread through network users," Ehlers said. "The Defense Department and its contractors were extremely fortunate that the virus was relatively harmless."

Anti-dropout program boasts much success

An anti-dropout program currently in its third year is enjoying a 98 percent success rate, leading one senator to believe Michigan's dropout rate can be cut in half by the end of the century.

Various educators from around the state, in a special hearing by the Senate K-12 Appropriations Subcommittee, praised the effectiveness of the Operation Graduation program.

The program, aimed at low-income students, offers summer employment and requires participating students to keep an 80 percent attendance record and passing grades.

Only 9 of the 590 participating students in the 9 pilot programs around Michigan have dropped out of school.

"That's a pretty good success rate," said Sen. Dan DeGrow (R-Port Huron), sub-committee chair. "I would have been happy with a 75 percent success rate." He added that the program's long-range goal is to cut dropout rates in half by the year 2000.

The program, which was budgeted at $700,000 its first 2 years, was expanded to 50 districts and $2.5 million this year.

Department of Education estimates show that 3,000 students can now participate in the program, but 8,000

Babcock announced a projected savings of over $10 million in 1987 from the Michigan Wage Reporting System.

The projection is based on preliminary sample data for the first full calendar year after the reporting system took effect.

The computerized wage match system between the Department of Social Services and the Michigan Employment Security Commission began operation in July, 1986.

Babcock said the department will continue to use the wage reporting system and plans to expand it to include additional sources of income.

Through the cross-check, savings to the state accrue in the form of direct payment avoidance, reduction of mispayments, recoupment of overpayments and court-ordered restitutions.

Workers can reapply for TRA benefits

The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESCC) will soon begin accepting claims for federal Trade Readjustment Allowances (TRA) from workers who were denied the benefits from 1975 to 1981 because they lacked sufficient employment, MESCC Director Richard Simmons Jr., recently announced.

Simmons explained that his agency is taking the claims in response to state Attorney General Frank Kelley's opinion that Michigan claimants can reapply for these TRA benefits. The opinion followed a U.S. District Court decision ordering the U.S. Secretary of Labor to reopen TRA claims nationwide that had previously been denied because claimants lacked the required 26 weeks of qualifying employment.

According to the Court ruling, employment could also include employer-authorized payments such as vacation pay, sick pay, short-term military leave, workers compensation or back pay.

Simmons estimated that several thousand Michigan workers are among some 73,000 workers nationwide who could be eligible for these retroactive TRA benefits. Weekly TRA benefit amounts at that time ranged from $176 to $289 with most claims lasting for 52 weeks, although in some cases TRA claims ran for 78 weeks if the worker was in a training program or over the age of 60.

"Workers who qualify will receive a lump sum payment," Simmons said. "We must, however, deduct the amount of any unemployment insurance benefits they may have received or been entitled to receive at that time."

Simmons anticipated, because of the age of the cases, it could take the agency up to 3 months to process some of the applications and mail checks to claimants.

To qualify for these TRA benefits, Simmons said, workers must have (1) filed for TRA benefits for weeks from April 3, 1975, through Sept. 30, 1981, and (2) been denied benefits because they were not given credit for weeks in which they received vacation pay, holiday pay, sick leave, workers compensation or other special payments for weeks during the 52-week period immediately preceding their job loss. The separation must have occurred in jobs adversely affected by imported goods.

"To apply for these benefits and to ensure an orderly claims taking process," Simmons said, "we encourage individuals to begin filing their claims after Nov. 13, 1988. Workers should visit their local MESCC offices on their regular appointment days which are based on the last digit of their Social Security numbers."

When they apply, Simmons advised they bring their Social Security card or other proof of the Social Security number and personal identification which carries their signature. In addition, claimants should bring verification of their employment prior to their TRA-qualifying job separation and any records that may substantiate their claims.

The federal Court said that states could implement its order to the extent that their state laws allowed. Based on an earlier Michigan Court of Appeals ruling, Attorney General Kelley advised MESCC that Michigan workers previously denied could reapply for TRA benefits.

The Court order resulted from a suit filed by the United Auto Workers. The union maintained and the Court agreed that the U.S. Department of Labor erroneously narrowed the interpretation of "employment" as it is used in the Trade Act of 1974.

TRA is federally-funded and payable under the Trade Act of 1974. The Trade Act offers unemployment and employment assistance to workers who lose their jobs or have their work schedules reduced as the result of imported goods.

Toys for tots

Area residents join campaign

Area residents and businesses can help insure that local needy children will have toys for Christmas through the Toys For Tots program.

The Tuscola County effort is sponsored by the Thumb Area Mudrunners Club and the U.S. Marine Corps, with the participation of other groups in the individual communities.

Coordinating the Cass City drive is Sue (Greenleaf) Werschky, a life-long local resident, with the help of Jeri Tordai, owner of "Special Scents" and president of the retail Chamber of Commerce, and the Cass City Jaycees.

Several area businesses have agreed to kick off the local event by donating toys which will be displayed at the collection site.

Cass City area residents, clubs and businesses are invited to participate by donating new, unwrapped toys which will be collected at Ryland & Guc's Plumbing and Heating shop on Main Street, which has donated space for the window display and collection site.

Toys may also be dropped off at "Special Scents" during shopping hours if the plumbing shop is closed. A $5 value gift or cash contributions are suggested.

All donations will be distributed to local families in mid-December, so area residents are asked to contribute early in the season. More information about the program is available by calling Werschky at 872-2910.

Cass City team to beat in Thumb B

Coach Ron Nurnberger, starting his 15th season at the helm of the Cass City Red Hawks, will be looking for another in a long string of Thumb B Association titles and district tournament crowns and has a team fully capable of adding another trophy to its packed showcase.

The Hawks are the defending Class C District champions and finished in the middle of the pack in the conference. What makes them one of the teams to beat this season is that Nurnberger has almost his entire team back, talent from the junior varsity and a couple of players that gave up basketball last season on his roster.

Jeff Sontag, second team TBA, and a shooter that could light up the score board in streaks will be missed and burly Greg Hanby's bulk in the middle was the key to victory in several games last season.

Nurnberger says that the lack of size is the major problem, but the Hawks could start a front line with 3 players at 6-3. Two of them are proven performers. Paul Tuckey, All-TBA, was the team's leading scorer and Mike Randall was the leading rebounder and second team TBA. While a solid player when in the line-up, Randall has missed a lot of the action due to illness. Keeping him healthy will be one of the keys to a championship season. The third tall player is unproven in varsity competition. He's Pat Murphy, who sat last season out.

There's experience in the backcourt, too. Jeff Kroll, 5-11 senior, showed flashes of brilliance last season, but needs to develop consistency. Jeff Dillon was a starter or first player off the bench. A senior, he often provided a spark when the team appeared to be dragging.

Nurnberger points to increased depth this year as one of Cass City's strong points. There are 2 quick guards coming up from the junior varsity, the kind that the coach likes to see. Players that can play a tight defense, handle the ball and keep the offense moving. The pair that fill that bill are 2 juniors, Josh Contas and Jason Robertson. Robertson moved up to the varsity at the tail end of last season and appeared to fit in during the limited minutes he played. However, Robertson is suffering from an injured knee and how it will affect his play when he recovers is another unknown factor sure to affect the team's strength.

Kevin Hartwick, senior, 6-1, is also back after not playing last season. Sure to see lots of action will be Brent Beecher. He played the second semester last year. He's strong and capable of helping on the boards and scoring. He's 6-1.

Three other players from the junior varsity will be fighting for playing time. All are juniors. They are Mike Francis, 5-10 forward; Tim Rutkowski, 5-11 forward, and LeRoy Beecher, 6-1 center.

TBA OUTLOOK

Last year everybody's team to beat was Vassar, with the Lakers expected to be the challenger. Vassar didn't disappoint, cruising to the title. But the Vulcans lost everything and will not be favored to repeat although anything is possible this season, Nurnberger believes, because there is the best balance in the league in the last 5 years.

The coach points to Imlay City, Lakers and Cass City as the clubs most likely to challenge for the title.

The Hawks should reign as heavy favorites in the opener Saturday against the Uby Bearcats. Coach Fred Lignon's charges were 2-8 in the Thumb C Conference last year and 9-13 overall.

The Bearcats will be building around Chris O'Mara, 6-3, and Jim Czewski, 5-9, senior lettermen.

Cass City will open the Thumb B Association season against Bad Axe and if form is followed, will win and get the season off to a flying start.

VETERANS ABOUND on the 1988-89 edition of the Cass City Red Hawks. Fans will see a typical Hawk team, strong on fundamentals and defense, but lacking the big player in the middle.

Open season at Millington

8 returning lettermen to anchor wrestling team

The Cass City Red Hawks have some big shoes to fill if the team is to repeat as district champions and be a factor in the Thumb B Association this season.

Coach Don Markel, starting his third year, lost 6 proven producers from last year's squad including Mike Mikolon, a top performer in the 155-pound class. Others lost were: Henry Smith, 112 pounds; Barry Brown, 138 pounds; Chuck Merchant, 167 pounds; Jeff Reed, 185 pounds, and Bill Kinney, 198 pounds.

Markel says the key to the season will be filling all 13 weight classes and the improvement of wrestlers with very little experience.

There are only 5 seniors on the team, but all are letter winners. Start with Bill Kappen, who made it to the state finals and was Thumb B Association champion last season in the 140-pound class. He is one of the 2 captains on the team. The other is Ted Peasley, 152 pounds, and counted on to win matches and provide leadership by the coach. Kappen has earned 3 letters and Peasley, one. A senior with a pair of varsity letters earned is John Kritzman, 140 pounds. Other senior lettermen are Larry Curtis, 122 pounds, and Roger Root, 180 pounds.

Among the underclassmen, only 3 wrestlers have earned letters. Bob Leffler, a junior, has already won 2 letters and will compete in the 125-pound class. Randy Johnson, junior, will wrestle at 145 pounds and Pete Kappen, at 135 pounds. Kappen is a sophomore.

From among the rest of the squad, qualified performers will have to be developed. There are 6 juniors, 9 sophomores and 4 freshmen on the squad.

2 State rated teams in Ashley and Waterford

Owen-Gage girls face tough regionals at Akron-Fairgrove

If Coach Dean Roller's Owen-Gage cagers are playing in the quarterfinal round of the Michigan High School class D play-offs at Linden High School on Dec. 7, there will be no reason why his girls' basketball team can't win the state title. That's because to reach the quarterfinal round the Bulldogs will have to knock out 2 of the state's premier teams in this week's regional competition at Akron-Fairgrove High School. In the Bulldogs' opening game at Akron-Fairgrove they will challenge Ashley, who recorded a perfect 10-0 record in claiming the Mid State conference crown. Ashley, who has had only one setback this season, has been rated as high as 4th in the state AP poll.

"Ashley is a lot like us," states Roller. "Their biggest player is 5'7", they press man to man all over, and they like to run and gun." The fact that Ashley isn't a tall squad will favor the Bulldogs, who will be the underdogs despite playing in a gym their players are familiar with.

If the Bulldogs pull off an upset against Ashley, and Roller feels that "Ashley can be had", they will most likely need a miracle in the championship game on Saturday where they will expect to meet the number one rated team in the state in Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes, the champs of the class D division of the Detroit Catholic league.

Waterford, who features all stater Patty Robak, will take on the North Central Thumb League's Peck Pirates in their opening game. The Bulldogs split with the Pirates during the regular season.

Several car-deer accidents keeping law enforcement officials busy

Deer continue to plague area motorists, who reported minor damage in several car-deer collisions over the past week.

Joanne M. Stevens, 1676 Crawford Rd., Deford, told Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies that she was eastbound on Bevens Road west of English Road in Wells Township Saturday when her vehicle struck a deer. The mishap occurred at 5:25 p.m.

Also Saturday, Richard D. Jeffrey of Mayville hit a deer while driving north on Cemetery Road south of Severance Road in Novesta Township at 12:45 a.m.

Des Plaines, Ill., resident Dean M. Messing reported hitting a deer while driving east on Cass City Road west of Crawford Road in Elkland Township Friday at 7:15 p.m..

Raymond E. Hendrick, 5311 Pringle Rd., Decker, was eastbound on Decker-ville Road east of Cemetery Road in Novesta Township Nov. 23 at 5:50 p.m. when his vehicle collided with a deer.

Later the same day, Cass City resident Deborah M. Klebba, 4391 Seeger St., was driving west on East

Cass City Road west of Grassmere Road in Elkland Township when a deer leaped into the path of her vehicle.

A deer ran into a vehicle driven by Jack D. Miller, 3299 E. Cass City Rd., Cass City, at 6:50 p.m. Nov. 21. Miller was southbound on Cedar Run Road south of Cass City Road in Elmwood Township when the accident occurred.

STATE POLICE

Cass City resident Frank A. Horning, 3383 S. Cemetery Rd., reported hitting a deer while driving north on Cemetery Road north of Elmwood Road in Elkland Township at 6:40 a.m. Saturday.

Also Saturday, Clifford E. Keefer of Lapeer hit a deer while northbound on Colwood Road south of Dutcher Road in Novesta Township at 2:15 p.m. Damage was moderate in that collision.

Dennis M. Maxwell, 2150 Bevens Rd., Caro, also reported moderate damage to his vehicle. Maxwell was driving west on Cass City Road east of Jacob Road in Ellington Township Thursday when he struck a deer. The mishap occurred at about 7:15 p.m.

Return 7 cage veterans O-G boys open with All Saints Friday

The Owen-Gage boys' basketball team will open their campaign with only one player, 6'1" Rich Weisenbach, over six feet tall. The 1988-89 season will be Weisenbach's first year of organized basketball.

Coach Dean Roller's squad will, however, return 7 veterans from last year's team that posted a dismal 2-19 record.

The most noteworthy returnee is 3-year starter Marc Reinhardt. Reinhardt, a 5'10", 165-lb. guard, averaged 9.2 points per game last year as a junior and also hauled in over 6 rebounds a contest. Reinhardt, whose speed and ball handling are his greatest assets, will be called on to up his scoring clip in his final year at Owen-Gage.

Another senior, Nick Pavlichek, a 6'0, 200-lb. forward, will be asked by Roller to help out his team's rebuilding deficiency. Pavlichek is a muscular figure who possesses good springs in his legs. Pavlichek cleared away 8 rebounds per game a year ago. The team's best shooters will be guards Jay Susalla, Brad Susalla and Mike Kady. This is the area where Roller feels his team needs to make progress if his cagers are to be competitive. "We'll have to rely on our outside shooting to improve over last year. We'll probably put up more 3-point shots," remarked Roller.

Of the trio, Brad Susalla possesses the "scorer's mentality" and is a skilled driver despite his 5'6" frame. Kady, on the other hand, is the team's long range threat and is expected to better his 3.3 scoring average he held as a freshman last winter. Also expected to see plenty of playing time, according to Roller, are juniors Andre' Damm, Bryan Abbe and Graham Besonen. Abbe showed improvement all last year on the Bulldogs' junior varsity team. Rounding out the squad and sure to see action are seniors Chad Zimmerman and Dennis Czap.

The Bulldogs' only graduation loss was a big one in Chris Abbe, but taking a bigger toll on the team than graduation was this year's football season that will sideline 6'4" Chad Stirrett, the team's best player as a sophomore.

Stirrett suffered a broken leg near the end of the grid season and will be out the entire regular season. Roller hopes possibly to have his star back in time for the state play-offs.

Roller sees both Decker-ville and Kingston as the teams to beat in the North Central Thumb league, while the remainder of the conference should be more balanced.

Health insurance rates soar

1989 county budget reviewed

GAGETOWN resident Herschel Adams' 11-point buck, shot Thanksgiving Day, leads in total points so far in the Deford Country Grocery's Buck Pole contest.

Tuscola County Commissioners reviewed a proposed 1989 General Fund budget totalling $5.32 million, and scheduled various budget hearings during a regular meeting last week.

The tentative spending plan appears to be down from the proposed 1988 General Fund budget of $5.69 million, but spending actually is expected to increase next year by nearly 5 percent.

The apparent deception lies in the fact that the 2 budgets can't be compared, primarily because in 1989, 2 operational areas—the sheriff's road patrol and dispatch, and equipment/capitol improvements—will be in funds that are separate from the General Fund.

According to county Controller Michael Hoagland, the sheriff's road patrol fund is expected to total some $880,000, $531,000 from a special millage, including interest, and a transfer of $349,184 from the county General Fund.

The 1989 equipment/capitol improvement fund, meanwhile, is set at $220,000, including about $115,000 from the General Fund.

Overall, Hoagland said, the proposed 1989 budget would total about $5.97 million if the sheriff's road patrol and equipment/capitol improvement funds had remained in the General Fund. That's a proposed spending increase of about $280,000, or 4.9 percent, over 1988.

Although the increase is attributable to several areas, one of the biggest hikes, Hoagland pointed out, is due to sky rocketing health insurance costs.

MAJOR INCREASES

"We've just seen some major increases," he continued, adding hospitalization and dental coverage in the courthouse and sheriff's department is expected to cost $324,000 in 1989, compared to $260,000 in 1988.

The 1989 budget, which includes expenditures related to labor contracts in district court, the courthouse and probate court, also includes an increase in circuit court for attorney costs related to child care ($10,000); $10,000 for the Thumb Area Narcotics task force; $4,000 more for temporary help in the area of marine safety; $10,000 more for Mental Health, and the purchase of 4 new police cars.

In addition, commissioners have approved the deletion of a part-time position and added a full-time position in the Friend of the Court Office, approved expanding a part-time position to full-time in the Cooperative Extension Service Office, added a part-time position in the Building Codes Office, added a position in the clerk's office, and expanded Veterans Counseling Office hours from 3 to 4 days.

Despite the overall spending increase, commissioners are going to have to hold the line in '89, according to Hoagland, who noted the board has placed only $74,000 in a contingency fund. "It's going to take some tight discipline," he remarked.

Public hearings on the county's 1989 General Fund and special revenue and debt service budgets will be held Dec. 13 beginning at 9:45 a.m.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business during the Nov. 22 session, the board, following a 34-minute executive session, approved 2 motions related to land transfers.

Commissioners approved a measure finalizing the $14,500 purchase of a parcel located adjacent to the county jail. The property currently is being used for storage.

Commissioners also authorized the board chairman to sign a 4-year land contract for the sale of county property on M-81 east of the animal control building. Total price of the property is $4,335.

The purchaser is the owner of Engineered Tools Corp., Cass City, who plans to use the property in conjunction with plans to move his company to Caro.

Also last week, commissioners:

—Approved a request from the Women's Interfaith Committee to place a nativity scene on the courthouse lawn.

—Authorized the chairman to hire a person, following the resignation of the Emergency Services director, to handle the paper work in that office.

—Discontinued the position of temporary clerk-typist in the Register of Deeds Office and approved and reinstated the position of full-time deputy register of deeds. The position is to be posted.

—Approved a motion stating that employees changing status by appointment or election to an elected position shall be paid sick, vacation and longevity pay based on the union contract or personnel policy in force for the position they are leaving at the time of appointment or election.

The motion was prompted by a request from newly elected Register of Deeds Virginia McLaren, who asked that commissioners consider the payout under the longevity terms of her contract as a union employee.

—Approved a request of $1,500 for postage in the Friend of the Court Office.

—Voted to amend the county's Personal Policies and Procedures Manual to include the position of undersheriff.

Buck luck

Gagetown resident Herschel Adams bagged an 11-point buck while hunting at 9:30 a.m. in the Gagetown swamp area Thanksgiving Day.

The trophy, which dressed out at 174 1/2 pounds, took over first place in the Deford Country Store buck pole contest.

A host of Regnerus family members bagged deer over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Your neighbor says

Good farming year is Christmas wish

With the arrival of Santa Claus in Cass City last Friday and the frigid temperatures early this week, one can't help but think Christmas.

Christmas means family and friends, caring and sharing, along with giving and receiving. We asked your neighbor, John Hacker of Cass City, this week in the spirit of Christmas. If you could have one Christmas wish for the United States, what would it be?

"I'd ask for normal a year for the farmer," replied John. "With the flood and drought over the past couple of years, the small farmers are really hurting, we're (the nation) losing too many family farms."

It's seems apropos that the 33-year-old lifelong resident of Cass City is a farmer himself.

For himself, the 1973 graduate of Cass City High School, and his wife Marnie already received their own Christmas present as the couple are anxiously expected their 3rd child in June of next year.

Also eager for Saint Nick's appearance are the Hackers' 2 daughters Katie is the oldest, she's 5, and Leslie is 3.

Report warns that more families face poverty

Growing numbers of Michigan's children are at serious economic, medical, emotional and educational risk and as a result may not be able to successfully compete in Michigan's economy as young adults, a statewide citizens organization warned in a recently released report.

A report by the Michigan League for Human Services compiled data from each of Michigan's 83 counties which shows that "increasing numbers of the state's families are experiencing severe economic distress, resulting in more children being raised in poverty and forced to rely on a human services system which often fails to meet their basic need for food, clothing, shelter, medical care and education.

League Executive Director Beverly McDonald said that the future productivity and prosperity of the state's children could be severely limited as a result of experiencing prolonged childhood stress.

"We view this report as a first step in a public education effort designed to encourage greater investment in the state's children by the public and private sectors, and specifically in prevention and basic support programs," McDonald said.

Indicators of economic hardship and family disintegration highlighted in the report include:

—Over 444,000 children, or one of every 6 in Michigan, lived in families receiving cash public assistance at 60 percent of the poverty line in 1987. Lake County had the highest rate at 30.4 percent.

—Of families with children headed by women, 122,000 of them lived below 125 percent of the poverty line. In all counties, at least one in 3 of such families were subsisting at this level. Of those with children under 6 years old, 2 of 3 were in this position.

Baraga County was first, as all of its 46 female-headed families were living 125 percent below the poverty line.

—Although 6 small rural counties reported no infant deaths, the state had an overall infant mortality rate of 11.14 deaths per 1,000 live births. In Lake County, the infant mortality rate was 26.3 percent.

—Over 16,000 children were victims of abuse and/or neglect and approximately one-quarter of those children were removed from their homes and placed in foster care or institutional care. Charlevoix County had the highest out-of-home placement of children at 13.2 percent.

—Of students in grades 9 through 12, 5.8 percent dropped out. But 12 percent of all black students and 10.9 percent of all Hispanic students left school. Also, the teenage birthrate was 12 percent in 1985. Luce County had the highest rate at 25.6 percent.

The report urged the state to "pursue an aggressive support and prevention strategy" in order to reduce these numbers.

Programs such as prenatal care, preventative health care through age 18, Head Start, and 4 years of college were all cited in the report as good preventive programs.

WELFARE CASES

The number of welfare cases in Michigan has decreased in the past 3 months to the lowest overall level in the 1980's, the Department of Social Services reported.

In the third calendar quarter of 1988 (July, August and September), almost 8,000 public assistance cases found employment and left the welfare system, the department said.

Figures released by the department showed a monthly average of 951,000 families received some form of welfare in Michigan during fiscal year 1988, down from 978,000 last year.

"During fiscal year 1988, the state's average welfare caseload was the lowest it has been in this decade. Almost 26,000 public assistance cases obtained employment and left welfare in the last year," Social Services Director Patrick Babcock said.

He said he was especially encouraged by drops in the General Assistance and ADC-U caseloads by an average of 6,900 cases per month from the previous year. He said historically, those caseloads have been most susceptible to changes in economic conditions.

The Aid to Dependent children (ADC) caseload decreased by 3,645 cases (1.7 percent) during the July-September quarter and now stands at 210,098, the lowest level since December 1979. ADC-U, for unemployed parents and their families, decreased 1,962 cases (7.5 percent) and is now at 24,354.

The General Assistance (GA) caseload dropped by 4,214 cases (4.1 percent) to 97,425 cases during the quarter. The food stamp caseload is now 4,106 households (1.1 percent) lower at 356,665.

Hawk's eyes deadly weapon

Bird's-eye view: A sparrow hawk's eyes are perhaps its most deadly weapon. National Wildlife magazine reports that oil droplets coat the bird's eyes, filtering out haze and glare. Each retina is packed with more than a million light collecting cells; 8 times as many as a human eye. With its optic ability, a sparrow hawk can eyeball a mouse from the top of the Empire State Building.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Before you start feeling too much Holiday Joy and Ecstasy and Euphoria and all those nice tickly feelings... If you're 65, or will be next year, 1989, your income tax rate will go up 15% over the one that has hit you in 1988. Whether you want it or not, you will have some government health insurance to cover catastrophes. The price tag is fairly high - 15% added to your IRS bill. Dear old Congress, never more devious, slipped through the extra health coverage in an election year so they could brag about it in their campaign for reelection.

The cost? Plenty. But it has been delayed and concealed. That's the way Congress does things. And President Reagan went along with it and signed the bill. First, the delay. While the tax is figured on your 1989 income, it isn't due until the 1989 return is due - April 15, 1990. It doesn't have to be in your estimate for 1989 tax - the first year. You won't hear any hollering until early 1990 when your tax man tells you how much your tax has gone up.

Second, a sneaky way of publishing the rate. No percentage rates were given. Some dollar figures. Lend me your eyes:

For every $150 in income tax you owe at the end of '89, you will also owe $22.50 to cover the new catastrophic health coverage. That's the sly way the boys in Washington have of saying your tax will go up 15%.

But that's just a start. Next year, 1990, it goes up to $37.50 for each $150 in tax. That translates to a jump of 25%.

Then it sneaks up to 26% in 1991, 27% in 1992 and finally (?) 28% in 1993.

Put it in a table:

Year	% jump in IRS Tax	Max. $ jump each spouse
1989	15%	$800
1990	25%	850
1991	26%	900
1992	27%	950
1993	28%	1,050

For example, your 1989 taxable income results in a tax of $3,000. Add the new health insurance bite of 15% surcharge on your $3,000 tax and your new tax will be $3,000 x 1.15 = $3,450.

The next year the clip will be 25% surcharge. $3,000 x 1.25 = $3,750.

Not only is the coverage catastrophic. So is the premium.

All the above applies to people on Medicare, and Medicare starts at 65. Besides the surcharge shown above, you'll pay an extra $4 a month starting in 1989. This will creep up to $10.20 a month by 1993.

My friend George McNamara, who does tax returns when he's not trying to skin me at golf, says people are going to have a fit when they find out about this new tax.

"It won't hit them until April 15, 1990," he says. "It applies to 1989 income, but the liability doesn't need to be cranked into your estimated tax. The extra $4 a month will be subtracted from your Social Security, but that about offsets the increase due to inflation that is added on. So it's a time bomb."

The AARP (American Ass'n of Retired Persons) says the benefits under the new bill will be cheaper than if you bought the same insurance privately. Maybe so, but it would be nice to have a choice.

Beginning in 1990 there will be a $1,370 cap on Medicare-covered doctors' bills. So you won't be hit more than $1,370.

The next year, 1991, Medicare will pay 50% of prescription drugs after you have paid $600.

First persons to benefit will be those who are hospitalized in 1989 over 60 days. After a first-day deductible of $564, Medicare will pick up the rest up to 364 days a year. Coverage of acute care in skilled nursing homes goes up from 100 to 150 days a year.

The whole thing is no free lunch. The government is just making it look like one for 18 months, before your 1989 tax bill hits you, April 15, 1990.

Hearing delay sought

Racial discrimination charged

who is representing Pioneer Work and Learn Center, the Detroit area agency which is running the camp program for youth offenders, said Monday he is seeking postponement of the meeting.

McCargo acknowledged that scheduling the meeting is in accordance with the court order, but he pointed out that the court also directed both parties to participate in discovery, or the exchanging of information related to the charges. Township officials, he said, are not following that portion of the order.

McCargo last week filed a motion in circuit court requesting that township zoning officials comply with proper discovery procedures. He also requested that the meeting be held during regular business hours.

No action had been taken on the motions as of Monday.

McCargo said the township Zoning Board first tried to schedule the meeting without providing camp attorneys with a statement of the charges.

Now, he said, requests for information, including reports prepared by any prospective witnesses, statement from witnesses and information on the zoning board's treatment of Teen Ranch facilities, are being ignored.

"We're trying to get the information we're entitled to before we go into a hearing. Instead of providing this information, we get a notice of what I call a hurry up hearing," McCargo remarked, adding that he has filed a counter petition against township zoning officials.

"We allege that the scheduling of this hearing and the treatment of Pioneer is (racially) discriminatory," he continued.

In a letter sent to township officials last month, McCargo requested that the meeting be held during business hours, rather than at night, because of the "tremendously hostile and racially discriminatory atmosphere" in the township, which, he said, makes many of the camp's potential witnesses fearful of their safety and well being.

But Zoning Board member Russell Mayer said charges of discrimination are a far cry from camp officials' praises of the community months ago.

He remarked that the appeals board meeting was scheduled during the evening because board members work during the days and shouldn't be expected to take time off of work for their service.

Mayer said the accusations are without grounds because zoning officials are charging the owners of the camp, not Pioneer Work and Learn Center, with violating township zoning laws.

He said the use of Kingston Hills Camp as a "work and learn" camp constitutes an illegal nonconforming use. He explained that the facility was grandfathered into township zoning as a boy-girl summer camp only.

The work and learn camp, on the other hand, is a year-round rehabilitation program for juveniles, and that is a very different use, he said.

borhood Watch program in Arbelia Township.

The Vassar resident initiated and currently administers the Vassar Area Ambulance Service, which now has contracts with 7 municipalities and serves about 26,000 persons.

Fyvie, who has been with the ambulance service since 1979, noted that he will step down from his role as executive director, effective Dec. 31, because of a possible conflict of interest. He also plans to terminate his position with the Millington Police Department.

Fyvie received basic police officer training through the Department of State Police and is certified as an Emergency Medical Technician, CPR instructor/trainer, advanced first aid instructor and hunter safety instructor.

He holds an associate degree in law enforcement from Delta College and is currently enrolled in a public administration curriculum at Saginaw Valley State College.

Fyvie and his wife, Bonnie, have 2 daughters.

Ethel Collier leaves legacy of hope to area students, U of M hospital

will get the opportunity to continue their educations.

ENOUGH FUNDS

"If a scholarship (amount) of $3,000 was given, there would be enough funds for 22 scholarships in each county" per year, Hicks said.

Although full 4-year scholarships could be awarded by the foundation, Collier indicated in her 1983 will that she would prefer to assist promising young men and women in securing their higher education rather than meet recipients' entire educational expenses.

Hicks, who is a member of the scholarship fund's Board of Trustees, said that it has been proposed that Collier's handwritten testimony be printed on each of the scholarship checks. The testimony, written April 21, 1985, states, "Jesus, I know I'm a sinner and I believe you died for my sins and I want you to come into my life and save me."

Collier's respect for an education was probably equalled only by her devotion to caring for others.

And although it hasn't been determined yet how the money she left to the University of Michigan hospital will be used, Hicks said officials hope to use the money for a specific purpose instead of placing it in a general fund.

He pointed out that the $2.6 million was left to the hospital in honor of the late Dr. Frederick A. Collier, a towering figure in medicine and something of a legend at the University of Michigan who was once head of surgery at the medical center, where a new 117-room wing has been named after him.

Dr. Collier was a first cousin and source of great pride to Ethel, who prior to her death had already given $300,000 of a $1 million pledge she made to the hospital.

GENEROSITY

While Collier gave freely of her money, her generosity didn't stop there.

"She had intended to travel" after retiring, Hicks said, "but with a family that large, there was always someone sick. So she moved back to Detroit to her sister Hazel's to help take care of family members."

Collier and her sister "did a beautiful job" until Hazel's death in April 1979, Hicks continued.

Three months later, Collier went to a Detroit area hospital for a routine cataract operation in one eye. Tragically, she was over-medicated and slipped into a coma that lasted 75 days.

"They gave her up to die," Hicks recalled, adding Collier was later transported to the Sanilac County nursing home.

"She didn't respond well, so mother (Gladys Hicks) brought her home," he said, adding her recovery was painfully slow albeit sure. "It would take a couple of hours to feed her. Finally, she got a little strength back and I helped her get a little strength in her legs so she could walk with a walker." Collier moved into Hillside Apartments in Cass City in April 1982, but tragedy again struck when her robe caught fire and she was hospitalized with burns the following New Years Eve.

At the time, Hicks said his mother also was in poor health and was in and out of hospital. In June 1983, Gladys moved in with Ethel. "The 2 together got along well," Hicks remarked, adding he ran errands, took care of bills and handled other tasks for his mother and aunt. "I was the all-around 'man Friday,'" he said, smiling.

About 3 months before her death in June, Collier had an accident, breaking her hip. "She went downhill fast" after that, Hicks recalled. The injury forced Collier to move to Provincial House.

Although she had made out her will in 1983, Collier apparently had planned to make some changes. In a letter written by her in 1986, she stated that she had destroyed the 1983 will and planned to write another one.

Collier's attorneys, however, indicated she never wrote another will.

That letter was the basis used by 5 heirs of Collier's estate to contest the 1983 will, but Judge Kent refused to consider the letter because it wasn't dated. The heirs, who appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals, dropped their complaint in conjunction with the out-of-court settlement.

Council reviews proposed 1989 spending plan

Spending decreases, meanwhile, are expected in the areas of computer equipment and contracted services.

Turning to the village's other funds, the council noted a proposed spending increase of about $23,000 in the 1989 Local Street Fund, which totals $176,000. The hike is due mainly to 3 street projects planned for next year.

The projects are Vulcan Street, from Third Street to Garfield Avenue; Fourth Street, from West Street to Vulcan Street, and Brooker Street, from Main Street to Third Street.

Additional spending also is planned in the 1989 Motor Vehicle and Equipment Fund, which is set at $84,400, up by $24,750 over 1988 expenditures. The increase is due primarily to an additional $20,000 budgeted for capital investments, including a riding mower, a large truck with a dump box, and loader payments.

The Debt Service Fund is expected to be down slightly. Council trustees noted good investments and interest rates have allowed village officials to keep the debt service levy, used to pay on a 40-year Wastewater Treatment Plant bond, at 2.5 mills.

The 1989 Wastewater Treatment Fund is set at $261,500, compared to $246,200 in 1988. Most of that increase is due to the planned purchase of a new pickup truck for use by plant employees.

Few significant changes are anticipated in the village's other funds.

The 1989 Major Street Fund is set at $67,100, compared to $64,100; Trunkline Maintenance is set at $15,225, compared to $33,200; the Parking System Fund, which continues to rely heavily on General Fund dollars, is set at $7,350, compared to $7,280 this year, and the Water System Fund is expected to total $87,500, compared to $90,400 in 1988.

A public hearing on the village's 1989 budget is scheduled for 7 p.m. Dec. 19.

2 hurt in Saturday crash

A Cass City man remains hospitalized following a Saturday morning roll-over accident on M-25, about 6 miles southwest of Port Austin. Mickel O. Strickland, 34, was listed in "fair" condition

Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Medical Center in Saginaw. A passenger in his vehicle, Mary Williams, 36, also of Cass City, was admitted for observation and later discharged.

St. Columbkille mothers air plans

The St. Columbkille Christian Mothers' annual Christmas dinner and a Christmas children's party are slated for next week.

The dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 6 at the Franklin Inn, Bad Axe, and the children's party will be held Dec. 10. Both dates were set during last month's regular meeting.

Also scheduled is the Christmas Eve Mass, which will be held at 6 p.m. with the children of the parish participating in the Liturgy.

In other business during the monthly session, it was announced that the Quilting Committee is planning to hold a bee in the spring. Also, the "Holiday Fair" craft show was reported as being successful, and a motion to donate the proceeds to the Pulpit Fund was approved.

A Mass and induction of new members of the Confraternity is being planned for the March meeting.

According to a Huron County Sheriff's Department spokesman, Strickland was westbound on M-25 at about 1:10 a.m. when a deer leaped into the path of his vehicle. Strickland lost control of the vehicle, which rolled over twice and came to rest against a tree.

Strickland and Williams, neither of whom were wearing seat belts, were taken to Huron Memorial Hospital and then transferred to St. Mary's.
