New manufacturing firm starting in Cass City

A former Cass City businessman and the Tuscola County Economic Development Corp. recently combined efforts to bring new industry to the area. The result has been another success story for Tuscola County and especially Cass City, the new home of Micro EDM Inc., a small electrical discharge machining firm which is in the process of moving into a vacant building at 4429 Doerr Rd.

The building is the former home of Engineered Tools Corp., which moved to a new location southwest of Caro about 3 months ago. Interestingly, Glen Perkins, president of Engineered Tools, played a key role in getting the president of the new firm to look at Tuscola County, according to EDC Executive Director Jim McLoskey.

The 2 company presidents are good personal friends, he noted, adding Perkins is "pretty much responsible" for getting Micro EDM to come to Cass City. "We were also involved," McLoskey said, "but actually Glen is the one who came to us."

Previously based in Hamburg (about 12 miles north of Ann Arbor), Micro EDM has been in business for 2 years, according to company President Bob Bredemeyer.

He noted the move to Cass City is an expansion for his firm, which specializes in production electrical discharge machining—the use of electricity to make precision cuts in metal.

Micro EDM has customers throughout the country in "almost all phases of industry," including the aerospace, automotive, medical and cutting tool fields, Bredemeyer remarked.

In terms of employment, the company will employ only a few persons at first, but Bredemeyer predicted that number will increase to 10 to 15 in a year or 2.

Limited production will begin immediately. Bredemeyer, who said the Cass City building is "in super shape", added the only change currently planned is construction of an inspection room.

His enthusiasm for getting started is shared by Perkins, who indicated he was glad to have a part in bringing the new business to the area.

"McLoskey has done a super job" with both the move and Engineered Tools' relocation, he remarked, adding, "I think it's going to be a nice addition to Cass City."

Memorial established for Darin Monroe

A memorial has been presented to the school by the parents of Darin Monroe, who died in a tragic automobile accident. The parents have asked that the money be used to help purchase new basketball scoreboards in the high school gym.

Darin was a member of the Cass City High School basketball team when he attended school.

Supt. Ken Micklash said there is enough money in the fund now to pay about half the cost, some $5,000 to $6,000, of 2 new boards.

It was suggested that one new board be bought. However, Athletic Director Don Schelke said that 2 boards are needed so that the players can keep close tabs on the time in the closing minutes of the quarters without turning around.

Because of the wiring, it is not possible to use one old and one new board. It was suggested by Beverley Auten, board member, that perhaps one of the classes could make raising the rest of the money a project.

Until the balance needed is raised, the money has been placed in a savings account.

Perfect weather draws crowds to 11th Festival

For the past 11 years Cass City has given its all to make July 4 a pleasant memory for its residents and visitors. This past 4th of July was no different as approximately 10,000 to 15,000 people packed the village for the all day extravaganza.

Many event coordinators said the festival had about the same attendance and enthusiasm as last year. However other coordinators thought the festival was smaller this year because the 4th was in the middle of the week.

Nevertheless, the weather during the day was almost perfect for those people who came. In the afternoon temperatures were rather warm but then around 4 p.m. things cooled down as clouds cluttered the sky and some sprinkles of rain fell over the park for a few minutes.

But the rain was small enough not to bother entrepreneurs in concession booths, the arts and crafts show and the flea market, who were all equally satisfied with the day's business.

Independence Day events began with the Rotary Club pancake breakfast at 7 a.m. The breakfast had its normal attendance with some 250 people. Then at 10:30 a.m., on the button, Alvin Burk parachuted onto Main Street just 100 feet west of his mark. He was scheduled to land at the intersection of Oak and Main Streets.

Unfortunately Burk was not able to make his second jump onto the football field, because his employers in Detroit denied his request for the day off.

After Burk's landing, 2 stunt men from the Michigan Ontario Trial Riders Association showed their talents before and during the parade. The 2 motorcyclists amazed the audience by twisting and turning on their bikes in every way imaginable.

Following the pre-parade festivities were 2 Michigan National Guard Jets which made 2 passes over the parade. This was the 4th year Cass City has had the fly-by and it was a crowd-pleaser as always. As the jets roared overhead the 75 unit parade wound its way down Main Street.

Floats honored with awards were the Provincial House, recipient of the Dr. Harry Crandell award for the prettiest float and the Rotary Club, winner of the President's award. Hills and Dales Hospital took the Belle Schwaderer award for the most original float, for the second year in a row, and the First Baptist Church of Cass City won the Meredith B. Auten award for the most patriotic float.

As soon as the parade was finished the 3 on 3 basketball tournament began. A total of 23 teams competed in the 3 divisions — men's, women's and boys'. The first place team in the men's division also won last year's tournament. The team, Ross Voelker, Craig Tonit, Paul Beachy and Kent Shelter, is undefeated since the tournament began 2 years ago.

Winners in the women's division were Darlene Monroe, Jenny Tracey, Cindy Powell and Jodi Smith. Boys' division, 18 and under, victors were Dave Lester, Ron Moore, Ken Kotsch and Mike McLaughlin.

While the 3 on 3 tourney was taking place, tennis players were swinging it out in the first 4th of July tennis tournament. Wayne Heckman was the winner in the singles competition and he was also the winner along with Dale Heckman in the doubles contest.

Plan many events for gala sidewalk sale

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce Retail Division has completed plans for the biggest sale of the year with 4 fun-filled days of special activities and clearance prices at nearly every store in the community.

The sales starts Wednesday morning. The Scout hot dog sale will be held at the Chemical Bank parking lot at the corner of Main and Seeger all 4 days and arts and crafts sales will be held each day on the sidewalk.

Bake sales are scheduled Wednesday.

Thursday there is a host of other events. It starts with the kids' parade at 10 a.m. Participants are asked to meet at the former L & S gas station with decorated bikes and wagons. There will be free ice cream for parade members.

There will be a carnival at Hardee's from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday featuring fun games and prizes. Cass City clowns will be downtown from 9 a.m. till noon Thursday with free candy.

Friday will also feature "A blast from the past", antique car cruise night starting at 6 p.m.

There will be live music Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The free events make for an enjoyable time for area shoppers and their families, but the primary attraction for many is the opportunity to buy at the lowest prices of the year.

That's the reason that many postpone buying decisions until sidewalk days start. In many cases, sidewalk specials include mark-downs that are greater than at any other time.

Good hunting.

Board outlines cuts if millage fails again

The Cass City School Board wrestled Monday night with the disagreeable task of deciding where cuts will be made in school services if voters turn down again a request for 2 additional mills August 8.

Meeting at the school for its regular monthly session, the board adopted a plan presented by Supt. Ken Micklash that will probably touch every family with children in school.

The 9-point plan will cut expenses by $129,000. The remainder of the operating deficit, $75,000, will be made up from cash carried over from the previous year.

The expense cutting plan outlined:

Not replace 2 vacant teaching positions. Savings $70,000.

This would mean some classes in the grades would have over 30 students. No teacher would be fired, due to resignations, but staff would be shifted.

Cut back in teaching materials for students. Savings $10,000.

Cut back in library book purchases. Savings $3,000.

Cut school health service program in half. Savings $12,000.

Cut elementary social work program in half. Savings $10,400.

Cut athletics. Savings $8,900.

All elementary programs. All junior high programs except basketball and track. All freshman football and basketball.

Cut building maintenance. Savings $10,000.

Reduce transportation. Savings $5,000 to $10,000.

Under the plan there would be no bus backtracking, in some cases forcing students to walk up to one-half mile. Students that live in close proximity would be picked up at a central location.

Eliminate all advertising. Savings $1,000 to $1,500.

Since even these cuts leave the school $75,000 short of the money needed to operate, it is likely that deeper cuts would be required in the future as the low remaining fund equity is depleted. The cuts outlined would carry the district through the 1989-90 year only.

TABLE EXPENDITURES

A program started last year to place radios in school buses was tabled due to the defeat of the millage. The plan was to equip the buses over a 3-year period. This year 5 units were to be installed at a cost of $403 a unit.

A request by Betsy Dillon to be placed on a 2 or 3-day work schedule for 1989-90 was tabled. If the millage passes, her request will probably be denied. However, if staff cuts are needed, it is possible that working her on a part time schedule would fit the school's needs.

ONCE AGAIN people lined Main Street, for Cass City's 11th annual parade. As always, the hour-long procession was a highlight during the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron LaPonsie

Kathy Lynn Rockwell of Snover and Aaron Thomas LaPonsie of Cass City exchanged vows Saturday, June 17, at the Shabbona United Methodist Church. The Rev. Pete Crawford and Rev. John Wood officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Paul and Donna Rockwell of Snover and the groom's parents are Lou and Carol LaPonsie of Cass City.

Ruth Balzer of Cass City was organist. Vocalists were Chris Weippert and Tom Guinther of Cass City and Janet Koch of Gageton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white lace gown featuring a high neckline trimmed in white sequins and white ribbon. Puffy lace sleeves were highlighted by small bows at the shoulders. The full train was highlighted by 3 sets of gathered lace ruffles trimmed with white ribbon. The specially designed bridal hat was covered with lace and pearls with a fingertip veil.

She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, miniature carnations, white fraisia and baby's breath highlighted with glitter.

The flower girl wore an all white lace gown with puffy sleeves accented with white ribbon and full train. She carried a basket with lavender and white petals.

The bridesmaids wore white lace tea length dresses accented with a lavender sash. They carried a bouquet of miniature lavender and white carnations.

The groom and ringbearer wore all white tuxedos with tails and white boutonnières.

The groomsmen wore white tuxedos accented by lavender cummerbunds with lavender boutonnières.

The flower girl was Maureen McFawn of West Bloomfield, cousin of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Raquel Rockwell of Chesapeake, Va., cousin of the bride, and Brenda Rockwell of Snover, sister of the bride.

The ringbearer was Roger Rockwell of Snover, cousin of the bride.

Dan LaPonsie of St. Clair Shores, the groom's brother, was best man.

Groomsmen were Dave McArthur and Greg Hanby of Cass City.

Ushers were Dave Burnette of Cass City and James Blakely of Sebewaing.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the First Baptist Church in Cass City. The couple are residing at 171 Wallace Blvd., Apt. D-10, Clarksville, TN 37042, where the groom is stationed in the U.S. Army.

Class of '79 holds reunion

Cass City High School Class of 1979 held its 10th year reunion Saturday at Colony House.

Approximately 130 people attended, 80 of whom were graduates of the class, which had about 150 members.

Event co-coordinator Rita Lodging said she was happy with the number who attended. Chicago alumnus Dale Rabideau offered the blessing at the dinner.

Loeding added that alumni came from all over the United States, including Ohio, Texas and Illinois.

One highlight during the meal was a champagne toast made by the classmates. The reunion was paid for with funds the class accumulated while still in high school.

Loeding remarked that the class still has a good sum of money left for future reunions. Other event coordinators were Kelli Hendrick and Barb Karr.

Medicine Packaging Improves Compliance

Child-resistant medicine containers were introduced several years ago in an attempt to reduce the incidence of medicine poisonings among children. More recently, product packages have been designed to protect products from the time medicines leave the manufacturer until they are purchased by consumers.

Many prescription and non-prescription medicines are not taken correctly. Drug companies have responded to this problem by introducing medicine packaging designed to promote the safe and appropriate use of their products. One of the latest advances in packaging is compliance packaging which helps ensure that products are taken as they are prescribed. An example of compliance packaging is the blister pack - one or more doses of the same medicine mounted on a card or inside a dial-pack. Having all doses displayed serves as a reminder of doses which remain to be taken and the time of each dose.

Another attempt at improving compliance is special containers for eye drop medicines. At least one manufacturer provides drops in a container that informs users of the next dose due to be given by viewing a dial located on the container top.

"If It Fitz..."

Amendment needed

By Jim Fitzgerald

Grandchildren can cause trouble, as President George Bush recently discovered. As in the case of other inconsequential problems confronting the White House, a constitutional amendment is needed.

During a recent interview, according to the Associated Press, Bush "was hard-pressed to explain why his grandson, and not his granddaughters, gets to go on the presidential fishing trips."

The president's weak explanation left him wide open to charges of sex discrimination.

"When they get older than about 3, I will do that."

Car-bird accident

Minor damage was reported Sunday by a Gagetown motorist whose vehicle was struck by a pheasant on Dodge Road north of Milligan Road.

Darrell J. Orton, 6455 Fifth St., reported he was northbound on Dodge Road at about 4 p.m. when the bird flew into the grill of his vehicle, Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies said.

Bush said in trying to explain why the granddaughters are left behind when he and 13-year-old George P. go fishing. Actually, 4 of Bush's 7 granddaughters are older than 3, including 7-year-old twins and George P.'s 11-year-old sister.

President Bush also said George P. "does stuff" that the granddaughters don't do. The plain implication was that granddaughters can't do stuff.

EQUAL ACCESS TO 'STUFF'

The U. S. Constitution requires equal opportunity for all citizens, regardless of gender and some other characteristics. If it weren't for the dumb Constitution, no one would see anything wrong with Bush taking his grandson fishing, but not his granddaughters. So the president is expected to ask Congress and the 50 states to approve a constitutional amendment relating to stuff females have a right to do.

The amendment process certainly seems a wiser route than for Bush to seek relief from the U.S. Supreme Court. It's true that the court majority has recently begun waffling on some relatively unimportant issues, such as the right of a woman to control her own body, or the right of minorities to breathe in public.

But when it comes to the crucial issues that most concern our citizenry, history suggests the court will continue to rule that females must be allowed to do the same stuff as men, including equal use of "Gone Fishing" signs.

Unfortunately, it takes a long time to amend the Constitution. It could be several years before Bush can tell his granddaughters that the United States Constitution specifically proclaims it's legal for him to leave them on shore when he takes his grandson fishing and other stuff. In the meanwhile, Bush remains vulnerable to accusations of sexual discrimination from his granddaughters, not to mention halfhearted hugs and snide feminist remarks, even if he is the president.

As an experienced grandfather, I know how important it is that Bush try to retain his granddaughters' respect during this waiting-for-the-amendment period. He can do that by always projecting an admirable image that will impress the girls with what a warm, generous, clean-living person he is, no matter what other minor faults he might have.

DECEIVE THE LITTLE DARLINGS

That's what I do, and I do it so well that my daughter Ferd keeps notes on what my 2 youngest granddaughters say to indicate how my behavior has shaped their opinion of me.

Ferd eavesdropped while 7-year-old Emily and her classmate Maureen compared grandfathers. The subject under discussion concerned where the old guys were willing to go, and Emily's immortal words, as recorded by her mother, were:

"Grandma can get Grandpa to go anywhere they serve vodka tonic."

Emily said it as though the words should be embroidered on a pillow cover. On another day, Ferd was making my traditional birthday/Father's Day gift—a huge pan of thick chocolate fudge—that her family would deliver to my home the next day. Three-year-old Tricia was watching and musing, and said this for posterity:

"I'd better lick the spoon. After we give the fudge to Grandpa, he hides it and never lets me have any."

President Bush can have his constitutional amendment proclaiming that granddaughters can't do stuff. I want an amendment proclaiming that they can't say stuff.

Jackson-Wald family

42nd annual reunion held

The Jackson-Wald family 42nd annual reunion was held at the Gagetown Community Park with a potluck dinner at noon.

Thirty-five members were present. The oldest member was Mary Wald, 93.

Members came from Millington, Clarkston, Milan, Saginaw, St. Charles, Beaverton, Caro and Cass City.

The meeting was called to order by President Lloyd Finkbeiner and the pledge to the flag was repeated.

Secretary-treasurer Alice Zellar reported on last year's meeting held at the Tom Jackson Centennial Farm.

Program director, Wilma Finkbeiner, conducted a sing-a-long with Sue Mellendorf on the accordion. Readings were presented by Katie Jackson and Wilma Finkbeiner.

Following the program, ice cream was served. Next year's meeting will be the 2nd Sunday of July at the Gagetown Park.

Arraign King on check charge

A 24-year-old Vassar man was recently arraigned in Tuscola County District Court on 3 counts of uttering and publishing.

According to court records, David E. King has been charged with uttering and publishing involving checks valued at $170 (May 30 in Vassar), $275 (June 19 in Caro) and $375 (July 4 in Caro). All 3 checks were drawn on National Bank of Detroit, Saginaw, records state.

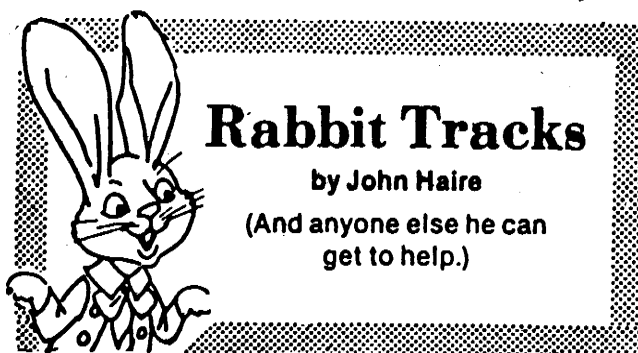

A preliminary examination for King has been scheduled for Friday at 8:30 a.m. Bond has been set at $10,000 per count.

Bieri reports 23 Holsteins stolen

Holsteins valued at $6,900 were reported stolen from a field in Grant Township. Huron County sheriff's deputies report that 23 of Robert Bieri's Holsteins were taken between June 15 and July 8.

Bieri told authorities in February he had 87 Holsteins in the pasture and since that time 11 have died. He then added several more to the pasture but July 8 he counted only 47 cattle, reports state. Bieri told authorities each cow weighs 300-500 pounds. Reports indicated Bieri has no insurance for the Holsteins. Police are currently investigating the case.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

While working as an observer in the 3 on 3 tourney at the July 4 Festival, we learned that Kingston and Akron-Fairgrove have some fine basketball players, good enough to defeat teams from Cass City that included some of the players that will be on the Hawk varsity next winter.

If you guess enough you have to be right once in a while. We said a few years ago when everyone was predicting a massive shortage in teachers because of the attractive retirement available, that it would never happen.

At a recent board meeting, discussing replacing a teacher in the Cass City system, Supt. Ken Micklash said that there were an ocean of persons available for the job. That's because teaching has become an attractive profession and lots of folks envy summers off, outstanding fringe benefits and in the vast majority of cases, secure employment.

The days when circuses came to town with carnivals to fleece the population and sneaked out of town have left communities suspicious of these traveling road shows. Kelly-Miller Bros. is doing much to dispel this image. They have been coming to the Thumb for several years now. Their appearance in Cass City, July 25, sponsored by the Cass City Rotary Club, will be a return visit.

Kelly-Miller has family type live entertainment and when the circus leaves town, there is no debris, no trace of where they set up the tents.

The Haire Net

The 11th annual Fourth of July Festival is history and by all accounts was a success. Blessed by favorable weather and a mid-week holiday that kept families from extended away-from-home vacations, the crowds were big. The crowds were enthusiastic. The crowds went home happy.

As always there were voices of dissent. There are always the chosen few for whom there never is enough.

Never mind that the whole enchilada is free. Free to visitors. Not free to Cass City Chamber of Commerce members or the many civic groups that help make the event the success that it is and has been.

It takes a hard corps of dedicated volunteers to make the Festival go. We have them. A half dozen could be listed off the top of my head, but I'm not going to because it's sure that another half dozen active now or in the past would be missed. It's enough to say that without them there never would have been Festival number one.

All of this is long-winded background to the point of all this. Is the Festival worth the cost?

Since it is the club I am familiar with, let's examine Rotary's role at the Festival. For this year's float, out-of-pocket expense was about $500 and much of the expensive paper was salvaged from the previous year. All of this for about 20 minutes of activity. That's the bad news and every year there's a concern about it. The club has massive commitments in its Polio Plus campaign to eradicate polio in developing nations and to local projects such as the new track at the park where $10,000 is pledged.

At first glance it would seem that $500 plus many hours of work might better be saved for programs with more lasting benefits.

That's the short-sighted view. For without the parade the Festival probably dies. Certainly it would not be as successful as it is today.

With its pancake breakfast and sandwich sales the club annually nets a profit in the low 4 figures after paying 25 percent to the Festival to help pay expenses.

Viewed this way the money spent on the float can be regarded as advertising, not as money cast to the winds for a brief moment of fun.

It's like the Festival itself. There's no way to measure its effect. Looking at it from the immediate ringing of cash registers it's mostly a waste.

But for the town and the organizations that make it go one thing is sure. Clubs and towns that do nothing amount to nothing.

Continentials scheduled in concert

The Continentals, an internationally recognized Christian musical group, will present a concert of inspirational and traditional Christian music Friday at 7 p.m. at the Evangelical Free Church in Cass City.

There is no charge for the concert, but a freewill offering will be taken.

Featuring 24 vocalists and a 10-piece orchestra, the Continental's 2-part program will focus on themes of inspiration and worship, integrating a variety of popular Christian songs, hymn medleys and gospel music arrangements.

Cam Florida, Continental's president and producer of the program, promises that it is a concert that will appeal to audiences of all ages "in both music and content."

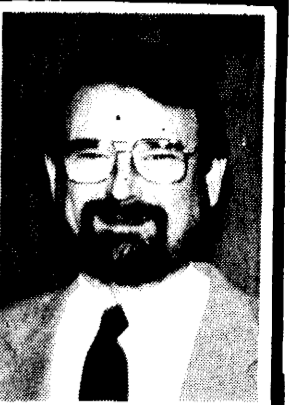

Now in their 22nd year of existence, Continental Singers and Orchestra will send 12 tours to perform in all 48 states and over 25 countries throughout the world. Each tour is made up of young people from all over the United States.

Continental Ministries also oversee international groups located in Eastern Europe, Holland, England, Scandinavia, Singapore, Latin America and New Zealand, and are developing groups in Korea and Japan.

For those interested in touring with the Continentals as vocalists, instrumentalists or technicians, auditions will be held after the concert.

YOUR EYES

Dr. G.W. McNiven

SUMMER CONTACT LENS HINTS

Swimming and flying have little in common, unless you're a contact lens wearer and have discovered that both can lead to eye discomfort. Here are ideas to keep in mind which may help.

If you wear your contacts during water sports, keep your eyes open when entering the water, but close them when your eye area breaks the surface of the water. This will prevent chlorine burn and lessen the chance of losing your lenses. After leaving the pool, it will be easier to remove your lenses if you add a drop of lubricating/rewetting solution to each eye first. This reduces the chance of tearing a lens during the removal process.

Take along a small bottle of contact lens rewetting solution when you are traveling by air. The dry air in the cabin, combined with changes in air pressure, may result in dry, irritated eyes that will make your contacts uncomfortable. A few drops of solution administered to each eye can solve this problem.

Your neighbor says,

The festival was dull

Cass City's 11th annual 4th of July Festival is officially over. Some of the festival coordinators have dubbed the festival as an improvement over last year. Others said it was about the same as last year. Still others feel the overall attendance and enthusiasm were down compared to previous years.

Your neighbor, television appliance and repair store owner Richard Jones, remarked that the festival seemed kind of blah to him. "In all honesty it (the festival) was dull. There was nothing new."

Jones, Ubyly resident, explained that he has been to the festival every year except one. This year he went to the park for one hour, became bored and left.

"There was no reason for me to come. I can walk around and eat a hot dog at home. They need something more for young adults to do," Jones, 27, pointed out, adding, "Not everyone wants to play basketball in 90 degree weather."

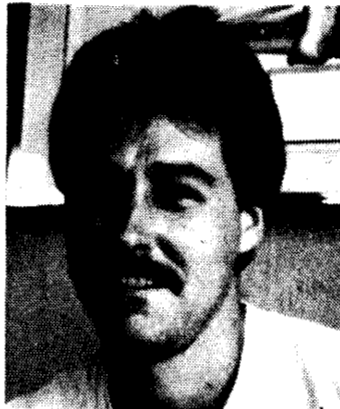

Jones added that from his business owning experience he thinks the festival would profit the most from middle-aged adults. "It seems to me that the people who spend the money are the middle-aged or young adults. And it seems the events are for either the real young kids or older adults."

However, Jones commented that the festival didn't used to be so dull. "I know people don't drink much in this town but when they had the beer tent that place always looked packed to me."

"I didn't go to it because they didn't play my kind of music, but my friends went and they said it was fun."

In addition to the beer tent Jones explained the festival would be better if the committee brought back events like the tractor pull and the mud bog.

"I thought a lot of people my age would come out to the tractor pull."

AROUND THE FARM

Reserve bidding scheduled

By Bill Bortel

The ninth bidding period for the Conservation Reserve Program will be held July 17 through Aug. 4. The Conservation Reserve Program allows landowners to enter eligible land into a 10-year program, seeding the land to grass or trees.

The program was created to take highly erodible land out of production. Program participants receive annual rental payments, based on accepted bids, for the 10-year period.

The soil, slope, size of the field and the cropping systems from 1981 to 1985 are used to determine if a field is eligible for the program. Originally, only erodible fields were allowed into the program. Presently erodible fields, areas adjacent to water bodies, streams and some ditches, scour areas and wetlands are eligible if they meet the cropping requirements. Fields must have been cropped at least 2 of the years between 1981 and 1985.

Establishing filter strips along streams, rivers, drains and wetlands may be one of the most effective things farmers can do to reduce nonpoint source pollution from farmland.

Areas that flood at least once every 10 years and are subject to scour erosion are now eligible for the program. Also eligible are wetlands, as determined by the Soil Conservation Service, as long as they meet the cropping requirements. Up to 9 acres can be designated per field for the protection of wetlands or the entire existing field if it is more than one-third wetland.

Seeding options for the 10-year period include seeding a grass-legume mix, planting trees and providing wildlife cover and wildlife food plots. Several landowners opted for wildlife planting during the last sign-up period.

Agricultural production, grazing and tree cutting are prohibited on land accepted into the program.

Interested landowners should apply and submit their bids at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service from July 17 to Aug. 4, 1989. The Soil Conservation Service determines eligibility of fields for the soil loss portion of the program. The agency is located at 852 S. Hooper St., Caro.

Cancer fight no trouble, says Gerald Stilson

To hear Gerald Stilson talk about his battle with cancer over the past 2 1/2 years, one would think the dreaded disease is no more life threatening than a cold.

In fact, despite being told he developed an especially serious form of cancer, the area native acts as if someone forgot to tell him.

That attitude, as well as the support and prayers of family and friends, has paid off, according to Stilson, 63, who says doctors haven't been able to find a trace of cancer in his body in recent months.

"I never really had any bad time with it," he remarked recently in his office at Wesley's Milk Plant in Cass City, where he has worked for 42 years, including the past 25 years as general manager. "I never did think I was going to die."

The Cass City area native was diagnosed with lymphoma in the fall of 1986, but first noticed something wrong a few months earlier. "I got so tired all the time, I thought I had heart trouble," he recalled, adding he and his wife, Betty, decided at that time to sell Bigelow's Hardware and move. It was one of nearly 50 moves for the couple, who have enjoyed extensive travel and owned and operated a number of businesses over the years.

"I was going to take it easy and just work here (Wesley's)," Stilson said. He remarked that a battery of hospital tests revealed no problems with his heart.

A short while later, however, he discovered a lump, about the size of a dime, under his right arm.

BIOPSY

"In 2 weeks' time it grew into (the size of) a grapefruit," he said, adding he went to his doctor, who prescribed antibiotics. A week later, a biopsy was performed.

"The doctor said, 'Mr. Stilson, you've got cancer, and you've got the worst kind,'" Stilson recalled. "I said, 'Well, how long do I have to live?' He said,

"Even though it's really serious, you were smart - you found it right away."

Doctors, who later removed a similar tumor behind Stilson's left ear, ran a lengthy series of tests - bone marrow, blood work and others - before beginning 6 months of chemotherapy, followed by another 30 days of radiation therapy.

Stilson recalled that he was told to expect to be very sick after the hour-long treatments. After the first one, the hospital called Betty to check on him.

Stilson remarked with a grin that when the hospital called, his wife said, "He wants to know when he's supposed to be sick." Unfazed, Stilson and his wife went out to dinner.

SIDE EFFECTS

There were other side effects, including hair loss, but Stilson reacted to those similarly. "I just went like I was bald all my life," he said.

"The biggest problem was sleeping," he recalled. "I was so hyper because of the treatments. About 2 hours was all I could sleep."

Stilson acknowledged cancer led to some changes in his life; taking protein supplements and following a strict diet, for example. But neither the disease nor the treatments kept him from his daily routine.

"I only missed one or 2 days of work, and I didn't have to miss those," he said. Stilson added he wanted to go to work to be near his family, which offered a great deal of support and encouragement. He explained his son Eldon, daughter Jill Parrish and sons-in-law, Elmer Parrish and Bob Kitchen, all work at the plant.

Work wasn't the only form of therapy, outside of medical treatment, Stilson utilized. Talking about cancer also helped, but that wasn't easy at first, he said.

WEREN'T SURE

Friends were interested, but they weren't sure about whether they should ask, he remarked, adding he tried to reassure them. "I'd say, 'Don't feel bad if you want to talk about it.' In fact, I kind of enjoy talking about it; (getting) it off my chest and not keeping it inside."

"You've got to keep a positive attitude," Stilson continued. "Try to be positive instead of feeling sorry for yourself and thinking you're going to die."

Betty remarked her husband's comment sums up a key aspect in his recovery.

"I think that was the whole secret. Of course, we prayed a lot. That helps, and he found it early enough and he did what the doctors told him," she said.

"I never had any doubt but that he'd come through it," she added.

B.A. "Curly" Calka, a long-time friend of Stilson's, remarked he was surprised at his friend's attitude.

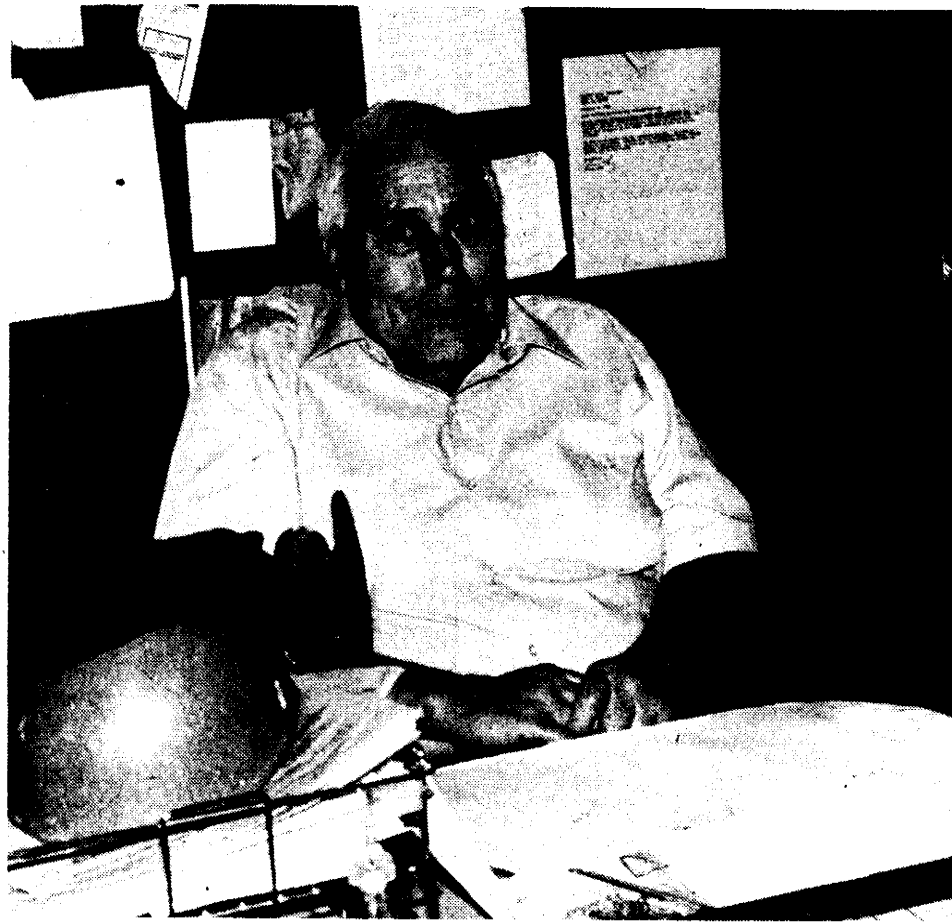

"He didn't worry about it a bit. He said that if he has it, he has it. He just took a positive approach," Calka observed.

He added, "He didn't think about it; maybe that's the way to go."

For Stilson, continued good check-ups, which he hopes will soon be conducted every 4 months instead of every 2 months, translate into growing optimism. "If you can get by 5 years without a recurrence, you have a pretty good chance of not getting it back," he explained.

Stilson isn't waiting for those 5 years to pass before making future plans.

"I was going to retire, but now I feel so good, I think I'm going to keep working until I'm 70 or 80," he said.

WORK HAS PROVED TO be a valuable form of therapy for long-time Wesley's Milk Plant General Manager Gerald Stilson, Cass City, who is winning a nearly 3-year battle against cancer.

Over million vets in state

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs reported today that an estimated 1,026,000 veterans live in Michigan.

The total includes more than 11,000 veterans in the upper Thumb. Tuscola County has some 4,990 veterans, Huron County has 2,960, and Sanilac County, 3,480.

Counties with the largest numbers of veterans are Wayne, with 235,440; Oakland, 127,960; Macomb, 84,710, and Kent, 54,560.

This and other information appear in a county-by-county breakdown of estimated veteran population throughout the nation as of March 31, according to Gordon Clowney, director of the VA Regional Office in Detroit.

Nationally, VA lists more than 27.2 million former servicemen and women, Clowney said. An estimated 310,000 Michigan veterans were in service during the Vietnam-era (Aug. 5, 1964 to May 7, 1975). Of these, 7,500 also served during the Korean Conflict, he said. World War II veterans made up the largest group of veterans in the state, with an estimated 313,500. Of the 166,100 Korean Conflict veterans in the state, 15,800 also served in World War II.

An estimated 116,600 Michigan veterans saw military service only between the Korean Conflict and Vietnam-era (Feb. 1, 1955 to Aug. 4, 1964). Approximately 3,700 World War I veterans live in the state. Nationally, only one Spanish-American War veteran remains.

Veterans with questions about their VA benefits are urged to contact the VA Regional Office in Detroit or veterans' service organization representatives. The VARO's toll-free telephone numbers for different areas of the state can be obtained from the telephone directory.

2 from area on dean's list

Spring Arbor College officials recently named Diane L. Cooper and Dean M. Whittaker, both of Cass City, to that school's dean's list.

Full-time undergraduate students who achieve a grade point average of 3.5 or better are eligible for the honor.

Spring Arbor College, Spring Arbor, is a private, 4-year Christian evangelical liberal arts school located 8 miles west of Jackson. Affiliated with the Free Methodist Church of North America, the college has an enrollment of more than 1,300 students.

Fire guts old pickup

The inside cab of an old pickup truck was demolished in a fire Monday after it was being worked on with a cutting torch.

The truck was on the property of Lyle Anker, 4511 Milligan, when it caught fire.

Elkland Township Fire Department was called to the scene at 5:12 p.m. Upon arrival, Elkland firemen called Elmwood-Gagetown Fire Department to the fire because it was in Elmwood's area.

Gagetown assistant fire chief Dave Abbe reported that no one was injured and the loss was minimal.

Elkland to buy trees for cemetery

The Elkland Township Board Monday approved purchase of several trees and recommended approval of a Public Act 116 application.

Township Clerk Norma Wallace reported that at least 20 blue spruce trees will be purchased and planted this fall at the township cemetery. Estimated cost of the trees is $38 each, she said.

Turning to the P.A. 116 request, Wallace said the application, from Earl and Vernetta Rayl, is for 60 acres in the northwest corner of the township.

Rita Sarles, Mayville, dies in crash

A 53-year-old Mayville woman died last Wednesday after the vehicle she was riding in was struck by another vehicle on M-24 about a quarter mile west of Mayville Road in Dayton Township.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Rita J. Sarles.

Sarles was a passenger in a vehicle driven by her son, William H. Sarles, 19, who was eastbound on M-24 at about 4:50 p.m. when his vehicle was struck by a westbound vehicle, driven by Todd A. Isham, 26, of Fostoria.

Deputies said the Isham vehicle had crossed over into the eastbound lane prior to impact, which caused both vehicles to go out of control. Both came to rest on the south side of the roadway.

Both Rita and William Sarles were transported to Caro Community Hospital, where William was treated and then released. Isham was transported by Flight Care to Saginaw General Hospital, Saginaw. He was discharged Saturday, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The accident remains under investigation by deputies, who were assisted at the scene by the Michigan State Police, Watertown Township Police and the Mayville Fire Department.

Auxiliary chooses officers

Members of the Hills and Dales Hospital Auxiliary elected officers during their June 26 monthly meeting, held at the Charmont and attended by 19.

Selected as officers for the next year are Georgine Jensen, president; Helen Bartle, vice president, and Betty Hurst, secretary/treasurer. The new officers will be installed at the auxiliary's next regular meeting, an annual luncheon slated for Sept. 26 at the Charmont.

In other business during the June 26 session, members noted they will have a bake sale July 14 in conjunction with Cass City's Sidewalk Sale Days.

For Health Insurance That's A Cut Above The Rest

Consider the 24 Karat Major Medical Plan from Time Insurance. Time's plan outlines the competition because more value has been built into every benefit you receive. Values like:

- Freedom to choose your doctor and hospital
- 15% non-smoker's discount
- Prescription drugs, ambulance, and x-ray coverage
- 100% coverage for pre-admission testing, second surgical opinions, home health care and more.

In addition, because the 24 Karat is a hospital pre-certification plan, it uses a system of managed health care to ensure that every hospital treatment and service you receive is medically appropriate for you. For more information contact:

6 from area are Ferris graduates

Several area students recently graduated from Ferris State University. They are Christopher Hurford, Mike Wallace, Cass City High School alumni, James Hahn, Lisa Weitschat, both of Deford, Dawn Bradley, Snover and Carrie Murdock, Ubly. Hurford, 23, received an associates degree in applied science. Currently, he is taking classes to further his education and will earn a bachelor of science degree with a major in production management and a minor in welding technology after the fall semester. His parents, Bette and Lynn Hurford, recently moved to Florida. Wallace, a 1987 Cass City graduate, finished Ferris' 2 year associates degree program in applied science with a major in technical illustration. He is the son of Bill and Karen Wallace. He is presently employed at Creative Universal in Troy. Hahn earned a 2-year associates degree in applied science with a major in heavy equipment services. Two weeks after graduation Hahn obtained a job at Diesel Truck Sales in Saginaw as a mechanic. He is the son of Elmer and Judy Hahn. Murdock, 20, received an associates degree in applied arts. She now works at WLEW radio station in Bad Axe as a disc jockey/news-woman. She is the daughter of Mary Lou Maurer and the late William J. Murdock. Weitschat received an associates degree in applied arts with a major in pre-arts. Bradley, who obtained an associates degree in applied science with a major in legal assistance, received honors for obtaining a GPA between 3.25 and 3.49.

Farm Bureau supports disaster assistance bill

Farm Bureau supports the disaster assistance bill passed by the U.S. House last week. According to Michigan Farm Bureau's director of public affairs, Al Almy, the bill, H.R. 2467, is basically an extension of the 1988 disaster aid legislation. "Based on the extent of crop losses that have already occurred in 1989, and the fact that the federal crop insurance program is still unworkable in many cases, we believe this assistance is warranted," Almy said. Michigan Farm Bureau President Jack Laurie is serving on a commission charged with making recommendations to improve the federal crop insurance program. Almy explained that under the legislation, producers will be eligible for disaster payments on crop production for program and non-program crops. Payments will be made at 65% of the target price or market price for losses between 35% and 75% of the production. The payment rate will increase to 90% for losses exceeding 75% of normal production. "Two provisions of the new bill differ from last year's disaster assistance legislation. Crop insurance will be required next year for all producers who receive disaster assistance, and the definition of damaging weather was expanded to include a freeze," Almy said. Producers would not be required to obtain multiperil crop insurance if the coverage is not available, the producer's annual premium rate is greater than 125% of the average premium rate for the 1989 crop, or the rate is greater than 25% of the disaster benefits received. A producer would be exempted from the insurance requirement if, on appeal to the county ASCS committee, it is determined that the purchase of crop insurance would pose undue financial hardship on the producer. For producers of 1989 crops planted in 1988, crop insurance will be required only if losses exceed 65%. All other 1989-crop producers will be required to purchase crop insurance next year.

Democratic Committee slates meet

The Tuscola County Democratic Committee will meet July 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Tuscola County Courthouse Annex Building, county commissioners office, Caro. All members are encouraged to attend and guests are welcome. Jim McLoskey, Economic Development Corp. director, will be the guest speaker and will discuss the economic development of the county. More information is available by calling 673-3578.

On average, Salt Lake City, Utah gets 17 inches more snow a year than Fairbanks, Alaska.

Crops field day slated next month

A statewide crops field day will be held in the Thumb from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Aug. 3, according to Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension director.

The special day will be attracting large crowds to the Pigeon area looking at many demonstration plots and viewing the exhibits in the commercial test, Bortel said.

Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port High School is the starting location. There will be free guided bus tours throughout the day visiting narrow row sugar beets, dry beans, soybeans and corn; fertilizer comparisons; no-till alfalfa seeding; subirrigated corn, soybeans, dry beans and sugar beets and looking at overhead irrigation scheduling and phosphorus plots. A special demonstration will show the plow pan buster in action.

The crops field day is sponsored by the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Huron County Soil Conservation District. Food will be available at the school from the Laker Athletic Boosters.

Additional information is available by contacting Jim LeCureux or Denise Hobkirk at the Huron County Cooperative Extension Service, 269-9949.

United Way meet slated

The Tuscola County Economic Development Corp. is spearheading an effort to get some new blood in local United Way campaigns in the county.

All past and current United Way volunteers, and others interested in getting involved, are invited to attend a meeting on the topic Monday starting at 7 p.m. at the Detroit Edison Building, 125 W. Lincoln St., Caro.

County EDC Executive Director Jim McLoskey said the purpose of the meeting will be to talk about getting more people involved in local United Way campaigns and why a strong countywide and local effort is needed.

"It all kind of boils down to the quality of life," McLoskey remarked, adding successful campaigns throughout the county "are going to present that much better of an image to businesses that may be considering coming to the area."

McLoskey noted he hopes to get a representative of the Elkland-Novesta United Way group to attend the meeting to discuss the ingredients of a successful local effort.

"Elkland-Novesta is probably the best local in the county," he pointed out, adding the Cass City-area effort consistently reaches its annual fundraising goal.

HEALTH TIPS

Learning to cope with arthritis

Arthritis can cause a lifetime of pain. Even though some people with arthritis do experience only moderate pain, there are many others who endure a great deal of pain on a regular basis. For these people, it is important that they learn what they can do for themselves to help ease the pain. They also should know where they can turn to for professional help once they have done all they can do on their own. This is essential because allowing arthritis to go untreated can result in more damage to the body.

One of the best things people with arthritis can do for themselves is to learn how to manage their pain. One way to accomplish this is to relax. For those who find it hard to relax, some experts recommend that they learn relaxation techniques.

Another way to manage pain is to pay less attention to it and concentrate on something else. Some people with arthritis say they actually feel better when they're involved in activities outside the house.

However, if the pain is severe or will not subside, it may be necessary to take other steps. These could include: Medication, joint protection, exercise and heat/cold therapy.

Other symptoms often experienced by people with arthritis are depression, anger and stress. These conditions result, many times, because activities may have to be curtailed. However, instead of feeling upset or angry about not being able to take part in activities they once enjoyed, attention should be focused on activities that can be done or on finding new ways of using skills. For example, if a person loves to garden but can no longer stoop or kneel, he/she should consider getting raised flower beds.

Even after a person learns new ways to cope with arthritis, there still may be times when help is needed, whether it be from a close friend, family member or a professional. A friend or family member can help with small tasks such as picking up an item from the store, however a professional should be consulted for health or medical advice. Depending on the type of assistance needed, there are many people available to help, such as:

Doctors, nurses, physical therapists, medical social workers, pharmacists, medical and X-ray technologists, occupational therapists, orthopedic surgeons, counselors or psychologists and nutritionists.

In addition, there are organizations such as the Arthritis Foundation that offer self-help and support programs for people with arthritis. Families and friends can also help by visiting more often or by making arrangements with a home care service or temporary agency to have someone visit for companionship.

Accepting arthritis as a fact of life and learning to live with it may take a lot of time and patience. However, the results may be well worth the effort.

The Arthritis Foundation offers more information on "Taking Charge" and "Self-Help Tips." For more information about accepting responsibility and learning to live with arthritis, contact the Arthritis Foundation's Michigan Chapter at 23999 Northwestern Highway, Suite 210, Southfield, Mich. 48075. Or call them at (313) 350-3030 and ask for the brochures "Practical Information - Where to Turn for Help" and "Taking Charge: Learning to Live With Arthritis."

MDOT slates county work

Three projects in Tuscola County are included in road improvements that will be put out on bids today (Wednesday) in Lansing, the Michigan Department of Transportation announced.

A total of 72 highway and airport projects will be included at a total estimated cost of $37 million, officials said.

The local road projects, and their estimated completion dates, are: asphalt resurfacing and widening on one mile of McEldowney Road from Bay City-Forestville Road to the Huron County line, July 1990; asphalt resurfacing on one mile of Cemetery Road from Bay City-Forestville Road to the Huron County line and on 1.2 miles of Vassar Road from Darbee Road to Dutcher Road, November 1989; and construction of an engine house northeast of the depot at 538 E. Huron Avenue in Vassar, December 1989.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The board was reorganized for the year and all officers were re-elected. They are: Dr. Ed Scollon, president; Jim Turner, vice-president; Ben Hobart, secretary, and Dick Wallace, treasurer.

OTHER BUSINESS

Five bids were received to furnish the school with a $1.2 million loan until tax funds are received. Low bidder was Thumb National Bank of Pigeon and Cass City with an interest rate of 6.09 percent and a total cost of $52,983.

There were some 50 applicants for the position of custodian. Six were interviewed and Don Loomis was hired.

The board instructed Micklash to investigate what other schools are doing for discipline other than out-of-school suspensions. Turner would like to see something done other than kicking students out of school for a brief time. Micklash will have a comparison for the board showing how the problem is handled in other schools of a similar size and present it at the next meeting.

The Higher Horizon Day Care Center asked that elementary students be picked up and delivered to the high school, where they would be met by a representative of the Center, which is under construction across the street from the school. The Center then would be able to care for these students until their parents finish work, eliminating any need for the children to be alone. The board authorized the delivery from the elementary school to the high school because it requires no extra expense to the district. The remaining part of the request was denied.

At state fair Speaking contest slated

Future orators are invited to enter the Youth Public Speaking Contest at the 1989 Michigan State Fair.

The contest will begin at 10 a.m. Sept. 2 in the Agriculture Building. Deadline for entry is Aug. 1.

To qualify, contestants must be high school students during the 1989 calendar year. Speeches should be 5 to 7 minutes long and prepared from a list of 20 topics provided in the State Fair Youth Premium Book. Contestants are asked to prepare from 2 of the topics listed. Three copies of an outline on both topics must be provided for the judges.

Research skills, organization and ability to speak extemporaneously will be emphasized, with special attention paid by the judges to the introduction, eye contact, hand gestures, content, ability to inform, clarity of expression and conclusion.

Established in 1849, the Michigan State Fair is the country's oldest State Fair. The dates for the 141st annual Michigan State Fair are Aug. 25 through Sept. 4 (Labor Day).

Complete rules and entry forms are available in the Youth Premium Book, available free from the Livestock section. Write the Michigan Exposition and Fairgrounds, 1120 West State Fair Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48203, or call (313) 369-8290 for more information.

Balzer attends LWML meet

Over 7,000 women from throughout the United States and Canada met recently in Rapid City, S.D., for the biennial convention of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League.

The LWML is an auxiliary organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

Six women from the Thumb area, including Ruth Balzer of Cass City, attended the 3-day meeting.

The theme of the convention, "Seek His Face Always," was expanded by a variety of speakers as well as Bible study and special worship services. A goal of $1,010,000 was accepted for 15 new mission projects throughout the world for the next 2 years.

The monies for these projects are collected by the nearly 200,000 members in their mite boxes, as they regularly give of their

Letters to the editor

Where was the flag?

Editor,
Why, does one wonder, is there such an apparent lack of interest by many Cass City merchants in displaying the flag?

Right now, the flag and showing its proper respect are prime interest topics. Still, the 4th of July found Cass City's downtown area shockingly barren of flags. The approaches to the village were much more patriotic in their flying of the colors.

Not only veterans groups commented on this failure of many business places to fly flags, but also other visitors who lined the streets. It doesn't seem too much to ask the merchants to raise their flags on special days,

3 motorists arrested in Cass City by village police

Cass City police reported making 3 arrests — 2 on suspected drinking and driving offenses — over the past 8 days.

Police arrested William V. Speckine, 28, of Fairgrove early Saturday afternoon after an officer recognized the suspect in the Hardee's parking lot.

Speckine was taken into custody near the intersection of Main Street and Comment Drive on a valid traffic warrant (no valid license in possession) and for driving while his license was restricted or suspended.

Earlier the same day, Jeffrey L. Spencer, 36, 4405 Woodland Avenue, Cass City, was arrested on Main Street near Weaver Street on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, subsequent offense.

Reports state Spencer was stopped at about 2:25 a.m. for defective equipment.

Police arrested Kenneth E. Blue, 48, 4187 Hurds Corner Rd., Cass City, on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor July 4 at about 2:10 a.m.

According to reports, an officer observed Blue driving off the roadway onto the road shoulder 3 times. Blue, who was stopped on M-81 near Spence Road, also was clocked at a speed of 75 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone.

Sometime around the middle of May 1989, suspects broke into a garage located on Brown Road in Vassar Township.

Taken in the burglary were a 12,000 BTU kerosene heater and a miter box and saw.

Investigators recovered 2 lawn mowers and a roto tiller in a field a short way from the victim's garage. Apparently the suspects planned to return and pick up the rest of the loot.

July 4, 1989,
in Cass City

THE HILLS and Dales float saluted nursing and won the Belle Schwaderer award for being the most original float.

THE FIRST BAPTIST Church of Cass City won the Meredith B. Auten award for the most patriotic float.

THE CASS CITY Rotary Club took a step back in history for its float depicting a man on the moon, which won the President's award.

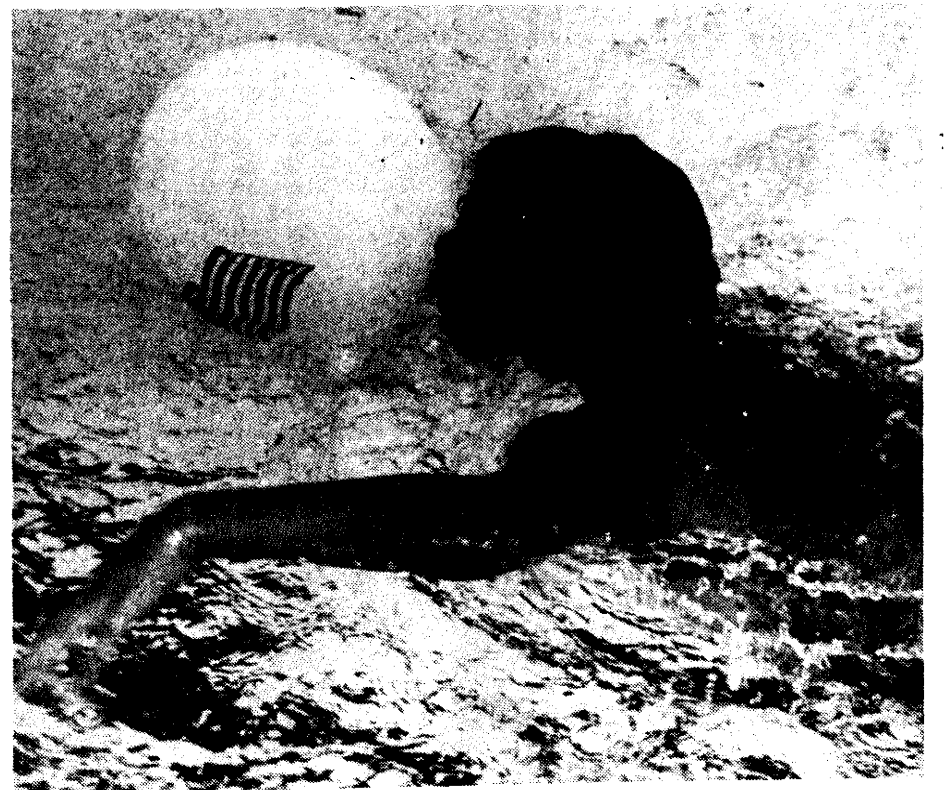

THESE 2 COMEDIANS added a little spice in this year's parade by showing a rather embarrassing moment in this clown's life.

'MUD VOLLEYBALL' action was literally down and dirty. This aggressive player attempts a diving save against The Zurks, who eventually won the tournament in the men's division.

SNOVER'S VIC Jacobs walked away with first place in the horseshoe event, which saw 18 pitchers compete.

A BALLOON SWIM race was one of several children's games at the pool this year. This girl's pace was steady and cautious, ensuring that she wouldn't lose her balloon.

THIS TROPICAL island float depicting Hawaii was entered by Provincial House and won the Dr. Harry Crandell award for the prettiest float.

Festival highlights

The slight drizzle in the late afternoon pleased some 50 to 75 tot run participants as they were able to have all the games and not worry about the heat that occurred earlier in the day.

Even though the temperature decreased as the day progressed the swimming pool stayed heavily populated as some 50 children competed in the pool games and approximately 278 people took a dip during the open swim.

Other wet events such as the firemen's water battle and the mud volleyball were also big crowd-pleasers once again.

Fifteen teams, which included 5 women's teams, competed in the water ball fight almost doubling the number of teams from last year. Rochester I won the men's division, Mayville's team came in 2nd and Rochester II was 3rd. In the women's division Kingston was 1st, Vassar placed 2nd and Fostoria ended in 3rd place.

Last year's senior men's mud volleyball champs, The Beach Boys, were dethroned in a close match by The Zurks. The Good Boys won the boys' youth division and Mona's Mud Monsters were victorious in the junior girls' division. A total of 14 teams competed in this year's contest, which was down from last year. The games were refereed by Colleen Langenburg, Krista Numberger and Tammy Hurd.

In the horseshoe competition Vic Jacobs, Snover resident, won the tournament in which 18 men competed. Second place finisher was Cass City resident Les Auten, who also won the silver dollar toss, and the high qualifier for the tournament was Phil Robinson.

Later in the evening a large crowd came to the basketball courts not to watch basketball but to see the Sally Doerr Dancers perform. Girls and women of all ages dressed in colorful costumes delighted family and friends by performing tap, jazz and ballet numbers.

The square dance and teen dance also were popular for participants and spectators. There were 16 couples at the square dance and even more people at the teen dance, which officially ended the festival Tuesday night.

But before the teen dance began the fireworks flew in front of a large crowd which spread throughout Cass City. Event coordinators said the number of spectators made the $3,000 fireworks show all worth it.

A PAIR OF STUNT motorcyclists demonstrated the art of balance and, during the parade, the art of riding a bike up and over a car.

AN EXPLOSION OF light and sound marked the perfect end to a near perfect 11th annual Fourth of July Festival in Cass City.

A TALENTED ape man amused young and old alike along the parade route.

CASS CITY ROTARY Club members were up early for the pancake breakfast. Gagetown resident Ben Hobart cheerfully flipped the hotcakes for most of the morning.

AFTER A SMOOTH landing, Burk takes a few moments to talk with roving co-master of ceremonies Wayne Dillon.

FORMER CASS CITYAN Alvin Burk returned to his hometown in style on the Fourth, arriving on Main Street at 10:30 a.m. (as promised) to kick off the village's annual parade.

RELIEF FROM THE heat and entertaining competition were combined during the Fourth in front of the Elkland Township Fire Hall, where 15 teams battled for supremacy in the firemen's waterball fight.

THE GIRLS' 3 on 3 tournament didn't get quite as fierce as the men's, but the action was still very much alive.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

First, Canada went bi-lingual to keep the people in Quebec from revolting. Now the country is quadrilingual:

- ENGLISH
- FRENCH
- JAPANESE
- METRIC

In British Columbia and Alberta you feel conspicuous when dining if you aren't using chopsticks. In Banff, Alberta, Canadians have ordered hotels to save at least 30% of the hotel rooms for the natives. The Orientals have the rest.

As to metric, Canada went to this system with a vengeance. Nobody knows how far a kilometer is, and everyone has forgotten the old English system, because the subject cannot even be mentioned. No kidding - a Vancouver lumber dealer advertised 2x4's, and got hauled into court.

If you think this is all silly, try figuring out how much a gallon of gas costs you. It is sold in liters (33.6 ounces, isn't it?) and you pay in Canadian, which is 1.23 to the U.S. dollar.

OK. So you have a rental car and extra kilometers over the allowance cost you 19¢ Canadian. The little Toyota you have looks as though it would get 27 miles to the gallon. The question is, suppose you want to drive to Banff and back from Lake Louise. In the pre-metric days the trip was 73 miles. How much will the gas cost you at 43¢ Canadian per liter plus the cost of mileage at 19¢ per km? Even IBM would choke on this one.

An even bigger problem is entering Canada 100% legally. Air Canada gave me a pamphlet listing items that are restricted from entry. One of them is HAIR.

HAIR is permitted only if it has been "commercially washed, processed or dyed."

I have never had a commercial hair-wash. Only processing my hair has had with a comb. I tried a little dye once, but it came out looking greenish.

I got through the border inspection by pulling my golf hat down over my ears. All well and good, but the darned thing stuck and I had to wear it to dinner.

Once across the border, and except for the metric system, Canada is a great country. Mother's folks all came from Ontario. Our family has vacationed there for nigh onto a century. Dad canoeed there so much they gave him a guide's license.

This time Jennifer and I did the Canadian Rockies the old-fashioned way - by train. Starting at Calgary, we took VIA RAIL, Canadian version of Amtrak. There is a special train that does the stretch from Calgary (or Jasper, to the north) all the way to Vancouver. All by daylight.

The daylight ride is made possible by an overnight stop half way at Kamloops, where the passengers are put up at hotels. Then the train gets underway the next morning and continues down the Thompson and Fraser Rivers to Vancouver. We rode the thing both ways. On the return, you can branch off at Kamloops and go northeasterly to Jasper.

Seats are reserved on the coaches. Breakfast and lunch are served, airplane style. There is bar service. The roadbed is first-class. Continuous rails cut out the clackety clack of the old trains. The ride is smooth and quiet. Coaches are air-conditioned.

There is lots of action on the way. Thirty-eight freight trains a day go over this route. Probably it's the busiest stretch of railroad in North America.

If you should ever take this trip, by all means include Jasper National Park. It is the crown jewel of the Rockies. Far nicer than Lake Louise. Place to stay is Jasper Park Lodge.

Avoid Banff. It's a shotgun marriage of New York and Tokyo.

We spent 5 days at Jasper and never backtracked. We rented a car (AVIS) and after leaving Jasper drove down the beautiful scenic highway to the Columbia ice fields, and on to Lake Louise, spent a day at the Chateau, then drove on to Calgary and caught the plane to Toronto. Air Canada is a dandy airline.

Calgary itself is a good town and a couple days there will be pleasant. The Glenbow museum and the Olympic Winter Games complex will take a day to cover. Westin Hotel is excellent.

Speaking of hotels, the Four Seasons in Vancouver rates with us among our top 10. When breakfast is brought to the room, even the newspaper has been warmed. Nothing like starting the day with hot news.

Goslin resigns, Abbe returns to board in Owen-Gage district

Citing personal reasons, veteran Owen-Gage School Board member Patrick Goslin surprised his fellow board trustees Monday by submitting his resignation after 13 years on the board. Goslin read a brief letter to the board, saying he's enjoyed serving the district but is "no longer able to give the time" necessary to fulfill the duties of his post. He then recommended, and the board approved, the appointment of Mary Ann Abbe to the vacancy.

Abbe, who was ousted from the board during the annual school election last month after serving one term, was contacted by telephone Monday night and agreed to accept the appointment. She will now finish the third year of Goslin's current 4-year term before the vacancy is filled by voters in the next general election.

Board members, who accepted Goslin's resignation "with regret", lauded the trustee's dedication and performance during his tenure on the board.

In other business during the 80-minute monthly session, the board voted to rescind a motion made last month to hire Asbestos Control Services, Sanford, after the company increased by more than 31 percent its bid to the district for asbestos removal in the high school.

School Supt. Harley Kirby noted that the district accepted an original bid of $21,200 from Asbestos Control via a consortium arrangement with the Huron Intermediate School District and a Kalamazoo consulting firm. However, Lakers, the other school involved, chose another asbestos removal company also participating in the consortium, Kirby said. He explained that officials from Asbestos Control upped their quote to $27,800 because the firm's bid wasn't also selected by Lakers.

GOOD NEWS

The good news, Kirby told the board, is that the company chosen by Lakers, Performance Abatement Services, Holt, has agreed to remove asbestos at Owendale High School for $22,727.

The board approved the bid. Kirby said the work is expected to begin July 24.

Also approved were sidewalk repair and replacement at the district's elementary school in Gagetown.

Kirby, who noted school and village officials discussed, but didn't act on, the proposed improvements last year, suggested that the work be done in compliance with repeated recommendations from the district's insurance company.

The superintendent remarked that the project involves work along the east and south sides of the building, including a large cement entrance to the gymnasium.

The school's share of the work will be $1,156, he said, adding the village has agreed to supply the labor and pay for more than $600 of the total project cost.

REORGANIZATION

Prior to Monday's regular meeting, the board held its annual reorganizational meeting.

Aside from the swearing-in of newly elected Trustee Tom Fritz, the board elected Trustee William Kretzschmer president, replacing Joseph Warack at the post. Trustees Ron Good and Jack Brinkman will continue in their respective posts or vice-president and treasurer, and Abbe will return to her seat as board secretary. Also, Trustee Walter Swiastyn was selected assistant treasurer, Fritz was elected assistant secretary and Warack was named liaison officer.

Also Monday, the board: *Approved a bid not to exceed $10,500 from Johnson Controls Inc., Saginaw, for heating system repairs in both the elementary and high school. The bid was tabled last month pending contact with area contractors, but no written response has been received from a local company, Kirby said.

*Discussed hiring someone to serve as secretary for board meetings, allowing the board secretary to concentrate on matters being discussed rather than on taking the monthly minutes.

*Approved a one-year child care leave of absence as requested by teacher Joanne Hopper.

*Appointed Warack to serve on the Huron County School Board Association for the 1989-90 school year. Swiastyn was appointed the alternate.

WHNN, consortium to play for Toys For Tots

The WHNN - Sunny 96 FM radio station ball team from Saginaw will be in action Saturday evening, July 29, in Marlette.

For the second consecutive year the WHNN "Air Aces" have accepted a challenge from the Thumb Area Consortium/Growth Alliance "Terminators" to play a promotional softball game which benefits the Toys For Tots charity.

All proceeds and toys received at the event will be donated to the 1989 Toys For Tots campaign for Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties.

Jerome Lewis, Assistant Director of the Thumb Area

Consortium/Growth Alliance commented, "The first Toys For Tots promotional ball game between the "Air Aces" and the "Terminators" was played last year in Cass City during one of the hottest afternoons of the summer. However, the heat did not discourage the numerous spectators who attended the game and lent support to the cause. As a result, 21 Thumb area children had a brighter Christmas because of the generosity of many people."

"Our goal this year is to at least double last year's proceeds," Lewis added.

Spokespersons from WHNN and the Consortium/Alliance said that there is no admission charge for the ball game, but rather a freewill cash contribution or a donation of a new unwrapped toy is encouraged to support the Toys For Tots effort. Donations from businesses and civic groups are also welcomed.

The game will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Marlette Community Park field. Complimentary WHNN promotional items will be available at game time.

Swim-a-thon slated in Cass City

Once again this year, the Cass City Pool staff is sponsoring an annual swim-a-thon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association July 27 and 28, from 10 a.m. to 10 a.m.

The event is a 24-hour marathon open to all swimmers. Last year, the event raised close to $1,000, which was used to continue comprehensive programs of patient service activities for children and adults afflicted with neuromuscular diseases throughout the Thumb.

A few weeks prior to the swim, participants will be collecting pledges and sponsor donations, trying to top that $1,000 mark.

Interested swimmers can pick up packets at the pool or call Adam Suzor at 872-2673 for further information.
