

A SANILAC COUNTY farmhouse, hit by lightning Sunday, had already burned to the ground when fire fighters arrived.

Loss set at $30,000 in Evergreen Township fire

A vacant 2-story Evergreen Township farm house was leveled by fire early Sunday evening after the structure was hit by lightning.

Elkland Township Fire Chief Dick Root said fire fighters were called to the scene shortly after 6 p.m., but that the house, located at 4198 Lamton Rd., was "all gone when we got there." Root, who said it isn't known who owns the structure, estimated the loss at $25,000 to $30,000.

He said firemen remained at the scene for about 90 minutes, until electric service could be disconnected.

Also over the weekend, fire damaged a 1989 model Chevrolet Beretta owned by Jerry Randall, 2821 Froede Rd., Kingston.

Root said Randall was driving on M-53 about 1 1/2 miles south of M-81 at 12:10 p.m. when the vehicle's apparently faulty exhaust system ignited a fire in the trunk.

Randall was unaware of the blaze until a passing motorist flagged him down, Root said. Damage is estimated at $2,500.

Last week, fire fighters responded to a gas can fire at the Lloyd Bryant residence, 6392 Houghton St., Cass City.

The fire was out when firemen arrived, according to Root, who noted no one was injured in the Aug. 8 incident.

$250,000 surplus? Financial picture rosy at Cass City Schools

Cass City Public Schools has scored 2 big hits in the economic arena and needs just one more to score heavily in the battle to keep ahead of the financial crunch that faces most districts in these days of high costs and voter resistance to more taxes.

The first hurdle was overcome last Tuesday when district voters approved 2 additional mills for operation, 577 to 467 votes. It was the second try for the millage which was defeated by 26 votes in June.

The second favorable development is the increase in state aid that is expected to be adopted and will push the amount generated per pupil from $2,595 in 1988-89 to $2,893 in the upcoming school year.

The third factor affecting school revenues is the number of pupils in the school. Last year there were 1,649 students in the system and that figured out to be 20 fewer than anticipated. In other years more students than expected have enrolled.

If the student load remains the same or greater and if state aid materializes as expected, Cass City should have a surplus at the end of the year. We have steadily been depleting our fund equity with deficit spending for several years, Supt. Ken Micklash reports, and if we can build it back to about 10 percent of expenditures (approaching $5 million) it will be about right for our conservative district, although other districts like to have a greater amount.

Although the fund balance has decreased in the last several years, Micklash said that there is good news for the last school year. The auditors are going over the books now and it appears as if the district will be $17,000 in the black.

An adequate fund balance should enable the district to borrow less money for operation while waiting for state aid funds. If all goes well, the district should be able to add $250,000 to fund equity this year, Micklash estimated.

The passage of the millage means, of course, that all threatened programs will be restored.

It's likely that the extra millage was passed because the district still has impressive cost figures to present. Micklash said that the new total operating rate of 30.9 mills still leaves Cass City at the very bottom of the list in millage raised. Two districts, Mayville and Reese, have votes still to come for operating millage and if they are passed, Cass City's position as the least expensive district in terms of millage raised will continue.

Millage axed, Koylton to fight camp anyway

Despite residents' rejection last week of a request for extra millage, Koylton Township officials say they will continue to fund their zoning battle with Pioneer Work and Learn Center, at least until the case returns to court.

Residents defeated a request of 2 extra mills for 3 years by a margin of more than 2-to-one during a special election Aug. 8. The vote was 177-69, with about 30 percent of the township's 800 registered voters casting ballots.

The request, which would have raised about $25,000 annually, was earmarked for general operations.

Officials, however, indicated part of the revenue was needed to help offset legal expenses tied to the township's fight against the juvenile rehabilitation facility operating at Kingston Hills Camp.

Prior to the election, township Clerk Winford Groner had repeatedly said the board would probably stop funding the battle if the millage was rejected.

However, township Supervisor Terry Boyne told about 20 persons attending the township board's monthly meeting Thursday that the township is committed to seeing the battle through to circuit court.

"We're not going to jump the boat and destroy $30,000 worth of work," he said, referring to the amount spent by the township so far on legal costs.

The zoning battle stems from Pioneer Work and Learn Center's use of the camp, located south of Kingston. Township zoning officials contend the use represents an illegal nonconforming use -- that operation of a "work and learn" camp is inconsistent with the uses allowed at the facility under township zoning laws.

A decision in the case is expected to be issued late this month by the township Zoning Board of Appeals, which heard both sides' attorneys arguments over a 3-month period that ended June 15.

Tot hit by car after wandering into street

A Cass City toddler was injured early Monday evening when he wandered onto a village street and was struck by a southbound car.

The child, Joseph R. Vandercar, 4222 S. Seeger St., was listed in "fair" condition Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Medical Center in Saginaw.

Cass City police didn't have the names of the child's parents, but stated the family recently moved to Cass City from out of state.

A witness told police that the child toddled west from the east curb of Seeger Street, just south of Garfield Avenue, to the middle of the roadway at about 6:06 p.m. when he was struck by the vehicle, driven by B.A. Calka, 6306 Main St., Cass City.

Calka told police he swerved to the left to avoid hitting the child but was unable to avoid the accident.

Cass City-Mercy Ambulance personnel transported the boy to Hills and Dales General Hospital. He was transferred a short while later to St. Mary's by Flight-Care Helicopter.

Also over the past week, 2

Cass City women sought their own treatment for minor injuries following a 2-vehicle accident Friday on Main Street east of Brooker Street in Cass City.

Police reported that Kimberlee M. Bader, 4678 Kennebec Drive, was westbound on Main Street at about 9:15 p.m. when she stopped behind a vehicle turning south onto Brooker Street and was struck from behind by another westbound vehicle, driven by Paul S. Szarapski, 5485 E. Kelly Rd., Cass City.

Bader and a passenger in her vehicle, Cheryl S. Spencer, 4343 West St., Cass City, complained of minor injuries, according to reports, which state neither was wearing a seat belt. Szarapski was wearing a seat belt.

Both vehicles involved in the incident sustained minor damage.

Minor vehicle damage also was reported last week by Terry L. Nichols, 4321 Argyle Rd., Snover, who struck a deer while driving north on Germania Road north of Robinson Road Aug. 8.

New Cass City plant to employ 7 persons

The owners of an industrial supply company now located just southeast of Pigeon say they're looking forward to doing business in Cass City.

A 2-story, 7,500-square foot building now under construction at 4170 Doerr Rd. in the Cass City Industrial Park will be the new home of Huron Industrial Supply, the latest addition to the village's business community.

Dennis Irion, who along with his wife, Karen, owns the firm, says he hopes to be in business in Cass City by the end of September.

"We're very anxious to get out there. We've just outgrown our capacity here," Irion remarked last week, adding the move represents expansion as well as relocation.

Aside from a planned increase in the number of employees from 5 to 7, Irion said he plans to take advantage of additional space.

"We're going to more or less close this down here and move everything to Cass City," he continued. Irion pointed out he'll maintain and utilize his building at 765 Notter Rd. as a warehouse.

Irion said his company has been in business for 8 years and serves a variety of customers ranging from farmers to machine shops to large manufacturing firms. One of his new neighbors, Walbro Corp., is among his primary customers.

Irion, who is both a wholesaler and retailer, noted his firm's primary emphasis is on industrial supply sales, including a full line of hand and power tools, cutting tools, lathes, milling machines and material handling equipment. "We sell and service welding equipment (and) we're into lubricants, janitorial supplies," he commented. "We're into just about anything and everything."

Irion said his decision to relocate in Cass City was based on the village's central location in the upper Thumb.

He explained that he wants to give existing and potential customers in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties a place to purchase tools and other supplies without having to travel to or order from Bay City, Saginaw, Flint or Detroit.

"Our main aim is to be able to serve their (customer's) needs," he said. "We want to do business wherever we can and be as competitive as we can."

Huron Industrial Supply is the second industrial firm to relocate in Cass City this summer.

The other company, Micro EDM Inc., moved to the village from Hamburg early last month. Employment at the small electrical discharge machining business, located in the former Engineered Tools Corp. building, 4429 Doerr Rd., is expected to climb to 10 to 15 persons in the next 2 years.

DENNIS IRION, owner of Huron Industrial Supply, Pigeon, stands inside the partially finished building at 4170 Doerr Rd., Cass City, that will serve as his company's new location.

Letting go

Whether or not we like it or care to admit it, summer is coming to a close, signaling the end of carefree vacation days.

The days are getting shorter, the nights cooler, and mothers are shopping the back-to-school sales.

Of greater concern for some parents is the prospect of sending their offspring away to college, many for the first time, which can be pretty traumatic. Any mother who's gone through it remembers the feeling.

After all, you've been almost solely responsible for this child for 18 years, since bringing her home from the hospital. Now, all of a sudden, she's leaving to live a separate life in a far-away location. (It doesn't really matter how far it is, distance wise, it seems light-years away to a mother.)

You had a foretaste when you took her to kindergarten the first time, and again when you sent her off to camp. But then you knew that, however frightening or difficult the experience might be, she'd be home in a couple hours, or at the end of the week, and you could fix anything that had gone wrong.

This time, you realize that she'll be living more or less permanently with people you don't know, learning things you're not familiar with, and facing heaven knows what temptations, without your oversight. And it's scary.

Ten years ago, Michigan State seemed like another planet when we deposited our firstborn there. Dad (The Rock) contacted some relatives we scarcely knew who lived halfway between Cass City and East Lansing, just in case she needed help or care to admit it, summer is coming to a close, signaling the end of carefree vacation days.

It sounds ridiculous now, but parenthood will do that to you.

I wish I could somehow assure the concerned parents today that their apprehension is unnecessary and will pass, but it's something that they have to go through.

Basically, you have to realize that she's still your child, the one you've trained, nurtured and taught all these years, and always will be. That's not going to change because she's living somewhere else.

Just as when she was learning to walk, you have to let go and allow her to stand on her own. She'll stumble a few times in getting her act together. But before long you'll be as proud of her poise and independence as you were when she toddled across the room alone.

Soon an even better, adult relationship will develop between the two of you, and you'll be surprised at how much the personal values she's adopted as her own resemble yours.

"If It Fitz..." Enjoy violence?

By Jim Fitzgerald

I saw Spike Lee's "Do the Right Thing" on Saturday and came away depressed. It wasn't so much the movie that got me down, it was the audience.

The theater was the AMC Bel-Air 10 on 8 Mile Road. A sign in the box office window warns that they won't give change for $100 bills. One hundred dollar bills? Some days I feel older than dirt.

Wasn't it only last year, or maybe 3 years ago, that many cashiers got huffy at the sight of a $20 bill? The average age of the Bel-Air crowd seemed around 18, even with an old poop like me skewing the equation. How many teenagers try to buy a $4 movie ticket with a $100 bill? Enough to prompt management to put up the sign, and that's the truth, Ruth.

On the way home, I couldn't help thinking that I probably handed the ticket-seller a $1 bill for 2 40-cent tickets to see "Patton" almost 20 years ago. "Patton" came easily to mind because the audience at that movie depressed me for the same reason the "Do the Right Thing" audience did.

Admittedly, it would seem to be an unlikely similarity. I saw "Patton" in a small-town theater where the audience was 100 percent white. I saw "Do the Right Thing" in a big-city theater where the audience was 99.9 percent black.

CRITIQUE OF 'PATTON' REBORN

In 1970, after seeing "Patton," I wrote: "General

George Patton was part maniac. A pompous, posturing martinet who admitted he loved leading men into battle. He was worried sick that World War II would end before he killed enough Germans to become a national hero.

"That's exactly the way George Scott portrayed Patton. To me, it was an anti-war movie. When Patton slapped a frightened soldier, or bragged about how many men he had killed, I cringed. I wondered how many more like him are left in the Pentagon. But all around me, people were laughing.

"There was a scene where Patton comforted wounded American soldiers by telling them he'd just seen some Germans in worse shape -- their heads were blown off. It made my eyeballs sting. But the man next to me slapped his knee and snorted in delight and admiration."

Flash forward to 1989. "Do the Right Thing" is a better movie than "Patton." It's an honest depiction of racism and its terrible consequences. The acting is so on-the-mark it's scary. And the climatic violence is no exaggeration of reality, no vulgar pandering to the Rambo fans. It had to happen.

But the audience laughed in the wrong places, the same as at "Patton." They loved it when heads were bashed and property destroyed. They whooped and giggled as the blood flowed. They made me sick.

It's easy to justify the violence in both movies: The United States and Patton had to be brutal to defeat the Nazis, and despite everything Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said, it's impossible to expect blacks to always react peaceably to oppression, especially when it includes the insensitivity and brutality depicted in "Do the Right Thing."

IGNORANCE COMES IN ALL COLORS

But good lord, do we have to enjoy the violence? The behavior of the majority of people in those 2 movie audiences demonstrates that ignorance has no complexion, and nothing important has changed much in 20 years. We're still a (so-called) civilization that punches, rather than reasons, and the guy we admire most is the guy who punches hardest. When bullies fight on our side, they become heroes.

Violence is so commonplace in this nation that we laugh when we see it in the movies. Racism is so ingrained that it takes a really super-sighted demagogue -- such as Mayor Coleman Young -- to see it where it really isn't.

But don't expect our leaders to do anything about it. They're too busy working to make sure no flag is burned, no uncommon art is encouraged, and no nuclear weapon is underfunded.

Onward and Upward, and don't take any wooden $100 bills.

Crawford reunion held Aug. 6

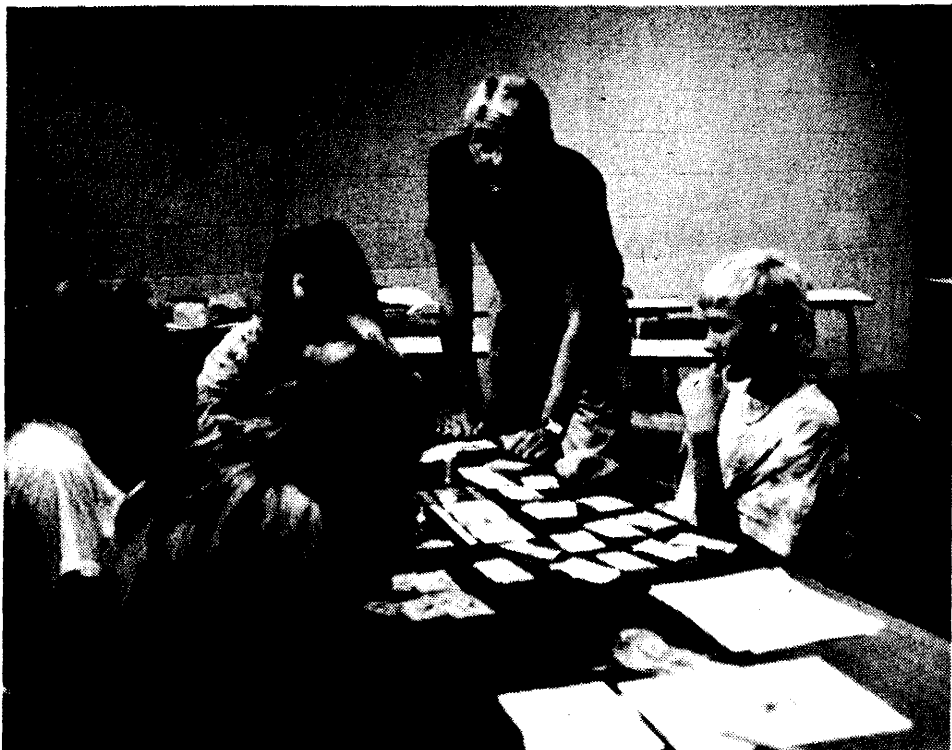

The annual reunion of the Clayton Crawford family, which was to have been held at the Cass City Recreational Park Sunday, Aug. 6, was held at Marion McClorey's due to inclement weather. Seventy-eight members and 16 guests attended.

The oldest member was Ellen Crawford and the youngest was Shawn McClorey of Gageton.

The group's officers are president, Lewis Crawford; vice-president, Harold McComb, and secretary-treasurer, Marion McClorey.

There was one death in the family during the year, Lila (Crawford) Parkinson of Sylvan Lake, but no births.

Guests came from Rochester Hills, Argyle, Bay City, Deford, Dearborn Heights, Gageton, Rochester, Saginaw, Caro and Cass City, William Crawford of Arizona came the farthest and he visited in this area for 2 weeks.

Local pupils try high tech camp

A number of area seventh and eighth grade students recently participated in a "high tech day camp" held at the Tuscola Area Skill Center and sponsored by the intermediate school district's Gifted and Talented Consortium.

The event provides high ability junior high school students with an opportunity to learn about the world of high technology. Classes offered during the camp emphasized hands-on learning with applicable computer technology. The mysteries of the human body and mind, decision making in the world of business and an opportunity to design an advertisement for a new product were among the topics explored by students.

Detroit Tiger baseball fans don't need to be told that the Tigers this year have the worst record in baseball.

This season reminds me of the year in the 1950's when the team finished flat out last for the first time in its history. It also reminds me of an incident. Another fan and I were talking about the plight of the team when it collapsed. Then, like now, the chic thing was to make put-down remarks about the team.

That's when my buddy piped up with, "First place or last place, win, lose or draw, I'm a Tiger fan forever." On that we agreed. Now during the current demise of the most winning team of the 1980's, I wonder if he is as staunch as ever.

Somehow I doubt it. I'd guess he would be more like me. Still a fan, but not one with the interest or the concern of 30 years ago. Age may have something to do with that, but it's not the primary reason.

It's because baseball has changed. Not the way the game is played, but who plays the game. I suppose you could make a case for yesterday's teams as better because there were fewer major league teams and the minor leagues were still active, producing more players who knew the game when they hit the big show.

It's certain that if today's players were on just 16 teams the level of play would be better than it is. But even with the dilution of talent because of league expansion, I'd stack today's teams against the championship teams that the Tigers had in 1934-35, 1940, and 1945.

There's big bucks in baseball these days. Athletes are bigger, stronger and smarter than they were 30 years ago. My guess is that they would wipe out the champions of the earlier era.

If that's the case, why the decline in interest? In the earlier era, even the casual fan could tell you the players on the team, at least those who played or pitched regularly.

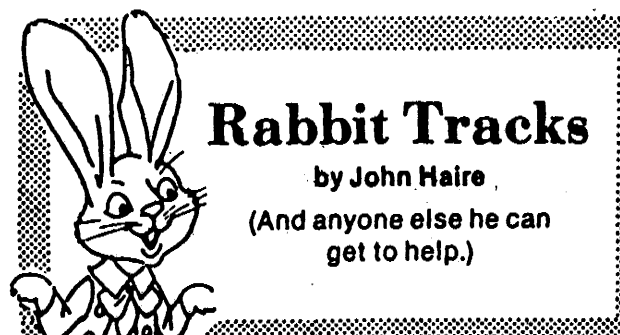

Today when I hear the starting line-up I don't know who they are talking about until they get to Whitaker or Trammell. The recognized stars have left and the rookies are on a trolley between the majors and the minors.

How can you relate to that? They bring up tired veterans or untried rookies, has beens or never weres, and they come and go almost daily.

Things are so bad at Michigan and Trumbull these days that Sparky Anderson is touting a kid who has been in baseball for about a year and plays at Lakeland, for heaven's sake. That's more than one step removed from the majors.

Having said all this, I admit that the embers of Tiger fever still burn and if that latest phenom (Rick Borogna) should live up to the billing, I'd be right there with all the other fans singing his praises.

It doesn't take much for a dyed-in-the-wool fan to have the spark re-ignited if the management allows them to play long enough to learn the names.

Rabbit Tracks by John Haire (And anyone else he can get to help.)

It's press day Thursday for Cass City High School fall sports. Where has the summer gone?

How much rain fell Sunday in Cass City and the immediate vicinity? Depends on whom you ask. The gauge at the waste water treatment plant showed 1.86 inches. That's not much compared with the measurement recorded by the gauge at the Dick Hampshire home in the trailer park, just down the road. He said he received 6 inches.

It was a scattered rain. Charles Carpenter said that water a foot deep was standing on his bean fields. In addition to the rain Sunday, Carpenter said that hail a foot deep collected in one spot on his farm, south of Cass City. Another resident, who lives on Pine Street, said that they launched a tiny sailboat down the middle of the street.

The news media went to desperate lengths trying to get an angle on that secrecy shrouded trip into space last week. The Chronicle received calls from NBC representatives and Channel 4 in Detroit seeking information about Cass City's renowned astronaut.

Here's another of those predictions from GTE's predictions of things to come by the year 2001. "Electronic motel" clerks will let you register for a room late at night with no attendant required. A machine will verify your credit card, then dispense your disposable room key and a printout of the transaction. All of which sounds great, but whom do you complain to when the room next door is in the midst of an all-night party?

Shabbona youth group spends week fixing home

BOTH WORK CREW members and their host family (above) worked together to help make the family's home (below) warmer, safer and drier.

A small group of Shabbona-Argyle area youths and their adult leaders recently accepted a challenge that took them to a small West Virginia coal mining town.

The trip lasted only 7 days for the teens—all members of a youth group from the Shabbona, Decker and Argyle United Methodist Church charge—and counselors Jerry and Normaleen Root of Cass City.

But the group says the time and money invested during that week was well spent.

Accompanied by the Roots, Jeff Bader, Dennille MacAlpine, Lisa Jones, Lyle Severance and Brenda Rockwell traveled to Iager, W. Va., early last month to participate in the Appalachia Service Project, Inc. (ASP), a home repair ministry affiliated with the United Methodist Church.

The Christian project, established 20 years ago, consists of week-long work experiences in 12 central Appalachia counties in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. Guided by ASP staff members, work crews from throughout the country are matched with Appalachian families whose homes are badly in need of repair.

After raising the required $75 per person and another $300 for supplies, the local crew loaded up a trailer with donated building materials and tools, and left on a Saturday (July 8) for West Virginia.

"We usually take a van and haul a trailer with materials," Normaleen remarked. "We had a great deal of paint and small hand tools, Jerry added.

The Roots noted they knew what to take because this was their second experience with the home repair project. Of the youth who attended, Bader said he and MacAlpine had participated 3 years, while Lisa had taken part the previous year.

FIRST TO ARRIVE

The group was the first of 11 crews (61 workers) to arrive Sunday afternoon at their site, a town of about 1,500 persons nestled in a valley of the Appalachian Mountains.

The ASP center was based at an elementary school where the work crews would sleep and eat during their stay. That evening, assignments were chosen and the next morning, crews went out to meet their families and begin work on their individual projects.

"This year we happened to get a house (that) leaked so bad it ruined the inside," Jerry said.

He noted the structure was home to a couple and 3 of their 5 children. The father, who contracted black lung disease during his 17 years of work in the coal mines, had had 3 heart attacks, he said.

The Roots and Bader pointed out that one concern faced by work crews is whether their assigned family will like and accept them.

"These people are in poverty, (but) they have a lot of pride yet," Jerry pointed out.

FRIENDLY

Fortunately, he continued, this particular family was quite friendly, and helped the crew as it went to work replacing a 20 by 40-foot section of roof, with plans to place new siding on one end of the home. "They said that they almost froze last winter," he commented. "We also repaired windows," Normaleen added. "We replaced 16 window panes."

"You have to be relaxed and know you can't accomplish everything in a week," Jerry noted. "We didn't get it (repairs) completed, but another crew came in a week later and took over where we left off."

"That's the hard part," Bader said. "You think you've got to get everything done."

A typical day during the week began at 7:15 a.m. with devotions, followed by breakfast at 7:30. The crew would then load the van, pack lunches and head for work. Supper began at 5:30, and a counselors meeting and evening gathering time closed the day's activities by 10:30 p.m.

"Usually we worked till we ran out of supplies," Jerry remarked, adding everyone, "especially us older people," was tired at the end of the day.

PERSONAL BENEFITS

Despite the work, oppressive heat and simple lodging facilities, Bader indicated the personal benefits of the experience far outweigh any discomfort.

"When you go down there, you really don't consider it work," he commented. "We (youth group) push to do this," he said. "It's fun to work... knowing you're helping someone else who can't do it themselves. In a lot of ways, it makes you feel good."

Normaleen said one goal of the crew was to let the family know that there are other people in the world that care and want to help out. "They were very grateful," she said. "It made you feel really good about helping them."

"By Friday you're so tired, you think, 'I'll never do this again,'" she continued. "But by the time you get home and get settled, you think, 'Gee, it was really worth it all.'"

Jerry observed that having worked in an environment where poverty and substandard housing is the norm, work crew members often take time to be thankful for what they have at home.

APPRECIATION

"I think the appreciation of the family really does something, too," he said. He recalled the final evening of the work week when everyone gathered to share their experiences over the previous week.

"You would be amazed at the young people who can hardly tell it for the tears," he said. "They really feel blessed that they are able to do this."

He acknowledged, "If my health is ready, I'm ready to go" again.

So is Bader, who recalled helping to paint and drywall a home in his first year as a project crew member. After the work was completed, he said, the lady who owned the home told the volunteers that she was so proud of her home she would feel comfortable inviting the president for a visit.

Bader, who hopes to get other area youth groups interested in forming work crews, added, "Every year is different and every year is special."

Jerry agreed. "We've never had anybody go that didn't enjoy themselves. They're tired when they get home, but they're ready to go again."

O-G board okays lunch price hike

The Owen-Gage Board of Education approved a 10-cent hike in school lunch prices and voted in favor of salary increases for 2 high school administrators during a 3 1/2-hour monthly meeting Monday.

School Supt. Harley Kirby recommended the price increases, which will boost the cost of lunch to 80 cents for elementary students, $1.10 for junior and senior high students and $1.50 for adults.

Kirby, who remarked that there hasn't been an increase since the 1986-87 school year, said the hike is being requested as part of an ongoing effort aimed at maintaining self-supporting lunch programs in both the elementary and high schools.

Historically, the elementary program has supported itself, while the high school program has consistently operated in the red, Kirby noted.

However, both will be affected by anticipated decreases in the amount of government surplus food given to schools, he said, adding the high school lunch program probably will suffer another blow this year because of a recent board decision allowing freshmen to leave campus for lunch. "Last year we tried cutting back on everything we could, but the cost kept going up," he commented.

Board members questioned whether 10 cents is going to be enough of a hike, to make a difference in the high school lunch program.

But Kirby indicated he believes it will, partly because of expected additional funding from the state via one of 2 state school finance reform ballot issues to be decided by voters.

In any event, he added, future options such as another price increase or running a central kitchen can be considered if the lunch programs can't support themselves.

In a related matter, Kirby recommended and the board approved acceptance of a high bid of .1423 cents per half pint of milk from McDonald Dairy. Also making a bid was Kociba Dairy, which offered a price of .13 cents per half pint.

Kirby said he recommended the McDonald bid primarily because the company offers milk cartons instead of bags, which have proven inconvenient and messy.

SALARY HIKES

Turning to the salary increases, the board, following an hour-long executive session, voted in favor of granting Ron D'Aoust a $1,000 raise (16.7 percent) plus 5 additional vacation days in his position as junior/high school principal, and a $1,000 raise (50 percent) for Manuel Thies in his position as junior/high school discipline officer.

Kirby said D'Aoust's

1988-89 salary as principal totalled a little over $6,000, while Thies' 1988-89 salary as discipline officer totalled a little over $2,000.

No salary figure has been set yet for elementary principal William Britt, who also has been offered a contract for the coming school year.

In other business, the board discussed several quotes related to the planned purchase of a new school bus, but decided to delay a decision in hopes of finding a better price.

The quotes considered were from Osentoski Equipment Inc., Pigeon, ($17,300 for a chassis) and the McFadden Corp., Lansing, ($13,951 for a body, and complete bus quotes of diesel-$32,995, diesel-$33,154 and gas-$28,680).

Also Monday, trustees:

*Voted against joining a group of in-formula school districts planning to file a class action lawsuit challenging the current method of funding public schools in Michigan. Participation would have cost the district about $302.

*Accepted with regret the resignation of elementary special education teacher Lee Ann Anklam, who stated in a letter that she has accepted a position nearer to her husband's job in the Saginaw area.

*Endorsed plans by preschool Director Diane Warack to seek a competitive dependent care development grant. Warack suggested purchasing playground equipment if the grant, up to $7,000, is awarded.

Cholesterol testing announced

As a service to area residents, Old Wood Pharmacy this week announced that it will hold cholesterol screening tests at the drug store, corner of Main and Seeger Streets.

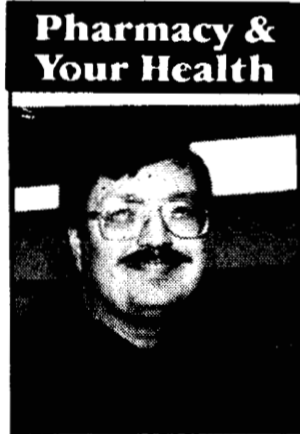

Owner Tom Proctor said that because of the danger of heart disease indicated by elevated cholesterol levels, this easy to get test will be available Thursday and Friday, Aug. 17-18, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Results will be known immediately, authorities said, and no fasting is necessary. A prick of the finger for a blood sample and just a few minutes of time is all that is required. A blood sugar test is also available. There is a charge of $6.00 to cover the costs of the test.

An important statistic to remember, Proctor explained, is that half of the people in the United States have a cholesterol level that is too high (over 200) and only 8 percent know what their cholesterol level is.

People believe if a spider crawls towards you, you will have a quarrel.

Home Testing: A New Trend
Medical testing by consumers in the privacy of their own homes is one of the latest trends in American health care. Sales of home testing kits have more than doubled in the last five years. Home testing provides a convenient way to monitor existing health conditions and to screen for other health problems.

Screening Tests: Home tests can be used to screen for dental plaque, vision problems, and certain cancers (e.g., colon and breast). The results of screening tests should always be discussed with one's family physician or pharmacist for proper interpretation and/or referral.

Monitoring Tests: Home test kits are available to monitor such conditions as high blood pressure and diabetes. Ovulation prediction tests may be helpful to couples who want to plan their family by forecasting the best times for conception.

Technology is expected to provide tests for detecting the presence of certain viruses such as those which cause AIDS. It is predicted that home test kits will probably become available to monitor blood levels of many prescribed medicines as well as a number of vitamins and minerals.

Criminal charges

Arraign 4 in circuit court

A Vassar man was arraigned Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court on 3 counts of uttering and publishing.

David E. King, 25, entered pleas of innocent to the charges. A pretrial is to be scheduled and a motion to reduce his bond ($10,000 per count) was denied.

According to court records, the charges stem from checks written in the amounts of $170 (May 30 in Vassar), $275 (June 19 in Caro) and $375 (July 4 in Caro). All three were drawn on National Bank of Detroit, Saginaw.

In other proceedings, Kimberly S. Nostrant, 25, of Shaftsbury, entered a plea of guilty to attempted forgery. Sentencing was slated for Oct. 13. Bond was continued at $10,000.

The charge stems from a $50 check drawn on Kingston State Bank Jan. 10 in Kingston, records state.

Caro resident Troy D. Hasse, 21, 404 E. Frank St., entered a plea of innocent to probation violation.

A hearing date is to be scheduled and bond was continued.

Facing the same charge is Randall R. Daenzer, 33, 120 Howard St., Caro, who also entered a plea of innocent.

No details were available regarding the specific violation Daenzer is charged with.

4 arrested, one cited by police

Three area motorists were arrested over the past week in Cass City on suspicion of drinking and driving.

Among those arrested is Jeffrey W. Finkbeiner, 30, 4137 Maple St., Cass City, who was lodged in the county jail Friday after being stopped on Main Street east of Doerr Road at about 2:15 a.m. He was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Reports state he was stopped because of defective equipment (all rear lights not working).

A passenger in Finkbeiner's vehicle, Scott O. Guinther, 33, of Cass City, also was arrested after officers learned he was wanted on a valid bench warrant, for probation violation, out of 71B District Court, Caro.

Police arrested Alan J. Dandron, 1335 Main St., Snover, on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor at about 11:35 p.m. the same day.

Dandron, 33, was stopped on Houghton Street near Maple Street after officers observed him failing to make a complete stop at a signed intersection and failing to signal turns, according to reports, which state his vehicle had no left rear taillight.

Also arrested on suspicion of drinking and driving was Dennis A. Luetke, 40, 4405 Oak St., Cass City, who was stopped on Hill Street near Dale Street at about 2:42 a.m. Sunday.

Police, who also cited Luetke for an expired operator's license, stopped his vehicle after observing him drive over a curb at Hardee's, reports state.

Police also cited a passenger in Luetke's vehicle, Richard A. Randall, 21, 4394 Maple St., Cass City, for possession of an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle.

Kids suspected of breaking windows

Neighborhood children are suspected in 2 of 3 vandalism complaints filed recently with the Cass City Police Department.

Dana Truemmer, 6577 Huron St., Cass City, reported 7 broken garage windows.

The damage, estimated at $100, is believed to have occurred between 9 p.m. Aug. 8 and 6:30 p.m. Aug. 9. Stones were found at the scene, according to reports. Nearly 20 windows have been broken in recent weeks at a building located at 6597 Main Street, Richard de-Beaubien, 4122 Koepfgen Rd., reported. Kids also are suspected in this case.

Also, 4 tires on a vehicle owned by Sue Wynn, Cass City, were slashed while parked at 6458 Elizabeth St. during the evening hours of Aug. 7. The tires are valued at a combined $200.

4 top teams

4 San-Cass League teams qualify for state tourney

The San-Cass softball league of Cass City has qualified 4 teams, from its 5-team league, for State tournament play this season.

Two of those teams will be heading to Marquette to compete in the State Class D competition on Labor Day weekend. They are Cass City's Kelly and Co. Realty and R & H Body Shop.

Kelly and Co. Realty received an automatic bid in this year's event by placing 2nd in the Class E State play-offs in 1988.

R & H earned the right for the journey north by winning the Class D Regional held in Flint Aug. 5 and 6.

Also expected to do well over the holiday weekend is Cass City's Charmont Lanes, who will be traveling to Ludington for the Class E State tournament play. Charmont extended their season by capturing the Class E Regional crown in Flint Aug. 5.

Besides the 3 Cass City teams, N.B.D. of Sandusky also qualified for State play in Class C, held in Owosso July 28.

The Bank lost 2 games, 2-1 and 4-2, in 11 innings. Daryll Blank pitched a 4-hit ball game and Ken Slater also turned in a strong showing on the mound. On the offensive end, it was Ted Freiberger who led the team with 2 hits in 5 trips to the plate, including 2 RBIs.

During the regular season, R & H Body Shop posted a 12-4 mark to capture the San-Cass League title. Finishing second was Stevensons Financial, who also recorded a 12-4 record over the year, but lost 3 of 4 head to head games against the champions.

The League's play-offs are now underway with the championship game scheduled for Wednesday at 7:30. The final San-Cass standings are:

	W	L
R & H Body Shop	12	4
Stevensons Financial	12	4
Charmont Lanes	9	6

Your neighbor says

New offense won't offset lack of talent

If you happened to be outside Saturday evening you might have heard the roar. It wasn't a roar of thunder, nor was it from the power boats off Saginaw Bay.

That roar that some of us no doubt heard came from a southwarily direction, more precisely from the Pontiac Silverdome during the Lions first pre-season contest.

The roar was for the Detroit Lions' new Stretch offense that is supposedly going to "Restore the Roar" for fanatic Lions fans everywhere. Your neighbor, sports devotee Dan Dickinson, is cautiously optimistic about the State's only pro football squad's new wrinkle.

According to Dickinson, who graduated from Cass City High School in 1981, the Stretch offense, that features only one running back and 4 wide receivers, will be exciting but, "I don't think it can make up for a lack of talent."

Furthermore, the Tuscola County Department of Public Health employee thinks that the Lions' newfangled offense would be directed better by rookie quarterback Rodney Peete than incumbent signal caller Chuck Long.

"Long never showed any desire to win," says the Cass City resident. And how far will the new Lions offense with a new Lions quarterback take them?

"I think they will finish 3rd behind Minnesota and Chicago," says the single 26-year-old who also says he plans to try to make it down to one of the Lions games during their campaign.

Dickinson also gave us an early prediction on who will wind up with the grand prize, a Super Bowl ring, come January. "The Buffalo Bills," says Dickinson. Dan is the son of Marge and Harlan Dickinson.

New traffic light to get second look by MDOT

The recently installed traffic light at the intersection of M-46 and M-24 in Tuscola County that is causing public concern will be investigated by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), state Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) announced last week.

"I have received several phone calls from constituents about this traffic light, which took many people by surprise," Allen said. "They complain there is not enough forewarning about the light, since the only awareness of it is a small yellow sign with a picture of a traffic light about three-tenths of a mile from the intersection. There also is an apparent problem with the monitoring device that triggers the change of light.

"Because there have been 3 traffic fatalities at the intersection since the light was installed, I have expressed my concerns to MDOT, which will send a crew to the site to review the situation. I've asked for a report of their findings as soon as possible," Allen added.

In the early morning hours of Aug. 2, 1989, a breaking and entering occurred at the Thumb Electric warehouse on East Dayton Road.

The culprits took numerous hand tools, power tools, pole climbing equipment, and 2 pickup trucks. It appears that the culprits loaded the stolen property into the pickup trucks, which were parked inside of the warehouse and fled the scene.

The 2 pickup trucks were located about 5 miles from the scene on a state trail east of Caro.

Most of the hand tools taken and several of the power tools had the letters TEC engraved into them.

YOUR EYES
Dr. Ronald R. Watson

MEDICARE AND YOUR OPTOMETRIST

Since 1987, millions of elderly patients have been given the opportunity to continue optometric care, and to have Medicare pay for part of these services.

If you suddenly get pain in your eyes - or headaches - and your optometrist suspects glaucoma, the health portion and field tests of your eye examination are covered by Medicare. Generally, when an abnormal symptom or eye health complaint necessitates a visit to the optometrist's office, the eye health part of the examination will be paid for by Medicare.

Glasses and contact lenses are not covered by Medicare unless those glasses and contact lenses are required for post-cataract use. Sometimes, a number of prescription changes are required by the post-cataract patient. In those cases, Medicare will pay for more than one pair of glasses.

When you make your next optometric appointment, be sure to let the doctor know if you are eligible for Medicare.

I WISH TO thank all my friends and relatives for the visits, prayers, cards and flowers I received while in the hospital. Also to Pastor Donald Daws for his many visits and prayers. Louis Nemeth.
13-8-16-1

WORDS WON'T begin to express the appreciation I feel for those who gave their time and donations toward my benefit dinner, bake sale, raffle and auction July 22. I would like to thank all my family, friends and neighbors for the time they spent on my benefit dinner. Also the Jaycees and Osenoski Realty and Auctioneers for sponsoring and auctioneering. Also for the song "You are My Hero" sung by my little friend Whitney Osenoski. My heart goes out to everyone who sent prayers, cards and donations. It will surely help me on my medical bills. My thanks go to all the stores in Cass City, Caro, Marlette, Sandusky, Bad Axe, Deckerville, Essexville, Bay City and Snover that donated for the dinner and auction. Also a special thanks to Duane Chippi for helping me with a good buy on a gas furnace. From the bottom of my heart I thank each and every one for all your help and support. Sincerely, Al Creason.

Our 37th year serving Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron Counties

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Death toll now 16

2 die in county following head-on crash Friday

Tuscola County's 1989 traffic fatality count climbed to 16 - more than 3 times the number of lives lost during the same period last year - following a head-on crash Friday about 3 1/2 miles northeast of Caro.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies said 2 persons died as a result of the 5:04 p.m. collision at the intersection of Colwood and George roads.

One of the victims, Sherrie L. Sivajchaipong, 28, of Onsted, was driving north on Colwood Road when she attempted to pass another northbound car and was struck by an oncoming vehicle, driven by Larry R. Briggs, 33, of Vassar.

Deputies said the crash occurred in a posted no-passing zone, but due to new blacktop there were no yellow lines on the road.

Chanda Devore, 12, of Onsted, one of 3 passengers in the Sivajchaipong vehicle, died Saturday at St. Mary's Medical Center, Saginaw, from injuries sustained in the accident. Andrew Sivajchaipong, 1, Onsted, was listed in serious condition Monday at St. Mary's, and Kole Sivajchaipong, 4, Onsted, was treated and released Saturday from Caro Community Hospital.

Briggs and a passenger in his vehicle, Dale R. Barber, 29, of Vassar, were transported to Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City. Hospital officials declined to comment on Briggs' condition, but said Barber was treated and released.

According to reports, Chanda Devore and Kole Sivajchaipong were wearing seat belts, as were Briggs and Barber. Sherrie Sivajchaipong was not wearing a seat belt and it isn't known if Andrew Sivajchaipong was.

Assisting deputies at the scene were the Caro Fire Department, state police and Caro police, and Caro EMS, Unionville, Fairgrove and Cass City-Mercy ambulance personnel.

Deputies, who are continuing their investigation, are looking for the driver of the vehicle that Sivajchaipong attempted to pass in hopes of getting a clearer picture of what happened. The car, believed to be a white Pontiac, is thought to have been headed for the Saginaw Bay area or Caseville.

Friday's crash was the third fatal accident on Tuscola County roads this month.

The August 1989 death toll alone (6) tops the number of persons killed (5) throughout the first 7 1/2 months of 1988.

Township will fund zoning dispute up to circuit court

 sion is expected to be reviewed by Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Most of Thursday's township board meeting was devoted to discussing funding for the zoning battle.

"Technically, our reserve fund is gone. We've had several people ask if they can contribute money," Boyne said at the start of the meeting after introducing township auditor Len King.

King said the township can accept contributions but can't solicit them. He pointed out that township funds can be juggled to pay for additional legal costs, but that the township must have the revenue - on hand or anticipated - to cover every expense as it's incurred.

Zoning Board Chairman Russell Mayer scolded the board for not anticipating the revenue needed this year, after spending $14,000 last year, to continue the zoning fight.

He noted that help with funding might be available through the Michigan Township Association because "the underlying issue here is not Pioneer Work and Learn, it's breaking zoning."

INTIMIDATION

"One of the things that has upset me is the implication of intimidation (from) the clerk" that the board would stop funding the battle if the millage failed, he said. "I tell you, if this board votes to drop it, you're going to have a lawsuit on your hands."

Mayer told the board that the biggest expenses tied to the battle have already been paid. He said it will cost $250 to file papers in circuit court, plus the cost of an attorney to be there one day. "The same thing applies to going to the Court of Appeals," he said.

"We're not going to drop it," Boyne replied. He pointed out, however, that while the township isn't deficit spending at this time, "we're probably reaching the point where we're run-

Wheeler's appeal dismissal of lawsuit over new silo

John Patterson, attorney for Jim, Paul and Dan Wheeler, partners in Will-O-Wheel Farms, Decker-ville Road, Snover, lost no time in filing an appeal in the U. S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati following the dismissal of the Wheeler suit against A. O. Smith Harvestore Inc. of Illinois and Blue Water Harvestore Inc. of Marlette.

It was the second time that the case had been in Judge Averm Cohn's court in Detroit. The first time, in May 1987, a jury awarded the Wheelers $1.7 million after the brothers filed suit alleging that a new type silo had a faulty design and the pressure valve in the system resulted in disruptions in the feeding process, causing milk production to fall. But the jury's decision was nullified when Judge Cohn set aside the verdict and a year later ordered a new trial.

In granting the summary judgement, Judge Cohn said that the proofs were not present to justify a new trial. He said that an analysis of existing data by the Wheelers' expert witness does not go beyond speculation and conjecture in his opinion.

Patterson said that there were enough facts so that a jury awarded $1.7 million. Pertinent points in the case as cited in the judgement were:

The expert witness did not know the cause of changes in milk production while the silo was in use.

Other causes for the failure were not excluded.

Evidence of the herd's protein deficient ration was lacking.

There was no proof that the silo caused excessive heat damage to feed.

The milk production record contradicts the theory that the silo caused the alleged decrease in production.

The disrupted feeding theory is contradicted by the evidence.

Patterson said that he and his clients are prepared to take the case all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The appeal was filed with the Court of Appeals Aug. 10. Patterson speculated that a decision would be reached in 10 months.

IT COULD HAVE BEEN much worse, according to Cass City residents Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Hendra, 4557 N. Seeger St., who weren't home when a rotten tree section came crashing down in front of their home during a violent thunderstorm Sunday.

Windy family meets Sunday

Seventy-three attended the 11th annual family reunion Sunday, Aug. 13, at the Windy farm southeast of Cass City.

A potluck meal at noon was followed by viewing old family pictures, visiting and volleyball.

Officers elected for the coming year are president, Mark Windy of Reese; treasurer, Ruth Ann Langlois of Gagetown, and Arlene Brown of Pontiac, secretary.

Plans were made to hold the 1990 reunion at the same place on the second Sunday of August.

Family group pictures were taken.

Members attending were from Moltree, Ga., Pontiac, Saginaw, Lapeer, Mt. Clemens, Gagetown and Cass City.

Another resident commented that many voters didn't know about the election. She added, "This was a vote we shouldn't have had until after the decision."

Still others attributed the failed vote to residents simply not wanting to approve higher taxes.

Nearly all agreed that the township's fight against a state-sponsored and funded program will continue to be an uphill battle.

"It's a no-win situation because, in a sense, we're fighting our own money," Boyne said. He added, however, "We have to take it (case) further than we've ever taken one before."
