Waste disposal costs to double?

A circuit court ruling last week closing Sanilac County's solid waste site to dumping from outside counties could mean a sharp increase in hauling costs for area residents.

A spokesman for Gateway Sanitation Services, Almont, which handles waste removal for several Thumb communities, including Cass City, indicated the court action could nearly double current pick-up

According to Sanilac County Administrator/Negotiator John Dean, last Wednesday's ruling was based on Sanilac County's long-range waste plan.

"The judge. . .ruled that the solid waste management plan does not provide for the transfer of waste from counties other than Sanilac County," he remarked Mon-

Dean said the ruling is not yet in effect, but noted attornevs representing the county filed a petition Friday to close the landfill to outside dumping.

The owners of the landfill have 7 days to challenge the injunction, he continued. If they don't, or if their challenge is unsuccessful, the order will go into effect Feb.

Ray Hayes, controller for Gateway, said Monday his company hadn't received official word yet of the closing, but added he's actively watching the situation.

Haves said the closing would mean having to haul refuse from the Thumb south to other landfills.

"The rates tend to be higher the further south you go," he remarked, adding that landfills in Genesee, Macomb and Oakland counties are among Gateway's alternative sites for dumping. The per-yard rates at those sites are about $5.50, $6.60 and $7, respectively, he said, compared to $3.50 in Sanilac County.

on these other landfills, too," he commented. "It's going to fill them quicker." That's the problem faced by the Sexton Landfill in Lapeer County, where officials have reduced the number of loads haulers are allowed to dump at the site. A concern over running out of room is what prompted Sanilac County officials to file suit in September, according to Dean, who said the county's landfill is already near capacity. He explained that prior to the filing of the lawsuit, the landfill was accepting 4,500 to 5,000 yards of refuse a day. That figure was voluntarily reduced by haulers, he said, to 1,000 yards a day after the suit was filed and the Department of Natural Resources denied a request for a 46-acre expansion.

Even at that rate, Dean said, the landfill "would

With the site accepting "It's going to have an effect refuse only from Sanilac County, which Dean estimated at about 300 yards per day, "that would. . .put us well into 1990, although that's really not a lot of Dean, who noted the landfill owners last month filed a request with the DNR for a 15-acre expansion, said Sanilac officials are interested in working out a longer range solution with other Thumb county officials. 'We need to be looking at possibly a regional landfill,' he added.

Officials from Sanilac as well as Tuscola, Huron, Lapeer and St. Clair counties were scheduled to meet Tuesday to discuss the issue.

"This is something that's been a concern of Sanilac County's for a long time," Dean said. "It's not a simple matter anymore. You can't just dig a hole and start

Sheriff's dept. license bureau to close Feb. 28

Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern discussed plans to close the sheriff's license bureau and aired a proposed cooperative dispatch program during a brief news conference Thursday morning in Caro. The license bureau will be shut down Feb. 28, Kern announced, adding Secretary of State offices in Vassar and Caro (on Millwood Street behind the state police post) continue to offer full service license bureaus.

The sheriff's department will continue to provide gun registration, paper service and other related services. "I got a little over $3,000 last year to operate the license bureau," Kern remarked, adding 3,000 persons were served. "I can guarantee you that the $3,000 I got from the state of Michigan didn't" make up for the cost of the operation.

"The actual savings (by closing the bureau) is hard to predict," the sheriff said. He noted that the bureau has been open 6 days a week, and keeping the office staffed has meant not only pulling an employee out of another department occasionally, but also paying over-time, sick time and vacation time. Aside from that, Kern said, the full-time employee in charge of the license bureau is needed in other areas of the department. "As far as hiring new people, that's not going to happen for a long time," he added.

With the closing of the sheriff's license bureau in Tuscola County, only 3 Michigan sheriff's departments, including Huron County, continue to run such operations.

CO-OP DISPATCH

Turning to the proposed cooperative dispatch concept, Kern said he recently discussed the idea with state Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) and Lt. William Atkins, who works in the administrative section of the Michigan State Police in Lansing.

Under the proposal, Kern explained, the sheriff's dispatch center would expand to include dispatch for the state police. In return, the state would fund the operation in an amount equal to about 15 percent of the sheriff's annual dispatch

School board okays 5% raises

The Cass City School Board approved raises of 5 percent for non-union and administrative personnel at its regular meeting Monday night at the high school.

Part of the raises for the administrative persons were offset by a reduction in the ' nefits and the cost of insurance. Supt. Ken Micklash said that the reductions amounted to about 5 percent ommending the increases. of the monthly premiums or about $17 for each of the 9 administrators.

The reduction was possible because the policy now requires a 2nd opinion on all elective surgery and reduced mental health care and chiropractor care.

Derfiny to lead annual Bike-A-Thon

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital officials recently announced that Linda Derfiny has agreed to coordinate the hospital's annual Bike-A-Thon in Cass City, slated for May 6.

Suzanne Chappel will be the co-chairman, according to Derfiny, who noted 33 riders raised some $2,300 locally last year.

St. Jude officials said this year's Bike-A-Thon is dedicated to Brian McCollister, a Louisiana native who was diagnosed with leukemia in October 1984. McCollister, officials say, is a living example of the research, patient care and education programs offered by the internationally recognized hospital.

Founded by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital opened in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases that afflict children.

Scientists and physicians work side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of leukemia, Hodgkins disease, sickle-cell anemia and other child killers. All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world.

A VISION OF LIGHT by Judith Merkle Riley (Fiction) Margaret of Ashbury, wife of a loving, wealthy merchant in fourteenth century England, hears a voice in her head telling her to write her life's story. She hires arenegade monk, who reluctantly accepts the job out of need. Margaret's life unfolds as she dictates to the haughty Brother Gregory, who comes to admire her for her intelligence, courage, common sense and beauty. Daughter of a freeborn landowner, Margaret was married off at age 14 to a brutish widower whose first wife hanged herself and who abandoned the pregnant Margaret when she came down with the plague. Surviving under the care of the midwife Hilde, Margaret becomes a midwife herself after experiencing a mystic vision that gives her the gift of healing. Joining a group of traveling players, Margaret and Hilde make their way to London, where they set up as midwives and Margaret invents the forceps. Later she is accused of witchcraft; though acquitted, she is told to marry and conduct herself in a more seemly manner.

THE WAY WE WERE: 1963, THE YEAR KENNEDY WAS SHOT edited by Robert MacNeil (Nonfiction). This book describes in well chosen words and pictures the character and feelings of America in the pivotal year of an era that saw the first contemporary stirrings of black and feminist liberation, of space exploration and our Vietnam involvement, which ended dramatically and definitively with the assassination of President Kennedy on Nov. 22. To those who experienced that day, the recollection, made vivid here, is searing, and the changes that came about in American society since then startling. News anchor Robert MacNeil has put together period photographs, illustrations and quotes from participants to recreate a bygone America of advertisements extolling cigarettes, of submissive women and sexually circumspect movies, of a tame and "proper" tone in pop music and fashionable attire - all with a strong, now vanished sense of hopeful participation in the nation's and the world's affairs.

any way to treat a Michiganian of the Year? Good Lord, what if it happened to Schembechler during football season?

Twenty-eight weeks is 7 months. Drunken drivers who killed people have served less time in jail. The same with muggers, rapists and other violent criminals. Steal a car and run over a child, and you might get a lighter sentence than Platte

What was her crime? She trespassed. She stepped across a white line painted on a public street at the entrance to Wurtsmith. She pamphleteered! She distributed material protesting nuclear weapons that can kill millions of people in a

I wrote about Platte, 53, again last April. That was when she got 30 days for committing a similar crime at the Williams International Corp. missile engine plant in Oakland County. The woman never seems to learn. Even though she is a past Michiganian of the Year, she should realize she is a threat to society who must be kept off the streets to protect the rest of us from her constant kneeling and praying against violence.

Helen Casey of Midland was present at Platte's most recent arrest, at Wurtsmith on Dec. 28. In honor of the Christian Feast of the Holy Innocents, near an airfield filled with B52 bombers equipped to deliver nuclear weapons, about 40 people protested all sorts of violence upon children, from the too familiar "drug related" stray bullet killings to parental abuse to war. Casey described it:

"On the base fence we hung posters containing pictures of children and the famous Eisenhower statement linking the arms race with the resulting economic ills and attendant social abuses...Later, a group walked onto the base and before they were all apprehended about 2 hours later, they had left posters at numerous spots such as the chapel, the post office, an elementary school, a baseball diamond...It was a beautiful, creative, nonviolent action announcing a plea for life across Wurtsmith AFB,

"Doesn't it threaten your sense of security that these folks could gambol about the base so freely for over an hour before the first one was picked up and it was yet another hour before the last criminal was caught?"

Casey asked.

She can be as sarcastic as some columnists.

Most of those arrested were simply forbidden ever to return to Wurtsmith. But, because of her criminal record, Platte's case is pending with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Bay City.

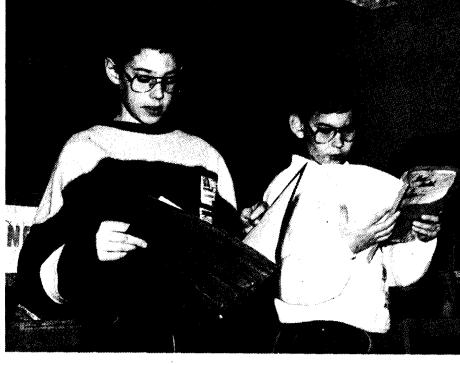

Vigorous peace game players such as Platte don't protest their jail terms. They realize they're repeat offenders, sometimes violating probation, and they accept their sentences in the spirit of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. — as a worthwhile means of drawing attention to their message of nonvi-

Most of us who agree with Platte, especially I, don't have guts enough to go to jail for our beliefs. The best I can do is occasionally plug peace games, for anyone interested in playing. For instance, the well-known Dr. William Sloane Coffin. president of National SANE/FREEZE and former chaplain of Yale University, spoke Saturday, Feb. 18, at Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills.

SANE/FREEZE is the largest peace organization in the United States, and Coffin is touring the country to "stoke the fires of a grassroots movement for peace and social justice.'

It isn't likely that anyone will be arrested for being too nonviolent during the Coffin peace game. We can't all be Michiganians of the Year, but we can all be peaceful.

ing peak dispatch hours. "Eventually we want to tie this in with a 911 system," he

Under the 911 system, persons seeking emergency police, fire or ambulance assistance are able to contact a central dispatch by dialing the numbers 9-1-1. The biggest benefit of the system is it can save precious time, particularly when the caller is panicked.

"ENHANCED"

Kern said he's interested in establishing an "enhanced" 911 system, meaning dispatch personnel would be able to identify the caller via a display of his/her phone number.

"The state's really pushing for it and it's a good concept. It really can save some lives," Kern remarked.

Undersheriff James Fyvic said the proposal is still a few years away from becoming reality.

All phone systems in the county must first have push button capability, he said. Endorsement of the County Board of Commissioners also is needed.

Fyvic said a county task force of 30 to 40 persons, including representatives of fire, ambulance and police departments, township government and civic groups, will be appointed to draft financing proposals and other details.

Once the system goes in, Kern said local municipal agencies such as police and fire departments will be asked to contribute money to help fund dispatch.

Also Thursday, Kern asked representatives of the local media to consider printing a weekly sheriff's department article requesting residents' help in solving local criminal activity.

The articles would include a phone number to call and information such as possible suspect and vehicle descriptions involved in crimes. Other possible news items

(Farewell to an emperor)

Yokota hopeful as new era begins

Mihoko Yokota will bid farewell to an emperor this week from the Dan and Shirley Haag home in Cass City, where she's spending the remaining weeks of her year as an exchange student from Kawasaki, Japan.

The funeral for Japan's 124th emperor, who died of cancer last month at the age of 87, is set for Friday.

The monarch's death has especially been felt by Japanese who lived during much of his turbulent 62-year reign, which saw the buildup and eventual destruction of Japan as an aggressive military power, followed by the country's 40-year world economic power. For the 19-year-old

Yokota, Emperor Hirohito's reign, and death, seem as distant as her homeland. At the same time, however, the youth says she is looking forward to an era of closer ties between Japan's current and future emperors and the common people.

"In Japan it's a big event because an era is changed,' Yokota said of Hirohito's death. "During World War II many people thought the emperor (was) a god," she remarked, noting that for them, Hirohito was larger than life.

The gap between the people and the palace may begin to close with the new emperor, former crown prince Akihito, 55, who was installed after Hirohito's death.

"He seems to be closer to the common people," Yokota remarked, adding the new emperor and his wife, Michiko, appear as if they will be more accessible to the public. "Even if we can't talk to him, we can see him. That will make us feel closer," she said.

"They have a daughter my age-she wants to go out like common people," Yokota remarked. She added that she would like to mean? Only that you can see objects clearly at a distance of 20 feet. Visual acuity at other distances and numerous other vision skills are necessary in our daily lives,in the workplace and for recreation. For instance...

YOUR EYES Dr. Ronald R. Watson

WHEN 20/20 VISION IS NOT ENOUGH What does 20/20 vision

 Do you see clearly when you read? • Do you use a video display terminal at work without getting tired or headachey?

· Can you shift focus from near to far quickly? · Do you have problems following a moving object? This could affect your favorite sport.

· Are your eyes working together as a team, or do you find you are using one eye more than the other?

· While looking straight ahead, can you see oncoming side objects? Can you judge distance accurately?

If you answered no to any of these questions, then your 20/20 vision is misleading. A thorough eye examination is called for to determine the real level of your visual skills.

Turning to the resolution on municipal bonds, commissioners agreed to support a Michigan Association of Counties effort to prevent the elimination of the bonds' tax exempt status.

The board approved a "It has everyone concerned motion to honor its $10,000 locally," county Controller Michael Hoagland said of commitment to a Thumb the issue, which is under narcotics unit, which is in consideration by the federal government. According to Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern,

"It could really be stifling. It would cost us more to borrow, and (that) ultimately reflects on the taxpayer," he continued.

Since Congress excluded the interest on municipal bonds from federal taxation, free from federal income taxes. As a result, they have been willing to accept lower interest payments than they would have from taxable investments. At the same time, the exemption has enabled states and local governments to borrow at lower interest rates than would otherwise be pos-

Motorists set travel record

Motorists drove about 78.7 billion miles on Michigan's network of highways, roads and streets, the Department of Transportation announced. The total is an increase of nearly 4 percent from the previous record of 75.7 billion set in 1987.

Transportation Director James P. Pitz attributed the increase to a good economy and steady growth in tourism and recreation. "There were increases in all areas of the state," he said. "Low gas prices encouraged people to travel and so did the hot summer. But we also have noted travel increases in other seasons of the year."

The department calculates travel miles by keeping tabs on traffic at some 100 permanent traffic counters statewide and at more than 3.000 sites where counts are made periodically. Crossings at the Mackinac Bridge, considered a good travel barometer by the department, climbed 6.5 percent in 1988 to a record 3.23 mil-intermission. The Hawks turned the game into a rout in the first 2 minutes of the third quarter. Krol hit 2 sets shots, Dillon hit a 3-pointer and Mike Randall added a shot from the corner. It was 40-24 with 6 minutes left in the quarter.

When it rains it pours. That's what Head Coach Dean Roller could be saying after his team dropped 2 cage contests last week.

The Raiders became frustrated and it accounted for the most bizarre series of shots ever recorded in the Thumb B Association. Quick, now, how many points is it possible to score without losing the ball? The answer is nobody knows.

Against Marlette, the Hawks scored 9 points before the Raiders touched the ball again. Here's how it happened. Randall hit a driving shot and a foul was called. That's 2 points. He made the penalty shot. That's 3 points. A technical was called on the coach for 2 shots. That's 5 points. A technical was called on a player. That's 7 points (Randall made all of the free throws), and then Cass City got the ball out of bounds and scored a basket. When the dust settled, the score was 56-26.

Cass City led by 33 points going into the final period.

The benches from both teams took over.

Coach Ron Nurnberger said that he felt the defense was better than it had been in recent games. Our defense wasn't challenged much Friday. Hawks fans will learn if the defense has moved up a notch from recent games Friday when Vassar will provide the test. It should be a key game to determine if the Hawks are ready for the tournament tests ahead.

Randall, with 18 points, Paul Tuckey with 17 and Dillon with 11 led the Hawks, while Dave Watson scored 14 for Marlette. Cass City FG FT PTS

Cooper another fine teacher

Dear Editor,

The articles focusing on teachers the past weeks have been great. I happen to think Cathy Cooper belongs in that category also. She has made a very big difference in my two daughters' lives. It takes a special teacher to realize that each child is an individual that grows, learns and matures at a different pace. Mrs. Cooper brings out the best in each child. She is a very calm, mildmannered teacher that doesn't believe in a lot of yelling. My daughters look forward to going to school. Last year, I had to fight with one daughter to go. Last Friday, my daughters came home from school crying and very upset that Mrs. Cooper was leaving. I was also upset. It's hard to make kids understand that adults must make changes that are for the better.

LETTER TO EDITOR

I have had the opportunity this year of helping with Book-it. There has been so much more enthusiasm and participation this year. I credit Mrs. Cooper with this. She found a way to make it interesting for all.

I'm sorry to see her leave, but wish her the very best. Words will never express how thankful I am that my daughters had a chance to be in her classroom and to realize that "Yes, there are some caring teachers.'

Thank you, Mrs. Cooper.

HEALTH TIPS

Researchers continue to probe cause of Alzheimer's disease

WHAT CAUSES ALZHEIMER'S DIS-

The precise cause or causes of this incurable disease in which brain cells degenerate, incapacitating the victim and leading to eventual death --- remain a medical mystery.

Alzheimer's disease is not senility, the decline in mental functioning that may accompany aging. Nor is it the cause of all brain function degeneration among elderly people. In fact, only about 6% of those aged 65 or over suffer from Alzheimer's. Senility is merely a symptom of the disease, although the most readily apparent one.

Researchers are studying many possible causes of Alzheimer's. One clue is the deficiency of a protein called Nerve Growth Factor, a substance necessary for the brain to operate normally. Studies also show that in the brains of Alzheimer's patients there is a shortage of acetylcholine, a chemical needed to relay messages between brain cells. Without it, the brain cannot function properly.

Alzheimer's has several less obvious characteristics that offer clues to medical researchers about the possible causes of this disease. Under a microscope, the twisted clusters of Alzheimer-afflicted brain cells, called plaques and tangles, are easily seen.

Scientists are studying the brains of Alzheimer disease victims after their deaths to discover the physical nature of the characteristic tangles. These clusters, they think, are composed of empty nerve-cell shells that normally would have been broken down and removed. In an Alzheimer-diseased brain, the removal mechanism is impaired and the empty shells accumulate, clogging brain pathways, In addition, deposits of a starchlike protein substance - called amyloid - have been isolated in brain cells of people with Alzheimer's disease. No one seems to know what causes them, but the greater their numbers, the more severe the patient's loss of brain cells.

Medicine knows neither the cause of Alzheimer's nor how to reverse it. But it is committed to finding the answers, with many promising avenues to explore.

WHAT HAPPENS DUR-ING A STROKE?

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to the brain is disrupted by either the blockage of a cerebral artery (ischemia) or a hemorrhage in the brain. Stroke is the nation's third leading cause of mortality, resulting in over 150,000 deaths annu-

A cardiovascular accident (CVA) or stroke of the ischemic type usually is the result of a long process whereby arteriosclerotic plaques build up, blocking the flow of life-giving oxygen carried by the cerebral arteries. The brain cells die, often leaving the stroke victim partially paralyzed. The paralysis can lessen over time, however, as intact brain cells may take over iosi iuncuons. A maior stroke may follow a warning, such as a transient ischemic attack - a smaller scale version of a stroke whose temporary symptoms mirror the more serious event. For example, fainting spells, sensory difficulties or problems with balance, sudden headaches and disruptive personality changes are all signs of an impending stroke. Dementia may also occur due to multiple areas of arteriosclerotic blockage resulting in small strokes (multi-infarct dementia).

The most common type of stroke is caused by a blockage of an artery in the brain when an embolism, a blood clot from an artery elsewhere in the body, breaks loose and lodges in a cerebral artery. In a hemorrhagic stroke, the most deadly variety, an artery in the brain ruptures. Such a stroke may result when an aneurism (a bubble formed on an artery wall weakened by high blood pressure) bursts. Screening for stroke risk factors and early intervention have reduced significantly the incidence of stroke in the past decade.

Ubly teachers who make a difference

Editor's note: This is the final installment of a 4-part series on effective local Tyll strives to "make it all mesh"

Over the past 4 weeks, the series has focused on individual teachers—2 from the Owen-Gage, Cass City, Kingston and Ubly School districts—who are seen by their respective administrators as being representative of the area's most effective instructors.

The purpose of the stories hàs been 2-fold. First, to get a glimpse of what these teachers do to reach their students; how they approach education and define their roles as teachers. Secondly, to recognize individuals who have devoted themselves to preparing young people for life outside of local public school sys-

A small army of sixth graders flooded into a class room at Ubly Elementary School Thursday at noon for a 30minute English period.

Chatter and laughter quickly subsided as Chris Tyll walked to the front of the class, flipped open a book and began to fire questions on a previous day's assignment.

A flurry of hands shook and reached for the ceiling with nearly every question. No one talked out of turn, and most of the students, hands up or not, were called on by the end of the period.

With the ease and precision of a seasoned symphony conductor, Tyll executed the lesson routinely, encouraging each student's answer, refusing to let the kids' enthusiasm wane.

"It doesn't always go that way," Tyll remarked after the class. "It doesn't always work. Sometimes you have to go back, do it all over

"I demand probably a little more respect from the students, and at the same time I've never tried to embarrass or humiliate them, either. I think respect goes both ways.'

ENCOURAGE

"I encourage them to ask all the questions they want," Tyll continued. "That's what I tell them-You'll never learn if you don't ask questions."

a daily teaching routine also is important to Tyll. He noted, however, that he also tries to be sensitive to kids who might be having a bad day. That goes for the teacher, too, he said, adding, "You have to take that all into account.'

Another important "tool". in the class room comes from the parents of Tyll's students.

"The kids' attitudes are really shaped at home. It makes it a lot easier if there's a lot of parental support at home for education," he explained.

There are other equally important assets in teaching, according to the veteran educator, who has 3 children of his own and is one of only 3 male elementary teachers in the Ubly School District.

"Most of the kids don't see a male teacher until junior high and high school. There are very few men in elementary education," he observed. Why? "Patience, probably,"he replied. "You have to have a lot of it."

EXPERIENCE

Tyll has taught most elementary grades during his elementary level.

"They're really inquisitive," he said, "and if they get into something, they'll really work at it. You can tell when they've caught on to something."

That translates into success for Tyll, who said personal resources become very important for teachers in poorer school districts, where tight finances dictate the availability of material resources.

"Some of the resources are limited, and that's the toughest part," particularly in the high school, he said.

"You can look at test scores, but you don't really know" whether they're going to be successful citizens or not until they're out in the real world, he said, adding it's a big boost when former students return with a success story.

"I enjoy seeing them be successful," he commented. "It makes you feel good when students go on after they graduate."

According to elementary and junior high Principal Ken Sweeney, Tyll's success is the result of a great deal of effort, structure and organization.

"He's firm with the kids. yet (there's) a friendly atmosphere in the class room," Sweeney said.

"He's very willing to give extra time to the school district and the kids. He's one of those teachers, he's here early and leaves late."

State Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) recently announced that the 1988 Michigan Taxpayer's Guide is available at county clerk offices, post offices and public libraries.

"This booklet gives you the latest information on many of Michigan's tax laws in simple-to-understand English, put together in a single publication, Allen said.

Under those circumstances, he admitted, presentation becomes an important part of getting a tion of going to college at the concept across. "It's hard to think of a way to make it interesting for the kids who aren't interested," he said. "There are certain examples you can spruce up (and) I try to use humor as much as I can, but it doesn't always

Halifax also tries to keep close tabs on individual students' progress. For example, rather than have students pass in assignments each day, he walks around the classroom checking each student's work and answering questions.

Like other veteran teachers, Halifax said he's observed changes in the attitudes of young people over the years. He said broken family relationships, television and other outside influences have a negative impact on kids.

He added, however, that not all the attitude changes have been bad.

"I think they're (students) more conservative now" than in the 70s, he remarked. "It's easier to get them focused on the topic at hand, and I think they're more serious about what they want to do with their lives."

"The middle group (of students) is diminishing. You've got the good kids and you've got the kids who don't want to do anything. There's the few who don't care and wonder why they're here, and I wonder why they're here, too, some-

Bean growers asked to vote

Michigan bean growers are being asked to vote Feb. 14 through Feb. 24 for the continuation of assessments levied by the Michigan Bean Commission.

The purpose of the program is to enhance the economic position of Michigan bean growers by conducting market development, market research and promotional programs and promoting research in the areas of food value of bean products, bean varieties and agronomic practices.

To be eligible to vote, growers must have been engaged in the business of producing beans for sale within the past 2 years.

A grower is entitled to one vote representing any business unit, including a family operation, sole proprietorship, partnership, corporation, company, association, trust or other business organization.

By law, the referendum is conducted by the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Ballots have been mailed to all bean producers of record and must be postmarked on or before Feb. 24 to be valid, according to Dr. Paul Kindinger, director, Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Any eligible grower who does not receive a ballot may call the Michigan Department of Agriculture at (517) 373-1058.

Your neighbor says

Teachers should be friendly, strict

Over the past few weeks, the Chronicle has been running a series of articles on what makes education teachers special. The emphasis has been mostly from the instructors' perspec-

With that topic in mind, we turned the tables and asked your neighbor, Gail Hutchinson, what she thought makes up a good educator.

"I think teachers have to be understanding and friendly, but strict," says Gail, who works as a custodian at the high school in Cass City. The Cass City resident also stressed that teachers in the lower grades have the most impact on students, because they establish the first impression. Also reported lately in the Chronicle have been the Cass City teachers' contract negotiations and Gail had this to say about teachers' salaries. "They've got quite a job because they aren't allowed to use much discipline.'

Gail also reported that every student has teachers they like "My worst teacher was my home economics teacher. She made me sew and I hate to sew," said Gail, who started at Bad And Gail's favorite teacher?

"I couldn't say enough about Dave Lovejoy," said Ms. Hutchinson. Without his help I wouldn't have done nearly as well in adult education. "I wish he were still there."

Cass City board debates (sex) questions in student survey

The Cass City School Board approved a health survey for high school students that included frank questions about sex Monday night at the regular meeting of the board at the high school.

The 12-page survey was okayed after a lengthy discussion after it was decided not to present it to students in the 7th and 8th grades. A motion by Jim Turner to have it given to all students was defeated, 5-2, with board president Dr. Ed Scollon voting in favor.

A motion to present it to the high school students only passed, 5-2, with Ben Hobart and Allan Hartwick voting no. There was discussion about presenting it to students without the sex questions, but it was decided that it would kill the purpose of the survey as designed by the Tuscola County Health Department. The offending questions included, "Have you had sexual relations (Intercourse)?"; "Have you ever had a sexually transmitted disease or VD?"; "Females only-Have you ever been pregnant?" In the 2 pages that were objectionable there were 15 questions that the majority of the board felt were not proper for intermediate school students.

In the county to date, Supt. Ken Micklash said, the program has been approved by Caro and Akron-Fairgrove and turned down by 3 other schools.

TWO DECISIONS

The board made 2 decisions regarding the use of school facilities, one an approval of a request and the other a denial.

Denied the use of the Deford gym on Mondays, Fridays and Saturdays on an ongoing basis was the Pioneer Work and Learn Center, Inc., also known as the Kingston Camp. The camp is located south of Kingston and is not in the Cass City School District.

The board made a concession to the Amateur Athletic Union and Coach Marty Daniel. Daniel is running a girls' basketball program that does not interfere with high school functions. It includes 64 girls from all over the Thumb, Bay City and Corunna. Twelve of the 64 are from Cass City.

The board voted to waive the $10 building use fee but not the custodial fee for use of the building. Since Daniel said that he expects the girls to use the gym 15 to 20 times before mid-April, when the program is concluded, the move will save the AAU up to $200.

Intermediate School District. She will be replaced by Cathy Cooper, who was teaching in Evergreen School, Replacing Cooper will be Kathleen Dorland. She will teach the second and third grades.

Reports from Turner and Hobart, who attended meetings, were heard. Hobart told of a new group called "Boards for fair funding of schools" that has been formed to try to equalize money given to the various school districts for operation. The board okayed a $100 membership fee, but indicated that it was not willing to pay any money for legal fees. Turner told of the success a district that adopted a "we" campaign had. The conception is to try to eliminate the adversary relations between factions at the school such as the union and management.

CROUSE HONORED

Each year the district selects one person to represent it as the one in the district who has made a special contribution to youth and youth programs. This year it is Don Crouse, retired superintendent. Crouse and the other nominees will be honored at the Thumb Meet of Champions in Caro, May 30.

OTHER BUSINESS

A special meeting of the Coordinator for the Tuscola board has been scheduled for Monday at 5:30 p.m. to ratify the contract with the Tri-County Bargaining Association. The board will hold its March meeting at Evergreen School.

Mrs. Jan Moore, who volunteered her help for the Junior High Band, will be sent a letter of appreciation by the board.

March is reading month at Cass City Elementary School, the board decreed at A variety of projects have been scheduled, including guest speakers who will talk about their favorite books, and special readings by students for residents at Provincial House.

A report comparing finances in school districts in Tuscola County showed that Cass City has the lowest tax rate for operation (28.9) and spends the least amount per pupil ($2,595.82 per year). State-wide Cass City ranks the request of Mrs. Cooper. 509 among 525 districts.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Until well after World end of the year, but you War II, stocks paid more in dividends than bonds. And they should have, considering the extra risk the owner

American Tel & Tel had paid a $9 dividend forever, it seemed. The stock stayed about 150, year after year. The dividend was a steady

AT&T bonds during the 40's and 50's paid around

Whatever it was that came along--and let the professors expound on that-the rates got reversed. The bonds got paying 6% and the stock 3.5%. Or thereabouts.

The long secular rise in the stock market that started in the 50's made stocks attractive, not for dividends, but for capital gains. Meanwhile those stodgy old bonds kept plugging along and prices varied only a little from year to year.

Bonds had earned a reputation of safe but dull. The action was in the stock mar-

In so many of these comparisons it helps to look at the record. (Never argue unless the facts are unavailable.)

Standard & Poor and Salomon Brothers are the sources of a table going back to 1926, showing the total yield, dividends from stocks, interest from bonds, plus (or minus) price changes.

Stocks did better than bonds in 37 years: Bonds won out in 26 years.

In 17 years in the period 1926 to 1988, bonds showed a minus result. Stocks were in the minus column 19 years.

You made money less often in bonds and you lost money less often in bonds.

The comparison was between the Standard & Poor 500, and government bonds. Apples and oranges in the category of safety. Stocks that fell out of bed in many cases never recovered. There was nary a government bond defaulted. The knew that come maturity of the bond, you got back 100¢ on the dollar.

I think in all comparisons like this that the more recent years are more pertinent. Let's take the last 8 years. They happen to be under a Republican administration, I am pleased to note.

TOTAL RETURN, STOCKS & GOVERNMENT BONDS Change from Previous Year

| Year       | S&P 500 | Gov'Bond |
|------------|---------|--------------|
| 1981       | 4.9     | 1.9          |
| 1982       | 20.4    | 49.          |
| 1983       | 22.3    | 1.5          |
| 1984       | 6.0     | 15.4         |
| 1985       | 31.1    | 35.0         |
| 1986       | 18.5    | 25.6         |
| 1987       | 5.3     | 5.2          |
| 1988       | 17.1    | 8.96         |
| a . |         | ••           |

So stocks had one off year in total return, and bonds had 2. But don't rejoice just yet, you stock market lovers. Start out with $1,000 at the beginning of 1981 in the stock market, and compound it for 8 years using the above table of annual changes.

At the end of 1988 you had $2840. You nearly tripled your money in these wonderful years in the stock

What did the McKinley Republicans, the old fogies, the ancient coots who didn't know a good thing when it was obvious to all the swingers — what happened to their $1,000 in those 8 years?

It went from $1,000 to $3030. More than tripled, and with absolute safety every day of that time. We had 2922 wonderful nights of sleep. Come on now, didn't you stock owners toss and turn a little when the market dropped 1,000 points in 2 months in the fall

Now if I wanted to rub it in still more, I'd use the figures on tax-exempt bonds for those years. But ol' John Grant up at Thomson McKinnon didn't have that market returns you'd have a lot less money at the end of these years. The taxfrees the last 8 years weryielding AFTER TAX . times as much as stocks. What they did in the way of price change is something for John to dig up and send us before the fairways get tax from all those stock

green out at Orchard Lake Country Club, and get his attention. P.S. A couple of readers took offense at a column a while ago criticizing stu dents who stayed on and on in college. I thought it was clear I was not referring to adults who went back for part-time classes. It was the full-time youths who couldn't seem to pry themselves off the campus and go to work whom I objected I have great admiration for grown-ups who have the ambition to improve them selves by going to school at whatever level. Indeed our family at Lapeer has made substantial gifts to programs for just such people.

Cass City police report 2 arrests

Intermediate Principal

the 1989-90 school year.

Cass City Police arrested 2 area residents over the past week on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liq-

Edmund J. Wesolowski Jr., 30, of Kingston, was arrested early Sunday morning after police stopped his vehicle on South Seeger Street near Sixth Street. Reports indicated Wesolowski was stopped at about 2:45 a.m. after driving left of the center line.

Barbara L. Jamieson, 43, 6727 Pine St., Cass City, was arrested last Wednesday after the vehicle she was driving turned onto Brooker Street from Houghton Street, crossed the center line and struck a parked vehicle.

The parked vehicle is registered to John McIntosh, according to reports, which indicate both vehicles sustained minor damage in the 8:40 p.m. mishap.

Firemen called to home twice

Elkland Township fire fighters responded Monday afternoon to the David Matthews residence, 4630 Hadley Rd., Decker, where a clogged chimney caused some problems.

Firemen, who were called to the residence at 2:30, spent about 2 hours at the scene. They were again called to the residence shortly after 5 p.m. for about an hour, but fire Chief Dick Root said there was little damage.
