Harbor Beach couple killed in Grant Township crash

A Harbor Beach couple, who were returning to their homes after attending the funeral of a friend who died of injuries suffered in a traffic accident, were killed in a head-on crash last Wednesday in Huron County's Grant Township.

The victims were identified as Daniel R. Schultz, 22, and his fiance, Jill L. Nowiski, 21.

Troopers from the state police post in Bad Axe said the couple were eastbound on Sebewaing Road, about 4 1/2 miles east of Owendale, at 5:55 p.m. when their vehicle crossed the center line and collided with a westbound pick up truck.

The driver of the truck. Dean F. Nast, 30, of Unionville, was treated for minor injuries at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, and then Troopers said they don't know why the Schultz vehicle crossed the center line. The roadway was dry, according to reports, which state there were no skid marks and no witnesses.

Troopers said Elkton Ambulance personnel and the Elkton-Oliver Township Fire Department responded to the scene. Also assisting were Elkland Township Jaws of Life to free the victims from the wreckage.

Last week's crash was Huron County's first double fatality of 1989, boosting the Schultz and Nowiski renew year's death toll to 4.

A majority of farmers in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties who received past due notices from Farmers Home Administration in November have responded to those notices.

That's good news, according to local FmHA officials, who say it's likely those farmers will be able to stay in business Delinquent notices were mailed nationwide by FmHA officials in mid-November. The recipients, who were at least 180 days late with their payments, had 45 days to fill out and return paperwork providing information for restructuring their loans under a new program designed to keep farmers on the farm.

Tuscola County Supervisor Henry Knier said late notices were sent to 18 of 75 FmHA borrowers in Tuscola County.

Eleven farmers responded by the deadline, he said, adding that of the remaining 7, all but one have filed for bankruptcy.

"Some of them are loans when the farmer was already. out of business, so in essence, nothing will happen," Knier said of those who missed the deadline. "Some of them are farming, and the next step will be to demand full payment or start liquidation.

Knier said.

The supervisor pointed out that FmHA's new program offers farmers with delinquent loans more than loan restructuring.

"It offers the new option of considering the write-down of debt-reducing the debt down to what a farmer could afford to pay and stay in business," he explained.

With the paper work just in, Knier said he's uncertain at this point how many loans will be restructured and how many will be reduced.

"We don't know. Certainly some of them will be some sort of write-down situation," he said.

SANILAC COUNTY

In Sanilac County, Supervisor Steve Craig said it will take some time to determine what will be done with each individual case, although he believes there will be a number of situations in which the write-down option will be utilized.

Of 45 farmers who responded in Sanilac, only 4 cases have been reviewed so far, he said, adding he spent 30 hours on one of them.

"As the program goes on, I can see some cases being very difficult," he remarked. Delinquency notices were mailed to 75 of 164 farmers who have FmHA loans in Sanilac County, Of the 164, 18 have already filed for

About half of the 30 farmers who failed to respond to the November delinquency notices are still farming, Craig said.

bankruptcy.

He remarked that some of them will catch up on their payments. Others may take advantage of an option such as purchasing their farm and equipment from FmHA for the "net recovery value", which is what FmHA would receive via liquidation. Overall, Craig indicated he believes the new delinquent loan program will keep more area farmers on the farm. "We don't want to keep a farmer in business for a couple years, we want to keep him in business until his loans are paid off," he said. "It's not a temporary solution, it's a permanent

HURON COUNTY

Huron County Supervisor Raymond McIlwain said 20 of 87 Huron farmers who have direct loans from the government received past due notices.

Of the 20, 13 responded, another 5 didn't respond and the remaining 2 are in bankruptcy, he said.

"We don't have too much to report yet because we're just getting starting, but it looks pretty good at this point," McIlwain commented.

He added officials should have a much clearer idea in March of the program's effects and what loan options are used.

Knier said he believes the program fills a need and will continue for the time being.

"Today we're seeing that some of these farmers got into trouble because of things out of their control," he said. "Down the road I would hope the farm economy will hold itself to-

At a time when area residents should be shivering in winter's chilling grip, many are enjoying one of the mildest Januaries in years.

The strange weather pattern shouldn't be too much of a shock, however. With the exception of slightly warmer temperatures and a little more snow, January 1989 is a replay of the same month a year ago.

According to figures recorded at the Cass City Wastewater Treatment

JANUARY 31!

Your neighbor says

3-D was a flop

It wasn't new, but it was a first. During the half-time show of the XXIII Super Bowl, the Coca Cola Company spent millions of dollars to distribute special glasses and air what was billed the first 3-D commercial ever.

There is no doubt that advertising works. We all know that "satisfy the customer, satisfy the customer, satisfy the customer" are the 9 most important words for Lee Iacocca's car company. As do we know what brand of toilet paper not to squeeze, or what beer we drink when we "head for the mountains."

It is also certain that advertising is a hit and miss proposition, and some ideas are received better than others. For your neighbor, Chip Creason, the 3-D commercial was

"I didn't even know about it until the game and then I didn't think it was that spectacular," said the 21-year-old.

Creason, however, thought that the Super Bowl game itself was one of the best in recent years. But that could be because day his team won. And did Chip's capital increase from Sunday's

FmHA offers guaranteed loan program

Farmers Home Administration officials recently announced that a $200 million loan guarantee program is being offered for rural businesses that suffered financial losses from the drought and other disasters. Calvin C. Lutz, state director for Michigan, said the program was authorized by Congress in the Disaster Assistance Act. New regulations carrying out the program were put into effect on Jan. 3, although there will be a 60day period for public comment.

Under the program, FmHA can guarantee up to 90 percent of a loan "to help allevi-

The program will be similar in most respects to the existing FmHA business and industrial guaranteed loans. The loan will be made by regular commercial lenders at negotiated interest rates. with FmHA guarantees providing protection against loss should the loans fail.

Lutz said the main difference is that the drought and disaster program will guarantee only principal, while the business and industrial program guarantees principal and interest. The maximum loan amount is $500,000.

1989 Farmers' Week Program

set for late March at MSU

Farm business management, choosing a career outside of agriculture and many other interesting subjects will be part of the 1989 Farmers' Week Program.

Helping people make those improvements is the aim of Agriculture and Natural Resources (ANR) Week, March 18-25 at Michigan State University. ANR Week, or a form of it -- Farmers' Institutes in the 1920s, then Farmers' Week until the 1970s -- has existed since shortly after the founding of MSU.

The week is intended to provide information that is not otherwise readily available. We hope that ANR Week participants can use this information to help individuals become more knowledgeable with new programs in agriculture, family life and community environments.

Among the week's agricultural sessions are programs on intensive use of forages, more effective handling of pesticides to reduce environmental contamination risk and, being farm business risk. Other agricultural offerings include a special program about sustainable agriculture and a day long discussion about direct marketing for farmers.

A wide variety of programs focus on improving the outdoor environment. These include discussions on such topics as the expanded use of wildflowers and herbs in Michigan, water quality managesolid waste, and improving communities under the recently approved state environmental bond propos-

Sessions will cover such topics as making plans for future parks and recreation, a review and forecast of Michigan tourism in 1989, the management of bedand-breakfast businesses in Michigan, and improving the national park system and the hiking trail network in Michigan.

Special interest programs include classes on outdoor photography, wild turkey hunting, raising rabbits and poultry, hunting mushrooms, trapping wild animals, and improving habitats for fish and pheas-

The Tuscola County Chila Abuse and Neglect Council (CA/N) awarded $25 savings bonds to 3 area youngsters Monday.

The bonds were part of a pilot program in connection with Children Trust Fund Week, which runs through this Friday.

The idea behind the experimental program, which was initiated by Cass City teacher and CA/N member Beth Howard and CA/N official Vicky Merchant, was to have students in 3rd, 4th, and 5th grades focus on something positive they do with their parents. The students expressed themselves with either a poster drawing or written poem.

Hawk spikers bow in finals at Hatchet Invitational

Cass City finished second in the Hatchet Invitational tournament Saturday at Bad Axe behind the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Lakers, and lost a match in straight sets to the Imlay City Spartans.

Coach Beth Howard said that in the first game against Imlay City the team had trouble keeping the serve, never getting more than one point at a time. Bad serves or bad sets led to the trouble, the coach said. In 10 sets Cass City got the ball over the net just 4 times and there was only one kill.

Cass City's 7 points in the 15-7 loss were earned by service aces by Darlene Monroe and Vicki Robin-

The second game was lost 16-14 as the Hawks fell behind early and couldn't catch up. Cass City was 30 of 38 from the service line with aces by Monroe and Beth Powell. Team errors led to the loss. Sets improved in this game resulting in 10 kills in 21 tries, 5 each for Monroe and Sue Papp. Powell and Jandi Hillaker's passes set up the attack and Tina Ballard was credited with 10 assists.

The third game was no contest as the Spartans rolled to a 15-5 win. In 20 attacks the team netted just 8 kills. Monroe was a force in all the games with strong play from the front and back lines and 6 kills. Papp also contributed a kill and Wendy Weaver had a kill. Howard said that she feels Imlay City wasn't as strong as Bad Axe, but the girls were not mentally in the game. Top servers in the match for Cass City were Papp, 11 for 13, and Ballard, 9 for 9. Monroe had 13 kills in 25 attempts and Papp, 5 kills in 12 tries.

HATCHET INVITATIONAL

Cass City opened the Hatchet Invitational with a win over Ubly, 15-10 and 15-8, and then followed with a 15-12 and 15-5 decision over North Huron. That qualified them for single elimination play against Caseville.

The Hawks defeated Caseville, 15-3 and 15-1.

Hawks resume title chase at Bad Axe

Vassar's quickness too much for Hawks in Thumb B clash vaulted into first place in the Thumb B Association Friday by defeating visiting Cass City 71-53 in a game that was not decided until the final minute and a half, despite the 18-point difference in the final score.

The game concluded the first half of the season and 4 teams still have a shot at at least a share of the title. Cass City will resume the title chase at Bad Axe Friday and should get back on the winning track.

If anything was learned in the first half of the season, it should be that in tough games, defense makes the difference. It was defense that won for the Vulcans. Led by James Farnum, the quick Vassar defense pressed Cass City's ball handlers, blocked the passing lanes and were aggressive on the defensive boards.

Coupled with some great shooting in the first quarter and some fast break buckets, that defense vaulted the Vulcans into a 10-2 lead in the first 3 1/2 minutes of the game. From there things got steadily worse as Cass City's passive defense was made to order for the Vassar offense. Time after time the Vulcans were able to get the ball in down low to the post man for easy shots. Cass City couldn't buy a basket and with 4 1/2 minutes left in the half, Vassar was ahead

That's when Coach Ron Nurnberger switched his defense, added Jason Robertson and Josh Constas to the line-up and started pressing Vassar's Farnum, the ball handling director of the offense. That's when Cass City started to close the gap. At the half the 20-point deficit had been reduced to 12. At the end of 3 quarters it was down to 5, 44-39, as the shots that Cass City had been swishing everything they tossed up.

Midway through the final period, Cass City was within a point, 49-48, and had the ball. But the pressing Vassar defense forced a turnover by Constas and the Vulcans turned it into an easy fast break bucket. It was the beginning of the end for Cass City. The Vulcans then ran off 8 unanswered points and went into a ball control offense. Cass City was forced to foul and missing started to drop and, the Vulcans were no longer Farnum and Jason Morley were deadly from the charity stripe to account for the wide margin between the teams in what was a close game. Cass City was led by Randall, 12 points, and Tuckey, 19. Big guns for the Vulcans

Hawks struggle in 60-52 win over winless Raiders

If you were watching the aster if they had been play- the third period when Cass City High School basketball team Tuesday against Marlette, you would never guess that it was one of the teams in the Thumb B that was fighting for the Thumb B Association title playing a winless opponent. It probably was a combination of circumstances that led to the shabby performance by Cass City and a narrow 60-52 win. Coach Ron Nurnberger said that the team was playing to the level of the competition and Marlette played a good ballcontrol game.

With a key game against Vassar following the Red Raider contest, Cass City was not in the game men-

It showed in the defense as Marlette was able to penetrate for close-in buckets that could have spelled dising against a team with more Tuckey whipped in 3 quick talent.

The 2 teams played on just about even terms for the first quarter and a half as Rvan Rivard and Chris Gallagher paced the Raiders and Paul Tuckey and Jeff Krol were the offensive guns for the Hawks. Krol converted 3 buckets in the first half and all were for 3 points. Tuckey scored 6 points in each of the first 2

Krol's 3 pointers in the second period enabled the Hawks to forge into the lead to stay, although Marlette stayed close enough so the outcome was not certain until the last 3 minutes of the game when the bench was called into action.

It looked as if Cass City were going to put away the Raiders for good midway in baskets and the Hawks

spurted to a 12-point lead. But with that lead the Hawks returned to the lethargic defense and sloppy offense that the team exhibited most of the game. The Raiders were definitely in the game with 3:29 left in the third quarter, when they trailed by just 2 points, 36-

That's when Tuckey took charge with his 3 baskets and a nice assist. At the end of the quarter Cass City was in front, 49-37.

Cass City had 3 players in double figures led by Tuckey with 20. Krol had 14 and Mike Randall, 12. Randall and Tuckey shared rebounding honors with 7 each. Gallagher led all scorers with 23 points.

Specialists set for dairy meet

"Managing the Milking Herd for More Profit - Part II" will be held at the Colony House, Cass City, Feb. 8.

This is the second year of the series. This year, the program will feature a host of specialists.

Their presentations will focus on how Michigan dairy farmers can compete successfully in the industry, management practices that will increase income, and how to evaluate and measure herd production changes.

The specialists will also talk about making the herd more resistant to disease, obtaining maximum results from the feeding program and deciding whether to remodel or build new dairy facilities when change is needed.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the program starts at 10 a.m. It will end by 3:30 p.m.

A fee will be charged to cover class materials, a new dairy management handbook and the noon meal. Registration prior to the meeting is essential.

Registration information is available by calling Roger Swartzendruber at 269-9949.

Zimba is pedal pullin' champ

Jesse Zimba is pleased with the way his son, Ben, has learned to handle a trac-

In fact, even though Ben doesn't use his driving skills much around the farm, Zimba and his wife, Sally, are downright proud of their

The parental pride stems from Ben's success as a tractor pull competitor, and judging from the number of trophies he's amassed over the past 2 summers, there's no telling what he'll accomplish when he starts riding tractors with engines.

At 7, Ben has become a seasoned competitor in the pedal pull event featured at carnivals and fairs throughout the state.

"We saw it (event) at the Caro fair when he was 3 or 4." Jesse recalled, adding that's when Ben started tak-

"As he got better, we went to more fairs."

Jesse, who owns and operates Zimba farms in a partnership with his brothers, Ed and Matt, noted the event features beefed up kid-sized tractors that pull a special weighted sled.

"The farther you pull, the harder it is," he explained, adding the youngster with the greatest distance is the

Although the average sled weight is about 100 pounds with a total distance of up to 45 feet, Ben pulled up to 200 pounds in one final round competition.

"It's just the determination that makes him win," Jesse remarked, adding, "Whenever he gets beat, he only misses by inches. I probably have any problem seeing that he has time to move. Cass City Attorney Michelle Biddinger, who represented Hightower in the case, indicated her client weighed the cost of fighting a lawsuit versus settling.

"When you're looking at a 2-day trial, you're looking at a lot of money," she said.
"He (Hightower) just decided that rather than continue on, he can live with that. They were willing to give him enough time" to make other arrangements.

"I think it was a good settlement for everybody," Biddinger added.

get more excited than he does."

Ben may be the top pedal puller in the family, having won nearly 20 trophies over the past 2 summers—most for first-place finishes---but he isn't the only competitor. His sister, Chelsee, 4, placed first and second in a pair of pulls last summer.

"She didn't do too bad for pulling against 5-year-old boys," Jesse pointed out. He added, "What has helped both of them, I think, is they swim in the summer. I don't think there's anything better.' Asked what he enjoys most about pedal pull competitions, Ben replied, "The tro-

But his parents indicated the activity has become something the entire family looks forward to and enjoys together.

Last summer the family watched Ben take part in pulls at fairs in Midland, Cheboygan, Cadillac, Brown City, Caro, Sebewaing, Imlay City, Fairgrove and Marlette.

"We've gone to a lot of carnivals," Jesse observed. Sally nodded in agreement, "It makes you go.'

NEARLY 20 TROPHIES represent 2 summers of pedal pulling for Deford youth Ben Zimba, who's looking forward to another competition filled summer.

preliminary exams, which have been set for Friday. According to Trooper Dale Brywig, Scott, who also owns dealerships in Cass City and Imlay City, and DeBrabander were arrested early this month following a 3-month investigation, which was prompted by a citizens complaint.

Brywig said the complainant had been notified by creditors of being behind in car payments, but the person no longer owned the vehicle, which had been traded in at the Marlette dealership.

The 8 complaints filed as of Friday translate into allegedly unpaid liens totaling more than $45,000, according to Brywig, who said all of the complaints to date involve alleged activity only at the Marlette dealership.

State police, assisted by the Michigan Attorney General's office, Department of Commerce and Department of Automobile Regulation, are continuing the investigation, which is expected to net additional charges.

A cataract is simply a "clouding over" of the lens of the eye. As this clouding develops, images of light entering the eye become distorted and/or unclear. Fishing boosts economy contributed an estimated $98.6 million to Michigan's economy in 1988, according to Department of Natural Resources figures.

The estimates are based on fishing activities from April through September and were devised from a creel survey of 65,000 anglers.

The Lake Erie fishery generated $28.7 million; Lake Huron $28.1 million and Lake Michigan $41.8 million, according to the sur-

Contributing to the angler dollars were all-time record catches of 2 million walleye on Lake Erie - - up 120 percent from last year's record catch, 105,000 chinook salmon on Lake Huron - - up 26 percent from 1987, and a record take of 100,000 walleye on Saginaw Bay, where 43 percent of the total Lake Huron angler effort oc-

Lake Michigan yielded an increase in rainbow trout and yellow perch catches, up 38 percent and 48 percent, respectively, from 1987, according to the DNR study.

Anglers spent 4.3 million hour fishing Lake Erie on an estimated 787,000 fishing trips, 74 percent more than last year's angler excursions. On Lake Huron, anglers fished 3.3 million hours on approximately 769,000 boating trips, while anglers spent more than 4.9 million hours fishing Lake Michigan on 1.1 million outings.

The $98.6 million economic benefit was determined by multiplying the number of fishing trips by $36.50, which a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service survey indicated was the average amount anglers spend on each fishing trip for equipment, gas, food and lodging. Rounded catch figures for the April through September surveys for each lake follow: .- Lake Erie: 2 million walleye, 320,000 yellow perch, channel catfish and 35,000 freshwater drum.

- Lake Huron: 1.5 million yellow perch, 138,000 walleye, 105,000 chinook, 62,000 lake trout, 49,000 channel catfish, 7,100 coho, Great Lakes sport fishing 239,000 white bass, 193,000 3,400 brown trout and 2,700 rainbow trout.

- Lake Michigan: 213,000 chinook, 126,000 lake trout, 58,000 rainbow trout, 53,000 coho, 23,000 brown trout and 3.2 million yellow

HEALTH TIPS

Why we lose hearing

C. Everett Koop, M.D.

The younger a person is, the better his or her hearing is likely to be. But by the time they reach 30, almost all adults in this country have begun to notice some "fading" in their ability to hear. By the age of 65, at least one out of 6 persons will have suffered severe hearing loss.

There are a number of reasons for hearing loss, among them congenital and genetic abnormalities, disease processes, such as the common middle ear disease otitis media, and a condition that specialists call presbycusis. This two-dollar word describes, quite simply, the changes and impairments that can occur in the inner ear and brain as a person gets older. "Getting a little hard of hearing," is the way people most often put it.

Not all of the causes of hearing loss can be avoided, obviously. Over the past dozen or so years, however, the number of Americans with hearing problems has increased by more than 30 percent, to an alarming total, today, of about 20 million persons. What makes this figure alarming, but also instructive, is that much of this hearing loss could have been prevented because it was brought on by exposure to noise.

Brief exposures to moderately loud sound can cause a temporary hearing loss. Within minutes, or perhaps an hour or 2, normal hearing will return. Repeated exposure to loud noise, or even to one especially loud explosion of noise at close range, such as a large firecracker or a gunshot blast, can spell real trouble. To understand why this is so, it helps to know a little bit about how sound travels from its source through the ear to the brain.

Your brain translates electrical energy into music, the sound of the human voice, a barking dog, the closing of a door, whatever. On its way to your brain, sound enters the outer ear and strikes the eardrum, causing vibrations in the inner ear that pass over 30.000 hair-like cells. These cells convert the vibrations into the electrical signals the brain needs to give meaning to sound.

In the earlier days of industrialization, nobody doubted that, over the passage of time, the din of heavy machinery rendered the hearing of factory workers less than perfect. Nor did they understand why. Today we know that those thousands of hair-like cells can be destroyed by noise. They can be destroyed suddenly by a single explosion of sound: they can be killed gradually by too much noise for too long a period of time. The damage that noise can do to these cells is permanent the cells do not recover or regenerate—and the loss of hearing that results is just as irreversible. Hearing specialists see a direct connection between the dramatic increases in hearing loss that we have experienced in recent years and the everyday sounds of the highly technological society in which we live and work. From the whine of power mowers and dishwashers to the roar of traffic, the blare of sirens and the hair-cell wilting (and I mean that literally) music that our young and not-so-young play through their stereo earphones, the sounds of modern life are loud, they are all around us and they are sustained. They comprise, in a word, the 3 elements of exposure-loudness, closeness and duration—that bring about and define permanent hearing loss.

It is important, quite obviously, that we learn to conserve our hearing power. Reducing our exposure to potentially damaging noise is a vital step in that direction. Be noise conscious. That may sound like a simplistic suggestion, but when you stop to consider all the sources of excessive noise in named to and around your home, at the place where you work and elsewhere, you may be surprised by the number of opportunities you can list to protect your own and your family's hearing.

In addition to becoming noise conscious, or as a logical extension of it, buy and use ear protectors. Whether earplugs or muffs, they're readily available, they're inexpensive and they can reduce by up to 30 decibels the noise from the most blatant hearing destroyers you listed—from lawn mowers, chain saws, vacuum cleaners, power woodworking equipment, firearms and so

Finally, if you or anyone in your family appear to be having a hearing problem, make an appointment with a hearing specialist for a complete examination and evaluation. Too many Americans are losing their hearing too soon. Become noise conscious. Protect your own hearing and help us solve this unfortunate, but largely preventable, health problem.

THORNYHOLD by Mary Stewart (fiction). Geillis Ramsey did not have a happy childhood, but her cousin's will provides a surprising inheritance - a wonderful old house in the English countryside - that will supply comfort for Geillis's adult years. Since the cousin had a reputation for independence and eccentricity as well as generosity, Geillis has a few surprises in store for herself as she settles into her new home and begins to learn about her cousin's mysterious past. But Geillis soon reaches an alarming conclusion; the people and the animals around her appear to be under a magic spell. Was this the creation of Geillis's cousin, who seems to have been an expert in the magical arts and who might have been a witch? And might Geillis have inherited some of these powers herself and be targeted as a recruit for a witch coven?

 $THE \, PARADISE \, EATER \, by \, John \, Saul \, (fiction). \, John \, Field \,$ lives on the edge of a world filled with crime and sex, his sensibilities deadened by booze and too many sordid nights. The brutal murders of a former lover and her husband bring Field back from his moral wasteland, but his attempt to investigate has its own dire ramifications, as powerful political/business forces try to quell his curiosity.

SPY HOOK by Len Deighton (fiction). In the gray, unheroic British espionage tradition, secret agent Bernard Samson, still recling from the defection of his beloved wife to East Berlin, stumbles on Operation Hook. Hook appears to be a secret international slush fund involving millions of dollars. Samson ignores the warnings to stop poking around and is on the run from his own side. This is the first novel of a projected trilogy.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

The Wall Street Journal tells that people are objecting to airplane fares and are taking trains instead.

My cousin Patty Cripps in Flint, Mich., was one of those. Instead of flying to Florida in January as she has for years, she and her daughter chose to come by train. It wasn't easy.

Time was, if you wanted to go to Florida this way- - pre World War II, that is -- you'd take the C & O to Detroit, catch the 11 p.m. train and stay on it until you saw palm trees 36 hours later. You were then in Miami.

Since then a few detours have been added.

You can take the Grand Trunk (I will NOT call it Amtrack; it was and always will be the Grand Trunk) but you don't head South. Nothing as logical as that. You go West, Patty dear, West to Chicago.

Once in Chicago, then you reverse and go East. That's right, East. East to Philadelphia. By now 24 hours has elapsed. In days of yore you would have been in Atlanta. But ugh! you're in Philadelphia- and there's no train until the next morning.

"But that's all right," said Patty. "I've never been in Philadelphia, and that will be neat.'

Only people who have never been in Philadelphia talk like that.

Now it is D + 2, and the travelers are still shivering and shaking and dreaming of Florida. But they are of stout heart.

Another day and a half and they will see the sun. The round-trip will cost them $700, compared to the $300 round-trip air fare.

You have to add a little to the train fare to pay for that bottle of Pepto Bismol you'll need after the cellophane-packed sandwiches at the train lunch wagon.

After all those smart-aleck observations on trains, guess who is going through the Canadian Rockies by train this spring? Jennifer Birdsong and I, that's who. And the fellow who tipped us off about the trip is none other than Canada's Flying War Ace, Burke Seitz of Toronto. Not many people know about it, naturally, because the railroads don't believe in advertising their

While the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific have been doing the transcontinental trip for a century or so, until recently it hasn't been possible to arrange an all-day ride through the Rockies. Best you could do was catch a late evening train out of Banff or Jasper, see the Rockies for an hour or 2 before dark, and then wake up in the morning in Vancouver.

You sleep through gorgeous mountain scenery that rivals the best of Switzerland. It took a bit of train scheduling but the railroads managed to work it out.

But now the trip has been split into 2 segments. You can see the whole Wild West in broad daylight.

We'll take the train at Calgary in the morning, go through Banff, where the Rockies begin, and start climbing to the Continental Divide. They used to have a little stream there with its flow diverted so that half flowed to the Pacific and the other half back to Lake Superior and the Atlantic. Or maybe to Hudson's Bay. It doesn't matter much. Streams don't care where they go; it's a merry life. Then the train goes through a figure-8 tunnel in the side of the mountain, loops around and comes out underneath the tracks where it first disappeared. That's how it gets down to the Kicking Horse Canyon, where you see nothing but white water for hours as you follow the twisty path through the Rockies. Mt. Robson, some 14,000 feet, is to the north. It's covered with gla-

The country is as wild as it ever was, except for the railroad and a highway. No towns, no billboards, not even a MacDonald's. By late afternoon the train gets to Kamloops, and you stay overnight there.

Morning, you reboard and continue on to Vancouver, through the Coastal mountains, daylight all the way. We'll stay only 2 days in Vancouver because we've been there a couple of times together. Then we'll take the train back, again stopping at Kamloops overnight.

This time, instead of returning to Banff and Calgary, we'll branch off to the north and go to Jasper National Park, in northern Alberta. This is my favorite of all places in the Rockies. Jennifer hasn't seen it be-

We'll rent a car there after a few days' stay and drive down the valley to Lake Louise and Banff and Calgary, and then fly to Michigan, ready for another summer at Beulah on Crystal Lake.

Lake Louise is sort of compulsory, because everyone has to say they've been Lake Louise and Banff dredge up some memories of long ago. And I do mean long ago. Calvin Coolidge was president then, and I was wearing short pants. Mother was still trying to house-break me.

My Dad had gone on ahead on assignment for the Detroit News, when he decided he needed some company and telegraphed back for me to join him in Banff. Uncle Bill Forsyth took me to Chicago, put me on the Soo Line, gave the porter 2 dollars and told him to put me off at Banff. There on the platform was Pappy.

We went on and did about the same trip that Jennifer and I will do this June. As Yogi Berra said, it's deja vu all over again.

2 men face charges

A 19-year-old Caro resident was arraigned last week in Tuscola County District Court on charges of breaking and entering an unoccupied building with intent to commit larceny, and larceny in a building.

Bond for James H. Wright was set at $10,000. A preliminary examination was slated for 9 a.m. today (Wednesday).

Court records state Wright is charged with breaking into a liquor store at 109 Montague St., Caro, and stealing liquor Dec. 6.

Lawrence H. Ulin, 56, 3300 Phillips Rd., Kingston, was arraigned Monday on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense; operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended, second offense, and no valid plates. A preliminary examination was slated for Feb. 1.

Nerkowski was charged with threatening or coercing or offering payment to Larry Wilding, Cass City, Feb. 29, in attempt to prevent Wilding from testifying in a case against his brother, Anthony E. Nerkowski.

Anthony Nerkowski is one of 4 men who have been charged and convicted in connection with the Feb. 28, 1988, armed robbery of Wilding and his wife, Karen, in their Cass City apartment.

Schnell's offense involved a $30 check drawn on the Michigan Federal Credit Union April 21 in Tuscola Township, records state.

STANDS MUTE

A 37-year-old Deford man stood mute to 2 charges of committing gross indecency between males, and one charge of assaulting another person with intent to commit Criminal Sexual Conduct, second degree.

Pleas of not guilty were entered on behalf of Kenneth D. Krueger, 1331 S. Englehart Rd., whose bond was continued at $8,000 per count.

Krueger is accused of committing gross indecency between males July 21, 1986, in Wisner Township, and Aug. 18, 1988, in Kingston Township. The assault incident allegedly occurred July 5, 1986, in Kingston Richard L. Kaczor, 18, 1137 E. Huron Line Rd., Ubly, entered a plea of guilty to breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny.

Telephone bills going up 30 cents

The monthly telephone bill efforts by the FCC to reduce of all residential telephone users and businesses with single line service is expected to increase 30 cents beginning April 1 as the result of action taken by the Federal Communications Commission.

The increase will raise the line charges to $3.50 per month from the current $3.20 per month. The new charge comes as a result of the amount of long distance operating money needed to support the local telephone networks.

"Traditionally, customers paid only part of the cost of local service through basic monthly telephone rates," said Max Preston, vicepresident-general manager for GTE North's Michigan Operations. "The rest has been subsidized by customers making long distance calls."

"The subsidy that has been paid by the long distance companies is being phased out over a number of years. That was one of the stated goals of deregulation, that users pay for the cost of a given service.'

The added charge will not result in increased revenue for the Michigan operations of GTE North. The increase will be offset by the decrease in fees the company will be charging long distance companies such as AT&T, U.S. Sprint and MCI.

The increase in the Subscriber Line Charge should result in further reductions in long distance rates since telephone companies have been ordered to pass the revenue increase on to long distance companies in the form of reduced fees charged for access to the local network," Preston said. "This additional 30 cent charge is another step in the process of placing the cost of telephone service where the cost is actually incurred." Rates for multi-line business customers and Centrex customers with lines in use or ordered by July 27,1983, are also affected. In Michigan, multi-line business customers will pay an additional 4 cents per line, per month, while Centrex customers will see an increase of 4 cents per line, per month.

In Michigan, GTE serves 178 exchanges and operates about 512,000 access lines statewide.
